DINGLEY BILL PASSED.

Goes Through the House Without a Single Hitch.

Carried by a Vote of 205 to 122—Adoption of the Amendment Giving Immediate Effect to the Law.

Washington, April 1.—The object for which President McKinley called the Fifty-fifth congress to meet in extraordinary session a fortnight ago was accomplished, so far as the house of representatives was concerned, when the vote on the Dingley tariff bill was announced by Speaker Reed—yeas, 205; nays, 122; answering present and not voting, 21. The affirmative vote was composed of 199 republicans, 5 democrats—Messrs. Broussard, Dovey and Meyer, of Louisiana, and Kleberg and Slayden, of Texas—and one populist—Mr. Howard, of Alabama. Mr. Reed, in the speaker's chair, directed the clerk to call his name, just before the announcement of the vote, to which he responded aye, amid applause. The negative vote comprised 117 democrats and four populists and fusionists—Messrs. Baker, of Illinois, Marshall, Simpson and Todd. According to the conclusion reached last Monday night, the great number of populist silverites and fusionists contented themselves with an answering "present."

The bill adopted. A separate vote was demanded by Mr. Bailey on the amendment fixing April 1 as the date for the taking effect of the dues in the bill. The others were agreed to in gross, 174 to 128. The reserved amendment was adopted on a ye and nay vote, 201 to 140. Mr. Dockery (dem., Mo.) moved to recommit the bill with instructions to incorporate in it a provision to admit free of duty articles, the production and price of which were controlled in the United States by a trust. This was rejected—148 yeas and 196 nays. The vote was then taken on the passage of the bill with the result stated and the nine days' labor on its consideration were ended. At 4:40 p. m. the house adjourned until Saturday next.

Takes Effect at Once. Washington, April 1.—The following is the text of the new section to be added to the tariff bill as agreed upon by the republican members of the committee on ways and means, fixing the date on which the duties in the bill shall take effect. It was introduced by Mr. Grosvenor (rep., O.), chairman of the subcommittee which investigated the subject. It reads as follows:

"Section 27.—That all articles mentioned in the several schedules of this act which shall be imported into the United States between the first day of April, 1897, and the date of the passage of this act and which were not purchased and directed by the owner to be shipped for import into the United States by any citizen thereof prior to April 1, 1897, shall bear the same duties to be charged upon similar articles in this act and such duties are hereby made a lien on such articles, wherever and in what so ever hands found, except in the hands of persons holding them for final consumption and have no purpose to sell or part with the same or any part of product of the same, and except also in the hands of persons shown to have obtained such articles without notice of the provisions of this act; and any person, not such final consumer, without notice having obtained an interest in or possession of any such article or articles so subject to duty, except as a common carrier or warehouseman, shall be liable for the payment of such duties thereon and the same may be recovered with interest but without penalty in an action or suit by the United States against such person or persons in any district or circuit court thereof. And all persons liable under this act for such duty or any part thereof in respect of any shipment, cargo or lot of any such article or articles may be joined in the same action for such recovery without regard to mutuality or nature of interests or defenses, and such joint or several judgments or decrees may be rendered therein, including the enforcement of any such lien, as justice or equity may require. In every such case, the process of the court in the district where the action or suit is brought and where one defendant resides and is served shall run to and may be served on any defendant in any other district. It is hereby made the duty of the secretary of the treasury to prescribe and enforce suitable regulations to carry out the provisions of this section, including the retention in the bonded warehouses of the United States or any other place where such goods are deposited samples of such goods until required for evidence on any such trial."

President Will Attend. Washington, April 3.—Although the details of the president's trip to New York to attend the dedication of the Grant memorial at Riverside park have not all been arranged, there is absolutely no doubt that he will, barring illness, be in attendance. A special train will probably leave here the evening of the 27th. The entire cabinet, the foreign ambassadors and others of the diplomatic corps and many members of the senate and the house will accompany the presidential party.

Our Circulation. Washington, April 3.—The monthly statement showing the amount of gold and silver coins and certificates, United States notes, and national bank notes in circulation on April 1, issued by the treasury department, gives the circulation per capita as $23.01, based on an estimated population of 72,547,000.

Old She See For Months—Can Now Sleep Well, Eat Well, and Pains Have Disappeared.

"For several months my health had been failing, and I did not have a well day in this time. I had severe pains in my back, my limbs ached and I was restless at night. I suffered with loss of appetite and severe nervous headaches. A friend advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking this medicine for a while I found I was gaining in health rapidly. I now have a good appetite, can sleep well, and the pains with which I suffered have almost entirely disappeared. I am gaining in flesh. I am still taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and I recommend it wherever I go." MISS SARAH SMITH, 311 North Park Street, Chillicothe, Ohio.

BEGINNING with May 1 next all of the town clocks of Belgium will have new faces. No such division as a. m. and p. m. will be required anywhere in Belgium, after the date named, to indicate to the inquiring mind whether the hour is before or after meridian, because all public clocks are to have twenty-four numbers on them instead of twelve.

The inaugural parade at the Grant monument dedication in New York on April 27 will probably be the most imposing military display since the close of the war. Eight full regiments of the regular army and the entire militia of New York state are to take part in it besides many military organizations from other states.

The young queen of Holland objects to being regarded as a child any more. Recently she entered the cabinet room during a session of the council and in a dignified manner asked the prime minister why the postage stamps continued to bear her image as a little girl. Then her majesty requested that the objectionable stamp be discontinued as soon as possible.

In England the telephone is a branch of the post office department, and since 1892 parliament has voted $5,500,000 for telephone construction and extension. London has several circuits to Liverpool and eight to Manchester. An underground telegraph line will be built to Birmingham, and when it is completed the overground lines will be used for telephoning.

Out of the thirty-one young women who received the degree of A. B. at Radcliffe college twenty-three are named as having passed their examinations "with distinction." The examinations there are the same as at Harvard, but there has never been a time, it is said, when the latter graduated a class in which the proportion of distinguished students was so large.

RECENTLY the duke of Norfolk, while walking through the streets of London, happened to see an old lady in evident distress. She wanted a cab, and could not attract the cabman's notice. His grace called a vehicle and saw her into it safely. To his surprise he found three coppers slipped into his hand and the old lady said: "There you are, my man, go and get yourself a glass of beer."

It will be an unpleasant surprise to most people to learn that oranges are getting to be, like apples, infested with insects. The orange worm has not only been discovered, but named, by the entomologists. So far it has not been found in any oranges grown in the United States, with the exception of some which came from New Mexico, but in oranges from Mexico proper it is said to be quite common.

Prof. LAW, of Cornell University, is very hopeful concerning the eventual victory over tuberculosis. He says: "It may not be accomplished in our day, it may not even be attempted along the lines that would warrant an expectation of speedy success, but as surely as humanity is advancing to a higher and better future, so surely will this 'white plague,' tuberculosis, be eradicated from our herds and finally from our homes."

The empress of Germany has had the material for a gown made which, when completed, was so beautiful that she would not allow it to be desecrated by the scissors of a dressmaker. The material is of silvery white silk, upon which is a raised pattern of flowers, foliage and bright-plumaged birds. The whole stands out in bold relief, and is such a masterpiece of work that the empress immediately gave orders to have it made into curtains.

ALPHONSE BERTILLON, of France, who invented the Bertillon system of measuring convicts, advocates the exemption from direct taxation of every family in which there are three children, and the imposition of an extra tax of 20 per cent. upon all these not thus provided, thus preventing the treasury from losing any part of its present revenue and at the same time establishing a distinction between men to whom the nation's interests are dear and men who consider them not at all.

The school children of New Orleans are raising a fund of $5,000 to erect a monument to John McDonough, who bequeathed more than a million dollars to New Orleans for educational purposes. The gift has resulted in the erection of more than 30 public school buildings, in which 18,000 children are at present enrolled. In each of these schools is a bronze bust of John McDonough, before which fresh flowers are placed every day. In further honor to his memory the first Friday in May is observed by the school children as McDonough day.

THE DREAM SONG.

