Death of Thomas Wortley.

After a protracted illness which dated from June of last year Thomas Wortley, of Sylvan, passed away on Saturday, April 21. His illness was at first diagnosed as jaundice, but it developed last week under a surgical examination that he had cancer of the liver, and his death followed in a few days.

Mr. Wortley was born in Waltham, Leicestershire, England, Sept. 24, 1844. When a boy of 14 he came to this country with his parents and his family. In 1870 he married Mary Faulkner, of Grass Lake, who with one daughter, Maude, survives him. He was a man well thought of and held in high respect by his neighbors, a kind husband and father—it is such men as he who leave places in the world that it is hard to fill.

The funeral services were held at the First M. E. church, Chelsea, Tuesday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. George B. Marsh, assisted by Rev. J. I. Nickerson. Chelsea Tent, K. O. T. M., of which he was a member, attended in a body, and a large concourse of his old friends and neighbors followed his remains to their last resting place in Oak Grove cemetery.

HOT BATTLE FOUGHT.

British Capture Leeuw Kop from the Boers.

Canadian Troops Under Heavy Fire—Gen. Brabant Stubbornly Pushing His Way to Wepener.

London, April 24.—The war office Monday evening issued the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Bloemfontein, Monday, April 23, 2:50 p. m.:

"Yesterday I dispatched the Eleventh division, under Gen. Pole-Carew, and two brigades of cavalry, under Gen. French, from this point to assist Gen. Rundle. The force reached Karrieffontein without much opposition. Casualties reported: Welsh regiment, private killed, Capt. Prothero mortally wounded, and seven men; Yorkshires, eight wounded; Fourteenth hussars, one killed, one wounded; Eighth hussars, one wounded; Royal artillery, two wounded; Seventh dragoons, Lieut. Jenkins and ten men missing; Capt. Rotton, Royal artillery, broke an arm by a fall. Gen. Pole-Carew's mounted infantry seized Leeuw kop, a high hill a few miles north of their last night's position. The enemy evacuated hurriedly, leaving some rifles and ammunition. Gen. Rundle reports that 25 men of the First Worcesters are missing. Fifty-three were sent with Wood to an outpost after dark, and only 13 returned. Their numbers and names will be reported to-day, as well as four wounded yesterday."

Canadians Under Heavy Fire.

Bloemfontein, Monday, April 24.—Col. Alderson's corps of mounted infantry, consisting of the First battalions of the First and Second Canadian regiments, and Strathcona's horse, was engaged in the co-operations of Gen. Pole-Carew and Gen. French. Alderson had undertaken to drive the Boers from their line of defense south of the waterworks. The Canadians sustained a heavy fire. The Boers shelled Alderson, who made a marching movement around Leeuw kop, on the extreme left of the Boer position. When the British battery opened fire the Boers removed the gun. Leeuw kop was found evacuated in the morning. Gen. Dickson's cavalry brigade, which made a wide detour to the left, found its further progress barred by a strong Boer position.

Story of the Engagement.

London, April 24.—The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Standard, describing the operations at Leeuw kop, says:

"At an early stage the cavalry came under a heavy fire from a pom-pom on a ridge adjoining Leeuw kop. Unable to continue its march to the southeast, Gen. Dickson's brigade fell back to the north to await the infantry attack. The flanking movement having failed, Gen. Pole-Carew, with Gen. Stephenson's brigade, advanced in crescent form from the south and west with the object of enveloping the kopjes. The Welsh, Warwickshire, Essex and Yorkshires regiments advanced in extended line, covering the west, while the Guards' brigade took up a position to the south, with two field batteries and naval guns. Sheltered by the rocks, the enemy opened a heavy fire from rifles and a pom-pom. Our men advanced over the open ground in splendid style by a succession of short rushes, falling prone while pouring in volleys. The approach of darkness threatened to leave the Boers in possession, but just before sunset the Essex regiment gallantly pressed forward and drove the last man of the enemy from Paarde kraal, a bold spur of Leeuw kop."

