Unique Entertainment.

Two Minutes Mr. John McCay and his sister Mary, the famous blind musicians gave a most enjoyable entertainment at the opera house, Tuesday evening, Oct. 19. Owing to the rainy night, the attendance was not as large as it would be, but what it lacked in numbers, it made up for in enthuslasm. Mr. and Mrs. McCay are accomplished artists. The entertainment consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, impersonations and character sketches, all of which were admirably given.

Miss McCay has a beautiful soprano voice, which is highly cultivated, and her singing was a treat. Mr McCay has a fine baritone voice. He is simply inimitable in his impersonations and convulsed the audience. Their reception was a most enthusiastic one, and a fervent hope was expressed that these very capable artists would soon favor our citizens again. They gave emminent satisfaction.

Mr. McCay said that he and his sister would appear again in an entire change Ask to see our men's $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00 suits, overcoats and ulof program. When we reflect that these Grandest display ever made in Chelsea at these prices. Remember people have been blind since infancy, their purchase made of us should not prove satisfactory come back and performance is simply marvelous. We can assure them of a crowded house should they appear again.

15, 25 recession of values. On the other hand it is pointed out that those who have sold December wheat in this and other markets may have great difficulty in fulfilling their contracts. present supplies in sight being alarmingly low when viewed from this standpoint. Schwartz, Dupee & Co., whose foreign clientele is a large one, continue to receive advices that the Europeans are buying only what they need from month to month for actual consumption, their stocks being naturally kept at a low ebb with the hope that as news of the future crop materializes it will indicate a generous yield and consequently lower prices. A continuation of the present hand-to-mouth policy by the foreigners is therefore looked for, and the friends of wheat say that under such conditions there can be no sharp decline.

Corn has had a big decline, but its friends look for a reaction on the ground that when figures are in it will be found that the crop estimates have been far too large and that the continued in strength of wheat will bring corn back to a normal price. In provisions the situation seems to hinge solely on the continuance of yel low fever in the south. The first hard frost in that section will destroy the fever germs, and as that section of the country has been fairly prosperous this year an immediate resumption of the former good demand for provisions is expected.

More than half the Tea consumed in the United States and Canada is of Japanes growth, yet, the majority of Americans ap-parently do not understand how to prepare it so as to develop the delicious qualities which it contains. The Japanese Govern-ment has appropriated a large fund to aid the Japanese Tea growers and Tea mer-chants in prosecuting this educational work, and it is hoped that American ladies will be apt students. The main Bureau of the Japanese Tea Guild has issued an official recipe for making Japanese Tea, the transla-tion of which is as follows: First .- Use a small, dry and thoroughly clean porcelain teapot.

Second .- Put in one teaspoonful of tea eaves for each cup of tea desired.

Third.-When using Japanese teas, pour on the required quantity of fresh boiled water, and let stand with closed lid from 2 to 3 minutes. Never boil the leaves. In order to retain the natural flavor, Japanese tea leaves should be kept in tight can or jar, free from moisture. Note.—To thoroughly enjoy the natural, delicate and sweet flavor of Japanese Teas, neither sugar nor cream should be used.

THEN Mr. Williams was hurrying past Mr. Welles' house he found Henry, Mr. Welles' hired man, eliminating plantains from the front lawn. Mr. Williams called them plantains, although possibly that is not their botanical name. Whether correctly or incorrectly denominated, they are a hardy sort of weed, with large, flat-lying leaves and tall masts on which the seeds for next year's crop grow in such a way as to make the stalks look like rat-tail files. As one weed of the present year offers in evidence a spawn which promises a thousand-fold multiplication for inches long and seven and a half inches the ensuing summer they are a thing to be dreaded by all suburbanites who love houses. Mr. Williams had been worried about the plantains for several days, and seeing Henry engaged in the worthy pursuit of deciminating them he engaged him in conversation on the general subject of caretaking, weeding, lawn trimming and the like. Henry said: "Why, you don't take my boy, Mis'r Williams, an' haf him take care dem place all time? He's 17 year old an' work good. Chop wood an' turn ice cream freezer. Make garden an' 'ten fires. Do everything. I let him go to you for $50 year, you board him." They had some further conversation concerning Joe and the good thing it would be for Mr. Williams to engage him as man of all work, and the suburbanite went down to his house half an hour afterward with a brilliant new idea to unfold to his wife. "I'll tell you," he said, "this business of me ruining clothes and losing time in digging up the weeds and rinsing off the lawn is a great mistake when you come to think of it. With that big boy of Henry's at $50 a year you and I could have ten times as much leisure to spend together as we have now. Pshaw! I get up in the morning, and while waiting for breakfast go out and mend the sidewalk. And when I come home from the city at night I have to gallop to the lawn hose so as to get the place well sprinkled before the policeman comes around to say it's time to quit using the water for that purpose. We haven't had a ride on the wheels for ever so long, have we?"

