Received Severe Injuries.

Another accident from attempting to get on a moving train occurred here Saturday morning about 7 o'clock. L. N. Maag, of Circleville, Ohio, a painter by trade, aged 31 years, tried to board a fast freight train at the crossing on Main street, while it was going at a speed of 25 miles an hour, and as a result has three broken ribs besides a broken hip which may leave him lame for life. He made three trials to grasp the ladders of freight cars as they passed by him, the third being partially successful, but he was thrown against the cars and received the injuries above stated. He had a narrow escape from being run over as the heel of one of his shoes got under the wheels and was ground off. He was taken to Dr. G. W. Palmer's office, who when he had recovered from the shock attended to his injuries and made him as comfortable as circumstances would permit. His father who is a retired business man in Circleville, was telegraphed to a d Monday evening his brother arrived here. He was cared for at Dr. Palmer's office rooms until this morning when he was taken to the homeopathic hospital, Ann Arbor.

The Senior Social.

The ice cream social and entertainment given at the town hall Friday evening by the senior class of the high school was largely attended. Between 25 and 30 young people from Manchester and some from Dexter were among those present, showing the good feeling that exists between the scholars of these several villages. It is a pleasant thing to see such a cordial feeling of good fellowship. The program as published in last week's Herald was fully carried out, even to the "cake walk," which was however put on in a somewhat burlesque style. After the program was ended a short time was spent in dancing.

$100 Reward

Will be paid by the Village of Chelsea for the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons who set the incendiary fires that burned the Negus planing mill, or barn of Thos. McNamara, or house of Mrs. Flieger, in said village.

Dated, April 18, 1899.

By order of the Council.

GEO. P. STAFFAN, President.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache, and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Elaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything, and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at Glazier & Stimson's Bank Drug Store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Fire in Lima.

Edward Dancer's barn in Lima was burned Thursday afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock, the cause of the fire being wholly unknown. The loss was a severe one, 800 bushels of wheat, 125 bushels of oats, 18 hogs, 6 calves, a lumber wagon, truck wagon, and other small tools being destroyed, also sheep sheds and hog pens. It is estimated that $2,500 will not replace the damage. Mr. Dancer was insured for $900 in the Western Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co., whose headquarters are in Chelsea. It is the first loss the company has sustained since its organization.

A Young Girl's Experience.

My daughter's nerves were terribly out of order. She was thin and weak; the least noise startled her, and she was wakeful at night. Before she had taken one package of Celery King the change in her was so great that she could hardly be taken for the same girl. She is rapidly growing well and strong, her complexion is perfect, and she sleeps well every night.—Mrs. Lucy McNutt, Brush Valley, Pa.
Celery King cures Constipation and all diseases of the Nerves, Stomach, Liver and Kidneys. Sold by druggists. 25c. and 50c.

On my recent visit to Pittsburgh I spent some time looking up the ice machine business with the firm who have our contract.

I found them greatly rushed and from six to eight weeks behind orders. They cannot complete our machine (which according to contract was to be delivered May 15th) before the 1st of July.

This unexpected and unavoidable delay makes it necessary for me to withdraw my proposition to furnish ice for the coming season.

Respectfully,

FRANK P. GLAZIER.

The keen-eyed stranger sidled up to the tall man who was hurriedly shuffling over his mail. "Beg pardon, sir," he said, "but if I am not mistaken you are one of the physicians of the sick author?" "I am," remarked the tall man. "Thank you," said the stranger. "Then I assume that yours is one of the names that appears on the hourly bulletin?" "It does," said the tall man. "Thank you again," said the stranger. "And now, what I want to suggest is that you permit me, for a handsome compensation, of course, to add these words at the bottom of each bulletin: 'Use Bulger's Blood Bitters! They fight off disease!'" "Sir!" snorted the tall man, trembling with indignation, "those bulletins are not advertisements. Aren't they?" screamed the peppy stranger. "Then take your name off of 'em!" And he stalked away, leaving the tall man speechless with rage.—St. Louis Republic.

A CHARMING grandmother!
What a pleasant influence in the house is a delightful old lady in good health!

Mrs. MOLLIE BARBER, St. James, Mo., writes: "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during change of life, and have passed through that critical period safely. I suffered for years with falling of the womb and female weakness. At times could hardly stand on my feet, also had leucorrhœa. I tried several good doctors, but instead of getting better, grew worse all the time. A friend advised me to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. I did so and after taking six bottles, was cured of both leucorrhœa and falling of womb. I am now enjoying good health and feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. I would recommend it to all women suffering as I was."

HEALTHFUL OLD AGE

Mrs. N. E. LACEY,

Pearl, La., writes:

"I have had leucorrhœa for about twenty years, falling of womb by spells for ten years, and my bladder was affected, had backache a great deal. I tried a number of doctors. They would relieve me for a little while, then I would be worse than ever. I then thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven bottles of Compound and one box of Liver Pills cured me and I am now sound and well. It helped me through the change of life period. I am fifty-five years old."

The women of advanced years who are healthy and happy are invariably those who have known how to secure help when they needed it. Mrs. Pinkham will advise any woman free of charge who writes about her health. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

THE FOUR DESIGNERS.

Mother Earth must have a carpet.
Who'll design it? "I," said Spring.
"With my rain-dipped, sun-tipped brushes,
I'll design the sweetest thing
Ever seen." And, true to promise,
Worked the artist morn and e'en,
And a tapestry of velvet
Wrought she of the tenderest green.

"I'll improve on that," said Summer,
Clever artist, in his prime.
"I would tire of emerald sameness,
All I ask is proper time."
All I ask, and bunch by bunch, then,
One by one, and showers of flowers fell,
Showers on which, scattered that way
Summer laughed: "I like it well."

"I," sighed Autumn, old and lonely,
"Lose my taste for youthful things."
And she paints a dull-brown background.
When 'tis finished then she flings
Here and there a leaf of yellow,
Here and there a leaf of red,
Like bright spots that memory echo
From a happy youth, long dead.

Aged, hoary, bent and feeble,
Winter came, with tottering feet.
Peevishly the artist muttered:
"I could paint it more complete."
But his hand, no longer steady,
Laid the laden brushes fall,
And, with death-chill, stiffening fingers,
Spread his white shroud over all.
—John L. Jones, in Golden Days.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

Ascending to the image chamber, my hand trembled so that I couldn't hold the light steady; and this erratic illumination gave the figures a ghastly appearance of life. I was hastily crossing toward the narrow entrance which led to the cloisters, when the murmur of a voice in the channel on the other side of the wall made me shut off the current in my lamp and gasp for breath. In an instant I was in darkness so thick I could feel it, though a very faint reflection from the waning moon made a sort of grayness up where the windows were; but, looking toward the chancel wall, I noticed a faint luminousness in one particular spot, and it was from this quarter that the voice seemed to come.

It took but a moment to figure out that this spot must be approximately in the rear of the crucifix head over the altar. There was a pile of boxes just under it, on my side, so I cautiously climbed to where I could look through. Then, my nervousness left me. For on his knees before the altar was lay brother Felipe, pattering out prayers for the repose of the good dead fathers below. It afterward came out that he had been asleep in his cell, and, awaking suddenly, had heard footsteps and echoes in the catacomb which fairly curdled his blood; so, by the light of the only candle he could find, he was doing his best to lay the restless spirits.