Oh, the drip, drip, drip of the rain, the rain,
The drip, drip, drip of the rain;
The sweet, sad song, the whole night long,
Is sung in my drowsy brain.
In a dream I rest in the old home nest,
And my mother comes again
As came she oft with a step as soft
As the drip, drip, drip of the rain,
The rain,
The drip, drip, drip of the rain.
Oh, the drip, drip, drip of the rain, the rain,
The drip, drip, drip of the rain;
As it weaves the woe of the song on the roof
With the warp of the sound at the pane.
And my dream-ship sails with the happy gales
That ripple the broad, blue main,
While the waves, soft-tossed, in my dreams
Are lost
Mid the drip, drip, drip of the rain,
The rain,
The drip, drip, drip of the rain.
Oh, the drip, drip, drip of the rain, the rain,
The drip, drip, drip of the rain;
Like the drowsy croon of bees in June
Is the song and the soft refrain,
And I drift away through a golden bay
By the shores of my castled Spain,
While my soul grows young in the dream-song sung
Mid the drip, drip, drip of the rain,
The rain,
The drip, drip, drip of the rain.

DOWN IN A COAL MINE.

BY R. T. MINTURN.

John Barton and Hiram Adams lived in the small village of Kingston. They were inseparable friends, having been schoolmates together for some years, and when, a few months before my story opens, they were both made orphans on the same day by a terrible accident in the mines, each found a family depending on him for support.

Neither shirked this burden of responsibility. Manfully and well, during the long summer months, they worked side by side in the gloomy caverns of the earth.

One bright day in the latter part of April, an incident occurred which neither of the two friends will be likely to forget, though they live to be centenarians.

A new shaft, some 70 feet in depth, had been sunk during the preceding summer, and a great many miners—John Barton and Hiram Adams among the number—were still employed in making excavations.

Blasting by powder is by no means unusual in mines; or, in fact, in any work requiring the speedy removal of masses of earth and rock.

On this particular occasion a blast of more than ordinary proportions had been prepared, only a few yards from the bottom of the shaft.

To the barrels of powder was attached a fuse, by means of which it would be fired when the proper time arrived.

The miners in the groups were drawn up to the sunlight above, until only a few remained in the dusky, half-illuminated recesses underground.

John Barton had been the first to volunteer, and, therefore, was appointed as the person whose duty it would be to ignite the slow match.

"Let me take your place," Hiram pleaded. "Think of your mother and sister, if any accident should happen, John, you know it is dangerous."

"Yes; and I think that a very good reason why I should not let you take my place."

"Then let me stay with you," Hiram urged, an expression of anxiety on his countenance, as he thought of his friend's peril.

"A very sensible idea!" John exclaimed, laughing. "If you stay with me, the danger will be increased, because the bucket will go up more slowly with two than with one. Now, no more arguments. You know how obstinate I am, and—Hello! That's the signal! Good-by, old fellow! I'll be with you up above in a few moments."

"Remember, John; Be careful," were Hiram's last words, as he and the few remaining miners ascended in the bucket, leaving John Barton far below, every instant growing more indistinct, until only the light in his hat could be distinguished glimmering faintly in the darkness.

Soon even that disappeared, and Hiram Adams, looking very anxious and discontented, found himself in the glaring sunshine, and stepped out of the bucket on terra firma.

He was bewildered by the sudden transition from gloom to light. Then his eyes rested on the pale, agitated face of pretty Annie Barton, who had brought her brother's midday lunch, as usual.

He went over to her and spoke reassuringly, and tried to convince her that there was no cause for alarm.

"They have lowered the bucket," he said, presently. "Watch, and you will see the rope jerk twice, the signal from John that it is ready to be drawn up."

The girl endeavored to be calm, but she trembled violently.

An indefinite fear, a strange feeling of apprehension, weighed on Hiram's heart.

The group of swarthy-visaged miners, who were chatting with wives and sweethearts around the opening of the shaft, suddenly grew silent.

It was a moment of suspense, for the boy in the gloomy caverns, 70 feet underground, was then engaged in lighting the slow match.

The men who were to turn the crank grasped the handles firmly, and no one spoke.

"Ah!"

It was with a sigh of relief that Annie Barton, Hiram Adams and every person in the crowd saw the rope jerked twice.

The match had been applied, John would be with them in a few moments, and all would hear the muffled, rumbling sound of the great explosion in the depths of the earth.

A flush of color rose to Annie Barton's cheek and Hiram Adams felt his heart beating rapidly and his breath coming in short gasps.

The men at the crank worked with a will, when they heard a dull, muffled sound, the rope slackened, and—

"Oh, heavens!"

Annie Barton started forward, her face blanched and a look of horror glazing her wide-open eyes.

Hiram Adams staggered as though shot. Then a man spoke:

"The bucket has capsized—struck the partition. The boy has fallen out!"

Women fainted, strong men grew weak and shuddered, as they thought of the explosion that was now expected every moment.

The suspense was terrible. A boy, perhaps mangled and helpless, was lying at the bottom of the shaft, and the fuse was burning slowly toward the mass of powder.

"Courage, Annie! I'll save him!"

It was Hiram Adams who spoke. In a second he had regained his presence of mind, and now, running his arm through the loop of a lantern, he leaped over the box which surrounded the opening of the shaft, crying to the terror-stricken miners:

"Hold tight till I reach the bucket, then lower me like lightning to the bottom!"

He grasped the rope, twined his legs around it, then slid downward. The rough rope cut his hands, but he did not feel the pain.

Down, down, like a flash he descended through the darkness—down to his helpless friend and to the match which was slowly but surely burning its way toward the powder.

Thank heaven! He has reached the bucket! Another instant he has reached the bottom of the shaft! Is he too late? It is time for the explosion—hush!

A cold perspiration broke out on every brow. There was an awful silence down below and silence up above. Annie Barton tried to pray.

The agony of suspense was terrible. Men could hear each other's hearts beat in the awful stillness. Would the end never come?

How was it with Hiram Adams?

As he reached the bottom, one glance told him all. His friend was stunned and senseless.

He leaped from the bucket, and the light of the lantern showed him the place where the fuse had been laid.

The glimmering little line of fire was within an inch of the train of powder!

Another second and there would be a flash, an explosion louder than thunder, and then the walls round about would be shattered into a thousand fragments.

One little inch of the fuse stood between two human beings and a frightful death.

With a cry the boy sprang forward. He pressed his smarting hands upon the last particle of the burning match, and he lay there for a moment with clenched teeth and suspended breath. Then he arose.

Huzzah! The fusee was extinguished, and he and his friend were safe.

He lifted the insensible form of John Barton into the bucket and gave the signal to be drawn up.

What a thrill of joy ran through every heart when the watchers in the sunlight saw that welcome sign. How the men worked at the crank! How long the seconds seemed, while the buckets ascended up, up, up! until a cheer such as men never before uttered burst from the assembled miners, when they saw, rising out of the earth, the figure of Hiram Adams supporting his insensible friend.

"He is not dead—only stunned," were the young hero's first words, when gentle hands relieved him of his burden and men crowded around him with loud congratulations and women kissed him in the exuberance of their joy.

But when Hiram saw the glad light leap into Annie Barton's eyes, and the warm, red flush suffuse her cheeks—when he marked the silent look of speechless gratitude she gave him—he felt more than rewarded for his act of heroism in rescuing a friend from death.

The sequel to my story is a simple one.

Besides a broken arm and a few ugly bruises, John Barton sustained no serious injuries, and in a few days he was once more himself.

Both he and his friend received lucrative clerkships in the office of the company, and a few years later, pretty Annie Barton became the wife of Hiram Adams, the preserver of her brother's life.

And so it happened that neither of the two friends had reason to regret the fearful peril they encountered when, on one memorable April day, they were brought face to face with death down in a coal mine.—Golden Days.

OPPOSITION SHOWN.

One of Gov. Pingree's Railway Measures Is Disliked.

Adverse Reports on the Lower Fare and Taxation Bills—They Will Be Taken Up for Consideration by the House April 13.

[Special Correspondence.]

Lansing, April 3.—Adverse reports were made in the lower house of the Michigan legislature upon the Pingree bills which have been making life uncomfortable for railroad men ever since the legislature convened. The action of the committee is quite a setback to the Pingree plans. One of the bills reported adversely provides for a reduction of passenger fares to two cents per mile in the lower peninsula and three cents in upper Michigan. Another provides for the taxation for local purposes of the right of way and buildings of railway companies. April 13 has been set for the consideration of the measures and the most interesting discussion of the session is anticipated. It is doubtful if either bill becomes a law, although both may possibly pass the house.

The house railroad committee reported favorably on the bicycle bill of Representative Anderson with an amendment. It provides that each passenger shall be entitled to one bicycle to be included in the term personal baggage and compels the railroads to provide suitable racks for the wheels in the baggage cars, beyond which they shall not be liable for any damages to the wheels that may arise.

