ANOTHER FATAL ACCIDENT

Caused by Attempting to Get on a Moving Train.

A PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

AT WHICH MR. GEORGE HOFFMAN AND MISS MARY EISELE WERE UNITED.— A CASE OF ATTEMPTED CRIMINAL ASSAULT REPORTED FROM LIMA.

Another railroad fatality occurred Sunday morning when Emory Wight attempted to get on a moving freight train to ride from the home of his uncle Edward Ward, in Sylvan, to the crossing a short distance beyond. He missed his hold as he tried to get on one of the cars and fell face downward beside the rails. He was dazed by the fall, and it is supposed he partially recovered himself and went to raise up when he was struck on the top of his head by an axle box of one of the cars, which crushed a hole in his skull. His arm was thus thrown under the wheels and it was mangled up to the elbow. His left eye was cut open and the sight destroyed; his shoulder, back and legs were also bruised.

Dr. S. G. Bush was called to attend him and did what he could to make him comfortable. On Monday, assisted by Dr. S. Porter Tuttle, of Ann Arbor, he trephined Wight's skull and took out the bone that was depressed on the brain. Wight's system, however, was too much weakened by loss of blood to withstand the shock and he died at 8:30 o'clock the same evening.

The parents of the unfortunate young man, who live at Lake Odessa, Ionia county, were summoned by telegraph, but arrived too late to see their son alive. The remains were taken to Lake Odessa for interment yesterday morning. No coroner's inquest was held it not being deemed necessary. Wight would have been 21 years old had he lived until June. He was employed as a farm hand by Milton B. Milpaugh, of Sylvan.

A Pretty Church Wedding.

St. Mary's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding Tuesday, when Mr. George Hoffman, a prosperous farmer of Imlay City, and Miss Mary Eisele, an estimable young lady of Chelsea, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The impressive ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev. Father Considine, who celebrated the nuptial mass and imparted the blessing of the church to the happy couple.

A large reception was held at the home of the bride's parents during the day, to which many invitations were issued. Numerous and beautiful presents attested the esteem of friends for the newly wedded couple. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman left Thursday for their future home at Imlay City. Henry Eisele and Miss Caroline Hoffman were the attendants. Miss Mary Clark played the wedding marches most acceptably, the junior choir sang some beautiful hymns, and Mr. Louis Burgsang Gounod's "Ave Maria" in excellent style. The bride was a valued member of St. Mary's choir, Chelsea. The felicitations of hosts of friends accompany Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman in their journey through life.

Attempted a Criminal Assault.

A farm hand named Stark attempted to assault a school teacher named Miss Read in her bedroom at the farmhouse of Alvin J. Easton, in Lima, where she boarded, last Saturday morning at 3 o'clock. She screamed, but Stark choked her into silence, and after making her promise, under a threat to kill her, not to mention the matter, he left the room. Miss Read, however, told Mrs. Easton and Stark was discharged. Before leaving, with pistol in hand, he attempted to get to Miss Read, who was locked in the parlor. He then stole her jewelry and left a note in her room saying, "I will see you all again." Stark is now in jail at Ann Arbor, where he was taken by Deputy Pat McCabe.

Go to Jackson for Life.

Edward Ascher was pronounced guilty of the murder of Valmore C. Nichols, of Pittsfield, by the jury in the recorder's court at Detroit Sunday morning. Monday morning he was brought into court again and Judge Chapin sentenced him to Jackson prison for the remainder of his life. Ascher is confident the supreme court will reverse the decision and that he will yet be a free man.

OUR COUNTRY'S DEAD.

Our Country's dead—where sleep they? In Death's grim camp of black? Our heroes gone—where keep they? Their last long bivouac? From burning southern billow, From northern glare, To icy northern pine and willow— Where our Country's dead are there.

"Dot have you no fear that your documents may some day be stolen, under the impression that the chest contains valuables? These islands were named, as you know, with some reason." "Very true, senior; but he would be a rash man who would brave the vengeance of Holy Mother church by such a sacrilege. There are none in the archipelago who would attempt such a thing; besides, the records would be of no value to an heretic; they are but our secret history."

"Yes, but not more so than Senorita Dorotea. I often compared them from the photograph which you gave el capitán." "Al, but how can I believe the senior? Come, let us see if you have el apetito; and afterward you shall spend the day with me as you like. Come." I often look back to those breakfasts at Agana as among the most delightful hours of my life. Kipling has echoed the heartfelt longing of many a man to get for awhile outside the bounds of civilization—to exist where society is still in a rudimentary state, "where the best is like the worst; where there ain't no ten commandments, and a man can raise a thirast."

