GREAT DAMAGE TO CORN.

Weather Bureau's Summary of Crop Conditions for October.

The monthly summary of crop conditions issued by the weather bureau says:

The month of October was generally very favorable for germination and growth of fall-sown grain throughout the country east of the Rocky Mountains, but excessive moisture in the Central Valley, East Gulf and South Atlantic States interfered with farm work and caused much damage to crops remaining in the field. On the Pacific coast, in New England, and in the Middle Atlantic States the weather conditions were generally favorable for farming interests.

Generally throughout the Central Valley and that in shock, suffered great damage from excessive rains, which caused sprouting and rotting to a great extent, and delayed husking and cutting of the crops. Except in Texas and portions of the Carolinas, where cotton-picking has progressed satisfactorily, the month has been very unfavorable for gathering the late crop, much of which, in the central portion of the country, has been greatly damaged by heavy rains.

The reports generally indicate that early sown grain, germinated quickly, had made vigorous growth and was in excellent condition at the close of the month.

In Kentucky tobacco in barns has sustained injury from the effect of excessive moisture.

The month has been comparatively free from destructive frosts, although they occurred as far south as Northern Florida.

Negro Taken from the Marshall County Jail by a Mob.

While she was on her way home Friday evening, she was knocked down by a stone by a negro, who then completed his crime. Dogs were put on the trail, and went directly to the house of Stewart. The latter was arrested, and as there was some talk of lynching, was taken to the county jail for safe keeping, where he confessed the crime. Meanwhile the people of Toluca quickly organized for vengeance. Early Monday morning about 100 armed and masked men appeared at the jail. They broke into the jail, took out Stewart, and hanged him. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that the negro came to his death at the hands of persons unknown.

It May Exceed Ninety Million by Reason of Recent Expansion.

The ladies of the M. E. society have arranged a very pleasing menu for the dinner they are to give in the church Thanksgiving Day, and would be pleased to have you take your dinner that day with them.

On account of next Thursday being Thanksgiving Day, and in order to give the Standard force a chance to be thankful, the next issue of this paper will be printed on Wednesday. Correspondents and advertisers will please make a note of this and get their copy in early.

We thought that when election was over the Ypsilanti Sentinel would get over its indisposition, caused by an infection of the democratic state central committee, but it seems to have become chronic, and some of the things in its last issue would have been better unsaid.

While in the city this week, Rev. Dr. Riley of Arian, conversing on the subject of the high fund raised in America some years ago, said: "A Chicago paper accused me of running away with the fund. Well, the charge was true. I did run away with the high fund. I run to Ireland. Was not that right?"—Jackson Sunday Herald.

Arch Miles of Dexter knows how a fish feels when speared. He went spearing one night last week and trying to maintain his equilibrium ran against the other fellow's spear in such a manner as to run it into his leg for a couple of inches.

The Evening Times of Ann Arbor says that Sheriff Billy Judson has won $1,250 as a result of the recent election. His greatest bet was for $1,000 with a Grand Rapids man who believed that Plagrove would have 50,000 less majority than two years ago.

The Northwestern-Washtenaw Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company is doing business with a rush, and the way that applications are coming in keeps the secretary busy a good share of the time. There's hoping that it will be a long time before an assessment will have to be called.

Peter McGraw had a narrow escape from death Tuesday afternoon. He was attempting to climb on a load of hay when the ladder broke, letting him fall under the horses. They run away and when Pete was picked up and an examination made it was found that his heart was badly cut, a rib or two broken and numerous other bruises. He is able to get about with a pair of crutches.

The Congregationalists of this place decided unanimously last Sunday to extend a call to Rev. Carl S. Jones to be their pastor. Mr. Jones is a young man of excellent qualifications, and on the several occasions that he has preached in this place has made a profound impression upon his hearers. He comes highly recommended by his Mackinac congregation, all of whom are reluctant to part with him.

In setting apart Thursday, November 24th as Thanksgiving Day, President McKinley says: "Few years in our history have afforded such cause for thanksgiving as this. We have been blessed by our abundant harvests, our trade and commerce have wonderfully increased, our public credit has been improved and strengthened, all sections of our common country have been brought together and knitted into closer bonds of national purpose and unity."

A. W. Wilkinson tells the greatest story of the year and has been awarded the badge and other paraphernalia that goes with the degree of P. M. of I. He says that when he moved to town some time ago he found a beach in his barn that had laid thirteen eggs and was setting on them. There was nothing in the building for the hen to eat except some sawdust, and when the chickens were hatched twelve of them were found to have wooden legs and the other one was a woodpecker.

