MICHIGAN DIVORCES.

Marriage Was a Failure in 1,656 Cases in Michigan Last Year.

According to reports made to the Secretary of State by the clerks of the courts empowered to grant divorces in Michigan, there were 1,656 divorces granted in the State during the year of 1897. Out of this number 423 were granted on the application of the husband and 1,233 on the application of the wife. A large majority of the marriages dissolved were originally contracted in Michigan, 1,360 being so returned. Only 65 were from the adjacent states of Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin, 101 from other states of the union, 86 from Canada, 22 from other foreign countries, and 22 not stated. Nearly one-half (771) of the couples separated had no children; 407 had one child, 199 had two children, 127 had three children, and so on in diminishing numbers until only one divorce each was recorded for couples having eleven and twelve children. The total number of children affected by the divorce of their parents during the year was 1,833, or a little over one child on the average to each couple divorced.

As to the duration of marriages before divorces, 472 occurred during the first five years; 464 lasted from five to ten years; 301 from ten to fifteen; 177 from fifteen to twenty; 115 from twenty to twenty-five; 61 from twenty-five to thirty; 25 from thirty to thirty-five; 21 from thirty-five to forty; 5 from forty to forty-five; and 1 nearly fifty years. The duration in 14 divorces was unstated. Among the most important causes alleged for the divorces granted were cruelty, 560; desertion, 405; non-support, 211; cruelty and non-support, 184.

"Truth About Cigarettes."

Some one has sent me a pamphlet entitled, "The Truth About Cigarettes." The author is an officer in the tobacco trust and you can imagine the attitude he assumes toward these modern coffin nails. He goes on in his way to prove that a case has never yet been found in which any special harm resulted from the use of the cigarette. This undersized underling must imagine the people all fools. The legislatures and medical authorities of the country awake at this day to find they have been opposing a righteous cause in attempting to deprive Explanations.

We are sorry to be obliged to call attention to a few things which the trustees of the church property at Sylvan apparently overlooked, when writing the notice that appeared in The Standard July 7. It is true that the pastor declined to read the unofficial and unsigned "notice" that was sent to the pulpit, stating that "the church will be closed for an indefinite period on account of repairs to be made on the inside of the church." Recognizing the purport of the notice, the pastor stated its substance and suggested that our meetings for a time would probably be held in the school house, as had been the custom on former occasions when the church was undergoing repairs, although it was known that the main "repairs" in this case were such as the Methodist pastor declined to sanction but a short time before and of which plan he perhaps knew nothing at the time. Not expecting to be permanently shut out from a house of worship for which the people themselves had by their own contributions paid for, we secured the chairs belonging to Union, the lamps belonging to the C. E. society and the singing books belonging to the Sunday-school for use while we should be at the school house. A desperate effort was made to keep the school house closed against the Union, and the same day one of the trustees told the pastor that it was their purpose to break up the Union, and the same idea was repeated later by another of their friends. A few weeks later the school director was induced to give notice that no further meetings could be held in the evening, but this was prevented by calling his attention to the school law.

Shortly before leaving the church, the morning hour was taken from us by the following notice:

"At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Sylvan M. E. church, held December 18, 1897. It was adopted. That the President of the Christian Union, be the youth of the land of a cheap smoke. I have no objection to a good wholesome pipe or a Havana cigar, but when it comes to seeing a 15-year-old youth breathing cigarette fumes into his weak lungs and then letting it sit out between his teeth like the music of a spotted adder, I draw the line. A man who will write a defence of the cigarette, which is the chief enemy of youth and growing children, ought to be ostracized or struck by lightning. He must be a queer specimen. —Pontiac Post.

notified that after January 1st, 1898, they will use the church each Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m.

Calvin Conkling."

Shortly after beginning work in the school house, two notices signed by the secretary of the board of trustees were sent in quick succession, the one asking that the key be left at the postoffice and the other that it be left at M. B. Millspaugh's. An affidavit of these facts will be furnished if desired, as the notices were received by the president while he was attending the funeral and business of his daughter, and because of this fact the key was not promptly handed over, knowing that the trustees also had a key to the church. The matter together with the question of the property removed by the Union was taken by the trustees to an attorney who advised them to drop the property question, but who called on the president for the key, which was promptly placed in the hand of the chairman of the board of trustees. Just before the attorney called for the key the following notice was received by the president of the Union:

"Chelsea, Mich., Jan. 24th, 1898.

C. T. Conkling, Esq., President Sylvan Christian Union.

Dear Sir and Bro.—We the undersigned trustees of the Methodist church property at Sylvan being informed that a quantity of chairs, lamps, books and other property have been removed from our possession at Sylvan by members of the Christian Union would respectfully request you as president of said Union to see that the said property is returned to the places from which it was removed and the keys to the church returned to M. B. Millspaugh.

"L. Babcock, Pres. Board,

"E. A. Ward,

"M. B. Millspaugh,

"A. Guthrie,

In face of these facts the avowed declaration of purpose to destroy the Union, the effort to keep the school house closed regardless of precedent and of law, the effort to retain property purchased by money out of the treasuries of the different societies, the demand for the regular Sunday morning hour, the three written demands signed by members of the board of trustees and the demand of their attorney for the key when they had one in their own possession, and the persistent hostilities that have been waged—in view of these facts we do not see how it is possible for four intelligent men to affirm that the report that the Union had been turned out "is utterly and absolutely without foundation in any action or intention of the board of trustees," nor how it is possible for them to say that the action of October 1, 1897, is "the only action of this board respecting this matter," nor how it was possible for them to expect us to continue our meeting in the church. We wish to call attention of the readers of The Standard, but especially of the officers and others interested in the church property and its use to these facts. We had rather not have been called upon to make this explanation, but felt that our cause and the public demanded a fuller statement than was presented two weeks ago.

C. T. Conkling, President,
G. G. Crozier, Pastor.

ANGLO-AMERICAN LEAGUERS MEET IN LONDON.

Resolutions Are Adopted Favoring Co-operation of the Two Countries—Prominent Englishmen Participate—Talented Artist Takes Her Life.

Cordial Feeling Toward United States

The inaugural meeting of the Anglo-American league was held at Stafford House, London, under the presidency of the Duke of Sutherland, who was supported by Earl Grey, the Earl of Jersey, Baron Farrer, Baron Brancey, Baron Tennyson, Baron Monkswell, Sir John Lubbock, Rear-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford and James Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth." Others present were the archbishop of Canterbury, the archbishop of York, Cardinal Vaughan and the Duke of Westminster. The Duke of Sutherland, in opening the proceedings, said the league was quite apart from ordinary politics, its object being to express the feeling of cordiality which existed between the people of Great Britain and the United States, an effort which he believed would be appreciated and reciprocated in America. On motion of Lord Brassey the following resolution was adopted: "Considering that the peoples of the British empire and the United States are closely allied by blood, inherit the same literature and laws, hold the same principles of government, recognize the same ideals of freedom and humanity in the guidance of their national policy, and are drawn together by strong common interests in many parts of the world, this meeting is of the opinion that every effort should be made in the interests of civilization and peace to secure the most cordial and constant co-operation on the part of the two nations." A representative executive council was then appointed.

Explosion in a Starch Factory

An overtaxed boiler in one of the buildings of the Niagara branch of the National starch trust blew up at Buffalo, N. Y. Four workmen were killed. The explosion shook the brick building to pieces and "shelled" the neighborhood for an eighth of a mile with bricks and pieces of iron. Great damage was done to the houses near by. Every pane of glass within two blocks was broken. A piece of iron weighing fifty pounds crashed through the roof of a two-story house at 28 Oneida street. Mrs. John McFeeley, who lived on the second floor, was holding her infant daughter. The iron struck her, breaking her shoulder blade and crushing the infant's skull. Albert Bricker, aged 9, was playing in a yard a block away when he was struck by a piece of the boiler, which broke his leg. Nearly a hundred trifling injuries are reported. Mrs. Joseph W. Hoyt and baby are missing and are supposed to be buried in the ruins.

Shoots Himself in the Head

Mrs. I. N. Barber, principal of the St. Paul, Minn., School of Fine Arts, committed suicide at Mendota, where she was in charge of the summer art school. The deed was committed some time during the night and the body was cold when found in the morning. She had shot herself through the temple. She left letters to friends saying that the struggle for a livelihood was too great. She was a young woman of exceptional ability and great strength of character.

BREVITIES.

At Columbus, Ohio, Charles C. Scott, colored, a convict who has been cooking for the warden's family at the penitentiary, has escaped.

Passenger train No. 1, east bound, was held up one mile east of Hunkeler, N. Y. Express car blown up and safe blown open. Robbers escaped. Not given out how much they secured.

At Hazleton, Pa., while Andrew Rodka and his wife were away the house in which they lived was burned and their two children, Mary, aged 3 years, and John, 9 months old, perished.

The Democratic convention of the Eighth Kentucky district nominated G. G. Gilbert of Shelbyville for Congress over Messrs. McCreary, Thompson and others, breaking a deadlock of ten days.

At Dayton, Ohio, William Seime, aged 48, a millwright, in comfortable circumstances, in a fit of jealousy gashed his wife's throat with a razor, chased his daughter with the bloody weapon and then cut his own throat, dying instantly. The wife may recover.

Five specimens of gold-bearing quartz were placed in the hands of City Chemist Bogardus of Seattle by a stranger from Alaska. Mr. Bogardus says that he can hold five pieces of the rock in one hand and that they carry $450 worth of gold. They will assay $150,000 to the ton.

Statements having reached Washington that cattlemen are trespassing on the Sequoia national park, in Tulare County, Cal., since the withdrawal of the Fourth cavalry, the Secretary of the Interior has appointed W. B. Zebby superintendent of the reservation and instructed him to appoint twenty deputies and see that cattle are kept outside the park limits.

The dead body of a man was found in a freight car which had just arrived at Wilmington, Del., from Jersey City. The man is supposed to have been E. H. Brunson of Merrill, Wis. Evidence of a struggle suggests that the man was murdered.

EASTERN.

The strike of the coal miners in Mercer and Butler counties, Pa., has been broken.

