CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

How the Chelsea Churches Will Celebrate the Birthday of the Savior.

The several churches in this village have each made more or less elaborate preparation for the appropriate celebration of the festive season, and pretty decorations, bright music, special sermons, Sunday school exercises and Christmas festivities will be leading features for Sunday and Monday.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning Rev. C. S. Jones will preach a special sermon and the choir under the direction of Mr. George Ward will render special music. The beautiful bass solos in Sydenham's "Be merciful unto me" will be sung by Mr. Floyd Ward. Miss Nellie Lowry will preside at the organ. The following is the program of the service:

Organ Voluntary.
Doxology.
Invocation.
Gloria in Excelsis.
Responsive Reading.
Anthem—"Be merciful unto me"—Sydenham.
Reading of Scriptures, Luke ii:1-20.
Hymn—"Hark! the herald angels sing"—Mendelssohn.
Prayer.
Anthem—"O, sing to God"—Gounod.
Offertory.
Sermon—"The Preparation of the World for Christianity," Gal. iv:4, Isaiah ix:4-7.
Invocation.
Nunc Dimittis.
Benediction.

In the evening there will be exercises by the Sunday school. The choir will sing "While shepherds watched their flocks" by W. T. Best, and Berthold Tours' anthem "Sing, O heavens."

Special services and devotions and excellent music will be features of the celebration of the Birth of Christ next Monday at St. Mary's church. High mass will be celebrated at 5 a. m., during which the choir will sing Bailey's beautiful mass in D. At 8 a. m. a low mass will be celebrated, during which the junior choir will sing some choice Christmas anthems. At 10:30 a. m. a second high mass will be celebrated, when Lambillotte's splendid mass will be sung, with Farmer's exultant "Gloria" for offertory Mr. Burg and the choir will sing the tender song of the shepherds, "Venite, Adoremus." The pastor, Rev. William P. Considine, will be assisted by the Rev. Father Casimir, O. M. Cap., of Detroit, and appropriate sermons will be preached. The collection at all the masses will be a Christmas offering to the pastor.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock the Gregorian vespers will be sung and a fine musical program presented. Lambillotte's "Alma Redemptoris," and Mozart's "Magnificat" will be sung during vespers. After the vespers there will be a reception into the sodalities of the church. At the Benediction, which will conclude the services, Wiegand's beautiful "O Salutaris" will be sung as a trio by Messrs. Burg and Eisenman and Miss Hattie Burg. Beale's "Tantum Ergo" will follow as a solo and chorus, and the entire congregation will join in singing "Holy God, we praise Thy Name. A most artistic and beautiful set of Christmas crib figures will be placed in the sanctuary. There are 18 figures in the group, and were specially imported for St. Mary's church. Everybody is cordially invited to all these services.

At the Baptist church Sunday morning the service will be appropriate to the season. Rev. F. A. Stiles will preach a special sermon "A Visit to the Manger," and the choir will sing some special music. At 6 p. m. the B. Y. P. U. will have a Christmas program. On Monday evening the Sunday school children will have a Merry Christmas. There will be a program of music and recitations entitled "Yule-tide," followed by an old fashioned kitchen scene and winding up with "A Visit from St. Nicholas," arranged as a children's Christmas pantomime.

At the M. E. church, on account of the present lack of a church building, the exercises will be confined to the Christmas exercises at the regular session of the Sunday school.

At St. Paul's Lutheran church services will be held at 2 p. m. on Christmas day, when Rev. L. Koelbing, the pastor, will preach an appropriate sermon. In the evening the Sunday school children will have a Christmas tree and a literary program will be given by the scholars.

THE CATHOLIC CARNIVAL

Will Take Place at the Opera House Next Wednesday and Thursday Evenings.

Everything is in readiness for the coming bazaar to be given by the ladies and gentlemen of St. Mary's church at the opera house next Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Dec. 27 and 28. The booths will be very attractive, and will have a splendid lot of fancy and useful articles for sale. Vegetables, poultry and live stock in great profusion will be for sale cheap. A select musical program will be given each evening. To everyone buying a ticket of admission a chance will be offered on a five dollar gold piece. Our citizens are cordially invited to attend.

Death of Thomas L. Leach.

Thomas L. Leach, for 46 years a resident of Chelsea, died at the home of his daughter on Friday of heart disease. He would have been 88 years old had he lived until April 2, 1900. Mr. Leach was born in Suffolk, England, and at 13 years of age was apprenticed for seven years to the shoemaking trade. Having served his time and one year more, he came to Toronto, Canada, and from there went subsequently to Buffalo, N. Y. There his first wife and four children died of cholera within 24 hours. He then came to Chelsea and was married the second time. His wife died last spring, and of the nine children that were born to them eight are still alive. The funeral services were held at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon and were largely attended. Rev. C. S. Jones conducted the service.

A Tax Title That Did Not Hold.

The case of Finley B. Whitaker vs. Loren Babcock et al., was tried in the circuit court Monday, and after hearing the evidence Judge Kinne instructed the jury to bring in a verdict in favor of the defendants. The plaintiff had secured a tax title to the store property on North Main street, Chelsea, occupied by Frank Shaver and A. E. Winans and tried to get possession of the property by an ejectment. It was shown by the defense that the taxes in Sylvan for the year in which the tax title was given were illegal, for the reason that the taxes were $500 more than the township had voted to raise at the annual town meeting. Judge Kinne sustained the defense.

Refused the Request.

