A day or two ago a candidate for office, living at Ann Arbor, visited our town and in talking with one of our prominent Republicans, remarked, "though not on his ticker, I am with Pingree in his fight against corporations and taxation." You can imagine his chagrin when advised by the gentlemen, with whom he was talking, not to let that get out in this town to any great extent, for there were quite a number anti-Pingree Republicans in the town. He finally said all right, you need not mention it.

IT DON'T SUIT SPAIN.

Decision to Retain Philippines Will Be Resisted

Evidences of a Firm Determination to Break Off Peace Negotiations If Insisted Upon Are Apparent.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Possession of the whole of the Philippines by the United States has been decided upon, substantially as outlined. Formal instructions to the peace commissioners at Paris were forwarded Saturday. They contain the decision of the president that, as Spain manifestly cannot guarantee proper government to the outlying islands, it will be necessary for the United States to assume the responsibility and government of the whole group. The president has not yet formally decided the question of compensation for the debt. The American commissioners have been much impressed, it is said, with the Spanish theory that the debt of $40,000,000 on the Philippines is a legitimate one, contracted and expended for the government of the islands, and that as the United States proposes to abstract the security it should assume the debt.

The president, it is believed, is unwilling to assume any Spanish obligations, but might consent to the payment in bulk of the $40,000,000 as an equitable compensation to the bondholders for the loss of their security. If the United States proposed to erect the islands into an independent government, it would not touch the debt question, but as it proposes to amalgamate the territory and administer the custom houses for its own benefit, the administration is disposed at least to consider the question of indemnity.

The present plan is to pay the money in gold to Spain, requiring from that country some sort of guarantee that the money will be applied to the payment of the Philippine debt. By this deal Spain will lose all security for its Cuban debt of hundreds of millions, and will lose Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines, besides the cost of the war, and in return will receive only the amount of the 1896 debt on the Philippines, which is $40,000,000 in round numbers. The United States will lose the cost of the war and the $40,000,000 for the Philippines, but will gain Puerto Rico, the Philippines and Guam.

The situation now is that the president has moved forward to the position of extreme expansion. That is settled. He will at least discuss the Philippine debt, which he would not do in regard to Cuban bonds, but he has left the way open to refuse all cash payments after all, and this is the only point now to be settled by the commissioners.

Cabinet Holds Sunday Session.

Washington, Oct. 31.—There are hints of grave complications in Paris. Color is given to these suspicions of impending trouble by an extraordinary meeting of the cabinet. It is said by officials that the cabinet merely discussed their annual reports. This, however, is not a good excuse for the gathering. The reports could have waited a day or so, and not compel the advisers of the president to visit the white house on the evening of the Sabbath to discuss merely routine affairs. The people who deprecate the alarmist idea point to the fact that Secretary of State Hay did not attend the cabinet meeting, to which answer is promptly made that probably Mr. Hay was too busy attending to the messages coming from the French capital and signed by Judge Day.

Plainly stated, it is said here that Spain is about to bolt. She has swallowed the Cuba-Puerto Rico dose with many grimaces, but will not take the Philippine medicine. Her peace commissioners prefer to resign rather than surrender that island empire—certainly not without a large cash consideration—much larger than the $40,000,000 of bonds which the president is ready to assume. Private advices from Paris say that as soon as the American demands for the Philippines are formally made the Spaniards will shrug their shoulders, point to the protocol, and assert that America is overstepping its rights. They may wait a day or so to determine whether America will yield, and, seeing no signs of surrender, either resign their positions or return boldly to Madrid. Such a contingency might have serious results. The army and navy of the United States might again be needed to bring Sagasta to his senses.

Spain's Latest Bluff.

London, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Central News from Madrid by way of Bayonne says that Senor Montero Rios, president of the Spanish peace commission, has informed the government that it is impossible to agree with the American delegates and that it is, therefore, useless to continue the discussion.

Hermit Slain.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 31.—Isaac Stetson, a hermit, was found dead in the woods near his home in the vicinity of Wahoonah Falls, having been probably murdered. An autopsy showed that Stetson had been shot down and that death was instantaneous. Stetson was known to have had considerable money in his hut, but there was nothing to indicate that the place had been rifled. Robbery was probably the motive for the murder, if murder it is.

Besides the building has been inclosed by a gaudy fence.

THAT Utopians are not all dead yet is shown by the talk of building a great canal through the west, connecting Chicago and Galveston, Tex. About four years ago the plan was first proposed and the cost estimated at $150,000,000. Those who are agitating the movement claim that besides being a great waterway for commerce the canal could carry away all the surplus water of the Mississippi river at flood time and also be a great irrigator for the west.

To Harvard university belongs the credit of having established the highest meteorological station in the world—nearly four miles above the sea level—namely, on the summit of El Misti, a quiescent volcano near Arequipa, in Peru. The main station is at Arequipa itself, at an altitude of about 8,000 feet, and there are seven other stations, including one at the base of El Misti, 15,700 feet above the sea level, while the one on the summit is at 19,200, or about 3,500 feet higher than the noted station on Mount Blanc.

KIPLING got his queer first name for sentimental reasons. His father, when designer of decorations for a pottery firm at Burslem, Eng., attended a picnic near the village of Rudyard, not far from the pottery works. There he met and fell in love with Mary D. McDonald, the daughter of a clergyman, whom he shortly married. Their first-born arrived while the young couple were in Bombay, whither Kipling had gone to direct the art schools of the Madras presidency. In memory of the place where they first met the parents decided to call their boy Rudyard Kipling.

STORM-SWEPT ISLES.

Something About West Indian Cyclones Noted in History.

Interesting Facts Concerning the Late Calamitous Visitation—Barbados and St. Vincent Suffer Devastation.

[Special Kingston (Jamaica) Letter.] The Caribbean archipelago is notoriously the cradle of tropical American cyclones. No other part of the world has been so frequently—laid waste by the storm fiend. Indeed, the experience of four centuries has taught West Indians to look forward to these terrible visitations just as much as a matter of course as the dwellers in northern latitudes expect snowstorms and frosts in their season. But fortunately it is not very frequently that the destruction wrought is of such a nature as to

The circumstance is therefore sufficiently curious to excite some comment that the very year that witnesses the political advent of the "stars and stripes" in the Caribbean should be made memorable by what seems to have been at the best the second most destructive, if not the most fatal, in the long series. I use the qualifying word "seems" because, owing to the break in cable communication, the full details are not yet known, whilst it must be some time before the extent of the shipping casualties are ascertained. But even the general facts to hand, through the always conservative channel of official dispatches, clearly indicate that the magnitude of the disaster approximates that of the overwhelming visitation of 1780.