"No," Mrs. Williams answered, "and enabling a judge to allow the jury to I think it's a shame-this nice weather. separate during the trial of a felony | You're always sputtering in the garden

Couldn't have him coming smelling horsey all over the house.' "Well, I suppose so, and, of course, if he had a room out there it would be easy for him to milk the cow." "Cow ?"

"We'd have a cow, wouldn't we? I've always heard that one hired man on place can take care of two horses and a cow, and that the cow by the sale of the milk would pay for the maintenance of the horse. That would be nice. Then the horse wouldn't cost us anything to keep." Mrs. Williams looked happy and, indeed, jubilant at being able to present such an alluring argument.

"Well, but, thunder-you know-we don't want to go into the milk-dairying business," Mr. Williams objected.

"Oh, we needn't sell the milk, of course, if you think we shouldn't. Still, I'd hate to waste it. There wouldn't be the patch of green which fronts their any saving in hiring Joe if we dissipated all the profits and advantages of the plan by wasting the milk."

> "Oh, well, we'll face that condition when it rises to confront us. This cow proposition gives me a new idea. We could enrich the soil of the back lot and raise our own vegetables. That would give Joe a little more to do, but would hardly fill in his time. Sixty dollars' worth of seed would make a nice, respectable garden for us, and would keep us in vegetables all the season."

"And if Joe is half as handy with tools as Harry is I believe truly that he could build a new sidewalk around the place. You know the lumber man said it would cost about $95 for the lumber for the present lot. It would be nice to tear up the old walk and lay a wider one."

"If we had Joe I'd have him put down a brick walk. It's as easy as anything. It would cost a little more, and I indicated that consumption and rethen we'd have to about double the price to cover the expense of it in front of the two extra lots, but there's no sense in having a hired man unless you provide him with something to do. And $50 a year is so beastly cheap. I guess I'll stop to-morrow and tell Henry to send his son over."

"I think so, too," Mrs. Williams declared, enthusiastically. "But hadn't we better calculate these figures. Let's see-$50 for his pay."

"And board, nothing," said Mr. Williams.

"Well, I don't know about that," Mrs. Williams observed dubiously. "You can't provide board for a hired man without its costing something. However, let's see what the things we really

JUSTICE FIELD RETIRES

Has to His Credit the Longest Term on the Bench.

Washington, Oct. 15. - It was announced at the supreme court Thursday that Justice Stephen J. Field, of California, had notified President Mc-Kinley of his intention to retire as a member of the court and had informed his colleagues of this fact. The members of the court after adjournment at four o'clock called in a body on the retiring justice to pay him their respects. It is expected that his successor will be nominated by the president immediately after the convening of congress in December and that Attorney-General McKenna, also of Callfornia, will be named for the office.

Justice Field has been eligible for retirement ever since November 4, 1886, when he reached the age limit of 70 years. It was on August 16 last that Justice Field broke the record for length of service on the supreme bench, as it was on that day he exceeded the term of service of 34 years 5 months and 6 days to the credit of Chief Justice Marshall, whose service had up to that time been the longest in the history of the court. The total length of Justice Field's service up to the time when his retirement will take effect, December 1, will be 34 years, 7 months and 20 days. Under the law Justice Field will receive the full salary of an associate justice of the United States supreme court-$10,000 per year-for the remainder of his life.

Justice Field is a remarkable man and one of a remarkable family. His father was David Dudley Field, a Congregational minister of New England, and his mother was Sumit Dickinson Field. His grandfather on his father's side was Timothy Field, a captain in the revolution, and his grandfather on his mother's side was Noah Dickinson, who served with Israel Putnam in the French and Indian war and also served through the revolution. The justice is not the only member of his family in this generation to receive distinction. His brothers were Cyrus W. Field, who carried through to success the first transatlantic telegraph cable; David Dudley Field, 'who attained great eminence as a lawyer; Matthew W. Field, an eminent engineer; Henry M. Field, who was a distinguished clergyman; Jonathan Field, who was president of the Massachusetts state senate, and Timothy Field, who was an officer in the United States navy.

It is expected that some member of the International Committee will be present.

Third: One half day will be given to Field Worker's Conference, in charge of Mr. Day; and a half day to Primary methods, the discussion of primary principals, etc., led by Mrs. Barns, and in addition several important conferences will be held independent of the regular program.

