

WOOD AND MARROW

BY CHARLOTTE M. BRAEME

CHAPTER XIX

For some low minutes afterward she stood on the borders of the lake and murmured sounds of intense joy and comfort followed by the tramp of many footsteps, indicating all was well. The ground was dotted with dead and dying leaves. Lady Raymond flung her self down upon them, and as she lay there she said to herself: "Let me die!"

She had never been in a night so full of peace. Her head had been lying there she knew, and she was all alone for her. She was conscious only of infinite misery. She did not even feel the chill breath of the winds as they passed over her. Then a faint light seemed to her an eye.

band," she continued, "and we were growing happier. In time I think that he would have loved me, but some one else, a fair woman, one of the kind of woman that he adores—Lady Hamilton, come, and—"

"I see," said the lady, "the old story, jealousy and unfeeling. Surely, I think you have not thrown away the labor of a lifetime by growing jealous and visiting the earth?"

"I have done worse than that," she said. "I was jealous of Lady Hamilton. I thought that both mine and my husband were doing me. I followed them when they went out to see the sunset over the lake. I hid myself behind the alder trees to listen if they said anything about me; and then I cannot tell how it happened my husband saw me."

"He was very angry," he said, "and he never enters his doors again, but to return come at once to me." "The lawyer's face changed. "You are quite sure that you have told me the whole truth?" "Yes, quite sure. What should I keep from you? It seems very hard punishment for what was surely a fault rather than a crime."

"You told him that?" Then rely upon it in a few days all will be well. He will forget his anger and come to find you. "I do not think so," she returned. The Season's Fruit Prospects.—The growers in the fruit belt of Michigan expect to receive more from their crops this summer than in previous years. A uniform system of packing and grading will be adopted which, if adhered to, is expected to keep the price up.

We wish to correct the statement which was taken from the Washburn Times, and published in The Standard of March 8. Mrs. W. E. Stevenson received $100 for her share and her step-mother was never abused by Mr. Webb, who was a kind husband and loving father to his children. The social event in Chelsea, for this week was the marriage, Wednesday evening, March 10, 1898, at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Thomas Holmes. D. by Miss Mabel Fletcher and Mr. Ralph H. Pierce. These "high contracting parties" are well known and highly esteemed in Chelsea, and although the happy event takes their destinies for life has taken some of their many friends a little by surprise, their congratulations are from the less sincere and hearty. May a long and prosperous and happy life be theirs. Chelsea in the throes of a political charter election which is due next Monday, and three or four tickets will be in the field, and others in the houses and barns. The Standard pleads for unity and a common cause on village matters, so that contented under one banner, fighting solely for Chelsea, and Chelsea's good, there may come to the village the strength of union and the prosperity of harmony. But until public ownership of the electric lighting plant is decided, gentlemen may cry peace, peace, but there'll be no peace, and the Standard will have to exercise great care not to knock a chip off some one's shoulder. Adrian Press. Governor Pingree has issued another proclamation. This time he hits the members of the legislature who accept free passes. He demands that the law be enforced and the culprits brought to summary justice. He also stamps the clergy men's half fare rates as illegal. He says that the acceptance of a pass upon railroads in this state is not only a crime against the statute, but against the school children of the state. Every pass given out wastes the earnings so much less, and as at present the taxes are collected on the earnings which goes to the school fund. Every man who accepts a pass robs that fund of the percentage to which it is entitled.

MELINE'S SINGULAR POSTERS. How He Explains the Statements in His Speeches - A Printer's Error. It is not often that a printer's error is so useful and opportune as one that has just occurred in the posters containing the report of the speech of M. Melne, minister of agriculture, says the Paris Daily Messenger. It will be remembered that at the recent rise in the price of wheat the town populations were clamoring for the removal of the duties, while the country, that is to say, the farmers, were clamoring equally loudly for the maintenance of the duties. Now, curiously enough, of the placards containing M. Melne's speech in the chamber of Nov. 13 and 20, those posted in the town speak of measures looking toward the lowering of the price of wheat, while those posted in the country speak of measures looking to the raising of the price of wheat. M. Melne explains the curiosity in this way: "The lowering is a mistake, which was not discovered until half the posters had been struck off. Not wishing to put the state to the loss involved in throwing away those already printed, he decided to post them in the towns where the placards are never read, and to put the remainder where the mistake had been rectified in the country. The question is, did M. Melne, when he gave that explanation, wink the other eye?"

A smarted lad. Barnes. That settles it. Dr. Howsitt can never prescribe for me again. I used to think he knew something, but my confidence in him has been completely destroyed. Apsley. What happened to change your opinion of him? Barnes. He has been giving expert testimony in a murder trial. Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COUNTY AND VICINITY. Stockbridge, with reference to the electric road is like Dominick's engine. It is not agin, on agin, gone agin. Stockbridge Sun. Charles M. King is one of the veteran soldiers of company A. He has just re-enlisted for the eighth term of three years each. Ann Arbor Courier. Some of our sportive gentry who think they are smarter than a fakir, got done up on the streets yesterday. One man paid $2.00 for a brass chain, a pocket book and a $1.00 bill. It is decidedly wrong to license such cut throats, and it shouldn't be done. Stockbridge Sun. We are informed that Dr. Pratt offered a resolution at the last meeting of Carpenter Grand Army Post, instructing the adjutant to communicate with the secretary of war, tendering the services of the post to the government in case of need. The resolution was passed unanimously. Ypsilanti Post. Word was received at this office from Lansing that the route for the proposed L. D. & A. A. electric railway has been laid out. From Dansville it leaves Stockbridge to the right, goes to Plainfield and the cheese factory and then makes a diagonal trip across some private property, of which the right of way has been secured. It will strike the main highway just west of A. G. Wilson's farm, follows the public highway through Anderson to Pinckney and so on to Dexter and Ann Arbor. No trouble is anticipated in securing the right of way through Ann Arbor as the council are in favor of the road. Pinckney Dispatch.

