CHELSEA'S QUIET FOURTH

It Was Lively Enough at Other Places in the Vicinity.

THE YPSILANTI FIREWORKS

WERE PREMATURELY DISCHARGED BY A SPARK IGNITING THEM WHEN THE DISPLAY WAS ONLY HALF OVER.—SEVERAL PEOPLE WERE INJURED.

The usually busy streets of Chelsea presented somewhat the appearance of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" on Tuesday. There was no celebration of Independence Day here and a general exodus of our people took place. All the places of business were closed and the merchants and clerks enjoyed a whole day's rest from business. Many went to Ypsilanti's diamond celebration, and more went to Detroit, Grass Lake and Stockbridge, while scores who did not care for those kinds of celebrations went off to Cavanaugh, North and other lakes. A cannon could have been fired along Main street at almost any time during the afternoon without any danger of hitting either man or beast. It was a quiet Fourth for Chelsea. On Monday evening after the stores were closed a lively fusillade of Roman candles, rockets, etc., was kept up till nearly midnight. On the evening of the Fourth many who remained at home had very pretty displays of fireworks on their lawns.

At Ann Arbor the German societies of the city held their annual picnic at Relief Park and listened to a highly patriotic address by W. Reichmann, of Grand Rapids.

At Ypsilanti an immense crowd of people gathered and the program of sports was successfully carried out until the fireworks end of it in the evening. Twelve thousand people had gathered in the park to witness the display which was really brilliant. When about half the program was over, a spark ignited an oiled cloth near where the fireworks lay, and in a few moments rockets and Roman candles began going off in all directions. Then ensued a mad rush of people to get out of the way of the flying fireworks and many people were crushed and trampled on while a number of others were hurt by the exploding fireworks. The infant child of D. Hosmer will probably die as the result of its injuries. A little girl named Gertrude Allford, aged 7 years, was also burned to death during the day by reason of her clothes taking fire from firecrackers. The parade and speeches in the morning were fine.

At Whitmore Lake St. Thomas' Catholic church, of Ann Arbor, had a most successful picnic and netted a nice sum for the building fund of the new church. A fine program was rendered in the afternoon, Rev. L. P. Goldrick presiding over the ceremonies. Speeches were made by Senator George Monaghan, of Detroit, and Senator C. A. Ward, of Ann Arbor. The Fourth of July celebration at Grass Lake was attended by many people from Chelsea. It was a success in every particular. The business men's parade was a fine affair. Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer, of Ann Arbor, was the orator of the day, and made a most excellent speech. But one serious accident occurred during the day. A son of A. W. Dwell was struck by a baseball and rendered unconscious. It is believed he will recover.

The celebration at Stockbridge was a success. There was a parade in the morning, followed by an eloquent and patriotic address by Rev. C. S. Jones, of Chelsea, a program of sports in the afternoon and a baseball game between Chelsea and Stockbridge in which the former came out victorious by a score of 12 to 6.

How to Make Good Roads.

The Southern Washtenaw Farmers' Club at a recent meeting held at the home of C. M. Fellows in Saline township, adopted the following resolutions on the subject of "Good Roads," after the question had been thoroughly discussed by the club:

"Resolved that it is the sense of this club that the road tax should be paid in money, collected the same as other taxes, and expended for road purposes under the direction of four district overseers in each township, such overseers to be appointed by the township board and to give bonds for the honest expenditure of all moneys placed in their hands.

"Resolved that such overseers shall give all persons liable for taxes in their districts the preference of employment to the extent of their tax if such work shall be equally efficient as done by other workmen."

FAILURES DIMINISH.

Records Show Them to Be Fewer in Number and Reduced in Amounts.

New York, July 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Failures for the second quarter of 1899 have been 2,080 in number, against 3,055 last year, with liabilities of $20,259,000, against $36,602,252 last year, and for the first half of 1899 failures were 4,852, against 6,766 last year, with liabilities of $48,711,000, against $71,246,783 last year. Nearly half of the June failures are due to one failure, not strictly commercial, covering some banking concerns, a promoter and a railway equipment company for $5,136,000, in essential features a loan and trust concern. With it banking failures amount to $6,436,000 for the half year, leaving for commercial failures $42,275,053, against $67,444,639 last year. Manufacturing were $16,900,000 for the half year, against $30,765,144 last year, and trading were $23,000,000, against $32,556,626 last year.

"The demand for iron and steel seems to have no limit. Scarcity of pig has raised the price a dollar per ton for local coke at Chicago, $1.10 to $1.75 for Bessemer at Pittsburgh, and $1.75 to $1.75 for grey forge and 75 cents to $1.25 for anthracite No. 1 at Philadelphia, with some iron selling above these quotations at all points for early delivery. The continuing demand, in spite of rising prices, astonishes everybody.

"Another industry passes all records, boot and shoe shipments from the east 400,813 cases, exceeding those in any other month of any year for four weeks, and the demands for speedy delivery show enormous distribution in all directions. New orders are large, and several months ahead."

Bradstreet's says: "Though seasonably quieter in many lines, the strength of the general business situation remains apparently unabated, and the half year closes with the commercial and financial community contemplating very satisfactory returns in the recent past, and manifesting a tone of cheerful confidence regarding the outlook for the last half of 1899. In the volume of business done the first half of 1899 will certainly rank higher than the best hitherto experienced, and the notable rise in prices which was such a feature of the past spring, has done much to reconcile traders to the admittedly small margins of profits which modern business operations tend toward making permanent. Touching this matter, it might be added that staple prices to-day are in a majority of instances well above quotations ruling for some years past, the general level, in fact, being the highest since early in 1893. In some instances, of course, notably in iron and steel, recent advances have brought the level of prices well above anything reported since 1892, though it is to be remarked that much of the business done in that industry this spring was at old levels, the most sanguine observers in this line having failed to accurately gauge the real proportions of the late advances. That the transportation interests have shared to a large degree in the business resulting from several years of large crops and active demand is proved by the current good returns the best probably reported so far this year, and indicating a progressive gain over all previous records for the six months, notwithstanding the steadily lowering rates of transportation. There is little in the immediate outlook that can be construed as unfavorable."

ATTACK THE NEGROES.

White Miners at Cartersville, Ill., Fire a Volley at Train Laden with Colored People—Woman Killed.

Murphysboro, Ill., July 1.—At nine o'clock Friday morning Conductor William Bryan's train, on the Johnson City branch of the Illinois Central, bearing 47 negro miners from Pana, was shot into by a crowd of miners at Lawder, in Williamson county. One negro woman was killed by a bullet through her heart. The negroes were brought by Sam T. Brush, superintendent of the St. Louis and Big Muddy mines, near Cartersville, to work in his mine, where there is now a strike. The miners, 50 in number, were armed with rifles and were hidden in the grass behind the country depot. When the train stopped the leader, who was an Italian, got on the platform and commanded the negroes to get out. Conductor Bryan interfered, but was stopped by a revolver in his face. The train began to move and the miners poured in a withering fire. Conductor Bryan yelled to the negroes to throw themselves on the floor. All escaped serious wounds save the woman, who was killed instantly. Half a mile further and the negroes were unladen and placed under charge of guards. They were then marched to the mine. Intense excitement prevails in the Cartersville coal field and bloody riots are expected, as the feeling has been intense for weeks.

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—Secretary Ryan, of the United Mine Workers of America, has received a message from Thomas Jeremiah, of Cartersville, saying that the negroes there are setting fire to the houses of the union miners, and urging the secretary to come at once. He left on an early morning train.

DEATH OF MRS. SOUTHWORTH.

The Famous Novelist Expires at Her Home in Washington in Her Seventy-Ninth Year.

Washington, July 1.—Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, the authoress, died at her residence in this city at 8:30 o'clock Friday night after an illness of several weeks. About a month ago Mrs. Southworth was prostrated by the heat and the infirmity of advanced age. Being in her seventy-ninth year, rendering her unable to recuperate from the attack, she grew rapidly worse, until a few days since it was seen death was inevitable. She was attended by her son, Dr. Southworth. She had lived for many years a retired life in a picturesque mansion of the old-fashioned type, located on a hill in West Washington, overlooking the Potomac and the hills of Virginia.

"He That Stays Does the Business."

All the world admires "staying power." On this quality success depends. The blood is the best friend the heart has. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best friend the blood ever had; cleanses it of everything, gives perfect health and strength.

Wise Hen.

A duck which had faithfully stuck to business during the summer and laid several dozens of large fawn-colored eggs complained that she wasn't appreciated. "See that hen over there," said the duck, "she hasn't laid as many eggs as I have, nor as big, but she has books written about her and verses composed in her honor, while nobody is saying a word about me." "The trouble with you is," said a wise rooster that was standing near, "that you don't tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle off without saying a word, but that sister of mine never lays one without letting everybody in the neighborhood know it. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must learn to advertise."—Boyce's Hunter.

A Left-Handed Admission.

Three citizens—one a lawyer, one a doctor and one a newspaper man—sat in a back room recently in the gray light of the early dawn. On the table were many empty bottles and a couple of packs of cards. As they sat in silence a rat scurried across the hearth into the darkness beyond. The three men shifted their feet and looked at each other uneasily. After a long pause the lawyer spoke. "I know what you fellows are thinking," he said; "you think I thought I saw a rat, but I didn't!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Thirty Cents

Cash or stamps will get you a fine battle-field map or deck of most beautiful scenic playing cards. Address, W. E. Conklyn, N. W. P. A., C. & O. Ry., 234 Clark, Chicago.

Logic.

"You are wanted around the corner," exclaimed the citizen, confidently. The policeman laughed aloud. "I know better," he replied. "When I am wanted I can't be found. Since I have been found, I can't possibly be wanted!" Here we see how important after all it is to understand something of the formal or scholastic logic which it has become the fashion of modern science to sneer at.—Detroit Journal.

An Idea.

Fenderson has got an idea. He says he knows now why salt codfish is salt. Because it comes from the salt water. It is more than he can understand, however, why all the other salt water fish are not salt.—Boston Transcript.

Lane's Family Medicine.