The senate committee on the Pontiac and Newberry insane asylums gave a hearing on the proposed law to force asylum boards to employ a woman physician. The ladies present argued from the standpoint of humanity. They said that lady patients would confide to a woman at times when a man could not obtain their confidence. Their argument was sentimental. Dr. Christian, of Pontiac, was against it, as was Superintendent Edwards, of Kalamazoo, and Dr. Munson, of Traverse City. They say that it is at present optional with boards to appoint such an officer, but it is not needed or demanded.

The senate has passed a bill repealing a law providing for the sale of admission tickets by prison authorities. The senators were unanimous in voting that prisoners should not be regarded as a prize lot of curios for exhibition purposes.

A substitute has been reported to the house for what is known as the W. C. T. U. anti-cigarette bill, about which there is some doubt as to constitutionality. It provides that it shall be a misdemeanor for the minor under 17 years purchasing cigarettes or tobacco, as well as the seller, and provides a graded scale of monetary penalties for the first, second and third offenses, after which they shall be deemed incorrigibles and sentenced to jail or the industrial home for boys.

A substitute has been reported to the house for the Chamberlain anti-prize fight bill, which prohibits the reproduction of any prize fight or fistic encounter by means of a biograph, vitascope, kinetoscope or any such device, and provides a penalty for violation of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000 fine, or imprisonment for not less than six months nor more than two years, at the discretion of the court.

Gustin's bill for the appointment of guardians over habitual drunkards and persons using narcotics, with power to have them confined in the proper asylums, passed the house committee of the whole, as did Representative Graham's bill providing for the appointment of a state inspector of nurseries and orchards to prevent the introduction and spread of the San Jose scale.

Representative Donovan's curfew bill passed the house committee of the whole without opposition. It provides that children between eight and sixteen years of age must not be allowed on the streets between 9:30 p. m. and 5:30 a. m. from April to November and from eight p. m. to 6:30 a. m. from November to April. Violations of the law are punishable by a fine of two dollars, or the violators may be treated as disorderly persons.

The senate is against postal savings banks and refused to pass Senator Bostwick's joint resolution calling upon Michigan's congressional delegation to favor a law establishing such a system.

The oleomargarine bill was passed by the house by a vote of 50 to 19.

BLACK AND WHITE.

The Strange Metamorphosis of a Michigan Colored Man.

Caleb Baynard, of Berrien county, is in New York city, where he will pass under the scrutiny of famous eastern specialists. Baynard's case has attracted the widespread attention of the medical fraternity of the west. He was a typical African negro until about 12 months ago, when he began to turn white, until now the evolution has been so marvelous that he would really pass for a white man. Portions of his body are as white as those of any white man, and experts who have made a study of his case believe the change will continue until every vestige of his former color will have vanished. His hair is also turning white.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

The Thirty-Ninth General Assembly Convened at Lansing.

Lansing, Mich., March 31.—The railroads were given a hearing in the senate yesterday upon the bills inimical to their interests. The most important provides for a reduction of passenger rates in the lower peninsula to two cents a mile and in the upper peninsula to three cents a mile.

Lansing, Mich., April 1.—The senate yesterday indulged in a protracted debate over a resolution instructing the Michigan congressmen to vote for the postal savings bank bill. The vote against giving such instruction was decisive.

Lansing, Mich., April 2.—A substitute was reported in the senate yesterday for the anti-prize fight bill which prohibits the reproduction of any prize fight or fistic encounter by means of the biograph, vitascope, kinetoscope or any such device, and provides a penalty for violation of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000 fine, or imprisonment for not less than six months nor more than two years, at the discretion of the court. A substitute was also reported for what is known as the W. C. T. U. anti-cigarette bill, about which there is some doubt as to constitutionality. It provides that it shall be a misdemeanor for the minor under 17 years purchasing cigarettes or tobacco, as well as the seller, and provides a graded scale of monetary penalties for the first, second and third offenses, after which they shall be deemed incorrigibles and sentenced to jail or the industrial home for boys.

Lansing, Mich., April 2.—Bills were passed in the senate yesterday prohibiting circuit judges having law partners from practicing in any court of the state, and authorizing suburban street railway companies to do an express truck, milk, merchandise and other light freight. Other bills have been passed defining the liability of hotel-keepers relative to the personal property of their guests; amending law relative to drawing of jury in case of insane persons; repealing law allowing prison authorities to sell tickets of admission to their institutions; providing penalty for furnishing false information to school census enumerators.

The House.

Lansing, Mich., March 30.—The house antagonized the baking powder manufacturers yesterday by agreeing in committee of the whole to the Goodell bill, which divides baking powder into three classes, cream of tartar, phosphate and alum, and provides that packages shall be so labeled as well as marked conspicuously with the name of the manufacturer. No variety is to contain more than 20 per cent. of starch.

Lansing, Mich., March 31.—In a special message Gov. Pingree endeavored to induce the house yesterday to reconsider the vote by which it defeated the appropriation for a state exhibit at the Nashville exposition. The effort was futile. The bill introduced by Mr. O'Dett prohibiting any person from holding a county or township office for more than two consecutive terms met with a quick death.

Lansing, Mich., April 1.—The house yesterday passed to third reading the curfew bill, which limits the time during which children under 16 years of age may be on the streets of municipalities to eight o'clock in the summer and nine o'clock in winter. Newsboys and children engaged in other business pursuits are exempted.

Lansing, Mich., April 2.—The sharpest contest of the session resulted in the passage by the house yesterday of the bill prohibiting the coloring of oleomargarine so as to resemble butter. The railroad committee reported four railroad bills, adverse recommendations being made in three cases. The bills reported against are those providing a straight two-cent passenger fare, providing for the local taxation of railroad property and prohibiting discrimination in freight rates. A favorable report was made on the bill requiring companies to carry bicycles as baggage, the bill being amended, however, so as to relieve the companies from liability from damage if they provide proper hooks or other devices for carrying the wheels. A bill providing that the apple blossom be adopted as the state flower of Michigan was favorably reported.

Lansing, Mich., April 3.—Bills have been passed in the house to authorize the use of any thoroughly tested and reliable voting machine at any election held in the state (immediate effect); authorizing city of Grand Rapids to issue bonds to amount of $300,000 for the improvement of navigation of Grand river and the appointment of a commission to take charge of the work (immediate effect); amending act incorporating city of Alpena so as to provide for the election of the members of the board of education.

DENIES DUNLOP'S PLEA.

Attorney General Declines to Intervene in Case of Chicago Publisher.

Washington, April 3.—The petition of Joseph R. Dunlop, publisher of the Chicago Dispatch, for executive clemency has been denied. He was sentenced to pay a fine and to serve two years in the penitentiary. He sought either a pardon or commutation to a jail sentence.

The attorney general referred the case to Gen. Black, district attorney at Chicago, for an opinion and the latter recommended strongly against an executive interference with the sentence. The general's letter was received at the department Thursday and it was announced at the department of justice Friday that no further action will be taken with respect to the application of Dunlop.

Wage Scale Increased.

Ironwood, Mich., April 3.—The Metropolitan Iron and Land company have announced an increase in the wage scale in their mines in this city of ten per cent. This increase will affect every miner working in the Norrie and East Norrie mines, about 1,000 men in all, and means an increase of from 15 to 20 cents per day. They have also announced that the forces at the East Norrie and Pabst mines will be increased next week by the addition of 300 men. The Metropolitan company are evidently preparing for a big season of work.

Coal Breaker Burned.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 3.—The Maltby breaker, an immense structure operated by the Lehigh Valley Coal company at Maltby, five miles from this city, was destroyed by fire Friday morning. It will be a severe blow to this mining village, as the company employed nearly 800 men and boys who are thrown out of employment for many months. The loss to the company is estimated at $60,000, on which there was an insurance of $50,000.

There is generally no need of losing teeth. With proper care they last a lifetime. The trouble is, they are neglected beyond endurance. Nothing but an exposed nerve or the breaking down of a tooth or severe inconvenience brings most persons to a dentist. "They dread it so." Of course they do when left till in such a condition. But in the early stages of tooth decay there is nothing dreadful in having them repaired, and if thus promptly cared for they will last a lifetime. Keep the teeth clean on and between them, and be prompt in having them attended to, and they will remain a blessing till you die. Dr. H. H. Avery has a new ad. in another column.

Anti-Saloon League.