Fourth: The Michigan R. R. Assoctation has granted a rate of one fare for the round trip from all points in Michigan. Dates for the sale of tickets, Nov. 15 and 16. Return limit 19th, 1897.

Fifth: County and township associations are entitled to two delegates each, besides their officers; and every Sunday school in the state should send its superintendent and one delegate.

Sixth. Entertainment, so far as lodging and breakfast is concerned, will be provided by the people at Port Huron; dinners and suppers will be provided at 20 and 25 cents each,

Programs in full, with further details, will be supplied to the schools and workers soon.

MISS CISNEROS FREE.

The Cuban Girl Escapes from a Spanish Prison.

Is Landed Safe on American Soil-Story of Her Wonderful Deliverance-Her Guards Outwitted.

New York, Oct. 14.-Evangelina Cossio y Cisneros, who recently escaped from a Spanish prison in Cuba, was a pasenger on the Ward line steamer Seneca, which arrived Wednesday from Havana. At quarantine Miss Cisneros asked to be excused from saying anything about her imprisonment and escape, as she has not yet recovered from seasickness, from which she had suffered the entire passage, and which kept her in her stateroom during the whole voyage. On the passenger list she was registered as Miss Juana Sola. She was traveling under the care of a gentleman who accompanied her from Havana.

A Most Daring Feat.

Miss Cisneros' escape and safe arrival on the Seneca was one of the most daring feats ever attempted and successfully carried out.

While she was still in prison her friends secured a passport, for one Juan Sola, and state room No. 3 on the Seneca was held in the same name. This was three days before the boat sailed. On the Saturday when the Seneca was to leave Havana detectives watched her gangways with extra caution. All day long they remained at their post, examining the passports which all passengers have to show before leaving Havana. Their vigilance would probably have prevented the departure of Miss Cisneros from Cuba, had it not been for a little refreshment which was served to them by friends of Miss Cisneros, who were aboard the Seneca. The refreshments included wine. The chief of police of Havana came aboard while the refreshment part of the plot was in progress and it is alleged that he too fell a victim of the wiles of the Cisneros faction.

Disguised in Male Attire.

A few minutes before the Seneca was ready to pull out from her dock a slim young fellow came running across the wharf. He had no baggage and was fashionably dressed. He walked quickly up the gang plank. The detectives stopped him. "My name is Juan Sola," said, and he showed his passport. Everything was satisfactory, so the senor was allowed to go aboard. It is said that if it had not been for the wine, the strange treble and rather curious figure of Senor Sola might have excited the suspicions of the Spanish detectives. But the scheme worked successfully. Miss Cisneros' friends, when they saw that everything was satisfactory, disembarked and watched the ship pull slowly out under the frowning Spanish guns, carrying the fugitive to safety under the Stars and Stripes. Miss Cisneros did not court danger any more than was necessary, and at once went to her cabin. The next day, however, when Moro castle was left far behind, she appeared on deck, transformed into Senorita Juana Sola, alias Cossio y Cisneros, and dressed in a becoming red gown,

Some Interesting Extracts from # Couple of Reports. Washington, Oct. 18 .- Following are some extracts from the annual report of Second Assistant Postmaster Shallen-

berger: The report gives an interesting review of the principal developments in the entire postal service of the United States, and connecting foreign mails. It shows an aggregate of appropriations for this part of postal service for the current year of $51,041,238; the probable deficiency is $500,-000, making the estimated expenditures this year $51,541,238. This will be $1,622,045. or 3% per cent more than for the fiscal year just closed. The estimate for the fiscal year 1899 is $53,337,260, which is $1.-796,021 more than the estimated expenditure for the current year. The summary of all classes of service in operation June 30 last, follows: Number of routes, 32,491; length of routes, 470,032 miles; annual rate of expenditures, $49,862,074; number of miles traveled per annum, 420, 850,479; rate of cost per mile traveled, 11.84 cents; rate of cost per mile of length, $106.08; average number of trips per week, 8.60. Last year there was an increase of 5,330,-749 miles of travel in Star service, so es sential to rural districts.

Last year there was only one pneumatic postal tube in operation in the country, that in Philadelphia. Since then four more contracts have been executed, in Philadel phia, New York, Boston and between New York and Brooklyn. Concerning this new postal feature, Gen. Shallenberger reports "It is quite possible to carry second, third and fourth-class matter as well as first when it can be made profitable. Extension to stations several miles distant from the main office, eventually, will save clerical as well as expedite delivery in disforce tant cities from 12 to 24 hours. The most important source of revenue to the department will be the large increase of local correspondents and special delivery letters. The extension of the tubular system will be necessarily slow, and probably confined to populous centers."