On Friday President George P. Staffan received a letter from R. H. L'Hommedieu, superintendent of the Michigan Central Railroad, to whom the petition of the common council, asking that trains Nos. 14 and 23 make regular stops at Chelsea, was referred. The letter was couched in very polite language, but it emphatically refused to grant any such thing. The reason given was that the trains were heavy and all the running time was needed to get them to their destination on time. The letter also stated that the winter season was coming on and the trains were very frequently away behind time as it is.

Lima.

John Steinbach was an Ann Arbor visitor Sunday.

Forty-five couple attended the dance at the hall Friday night.

Miss Nellie Casterline, of Ann Arbor, spent part of last week here.

The church was well filled Sunday night to hear H. W. Newkirk.

About 85 of his friends gave John Steinbach a surprise Saturday night.

W. W. Wedemeyer, of Ann Arbor, will give a lecture at the church Thursday night, Dec. 28, for the benefit of the Epworth League. Admission 10 cents.

The poverty social at the hall Thursday night was not very largely patronized owing to the storm. A free supper was given to the two most poverty stricken looking. Henry Luick acted as judge and decided in favor of Estella Guerin and S. D. Cramer. The judge fined seven for wearing good clothes.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 18.—President Angell, in his speech at the banquet of the University of Michigan Alumni Association of Western New York, held at Buffalo, referring to the demand for a better training for commercial pursuits, said:

"The time has long since past when men go to colleges simply for the purpose of studying a profession. We all feel that the country has entered upon a new career, that the country is to reach out in great commercial enterprises that will have to do with the development of trade on the other side of the world, and we are coming to the point where we are hoping to take possession of a large part of the markets of the world. It is certainly going to be by some blunder of our own if we do not."

"It, therefore, seems to me that it is the duty of the universities to train men so that they may be fitted to guide these great international concerns. We should train them in the laws that will govern international trade; train them in the languages that they may be called upon to speak in the conduct of that trade. We are not in a position at this time to create such a department in the University of Michigan, but we hope to receive a sufficient income from private sources to enable us to establish it."

"The day has passed when the great universities can live in seclusion. I think that the public is beginning to appreciate the fact that the colleges are no longer the home for the useless, but are striving, and striving with success, to meet the great needs of American society in all branches of human enterprise."

Michigan Marl Lands.

Prof. Israel C. Russell, of the department of geology, will read a paper at a meeting of the Geological Society of America, to be held in Washington, D. C., December 25-27. The subject of the paper is "Deposits of Calcareous Marl in Michigan." Prof. Russell will point out the fact that a large number of lakes and swamps in the southern peninsula of Michigan have been found to contain deposits of calcareous marl suitable for the manufacture of Portland cement. The marl is composed in part of shells but is mainly a chemical precipitate and is still being deposited. The better grades contain from 80 to 95 per cent. of calcium carbonate. Several large cement works have already been established and others are contemplated. The supply of marl is practically inexhaustible and Michigan can easily take a leading place in the Portland cement industry.

Prosperous Museum.

The pathological museum has increased over a hundredfold in the last five years. Many valuable specimens have been obtained, chiefly from the clinics of the university hospitals, though much good material has been sent in by physicians of the state. Two of the specimens of this collection have become classical in pathological literature as being the first cases of the kind ever reported. These are a fibro-lipoma of the kidney of an extraordinary growth, and a case of ectopic gestation with tuberculosis of placenta and foetus. The adoption of Kaiserling's method of preservation has resulted in many beautiful specimens which completely retain their natural color.

College Publications.

Not less than 23 journals, periodicals and newspapers, exclusive of annuals, have been issued as college publications of the university since the opening of the institution. The first was the Sibly, published semi-monthly, by the Alpha Nu Literary society from 1844 to 1866. The paper is in transcript form, the bound numbers being in the university library. Of the 23 publications, seven are still alive; the others, 16 in number, have been laid to rest in the newspaper boneyard in the library.

Football Scores.

The university football team was engaged in 11 contests during the season that has just ended. In eight of these it was victorious. The scores for the ten games and the places where they were played are as follows:

May Go to Paris.

The possibility of the university being represented at the world's fair in Paris next summer by a team of athletes is now a much-discussed topic. At an athletic board meeting the question of a Paris representation was thoroughly discussed. It appeared that Michigan will have to undertake all expenses incident to the trip if decided upon. To start a fund for this purpose it was suggested that a subscription paper be circulated among the alumni in Detroit and Chicago, all subscriptions to be contingent for collection upon the showing of the track team later in the spring being good enough to warrant entry. This plan will likely be adopted. The prospects for the team at the present time are excellent.

Will Continue Drilling.

The board of regents at a meeting decided to continue drilling at the deep well on the campus. The committee of the board having the matter in charge was instructed to contract at their option for 500 or 1,000 feet further.

Special Collections.

The third floor of the new book room in the general library is to be temporarily fitted up for special collections. Fireproof partitions are to be placed so as to divide the floor into a number of rooms. In these tables will be placed, and other arrangements made for the accommodation of certain of the more valuable books in the possession of the library.

Series of Tests.

The class in mechanical engineering visited the power house of the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor electric railway at Ypsilanti Wednesday, December 13, and carried out a series of tests of the machinery, extending over a period of 19½ hours.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Preacher in a Prize Fight.

Rev. J. J. Axtell, pastor of the Congregational church at Royal Oak, and a leader in a great reform movement there, accepted the challenge of Gus Dondero, proprietor of the Royal Oak house, for a five-round "go" with the gloves; and the "mill" was quietly pulled off in a barn, the result being declared a draw. Axtell weighed 135 pounds and his opponent 165. The "mill" was the result of Rev. Mr. Axtell's efforts to make the saloon keepers obey the law in regard to selling liquor to minors and after legal hours.

MAKES CHARGES.

The President of the Michigan Farmers' Association Says Scandals Exist at the University.