How recklessness got the upper hand of me would be hard to say; but, without giving the danger a second thought, I lifted my lantern to the aperture and turned on the current. I would have given a large sum to have seen the effect from the church side; it must have been more than startling. I could tell the exact instant when the lay brother raised his eyes to the top of the crucifix by the way his murmuring stopped short. There was a gasp of astonishment too great for louder articulation, a shiver of ecstacy and fear; and when I squinted through the hole, after shutting off the current, he was groveling, face down, upon the chancel floor.

This was my opportunity. Calculating that he wouldn't dare raise his eyes for several moments, no matter what strange noises echoed through the postern and succeeded in restoring to Padre Bartolomeo's snoring torso his bunch of keys without being seen. Once back in my room, I locked the door and put a chair against it; for I was considerably shaken up, and looked as though I had spent a week in the infernal regions.

Breakfast was fortunately late, so I had time to bathe and make myself a little more presentable, but I must have looked seedy even then. This, however, was naturally laid to the dinner party of the previous evening, none of the gentlemen feeling very positive as to when or just how he had parted from the others. I thought that when the padres got thoroughly waked up and had time to get the lay brother's experience through their heads there was likely to be more of a sensation than the little town had known in many moons; so, complaining of a severe headache, I invited the colonel and his daughter to sail with me in the new proa. Having to hear a few cases at the tribunal that morning, he politely declined, but assured me that Dorotea would be pleased to go.

This was better than I had bargained for. Knowing the strict ideas in regard to chaperonage which regulate Spanish society, it never occurred to me that such a tete-a-tete would be permitted; but I found that Guanajuato, like a steamer at sea, was more or less outside of social restrictions, a law unto itself.

The senorita seemed to have perfect confidence in my seamanship and was evidently glad of such an opportunity to ask questions. As we skimmed along the blue water I satisfied her curiosity regarding American women and gave radical opinions on men of various nationalities—chief among which was a caution against believing what any man said to her unless she knew him very well, because they were not all truthful and honorable like myself. I wonder how many men have solemnly worked this gray-bearded old warning on girls whose society they selfishly wished to monopolize. And I also wonder what curious train of thought must run through a woman's mind when she hears it from the hundredth man.

It is unnecessary to detail the progressive steps by which our talk became more confidential, or to describe the periods of satisfactory silence when we floated along in delicious idleness under shortened sail, the north-east trade wind gently fanning our cheeks and the cottony clouds reflected in the broad Pacific. We two were alone between sky and water, and the island was a mere bank upon the horizon. Under such circumstances it is exceedingly difficult to keep one's thoughts from showing in the face, and I began to feel that I could trust this girl as I had never trusted a woman before.

She knew that I had some ulterior object in remaining at Agaña, and her manner led me to believe that she would further it as far as lay in her power, at least while I showed a preference for her society over that of other women. This wasn't expressed in so many words, but she confessed to the knowledge that I had left the house on some adventure during the night, and to an impression that I wanted the padre out of the way, though her surmising went no further than that.

We had taken a lunch with us, so it was well toward evening when we returned, to find the town in a commotion over the strange and terrible miracle which had been witnessed by lay-brother Felipe. I've often thought that I was an innocent means of giving the Holy Roman church a deeper root in the Ladrões than it ever had before. Even Padre Bartolomeo, who was too wily a bird, and too well educated, to be fooled by an ordinary every-day miracle, was a good deal shaken up by the lay brother's yarn. His superior learning had fostered a laxity in his principles, an impression that he could drink and gamble with impunity; but after a thorough examination of the chancel, together with unavailing cross questioning of his entranced associate, he began to wonder if there were not more things in Heaven and earth than were dreamt of in his philosophy. However, as the offerings which began to pour in exceeded anything in his recollection, he kept his head, and continued to look upon himself as a blessed, though humble, medium.

CHAPTER X.

By Thursday morning I was ready to start for the reef, but thought it best to wait a couple of days longer, in order to avoid rousing suspicion by an all-day absence alone.

Nearly all of my new acquaintances had sailed with me, at odd times, and my reputation as an enthusiastic yachtsman was pretty well established. So, early Saturday morning, I had Pepe wheel my chest down to the beach, telling him that I was taking my tarpaulins and lunch, with the intention of sailing off and on around the island. I also said that I would camp somewhere if I found it impossible to get back that evening.

Pepe was a pretty decent old chap, as orderlies go, and seemed to have taken a fancy to me for reasons of his own—possibly my habit of giving him cigars now and then. He had been in the islands long enough to be something of a weather prophet, and insisted upon bringing down an extra supply of provisions in case the wind should fall when I was too far out. He also cautioned me against losing sight of the mountain, as otherwise I might steer clear of it and never be able to find my way back. I assured him that I would be careful, and felt easier at this indication that my knowledge of navigation was unsuspected. The study had always been a fascinating one, and in my voyages between Frisco and Yokohama I had improved the opportunities to know all I could of it. Without the aid of a nautical almanac it might have been difficult for me to fix a ship's position accurately at sea, but Halstead had coached me on the voyage from Manila until I felt reasonably confident.

It was an ideal morning for the experiment. The breeze was just fresh enough to send the proa scudding before it, and the sky was clear blue from horizon to horizon. McPherson had made for me a slot, from two pieces of copper, riveted to a strip of flat iron, to hold the log register; and this I secured, by lashing, to the aftermost outrigger while I was running from Agaña to Point Orote, steering with a long, flat-bladed paddle which I held between my knees. When a sufficient distance from the shore, I took out the compass and placed it between my feet. Fortunately, the governor had got it into his head that my luggage contained delicate scientific instruments, so he had given strict orders that it should be handled carefully in transit from the steamer.

As the catamaran approached Orote I took out the log, slipped the register into its slot, and coiled up the line so that it could be instantly eased away, then steered within a hundred yards of the rocks so as to get an exact bearing. When near enough I let the bow fall off a little until the proa was heading exactly 15 degrees and 27 minutes to the westward of south—the odd three minutes being an allowance I thought best to make for leeway. My compass being but six inches in diameter, it was practically impossible to keep it exactly on a hair-line between 15 and 16 degrees when the proa was crossing a long swell; but by keeping it somewhere between the south by west quarter west point and the south by west half west point I felt sure of holding on a fairly true course.

When Orote rock was precisely under the third northerly spur of Mount Tiniquio, I knew the bearing they formed was exactly at right angles with an air-line to the reef, and, dropping the log screw overboard, commenced paying out the line, being careful that it shouldn't fall low enough to foul the rocks. Then, with the great sail skimming over the water like an albatross, the proa flew straight for the open sea.

For over an hour I scarcely lifted my eyes from the compass; and the way that frail catamaran held to her course would have shamed many a deep-keeled steamer. Looking back toward the island, the peak of Tiniquio was the only thing visible above the horizon. Twenty minutes more, and there was nothing in sight but sky and water, the log dial indicating 38 miles; so that in a little while I might expect to be near the reef. For several minutes more I looked at nothing, thought of nothing, but the compass and log.