The Ann Arbor Courier in its last issue attributed one of the causes of the republican defeat in Washtenaw county to the stay-at-home vote in Sylvan. The Courier should polish up its glasses a little and look again. The republican gain in Sylvan over two years ago was over 100 votes and if the rest of the county had made a proportionate gain, the republicans would have carried the county by over 2,000. If the Courier expects to stand in with the Sylvan republicans it should apologize to them.

The city clerk is going to hold a school of instruction to election boards prior to the next election. The Fourth ward vote was counted and returns filed in the city clerk's office by 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night. The Third ward came in at 1:30 Wednesday morning and the First ward an hour later. Evening Times.

Sylvan which polled the largest number of votes of any precinct in the county, 620, which is 200 more than was polled in Ann Arbor's fourth ward, had finished counting at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Chelsea Standard says that Canfield's suit against Allmendinger is the third damage suit resulting from the anti-Judson fight. This is only the second so far as The Register is aware. We would like to know what the other is.

Ann Arbor Register. May be The Standard has given The Register creditor doing more damage than it really had, but its recollection is that there have been three damage cases instituted all of which are directly traceable to the outcome of the republican love feast at Ann Arbor last February.

CONGRESS VERY CLOSE

Official Count May Be Necessary in Many Districts.

Republicans claim safe majorities in South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Nebraska, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, Wyoming, Montana, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, and Louisiana.

All the States of the Union, exclusive of Maine, Oregon and Vermont, and the territories of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arizona, held elections Tuesday. The following States elected Governors: California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Massachusetts, New York, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Massachusetts, New York, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming and West Virginia elected State Legislatures.

Incomplete returns up to midnight Wednesday indicated that the Republicans had retained control of the national House of Representatives by a greatly reduced amount, probably safe majority. The election of Republican Legislatures in several States classed as doubtful insured a Republican majority in the United States Senate after March 4, 1890.

Roosevelt's majority over Van Wyck for Governor of New York is about 20,000. Van Wyck carried Greater New York by nearly 85,000, which was overcome by Roosevelt's majority north of the Harlem river of about 105,000. Stone becomes Governor of Pennsylvania by a plurality of nearly 25,000. Gov. Pinckney, with the aid of the fusionists, carried Michigan by about 80,000. Lind, a Republican, is probably elected Governor of Minnesota. Scofield ran considerably behind his ticket, but is elected Governor of Wisconsin by a safe majority. The Democratic managers concede the election of the Republican ticket in Indiana by about 12,000.

President casts his vote.

Travelled from Washington to Canton to discharge the duty.

President McKinley and party arrived in Canton at 9:25 Tuesday morning, and was at once driven to the Barber residence. The President then walked to the polling place, dismissing the carriage. There was a crowd to greet him all the way, but there was no formal demonstration. The President started back to Washington the same afternoon.

TEN SLAIN AT THE POLLS.

Election Riot at Phoenix, S. C., Leads to Mysterious Murders.

Ten negroes are dead as a result of the election riots at Phoenix, S. C. The negroes threatened to make a desperate fight to avenge the death of their fellows.

The trouble at Phoenix began with an effort to prevent several negroes from voting. J. R. Tolbert, Federal collector at Charleston, whose home is at Phoenix, entered into the discussion and declared the men must not be disfranchised. He directed the negroes to deposit their ballots in a separate box. This action angered Bose Eldridge, an authorized poll manager, and he vigorously objected. Blows were struck and then some one in a group of negroes shot and killed Eldridge.

The shooting was returned and five negroes were wounded, among them Thomas Tolbert, son of the collector. The negroes took to their heels, but eleven of the crowd were captured. The prisoners were taken to Rehoboth, where a crowd of angry whites shot and killed many of the prisoners. A number of conservative whites tried to save the negroes, but were swept aside.

HAZEN S. PINCKNEY.

Re-elected Governor of Michigan.

For the second time in the history of Rochester, N. Y., ballot machines were used. On the previous occasion much trouble was experienced in operating the machines, but this time there was no trouble whatever. It required just half a minute to vote a split ticket, to make a check and but a couple of seconds to vote a straight ticket. The polls were closed at 5 o'clock and a half hour later the result of the vote in the entire city was known in the newspaper offices.