No estimate for special fast mail service is submitted, as it is stated the service in general will be better if the special facility appropriation is discontinued. The estimate for electric and cable car service is $375,000, and 139 applications for establishment of new service of this character are on file. As to foreign mails, the report makes an estimate of $1,901,260 for transportation, and $142,000 for balances due foreign countries. The aggregate cost of this service was $2,049,199.

An abstract of the annual report of the general superitendent of the railway mail service follows:

The number of pieces of all classes of mail matter distributed on the cars during the year was 11,571,540,680, exclusive of registered matter and city mail. Of registered matter there were 16,256,663 pieces in all. The amount of city mail distributed for stations and carriers during the year aggregated 462,469,640 pieces. The increase of ordinary mail handled over the previous year was 3.7 per cent. A comparative table covering a period of ten years shows that there has been an increase in the amount of handled of 77.2 per cent., an increase in the working force of 48.6 per cent. The number of pieces of matter, illegibly addressed, handled during the year was 11,-072,764 There were 589 casualties during the year, in which 14 clerks lost their lives, 33 were seriously and 75 slightly injured. This is a larger number of casualties and fatalities than have occurred during any previous year since the organization of the service. The passage of a bill for the relief of the families of clerks killed in the line of duty. of clerks injured and unfitted for service permanently or temporarily, and for the retirement on partial pay of clerks who have served so long as to be unfitted for service, has again been urged: The reorganization and reclassification of the service again is strongly urged by the general superintendent. Recommendation is made for the enactment of some legislation to prevent unwarranted and unlawful interference with postal clerks while on duty in mail cars. At the close of the year there were 1.16 railway post office lines, manned by 6,854 clerks; 33 electric and cable lines, with 102 clerks; 42 steamboat lines with 57 clerks; making total number of lines 1.239, and total number of clerks 7,013. In addition to these there were 311 clerks assigned to duty at important junctions and depots; and 238 detailed to clerical duty in the various offices of the service, making a grand total of 7,562 clerks. The miles of railroad covered by railway post office car service was 154,225; of electric and cable, 203; and of steamboat lines, 7,459. The grand total of miles traveled of all classes of service was 282,830,031. There were 654 whole cars in use and 540 in reserve.

CHARLES A. DANA.

such for several months that the members of his family had kept themselves in constant readiness to go to his bedside at any moment. On Saturday morning he had a relapse, and it was apparent that recovery was impossible. Several times, however, he rallied, but toward night began to sink. During the night there were feeble rallies, but they did not last long. Sunday morning it was seen that the end was but a few hours off, and his attendants remained almost constantly at his bedside. The end came quietly.

Charles Anderson Dana was born August 18, 1819. He came of an old New England family, which has supplied as many students to Harvard and as many well-known names to litelature as any in the east. Among its members are numbered Francis Dana, the revolutionary patriot; Richard Henry Dana, the poet; the other Richard Henry, who wrote "Two Years Before the Mast," and James D. Dana, the geologist. He followed the ancestral track at Harvard, when weakness of the eyes interrupted his studies and obliged him to leave the university without taking a degree, in spite of his high scholastic achievements. College life over, he joined with Theodore Parker, Emerson, Margaret Fuller, George William Curtis, Hawthorne, Channing and others in their attempt to found the Brook Farm community. This was an endeavor to form an ideal society based upon real equality and perfect fraternity. The plan was not a success, and the members of Brook Farm were soon scattered. Young Dana abandoned his visionary hopes and turned his face to a life of toll. He at once entered the newspaper profession and was first employed by Elizur Wright, who was then publishing a paper called the Chrono-type in Boston. He earned five dollars a week. From this point his rise was rapid. In 1847 he went to New York, having been engaged as city editor on Horace Greeley's rising paper, the Tribune, at ten dollars a week. The following year he was sent as special correspondent to Europe. His work there soon gained him renown as a correspondent, and on his return to New York he became Greeley's principal assistant. His salary gradually was increased from $1,000 to $2,500 a year, this being the highest salary paid at that time by any newspaper. Mr. Dana's leisure hours were spent in literary work. He published a volume of poems, and in 1855 he began, in association with George Riley, to edit the "New American Cyclopedia. June 16, 1862, he was appointed to the war department commission to investigate claims at Cairo, Ill.; on March 12, 1863, as special commissioner of the department to report on the condition of the pay service in the western army. June 1, 1863, in order that he might be subject to military exchange if captured when visiting the front of the army, he was appointed major and assistant adjutant general, and on December 31, 1863, was nominated to the senate for that office, but he never formally accepted it, and the nomination, at his request, after he had returned from Vicksburg, was withdrawn on February 24, 1864. January 20, 1864, he was nominated for assistant secretary of war for one year, from January, 19, 1864; confirmed January 20, and took the office on January 28; renominated January 23, 1865, and confirmed on the same day. He rendered the principal part of his service for the war department under the above commissions and as assistant secretary by visiting the army headquarters of Rosecranz, Sheridan, Sherman and Grant, advising confidentially with the commanding officers and corresponding freely with President Lincoln and Secretary Stanton, resigning as assistant secretary July 1, 1865. When the war was over, in 1867, he went to Chicago, and for a year acted as editor of the Republican. Then he returned to the metropolis and organized the company which now publishes the New York Sun The Sun. was already an old-established journal, having first appeared in 1823 Dana's conduct of this journal was so fearless that in 1873 his criticism of the Grant administration led to an attempt on the part of the heads of the government to hale him to Washington for trial in a police court on a charge of libel. Justice Blatchford, then of the United States district court in New York, declared the at tempt an invasion of constitutional rights and refused to grant the necessary warrant of removal. For nearly 30 years Mr. Dana made the Sun an independent democratic journal. In its issue of October 14, 1897, in the heart of the Greater New York municipal campaign, Mr. Dana repudiated democracy of every stripe and declared for the principles and policy of the republican party. This was on the ground that the democracy of William J. Bryan represented the Sun abhorred, and that the gold democ-racy was impractical and without definite purpose or significance. In private life Mr. Dana was a connois-seur of books, ceramics, bronzes, painting and orchids, a lover of chess and athletics and enamored of all things of refinement. of removal. For nearly 30 years Mr. Dans