Of the non-partisan nature of this organization we have already treated. A method of efficient opposition to the all blighting influences of the American saloon has at length been inaugurated, to which no one who would like to have the saloon banished, and the most fruitful of all causes of crime and poverty forever removed from the entire land, can find a reasonable objection. When its objects and methods are well understood, it is entirely safe to predict that every honest opposer of the saloon will co-operate with it, either openly or secretly. In order, however, to the complete unification and harmonious co-operation of all the forces, religious and political, that exist in the minds and hearts of every community, a little very simple but ingenious legislation is necessary. To effect this a bill, known as the Buskirk bill, or House bill No. 1004, is now before the Michigan Legislature for consideration and passage at its recent session. For the passage of this bill, the voters of Chelsea will have an opportunity, in the near future, to sign a petition, and in order that they may know what they ask for we present them the following statements respecting the essential provisions of this bill:

First, the bill provides that every voter, once every two years, at the spring election, shall have an opportunity to vote for or against the saloon in his locality.

Second, that this opportunity shall be provided for by placing at the bottom of the ballot the question, Shall the manufacture of liquors and the liquor traffic be prohibited within the county? To this question each voter will give his answer, Yes or No. A majority of the votes cast in the county, if against the saloon, will close all the saloons in the county, regardless of the fact that in some precincts the majority may have been the other way. On the other hand, should the majority in the county be in favor of the saloon, saloons will still be closed in every town or ward in which the majority is against them.

The reader will readily perceive that the efficient features of this bill are that the question will be presented every two years without a petition, or even a suggestion, from any person, and that the vote on this question will not interfere with the freedom of the voter to express himself on other questions as he may choose. Under these circumstances it is reasonable to expect that every voter will express his true inwardness in the case, and if many, who now patronize saloons but aver that they wish there were no saloons, will vote as they talk, and all those who have no use for saloons will vote as one would suppose they must, saloons will soon cease their murderous work.

Let every voter who is a friend of God and home and native land sign the petition when it is presented.

T. H. for the Com. on Agitation.

Sanitation in Asia.

The appearance of plague at Bombay and Calcutta has produced one good effect at all events. Before its advent those prosperous cities had come to believe that they had nothing to learn in regard to sanitation. There was a time when they were open to reproach in such matters as open sewers, polluted water, and what not. But by dint of liberal expenditure of money and energy they had made matters right and could even challenge comparison with Paris, Berlin and Vienna. When, however, the awful eastern scourge, after striking firm root at the western capital, flew across the peninsula to the eastern, the public became a little doubtful as to whether sanitary precautions had been duly observed. First came inquiry, then dismay, indignation, wrath, as discovery followed discovery, each more appalling than the last. We refrain from giving particulars. Even to read these horrors is sickening. But a still more terrible question presents itself. If the two most cultured and wealthiest cities in Hindustan are in this dreadful condition, what must be the state of less favored centers of population in districts where there are few whites and many blacks? Were the plague to penetrate inland, it would, we fear, find many towns only too ready for its reception. — London Graphic.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2, 1897.—The House has finished its work on the tariff bill and sent the measure over to the Senate, where it will necessarily be dealt with in a manner differing widely from its treatment in a body having a republican majority and a cloture rule. There was less excitement than was expected, although the proceedings were far from resembling a Quaker meeting. That many who voted for the amendment, which was adopted, making the duties imposed by the new tariff bill collectable upon all foreign goods ordered after April 1, believing the amendment to be unconstitutional, is certain; but some of them say they were in doubt about it and felt justified in giving our own manufacturers the benefit of the doubt, believing that it will result in almost entirely stopping the importation of goods upon which duties have been materially raised until it be known what those duties will be when the bill passes the Senate. There was a decision by the Supreme Court in connection with the present tariff law affecting this very point, but it seems capable of being construed both ways. It is probable, however, that the amendment will have the desired effect, as importers are likely to be afraid to take the risk of making large purchases when uncertain what duty they will have to pay on them.

President McKinley's appointment of Mr. Frank W. Palmer to be public printer shows that it is more a question of "pull" than rules when it comes to making appointments. Mr. Palmer held this position under the Harrison administration, and it was only the other day that Mr. McKinley told an "ex" who was after his old office that he had adopted a rule not to appoint men who held office under the Harrison administration, unless there was extraordinary reasons for doing so. The "extraordinary reasons" in Mr. Palmer's case were the influential men who asked for his appointment, and every "ex" who can bring forward the same sort of reasons is likely to be taken care of, notwithstanding the the President's rule.

Senator Allen didn't wait until the tariff bill got before the Senate to make a tariff speech. He made one this week of about an hour, on his resolution declaring it to be unconstitutional to impose tariff taxes on the necessities of daily consumption in order to enrich certain favored classes at the expense of the masses. Mr. Allen's speech was legal rather than political, as may be seen from the following extract therefrom: "I place myself in the solid and impregnable ground that under our constitution Congress does not possess power to tax the people to enhance the private fortunes of the few, and that the full measure of the taxing power is reached when a tariff for revenue, with incidental protection, is reached. Any other construction would lead to confiscation and incidentally to enforced repudiation, the two worst forms of anarchy and disorder in a civilized state; and such a deduction, when carried to its legitimate length, would lead to the subversion of all order and the rights of persons and property. We cannot serve the people and the money power at the same time. Their interests are deadly antagonistic. What is for the common welfare is against the trusts and pools."

Even as genial an old gentleman as Uncle Sam objects to being made to appear as a side partner in a lottery scheme, conducted by those who claim to be engaged in the business of procuring United States patents for inventors. The bill introduced by Senator Hansbrough, "to prevent inventors and others from being deceived and defrauded by alleged patent attorneys," is a step toward clearing Uncle Sam of the suspicions of countenancing lottery methods after having driven the big lotteries out of the country. It makes it illegal for any person or firm engaged in procuring patents, under penalty of a heavy fine or imprisonment, to offer or award any gift or prize, as an inducement for inventors to enter any alleged competition, and to further protect the United States government it directs that the Commissioner of Patents shall prepare rules for the admission and disbarment of attorneys practicing before the United States patent office.

Representative Heatwole, of Minnesota, has offered a joint resolution for the appointment of a banking and currency commission, to be composed of four citizens appointed by the President, two Senators and two Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, and the Comptroller of the Currency, the commission to report to Congress on the first day of the regular session next December. Mr. Heatwole is a republican, but he does not claim to have been acting for the President when he offered the resolution, although it is generally understood that Mr. McKinley favors the idea.

A populist statement signed by all the Senators and Representatives of the party, issued this week, shows that they stand about where the silver republicans do on the tariff bill. They will endeavor to secure amendments in the interest of their constituents, in the Senate, but to emphasize their belief that no sort of a tariff will cure our trouble they may decline to vote at all when the bill is put upon its final passage. This adds to the certainty that there will be no trouble about passing the tariff bill when it reaches a final vote in the Senate.

How to Sleep.

Better sleep can be obtained with a low than with a high pillow. To lessen the work of the arteries that propel the blood to every portion of the organism should be the aim of every one, so that the posture that most nearly places the body in a horizontal position is the most to be desired. Bolstering up the head is always to be condemned, whether in sickness or in health, unless bodily injuries render the perfectly recumbent position impossible. It is not well to lie always on the back; by this practice the spine and the nerves that there congregate are kept too hot, and a feverish sleep is apt to be the result. The right side is the best to recline on, for then the heart and the larger arteries are relieved from undue pressure. Occasionally one rests well lying on the stomach. As a general rule, eight hours is ample for a person in health; more produces a dull, heavy feeling on arising; less, an unsatisfied craving for more. And there is also no room for doubt that the two hours preceding midnight are the most favorable for enjoying the "beauty sleep" of the night.

DISCUSS THE TARIFF.

Synopsis of the Debate in Congress Over the Dingley Bill.

Washington, March 23.—Mr. Dingley announced that the tariff committee had several amendments to offer. The first increased the rate on gelatine, glue prepared from fish bladders valued at not above 10 cents per pound, from 2 to 25 cents. The second placed a duty of 2 cents per pound on bauxite not refined. In answer to a question by Mr. Wheeler (dem., Ala.), Mr. Grosvenor replied that a strong appeal had come up from Georgia and Alabama for protection to this article. There were vast deposits in those two states—sufficient to supply the world. Mr. Dockery said this was a novel proposition in connection with protection. Hereafter, he said, protection was accorded to equalize labor conditions. Now, for the first time, it was proposed to equalize freight rates. Mr. Simpson offered several amendments which were ruled out of order. He also stated in effect that the tariff had been the football of politics for a century, and that the populists had no faith in the ability of either the republic or democracy to carry out law to remedy the evils of the existing gold standard.