The seniorita seemed to consider me her personal charge, and the gobernador placed the entire menage at my disposal with a courtesy as charming as it was rare. If I chose to stroll by myself I might have owned the island, so entirely was I left to my own free will. If I wished for company I had but to clap my hands and the colonel's orderly, Pepe, would appear somewhere in the near distance, with the information that I would find the colonel or the seniorita in such a place. It seems, as I look back upon it, that I must have idled away a great deal of precious time; but this was really not the case. When they asked me what I would like to do, that first Monday morning, I mentioned being very fond of sailing, and in a few moments we were in one of the proas, with a native who sailed the thing like an arrow across the smooth water and along the coast to Orote.

SHE MUST HAVE BEEN EMBARRASSED.

tree trunk and was pointed at each end. On the lee side it was rounded like any other boat, but to windward it was perpendicular flat. Lashed across the gunwales about four feet from each end were two straight limbs of a tree that looked like teak, eight feet long; and these at the outer extremity were lashed to a rounded and sharpened boom of the same wood. The sail, of cocoa matting, was a triangular one, which seemed out of all proportion to the narrow hull beneath it. There was a stout bamboo mast in the middle, and from this hung a smaller and a longer pole which formed the upper side of the sail's triangle, meeting the lower one in a point at the bow, where they were secured like a jib. The immense spread of sail pulled us through the water at such a rate that I feared we might upset, but the colonel laughed at me.

to own one. I asked the colonel what they were worth. "What, one like this? But a few pesos, senior. But I never have heard of one being sold. Each man builds his own." "Hmpf. Did you ever build one, colonel?" "I—el gobernador! Por Dios, you do but laugh at me! Pedro, how many of the proas have I at Agana?" "All are the gobernador's, excelencia." "And how many has el Senor Stefans while he remains at Agana?" "All of the gobernador's, excelencia." "Por Dios, it is true, senior." "Well, that is exceeding kind, I must say. But, you see, colonel, I am very fond of sailing, and I should like to have one always ready—one that I was used to—in case I wanted to go off fishing with you, or in which I could take the ladies for a day upon the water. Sometimes I have un melancolia and I like to go away by myself, lest I prove bad company. So I'd like to have one of these boats that I could use whenever I pleased. And I don't think it's quite fair to take it without paying something."

That evening saw a marvelous transformation in the seniorita. She had reached the bottom of her Manila box at last, and one of the prettiest of the three gowns had gone on in a twinkling. The memory of Senorita Palacios' appearance was fresh enough in her mind to show instantly the difference in style between the new and the old ones. Her unaccountable possession of the extra finery was something she put off for later and more deliberate consideration, being satisfied, for the time being, to dispatch hasty dinner invitations to the other ladies and shyly watch the impression produced when she descended among us. I was horribly conscious of my previous meddling in her affairs, and feared I might betray myself; but the gown was so much more becoming to her than it had been to the original owner that I was lost in admiration. She wasn't one of your unsophisticated girls, either. Her life in Madrid had taught her how to wear even antiquated frocks like a princess, and it needed no stretch of the imagination to fancy ourselves within sight of the Plaza del Oriente, as we looked at our hostess.

CHAPTER IX.

I had determined to lose no time in attempting to see the document in Fray Ignacio's box, and, as it proved, the dinner party helped me materially. Bartolomeo and the other priests dropped in upon us before the close of the meal, and were prevailed upon to spend the evening. Whether my liking for the seniorita had at that time awakened a reciprocal feeling, I didn't know; but she seemed aware of my desire to get the padres in a happy frame of mind, and aided me in every way she could, ordering Pepe to bring bottles, and more bottles, for the delectation of the company. Palm brandy, or aguardiente, is the only brand known in the Ladrones, and that seldom appears upon a gentleman's table. But light wines, and, for stronger heads, rum and water, are freely indulged in. The result is rarely drunkenness; the stuff doesn't act that way in warm climates. But for early-drooping eyelids and dreamless sleep that works like anaesthetics, give me two bottles of Spanish wine that have made the voyage to Manila or Guajan. The padres were built upon the cistern principle, all of them; but they were practically asleep before 11, at which time they accepted the colonel's hospitality and fell to snoring peacefully upon the floor or the rattan sofas, wherever they happened to drop.