Two freight trains collided at Foley, Pa., on the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad.

Engineers Dougherty and Downer, Conductor Snyder and two brakemen and a colored tramp were slightly injured.

An explosion at the works of the Lafin & Bond Powder Company in Pompano Lakes, N. J., killed a dozen or more men, among them one or more soldiers detailed to guard the powder works. A short time ago there was an explosion there which killed six men.

The mills of twelve cotton corporations at Fall River, Mass., operating about 90,000 spindles, which have been closed since July 2, have started again. The Slater mills continue shut down for a few days. The conditions of the print cloth market did not lead this mill to resume operations, as prices continue very low and the demand is only moderate.

Judge Acheson of the United States Circuit Court at Pittsburgh, Pa., handed down an opinion in the case of the United States Steel Company against the Carnegie Steel Company, limited. The finding is that the defendant company has infringed on a process of the plaintiff for manufacturing castings from wrought iron and steel by adding aluminum. The case is important and involves the manufacture of armor plate.

The Clyde line steamer Delaware was abandoned by her crew and passengers off Barnegat, N. J., the vessel being on fire. They were rescued from the boats and rafts which they had taken to by the Cedar Creek life saving crew and a fishing smack. They were subsequently transferred to the steam tug Ocean King, which took them to New York, their point of embarkation, excepting the captain and crew, who went ashore at Barnegat. The Delaware was bound from New York to Charleston and Jacksonville.

Fire, which originated mysteriously in a stable in the rear of the World's theater on Federal street, Allegheny, Pa., soon destroyed the theater and from there rapidly communicated to adjoining buildings. While the area covered by the fire was large, the loss will not exceed $175,000, as many of the buildings were small frame structures. The insurance will probably reach two-thirds of the loss. The principal losers are Delp & Bell, furniture; S. Delp & Co., bar fixtures; Bradley's old wooden mill and the World's theater.

The arrest of Pietro Cappello, who has confessed a murder committed in New York, has led to the breaking up of the biggest gang of counterfeiters who ever operated in Montreal, Que. There are now under arrest in connection with this conspiracy five persons, Cappello and a man named Salvatore Natale, alias Jim Marchand, alias Bloom, and three women known respectively as English Polly, May and Nelly. Natale has only been a few months out of the Chicago jail after serving a term for counterfeiting. Three places where they had the apparatus for making the "queer" have been unearthed by the Canadian secret service and the city detectives. One of the women has made a confession.

WESTERN.

Returns from the election held at St. Louis, Mo., to amend the city charter involving an expenditure of $200,000 for public improvements show the proposed amendments were defeated.

A boiler explosion at the Edison electric light works, Cincinnati, Ohio, caused the destruction of the entire plant by fire. The dynamo, which furnish power for the street lamps, were not injured.

Steelville, Mo., the county seat of Crawford County, was almost obliterated by a water spout. Thirty-five buildings were wrecked and thirteen lives were lost, while the pecuniary loss will foot up $200,000.

At Cleveland, Ohio, eleven men's lives were snuffed out in the twinkling of an eye in the big water works tunnel that is being constructed under the bottom of Lake Erie. An explosion of gas caused the disaster.

The dry season has so seriously injured the vineyards of the Livermore valley, California, that it is estimated the yield will only be about one-third of last year. In some localities the crop will practically be a dead loss.

Heavy rain has fallen in St. Louis and vicinity, and great damage has been done. Nearly all the buildings were flooded, and in several cases people sought safety on roofs. Damage suits aggregating $100,000 are to be brought against the city by the sufferers, who allege poor drainage.

Several men were killed and a number were fatally injured at a fire which broke out in the five-story building occupied by the Britton Printing Company, on Erie street, Cleveland, Ohio. The flames spread so rapidly that many of the employees were cut off from escape. Several men jumped from the windows of the third, fourth and fifth floors. The building was a total loss.

Midle Nevins, a well-known aeronaut, was fatally injured at Electric Park, East St. Louis, Ill., by falling from a balloon. In company with Prof. Cohn, he had gone up in a balloon, from which they had to drop with parachutes. When an altitude of about 300 feet had been reached the balloon exploded. Prof. Cohn cut loose his parachute and reached the ground in safety, but his female companion failed to get clear and fell to the earth. Every bone in her body was broken and she was internally injured.

At a largely attended mass meeting of union workmen at Kansas City, Mo., the sympathetic strike ordered by the Executive Committee of the Building Trades Council was unanimously ratified. A proposition to issue an appeal to union labor for financial assistance for the striking plumbers was made, but was not pressed on account of the opposition of the plumbers, who said they much preferred a sympathetic strike rather than financial assistance. The Industrial Council, at its regular meeting, voted to give financial assistance to the striking plumbers and denounced the employment of special policemen for the protection of non-union men.

A fire involving heavy loss broke out in the manufacturing district at Harriet and Sloo streets, Cincinnati, Ohio. It was first discovered in the dismantled warehouse of the McGill Grate and Mantel Company, and spread rapidly to the yards of the E. D. Albright Lumber Company and other combustible manufactures in that district. Among the leading losers are the Albright Company, $50,000 on lumber alone; Queen City Mantel and Grate Company, $30,000; F. J. Mackey, $20,000; Agger & Sanning Furniture Company, $25,000; Collier & Budd Coal Company, offices burned. A four-story tenement house was in the line of fire and was destroyed, the inmates making narrow escapes. Total loss will reach $150,000.

Fire destroyed the immense West Hammonds, Ind., plant of the Western Starch Association. It started in the gluten room and in a short time seven of the nine buildings were in flames. A high wind spread the fire rapidly and light water pressure retarded the efforts of the department. The only buildings saved were the office building and one drying building. In the immense elevator were many thousands of bushels of corn. The storerooms contained 40,000 cases of manufactured starch. The plant and business was owned and managed by the Stein-Hirsch Company, of which M. M. Hirsch is president. Insurance men estimate the loss at $275,000 to $300,000, with ample insurance. The company will rebuild on a more extensive scale. Mike Schuetz, overcome with heat, fell into the flames. He was rescued and may recover.

Rev. H. A. Hazen, D. D., secretary of the national Congregational council, presented his report to the triennial meeting in Portland, Ore. He reported a total of 273 churches and a total membership of $25,584. The additions in three years were 98,564; the removals by death, 24,014; the infant baptisms were 30,806; and the membership of the Sunday schools had increased to 685,704, a gain of 7,769. A falling off of $482,752 was reported in the benevolence, the total amount being $6,761,830. The home expenses reached $20,232,559. The report of the trustees showed the net receipts to be $51,104, as against $72,521 the preceding three years. The disbursements were $52,436, leaving on hand a balance of $5,768. The report of the provisional committee, prepared by Congressman Nelson Dingley, contained the recommendation that the United States name 200 delegates to the second international council of Congregational churches to be held in Boston next autumn, the same privilege to be accorded to other countries of doubling their representation.

SOUTHERN.

Attorney John B. Laidley committed suicide by hanging himself at the city jail at Huntington, W. Va.

Chief of Police Lon Fernandez was killed in a street fight at Rogersville, Tenn., by an outlaw named Bradley Bynum.

Three men are dead and one is not expected to live as a result of drinking essence of cinnamon at Charleston, W. Va. The seller was arrested.

The marine hospital service at Washington gave out a telegraphic report from the surgeon in charge at McHenry, Miss., announcing the discharge of the last case of yellow fever at that point.

Near Sistersville, W. Va., a boarding house which was located near a well caught fire early in the morning from an explosion of gas, and before the people sleeping in it could be released it was impossible for them to get out, as the building was literally a mass of flames.

The quarantine station at Mobile Bay, Ala., together with the fumigating machinery, wharf, etc., was burned. The plant cost $50,000 and was insured for $12,000. Vessels, until the plant is rebuilt, will be fumigated at the national quarantine station at Ship Island, Miss.

Rev. N. Barker, a veteran of the Mexican war, died in Hood County, Texas, from the effects of a wound received at the battle of Resaca del Rey. Recently the operation of removing an eye was performed. Behind the eyeball was found a flattened bullet, which the old soldier had carried for half a century. He lived three days after the operation.

WASHINGTON.

Ex-Senator Conger of Michigan, who had lived at Washington, D. C., since he left the Senate, died at Ocean City, Md.

Rear Admiral Ammen, one of the heroes of the civil war, died at the naval hospital at Washington, D. C., aged 78 years. He was an Unionist. At the reduction of Port Royal in 1861 he held the forts until the army took possession.

The American members of the commission appointed by the President under the act annexing Hawaii to the United States met in conference at Washington. Senator Cullom of Illinois was chosen chairman of the commission, and other officials designated. M. W. Blumenthal, one of the official reporters of the Senate, was appointed reporter of the commission. It was decided that the entire clerical force should be composed of employees of the Senate in order not to add unnecessarily to the salary roll of the commission. It was impossible to fix a definite time of departure, but Aug. 1 was agreed upon as the approximate date for sailing from San Francisco. It is expected that about two months' time will be spent in Hawaii, and the commission hopes to have its recommendations prepared by the opening of the next session of Congress. The President's intention of continuing President Dole as the governor of the new territory was discussed at the meeting as a matter decided upon, and was spoken of most approvingly. The commissioners favor a full territorial form of government, with a delegate in Congress and a local legislature. Secretary Alger issued orders attaching the Hawaiian Islands to the military department of California.

FOREIGN.

By special request of Queen Victoria herself, Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston, niece of President Buchanan, was presented at private audience at Windsor Castle.

Another plot at Seoul, the capital of Korea, against the government has been disclosed. Several prominent officials have been arrested on a charge of complicity. Others, including a former minister of war, have fled.

A Belgian expedition of 100 men, under Lieut. Dubois, has been surprised by Congolese rebels, who killed thirty-one members of the expedition and captured a quantity of rifles and cartridges. Lieut. Dubois was afterward deserted by his soldiers and killed.

A financial panic has been occasioned in Valparaiso, Chili, by the withdrawal and exportation of gold, which has caused the Chilean Government to officially close all the banks in Chili temporarily. During this suspension the Government will consider the advisability of issuing paper money.