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

I have used Pilo's Cure for Consumption both in my family and practice.—Dr. G. W. Patterson, Inkster, Mich., Nov. 5, 1894.

Era of Amity.

As we understand it, in the millennium not only will the lion and the lamb lie down together, but women will probably quit kissing each other when they meet on the street.—Detroit Journal.

Full of Music.

First Cat—You appear to be rather musical to-night.

Is taken Internally. Price 75c.

Some people are loyal in the way that a gadfly is loyal to a horse.—Acheson Globe.

What a Little Faith Did FOR MRS. ROCKWELL.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 69,884]

"I was a great sufferer from female weakness and had no strength. It was impossible for me to attend to my household duties. I had tried everything and many doctors, but found no relief.

"My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did; before using all of one bottle I felt better. I kept on with it and to my great surprise I am cured. All who suffer from female complaints should give it a trial."—Mrs. ROCKWELL, 1209 S. DIVISION ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

From a Grateful Newark Woman.

"When I wrote to you I was very sick, had not been well for two years. The doctors did not seem to help me, and one said I could not live three months. I had womb trouble, falling ulcers, kidney and bladder trouble. There seemed to be such a drawing and burning pain in my bowels that I could not rest anywhere. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash and following your advice, I feel well again and stronger than ever. My bowels feel as if they had been made over new. With many thanks for your help, I remain, L. G., 74 ANN ST., NEWARK, N. J."

WAVE PRINTS.

Where ocean-seeking rivers gently glide,
To join the spreading harbor's restless flow.
While flashing gems of living sunlight glow.
And ever onward laughing bubbles ride:
Behold far, far beneath the shifting tide,
Clear ripple-marks the stainless sea sands show.
A record fair, traced faintly below,
Of waves that toss and break and then subside.
So when the fitful waves of fortune break
Upon the bosom of life's restless sea,
As cloud drift melts to blue without a sign,
Deep written on the heart's pure scroll they make
A record plain, whose lights and shades decree
Self's chilling fate, or love's warm glow divine.

CHAPTER IV.—CONTINUED.

We sat in silence for some minutes, each absorbed in his own thoughts. The heat from the fire had warmed the hut so that the blue steam began to rise from my damp clothes. My companion reclined on his elbow, tracing some diagram on the floor with a poniard, which from its shape was evidently of eastern make. The rain, which now increased in violence, had almost quenched the log fire, and was invading our shelter, for the roof began to leak. There being no wind the torch burned steadily, throwing sufficient light for us to distinguish each other. I began to wonder what manner of man this was before me, dressed in a motley of court fool and peasant, and my curiosity was aroused to such an extent that for the time I forgot my own troubles. Nevertheless I made no sign of inquiry, knowing there is no means so sure of obtaining information as to seem not to desire it. My new friend kept his eyes fixed on the point of his dagger, the muscles of his queer-webbed face twitching nervously. At length he became conscious of my scrutiny, for, lifting his eyes, he looked me in the face, and then made a motion of his hand toward the wine skin.

"No more, thanks."

"There will be that left for to-morrow before we start."

"Then you also are a traveler?"

"You say you are going to Bucine?" He asked the question in his usual abrupt manner, but his tone was composed.

"It lies on my road."

"And on mine, too. Shall we travel together? I could point out the way."

"Certainly. It is very good of you."

"Well, it is time to sleep, and the torch has burnt to an end."

As he spoke he stretched himself out at full length, and, turning his back to me, appeared to sink into slumber. I watched him for some time by the embers of the torch, wondering if I was wise in accepting his companionship, and then, overpowered by fatigue, lost myself in sleep, heedless of the rain, which dripped in twenty places through the roof.

I slept profoundly until aroused by my shoulder being gently shaken, and, looking up, beheld my host, as I must call him, bending over me. I thought I had slept for a few minutes only, and saw to my surprise that it was well in the morning, and the sun shone brightly. All traces of cloud were gone, though soft billows of mist rolled over the olive gardens, and vineyards of Chianti grape, that stretched towards Montevarchi.

"Heavens, man! How you slept! I was right when I hinted you had a good conscience."

I scrambled up with a hasty "Good-morning," and, a few minutes afterwards, having finished the remains of the wine in the skin, we started off in the direction of Bucine. My companion had politely never inquired my name, and I had been equally reticent. He placed on his head a silken fool's cap, and the bells on it jingled incessantly as he walked along with a jaunty air, at a pace that was remarkable for a man of his age. He seemed to have lost the melancholy that possessed him during the night, and conversed in so cheerful and entertaining a manner that in spite of myself I was interested and withdrawn from my unhappy thoughts. He kept up his mood to Bucine, where, notwithstanding our strange appearance, we attracted, to my relief, less attention than I imagined we should draw.

With appetites sharpened by our walk, we did full justice to the meal I ordered at the only hotel in the place. Here I played host, as a return for my entertainment, and in conversation my acquaintance said that he was bound for Florence. I told him that also was my point, and invited him to bear me company on the road, to which he willingly agreed. I made an attempt here to hire a horse; but not even a donkey was procurable, all available carriage having been seized upon for the army. So once more descending the hill on which Bucine is situated, we forded the river and continued our journey.

At the albergo we heard that a body of troops were foraging along the banks of the Arno, and resolved to make a detour, and, crossing Monte Luco, to keep on the sides of the Chianti hills, if necessary avoiding Montevarchi altogether. My companion maintained his high spirits until we reached the top of the spur of Monte Luco, known to the peasantry as the Virgin's Cradle. Here we stopped to breathe and observe the view. I looked back across the Chiana valley, and let my eye run over the landscape which stretched as far as the Marches. In the blue splash to the south of the rugged and conical hill of Cortona, I recognized Trasimene, and beyond it lay Perugia. I turned to call my friend's attention to the scene, and at first did not perceive where he was. Another glance showed him standing on the edge of the cliff, a little to my left, shaking his clenched hand in the direction of Perugia, whilst on his face was marked every sign of sorrow and hate.

Curious to see what this would result in, I made no attempt to attract his attention, but in a moment he shook off the influence which possessed him, and rejoined me with a calm brow. We thereupon continued our journey with this difference, that my companion was now as silent as hitherto he had been cheerful. My own dark thoughts too came back to roost, and in a gloom we descended the Cradle, pushing our way through the myrtle with which it was covered, and walked on, holding Montevarchi to our right.

We kept a sharp lookout for the foragers, and, seeing no signs of them, made up our minds, after some consultation, to risk going to Montevarchi, which we reached without mishap a little after noon. It was not my intention to halt there more than an hour or so, which I, hoping that I would have better luck than at Bucine, intended to spend in trying to hire an animal of some kind to ride.

We stopped at the Bell inn, near the gate, and, after a deal of bargaining, which consumed a good hour, the landlord agreed to hire me his mule for two crowns. Theascal wanted ten at first. Just as the matter was settled a dozen or so of troopers rode in, and, spying the mule, in the twinkling of an eye, claimed it for carriage purposes.

It was in vain that the landlord protested that it was his last beast, that it had been hired to the noble cavalieri, meaning me, and many other things beside. The soldiers were deaf to his entreaties, and, although I had more than a mind to draw on the villains, I had the good sense to restrain myself, for the odds were too many against me. I therefore hid my chagrin under a smile, and the mule was led away amidst the lamentations of mine host, who was further put out of pocket by a gallon or so of wine, which the troopers consumed, doubtless in honor of the prize they had taken, neglecting in the true fashion of the compagnes grandes to pay for it. It was a lesson to the landlord, for had he not, in his cupidity, hagglod for an hour over the hire of the animal, he might have been richer by two crowns and still owned his mule. Thus it is that avarice finds its own punishment.

On going off, the leader of the troop, a man whom I knew by sight and by reputation as a swashbuckler, if ever there was one, made me a mock salute, saying, in allusion to my quietness in surrendering my claim to the mule: "Adieu, Messer Feather-Cap—may your courage grow as long as your sword." This taunt I swallowed ruefully, and immediately set about my departure. My companion, who was not mixed up in the altercation, joined me silently, and we followed in the direction taken by the troopers, pursued by the maledictions of the innkeeper, who vented his spleen on us as the indirect cause of his misfortune.

The foragers, who, owing to the warmth of the weather, had removed their breast-plates, which were slung to their saddles, were going at a walking pace; and it was amusing to see how the mere sight of their presence cleared the streets. Noting, however, that they did not appear to be bent on personal injury, we did not think it necessary to go out of our course, or delay our departure until they left the town, and as we walked fast and they went slowly, by the time they had reached the main square, we were not more than a dozen yards behind them.

At this moment we noticed the figure of a woman, apparently blind, for she was guided by a little dog attached to a string. The poor creature was crossing the pavement almost in front of the leader of the troop, and, as she was right in the path of the troopers, we attempted to warn her by shouting, and she stopped irresolutely, hardly knowing which way to turn. The troop leader, without making any effort to avoid her, rode on in a pitiless manner, and she was flung senseless to the ground. In this her hood fell back, uncovering her face, and my companion, suddenly uttering a loud cry, ran forward, and, seizing her in his arms, began to address her with every term of endearment, in the manner of a father to his child.

The troopers halted—discipline it will be observed was not great—and one of them with rough sympathy called to my friend to bear the girl, for so she looked, to the fountain, at the same time that their commander gave a loud order to go on, and to leave off looking at a fool and a beggar. I had, however, made up my mind that there was a little work for me, and, drawing my sword, stepped up to the swashbuckler's bridge, and asked for a five-minutes' interview there and then.

He burst into a loud laugh. "Corpo di Bacco! Here is Messer Feather-Cap with his courage grown. Here, two of you bind him to the mule."

But the men with him were in no mood to obey, and one of them openly said:

"It is always thus with the ancient Brico."

"Do you intend to give me the pleasure I seek?" I asked, "or has the ancient Brico taken off his heart with his corselet?"

For a moment it looked as if he were about to ride at me; but my sword was ready, and I was standing too close to him for any such treachery to be carried off. Flinging the reins, therefore, to the neck of his horse, he dismounted slowly and drew his sword. A number of the townsfolk, attracted by the scene, so far forgot their fear of the foragers as to collect around us, and in a few moments a ring was formed, one portion of which was occupied by the troopers.