Boer Force Is Large.

London, April 24.—The strong body of reinforcements which Lord Roberts sent to assist the relief of Wepener and to endeavor to envelop and cut off the Boers from a retreat northward furnishes further evidence that the Boers are assembled in much larger forces around Wepener than had hitherto been supposed.

Although the Boers appear to be offering stout resistance to the British advance, their position is dangerous. They can scarcely delay further their retreat northward without incurring the risk of being cut off. Usually they have been well informed regarding the British plans, and they are not likely to run such a risk, especially as they have partially accomplished their object in drawing large forces from Bloemfontein on long marches, and have thereby delayed the advance on Pretoria.

Karrieffontein, mentioned in Lord Roberts' message to the war office, is 15 miles southeast of Bloemfontein. Leeuw kop is two miles further south. Apparently the British captured Paarde kraal Sunday night. The Boers evacuated Leeuw kop during the night, removing the gun, and the British occupied the kop the next morning.

Fight at Bushman's Kop.

Maseru, April 24.—Fighting began early Monday morning at Bushman's kop. The Colonial division under Gen. Brabant advanced cautiously, followed and supported by Gen. Hart's infantry brigade. It was found that the Boers had evacuated their position on Bushman's kop during the night. A running fight proceeded throughout the day, the British gradually advancing and the Boers losing ground. Gen. Brabant is moving in a northeasterly direction, keeping Basutoland close on his right flank. Thousands of Basutos are watching the operations. Our casualties so far are 25 wounded.

To Organize Balloon Service.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—The papers announce the departure for South Africa of a body of aeronauts to organize a military balloon service for the Transvaal. They took the necessary balloons and accessories with them.

A Mother's Tears

"I Would Cry Every Time I Washed My Baby."

"When he was 3 months old, first fevers and then large boils broke out on my baby's neck. The sores spread down his back until it became a mass of raw flesh. When I washed and powdered him I would cry, realizing what pain he was in. His pitiful wailing was heart-rending. I had about given up hope of saving him when all other treatment having failed, I washed the sores with Hood's Medicated Soap, applied Hood's Olive Ointment and gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla. The child seemed to get better every day, and very soon the change was quite noticeable. The discharge grew less, inflammation went down, the skin took on a healthy color, and the raw flesh began to scale over and a thin skin formed as the scales dropped off. Less than two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, aided by Hood's Medicated Soap and Hood's Olive Ointment, accomplished this wonderful cure. I cannot praise these medicines half enough." MRS. GUERINOT, 37 Myrtle St., Rochester, N. Y.

The above testimonial is very much condensed from Mrs. Guerinot's letter. As many mothers will be interested in reading the full letter, we will send it to anyone who sends request of us on a postal card. Mention this paper.

Many Thousands of Them Will Meet at Chicago in August.

Thirty-Fourth Annual Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic Promised to Be the Event of the Year.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

URS is a country of secret societies. It is hard to find a man much over 21 who does not belong to one or more of them; and although we pretend to be proud of the democratic principles which have made the United States the most favored nation in the world, yet we are equally proud of the "titles" bestowed upon us by the high priests, and eminent commanders, and regents, and archons, and princes of the various fraternal organizations of which we may have become members.

Some of these societies are powerful in numbers as well as social influence.

DR. B. F. STEPHENSON.
(Founder and Originator of the Grand Army of the Republic.)

Others contribute vast sums to the relief of widows and orphans. Most of them are entitled to public respect and confidence. Yet none has ever become so dear to the people at large as the order known as the Grand Army of the Republic. In volume of membership it is outstripped by several other institutions; in point of wealth it is one of the lowliest. But the fact that none but military or naval veterans of the great civil war can participate in its rights and benefits makes membership in it a badge of patriotism; and the simple "comrade" of the Grand Army, clad in his plain blue coat and primitive slouch hat, is a greater man in public estimation than the "plumed knight" and regalia-bedecked "potentate" whose gaudy recoutriments are without significance to the uninitiated. The faded uniform tells a story of hardships and privations endured for the sake of the flag we all love, of bloody struggles for the perpetuation of the union, of devotion to a cause whose justice is now recognized by those who once thought of finding political happiness and national greatness in the creation of a new republic out of detached fragments of the old.