Town of Windsor, N. S., Destroyed-Loss, $3,000,000-Two Perish.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 18 .- Historic Windsor, one of the most beautiful towns in the province, was devastated by fire Sunday morning. For six hours, beginning shortly before three a. m., the fire, fanned by a violent northwest gale, raged so fiercely that the local fire department was absolutely helpless to cope with it, and within half an hour after its discovery the mayor began to call for outside assistance. Long before noon the town had been eaten up almost completely, the area covered by the flames being nearly a mile square, and of the 400 or more buildings occupying the section barely half a dozen scorched structures remain. Among the buildings that escaped are the Windsor cotton factory, Kings college, the Anglican church, the Edgehill school for girls and the Buffrin hotel. No Nova Scotia town has ever been visited by a conflagration of such dimensions. Of the 3,500 people that inhabited the place few have homes of their own left. Over 3,000 have been taken in by the residents of the surrounding country and neighboring towns, while the remainder of the sufferers have gone to Halifax or are sheltered in army tents erected in the vacant plots by a detachment of British troops from the garrison city. The disaster is appalling in its extent.

The total loss is estimated at $3,000, 000. While a number of the heaviest losers are partially insured and some of them pretty well covered, the total insurance is calculated to be not more than $500,000.

Two lives were lost, Michael Whalen and his wife, an aged couple, and two children of Walter Mosher, a boy of 12 and a girl of nine, were badly burned. Two children of Jesse Smith are missing, but will likely turn up all right. Several others are reported missing. but one, a Miss Drillio, a telephone operator, has already been found. William Cleveland, a telephone operator, was dangerously hurt and several others more or less injured.

Powder and dynamite were used to blow up buildings in the hope of staying the progress of destruction, but the efforts were fruitless, and the fire swept everything before it. The town has no steam fire engines, though there is an excellent water system, but the local firemen could do but little, all their hose being burned in the streets while in use.

PERISHED AT SEA

Over 150 Lives Lost by the Wreeking of a Steamer Off Cuba.

Havana, Oct. 18 .- The gunboat Maria Christina, which left this port Saturday for the scene of the Triton wreck, has returned, accompanied by the tugboat Susie, which went with her. The two vessels arrived here at one o'clock Sunday afternoon, the gunboat having on board 19 and the tugboat 23 of the members of the lost ship's company, of whom 13 are civilians and soldiers, These are all who were saved of a total list of 200, passengers and crew.

Just as the Triton was sinking Capt. Ricardo, her commander, committed suicide by shooting himself with his revolver.

The coasting steamer Triton, from Havana to Bahia Honda, province of Pinar del Rio, went upon a rock Saturday morning, between Dominica and Mariel, on the north coast of that province. Her cargo shifted and 15 minutes later she sank in 120 fathoms of water.

