Waiter in a Dilemma.

It was in one of the large downtown restaurants that the short little woman and her tall husband went to dinner one night. "Will you have oysters?" asked the man, glancing over the bill of fare.

"Yes," said the short little woman, as she tried in vain to touch her toes to the floor. "And, John, I want a hassock."

John nodded and, as he handed his order to the waiter he said: "Yes, and bring a hassock for the lady."

"One hassock?" asked the waiter, with what John thought more than ordinary interest, as he nodded in the affirmative. Still the waiter did not go, but brushed the table cloth with a towel and rearranged the articles on it several times, while his face got very red. Then he came around to John's side and, speaking sotto voce, said: "Say, mister, I haven't been here long, and I'm not on to all these things. Will the lady have the hassock boiled or fried?"—Chicago Chronicle.

"Among the Ozarks."

The Land of Big Red Apples, is an attractive and interesting book, with views of South Missouri scenery. It pertains to fruit-raising in that great fruit belt of America, the southern slope of the Ozarks, and is of interest to fruit-growers and to every farmer and home-seeker looking for a farm and a home. Will be mailed free by J. E. Lockwood, Gen. Pass. Agt., Kansas City, Mo.

MANY a dutiful daughter pays in pain for her mother's ignorance or perhaps neglect.

The mother suffered and she thinks her daughter must suffer also. This is true only to a limited extent. No excessive pain is healthy. Every mother should inform herself for her own sake and especially for the sake of her daughter. Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice about all matters concerning the ills of the feminine organs.

Many a young girl's beauty is wasted by unnecessary pain at time of menstruation, and many indulgent mothers with mistaken kindness permit their daughters to grow careless about physical health.

MISS CARRIE M. LAMB, Big Beaver, Mich., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—A year ago I suffered from profuse and irregular menstruation and leucorrhoea. My appetite was variable, stomach sour and bowels were not regular, and was subject to pains like colic during menstruation. I wrote you and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used two packages of Sanative Wash. You can't imagine my relief. My courses are natural and general health improved."

MRS. NANNIE ADKINS, La Due, Mo., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I feel it my duty to tell you of the good your Vegetable Compound has done my daughter. She suffered untold agony at time of menstruation before taking your medicine; but the Compound has relieved the pain, given her a better color, and she feels stronger, and has improved every way. I am very grateful to you for the benefit she has received. It is a great medicine for young girls."

"Spring Unlocks The Flowers"

To Paint the Laughing Soil.

And not even Nature would allow the flowers to grow and blossom to perfection without good soil. Now Nature and people are much alike; the former must have sunshine, latter must have pure blood in order to have perfect health.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures blood troubles of all sorts. It is to the human system what sunshine is to Nature—the destroyer of disease germs. It never disappoints.

Poor Blood—"The doctor said there were not seven drops of good blood in my body. Hood's Sarsaparilla built me up and made me strong and well." SUSIE E. BROWN, 16 Astor Hill, Lynn, Mass.

Dyspepsia, etc.—"A complication of troubles, dyspepsia, chronic catarrh and inflammation of the stomach, rheumatism, etc., made me miserable. Had no appetite until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acted like magic. I am thoroughly cured." N. B. SKELEY, 1874 W. 14th Av., Denver, Col.

Rheumatism—"My husband was obliged to give up work on account of rheumatism. No remedy helped until he used Hood's Sarsaparilla, which permanently cured him. It cured my daughter of catarrh. I give it to the children with good results." MRS. J. S. McMAHON, Stamford, Ct.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, the non-irritating and the only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

ONE ACCOMPLISHMENT.

A Finland Maiden Who Had One Qualification for the Position of Cook.

The servant girl question is even more difficult in small western cities than it is in New York. There no lady ventures to ask a reference, but contents herself with a verbal examination of her applicant's capabilities.

There was an avalanche of Swedes and Finlanders in a Pacific slope town last winter, and one wild-haired damsel presented herself as a candidate for a $20-a-month position as cook. The prospective mistress thus interrogated her:

"Can you make good bread?"
"Brod? Naw."
"Can you make soup?"
"Soup? Naw."
"Do you understand roasting meats?"
"Meat? Naw."
"Can you broil?"
"Naw."
"Can you clean brasses?"
"Naw."
"Can you wash and iron?"
"Naw."
"Scrub?"
"Naw."
"Well, my goodness, girl! What can you do?"

The Finlander reflected. "Then she answered proudly: 'I can milk a reindeer!'"

"UNTIL THE DAYBREAK."

A human soul went forth in the night,
Shutting behind it Death's mysterious door,
And shaking off with strange, restless might
The dust that once it wore.
So swift its flight, so suddenly it sped—
As when by skillful hands a bow is bent
The arrow flies—those watching around the bed
Marked not the way it went.

Heavy with grief, their aching, teardimmed eyes
Saw but the shadow fall, and knew not when
Or in what fair or unfamiliar guise
It left the world of men.
It broke from sickness, that with iron bands
Had bound it fast for many a grievous day;
And love itself, with its restraining hands,
Might not its course delay.

Space could not hold it back with fettering bars,
Time lost its power, and ceased at last
to be;
It swept beyond the boundary of the stars,
And touched eternally.
Out from the house of mourning, faintly
lit,
It passed upon its journey all alone;
So far that even thought could not follow it
Into realms unknown.

Through the clear silence of the moonless dark,
Leaving no footprints on the road it trod;
Straight as an arrow cleaving to its mark,
The soul went home to God.
"Alas," they cried; "he never saw the morning,
But fell asleep, outward with the strife."
Nay, rather he arose and met the Everlasting life.

CHAPTER IV.

Senorita Palacios asked me at breakfast if I could play accompaniments on the piano, explaining that she had brought a number of songs and wished to try them. This seemed a favorable opportunity for putting my plan into execution, so we two made a forenoon of it, much to Halstead's disgust, for he was more than a little interested in the senorita himself.

After lunch we had our chairs taken to a secluded corner of the after deck, under the awning, and when our acquaintance had reached a sufficiently confidential point—friendships ripen very rapidly in the tropics, particularly at sea—I told her of the costume affair, showing her the photograph as I did so. She was immediately interested and sympathetic. But presently her manner changed a little. She asked me, curiously, if I were very fond of Senorita Dorotea.

"Fond of her!" I exclaimed, in surprise; "why, I've never even seen the lady. This picture was given to Capt. Halstead by the colonel, last voyage. I never saw that until last night. But just put yourself in her place, Senorita Gracia; wouldn't you think it rather mean, when you had sent your money to buy nice new gowns, if relatives palmed off a lot of dowdy old things on you, four years out of style?" Neither my Spanish nor her English was perfect, but we managed to get along very well indeed.

"Indeed yes, Senor Stefans; but I did think that men never understood how women feel about such matters. I—I've an idea—"

"Yes; go on. I was quite sure you would have—"

"Ah, you were quite sure?"—suspiciously.

"Yes; that you er—would be able to suggest something. Now, if I had only known about the matter before we left Manila—"

"Yes?"

"I'd have purchased a couple of the finest gowns I could find, and—er—"

"Given to the senorita then, yourself? Santísima! Senor Stefans, that's most too kind of you would be, would it not?"

"Good Lord, no! I've got more sense than that, I hope. I meant that I'd have substituted the new gowns for the old ones in the box; and then, don't you see, she'd probably never discover how it happened."

"And you would money spend like that for a girl you did never see! A woman's vestida cost much, senor. I did always hear that los Americanos were of money made, but I did never know that they were generoso." (Here, for the first time, I thought of my $300, and began to wonder how far they would go.) "Are all los Americanos like that? Senor Capitan—would he such a thing do? Well, you shall see that the Spanish people are as yourselves! Could you one of the dresses get from the box and to me bring without being observed?"

"What! I—I beg your pardon. I suppose I might; but—but what do you—er—?"