The idea of organizing the veterans of the civil war into a compact, easily-managed secret society originated with Dr. Benjamin Franklin Stephenson, surgeon of the Fourteenth Illinois infantry, and Chaplain W. J. Rutledge, of the same regiment, while both were still at the front. After the surrender of the confederate forces at Appomattox Courthouse, and immediately following the historic parade of Grant's and Sherman's armies at Washington, Stephenson and Rutledge consulted a number of ex-soldiers in regard to their plan. These "talks" resulted in the organization of the "department of Illinois of the Grand Army of the Republic" at Springfield, in March, 1866. Twelve veterans residing at Decatur, Ill., were so pleased with the principles of the new institution that they applied for a charter and were constituted the first post of the order, April 6, 1866. In less than four weeks the department of Illinois had 28 posts, and applications for charters poured into the offices of the order from every northern state. A ritual was framed by experienced secret society men and accepted by the general officers in May, 1866. On July 13, of the same year, the provisional department organization was made permanent, with Gen. John M. Palmer as commander.

On November 20, 1866, the first national encampment of the Grand Army was held at Indianapolis, 228 representatives from 70 posts constituting its membership. A permanent organization, with Gen. Stephen A. Hurlburt, of Illinois, as commander in chief, was effected, and the Grand Army at once entered upon its glorious career. Gen. John A. Logan succeeded Gen. Hurlburt as commander in chief, and was in his turn succeeded by some of the most gallant and famous veterans, the present commander being Col. Albert D. Shaw, of New York, a man long prominent in the political and military life of the Empire state.

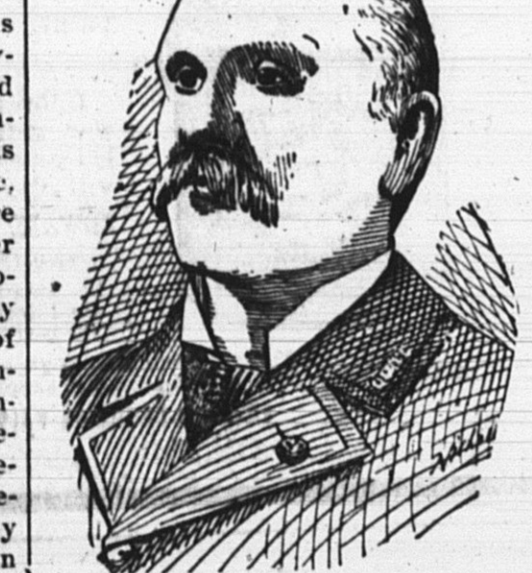

The thirty-fourth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held at Chicago, beginning August 27 and continuing until September 1. Owing to the extreme age attained by many members of the order, which may prevent them from attending future meetings, it is proposed to make this year's gathering the most notable in the history of the organization. The encampment was given to Chicago on account of its central location and the liberality of its citizens, who agreed to contribute $100,000 for the appropriate decoration of buildings, the construction of arches and incidental expenses. Two magnificent arches will be erected along the line of march of the naval and military parade, one to represent the naval branch of the service and the other the army. At equal distances between these arches, forming a patriotic court of honor, will be placed heroic figures of civil war heroes, decorated with corps badges, flags and other patriotic emblems. At night the arches and decorations will be a perfect blaze of electric lights.