Forty miles—45 miles—50 miles, with scarcely a deviation from my 15½ degrees. Fifty-one miles; I was trembling a little with excitement now. Fifty-two miles; I held the paddle between my knees while I got out the sounding line and placed it by my side. Fifty-three miles; the water certainly seemed flatter, just ahead. Fifty-four miles; I hauled in my log line and screw, lest they should catch on the rocks and be lost. Two minutes more; I lowered away the sail until there was just enough pulling to give the proa a gentle headway. Over went the lead; my heart was in my mouth as I watched the line disappear. At 12 feet the two leather strips went under, then the three strips; then there was a jerk, a series of gentle taps as the lead dragged along the rock, and I knew that at last I had found the Santa Rosa shoal. I was absolutely alone upon the broad expanse of ocean—not even a gull in sight. There was nothing to indicate that the ocean bottom was any nearer to me than the three-mile depth over which I had just sailed and I could have tossed a pebble into that from where I sat. Yet I had actually found and under the impenetrable mask of these long, glassy waves was touching, through the lead-line, a mystery of the sea which for nearly a century and a half had baffled all investigation. The fact seemed so wonderful that for some time I sat there letting it soak in where my mind could grasp it.

According to Halstead's figures, my position was then about twelve thirty-three, north by one-forty-four, twenty-two, east. The figures in Fray Ignacio's document had been 12 degrees 30 minutes 30 seconds north by 144 degrees 23 minutes no seconds east. So the approximate position of the wreck was one mile farther east, and two and a half miles to the southward, from where I was. From the drag of my lead on bottom, I calculated the headway to be about six miles an hour, and steered due south for twenty minutes; then I headed east until it seemed as though the proa had gone an even mile, and was just about to stow away the sail, when the lead-line flashed over the side like lightning, as if a shark were making off with it. But upon grasping the coil I found only the natural resistance of its own weight, and I knew I must have reached the weather side of the ledge. I paid out the whole thirty fathoms, but the pull was as strong as ever. Then, taking the line from the chest, I bent it on to the other and kept paying out for several minutes; but no bottom. Being afraid to lose it, I began hauling in, measuring on the gut-wale as I did so, and found that it had gone down over nine hundred feet. Well, when a man is alone in mid-ocean, on nothing but a few sticks, and finds himself over an unfathomable abyss, the sensation is something like that of worms crawling around in his gizzard—a sort of ticklish feeling through his insides.

Heading out to the westward, I crept slowly back over my course, leaving the lead fathoms under water. In three minutes it struck bottom and dragged. Then I lowered away the lump of coquina which served as an anchor—leaving fifty feet of slack line, which I secured to the mast with running loops—after which I ate an orange, took a few swallows of wine, and fished out the diving-suit.

I remember once, when a boy of 18, being invited to a very swell ball at which I expected to meet a girl who had produced a strong impression upon me, and spending, in consequence, nearly two hours over my toilet before I was satisfied with it. But that wasn't a circumstance to the care with which I got into that diving suit, though the time consumed was appreciably less. The recollection of my sensations when first trying it on gave me a feeling of apprehensiveness which it was impossible to shake off. I pumped air into the knapsack until it wouldn't stand another inch. I examined every rivet and clamp, every seam and strengthening hoop, before putting it on. But at last I was completely bottled up, with the sole exception of the lens in front of my face. This I left open to get another bite of orange and at least half the bottle of wine, realizing that no matter how much I might want either, under water, they would be simply out of the question.

Then I screwed on the lens, opened the valve from the knapsack, and started to step over the gunwale; but my feet seemed glued fast; I had forgotten that the leaden soles of my shoes weighed 16 pounds each, and that there were weights attached to my shoulders and belt as well. They got themselves over at last, however, and, letting the line slip through my hand, I sank rapidly to the bottom.

At first the sensation was similar to diving, naked, in deep water. There was the same bubbling numbness in the ears, the impression of light, faintly penetrating through an opaque green substance, and grotesque shadowy objects which caught at the feet and made it difficult to step. The absence of buoyant feeling was strange and very uncomfortable. Had it not been for Halstead's precaution in making me try the suit on, I might easily have lost my head during the first five minutes. There was a rushing of air from the knapsack which made me gasp for breath, and the continual pop-pop-popping of air-bubbles from the top of the copper helmet filled me with a horrible dread that the water was pressing in upon me through some unsuspected leak in the armor.

Presently, however, it seemed evident that I was neither drowning nor suffocating yet, and I tried to look about me. Everything had the shadowy appearance that objects will take on in a room from which the sunlight has been excluded by window shades—a sort of cool twilight. But as my eyes became accustomed to it, and as confidence began to return, I could see more distinctly. My body was protected by copper hoops which allowed me to breathe in comparative freedom, but my limbs felt as though the sieves and breeches were 14 sizes too tight and were likely to split whenever they moved.

As nearly as one might calculate, the range of sight extended in a radius of about 50 feet—though at that distance objects had merely the appearance of blurred masses—and in a few moments I commenced making my way along the reef to the southward, keeping as near the easterly edge as I dared, but being careful to plant each foot firmly before taking a step. It must have been instinct which led me down the reef instead of up, for when I had walked a couple of hundred yards I stumbled against a dark mass which seemed to be an abrupt rise in the shoal. The side toward me was so steep that I was afraid to climb it, so I walked carefully around, wondering at its odd overhanging formation at the westerly end. At the southerly side it sloped away in a gentle declivity, which I mounted with ease.

NEW YORK CENTRAL.

Its Passenger Earnings, Including Controlled Lines, Excel the Pennsylvania—A Stupendous Showing.

The passenger department of the New York Central system, including lines leased, operated and controlled, east from St. Louis and Chicago, is the largest paying institution of its kind in the world. It beats the Pennsylvania system with its leased and operated lines in the territory named by $1,535,758, and is so far ahead of any other system that comparison, to say the least, is odious. Poor's Manual, which is an authority on railway statistics, in its last yearly edition showed the passenger earnings of thirty-six of the leading railways, as follows:

A HEART'S OUTPOURING.

There Was Something About Flavius That Was Somewhat Effluvious.

Pinkie Billmore sat with her face half averted from him.

In the young man's flushed cheek, trembling lip and agitated manner there were unmistakable signs of a coming outburst.

The emotions of an overcharged heart could be crushed down no longer.

Flavius Josephus Millsap was no stranger to the Billmore mansion. He pervaded it three or four evenings every week, as a rule, and oftener still as a frequent exception.

Everybody in the house, from the aged grandmother to the kitchen lady, knew he came to see Miss Pinkie.

Even Miss Pinkie knew it, despite the fact that he had never explicitly said so.

In like manner he knew she was perfectly willing for him to pervade the mansion, according to rule or exceptionally, though she had never actually expressed herself to that effect.

Yet she sat with her face half averted from him.

Such is the contradictory, tantalizing, exasperating habit of the young woman of all climes, kindreds, tongues, and periods of the world's history.