"Three—of the—er—m—well—er—outside clothes. You see, there were quite a lot of—" My face must have been as red as a beet; it certainly felt so.

"Santísima Maria! And you—you looked! Not at all of them?"

"I—I believe so. You see—er—the rest of the—er—things weren't quite so bad as the gowns. In fact, the lace—"

"By this time the senorita's face and neck were a delicate pink, but, to my relief, she laughed until the tears came in her eyes. Your Spanish girl, of any class, is possessed of considerable sense; she doesn't believe, for instance, that modesty consists in thinking evil and blushing at her thoughts.

"And el Senor Capitan, also, no doubt? What of wretches a pair you are, to be sure! Let me you both give a little warning. Never the senorita Moreno told the cura, Juan, that he couldn't possibly get ashore before ten o'clock Friday night; so it's safe to say 58 hours. On the other hand, Mac let know that you have just told me; if those things mine had been, I you would never forgive. Now do you attempt one of those dresses to bring down to my door. I will there wait for you."

I hurried up to our quarters, where Halstead was deep in the North Pacific Directory again, and somewhat out of humor.

"You're a nice sort of a partner to have, I must say," he growled; "leave me to dig out dry facts for your benefit while you calmly appropriate the only available girl on the ship. But I'll have the cinch after you go ashore—provided you're not engaged to her before you leave. You wouldn't play a mean trick like that on me, would you?"

"No, I wouldn't, Dick; honest. In—"

"The devil she does! Between you, you'll get me into a deuce of a scrape before you're through. You'll tear the blamed things, or smut 'em with finger-marks, or get 'em mixed so's they won't go on regular, or some fool thing; see if you don't."

"Nonsense! She's a woman, ain't she? Don't you s'pose she's ever handled 'em before? I'm trying to figure the matter out so's that pretty De Garma girl'll get something nice next trip, if she don't this one. Besides, the senorita only wants to look at one of the dresses; she didn't ask for the rest of the things."

"You didn't tell her we'd been going through them, did you? Oh, the good Lord! And she didn't go below? What did she say?"

"She laughed until I thought she'd choke. Then I believe she said something about your being a wretch; yes, that was the word she used, a 'wretch.' You'll have to be mighty careful what you say to her, but it'll probably come out all right. I had to get out of it somehow, you see."

"Oh, yes, you had to get out of it, of course, and, as I was the nearest victim, my reputation suffered. Just wait till I have my innings with the young lady; if I don't serve you out! By gravity, I'll—I'll marry you, to keep you out of further mischief."

"Marry me!"

"Exactly; tell her you're a benedict. But if she's waiting you'd better grab that top gown and get below with it as fast as you can. Don't let any of these East Indians of mine see you with it either; there's no telling where they might let it out."

Hastily wrapping the garment in a newspaper, I descended to the saloon and hurried along the passage to the door of her stateroom. In answer to my muffled knock, it was opened slightly and a pair of laughing eyes peeped around the edge. Then a lovely bare arm reached around for my bundle, and, after whispered instructions that I should wait for her on the after deck, the door closed.

In a few moments she joined me, dressed in a ravishing costume of soft India silk, with puffed sleeves and all the latest London trimmings. Unfurling a dainty lace parasol that went with the outfit, she slowly revolved before me, and then, with a saucy glance over her shoulder, said:

"How think you this would please" in senorita? I do know from the photograph that we the same complexion are, and her dress like a glove does fit me."

"Please her! She'd be as happy as the best-dressed woman in a New York church on Easter morning, if she had a gown like that. And if she looks as sweet as you do in it, the caballeros will have a hard time."

"You—you think it becoming to me, is, Senor Enrique?"

"I think that were it not for Capt. Dick, I couldn't resist the temptation of kissing you, just as you are."

"Nombre de Dios! los Americanos are bold! But pray you tell me, Senor Enrique, why say you of 'el Capitan Dik?' Que nombre, 'Dik'?"

"Ricardito in Spanish; it was Capt. Halstead I meant. I told him how beautiful I thought you were this afternoon—beautiful enough to kiss—and he said that if I attempted such a thing he'd punch my head."

"Al! said he that, the violent man! Ricardito—I like better that than your ingles 'Dik.' But why not should he like to have you me kiss?"

"Oh, I don't know; he's a peculiar man. Possibly he'd rather do it himself."

"Al, but never would the man dare. He so quiet is—such a— But we must talk of him not. I shall be afraid. We have the dresses about to decide. I will another one wear at the dinner, and to-morrow another; then shall we see if for la senorita they will do."

"If they will do! You mean if others like them will do?"

"Not so, senor; why should la pobre senorita a whole three months wait for her dresses? She shall three of mine have. We directly home do go, on el vapor Isla de Panay from Manila, and I not shall need them; I plenty of others have—"

"And you will sell me your own dresses for her, senorita! You are even more generous than I hoped."

"I nothing said of selling them, senor. Can you not me allow the pleasure of giving, as yourself?"

"But, senorita! where do the captain and I come in? We can't allow you to make such an expensive present, just to please us!"

"The expense nothing is; many plan-tations papa has. You and el capitan have yourselves shown los generosos. It will a pleasure be for me to do what you would have done; if your friendship I may count upon, I am the gainer. Every girl it is not with friends that so kind would be to an entire stranger."

She looked so cool and pretty, in the shade under the awning, that I took her little hand in mine and bent over it for a moment. Then I hurried to the upper deck with my bundle, and told Dick he had better take my place before she went below. He relished the suggestion so much that I had considerable difficulty in first getting him into a white duck suit; being a powerfully built fellow, white and gold were exceedingly becoming to Halstead.

After he left, I stretched myself in one of the hammocks we had slung 'thwartships, and felt rather jealous for a few moments. There is a charm about the Spanish temperament which exercises a strong fascination over men of colder nationalities; and the Senorita Palacios, without necessarily being over-fond of either Halstead or myself, had a frank and cousinly friendliness of manner that banished all suggestion of ceremoniousness at the outset and led us into saying things which one usually says to acquaintances of many years' standing only. There is also a peculiarity of tropic life at sea which has often impressed me. Whether it is the result of forced inaction, or the relaxing influence of the climate, is immaterial; but under such conditions the formality which custom has made inviolate in temperate countries is simply out of the question—as much so as tight or cumbersome clothing.

My day with the senorita had been such a pleasant one that it was difficult to fix my mind upon other matters, but I finally settled down to a careful examination of the charts which Halstead had left upon the table. Those dollars and doubloons beneath the heaving bosom of the Pacific were, after all, chief mistresses of our affections at that time.

CHAPTER V.

I pored over the charts until the dinner-gong sounded; then the photograph, which lay directly under one of the incandescent globes, caught my eye, and I examined it again. In the solitude of our cabin I had a better opportunity to study the Senorita Dorotea's face, and it attracted me strangely. If she had any of that charm of manner possessed by the Senorita Palacios, I thought, my stay upon the island of Guajan might be anything but unpleasant; so, between the anxiety to be accomplishing something and my speculations concerning the people at Agana, I was rather pre-occupied at the dinner-table.

Padre Sebastian began presently to chaff me a little as being poor company. I noticed that he was watching Dick and the senorita very closely, as if trying to detect a triangular understanding between us three, or at least some indication of rivalry between the captain and myself. The padre had kept track of my movements during the day, but I was positive he could not have overheard anything, so began to ply him with questions concerning social conditions in the island. He seemed to have accepted my reasons for making the voyage, but in sharing the captain's quarters, also, the fact of our being the only Americans on board, evidently led him to favor us with a closer observation than if we had been his own countrymen. Your Spanish priest is the most companionable and interesting man in the world when he wishes to be, and Padre Sebastiano was no exception to the rule. Having overcome my repugnance to him for obvious reasons, I found myself rather liking the man. He spoke so frankly upon even church matters that I began to consider him harmless, and fancied my first impression a mistake.