"The employment of habitual or chronic drunkards as teachers, lecturers or employes has become a public scandal and should not be tolerated further," declared President Watkins in referring to the University of Michigan in his annual address to the State Association of Farmers' Clubs in Lansing. He also charged that no system of accounting is in vogue at the university, so far as the purchase and disposal of personal property is concerned, and that, as a result, instruments and materials of great value are taken from the public stores indiscriminately and are scattered all over the city and used without remuneration to the state in the private practice of the professors.

CLAIMS THE GOLD.

Money Found on a Farm in Barry County Last Spring Wanted by a Hartford Woman.

Last spring, on a farm in Barry county, a kettle was plowed up containing about $8,000 in gold and silver coin. The farm was formerly owned by John Solver, an uncle of Mrs. John Mix, of Hartford. During the civil war he visited Mrs. Mix's father and spoke of having sufficient help to keep all of them without work. Some time after he went to Isabella county, and on his return found a white man on his farm who had cleared a field and planted it to corn.

Mr. Solver went to work to find his coin, but failed to do so, and then accused the farmer of having stolen it, which so frightened him that he left the premises for fear of being scaped. Not long after this Mr. Solver was found dead in Isabella county, supposed to have been murdered.

Mrs. Mix has just returned from a visit to Barry county, where she went to assert her claim to the money, being the one lawful heir of her uncle, John Solver.

THE SOO CANAL.

Interesting Statistics Showing the Amount of Business Done on This Waterway the Past Season.

Statistics regarding the Sault ship canal have been computed to the close of November and are as follows:

The total tonnage of the canal was 24,636,532 tons of freight, which is to be compared with a total for the entire year of 1898 of 2,400,000 tons less. This is an increase of 15 per cent. The increase of 1898 was 12 per cent.

Food enough to keep a nation from starvation was carried to the east and to Europe through the canal this year, amounting to 54,279,000 bushels of wheat, 27,680,000 bushels of other grains and 6,804,000 barrels of flour. Of this flour about 35 per cent. was for direct export, and nearly as great a proportion of the wheat.

The great bulk of the lake commerce of the year has been iron ore, which has so far amounted to 13,495,000 gross tons.

Shipments of lumber amounted to 1,032,000,000 feet, for the markets of New York and New England. Coal to the extent of 823,380 tons of anthracite and 3,000,000 of bituminous have been received. This is an increase of almost 300,000 tons in hard coal.

Passengers carried up and down the lakes have increased to almost 50,000 in number, a 20 per cent. improvement.

Will Test the Law.

The Michigan Sugar Company of Bay City has had the state land commissioner issue certificates showing the manufacture of sugar which calls for a bounty of about $35,000, and these have been filed with the auditor general. These certificates were for the output for October and November. The companies whose factories commenced operations this year will, it is understood, do likewise, and later in the year all will make a common case against the state for the purpose of testing the validity of the bounty law.

For Mutual Benefit.

A farmers' club, under the style and title of the Jefferson club, has been organized at Shadyside. Its object is to "inculcate a broad, intelligent ambition among our farmers, that more beneficial results in agriculture and horticulture may be secured, together with a higher standard in moral, social and intellectual culture, and a more thorough knowledge of economic principles." Arlo Paterson, of Pittsford, is president, and Louisa Powell, of the same place, is secretary.

Cutting Down His Force.

Railroad Commissioner Osborn has decided to discontinue the work of wire inspection throughout the state from January 1 to May 1, and the services of three wire inspectors, John E. Jones, Andrew DeBoer and Lester H. Canfield, will be dispensed with.

BULLER REPULSED.

He Is Forced to Retreat While Attempting to Cross the Tugela River.

London, Dec. 16.—The war office has received a dispatch announcing that Gen. Buller has met with a serious reverse. Gen. Buller was attempting to cross the Tugela river. Finding it impossible to effect his object, he ordered a retirement in order to avoid greater losses. He left 11 guns behind.

London, Dec. 13.—Another engagement in South Africa, described as a brilliant sortie, was fought in the vicinity of Ladysmith on Sunday night.

The following report of it was received from Gen. Buller:

"Dispatch from Gen. White, dated December 11, says: 'Last night Col. Metcalfe and 500 of the Second rifle brigade sortied to capture a Boer howitzer on a hill. They reached the crest without being discovered, drove off the enemy and then destroyed the howitzer with gun cotton. When returning Metcalfe found his retreat barred by the Boers, but he forced his way through, using the bayonet freely. The Boer losses were considerable. The British losses were the following: Lieut. Ferguson and 11 men killed, three officers and 41 men wounded; six men captured.'

London, Dec. 14.—Gen. Methuen's report from Mudders river shows that he met with a serious check Monday and suffered great losses.

The war office has received the following dispatch from Gen. Methuen dated Tuesday, December 12:

"Our artillery shelled a very strong position held by the enemy in a long, high kopje from four until dusk Sunday. It rained hard last night. The Highland brigade attacked at daybreak on Monday the south end of the kopje. The attack was properly timed, but failed. The guards were ordered to protect the Highlanders' right and rear. The cavalry and mounted infantry, with a howitzer artillery battery, attacked the enemy on the left and the guards on the right, supported by field artillery and howitzer artillery. They shelled the position from daybreak, and at 1:15 I sent the Gordons to support the Highland brigade.

"The troops held their own in front of the enemy's entrenchments until dusk, the position extending, including the kopje, for a distance of six miles towards the Modder river. To-day I am holding my position and entrenching myself. I had to face at least 12,000 men. Our loss was great."

