GRANTED A DIVORCE.

Mrs. J. L. Hudson is granted a Divorce On Account of Cruelty.

One of the most recent sensational divorce cases at Detroit was that in which Mrs. J. L. Hudson, a former pastor of the M. E. church of this place, was the defendant.

Mrs. J. L. Hudson, the complainant, was accompanied by her eldest son, about 25 years of age, who is studying at Ann Arbor. Another son is also a student there. She told the story of her domestic troubles and tears and sobs. They were married twenty nine years ago in Manchester, Washington county, by a brother of Mrs. Hudson, a minister. The trouble began in 1863, when Mr. Hudson was sent to Alpena. He was removed from his pastorate there in May, 1867, because of clandestine meetings.

Mrs. Hudson said, with a young woman, which finally became a public scandal. She stated that her husband promised to mend his ways, but that he did not keep his word and that last February he informed her that he had no more affection for her or the children, and left her. She said she owned a home in Detroit, but that she had been compelled to rent it and secure cheaper rooms in order to support herself and family. She was given a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty.

Sarah Maria Skidmore.

Died, September 4, 1898, at the home of her son-in-law, Collin Babcock, at Grass Lake, Sarah Maria, wife of Elnathan Skidmore, aged 71 years and 7 days. Sarah Maria Hatch was born in Ghoram, Ontario county, N. Y., on the 28th day of August, 1827. In 1851 her father brought his family to Michigan, and in 1842 made a final settlement in the town of Sylvan. In 1847 she was married to Aaron Lawrence of Pittsfield, Mich., with whom she lived until 1862, when he died, leaving two daughters—Ella, now Mrs. Babcock of Grass Lake, and Myra, who died in 1878, the wife of Harmon S. Holmes. In 1865 Mrs. Lawrence came to Chelsea, where she has since resided. In July, 1892, she was married to Mr. Skidmore.

Of the numerous mourners for the departure of Mrs. Skidmore, those nearest to her heart were her husband's daughter, Mrs. Babcock, her grandson Lawrence Babcock, to whom she was specially and greatly attached, one brother, W. P. Hatch of Chelsea, and two sisters, Mrs. Esther A. Crafts of Sharon, and Mrs. Calista E. Congdon of Berkeley, Cal. Many others, however, are greatly grieved and saddened by her departure. She was a worthy and exemplary member of the Chelsea Congregational church, for more than thirty years, was a woman of many rare virtues, was greatly beloved by all who knew her, and this entire community will greatly feel and deplore her loss.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Congregational church. The sermon was by her former pastor, Rev. Thomas Holmes, prayer by her present pastor, Rev. J. S. Edmunds. Her remains were deposited in Chelsea's beautiful burial place, Oak Grove cemetery. How we shall miss her!

For County Clerk.

Allen V. Mills, city clerk of Ann Arbor, would like to be the republican nominee for county clerk. He is well known all over the county, having published a directory of the county for a number of years. He is a graduate of the university and is well qualified to perform the duties of the office. He was elected city clerk of Ann Arbor the first time by a majority of over 500; the second time the democrats endorsed his nomination, not being able to find anyone who would make the run against him. He is a champion of the cause of organized labor, and has helped them fight many a battle.

When They Write the President.

The State Department has given over to "The Ladies Home Journal" for publication its "Royal letters" addressed to the President of the United States by Napoleon I. Queen Victoria, the Prince of Wales, Napoleon III, and Emperor William I of Germany. Napoleon announces such events as his marriage to Marie Louise, the birth of his son, the King of Rome, his return to the throne of France from Elba, Victoria announces her accession to the throne of England in 1838, her marriage to Prince Albert, the birth of the Prince Consort, and the death of the Prince Consort, and the famous letter thanking President McKinley for his congratulations on her Diamond Jubilee will also be given. The whole collection, in fac-simile, will be presented in the October number of the magazine.

VOLUNTEERS OF HAVANA.

How They Were Won With a Pocket Handkerchief Promise.

In 1898, when the revolution of ten years in Cuba began, no volunteers existed in Havana worthy of being called such. There was only one old regiment, and when Governor General Lersundi, then of the island, tried to complete this regiment he found the task difficult of accomplishment on account of the prevailing unwillingness to enlist.

But just at this time, most providentially for the relief of the dilemma, some unknown hand covered the walls of Matanzas, near Havana, with huge posters promising each Spaniard his passage home and the privilege of carrying away with him whatever his pocket handkerchief could contain in the event of his enlistment.

The effect of this stimulus to the flagging pulse of the public was electrical, and the enrollment of 50,000 men followed within 48 hours. The volunteers thus came into existence with their chiefs in the majority. But the ruined merchants of the city of Havana soon found out and objected to the newly risen power. This opposition increased upon the arrival in Cuba of the new governor general, Duice, who came in 1899 as representative of the revolutionary government in Spain. He was a man of good faith, empowered by the government to grant Cuba all the reform she coveted and that had lately been offered. He would undoubtedly have put a term to the revolution, averting all the ruin and devastation which followed. But such an easy and unanimous course did not suit that class which faced inevitable financial ruin as a consequence of such a policy. —San Francisco Chronicle.

African Skins.

Between 1850 and 1875 it is certain that some millions of blebok, wildboar and springbok must have been destroyed in the Transvaal and Orange Free State. The slaughter was so prodigious and the variety of wild animals so great in those wild regions of South Africa that the result made a considerable difference in the leather industry of Europe. The markets were filled with skins which, when tanned, gave leather of a quality and excellence never known before, but the origin of which, as the material was still sold under old names, purchasers never suspected. Hides of the zebra and quagga arrived in tens of thousands, and good as horsehide is for the uppers of first class boots, those were even better. Smart Englishmen for years wore boots the uppers of which were made of zebra and quagga skin or from the hides of elands, oxys and gampbok disguised under the names of "gall" or patent leathers. —London Spectator.