Halstead was too reasonable a man to claim more than a fair share of the senorita's society, much as he liked her; so, as Don Silvestre retired to the smoking-room after dinner for tobacco and cards, I took her aft, where we could watch the phosphorescent foam from the spew and talk without being overheard; for I saw she had something to say.

She had been listening attentively to my conversation with the padre, and had been trying to recall sundry scraps of talk which she had overheard between him and his Jesuit companion; but before mentioning them she questioned me in regard to my proposed movements after leaving the steamer.

"I heard you the padre tell, Senor Enrique," she said, "that you were this voyage merely taking as a siesta from your affairs, and I too many of los Americanos have seen to believe they do rest very long. They do work, work, work like slaves, all of the time. And when they get rich—oh, so very rich—still they do work, and no siesta take. Yet the Senor Enrique does one take which will last a month surely, with his very good friend el capitan; and when he on land goes at el Guajan, it will three months be—such long, long months—before he will again see el vapor in which he may return. Now, un Americano, the senor will not rest for all these long months; not so! What, then, will he do in el Guajan, where one never works? Make love perhaps to la senorita whom he never has seen? But even that work is not. How—"

"One moment, senorita; why should you think I have any intention of staying in Guajan?"

"Oh, but it so simple is! Amigo mio" (here she laid her pretty fingers on my arm), "los Americanos generosos are; it so kind was of you to think of la pobrecita's dresses. I doubt not that it your goodness of heart was, yet even such un hombre could not resist at the least seeing la senorita when she does wear them. And she will not them wear before the steamer shall go away, do you not see? El Capitan 'Dik' did for her feel, a so, but it was not he who to think tried how he la senorita might help at once—al, but he to see her was not, long enough!"

"Well, that's a pretty clever line of reasoning, senorita. But don't you think you are giving that photograph the credit of being a pretty strong attraction, to make me think of leaving you to Capt. Dick, and burying myself among those out-of-the-way islands for a whole three months, just to get acquainted with the original?"

"That not is so, Enrique mio" (blushing warmly at this audacious familiarity). "I—I am alive, and—you shall be with me have for two of the weeks yet. I think not you would me leave for but a photograph if I said you should not; have I la gran conceit?" (She looked so lewicheing in the moonlight that to save my neck I couldn't avoid giving her waist a gentle squeeze). "No! you some affair in el Guajan have—though never could I guess what it may be. It something which of more worth is to you than your affairs in Manila, or you neglect them would not for so long. It something is which you do undertake for el Ricardito as well as yourself, and in which he does you trust as few men do trust each other, or your friendship I could make like a broken thread with jealousy of me. Un gran presuncion, is it not, amigo mio? But true, not the less. Else you embrace me would not, and el capitan would look at me not with the eyes that talk, oh, so much—so much that the little shivers he does make come to me sometimes, and I am afraid. Well, then, if this something stronger is than love of woman, what it can be but the love of gold—such heaps of glittering, shining gold! Yet gold there is not in el Guajan, else el gobernador would in Madrid be with much of it. What then it can be?"

"Quien sabe? Perhaps the elixir of life. But if I go ashore there as you imagine, and if I find anything beyond health and rest, I'll come and see you some day—or, rather, I'll come and see you and Dick. Then I'll tell you both all about it."

The Better Man

By M. QUAD. Copyright, 1898.

As the highway made a turn and ran alongside the river I came upon a man seated on a rock with his bare feet dangling in the water. He looked up and nodded as I came to a halt, and in reply I asked:

"Have you been fishing and got discouraged?"

"No, sah, hain't bin fishin'," he replied.

"Just taking a sun bath, eh?"

"No, sah, hain't takin' no sun bath." I saw that he was crusty, and so made ready to ride on, but he stopped me with:

"I'm jest a-sittin' yere to beat the ole woman. You'll find her about 40 rods above. You kin tell her that you've seen me, and that I said I wouldn't give in till this river run dry."

"Family trouble, is it?" I queried.

"Sorter that way, sah. We had a jaw 'bout who should cut the wood to git breakfast. She wouldn't do it, and I wouldn't do it, and we are tryin' to outoot each other. Jest tell her that you seen and talked with me, and that you never see sich a determined man in all your life."

I promised I would report him as firm on the firewood question, and ten minutes later came upon the woman. She was also seated on a rock, and in addition to dabbling her bare feet in the water she was throwing sticks at an old blind goose swimming about. She called out "Howdy!" as I came up, and added:

"Stranger, mebbe you met up with a critter of a man back thar a bit—a shiftless, shuckless critter, with a hungry look?"

"There's a man back there on a rock who said he was your husband."

"Did he say anything else?"

"He wanted me to announce that he was as firm as the rock beneath him, and that he would outoot you if it took a month."

"He said that, did he?" she asked, as a grim smile played around her mouth. "Stranger, you didn't know my pop, but he was a man who watched a fox hole in the airth fur seven days and nights and perished right thar sooner than give up. You didn't know my mam, either, but she was a woman who got mad at pop and didn't speak to him fur 'leven years. That's the stock I cum from, and do you reckon I'll let that critter of a Dan Jeffers outoot me?"

I had no advice to offer, and rode on over to Sellersville, where I put up for the night. It was noon the next day when I returned, and I saw the man wielding the ax in front of his cabin, while his wife stood in the doorway.

"And how did it come out?" I asked, as I rode up.

"Say, stranger," he replied, as he drew nearer to me and spoke in a hoarse whisper, "I stood it till about an hour ago, and then I got so sleepy and hungry that I had to give in. If you meet anybody who axes about Dan Jeffers, you jest say to 'em that he is the most determined man you ever saw in all your bo'n days."

"But you gave in," I protested.

"Yes, of co'se. You jest say that Dan Jeffers is the most determined man in all this world, but that Sue Jeffers, his wife, is still more determined, and now you git along and lemme cut the wood to git a hoeecake bakin'!"

Uncle Abner's Conclusion.

THE CHELSEA HERALD

T. W. MINGAY, Editor and Proprietor.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

for $1.00 per year strictly in advance.

Entered at the Post Office at Chelsea, Mich., as second class matter.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1909

Republican Ticket.

For Associate Justice of the Supreme Court—

CLAUDIUS B. GRANT, of Marquette.

For Regents of the University—

HENRY S. DEAN, of Ann Arbor.

ELI R. SUTTON, of Detroit.

For Circuit Judge of the 22d Judicial Circuit—

EDWARD D. KINNE, of Ann Arbor.

For County Commissioner of Schools—

WILLIAM N. LISTER, of Saline.

The legislature should receive due credit from the people for having passed the Atkinson bill so quickly thus redeeming its pledge made last fall to the people.

The Democratic judicial committee refused to allow Martin J. Cavanaugh's letter declining the nomination for circuit judge to stick, and he will make the run against Judge Kinne.

Justice Claudius B. Grant should have the support of every Republican in his race for a second term as justice of the supreme court because he is an honorable, upright, conscientious man, and has been a good justice.

The Atkinson bill for the taxation of the property of railroads upon a basis of valuation instead of on gross earnings having been signed by the governor is now a law. It will now be in order to test its constitutionality in the courts.

If the reports of the prison wardens can be taken as any criterion the morals of the state are improving. The three state prisons have room for 300 more prisoners than they had last year and have 111 less inmates than at that time.

The Evening Times, Ann Arbor, has launched out as a Republican paper and thrown aside its independent attitude. Ann Arbor now has both a Republican and Democratic daily paper. Long may the Times continue to advocate the principles of Republicanism.

One of the last acts of the late congress was the bill which cuts off the pension expectations of women who marry old soldiers for the sake of getting government pensions as their widows. This act will do away with many of the marriages of young women to old soldiers, as they will no longer be looked upon as gilt edged prizes in the matrimonial market.