Among the programme features of the encampment are a land and naval parade, a naval battle and reception to Admiral Dewey, all of which will take place Monday, August 27. On the 28th committees will receive President McKinley and visiting governors, who will review the annual parade of the Grand Army of the Republic. In the evening the veterans will be received by the president and Commander in Chief Shaw. On the 29th the thirty-fourth national encampment will convene in annual session. On the 30th there will be a grand sham battle in Jackson park, with an illuminated industrial parade in the evening. Besides these official entertainments there will be parades and reunions every afternoon and evening and private illuminations and band concerts of great attractiveness and interest.

On June 30, 1899, the Grand Army consisted of 6,905 posts, with a total membership of 287,981. It is supposed that 100,000 of this number will visit Chicago during the encampment, constituting indeed a "grand army" in every sense of the word. The business sessions will be presided over by Commander in Chief Shaw. No matters of vital importance will come before this year's encampment, but considerable interest seems to be taken in the election of Col. Shaw's successor. It has long been a custom not to reelect the commander in chief and to give the office one year to the east, the next to the west. The west is entitled to the honor this year, and a generous rivalry between several good men is sure to spring up before August, although at present the politicians of the order seem to think that Senior Vice Commander Irvin Robbins, of Indianapolis, is sure of promotion.

The Chicago committees are in close touch with the officers of the Grand Army, both working together in perfect harmony. One decision has been arrived at by the local committee on free quarters which will undoubtedly please the veterans. There will be no outdoor camps and sleeping on damp ground. The school board will place as many of its magnificent school buildings as may be needed at the disposal of the old soldiers, and comfortable cots will also be provided for them. Camp life is very pleasant to war veterans, as a memory, but when a man gets to be 60 and over he prefers a comfortable bunk to a bed in a canvas-covered tent.

COL. ALBERT D. SHAW.

Another pleasant bit of news is that the line of march of the grand army parade will be very short. The gallant boys of '61 and '65 were very fond of following martial music in the days that tried men's souls, but 30 odd years have wrought many changes in their tastes and one of them seems to be a preference for light, easy marches. While they are still enthusiastic enough to follow the flag, and ever ready to practice the cardinal virtues of their order—charity, fraternity and loyalty—yet the weight of years has taught them the value of comfort and temperance in things physical.

The Woman's Relief corps and the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, two organizations closely identified with the grand army, will hold their annual convention on Wednesday, August 29. It is needless to say that these patriotic women will receive as hearty a welcome from the people of Chicago as their fathers, husbands and brothers, and that they will be afforded every opportunity to get a good view of the various entertainments provided for their instruction and amusement.

SAVED FROM BLIZZARD.

Begonia Blasted by Cold Winds Has Sprung into Beauty Which Is Admired by Hundreds.

A blooming begonia with 32 thrifty stalks shooting up from the roots—the majority of them measuring four feet in height—is attracting considerable attention in a Germantown conservatory, says a Philadelphia paper. It is not in the hothouse of a professional, however, but simply in the prized collection owned by an amateur enthusiast. Although its present growth is only a year old, it stands much taller than the 11-year-old son of the household, a few of the tallest branches measuring four feet five inches above the surface of the plant tub.

What is still more surprising, it has made this growth—so unusual for one of the begonia family—in one short year, as it was a victim of last winter's blizzard. At that time it was making surprising growth and giving promise of masses of Easter bloom, when the fires (of course) became most stubborn on the very coldest night, and morning found this tender variety a blackened, ruined mass of tottering stalks, looking disconsolate enough among the more hardy specimens.

It seemed hopeless to try to resurrect it, as it was entirely destroyed to the roots; and, supposing the roots themselves were killed, the plant tub was set aside until needed at potting time. But when ready to empty it out for fresh soil, the roots showed signs of budding life, and great care was taken to resurrect the beauty. Rapid growth responded to the watering and fertilizing, until from the blasted victim of the blizzard has sprung the wondrous beauty of one year's growth.

WHY THE CAT YAWNED.

Humanitarian Instincts Lead a Chicago Preacher and His Neighbors Into a Queer Predicament.