A strange thing which the police ought to look into occurred near the new power house yesterday. Somebody noticed a woman's shoe floating near the river bend and a moment after several pairs of new boots tied together going down the stream. The shoe was pulled out and at first it was thought to be one of those taken from Mr. Bell's store. Friday night but, when that gentleman examined it, he saw at once that it did not belong to him. It is probable that a spot near the river shore was made the hiding place for stolen goods and that the sudden rise in the river washed them out. Ypsilanti Correspondence Washburn Times.

PULSE of the PRESS

As yet Gen. Miles has spoken no word that would indicate a desire to exhibit his new uniform in a way with Spain.

Nansen's vocal impressions of America, as related by European interviewers, do not sound so well as did his narration of his Arctic trip.

It is stated authoritatively that Spain would sell Cuba at any price.

As Malice goes, so goes the Union. The Union has gone to Havana. Does the Union go there also?

Do Laine says the American newspapers have been lying about him.

The French paper which remarks that the American army is still to be brought into existence is not well informed.

FOLLY OF A WISE BEAR. THE CRAVINGS OF HIS SWEET TOOTH LED TO HIS FOWNFALL.

He got drunk on St. Thomas's Ras and Molasses, and killed him. Tom Messervie gives a New York Sportsman a dissertation on bears.

The New York sportsman and Tom Messervie, his guide, lying on the bank of evergreen boughs in camp on the shore of Moushment lake, came the scream of a bear somewhere off in the dark forest. It was a queer sound that was much like the shrill call of a raven, with a rising inflection at the end with which New England farm wives summon the men from the fields to the noonday meal. It was repeated several times at intervals and came each time from nearer the camp. The guide got up and went out to the maple grove a few rods away, took down from a limb the buck that was hanging there, slung it near the camp and hung it up to a tree within plain sight of the doorway.

When we know that a bear is prowling round, it is well to have our venison where we can see it," he said. "He won't come so near the camp, but if we let the meat out among the maples he'd be apt to steal some of it before morning. A bear is a hungry creature and will eat about everything, from honey to a state salt mackerel with draw one further than anything else—but he's shy about coming around camps where people are. You'll see that this one will come near enough for him out that there are people here, and then will go away."

The New Yorker was for going out to try a shot at the bear, but the guide told him that it was of no use. "He won't come into view anyway," he said, "and if you show yourself at all, he'll get away with the rifle shot. Remember that he can see in the dark, but unless you should get a glimpse of his eyes you couldn't distinguish him among the shadows, five steps away. Just listen, and we may hear him."

FORTUNES BY ACCIDENT. How a Captain Made a Million by Carrying His Gun Passenger.

If there is anything that makes a poor, toiling man happy it is to read about flukes that have made fortunes. For instance, there was a captain of a vessel plying between English and Australian points who made a lucky strike when convicts were taken to New South Wales.

A "time expired" man came to the mariner and begged to be taken home. The former convict had no money, but he would gladly give his plot of land for transportation.

The captain accepted the terms and great is the joy of his descendants, for that plot is now occupied by a wharf and is valued at $1,195,000.

A Limerick tobaccoist believed himself to be ruined by a fire that destroyed his shop. The next day he found time of suit that had been in the fire. Curiously prompted him to open the registers. He found that the action of the flames had materially improved the aroma and pungency of the snuff. The discovery made him very rich.

WHAT'S THE TIME? When You Ask Tell Which of the Six Heads You Mean. There are few questions more frequently put than "What time is it?" Can you tell me the true time? A stickler for exactitude might reply: "What kind of time do you mean? Do you mean solar or sidereal time? Apparent time or mean time? Local time or standard time? There are all these six kinds of time, not to speak of others. It is only within the last two generations—within, indeed, the reign of our sovereign, Queen Victoria—that the subject of the differences of most of these kinds of time has become of pressing importance to any but theorists. In one of the public gardens of Paris a little caution is set up with a burning glass attached to it in such a manner that the sun itself fires the cannon as it reaches the meridian. This, of course, is the time of Paris noon—apparent noon, but it would be exceedingly imprudent of any traveler through Paris who wished to catch the 1 o'clock express to go to his way by the gun, for it is supposed to be in February he would find when he reached the railway station that the station clock was faster than the gun by nearly a full quarter of an hour and that his train had gone, while toward the end of October or the beginning of November he would find himself as much too soon.

DO NOT TAKE DUMPS. HOW did he get there? Once a vigorous, prosperous business man. How did he get there? By getting in the dumps when his liver was lazy, losing his temper, losing his good sense, losing his business friends. When You Feel Mean and Irritable send at once for a box of Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the kind you need in your business, 10c., 25c., 50c., any drug store, or mailed for price. Write for booklet and free sample.