Brico took his stand so as to place the sun in my eyes, a manifest unfairness, for we should have fought north and south; yet we should have fought north and south; yet I made no objection, and, unclasping my cloak let it fall to the ground behind me.

"A voust!" he called out, and the next moment we engaged in the lower circle, my opponent, for all his French cry, adopting the Italian method, and using a dagger to parry. For a few seconds we tried to feel each other, and I was delighted with the balance of my sword. It did not take me half a minute to see that he was a child in my hands, and I began to rapidly consider whether it would be worth the candle to kill him or not. Brico, who had commenced the assault with a stamp of his foot and a succession of rapid thrusts in the lower lines, became aware of his weakness as soon as I did, and began to back slowly. I twice pricked him over the heart, and his hand began to shake so that he could hardly hold his weapon.

"Make way there," I called out, mockingly, "the ancient would like to run a little." Maddened by this taunt, he pulled himself together and lunged recklessly at me in tierce; it was an easy parry, and with a strong beat I disarmed him. He did not wait, but with the rapidity of a hare turned and fled, not so fast, however, but that I was able to accelerate his departure with a stroke from the flat of my sword.

"Adieu, ancient Brico!" I called out after him as he ran on, followed by a howl of derision from the crowd, in which his own men joined.

It was lucky that I adopted the course of disarming him, for, had the affair ended otherwise, I doubt not that the men-at-arms would have felt called upon to avenge their leader, poltroon as he was. As it happened they enjoyed his discomfiture, and an old trooper called out to me:

"Well fought, signore—you should join us—there is room for your sword under the banner of Tremouille. What—no? I am sorry; but go in peace, for you have rid us of a cur."

Saying this, he rode off, one of their number leading the ancient's horse by the bridle.

I turned now to look for my companion. He was nowhere to be seen, and on inquiry I found that he had lifted the girl up, and, supporting her on his arm, the two, followed by the dog, had turned down by the church, and were not in view. It would, no doubt, have been easy to follow, and as easy to trace them; but I reasoned that the man must have purposely done this to avoid me; and after all it was no business of mine. I therefore returned my sword to its sheath and walked on.

CHAPTER V.

D'ENTRANGUES SCORES A POINT.

Before I had gone fifty paces, however, I became aware that there was some law left in Montevarchi, for a warning cry made me look over my shoulder, and I saw a party of the city guards, who had discreetly kept out of the way when Brico and I crossed swords, hurrying towards me. The same glance, showed me that the ancient was already in their hands, and was being dragged along with but little regard to his comfort; and I felt sure that now, as the troop was gone, the citizens would wreak their vengeance on this hen-roost robber, and he would be lucky if he escaped with life. As for me, the catchpols being out, they no doubt reasoned that they might as well net me. To stop and resist would only result in my being ultimately overpowered, and perhaps imprisoned; to yield without a blow meant very much the same thing, and, in the shake of a drake's tail, I resolved to run, and to trust for escape to my turn for speed. So I set off at my roundest pace, followed by the posse, and the rabble who but a moment before were cheering me.

More than once I felt inclined to turn, and end the matter for myself; but the fact that this might mean laying aside all chance of settling D'Entragues urged me to my best efforts. Some fool made an attempt to stop me, and I was compelled to slash him across the face with my sword, as a warning not to interfere with matters with which he had no concern. I hardly knew where I was going; but dashed down a little by-street, and was, after a hundred yards, brought to a halt by a dead wall. I could barely reach the top of it with my bare hands, but luckily this was enough to all me to draw myself up, and drop over to the other side just as the police reached within ten feet of me. I did not stop to take note of their action, but was off as soon as my feet touched the ground, and found to my joy that I was close to one of the un-repaired breaches in the city wall, made six months ago by Tremouille's cannon. Through this I rushed, and, scrambling down a slope of broken stone and mortar, found I would be compelled to climb down very nearly a hundred feet of what looked like the face of a rock, before I could reach level ground. There was not even a goat track. My agility was, however, spurred on by hearing shouts behind me, and preferring to risk death in attempting the descent rather than fall into the hands of messer the podesta, I chanced the venture, and, partly by holding on to the tough broom roots, partly slipping, and aided by Providence and Our Lady of San Spirito, to whom I hurriedly cast up a prayer, I managed to reach the bottom, and fell, exhausted and breathless, into a cistus hedge.

I was too beaten to go another yard, and, had my pursuers only followed up, must have become an easy prey. As it was I heard them reach the breach, where they came to a stop, all shouting and babbling at the same time. One or two, bolder than the others, attempted to descend the ledge of rock, down which I escaped, but its steepness damped their courage. They, however, succeeded in loosening some of the debris so that it fell over the cliff, and a few of the stones dropped very close to me; but by good hap I escaped, or else this never would have been written. One great block, indeed, just passed over my head, and I vowed an altar-piece to Our Lady of San Spirito, who alone could have diverted that which was coming straight to my destruction; and I may add I duly kept my word. After a time the voices above began to grow fainter, and to my delight I found that the citizens, thinking it impossible I should have escaped like a lizard amongst the rocks, were harking back, and ranging to the right and left. I waited until all sound died away, and cautiously peeped out. The coast was clear. I had recovered my wind, and, without more waste of time, I rose and pressed on in the direction of the hills, determined to chance no further adventures near the towns. Indeed, I had crowded more incident into the past few hours than into the previous five-and-thirty years of my life, and my sole object, at present, was to reach Florence without further let or hindrance.

Keeping the vineyards between me and the town, I avoided all observation, and, at a small wayside inn, filled a wallet which I purchased with food and a bottle of the rough country wine, so that there might be no necessity for my visiting a human habitation during the remainder of my journey. With the wallet swung over my shoulder, an hour or so later I was ascending the slopes of Mount St. Michele, cursing the fallen gine needles, which made my foothold so slippery that I slid rather than walked.

It was late in the evening before I halted, and ate my dinner under an overhanging rock, sheltered from the north wind by a clump of pines. When I finished I rolled myself up in my cloak, and fatigue, together with a good conscience, combined to send me to a sleep as sound as it was refreshing. I was up before the sun and continued my way, determined to reach Florence by evening. I took no particular notice of the view, where I could see to my right the Prato Magno, and to my left all the valleys of the Greve; but kept my eyes before me, intent on my thoughts.

At length, when passing Impruneta, where the Black Virgin is, Florence came in sight. There was a slight haze which prevented me from seeing as clearly as I could wish; but I plainly made out the houses on the banks of the Arno, Arnolfo's tower, the palace of the Signory, the cathedral, the Bargello, and the unfinished Pitti palace, whilst beyond rose the convent-topped hill of Senario, where the Servites have their monastery.

As I looked there was little of admiration in my heart, although the scene was fair enough; but I could give no mind to anything beyond the fact that I was at last within measurable distance of D'Entragues, and that in a few hours my hand was like to be at his throat.

With these thoughts there somehow mingled up the face of madame, and the scene of our last meeting. I put this aside, however, with a strong hand, and determined to think no more of her, although no such recollection could be anything but pleasant and sweet. Until I met her I had managed well enough without womankind, and for the future I would leave bright eyes alone. Yet I knew I was the better man for holding the privilege of her friendship. However, she had passed out of my life, and across the seas I would have other things to think of than the memory of my platonic friendship with Doris D'Entragues.

It was close upon sunset when I entered the San Piero gate, and found myself in Florence, and in a difficulty at the same time, in consequence of my wearing a sword. I luckily, however, remembered that La Palisse, the French leader, was then in the city, and explaining that I was from the army at Arezzo with a message to him, inquired particularly his abode, which I was told was in the palace of the exiled Medici in the Via Larga. It so happened that La Palisse was in constant communication with Tremouille, and this and my confident bearing imposed upon the guards. I supplemented my argument with a couple of crowns, and they let me pass without further parley. It will thus be seen that, whatever the regulations may have been, they were easily broken. Indeed I found later on that they were, even at that time, a dead letter, and that the zeal of the guards was merely inspired by the prospect of making something out of me, which they did on this occasion. I knew Florence very well, having been there under circumstances very different to the present; but as I hurried along the crowded streets, I began to feel I was somewhat uncertain as to whether the roads led. I judged it prudent, however, not to make inquiries, but kept my eyes on the sharp lookout for a hostel suitable to my purse, which was diminishing at a fearful rate. I stopped for awhile at a street stall to satisfy my hunger with a cake of wheat and a glass of milk, a wholesome, but unpalatable beverage, and entered into conversation with the stall-keeper. It came out that I was in a difficulty about a lodging, and the man promptly told me where one could be procured, and added to his kindness, seeing I was apparently a stranger to the place, by directing his son, a small bare-legged urchin, to guide me to the house, which, he said, was an old palace of the Albizzi, that had passed into the hands of the banker Nobili, and was rented out in tenements.

Heaven only knows through what by-lanes and alleys the imp led me, chattering like an ape the whilst; but at last we reached the house which lay in the street di Pucci. An arrangement was soon entered into with the person in charge, and I paid in advance for two weeks the small rent asked for the room I took. I selected the room, because there was in it some furniture, such as a bed, a table and a couple of chairs, which, I was informed with some emphasis, had been seized from the last tenant in default of rent. I sent the boy away rejoicing, and was surprised to find the housekeeper did not depart as well; but this worthy soon made it clear to me that a further payment was requisite on account of the furniture. I was too tired to haggle, so paid him the three broad pieces he wanted and bid him get me some candles. He returned after a little delay with what I needed, and I may say at once that under a rough exterior I found this man, with all his faults, was capable on occasions of displaying true kindness of heart.

I would like to pay him this tribute, for subsequently, as will be seen, we had a grave difference of opinion which ended in disaster for him. At the time this happened I could not but condemn him strongly, for, in order to further a plot in which he was engaged, he tried to induce me to crime, and when, by a happy chance, I was able to frustrate his design, joined in an attempt to murder me. I fully believe, however, now that I look back on affairs coolly, that, in common with others of his age, he thought it no wrong to adopt any means to further a political plot, whilst in the everyday observances of life he displayed, in an underhand manner, much virtue.