Young woman! Young woman! What an abject fool thou hast made of the worshiping young man from time immemorial, even when—but this is a digression.

"Pinkie"—the voice of Flavius Josephus Millsap again broke in upon the stillness—"you know what I want to say!"

"Yes," she replied, softly, "I know. You want to tell me that this style of wearing my hair isn't becoming to me. That's because you're not used to seeing it. When you become accustomed—"

"You know well enough it isn't that!"

"You want to ask me why I didn't acknowledge the receipt of that box of candy you sent me by a messenger boy. I did not know till after he had gone away that it had come from you, and I thought I would wait till I saw you—"

"You know well enough it isn't that, either."

"Then I'm sure—"

"Pinkie—"

He made a slight motion as if to take her hand.

But she still sat with her face half averted from him.

"Pinkie, why do you think I've been coming here for the last six months?"

"Seven months," she murmured.

This was not encouraging, on the face of it, but he went ahead:

"The fact of the matter is, Pinkie Billmore, I have been coming here because I can't keep away. Ever since I met you—I do—ever since I first met you I have known you are my fate! Dearest and best—"

She put up her hand.

"O, not now, Flavius. Not now!"

She still sat with her face half averted from him.

"Why not, Pinkie? Why not? What is the matter?"

"Flavius"—it was almost a sob—"have you been eating onions?"—Chicago Tribune.

Secretary Alger has a souvenir in his office in the shape of a Spanish cannon, which was taken from the quarters of the Spanish commandant at Fort Elias, Mariel, Cuba, last December. It is a queer-looking cast iron gun of ancient manufacture, and was presented to Maj. Hopkins, the secretary's military aid, by Col. Seyburn, of the Two Hundred and Second New York volunteers.

It is about two feet long, with a one-inch bore, and weighs about 100 pounds.

It is old and rusty, and like nearly all firearms captured from the Spanish, is worthless except as a souvenir.

The $20,000,000 due Spain by the terms of the treaty of peace were turned over to the Spanish government through the French ambassador, M. Cambon, on Monday morning, and were duly received for.

In spite of the fuss that has been stirred up by some newspapers that should know better, over Captain Coghlan's anti-German utterances at a club dinner, it is certain that President McKinley will not remove him from the command of the Raleigh. The letter of reprimand from the navy department will also be kept private. This is as it should be. For what reason should a brave officer be humiliated for exercising the right of free speech at a private banquet any more than other free born American citizens.

By the decision of the supreme court in the case instituted by Governor Pingree and the Tecumseh Telephone Co. against Auditor-General Dix for the purpose of obtaining a judicial construction on the law providing for the taxation of telephone and telegraph property, the Atkinson railroad taxation law falls through. The governor has won a case which he preferred to lose, and the Atkinson law must be replaced upon the statute books by one providing for taxation of railroad property on the basis of the company's earnings.

Judge Kinne's decision that the suits between Judson, Moran, Canfield and Allmendinger must be tried in this county is a good, sound, common sense decision. It is looked upon as such by the citizens of Washtenaw, whatever may be the feelings of the few who were particularly desirous of having a change of venue. The idea that a fair and impartial jury trial of these cases cannot be had in this county is an insult to every man who is eligible to be impaneled as a juror, especially when the jury panel is drawn by officials who are politically opposed to all parties concerned in the suits.

The three-mile limit law for saloons in college towns was knocked out in the senate Thursday by a vote of 18 to 9. Senator Charles A. Ward roasted the Anti-Saloon League, of Ann Arbor, who he claimed were back of the bill, and protested against the efforts of the league to make people good by law. The latter has always been found to be a hard thing to accomplish.

Must Be Tried Here.

Judge Kinne has denied the motion for a change of venue in the cases of William Judson vs. S. A. Moran, S. A. Moran vs. William Judson and Lester Canfield, and Lester Canfield vs. G. Frank Allmendinger. The reason given why such a change should be made was that Mr. Judson was such a great political power that he could impede the wheels of justice. In his opinion the judge said:

"I am not able to regard this matter with much anxiety or seriousness. I have no reason to think that the people of the county have any great interest or any knowledge of the issues involved in these litigations. I feel sure that counsel have exaggerated views as to the alleged public excitement or interest. These are personal controversies and outside of the particular friends of these parties, I think there is a manifest indifference in regard to all these suits.

"It may be true that Mr. Judson is a very active political leader, but no one, I think, would seriously claim that he holds the minds and consciences of the people of the county in thralldom. This is an age when men think and act for themselves, and the men who usually constitute the juries in this county, are not the minions or slaves of any man or set of men. They are remarkable for their intelligence, their freedom, and independence of thought and action."

The Baptist Association has been in session at the Baptist church yesterday and today. A number of ministers and others are in attendance.

COUNTY NEWS.

Munson L. Burkhardt opened up his ice cream parlors in the Kempf building on West Middle street, Saturday evening, in fine style. The Chelsea band furnished music galore and the parlors were full of customers all the evening.

Jacob Zang has moved his place of business to the store recently occupied by Fred Kautlehner. The store in the McKune block vacated by Mr. Zang is being fitted up for B. S. Rummel, of Jackson, who will occupy it as soon as it is refitted.

By the terms of the Humphrey bill, which has passed both houses of the legislature, druggists will be required to make a return every Monday, to the prosecuting attorney of their respective counties, showing the names of persons who, during the previous week, have purchased liquor of them and the quantity sold.

Reinhold Schacke, from Three Rivers, an experienced baker and confectioner, has purchased the bakery business lately conducted by L. M. Miller & Co., on West Middle street, and will continue the business in the same store. The building is to be fixed over and Mr. Schacke will then have an ice cream parlor in addition to the other business.

John W. Wallace died at his home on East street Saturday morning of chronic bladder and kidney trouble, from which he had suffered for a long time. He was 75 years old. The funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon, Rev. Wm. R. Northrup officiating. The interment was in Oak Grove cemetery. His wife and four daughters survive him.

The sixth annual May Festival of the University Musical Society will take place at University hall, Ann Arbor, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, May 11, 12 and 13. There will be a series of five concerts which will embrace a wide range of music. The array of eminent soloists is a strong one and is headed by the great soprano Mme. Sembrich. The Boston Festival orchestra of 50 men will furnish the instrumental music.

A correspondent to the Brighton Argus calls the attention of the public to the fact that the killing of crows is prohibited by Sec. 20, page 202, of the laws of 1897, it being an "insectivorous" bird. The Herald is not well enough posted in ornithology to know if the gentleman's assertion is correct or not, but presumes he is, and such being the case the doing away with the crow fund at the recent Sylvan town meeting was all right.

A reform in the management of the post office money order system is about to be promulgated. It will interest business men generally and recommends itself as being along the lines of true business principles. It will be the granting of the privilege of the payment of money orders at offices other than the one on which they are drawn. The only requirement being an identification such as is demanded by banks when paying a check to a stranger. Not all the country will at first be included in the scheme.