The Russian charge d'affaires, M. Pavloff, has informed the Tsung Li Yamen (Chinese foreign office) that if a northern extension of railroad which has been conceded to a British syndicate is persisted in Russia may be obliged to seize the province of Ill (Chi-Li) in which Pekin is situated as compensation.

The Madrid correspondent of the London Times says: "M. Sagasta went to the palace and tendered his resignation and that of the cabinet. It is said that he advised the Queen Regent to appoint a new cabinet, largely consisting of the military element, which would not necessarily mean the adoption of a warlike policy, but probably the reverse."

In the Senate at Paris, France, replying to an interpellation with reference to cases of poisoning in the army through eating canned goods, the minister for war, M. Cavaignac, said the food park of the army was old and had been imported from America. The minister added that he had given orders for a rigorous surveillance of the use of such foods in the future.

Though young Ten Eyck's entry for the diamond skulls at Hensley, England, this year was refused by the regatta committee, this most coveted prize of an American sculler would fall again to an American. B. Hasting Howell of New York, Young Howell not only carried off the diamond skulls, but created a new record, covering the course in four seconds less than any previous winner.

King George of Greece has received a warning from a Toledo man. Consul General Botassi has written Chief of Police Itz anent the character of the man who sent the warning, and is making an effort to locate the bold conspirators who are thirsty for the blood of the king. If the following information sent to King George from a party in Toledo, Ohio, is authentic a bold conspiracy among Greeks is unearthed: "His Royal Highness King George of Greece: Your Highness—Pardon my intrusion in writing you, but I got a direct knowledge that there is a conspiracy on the part of the Greeks of this country to assassinate you. It came about in this manner: I was in a fruit store kept by a Greek and I had him in conversation when he revealed to me the above information. I am, of course, a total stranger to you, but I have been an admirer of you and would not care to see harm come to you, especially if it is in my power to warn you. If I can serve you in any way by getting further information command me. Please keep this communication confidential, as if any Greek should know what I have done they would assassinate me. I remain your humble servant, G. Milkman, 318 Twelfth street." This communication was received with another from D. N. Botassi, consul general of Greece in New York City. The police discovered that the man Milkman is a Spaniard with an English wife. They had recently moved from the address given. Milkman was regarded as a mysterious personage, highly educated, received considerable foreign mail, had plenty of money, but no one could ever learn anything about his business.

IN GENERAL.

Lieut. Peary has arrived at Sidney, C. B., on his way to the arctic regions. He says he is confident that he will reach the north pole this time, but he may consume four years in doing it.

The schooner Redfin of Stamford, Conn., under seizure at Phillipsburg, Quebec, for infraction of the fishery laws, has been captured by four men with loaded revolvers, who overpowered the Government crew and headed the schooner for Burlington, Vt.

Late returns in the provincial election in British Columbia show that of the thirty-eight seats, twenty-three are definitely decided, thirteen Government and ten opposition. Of the remaining fifteen, seven probably are opposition and six Government, with Cassiar, where election is not yet ordered, probably certain to return two Government, which would give the Government a majority of four.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago has been named by President McKinley, and confirmed by the Senate, as one of the members of the commission to revise and amend the laws of the United States concerning patents, trade and other marks and trade or commercial names. The other members of the commission are Francis Forbes of New York and Arthur P. Greeley of New Hampshire.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "The usual half-yearly statement of failures by branches of business is peculiarly interesting because it shows that war and fears of war have not caused increased in commercial disasters. Failures during the second quarter have been smaller than in the same quarter of the last four years in trading, and in manufacturing smaller than in the same quarter of any year excepting 1894. The fiscal year has ended with financial results a shade beyond general expectations, and the new war tax begins to increase revenue, not seriously disturbing business in any line. No reason yet appears to apprehend that the war revenue will fall below expectations. Failures for the week have been 229 in the United States, against 206 last year, and 17 in Canada, against 30 last year."

CROP PROSPECTS.

Report Shows Decreased Acreage of Corn—Wheat Good.

The July grain crop report of the Department of Agriculture says: Preliminary returns to the statisticians of the Department of Agriculture on the acreage of corn indicate a reduction of 3 per cent. from the area harvested last year. There is a decrease of 502,000 acres in Illinois, of 303,000 in Iowa, of 661,000 in Missouri, of 722,000 in Kansas, and of 482,000 in Nebraska.

The condition of winter wheat, 83.7, is 5.1 points lower than last month, but is still 4.5 points higher than at the corresponding date last year, and 4.3 points higher than the average for the last ten years. The principal State averages are as follows: Pennsylvania, 87; Maryland, 86; Tennessee, 90; Kentucky, 83; Ohio, 89; Michigan, 98; Indiana, 94; Illinois, 66; Missouri, 68; Kansas, 80, and California, 40. The average condition of spring wheat is 95. This is 8.8 points higher than at the corresponding date last year, is 6.2 above the average for the last ten years. The principal State averages are as follows: Minnesota, 91; South Dakota, 89; North Dakota, 92; Iowa, 97; Nebraska, 102; Washington, 102, and Oregon, 106.

The percentage of the wheat crop of 1897 reported as still on hand July 1, 1898, is 8.86.

The average condition of the oat crop, 92.8, is 5.2 points lower than last month, but is 5.3 points higher than at the corresponding date last year. The average condition of barley is 83.7, which is 2.8 points lower than last year. Winter rye is 83.8, as compared with 86 July 1, 1897. There is an increase of 1.3 per cent. in the acreage of Irish potatoes. There is a marked increase in the acreage of tobacco in nearly all the States of principal production. The outlook for the apple crop is very discouraging. The wool report indicates the average weight per fleece as being 5.8 pounds, the same as last year.

TO EXTEND WEATHER BUREAU.

Efficiency of Its Service Will Soon Be Greatly Increased.

President McKinley has on his desk the draft of an order for making the greatest extension of the weather bureau service ever made in its history. The general deficiency bill carried an appropriation of $75,000 to enable the President, in his discretion, to authorize the establishment of observing and reporting stations at various points on the Caribbean sea, but the promulgating of the order has been withheld pending the conclusion of negotiations with the Governments interested for the right to locate observers and stations. These have mostly responded favorably, and in a few days the order is expected.

The scheme contemplates the location of stations on the island of Trinidad, at St. Kitts, Barranquilla, the islands of Curaçao, Martinique, Hayti, the Barbadoes and San Domingo. There are already in operation stations at St. Thomas, Kingston, Jamaica and Havana. The latter has not been interrupted a single day since the trouble began. When the proposed belt of stations shall have been located and are in operation the entire coast of the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean sea, the Windward and Leeward islands, and the passages adjoining will be covered by daily reports. The benefits resulting therefrom in the publication of storm notices will be to the commerce of all nations traversing those waters.

BAD OUTLOOK IN ALASKA.

Discouraging Reports Brought by Passengers from Klondike.

Nearly all the miners who arrived from the Klondike on the schooner Hattie I. Phillips say they left the country owing to ill health. W. F. Pinkham, a mining engineer of Boston, who was sent up to the Klondike on behalf of an Eastern syndicate, is confined to his room by a frost-bitten foot. The miners speak very bitterly of the way a few capitalists in Dawson attempted to corner the provision market and charge exorbitant prices for flour, beans, etc., but their scheme failed, as miners with more provisions than they needed sold their surplus stock to old residents at cost. The price of flour has now fallen from $75 to $8 a sack.

Gold dust is being sold in Dawson for $15 an ounce. T. D. Watson, formerly of Portland, Ore., predicts hard times in Dawson. There is no credit system there, and without cash a man may starve.

DOLE TO BE ACTING GOVERNOR

Hawaiian Commission Sails for Honolulu Aug. 10.

It is stated that President Dole of Hawaii will be appointed acting governor of the islands when the United States assumes jurisdiction. Senator Cullom, chairman of the Hawaiian legislative commission, learned Wednesday that the first ship on which they could sail from San Francisco to Honolulu is the Alameda, booked for departure Aug. 10. Accommodations for the party were secured on her and the members were notified to be in readiness to leave on that date. Albert Berry, son of Representative Berry of Kentucky, one of the most enthusiastic advocates of annexation in the House, will be sergeant-at-arms of the commission.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Morro Castle is no more. Who said we did not have a first-class navy?

Spain's navy is mostly submarine, at present.

Two fleets gone and one going and the war barely started.

Add the Ladrone Islands to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

There is a widespread feeling that Spain doesn't know when she has had enough.

In ten years to come Fourth of July celebrations will have an added significance.

Whether it was Sampson or Schley, the fleet is destroyed, and that is what it came over here for.

It was a glorious Fourth, thanks to Shafter and Sampson, and the brave men in their commands.

If Spain doesn't treat for peace pretty soon, there will be nothing left of her with which to treat.

Among other things Spain is in need of a good cabinetmaker who understands designing and finishing.

Admiral Sampson seems to have made more breaches in his relations with Schley than in the ships of Cervera.

The Spanish board of strategy is now relieved of all further work in regard to plans for Cervera's fleet.

WAR HISTORY OF A WEEK.

Friday.

Admiral Camara, with his fleet, which had passed through the Suez canal, ordered to return to Spain.

Col. Wood of the rough riders made a brigadier general, and Lieut. Col. Roosevelt promoted to the colonelcy of the regiment.