A scene of terrible confusion and panic ensued as soon as the passengers realized the meaning of the crash. In a wild struggle they rushed for the boats. The first boat that was lowered capsized immediately and all of its occapants were drowned in the whirling waters. The next was struck by an erormous wave and turned over, drowning 20, but the frail craft righted again, and eight who had been thrown out regained it. Some were good swimmers and kept themselves afloat for hours; others floated about on planks. Four soldiers on planks whom the strong currents carried east of Havana, opposite Morro castle, were saved by a pilot boat going toward Cardenas. They declare that Saturday night there were many others near them on planks, but when morning came all these had disappeared. Some of them probably became food for sharks.

Those who were rescued tell heartrending stories of the scenes during the terrible quarter of an hour before the Triton sunk. An army captain, his wife and daughter went down together, locked in a last embrace. A mother with twins 15 months old drifted helplessly away on the crest of a great wave. All the other women and children were drowned. The 46 rescued persons suffered severely from the exposure. All of them were more or less bruised and many of them badly wounded.

On board the Triton was $31,660 in silver to be used for the payment of the spanish military and naval forces. The Triton, it is stated, was overloaded. She carried a large quantity of groceries and ammunition, and had on board 93 rifles for the government troops.

Drunken Negro Murders Proprietor of a Fond du Lac Hotel.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 18.-John Beaman, aged 50, proprietor of the Beaman house, 279 Main street, was murdered at 3:45 o'clock Sunday morning by William Payne, colored, in the presence of several white men, in the hotel barroom. Payne was drunk and was flourishing a razor. He said he was going to kill some one. He followed Beaman behind the bar, forced him against the wall, caught him by the whiskers, and, with the words: "This is the way I'll do it," cut Beaman's throat from ear to ear. Payne escaped during the excitement that ensued. Beaman followed the murderer to the door, where he fell and expired. During the seven hours that the fire raged every wholesale and retail store and every shop-in fact, every place of business in the whole town-was swept out of existence, with all they contained. Five of the six hotels were burned, the three banks, the post office and custom house, the courthouse and jail (the prisoners being liberated by the jailer), the electric light station, telegraph and telephone buildings, every foundry, mill and factory, five of the six churches-Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic and Salvation Army, the Episcopal only escaping-all public school buildings and 400 residences and dwellings.

Murat Halstead presided in the burden of his two offices of premier and foreign minister. The queen is reluctant to sanction his retirement, and therefore it may be deferred for a time. In these matters her majesty exercises her prerogative to a greater extent than is generally known. For instance, her wish became a royal command when Lord Rosebery against his own wish took the foreign-office portfolio in Mr. Gladstone's cabinet. Serious ill health. however, relieves the subject against even such an obligation, and it is probable that Lord Salisbury's resignation will be accepted at no remote period.

WELCOME TO COSSIO.

Immense Throng Wildly Cheers the Liberated Cuban Girl in New York. New York, Oct. 18.-Evangelina Cisneros, the Cuban girl who was rescued from a Havana prison, was given a public reception Saturday night at Delmonico's. She was introduced there to a large number of specially invited guests and afterward appeared on a platform erected at the foot of the Worth monument at one corner of Madison square. Probably 200,000 people were congregated in and around the square. The girl left the Waldorf hotel Windsor is a historic town in the land at 7:30. Her escort consisted of a depublic, a battalion of the naval cadets of New York under the command of Col. Replow and dressed in their white uniforms, and the Irish volunteers, the whole in command of Col. James Morgan, the grand marshal of the parade.

When Miss Cisneros appeared on the outdoor platform the crowd nearly went into a delirium. She was completely overcome by the demonstration London, Oct. 18 .- The daily Chronicle and the tears flowed resistlessly. Karl Decker stood beside her and tried to heard.

When she returned to Delmonico's, the horses were taken from her carriage stand and made introductory remarks when the fireworks and the brass bands would permit him to do so. It had been announced that three of the mayoralty candidates, Messrs. Tracy, Van Wyck and George, would make addresses, and their cohorts were very much in evidence. Mr. George, however, was the only one of the trio to put in an appearance. He made a few inaudible remarks, as did Senator Thurston and Dr. Lincoln D. Sayas.

Chicago Subtreasury Has a Smaller Supply on Hand Than Usual.

Chicago, Oct. 18 .- The shipments of silver from the subtreasury at Chicago to country banks in the central west have been for the last four weeks greatployes. Half a million dollars a week has been shipped on orders from banks, and despite large shipments of new coins to the subtreasury the stock of silver in the vacits is $3,000,000, being $1,000,000 less than the average amount carried. The ordinary demand for silver coin has averaged $30,000 a day, but during the last month or more the shipments have been as large a $125,000. #### the Quarters Here Described Fowls Will Thrive Nicely.