A cat locked up in an empty house for ten days without food or drink! It was cruel, said those whose attention had been called to the fact, and a fit subject for investigation by the S. P. C. A.

Children who passed the house on their way to and from school spoke of plaintive mews heard from within and of occasional glimpses of a lean, cadaverous feline, whose big green eyes looked reproachfully through the dust-begrimed glass. The parents of some of these children went to investigate, with the result that the reports were in part corroborated.

The house, a small, two-story brick structure in Fifty-ninth street, near Union avenue, Chicago, was vacant, as far as human tenants were concerned, and there was a cat locked up inside.

It was found impossible to release the animal, because the doors and windows were securely fastened. There was no resident caretaker. A placard referred all comers to a downtown rental agency. The last tenants, a Mr. Jones and family, had vacated the premises nearly two weeks before and had removed to parts unknown.

Meanwhile the mournful mews of puss smote the consciences of the kind-hearted neighbors. One woman said she was going to release that cat if she had to smash a window, and this moved her husband to report the facts to the rental agency. He was assured that the matter would be looked into at once.

Two days passed and the cat was still a prisoner.

One afternoon a clerical-looking man, followed by a half dozen women and as many children, entered the gate in front of the deserted house. Producing a large bunch of keys he began trying them in the lock of the front door. Finally one was found that turned the bolt.

The door was opened and the clerical-looking man was on the point of entering, when he was accosted by a brisk, business-like man carrying a small tin pail.

"Good afternoon," said the late arrival. "Have you rented this house?"

"No, sir, I—"

"Ah, I see. You are looking at it with a view to renting."

"Sir, I am Mr. Robertson, the pastor of—"

"Glad to make your acquaintance, Mr. Robertson. And this is your family, I suppose? My name is Jones. I used to live here, and—"

"O! So it's you who looked that poor cat up here in the house and left her to starve to death, is it?" snapped one of the women.

"I beg your pardon, Mrs. Robertson, but I've been feeding the cat every day. You see my wife is a bit super—well, she has queer ideas about it being bad luck to take a cat to a strange house when one moves, so we left her here. Poor pussy; is so lonesome!"

From the tin pail Mr. Jones poured some milk into a saucer on the floor.

"So we left her here," he went on.

"We wouldn't take the world for the cat, and I thought if you were going to move in I'd take her home, for I guess the charm is broken by this time."

The cat approached the saucer and sniffed at the milk. Then she stretched herself and yawned a large red yawn, full of teeth and arched tongue, then lay down in the sun.

The clerical-looking man and his supporters excused themselves and withdrew, and that night Mr. Jones told his wife that a Mormon elder and family were looking over the Fifty-ninth street property with a view to renting.—Chicago Tribune.

A Spring Opening.

A contract made over the telephone is legal and binding, according to a decision recently rendered in a Pennsylvania lawsuit.

FOR WOMAN'S HEALTH

Earnest Letters from Women Relieved of Pain by Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I commenced to take your medicine I was in a terrible state, wishing myself dead a good many times. Every part of my body seemed to pain in some way. At time of menstruation my suffering was something terrible. I thought there was no cure for me, but after taking several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my bad feelings were gone. I am now well and enjoying good health. I shall always praise your medicine."—Mrs. AMOS FESCHLER, Box 226, Romeo, Mich.

Female Troubles Overcome

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had female trouble, painful menses, and kidney complaint, also stomach trouble. About a year ago I happened to pick up a paper that contained an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I read how it had helped others, I thought it might help me, and decided to give it a trial. I did so, and as a result am now feeling perfectly well. I wish to thank you for the benefit your medicine has been to me."—Mrs. CLARA STIEBER, Diller, Neb.

No More Pain

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound has been of much benefit to me. When my menses first appeared they were very irregular. They occurred too often and did not leave for a week or more. I always suffered at these times with terrible pains in my back and abdomen. Would be in bed for several days and would not be exactly rational at times. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and menses became regular and pains left me entirely."—Mrs. R. F. CUSTER, Brule, Wis.