Evading the Issue.

"Mr. Addomus," said Mr. Spotochak severely, to the bookkeeper, "I have spoken to you before of your careless manner of smoking in the office. You throw a lighted match in the wastebasket a little while ago and it set a lot of papers on fire. Such work as that might start a big blaze some day."

"It was hoodless," replied the bookkeeper. "I will see that the office boy keeps that wastebasket emptied hereafter." —Chicago Tribune.

A REPRESENTATIVE PIRATE.

Captain Kidd Was Utterly Without Any Sense of Honor.

It is said that Kidd showed no repentance when he was tried, but insisted that he was the victim of malicious persons who swore falsely against him, and yet a more thoroughly dishonest rascal never sailed under the black flag. In the guise of an accredited officer of the government he committed the crimes he was sent out to suppress. He deceived his men. He robbed and misused his fellow countrymen and his friends, and he even descended to the meanness of cheating and despoiling the natives of the West India islands with whom he traded. These people were in the habit of supplying pirates with food and other necessities, and they always found their rough customers entirely honest and willing to pay for what they received, for as the pirates made a practice of stopping at certain points for supplies they wished of course to be on good terms with those who furnished them. But Kidd had no ideas of honor toward people of high or low degree. He would trade with the natives as if he intended to treat them fairly and pay for all he got, but when the time came for him to depart and he was ready to weigh anchor he would seize all the commodities he could lay his hands on and without paying a copper to the distressed and indignant Indians he would sail away, his black flag flaunting defiantly in the wind.

But although in reality Captain Kidd was no hero, he has been known for a century and more as the great American pirate, and his name has been representative of piracy ever since. Years after he had been hung, when people heard that a vessel with a black flag—or one which looked black in the distance, flying from its rigging had been seen, they forgot that the famous pirate was dead and imagined that Captain Kidd was visiting their part of the coast in order that he might find a good place to bury some treasure which it was no longer safe for him to carry about. —Frank R. Stockton in Century.

RARE OLD DISHES.

Fried Grasshoppers and Scorpions Delicious of the Arabs Long Ago.

An ancient Egyptian writes in The Revue des Revues of the diet of the ancient Arabs. Dog meat, it appears, was one of their favorite dishes, and young dogs were as precious in old times among the Arabs as spring chickens are among the people of today. They were also fond of cat meat. The flesh of a black cat had the virtues of curing them of the effects of a hoodoo and the evil eye.

Fried grasshoppers and scorpions also formed a very choice dish. The naturalist, Al-Djahezy, who lived in the tenth century, speaks of his visit to the Arabian tribes of Bassorah and of his surprise on discovering that they did not eat grasshoppers. "Nevertheless," says he, "there is nothing more delicious."

He also says that when he went to see his friend, the poet Roobah, he found him seated on the ground enjoying a repast of roast rat. Afterward he had fried lizards.

Notwithstanding the almost religious worship which the Arabs profess for the horse, they ate horseflesh, but only the flesh of draft horses, never that of saddle horses. They ate all sorts of mollusks and insects. The Arabs were also very fond of black snakes, and they hunted them at the time when the reptiles were about to change their skins, the flesh in that season being extremely tender.

Why He Didn't Finish.

Fred Buskirk was born at Portsmouth, O., and lived there until he was a young man. Fred naturally thinks Portsmouth is one of the nicest places in the state of Ohio. Fred said: "Everybody evidently doesn't think as well of Portsmouth as I do."

"Not long ago I went over the Chesapeake and Ohio road and when the train reached South Portsmouth, which is across the river from my native place, quite a long stop was made. Most of the auto-passengers got off the train and walked up and down the platform. It was after dark, and the many lights of Portsmouth were plainly visible. I stood looking across the river at the city, thinking what a fine place Portsmouth was, when a fellow passenger on the train came alongside of me and said, 'Can you tell me what place that is across the river?' Of course I could tell him, and I threw out my chest with considerable pride said: 'That is Portsmouth, O. Have you ever been there?' My fellow traveler in a very weary voice, replied: 'Yes, I have been there. I spent about two weeks there one afternoon. I had intended telling that man about what a charming place Portsmouth is, but after his rudeness I concluded not to.' —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Didn't Want Much.

Here is an advertisement from an old copy of an English provincial journal. "Wanted, for a sober family, a man of light weight, who fears the Lord and can drive a pair of horses. He must occasionally wait at table, join the household prayer, look after the horses and read a chapter of the Bible. He must, God willing, arise at 7 o'clock in the morning and obey his master and mistress in all lawful commands; if he can dress hair, sing psalms and play at cribbage, the more agreeable. Wages, 15 guineas a year."

Mittie, the 10-year-old daughter of Albert Bucklin of Ann Arbor, died of morphine poisoning Tuesday morning. Her father keeps the drug about the house for his own use. Monday evening the daughter hurt her knee by falling from her bicycle and it is supposed took an overdose of the morphine in an ignorant attempt to secure relief the pain.

One of our former friends and readers, who is interested in the dairy business, says he has been asked by several farmers lately a remedy for cows giving lumpy milk. He says it is caused by cool and damp weather at night, and the cows should be given plenty of dry, clean bedding, and if kept in the barn are all the better for it. It will be found that highly-bred cows or plentiful givers of milk are most sensitive to the cold damp nights of fall and spring and consequently suffer most. The milk is made lumpy by being chilled in the udder and if allowed to take its course the trouble often results in ruining the cow. Manchester Enterprise.

