CHILDREN OF THE TRAINING SCHOOL.
The Dexter meeting was a splendid success, and the interest shown has urged us to still greater effort. Never before have we had such a thoroughly practical program placed within our reach.

How frequently we say to ourselves, "How I wish I could see others do actual school room work." Now, here is our opportunity.

Teachers adjacent to Chelsea may leave for Ypsilanti at 7 A. M.; Dexter at 7:10 and Delhi at 7:20. Teachers from Manchester, Saline and Milan will, of necessity, leave home Friday evening, if train services employed. Teachers from Ann Arbor and vicinity may leave for Ypsilanti on the 9 o'clock motor.

Parties of ten or more from any station can obtain reduced railroad rates. Dinner will be provided at a very nominal price. Make up your parties at the station. Let every township be represented by full delegations. All come, you will be well repaid.

Weeping and Wailing.

One of the best jokes of the season was on Deputy Sheriff Lester Canfield yesterday. In the morning he stepped into the county clerk's office and announced his intention of going to Zukey Lake on the next train to attend a big supper with some other companions at one of the club houses at that place, and patting a peculiarly long and round shaped package in his overcoat pocket, he asserted that the boys would have something to help digest their food, too.

A little later Canfield was called into another room for a few minutes, leaving his overcoat, in which was the package, behind.

Now County Clerk Schuch is something of a joker himself, and he knew of an old bottle filled with muckilage, like unto the bottle in the package in Deputy Canfield's pocket. To think was to act so, he very dexterously exchanged the two bottles, leaving the package unchanged in appearance.

It is asserted that when "Let" opened up his muckilage bottle at Zukey there was a look of consternation on his face so deep and all prevailing that it has not yet faded out.

Of course there is mortal enmity now between the Clerk's and the Sheriff's office, and orders have been issued for Co. A, M. N. G. to sleep on their arms. Ann Arbor Courier.

Wants 'em All.

Willard Stearns, of the Adrian Press, is said to have his lightning rod up for the free silver nomination for congress. Blissfield Advance.

There is a well defined rumor rambling about the country to the effect that Willard Stearns, of the Adrian Press, is a candidate for governor on the free silver democrat ticket the coming fall. Ann Arbor Courier.

Grange Meeting.

The open meeting of the Grange, at Lima Town Hall February 22 was very well attended. Master of the State Grange Geo. B. Horton of Fruit Ridge was there and gave a very instructive address. Miss Flora Buell of Ann Arbor also had an excellent paper. There was plenty of good music and all had an enjoyable time.

The next regular meeting of LaFayette Grange will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sweetland Thursday, March 10. The third and fourth degrees will be conferred. We hope every member will be present and on time, 10:30 A. M., as the degree work will take place before dinner.

Question for discussion, "Is it right for the legislature to make appropriations to conduct farmers' institutes?" There was not time for the above question at the last meeting. There will also be music and recitations.

Send in Your Name.

The Alumni Association of the University of Michigan has sent out a call asking for the address of every Michigan graduate and matriculate. The Association is preparing to publish a directory of Michigan college men. The secretary's work has been greatly hampered by the fact that the addresses of a large number of Michigan's 14,000 graduates are unknown. All those whom the secretary has on his books are requested to assist in the good work and urge their unlocated brothers to make their whereabouts known, and all Michigan graduates and matriculates are asked to send their names and addresses, class, department and degree, to the General Secretary of the Alumni Association, at Ann Arbor, as well as the names and addresses of any others they may happen to know.

A few days since one of the little girls of our village, by an innocent remark caused some little guessing. She had gone into the home of one of the neighbors and as they were speaking of different ones moving, the little girl said, we are going to move in the spring, the family were surprised at the remark and asked her where they were going, when she replied, I don't know where it is, but papa says we are all going to the poor-house.—Saline Observer.

DOMINION GOVERNMENT ASKED TO HELP A COMPANY.

Advocates of St. Clair and Erie Ship Canal Want a $5,500,000 Bond Issue—Trouble Between Nicaragua and Costa Rica Over a Boundary.

St. Clair Ship Canal.

A proposal to guarantee the bonds of the St. Clair and Erie Ship Canal is being considered by the Canadian Government. A delegation of representatives from the counties interested, accompanied by several members of parliament, presented a request that the petition of the St. Clair and Erie Ship Canal Company, asking for a guarantee of 3 per cent interest for twenty years on an issue of $5,500,000 of bonds, be granted. The more important of the points touched upon by the delegates were the shortening of the distance between Lake St. Clair and Lake Erie by seventy-nine miles, which would decrease the sailing distance, and thus increase the number of trips in a season, the avoidance of the dangers and delays of the Detroit river route, the lessening of the cost of transportation between Port William and Lake Erie, and, locally, the making of a drainage over a very large area of fertile land now only imperfectly drained at great cost and the bringing of a market equal to that of a large city to the very doors of the farmers and gardeners. It was also shown that the Government would not be called upon to pay any of the interest guaranteed, as the company would provide for it during construction, and after that the tolls on less than one-third of the tonnage now passing through the Detroit river would pay the interest on the bonds and all expenses of maintenance and operation. The impression of the delegation is that the Government will do all in its power to grant the canal company's request.

Trouble in Central America.

The President of Costa Rica has announced at a public audience that war with Nicaragua was inevitable, and that preparations for it had been made. Two British warships are at Port Limon and the United States garrison Newport is at Greytown. The bone of contention is the Atlantic boundary line of the two countries. The quarrel has been of long standing. By the treaty of April 15, 1858, "the channel of the Rio San Juan del Norte at its exit into the ocean" was spoken of as the eastern boundary line between the countries, but owing to changes in currents and the accumulation of drift at the river's entrance the channel of the San Juan is a number of miles farther north than it was in 1858. Costa Rica's contention is for the old exit, and the settlement of her claim must be of great interest to the United States. The old exit, if allowed to stand for the boundary, would bring the entrance of the proposed Nicaragua canal in Costa Rican territory, giving Costa Rica such rights that construction of the canal might be still more delayed. Nicaragua contends that the boundary should be placed where the river now flows into the sea.

The Lilliputhians have begun their engagement at McVicker's Chicago theater. The Lilliputhians were not taken to better advantage than in "The Fair in Midgewater town," which, with its interesting plot, witty dialogue, beautiful scenery and decorations, handsome costumes and numerous effects, especially the fatal cinematograph and the Goshawk parody, is the finest ever seen. The three grand ballads, "The Five Senses," "Newspaperdom" and "Victorious Armies of the World," form one of the main features of the evening's entertainment. The audience seems to be especially delighted with the march at the end of the third act, during which the Lilliputhians appear as George Washington, Gen. Grant, Napoleon I., Czar Nicholas II., Queen Victoria, Bismarck, Moltke, and—saluted by all the other nations—to the tune of the German national hymn, Emperor William I. The stage picture at the end of this act is dazzlingly beautiful and evokes storms of applause.