Mr. McCall (rep., Mass.) was the first republican to speak. He said he would not boldly express the opinion that the duties in the bill were too high. He especially mentioned wool.

"Are the duties on wools manufactured in New England too high?" asked Mr. Hopkins (rep., Ill.).

"The duties in this bill are too high," reiterated Mr. McCall. Then, turning defiantly to Mr. Hopkins, he continued: "Do not categorically question me. I do not hesitate to say I think these duties could be reduced without detriment either to the wool grower or the wool manufacturer."

Soon after the speaker had finished, a large manufacturer, followed Mr. McCall's lead, and again aroused the plaudits of the opposition by declaring that the manufacturers of New England did not want the duties in the bill, neither the compensatory nor the straight duties. "We want a tariff law that will live and stand," said he. "We do not want to be strangled with free trade. Neither do we want to be smothered with protection." Mr. Russell, one of the members of the ways and means committee from Connecticut, exposed the fact in the course of his remarks that Mr. Lovering, who is a cotton manufacturer, had asked for increase on the finer grades of cotton yarns. Mr. Walker (Mass.) also attacked the position of his colleagues, and the extraordinary disclaimer of Mr. Dingley termed it, drew from the majority leader a vigorous statement about the cotton and woolen schedules. He said it was the unanimous declaration of the woolen manufacturers that they could not maintain their own in the manufacture of the finer goods without the duties in this bill. The Wilson law, they testified, furnished adequate protection for the woolen industry. They were being manufactured in the south. But the New England manufacturers, including Mr. Lovering, testified to the necessity of these increases.

Washington, March 23.—The ways and means committee Tuesday offered and had adopted about 35 amendments. Among them was one admitting free duty books, scientific apparatus, charts, maps, etc., for scientific and educational purposes.

Mr. Cannon (rep., Ill.) declared that he was for the pending bill. He was not pleased with all its features. He thought there could be a duty on hides, and that impression was deeply grounded in the west that a duty on hides would raise the price of cattle one dollar a head.

Mr. Slayton (dem., O.) argued that a duty on hides would be of practical benefit to the cattle-raisers of the plains of Texas, Kansas and the Dakotas.

Mr. Bell (rep., Cal.) warned the republicans that if they passed this bill containing high duties without imposing at least a revenue duty on hides, distinctly a product of the farm, they would regret it. Why should the wool men of a few states be so generously dealt with and the cattle-raisers denied anything?

Mr. Dingley defended the action of the committee, saying that when the act of 1890 was being prepared the present occupant of the white house made a very exhaustive investigation of the subject and found first, that the great body of hides produced in this country were a by-product from the slaughter of cattle, and that their price was made here, second, that goat and other skins tanned in this country were not produced here, and third, that the hides imported, except in a few instances, were dry hides, used in making sole leather, a large part of which was exported. We could tan hides with our cheap material for the foreign market.

Our tanning industry, he said, was adjusted to free hides, and it was decided that a duty on hides would not be of advantage to the farmer, and would be a distinct disadvantage to our export trade.

Mr. Hepburn (rep., Ia.) declared that the wool interests dwarfed in contrast with the vast cattle interests of the country. Iowa was more interested in hides than wool. She marketed annually $3,000,000 worth of hides, and not ten per cent. of that amount of wool. "We are," he asserted, "that the tanning industries of New York, Pennsylvania and New England should not be allowed to stifle the demands of the west."

Mr. Buckner (dem., Mich.) denounced the duty of the tariff committee on hides, saying that the lumber barons were permitted to go into Canada and have their lumber sawed by the cheap labor there. It was free trade in labor and protection for the manufacturer.

Mr. Lentz (dem., O.) presented a number of protests from bituminous coal miners against the restoration of 75 cents a ton on coal. He declared that the restoration was in the interest of the anthracite coal pool of the east.

Mr. Grosvenor (rep., O.) in reply said Mr. Lentz's remarks had demonstrated his ignorance. He said that no suggestion against the restoration of the tariff on coal had come until after the bill had been reported to the house. The east was in favor of a lower duty on coal.

Washington, March 31.—Mr. Grosvenor presented amendments fixing April 1 as the date on which the bill should go into effect. Mr. Bailey immediately made the point that the amendment was out of order. It was obnoxious, he said, to the old set and best of the law that no statute should be retroactive. Mr. Dockery (dem., Mo.) offered as an amendment the proviso to suspend the duties on articles controlled by trusts. A point of order being made against it, the speaker ruled the amendment out of order. Mr. Grosvenor was marked upon the alleged attempt of the democrats to make political capital out of ostentatious opposition to trusts. As to the pending proposition to make this bill go into effect April 1, no matter what the date of its final enactment, he said two questions were involved, its expediency and its wisdom. As a question of law, of course, everything was in the power of congress, but his view was that those things not forbidden to congress were legal. Mr. Richardson (dem., Tenn.) contended that the supreme court decision in the case involving the Wilson law, in which the constitution of the supreme court was delivered by Chief Justice Fuller, decided exactly contrary to the contention of Mr. Grosvenor. Goods imported between August 1 and August 25, 1904, it was decided, should pay the McKinley and not the Wilson rate.

Mr. Allen (dem., Miss.) stirred up a controversy by his statement that the bill placed binding twine on the free list and cotton ties on the dutiable list. But the south, he said, did not want any of the "pork." All it wanted was that the north should keep its hands out of the south's pockets.

Mr. Dilliver explained that there was a duty on binding twine as against Canada, our only competitor in this article. Cotton ties had been placed on the dutiable list, he said, because they had been determined that the protection of our manufacturers lowered the price of cotton ties.

One of the features of the closing hour of the debate was a brief speech by Mr. White (rep., N. C.), the only colored man in the house, in commendation of the bill. He said the southern democrats had advocated at different times free trade, free whiskey, free liquor, free everything except "free elections and free niggers."

Mr. McCall (rep., Mass.) was the first republican to speak. He said he would not boldly express the opinion that the duties in the bill were too high. He especially mentioned wool.

"Are the duties on wools manufactured in New England too high?" asked Mr. Hopkins (rep., Ill.).

"The duties in this bill are too high," reiterated Mr. McCall. Then, turning defiantly to Mr. Hopkins, he continued: "Do not categorically question me. I do not hesitate to say I think these duties could be reduced without detriment either to the wool grower or the wool manufacturer."

tunity to amend the sugar schedule, which was framed to protect the biggest trust in the country. And to day you own the infancy of the bill by making it retroactive."

Mr. Dingley closed the debate in a ten-minute speech. He spoke of the extraordinary circumstances which produced the emergency which congress had been called in extra session to meet. The ways and means committee had labored faithfully for months to adjust duties to present conditions. There might be some little dissatisfaction with rates. He assured his colleagues and the country that he felt confident the bill would accomplish the purpose for which it was framed.

The debate being at an end the committee rose, and the bill, with pending amendments, was reported to the house by Mr. Sherman, the chairman of the committee of the whole.

Mr. Bailey demanded a separate vote on the amendment fixing the date on which the bill should go into effect. The other amendments were adopted in gross, with only formal opposition. A roll call was demanded on the exception amendment, and it was adopted 205 to 140. The final vote on the measure resulted: Ayes, 205; nays, 122; present and not voting, 21.

HE LOVED A CHORUS GIRL.

But He Feared She Was Too Young for the Stage.

He was a happy. He was very new. He went to the comic opera. He saw a girl in the chorus. Bang!

He was hard hit. "How divinely beautiful and how young!" These were his thoughts. He could give his heart to such a one, and sit there night after night drinking in the ravishing beauty of her eyes, her lips, her hair.

How girlishly beautiful she was. O, horrors! Disquieting thought. What if the Gerry society robbed him of his bliss by forbidding her to play until she were the proper age? Infernal meddlers!

The performance over, he hastened around to the stage door to await the exit of his divinity. At least once before the Gerry society stopped her he would tell her how he admired her. He would ask her to hurry and grow older that she might again grace the stage. He watched the girls come out, but she was not among them.

At last he asked the gruff old doorkeeper if she had departed by another exit. He described her costume, her eyes, her lips, her hair. The old man knew her.

"No, she has not gone yet," said the man. "She always waits for me."

Heavens! Could this slip of a girl be married? And to him? No. Absurd! The young man found speech.