"As the Boers occupied their trenches strongly this morning I retired in perfect order here, where I am in security. I have gathered from some of the prisoners and from our men with the ambulance, who talked with the Boers, that the enemy's losses were terrible, some corps being completely wiped out. The Boers have been most kind to my wounded."

London, Dec. 14.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Gen. Forester-Walker:

"Cape Town, Tuesday, Dec. 12.—Methuen wires that Gen. Wauchope was killed in action yesterday."

[Gen. Wauchope, of the Black Watch, commanded the Highland brigade with Gen. Methuen's column. He served in Ashanti, Egypt, and the Sudan. He was frequently mentioned in dispatches and twice contested Midlothian, once against Mr. Gladstone. He was a great favorite in the army.]

London, Dec. 14.—Each important battle seems to bring a worse reverse for the British, and the papers sorrowfully admit that Lord Methuen's check at Magersfontein is the most serious event the war has yet produced.

London, Dec. 14.—Methuen's defeat, Gatacre's great danger, Mafeking's lack of rations, Ladysmith's investment without sign of relief, threatened rising of Cape-Dutch and 2,000 British prisoners at Pretoria discourage London. The London Times says at least 20,000 more soldiers are needed.

A Merry Christmas
and
A Happy, Prosperous New Year

June 19, 1900, has been named as the date, and Philadelphia as the place for holding the coming Republican national convention.

The currency bill passed the House Monday by a vote of 190 yeas to 150 nays. Every Republican present voted in favor of the gold standard, also 11 Democrats.

As a result of the investigations of the Ingham county grand jury, Gov. Pingree has demanded the resignations of Gens. White, Marsh and Case, who comprise the state military board.

The new and advanced schedule of freight rates adopted by the railroads of the country to take effect the beginning of next year is raising a storm of indignation among the shippers. Protests will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission which meets in Washington today.

Congressman H. C. Smith fared well in the distribution of places on the House committees. He has been assigned to the committees on railways and canals, and pensions and accounts. His membership on the latter carries with it considerable personal influence, as the committee is charged with the auditing of congressional accounts.

Gen. Henry W. Lawton, the modest, unassuming hero of three wars, was killed at San Mateo, Philippine Islands, Monday night, by being shot in the breast while standing in front of his troops, on the firing line. He had gone to capture the place, where it was said Geronimo had 300 insurgents. His death has caused a profound feeling of sorrow throughout the land.

Michigan's congressmen are being heard from in Congress, and our own particular representative, Henry C. Smith, is not hanging on to the tail end of the procession. His speech on the currency bill Wednesday night of last week showed him to be possessed of the qualities which make up a good parliamentary debater, namely, witty sarcasm, unvarying good temper and sound argumentative ability.

Remarkable Rescues.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this great discovery at Glazier & Stimson's Bank Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1. every bottle guaranteed.

CHRISTMAS MORN

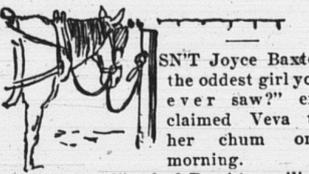

ALMELY at the close of day
Bethlehem in beauty lay,
When ere long a star arose
That with strange effulgence glows,
While the joyful angels sing:

"We from Heaven glad tidings bring!"
Welcome, ever blessed morn,
When the holy Babe was born!
Shepherds watching on the plains,
Saw the herald angel trains,
As around a dazzling light
Flashes from their wings of white,
Sounding loud o'er hill and glen:
"Peace on earth, good will to men!"
Blessed morn! Oh, sweet employ,
Christ to praise in songs of joy!

Now in Heaven the Saviour waits
With its ever open gates,
Where the saints before Him fall
Throned in glory, Lord of all!
Like the wise men let us bring
Fitting presents to our King;
Give the heart, which in His eyes,
Ever is the richest prize!

Day of days when Christ was born!
Ever hailed the brightest morn!
When salvation's work was done,
All power given to the Son,
Still He marks the garden's gloom,
Bloody cross and rocky tomb,
And is with us when we raise
Sweetest songs of Christmas praise!
—Sydney Dyer, in Chicago Standard.

CHRISTMAS IN THE PROMISED LAND

SN'T Joyce Baxter the oddest girl you ever saw?" exclaimed Veva to her chum one morning.

"What now?" asked Bessie, smiling over her fancy work.

"Why, nothing," replied Veva, "except that she's taken it into her head to spend Christmas with that queer, old-fashioned aunt of hers up in the country instead of here in town where there's going to be so much fun. She is the oddest girl I ever knew. Fancy spending a week in that dull, poky place, where the neighbors live half a mile apart and with that old couple and their hired girl for company! But there's no accounting for tastes. Joyce is lovely in most things, pretty and stylish and always so pleasant, but sometimes when she takes such queer freaks it makes me almost believe she does it for effect. And to think she'll miss the Christmas party at Jean's! I know she's invited, for Jean told me so."

The two girls drifted off from the subject of Joyce into talk of fancy work for Christmas presents and gay costumes for the approaching party.

Meanwhile in Joyce's pretty home on the avenue Mrs. Baxter was holding converse with her dark-eyed daughter. "You're a queer little girl," she was saying, "to prefer spending the holidays up at Aunt Isabel's when all the other girls are so excited about Jean's party. It's to be a nice affair, I know, because Jean's mother has taken counsel with me and there are to be several pretty novelties besides the regular good time. If I were you, dear, I'd give up the idea of going to the Promised Land and stay at home."

But Joyce knew what she wanted, and presently Mrs. Baxter, with a loving little pat on the shoulder, left her to herself.

"I believe the child intends to go up into the Promised Land as a regular Christmas fairy," she thought, smilingly, as she descended the stairs. "All those mysterious little bundles in her room mean something."