James Moore's wife's dead and mutilated body, tied in a sack, was found floating in Trinity river, near Dallas, Texas, on the night of Feb. 12. The day following Moore was arrested on suspicion of having murdered her. Four hundred steel workers struck at the Benwood plant of the Wheeling, W. Va., Steel and Iron Company against a wage reduction averaging 25 per cent. All of the men employed on tonnage jobs were heavily cut, some of them as much as 35 per cent. The smaller places were reduced in proportion. The strike promises to be as bitter as the one that recently occurred at the big plant at Bellair, across the river. Fruitless conferences were held at Benwood, but the company declared it was unable to offer anything better than the reduced scale against which the men struck. The Benwood plant is one of the largest in that part of the country.

Booker T. Washington, the prominent colored leader and educator of Tuskegee, Ala., in an open letter to the constitutional convention in New Orleans, La., after explaining the motives which prompt him to address the convention, among other things, says: "Since the war no State has had such an opportunity to settle the race question, so far as it concerns politics, as is now given Louisiana. The negro agrees with you that it is necessary to the salvation of the South that restriction be put upon the ballot. I know that you have two serious problems before you—ignorant and corrupt government on the one hand and on the other a way to restrict the ballot so that control will be in the hands of the intelligent without regard to race. With the sincerest sympathy with you in your efforts to find a way out of the difficulty, I want to suggest that no State in the South can make a law that will provide an opportunity for temptation for an ignorant white man to vote and without the same opportunity from an ignorant colored man without injuring both men. Any law controlling the ballot that is not absolutely just and fair to both races will work more permanent injury to the whites than to the blacks. I beg of you further that in the degree that you close the ballot box against the ignorant that you open the school house. More than one-half of the people of your State are negroes. No State can long prosper when a large percentage of its citizenship is in ignorance and poverty and has no interest in government."

Scurvy has developed among the miners at Dawson City to such an extent that there are now seventeen cases in the public hospital. It is estimated that there are from twelve to fifteen cases in private cabins, swelling the whole number to thirty. Precautionary measures are being taken to prevent the spreading of the malady.

J. W. Beall, a mining expert of New York, has arrived at Victoria, B. C., from Skagway. He has been up the Stewart river, which, he says, is practically an unknown stream. He and his companions reached McQuesten creek, 125 miles from the mouth of the river, but failed to make a paying strike. They started on the return trip on Dec. 3, with eighteen inches of snow on the ground and the thermometer registering 72 below zero.

Continuous snowstorms, intense cold, and difficulty of making their way made the trip more than usually severe even in those regions of hardship. Once two of the men in the lead, breaking trail, fell through the ice and were rescued only with great difficulty. Nine and a half days were occupied in making 35 miles. Beall says they found bars on the Stewart river very rich in flour gold, easily saved, but in various gulches and streams they prospected nothing was obtained except light flake gold, which is at least impossible to save except with quicksilver. The Stewart river enters the Yukon about sixty-eight miles above Dawson City.

The list of Bradstreet's report for the week is summarized as follows: "Favorable features dominate the general business situation as a whole, and few commercial conditions present themselves which can be regarded as in any degree disturbing. Chief among these factors which make for continued and growing strength in commercial relations may be mentioned the renewed tendency toward advances in quotations of all staple articles and the steadiness of prices in other lines where increases are not at the moment reportable. Perhaps second in the list of suspicious features is the continuance of marked activity in nearly all branches of the iron and steel trade, more particularly in the central west, where it is authoritatively reported over 90 per cent of the pig iron furnace capacity is in blast. The failure of the southern furnace men to reach a price agreement is of course a depressing feature in that particular section, which, however, finds a counterbalancing factor in the intention to advance prices reported from the Bessemer ore producers. The volume of distributive trade shows an increase, notably in dry goods and groceries. At the West iron and steel mills are reported generally busily employed and unwilling to take orders for early delivery. At Chicago 20,000 tons of steel rails have been sold in the last two weeks. The bicycle trade is reported starting up well at the West. The price situation is one of local strength. Compared with a week ago, not one article of staple use is reported lower. Prices of nearly all kinds of grain, but notably wheat, corn and flour, and most metals, and particularly steel billets, copper, lead and tin, have advanced. Cereals exports tend to increase. Exports of wheat (which included for the week aggregate 3,092,744 bushels) as against 3,419,000 bushels last week. Indian corn exports for the week are also larger, the total amounting to 5,055,000 bushels, as compared with 4,508,000 bushels last week."

IN A TOMB OF SNOW.

FOUR PERSONS MEET SUDDEN DEATH AT QUEBEC.

Crash of an Avalanche from a Cliff Wrecks Two Houses—Snow Also Covers 200 Tons of Supplies Near Lake Bennett, Alaska.

Victims of Snow Slide.

Four lives were lost by an avalanche at South Quebec, Que., which destroyed two houses which stood under the cliff opposite the Grand Trunk Railway sheds. One house was crushed by the weight of the snow from above, while the upper stories of the other were cut clean off from the first story and overturned in front of it upon the street. In the lower part of one of the houses resided a man named Angers, his wife and six children. The father and two children were taken out dead. In the other house James King resided with his wife, son and daughter. Mr. King and his son and daughter escaped serious injury, but Mrs. King was killed.

One Priest Kills Another.

From Anardarko, Indian Mission, Okla., comes the news of the killing of Father Placidas by Father Isadore, who is in charge of the Catholic mission there. The two priests went out hunting. During the hunt Father Isadore's shotgun was discharged, the entire load striking Father Placidas, killing him instantly. Father Isadore did not return to the mission until late at night and appeared pale and haggard. He reported the killing and said it was an accident. A searching party found the body of Father Placidas cold and stiff. Father Placidas went to Oklahoma from Denver.

Buried by an Avalanche.

An avalanche came thundering down the mountain slopes, and at the south end of Lake Bennett, Alaska, an immense mass of snow and ice was deposited on the trail, and 200 tons of supplies were buried in many feet. Their owners had stacked them up together, in what seemed to be a sheltered spot, while they were whipsawing lumber for boat building. Now they have left only the whipsaws, and are trying to dig out their outfits. So far as can be learned, no one was injured by the avalanche.

Aside from adoption of the resolution giving the Secretary of the Navy permission to use $200,000 in the work of raising the battle ship Maine, Friday in the House was devoted to a continuation of the debate on the bankruptcy bill. The speakers were Messrs. Sulzer (Dem., N. Y.), Strode (Rep., Neb.), Connolly (Rep., Ill.), Rixey (Dem., Va.), Grosvenor (Rep., O.), Savers (Dem., Texas) and Ray (Rep., N. Y.) in favor of the bill, and Messrs. Kitchins (Rep., N. C.), Linney (Rep., N. C.), Love (Dem., Miss.), Ball (Dem., Tex.), Henry (Dem., Miss.), Maguire (Dem., Cal.), Bland (Dem., Mo.), Ball (Pop., Colo.), De Armond (Dem., Mo.), Wheeler (Dem., Ala.) and Lloyd (Dem., Mo.) against it. In the Senate the Maine disaster and the Cuban question occupied the entire day.

After four days of consideration the House on Saturday passed the bankruptcy bill reported by the House Committee on Judiciary as a substitute for the Nelson bill passed by the Senate at the extra session last summer. The bill is known as the Henderson bill, and contains both voluntary and involuntary features. It is considered less drastic than the measure passed by the last House by a vote of 157 to 87. The involuntary feature, however, had but 16 majority. On Saturday a motion to strike out the involuntary feature was defeated by a majority of 19, and the bill was passed by a majority of 23, the vote standing, yeas 158, nays 125. Eighteen Republicans voted against the bill and twelve Democrats for it. The Populists, with one exception, voted against it.