"What, are you then her father?" "No," said the old doorkeeper, reverently, "she is my mother."

The young man went afar off.—N. Y. Journal.

Just Rolling in Dust.

The bicycle agent patted the saddle of the sample machine admiringly with one hand, while with the other he held fast to the buttonhole of the prospective purchaser.

"I tell you, sir," he said, "you have no idea what a bicycle does for a man. I have known men, feeble, weak, with tired-out brains and exhausted bodies, striving day and night to earn a bare pittance; and I have sold those men machines and seen them in a month's time, healthy, strong in mind and body, and on the high road to fortune."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the prospective buyer. The agent became extremely confidential.

"I mean it—every word of it. Why, not four days ago—mark that, not four days ago—a man came in here who didn't have a penny—not a penny. I talked to him, and he became so interested that he went out, borrowed $100 and bought a machine, and now—pardon the slang—at this very minute that man is fairly rolling in dust."—Odds and Ends.

Problems of the Times.

Naturally the jailer was puzzled. Something in what looked like knickerbockers had been brought to him in a patrol wagon for a short jail sentence.

No sooner had he seen it than he called one of the wagon men to one side and held a whispered consultation with him.

"I give it up," said the wagon man. "It's your problem, not mine."

"Let me see the name on the commitment papers," demanded the jailer, in desperation.

"Won't do you any good," said the wagon man. "The name will suit either."

"Well," said the jailer, decisively, "you take it back to court and tell the judge that when he sends a short-haired individual in a Derby hat and this kind of a bicycle costume over here, he's got to stipulate whether it's to go in the male or the female department of this jail, or I will decline to receive it."—Chicago Post.

Echo from Crete.

An English lady, whose husband holds an official position in Crete, writes: "All over the world wherever there is sorrow or suffering our countrywomen come to the fore. In Athens at the present time hundreds of poor, shivering Cretan refugees are being daily fed from a soup-kitchen, which has been originated for their benefit by a kind-hearted, energetic Scotch lady, who happens to be spending a few weeks in Greece. It seems a wide cry from the classic Athenian city to that essentially British form of charity, a soup-kitchen; but just now that must be an institution sorely needed and greatly appreciated by the starving people, who have been obliged to take precipitate flight from their own humble homes."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

—There are nearly 30,000 trees on a 600-acre crab apple farm, said to be the largest in the world, near Leavenworth, Kan.

FEAR OF FAMINE.

Flood Sufferers Face to Face with Starvation.

Distressing Situation of Affairs in the Mississippi Valley—High Waters Causing Ruin in the West.

Memphis, Tenn., April 5.—Fifty thousand persons are confronted with famine. This is the shocking result of the floods in the lower Mississippi valley, which are spreading with every hour that passes. All of the country must come to the rescue of the homeless refugees, or hunger, possibly pestilence, will make dire inroads on the victims.

R. C. Graves and J. S. Menkin, of the Memphis relief committee, have gone to Washington to ask the general government to lend assistance. Ten thousand dollars have already been expended by the local committee, and probably $10,000 more in provisions have been distributed. It now looks as if famine is ahead. Many thousand people have been made homeless, and appeals for aid have gone forth. In the lowlands of Arkansas a call for food has been made, and the people of Little Rock will take immediate action.

Rosedale, Miss., April 5.—Hundreds of negroes are without provisions and with no possible means of getting any. There are fully half a million acres of the finest farm lands in the country inundated. Each plantation presents a scene of desolation and ruin. There are in Rosedale 1,000 destitute persons who cannot be cared for unless relief comes from outside.

Memphis, Tenn., April 5.—Another disastrous break in the Mississippi levee occurred Sunday morning at eight o'clock at Flower lake, six miles below Tunica, Miss. The crevasse, while not yet of great width, is fully 15 feet deep, and the water is pouring through the opening with fearful velocity. This will probably be the most destructive break that has occurred in the delta. The most fertile farm lands of Mississippi, lying in Coahoma, La Flore, Quitman and Tallahatchie counties, in the northern part of the state, will be inundated and the newly-planted corn crops will be laid in waste. Fortunately no loss of life is reported, the inhabitants of this stricken section having made preparations for just such a catastrophe as exists there.

The condition of the poorer classes throughout the flooded area is indeed critical. Thousands of refugees are being huddled on levees and spots of land waiting for relief. The towns of Rosedale and Tunica report that everything possible is being done for these poor people, but that funds and provisions are fast becoming exhausted. In the little city of Rosedale alone 1,200 refugees are being cared for by the citizens. Half a hundred towns stand in six feet of water and the yellow stream is creeping up slowly but surely.

Advices received tell of a break in the levee two miles south of Helena, Ark. This is the levee for which the people of southeastern Arkansas have made such a desperate fight. The waters from this break will flood a great area and in all probability will back up into the streets of Helena. The relief steamer Ora Lee arrived at Marianna, Ark., late Sunday afternoon, having made an expedition up the St. Francis river. There were on board 160 refugees and 200 head of cattle. The steamer went up the St. Francis river as far as Cut Off, and then worked her way down stream, rescuing people from perilous positions. The suffering along the St. Francis river is appalling. The water throughout the entire neighboring country is from six to fifteen feet deep.

St. Paul, Minn., April 5.—The relief societies are busy all day extending succor to the suffering. The number of people who have been forced to leave their homes is about 1,200. The water east of State street is so deep that several houses have floated from their foundations.

Ortonville, Minn., April 5.—Sunday was the fourth day that Ortonville has been completely cut off from communication with the outside world in every direction. A train cannot go 20 miles from this city in any direction. Lac Qui Parle lake, Minnesota river, Big Stone lake and Lake Traverse form one lake 100 miles in length. Bridges are gone in many places, and boats are in demand in the vicinity of the depot and the railroad yards. Rain has been falling steadily for a week, making the country roads impassable and keeping farmers off their fields.

Quincy, Ill., April 5.—The flood extends clear back to the bluffs, and steamboats are taking excursion parties on trips through the tops of the trees and over the submerged farms. The boats go from six to ten miles inland, and the only landing places to be found are the second stories of the houses which the owners have been compelled to abandon. In many places the steamers go right up to the second-story windows and sail over the farms without any trouble except the fear of striking the fence posts under water. Between here and Hannibal the water is on both sides of the St. Louis, Keokuk & Northwestern railroad tracks, and for miles the only land in sight is the narrow embankment on which the track rests. Between here and La Grange the water is lapping the ties and the gale is dashing the waves clear over the track.

BEDOUINS SURROUNDED.

Foreign Troops Undertake the Task of Disarming Them.

Canea, April 5.—The actual work of disarming the Bashi Bazouks began early Sunday morning and continued throughout the day. At the village of Kalieni they refused to deliver up their arms and demanded an order from the governor of the island and the personal presence of Edhem Pasha. The foreign troops then cordoned the village and the Austrian colonel, who was in command, ordered that search for arms should begin, when Edhem Pasha arrived. Then the cordon closed round the Bashi Bazouks, who yielded quietly. The European troops guard the gates of the town. The Arab quarter also is surrounded by European pickets. A proclamation has been issued announcing that all who refuse to yield up their arms will be shot. In response to this only 100 have as yet surrendered their arms. The insurgents have succeeded in exploding heavy dynamite cartridges upon the walls of the fort at Kissamo.

Rome, April 5.—A dispatch from Suda says that the powers have ordered the admiral of the international fleet to begin a pacific blockade of Athens, and it is understood at Suda that the admirals are now considering the best way of carrying out the instructions.

Athens, April 5.—France has not agreed to the blockade of the Gulf of Athens. The admirals were discussing the details Sunday, and suddenly the whole matter is again adjourned for several days, while M. Hanotaux produces his mysterious plan. The French foreign minister has assured King George that there is no immediate prospect of a blockade, and has begged him not to take action. Nobody here has the slightest notion of what the hitch is.

Canea, April 5.—Cretans and Muslims had a fierce fight on the plain or Arkotiri Saturday. The battle took place in the presence of the international forces. Arkotiri is a peninsula between Canea and Suda. The insurgents were cut off from communication with the interior by the guards along the Suda road. It became known that the admirals had permitted the insurgents to go down to the plain, and armed Moslems streamed out of the town unhindered, passed the Austrian guard and Saturday morning in full view of the admirals at Suda attacked the Christians at 200 yards. Maj. Bor and the Italian officers endeavored to stop the fight. The Moslems, driven back by the insurgents, came to the town and were disarmed by the international troops. Most of them left their arms behind. Fifty Moslems, killed or wounded, were brought into town. The Moslems held an indignation meeting because the European troops had not supported them. Trouble is feared in the town. Among the Moslems were many of those rescued from the Kandanus. The town will be surrounded and searched by European troops. The men-of-war at Suda cleared for action, but no shells were fired. Marines were landed to support the Christians, but came too late.