But later in the day Joyce slipped her mother's wrap upon that lady's shoulders, brought her hat and gloves and made her go out with her for a little shopping. And on the way she revealed her plans.

"I've made up my mind that there shall be a Christmas tree in the Promised Land this year," she began. "I wrote to Aunt Isabel some time ago, and asked some questions. She's written back that the young folks in the Promised Land have never had a Christmas tree and if I want to go into it I may have her big front room and Uncle Ben will see about the tree. So I've been buying and making these little things, you know, to put on it and now I'm after candy to finish off with."

Mrs. Baxter looked affectionately at her daughter. "You're a good girl, Joyce," she said, softly, "and mother's proud of you." And then she opened her own purse and purchased some choice gifts for Aunt Isabel and Uncle Ben. "You can smuggle them onto the tree without their knowing a thing about it," she said. "I declare, Joyce, I do wish I was going to the Promised Land, too!"

"But you can't, you know," laughed Joyce; "there's the Christmas dinner to be looked after and papa to take care of. I'm the only one who can be spared. But won't it be nice? I'll write you all about it the very next day."

The Promised Land is the name given to a narrow valley which runs up among the hills which form a spur of the Allegheny mountains. It is an isolated region, "three miles from nowhere," as some of its inhabitants say, but fruitful farms and comfortable homes are scattered along its length on either side of the straggling road which forms its only street.

When Uncle Ben met Joyce at the train down in the village he was somewhat amazed to see that there was a trunk which he was expected to carry too. But he asked no questions as he cheerfully tugged it into the old sleigh. "Seems kind o' queer she'd bring along a trunk for just a few days," he thought to himself, "but mebbe she's going to stay quite a spell." And as the old man tucked the blankets in snug and warm he found himself hoping that she would.

There was seldom a strange face seen on that familiar road which led up into the Promised Land, and Joyce caught fleeting glimpses of interested faces peering out at them as Uncle Ben's old horse jogged heavily along. Two or three of the young girls she had become acquainted with during the preceding summer, when she had spent a week at the farm, and now she gayly waved her hand to them as she caught sight of them at the window or door. And so swiftly does news travel, even in the Promised Land, that before nightfall everyone knew that Joyce Baxter, Aunt Isabel's niece, had come up to spend the holidays. Somehow the very knowledge of this helped to content some dissatisfied girl hearts with the prospect of the usual dull Christmas in the valley.

But when next day Uncle Ben's well-known horse and cutter stopped at every gate in the Promised Land and pretty, stylish Joyce came up the path to the front door, followed a moment later by Uncle Ben, who never missed the chance of a neighborly visit, there seemed to come all at once into those quiet lives a new something of delight and interest which had not been there before. And when Joyce in her own pleasant way had given her invitation "to come up to Aunt Isabel's to-morrow things around." And Belinda, smiling broadly in pleased anticipation of the unusual thing which was about to happen, deftly spread the snow-white frosting over the big fruit cake she had allowed to cool.

"It will be nice, that's a fact," she said, energetically. "It's wonderful, ain't it, what just one girl can set a-going when she takes a notion!"

At seven o'clock the Promised Land people presented themselves at Uncle Ben's front door. The old man, shining with hospitality, beamed upon his guests and welcomed each one with a hearty handshake. And next came Joyce with a bright word for every one and a smile and a happy welcome for each and every child. The young girls looked at Joyce in bashful admiration. How pretty she looked in her soft blue dress, with one of Aunt Isabel's geranium blossoms in her hair!

They came and came and Uncle Ben overflowed with genial warmth, while Aunt Isabel, whose rheumatism kept her closely to her chair, smiled peacefully upon them all and never once thought of her bright rag carpet under all those snow-dampened feet. Uncle Ben had made a fire in the big sitting-room fireplace, and around this the older folks gathered for a friendly visit.

At half-past seven Joyce opened the front room door and ushered the children and young people into the blaze and glory of the first Christmas tree some of them had ever seen. Right proudly did Joyce view the pretty scene, the hemlock-garlanded room, the wreaths above the pictures, but over all and crowning all the lovely tree, towering to the ceiling, aglow with the soft light of dozens of candles, agleam with snowy festoons of popcorn, golden oranges and bags of candies. Joyce had worked hard all day and was tired—at least she had been tired before the people came—but now as she looked into the happy faces and wondering eyes she felt that it had paid.

Who could tell of all the joys of that wonderful Christmas Eve! How astonished each boy was when Uncle Ben loudly read his name and handed down to his eager hands some mysterious, evening at seven o'clock," they all thought it was lovely and promised to go, but not one of them even suspected a Christmas tree. And it was not only the young people who were asked to come. Not one was slighted. Every family was invited, from grandma down to the long-dressed baby. Aunt Isabel had said: "Ask 'em all, my dear, the house is big enough to hold 'em, I guess, and anyhow it'll do us good to crowd up and be neighborly." For the truth was that the widely-scattered families were not at all noted for their "neighborliness." All had grown into a stay-at-home habit, or when they went at all it was generally to the village.

A busier household than Uncle Ben's could not be imagined than was his on the day before Christmas. Very early in the morning he and Joyce had driven off up into the hemlock woods and brought home in triumph a beautiful tree, tall, shapely and stout of branch. And it was Uncle Ben who set it firmly in a block of wood and bore it into the big front room. And it was Belinda, the "help," who popped great handfuls of snowy corn, and Aunt Isabel who sat in her red-covered rocking-chair and strung it into long festoons for the tree. And it was Joyce who filled the generous bags of lacesnet she had made at home with candy, raisins and cracked nuts. And it was Joyce who twined long, spicy-smelling ropes of hemlock to swing from the ceiling and around the walls.