Monday was private bill day in the House. The feature of the day was a spirited contest over the bill to pay Newberry College, a Lutheran institution in South Carolina, $15,000 for damages by Federal troops. It was finally passed. On motion of Mr. Bailey, the Democratic leader, the House voted—58 to 35—to observe Washington's birthday by adjourning over until Wednesday, but Mr. Dingley raised the point of no quorum and before further action could be taken the House recessed. For three hours the Senate had under discussion the bill providing for the taking of the twelfth and subsequent censuses. It was amended so as to place the census bureau under the Secretary of the Interior, but the extended discussion which followed disclosed so wide a divergence of views as to the various features of the measure that no further action was taken. A resolution offered by Mr. Allen, directing the Committee on Naval Affairs to make an investigation of the Maine disaster, was adopted without debate.

In the House on Tuesday Mr. Johnson of Indiana made a sensational speech opposing the annexation of Hawaii. Political speeches occupied the rest of the day. The sundry civil bill was before the House. The debate was finished. In the Senate a bill was passed increasing the army by two artillery regiments. In executive session the Cuban question was discussed.

On Wednesday a variety of subjects occupied the attention of the House during the consideration of the sundry civil bill. Mr. Mahany of New York made an attack on the patriotism of some of the social leaders of New York, who, he said, held high revel while the nation was bowed down with grief over the loss of life resulting from the Maine explosion. The Southern members, who have for years been fighting the appropriation for "informers" on illicit distilleries, succeeded in killing the appropriation in committee of the whole, but Chairman Cannon gave notice that he would demand a re-vote and may vote in the House. A resolution was adopted inquiring of the Treasury Department what has been done by the United States to prevent the conveyance to the Cubans of articles produced in the United States; also as to the prevention of filibustering. In the Senate the entire day was devoted to debate on the Cuban question. By a vote of 51 to 5, Mr. Allen's proposition to add a belligerency rider to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was rejected.

The House disposed of thirty additional pages of the sundry civil appropriation bill on Thursday. The fact that the Government is preparing for contingencies was recognized when Chairman Cannon, who has been laboring to keep down appropriations, accepted without a word of protest an amendment to increase the appropriation to care for the unused machinery at the Springfield arsenal. Resolutions which were objected to a few weeks ago for the appointment of two extra naval cadets to positions in the engineer corps of the navy were also adopted. One of them will fill a vacancy caused by the death of Lieut. Merritt of the Maine. A feature of the Senate's session was the speech of Mr. Spooner (Wisconsin) on the right of Henry W. Corbett to a seat in the Senate from Oregon under appointment of the Governor. Mr. Spooner made a constitutional argument in favor of seating Mr. Corbett. An effort was made to obtain consideration of the Alaskan homestead and railway right of way bill, but on a parliamentary technicality it was over. The resolution offered on Wednesday by Mr. Allen (Nebraska) to appoint a committee of five Senators to investigate the Cuban situation was withdrawn by its author when it was laid before the Senate.

WOOD AND MARRIED

BY CHARLOTTE M. BRAEME

CHAPTER XVI.

Autumn came with its golden wheat, its ripe fruit, its gorgeous beauty of coloring. The spirit of improvement was at work at Ravensmere; already the obnoxious cottages had disappeared, and in their place clean, healthy, well-drained dwellings were springing up. Lady Caraven worked hard, allowing herself little rest, and the earl was filled with wonder at her systematic method.

They worked together. She made their dates so pleasant to him that he would not for the world have renounced them. Husband and wife became, as the Earl said, good companions, good friends. They had many interests now in common—the improvement of the estate, the building of model cottages, the education of the young, the relief of the aged and distressed. With a thoughtful look in his blue eyes the Earl would sometimes say to his wife:

"I cannot imagine why I thought all this so tiresome before, or what gives me so much pleasure to do it now."

No one was more gratified than Sir Raoul. He exulted in the fact that his predictions were fulfilled.

"I always thought a good woman's influence boundless," he said; "and now I am sure of it."

But he was not misled; he saw exactly how things were—that the Earl had started with the conviction that his wife was an unimproved schoolgirl, and that, though believing her now to be a very clever woman, he still retained much of his early impression. Lord Caraven had accepted the fact that he did not love her with a lover's love, and that their marriage was a fatal mistake into which his own folly had led him, and he had not changed his opinion; he absolutely never thought of love with reference to her. They were good friends, with one common interest—that was all.

But with Hildred it was not quite the same thing. She had once loved him; and now, as his better nature appeared, she began to care for him again. Not that she ever betrayed such a feeling to him. She was kind, affectionate, patient; she devoted herself to his service; but no word indicating a warmer feeling than friendship ever escaped her lips. She did not even own to herself or know that she was beginning to love him.

One day, after luncheon, when some visitors were staying with them, the conversation turned on a certain Lady Hamilton, who had just returned, a widow, from India.

"Lady Hamilton was one of your early loves, wasn't she?" said Sir Raoul, laughing.

"I suppose so," said the Earl, carelessly. "I had a great many early loves. Do you know what my opinion is?"

"No," answered Sir Raoul. "I do not."

"I do not believe that I have ever loved a girl—that is, using the word 'love' in its best and highest sense."

"Then it is for want of appreciation," said Sir Raoul, curiously.

Neither of them knew that Hildred had overheard the few chance words, but she had pierced her heart as with a two-edged sword.

A kind of jealousy that she could not admit to herself took possession of her. If, on looking at pictures or photographs, Lord Caraven praised one or thought it pretty, she would examine it in detail to find out if possible what he admired in it. If, in speaking of any lady friend or visitor, he expressed his admiration of her, a vague unrest would come over his wife; she would try to understand what attracted him. He had a frank, careless, easy way of expressing himself. Often, when she heard him, her face would suddenly grow pale even to her lips. If he loved at all, he must love her.

Lord Caraven discerned nothing of this, but Sir Raoul was more deeply versed in human nature, and he saw that the young countess was beginning to love her husband with a passionate love. He did not know whether to be pleased or sorry—whether her love would ever be returned. Yet he could not feel surprised.

One morning a letter came to Ravensmere. It was from Lady Hamilton, to say that she was returning from Ceylon, where she had been staying some time, and would be glad to pay her promised visit.

Lord Caraven's first sensation on reading the countess's letter was not one of unmixed pleasure. They had been spending a very happy week alone, the Earl, the Countess and Sir Raoul—a week that he had thoroughly enjoyed because the greater part of it had been spent in the open air with his wife and Sir Raoul. They had been watching the builders' progress, watching the improvements, and the Earl was more pleased than he would have been to say at seeing once more a smile on the faces around him. He did not feel quite sure at first that he had not been interrupted. He gave the letter to Lady Caraven.

"If she comes," he said, "it is pretty certain we must invite a party to meet her."

The Countess looked up.

"We are a party," she told him. "We are three."

Lord Caraven laughed.

"There is a very small number, Hildred. What would Lady Hamilton say if she came here and found that we had not invited any one to meet her? Raoul and I would be exasperated by the amount of homeing we should have to pay. Lady Hamilton is the very queen of coquettes."