KILLED IN THE AVALANCHE.

Two Men Meet Death by a Snowslide in the Cascade Mountains.

Tacoma, Wash., April 5.—The heavy snowfall, followed by the chinook winds, is causing the greatest avalanches ever known in the Cascade mountains. The sliding starts at the base of the mountain, extending to the summit, with great rapidity. Friday Daniel Shirley and Edward Graham, miners employed at Monte Cristo, made a heroic attempt to escape from one of these immense snowslides. Mounting cakes of ice, they rode down the mountain safely, only to be covered with ten feet of snow and ice at its base. They were suffocated before the miners from the Mystery mine, near by, could rescue them.

ANTI-TRUST BILL VETOED.

Governor of Wisconsin Says It Is Harsh and Unreasonable.

Madison, Wis., April 5.—Gov. Scofield has vetoed the McGillivray anti-trust bill. The bill not only prohibited the formation of trusts in Wisconsin, but authorized and made it the business of the attorney-general to proceed against foreign combinations doing business in any way in this state. Gov. Scofield vetoed it on the ground that its provisions relating to outside combinations were unconstitutional, because of interference with interstate commerce, and that its operation would be pernicious. He has also said that its provisions were harsh and unreasonable.

Two Men Drowned.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 5.—A sailing skiff capsized in the Niagara river Saturday night and Thomas Dowd, aged 23, and Edward Bowling, 39 years old, were drowned. James O'Haro, the third occupant of the boat, was rescued. The men had been on a fishing expedition, and when coming up the river the boat was capsized by a sudden gust of wind. The accident happened within 100 feet of shore, but the river was full of drifting ice, and the men, although good swimmers, feared to attempt to swim ashore. Dowd tried to do so, but sank almost immediately. Just as rescuers reached the upturned boat Bowling sank from sight. O'Haro will recover. The bodies have undoubtedly passed over the falls.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Taking a double hitch around his neck with a rope, he tied one end to the bedpost and stretched himself out on the bedroom floor. The body was discovered by his wife, who drove out to see him. Despondency was the cause of the deed. Deceased was about 45 years old and leaves a widow and three children.

FLOODS AND STORMS.

The Waters Still Spreading Through the Southern States.

A Number of Deaths by Drowning Reported from River Towns—North and West Suffering from Snow and Water.

New Orleans, April 3.—The second break in the lower Louisiana levee system occurred Friday morning on Bayou La Fourche. The break has widened to 100 feet and there is no hope that it will be closed. The break is 36 miles below Thibodaux, where the levees are neither large nor modern.

Jackson, Miss., April 3.—The only change in the situation in the Delta is for the worse. The water is still pouring through the breaks and encroaching upon places heretofore thought above the danger line. Plantations were again aglow in the fires of patriotism as a recruit in Company M of the Second Harris Light Cavalry, Kilpatrick's famous old regiment, and was soon again at the front. There was a great demand for cavalry in Virginia, and the active young trooper found plenty of fighting up and down the Shenandoah Valley and in the various campaigns on the Potomac. In 1864 he attracted the notice of the dashing and dandified Custer, and was selected as one of his famous body guard, in which he served until the close of the war.

After the war Mr. Yewell began to be known as a skilled newspaper writer and correspondent, and he was later in demand as a theatrical writer and press agent, a profession in which he achieved signal success. He was a hero in private life as he had been on the field and in the camp, and few of those who knew the genial and versatile Sol. Yewell had any idea that he was a great sufferer from diseases and disabilities, contracted during the war. Such, however, was the fact. He suffered from rheumatism, hemorrhoids and chronic tonsillitis for years.

St. Louis, April 3.—A special from Cairo, Ill., to the Scripps-McRae Press association states that a report reached there that five persons were found dead at a point about 30 miles below New Madrid, Mo. The information was brought to Cairo by a commercial traveler who states that a relief boat found the bodies of a young girl; an aged woman and a child in a flooded house on the Missouri side of the river, at a point about 30 miles south of New Madrid.

New Orleans, April 2.—Up to the present time, as far as known, the line of Louisiana levees is intact, but the strain against them is such that a break at any moment is feared almost at any point.

The great danger below the city is due to wave wash, caused by passing steamers, some of which run very close to the shore to avoid the swift current and drift, and the governor and mayor have issued a proclamation calling on them to keep on the middle of the stream and run under slow bells.

Jackson, Miss., April 2.—There is nothing encouraging in the situation along the river front. People are fleeing for their lives. Several refugees have arrived in Jackson and report that the half has not been told, that no pen can describe the desolation, the devastation and ruin that is being visited upon the planters in the counties of Bolivar, Washington, Sharkey, Issaquena and others.

St. Paul, Minn., April 2.—The Mississippi has reached 16 feet, two feet above the danger line. Between Minneapolis and St. Paul 1,000 families have been made homeless by the flood. They lived on the flats along the riverside and in the lowlands of West St. Paul. The families that lived to the left of the Inter-urban bridge at Minneapolis have been driven out and a vast body of water rushes over the spot where their homes used to be. It has swept away many houses.

Aberdeen, S. D., April 2.—The whole north section of the state is largely in an inundated condition. Railway traffic on three systems having lines here has been entirely abandoned. Aberdeen store basements and cellars are flooded, and in one instance, that of the Golden Rule department store, much damage was done. The Western Union telegraph office has two feet of water upon the floor. All the furnaces are out in the steam-heated buildings. Occupants of residences have in several cases been forced to move out, and hundreds of other dwellings are surrounded by water several feet in depth. Nothing like it has ever been known heretofore. The town of Westport, north of Aberdeen, has from two to six feet of water on the principal streets. Residents have either moved to higher ground or to second stories of their buildings. Hotel proprietors are carrying on their business in second stories.

St. Louis, April 2.—A heavy downfall of rain, usually described as a cloudburst, began at three a. m. at River Forest, a suburb of this city, causing the Des Peres river at this point to become a raging torrent inside of three hours. Two people were drowned, and three are missing. The drowned are George W. Tate, of Benton, and Nettie, his six-year-old daughter. Mr. Tate's body was found Thursday afternoon.

Laramie, Wyo., April 2.—The most severe snowstorm in 20 years has struck this section, doing immense damage to cattle and sheep. Business here is practically suspended, and even the daily papers are not issued. On the main streets the snow in places is ten feet deep, while residences on the outskirts of the city are in some instances completely buried by drifts. Several buildings collapsed in consequence of the weight of snow which covered their roofs. The storm extends from Medicine Bow to Pine Bluffs, Wyo., a distance of 175 miles. Laramie and Sherman Hill appear to be the very center of the storm belt.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

An Old Soldier's Hot Fight for Life and Health.

While in a Hospital a Physician Hands Him Some Pills, and After a Few Doses He Feels His Health Returning—Asked For the Name of the Pills, the Physician States They Were Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People—The Patient a Widely-Known Man.

From the News, Indianapolis, Ind. Sol. Yewell of 98 Hill Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., who is well known to the dramatic profession, when a boy seventeen years old enlisted in Company H, 13th Indiana Volunteer Infantry, the first three years regiment that marched to the front from the Hoosier State. In the fall of 1862 he was honorably discharged, because of disabilities contracted in the service. After a short time spent at home he went to New York and entered college. He was a bright young fellow, a diligent student and a great future seemed opening before him. But he again heard the bugles and the fires of patriotism were again aglow in his bosom. He enlisted as a recruit in Company M of the Second Harris Light Cavalry, Kilpatrick's famous old regiment, and was soon again at the front. There was a great demand for cavalry in Virginia, and the active young trooper found plenty of fighting up and down the Shenandoah Valley and in the various campaigns on the Potomac. In 1864 he attracted the notice of the dashing and dandified Custer, and was selected as one of his famous body guard, in which he served until the close of the war.