Wanted—Two girls, a cook and a nurse. Must be competent. Good wages. Address Mrs. Louis L. Hall, 1530 Hill St., Ann Arbor.

If any one wants to see a sight and feast their eyes on fruit, even this year when trees are breaking under the weight of peaches, pears or plums, they should visit David Woodward's fruit farm in Bridgewater. A year ago, it will be remembered, Mr. Woodward sawed the tops off his peach trees. People told him—even wise heads in the fruit business—he had made a mistake. Go and look at his trees, thrifty, hardy, and loaded with great luscious fruit; then look at other orchards and judge for yourself whether David knew what he was about, or not. His trees are now young again, and are good for many years. The fruit is much larger than any we have seen, and is, of course, of the finest quality, perhaps not as beautiful of color as they will be next year, when the sun has a better chance to give that exquisite blush, the blending of yellow and red, which characterizes the peach as the loveliest of fruit. Fruit is cheap this year, and one should get the best when it can be had at such a low price. We have spoken of peaches because they are of first importance, but Mr. Woodward has a plum orchard that is a sight to see. And pears, grapes, etc., are found there in great profusion and choicest variety. The secret of his success is his constant vigilance and attention. His orchards are cultivated and fertilized, the trees sprayed and kept trimmed. There is a constant demand for his fruit because of its superior quality. Manchester Enterprise.

The missionary service at the Methodist church last Sunday morning was very enjoyable. The sermon by the pastor was impressive, and the singing by the children was excellent. The collection for missions amounted to $80.

A clever swindling scheme is being worked by a pair of smart fellows in various parts of the country. One goes through the country on a bicycle, and when he strikes a town he claims to be hard up and offers to sell the wheel cheap to get some money. The boys saddle nice bicycles and bite readily, paying a small price for a first-class wheel. After a few days the other sharper turns up and claims to be looking for a man who stole a wheel. He describes it with giving the number, and the owner has to part with it. The sharpers raise from $20 to $40 a trip and then start for greener fields.

A Louisville Slander.

Not long ago there was put in at the Louisville telephone exchange a switch board run entirely by a battery, so that the amount of calls was definitely indicated by expenditure of force. The switch showed correct business conditions up to 10 a. m., and then there came a most unaccountable drop. The electrician was bothered. There must be a leakage, a weakness, somewhere. Again and again the same remarkable and instantaneous drop showed on the chart, and the perplexed telephone engineer went from Chicago to Louisville to investigate.

He was with a group of anxious managers and directors waiting for the significant hour to approach, when suddenly some one looked at his watch and called, "Gentlemen, we are losing time," whereupon one and all arose and passed to the nearest buffet. That was crowded and they tried another, only to find it also thronged. Then the electrician looked at the hour. It was just past 1 o'clock, and a daily scene was being enacted. At Louisville was out taking a drink. Chicago Times-Herald.

Republican Caucus.

The Republicans of the Township of Sylvan will hold a caucus at the Town Hall, on Saturday, September 16th, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. (local time), for the purpose of choosing 14 delegates to county convention to nominate county officers, to be held at Ann Arbor September 14th, 1899; and also to choose 14 delegates to the representative convention for 1st district of Washtenaw county, hereafter to be called, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Dated, Sylvan, September 2nd, 1899.

NEW CURTAINS AND DRAPERIES.

STRAP SEAM TRIMMED.

All-wool Melton Cloth $12.00.

We have just placed on sale a lot of fancy and plain cloth, novelty dress patterns. No two of these alike, nor will we buy any duplicates of any now in stock. There is some satisfaction, when buying a good dress, in knowing that every woman in Chelsea can't have one just like it. It is for this reason only that we buy some of our very best dress goods in patterns. Others we buy in pieces and divide the pieces with our Stockbridge and Northville stores. This enables us to buy goods that we couldn't if we had to use the whole piece. We are showing a big lot of black and colored dress patterns at $7.00, $8.00 and up to $12.00 that are very new and exclusive.

We would be pleased to show you our new fall and winter.

Michigan railroads are very much encouraged over the crop prospects of the state. In the past 10 years there has not been as good outlook for heavy crops as at present. It is estimated that the wheat crop of the state will be over 30,000,000. The best features of the year's outlook is the abundance of all kinds of fruit.

Its illustrations are the finest that appear in any daily paper in the country.

The market continues to decline. Wheat now brings 57 cents for red and 55 cents for white. Rye 30 cents. Oats 20 cents. Barley 80 cents per hundred. Beans 75 cents. Clover seed $3. Peaches 35 to 75 cents according to quality. Pears 25 cents. Fall apples 10 cents at the evaporators. Potatoes 30 cents. Butter 15 cents. Eggs 10 cents. Receipts have dropped off now partly because of seedling and partly because of the drop in price. It would be well if farmers could hold their wheat back for a while until it is needed more. Receipts so far have exceeded the demand.

Major Vaughan recently called upon President McKinley at the White House. Among other things Dr. Vaughan assured the president there were plenty of medical supplies on the ships, but they were not landed. "Yet," said he, "I give it as my opinion as a medical man that if the army had sat down there at Siboney and waited until all the supplies were ashore, more men would have been lost than was the case through the plan followed of rushing the army to the front. Those soldiers were in fine fettle when they landed. If we had waited, we should have had a sick army instead of a well one to make the capture with and might have failed."

Hard-Fack and Army Refuses Given Sick Soldiers on the Yucatan.