"I do not like coquettes," said Lady Caraven, curtly.

It was the evening of the day on which Lady Hamilton was expected. Several of the guests invited to meet her had already arrived, and the young Countess of Caraven anxiously expected her visit.

was close to his own. He saw before him the whole time, standing out clear and distinct from the others, the two words, "My husband."

Lord Caraven had told him that he was a subject of envy. The past had all been a sorry mistake. How beautifully this neglected, unloved, wife of his danced! It was the very poetry of motion. But how strange it was!—she never looked at him; she did not talk or laugh; she seemed rather to avoid him, as it were.

"She does not like me," thought the Earl, "and she has little reason to." He was frank enough to own that.

The dance ended, he led his wife to a seat, and then left her with a glow.

She was never quite the same again. As it needs but a small match to fire a train of gunpowder, so it needed but little to awaken her love into keen, quick, passionate life. That one dance with him had done it. She loved him with her whole heart, and the suddenness with which that conviction flashed over her bewildered her. She sat quite still, the soft, sweet music, the ripple of the little fountain, the subdued murmur, all mingling in her ears—flowers, lights, jewels, fair faces, all dazzling her eyes—and she said to herself: "I love my husband."

The whole world seemed changed to her. Shyly, timidly, she looked at him. He was talking to a group of ladies, his handsome face all animation, his tall, well-built figure all grace. He was a man to be proud of—a man to love. But he must never know about this love of hers—this newly-found precious treasure. He despised her for her want of noble birth; she must keep her love as secret as the grave.

That increased the distance between them. She was so fearful that he should think her unwomanly, so afraid that he should imagine she wanted his love, that she took refuge in cold, shy, proud avoidance. There were no more rides or drives to see the buildings and improvements; there was no more quiet letter-writing in the library. When Lord Caraven wanted Hildred, she had some ready excuse, and with a house full of visitors it was difficult to determine whether those excuses were genuine or not.

It was not in Lady Hamilton's nature to pass by the admiration of a man like the handsome Earl. He must admire her. Had he not done so spontaneously, she would have won it from him. All homage was acceptable to her—his particularly so, because he had a beautiful dark-eyed wife who never looked quite comfortable when they were talking together—two little incentives which Lady Hamilton profited by, and which afforded amusement to her. What was nothing but sheer mischief, sheer love of admiration, was death almost to the proud young wife who counted every smile that her husband gave her. (To be continued.)

FOX'S HOME ON A HOTEL ROOF.

Object of Much Interest to the Guests of the Boston Tavern.

High up on the roof of the Boston Tavern, 100 feet and more from the pavement, lives a little gray fox that has spent nearly her whole life with the smoke of the chimneys—blowing about her and the roar from the streets of the city filling her ears day and night. Taken as a cub from her native woods of Maine, she has grown up with the slated roof of the tavern as her world, and with Tom, the porter, who takes care of her, as her only companion.

Originally there were two of the cubs. They were taken by a gentleman who was on a fishing expedition on the Bonnie River last June and sent as a present to one of the guests in the hotel, who, not caring about keeping them, gave them to Mr. Clark, the proprietor of the tavern. Mr. Clark had a place made for them on the roof, where there is plenty of room to run about, but a short time after they came one of them became frightened, jumped from the parapet and was killed. The other, taking warning by the fate of her comrade, was more careful, and has gradually become moderately tame. She will eat from the hand of the porter, and when he is alone will come to him when called, although she will not allow him to handle her at all. The moment any strangers appear on the roof, however, she is off to the furthest corner and will keep the whole width of the roof between herself and them as long as they remain in sight.

Her lot is not an unpleasant one for an animal in captivity, for she has the whole roof to range over and is seldom disturbed. The roof is only a slight slope. It is a smooth, slated surface, surrounded by a high parapet and broken by numerous chimneys and by the light well and skylights, which rise in the center of it. The fox has the run of the whole of it and explores every part, people in the near-by buildings being sometimes startled by the sight of a fox running about on the roof of a hotel in the heart of the city. In the corner she has a box filled with earth, where she crawls when she wants to go to sleep, scooping out a round hole with her paws and nestling down into it, curled up in a little ball. Tom feeds her on chickens and lettuce, so that she has no need to complain of her fate. She is fond of mint, delighting to roll in it and scratch in it with her paws, although she does not eat it. She has been and is an object of a good deal of interest to the guests of the hotel, but, as has been said, she does not reciprocate any attention shown her, crouching behind some chimney or skylight, watching the visitor with bright eyes and with ears pricked up until he goes down again. A hovery young preacher was sent to a vacant city church to preach. His eloquence dazzled the younger members of the congregation, and the elders of the church were besieged to have him down again. They at length consented; but they had forgotten his name. So they wrote to one of the seminary professors, saying: "Please send us that floweret, streamlet, rivulet, starlight man to preach for us next Sabbath. We have forgotten his name, but we have no doubt you will be able to recognize him." He was recognized. He was sent. He became minister of the church.

MICHIGAN MATTERS.

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

Supreme Court Decision on a Queer Insurance Case.—A. O. U. W. Adopts Graded Assessments.—An Adrian Domestic Infelicity.

Peculiar Insurance Case.

The Supreme Court decided the case of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company vs. Grenier et al. In 1879 Robert C. Grenier took out a policy in the company named, and in 1881 he assigned it to his wife, stipulating, however, that in case the latter died before the policy became due, then the proceeds were to be paid to his heirs. In 1895, both Grenier and his wife were killed in a fire at a hotel in Denver, there being no evidence to determine whether either survived the other. Claims were made by the administrators of both husband and wife, and by the father of the husband, who was his heir. The insurance company paid the amount of the policy into court. The court decides that the policy did not become due until sixty days after due notice and proof of death settled the case, and holds that Grenier's father is entitled to the money.

Classified Assessments.

After a prolonged discussion and much opposition, the Michigan grand lodge, A. O. U. W., has adopted the classified assessment plan for the life insurance feature, to supplant the level plan which has been in vogue since the order was founded. The new plan will go into immediate effect. Officers were elected: Grand master, William C. Gilling of Alpena; foreman, Frank A. Wentworth of Marquette; overseer, Wm. THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE LESSON.

Reflections of an Elevating Character.—Wholesome Food for Thought.—Studying the Scriptural Lesson Intelligently and Profitably.

Jesus and the Sabbath.

Golden Text: "The Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath day." Matt. 12: 8.

This week's lesson is to be found in Matt. 12: 1-13, and its subject is "Jesus and the Sabbath."

Introductory.

This lesson is even farther from its correct chronological place than any that have preceded. Judging by the parallel passages, Mark 2: 23-28 and Luke 4: 1-5, the incidents of the disciples' plucking grain on the Sabbath and the healing of the man with the withered hand occurred during the first period of the ministry in Galilee, before the choosing of the twelve and the Sermon on the Mount. But the date of the incidents scarcely affects at all their teaching, and it may be said again as has been several times remarked, that since we are not attempting a chronological study of the life of Christ, the question of date is not here important. Matthew seems to introduce the two incidents here as showing the growing hostility of the Pharisees.

Explanatory.