This cyclone, originating in the neighborhood of Trinidad, swept northward and struck the islands of St. Vincent and Barbados, literally demolishing everything in its path, obliterating cultivation, ruining towns, villages and all buildings and burying hundreds of the inhabitants in the debris. Thence it passed to the next island of St. Lucia, where it also wrought much damage; and, proceeding northward, it skirted Martinique and Dominica, fell on Guadeloupe with great severity and reached a point south of St. Kitts, where it exhausted itself at sea. For these general points I am indebted to the United States weather service, which has recently established stations at various islands, with headquarters at Jamaica. It should be added that the head station located the cyclone fully 24 hours ahead and sent out the necessary warnings. Taken in connection with American interests in the West Indies, this fact is of invaluable significance.

Before going into details of the present visitation, it may be well to briefly review the hurricane history of the West Indies. Taking them one with another, it is no exaggeration to say that hurricanes of one sort or another sweep the Caribbean sea every year between July and October. At least 200 have been mentioned in his- tory since colonization on a permanent and systematic basis was commenced. Of these, however, not above a score have been found worthy of the general historian's special attention. They occurred in the following years: 1674, '75, '89 and '96; 1712, '22, '28, '80, '81 and '86; and during the present century in 1812, '13, '19, '21 and '87.

Each one of these, and some half a dozen others that took place previously or since, was marked by some special feature, but was more or less circumscribed in area. Thus in that of 1722 the awful phenomenon of the tidal wave was first noted. At Kingston, Jamaica, it outdid the storm, sweeping clear above the palisades and inundating Port Royal. Again in 1812 the accompaniment of the earthquake was experienced, and whilst the storm was busy leveling the elastic structures specially prepared as refuges in times of visitations from that other West Indian scourge a series of earthquakes rent and shattered the massive stone hurricane refuges and buried the terrified occupants in the ruins. Fortunately (in a certain sense) this disaster was confined to Jamaica. Within a month a series of earthquakes completed the destruction, and owing to the American war timely aid was not forthcoming, which contributed to making this one of the greatest disasters from which the island has ever suffered.

But far and away the most terrible, both in actual effects and in area affected, of all the elemental disturbances that have made havoc in the sunny isles of the Caribbean, was the seven days' long cyclone—or, properly, a series of them—that raged with unprecedented fury from the western end of Jamaica eastward to Barbados, between October 3 and 10, 1780. In Jamaica an entire town (Sav-la-Mar) was ruined by the storm and the ruins swept away by a tidal wave. Earthquakes accompanied the cyclones in their track, and in most of the islands conflagrations broke out amid the ruined towns. In Martinique and Barbados the loss of life was most appalling, the figures being respectively 7,000 and 4,326. In both these islands and Jamaica a fearful pestilence followed that swept away thousands. In St. Vincent the settlements were entirely wiped out and the colonists had to commence de novo.

Whilst this year's storm covered at least half the area of that of 1780, St. Vincent and Barbados are the greatest sufferers. So far as known the loss of life is not nearly so considerable, being possibly less than one-tenth. On the other hand, the material destruction is greatly in excess. St. Vincent seems to have suffered just as complete a "wipe out," whilst not nearly so able to recuperate as she was a century ago. Barbados has experienced no less extensive a disaster, with which the estimated losses in 1780, amounting to over $6,500,000, can scarcely be compared.

The cyclone made its "land fall" during the night between the 10th and 11th of September. Although one of the most mountainous of the islands, St. Vincent is—or, alas, was—highly cultivated and pretty generally settled, having a population of 42,000, of whom about 8,000 resided in the capital Kingstown. According to the official report the hurricane made a complete breach of the island. The remnants of forests that were old when Columbus came, and that survived three centuries of colonization, previous storms and even volcanic eruption (1812), were swept away like stubble. Massive buildings, like sugar estate works, churches, forts and fortifications, went into wreck and ruin like so many card houses.

This is a general view of the disaster. Details from the country districts are lacking, but the fate of Kingstown gives some idea of what happened. The city stood on the slopes of a background of separated mountains, divided and seamed by ghaunts (ravines), and whilst the cyclone tore and rent and prostrated the buildings the encircling heights collected the cloudbursts and poured the waters in whelming torrents over the ruins, sweeping them into the bay.

These facts cannot fail to convey a vivid idea of the details and a good comprehension of the infinite force of the cyclone may be gathered from the fact that Fort Charlotte, a massive castle on a promontory protecting the city and port, was thrown into ruins. The story from Barbados is even more terrible. That island, which has an area of but 160 square miles, is practically flat. Its so-called "hills" are little more than gentle undulations, and are in no way calculated to impose any shelter from winds. The daily trade-wind searches out every nook and cranny; and the whole island is equally exposed to the cyclone's blighting blast. Fortunately it is out of the normal area of these phenomena, and hitherto at the worst has felt but the outer edge, or "tail," as it is called. This was the case in 1675, and even in 1780, when the track of the storm passed obliquely, and but partially swept the island.

It is another story that has to be told to-day. Unlike any other historic storm, this appears to have advanced on Barbados, in the usual way, done some slight damage and then desolated St. Vincent, 100 miles to the westward; then to have doubled on its tracks, returned to and completely swept Barbados, and then proceeded on its regular route from St. Lucia northward.

Every foot of the island was cultivated, making it practically a garden. Besides sugar cane it grew nothing but ground provisions to supply its teeming population of 190,000 souls. The cyclone has left neither canes nor provisions, nor yet habitations for the people. Literally everything has been swept away.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Charged with Murder.

Marie Sanderson, the young and handsome widow of Rodolphus Sanderson, who was one of the wealthiest and best-known citizens in Battle Creek, is the occupant of a jail cell, awaiting trial on the charge of murdering her husband. Mr. Sanderson, who was 80 years of age, married his 28-year-old wife, then Miss Marie Butterfield, July 6 last. On the 6th of this month the aged man died, paralysis being given out as the cause.

"Healer" Sent to Jail.

Leon, a "healer" who was the sensation of western Michigan last spring, was sentenced in Grand Rapids to five years in the state prison by Judge Burlingame. Leon robbed a confiding German matron of $400 by telling her that if she would place the money in the family Bible and leave it there for 60 days he could double it for her. While he was apparently placing the money in the Bible he put it in his pocket.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 69 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended on October 22 indicate that pneumonia and typhoid fever increased and cholera morbus decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 187 places, measles at 3, typhoid fever at 82, scarlet fever at 28, diphtheria at 30, and whooping cough at 11 places, and smallpox at Detroit.

Ships Much Fruit.