Henry S. Dean, of Ann Arbor, and Eli R. Sutton, of Detroit, are both fitting and proper men to be elected as regents of the university. Col. Dean because he is a resident of the university city and has since his appointment to the board of regents been a most zealous conservator of its interests. Mr. Sutton is a graduate of the U. of M. and will naturally have the welfare of his alma mater very close to his heart.

The proposition which is to be submitted to the people at the coming spring election to establish a state printing office in Michigan should be voted down unqualifiedly. The state of California has such a printing office and it costs $150,000 to do what private concerns have offered to do for $65,000. Added to this it would be the means of creating a great political machine which is not at all to be desired. If our farmer friends do not want to see the $50,000 a year it now costs the state for printing creep up to $125,000 a year at least, they will make it a point to ask for one of the ballots on this question and vote "No."

The queen regent of Spain has signed the peace treaty with the United States and a legal peace now obtains between the two nations. Although the war closed last August yet the two nations have technically been in a state of hostility since then. By the signing of the treaty Spain, which is one of the oldest colonizing powers, renounces forever all claims to being such.

The teachers in the rural schools in this county are unanimous in testifying to the efficiency of County School Commissioner Lister. He has done much to raise the standard and increase the value of the country school by teachers' meetings and visits. He has started more than 20 new school libraries and has aroused an enthusiasm in school affairs that is producing good results. His continuance in office will enable him to mature and put into operation plans that look toward a still greater advancement.

In renominating Hon. E. D. Kinne as their candidate for circuit judge the Republicans of the 22d district have done a right thing. Judge Kinne has made a record on the bench that anyone could be proud of and he has justly earned the honor that has come to him. Not only has he been an impartial judge, uninfluenced by fear or favor, or party ties, but he has always been careful in his decisions, weighing well every side of a question before deciding it. When Judge Kinne first went on the bench he had had nearly 20 years of active legal practice to fit him for the duties of the office. His practice had been of the cream of legal work and he gave up an income worth far more than his salary as circuit judge amounts to, to fill an office which came to him entirely unsought, a renomination for which has again come to him unsought and unsolicited. Possessing a rich knowledge of the law and a fair, judicial temperament he should receive the undivided support of his party at the polls. The absolute fairness of the man can be best estimated from the manner in which he laid down all aspirations to the supreme court bench and refused to enter into a contest against Justice C. B. Grant, although his name was strongly mentioned as a candidate at one time. In re-electing Judge Kinne the people of the 22d district will make no mistake.

A Good Entertainment.

The St. Patrick's Day dramatic and musical entertainment at the opera house Friday evening was a great success. The house was packed, both on the ground floor and in the gallery, and many had to go away for lack of room to accommodate them. Boucicault's beautiful Irish drama "The Colleen Bawn" was the play put on by the Columbia Dramatic Society, and although a difficult piece for amateurs, a very creditable performance of it was given. Some of the young people had never been on the stage before and one of them, Miss Lenna Lighthall, who took the part of Anne Chute had only three days in which to study it up. She took the place of Miss Lizzie Hammond who through the illness and death of her mother had to give up the part. The excellent music rendered during the play was by the Aeolian Orchestra which made its debut that evening. On Saturday evening the play was again produced in an even better manner than Friday evening. The net proceeds of the two evenings was over $180.

Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club.

This flourishing club held its regular monthly meeting at the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Lowry, on Jefferson street, Chelsea, Thursday of last week. It was very largely attended, 80 people sitting down to dinner.

When the meeting was called to order for the literary part of the day's doings, M. E. Lowry opened the discussion on the subject "Is the government railway postal system extravagant? If so, wherein does the extravagance exist?" He brought out the following points of extravagance in the system: 1st, in the rental of postal cars; 2nd, in the amount paid for carrying the mails; 3rd, in paying for services never rendered; 4th, in allowing the railways to set up and maintain a postal service of their own without revenue to the government. A very animated discussion followed, in which William Stocking, Geo. W. Boynton, Rev. C. S. Jones and others took part. The question was finally laid on the table for further discussion.

John H. Waltrous' talk on "Onion Culture" was a good one, and numerous questions were put to him during its delivery.

A recitation was given during the program by Mrs. Roland B. Waltrous, and a select reading by Mrs. George Chapman. Mortimer A. and Miss Freer gave some nice instrumental music and R. A. Snyder sang a solo, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Clara Snyder.

The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Waltrous, Thursday, April 20.

Judson's Colors.

Ann Arbor Daily Argus: Alderman Dieterle is a dry sort of a fellow in his jokes, but some times he springs one that everyone can grasp. Following is a dialogue between Ald. Dieterle and "Bill" Judson:

"Say, Bill, I understand that you are against Dean for regent."

"Oh, no, I am not. I was always a friend of the university and you can't make me any other way," said Judson.

"Well that is the story," says Ald. Dieterle, "that is going 'round anyway, but I know it ain't so because you've got yellow whiskers and you've got a blue necktie on. Now, that's the yellow and blue, ain't it?"

Remember the Epworth League experience social to be given at the home of Thos Wilkinson Friday evening, March 24. Supper will be served on the European plan.

Up to Saturday morning State Oil Inspector William Judson had received 42 applications for positions as deputy oil inspector, and has doubtless had 100 more by this time.

Our Manchester correspondence and an interesting account of the Sunday school convention at Four Mile Lake church were unavoidably left out this week for lack of time to put them in type. We apologise.

If interested in horses, cows or sheep, take the Farm Journal. We will give this paper five years to all subscribers, new or old, who pay for the Herald a year ahead. This offer for a short time only.

The subject to be discussed by the Congregational Business Men's class next Sunday will be "The evangelization of the rural districts." Charles Canfield will read the paper that will open the discussion.

It is said that quite a number of people in this vicinity will engage in the chicory raising business the coming season, and that J. A. Bachman will evaporate the roots for shipment to New York or Chicago.

John Clark Phelps, a pioneer of Grass Lake township, died Sunday after an illness of several months' duration. He came to this country in 1835 and aided largely in the pioneer work of clearing that township of its primeval forests.

The Congregational Sunday school will have Easter services in the church Sunday evening, April 2. The program will consist of music, recitations and dialogues appropriate to the day, and the pastor, Rev. C. S. Jones, will make a brief address.

Ann Arbor Evening Times: A. J. Sawyer says that he has pulled out of all the Judson cases, except the Howard Stockwell case, which will be noticed for trial in the Livingston circuit court in the April term. He says that he does not wish anything to do with the slander and libel suits.

Grass Lake Lake News: Waterloo, Mar. 15.—While Alvin Hatt was driving a colt along the road near Lorenzo Dewey's, the animal became frightened and kicked, striking Alvin in the leg breaking both bones. It was a cold day and he lay in the road for two hours before assistance arrived. While lying thus a man named Clark from near Gasburg, came along and when asked for help drove right on without doing anything. It was only by hard work on the part of the doctor that pneumonia was averted. If that man Clark ever comes over this way he will get a lot of tar and feathers.

The sovereign grand lodge of I. O. O. F. will meet in Detroit Sept. 12-24.

Miss Maude Goodrich has commenced a four-months term of school in District No. 1, Dexter and Lima.

Evart H. Scott, well known to people of Chelsea, will be the Republican candidate for mayor of Ann Arbor at the coming spring election.

When the question of repealing the sparrow bounty law came up in the state legislature last week, the farmer members sat down on it real hard, many of them declaring that the "pesky" little birds ought to be killed.

In April Miss Mary E. Wilkins' latest story, "The Jamesons in the Country," which is now running serially in the Ladies' Home Journal, will be published in book form by the Doubleday & McClure Company, of New York.

The dates for the May Festival at Ann Arbor, are as follows: May 11, evening, Choral concert, German Requiem; May 12, afternoon, Symphony concert; evening, Sembrich concert; May 13, afternoon, orchestral matinee; evening, Samson and Delilah.