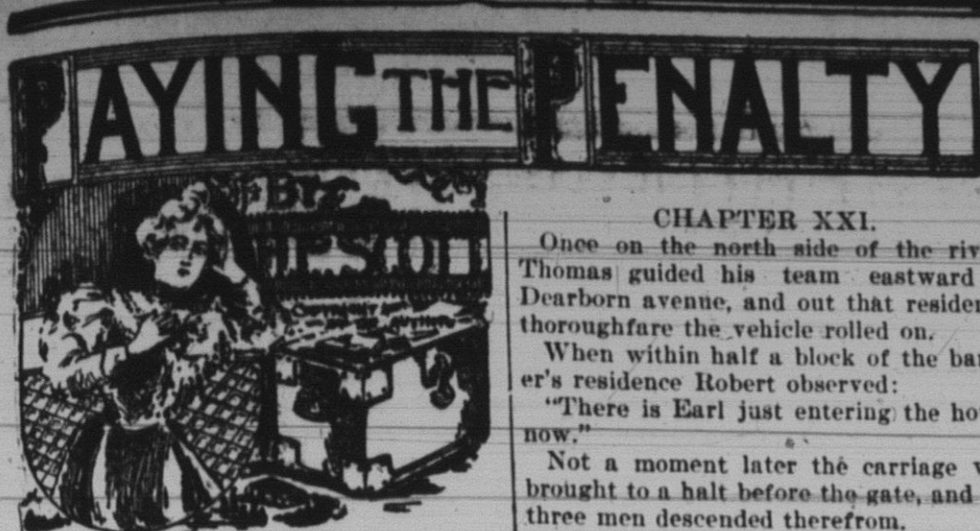

A Spanish privateer reported cruising in British Columbian waters, ready to prey on vessels returning from Alaska with treasure.

Officials at Washington expect that Spain will begin negotiations for peace in a few days. Important dispatches have been received with this end in view.

Military precautions taken in Spain to prevent expected outbreaks. Soldiers disgusted with condition of affairs, while republicans have issued a circular, headed "Prepare!" Reports that Spain would sue for peace caused an advance in Spanish bonds.

Saturday.

Thousands of refugees from Santiago have flocked to the American lines, and the problem of feeding them is a serious one for Gen. Shafter.

PAYING THE PENALTY

"Well, my son?"

"I was in that gambling house, father. A man ascended the stairs just ahead of me. It was to observe and study the features of this man that I followed him. I soon after forgot what led me to do so. I can remember no more—no more!"

"Why did you desire to follow this man to observe and study his features?" asked the banker.

"I was requested to do so by one I cannot now name. I failed, utterly failed, in my mission. But I will not believe that I am guilty of that terrible crime. I never before beheld that dirk. No, no, I am not guilty!"

"That you are not, my boy!" exclaimed a husky voice, and the tall form of Sellars, who, unobserved, had descended the stairs and entered the cell.

"Thank God!" cried Robert.

"It was at my request that this young man was following and studying the features of a would-be assassin," said the detective; "though I little dreamed that his doing so would lead to what I was striving to avert. The object of the fiend who drove that dirk blade home was not only to murder Terry, but also to place the halter about the neck of Robert Kellogg. His intent was to remove one and let the law remove the other."

"Pray," said the inspector, "who may you be?"

"At home," was the quiet reply. "I am known as Lang Sellars. By profession I am a detective."

"What?" exclaimed Hunt. "Lang Sellars, the Southern detective? Allow me to grasp your hand, sir!"

"With pleasure, inspector."

"You visit our city in pursuit of your calling, Mr. Sellars? Surely not to remove the mystery surrounding this case. You could not have heard of it."

"I noticed a record of the crime in a morning journal," the detective said. "I will call and talk matters over with you before I leave the city. I am here on a matter in which I may need aid. But I must make haste now."

"Glad to aid you at any time, Mr. Sellars. I will place half my men at your disposal."

"Oh, thanks, many thanks. I may not need them. Certainly not more than one or two. Will you please allow me to see the dirk with which the assault of Terry was committed?"

"Certainly. I have it here." And the inspector produced it.

"Ah, ha!" observed Sellars. "A silver cross embedded in the hilt. Let me see?" And he withdrew a dark sheath from an inner pocket. "Yes, see!" And he thrust the blade of the weapon where it had reposed prior to a certain event that was on his mind. "A complete fit. A silver cross on the hilt of the dirk. A silver cross on the scabbard! May I retain this a few hours, inspector?"

"Certainly."

The surprised banker had been standing near his son; a listener and observer; but here Robert introduced him to the detective.

"I can hardly understand, Mr. Sellars; yet I think my brother has written me concerning you. Do you not reside in Wilmington?"

"My home is there," answered the detective. "You will understand all when I have explained; but there is not time now. I have matters in hand that cannot be deferred. I wish you and your son to accompany me."

"But Robert cannot be released until—"

"Oh, that is all right now," said the inspector. "The boy is free. I am perfectly satisfied that Mr. Sellars' assumption of the case is correct. Though had the blow proved fatal—"

"Robert would have been released before night, inspector. There is no assumption in this case on my part."

The clock in the inspector's office struck the hour of eleven, as Sellars, accompanied by the banker and his son, stepped into the street.

"The bank has not been opened to-day," said Mr. Kellogg. "I had Earl post a notice on the door this morning. However, I have my key and we can gain admission."

"I have no wish to visit the bank," said Sellars.

"Shall we go over to the hotel?"

"No, Mr. Kellogg, we must visit your home, and at once. There is no time to lose."

"My home! Why, I do not at all understand that!" exclaimed the banker, filled with astonishment.

"Nor could you be expected to, at this time. All will be made plain to you soon."

"Earl left the station just before you returned, father. He called to express his sympathy."

"Yes, yes, I presume he has gone to inform his mother of the situation. Poor Elinor! She was nearly overcome when I told her of the fearful calamity that had befallen us. We will cause her heart to rejoice. Here is the carriage."

The three men entered it and the vehicle rapidly rolled away.

"What time did you return, Mr. Sellars?" asked Robert.

"I arrived on the 10:30 train from a visit to Richmond."

"Then you were here previous to that time?" said the banker.

"For a few days."

"I see you carry a small package under your arm," observed Mr. Kellogg. "Do not forget and leave it in the carriage when we enter the house. The urchins on the streets of Chicago are of an uncertain quality."

"I shall hardly forget it," said Sellars calmly. "That package contains the contents of the one which Collector Elsworth of the express company was robbed on the twenty-seventh of June."

"Impossible!" exclaimed the banker.

"Oh, no; I assure you it is a fact. But please request your driver to touch up his horses. Minutes are very valuable just now."

The amazed banker did as requested and leaned back in the vehicle with eyes riveted on the countenance of the great detective as the bay team sped on.

MICHIGAN MATTERS.

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

St. Joseph's Big Hotel Burns—Shooting Sensation at Jackson—Woodman Found in Otsego Lake—Gold at Michipicoten—Wheat Crop of 1898.

Hotel St. Joseph Is Burned.

The big Hotel St. Joseph, located on the lake shore at St. Joseph, was destroyed by fire. It is thought the fire originated in one of the upper rooms or in the roof, but from what cause is unknown. The hotel was a handsome three-story structure, containing 308 rooms, erected in 1887 and owned by the Graham & Morton Transportation Company. The original cost was $80,000, and the company had just put it in thorough repair for summer business at an additional expense of $3,000. It was under the management of C. M. Edick. The week before more than 300 guests were registered at the hotel, but rough lake and cool weather had caused a decrease in the number. In the ruins of the hotel searchers found a charred body. It was that of T. A. Bolding, a yardman who had perished in the flames. Until the discovery it had been thought that all occupants of the building escaped. The burned structure will not be replaced, at least this season.

Shooting Affray at Jackson.

A sensational shooting affray occurred in Main street, Jackson, between ex-Ald. A. F. Peake and James W. Blakely, an attorney. It appears that Peake went to Blakely's office and accused him of having alienated the affections of Peake's wife. This led to a quarrel. Peake left the office and Blakely followed him into the street, whereupon Peake turned on him and slapped Blakely's face. The lawyer drew a revolver and fired, the ball striking Peake in the right side, tearing a hole through his clothing and burning the skin, but doing no further damage. Peake then wrested the pistol from Blakely's hand and the latter started on a run when Peake fired at him, but missed. Both men were arrested, but Peake was released. He has made a complaint against Blakely, charging him with assault with intent to kill. Both men are Knights Templar and very prominent.

Looks Like a Murder.

The body of Wm. Ferguson, a woodsman, was found in Otsego lake, near Gaylord, and it is believed he met with foul play. A few days before Ferguson engaged a boat to row across the lake. He did not return the little craft and search was made for it. Ferguson's body was found in an upright position, and the skull had been crushed in. The boat was found some distance away. Ferguson had a large sum of money in his possession when last seen alive.

Find Gold in Michigan.

Claims of locating placer gold at Michipicoten, which have been made for several months, have been accepted with considerable skepticism. J. C. Boyd, superintendent of the Canadian canal, has received from there on the steamer Telegram, a bottle of placer gold panned from sand on his claim, which substantiates reports of finds. This has caused great excitement at Sault Ste. Marie. Over 100 claims have been staked out, and a large number will leave for the field.

Wheat Crop of Michigan.

The Michigan crop report for July is the most important crop bulletin of the year, as it gives the average estimated yield of wheat per acre. This estimate is 16.74 bushels per acre, and is based on over 1,000 reports. It points to a total crop in the State of 28,600,000 bushels. Harvest was two weeks earlier than in 1897.

State News in Brief.

A mineral well has been struck on the farm of R. Johnson, near Birch Run.

Mrs. Henry L. Lockwood of Battle Creek was horribly burned by an explosion of gas.

August Eitman of Deerfield, who was terribly injured several days ago by the explosion of a gun, is dead.

George Knowles of Kalamazoo had his shoulder dislocated, an arm and three ribs broken in a runaway accident.

Palmyra township was swept by a fierce wind storm that did several thousand dollars' worth of damage. Barns were blown down and trees uprooted.

There was a cloudburst at Wolverine and everything was pretty well flooded. One man went to look for his cow after it was over, and found bossy swimming around to keep from drowning.

It evidently isn't drought which always makes wells run dry in summer. At West Branch there has been an unusually large amount of rain this summer, and yet a number of wells in the village have gone dry.

At Muskegon, Miss Lena Rickard was fatally burned while attempting to fill a burning gasoline stove. She was horribly burned about the head, arms and breast before the flames were extinguished.

At Owosso, Philip Albach, aged 70, made two attempts to end his life by hanging. His first attempt was discovered and frustrated. The second attempt was nearly successful, Albach being unconscious when found. He is out of danger now.