Col. Roosevelt, Republican, is elected Governor of New York by about 20,000 plurality. The Democrats carried eleven counties as against only one two years ago, and Greater New York gave Van Wyck 85,000 majority. As compared with the election of 1886 when Black defeated Porter, this shows a Republican loss of from 100,000 to 105,000. Roosevelt came to the Harlem river with 105,000 plurality, and Van Wyck had but 85,000 in Greater New York with which to meet it. The vote outside the city shows that Roosevelt lost 61,000 as compared with Black. In the city his vote was 61,000 smaller than Black's. In the country districts Van Wyck ran about 20,000 and in the city about 54,000 ahead of Porter.

The next congressional delegation from Michigan will be Republican. Congressmen Todd and Brinker, Democrats, being succeeded by Washington Gardner and J. W. Fordney. Gov. Pinckney has been re-elected by a plurality of 70,000. The vote throughout the State was light, and although the Governor was badly cut at many points, his Democratic friends rallied to his support with more than enough votes to offset the Republican defeat. Of the thirty-two State Senators the Democrats elected five and possibly six. In the House they will have five votes, while eight others are in doubt. The Republicans will have a majority of eighty-seven and a majority on joint ballot of 104.

Iowa voters elected the Republican candidate in the eleven congressional districts of the State, the same by sweeping and almost unlooked for majorities, and the few who had contests on their hands by increased pluralities, except in one district. Major John P. Lacey, member of Congress, defeated Gen. James H. Weaver by a plurality of 1,234, a gain of 33 over his plurality in 1886. The Sixth district was the central battle ground during the campaign. The Republican State ticket will have about 60,000 majority. The falling off in the vote is about 15 to 18 per cent as compared with 1886. Fusionists suffered from this cause.

Minnesota. John Lind, silver Republican, with Democratic and gold Populist endorsement, who a few years ago as a Republican represented a Minnesota district in the national Congress, has a large plurality in the State over Gust. Rep. The rest of the Republican ticket has been chosen. All seven Republican Congressmen have been elected. The Legislature will be Republican, but not by so great a majority as at first thought. Seventy-seven Republicans are known to have been elected.

Indiana. Nearly complete returns from about eight counties of the ninety-two in Indiana emphasize the Republican victory and indicate that the majority on the State ticket will be in the neighborhood of 15,000, that the Republicans have carried eight certainly and possibly nine out of the thirteen congressional districts, and have elected a majority in both branches of the General Assembly and will control that body on joint ballot by from twenty to twenty-five votes.

Kentucky. The latest returns from the South and West indicate that the Republican ticket will carry the State. The Democratic ticket, headed by William, Democrat, of Oathetsville, has defeated the incumbent, Samuel Pugh, Republican, of Vanceburg, by a majority of about 180. This gives the Democrats ten of the eleven Congressmen from Kentucky, a gain of three Congressmen for the Democrats in the State. The Eighth, Eighth and Ninth are the districts that snags are in the Democratic camp.

Ohio. The election returns received Wednesday bear out the regular Republican gain of 60 per cent. From the rate of gains it is clear that the plurality for Kinney, Rep., for Secretary of State, will be over 55,000. The bitter fight made on personal grounds against J. B. Blackburn, Republican candidate for Food Commissioner, shows in the returns from the country, especially in the butter-making districts of the Western Reserve.

Kansas. The Republicans made a sweep in Kansas, electing seven of the eight Congressmen. This is a gain of five Republican Congressmen. The Republican State ticket is elected by from 6,000 to 10,000 majority. Before the farmers were heard from, Republicans conceded victory to the fusionists. Leaders of both parties are unable to account for the heavy Republican gains throughout the agricultural districts.

North Dakota. Late returns from over the State have swelled the Republican majority. Spaulding, Republican, is elected Governor, and the largest vote. Returns show that twenty-one out of thirty-one Senators are Republican, while in the House fifty-four Republicans of sixty-two have been elected. This gives the Republicans fifty-six majority on joint ballot.

Illinois. Estimating from incomplete returns, Illinois Democrats have probably elected seventy-three members and Republicans eighty, leaving a Republican House majority of seven. For the Senate the Democrats have elected sixteen members, the Republicans thirty-four and the Populists one, giving a Republican majority of nineteen. The Republicans will probably have a majority of twenty-three or twenty-four on joint ballot. The average plurality for the Republican State ticket is about 30,000. The Democrats elect eight Congressmen out of a delegation of twenty-two.