It is estimated that about 200,000 bushels of fruit were shipped from the Michigan fruit belt during the summer, about two-thirds of the total being peaches. An exchange says: The paper was late, and the make-up was dumping matter into the forms at the rate of a column a minute. Result: The first part of the obituary was dumped into the form, and the next handful of type came off a galley describing a recent fire. It read like this in the paper: "The pall-bearers lowered the body into the grave, and it was consigned to the roaring flames. There were very few regrets, for the old wreck had been an eye-sore to the town for years. The loss was fully covered by insurance."

In some recently published statistics of the University Hospital of the University of Michigan, the death rate, through a printer's error, was given as 26 per cent. This, if it were true, would mean that only three out of every four patients who enter the hospital come out alive. As a matter of fact the death rate is about 2.6 per cent, which is much lower than in the majority of hospitals having a large number of operation cases. In such institutions the death rate is usually from 4 to 10 per cent. It is in addition the customary reduction is made for moribund cases (those dying within 24 hours after arrival), the actual death rate among the in-patients is but 2.33 per cent., and among all the patients 1.5 per cent.

There are cowards and rascals, but the most craven of them all is the brainless snake in the grass known as the anonymous letter writer. A person of sense, courage, education and refinement never resorts to such means of retaliation. The person who wants to tell another "what he thinks of him" and is ashamed to sign his name, has a brain too deficient in gray matter to exercise the sense of a hen, lacks the courage necessary for a good "scrap," is too ignorant to write a simple sentence correctly, and lacks the refinement and dignity which are the badge of a gentleman. Don't brand yourself as a cowardly ignoramus by writing things you are ashamed to sign your name to. Better go to your fancied enemy, have a friendly scrap and be done with it—Ex.

For a barnyard in which cattle are to be turned for exercise in winter the board fence should be preferred, if for no other reason than the fact that it will serve as a wind break, thus promoting the comfort of the animals and saving cost of food. The cost will be greater than for wire mesh, but the advantages gained from using boards will more than compensate for the difference in prices.

While there are a good many kinds of toads, all of them bring sudden death to every bug or fly which comes within their reach. We hear a great deal about the value of birds as insect destroyers, but it is doubtful if the most industrious bird devours as many insects in a year as the toad. They are not attractive in appearance, but we should never destroy one of them.

And it came to pass that after he had advertised his goods there came unto him great multitudes from all the region round about, and did buy of him. And he spake unto them saying: Verily, verily, I say unto you, in this fast age of push and hustle, it is easier for a camel to enter the eye of a needle than for a business man to flourish without advertising.—Ex

It is said that the editor of a paper south of Chelsea recently picked up a rifle and started down the street to deliver it to its owner. The delinquent subscribers, however, got it into their heads that he was on the warpath, and every one he met insisted on paying what they were owing him. One of them wiped out a debt of five years' standing. On his return to his office he found a load of hay, 15 bushels of wheat, 10 bushels of corn, 8 bushels of oats, rye, and barley, 12 bushels of potatoes; several loads of wood, a wagon load of turnips, pumpkins, squashes, cabbages, beets, etc., brought in by delinquents. The editors of newspapers east, west and north of Chelsea should do likewise.

The big yellow pumpkin is again finding its way into the market. Throughout the past years of rapid progress, and despite all changes in horticultural products the pumpkin has maintained its dignity and prestige. The very sight of a nice large pumpkin brings recollection to many of the happy days spent at grandmother's and the pleasure found in devouring her pies made from this fruit. The pumpkin came to stay, and its utility as a pie fruit finds favor with the cooks. A piece of good pumpkin pie generally finds room in most any stomach, whether empty or not; but the children generally go wild over it, so let them have all they want.

"A young man in business is wisest who sees to it that his personal letters do not come to his business address," writes Mr. Edward Bok in the October Ladies' Home Journal. "Aside from the technical point that he has no right to use his employer's address for social correspondence, and that it is not the place for such letters, it means a freedom from distraction which is valuable to him. The receipt of social letters at business places often means their answer there, and so one evil multiplies into another. A young man's business hours should be devoted to business, and he cannot be too strict in the observance of that rule. Nor should our girls seek in any respect to lead our young men to give laxity to that rule. The best kind of a self-respecting girl, on the other hand, is she who helps a young man to keep inviolate a rule so obviously for his own best interests—present and future. A girl cannot too rigidly let a young man alone during business hours. That is the rule of wisdom, and I wish that every girl would learn it and adhere to it."

Women's Inventions.

It has been untruly said that woman has no original genius; she can copy, but she cannot create. Invention is responsible for the statement that 400 women applied for patents last year. However, applying for a patent does not always mean that an invention is valid and workable. The patent office of this country at once grants an applicant a patent, and then leaves him to discover whether he is infringing on someone else's rights. One young lady in South Africa invented a patent curling iron, from which she receives £100 a year. Another woman improved on baby carriages and gained a fortune of £10,000. The ex-Emprass of the French devised the crinoline, not an unmixed benefit to humanity. One lady has invented an appliance for deadening the sound of car wheels perfectly successful; and another has devised a curiously ingenious paper bag making machine. Then there is Mrs. Henry Chetwynd's fire-escape, a most ingenious apparatus, admirable in every way as a means of saving life from fire—Ex. We have some smart women in Chelsea who would make good inventors, and hope they will try what they can do.

President Decides Upon the Retention of Philippine Islands.

United States Will Also Assume the Entire Philippine Debt—Spain Has Practically Agreed to the Present Terms.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The Tribune's Washington special says: The United States has decided to claim the entire Philippine archipelago and the Spanish commissioners will be notified to this effect next Monday. The Spanish commissioners will be informed that the United States will assume the Philippine debt of $40,000,000. They will also be notified the United States will assume control of Cuba temporarily, in trust for the people of that island; that Puerto Rico becomes the absolute property of the United States, free from Spanish debt, and that Guam is to be ceded to the United States as a naval station. These terms, it is believed, the Spaniards have practically agreed to.

Spain Practically Agrees. The entire Philippine group is to be ceded to the United States, this country assuming the debt of $40,000,000 contracted, it is said, in good faith, to quell uprisings of the natives, which never rose to the dignity of war and were never protested against by the CABINET CRISIS.

Refusal to Pass a Vote of Confidence in the Body Causes the Resignation of the Entire Ministry.