Judge H. Wirt Newkirk on Friday received a letter from Mrs. Sarah Jane Pearce, of Axminster, England, the natural daughter of Hermit James Richards, who was murdered in Superior, thanking him for securing for her her share of the murdered man's estate. In closing the letter she said: "I can hardly express adequately my appreciation for what you have done for me (although a perfect stranger) gratuitously. I trust you may be spared many years to continue your life of usefulness in the honorable position you occupy."

Herbert Leon Cope, impersonator, humorist, in his amusing, instructive and dramatic entertainments of character impersonations, dramatic and humorous recitals, will give an entertainment in the Congregational church Wednesday evening, May 10. Admission 10 and 20 cents. Speaking of him D. M. Goodyear, chairman of the lecture committee of Albion College, says: "Mr. Cope is one of the few entertainers who can satisfy the criticism of Albion audiences. His work on the college course this year was well received and his name upon a program here never fails to attract a large audience."

The members of Olive Chapter, No. 108, O. E. S., had a pleasant time last evening after the initiation of Miss Helen Steinbach and Miss Lizzie Hammond had taken place. The gentlemen members of the order had been appointed a committee to serve refreshments and they did so to the queen's taste. The service was full of surprises, and the desire of the gentlemen to get away from the trouble of washing dishes was particularly evident. The "lemonade" that was furnished was a revelation to lovers of that beverage and would put to shame the thinnest lot of circus lemonade that was ever brewed. For fear of the ill effects that might follow this unwonted dissipation a medicine case was handed round between the courses. Altogether a very pleasant time was spent by all.

North Lake.

Geo. Sly has sold his farm and will soon move to the Taylor farm in Webster.

Miss Rose Glenn is now at home with her parents after a six weeks' stay in Adrian.

W. G. Lewick, of Chelsea, has bought the farm of George Sly and will move on it soon.

Miss Lena Parshall, of Ann Arbor, was visiting and calling on relatives and friends here last week.

Mrs. Charles Crane, of Munith, and her daughter and grandson Mrs. Dancer, of Mason, and little Clare Dancer, were visiting relatives here for a day or two the last of the week.

It seems that more than the usual number of artists are around this spring. Portrait painters. The most fault found with some of their pictures is that the pictures look so like the subject and in consequence are not good looking enough.

W. H. Glenn visited his old friend George Cooke in Chelsea on Saturday, and was pleased to find him cheerful and lively though thin in flesh. There is one thing in his favor. If thin in flesh the warm days of spring can't melt him, and we hope to greet his pleasant smile many times in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Vines, of Howell, were here on Sunday looking well and happy.

Mrs. W. H. Glenn has a hen that laid an egg that is quite a curiosity. In measurement it is four inches around the long way and two inches the other way. It is three-quarters of an inch through and two inches in length.

On a pleasant evening of last week P. W. Watts, who was once a worthy granger here—hadn't yet fallen from grace, it had rather fallen from him—strolled into the old hall to be wedded again to his old love. All went well through the initiation, the old goat, about as frisky as usual, making the subject's head a little unsteady by his short tuss. Watts thought it best to put in the small remainder of the night at his sister's across the road, for which place he made without loss of time, his mind still trying to stow away the information received in the earlier part of the evening. On arriving at the house he found the door he usually enters locked and noticing another to the left, his mind still preoccupied, he opened it and stepped off into the outside cellar way off the stoop, and what immediately followed deponent sayeth not, and isn't quite clear as to which of the many bruises on his anatomy he got at the hall or in the cellar. Watts is willing to take it all for a thorough initiation, and is ready to sympathize with the next fellow taken in. He says he never back slid from anything so soon. He was laid up two or three days but is all right again now.

Manchester.

Mrs. R. M. Teeter and son, Herbert, drove to Napoleon Sunday to visit her uncle, Thomas Rushton.

Mrs. J. E. Teeter and daughter, Mrs. May Hoxsie, attended the meeting of the Baptist Association at Chelsea this week.

The entertainment given Monday evening by the grammar and intermediate rooms, netted about $15, which will be spent in books for the rooms.

The remains of Mrs. Millen, of Wolf Lake, were brought here Tuesday for burial. She lived here many years and had numerous warm friends who will regret her death.

Mr. Essery, who has been the efficient superintendent of schools here, the past seven years, has tendered his resignation. Nearly every pupil in the high school signed their names to a petition asking that he might remain. He was very pleasantly surprised on a recent evening when about 30 young ladies and gentlemen, a small percentage of the classes of '93 to '98, met at his home and presented him with a beautiful picture. He was too deeply touched to respond when called on for a speech.

The annual sale of lands for taxes in this county which was to have been held Tuesday has been put over for one year through an informality in making out the tax record. Owing to the failure of the register of the court to carry out in the tax record, under the head "Amount decreed against land," the total amount of taxes, interest and charges as fixed by the court, before the decree was signed by Judge Kinne, the decree is null and void. On Monday afternoon, acting on the petition of Mrs. Lucy D. S. Parker, Judge Kinne issued an order setting aside the sale on these grounds.

The heavens even shared in the spirit of the occasion and sent volley after volley of cannonading accompanied by a gorgeous display of fireworks. The hostess, by way of a surprise, invited all to the dining room, which had been beautifully decorated with the national colors and flowers, to partake of cool and "Dewey" refreshments, which disappeared under the electric light "as dew before the morning sun." Vive la, Mme. Wood.

IN THE MISSIONARY FIELD

Many Students and Graduates of the University of Michigan Are Doing Noble Work.

LARGER PORTION ARE IN FOREIGN LANDS

The Volunteer Band Is an Inner Circle Composed of Those Who Have Offered Themselves for Service—The Various Fields in Which Workers Are Doing Good Service.

[Special Correspondence.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 26.—Over 100 students and graduates of the University of Michigan have gone into the field as missionaries. By far the larger portion have gone to foreign lands—to Africa, Turkey, India, China and Japan. Some, however, have been sent to the Indians in the western and southwestern part of the United States, and others are working among the colored people of the south.

Study Medicine.

As a general rule students preparing for missionary work enter the medical department of the university, although when it is possible they take a literary degree before specializing in medicine and surgery. The reason for becoming doctors before missionaries is that the person who can minister to the physical life as well as the spiritual is more likely to be successful. If the missionary is able to heal the heathen's bodily ills he is insured of an audience when he wishes to prescribe for spiritual ailments.

Students' Volunteer Band.
Existing among the students of the of the university has at two different times sent out missionaries. The first was James S. Grant, who went to Ningpo, China, and the second Oscar Roberts. Mr. Roberts went to Botonga, West Africa. Mrs. Leonora Howard King, who graduated from the medical department with the class of '76, is attending physician to Lady Li (Mrs. Li Hung Chang) at Tien-Tsin, China.

Are in China.

Ida Kahn and Meigii Shie are two Chinese girls who completed their education at the University of Michigan and have returned to China as missionaries. They were both graduated as doctor of medicine with the class of '96. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. King are two other missionaries working in China. They are at Peking as instructors in the Peking university.

Home on Vacations.

Among those who are home on vacations are Frank A. Waples and Virginia C. Murdock. Mr. Waples was graduated from the literary department of the university in 1889 and the medical in 1893. He was at Kalgan, China, until about a year ago. He is now at Battle Creek, Mich., and expects to return to China before long.