It was such a perfect night that the seniorita strolled down to the beach with me before retiring, and I have a hazy recollection of kissing her. Something of the sort, anyway, for she left her cool fingers in mine for half a minute before she disappeared. This and her personal loveliness in the moonlight, came near to interfering with my progress; for upon reaching my room I took an easy chair out upon the balcony and smoked for over an hour, thinking of her. The windows of her room were diagonally opposite my own, across the patio; and I fancied once or twice that I could detect her figure among the shadows. After awhile, however, it struck me that if I were really going to do anything it was about time to get at it. So I opened the sea-chest and took out the electric safety lantern, then silently made my way along the corridors and down to the room where the padres were snoring. I have been told by doctors that fat men usually sleep more soundly than their skinny brethren, and my experience that night seemed to clinch the assertion; for, though I had to feel over several square feet of Bartolomeo's anatomy in my search for his bunch of keys, he never even wiggled. It would have been possible, of course to force the locks; but that was too risky an operation when simpler methods were available. Stepping across the little square, the air was so still that I could hear the lapping of the ripples on the beach, a quarter of a mile away; and I seemed to be the only living creature awake. I had no difficulty in finding the key which opened the postern door at the rear of the church, and easily stole through the cloisters as far as the passage leading into the chamber of horrors. This was so pitchy dark that I turned on the current in my lamp and was startled at the brilliancy of the light which shot from its lens. When it fell upon the ghastly figure with the diseased wish-bone, a cold chill started the goose-flesh all over me; the contrast between the seniorita's warm, breathing loveliness, of which I had been dreaming, and this semblance of rotting carrion, was something horrible. I had to take a good pull at my flask before I could unlock the iron trap and descend into the vaults. There, also, the foul dampness, and the company of real bodies, made my scalp creep until it felt as though each individual hair were squirming. When Bartolomeo introduced me to the remains of Fray Ignacio, that morning, I felt more or less of a friendly interest in the old chap; we hadn't been near enough to appreciate the ghastliness of the grinning skull, half hidden by its gray cowl. But now, when I placed my light between his toes and attempted gently to ease his stomach of that heavy box, the bony fingers clung to it with gruesome strength; the old bones cracked and wheezed as I tugged at it. How I managed to keep from fainting outright, I never knew. My efforts to remove the chest from the old fellow's lap seemed to threaten a disarrangement of his skeleton so serious that I gave up the attempt and unlocked it where it lay. To this he made no objections; he even appeared to take a mild interest in the proceedings, wagging and wabbling his old skull, with horrid whisperings and creakings, every time I leaned against him. The papers in the box were covered with a thick layer of dust, and, after another pull at the flask—in which the fray, by a sorrowful wag of the cowl, refused to join me—I gently lifted the top ones with a pair of pocket piers so as to show the least possible disturbance. Realizing that every moment was precious, I hastily scanned the other documents until one bearing the fray's signature appeared, which proved to be the shipwrecked officer's statement. I wanted to read every word; but it was in old Spanish, the parchment was so brittle that it rattled like fire crackers, and there was really but one sentence that I needed. So, glancing rapidly from line to line, I finally came upon one which, translated, read: "Position of ledge, approximately, 12 degrees 30 minutes, 30 seconds N. lat., 144 degrees, 23 minutes 00 seconds E. lon." This I hastily penciled upon the wristband of my shirt; then, considering the advisability of destroying the document, I had decided that its absence might be discovered at any time, and was about to replace it, when I thought of Sebastiano. I couldn't afford to leave accurate information for him to find. In a second or two an idea occurred to me, and, striking a match, I held it over the parchment in such a way that it charred the figures completely out, yet looked as though a cinder had fallen accidentally upon the page. It was, of course, likely that the padre would have his suspicions if he ever saw it; but if I succeeded in getting safely out of the church, I thought, he'd have a sweet time verifying them. To replace all of the documents was a work of some moments, so careful was I not to disturb the coatings of dust with which they were covered. Then I locked the box, while the fray sadly wabbed his head at my tetterity, and started to return. The floor of the vaults was of pounded clay, and each step I took produced a vibration which filled the air with echoes of other creeping footsteps. My nerves were worn to a thin edge by this time, and had it not been for the brandy I probably should have lost consciousness. Yet, standing there in that foul, subterranean passage, in an island practically unknown to the world and thousands of miles from civilization, I couldn't help grinning to myself—a chattering, nervous grin it was, too—at the incongruity of a prosaic commercial man who had worried through 35 years of humdrum existence, being in such a position. What an unmitigated liar my acquaintances in the club at Hong-Kong would think me if I merely detailed the bare facts!

"Courage and Strength in Times of Danger."

Read the warning between the lines. What is that warning? It is of the danger from accumulation of badness in the blood, caused by the usual heavy living of the Winter months. Spring is the clearing, cleansing time of the year; the forerunner of the brightness and beauty of glorious Summer.

Follow the principle that Nature lays down. Start in at once and purify your blood with that great specific, Hood's Sarsaparilla. It never disappoints.

Tumors—A tumor as big as a large marble came under my tongue and instead of letting my physician operate on it, I used my favorite spring tonic, Hood's Sarsaparilla. The tumor soon disappeared. Mrs. H. M. CONNOR, 579 Mer'k St., Lowell, Mass.

AN ORDINARY OLD COIN.

But It Served to Bring Out the Fallings of Weak Humanity.

"Say!" said the street car conductor to a mild-mannered man who was deeply engrossed in his newspaper. "Say, young feller, I don't want this quarter. I can't use it." The mild-mannered man continued to hold out his hand for his change, but paid no other attention to the conductor.