Life.

He gets most out of life who gives most to it.

Some people put out their hands to life, while others stretch forth their arms.

There are people who spend their days in some little town or village, and yet live in the great expanse of a wide world; while others travel from city to city, and from country to country, yet live only in the narrow little circle of their own immediate surroundings.—Truth.

for $1.00 per year strictly in advance.

THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1899.

The Spanish war up to date has cost $900,000. Quite an expensive luxury, but we must have it.

It is presumable that State Oil Inspector Judson will not be burdened with such a number of letters after he has made his appointments of the 23 deputy oil inspectors. For the past few weeks his mail has been one of the largest that came to the Ann Arbor post office.

Grand Rapids Herald: In the interests of harmony Dr. Boone, president of the Ypsilanti State Normal school, has stepped out. Differences existed between himself and certain members of the faculty and he resigned. It was the graceful act of a gentleman and its announcement awakens sincere regret with many who have come intimately to know the culture and honesty of Dr. Boone.

The resignation of Dr. R. G. Boone as principal of the State Normal College cost the state just $2,000. His resignation was due to the animosity felt towards him by two members of the state board of education, Perry F. Powers, of Cadillac, and Jason E. Hammond, of Hillsdale, superintendent of public instruction. That is a pretty stiff price for the public to pay to gratify the petty spleen of a couple of men, one of whom is a state officer and the other would like to be.

Americanizing the Filipinos has begun in good earnest. Five thousand children between the ages of 6 and 12 years commenced going to school July 3, and will study the English language at least one hour each day. A compulsory attendance order has been issued by Gen. Otis, but it is almost unnecessary as the natives generally are willing their children shall be educated. With such a condition of affairs existing the Filipinos will soon emerge out of the darkness of barbarism into the light of civilization.

The spirit of unrest that has possessed so many newspapers in Michigan for the past two weeks regarding the position in which Governor Pinckney stands towards President McKinley should now subside, in the face of the governor's letter to Gen. Alger which has been given to the press for publication. The letter contains two strong paragraphs in it which have a very direct bearing on the statement so often made that the governor has presidential aspirations in 1900. They are as follows:

"I voted for McKinley and I have had no cause whatever to regret it. If he is a candidate again I will take pleasure in giving him my support."

"It is sufficient to say to you that I have not, and never did, entertain the remotest intention of becoming a candidate for the presidency. The story is only another invention of Michigan newspapers."

AMERICAN COLONIAL EXPORTS.

American producers are pushing the sale of their products in Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Cuba. The figures of the treasury bureau of statistics, just issued, indicate that the exports of the fiscal year, which ends with this month, will show a larger exportation to Hawaii and the Philippines than ever before, and larger to Cuba and Porto Rico than in any previous year except those in which the reciprocity features of the McKinley law were in operation. The exports to Cuba in the ten months ending April 30, 1899, were 50 per cent in excess of those of the corresponding months of 1898, and more than double those of the same months in the fiscal year of 1897. To Porto Rico the exports were 33 per cent in excess of the corresponding months of last year, and to Hawaii the exports of the ten months are 57 per cent in excess of those of the corresponding months of 1897. To the Philippines the exports, despite the continuous war conditions, are three times as much as in the corresponding months of any preceding year. This is exclusive of supplies for the army. The total exports to Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines in the full fiscal year which ends June 30, will reach about $30,000,000, against $17,000,000 last year.

Refused to Pay Her Claim.

The report of the Finance Committee on the claim of Mrs. Balina W. Negus for $8,945.07 damages for loss of her building by fire December 20, 1898, was presented to the village board at its meeting June 28. It recommended that the claim be not paid and this recommendation was endorsed by the full board. The text of the report is as follows:

The Finance Committee to whom was referred the claim of Belina W. Negus hereto attached, having given the same careful consideration would recommend that it be not paid for the following reasons to-wit: Because the village is not an insurer of anybody's property and that the property for which pay is claimed was uninsured and uninsurable, and unoccupied except by tramps and loafers, all of which had long been known to claimant and that she abandoned the property to the fire after the fire department had placed the fire under control of her agents and left her full power to protect the property from farther damage if she cared to do it. We do not think the village is liable for or ought to pay for her own mismanagement or neglect. Your committee further finds that there was no negligence on the part of the fire department or the village officials, and that there was an abundance of hose to reach claimant's property though the village was not bound to keep on hand any particular amount of hose in any particular condition to reach any one's property. Your committee does not think the village is bound to insure or manage private property nor to protect it against fire only to such extent as it may deem proper. From all we have been able to learn of the surroundings we are clear in the belief that if claimant had observed and practiced the most common and well known business principles in the management and protection of her property there would have been no loss. For these among other reasons your committee recommend that said claim be not paid.

Recreation Park Sale.

The sale of Recreation Park and the buildings upon it at auction last Saturday afternoon resulted in enough money being realized to pay up the mortgage under which it was advertised to be sold at foreclosure sale.

The land north of West Middle street as extended, was divided into six parcels. E. L. Negus bought a two rod strip for $40; Dr. H. W. Schmidt the first acre lot for $110; H. S. Holmes, two next lots, $80 each; F. P. Glazier, west two lots, $160. The south and west wings of the main building went to Merchant Brooks for $71; Dr. Schmidt got the north wing for $40; R. A. Snyder, east wing, $39; Dr. Schmidt, sheds east of main building, $10; B. Steinbach, north 56 feet of horse sheds, $15; the balance went to Thos. Wilkinson at $5 for each 64 feet in length; R. A. Snyder, hog, sheep and cattle sheds, $75; B. Parker, outbuildings, $23. The track and grand stand were sold to H. S. Holmes for $1,100. This was purchased in the interest of the heaviest stockholders, and it is presumed will be kept for its original purposes if occasion shall ever require it.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this great discovery at Glazier & Stimson's Bank Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1. every bottle guaranteed.

Village Taxes.

The village taxes are now due and must be paid by August 8th.

LOCAL ITEMS.

J. J. Raftery is building an addition to his residence on Park street.

B. F. Judson shipped 17,700 pounds of wool to Denny, Rice & Co., of Boston, on Monday.

Adam Spiedelberg, of Lima, has begun work upon a new residence to replace the one burned on his farm several years ago.

Two new members were received into the Congregational church Sunday. The C. E. society also received some additions to its membership.

A large number of the summer campers at Cavanaugh Lake have arrived on the scene, and almost all the cottages have their quota of occupants.

Miss Nellie Maroney had her hand burned Tuesday by a Roman candle bursting out at the end usually held in the hand while it is being exploded.

The proposition to purchase a site for the new homeopathic hospital at Ann Arbor, at a cost of $17,000, was carried in that city Monday by a vote of 650 for to 16 against.

The sanctuary boys of St. Mary's church had their annual outing at Cavanaugh Lake last Monday. Rev. Father Considine accompanied the boys, and gave them a splendid feast.

Adam and John Honck, of Sharon, are building a new barn 36x64 feet in size, with stone basement, 18 feet posts and gambrel roof. Wm. J. Beuerle has the contract for the work.

There will be no preaching services at the Congregational church for the next four Sundays as Rev. C. S. Jones is away on a vacation. The Sunday school and Christian Endeavor society will hold their regular sessions.

One of the large plate glass windows in Glazier & Stimson's store was broken Monday night by an erratic sky rocket which was fired by J. Bacon. It was the only rocket left unsold in Hoag & Holmes' stock of fireworks and it is just possible Mr. Bacon wishes it had been sold with the rest.

The New State Telephone Co.'s workmen are in town setting the poles and wires and connecting up the telephone exchange which is to be located in A. E. Winans' store. They will also place a phone in A. J. Sawyer's cottage at Cavanaugh lake for the use of the campers at that place.

Ex-Sheriff William Judson assumed the duties of state inspector of oils on Saturday last. There were many who offered to go on Mr. Judson's bond, but the men selected by him for this service were H. S. Holmes and W. J. Knapp, of Chelsea. Both these gentlemen were on Mr. Judson's bond during his term as sheriff.

Last week the Staffan-Shell Furniture Co. fitted up a bicycle so that it was made to run by the air which was raised by an electric fan. It created much attention. Saturday they further added to the show by rigging up a dummy man and attaching it to the seat of the bicycle so that it looks as if he was pedaling the machine on a 90 days sentence from Justice Parker.

The Glazier Store Co. shut down its works for this week in order to give the men a short holiday. During this brief lay-off a new floor is being laid in the factory north of the office. A solid cement and stone foundation is being put in, in which 2x4 stringers will be set and a double floor laid on top of it. This will make a fine solid floor in the building which contains much heavy machinery.

A. F. Freeman, of Manchester, has been appointed by Gov. Pingree one of the state tax commission under the Oren permanent tax commission bill. The other members of the commission are Milo D. Campbell, of Coldwater, and Robert Oakman, of Detroit. Mr. Freeman has been one of Gov. Pingree's staunchest supporters, he is an able man and well qualified to perform the duties that will be incumbent on him.

There was a substantial increase in the amounts of the commercial and savings deposits in the Chelsea Savings Bank and the Kempf Commercial and Savings Bank at the close of business June 30, 1899, as compared with the same items at the close of business February 4, 1899. At that time the commercial and savings deposits in the Chelsea Savings Bank were $253,949.48; June 30 the same items amounted to $364,081.21, an increase of $110,131.73; February 4, 1899, the same items in the Kempf Commercial and Savings Bank amounted to $248,092.58; June 30, 1899, to $352,816.87, an increase of $104,724.29.

Next Sunday, July 9, will be the 17th anniversary of the ordination of Rev. William P. Considine.

August Neuburger has had a cement sidewalk put down in front of his residence on South Main street.

The annual school meeting of District No. 3, fractional, Sylvan and Lima, will be held at the town hall next Monday evening.

A Pole in Jackson, who wants to return to Poland, has sold his household goods for $50 with his wife thrown in, possession to be given Aug. 1, the date he starts for Poland.

Quarterly meeting services were held in connection with the M. E. church Sunday. Rev. E. W. Ryan, presiding elder, of Ypsilanti, was present. He preached at the union service Sunday evening.