Miss Murdock was made a doctor of medicine in 1879, and since then has been laboring in Kalgan and Peking, China. Owing to poor health she has been spending the past winter in the United States. She expects to return to the foreign field this spring.

Act Authorizing Acquisition of Street Railroads May Have Been Made Defective in Engraving.

The discovery of an alleged flaw in the McLeod act authorizing acquisition by the city of Detroit of the street railways has raised another point

HELD BY THE REBELS.

Dewey Sends Information of the Yorktown's Crew.

Gilmore and Ten of His Fellows Are Prisoners—Fear That the Rest May Be Dead—Insurgent Envoys Return with New Proposals.

Washington, May 2.—The following cablegram has been received from Admiral Dewey:

"Manila, 30.—Secretary Navy, Washington: Apparently reliable information ten of the Yorktown boat crew, including Gilmore, are prisoners at insurgent headquarters. Am continuing investigation. (Signed) "DEWEY."

Fear Some Were Killed.

Inasmuch as there were 15 members of the Yorktown party captured by the Filipinos at Baler, and Admiral Dewey accounts for only ten of them, it is feared that the other five have been killed. They probably were killed or fatally wounded in the original assault upon the landing party at Baler. The identity of the members of the party still unaccounted for is not known. A telegram was sent to Admiral Dewey Monday asking him to inform the department, if possible, of the names of the men known to be in the hands of the Filipinos. It is accepted at the department that the reason that he has not already furnished the names, with the exception of that of Gilmore, in his dispatch of yesterday's date, was because he did not have the information. The insurgent headquarters where Admiral Dewey says the men are held prisoners is supposed to be San Fernando, but there is no assurance on that point.

Bring New Propositions.

Manila, May 2.—The insurgent commissioners who left Manila Saturday have returned here from the insurgent army with new propositions.

Seeks an Exchange.

Manila, May 2.—Gen. MacArthur has sent officers to Gen. Antonio Luna, the Filipino commander, under a flag of truce, carrying money and provisions for American prisoners in his hands, and asking an exchange of prisoners and the names of such as he may have. It is reported that the insurgents have two officers and 16 others; and it is supposed that among these are Lieut. J. C. Gilmore and 11 men of the crew of the United States gunboat Yorktown, who fell into the hands of the Filipinos last month when the gunboat visited Baler, on the east coast of Luzon.

Lawton Advancing.

Maj. Gen. Lawton is advancing. He has organized a band of 40 scouts to go ahead of the column. The band, which is under W. M. Young, an old Indian fighter, who killed five Filipinos last week, includes Diamond, Harrington, Somerfield and Murphy, of the Second Oregon regiment.

Maj. Bell, with a squad of scouts, has captured the town of Macababe, about four miles southwest of Calumpit, the people ringing bells and shouting "Vivas." The American army is now employing Macabebes, instead of Chinamen, and they are delighted to get 50 cents a day, declaring their loyalty to the Americans.

Dispatch from Otis.

Washington, May 2.—The following is the dispatch of Gen. Otis announcing the disappearance of Capt. Rockefeller:

"Manila, May 1.—Adjutant General, Washington: Capt. Rockefeller, Ninth Infantry, missing since 28th ult., on line commanding battalion near Calocan; visited outposts 9:30 p. m.; not seen since. Diligent search made that night two miles to front; nothing discovered, no enemy in front. Search prosecuted ever since without success. Private papers in his possession found 29th ult. 2 1/2 miles to front; belief lost course and captured."

WESTERNERS MUST UNITE.

Unless They Do So, Mr. Sherman, of New York, Is Likely to Capture the Speakership.

Washington, May 2.—Representative Dolliver, of Iowa, who is pushing Gen. Henderson for speaker of the house of representatives to succeed Mr. Reed, in an interview said that Mr. Sherman, of New York, in his opinion, would win unless the western congressmen united on a candidate, and that, consequently, when he reached Chicago shortly he would suggest to Representative Hopkins, of Illinois, and other western candidates that the western men enter into an agreement to vote for the western speakership candidate receiving the highest number of votes on the first ballot.

Chicago, May 2.—Congressman A. J. Hopkins has the united pledged support of the republican congressmen from Illinois in his candidacy for speaker of the national house of representatives. At a caucus of ten of the Illinois delegation, held at the Grand Pacific hotel Monday, it was unanimously voted to back up Mr. Hopkins.

Comes Back with a Fortune.

Ottumwa, Ia., May 2.—Charles A. Walsh, secretary of the democratic national committee, who has for the last year been digging gold in the Klondike, has arrived in Seattle en route home. From letters he has written it is believed here he has cleaned up between $50,000 and $100,000 during the winter. He has been publishing the Klondike Miner and Yukon Advertiser at Dawson City.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

Daily Summary of the Work Done by the Lawmakers in the Senate and House.

Lansing, Mich., April 26.—The house committee on railroads yesterday reported a substitute for the several bills providing for the repeal of all the existing special railroad charters, especially that of the Michigan Central. The substitute creates a commission to negotiate with the companies for the surrender of their charters and to report not later than November next, the report to be submitted by the governor to a special session of the legislature or to the next regular session. A fight will be made for the repeal of the Michigan Central charter, and all the separate bills and the substitute were made the special order for to-day.

Lansing, Mich., April 27.—In the senate bills have been passed amending Port Huron and Jackson charters, and repealing six-year limit on personal taxes.

Lansing, Mich., April 28.—Speaker Adams addressed the house yesterday on the necessity of enacting a law under which all property will be assessed on an equal basis. He advocated the appointment of a joint committee to ascertain the market value of all railroad property in the state, the market and assessed value of all other taxable property, real and personal, and the total amount of taxes it pays. He advised that after completing the work now in hand the legislature take a recess until the first Wednesday in January next, at which time it shall receive the report of the joint committee and proceed to enact the necessary legislation. The Dudley bill, directing the secretary of state, treasurer and railroad commissioner to negotiate with the Michigan Central and Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway companies for the surrender of their special charters, was passed by a vote of 53 to 39.

Lansing, Mich., April 29.—In the senate yesterday the following appointments were received from the governor: James Russell, of Marquette, state commissioner of mineral statistics, to succeed George A. Newell, of Ishpeming, for the term of two years; Sanford N. Dutcher, of Newberry, and Charles T. Fairbairn, of Ishpeming, trustees of the upper peninsula asylum for the insane, for terms of six years. Bills have been passed providing that a widow's dower shall include her funeral expenses in case she dies before the settlement of her husband's estate; providing that trustees for homes for aged and infirm shall be required to file justification for their own responsibility instead of giving bonds; to provide for a forestry commission; to suspend from practice physicians guilty of malpractice or habitual drunkenness; to provide for the better support of teachers' institutes; changing name of Central Michigan normal to central state normal; giving county surveyors a lien on the land they survey; placing loan societies under the act of 1877 under the supervision of the banking commissioner; providing that paper poor shall become county charges after a period of two years on vote of supervisors; providing that stockholders in burying ground associations who fail to pay their assessments shall forfeit their rights in said association. In the house yesterday the Hammond anti-trust bill was on the order of third reading, but action was postponed because of an opinion rendered by Attorney-General Oren, which will result in the bill's being amended. Bills appropriating $75,000 for the eastern asylum and $160,000 for the college of mines, and prohibiting the killing of moose and elk, were passed. The vote whereby it concurred in the senate amendments to the bill repealing the closed fishing season law was reconsidered, thus renewing the controversy that has waged all session between the two houses over the matter.