Belinda and Aunt Isabel retired to the kitchen, while Joyce was busy with Uncle Ben in the front room, and presently Belinda's cake-making skill was announced by delicious smells from the big oven, and Aunt Isabel, sliced the pink ham and sandwiched it in between the daintily-thin buttered bread.

"We'll have tea and coffee both, Belinda," said Aunt Isabel, "and pass the parcel! How radiantly happy was each small girl who received some pretty thing from that wonderful tree! And no child was forgotten. And then how they all shouted when Uncle Ben peered through his glasses at the parcels he found on the tree for himself! And how they all exclaimed when Joyce undid Aunt Isabel's bundle and laid a beautiful, soft, fleecy, white shawl about her shoulders! And then when Uncle Ben, who had privately invited a minister from the village, asked for a few Christmas remarks, they all listened reverently while that sweet old story of the Babe of Bethlehem was told once more.

And after the candles had burned down, sputtered and gone out, the front room was deserted in favor of the big kitchen, where all sorts of gay, romping games were played. Joyce, flushed and merry, wondered once or twice if the girls at Jean's Christmas party were having as much fun as she.

Presently Belinda, important and smiling above her snow-white apron, passed plates and napkins, and Joyce helped her serve the delicious cake and sandwiches and pour the tea and coffee. What a royal good time it was, and how jovial the old men were, and how vivacious the old ladies! Aunt Isabel and Uncle Ben were plainly happy, and so was Belinda, and if the guests were one-half as happy as Joyce they were happy, indeed.

When it was all over and all the guests had departed for their respective homes in the Promised Land, Uncle Ben drew Joyce down upon his knee. "Little girl," he said, "you done well—you done nobly! The true Christmas spirit is in your heart, 'peace and good will.'"

And Aunt Isabel smiled across at her. "You've brought the Christmas feeling is to my heart, child," she said softly. "I can't bear to have you go home day after to-morrow."

Joyce laughed gleefully. "I'm not going, auntie," she said. "I've three weeks' vacation, and I'm going to spend it all with you."

Uncle Ben chuckled to himself: "That's the way to talk," said he. "I wondered when I see that trunk of yours if you mebbe wasn't going to stay with us a spell, and so you be. We'll try to have some sleighrides and candy-pulls up here in the Promised Land while you're here and I don't doubt a mite but what we'll all have a good time."—Harriet Francene Crocker, in Union Signal.

CHRISTMAS GIVING.

The Costliest Gift Is Not the Most Priced—Careful Thought Required in the Selection.

There is an undercurrent of gladness in the air; a joyous bustle of anticipation all about us. Home is full of delightful little mysteries; certain rooms are forbidden us quite after the manner of a Bluebeard's castle; the children have wonderful secrets and their eyes are dancing with eager expectancy. "I know something," a sweet little voice announces, and though the small maiden plainly reveals what that "something" is several times a day, you are not to guess, for it was never intended that you should know.

It is a self-centered mind that takes no pleasure in the thought of Christmas giving, and the heart that is never stirred with a loving wish knows little of real happiness.

Some dismal old grumblers may declare that because we may not always give wisely we should not give at all, and to some the joyousness of others is but an arrow of bitterness poisoned with envy; but the spirit of good will reigns in many hearts; though poverty and grief, pride and selfishness all strive to shut it out.

How to give; what to give and where to give? We sometimes sigh that these are vexing questions; while it is our privilege to comfort and delight in some measure, we fretfully complain of the trouble it costs us to plan our gifts. But if it suddenly became impossible for us to give at all, we should know so well what we would like to give if it were only possible.

Perhaps we expect a host of our wants gratified, yet plan grudgingly and carelessly for others.

A gift that is hurriedly selected at the last moment is seldom a suitable one, and lacks the meaning that should give it value.

Sensible people do not prize the gift that is costly and valuable and that represents a large amount of money, but one which shows a knowledge of their needs, tastes or fancies.

It is more necessary to put thought into our gifts than either labor or money.

A young lady gave her brother a sofa-pillow, and then remembered that he had no sofa, and that her pillow was far too delicate and pretty to be of use, even if he had one; to her friend in a distant city, some china which smashed on its journey; a volume of Browning to her practical merchant father, and a bit of expensive jewelry to the mother who had fashioned with patient labor her own gift and whose careful economy alone kept them from real want.

The strange and inappropriate gifts that are every year bestowed might form a ludicrous list, were it not for the pathetic side of the story.

A little more time and thought, a little more patient effort, would add a value to our gifts that money cannot give and a joy to our hearts that comes alone to those who lose sight of self in some blessed sacrifice of love.—Carleton's Every Where.

Brown—I don't know; my wife hasn't heard from the neighbors yet.—Up To Date.

Paid in Advance.

A nervous drummer who carries with him wherever he travels a coil of rope was asked by the landlord of a small hotel up in Shasta county, Cal., what the rope was for. "That's a fire escape," explained the drummer, "and I always have it with me so in case of fire I can let myself down from the window." "Seems like a pretty good idea," said the landlord, "but guests with fire escapes pay in advance at this hotel."

CROSSES THE RIVER.

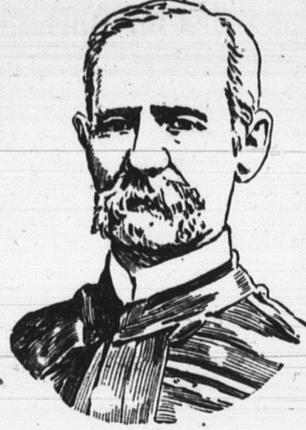

Gen. Buller Fights His Way Over the Tugela.