Pennsylvania. The complete vote of the State, with some counties missing, shows a Republican majority of 124,437, which will be increased to about 125,000 by the complete returns. The total vote in the State will approximate 950,000.

Nebraska. Returns by counties Wednesday night indicated a scaling off of Republican gains, making the State ticket in doubt and so close that the official count may be required. The Legislature is probably Republican on joint ballot.

Wisconsin. Wisconsin elects a Republican Governor by 30,000 plurality, the remainder of the State ticket by about 40,000 more; ten Republican Congressmen, thirty-one out of thirty-three Senators and eighty-one out of 100 Assemblymen.

South Dakota. Almost complete returns give Phillips, Rep., for Governor, a majority of 1,200. Gamble, Rep., is elected to Congress by 4,000, and Burke, Rep., by 3,500. The Legislature will have a Republican majority.

North Carolina. The Democrats have elected all nine of their Congressmen, all twelve Senators, forty-four out of fifty State Senators, ninety-five out of 120 Representatives and the State judicial ticket by 30,000.

Idaho. The fusion ticket is all elected by pluralities ranging from 1,500 to 3,000. The Legislature will be controlled by the fusionists.

RESULTS IN OTHER STATES.

Story told in Paragraphs, as Estimated on Early Returns.

Rhode Island elects two Republican Congressmen.

Texas went Democratic by a majority of 250,000 in a total of 400,000.

Pratt returns from Delaware indicate a complete Republican victory.

Oklahoma elects a Republican Congressman and fusion Legislature.

The Republican State ticket and Republican Congressmen were elected in Connecticut.

Massachusetts returns indicate the election of four Republicans and two Democrats to Congress.

Montana Democrats won everything in sight, and will have a large majority in the Legislature.

In South Carolina the Democratic State ticket was elected without opposition. The vote was light.

The Democrats swept Alabama, electing nine Congressmen, eight of whom are free silver men.

Florida is solidly Democratic. The Legislature will elect a successor to United States Senator Pasco.

New Jersey elects a Republican Governor and Legislature by about 10,000 plurality. Two of the eight Congressmen are Democrats.

Almost complete returns from Washington indicate the election of two Republican Congressmen and the Republican ticket. Legislature is Republican.

The Democratic State ticket in Tennessee is elected by a majority of 25,000, and eight of the ten Congressmen are Democrats. Legislature shows a heavy Democratic gain.

RETURNS AT WASHINGTON.

Chief interest centered in Congressional Districts.

In Washington intense interest was manifested in the election returns. The results of the various State and Congressional district campaigns, to which so much attaches in Washington, attracted thousands to the bulletin boards in front of the newspaper offices. The theaters and clubs received bulletins. The two Congressional headquarters and special wires and long distance telephone service for those who were figuring up the result of the battle for the control of the next House of Representatives.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

SERIOUS SUBJECTS CAREFULLY CONSIDERED.

A Scholarly Exposition of the Lessons—Thoughts Worthy of Calm Reflection—Half an Hour's Study of the Scriptures—Time Well Spent.

Golden Text:—We confess our sin, and are forgiven of our unrighteousness. 1 John 1:9.

The lesson for Nov. 20 treats of Manasseh, King of Judah, and his reign. Manasseh's reign began a half-century of darkness and corruption. His son Manasseh, according to the throne of the age, soon showed how utterly different a man was now to guide Judah. Induced, no doubt, by foreign wives as Solomon had been, he rebuilt the high places, the Baal-altars and the symbols of Astarte, and even built altars for the worship of the stars in the temple itself. A worship of all the heathen deities of the surrounding people found support and encouragement from Manasseh. The priests, prophets and scribes, and with them the people, were all led astray. The depth of degradation to which Judah had fallen was such a terrible one, that it was all the more hideous because of the comparative purity of the preceding reign, just as the age of the Restoration in England appeared doubly blacker after the Puritan rule of Cromwell. The causes of so complete a relapse into paganism are not difficult to find. The preceding reformation had not permanently changed the character of the people, but had only removed their outward symbols of worship and introduced them to the neglected worship of Jehovah. As soon as the restraint was removed, sin broke out again. It will always be so with reforms that do not touch the hearts of the people and introduce into their lives a new impulse.

Explanatory.