Paris, Oct. 26.—Premier Brisson and the entire French cabinet have quitted their offices, impelled by failure of a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies. The cabinet crisis came as a fitting climax to an exciting session. That M. Brisson had not expected the blow is evidenced by his surprise at the resignation of Gen. Chanoine, his minister of war, and his confident statements made to the chamber immediately afterwards. The opposition was ready, however, and the refusal of a vote of confidence brought the downfall of the ministry. The Brisson cabinet was definitely formed on June 28 of the present year, and was constituted as follows:

President of the Council and Minister of the Interior—Henri Brisson.
Minister of Finance—Paul Peytral.
Minister of Education—Leon Bourgeois.
Minister of Justice—Ferdinand Sarrien.
Minister of War—Godefroy Cavaignac, who has since been succeeded by Gen. Zurlinden and Gen. Chanoine.
Minister of Marine—Edouard Simon Lockroy.
Minister of Foreign Affairs—Theophile Delcasse.
Minister of the Colonies—Georges Trouillet.
Minister of Commerce—Emile Maruejel.
Minister of Agriculture—Albert Viger, who has since resigned.
Minister of Public Works—Senator Tillaye, who was succeeded by Senator Godin, on September 17.

TRADE REVIEW.

Influence of the Foreign Situation on Business—Active Demand for Our Products.

New York, Oct. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Business has been more affected by foreign affairs than many realize. London's apprehension of war first caused advance in wheat and fears of monetary pressure here. Then came confidence in London, with a flight of French money across the channel, and stock markets advanced, while wheat fell. Mobs in Paris did not mean to influence American interests from New York to San Francisco, but electric wires have made the world small. So the wires moved a cargo of wheat from the Pacific coast, started $2,500,000 more gold from Australia to this country on London account, and the selling of American securities one day and buying the next. There has been no domestic change of much importance, and the rise in prices of western railroad stock indicates that the supreme court decision against the Trans. Line association is considered helpful to railroads.

"Wheat rose 3 cents from Friday to Monday, and then fell 4 1/2 cents to Friday. But such changes do not represent actual conditions, and with western receipts for the week 9,558,205 bushels, against 6,996,487 last year, nobody can pretend that holding of stocks by western farmers is an important factor.

"The iron manufacture has still a good demand, late as it is, but the makers are depressing prices by bidding against each other, although in the average of all quotations the decline has been less than half of 1 per cent. from the highest point. But the wire nail manufacturers have reduced prices 5 per cent., and the rail manufacturers, according to current reports, have decided not to advance prices, and there is a prospect that

OF INTEREST TO VISITORS

The Museum, Library, Art Collection and Whispering Gallery at the University of Michigan.

DESCRIPTION OF THESE BUILDINGS.

Their Contents Are Well Worth the Attention of Sight-Seeers—Whisperers Heard at a Distance of Seventy Feet—The Gymnasium—Other Notes of General Interest.

[Special Correspondence.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 26.—Among the many things of interest to the visitor at the University of Michigan are the museum, the library, the art collection, the whispering gallery, the Frieze memorial organ, the power and light plant and the gymnasium.

The Museum.

The museum occupies a building by itself, near the southwest corner of the campus. The building is of red brick, four stories high, with a slate roof and a square tower running up from the ground. The building is entered from the east side. The left hand, or south wing, on the first floor, is used as a geological lecture-room. It contains maps and charts useful in geological work. The right hand wing is filled with cases containing geological specimens, fossils and skeletons of prehistoric animals.

The south room, on the second floor, is given over to ornithological specimens. The birds are arranged in groups, consisting of male and female, and when possible the young birds. They are mounted in their natural surroundings, with real nest and foliage as far as possible. Just across the hall from the birdroom is the exhibit of mammals. Mounted in the cases in this room are the wild animals of North and South America, including a wild cat, a panther, several black bears, a grizzly bear, gray wolf, and a bull and cow moose. There are also two Atlantic walrus and two fur seals and several specimens of deer and elk.

The third floor of the building is given over to invertebrates and the Chinese exhibit which was given to the university at the close of the New Orleans exposition in 1885.

The Library.

The library building is full of things worth seeing. The large semicircular reading-room is, when college is open, a place well worth visiting. There are often more than 200 students at work at the desks with books. The book-room is an exceedingly interesting place. It is a fireproof vault, with glass floors and iron book frames and stairs. On either side of the library are the seminary-rooms, where tables and desks are arranged for the pursuit of special studies. Large numbers of books are also shelved in these rooms. The library contains 92,222 volumes, 16,592 pamphlets and 1,299 maps. On its shelves is a Shakespearean library, which alone consists of 4,642 volumes.

The two large rooms on the third floor of the building are given over to the art collection. Here are casts of heroic size, marble statues, busts mounted on pedestals, cabinets containing historic medallions and reliefs of architectural and sculptural remains of ancient Italy and Greece. The walls of the rooms are covered with hundreds of the choicest paintings mounted in broad, deep frames, heavily overlaid with gold leaf. They are portraits of distinguished personages, scenes from nature, historical scenes and allegorical representations.

The Art Gallery.

The gallery contains the entire collection of the original casts of the works of Randolph Rogers, which was given to the state by the distinguished sculptor himself. There is also a large white cast of the bronze doors of the capitol at Washington. This piece contains many small figures and characteristic scenes. Other casts represent world-famous statues contained in the galleries of Europe. Among the most interesting of the pieces is Rogers' marble statue of Bulwer Lytton's Nydia, fleeing from the destruction of Pompeii. There are also in the gallery some real tablets from the ruins of the ancient Assyrian and Babylonian empires, which tablets are covered with cuneiform hieroglyphics.

The Whispering Gallery.

The whispering gallery is the crescent-shaped attic surrounding the semicircular end of the main room containing the art collection. It is just under the roof and is a place that is as dark as the proverbial stack of black cats, as there are no arrangements for lighting it. At the tips of the crescent are doors opening into the art room. A whisper uttered near one of these doors can be distinctly heard by a person at the other, although the distance around is more than 70 feet.

The Frieze Memorial Organ.

Another place of interest is the rostrum in University hall, on which is placed the great pipe organ from the World's Columbian exposition. It is justly reckoned one of the most complete concert organs in the world. It has four manuals, 3,901 pipes and 114 stops. The largest pipe is 32 feet long. Electric motors of seven-horse power are used to fill the bellows. The connections of the keys with the pipes are electric. In the upper northeast corner of the large hall is an echo organ, which is operated from the keyboard of the larger instrument.

The Power House.

At the eastern side of the campus is the heating and lighting plant. Here is generated the steam for heating the 14 buildings on the campus and the high-pressure steam for running the machinery in the engineering laboratory. Besides the 14 boilers which are placed below the level of the ground, the building contains the two 75 kilowatt dynamos operated by the two 120-horse power engines. These dynamos generate the electricity for the 4,000 incandescent and 32 arc lamps that light, until 10:30 at night, the campus and the university buildings, including the observatory and the hospitals.

The Gymnasium.