Transport Brings to Montauk from Cuba 400 Sick Regulars and Evidence of Somebody's Mismanagement—Suffering of the Volunteers Due to Red Tape—Thousands Ill at Camp Thomas and Fever Is Claiming More Victims Daily.

Washington correspondence.

Facts of the most sickening character continue to flow in upon Montauk from the soldiers in the various army hospitals throughout the country. It is impossible to deal with the subject in detail as widespread is the evil and voluminous the story of suffering and horror. It is remarkable that some of the most horrible of these details should come from the camps situated in the heart of the States. From the following table a faint idea may be had of the extent of sickness and suffering among the soldiers. The statistics are so meagre and incomplete that they cannot be made up from any records, but are made up generally from the reports received from the camp hospitals. Thousands of whom no record now exists, or ever will exist, have gone to their homes on furloughs and are being cared for there. Hundreds of others are arriving almost hourly in the hospitals and camps of the North from Cuba and South America. Following is a partial list:

SICK IN VARIOUS CAMPS
Santiago	557
Philippines (estimated)	500
Boston	416
Massachusetts	319
New Hampshire	210
Maine	201
Connecticut	195
Fort Meyer Hospital	180
Washington barracks	170
Camp Meade	165
St. Louis	150
New York City hospitals	148
Camp Mills	130
Chickamauga	120
Jacksonville	115
Pennsylvania	110
Tampa	100
Camp Alger	100
Hanville	95
San Francisco	90
Port Sheridan	80
Total	3,600

One of the worst post-holes seems to be at Camp Thomas, on the site of the old barracks of the regiment, which was chosen as the site of a camp of instruction early in the war on account of its supposed sanitary advantages. Here the number of sick in hospital and outside is estimated at nearly 2,500, while nearly as many have been sent home to hospitals or their friends. Camp Wilcox is filling up daily with regiments from the regiments returning from Santiago or Gen. Miles' army in Porto Rico. Long complaints are made of the food of the hospital and proper food not being sent on many weeks since some of the officials of the medical department were protesting against the employment of the commissaries, although they have shown themselves most efficient both at the front and in the hospital.

The tales of horror which have been related by soldiers arriving on post ships in weeks past were repeated Sunday, when the Yucatan got to the pier at Camp Wilcox, Montauk Point, and began to discharge the troops who came from Santiago. Several hundred sick companies of the "Seventh" were landed. The shocking condition of the men and the appalling tales of horror which they passed on to the men who had been there for some time were so vivid that seven men were starved to death on the passage, and three more died while in the harbor before they could be landed, because the ship left Santiago without proper food or supplies for the sick or anything else but the regular army rations. "Salt horse, soy beans and shrimps," the soldiers call the food which they were given, and which the sick were unable to eat.

When the highest ship landed from the Yucatan Sunday, 200 were reported sick and were carried in ambulances to the hospital. But it was soon found that the 170 men were only suffering from fever, and as soon as they had drunk a glass of milk or two and had something wholesome to eat in their stomachs they were able to go to their camp. If the vessel had been delayed three or four days more the Yucatan would have lost 100 men from starvation, for many of them had been ill with fever and their stomachs rejected the only food that was provided for them.

Before Secretary Alger left Camp Wilcox he ordered the surgeon general to send immediately twenty-four physicians and eighty more nurses to assist and relieve the devoted women serving as volunteers, who have been working night and day week after week, until their strength is exhausted. Some of the Red Cross nurses have not had their clothes off for ten days, and there are no accommodations for them to rest and refresh themselves.

The regulars who have returned from Santiago are in excellent condition compared with the volunteers. This is particularly true of the negro troops. They seem as strong and hearty as they were when they left Cuba, although they have endured the same hardships and have eaten the same rations. This is accounted for by the ability of the negro race to endure hot weather and to resist malarial poisons.

It is noticeable that the regular soldier knows how to live in camp and how to take care of himself on the march much better than the volunteer. He is hardened to hardships and exposure. He is accustomed to his rations, while the great majority of the volunteers have been fed all their lives upon a chicken diet. The experience of the regulars has taught him to take care of his health and to make himself comfortable by little tricks that the volunteer knows nothing about. This difference is very noticeable in making camp. Regulars camp quickly and take advantage of every opportunity to rest.

MEMBERS OF THE PARIS PEACE COMMISSION.

ALGER IS INDIGNANT.

Says Conditions of Military Camps Have Been Grossly Misrepresented.

Secretary Alger is indignant at the wanton misrepresentations of the conditions at Camp Wilcox, Montauk Point, and at the indiscriminate charges made against the department by people who take no pains to investigate. "To a Washington correspondent," he said, "the talk of Secretary Sherman is an example of reckless assertion without investigation. For Mr. Sherman spent a week at Montauk, saw only a dozen men from Montauk, without going near it, but he returns to Washington talking about the horrors of the camps and the necessity for investigation and improvement. Secretary Alger says that the loss of life in battle and from disease is much less than was estimated by the most conservative authorities. When the army was sent into the country, and to a place about which little was known, except that it was regarded as one of the most unhealthy spots in the West Indies. 'This army was brought home as soon as it could be.' Montauk Point was selected as a detention camp for recuperation. It could easily be isolated and safely quarantined. Secretary Alger says that the camp, having been established for this purpose, will of course be abandoned when all the soldiers are transported to the front and he must be out of the service. But the report that it will be abandoned because of its unhealthy conditions is false, for the camp is in a very healthy location, and men who come from the transports sick with fever and go into the hospital are discharged in a few days in comparatively good health. All the sickness at Montauk is brought there from Santiago, and Secretary Alger says it would be as reasonable to call the finest hospital in the land unhealthy because all its inmates are invalids.