Grass Lake News: Germaine Foster will go to Mt. Pleasant next week to exchange places with Bert who will return here. Germaine would give a cow to stay, the girls here are so much prettier than they are in Mt. Pleasant, but there's a piece of dimity in Chelsea that Bert—but you know how it is yourself.

Rev. Jeffrey G. Haigh, who was formerly pastor of the Grass Lake Congregational church, but recently accepted a call to Flint, was married Wednesday morning of last week to Miss Mabel Howland at the residence of her parents in Grass Lake. The young couple were tendered a reception the same evening by the members of Mr. Haigh's new congregation.

Finley B. Whitaker, by his attorney Thomas D. Kearney, has filed a declaration in the circuit court against Loren Babcock, Emma J. Hatch, William F. Hatch, Lewis Winans, Albert E. Winans, and J. Frank Shaver, for $5,000 damages for withholding from him five feet off the south side of lot 5 and 17 feet off the south side of lot 6, block 2, village of Chelsea, which the plaintiff claims ownership to.

The county poor directors at their meeting Tuesday allowed to Jackson county $26.12 for the support of Rhoda Sypher, an insane patient at the Eastern Insane asylum. Miss Sypher formerly lived in Lyndon but moved over into Jackson county. Before she gained a residence she became insane and was sent to the asylum. The whole bill was $346.63. After Miss Sypher has been two years in the asylum she will become a state charge.

T. J. Turner, who is here organizing a station of the traveling library is meeting with good success among our best citizens. More than half the number of memberships have been subscribed for. Those who are still contemplating joining should see Mr. Turner at once as his stay here is now somewhat limited. The Herald would be glad to see this made a success, and Chelsea made a station of the library as an up-to-date library of standard works is one of the essentials of our modern progress.

The mission at St. Mary's church this week is a grand success. The attendance is very large. The sermons are eloquent, practical and impressive explanations of Catholic doctrine, and the interest manifested is extraordinary. Special services next Sunday, which is Palm Sunday. The blessing and distribution of the palm will take place before the high mass. The mission will continue part of next week. The children's mission closed last Wednesday morning, more than 125 children having attended.

The will of Sarah Prescott, who died in Ann Arbor March 8, and was buried here March 10, has been filed in the probate court. The instrument is dated March 5, 1899, and was witnessed by A. Ranes and Henry Burgess. Her real estate estimated at $5,000 is to be sold within two years by the executor. A family monument, not to cost over $500, is to be erected on the family burial lot in Oak Grove cemetery, Chelsea, and the residue of the estate is bequeathed to the testator's sister, Mary Ann Fields.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.

In the Fifty-Fifth National Legislature the University of Michigan Had Fourteen Alumni.

ONE OF THE NUMBER WAS IN THE SENATE

Five of the Congressmen Represented the State of Michigan—Brief History of Their Careers—The Next Congress Will Have Fifteen University Men.

[Special Correspondence.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 15.—In the Fifty-fifth congress, which died on the 4th of March, there were 14 alumni of the University of Michigan. One of the 14 was a senator and 13 were congressmen.

The senator was Cushman K. Davis. Five of the 13 congressmen represented the state of Michigan, two Ohio, and one each California, Colorado, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Utah and Wisconsin. The Ohio representatives were John J. Lentz, from the Twelfth district, and Winfield S. Kerr, from the Fourteenth district. Marion De Vries was from the Second California district; John F. Shaforth from the First Colorado; David H. Mercer, Second Nebraska; Marriott Brosius, Tenth Pennsylvania; William H. King, representative at large from Utah, and Theobald Otjen, from the Fourth Wisconsin.

SAMUEL W. SMITH.

consin. The five Michigan men were: Samuel W. Smith, Sixth district; Horace G. Snover, Seventh district; Ferdinand Brucker, Eighth district; Roswell P. Bishop, Ninth district, and William S. Mesick, Eleventh district.

Samuel W. Smith.

Hon. Sempel W. Smith is a graduate of the University of Michigan law department with the class of '78. Soon after graduation he commenced the practice of his profession at Pontiac, which has since been his home. In 1880 he was elected prosecuting attorney of Oakland county, and two years later reelected to the same position of trust. In 1884 he was elected state senator, and in 1896 to the national house of representatives. Last November he was reelected by his district, and will therefore be one of the 15 University of Michigan men in the Fifty-sixth congress.

Horace G. Snover.

While in college Hon. Horace G. Snover distinguished himself in many ways. During his freshman year he joined the Alpha Nu Literary society. As a sophomore he was class toastmaster, a member of the Pandemonium Debating club, vice president of the Star baseball club, and a member of the first nine. In his third year he filled the office of vice president of the

ROSWELL P. BISHOP.

Students' Lecture association. He also had the honor of being one of those selected for the junior exhibition. After receiving the degree of bachelor of arts from the literary department, he took up the study of law, and two years later was graduated as a bachelor of law. During his career in the law department he was a member of the Junior Independent society. The same year that Mr. Snover graduated from the law department he was admitted to the bar, and the greater part of the time since has been engaged in the practice of his profession. For two years, however, he was principal of the public schools of Port Austin, where he went in the fall of 1874. For four years following January, 1881, he filled the position of probate judge of Huron county. In 1894 he was elected to the Fifty-fourth congress, and two years later reelected to the Fifty-fifth.

Ferdinand Brucker.

Hon. Ferdinand Brucker is a graduate of the law department, being a member of the class of '81. Since leaving college he has been alderman of East Saginaw, judge of probate of Saginaw county and representative in the Fifty-fifth congress. When a senior in college Mr. Brucker belonged to the law fifteen for football playing.

Roswell P. Bishop.

Col. R. P. Bishop began his university career with less than $100. With this sum he had to pay his tuition, purchase his books and live. By hard work he not only got himself through the first year, but three more as well. Two of the four years were spent in the literary department and two in the law. While in college Col. Bishop took an active interest in debating and literary work, he being a member of the Tyler Debating club and the Chosophian and Webster societies. Mr. Bishop left the university in January, 1872, to accept the position of sergeant-at-arms of the national senate and house of representatives. Three years later he was back in Ann Arbor and was elected alderman of the Fifth ward. In May, 1876, he moved to Ludington, where his home has since been. For three terms he was prosecuting attorney of Mason county and at two different times he has been a member of the state house of representatives. In the session of 1893 he was chairman of the railroad committee and a member of the committees on the university and state normal school, and of the special committees on taxation and relief of municipal legislation. He was elected to congress in 1894 and has been returned at every election held since. In the last congress he was a member of the committees on rivers and harbors and private land claims.

WILLIAM S. MESICK.

Besides his college record and public record Col. Bishop has a war record.

JOSEPH V. QUARLES.

This like the other two is one of which he may justly feel proud. At the outbreak of the civil war, although but 18 years of age, he enlisted in company C, Forty-third New York volunteer infantry. May 1, 1862, he lost his right arm, but remained with his regiment until the following December.

William S. Mesick.

Hon. William S. Mesick, of Mancelonia, was a student in the law department during the year 1880-81. He was admitted to the bar in 1881 and has since been actively engaged in the practice of law. He has also served his county (Antrim) in the capacity of prosecuting attorney and circuit court commissioner. In the fall of 1896 he was elected to congress on the republican ticket by a majority of 4,000. Last fall he was reelected by his constituents.

The Next Congress.

In the Fifty-sixth congress there will be 15 University of Michigan men. Three of these are in the senate and the others in the house. The senators are Hon. Cushman K. Davis, of Minnesota, who was returned this winter for another six years; Hon. Joseph V. Quarles, of Wisconsin, and Hon. Porter James McCumber, of North Dakota. Besides the congressmen reelected, Hon. James C. Needham, of California, and Abraham L. Brick, of Indiana, both graduates of the law department, will be members of the house.