At the northeast corner of the 40-acre campus is the gymnasium. This place above all others should not be forgotten by the visitor. Up the third flight of stairs, after entering the main door, the stranger will find the visitors' gallery. From this point of vantage he will have a perfect view of the entire gymnasium floor. About ten feet above the floor and suspended from the roof is a running track which is constructed for foot and cycle work. Around the sides and on the floor of the room there is a vast amount of apparatus, such as dumbbells, Indian clubs, weight machines, parallel bars, horizontal ladders, jumping measures, leather horses, springboards, etc. Portions of the floor are marked for handball, so that several of these contests can be in progress at the same time. If the visitor is fortunate enough to be present when a class is drilling, the scene will be a most animating one. There will be a hundred or more on the floor working their muscles and lungs in unison. At other times, when the classes are not on the floor, there will be many athletes busy in the pursuit of various games and the performance of all kinds of difficult feats, requiring muscular strength and peculiar skill.

Notes of Interest.

Mrs. James B. Angell gave an interesting address in the ladies' library recently upon the subject "Constantinople," in which she recounted her experiences in that city during Dr. Angell's residence there as minister to Turkey.

The first public meeting of the University Philosophical society was held October 21. Prof. Lloyd read a paper bearing on the theory of evolution.

The sport of golf is arousing much interest among both students and members of the faculties. Odd out of the way places in the hills and moors about Ann Arbor seem to be preferred by novices. The pedestrian or bicyclist on a tour in the neighborhood catches glimpses now and then of wretched figures and wildly waving sticks. There is talk of a university links.

MARQUETTE PRISON.

Report of the Board of Control for Two Years Has Been Filed with the Governor.

There has been no increase in the population of the branch prison at Marquette in the two years of Warden Freeman's management. The report of the board of control of that institution for the two years ending June 30, 1898, which has just been filed with the governor shows that the population of the prison at the beginning of the biennial period was exactly 200, which is identically the same number of prisoners confined there at the end of the term covered by the report.

During the past two years the average cost to the state for maintaining each prisoner was 46.51 cents per capita per day or $7.56 per capita per annum less than during any previous biennial term.

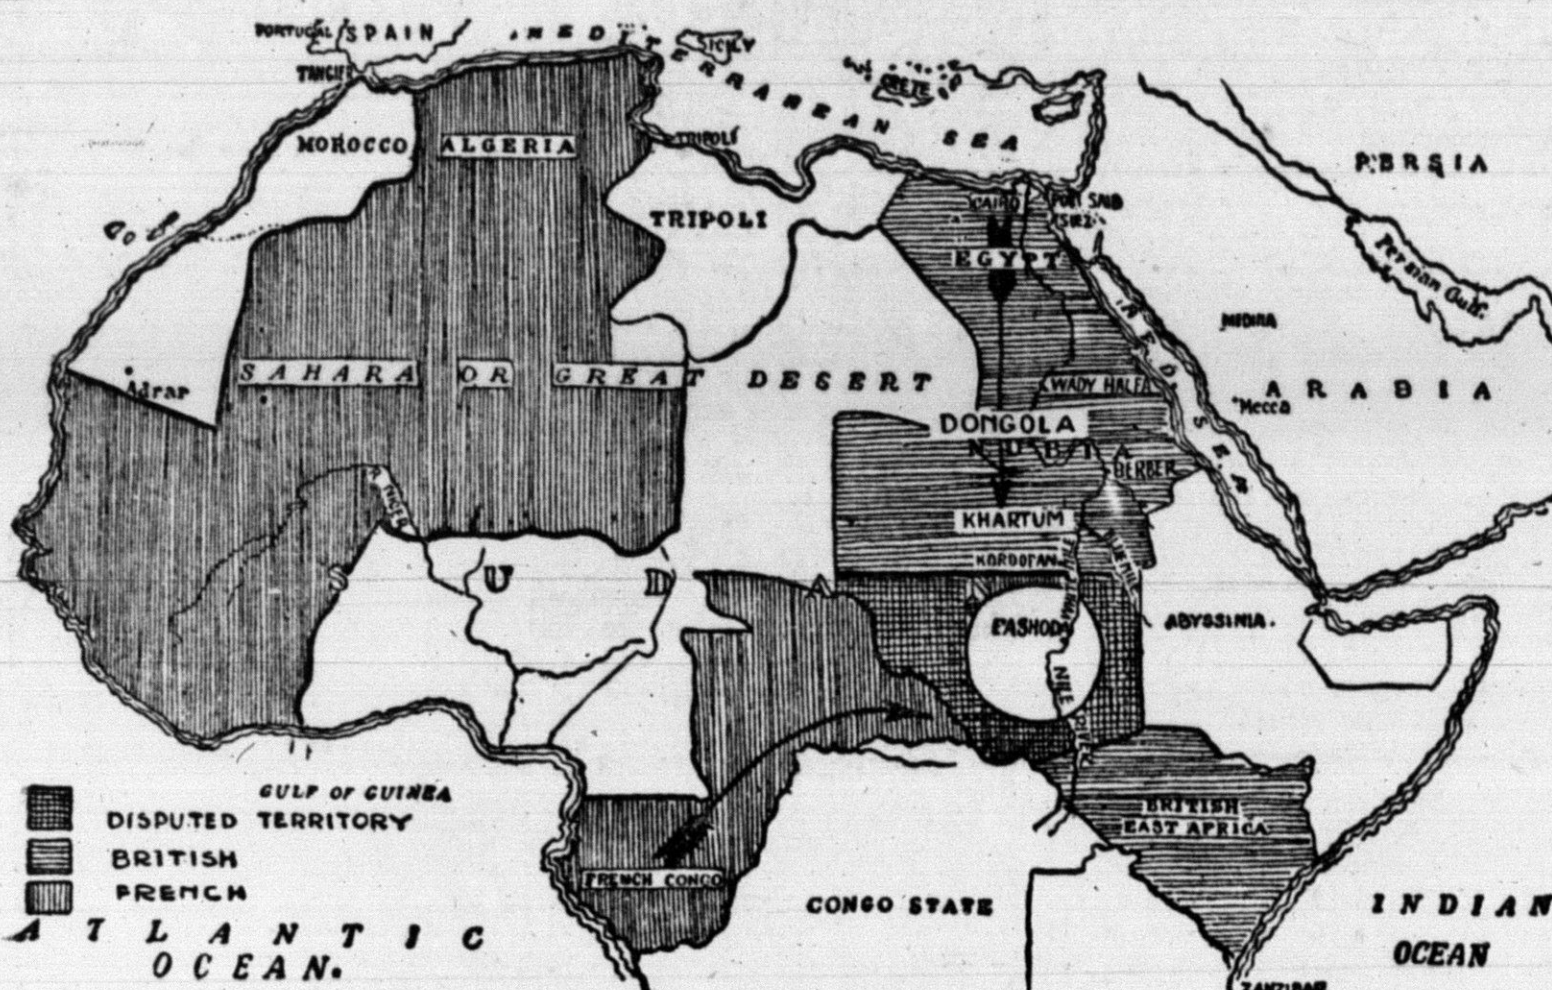

The yardmaster's department at the prison shows a profit for the first time in the history of the prison, and during the season of 1897 the farm produced $2,599.08 worth of vegetables and other products.