Details of His Advance Not Given—Communication with Methuen Out of—Volunteers Respond to the Call.

London, Dec. 19.—The Daily Mail hears from a hitherto reliable correspondent that Gen. Buller, after a stiff fight, crossed the Tugela river. The correspondent also states that Gen. Methuen's communications are cut.

Heavy Cost of the War.

London, Dec. 19.—The Daily Chronicle's financial article, which is written by A. J. Wilson, a leading authority, says: "The expenditure for the war considerably exceeds £2,000,000 per week, and as the treasury cannot hope to sell its bills on the market under five per cent., it is evident that the government must soon come upon the market for money."

Hopes Are Revived.

London, Dec. 19.—"Bobs," as Lord Roberts, of Kandahar, is familiarly known, is a name to conjure with in Great Britain, and that Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener are considered the right men to relieve the disastrous situation in South Africa is amply evidenced by the more cheery tone of the war discussion. In spite of the attempts of the authorities to gloss over the suppression of Gen. Buller, the fact remains that the new appointment cannot be regarded otherwise than as a penalty for his failure.

Throughout the country volunteers are responding with the utmost alacrity to the official notices. Lord Lonsdale says he believes the government will only accept from 20 to 50 men from each yeomanry regiment. It is asserted that many officers of the volunteer regiments are offering to go as troopers if not accepted as officers.

Kitchener to Hasten.

Cairo, Dec. 19.—Gen. Lord Kitchener, who has been appointed chief of the staff of Gen. Lord Roberts of Kandahar, the new commander-in-chief of the British forces in South Africa, leaves Omdurman Tuesday and will arrive here Friday. He will start for Cape Town as soon as possible.

Penalty of Treachery.

London, Dec. 19.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Freres camp says that the bodies of two of the guides who misled Gen. Gatacre at Stormberg were found on the battlefield. The men had been shot.

Battle of Tugela River.

London, Dec. 19.—A correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing from Freres camp, Natal, December 15, describing the Tugela river battle, says: "The Boers in great force occupied a strong, entrenched position, commanding the river and reaching back 800 yards from its further side. Gen. Hart's brigade, on the left, first attempted a crossing under a murderous nordenfheldt and rifle fire. The Royal Dublin fusiliers, the Royal Inniskilling fusiliers, the King's Own Scottish borders and the Connaught rangers crossed with superb unflinching gallantry, but the position on the other side was found utterly untenable. The British suffered heavily from a perfect hail of artillery and shrapnel, while their own artillery was very badly mauled. They were, therefore, obliged to recross the river. On the right, Gen. Hildyard's brigade, displaying equal heroism, succeeded in entering the village of Colenso, but the Sixth battery encountered a murderous fire, and was compelled to retreat, leaving guns and ammunition wagons on the field. This brigade also was obliged to fall back. Meanwhile Gen. Barton's brigade also failed to take possession of Hlanwri hill, as was intended, and the entire force retired on Chieveley. Gen. Clery was in command."

THE BUSTLING WOMAN.

She is Even Worse Than That Other Intolerable Nuisance, the Bustling Man.

If the busiest men and women were the greatest bustlers, plenary absolution might be granted them, but as a matter of fact bustlers are not the people who get through an enormous amount of work, and live at a high pressure; when bustlers are busy it is generally either about other people's business, or else about self imposed, highly unnecessary work.

But the bustling woman! No soporific influences can be brought to bear on her; she does not smoke, she has not time, we almost wish she did, for she is 10,000 times worse than the bustling man.

TWO NEW SLEEVES.

Small Coat Design Is Still Fashionable and There Are Many New Trimmings.

Something decidedly new is shown in the sleeves that will be worn this winter. Lace, velvet, ribbon and passementerie are applied upon them with lavish hand, and an epaulette can easily cost $50 with its tiny rows of jeweled beading.

SLEEVES FOR WINTER GOWNS.

It is trimmed from wrist to shoulder with small bands of ribbon velvet and capped with an epaulette of plain silk trimmed with narrow strips of jeweled beading and edged with plaited lisse. It is needless to say that the jeweled beading can be duplicated with an inexpensive passementerie.

The second sleeve is trimmed with folds of the waist material and finished at the shoulder with a lace design applied upon it.

To Clean Cotton Fabrics.

French satens may be cleaned by putting them in a lather of lukewarm soapuds, in which dissolve a cupful of salt. Put salt also in the rinsing water. Dip the article in thin starch and roll in a clean sheet, and in two hours on the wrong side. For washing on or mauve gingham add a table-spoonful of washing soda to a gallon of cold rinsing water; this will bring out all the colors, while a teacupful of vinegar to a gallon of water will improve pink or green prints. For black or navy wash in hot water containing a cupful of salt, rinse in very blue water and dry in the shade; then dip in very fine thin starch, and when nearly dry on the wrong side with a moderate warm iron.

Like Hay Fever. She could not forbear asking him, after the refusal, if he were of the belief that he would never love again. "I dunno," he said, sadly. "It is an even chance that I will have another attack next spring."—Indianapolis Journal.

RAMPART WHIRLPOOL.

That is the Stirring Name of a Klondike Newspaper Edited by a Woman.

Mrs. Clara E. Wright, formerly of San Francisco, is the only woman editor and publisher in the Klondike region. Her paper, the Rampart City Whirlpool, was established last January as a monthly publication of 12 pages. It has already doubled in size, and has a bigger circulation at one dollar per copy than the entire population of the town, so many papers are sent home by the miners.

Mrs. Wright doesn't get her fingers black musing 'round with inky type; no, indeed! She builds her paper with two very feminine tools, the typewriter and the sewing machine, with the sole help of her ten-year-old daughter Doris.