After the war Mr. Yewell began to be known as a skilled newspaper writer and correspondent, and he was later in demand as a theatrical writer and press agent, a profession in which he achieved signal success. He was a hero in private life as he had been on the field and in the camp, and few of those who knew the genial and versatile Sol. Yewell had any idea that he was a great sufferer from diseases and disabilities, contracted during the war. Such, however, was the fact. He suffered from rheumatism, hemorrhoids and chronic tonsillitis for years. "As if these were not enough," said Mr. Yewell, the other day at the Marion Hotel, relating his experience to the reporter, "I was doomed to fall a victim to the grippe in 1890. This last fell monster accentuated all my previous troubles and added, seemingly, half a dozen new ones. It was in November of that year that I was compelled to give up work and came to the Marion Hotel. Creeping paralysis or locomotor ataxia developed, and in 1892 I went to the hospital where I remained for several months. My condition became so alarming that the surgeons here, who are my very good friends, were compelled to admit they could do nothing for me. My locomotor ataxia was attended with vertigo and I was liable to fall at any unexpected moment. The surgeons having nothing else in mind recommended that last resource—a change of climate. So in May, 1894, I went to Boston, Mass. I had secured employment at the Columbia Theatre there as press writer, as I was determined to do something. I remained there two seasons.

"My vertigo and paralysis continued to distress me greatly. I consulted a number of eminent physicians in Boston and became a patient of the Harvard College clinic on Bennett Street. The surgeons there appeared to desire to make much of me as a patient and I was willing. One day a doctor there gave me a box of pills. The wrapper and all identifying marks were gone, but the coating of the pills was of a pink color.

"I had scarcely used the box before, much to my surprise, I found that the locomotor ataxia was leaving me. On the second box the vertigo entirely disappeared, my paralysis or locomotor ataxia was gone and I began to have my old-time confidence in myself. Yes, all these ailments under which I had suffered were leaving me. I used about four boxes of these pills before I knew what they were. At the close of the dramatic season of 1895, I took a vacation, going up into the White Mountains and into Northern Vermont. I asked my doctor and insisted upon knowing the name of the wonderful pills that he had been giving me. He laughed and said, 'I have been giving you a remedy called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.'

"I said, 'I think they are the best medicine I ever took, and I can directly trace to them all the benefit that I have received. I should have said that along with my other afflictions I was at times seriously troubled with a valvular affection of the heart, but the pills have proven to be a splendid remedy for that also. I certainly believe they strengthen and correct the action of that organ.'

Mr. Yewell has a clear, fresh complexion, the hue of health, weighs two hundred and twenty pounds, has a first-class appetite, and to use his own words: "I sleep like a top." He is fifty-two years old, and while Williams' Pink Pills have not made a young man out of him, they have certainly restored him so that he bids fair to see many years of usefulness.

"I will leave here soon," was his parting words to the reporter, "as I have an offer to go to Boston and take up my old theatrical work."

Mr. Yewell's many friends in the newspaper and theatrical profession will be glad to know that he is again in good health and restored to the pursuit which he so long adored.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Pistols and Pestles.

The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Ayer's sugar coated pills. They treat the liver as a friend, not as an enemy. Instead of driving it, they coax it. They are compounded on the theory that the liver does its work thoroughly and faithfully under obstructing conditions, and if the obstructions are removed, the liver will do its daily duty. When your liver wants help, get "the pill that will."

Arbor Day Proclamation.

In accordance with a custom which has long prevailed in this and other states, and in accordance with concurrent resolution No. 6, approved March 26, 1885, I, Hazen S. Pingree, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby designate and set apart Friday, April 30, next, as Arbor Day, and recommend that all public schools, colleges, and other educational institutions, and all the citizens of our great state, do observe the same in an appropriate manner.

I also recommend that this day be devoted to the general planting of trees, shrubs and flowers, to the end that lawns, school grounds, public parks and streets and highways may be permanently enriched and beautified, and that a tree be planted for every member of each family.

Our forests are diminishing, and the increased demand for shade and ornamental trees has caused the organization of associations, the purposes of which are to preserve the forests and educate the people in the science of forestry. These associations deserve commendation, to the end that their number may multiply, so that greater interest may be taken in the subject and something done toward restoring the forestry of the state. I take this occasion to urge better care of shade trees which abound beside our country roads.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan, at the Capitol, in Lansing, this tenth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety seven, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and twenty-first.

H. S. PINGREE,

Governor.

WASHINGTON GARDNER,
Secretary of State.

Communication.

EDITOR HERALD—Although many of those whose occupation was of a nature to compel them to be out of doors the past winter are glad to witness the return of spring, I feel that no one more than I cherishes a warm spot toward the summer months. My old and reliable ham mock still continues to afford me the blessings of free railway transportation, and I believe it will do so for some time to come. Appreciating the happy conditions by which I was surrounded during my visit to your village, I remain

Yours respectfully,
RAILROAD JACK,
The Hammock Rider.

Insecticides.

With the slaughter of our song and plumage birds to meet the inexorable demands of fashion in decorating women's hats, destructive insects necessarily increase, and have to be fought by fruit and vegetable growers. In some way society has to pay the penalty of every wrong. Among recent insecticides is one reported by Prof. R. C. Kedzie of the Michigan Agricultural College, a spray mixture, said to be more reliable than Paris green, which does not burn the foliage of trees, and costs less than 4 cents a barrel. It is not patented, and here are his directions for making it:

Boil two pounds of white arsenic and four pounds soda for fifteen minutes in two gallons of water. Put into a jug and label "poison," and lock it up. When you wish to spray, slake two pounds of lime and stir it into forty gallons of water, adding a pint of mixture from the jug.

The mixture in the jug will cost 45 cents, and this is enough for 800 gallons or twenty barrels of spray. These twenty barrels will require forty pounds of lime, which will cost twenty cents more, making the total cost 65 cents for 20 barrels—3 1/4 cents per barrel.

Its advantages over Paris green are as follows: It is cheaper and the ingredients can be found in any village drug store; it is easily prepared and easily kept ready; it will keep for any length of time; it is uniform in strength; it does not injure the leaves of trees or plants; it colors the leaves white, showing how evenly it is distributed.

This is a discovery of great importance, and we commend it to our readers. If it will accomplish what is promised, Prof. Kedzie will have the gratitude of farmers everywhere.

Over 4,000,000,000 cigarettes were smoked by Americans during the last year, an increase over the record for 1895 of 323,687,340. And yet the popular education is said to be spreading.

Climate and Crop Bulletin.

CHICAGO, April 6, 1897.—The reports as to the condition of the crops throughout the country and the general effect of the weather upon the growth and cultivation of the crops were made yesterday by the directors of the several climate and crop sections. The reports received at Chicago were as follows:

The week ending at 8 a. m., April 5 averaged warmer than usual in all districts eastward of the Rocky Mountain slope, except over the interior of the south Atlantic states, where it was slightly cooler than usual.

Over the greater part of the country the week was not favorable for farming operations, being too wet in the states of the central valleys and from the Ohio river southward to the gulf coast. In portions of Louisiana, Mississippi, Kansas, Wisconsin and Michigan the conditions were more favorable, while in New England, the northern portion of the middle Atlantic states, Ohio and Texas the week was upon the whole very favorable.

Michigan—Dry sunny weather has dried the soil very rapidly, putting fields in fair condition for working and made winter wheat and rye and meadows look more promising. Snow in upper and frost in lower peninsula are rapidly disappearing. Fruit buds beginning to start. In southern counties plowing has begun, and some oats and barley have been sown.

Items Gleaned from the Lumber District.

People who used to buy tile and lumber of the old-time 500 per centers, and mortgage their farm to pay the bill, will be glad to learn that The Glazier Stove Co. have made a big hole in the old-time prices, by not charging for the holes in the tile.

The best Marblehead Kelley Island lime, 59 cents per barrel, of the Glazier Stove Co.

The Glazier Stove Co. are selling good roof boards at $7.50 per thousand.

Shingles, all grades at prices which make the old-time 500 per center kick and long for a return of the good old days, when 500 per cent (payable in wheat, wool or mortgage) was pocketed with ease.

Water lime, the very best, in bushel bags, 29 cents, of the Glazier Stove Co. What have you been paying for it?

You would never have been compelled to place that mortgage upon your farm if you had always been able to buy lumber, tile, coal and builders' supplies at the rate of profit at which The Glazier Stove Co. are now selling this line of goods.

Good bevel siding, $8.00 per thousand, of the Glazier Stove Co. 500 per center's old-time price $40.00 for the same stock.

Tile at right prices of the The Glazier Stove Co. No charge for the holes.

The Glazier Stove Co. are selling first-class white pine boards at $10.00 per thousand. You paid 500 per center $40.00 for the same thing many a time before we punctured his balloon with our underbuy, undersell prices.