This of course happened at the time when the grain was ripe, that is, in late spring or early summer. The place was somewhere near Capernaum. "Corn" means of course not Indian corn but wheat or barley. "We have no means of knowing what special emergency had kept the disciples so long without food that they were constrained to transgress a perfectly well known rule of the Pharisees, which prohibited rubbing the husk from grain on the Sabbath as a species of work."

The Pharisees dogged his steps for the very purpose of spying upon his actions to find some cause of complaint.

The incident of David's life here referred to is found in 1 Sam. 21: 1-6, which see.

The quotation is from Hos. 6: 6, but the thought runs through many of the prophets. Not only Hosea but Amos, Micah, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and others preached this doctrine, that ceremonies are worthy and pleasing to God only when they express the offering of humble and sincere hearts; otherwise they are a mockery and an offense.

In Mark this verse is preceded by a saying which explains it more fully: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath; so that the Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath." The peculiar appropriateness of the title which Jesus here and so often uses of himself is thus brought out. The Sabbath was established for the good of man as well as for the worship of God. Its true observance cannot be of a sort that will restrict and cramp man's activity beyond what is good for him.

How much is a man better than a sheep? We may echo the question. If a man is treated less mercifully than a sheep, it shows a terrible state of society. Herod the Great, who put to death nearly all his family and near relatives one after another during his bloody reign, finally visited the same fate on his own sons. This led to the bitter sarcasm of Octavius, "It is better to be one of Herod's pigs than one of his sons," a pun in Greek, the two words being similar in sound. Herod would not have slaughtered a pig, since it was contrary to Jewish law.

Teaching Hints.

The discussion of the Sunday question would be a very simple matter if it did not go beyond the limits indicated by Jesus. It is not only a physical necessity and minister to the physical needs of others who are suffering is certainly permissible on the Lord's day. Hardly anybody would object to either of these. Of course for the incidents in the narrative we must substitute modern examples that correspond. For instance, is it right for restaurants and lunch rooms to keep open on Sunday, and for people to patronize them? The question answers itself in case there are churches in the town or city who have no homes, and must buy their meals in some public place. Is it right for physicians to make calls on their emergency calls on Sunday? This also answers itself, for most people. The man with the withered hand had been in that condition a long time; the next day would have done just as well to heal him, but for this work of mercy the Sabbath was eminently appropriate. If on any Sunday calls were called on the sick or distressed, the strictness of Sabbatarianism would nevertheless be maintained.

But our Sunday question is a very different one from that of the time of Jesus. No Jew, or at least no respectable or conscientious Jew, would ever think of asking whether he might spend the Sabbath, or part of it, in recreation.

Our difficulty is, first, with the amusement of the people, second, with the greed of employers and the supposed necessities of business, both of which enervate the Sunday rest. These questions can be settled upon Jesus' principle only by the exercise of Christian judgment. It would be absurd to appeal to the Mosaic law for light, we find that we must interpret the decalogue for ourselves. The fourth commandment, literally interpreted as did the Pharisees, would forbid the hand servant to cook the meals or tend the fires, would forbid a man to hitch up his horse and drive to church, would forbid, in short, anything but the things necessary to sustain life and to engage in public worship. We all exclaim that of course "the letter killeth, and the spirit giveth life." But we differ as to what constitutes an observance of the spirit. It seems pretty plain that the question of Sunday recreation should be settled on the principle laid down by Jesus. "The Sabbath was made for man."

Next Lesson: "The Wheat and the Tares."—Matt. 13: 24-30, 36-43.

The Bible in Hand.

The Missionary Review says that "in 1850 you could buy a man in the Fiji Islands for seven dollars, butcher him and eat him without even public remonstrance. To-day the Bible is in nearly every house, and on Sunday nine-tenths of the people may be found assembled in the church for public worship." Yet arguments are still raised against foreign missions!

On Friday evening, March 4, under the auspices of the U. of M. Republican Club, Gov. Pingree, ex-Con. Allen and other distinguished speakers will address the citizens of Washtenaw county at the opera house at Ann Arbor.

Chelsea has a St. Mary's society, composed entirely of young unmarried ladies, and out of its thirteen officers there's but one Mary. However Chelsea girls are all saints, and we can prove it by every young man in the town, except those who have had the mitten 30 or 40 time. Adrian Press.

M. A. Shaver has received a check for $1,000 from the L. O. T. M., the amount carried by Mrs. Shaver in the L. O. T. M. The money was forwarded within a short time after the proofs of death were submitted, which is a good advertisement for the promptness with which the society pays its obligations.

Circulars have been sent out from the University of Michigan to all schools of the state requesting that the spring vacation be arranged so that the dates of the next session of the Schoolmasters' Club, to be held in Ann Arbor, March 31, April 1-2, may fall within it, and thus enable all teachers who can, to attend the meetings.

The entertainment given last evening by the ladies of the Fremont avenue M. E. church in honor of the second anniversary of the dedication of the hand some church drew out a good attendance. The program as published in The Tribune was carried out in full. The address by J. I. Nickerson of Chelsea, was very fine and interesting. He paid a high compliment to the members of the church for the heroic efforts they had made in building a house of worship that will be a credit to the south end of the city for years to come. He predicted a bright future for the city. His address was right to the point and had a good effect. Bay City Tribune.

The Cosmopolitan Novelty Co. which gave an entertainment at the opera house last evening is a company worthy of patronage. The leading feature of their entertainment is a series of actual photographs of the route to the Klondike. They also gave a number of animated pictures. The illustrated songs by Wm. About 100 of the Chelsea friends of Mr. and Mrs. James McLaren of Lima gathered at their home Friday evening, and enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. The fine sleighing and the bracing air made the ride an enjoyable one and put the appetites of the crowd in a healthy condition. It was a late hour when the last load left, all voting that Mr. and Mrs. McLaren were ideal entertainers.

The Grass Lake News says it is not improbable that the Ann Arbor and Dexter electric railway will be extended through to Jackson, and advises against giving the right of way through its village because of the injury likely to arise to business from such convenient and cheap connection with larger places. It urges that with hourly trains and one-cent per mile fare, trade will naturally seek the larger place.

The story of Margaret's Misadventure by A. S. Van Westrum (Town Topics, 208 Fifth avenue, New York), is one that is bound to cause very general comment. Its account of the social campaign of a cad, and its picture of a young girl's first disenchantment, have the qualities of interesting and pleasing the most differing tastes. A number of sharply drawn character sketches from society, add to the interest of the plot. The style of the story is such that no one can lay it down until the last page is reached.

Richard Webb, a wealthy farmer, died some time ago leaving a large estate which he willed to his children in such a way that one daughter, now Mrs. Wm. Stevenson, received nothing. He claimed that she had been meddlesome and stirred up trouble between her father and mother. The girl denies it and says she only took her mother's part when the latter was abused. A contest to break the will has been in progress three days and promises to absorb a good share of the property. Washtenaw Times.

Now the usual warm period with which Chelsea ushers in spring is with us—the election of village officers. Election will be held on the 14th of March, and there is every promise that the struggle for supremacy will be waged with as much earnestness as has been manifested in the three campaigns last passed. One caucus has already been held, and there are calls issued for two others. The Standard lives in the hope that the time will speedily come when the various factions will get together on one common platform—the good of Chelsea—and when that time comes one-half of the energy now expended will do wonders; but just as long as the present bitter feeling is allowed to continue, just so long will Chelsea fail to make the advancement that is naturally its portion. Gentlemen, get together.