R. H. ELSWORTH.

Blind Thirty Years.

James Bishop, of Girard, died recently at the age of 70 years. He had been blind for the last 30 years of his life, and yet his sense of touch was so acute that he continued to do business nearly as well after he lost his sight as a man that could see. He made change with paper money with unerring instinct and could tell colors by the sense of feeling.

The large residence of J. W. Woodworth, in Kalamazoo, was destroyed by fire, the loss being $15,000.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

Daily Summary of the Work Done by the Lawmakers in the Senate and House.

Lansing, Mich., March 15.—Bills have been passed in the senate amending charter of Traverse City, electing city officers, except mayor, for two years, and authorizing city to own a waterworks; to vacate township of Beaver Lake and incorporate territory in township of Foster, Ogemaw county.... In the house an attempt to kill the bill providing for an extra circuit judge in Wayne county was defeated.

Lansing, Mich., March 16.—The Atkinson bill, upon which Gov. Pingree made his last campaign, became a law at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the governor signed it. Almost immediately thereafter he sent to the senate the names of the men he has appointed to serve upon the board of assessors provided by the law. They are Robert Oakman, of Detroit, a member of the board of assessors of that city; George B. Horton, of Fruit Ridge, grand master of the state of grange, and Col. Edwin M. Irish, of Kalamazoo, now in command of the Thirty-fifth Michigan infantry, stationed at Augusta, Ga.

Lansing, Mich., March 17.—The joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the use of railroad passes and telegraph and express franks by public officers was adversely reported in the senate yesterday by the railroad committee; the nominations of Robert Oakman, of Detroit, and Edwin M. Irish, of Kalamazoo, to be members of the board of railroad assessors were rejected and the nomination of George B. Horton, of Lena-wee, to a similar position was confirmed.... In the house bills have been passed changing name of village of Sand Beach to Harbor Beach; providing board of jury commissioners for St. Clair county; prohibiting the catching of fish in Mecosta county except with hook and line; making appropriation of $2,500 for Michigan Pioneer and Historical society for years 1899 and 1900. A resolution indorsing the administration of Railroad Commissioner Wessellus was adopted.

Lansing, Mich., March 18.—Bills have been passed in the senate providing salary for stenographer of the new Thirty-sixth judicial circuit, comprising Cass and Van Buren counties; providing for the publication of 10,000 copies of the "History of Michigan Organizations at Chikamauga, Chattanooga and Mission Ridge," written by Hon. Charles E. Belknap.... In the house a resolution was adopted yesterday inviting President McKinley and Secretary of War Alger to visit the Michigan legislature. A resolution fixing May 17 as the day for final adjournment was introduced. Bills have been passed, making four townships of Duffer, Rudyard and Pickford townships, Chippewa county, (immediate effect); admitting soldiers and sailors of the Spanish war to soldiers' home, (immediate effect); vacating village of Chase, Lake county, (immediate effect); changing name of Sand Beach to Harbor Beach, (immediate effect); prohibiting taking of fish in Mecosta county, except with hook and line, (immediate effect).

Lansing, Mich., March 21.—A bill has been passed in the senate amending the act for the incorporation of moral and religious associations so as to allow the members of boards of directors to be elected for successive terms.... In the house the resolution providing for final adjournment on May 17 was tabled. A bill making it a state's prison offense for a person to teach the doctrines of polygamy in Michigan was passed, as was one making it a misdemeanor for a person not a member of the G. A. R. to wear the button of that order.

CAN'T GET FOOD.

Snow in Yellowstone Park May Be the Cause of the Death of Many Animals.

Washington, March 20.—Capt. Erwin, acting superintendent of the Yellowstone National park, has reported to the interior department that the unprecedented fall of snow in the park this year unquestionably will lead to the death of very many antelope, deer and elk before the winter is over. In places in the park snow is over 12 feet in depth and is firmly crusted everywhere, which prevents these animals from digging through and obtaining their food underneath. This condition of affairs, it is expected, probably will last all this month and perhaps next. A small appropriation from the park revenue for buying hay is asked. Many deer are now in the immediate neighborhood of the military post picking up bits of hay. The scouts report the elk very weak and believe that unless steps are taken to feed them the deaths among them will amount to thousands. The main herd of buffalo, however, being in a region of hot springs that melt the snow, are getting along fairly well.

HORROR NARROWLY AVERTED

Hotel Burns at Cleveland and the Fifty Guests Are with Difficulty Rescued.

Cleveland, O., March 21.—The Brook-lawn hotel, corner of Fairmont street and Euclid avenue, was partially destroyed by fire shortly after five o'clock in the morning. Over 50 people were asleep in the building when the fire broke out. A high wind was blowing and the flames had gained great headway when discovered by a policeman.

The latter promptly ran through the building awakening the guests. In many cases it was necessary to break in doors in order to arouse the sleepers. A panic ensued, but all the occupants finally escaped without injury. Several women were carried down the fire escapes by firemen. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss about $10,000.

Alger's Tour of Cuba.

New York, March 20.—The Tribune says that it is asserted by persons here, who, it is believed, are in a position to have correct information, that Gen. Alger, secretary of war, is planning to start on his tour of inspection of Cuba and Porto Rico this week. Arrangements have been made, it is said, to have the transport Ingalls, formerly the Clearwater, at Savannah, by next Wednesday, and Secretary Alger will start from that port.

Railroad Across the English Channel.

The English Parliament is considering the plan of connecting that country with France by railway. Engineers say a roadbed can be laid on the bottom of the English channel, and by mounting trestlework on wheels, so that it projects above the water, the railway can be operated. This seems beyond belief, but it is perhaps no more remarkable than some of the cures accomplished by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in bad cases of dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. This is an age of wonderful achievements.

No Reciprocity.—"I could tell you an amusing incident about my visit to the British museum," said the friend who had traveled, "which you are welcome to publish if you don't use my name." "The British museum," coldly replied the editor of the Boomville Terror, "has never sent me any complimentary, so far as I can remember, and it isn't going to get any free advertising in this paper."—Chicago Tribune.

THE ROUGH RIDER, BUCK TAYLOR, SAYS:

"Pe-ru-na is the Best Catarrh Cure on Earth—It Has Cured Me."

Sergeant Buck Taylor.

Sergeant Buck Taylor, one of the famous Rough Riders, is a personal friend of Governor Roosevelt, of New York. He accompanied Governor Roosevelt on his great stumping tour through upper New York state. He was promoted through gallantry in the field during the late war.

The Sergeant has the following to say of Pe-ru-na: "I think there is no better medicine on earth than Pe-ru-na, for catarrh. It has cured me. It would take a volume to tell you all the good it has done me. Pe-ru-na is the best catarrh cure on earth, and I know, for I have tried nearly all of them. Respectfully,

"Buck F. Taylor."

Winter weather causes catarrh. Everybody knows this. But everybody does not stop to think that winter weather delays the cure of catarrh. It takes longer to cure a case of catarrh in the winter generally, than in the warm season. Spring is here. Now is the time favorable to the treatment of old and especially stubborn cases of catarrh.

Convicts Paroled.

Go. Pingree has paroled the following prisoners:

Charles P. Hickok, sent from Kent county to Ionia, February, 1898, two years, for forgery; Thomas Madock, sent from Marquette May, 1898, ten years, for burglary; James Slack, sent from Wayne county, to Detroit house of correction, February, 1898, 18 months, for larceny; F. T. Johnston, sent from Wexford county to Marquette, July, 1896, four years, for criminal assault; Alton Guest, sent from Allegan to Jackson, February, 1897, three years, for criminal assault.

Died in Boston.

Dr. George J. Northrop, who had been a resident of Marquette for more than 30 years, died of the grippe at a hospital in Boston. He went to Boston on business relating to copper properties. He served through the civil war as surgeon in a Maine cavalry regiment. He was well known throughout this state and took an active part in republican politics.