Lansing, Mich., May 1.—Bills have been passed in the senate to prohibit wild fowl shooting from any steam launch in Black river and Black River lake, Ottawa county; amending the charter of Flint; for the protection of miners; appropriating $160,000 for the mining school; reenacting the old law relating to fees of county treasurers. In the house bills have been passed providing for the appointment of a commission to negotiate terms for the repeal of the special charters now held by different railroads; to prohibit the shooting of wild fowl on Black River lake and Black river; amending the charter of Flint; changing the name of fractional district No. 2, Plymouth and Novi townships, Wayne and Oakland counties, to fractional district No. 1, Northville and Novi townships.

Gov. Pingree has signed the bill providing for a new state normal school at Marquette.

Killed Himself.

South Bend, Ind., May 2.—Howell T. Morgan, returning from Port Valdes, Alaska, to Bayonne, N. J., killed himself about two miles west of South Bend while on a Grand Trunk train Monday. He had been in Alaska about one year and lost all the money he had. The dead man was supposed to be of unsound mind, as his sons, David and Edward, who accompanied him, state that he had been acting queer since they left Alaska.

Indian Troubles in Canada.

Montreal, May 2.—A report has reached here via Cornwall, Ont., that a posse of Dominion police visited the St. Regis Indian reservation early Monday morning under command of Chief Shearwood, to arrest the ringleaders in the election trouble there about a month ago. It is said one man was killed. Twelve were arrested. Further trouble is expected. The American Indians it is feared will take part in the trouble.

Would Like to Be Senator.

Detroit, Mich., May 1.—Secretary Alger, being asked whether he will be a candidate before the next Michigan legislature for United States senator, to succeed Senator McMillan, replied: "I will say frankly that I did think that if the state should see fit to send me to the senate I would appreciate the honor, but after all my state has done for me I shall not enter into any scramble for it."

Files His Answer.

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—Attorney Speed, for the street railway commission, Monday filed the answer of the commission to the injunction proceedings brought by the citizens' committee, which is opposing municipal acquirement and operation of street railways. No date has as yet been set for argument of the case.

THE UNIVERSITY MEDICAL BUILDING.

university interested in missionary work is the Students' Volunteer band. This is an inner circle composed of those who have offered themselves for the mission field. They meet as often as convenient and discuss missionary matters. In this way each is able to better prepare himself or herself for the work, and by the time he or she graduates a certain amount of knowledge along missionary lines has been secured as well as a collegiate education. The band was organized many years ago and has sent forth not a few men and women who have done noble work in the missionary field. In 1898 five members of the band completed their university careers, and of these four were in the mission field before Christmas and the fifth will sail as soon as he is assigned to a station.

Where They Are.

Of those who have gone to foreign fields 25 have gone to China, 15 to India, ten to Turkey, nine to Africa, eight to Japan and smaller numbers to Mexico, Corea, Arabia, South America and the islands of the Pacific. There is at the present time, so far as is known, 27 Michigan alumni in the foreign field. Fifteen, or over one-half of the 27, are in China, three in India, two in Turkey, two in Africa and the rest in other parts of the world.

Founded a Hospital.

Among the first Michigan graduates to go into the field was Tillman C. Trowbridge, who graduated from the literary department in 1852. He founded the missionary hospital at Aintab, Turkey, which has proved a flattering success. His daughter came to America for her collegiate education, spending the year of 1886-87 at the University of Michigan. She has also been engaged in missionary work.

Was in Singapore.

Rev. J. C. Floyd, pastor of the First M. E. church of Grand Rapids, Mich., was a missionary at Singapore straits settlement for a time. He was graduated from the literary department with the class of '76. Rev. Scott Williams, after being graduated in 1883, went to Chili and spent the years from 1884 to 1888. In 1893 he was sent to Mexico, where he is now laboring.

In Japan for Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Buckley, both graduates of the university, were in Japan for six years from 1886 to 1892. Mrs. Buckley was professor of apologetics at Doshisha college at Kyoto. Mrs. Buckley was connected with the hospital at Kyoto as a medical missionary. Both were under the auspices of the American board of commissioners of foreign missions.

Sent Out Workers.

The Students' Christian association against municipal ownership. The engrossed bill does not contain a clause which was in the original—viz.: providing that nothing in the act shall affect the granting of franchises by the city council. Gov. Pingree says the omission of this clause is of no consequence, but the attorneys of the Citizens' company assert that the alleged discrepancy is a strong point in the proceedings they are about to bring to test the act.

The Boy Had Grit.

Alex. McLaurin, a 15-year-old boy, whose home is in Olivet, showed up at the industrial school in Lansing and asked to be taken in. He had walked all the way from Olivet, 30 miles, for the purpose of entering the school. He claimed to have been ill cared for at home, his mother having the care of nine other children, his father living in Detroit. Of course, the boy's desire was not granted, and he started to walk home with a determination to be sent to the school in a legal manner.

Doing Good Work.

The report of the state live stock sanitary commission, which has been filed with Gov. Pingree, says the present laws are the most effective ever placed upon the statute books of any state, and that after 14 years' experience under those laws, Michigan presents to the world a sanitary condition of the domestic animals equaled by few states, and surpassed by none. During the past year the general health of all animals in Michigan had been good.

Gang Broken Up.

James Buckner, a young lad who burglarized Hagelschacht's grocery store in Battle Creek, has been sentenced by Judge Smith to one year in Ionia. His pal was sent to the reform school for boys at Lansing. This breaks up a gang of dime novel reading boys, who have been committing all sorts of depredations in this city from petty larceny to breaking into suburban stores.

Used Dynamite.

An attempt was made to wreck the residence of a farmer named Davison, who resides south of Millington. A stick of dynamite was exploded under the front veranda, which was blown to pieces, and the house damaged to the extent of $500. The Davison family were asleep when the outrage was perpetrated.

All Work Warranted.

A newly-elected justice of the peace in Hillsdale county has issued cards as follows: "Marriages solemnized promptly and accurately with ceremony plain and fee legal; five per cent. off for cash. Elopements a specialty. Night calls answered without extra charge. All work guaranteed."

PARSNIP COMPLEXION.

A majority of the ills afflicting people today can be traced to kidney trouble. It pervades all classes of society, in all climates, regardless of age, sex or condition.

The fallow, colorless-looking people you often meet are afflicted with "kidney complexion." Their kidneys are turning to a parsnip color, so is their complexion. They may suffer from indigestion, bloating, sleeplessness, uric acid, gravel, dropsy, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, or irregular heart. You may depend upon it, the cause is weak, unhealthy kidneys.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble and both need the same remedy. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, will build up and strengthen weak and unhealthy kidneys, purify the diseased, kidney-poisoned blood, clear the complexion and soon help the sufferer to better health.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

A Terrific Flood.
Great damage has been done by a big rush of ice, water and logs on the Escanaba river. Piers, booms, part of a dam and half of a sawmill were carried away. Two hundred and fifty feet of the embankment on the north branch was also swept out into the bay. Such a terrific flood has not been known in years. The jam started 50 miles up the river from Escanaba and came down that distance in about 12 hours, sweeping everything before it. The state road bridge was also carried away.