The appropriations needed for the next two years for special purposes amount to $19,539. The estimated current expenses for 1899 and 1900 are $36,513.30 for each year, after deducting estimated earnings of $8,000 per year. For the fiscal year last closed the current expenses were $34,955.39. The buildings and grounds are inventoried by the warden at $254,978.63.

In Many Battles.

The annual reunion of the Seventh Michigan cavalry was held in Lansing, about 60 members being present, the occasion being a very successful one in every respect. The day was the anniversary of the battle of Cedar Creek and Sheridan's memorable ride. The Seventh cavalry was in nearly 100 skirmishes and battles, and this fact afforded plenty of food for reminiscences.

Ida Copeland was granted a divorce from Fred Copeland at Adrian. The couple were married in August, 1888. He disappeared the next day and his bride saw him only once after that.

WHERE THE TWO COUNTRIES CLASH

England claims all that part of Africa through which Nile river runs, while France, beginning at the French Congo, is seeking to control a strip of territory reaching from the Atlantic to the India ocean. Naturally their expeditions of conquest have met in the vicinity of Fashoda, as indicated in the map.

United States. These terms, it is said, the Spaniards have already practically agreed to.

The president has decided to take the whole of the Philippines, as was fore-shadowed during his western trip, and at the cabinet meeting Friday the final instructions to the American commissioners were agreed upon, with the understanding that the Thanksgiving day proclaimed by the president would find the fruits of victory actually in the possession of the United States. The end is at hand and the Philippines are ours.

DISASTER ON LAKE ONTARIO.

Schooner St. Peter Goes Down—The Captain Alone Saved—At Least Eight Perished.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 28.—A special to the Herald from Sudus says: The three-masted schooner St. Peter, of St. Vincent, sank Thursday noon about five miles northwest of Sudus, on Lake Ontario, with all on board save Capt. John Griffin, who was rescued in a precarious condition. The wife of the captain was lost, also Mate McLaren, of Kingston. Eight persons at least perished. Olen Jolley and Jacob Verburg, of this town, were standing on shore when the St. Peter went down, and declare that the boat was not more than half a mile from shore. It is thought that the St. Peter lost her rudder, and that the heavy seas caused her to spring a leak. The St. Peter was bound from Oswego to Toledo, with 700 tons of coal.

An Uncle's Infatuation.

Lenora, Kan., Oct. 29.—William Elliott followed Miss Fannie Lashell and her sister home from a dance, and shooting over the head of the sister, who tried to save her, killed the first named in the street. He then fired three shots into his own body and may die. Elliott came here from Chicago three weeks ago. Notwithstanding he is the girl's uncle, he had persisted in paying her attentions. The shooting was the result of her refusal to marry him.

Yellow Fever in Mexico.

Laredo, Tex., Oct. 26.—State Quarantine Officer Turpin returned from Monterey, Mex., and reported to the authorities of the state that 50 cases of yellow fever exist in that city. Three deaths have occurred from the disease. A number of Americans are ill, the deaths mentioned being of that nationality. The quarantine officer says that only very decidedly cold weather will stop the fever.

Gen. Chanoine's resignation was the result of systematic terrorizing by military chiefs who charged him with being a traitor to his order in assenting to the proposal to refer the Dreyfus case to the court of cassation. Another doubtful element in the situation is the attitude of President Faure, who is known to be unfriendly to Brisson and is suspected of looking favorably on the schemes of the military party. The Fashoda dispute takes quite a secondary importance, owing to the political situation. English residents of France are, however, being alarmed and many are making arrangements to move their households if war is declared.

Paris, Oct. 28.—President Faure, at nine o'clock Thursday evening, asked M. Dupuy to form a cabinet, in succession to the Brisson ministry, which resigned on Tuesday. Dupuy has asked until to-day to decide. But he will doubtless accept the task unless unforeseen difficulties arise. It is thought that the cabinet will be composed as follows: M. Dupuy, premier and minister of the interior; M. De Freycinet, minister of war; M. Constance, minister of justice; M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs; M. Ribot, minister of finance; M. Bourgeois, minister of public instruction.

Paris, Oct. 29.—M. Dupuy has formally informed President Faure that he will accept the task of forming a new cabinet.

Strike Is Off.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 29.—The general strike of the lasters in the boot and shoe factories in this city, Rockland, Middleboro, Stockton, and other towns in southeastern Massachusetts, which was begun about six weeks ago, was declared off Friday and the union has authorized the strikers to return to work. Many of the manufacturers are reluctant to take back the old employees, most of the factory owners maintaining that they have all the help they need. The outcome is a virtual defeat for the lasters.

Dead Number Fourteen.

Meridian, Miss., Oct. 26.—Further information reaching here from Forest, Miss., says that 14 is the number of negroes killed in the Harkersville race riot up to this time. The bodies of three more victims were found in the woods Tuesday, which increased the number to 14. The negroes who fled to the swamps have all made good their escape and the race conflict is now at an end.

heavy demand for products will be further encouraged by the later quotations. "Failures for the week have been 226 in the United States, against 219 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 25 last year."

STEAMER DOTY LOST.

Little Doubt But That She Sank Off Kenosha, Wis., with Seventeen Men.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The loss of the steamer L. R. Doty with her crew of 17 men some time during the great gale was conceded Friday. There is not the slightest hope that any of the crew is alive.

The wreckage which was brought in by the tug Prodigy and taken to the office of the Independent tug line, was fully identified by Capt. Ellison, of the steamer George Williams. The Williams and the Doty belong to the same fleet, were built at the same shipyard and are finished nearly alike. The cabin door which was brought in by the Prodigy was instantly recognized as being one of the inside cabin doors by Capt. Ellison. Other pieces of wreckage were also identified by him as belonging to the Doty.

Murder at Long Branch.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 29.—Harry Brooks, married and 21 years old, went to the residence of George Hibbett on Seventh avenue at one o'clock Thursday afternoon and shot and killed Hibbett's wife, who was ten years his senior. The cause of the murder remains a mystery. The murderer was taken to the county jail at Freehold Thursday afternoon to escape a mob of lynchers.

An Old Man's Fate.