BOMBARDED WITH KISSES.

Admiral Schley Retirees Under a Bombardment of Kisses.

When Admiral Schley visited the Navy Department the other day he expected to shake hands with his old friends and knew that he would be warmly congratulated, but it is doubtful if he was prepared for anything like the demonstration that took place. "Brave Lieut. Pearson," he was kissed by the young girl at Long Branch, but Schley, the old hero of Santiago, who never lost his nerve when the enemy were pouring volley after volley into the fleet, found himself cornered by a regiment of fair women folk. He withstood the bombardment of kisses for something like five minutes and then found time to shake the hand of an old hero like himself here and there. "And then he did something he never did before," reported the press. "The kisses were too much for him, and he found cover in Captain Crowder's office, where he met a number of army and navy officers, who were gathered there to pay their respects."

CUBANS WILL DISBAND.

Are Becoming Less Hostile to the American Army.

Gen. Castillo of the Cuban army, at the invitation of Gen. Lawton, had an interview with the American commander regarding the disbandment of the Cuban forces in the Santiago province. Gen. Castillo expressed the opinion that the disbandment of the Cubans could be effected without trouble. He said that the hostility of the Cubans growing out of the refusal of the Americans to permit the joint military occupation of the conquered territory with the Cuban flag flying over the place beside the Stars and Stripes, was disappearing, and under the advice of cool heads, their scheme of making an armed demand for their alleged rights had been abandoned.

HITON AID THE SOLDIERS.

Contributes $10,000 for Relief of Sick and Wounded.

Sir Thomas Lipton, challenger for America's cup, and well known philanthropist, has contributed $10,000 for relieving the sick and wounded American soldiers. When Sir Thomas was in New York in June he expressed great solicitude for the sick American soldiers and sailors in Cuba. At that time he remarked that he would be glad to assist them in any way. The $10,000 demonstrates his feeling toward the Americans.

DEWEY WOULD FIGHT

HE SO TOLD THE GERMANS AT MANILA BAY.

Picky American Admiral Advised Middle-aged Germans that If They Wanted to Try Conclusions They Would Be Accommodated.

Shameful Proceedings.

Few realize the difficulties with which Admiral Dewey had to contend in the Philippines since the sinking of the Spanish fleet. Indeed, that feat was the least difficult of his many labors, says a correspondent of the New York Sun, writing prior to the capture of Manila. His chief trouble was occasioned by the Germans. The latter seemed to take special delight in violating moral principles and disregarding Admiral Dewey's regulations.

Admiral Dewey had ordered that there should be no movement of ships or boats about the bay at night without his knowledge and permission. "That was necessary to an effective blockade and in order to be legal, a blockade must be effective. The Germans began at once to disregard the regulation. They sent launches about after sundown as if there had been no such regulations. The launches were stopped by our patrol boats and some of them were turned back. The result was friction between the two admirals. Von Dietrichs protested. Dewey replied that his regulation must be observed.

The Germans kept up their work and Dewey's ships have watched the Germans at night with their searchlights. It is particularly offensive to one warship to be the target for another's searchlight, but that has happened to the Germans several times as the whistling American lights examined the bay to see what was going on.

Von Dietrichs did not like it. Dewey sent word that he regretted the necessity of such work, but he was compelled to keep informed of what went on in the bay at night. He intimated that the Germans were acting as if they thought that they were blockading Manila instead of the Americans.

It is quite within his right as the blockader to do this, but Von Dietrichs protested. The German admiral twisted Dewey's contention and construed it as a claim of the right of search.

Dewey Willing to Fight.

Matters kept getting worse. German launches were stopped and sent to their ships. Permission to move in the night time was refused on some occasions, and finally Admiral Dewey took occasion to say to the German flag lieutenant that certain things meant war and the Germans were approaching dangerously near them. Then he added in substance that if the Germans wanted war they could have it now or at any other time, here or at any other place.

In reply to this Von Dietrichs took a pacificatory tone and disavowed any intention of violating proper usages or of the American admiral's blockade regulations. Then came the Subig incident. The insurgents were attacking Iloilo Grande. They had captured a steamer from the Spanish and they sent her down to Subig with men. She came back one afternoon and reported to Dewey that the cruiser Irone had prevented her from attacking Iloilo Grande and had forced her to haul down her insurgent flag and raise a white one.

Dewey sent the Raleigh and Concord there at once. They went in and cleared for action. It is the most serious matter for what might come, German or otherwise. As they went in on one side of the island, the Irone came on the other side and attacked. The Irone was a German ship and she took the Raleigh and Concord by surprise. The Raleigh and Concord were taken off their guard and the Irone was victorious.

When the Irone came back the McCulloch spoke, but did not stop her. This brought a protest from both sides. Von Dietrichs objected to the hauling up of his ships. Dewey declared that the Germans were landing aid and comfort to their enemies, thereby making themselves openly Spain's allies. He sent a message to the German admiral, the substance of which was:

"Is there peace or war between our countries? If there is war, I want to change your course. The way to make war is to clear up ship and go at it."

Von Dietrichs replied with an apology and then as if replying he wrote to Admiral Dewey a note in which he misconstrued Dewey's contention about right to speak incoming ships and said he would lay the matter before commanders-in-chief now in the harbor. Since then Dewey has heard nothing from him, but he has heard what happened when Von Dietrichs called on Capt. Chester of the Irone, the sinking officer of the British squadron. The Englishman showed the German his instructions, by which he was ordered to do what Dewey had been contending that the Germans should do. There was not much ground left for Von Dietrichs after that.