"See here!" yelled the conductor, getting red in the face, "you can't pass no quarter like that on me. It's slick. I can't take it for more than 20 cents." The mild man looked up and said: "I'm sorry, because you gave me that very quarter yourself last night, and I've been laying for you since. Well, give it here." He took the quarter and gave the conductor a nickel. As he took the quarter from the conductor he suddenly dropped his newspaper and gave a chuckle.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed; "here's luck. Bless me if that isn't an 1832 quarter with 14 stars and an arrow. It's worth $3.82." He slipped it into his pocket with evidence of much satisfaction. A hungry-eyed man in the corner, who had overheard the conversation, jumped up and said to the conductor:

"Isn't that the very quarter I gave you yesterday morning? I missed that quarter. It was a pocketpiece and a valuable coin. I remember now that I gave it to you. I demand it!" he said, looking fiercely at the mild man. "If you are a gentleman you will give it to me." "It isn't yours. You never gave it to me. My wife gave me the coin by mistake; it's part of a collection that's been in the family since 1827!" yelled the conductor.

"I tell you it's mine," said the hungry-eyed man. Thus they wrangled and quarreled all the way downtown. "No," said the mild man to a neighbor, as he stepped from the car. "It's only a plain, ordinary old shiny quarter that I've been trying to pass off for a week. We were all lying. It's worth about 22 cents."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Washington dispatch states that Festus R. Metcalf, a dry goods merchant of Adrian, is believed to stand the best show of being the census supervisor in this congressional district.

A bill has been passed by the senate making the legal rate of interest 5 per cent instead of 6 per cent as at present. The contract rate is reduced from 8 to 7 per cent. The lawyers and farmers did up the bankers on this issue.

Joseph Medill, the successful newspaper publisher of Chicago, estimated that if the working men of the United States had bought railway stocks instead of whiskey for the last ten years, they would now own every railway in the United States.

The Ann Arbor Register says Justice Doty, of that city, will perform marriages at "statutory fees." It is a question whether he will get many to perform at such prices. The "statutory" fee is $2, but the fees for "statutory" run well up into the thousands of dollars sometimes.

The treasury department in Washington is receiving letters from all parts of the country complaining of the scarcity of paper currency in small denominations and calling for relief. This apparent scarcity is not due to any diminution in the money supply, but to the increased needs of a rapidly expanding retail trade.

Fred Kuebler, of Ann Arbor, brought a damage suit of $10,000 against E. V. Hangsterfer, for injuries received while helping to fill the latter's ice houses last year. The case was settled for $150. A good many of these damage suits are commenced at the instigation of lawyers just to put fees in their own pockets and incidentally a little on the side for their clients. This is especially noticeable when you see a $10,000 suit settled for $150, a $5,000 suit for $100, etc., as has been the case during the present term of the circuit court.

Evening Times, Ann Arbor: "There is now no longer any chance of the homeopathic department of the U. of M. being removed to Detroit, at least for two years, and this in spite of the work of Dr. MacLachlan and the Detroit News and Tribune."

It was the greed of personal gain that first induced this movement on the part of Dr. MacLachlan and others, who sought to have the department moved to Detroit in the hope that they would then get back the positions as professors which they had had to resign. Previously, when Dr. MacLachlan was one of the professors of the homeopathic department he had strenuously opposed such a movement. It was a like greed that kept up the movement to disintegrate the University, to which was also added a tinge of desire for revenge. And again it was a desire for personal preferment that resulted in the withdrawal of the two bills by the gentleman who had been most ardent in their support. It shows conclusively that Ann Arbor is as good a place for the homeopathic department as Detroit would be and that its interests will not suffer by remaining where it now is and where it should be.

Ann Arbor was in somewhat of a turmoil for several days last week and the week previous. It was all brought about by the desire of Ald. Rohde to move an old house across the street railroad track. The railroad company, through its superintendent, Robert Hemphill, kicked up a great fuss, threatening to have 500 men on the spot to prevent its wires being cut. When the arguments were heard Judge Kinne dissolved the injunction and ordered that the house be allowed to cross the track without any let or hindrance. Friday morning at 2 o'clock the crossing was made and it was found that by simply lifting the wires no cutting of them would have to be done, the house passing under quite easily. It is strange, how some people invested with a little authority can make matters so unpleasant for everybody. That when they have a little right granted by a franchise they seek to usurp the whole earth and even the space between the earth and sky. Sylvan township can take a lesson from this little incident and when the time comes that a franchise shall be granted to the proposed electric road, see to it that her interests are protected in such a way that the company shall have no loophole to encroach on vested rights over which they have no control.

Death of Mrs. M. F. Morrissey.