Belief that a Conflict with Spain Is Inevitable.

MINE UNDER THE MAINE

Destruction Said to Be Beyond the Power of a Torpedo.

DISASTER DUE TO DESIGN

American People Believe the Spaniards Are Guilty.

The Most Reliable Advisers, Pending Official Reports, Are of the Effect that the Ill-Fated Ship Met with Foul Play—Senators and Representatives at Washington Become Aroused—Governors of Many States Offer Troops—Crisis in Our National History.

Since the terrible destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor the United States has been facing the gravest crisis of the last thirty years of its history. The people have been stirred by the disaster as they have not been since the close of the war for the Union. From the South, from the North, and from the far West have come magnificent outbursts of national sentiment showing how profoundly this great nation is agitated.

The Maine was one of the finest battle-ships afloat; one of the most perfect in construction, one of the most complete in equipment. All that modern invention, long experience and trained intelligence could do to make her efficient and safe had been done. And yet this magnificent vessel, at anchor in the harbor of a friendly nation, was destroyed with greater loss of life than would have followed an engagement with the whole Spanish fleet in Cuban waters. Had the Spanish cruisers and torpedo boats attacked the Maine, and sent her to the bottom with the loss of 250 lives, the calamity would have been hard to bear. But to have the Maine destroyed as she was destroyed is calamity unbearable. It was useless to cry patience when there was no patience. It was useless to ask for suspension of judgment when judgment had been given. That judgment was against Spain, and if "Minnesotians are fighters, and will only be satisfied in the front ranks." Gov. Stephens of Missouri declares that if war is declared he will issue a call for 150,000 troops.

And so it goes and so it comes, with other warrior States to hear from. There is no lack of soldiers. Spain can depend upon that. Old Glory was at half-mast because the tears were being shed for the dead in Havana, but it proudly and defiantly waves in the breezes that blow from the north, south, east and west, and it will be well for the Spaniard if the good ship Maine went to the bottom of the Havana harbor as the result of an inscrutable act of providence.

This Washington correspondent, whose assertions are thought to be reliable, says that private talks with members both of the Senate and House clearly indicate that there is a volcano at the Capitol which may burst into activity at almost any time. The pictures of the wreck received in Washington, reproductions of which are shown on this page, coupled with the general tenor of newspaper dispatches, have gone far to convince members of Congress that the Maine was blown up from the outside. They are willing to wait a reasonable length of time for the board of inquiry to discover something definite, but as the general opinion is in favor of a torpedo or submarine mine, failure to discover positive evidence of an accident will only serve to confirm this opinion.

Several well-known Senators talked with me that they are being fairly inundated with letters and telegrams regarding the catastrophe in Havana harbor, and that ninety-nine out of a hundred of them look upon the explosion as the result of a Spanish plot and demand action accordingly. Conservative leaders are becoming startled by these expressions of public opinion, and they say this is evidence of a rising tide of popular indignation which will sweep Congress from its feet unless something is done to allay the excitement.

The newspaper reports indicate with surprising unanimity that a submarine mine destroyed the Maine. If these reports are not contradicted promptly and officially Congress will surely respond with a declaration of war, which is clearly within its powers, and which the President will be forced to obey. The people demand that if ships and men are to be lost it shall be in open warfare, and not in so-called peaceful harbors. Any police magistrate would hold the Spaniards under the evidence now at hand on suspicion and require them to prove their innocence. This is exactly the position taken by nine-tenths of the members of Congress. This opinion, declares the correspondent, represents clearly the private wrong. It has been suggested to the President that an indemnity of $10,000,000 might be demanded from Spain if the board of inquiry reports that the battleship was blown up by a torpedo or submarine mine. Some members of the cabinet are reported to favor such demand, but it is not favorably considered by men in Congress with wider range of experience in such affairs. Should it be established clearly that the Maine was blown up by a torpedo or mine placed in Havana harbor for defense, it is not probable that this Government will present any claim for damages. It will be regarded as a hostile act—as the beginning of a war in the most barbarous and treacherous manner.

Had one of the guns at the fortress opened on the Maine as she entered Havana harbor it would have been regarded as a declaration of war and the beginning of war. A Government torpedo exploded under the Maine by a trusted Government official is as hostile if not as open an insult. It matters not that the Spanish officials in Havana expressed their horror of the destruction of the Maine, and the Queen of Spain sent her condolences to the President.

When the board of inquiry establishes the facts that there are torpedoes in the harbor, that Blanco's naval officer guided the Maine to her anchorage, and that a torpedo was exploded by means of the secret cables controlled by the Spanish Government officials, there can be no further investigation or inquiry. This Government will not try to find out who exploded the torpedo. The whole case rests with Spain. On her rests the responsibility. On Spain will be the suspicion of having made another treacherous war if it should be established that the Maine was blown up by a torpedo or mine. They brush aside the suggestion that it could have been the act of a fanatic of either faction in Cuba. No mere enthusiast or fanatic could have access to the secret keyboard which communicated with the torpedoes laid in the harbor under Government supervision. Spain must stand responsible for the men who could gain access to that keyboard, just as she is responsible for the men who control the guns in her forts and on her big cruisers. Governments do not have such secret agencies open to the access of fanatics, and if they do they must be held responsible for their acts.

The work of the board of inquiry will therefore end when they have examined the ship and found the evidences of foul play. There will then be left no alternative for this Government but war, unless Spain sues for peace and asks for conditions of peace.

READY FOR A FIGHT.

In Case of Trouble with Spain the United States Would Be Prepared.

In spite of all denials it is well known that unusual efforts are being made to arm and equip every sea coast fortification, and that the regular army officers throughout the country have been quietly notified to put their commands into the best possible condition. The President does not want war, and will go a long way out of his way to avoid it, but he fully recognizes the force of public sentiment and is preparing rapidly for the worst that may come. Press dispatches from different points show preparation that is being made:

New Orleans, La.—The United States cruiser Marblehead has joined the North Atlantic squadron at Dry Tortugas.

St. Louis, Mo.—The war fever continues unabated, and already the work of organizing companies here has begun.

At Norfolk, Va., the Norfolk navy yard received instructions to have the monitor Terror ready for sea. Both the Puritan and Terror have been shipping recruits for the vacancies caused by the Maine disaster.

Providence, R. I.—The 150 officers and men in the three companies of the Rhode Island naval reserves are fully equipped for any emergency and are prepared to answer a call to duty on board any of the activity on the part of officers and men. No longer do the officers deny that the Government is making the most strenuous preparations "to meet any emergency."

Tampa, Fla.—The cruiser Montgomery has been ordered to Havana, where she takes the place of the wrecked Maine until further instructions are received.

Columbus, O.—The Ohio militia is preparing to respond to the President's call for troops in the event war is declared between the United States and Spain.