New York, Oct. 26.—A dynamite bomb of the fireworks sort exploded Tuesday night at a democratic meeting in this city, and Peter Bowen, 63 years of age, employed in the department of highways, was instantly killed. The bomb was being fired in the air. It struck Bowen in the abdomen, exploding with terrible force, driving the half-inch stick into his body, killing him instantly.

Life Insured for $2,000,000.

New York, Oct. 29.—Two million dollars is said to be the size of a life insurance policy taken out by a resident of New York, supposed to be Charles T. Yerkes, although the identity of the person is not disclosed. The first premium, to give precise figures, was $101,900. It is a ten-year policy of the annual dividend endowment class.

THE POSTAL SERVICE.

Facts Regarding Transportation of Mails Taken from Second Assistant Postmaster General's Report.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The immense work of transporting the mails throughout the United States is dealt with in the annual report of Second Assistant Postmaster General William S. S. Shallenberger, which has been made public. The main feature of the report is a vigorous arraignment of existing star route methods. Mr. Shallenberger refers to the present system of speculative bidding for star routes as "discreditable to the government."

The report shows the number of mail routes at the close of the year was 33,795; total mileage 480,461, and averaging on each route nine trips per week. There were 454,332,691 miles traveled on these routes, costing almost $107 per mile of length each, or almost $12 per mile traveled. The total annual rate of expenditure for both routes within the United States and in the foreign mail service was $53,025,454.

The report commends the use of pneumatic tubes, but voices regret that in some cases the tubes are not fully utilized. This service in Boston is especially cited as operating 21 hours daily and carrying all the first-class mail. The New York postmaster, however, takes the position that it has not been possible to make such reductions in the regular mail wagon trips as it was thought would result from instituting tube service.

The expenditure to railroads for mail transportation, so far as shown by accounts stated to September 30, was $30,449,827, and the estimate for railroad transportation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, is $32,275,000. A deficiency of nearly $1,000,000 in this fiscal year for transportation is probable.

Concerning the railway mail service, the report shows there were 1,268 miles of traveling post offices, and recommendation is made for a reclassification of the service, legislation requiring newspaper publishers to make primary separation of their papers and periodicals for mailing, requiring postal clerks to wear a badge instead of the present regulation cap and for general establishment of postal stations in railroad depots.

For ocean mail transportation in the next fiscal year $2,154,000 is estimated. Over 14,000,000 letters and post cards have been distributed in transit in our international sea post offices and only 1,500 errors were reported. Negotiations are now pending looking to securing reciprocal benefits from Great Britain in the way of a sea post office on the Cunard and White Star lines in the near future. These two English lines carry a very large amount of mail and will extensively profit by separation of mail in transit and the consequent early dispatch and delivery of mail by the harbor boat service at New York.

Mr. Shallenberger submits estimates for his entire service of $56,944,000 for next year and says the estimated expenditures for the present year will be $54,215,738. Special recognition is given to the courage and faithfulness of the postal clerks and other officials who during the yellow fever epidemic in the south remained at their posts.

REACH JERUSALEM.

A Cordial Reception Is Accorded the German Emperor and Empress in the Historical City.

Jerusalem, Oct. 31.—Emperor William and Empress Augusta Victoria, with their suites, arrived Saturday in perfect health and at three o'clock visited the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. The streets presented a lively appearance and the buildings were lavishly decorated.

Jerusalem, Oct. 31.—The approach of their German imperial majesties to the city Saturday was made through triumphal arches and amid banners, garlands and ever-growing crowds, displaying in every way their enthusiasm and delight. The formal entry through the Jaffa gate was heralded by the roar of guns at the citadel, where the Turkish band played the German anthem. From the tower of David, Emperor William and Empress Augusta Victoria proceeded on foot, amid wild cheering, to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, where they were received by the Catholic, Greek and Armenian clergy, whose patriarchs presented addresses eulogizing the devotion of Emperor William, who has since conferred decorations on the patriarchs. Their majesties then proceeded to the German Evangelical church, where the pastor presented an address. At six o'clock in the evening Saturday a reception was held at the German consulate and later there was a general illumination of the city, with a display of fireworks. Sunday the imperial pair attended service at the Evangelical church in Bethlehem, afterward paying a visit to the Church of the Nativity. After the excursion to Jericho Djavad Pasha, former grand vizier, recently Turkish governor of Crete, and now attached to the person of Emperor William as a special representative of the sultan, will leave the imperial suite. It is rumored that this is due to some unpleasantness. Emperor William has sent his portrait in brilliant to Tewfik Pasha, Turkish ambassador to Germany, who was among the high Ottoman dignitaries that received the emperor and empress in Constantinople.

NOTED JOURNALIST DEAD.

Close of the Career of William Hyde, Once Managing Editor of the St. Louis Republic.

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—William Hyde, at one time managing editor of the St. Louis Republic, died Sunday at his home in this city of heart disease. He had been a sufferer from ill health for a long time and for two months prior to his death had been confined to his home. He was 62 years old and was born at Lima, N. Y. During President Cleveland's first administration Mr. Hyde was appointed postmaster for St. Louis. After the expiration of his service he was called to Salt Lake City to assume the editorship of the Salt Lake Herald. When he resigned this position he returned to St. Louis.

PITYING THE POOR.

Sometimes the tramp gets the better of the thrifty housewife. The mistress of a pretty little cottage at Sausalito—she only inherited about $80,000, and so is obliged to be frugal—is the object of a little criticism from her friends because of her reputed parsimony. Last Saturday, as she was sitting on her piazza, overlooking the water, and waiting for Ted to come home, a passing knight of the road humbly solicited a bite. The young woman could not withstand the petition, so she went herself to the bread box, which was filled with freshly-baked loaves, and brought out to the waiting vagrant two slices of boardlike consistency which had been baked many days earlier. As she presented her bounty she felt just a trifle ashamed of it. "We are very poor ourselves," she said, in muttered apology.

A NATION OF DYSPEPTICS.

From the Mountaineer, Walhalla, N. Dak.

The remorse of a guilty stomach is what a large majority of the people are suffering with to-day. Dyspepsia is a characteristic American disease and it is frequently stated that "we are a nation of dyspeptics."

Improper food, hurried eating, mental worry, exhaustion; any of these produce a lack of vitality in the system, by causing the blood to lose its life-sustaining elements. The blood is the vital element in our lives and should be carefully nurtured. Restore the blood to its proper condition, dyspepsia will vanish and good health follow.

For example, in the county of Pembina, North Dakota, a few miles from Walhalla, resides Mr. Ernest Snider; a man of sterling integrity, whose veracity cannot be doubted. He says:

The Doctors Disagreed.

"I became seriously ill three years ago. The doctor gave me medicine for indigestion, but I continued to become worse. I had several physicians at intervals who gave me some relief, but nothing permanent."