Quick Justice.
John E. Knapp, a bookkeeper in Port Huron, was given an understanding of the swiftness of justice. He is alleged to have embezzled $840 from his employer in the morning, was arrested in Chicago during the evening and 12 hours after his flight from Port Huron was on his way back in charge of a sheriff. The arrest took place at the Columbia theater between the acts. The officers caught sight of Knapp as he was going to a box, summoned him outside and arrested him.

A Terrible Death.
Clyde Barnes, aged 21 years, a line-man for the Lowell Electric company, was killed in Lowell while working on the Grand Rapids line. He had just raised a pole to position and climbed a ladder to adjust the wires, when he grasped a live wire. He received a shock that caused him to fall across a number of others. Death was nearly instantaneous, and before the current could be turned off and the body removed it was burned to a crisp. Barnes was unmarried.

Wheat Winter-Killed.
The United States weather and crop bulletin issued by Director Schneider says:

The weather has been favorable for wheat, rye and grass; wheat has greened up considerably, and now shows that the hard winter and poor snow covering caused much damage. Considerable wheat was winter-killed, and in the southern counties some farmers are plowing it up for other crops. Rye is in generally good condition and has suffered little during the winter.

Health in Michigan.
Reports to the state board of health from 63 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended April 22 indicate that erysipelas and measles increased and consumption decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 137 places, measles at 63, typhoid fever at 16, scarlet fever at 43, diphtheria at 13, whooping cough at 13 places and smallpox at 3 places.

Shattered by Dynamite.
Unknown parties placed dynamite under the farmhouse of George Davidson, living near Millington, and the house was shattered by the explosion, but Mr. Davidson and his family escaped injury. Davidson recently bought the farm at a mortgage sale. A bitter feeling was aroused against him by some of his neighbors at the time.

Died Friendless.
Mrs. Taylor, aged 84 years, was found dead in her bed at her home in Benton Harbor. Mrs. Taylor was once wealthy, but her son-in-law, it is claimed, spent her money and left her a charge on the city. The woman was formerly from Philadelphia, and was a graduate of a medical college. A costly wardrobe of old times was found in the house.

Fifteen Buildings Burned.
The entire village of Croton was swept by fire that originated in the hotel, burning 15 buildings, including the post office. Loss, $60,000, with small insurance. Croton is the oldest village in Newaygo county, and in early days was a prosperous trading point.

News Items Briefly Told.
The outlook for peaches this season is becoming brighter around South Haven.

Gov. Pingree has signed the bill raising the salary of the state game warden to $2,000 and creating the office of chief deputy at $1,500, and it is now a law and in full effect.

Franchises are now being secured for another electric railroad in Wayne county. It is proposed to run a line from Detroit to Belleville, passing through Taylor Center and Romulus.

The American Glass Beveling company notified its 100 employees in Grand Haven of a ten per cent. increase in wages, to take effect May 1.

Domestic troubles and disappointed love caused Miss Carrie Hangsterfer, daughter of the proprietor of a meat market in Big Rapids, to take her own life.

Wheat throughout southern Wayne county is in worse condition than it has been for years. Hundreds of acres are being plowed under and sown to oats.

The men have resumed work at the Tamarack and Osceola stamp mills in Calumet, the mine management having agreed to their demands for a straight ten per cent. raise.

George Greer, a farmer, was killed by lightning at Gladwin. His body was found in a field near a pasture lot after the storm subsided.

Abolish the Death Penalty.
At Albany the law-makers are wrangling over the abolition of the death penalty. The man who succeeds in passing such a bill will prove as great a benefactor to the breaker of man's laws as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has to the breaker of nature's laws. If you've neglected your stomach until indigestion, constipation, biliousness, liver and kidney troubles are upon you there's but one cure—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Don't fail to try it. All druggists sell it.

The English of It.
"You Americans call things by such queer names," said the Englishman.
"What's wrong now?" asked the New Yorker.
"Why call these things elevators, when they take people down as often as they take them up?"
"Well, what do you call them in your country?"
"We call them lifts."
"Well, I can't see that the word lift expresses their use any better than elevator."
"Oh, yes, it does. Don't you know you can lift persons down as well as lift them up?"
—Yonkers Statesman.

Did you make your Grain-O this way?
Here are the latest directions: Use one tablespoonful of Grain-O to two cups of cold water. Mix the Grain-O with half an egg and add the water. (Be sure to measure.) After the water gets to the boiling point let boil for fifteen to twenty minutes. Use cream and sugar to suit the taste. If you have not cream use hot milk.
A lady said: "The first time I drank Grain-O I did not like it, but after using it for ten days and forming the habit, nothing would induce me to go back to coffee." This is the experience of all. If you will follow directions, measure it every time and make it the same, and try it for ten days, you will not go back to coffee.

Burglary in the Future.
"Curse me luck!" hissed the burglar, and fled into the night. Bear in mind, if you please, that all crime was now disease, merely, and all diseases the work of germs. The burglar perceived, in the cellar window where he tried to enter, one of the latest electric automatic spraying devices, and endeavored to avoid it. But fortune was against him. A click in the dark, and almost before he knew it he was drenched with germicide and cured of his malady.—Detroit Journal.

Ask Your Friends About It.
Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 25c and 50c. Sample bottle free.

ALABASTINE
LABASTINE is the original and only durable wall coating, entirely different from all kalsomines. Ready for use in white or twelve beautiful tints by adding cold water.

ADIES naturally prefer ALABASTINE for walls and ceilings, because it is pure, clean, durable. Put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions.

LL kalsomines are cheap, temporary preparations made from whitening, chalks, clays, etc., and stuck on walls with decaying animal glue. ALABASTINE is not a kalsomine.

BEWARE of the dealer who says he can sell you the "same thing" as ALABASTINE or "something just as good." He is either not posted or is trying to deceive you.

ND IN OFFERING something he has bought cheap and tries to sell on ALABASTINE's demands, he may not realize the damage you will suffer by a kalsomine on your walls.

ENSURE dealers will not buy a lawsuit. Dealers risk one by selling and consumers by using infringement. Alabastine Co. own right to make wall coating to mix with cold water.

HE INTERIOR WALLS of every schoolhouse should be coated only with pure, durable ALABASTINE. It safeguards health. Hundreds of tons are used annually for this work.

N BUYING ALABASTINE, see that packages are properly labeled. Beware of large four-pound package light kalsomine, offered to customers as a five-pound package.

USEANCE of wall paper is obviated by ALABASTINE. It can be used on plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick or canvas. A child can brush it on. It does not rub or scale off.

ESTABLISHED in favor. Shun all imitations. Ask paint dealer or druggist for tint card. Write for "Alabastine Era," free, to ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Michigan.