JAPAN AFTER THE LADRONES.

Hopes to Purchase Islands When Peace Is Restored.

Steamer advances state that Japanese diplomats are watching with great interest the development of peace negotiations between the United States and Spain. Late Japanese newspapers agree that that country should buy the Ladrones Islands, either from the United States or Spain. Japan is reaching out in every way to develop her colonies, and it is with this idea in view that the Ladrones are being considered.

UNCLE SAM WILL BE READY.

In Case of Hitch in Peace Negotiations with Spain.

Washington special: The order of the Navy Department for the drydocking and repairs of the big ships in Admiral Sampson's fleet indicates that this Government will not be caught napping either by Spain or by any other nation which may seek to interfere with the accomplishment of its aims.

It is the intention of the department to put all the fighting vessels of the navy in the very best possible shape during the existence of the armistice. In the event that Great Britain should remain firm in her refusal to allow the ships of Admiral Dewey's fleet to dock at Hong Kong, arrangements will very likely be made to send a floating dock to the Philippines. This will certainly be done if Admiral Dewey recommends it.

The Navy Department will also agree to it that all the ships of the navy are provided with smokeless powder during the armistice. While the ships are at the navy yards undergoing needed repairs, the sailors who served their guns so gallantly at Santiago are to be given liberal shore leave to compensate them for the hard service they have rendered. Some of them have not had any shore leave for seven months.

The War Department will take equal care to do everything possible to increase the efficiency of the land forces during the armistice. The troops in the field will be reduced, probably to 100,000. With only this number of soldiers to look after the War Department will be able to take care of all their wants promptly. They will all be armed with the Krupp organization rifle and target practice will be taken up in all the camps. If Spain should conclude to continue the war after the peace commission has finished its work, or if any of the powers of Europe should attempt to interfere with the administration of the policy in the Philippines, the United States will be found in splendid shape to cope with the emergency. It is not expected, however, that there will be any more fighting and the measures to be taken by the War and Navy Departments are purely precautionary.

The administration is pleased with the condition of affairs in Porto Rico, where the Spanish commander, Gen. Macia, is showing a friendly spirit in co-operating with the Americans in making ready for the evacuation.

AWFUL SUFFERING IN HAVANA.

Condition of Things There Reported as Horrible.

Reports from Havana picture the condition of things there as horrible. Provisions and other necessities of life are very scarce, and prices continue high. The colonial government imposed the highest customs duties, which continue in force, making prices high and rendering the situation of the poor very painful. The free kitchens which have been established in Havana daily furnish about 30,000 persons with food, but owing to the great number of poor in the city who are without food of any sort, the amount of supplies handled by these kitchens is quite insufficient to relieve the distress to any great extent. Women and children lie about the streets, pale and emaciated, and looking more like corpses than living beings.

FAVORS CESSION OF JAMAICA.

Neville Lubbock Thinks Island Should Belong to America.

Neville Lubbock, who was the expert adviser of the British delegates upon the occasion of the Brussels conference upon the question of sugar bounties, was interviewed in reference to the proposed action by the Jamaicans to petition the Queen for the cession of the island of Jamaica to the United States. Mr. Lubbock said that in his opinion the cession of the island to America would be of immense advantage to the people of the island. Almost all the products of the island, with the exception of rum, went to the United States, and there was a feeling that the British West Indies colonies had been shamefully treated by the mother country.

SAMPSON CORRECTS GARCIA.

Denies that Cervera Surrendered to the Cubans.

Admiral Sampson said concerning the report that Garcia claims that Cervera surrendered to the Cubans and was turned over to the navy, that it could not be true. There were no Cubans about, except a few on shore. These few employed themselves in loading up the defenses against the Spaniards. It is questionable if the Spaniards would have escaped alive, the admiral said, if it had not been for the American sailors. The admiral says Cervera was taken off his flagship by the Gloucester, and was afterward taken aboard the Iowa.

JAUDENIS FORGOT TO SIGN.

Spanish Commander at Manila Was Probably Excited.

The Spanish cabinet examined the terms of the capitulation of Manila as called by Gen. Tejero. They appear to apply to Manila only. The question of the repatriation of the Spanish troops is left to the decision of the American Government. Gen. Jaudenis, who succeeded Gen. Augusti in the military command at Manila, was stated, had not sent a dispatch to the Government. The latest explanation of this is that the dispatch of Tejero really was sent by Jaudenis, but that the latter forgot to affix his signature.

WAR COST SPAIN $600,000,000.

Must Pay $10,000,000 More to Bring Her Troops Home.

A dispatch from Madrid says that the repatriation of all the Spanish troops in the Antilles will cost $60,000,000 pesos ($10,000,000). The total cost of the war has been $3,000,000,000 pesos ($600,000,000). The collection of $10,000,000 in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines toward the support of the army will shortly be attempted.

First Volunteer of the War.

Prescott, Ariz., claims that it furnished the first volunteer in the present war, and that from that place the first company started to the front. The volunteer was Capt. O'Neill of the rough riders, and a monument to his memory is to be erected on the court house plaza of Prescott.

Montoro Is Dismissed.

Gen. Montoro, captain general of the Philippines, has been dismissed by the Government on the ground that he had been convicted of a crime and sentenced to prison. The Government has concluded to remove him from office and to appoint a new captain general.

As much as over one must deplore the amount of sickness among our victorious troops. It is a fact, nevertheless, that the percentage of deaths from disease for the number of men enrolled is far less than it was in the civil war.