David T. Moore died in Ypsilanti Monday, at the residence of his daughter Mrs. L. H. Bush, after a long illness. He was 85 years old and had lived in Ypsilanti for 10 years, moving there from Manchester.

Manchester Enterprise: It is now claimed that the very peculiar bug of large size which frequents the vicinity of the electric lights, is a dangerous insect, from the fact that it has a stinger, a wound from which is similar to the bite of a scorpion.

Certificates of association were filed in the county clerk's office Thursday last by the Sylvan Christian Union, which will erect a new union church at Sylvan Center. The incorporators are C. T. Conklin, James Beckwith, J. W. Dancer, M. A. Kern, E. S. Beckwith, S. L. Conklin, L. J. Dancer, E. Kern and P. Dancer.

The C. E. delegates from Chelsea to the great convention at Detroit are: Misses Kate Haarer, Mamie Drislane, Helen and Henrietta Hepfer, Mary L. Smith, Dora Harrington, Ella Slimmer, Luella Townsend, Nina Crowell, Mrs. J. George Webster, Fred C. Mapes, E. G. Hoag, W. J. Knapp, Rev. C. S. Jones, J. George Webster and Ralph H. Holmes.

The last legislature passed a law which provides that each township shall appoint a dog warden, who shall issue to all who apply and pay a tax of $1.00 for each male, and $3.00 for each female dog, a license, and the dog must wear a collar with the number of the license. It is also the duty of the warden to kill each and every dog that he finds without the necessary evidence of license.

Capt. William Astor Chandler, congressman from New York, is the president of The New York Star, which is giving away a forty dollar bicycle daily, as offered by their advertisement in another column. Hon. Amos J. Cummings, M. C., Col. Asa Bird Gardner, District Attorney of New York, ex-Governor Hogg, of Texas, and Col. Fred Felgl, of New York, are among the well-known names in their board of directors.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Glazier & Stimson, Bank Drug Store.

A State Home for Consumptives.

In an article published in the Teachers' Sanitary Bulletin the state board of health has the following:

The state board of health urges as strongly as words can implore, that every person in Michigan who realizes that he or she is interested in the health and welfare of the inhabitants of this great state use his or her greatest influence to educate the people generally, as to the importance of a state institution where the indigent and careless consumptives in the state can be given the greatest chance for recovery, and where these unfortunate classes can be educated in the causation and prevention of that greatest destroyer of mankind—consumption; and by thus coming to know just how the disease is spread and how it can be prevented, will go out from such an institution and not only cease to be a menace to their friends, relatives and the public, but can aid in that noble work of education along this line."

School Notice.

The annual meeting of school district No. 3, fractional Sylvan and Lima, will be held in the town hall, village of Chelsea, Monday evening, July 10, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing two trustees and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting. ## MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

The Grand Army.

At the twenty-first annual encampment, department of Michigan, G. A. R., in Petoskey Secretary of War Alger, Gen. Joseph Wheeler and Gen. Duffield were honored guests. Officers were elected as follows:

Department commander, R. R. Peeler, Three Rivers; senior vice commander, J. C. Bontecou, Petoskey; junior vice commander, S. H. Mallory, Lake Odessa; council of administration, O. B. Curtis, Detroit; S. M. Kent, Grand Rapids; F. Schneider, Lansing; Fay Wyckoff, Lansing; O. P. Carver, Traverse City.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 90 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended on June 24 indicate that typhoid fever and cholera morbus increased and inflammation of the bowels and inflammation of the kidneys decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported in 189 places, measles at 37, typhoid fever at 35, scarlet fever at 30, diphtheria at 13, whooping cough at 12 and cerebro-spinal meningitis at 10 places.

Tired of Poverty.

Mrs. James Smith's body was found near the bank of the Kalamazoo river in Allegan in 16 inches of water, with a rope around her neck, the other end being fastened to a stake on the bank. She had arranged the clothes in which she wished to be buried and left a note saying: "Good-by, Jim. I am tired of life in poverty." The husband is sickly and a bartender when he can get work.

On the Table.

The plans of Gov. Pingree and his associates for municipal ownership and operation of Detroit street railways were left "in the air" by the common council. The two pending ordinances and other matters appertaining to the municipal ownership scheme were laid on the table by unanimous votes, and it is problematical when these questions will be again publicly debated.

Big Steel Plant.

Eastern capitalists have submitted a proposition to the business men of Menominee to build a plant for the manufacture of structural steel at an estimated cost of $3,750,000, which, when in full running order, will furnish employment to 6,000 hands. It is said that if satisfactory freight rates can be made the project will become a certainty.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop bulletin for Michigan says:

Week generally favorable for crop growth and farm work; corn clean and healthy; mostly cultivated second time; early potatoes excellent; late potatoes growing nicely; wheat ripening fast, but rusting, and continues poor; oats beginning to need rain; hay generally begun; good yields from new meadows, but light from old.

Final Adjournment.

Although business was suspended eight days previously the formal adjournment of the legislature did not take place until Saturday, June 24. The closing was devoid of ceremony, there being less than a dozen legislators present when the gavel fell for the last time.

News Items Briefly Told.

THE ARMY INCREASE.

Nine Regiments Will Probably Be Recruited for the Philippines—A Battle Imminent.

Washington, July 1.—One of the members of the cabinet, speaking in connection with the campaign in the Philippines, said: "The president has given Gen. Otis to understand that he is to have all the men necessary in the conduct of the operations against the insurgents. Gen. Otis has been told this in so many words, the president having said to him in effect that if he (Otis) did not have enough men it was his own fault. The president also realizes that the better the men are cared for and their health preserved, the more capable they will be of doing effective work, and before the rainy season began Gen. Otis was instructed to prepare for it, and in various ways was given to understand the president's desire that the soldiers should be well cared for and well fed."

There will be nine regiments raised at once for service in the Philippines. The president discussed the matter Friday morning at the cabinet meeting. Over a week ago it was suggested to the secretary of war that nine regiments, or about 12,000 men, would furnish the additional force required by Gen. Otis in the prosecution of the campaign against the insurgents. There were counter propositions, and it was suggested among other things that the maximum strength of the 35,000 volunteers be utilized. There is a difference of opinion among the army officers as to the force which Gen. Otis should have by the end of the wet season.

Washington, July 1.—Since the announcement that about 10,000 volunteers were to be mustered into the army for service in the Philippines the president has been deluged with applications for commissions. Almost every congressional caller has one or more applicants whom he presses on the president's attention. The president requests all his visitors to file their applications with Adj. Gen. Corbin, at the same time he makes it clear in a general way that the policy of the administration in granting commissions will be to give preference to volunteer officers who showed ability and who performed valuable service during the Spanish war. Some regular officers are also to be given volunteer commissions in the belief that one or two regular officers in a regiment will be of great advantage. The number of officers to be commissioned is being carefully guarded to prevent a scramble.

New York, July 1.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: No colored regiments will be organized for service in the Philippines. Any colored men enlisted will be assigned to vacancies in the present colored regiments of the regular army. The experiment of the war department with colored volunteers during the Spanish war was not a happy one, and, in spite of the reports which come from the Philippines to the effect that the colored man is greatly feared by the Filipinos, the authorities are averse to running the risk of a repetition of the troubles of last year.

Washington, July 1.—The first orders were issued Friday for recruiting the troops under the clause authorizing the enlistment of 35,000 men. The order contemplates enlisting men for the three skeleton regiments in the Philippines. Recruiting officers have been instructed to enlist men with this understanding.

Manila, July 1.—A collision between the two armies at San Fernando seems inevitable soon. The insurgents are active all around the town and can be seen working in the trenches to strengthen their position. Day and night forces are at work. It is estimated that 3,000 men were seen marching in the road north of the town Friday morning. The Americans turned out and manned the defenses, expecting an attack. The soldiers sleep in their clothes and breakfast at four o'clock in the morning so as to be ready for another daybreak assault. Gen. Owenshine is in the hospital suffering with fever. Gen. Grant is commanding his troops on the south line.

A CONCESSION.

The Volksraad of the Transvaal Will Be Asked to Confirm an Agreement Satisfactory to Britain.

London, July 1.—The Digger News, the Boer organ in London, prints a dispatch from Johannesburg, announcing, on reliable authority, that the Volksraad will be asked on Monday to confirm an arrangement made by the executive council, acceptable to the British high commissioner, Sir Alfred Milner, and the British government. It is believed the arrangement grants a seven-year retrospective franchise to Uitlanders resident in the Transvaal before 1890, who will be immediately admitted to burghership, with other modifications in the naturalization laws.

Bad News for Farmers.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—Prof. Otto Luggler, of the state agricultural college, said Friday: "I have bad news, and here is the messenger that brought it." Opening his hand the professor disclosed a dead grasshopper. He said it was one of the migratory White mountain fellows, and that his coming indicates trouble for the farmers of the northwest.

MAYOR ASSASSINATED.

Chief Executive of Muskegon, Mich., Shot by a Disappointed Office-seeker.

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 30.—Mayor James Balbiornie was assassinated at noon by J. W. Tayer, a disappointed office-seeker. Tayer shot Mayor Balbiornie while the latter was standing in the doorway of his store. The ball entered his left breast above the nipple. After the shooting Balbiornie turned and ran upstairs to his living rooms and dropped in the hall. He expired 15 minutes later. Tayer swallowed some carbolic acid and then turned the revolver upon himself and fired. The ball entered his left breast. He died at one o'clock.

Mayor Balbiornie was the pioneer resident of this city, having lived here since 1865. He was born in Ontario, April 21, 1838, and later lived in Ottawa. When he came to Muskegon he embarked in the furniture and undertaking business and had acquired a comfortable fortune. He was for three years a member of the board of public works, and in 1898 was elected mayor as a republican, being reelected this spring. He was prominent in fraternal organizations. Tayer has been a resident of this city for about 25 years. He leaves a wife, but no children. He was a member of Phil Kearney post, G. A. R., having served in the civil war in company K, Thirty-eighth Ohio infantry. It was understood that he had been suffering from a slight brain trouble, but he was not thought to be dangerous.