Charged with Counterfeiting.

Isaac Silverstein and Meyer Hukman were arrested in Kalamazoo by United States secret service officers on a charge of counterfeiting. For some time the city has been flooded with spurious small coin. It is claimed they cut nickels out of plate German silver and pennies out of sheet copper and stamped them with elaborate steel dies.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 58 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended March 11 indicate that diarrhea increased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 115 places, measles at 34, typhoid fever at 21, scarlet fever at 52, diphtheria at 13, whooping cough at 11 places and smallpox at six places.

Suicide or Murder.

Mrs. John Ansecomb, living near the "Y" on the Hauptman branch of the Michigan Central railroad, died under suspicious circumstances last week. Her body was exhumed and a post mortem held, which showed strychnine in the stomach. She was 20 years of age.

Pleaded Not Guilty.

Mrs. Mary Sanderson, of Battle Creek, the woman accused of the attempted murder of her aged husband by administering pounded glass in oatmeal, stood mute in the circuit court and a plea of not guilty was entered for her.

DEFY HEALTH OFFICERS.

Efforts to Stamp Out Smallpox Causes a Riot at Laredo, Tex.—Three Men Killed—Troops on the Scene.

Laredo, Tex., March 21.—Two men were killed and a captain of the state rangers was wounded in a fight with Mexicans over smallpox here Monday morning.

When the work of removing the patients was resumed Monday morning the scenes of Sunday were repeated, and Capt. Rogers, of the State rangers, and four assistants attempted to disperse the crowd, but were fired upon, and Capt. Rogers received a bullet in the left shoulder. The rangers returned the fire, killing Agapito Herrera, an ex-policeman, who was leading the rioters, and another Mexican, and wounding a woman, a sister of Herrera, who had fired at the officers from the window of a house near by. Several other Mexicans were wounded, but the number cannot yet be ascertained, as they escaped in the crowd. Dozens of people report seeing wounded men, but how many saw the same ones is not known. The shooting was followed by a number of scattered shots in different parts of that quarter of the city, populated largely by Mexicans, and they were construed as prearranged signals by the rioters for reinforcements.

Dr. Blunt, according to arrangements made, had notified Capt. Ayres, in command at Fort McIntosh, that the United States troops were needed, and at 11:45 a. m. a detachment of the Tenth cavalry, mounted and fully armed with 100 rounds of ammunition each, arrived at the Market place. City Marshal Joseph Bartholomew was sworn in as an officer, and under his direction the crowds were quickly dispersed. The leader of the first crowd encountered by the military undertook to talk instead of obeying orders to clear out, and was promptly knocked down with the butt of a carbine and so badly hurt that he died within a short time after being carried away. His followers took the hint and rapidly fled. A Gatling gun and an ambulance corps accompanied the cavalrymen, and affairs took on a decidedly martial appearance. All places of business were closed, and the placing of a Gatling gun in a position to rake a street would quickly clear that thoroughfare from end to end. Platoons of troopers circulated through the disturbed district and scattered or drove out the crowds gathered on the cross streets, most of them taking refuge under the river bank, but offering no resistance.

Mayor Christen had requested Col. O'Horan, the commandant of the Mexican military force in Nueva Laredo, to cooperate with the Laredo authorities in preventing the crossing and recrossing of the river by crowds in case of trouble, and while several hundred Mexicans, driven out of the disturbed district, were refugeeing under the river bank a strong detachment of Mexican cavalry deployed on the south bank of the Rio Grande. Those on this side concluded they were coming across to assist them against the colored United States cavalry, and a mighty cheer went up. Fortunately, however, they discovered their error before doing anything rash. The city being quieted, the work of the health officers was again taken up, with a guard of cavalry, with each wagon under orders from Capt. Ayres that if anybody attacked in any way the Mexican officers or themselves to "shoot, and shoot to kill." The work progressed during the rest of the afternoon without further interruption, and will continue under the cavalry guard until completed. The chances of serious trouble seem about over, though there may be isolated cases of resistance to the health officers. There is a sense of relief over the situation, after the intense excitement of the morning, when citizens of all conditions rushed to arms to be prepared for what might come. On the appearance of the military they were heartily cheered, and greeted with cries of "Hurrah for San Juan hill!" and the citizens carrying shotguns and Winchesters returned to their homes or places of business.

AT JEKYL ISLAND.

President McKinley and Party Arrive at the Millionaires' Famous Southern Resort.

Brunswick, Ga., March 21.—President McKinley rested Monday night on Jekyl island, the beautiful winter club home of a number of eastern millionaires on St. Simon's sound, ten miles up the coast from Brunswick. With him are Mrs. McKinley, Vice President and Mrs. Hobart and Senator Hanna. They are the guests of ex-Secretary of the Interior Cornelius N. Bliss, whom the president promised to visit last year. In another cottage on the island is Speaker Thomas B. Reed. All persons in any way concerned in their presence at Jekyl island assert positively and unreservedly that the visit of the two rival political leaders at the same time is a mere coincidence. Whether any improvement of their personal or political relations will be one of the accidents of their inevitable meeting on the island no one will predict. The speaker probably will leave Jekyl this afternoon or Wednesday and the presidential party on Wednesday forenoon.

AN EXCELLENT COMBINATION

THE pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well-known remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company, illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative,

CLEANSING THE SYSTEM EFFECTUALLY, DISPELLING COLDS AND HEADACHES, PREVENTING FEVERS, OVERCOMING HABITUAL CONSTIPATION PERMANENTLY.

Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, gently yet promptly, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative. In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but by a method known to the California Fig Syrup Company only. In order to get its beneficial effects, and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

Consumers of the choicest products of modern commerce purchase at about the same price that others pay for cheap and worthless imitations. To come into universal demand and to be everywhere considered the best of its class, an article must be capable of satisfying the wants and tastes of the best informed purchasers. The California Fig Syrup Company having met with the highest success in the manufacture and sale of its excellent liquid laxative remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, it has become important to all to have a knowledge of the Company and its product. The California Fig Syrup Company was organized more than fifteen years ago, for the special purpose of manufacturing and selling a laxative remedy which would be more pleasant to the taste and more beneficial in effect than any other known. The great value of the remedy, as a medicinal agent and of the Company's efforts, is attested by the sale of millions of bottles annually, and by the high approval of most eminent physicians. As the true and genuine remedy named SYRUP OF FIGS is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only, the knowledge of that fact will assist in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties.

COUNTY NEWS.

E. L. Glenn, of Gregory, is convalescing from a late illness.

Lambert E. West, a pioneer of Milan, is dead aged 80 years.

The Ann Arbor Organ Co. paid out over $20,000 in wages last year.

Thomas Birkett has sold the Tiphany farm at Silver Lake to Mark Bell.

A class of 16 children will be confirmed in Bethel church, Freedom, on Palm Sunday.

The Lodi Cemetery Association has purchased 2 1/2 acres of land and will plat it into burial lots.

W. L. Watkins, of Manchester, has bought out the shoe business of C. E. Lewis in that village.

The Salem Butter and Cheese Co. has filed a notice in the county clerk's office dissolving the corporation.

It is rumored that the Ann Arbor Railroad will be amalgamated with the Ohio Central. It would make a strong combination.

A joint stock company is talked of in Ann Arbor to build a new opera house. The proposed location for it is on the east side of N. Fourth avenue.

Chester Johnson, of Dexter, has leased the S. W. Holmes farm in Scio and will occupy it about April 1. R. D. Willis Walker will remove to Chelsea.

A class of 55 young people, 35 girls and 20 boys, were confirmed in St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Ann Arbor, Sunday night, by Rt. Rev. Bishop Davies.

The township of Bridgewater was given its name by George Howe, who lived on the farm now owned by H. C. Calhoun, and was named after his native township in Massachusetts.