A house that is admirably suited for poultry and is constructed both within Cattle and hogs have at times been valubeauty, although entirely free from elaboration, is shown in the two illustrations portrayed herewith, hence it now outlook for at least a moderate imfanciers alike. ground and is 3 feet wide, being built like a ladder and placed at the north end of the building. Under this roost are placed the drop boards, being slanted sufficiently to cause the droppings to roll down into a box at the bottom. In this way there is no trouble in keeping the house free from bad odor, as the droppings each day are removed from each box and the boards resanded after doing so. I know of no simpler and better plan to adopt in a laying house. In a house of this size, it is better to have four boxes and slanting boards under the roosts. I do not think many breeders approve of high roosts, but with a board ladder run-an Increase in Value. Owners of live stock have been discouraged, as a rule, during the past five years. Horses and sheep have been for immediate returns very poor property. able, but they too often have afforded no encouraging returns. The signs of the times are changing, and there is provement in all classes of live stock.

There is steady improvement in manufacturing business, and with the increase in such work there will be a greatly improved demand for good horses. As the income of salaried people and wage-workers is advanced, the grocers and other retail merchants will be obliged to have more of the averagesized horses for use on delivery wagons. This will afford a market to many farmers for their average horses, and there will be a tendency continually among breeders, with advancing values, to produce a better grade of stock for the future. As values of all the different grades of equine stock improve there will be a much better feeling among the general farmers which will cause them to invest in much-needed new implements and machinery.

It is usually necessary on the average farm to depend upon such products as the meats, butter, eggs, wool, etc., for the current expenses and living of the family. Permanent improvements must be made, as a rule, from the returns of the occasional sale of a team or a single horse.

With the increasing value of all kinds of grain there is every reason to expect. an advance in the prices offered for all grades of live stock. There has been a greatly diminished condition of the flocks of the country, so that the fleeces will not glut the near future. The disposition of so many people to economize in clothing during later years will necessarily, of course, force the masses to buy more freely in the near future. This urgent demand will advance values materially. With the masses of working people employed also, there will be a steady advance in the demand for meats and the greater variety of provisions. When, families increase their expenditures for the table there will be a sure and steady call for more of the farmers' products.

It is generally claimed that the supply of hogs throughout the country is less than for some years hitherto. The markets at the yards indicate an upward tendency, so that producers of pork may take courage to give much better care to the swine than they were disposed to do of late because of low values. It must be remembered that with improving times and values in their products the farmers themselves will be disposed to use more freely better foods for their tables and more of their best products generally, because of the fact that an increase in their incomes will permit more liberal living. In too many cases during panic times some farmers felt themselves compelled to use for their own provisions largely the products which were perishable and to some extent unsalable. A slight improvement all along the line should give courage for renewed effort. Everything produced on the farm has now enough worth to warrant the owners in giving it the best care and attention .- Farm and Fireside.

Fannie, the youngest child, was born in east Tennessee, and was seven years old on the third day of February, 1897. When ten months old she was stricken with paralysis, which affected the entire left side. This stroke of paralysis was followed by convul-sions, and from the time little Fannie was ten months old until February, 1897, there was not a single day or a night that she did was not a single day or a night that she did not have spasms of the most distressing nature. Not a single convulsion, but always three or four, and sometimes as high as ten in one day.

The family was all broken down with care, and Mrs. Adams states that for one year she did not go into her kitchen to super-intend her household work. All the fingers of the right hand of the little girl are en-larged and misshapen, caused by her bit-ing them during the fearful suffering. The case baffled the skill of the best physicians, and they were frank to say that they could not determine the cause or prescribe a not determine the cause, or prescribe a remedy to aid the afflicted child.

But what a change now in that household; for little Fannie has recently been released from her six years of agony, which brings the light of happiness to the faces of the parents.

In January, this year, Mrs. Adams, who had purchased some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for her fourteen year old daughter, determined to try their effect upon little Fannie. After three or four doses, she noted an improvement and she then told the father what she had done. He at once went to the village and bought another box, and up to this time six boxes have been used. The first pills, Mrs. Adams states, were given in January, the latter part, and certainly not earlier than the fifteenth or twentieth, and the child had her last convulsion on February 3d, nearly three months ago. Her general condition has improved in every way, and it was not a month after the first pills were taken when she began to walk without assistance.