WORK OF WOMEN.

Session of the International Council of Women in London—Many in Attendance.

London, June 28.—The International Council of Women, which assembled Monday in the Convocation hall of Church house, Westminster, is divided into five sections, or meetings, which were all crowded Tuesday.

Great interest is taken in the political section, which discussed "the parliamentary enfranchisement of women," the vice president of the council, Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of the United States, presiding.

In the professional section, Mme. Antoinette Stirling created some excitement by declaring, with much emotion, that she thought the speakers were too hard on the men, and adding that women only realized the full value of a husband when the latter was lost.

London, June 29.—At Wednesday's session of the international council of women, Mrs. Stanton Blatch read a paper on "Primary Education," advocating the use of manual works at every step of education, but deprecating the introduction of domestic occupations and trying to adapt trades to educational processes. Mrs. Miller advocated her well-known views on physical development through the reorganization of the food question.

Help Is Needed.

Milwaukee, June 30.—A Sentinel special from Hudson, Wis., says Chairman H. Ingram, of the New Richmond relief committee, has issued an official circular to the public as the first fruits of their investigations. The circular states that a careful estimate shows the money loss from the tornado to be $750,000. Subscriptions thus far amount to only about $80,000, a large portion of which has been spent in clearing away the debris and in lending temporary assistance to the people. There is great need of money and building material. An appeal is made for cash, which should be sent to the treasurer at Hudson, and building material to the relief committee at New Richmond.

Met an Awful Fate.

Providence, R. I., June 29.—Sadie B. Mathewson, 26 years old, was murdered by her alleged paramour, Samuel Rowens, 57 years old, at Foster, R. I., Tuesday. It is claimed that both were drunk and that Rowens drove the woman into the yard, knocked her down and split her head open with an ax, stabbed her twice in the breast with a carving knife, and then, pouring kerosene oil over her, set her on fire while she was still breathing. Her body was burned to a crisp. Rowens was arrested.

Strike at Pingree's Shop.

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—At noon Thursday the employees of the turning and welt department in Pingree & Smith's shoe factory went on strike. It is expected that as soon as the unfinished work is finished the factory will shut down and that 600 employees will be without work. The union complains that the firm has violated the wage bill by putting boys to work in place of men and has refused to agree to pay the current scale of $15 per week pending a settlement of the grievance.

Dies in London.

London, June 28.—Mrs. Ellen C. Johnson, superintendent of the Massachusetts Women's Reformatory prison, died suddenly at the London residence of the bishop of Rochester, Rt. Rev. Edward Stuart Talbot, D. D., where she was a guest. It is believed she expired from heart disease, resulting from excitement in reading a paper at Tuesday's meeting of the International council of women.

THE HAIR AT NIGHT.

A System of Treatment Which, in the Course of a Year, Will Almost Work Wonders.

At bedtime unfasten your hair and brush it. Brush it half an hour every evening for a month; after that brush it 15 minutes nightly—ten minutes, if you have no more time. Loosen it completely, rub it with your fingers, rubbing and brushing alternately, using, as before, first a soft, soothing brush, then a vigorous, stiff one. Brush it to the tips of the longest strands. Gather it loosely for the night, allowing full ventilation, and in the morning brush it 15 minutes at first, afterward ten minutes devotedly every day. If your hair is thin and threatens to fall, or the parting is growing inconveniently wide, let it down at night and massage the scalp. Rub it, gather the loose skin between the fingers, pinch it a little, invent exercise for it with the tip of the fingers. Give it some work to do every day, and brush it. Part it on the side at night and give the day's parting a rest.

No treatment of this sort produces a sudden or spectacular result, but if there is no disease of the hair follicles and the general health is good, it will often work wonders in a twelvemonth. Once in a couple of months—more often or less, as you find your need—go to a good hairdresser, who will run your locks, tress by tress, through a comb, snipping the broken or split hairs and leaving healthy, growing ends. No indiscriminate chopping at the end of a braid with rash, amateurish scissors will produce results of much value.—N. Y. Ledger.

SOFT TIE REIGNS.

Although It Is Now in Its Second Season, Its Popularity Is Greater Than Ever.

That there are always two sides to a question is proved in the case of the soft summer tie. Besides its beauty comes in the argument of its utility, for the soft tie with its many ends saves many a quarter in laundry bills.

Having width as well as length, the broad tie protects the front of the shirt waist, making one waist carry one twice the usual time.

The summer girl's patriotism is mostly visible in the small ornaments of dress. With a soft tie of white pique or silk figured in delicate design, stick pins enameled in red, white and blue are worn. The correct design in these pins are small flags and bows, and it must be admitted that they are much prettier than the loud dress effects which make one look like a walking Fourth-of-July show.

To Keep Dainty Veils.

A capital way of retaining the shape of veils and keeping them in good condition is to pull them out each time after removing from the hat or bonnet and to carefully roll them around a long cushion made in the form of a small bolster. This veil bolster may be filled with the following composition: Florentine orris root, powdered, half a pound; rosewood, powdered, six ounces; calamus aromaticus, half a pound; yellow sanders, a quarter of a pound; gum Benjamin, three ounces; powdered cloves, half an ounce; cinnamon, one ounce. Grind all together and stuff the bolster tightly. It may be covered with silk or thin chamois leather and embroidered if desired.—Chicago Tribune.

Way to Acquire Grace.

A French gymnast declares that American girls do not pay sufficient attention to the development of their arms, but think too much of their waist lines, while if the arms were properly treated the waist would take care of itself. The French girls are extremely strong in their arms, she says, and their grace comes from the deftness with which they balance themselves; to see a French woman carry a heavy package is a delight. The way to acquire grace and a slender, supple figure is by exercises with the dumb-bells and by raising and lowering the body by the arms and toes when lying flat on the floor.

A PETTICOAT NOVELTY.

Watch My Lady When She Lifts Her Skirt and You Will See Most Gorgeous Designs.

In these days when so much depends upon the fit of the dress skirt around the hips and the exact fullness around the foot, the silk petticoat is an article of much importance. The very latest skirts are cut with circular yokes and fitted carefully and smoothly around the figure with no gathers at the back. All kinds of brilliant plaid and striped goods come for fashioning these skirts, silk being a prime favorite, and they are trimmed as delicately and elaborately as any evening gown.

A very pretty skirt was made of coral pink taffeta with large black squares scattered through it. A deep circular ruffle was added at the knee. This was trimmed with double ruffle, accordion plaited and finished with a narrow heading of shirred chiffon. Bows of black satin ribbon were set around the foot of the skirt at frequent intervals.

Flounces made of alternate rows of ribbon and lace insertion are another fancy, and plaitings of black and white net trimmed with rows of ribbon are a very effective trimming. For a very dainty decoration plaitings of chiffon cannot be surpassed, and in every case ribbon is employed, this being considered a very elegant feature of the fashionable petticoats.

TAKE A NAP DAILY.

A Fifteen Minutes' Sleep After the Midday Meal Works Wonders in Almost Every Case.

"During the day everyone should take a few minutes' sleep, preferably directly after the noon meal," writes Edward B. Warman, in his "Five-Minute Talks on Good Health," in the Ladies' Home Journal. "The time given to it may seem too precious for one in business, but it will be more, than compensated for by the mental and bodily condition that follows. Sit in an easy chair. Lying down directly after a meal crowds the digestive organs and makes one's sleep restless instead of restful. Rest the head comfortably. Tip the chair to a pleasant angle for the body, not enough to have the weight of the body on the back. Place the feet upon a chair as high or a trifle higher than upon the one upon which you are sitting; cross the limbs at the ankle joints, close the hands together by interlacing the fingers, place the fleshy part of the thumbs together in order to avoid grasping the hands too tightly, and close the eyes. Having thus closed the circuit, it will be necessary for you to relieve yourself of all nervous and muscular tension; think only of your slow, measured breathing and the desire for a restful sleep."

How to Renovate Velvet.

A simple method of cleaning velvet, velveteen and plush is the following. The rule applies to all three kinds of goods, as all have a pile, and if flattened must be assisted to rise again. With the assistance of a stiff whisk broom, a pad of boiling water and an obliging friend who will brush up the nap as you hold the goods taut over the steam the wrong side to the water, these materials will look like new. This process removes wrinkles, brightens the color and makes the crushed nap stay up when brushed against the grain, and will answer for black or colored pile fabrics. If the velvet has a grease spot on it remove it with French chalk before steaming. A sticky spot may be lightly touched with clean cold water before the steaming process.

Cures for Insomnia.

In the matter of inducing sleep much depends upon the individual. One person will find a hearty meal before bedtime conducive to sleep, while another thinks that an empty stomach is the best plan in order to obtain sleep. A cold bath, rubbing the hands in cold water, a wet towel applied to the temples are all helpful to a good night's rest. Some persons think that the only way to insure sleep is to fix the mind upon some real or fancied object, while others think that to count from one onward endlessly will weary the brain so that sleep will come.

SELFISH MAN PUNISHED.

A Little Train Incident That Gave Justice-Loving Passengers Much Joy.

Passengers on an Atlantic City train a few evenings ago were treated to a spectacle of retributive justice that tickled them fast. The car was crowded, and, as the train was flying pretty thickly, all the passengers save one had their windows down. This unpleasant exception was a disgruntled-looking party, with a plentiful growth of looking whiskers, and these he allowed to sway in and out of the window with the gusty zephyrs. Of course, he got none of the dust and cinders, for these always blow in the seat directly behind. Two nicely dressed women occupied these unfortunate quarters, and, after suffering martyrdom for about 20 minutes, one of them asked the "open-window fiend" if he would mind putting the window down. "No!" he replied, gruffly. "It's too warm. If you don't like it, change your seat."

In front of the man sat a traveling man, who took in the situation at a glance. Quick as a flash he raised his window, and instantly the flowing facial appendages of the man behind began to perform a most fearful series of gyrations. The dust speckled them, and the wind twisted them. Their owner, after a few moments of such violence, got red in the face and then put his window down. A few moments later he leaned over and asked the other passengers to shut off the draught in a similar manner, but, to the intense amusement and gratification of the balance of the people in the car, who had watched the little comedy all the way through, the drummer, without so much as a twinkle of the eye, replied: "No! It's too warm. If you don't like it, change your seat!"—Philadelphia Record.