At Charleston, S. C., work on the Government fortifications is being rapidly pushed. The navy yard force is kept busy putting the guns in shape for war. St. Augustine, Fla.—Captain Hubbell, with one battery, has been sent to Sullivan's Island, and a few days ago Lieut. Van Duzen departed for Fort Moultrie with a detail of twenty men to take charge of coast defenses. Army officials here freely discuss the probability of trouble with Spain.

At Cincinnati, O., a recruiting office for soldiers to serve in case of war with Spain was opened at Merger's Hall. Many men signed the muster roll. A member of Nelson Post, G. A. R., issued a dodger headed "To arms, to arms." Hundreds of white badges and buttons with the words "Volunteer—On to Havana" have been distributed.

New York.—Preparations for war, carried on with the greatest secrecy, have been going on in New York harbor. If the United States declares war and Captain Eulate tries to leave port by force, he will find a barrier such as he has not bargained for. All that is necessary to do to blow up the Spanish warship Vizcaya is to touch an electric button if she tries to pass out through the narrows.

NOTES OF THE DISASTER.

Brief Bits of Important News Bearing on the Horror in Havana Harbor.

The wreck has sunk several feet already in the soft mud.

The Spanish Government will stake all on the claim that the disaster was accidental.

The main portion of the wreck, as seen from above and noted from below, was blown to starboard.

A large quantity of clothing has been taken from the wreck and will be given to the reconcentrados.

The Spanish anti-American feeling in Havana is growing and Americans are insulted openly on the streets.

The most intense anxiety is shown by the Spanish officials in Havana, who are in constant communication with Madrid. Divers found the bodies of twenty men in hammocks, where they had been instantly killed by the shock of the explosion.

Admiral Seward issued orders forbidding any United States official or sailor to talk of the Maine disaster with outsiders under severe penalty.

Significance is attached to the fact that the wrecked ship was the first foreign war vessel to be anchored to that particular buoy since the Cuban trouble began.

Sharks have given little trouble, but the vultures left scarcely anything but the skeletons of three men, who were entangled in debris very near the surface of the water.

A Spanish lieutenant openly boasted that if any other United States warship arrived she would be served the same way. His brother officers applauded him uproariously.

One thing seems certain, if the Maine was blown up by an outside agency, the agent was a mine, and not a torpedo, as no torpedo known could have produced such tremendous results.

The number of missing is eighty-five or eighty-six, and five have died in the hospital. Of the missing many doubtless were blown to atoms, no portions of their bodies being recoverable.

Cubans claim that there are mine galleries under the harbor leading from subterranean passages known to have existed for years between Fort Cabanas and Morro Castle and Havana.

Havana newspapers are not permitted to publish any news concerning what is going on in Washington, and American papers have been called for by the censor, who seizes all printing any disturbing news.

ZOLA IS FOUND GUILTY.

Sentenced to a Year in Prison and a Fine of 3,000 Francs.

Emile Zola has been sentenced to imprisonment for one year and to pay a fine of 3,000 francs. M. Perroux, manager of the Aurore, the Paris newspaper which printed Zola's open letter to President Faure, is sentenced to imprisonment for four months, and to pay a fine of 3,000 francs. Zola's appeal to the justice of his country has been in vain. The spectators within the court and the mob in the streets howled with joy when the sentence was pronounced. The mob yelled "Death to Zola" and "Down with the Jews." Had it not been for the strong guard of police the mob would have dragged Zola from his carriage and killed him.

This result has been expected ever since the complaint was filed. The charges were skillfully confined to Zola's criticism of the Esterhazy court martial, and ignored the Dreyfus question. The court steadily upheld this limitation of the issue. The jury was out less than half an hour. The court promptly gave Zola the limit of the law.

It is inadequate to describe that distracted country by saying that France is no longer a republic. It is better and truer to say that France has never been a republic. No man dares cry "Vive la republique" in the streets of Paris. "Zola has been condemned, and the army is avenged," cries the press and the public.

Zola has been sentenced to a year in prison for denouncing a gross public outrage upon justice, and Paris is gay and light-hearted over the belief that at last she has rid herself of the hated incubus which for weeks and months has trampled trade and pleasure. The last day of the trial saw the culmination of the excitement and passion of the fourteen days already passed. The audience threw itself from one spasm of emotion into another until, at the end, after expending its last strength in a delirium of excitement over the verdict and sentence, it went away exhausted.

BAKER'S ASSASSINS SOUGHT.

Rewards Offered for Those Who Killed the Negro Postmaster.

The most revolting crime ever perpetrated by white men in South Carolina was committed at Lake City, Williamsburg County, at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Postmaster Baker, a negro, and his family were burned out of their home, the postmaster and a babe in arms killed and the wife and three daughters shot and maimed for life. Baker was appointed postmaster three months ago. Lake City is a town of 500 inhabitants, and the negro population in the vicinity is large. There was a protest at Baker's appointment, but it was not a very vigorous one.

Information of the killing of the postmaster and the burning of his office came to the Postoffice Department at Washington in a dispatch from Inspector Williams, in charge of the district, who has headquarters at Chattanooga. The latter's telegram was very brief, and merely told of the killing of the man and the burning of the office. He will send an inspector to the scene of the tragedy at once to investigate and make a full report of the case to the department. When this is obtained the Department of Justice will be asked to prosecute the persons engaged in the crime. The Postmaster General has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the persons who burned the postoffice, and a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the persons who murdered the postmaster at the same time. Gen. Gary has issued an order to discontinue the office at Lake City.

MARYLAND'S NEW SENATOR.

Judge Louis E. McComas, Who Succeeds Arthur P. Gorman.

Judge Louis E. McComas, who has been chosen to succeed Arthur P. Gorman as United States Senator from Maryland, like his colleague, George B. Wellington, is a Republican, and when he takes his seat Maryland will for the first time in her history be represented by two members of that party.

Louis E. McComas was born in Maryland in 1846. He graduated from Dickinson College in 1866, and was admitted to the bar two years later. He practiced and lived at Hagerstown, and took an active part in local politics. In 1882 he was elected to Congress and served several terms, being one of the conspicuous and able men of the House. In 1892 he was secretary of the Republican National Committee. President Harrison appointed him justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and he still holds his place on that bench. He will retire to enter the Senate in 1899.

As a tribute to the memory of the late Frances Willard, it is proposed to change the name of the Woman's Temple at Chicago to Willard Temple.

THE WRECK OF THE MAINE--FROM A PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN THE MORNING AFTER THE EXPLOSION.

NAVAL experts claim that the appearance of the twisted and torn wreck is in itself evidence of the fact that the Maine was destroyed by outside influences. The position of the wreck shows that the shock was from the port side. The main deck between the forward and after magazines is blown upward and to the starboard. The forward smokestack is thrown back and to the starboard. The whole wreck has a list to port. It is claimed that the picture indicates that the Maine was destroyed by a submarine mine. After awning is in view ship's rail is six feet under water; superstructure twisted and thrown aft; forward superstructure thrown 300 feet from the ship forward; smokestack lying down.

reversed it would be only on the testimony of witnesses who had standing in the court of public opinion.

No foreign country can appreciate the full depth of American patriotism, writes a Washington correspondent, and it takes an incident of this sort to show it up in its full strength and magnificence.