Frank Darling, a Chicago and Grand Trunk brakeman of Battle Creek, fell between the cars a mile east of Valparaiso, Ind., and was cut to pieces. He was formerly a conductor. He leaves a widow. His remains were taken to Hastings for burial.

William McComb of Troop E, Third cavalry, who was wounded in the left foot at Santiago, is a Muskegon boy, the son of George T. McComb. McComb had served five years in the regular army, his term of service expiring last month. He re-enlisted at once.

There is an odd bicycle thief in Hillsdale. He stole a man's wheel the other night, and the next night brought it back minus the tires, which were evidently all he wanted.

The Detroit and River St. Clair Railroad ran several excursion trains over the line between Chesterfield and Algonac, stopping at New Baltimore, Anchorville and Fair Haven.

The corner stone of the new Evangelical Lutheran Church was laid at Salem. Address was made by Rev. W. H. Alter of Jackson, Rev. A. E. Craig and Rev. W. T. Jaques of Detroit.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

SERIOUS SUBJECTS CAREFULLY CONSIDERED.

A Scholarly Exposition of the Lesson—Thoughts Worthy of Calm Reflection—Half an Hour's Study of the Scriptures—Time Well Spent.

Lesson for July 24.

Golden Text—"Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him."—Ps. 37: 7.

In this lesson we study "Elijah's Flight and Encouragement." The Scripture portion allotted is 1 Kings 19: 1-16. The verses that followed the last lesson narrated the ride of Ahab from Carmel to Jezreel during the beginning of the great rain, with Elijah running before his chariot. Jezreel lies at the eastern end of the Plain of Esdraelon, and at the head of the Valley of Jezreel, which runs down to the Jordan Valley. It was a favorite summer residence of Ahab. When the king saw Jezreel, and reported the tragic events of the afternoon, her rage knew no bounds. This lesson tells of Elijah's flight from the angry queen.

Explanatory.

"So let the gods do to me, and more also, if I make not thy life," etc. This rather vague-sounding phrase is an oath, so common in Hebrew that usually the first part of it is omitted. "So let the gods do to me" is a sort of euphemism for some horrible fate, which the person prays may come upon him if he does not perform some specified act. In ordinary language the oath would be something like this: "May the gods punish me in the most terrible way if I fail to have you killed before to-morrow."

Elijah may have done right when he ran away; at the same time, it seems to us that, with the tremendous advantage he had won by the remarkable scenes of that eventful day, he could easily have won a sufficient following among the people to protect himself from hired assassins of the revengeful queen. The spirit of his flight is indicated, however, by the following verses. It was one of great depression and fear, though not of cowardice. It was a long journey that he took, from Jezreel southward, probably along the western slopes of the central range, to Beersheba in the extreme south of Judah, about opposite the southern end of the Dead Sea.

Elijah was evidently afraid to stop even at Beersheba, because that was within the realm of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and so within communication with Ahab. So, leaving his servant behind, the prophet hurried on southward into the desert, inhabited only by roving bands of Edomites. The "juniper tree" under which he sat is said by naturalists to be a bush of the broom family, which grows to a considerable height and casts a shade that is very pleasant in a hot country. Elijah was thoroughly tired out in body and mind, and it is no wonder he was despondent. We have heard preachers make desperate attempts to be funny at Elijah's expense. "I am not better than my fathers," said Elijah. "Well, who said you were?" responds a ministerial joker. The counsel of such a man would not be worth much when one is tired out and despondent, as Elijah was. There is never anything amusing in a strong man's weakness. It may be incongruous, and unreasonable, wrong; but it is not matter for laughter. You cannot usually joke a man or a woman out of such desperation. Of course cheerfulness is desirable, and the right sort of consolation is always cheerful. But it is of little use to laugh at a man that is in trouble unless you can make him laugh at himself; and even then, sometimes matters are not much improved. Discouraged people are likely to be unreasonable. They have already exhausted most of the resources of reason before they become discouraged. What they need is not argument, but faith.

God knew where his prophet was, even when he was asleep under a bush "forty miles from nowhere." This was a decided surprise to Elijah. It was a surprise to Jonah. It is a surprise to most of us today, when we seek to escape from ourselves, to discover that wherever we go our conscience and our God may still be found.

What passage of equal length in the Old Testament exceeds this (verses 9-18) in simple grandeur and unapproachable majesty? The situation may be compared with that of the prophet Habakkuk, who also was puzzled and discouraged by the seeming inconsistency of Jehovah's action, and was reassured by the case of Job. But Elijah's answer comes in "a voice of soft stillness" which brought him no soothing words, no explanation of divine mysteries, but a command to go back to work and to provide for the continuance of that work in the future. That, after all, is the message that we most need from God. No less lofty voice of grief and grief and pain, but a command to go back to work and to provide for the continuance of that work in the future. COUNTY AND VICINITY.

County agent P. J. Lehman reports that during the year ending June 30 there were fourteen children arrested for criminal offences in Washtenaw county.

Little Blanche Farmington is the smallest and youngest girl bicycle rider in town, being but seven years old and one of the most graceful riders here.—Milan Leader.

Henry Lammers, who lives northeast of this village, lost two calves a few days ago by poison. The grass they ate was probably infected by paris green blown from potato vines.—Grass Lake News.

The grave of Emma Moeckel, who was so wickedly and wantonly shot by Louis Heydlauff, is now marked by a neat monument. The red handed murderer of the poor girl is working in an Ann Arbor meat market.—Grass Lake News.

The Howell water works have reached the self sustaining point, and has received a large patronage from our people than the most sanguine expectations had predicted, and calls are made for taps of the mains by still more patrons.—Livingston Herald.

Deputy Register Frank Creech says that while sitting on his front porch the other night an aged pair went by in a wagon. Just then a bicyclist shot past. "Ain't them bicycles funny. You see some coat tails, smell some cigarette smoke, and it is all over."—Washtenaw Times.

It is reported that a farmer of the name of Remington, living about five miles southeast of this village, has lost a horse, as is alleged, by starvation. It is also represented that another horse about six years old, will die from a like cause. It doesn't seem possible that in the midst of plenty with which the earth is covered such a thing could occur. We hope the report is untrue. Our informant stated that much indignation existed in the neighborhood over the matter.—Grass Lake News.

According to the Patrol, Bruce Coltrin, of Jackson, is a great fancier of Angora goats, and has a world of faith in the practicability of raising them in this country. The goat eats everything in sight and its fleece, called mohair, finds a ready market and brings a fancy price.

The high kick practice being indulged in on the front steps at the Congregational church just before dark every evening by young maidens just blooming into womanhood, brings out the fact that we have some very supple females in the village. The girls are evidently fitting themselves for ballet girls or something of that sort.—Clinton Local.

Until recently, for many years, Lucius Tubbs was the village drayman of Dexter. He was accustomed to pay the freight bills of the merchants of the village and did not present or collect the bills from them, so that he has now over $700 of freight bills. His wife undertook to collect them in the hands of an attorney, who it is understood will commence suit against several of Dexter merchants.

The terrible burning from gasoline which Mrs. Esther A. Pike suffered a few days ago at her boarding house, 303 Miller ave., resulted fatally. Death came at 4 o'clock this morning. The deceased was 48 years of age. She held policies in the L. O. T. M. and Star of Bethlehem for $1,000 each. The funeral will be held Sunday. Ann Arbor is having more than its share of fatalities this year.—Washtenaw Times.

Dr. Chas. S. Chadwick's pet wim. goat has been "planted," owing, it is said, to too much small boy and water. The author of the contemptible deed is a Toledo conglomerate of red hair, red eyes, freckles and vile cussedness. He pulled the goat into the water at Wolf Lake and held it under with his feet until it drowned. That boy would be benefitted by a few years' stay at the state reform school.—Grass Lake News.

It may not be generally known, but there lives in this city today the first white person ever born in Ann Arbor. That person is John S. Nowland, of E. Huron st. He was born in his father's hotel, located near the spring at the foot of N. State st. hill, on June 13, 1826. This makes him 72 years old. With the exception of 22 years spent on a farm tour and a half miles west of the city, Mr. Nowland has lived here continuously.—Washtenaw Times.

Judge Babbitt makes a very encouraging report of things seen and learned at Camp Thomas. He reports the boys as all strong and well, excepting three or four of the entire regiment. He saw them drill and was greatly pleased with their appearance. Their camp is in excellent order, and their food supplies abundant and of first class quality, such as would satisfy the most fastidious over their own tables; besides it is well cooked, as tasting convinced him. He says the boys are anxious to go to the front, curious to see just how the Spaniards look.—Ypsilanti.

William Matchett, of Division st., was the subject of a big write up from the Kansas City papers recently. A week ago tonight he was attending a dance and while enjoying the amusement with a prominent young society lady she suddenly died. Mr. Matchett is a senior medic, and he, examining her pronounced that life was already extinct. In the meantime some prominent physicians were called in and they roughly brushed him aside and said he was nothing but a boy—that the young lady had simply fainted and ordered her removed to the hospital. They tried all means of resuscitation, of course without avail, and a post mortem examination held revealed the fact that she had been dead for some time. All the Kansas City papers puffed the young medical student for knowing the real condition of the young lady and rather roasted the doctors.—Washtenaw Times.

Tip Waterman had a dog that he prized very highly. The dog is dead, and Tip is very sad these days. On Wednesday Tip met a friend who had been rejected at Island Lake, and Tip, his friend and the dog went out for a stroll. The friend got too familiar with the dog, and as a sort of souvenir for his friendship the dog took hold of the friend's cheek leaving several teeth marks. A demand was made to have the dog killed. On a second thought a compromise was offered and Tip was to pay a dollar to the injured soldier. Tip had no dollar, having spent what he had had entertaining his friend. So the dog had to be shot. The three proceeded to the woods, accompanied by "Doc" Hudson. The deed was done, the dog was buried and as a parting salute Tip gave vent to his feeling through tears. "Doc" sang a hymn and they returned a dejected looking trio.—Plymouth Mail.

INDIGESTION-DYSPEPSIA.

The Results of the New Cure for Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia.

Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer, a wellspring of life, is pouring into thousands of homes today; stubborn cases that have baffled all other remedies yield to the efficacy of this marvelous treatment, and permanent cures are the inevitable results from its use. For sale by Druggists of Chelsea.

A book on Stomach and Nerve troubles, their symptoms and cure, will be given free for the asking at above mentioned drug stores. Read following statement: To Whom It May Concern: To those suffering from stomach and nerve trouble I wish to recommend Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer. About 20 years ago I began to be troubled with my stomach. It gradually grew worse, even under treatment, until it became difficult for me to eat any kind of food with comfort. For the past five years I have been able to retain very little food of the simplest nature long enough to digest it. Scarcely during this time have I enjoyed sleep throughout the entire night, and usually have been obliged to leave my bed in consequence of my stomach and nerve troubles. My bowels were very much relaxed, said to be due to inflammation of the membrane of the intestines. I was treated by physicians, and tried nearly every known remedy recommended for my troubles with no lasting benefit, and usually not even temporary relief. On the 5th day of January, '98, I purchased a package of Drake's Dyspepsia Cure and Nerve Restorer and Nerve Restorer and I wish every dyspeptic knew how much I have improved from its use. My food does not distress me as it did and I have no trouble in retaining it, I sleep well and feel refreshed therefrom, and although I have used only one package of the medicine, I can safely say that I am 75 per cent better than I have been during the past 20 years. Yours respectfully,
MRS. GIDEON STODDARD,
Litchfield, Mich., January 24, 1898.

If some philanthropist wishes to erect a enduring monument he now has the chance, by putting in a drinking fountain for both man and beast.

Frank Tucker, the well known theatrical manager, who has made several tours through Michigan, has arrived at Ann Arbor to undergo an amputation of the left leg, which has withered.

O. E. Butterfield of Ann Arbor has been made the Michigan member of the executive committee of the League of Republican clubs at Omaha, and W. W. Wedemeyer has been made a vice-president.

There will be regular services at the Baptist church during the absence of the pastor conducted by Rev. Wilkinson of Illinois, a minister of considerable reputation as a speaker in the Baptist denomination.

Arrangements are being made to hold a Union Sunday-school picnic and rally at North Lake, on Wednesday, August 10. Chelsea, Sylvan, North Lake, Dexter, Pinckney, Lima, Unadilla, Gregory, Stockbridge and Plainfield will participate.

Agents are working the rural school district with sets of reading charts, using bogus recommendation from Superintendent Hammond. The charts are in error and the agents ask $37 for them. Superintendent Hammond has issued a warning to school officers to be on the lookout for these men.

Rev. S. A. Northrup, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Kansas City, a son of Rev. W. R. Northrup of this place, says that he has received into the church during twenty-one years of ministry 1,520 persons, attended 1,420 funerals, married 1,306 couples, have averaged a sermon or an address each day in that time.

The board of pardons have refused to liberate Robert Vicary, who was sentenced from this county September 1, 1897, to eighteen months at Ionia. Vicary's crime was the larceny of $69 from Orson Beeman, treasurer of the Lyndon school district. Vicary was in the employ of Beeman and during the absence of the family made a swipe on the money.

Somebody has been trying his hand on the word "habit," and he words it thus: "Habit is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter it does not change it 'bit'." If you take off another you have a "bit" left. If you take off still another the whole of it remains. You take off another and it is not 't' totally used up. All of which goes to show that if you want to get rid of a habit you must throw it off altogether, and at once. It cannot be done a part at a time.

Persons desiring water should apply to the secretary and obtain permit to tap main and use water, for which a charge of $7.50 is made, $2.50 of which is applied on water rates. This brings the water to the curb, from there at your own expense. Other information regarding water works cheerfully given to those who are desirous of obtaining the same from the village, by H. K. Turnbull, secretary. On application now will insure your getting water sooner than if you wait until the pipes are all in, as the plumbers cannot do all the work in a minute.

Arrangements are being made for a two days base ball tournament to be held in this place in the near future.

There have been a large number of Chelsea republicans at Ann Arbor the last two days whooping it up for Wedemeyer for congress.

Died, on Tuesday, July 19, at his home in White Oak, Warner Johnson, aged 65 years. He was the father of Mrs. Geo. Whitaker, and a brother of Mrs. J. C. Winans and Mrs. L. Conk.

D. B. Taylor has purchased the property on north Main street that belonged to Mrs. P. Westfall and has moved the house to the north and will run a street through to Polk street, thus place a number of building lots on the market.

James Clark, Arthur Vance and Charles Kaiser of this place, added the Grass Lake boys in walloping an aggregation of ex-state leaguers at Brooklyn, in an unevenly contested game of base ball last Tuesday. At the end of the game the score stood 16 to 4 in favor of Grass Lake. The feature of the game was the star playing of C. Kaiser in right field who made several brilliant catches.

M. L. Beebe, for many years a grocer in Jackson, was found at Chelsea, Tuesday morning in a demented condition. He left home Sunday with a horse and buggy, and later in the day was at Hanover and Horton, the horse having the appearance of being driven nearly to death. Towards night he was seen walking through Manchester and said he was in a hurry to get home. His horse was found dead within a few miles of Manchester. He was allowed to proceed on his way and Deputy Staffan, found him, and took him home.

The concert at the Baptist church Friday evening was a fine entertainment and was listened to by a good audience by far the larger portion being on the outside of the church. The piano playing by Misses Wallace and Mensing was excellent and showed training and much musical ability and were accorded hearty encores. The vocal solos by Miss Grace Gates were beautifully rendered, and received liberal applause. Master Freddy Daley, the boy soprano, is, indeed, a wonder. Miss Winifred Gale, Chelsea's favorite reader, fully sustained her reputation.

Private Don Stark of Ann Arbor, who had his right arm shot off and hip wounded in the Agudores fight, is able to limp around the streets here, clad in a suit of pajamas borrowed from an officer at the fort (nearly all the boys arrived here almost naked). He is easily the hero of the hour. Ladies flock around him and beg leave to take snap shots with cameras, while the men all want to buy him drinks. Stark's gun which was badly twisted by a shell, is also the object of considerable interest. Stark says he was standing in line with Seabright, Wilson and Frank Lawson of Lawton, when the shell exploded right in front of them, killing Seabright and Wilson and maiming the other two. DEWEY'S QUICK WORK

BOMBARDS SPANISH FORTIFICATIONS AT SUBIG BAY.

Makes Captive 500 Dons and Teaches a German Commander to Mind His Own Business—Had Protected Spaniards from Attack by Insurgents.

Victory Was Complete. Admiral Dewey has gained another victory in the Philippines. The Spanish garrison on Grand Island, Subig bay, is now in the possession of the Americans. Col. Rio, commander of the Spanish forces, and 500 men were taken prisoners. Six hundred Mauser rifles, 40,000 rounds of ammunition and one Hotchkiss gun were also captured. So suddenly was the attack made by Dewey's ships that not a shot was fired by the Spaniards, and the most important harbor in the Philippines, next to Manila, was secured without the sacrifice of a single life.

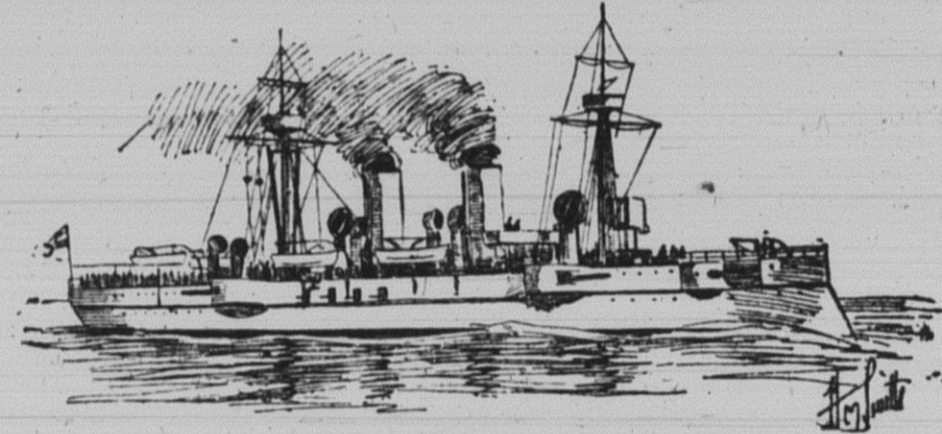

July 6 Gen. Aguinaldo, the insurgent chief, reported to the admiral that his soldiers controlled all the Subig bay ports except Grand Island, which was held by a strong Spanish garrison. He also reported that the German boat Irene refused to permit them to attack the Spaniards on Grand Island. Admiral Dewey early on July 7 dispatched the Raleigh and Concord to take Grand Island and capture the garrison. Almost before daylight the ships steamed close to Grand Island, and before the Spanish sentries knew what was going on American shells were pouring into the torpedo station and the earthworks. Both the station and earthworks were soon a mass of ruins, but still the enemy showed no indications of surrendering.

"Throw a shell into the commander's house," ordered Captain Coghlan of the Raleigh. "Those fellows don't seem to be in a hurry to show the white colors." A six-inch shell from the Raleigh was sent toward the enemy, and the aim was true. It went tearing through the Spanish commander's house, and the white flag was instantly shown. Lieut. Rodman of the Raleigh and Ensign Napier of the Concord were placed in command of a landing party, and Col. Rio surrendered with his entire force and arms. The seizure was accomplished with such dash that it astounded the Germans and other foreigners at Manila. The place was captured almost before the foreigners knew that such a step was contemplated. The German warship Irene quickly withdrew when the engagement began.

Admiral Dewey's possession of Subig bay defeats Germany's supposed plans to interfere in the Philippines. The insurgents captured the valuable merchant steamer named Philippinas, and it was their intention to land rebel troops on Grand Island and attack the Spanish garrison. Insurgent officers on the Philippinas say the Germans on the Irene ordered them away from Subig bay, and they were afraid to attack for fear of being fired upon from the emperor's warship. When this situation was reported to Admiral Dewey he at once decided to attack the Spaniards on Grand Island.

MOVE ON PORTO RICO.