HIS BUSINESS ABILITY.

Is a Hanger On Young Mr. Blank Was a Gritty and Glorious Success.

This fair maid will have a handsome dot some time, and it is the ambition of her father to have her marry one whose fortune will at least equal her own.

"I want you to stop that young Blank calling here," he remarked, recently, in the automatic way that some fathers have. "He has no prospects worth speaking of, there is nothing to show that he has any business ability, and I don't want him hanging around here any more."

"What is business ability, papa?"

"Why, you know. Everybody knows, of course. Let me see. Why, it's the ability to get the main chance, to grab it, and hang on till you get the money. That's what it is, and there's plenty of young men in Detroit that have it. Blank lacks it woefully."

"Oh, he does? I'm afraid, papa, that you're speaking without proper information. He knows that I'll have $100,000 some time. That is a main chance worth looking after. Mr. Blank saw it. He reached out and grabbed for it. He's hanging on, and he's going to get it. Do you happen to know of any other young man of his age and limited opportunities whose business ability has assured him so handsome a fortune?"

The old gentleman's answer sounded suspiciously like smothered profanity, and it was fully five minutes before the bewitching creature could bring the sunshine of a smile to his face. Now he tells a few confidential friends that young Blank has the making of one of the best business men in the city.—Detroit Free Press.

CRITICAL PERIODS

In Woman's Life Are Made Dangerous by Pelvic Catarrh.

Mrs. Mathilde Richter.

Mrs. Mathilde Richter, Doniphan, Neb., says: "I suffered from catarrh for many years, but since I have been taking Peruna I feel strong and well. I would advise all people to try Peruna. As I used Peruna and Man-a-lin while I was passing through the change of life, I am positively convinced your beneficial remedies have relieved me from all my ills."

Peruna has raised more women from beds of sickness and set them to work again than any other remedy. Pelvic catarrh is the bane of womanhood. Peruna is the bane of catarrh in all forms and stages. Mrs. Col. Hamilton, Columbus, O., says: "I recommend Peruna to women, believing it to be especially beneficial to them."

Remember that cholera morbus, cholera infantum, summer complaint, bilious colic, diarrhoea and dysentery are each and all catarrh of the bowels. Catarrh is the only correct name for these affections. Peruna is an absolute specific for these ailments, which are so common in summer. Dr. Hartman, in a practice of over forty years, never lost a single case of cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhoea, or cholera morbus, and his only remedy was Peruna. ## SCENE IS TOUCHING.

Affecting Meeting of Dreyfus and His Devoted Wife.

It Occurs Soon After He Is Imprisoned at Rennes—The Date of the Famous Frenchman's Trial Fixed for July 31.

Rennes, France, July 3.—When Dreyfus had been placed in his cell Saturday morning the governor of the prison sent Mme. Dreyfus the news of the arrival of her husband and she immediately went to the governor and asked permission to see the prisoner.

Leave being granted, the faithful wife entered the prison almost unobserved and was conducted to cell No. 830, accompanied by Mme. Havet.

The meeting between the long-parted husband and wife can better be imagined than described. Naturally, it was most touching.

Both Dreyfus and his wife were deeply affected. They remained long clasped in each other's arms, tears and smiles intermingling with tender endearments.

Mme. Dreyfus Weeps.

Madame Dreyfus issued from the prison in a state of collapse. She found her husband much aged, with beard and hair whitened and body shrunken and stooped. She said Dreyfus knew nothing of the events of the past two years.

The weeping wife acknowledged the courtesy with which she had been treated. The gendarme who was ordered to be present at the interview carried out instructions and kept at a discreet distance.

Thinks He Will Be Acquitted.

Mme. Dreyfus had a third interview with her husband Sunday afternoon. She found him much better. He received her with smiles instead of tears. Overdoses of quinine while on Devil's Island left him with a serious indigestion. He expresses himself convinced that he will be acquitted.

The prince of Monaco has written Mme. Dreyfus a sympathetic letter, inviting her husband to sojourn at his chateau after the acquittal, which, in the judgment of the prince is certain to be pronounced.

Trial Last Day of July.

Mme. Dreyfus desires to maintain an absolute retreat until after the trial, the date of which is definitely fixed for July 31.

The family have consulted physicians with a view to having Capt. Dreyfus examined to see if he is physically able to endure the strain of a trial. If the slightest sign of danger of a collapse shows itself the authorities will allow the prisoner to enter the military hospital.

Great Self-Control.

Paris, July 3.—Capt. Coffiniers de Hordeck, commander of the French cruiser Sfax, which brought Capt. Dreyfus to France, says in an interview that he was struck by the immense power of self-control displayed by Capt. Dreyfus during the voyage. The prisoner's attitude throughout was "one of irony and disdain." He had been suffering severely from seasickness when he was transferred to the Sfax, but he walked with firm tread, and during the entire trip never showed a sign of weakness or nervousness. Capt. Dreyfus was ignorant of the fact that a new court-martial awaited him and remained in ignorance during the first part of the voyage. When he was finally informed not a muscle of his face moved. He merely said: "I have no ill will toward anybody. I shall be glad to reenter the army, which I have never ceased to love." He did not allude to the subject again during the voyage. Most of the time he passed in reading.

France Is Tranquil.

Paris, July 3.—As the outcome of the government's prudence all France remains tranquil. Mme. Dreyfus has only obtained permission to visit her husband thrice weekly for an hour. His composure is the theme of all tongues. He speaks very little and seems to suffer a partial paralysis of speech, owing to his long silence. Even on board the Sfax he had to communicate with the officers by writing. He is credited on good authority with the following: "My condemnation and sentence were the symbol of anti-Jewish odium. My judges were involuntarily deceived. May my undesired expatriation put an end to all racial or religious feuds in the army and in that France which I have passionately loved and served."

Guarded Like a Wild Beast.

London, July 3.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Brest says: Dreyfus was guarded on board the Sfax like a wild beast. He was isolated like a cholera-stricken patient. If the cruiser had foundered he would have gone to his grave believing that Gen. De Boisdeffre was his courageous friend and champion, and altogether ignorant that such a man as Col. Picquart exists.

Germany Assents.

The Hague, July 3.—The German delegates at Saturday's session of the drafting committee of the arbitration committee of the peace conference officially announced the assent of Germany to Sir Julian Pauncefote's proposal of a permanent court of arbitration.

TROOPS TO PRESERVE PEACE.

Militia Companies Sent to Carterville, Ill., in Spite of Protest of the Mayor.

St. Louis, July 3.—A special to the Republic from Centerville, Ill., says that had it not been for the militia patrolling the streets Sunday strangers would hardly guess that the little city was in the midst of a struggle between capital and labor. Both sides in the trouble between the union miners and the non-union men lay on their arms and there were no disturbances. The presence of troops quieted matters and allayed fears of riotous outbreaks.

In accordance with the orders issued by Acting Governor Warder, through Adj. Gen. Reece, Saturday night, two companies of militia, C, of Carbondale, under Capt. Barton, and F, of Mount Vernon, under Capt. Pavey, arrived at Carbondale on a special train Sunday. There they awaited the coming of Col. Bennett, of Greenville, who arrived at noon. He took command of the troops and the special arrived at Carterville at one p. m. They immediately encamped in a grove on the outskirts of the town. A detachment of company C was detailed to patrol the roads leading to the Brush mines and a detail from company D patrolled the outskirts of town. Col. Culver, of the Sixth Illinois regiment, came down from Springfield on the noon train as the representative of Acting Governor Warder to look over the situation.

The business men and citizens generally of Carterville expressed disapproval of the action of the acting governor in sending the militia here. No manifestations of hostility were made toward the soldiers by the crowd that had assembled at the station when they came in, but the consensus of opinion was that there was no occasion for their presence here. Sheriff Gray was roundly denounced by several merchants for his telegrams to the governor, which resulted in the calling out of troops. Sunday afternoon a delegation of merchants and property owners called on Col. Culver to protest against the presence of the troops and to ask their withdrawal. The members of the delegation stated that Sheriff Gray had not exhausted his resources to prevent a conflict, and that he did not even attempt to raise a posse; furthermore, that he was not at the scene of the trouble more than three hours during the two days it lasted.

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—Acting Gov. Warder made a statement in regard to his action in calling out the troops. He said that he had detained calling out the troops until Saturday, hoping that this course would be rendered unnecessary, but from the advice of many reliable citizens, the strike being in his senatorial district, he believed the calling out of troops was unavoidable in order to uphold the law and prevent further violence and bloodshed. He declared that he had proceeded with caution and conservative deliberation, to the end that no mistakes be made in the premises.

Early Sunday morning Acting Gov. Warder received a telegram from State Secretary W. D. Ryan, of the United Mine Workers of America, who has been at Carterville since Saturday noon, in which he protested in the name of 30,000 united mine workers of Illinois against sending state troops to Carterville. A protest was also received from Mayor Zimmerman and a number of citizens of Carterville.

Carterville, Ill., July 3.—The saloons in the city have been closed by order of the mayor. Over 30 of the miners employed at the Brush colliery left the shaft Saturday and joined the strikers, many of them coming to this city. More than 300 shots were exchanged Saturday morning between the opposing sides, but with no bloodshed.

DIE IN TEXAS FLOOD.

Entire Towns Under Water and Property Worth Millions Ruined—Fifty Lives Lost.

Houston, Tex., July 3.—Lives lost, perhaps 50; cotton crop damaged, $2,000,000; corn crop damaged, $50,000; loss of various counties, $300,000; railroads' loss, $500,000; stock, houses, orchards, etc., $1,150,000, a total of $4,000,000—that is the cost of the storm which swept south and central Texas for four days.

The Big Brazos, the Little Brazos, the Colorado, the Trinity, the Guadalupe, the Leon, the Neches and all of their tributaries are overflowed.