For some years Mrs. Wright, who is a widow, had supported her little girl and herself by stenographic work in San Francisco. With her sewing machine she made at home all the garments of both.

But she could earn no more than a bare living. Typewriters' wages are low, and there was the little girl growing up to need some day an education, and mother love would gladly put upon her beautiful clothing, would lavish toil to save little Doris such a life of hardships as her mother's.

So in June last year, without her daughter, Mrs. Wright went to Dawson, and thence pushed on to Rampart City. At first she was a gold seeker like the rest, but met little success. It was in January, when mining was stopped by the cold, that she conceived the idea of issuing a paper. There was no white paper in town, so the first numbers of the Whirlpool were typewritten on reddish brown wrapping paper and stitched together on the sewing machine. Now all those early difficulties are passed. The paper is printed on durable manila, and little Doris is there to help work off the increased edition.

Mrs. Wright intends to stick by Rampart City until she has made her pile. Of course she has some mining interests which may pan out well.

The Whirlpool is brightly written. Here are some local items:

We are the only gilt pebbles on the beach. Gov. McGraw, of Seattle, has spent a week in town doing the Highland fling in Dr. Jones' dental parlor, and incidentally having nugget buttons inserted in lieu of teeth.

We were going to speak respectfully of the Yukon mail service, but we can't. The market of Rampart is well supplied with dogs, the prices being $55 to $100, according to merit.

Protection for Babies.

It is not generally known that in France it is forbidden under severe penalties for anyone to give infants under one year old any form of solid food unless such be ordered by a written prescription signed by a legally qualified medical man. Nurses are also forbidden to use in rearing of infants conhded to their care at any time or under any pretext whatever any nursing bottle provided with rubber tube. Several other and equally stringent laws have recently been enacted by the French government, which, despairing of obtaining any increase in the birth rate in their land, are now turning their attention to the saving of the few children that are born.

A Return to False Hair.

An era of false hair seems to be upon us, if one is to judge by the present displays in the leading hairdressers' windows. Such an array of fringes and pompadour pads and puffs and long curls and wavy switches and what not we have not had since the days of that terrible fact, the water-fall. Young girls affect the Newport coil and single long curl, and right becoming it is. The pompadour with light curling fringe is doomed and the dignified part is to be revived. With it the low coil and the fancy net of chenille, a la Trelawney, as it is named.

Woman Fasts Two Years.

A most remarkable case of fasting was made public at Battle Creek, Mich., lately, says the Chicago Record. Some time ago Mrs. John Riggs, Seventh Day Adventist, became practically a skeleton, and she confessed that, in preparing for the coming of Christ, she had eaten nothing for two years other than a cake worse than hard-tack, known as Ezekiel bread. Physicians say she is in no danger of death.

JEWELERS' FANCIES.

A handsome brooch of gold in the form of a heart is thickly set with pearls, the center containing a large opal.

A tie pin, which appeals strongly to lovers of gold, represents three golf clubs of gold. The handles and heads are enameled in attractive colors.

A pretty belt buckle of gold, representing a wild duck flying, has its wings studded with small diamonds, the back being formed by a baroque pearl, while two small pink pearls serve as eyes.

Bow and wishbone pins are again becoming popular, the demand being mostly for serviceable as well as artistic designs. Two which are greatly in favor are of heavy gold. The wishbone is set with diamonds alternating with pearls. Pearls and diamonds are also used in ornamenting the bow pin.

The latest craze among fashionable people is for talismanic jewelry. Among the most popular designs are talismans of prominent Persian families, usually turquoises, engraved with appropriate sentiments in the language of that country and inlaid with gold, mounted with pearls, rubies and emeralds, as scarfpins, brooches, hat pins and links in gold mountings of purely oriental designs. The stones are actually old talismans imported directly from the orient, so, of course, there are no duplicates.—Jewelers' Weekly.

How to Avoid Colds During Winter.

"This idea that many people have, that winter is an unhealthful season, is all wrong. Winter is just as healthful as summer, if people will take care of themselves. If you want to go through the winter without a cold, observe these few simple rules:

"Don't overheat your house, and don't stop all ventilation. Sleep in a cool room, but keep warmly covered. Always take off your outdoor wraps when you come in the house, and always put them on when you go out. And, lastly, just as long as there is snow on the ground, don't go out without your rubbers. This last rule is the most important of all, for two colds out of three come from wet feet."—The Independent.

The True Connoisseurs.

"Papa," said the boy, "when you say in your advertisements that your goods are acknowledged by connoisseurs to be the best, what do you mean by connoisseurs?"

"A connoisseur, my boy," answered the great manufacturer, "is an eminent authority—an authority, in short, who admits that our goods are the best."—Collier's Weekly.

Not Good Kickers.

I never heard but one Porto Rican man make a kick about anything. I was sitting on the hotel veranda at Ponce one day when a merchant came down the street to see me. There was a vicious bull tearing about the street, and the animal got after the merchant and ran him a block and gave him a toss which landed him on the veranda, almost at my feet. Of course I went to his assistance, thinking him seriously hurt, but it turned out that he had come off almost without a bruise. I began to congratulate him over his escape, but he interrupted me with:

"Senor, I like it not. The bull should have rolled me into the ditch, instead of tossing me up here. Never before was I tossed upon this veranda, and I can't make it out."—Washington Post.

Care of the Hands in Winter.

To keep the hands in good condition in cold weather care must be given them. Gloves should be worn when engaged in house work, or going out in the open air. They should be washed in tepid water with Ivory soap, and carefully dried on a soft towel. Too frequent washing, or extremes of heat or cold should be avoided.