When John Hagen, of Ann Arbor town, died he left an estate appraised at $26,380, to be divided amongst his widow and ten children. The heirs have just come to an agreement whereby the division will be effected without litigation. The widow's dower is fixed at $5,500 and each of the ten heirs gets $2,078.

An Ann Arbor shoemaker wanted a horse. A friend offered to trade him one for a pair of shoes. The shoemaker decided he could sell the horse's hide for more than the shoes cost even if the equine was worthless, and told his friend to go ahead and select his footwear. Shortly afterwards a sawhorse was delivered to the vendor of shoes and now he has quit horse trading.

Fred Harper, a colored boy, was taken to the homeopathic hospital, Ann Arbor, Friday, for treatment, both his feet being frozen. He had run away from the home of his adopted father William Boone, and wandered seven miles in the snow and cold with nothing on but a thin shirt, finally hiding in a straw stack, where he was found almost dead. He says that his adopted father had threatened him, for which reason he ran away. Boone makes serious charges against the boy, which the boy is alleged to have partially admitted.

Death of Mrs. Elijah Hammond.

Friday morning at 5 o'clock, after a brief illness of three days, Mrs. Elijah Hammond passed away at the family home on E. Middle street. While at the supper table Tuesday night she was stricken with apoplexy and never rallied from it.

The funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. S. Jones officiating. The large company that gathered at that time to pay their last respects to the memory of Mrs. Hammond testified the esteem and regard in which she was held by the entire community.

Mrs. Hammond's maiden name was Janette Beam. She was born Sept. 9, 1832, in Palmyra, Sodus county, N. Y. The family moved from New York state to Auburn, Oakland county, Mich., and from there to Lima township. Nov. 24, 1853, she married Elijah Hammond, and they settled in Chelsea, where they have since resided. Mrs. Hammond was the mother of seven children, four sons, William, Elmer, Finley and Edward, and three daughters, Clara, Lizzie and Fannie, the latter the wife of Anthony Neckel, these with her husband are left to mourn her loss.

Thus another of the early settlers of the village has been called away from earth's toil and care to the larger life beyond.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache, and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything, and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at Glazier & Stinson's Bank Drug Store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Rooms to rent, over postoffice. Inquire of Matt Aiber, Chelsea.

North Lake.

It is found that more of the pitted potatoes are frozen.

Eugene Hentley is suffering from an attack of pneumonia.

A rather nice spring gale Friday night, but the grass doesn't seem to start much yet.

Samuel Schultz goes to a place near Chelsea for the summer months on the farm.

Will Stevenson having shot several crows last week intends to do the crowing for awhile.

Geo. Frazier, of Unadilla, has rented his farm and will move from it in the early spring.

Little Florence Noah was quite badly scalded about the face by hot pastry. A very painful injury.

A large number of crows were to be seen at this place Friday last and were very noisy and quarrelsome.

We have had more than the usual number of freshets so far this spring. A promise of a dry summer it is said to be.

The peach buds have suffered so that it will save thinning the fruit. Quite an expense saved, and those unhurt will bring better prices.

Be careful of poisons laid in out of the way places for rats and mice, for your domestic animals may get it as did Pearl Glenn's little pug dog.

Fred Schultz brought his traction engine into the neighborhood Friday last. Will saw your year's wood in a short time if you give him a chance.

Young Will Stevenson is drawing the bow on a new violin. Some of the young ladies have been trying to use him for a bean but Will don't bend that way yet.

Edward Daniels, who is hauling his building material from Gregory, has it nearly all on hand and will begin in the early spring to build a nice large barn.

We wonder what M. J. Noyes would think of the wheat around North Lake. If it is all right, how long will it be so with freezing and thawing every other day as it is now doing.

Mr. Read, a school teacher about here for the last few years, started a few days ago to go to California for his health. He was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs at Chelsea just before starting and gave up going, for a time at least. It is hoped he will soon recover.

All, or nearly all, of Four Mile lake is about to be sold to a company. The lake contains an average of 30 feet depth of mud 96 per cent pure, the best known for the manufacture of cement. Enough to cement a roadbed all through the state. A mine of wealth.

Mr. and Mrs. Vines were guests at R. S. Whittan's the first of the week. They will move onto a farm near Howell now soon. He had the bad fortune to cut his foot with an ax, but not seriously, just enough to keep him by the side of his first love a little while.

On Thursday last S. A. Mapes, of Chelsea, passed through here with the remains of Mrs. L. Hartuff, one of the oldest and much esteemed early settlers of Unadilla. At the time of her death she was residing in Columbus, Ohio, with Mrs. D. L. Sullivan, her daughter. Many relatives and friends recall her to memory with pleasure and are saddened by the sudden news of her death.

A telegram to W. E. Stevenson last Monday announced the death at Peekskill, N. Y., of his sister Emma. She left here last fall in poor health, her friends having little hope of her recovery, but she with strong hopes and good courage. The remains will be interred at Peekskill for a time at least. Mr. Stevenson was not physically able to attend the funeral. He is the only remaining living member of a family of six.

The Sunday School Convention was favored with one-half of a minister in the presence of the Rev. Ross. The other half was struggling with the grip. If the grip half is as good in convention as the half that was present, he would make a full team for moderate, thorough hard work. Those who miss these conventions miss much. The roads being bad kept many at home. There was a good turnout but room for a few more. Come out to the next one which is to be held at North Lake M. E. church—time not yet fixed upon.

Geo. T. English, of Sylvan, was here according to appointment on Monday evening last, but was not met by sufficient members to make it advisable to start a Grange. The next meeting is set for Thursday of this week. It is useless to start a Grange here unless a large majority of the farming community will join and be willing to add their mite to its success. Young farmers, there is no way you can better your condition financially or socially so well as in the Grange. But a handful cannot make a social time, and if that part is not kept up the Grange will go down. Young people, make a big rally and start the goat out again at the lake.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate have been recorded in the register of deeds office for Washtenaw county from this section for the week ending Tuesday:

D. B. Taylor to Elizabeth Snyder, lot 1, Taylor's addition to Chelsea, $130.

M. Fisher and wife to Christian Martin, Scio, $405, half of 26 acres of land.

Gottlieb E. Helle and wife to John Berry, 80 acres in Sylvan, $400.

Sarah E. Congdon to Albert H. Stedman, Chelsea, $235, lot 2, block 1, James M. Congdon's third addition.

Joy Corey and wife to Patrick McMahon, Manchester, $150, lot 10, block 4, excepting one rod in Granger and Morgan's addition.

Registration Notice.

To the Electors of Sylvan Township, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan: Notice is hereby given, that a meeting of the Board of Registration of the township above named, will be held at the Town Hall, on Saturday, April 1, A. D. 1899, for the purpose of registering the names of all such persons as shall be possessed of the necessary qualifications of electors and who may apply for that purpose. And that said Board of Registration will be in session on the day and at the place aforesaid from 9 o'clock in the forenoon, until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose aforesaid.

Dated this 23d day of March, A. D. 1899.

By order of the Township Board of Registration,

(Signed) W. R. LEHMAN,

Clerk of said Township

Banquet, Death, Vandals and Thieves.

Over 550 people attended the St. Patrick's day banquet at Dexter Thursday evening of last week. It was a great success in every way. It had its shadows also as well as pleasures. Mrs. Patrick McCabe, aged 70, of Pinckney, went to the banquet and when she got to the rink where it was held, complained of feeling unwell and asked for a glass of water. She expired on the sidewalk while being taken to neighboring house. Charles A. Smith, of Scio, hitched his horse on Main street while he attended, and some scoundrel cut the harness into small pieces. Mrs. Felix Dunlavy had $100 worth of silverware stolen from her carriage after the banquet.

For sale or exchange for a cow—a brand new buggy. Only been used twice.