Advance on Second Spanish Island Has Actually Begun.

The movement of the American army on Porto Rico may be said to have begun. No troops have left our shores openly consigned to the island, but the continued forwarding of additional regiments to Santiago when it is recognized that Gen. Shafter has as large an army as he needs in the reality of the laying of the foundation of the Porto Rican expeditionary force, and the hurry orders that have been sent to the southern concentration camps for the making ready of large bodies of troops for early movement mark the preparation for the superstructure. The determination of the War Department to send a formidable force for the capture of Porto Rico has been strengthened by the resistance made by the Spaniards in Santiago. The expedition to go against Porto Rico will consist of between 25,000 and 30,000 men. It is not doubted that this American force, with the help of the fleet, will be ample to take the island.

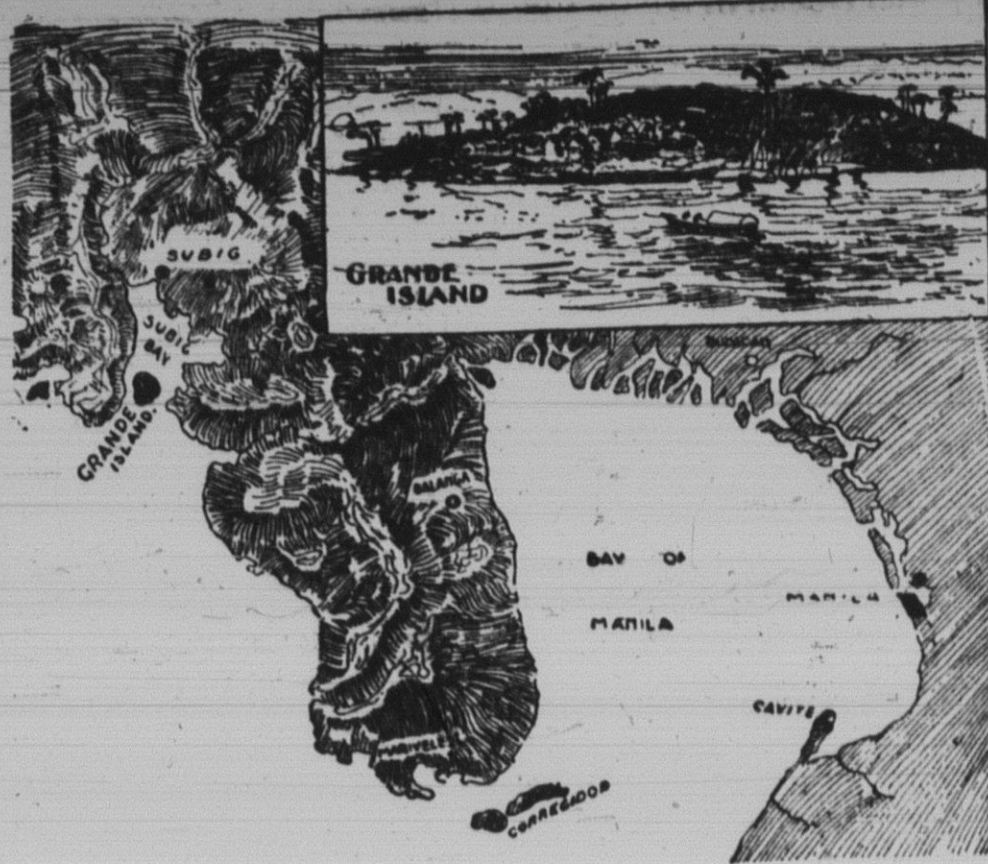

Only Ten Amputations.

Shafter reports that those wounded in the first Santiago fight are in good spirits. Their wounds are much less dangerous than those made with 45-caliber bullets. Among the large number of wounded there are few amputations—perhaps ten.

Vultures Devour the Bodies.

The wrecked Spanish cruisers at Santiago are still filled with charred bodies, and vultures are devouring the remains. The Cubans, by Admiral Sampson's orders, have buried over 100 Spaniards who were washed ashore.

GRANDE ISLAND AND SUBIG BAY, TAKEN BY DEWEY.

SAGASTA GIVES UP.

Prime Minister of Spain Resigns His Position.

The ministerial crisis in Spain which has been imminent and inevitable for some time appears to have occurred at last. It is reported that Sagasta called upon the Queen Regent and tendered his own resignation and that of the entire cabinet. While nothing definite is said in the dispatches about the significance of the action, there seems to be little doubt that it is directly due to the general conviction that the time is at hand for the initiation of peace overtures. There are apparently irreconcilable differences of opinion in the present ministry on this vital question, and at least a partial reconstruction has become necessary.

SIBONEY IS BURNED.

Health Authorities of the Army Take Radical Measures.

The miserable little town of Siboney now lies in ashes. It was burned under the orders of the army health authorities. Almost every building of the fifty which straggled along the irregular bluff was set afire and the Cuban inhabitants fled to the caves in the overhanging hillside for shelter. The action was taken at the urgent request of Maj. Legaro of the hospital corps and served the joint purpose of ridding the hospital camp of the unhealthy and dirty buildings and driving away scores of Cuban followers whose presence was a serious inconvenience to the hospital workers.

PRISONERS ARE QUARTERED.

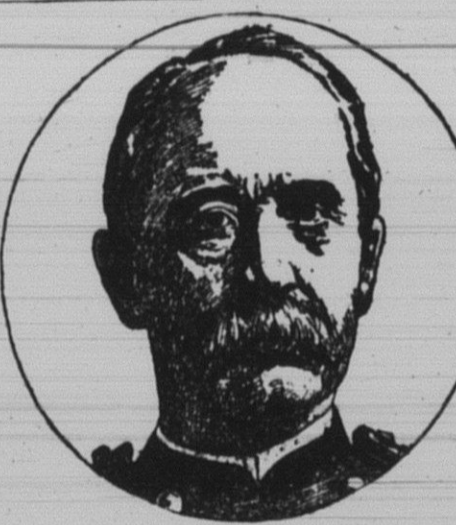

Spaniards Transferred from the St. Louis to Seavey's Island.

All the Spanish prisoners from the auxiliary cruiser St. Louis, with the exception of Cervera and his officers, are now quartered in the hospital and half finished stockade on Seavey's Island. Two Gatling guns manned by marines from down upon the prisoners from the ship

"YELLOW JACK" IN THE FIELD.

Advices Say the Scourge Has Made Its Appearance Before Santiago.

Under the white flag of truce the most formidable ally of the Spanish army, yellow fever, has crept out of Santiago and fallen with appalling force upon the American forces. Gradually the details were whispered about Washington. It was said the scourge had actually reached the army and that over a hundred cases were reported. The situation is pictured as distressingly bad, the terrible rains and floods doing their share to add to the army's misery. Gen. Miles reports that he has taken steps to isolate the yellow fever patients and to remove the refugees far enough away to prevent the disease from being communicated any further.

Surgeon General Sternberg, one of the greatest experts on the subject, has strongly urged that no prolonged sieges be conducted. He represents that if the troops are long subjected to the conditions which are reported to have prevailed at Santiago a general epidemic of yellow fever is almost certain to break out. Gen. Sternberg believes a long siege of any Cuban city at this season would result in greater disaster to the men than the bullets of the enemy. He thinks it preferable to sustain some losses through gun fire than to subject the entire army to a general outbreak of fever.

MAIL FOR SOLDIER BOYS.

Through Defects in Addresses Many Letters Go Astray.

The Postoffice Department is experiencing considerable trouble in forwarding mail to the army and navy because of letters being improperly addressed. All mail matter, as far as possible, is made up in separate pouches for regiments and companies, but many letters are found in the mails without indicating the company or regiment in which the addressee is serving. If the public would be particular to let the company and regiment appear on the envelope, it would insure the prompt delivery of the letter. Otherwise it may be necessary to send some of this mail to the dead letter office, in which case it would eventually be returned to the writer.

"HEAD MONEY" FOR JACKIES.

$200,000 for the Brave Men Who Destroyed Cervera's Fleet.

Something like $200,000 will be paid by this Government as "head money" to the brave officers and sailors who destroyed Cervera's fleet. This is according to the law, which provides payment of $100 a head for every man on the ships of an enemy when these ships are destroyed. Admiral Sampson will receive over $10,000 as his share and Commodore Schley will receive only about $4,000 of the "head money." It is estimated that Captains Taylor, Evans, Phillip, Chadwick, Higginson, Clark and Cook will receive about $2,500 each. After the other officers of the warships receive their share the remainder will be divided among the sailors, who may receive something like $20 each.

NO PRISONERS WERE KILLED.

Shafter Officially Denies the Alleged Atrocities by Cubans.

The War Department posted the following dispatch, which effectually disposes of the charges made by a sensational New York paper that the Cuban contingent at Santiago had been murdering Spanish prisoners. The message reads:

Secretary War, Washington: Dispatch as to killing prisoners by Cubans absolutely false. No prisoners have been turned over to them, and they have shown no disposition to treat badly any Spaniards who have fallen into their hands.

SANTIAGO IS SHELLED

SLAUGHTER AND DESTRUCTION ARE APPALLING.

Spaniards Are Driven Back at Every Sortie and Many of the Finest Buildings Are Reduced to Dust—Ships Fire 106 Shots.

Sight Was Sickening.

A general bombardment began on Santiago Monday at 9:35 in the morning. Many of the finest buildings in the city were reduced to dust. The slaughter and devastation became so great and so sickening to the sight that Gen. Shafter again sent word begging a surrender of the city before it was entirely destroyed. The Spaniards fought like demons, but were driven back at every attempt that savored of a sortie. The battleships Indiana and New York and the cruiser Brooklyn, from their position outside the harbor, shelled the city. These terrible missiles of destruction, mostly eight and ten-inch shells, were hurled into the city from a distance of over six miles. Simultaneously with the havoc caused by the shells from the battleships the army batteries and rifle pits poured in their deadly fire. There were 106 discharges from the ships, 101 of the shells counting.