Gov. Tanner of Illinois was the first to offer the fighting forces of his State to the nation. Gov. Mount of Indiana telegraphed that Indiana would make a generous response to arms. Gov. Black of New York sent word that militia of the Empire State, numbering 14,000, could mobilize within twenty-four hours after orders were received. The belief is also expression of Senators and Representatives. They all say that the time has gone by for any questions of belligerency and that the only point at issue now is whether the United States shall seize Havana harbor, root up its submarine mines and make it free and safe to the navies of the world. The administration fully recognizes the dangerous situation and is making preparations for war. War may not come, but the Government will be prepared if it does come.

The suspicion that the Maine was blown up by a torpedo or submarine mine has grown almost to a conviction. No one in Washington, says this correspondent, can explain why such an act should have been committed, and many hope that it may be proven that it was not committed by any Spanish official, but there are few who any longer hold to the theory of an accidental explosion in one of the magazines or have any assurance that a conflict with Spain will not follow the development of the fact that the Maine was destroyed by an act of treachery.

It is admitted that Consul General Lee has warned Americans who are in Havana on pleasure to leave because they are not safe. Cabinet members are talking guardedly about indemnity. Naval officials admit that warships are moving toward Key West and that work is being pushed with all possible speed on ships now in the various navy yards. Army officials admit that fortifications are to be manned at once and that other preparations are making to place our military arm in the best possible condition.

Activity Is Significant.

All these things are explained as only in keeping with the plans formulated months or weeks ago, and that they have no especial or immediate significance at this time. But they are in keeping with the suspicion now almost a conviction, that the Maine was destroyed by a hostile act of some one connected with the Spanish army.

It is not, however, the preparations in the Navy or War Department—or the warnings of Gen. Lee for Americans to leave Havana that point to a crisis as much as it is the feeling that the Maine was destroyed by treachery. The most conservative men in Congress fail to find any possible plan for righting this great assault upon the United States. Those who are most experienced in diplomacy and the more delicate relations of Governments express the opinion that the President can do nothing but declare war on Spain and send the navy to bombard Havana. He must accept the evidence before him.

Spain alone can prevent war under such circumstances by making amends. She can express her regrets, tender her apologies, lay hands on the criminals whom Blanco must know, because they must have been in his employ, and execute

LOOKING FORWARD FROM THE AFTER SEARCHLIGHT.

William Jennings Bryan will not appear on the Students' Lecture association's course this year. He offered to speak gratis on bimetalism, but demanded $1,000 for any other subject. It is against the University rules to allow partisan speaking in University hall, but $1,000 is above the resources of the association. Washtenaw Times.

A farmer considerable under the influence of liquor tried to drive his team of horses through a private yard on N. Main street, Friday evening about 8 o'clock. He had a $75 roll of bills and said three young fellows who had been riding with him had tried to rob him and he was driving across lots to head them off and have them arrested. He was finally induced to go home. Ann Arbor Argus.

Three years ago this coming May, Dr. Owen, of Ypsilanti, stated for Europe. Mrs. Owen sent him a letter after he had departed. The letter followed him up from place to place and just came back to Ypsilanti this morning. The envelope was badly disfigured with forwarding addresses and postmarks and is quite a curiosity. The Ladies' Reading Circle, of Grass Lake, held a "revolutionary tea and entertainment" on the evening of Washington's birthday at the home of Mrs. D. E. Johnson. The ladies were dressed to represent different characters of revolutionary fame and were introduced to the company with some incident of history of the character they represented. Several members of the society are the descendants of revolutionary soldiers.

At a farmers institute held recently at Owosso the opinion was expressed by one of the speakers that the students at the University of Michigan are for the most part sons and daughters of wealthy parents, the implication being that the children of farmers have small share in the benefits of higher education. At the last official canvass of the students it appeared that the number of farmers' children at the university was three times greater than the number of those belonging to any other class, being, in fact, about one-third of the total. Addison O-born has a pork barrel that is 120 years old. It is shaped like an old fashioned churn, larger at the bottom than at the top. It was made of pine in the state of New York for Mrs. Osborn's grandfather. The hoops were the old fashioned stork hoop and were so thoroughly made that two of the original ones remain on the barrel at present. It was brought to this state filled with pork, by Mr. French many years ago, and has been used for this purpose until two years ago. The barrel is in perfect condition and bids fair to outlive many more generations. Milan Leader.

ONE OF TWO WAYS.
The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.
Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage is often, mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may be easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty-four hours—a sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and extraordinary effort of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, upon receipt of three two-cent stamps to cover cost of postage on the bottle. Mention the Chelsea Standard and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

THE GREAT
OR
LA GRIPPE.
For Sale by R. S. Armstrong & Co.

What if Not Miracles?
The great Four-C Remedy is doing work wherever introduced as nearly miraculously as it ever falls to the lot of any human agency to do (I will esteem it a favor for any one interested to write the persons whose names appear below or anyone whose name may appear among these testimonials.)
My aim is to convince the public of my sincerity and of the true merits of this remedy.

BENEFACTORS OF THE RACE.

Office of "KINGFISHER TIMES,"
Kingfisher, Okla., Dec. 12, 1897.
GENTLEMEN—I believe it my duty to write you a line in regard to the beneficial effect of Phelps' Four-C Remedy. As far as I am personally concerned, a week ago last Thursday, I was taken with a severe attack of la grippe and in a short time became so hoarse I could not speak above a whisper. The night previous I had coughed nearly the entire night, just before retiring I took a teaspoonful and slept the entire night as sweetly as ever I did in my life, not coughing once. I was entirely relieved before taking one bottle. Phelps' Cough, Cold and Croup Cure should be in every household in the land. I send you this wholly unsolicited by anyone, for you are benefactors of the race in giving it the antidote for some of the worst afflictions to which it is heir.
Very Truly Yours,
C. J. NESBITT, Editor.

A MIRACLE.

Kansas City, Kansas, Dec. 24, '91.
Last Friday, Dec. 19, my attending physician stated unless I was better by morning he could do nothing for my relief. That night I commenced taking Phelps' "Four-C" remedy, stopped all other medicines. The first dose stopped my cough, sleep and rested well; a few more doses removed all soreness from my lungs; the second day I was up; the third day I was out on the porch and to-day was up ten purchasing holiday goods.
Miss JENNIE HANSEN,

CROUP CURED.

One dose of Phelps' Cough, Cold and Croup Cure, gave my child instant relief when attacked with the croup.
W. E. MOORE, of Moore Bros., Grocers,
Arkansas City, Kansas.

IT IS A MIRACLE.

Conductor Eckard, the Railroad Correspondent of the Neodesha Kansas Register, having used "Four-C" Phelps is having a wonderful sale of his Cough and Cold Remedy. Personally know it is just what it is represented to be. Too much cannot be said in its praise. It is a miracle.

NOTICE TO DRUGGISTS AND THE PUBLIC.

CONTRACT.—Druggists are authorized in ALL CASES TO REFUND THE PURCHASE PRICE, if the Four-C Remedy (Phelps' Cough, Cold and Croup Cure) does not give satisfaction in Croup, Bronchitis, Asthma, La Grippe, Coughs and Colds, matter how long standing, or deep seated, in fact I guarantee in all matters of Bronchial or Lung trouble, not as a Cure-All, but to give unbounded satisfaction. Give it a trial on the above conditions. I take all chances.