The startling news that Mrs. Michael F. Morrissey, formerly Miss Kate McCover, had died, reached Chelsea Tuesday morning. Mrs. Morrissey was stricken with pulmonary abscess, and though everything was done, all efforts were unavailing. The remains were brought from Cleveland to Chelsea last Wednesday, and the funeral was held from St. Mary's church on Thursday morning, the Rev. Father Considine officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The remains were interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Mrs. Morrissey was a woman of high character, a loving daughter, a faithful wife, and a loyal friend. She was utterly unselfish, and always thought of others. She made friends wherever she went, and her untimely departure is deeply regretted by hosts of friends. She made a beautiful preparation for the inevitable meeting. Her sad death evokes deep sympathy for the afflicted husband and surviving relatives.

The Late Albert Hindelang.

After a serious illness, lasting through the winter, Mr. Albert Hindelang passed to his eternal rest last Sunday, April 23, at 2 p. m. He was tenderly cared for by his aunt, Mrs. Phillip Keusch, whose gentle ministrations prolonged his life. The funeral was held from St. Mary's church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, and was largely attended. The Rev. Father Considine sang the requiem high mass and preached an instructive sermon. The remains were conveyed to Mt. Olivet cemetery to await the resurrection morn. Mr. Hindelang was a young man of probity and industry, who made many friends during life. He was born and lived in Chelsea during his entire life, and was respected for his many excellent qualities. His father, brothers and surviving relatives have the sympathy of many friends in their sad loss.

The Late Christian Oesterle.

Christian Oesterle died at his home on North street, Saturday, of pneumonia, after a brief illness. The funeral services held at St. Paul's church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock were largely attended. The German Workingmen's Society, of which he was a member, and his fellow workmen in the Glazier stove works turning out in a body to do honor to the memory of their deceased friend. Rev. L. Koelbing conducted the services. The remains were interred in Oak Grove cemetery. Mr. Oesterle was born in Germany March 28, 1845. He came to this country in 1874, and had lived in Sylvan and Chelsea nearly all of that time. His wife and mother and a family of 10 children survive him.

The grounds around the cottages at Cavanaugh lake have all been nicely cleaned up and present quite a pleasing appearance. Fred H. Belser, of Ann Arbor, is having a large new stoop built on the east side of his cottage. The water in the lake is the highest that it has been in years. Fishing from the shore will soon commence.

The pulpits of the village will be supplied Sunday morning by students from the volunteer mission band of Ann Arbor. In the evening a union service will be held at the Congregational church in charge of Messrs. Taylor, Stead and Tomkins of the University. All are invited to these services. The young men are highly recommended and are earnest speakers.

The winter term of school in district No. 6, Dexter, taught by Miss Cora Devereaux of Pinckney, closed Friday, April 14. The pupils rendered a fine literary program, at the end of which they showed their appreciation of Miss Devereaux's successful efforts during the past six months in their behalf, by presenting her with a beautiful volume of Shakespeare's works.

One of our amateur photographers was out in the country driving Friday afternoon, when he came across a gang of gypsies. They besieged him to have his fortune told. He in turn asked them to let him photograph them. On the promise that he would "put money in their purse" they lined up for him and he secured two good views. Then he played a regular Sheeny trick on them by whipping up his horse and getting out of their reach.

The 31st Michigan is now at Savannah, Ga., where the boys will be mustered out. Many friends met them at the wharf when they arrived in Savannah Tuesday, and the people of Savannah turned out and gave them a royal welcome as they marched through the streets. The regiment went into camp on the grounds recently occupied by a Carolina regiment and near their old camping place of last January. The regiment was in exceedingly high spirits over being once more among its own people and on the way home. A heavy rain storm came up after supper, but the tents were all up and the regiment settled in them.

The engineering department of the University of Michigan was given a general shakeup at the meeting of the board of regents on Tuesday. Prof. Clarence G. Taylor, superintendent of shop practice, tendered his resignation which was accepted, as were also those of Instructors Smoots, McDonald and Purfield, who were under Taylor in the shops. The resignations take effect at the end of the college year. Trouble has existed between the professor and the students and instructors for a long time, it having gone so far that a petition had been generally signed by the students protesting against Prof. Taylor's overbearing conduct towards the instructors in many instances.

PAINFUL PERIODS NO MORE

MRS. GEORGE OSMUN, of Belvidere, Warren Co., N. J., writes: "Suffering as I had from weakness, irregularities and backache for several years, a release from this suffering was a blessing. Oh! how I wish more suffering women would accept your kind offer and be relieved. There is no need for women to suffer. Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will relieve them."

MRS. IDA PETERS, Milan, Tenn., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—When I wrote to you the first time asking your advice I was a great sufferer. Menstruations were irregular, sometimes a week too soon and then a week or two late, and when they appeared were very profuse; great pain and tenderness in the bowels, pain in back and limbs, leucorrhoea all the time. I was weak and nervous and had no appetite. Burning and choking sensation in my throat. I received your reply and followed all your instructions and now I am cured. I owe my recovery all to Mrs. Pinkham's advice and her wonderful remedies."