A dispatch from Fort Worth says that 50 lives have been lost, and that property damages will reach more than a million dollars. The names of the drowned cannot be given, because communication with Calvert, the scene of the fatalities, has been cut off three days. The town is under water and people are in the second stories of houses, on top of roofs and in tree-tops. A boat with 16 refugees was upset and four were drowned. The Brazos is still rising and further destruction and death probably will follow.

Men coming into Fort Worth with rescued persons report that scores of men, women and children are clinging to trees and other objects.

Brenham, Tex., July 3.—Emil Steinman is here from Yegua, and says that not less than 300 horses and cattle have been drowned in that stream between Clay and Independence.

Immaterial.

"Hello!" said the voice at the other end of the telephone, "is this Grindle?"

"Yes."

"Did you write up that story of the man who had inherited a million dollars and was going to try his luck in grain speculation?"

"Yes."

"Proofreaders say they can't make out from your copy whether you meant to say he will find brokers ahead or he will find breakers ahead."

Do Your Feet Ache and Burn?

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, SYRUP OF FIGS, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package. CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. # COUNTY NEWS.

The Dexter mills have had a new set of feed rolls added to their equipment.

Mrs. Herman Tirb, of Sharon, was bitten by a rattlesnake one day recently.

The main streets of Dexter have been graveled which will greatly improve them in time.

The rural free delivery system for the territory about Ypsilanti is to be started shortly.

Mrs. Jacob Blum, of Manchester, has been adjudged insane by the judge of probate.

The Dexter opera house has been repainted inside and outside, and otherwise improved.

Grasshoppers are very thick around Dexter and are doing much damage to the grass crop.

Fred Kuhl, of Sharon, fell from a load of hay Tuesday of last week and broke his collar bone.

The Grass Lake school bell is cracked after 30 or 40 years' service and will be replaced by a new one.

Clark Hawes, of the St. James hotel, Ann Arbor, has sued a butcher named John Rose for $1,000 damages for injuries received from a meat hook which was hanging in front of Rose's place of business.

Emma Estleman, of York, whose husband Charles Estleman is serving a five years sentence in the Ionia prison for arson, has been granted a divorce by Judge Kinne on statutory grounds. She is also given charge of their little son.

The Dexter council has decided to grade around the soldiers' monument and enclose it with an ornamental iron railing; to remove the siding from the band stand and place seats on the ground floor, also to put some park seats under the trees.

Richard Sutton, 13 years old, of Iron Creek, Manchester township, was driving a mowing machine when the horses ran away and he was thrown in front of the cutter bar. Luckily the machine was thrown out of gear in some way and though badly injured the lad will live.

The building committee of the new St. Thomas' Catholic church, Ann Arbor, has decided to push the work still remaining to be done rapidly to completion, and to finish the church by December of this year. When finished it will be one of the finest church buildings in Michigan.

Mrs. S. W. Dexter died at the family home in Dexter, Tuesday, June 27, after a lingering illness, in her 88th year. She was buried in the family cemetery, beside her husband, Thursday afternoon last. Dexter village took its name from her husband, who was one of its first settlers.

Benjamin Rosenfeld, of Grand Rapids, who is attending the summer school at Ann Arbor, claims to have been held up and robbed at 8 o'clock last Thursday night on a business street within a block of the postoffice. His story was a rather fishy one. There are such things as "poker" games in Ann Arbor.

George Key, city engineer of Ann Arbor, has secured a patent on a process for making malleable iron castings without annealing. Heretofore, in making malleable iron castings, the process would take a month's duration. Mr. Key's process will accomplish the same result in about the length of time used for ordinary castings.

A new kind of a bug has made its appearance in the vicinity of Rawsonville, near Ypsilanti. It has a body as long as a hornet and is a blue black or slate in color. They were found in large quantities in beets in the garden which were rapidly being consumed. When sprayed they very soon left for the beans, driven from them they took next to potatoes, these last they do not seem to damage much. They have wings so they get around with greater speed than the potato beetle.

The university museum at Ann Arbor has recently come into possession of a parchment chart book, at one time the property of a cathedral in Santiago de Compostella, in Spain. The volume is four feet six inches wide, and three feet six inches from top to bottom. It is bound in heavy sole leather a quarter of an inch thick, and back and sides are strongly ribbed with brass. Its 150 hand printed pages are of vellum, each page elaborately decorated with beautiful paintings. The book contains only two services the Feast of the Virgin and the Feast of the House of Lauro, which services were used only in convents. The huge book was stolen from Santiago, probably at the time of the continental war, when Napoleon and his victorious armies were over-running Spain and sacking the cities of the south.

Bismarck's Iron Nerve

Religion a Cause for Divorce.

Henry Heiser, of Chelsea, has entered suit in the circuit court asking for a divorce from his wife Katharine Heiser, who, with their four children ranging in ages from 16 to 23 years, resides in Cleveland, Ohio. The couple were married in 1873. The bill is asked for on the ground of extreme cruelty caused by the peculiar religious views of Mrs. Heiser. The portion of the bill relating to this says:

"Your orator further shows unto the court that some years ago said defendant began to be afflicted by what she called religion in such a manner as to lead her to refuse to treat him as a dutiful wife should do; that she claims that the Bible teaches that marriage is ungodly; that she refused to recognize him as her husband or to speak of him as her husband; that when asked about her husband she would answer that Christ was her husband and that she was the bride of Jesus."

Ordinance No. 20.

An ordinance granting a franchise to the New State Telephone Company to set poles and string wires through the village of Chelsea and regulate the use of the same.

The Village of Chelsea ordains: SEC. 1. Consent, permission and authority is hereby granted to the New State Telephone Company, a corporation organized under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Michigan, for the period of twenty years from and after the approval of this ordinance, to maintain, erect and string in the streets, alleys and other public places in the village of Chelsea, all needful and proper poles, wires and other apparatus to conduct and carry on its telephone business in and through said village, subject to the conditions and restrictions imposed on said company in the succeeding sections of this ordinance.

SEC. 2. In constructing, extending or repairing said company's plant in said village, all poles or other apparatus that may interfere with the rights of others or the public use of the streets, alleys and public places of the village, shall be set and placed in such places as the common council of said village shall designate. And the said council reserve the right to order said company to change the location of any of its poles or apparatus in said village whenever it shall deem it proper to do so and, said company upon receipt of such order shall make the change required within a reasonable time.

SEC. 3. In constructing or repairing its plant in said village, said company shall not unreasonably obstruct any streets, alleys or public places in said village and shall leave all streets, alleys, sidewalks and public places in as good condition as they were in when disturbed as far as possible and shall hold said village harmless from damages resulting from its disturbance or obstruction of the streets, alleys, sidewalks or public places of said village, or any other neglect of duty on the part of said company.

SEC. 4. As a consideration for the granting of this franchise, the said telephone company shall put in three machines, one in the office of the president of the village, one in the power house and one in the office of the secretary of the plant and keep the same in order, together with the use of the same, all free of charge during the continuance of this franchise.

SEC. 5. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication.

Dated this 21st day of June, A. D., 1899. Geo. P. Staffan, president, W. H. Hesseleschwert, clerk.

Mortgage Foreclosure.

DEFAULT having been made in payments of a certain mortgage made by Ludwig Wuerth and Lydia Wuerth, his wife, to Magdalena Kapp, dated 3rd day of July, 1895, and recorded in the Register's office of Washtenaw county, Michigan, in Liber 90 mortgages, on page 256, on 11th day of July, 1895, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice, (the mortgagee electing to consider the whole amount of said mortgage due for the non-payment of interest the sum of two thousand four hundred and forty-seven and 83-100 dollars ($2,447.83), and no suit at law or in equity having been instituted for the collection of said amount or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 22nd day of July next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at east front door of the court house, in the city of Ann Arbor (that being the place where the circuit court of said county is held), there will be sold at public sale to the highest bidder therefor the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy amount of said mortgage, taxes, insurance and the costs of this foreclosure.

The premises so to be sold are described as follows: Beginning at a point on section line of the west side of the north-west quarter of section 31, in town south, range 6 east, in said county, chains and 52 links north of the quarter stake, thence north on said section line chains and 50 links, thence east parallel with the quarter line 44 chains and 50 links, being 16 rods east of the quarter line of said section, thence south 4 chains and 50 links, thence westerly parallel to the quarter line 44 chains and 52 links to the place of beginning, containing acres more or less. Also, beginning the west line of said section 31, 27 chains and 4 links north of the quarter post, east along the north line of the described land 44 chains and 4 links thence north 2 chains and 26 links, west parallel with the first line 44 chains and 44 links to the west line of a section, thence south 2 chains and 36 links to place of beginning, containing 10 acres more or less. Also, the north half of north half of the south half of the half of the south-east quarter of section 36 in said township p.

Mortgage Foreclosure.

DEFAULT having been made in payments of a certain mortgage made by Robert G. Barnes and Nellie Barnes, his wife, to Theodore J. DeForest and Carrie A. DeForest, his wife, dated the first day of April, 1898, and recorded in the Register's office of Washtenaw county, Michigan, on the 4th day of April, 1898, in Liber 96 of mortgages, page 548, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Nine Thousand and Twenty-two dollars and Fifty cents ($9,022.50), principal and interest, using a mortgage electing to consider the whole amount of said mortgage, together with taxes, insurance and the costs of this foreclosure. The premises so to be sold are described as follows:

Beginning at the south-east corner of section 36, in town two south, range east, and running thence north 1/2 township line 8 chains and 50 links post, thence north 23 degrees and minutes east along the north-westerly of land formerly deeded by Robert G. to Robert L. Geddes to a stake standing on the north-westerly corner of said Robert L. Geddes' land thence north-east along the northerly line of said Geddes' land (now owned by D. C. Griffin), the continuation of the same to the line of the Michigan Central Railroad Company, thence westerly along said railroad company's land to a point where the railroad crosses the Huron river, the southerly and westerly along the southerly line of said river to a point where the railroad crosses said lands on said section 36, Ann Arbor, thence along said railroad westerly to the center of the high running north and south through section 36, thence south on the section line to the south line of section 36, thence east on said section line to place of beginning. Also the north-west quarter of the south-west quarter section 36, town two south, range east, intending hereby to describe all land owned by Robert G.