The Lord spoke to Manasseh, and to his people, "This reign, which extended from about 687 to 642 B. C., was by no means lost without warning from the past. There were prophets in the land, and they did not fail to cry out against the iniquities of the time. Manasseh was among these prophets and there were doubtless others just as faithful. As is always the case, persecution only forced the true prophets to seek other and better channels through which to impart the truths committed to them. Sinned, they took up the pen and endeavored to put these teachings in a form which would be permanent and at the same time intelligible to all. They recognized that not merely abstract principles, but concrete forms were necessary to reach the masses and take the place of the degrading ceremonies which were called as idols by the people (Lev. 19). It is the position of most modern critics of the Old Testament that the present form of the book of Jeremiah was a product of the prophet who labored during Manasseh's reign for a reformation to come, and that it was this book found in Judah's ruins towards the close of the century on which his reformation was based.

This king of Assyria was either Ben-haddon (681-668) or his son Assurhaddon, the greatest of the Assyrian monarchs, known in Greek history as Sardanapalus (688-626). Took Manasseh among the "thorns": revised version, "in chains." "Carried him to Babylon": At this time Babylon was a province of the Assyrian empire, and the city of Babylon was used by the Assyrian monarchs as a sort of second capital, though their permanent seat of government was Nineveh. It was only sixty years and this condition was reversed, and the Babylonians became the masters. The state of a royal captive of the Assyrian conquerors was likely to be less tolerable than that of an ordinary citizen or soldier, contrary to the customs of most nations, ancient and modern. Manasseh was probably tortured and submitted to great indignities and cruelties. It is a great wonder that these things turned his heart to the God whom he had never truly served. But such wonders do happen. And it counts for much that in his old age Manasseh had known the error of his earlier life.

He was entreated of him: an Arabic use of the word, meaning "he was persuaded by him." Brought him again to Jerusalem: to send back a captive monarch was of course an unusual proceeding. But so was the act of Cyrus a hundred years later in allowing a captive nation to return to its land. "God moved in a mysterious way his wonders to perform": This was probably to repatriate Manasseh done by the army that captured the Kingdom, and the city of Jerusalem, on the southern part of the temple hill, on the southeast corner of Jerusalem.

Teaching Hints.

It is true that in this case the son of a good father was a failure at first, and repented late in life. But the apostle notes that young men of wicked tendencies and strict training are more likely to turn out well than others who are not founded on fact. The exception, however, is the rule, which is that "as the twig is bent, the tree

A Good Example.
Daniel Tichenor of Chelsea, on the occasion of his recent 90th birthday, set an example to the rising young men, by shaving himself. There is many a dude one-fifth Uncle Daniel's age who cannot shave himself. Mr. Tichenor had been a shaver eighteen years when Michigan was born and was ten years old when its first governor let out his nasal yell. What has shortened Mr. Tichenor's trip is the fact that once or twice in his life he has taken a chew of tobacco. But for that, he might today be 125 years old, just as well as not. Let every young man emulate the habit. — Jackson Sunday Herald.

Avoid Coughing.
Scientific American: A physician who is connected with an institution in which there are many children, says: "There is nothing more irritable to a cough than coughing. For some time I had been so fully assured of this that I determined for one minute at least to lessen the number of coughs heard in a certain ward in a hospital of the institution. By the promise of rewards and punishments I succeeded in inducing them simply to hold their breath when tempted to cough, and in a little while I was myself surprised to see how some of the children entirely recovered from the disease. Constant coughing is precisely like scratching a wound on the outside of the body, so long as it is done, the wound will not heal. Let a person when tempted to cough draw a long breath and hold it until it warms and soothes every air cell, and some benefit will soon be received from this process. The nitrogen which is thus condensed acts as an anodyne to the mucous membrane allaying the desire to cough and giving the throat and lungs a chance to heal."

Judge Dabbitt and himself. A more perfect imitation of the primeval chaos would have been difficult to find than the sight which met the major's eyes when he stepped over the official threshold yesterday afternoon. The four walls and ceiling were draped with national bunting and ornamented with such signs as "This is my busy day, call tomorrow." "The morning after election." "If you don't see what you want, ask for it." etc. The floor was covered to a depth of several inches with loose papers, parts of a broken chair hung from the gas fixtures and about twenty empty bottles were carelessly strewn about the floor and furniture. The major thanked the boys for their celebration in his honor, and told them that he was only sorry he couldn't have been with them in body as well as in spirit. — Evening Times.