ELLA E. BRENNER, East Rochester, Ohio, writes: "I have been thankful a thousand times since I wrote to you for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I followed your advice carefully and now I feel like a different person. My troubles were backache, headache, nervous tired feeling, painful menstruation and leucorrhoea. I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one box of Pills, one package of Sanative Wash and am now well."

MRS. MAGGIE P. STINE, New Berlin, Pa., writes: "I have suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back for about seven years, and could never get anything to help me. I tried several physicians, but found no help. I have now taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and feel like a different woman."

MRS. H. A., 124 S. Cedar Street, Owosso, Mich., writes: "Nearly three years ago I wrote to you asking advice in regard to my health. I was so miserable; suffered from painful menstruation and backache, was nervous, dizzy and faint. I received such a kind letter from you, telling me just what to do. I followed your advice and I now am recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I thank God for this pain destroyer."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. STUDENTS ARE PATRIOTIC

Sixteen from University of Michigan Are Serving Their Country in the Philippines.

PROF. WORCESTER MEMBER OF FACULTY

He is One of the Three United States Commissioners—Others Hold High Positions—Brief Review of the Services They Are Performing Under the Stars and Stripes.

[Special Correspondence.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 19.—Since the outbreak of the Spanish-American war 16 alumni and students of the University of Michigan have gone to the Philippines in the service of the United States. Two of the 16, Prof. Dean C. Worcester and P. L. Sherman, are instructors in the university.

Prof. Worcester is a member of the faculty of the department of zoology and last year was curator of the zoological museum. He is one of the three commissioners appointed by the United States government.

Penoyer L. Sherman, who is an instructor in the department of chemistry, is one of the secretaries to the missioned officer in the Colorado regiments, and among the youngest in the United States, he being but 20 years of age.

Others in the Service.

Theodore Vladimiroff, a graduate of the engineering department with the class of '97, is a second-class engineer on the United States steamer Helena. This went to Manila by way of the Suez canal.

William V. Rinehart sailed for the Philippines as adjutant of the Second battalion, First Washington volunteer infantry. Before becoming adjutant he was first lieutenant of company G, of the same regiment. He was graduated from the law department of the university with the class of '89.

Another graduate of the law department who went to Manila was Francis G. Anspach, of Ann Arbor. He joined company A, First Montana volunteers. Philip W. Corbusier was corporal in troop C, Fourth United States volunteer cavalry, which went into camp at Cavite last August.

Frank F. Freeman was a member of the law class of '97. He went to the Philippines from Portland, Ore., with company H, Second Oregon volunteer infantry.

Two sophomore students in the literary department who were at the front were Howard H. Holland and John D. Kilpatrick, the former from Saginaw, and the latter from New Castle, Wyo. Mr. Kilpatrick was with company A, First Wyoming volunteers.

Karl R. Miner and Charles L. Moore, graduates from the law department with the classes of '96 and '97, respectively, were both at the front. Miner was with the Astor battery and Moore was sergeant of company L, First Montana volunteer infantry.

Donald Macrea, Jr., who was graduated from the department of medicine and surgery of the university in 1891, arrived in Manila last December as assistant surgeon of the Fifty-first Iowa volunteer infantry.

Le Roy Southmayd, a '92 medic, is assistant surgeon of the First Montana volunteer infantry.

Recapitulation.

Of the above, two are from university faculties, six are graduates or students of law department, four are from the literary department, two from the medical department, one from the engineering department, and one is a graduate of both medical and literary departments.

New Railway.

The Pleasant Bay Railroad company, which was organized with a capital of $100,000 to operate a short line of road in Monroe county, which was never constructed, has filed amended articles of incorporation with a capital of $1,500,000, and changes its name to the Detroit & Toledo Shore Line Railroad company. It has authority to extend its line to Detroit on the north and to purchase the Toledo & Ottawa Beach railroad on the south, making a complete line of road from Detroit to Toledo along the lake shore.

New Furnace Company.

The Municipal Furnace company has been organized with a paid-up capital of $250,000 to build and operate a furnace at Munising for the manufacture of pig iron and chemical by-products incidental to the manufacture of charcoal. W. H. Hinkle, of Ashland, Wis., is president; N. B. Bubb, Williamsport, Pa., treasurer; R. J. Gaffney, Bradford, Pa., manager. Two hundred and fifty men will be worked at the furnace and 300 in the woods getting out wood for charcoal.

Went Over the Dam.

Richard Curl, a well-known citizen and prominent G. A. R. man and veteran of the war of the rebellion, was drowned at Battle Creek. He went fishing on the Verona mill pond and was seen by a boy to swing his boat in the current, which carried it to the dam, swinging around sidewise and going over in the rushing water beneath.

DEAN C. WORCESTER.