The pills were bought at the drug store of Dr. Shelton, in Umatilla. In answer to the question, did he, to his personal knowledge, know that the remedy had bene-

ere. Large yields have come from sowing three pecks per acre. It is afer to sow five pecks. With the long season for growth in the fall and the early start secured in the spring, "stooling" or tillering of the wheat plant is helped. If all things are favorable, thin seeding may give as good results as thicker; but if some of the seed is taken by birds, or a part does not grow beed is shrunken.-Bural world.

Hogs Like Cooked Food.

Hogs do not take kindly to some kinds of coarse vegetables, especially roots, unless they are first cooked. This is particularly true if cooked enough to soften them before being fed. They are very likely to ferment if put in the swill barrel, as is the practice of too many housewives. It is better to throw the potato peelings away of shying, and the whip will not help than to mix them with sour swill, which soon ferments into a compourd One ounce of Scotch snuff to a pound that is often really poisonous, as there of grease makes a good application for is more or less poison in the potato which we are saved from by cooking the tubers and by not eating their skins. In contact with soured milk the potato peeling makes a compound that no decent animal should be expected to eat.

Weight of Pigs at Birth.

What is the weight of a pig at birth? At the Oklahoma experiment station a pounds the day of birth. When seven days old they averaged 4.6 pounds. Five out of a litter of seven, two having died, averaged 2.75 pounds at day of birth and 5.6 pounds when seven days old. Nine Duroe-Jersey pigs, two others having died, from a two-year-old Duroc-Jersey sow, averaged 2.44 pounds when one day old, 4.78 pounds when seven and 5.57 pounds when 15 days old, two pigs having been lost in the meantime.

Turnips Among the Corn.

There is no crop grown so easily and with so little cost as late-sown turnips with so little cost as late-sown turnips in a field of well-cultivated corn. The shade of the corn will keep the turnips from growing much until the corn is cut. Possibly also their growth will be checked by the demand of the corn roots for plant food. But in the Indian summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they will then have all the land for their own will then have all the land for their own will then have all the land for their own will then have all the land for their own summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they will then have all the land for their own will then have all the land for their own corn summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they will then have all the land for their own corn summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they will then have all the land for their own corn summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they will then have all the land for their own corn summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they will then have all the land for their own corn summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they corn summer that follows the first frost the turnips will make rapid growth, as they turnips will make rapid growth as they turnips will make rapi will then have all the land for their own because of dry weather or other bad conditions, the thicker sowing gives a better chance. With the good quality of this manual for the source of this year's seed, a smaller number of weather follows it. But in our climate kernels will be sown than where the turnips cannot be left in the ground all winter as they are in England.

President McKinley had a long talk with Consul General Lee, who will return to Cuba in a few days, this week, on prob. able effect of the professed new policy of Spain in Cuba and kindred matters. Gen. Lee also conterred with Assistant Secretary Day, at the Department of State. All of the officials say that these confererces have no particular significance; that they were merely matter of cource hap penings; that Gen. Lee's leave of absence was about to expire and that before returning to Cuba it was only natural that he should come to Washington and talk with the President and Mr. Day, who had charge of all Spanish and Cuban matters. Nevertheless there is a belief in well-informed circles that Gen. Lee carried some entrely new contingent instructions when he left Washington, which may be used or not according to circumstauces. Justice Field of the United States Supreme Court, has been periodically retired by rumor since November 4, 1896 when he became eligible for retirement under the age limit, but. it was this week very positively| stated that he had notified President McKinley of his desire to retire December first next. It is also stat ed, but not so positively, that Attorney General McKenna is to be nominated to succeed Justice Field, and that Secretary Sherman will retire from the Cabinet at about the same time, These statements have set the politicians to speculating as to who will fill the cabinet vacancies. Most of them believe that Judge Day, at present Assistant Secretary of State. is certain of a cabinet portfolio, but there is a difference of opinion as to which he will get. The politicians have all along insisted that Judge Day was promised a Cabinet place when he came to Washington. Assistant Secretary Rosevelt is said to have a good show to become Secretary of the Navy, if Secretary Long can be satisfactorily provided for in the expected cabinet reorganization. The enterprise of the modern newspaper in gathering the news of the world has made the red tape methods of diplomacy appear very antiquated, and there are those who even go so far as to call them farcial. Call them what you will, most persons probably indulged in a smile when it was officially announced that Secretary Sherman, in the reply to the declination of the British government to take part in the scaling conterence, told Lord Salisbury that this government was astonished when it received, hast week the notification that Great Britain would not enter the conference. The astonishment of this government must have been like the "pleasure" we express when receiving Consumption, Coughs and Colds.