The records of the Union army show a mortality of 11 per cent of the entire force, or 315,000 men. Of these 315,000 men 180,210 died of disease, the cause of death in the remaining cases being for the most part unknown. The hospital records show that 6,040,048 cases were treated during the civil war, the mortality list being as follows:

Gunsight	33,940
Remittent	4,885
Dysentery	35,127
Typhoid	29,830
Typhus	2,000
Scarlet fever	5,300
Malaria	1,000

During the war 285,445 men were discharged for disability, classified as follows: Gunsight wounds, 14,240; consumption, 20,000; dysentery, 14,487; neuritis, 15,040; rheumatism, 12,653; heart disease, 10,707. The heavy mortality which must have resulted in these cases was included in the mortality records of the war. The army which fought the civil war had no such climatic conditions to contend with as our present army has in Cuba. Neither did the army of the civil war have to be transported in troopships, hastily gathered and fitted up in an emergency. A crowded ship in the tropical climate of the North Atlantic is more sanitary than a ship in the tropics, and the Cuban waters are a prolific breeder of pestilential diseases.

Before Congress has proceeded with its investigation of the War Department and the part it played in the conduct of the war the unpleasant fact will be revealed that Congress itself is the primary source of the trouble and of the inability of the war office to properly cope with the war situation as found during the last five or six months. Congress is not wholly to blame because the War Department is not up to date and because many of the officials are so woefully out of style that they cannot keep abreast of the times. It is largely responsible. It will be to take much of the blame upon itself for conditions which at the present time are found to be intolerable. If Congress will take this lesson to itself and liberate the methods in vogue and the spirit in control of the War and Navy Departments the agitation will not have been in vain.

Admiral Schley has a happy gift of remembering names and faces and incidents connected with casual meetings with people years ago. He has surprised many people since his return by greeting them cordially and recalling little things that happened at some previous meeting which they did not dream he had remembered or which perhaps they themselves had forgotten. Admiral Schley has lived many years of his life in Washington and at one time or another has met thousands of its citizens. Everybody knows him by sight, but until the last few days nobody had any idea of the number of people he knew by name.

Plans for the investigation of the management of the war are developing in the War Department. Before leaving on his vacation, President McKinley had a conversation with Secretary Alger concerning the question of determining responsibility for mismanagement and it is the intention to appoint a board of inquiry. This will be composed of a representative from each department of the line and staff of the army and will be presided over by either the judge advocate general or the inspector general. Before such a board every officer from Gen. Miles down will appear for examination.

In defense of the bureaucrats of the War Department and of the officers of the regular army it is urged that they have been educated to a strict conception of the rules and regulations of the department and of the army and (replied to) to take unusual responsibility, particularly where money is involved.

The President and Mrs. McKinley were as happy as two children going to a picnic, and a White House attendant calling the scene of their vacation here taking.

Camp Wilcox does not seem to lack in spectacles anyway. There is a new one every day or two.

AMERICAN GAME PICTURES.

For Decoration of Homes. Probably at no time in the world's history has as much attention been paid to the interior decoration of homes as at present. No home, no matter how humble, is without its handiwork that helps to beautify the apartments and make the surroundings more cheerful. The taste of the American people has kept pace with the age, and almost every day brings forth something new in the way of a picture, a drapery, a piece of furniture or other form of mural decoration. One of the latest of these has been given to the world by the celebrated artist, Merville, in a series of four handsome porcelain game pictures. Not for years has anything as handsome in this line been seen. The subjects represented by these plaques are "American Wild Ducks," "American Phalaropes," "American Quails" and "American Snipe." They are handsome paintings and are especially designed for hanging on dining room walls, though their richness and beauty entitles them to a place in the parlor or any room. These original porcelain plaques have been purchased at a cost of $50,000 by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Elastic Starch, and in order to enable their numerous customers to become possessors of these handsome works of art they have had them reproduced by a special process, in all the rich colors and beauty of the original. They are finished off with heavy cardboard, pressed and embossed in the shape of a plaque and trimmed with a heavy band of gold. They measure four inches in circumference and contain no reading matter or advertisement whatsoever.

Until Oct. 1 Messrs. J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co. propose to distribute these plaques free to their customers. These purchases of three thousand plaques of Elastic Starch, Hubinger brand, manufactured by J. C. Hubinger Bros. Co., is entitled to receive one of these handsome plaques free from their grocer. And new customers alike are entitled to the benefit of this offer. These plaques will not be sent through the mail, the only way to obtain them being from your grocer. Every grocer store in the country has Elastic Starch for sale. It is the oldest and best laundry starch on the market and is the most perfect cold process starch ever invented. It is the only starch made for men who thoroughly understand the laundry business, and the only starch that will not injure the finest fabric. It has been the standard for a quarter of a century and its excellence is how good it is twenty-two million packages were sold last year. Ask your dealer to show you the plaques and tell you about this offer.

Cooks Who Earn $10,000 a Year. There is a celebrated cook in London about whom it is said that he makes an income of over $10,000 a year. He is attached to no house, but in his own brougham sets out toward evening for the house of some rich man who is going to give a dinner at which every dish must be above criticism. Here he alights, and, mulling for the kitchen, goes through the process of tasting all the soups, sauces and made dishes, advising when his palate suggests a little more salt here, a pinch of herbs there, a dash of sugar in that sauce, a suspicion of onion in that salad, etc.

This done, he pockets his fee of $25 and drives on to the next dinner-giving patron who has bidden him to his feast in this strange fashion. His nightly list comprises many houses all through the London season.

Diplomacy. "Could you endorse this note for me?" inquired young Mr. Happing. "I'm sorry," answered the diplomatic friend. "I wish you had asked me to do it before I went in for literature."