"I read in the newspapers articles regarding the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally concluded to try the pills. I purchased six boxes. This was five months ago. The first box gave me much relief. I continued taking the pills, and after using four boxes was cured."

These pills are recognized everywhere as a specific for diseases of the blood and nerves. For paralysis, locomotor ataxia, and other diseases long supposed incurable, they have proved their efficacy in thousands of cases.

REGAINED HEALTH.

Gratifying Letters to Mrs. Pinkham From Happy Women.

"I Owe You My Life."

Mrs. E. WOOLHISER,

Mills, Neb., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I owe my life to your Vegetable Compound. The doctors said I had consumption and nothing could be done for me. My menstruation had stopped and they said my blood was turning to water. I had several doctors. They all said I could not live. I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me right away; menses returned and I have gained in weight. I have better health than I have had for years. It is wonderful what your Compound has done for me."

"I Feel Like a New Person."

Mrs. GEO. LEACH,

1609 Belle St., Alton, Ill., writes:

"Before I began to take your Vegetable Compound I was a great sufferer from womb trouble. Menses would appear two and three times in a month, causing me to be so weak I could not stand. I could neither sleep nor eat, and looked so badly my friends hardly knew me."

"I took doctor's medicine but did not derive much benefit from it. My druggist gave me one of your little books, and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel like a new person. I would not give your Compound for all the doctors' medicine in the world. I can not praise it enough."

Washington News.

Washington, D. C., October 28, 1898.—This government has not sent an ultimatum to Spain concerning the dilatoriness of the peace negotiations, as has been widely published, but it has instructed the American Commissioners to inform the Spanish Commissioners that it is useless for them to continue quibbling about Spanish bonds, as this government will not, under any circumstances, consent to even consider them in any way as a part of the peace negotiations; also, that there is a limit to American patience, and that it is quite time that the Commission got down to the only real question upon which it will have to act—the Philippines. Admiral Dewey has expressed the opinion that the Filipinos are much better fitted for self government than the Cubans are, but he has been careful not to express an opinion, where it could get out, on whether the United States should own the Philippines or only exercise a protectorate over them. It is known that Dewey regards the continuation of Spanish control of any portion of them as impossible.

The formal decision of the President and Cabinet to extend the time first given the Spanish troops to get out of Cuba to January 1st, was not satisfactory; but it could not very well be avoided. This government could, of course, order impossibilities, but that would not get them performed. Our military commissioners now at Havana believe that the Spaniards are getting out of Cuba in good faith, and as fast as they could reasonably be expected to do with the facilities at their disposal. There are so many troops to be carried to Spain, and there are only so many ships available to carry them, and it takes an average of just so many days to make a round-trip. It thus became a question of mathematics. There will be more Spanish troops left in Havana, Dec 1, than this government cares to have there when our troops take charge; therefore it has been considered best to defer taking possession for a month after that date. This decision was not the result of anything but existing conditions, as reported by our Commissioners.

While the friends of Admirals Sampson and Schley continue to dispute about which of them is entitled to the most credit for bottling up and destroying Cervera's fleet, Brigadier-General Greely, Chief Signal Officer, in his annual report to the Secretary of War, calls attention to the fact that Col. Allen, of the Signal Service, located Cervera's fleet the day it arrived at Santiago, and at once notified the Washington authorities, in order that the fleets of Sampson and Schley, which were looking elsewhere for Cervera, might be sent there. He also calls attention to the fact that Col. Allen reported the destruction of Cervera's fleet fourteen hours in advance of any other official dispatch. Incidentally, General Greely's report gives Gen. Shafter a thump or two, because of his failure to properly recognize the signal corps, either while the Santiago campaign was being conducted or in his official report of the campaign. This sort of thing is not new. "Every crow thinks its own young the whitest."

The delegation of Atlanta business men who came to Washington to invite President McKinley to attend a peace jubilee in their city, returned home greatly pleased with their success. When Mr. McKinley told them that he could not get away from Washington earlier than Dec. 15th, they promptly fixed that as the date of their jubilee, and secured an acceptance of their invitation.

According to Attorney-General Griggs, residents of Porto Rico will not become citizens of the United States until the treaty of peace has been concluded and signed, except to the extent of protection against foreign encroachment upon their rights.

Political troubles are not the only ones that poor France has. A report from the United States commercial agent at Roubaix, says of the condition of labor in North France: At Lille 6 per cent. of the bakers are idle, and the working day in the linen factories has been shortened; one-third of the weavers at Aspres are without work; one-third of the coopers at Dunkirk are idle, and 12 per cent. of masons.

Gen. M. C. Butler's assertion that unless this government soon makes some show of strength in Cuba, it will have to fight the insurgents, who will become bannets, has caused much talk in Washington, although similar opinions have been expressed by many from the first. Gen. Butler is one of our Military Commissioners now at Havana, arranging for Spanish evacuation, which adds weight to his opinion. That the insurgents were mostly brigands, calling themselves revolutionists, has been asserted by many who were familiar with the situation in Cuba during the past two or three years. According to these persons, a stable government, under which everybody without means will have to work for a living, is about the last thing that most of the insurgents wish to see Cuba have.

Horse Notes.

Should your horse refuse to drink before feeding make him wait at least an hour after feeding.
An important fact to bear in mind is that after you have bred her she should be kept quiet for a day or two.

The crossing of a thoroughbred sire with a Hackney mare will give you a horse which combines courage and style.

It is very poor judgment to buy a horse that has changed hands frequently. There surely must be something the matter with him.

Don't neglect to examine the feet of your weanlings and two-year-old colts. They should be kept clean and level with the rasp.

Always have your horse in the best of condition when he is ready for market. Individual merit and good appearance goes a long way in the sale of horses.

See that the horse stables are kept perfectly clean and a good coat of whitewash will add very materially to the appearance of your stable as well as to the appearance of the horse.

How to Cook Vegetables.

That cooking a vegetable after it is done toughens, darkens it and detracts from its flavor.

That every green vegetable should be cooked rapidly and uncovered, to retain its color.

That lying in cold water for an hour or more will partially restore to wilted vegetables quality and freshness.

That the best dressing for vegetables at their perfection is butter, pepper and salt—cauliflower and asparagus excepted.

That most vegetables should be put on to cook in freshly boiling water. That salt should be added when they are about two-thirds done.

That older or staler vegetables are improved by a cream or drawn-butter sauce the basis for the latter the reduced liquid left when the cooking is finished.

That if the water is very hard, a tiny bit of soda, not larger than a pea, added, will make the vegetables cooked in it tenderer and of better color. Ordinary water does not require such addition.