Philippine commissioners. The other secretary is T. Garvin Denby, a graduate of the literary department.

Had Been on the Islands.

Dr. Frank S. Bourns, who, after graduating from the medical department of the university in 1896, accepted a chair in the Southern Medical college at Atlanta, Ga., volunteered for the Philippine expedition as soon as it became evident that Dewey's victory in Manila bay was to be followed up. He had been to the islands twice before, once in 1887-88 and again in 1890-93. On the latter occasion he spent two years in the Philippines and eight months in Borneo. He received the appointment of chief surgeon, with the rank of major, and sailed in the ship China in company with Gen. Green.

Raised the Stars and Stripes.

Dr. Bourns was a member of the landing party which raised the stars and stripes over Guam island. Immediately on his arrival at Manila he was assigned to the dangerous duty of reconnoitering the enemy's works. He also acted as interpreter and conducted the negotiations with Aguinaldo and other insurgent leaders. During the assault on the city he was twice detailed to carry orders under heavy fire and as soon as the white flag was displayed he accompanied Gen. Green and staff forward to investigate. Eventually he was made chief health officer of Manila with a smallpox hospital, a leper hospital, a quarantine station and the sanitation of the city under his charge.

First to Reach the Walls.

Rice W. Means, who was a freshman in the law department of the university last year, is first lieutenant of company E, First Colorado volunteer infantry. Before the attack on Manila, he made a reconnoissance, under a galling fire, to the very walls of the city, which walls he was the first American soldier to touch. Upon this occasion he drafted a map of the ground and location of the Spanish fortification, and this map was used by Gen. Green in the attack which resulted in the raising of the stars and stripes over the island of Luzon. At the fall of Manila, Gen. Green said of him:

"Lieut. Means is deserving of great credit for his bravery in making such a valuable reconnoissance."

Maj. Grove in his report said: "Lieut. Means did as daring and audacious a piece of work as the Philippine campaign has produced."

Daily Summary of the Work Done by the Lawmakers in the Senate and House.

Lansing, Mich., April 18.—The house yesterday advanced to third reading bills abolishing all election primaries in Wayne county and providing that all nominations be made by direct vote of the people; requiring that makers of promissory notes be given notice of the date when said notes become due, and requiring women in the medical staffs of all state institutions having women inmates.

SWELL LONDON WEDDING.

Lady Margaret Primrose United in Marriage to the Earl of Crewe—A Big Affair.

London, April 21.—Large crowds of people gathered within the precincts of Westminster Abbey in order to witness the marriage of Lady Margaret Primrose, youngest daughter of the earl of Rosebery, to the earl of Crewe. Among those present in the abbey were 600 invited guests, all wearing wedding favors of marguerites and primroses, representing the bride's name. The earl of Rosebery gave his daughter away and the best man was the earl of Chesterfield. Dr. Butler and the dean of Westminster had charge of the ceremony. The honeymoon will be spent at Welbeck Abbey, the seat of the duke of Portland, which has been lent to the bride and bridegroom for the occasion. Miss Muriel White, daughter of Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, was one of the bridesmaids.

FOUND NEW LAND.

Return of the Belgian Antarctic Expedition—Advanced to 71 Degrees.

New York, April 20.—A dispatch to the Herald from Montevideo says: The following members of the Belgian antarctic expedition have arrived here on their way back to Europe: Henry Arctowski, naturalist; Roal Amundsen, an officer of the steamship Belgica, and M. Dobropolski, assistant in the meteorological service. They are reticent regarding the result of the expedition, but it is known that it advanced to 71 degrees 36 minutes latitude south and discovered land previously unknown, which it called Danco.

Sails from St. Pierre.

Washington, April 24.—The North Atlantic squadron sailed from St. Pierre northward. The Abarenda, which has been taking on a cargo of material for the construction of the coaling station at Pago-Pago, Samoa, dropped down from Norfolk Saturday to Lambert's Point, preparatory to beginning her long cruise. The Solace has sailed from Manila for San Francisco.

ARE GREATLY PLEASSED WITH WESTERN CANADA.

W. R. Milburn, John Holmes, M. R. Dagger, E. L. Stetson, of Buena Vista County, Iowa, report as follows of the Canadian North-West as to its suitability for farming, and the advantages it offers to the agricultural immigrant from the United States: "We came here solely to look up improved farms and, if suitable, to select such as pleased us best. We have not visited the homestead districts at all, though we believe them to be very inviting. Our inquiries have been confined solely to the district around Hartney, Deloraine and towards the Souris River in Manitoba. Our impressions of all that region are in every way satisfactory, and we have decided to go back to Iowa at once, and, having disposed of our several interests there, to return to Manitoba in the month of March next, and, effecting our purchase of improved farms, which we find we can do at reasonable rates, immediately begin farming. We are greatly pleased with all that we have seen in that part of Western Canada. The soil we find to be more than equal to that of our own country for wheat-growing, and the other conditions of climate, schools, markets, etc., are all that we could wish for.