SHE POSSESSES TWO MINDS.

Their Coexistence in a Girl Shown by a Physician's Experiments. Among the patients of the Binghamton state hospital is a pretty girl, 13 years old, who, when brought there several months ago, was suffering from acute hysteria. Dr. William A. White, of the hospital staff, has been performing some remarkable experiments with the girl, demonstrating the dual condition of her mind and the existence of a sub-conscious mental state.

When the girl first arrived at the hospital she could not see out of the left eye. Dr. White has proved that this eye does not see, although the girl is unconscious of the fact. The patient will in one mental state know nothing of what happens while in the other. The doctor experimented with her before a meeting of the Broome County Medical society. The first experiment was to prove that the conscious mental state rests upon the sub-conscious state. A second experiment proved the reverse. A third showed the two divisions of the brain acting simultaneously yet independently of each other.

Dr. White had the girl close her right eye. He held two fingers at an angle from her left eye.

"Do you see my hand?" he asked. "No," was the reply.

"Now many fingers am I holding up?" "Two, but I can't see them," was the correct answer.

"Under the doctor's treatment the left retina, which has been closed, is rapidly enlarging, and the child will soon be able to use the defective eye fully."

Next the patient was blindfolded and asked to think intently on some names. Dr. White slipped a pencil and paper into her hand, which was resting on the table. After a moment the pencil began to write. The pencil and paper were removed and the bandages were taken from the girl's eyes. She was asked what she had written, but said she had written nothing. She did not know that a pencil had been in her hand nor that her hand was moved. She admitted that the name on the paper was the one she had been thinking of. No hypnotism was used in the experiment.

The other physicians engaged the girl in conversation, and she readily answered their questions. While she was thus talking with the others Dr. White, questioning the sub-conscious side, asked her to write something, and instantly a sentence appeared a few minutes before was written with the senseless hand, but all the while she was talking with the others. She was questioned, but had no knowledge of what she had written.

Dr. White says the girl is rapidly improving from her mental disorder for which she is confined in the hospital. Binghamton Sun.

TO MRS. PINKHAM From Mrs. Walter E. Budd, of Patuxent, New York.

Mrs. Budd, in the following letter, tells a familiar story of weakness and suffering, and thanks Mrs. Pinkham for complete relief.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I think it is my duty to write to you and tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I feel like another woman. I had such dreadful headaches through my temples and on top of my head, that I nearly went crazy; was also troubled with chills, was very weak; my left side from my shoulders to my waist pained me terribly. I could not sleep for the pain. Plasters would help for a while, but as soon as taken off, the pain would be just as bad as ever. Doctors prescribed medicine, but it gave me no relief."

"Now I feel so well and strong, have no more headaches, and no pain in side, and it is all owing to your compound. I cannot praise it enough. It is a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to every woman I know."

Sweet Lavender. The days of our great-grandmothers are coming back to us, and the dainty housekeeper is not satisfied unless her linen closet is redolent with the sweet, fresh fragrance of lavender, says a Washington paper. Scented beds are a great fad in England, also. While sachets of lavender laid in press and bureau drawers, in oaken chest and linen closet, are the usual means of imparting this fragrance, the solidified perfume made up in the form of "scented balls" (grandmother's fashion revived) will be found more satisfactory and lasting. The rule for this, as given by an expert in the art, is to mix a quarter of a pound of crushed lavender flowers with ten drops of oil of lavender and make it into a dough with a little gum tragacanth. Knead this into balls about the size of a marble, roll in powdered oiled soap, and put in a tight tin box to dry. A supply of these may be made and kept on hand in a closely-corked bottle, to replace the old ones when their pungency has vanished.

Auxiliary. "Yes, sir; the sooner the war is ended, the sooner we can get back to work."

"May I ask your business?" "I am a pension attorney, sir." Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HEROES OF WAR.

From the Chicago Times-Herald. The feeling of admiration for heroes of war seems to be innate in the human heart, and is bound to the surface by the opportunity and object, for such hero worship presents itself. Among those who proved their heroism during our Civil War was A. Schiffender, of 101 Kedzie Street, Chicago. He is an Austrian by birth, came to America at the age of twenty, and soon became an American citizen. He was a living at Milwaukee when the Civil War broke out, and volunteered for service, early in 1862, and was promptly enlisted in Company A, of the Twenty-sixth Wisconsin Volunteers. In the Army of the Potomac our hero saw much fighting, campaigning in the Shenandoah Valley.

In the first day's fighting at the battle of Gettysburg, Schiffender received a wound in the right side, which afterward caused him much trouble. With a portion of his regiment he was captured and imprisoned at Boll Island and Andersonville, and afterward exchanged. He returned to his regiment, which was transferred to the army of General Sherman, and marched with him through Georgia to Savannah.

In this campaign Mr. Schiffender's old wound began to trouble him and he was sent to the hospital and then home. He had also contracted catarrh of the stomach and found no relief for years.

It happened to read an account of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People about a year ago. He said, "and thought that they might be good for my trouble. I concluded to try them. I bought one box and began to take them according to directions. They gave me great relief. After finishing that box I bought another, and when I had taken the pills I felt that I was cured."

Slashing at shadows—those misguided women who won't use Pearline because "it must hurt the clothes." If Pearline hurt either hands or clothes, don't you suppose that the women who use it would be saying so? The very ease of its washing keeps many from using Pearline. They've been brought up to believe that easy washing is dangerous. So it is, often. That is a risk you run with new and untried things. But Pearline, the first and original washing compound, is as well known as soap, and known to be equally harmless.