When the morning mist which enveloped the Spanish line lifted Gen. Shafter ordered that each shot be aimed at some particular object and the firing at intervals of ten minutes. No Gatling guns were used. The infantry did little firing, and only for the purpose of picking off individual Spaniards. The marksmanship was excellent, as evinced by an occasional headlong plunge of a hostile sharpshooter from a tree. The Spanish batteries fired four rounds harmlessly. Simultaneously with the land attack, the New York and Brooklyn moved close to the shore at Aguadores. The New York wig-wagged to the beach. Signals went to the crest of the ridge to observe the effect of the shells. The first shell was an eight-inch from the New York, fired at a high elevation. The men on the ridge telephoned Shafter, and an hour later signaled to the New York. The gunners changed the range and fired a second shot. Again a wait, more signaling and fine calculation by the gunners. The third shell finally sped over the hill. The signal men were soon wig-wagging excitedly, the officers reported, and the jackies on the New York cheered; they had the right range at last. Then the firing began in earnest. The range was 6,500 yards and the direction was north by 27 degrees west. The New York fired at five-minute intervals. At its eighteenth shot the Brooklyn moved in and at the twenty-sixth began firing. Her fire, like that of the New York, was slow. The Indiana joined in and swung her turrets to starboard, listing the ship. She then opened with a broadside from her 8-inch guns, firing much faster than the New York and Brooklyn. The shore telephone line was ever active, and the wig-wag men on the hill were busy telling of the effectiveness of the fire.

At 12:45, the shore signaled that Shafter had sent a flag of truce to the enemy and the firing ceased. At 1 o'clock Shafter sent Major Noble into the Spanish lines, demanding surrender. Just as the ships ceased action the Yale arrived with Gen. Miles on board. The Yale sailed around the flagship and was liberally cheered. Gen. Miles landed at Siboney and made an inspection.

Madrid Ready with Excuses.

A Madrid dispatch states that the American warships which engaged Admiral Cervera's squadron at Santiago used petroleum shells similar to those that were employed by Admiral Dewey at Cavite, and that those caused the fires that broke out on the Spanish ships.

Capt. Gridley's Ashes.

On board the steamer Rio de Janeiro, which arrived at San Francisco from Hong Kong and Yokohama, via Honolulu, was an urn containing the ashes of Captain Gridley, formerly captain of the Olympia. They were sent to Mrs. Gridley at once.

The Navy Department received information Wednesday that the wrecking vessels sent to southern Cuba for the purpose of attempting to raise the four Spanish cruisers sunk in the battle with Sampson's ships had reached their destination.

SANTIAGO IS OURS.

General Toral Surrenders to Shafter and Sampson.

FELL WITHOUT FIGHT

Spaniards Saw the Utter Futility of Further Resistance.

Unconditional Capitulation Was the Demand from Washington, Naming of Terms to Be Left to the Discretion and Generosity of Victors—Spanish Commander Agrees to All the Terms Offered by the United States—The Prisoners to Be Sent Back to Spain.

Washington Special.

Santiago is ours. The capitulation of the city came at noon Thursday. The United States land troops under Miles and Shafter had completely surrounded the beleaguered Spanish stronghold, and Sampson's fleet was lined up ready to throw its terribly destructive shells right into the heart of the doomed town. General Toral saw the utter futility of further resistance, and shortly before the truce extended to the Spaniards had expired he asked for the appointment of commissioners to arrange terms of surrender. Shafter wired Toral's request to Washington, where the Spanish proposition for commissioners was promptly declined and the order went out that nothing short of an unconditional surrender, and that immediately, would be considered.

The conference at the White House over General Shafter's message regarding commissioners lasted only about ten minutes before an answer to the dispatch was framed. In this dispatch General Shafter was instructed to carry out the orders last sent him—namely, to secure the surrender of Santiago by noon or to renew the attack upon the city. The dispatch to General Shafter bidding him notify Toral that he must fight or surrender unconditionally without further parley was sent from the White House within a few minutes of 12 o'clock noon. Then there was nearly two hours of anxious waiting before the news was received announcing Santiago's fall, and that the Spanish general had concluded to quit on condition that he and his men be allowed to return to Spain. These terms were such as the American commander could accept, and the end was therefore hailed as at hand. Indeed, it had been informally decided at the conference between the President and Secretary of War earlier in the day, in the event of the capture of the garrison, to send the prisoners to Spain. This will accordingly be done as the best possible way of disposing of the Spaniards, who would otherwise be an expensive charge upon us.

The statement that the Spanish proposition embraces all eastern Cuba, from Aserradero to Sagua, is important, in that it shows the surrender to embrace all the harbor and contiguous territory of Santiago. It does not include Holguin and Manzanillo, where the Spaniards are reported to have considerable bodies of soldiers, as these places are to the west of the surrendered zone.

The report of the surrender spread like wildfire. It was the most welcome news that had been received in Washington since the tidings of the destruction of Cervera's fleet. It lifted a terrible load from the minds of the President and his advisers. They had been dreading the worst and had been bracing themselves to hear of a dreadful struggle. They had fully made up their minds that the immediate conclusion of the campaign at any cost was an imperative military necessity. That the end should have been so quickly, so bloodlessly and so satisfactorily reached is hailed with intense satisfaction in administration circles. That Toral should have consented to the surrender of the whole of eastern Cuba was even more than had been expected. In reality, though, there was little left of the eastern end of the island to give up after the fall of Santiago, but that little is now given up to the American general.

The transportation of the surrendered Spanish troops to Spain is a matter of detail. Of more immediate and urgent importance will be the expeditious removal of our own troops to points where they will be free from danger of yellow fever. That can be done by a few hours' march into the hills or prompt starting of an expedition to Porto Rico. Enthusiastic people see in the fall of Santiago and eastern Cuba the speedy end of the war. This belief is not generally entertained in official quarters. It will unquestionably hasten the end, however.

News of Minor Note.

Peace agitation is spreading in the provinces of Spain.

It is again hinted that there will soon be a third call for troops.

The actual cash expenditures on account of the war thus far amount to $60,000,000.

The Pope is reported to be greatly dejected by the destruction of Cervera's fleet at Santiago.

CLAIM TITLE TO THRONE

Some of the Pretenders to the Crown of Spain and France.

The profession of the royal pretensions is very much overdone in Europe now. A Madrid editor has found a man who thinks they have claims to the crown of France, besides any number who think that they have paramount rights to the throne of Spain, and a purple of small Italian principlings. The most interesting of the Spanish pretenders is not Don Carlos, but a man whose name is seldom mentioned outside the Iberian peninsula. He is the duke of Medina-Celi, chief descendant of the faith, fourteen-fold grandchild of direct descendant of Ferdinand and Isabella. For him and his family race of Bourbon-Anjou, who now reign in Spain, are nothing more than usurpers. As often as a new king of Spain is crowned the duke's herald appears at the palace, and, in the presence of the grandees of Spain, protests in the name of his lord against this usurpation, sets forth the claim of the Medinaceli to the throne and challenges the knight who may venture to dispute the legitimacy of the duke's rights to defend his opinion in a duel to the death "on the mountain or on the plain, day or by night."

As no grandee of Spain has ever been fit to take the duke and his herald seriously the head of the house of Medina-Celi has been left free to use the income from his enormous estates on his fads and to make perennially of his numerous estates. It is said he can travel from one end of Spain to the other and sleep every night in one of his own houses. Under these circumstances he has proved a less troublesome pretender than Don Carlos. This chief of Spanish pretenders once so impoverished that, with help of his secretary, he tried to enter into the gold chain of his Order of the Golden Fleece. By the death of Count Chambard and some luck in a rummy, however, he was eventually able to lay up a fortune again, and away from the goldsmiths and pawnbrokers.

A group of pretenders who are really bankrupt afflict the Italian thrones. At almost any time one can find in the continental newspapers paragraphs concerning the difficulties which a count of Aquila, or Trapani, or Syracuse, is having with the throne. A census of pretenders has not been taken. A partial list of those who think that they have valid claims to the throne of France was published recently, however. They are Don Carlos XIII, king of Spain; Don Sebastian's son by his second wife, the duke of Parma; Louis Philippe of Orleans. All these gentlemen are descendants of Louis XIII. of France. The one to announce his pretensions to the world is Gen. Francis of Bourbon, suddenly began calling himself Duke Anjou after the count of Paris and sent out a manifesto concerning his claims. This course has been a disaster to him, for he has been deprived not only of his command of the Spanish army, but also of the army that went with it—London Bits.

Concerning Clothes.

Of all men, tramps and peevish least about their appearance. Indifference to public opinion of clothes is indeed an enviable state of mind. I have always liked the old fellow who at home dressed badly because every one knew and badly when he traveled because no one knew him. He was a few men who have had the dress to please themselves. He dresses to please other people, even then, it must be added, rarely succeeds.

The late Prof. Fawcett objected to principle to making himself comfortable by dressing for dinner. He had a very charming way of doing things and propitiating his guests. He had upstairs, he would tell her, an excellent dress suit for her, he had paid a high price, and would be any satisfaction to the party his secretary would be down and display it.

But one has to be a Prof. Fawcett to carry off such an idiosyncrasy. At many dinner parties the guests have been asked as much on account of clothes as their wit—the man who wears a wedding garment in the parlance of intellect. A good dinner tells how Dean Stanley once sat at table with one side of his collar hanging in the air. During the meal he asked him if he would change his condition, and if he would assistance in rectifying it.

"Oh, no," he replied gently, "I broke while I was dressing. I mind. Do you?" These are the kind of envious.—Cornhill Magazine.

Englishman Made a Mistake.

An Englishman was once seen to see a game of base-ball, and the play, when he happened to be away for a moment, a foul hit him on the ear and knocked him down. On coming to himself he faintly, "What was it?" "A foul," he said. "Good heavens!" he cried, "I thought it was a mule."

Sheep Raising in Connecticut.

Connecticut produces but a small number of the sheep kept in the State. The number of sheep kept in 1840, 403,462 in 1840, to 46,730 in 1890. According to the census, the average weight of fleeces has been from 2.25 to 7.38 pounds.

A man looks once at a girl's woman looks twice at her dress.

More work would be done if it wasn't such slow motion.