"To show what an energetic man can do we may mention that we found one such at Hartney who had rented a farm on shares, receiving two-thirds of the returns as his share of the crop. When he came to sell his own produce he found that his two-thirds, when converted into cash, was enough to buy the farm he rented out and out, which he accordingly did, and is now its owner. It is our intention to induce as many of our friends as possible, who are practical farmers, to remove from Iowa to this country, where we believe there is a better future for the industrious man than is now to be found anywhere on this continent. We are well known in our part of the State of Iowa, and we invite correspondence from its residents in all parts with regard to this region of Western Canada which we have visited, and to which we intend to return."

Advantages of Direct Buying.

Certain manufacturing institutions have in recent years inaugurated a new system of disposing of their products which is unqualifiedly to the advantage of the consumer. Among the pioneers in this new method of doing business was the Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing company of Elkhart, Ind. These people began this plan 26 years ago and have adhered to it strictly ever since. The result has been so entirely successful that they are to-day the largest manufacturers of carriages and harness in the world selling to the consumer exclusively.

The advantages to the consumer are almost beyond estimate. He gets better goods, better and larger selections, and he buys at a much lower price. There is no risk, as this firm ship vehicles or harness everywhere for examination, and guarantee every article they manufacture and sell. The Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing company publish a large illustrated catalogue, which they will cheerfully mail to all who request it.

The Dark Secret.

"It's not dark enough yet," she whispered, as she peered eagerly up and down the street.

"There's no one in sight," he replied, after a careful survey.

"But some one may come round that corner at any minute and recognize us, and then I should want to die."

"Well, then, we'll wait a bit."

Among His Impediments.

"You've got a lot of baggage," remarked the Washington friend who had accompanied him to the railway station.

"Yes," responded the retiring congressman, "but I carry something on my mind that weighs me down more than all this stuff put together."

"What is it?" inquired the other.

"It's my 'ex'!" said the departing statesman, with a dry sob.—Chicago Tribune.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Swamp-Root, The Great Kidney Restorative and Healer.

ITS MARVELOUS SUCCESS IN ALL KIDNEY, BLADDER AND URIC ACID TROUBLES,

To Prove for Yourself the Wonderful Merits of This Great Discovery, You may Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free By Mail.

What your kidneys need is a gentle, healing, tonic influence, that will soothe their irritability and gently regulate them. The only thing that will do this is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the ideal Kidney Restorative.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these useful organs.

What more natural? The Kidneys filter and purify the blood.

When they don't your whole body must suffer.

If you are sick, doctor your kidneys, because as soon as they are well they will help all the other organs to health.

The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles. Make a note of the name, SWAMP-ROOT, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous kidney remedy sent free by mail, postpaid, by which you may test its virtues for such disorders as kidney, bladder and uric acid diseases, and urinary troubles, obliged to pass water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, constant headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervousness, skin trouble, anaemia, Bright's disease, neuralgia, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, worn-out feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

The great discovery, Swamp-Root, has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief, and has proved so successful in every case, that a special arrangement has been made by which all the readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent absolutely free by mail. Also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and containing some of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women who owe their good health, in fact, their very lives, to the wonderful curative properties of Swamp-Root. Be sure and mention this paper when sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y.

A Communication.

To the Editor of the Herald:

As an organization especially interested in the moral well-being of our village the Woman's Christian Temperance Union last summer looked with deep concern and regret upon the open ice cream saloons on the Sabbath day. It is well known to all intelligent citizens of our state that the law forbids, under penalty, the keeping open of places of business on Sunday with the exception of certain hours in some lines. Upon investigation we found that people all over the village felt it was not right that it should be allowed to go on. We are convinced that it is especially harmful to the younger element of our population and has a detrimental effect upon their character to see salutary laws set aside with impunity and without protest.

Therefore, as an organization, we not only protest against any repetition of it but also give due announcement of our purpose to enter complaint against any person or persons who shall so violate the law.

I have recently invented a very superior ICE MACHINE and applied for patents on same.

A large eastern concern are now building the first machine for me. This first, model machine, will be finished and in operation in Chelsea about May 15th.

I wish to thoroughly demonstrate the economy and superiority of this machine the coming season; in order to be in a position to manufacture and place them on the market next year. To do this it will be necessary to operate one in an experimental way the coming season. To dispose of the large amount of ICE that will be frozen, I make the following prices:

Private Residences $2.50 for the entire season.
Hotels, Restaurants and Bakeries 5.00 for the entire season.

This PURE CRYSTAL ICE will be delivered every day, and will be carefully washed and placed in your refrigerator.

If at the end of the season you do not say that it is the best ICE you have ever used, you need not pay one cent for your season's supply.

Yours Respectfully,
FRANK P. GLAZIER.