THE CHELSEA HERALD

T. W. MINGAR, Editor and Proprietor.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

for $1.00 per year strictly in advance.
as second class matter.

THURSDAY, APRIL 26, 1900.

While wage-earners are on strike and receive no pay, the salary of the labor leader and agitator continues.

An excess of $50,000,000 a month in exports over imports is a pretty good favorable trade balance to carry on our national ledger.

Porto Rico is not very large, but the politicians in the Democratic party are hoping it is big enough to serve as a grave for free silver.

The next measure to be taken up for consideration in the senate is the Frye shipping bill. Its passage by a large majority seems assured whenever a vote can be reached.

American soldiers in the Philippines will have to eat canned roast beef now, owing to the impossibility of providing refrigerated beef or cattle on the hoof to the army under its present conditions.

The "trust" question has been taken up by the sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee, and it recommends either a new anti-trust law or a constitutional amendment that will give Congress full power to deal with trusts.

The Senate has decided the Quay matter and it was agin' Quay. Tuesday afternoon the question came to a vote and when the roll was called 33 senators voted to unseat Quay to 32 who voted for him. Senator Mark Hanna is accredited with being the immediate cause of Quay's defeat. He paired off with Senator Depew and the loss of his vote unseated the Pennsylvanian. It is said to be the evening up of an old political score.

Bishop Merrill, at the Vermont conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, set at rest the much vexed question whether President McKinley did, or did not, drink wine. He stated that Bishop Walden had a long talk with the President on the subject, and Mr. McKinley had said that when he attended banquets he did not turn down the glasses, but left them standing, and they were filled by the waiters. He always had, however, a separate glass from which he drank apollinaris water, and that the wine always remained untouched. Where will those harsh criticisms come in now, in view of this explanation.

Speaker Henderson's pettily malicious attitude towards Congressman Henry C. Smith on the occasion of the recent vote on the Porto Rican bill, will cause him to be regarded by many as a very poor specimen of a manly man. This is how it was done:

When the name of H. C. Smith was first called, Smith voted "No" loud enough to be heard with ease, but without shouting. Henderson told the clerk to call the name again. Again it rang out from the clerk's desk:

"Henry C. Smith!"

"No," yelled the congressman with no small emphasis.

Even the speaker could not fail to hear, and satisfied with his attempt to humiliate the man from Michigan, he directed the roll call to proceed.

The speaker's mean little attempt to belittle a man who did not think, and whom coercion could not make think, as he did, shows him fit to rank in the class of politicians known as the "peanut" variety. He who cannot control himself is not fitted to control others.

Dexter and the Electric Road.

The Dexter Leader says Dexter can now take some little comfort out of the electric road question as she has a fighting chance to secure the road from Ann Arbor to Jackson through the village; that the road is not built yet, but when it is Dexter may have it. A committee of citizens waited on President Hawks at Detroit, Monday of last week, and endeavored to make plain to him the advantages of the Dexter route from a business standpoint.

Mr. Hawks said that his company had the right of way between Ann Arbor and Chelsea on the territorial road, and he was inclined to favor that route from the point of economy and transportation facilities, and give Dexter a spur line; but he was also interested in doing the best he could for his company, and was willing to give the Dexter proposition careful consideration. As soon as possible Mr. Jennings will go carefully over the route and also look up the business advantages. Mr. Hawks also stated that he would make it convenient to visit Dexter himself.

The Leader further says that if the people of Dexter are willing to put up a stiff fight they may still secure the road.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern which is not afraid to be generous. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, La Grippe and all Throat, Chest and Lung diseases are surely cured by it. Call at Stimson's drug store and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50 cts. and $1. Farmers' Club Meeting.

The Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club was pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Fletcher, of Lima, Thursday, April 19. The program opened with singing followed with prayer by Rev. F. A. Stiles. Mrs. J. F. Waltrous gave an excellent paper on "Is it advisable to have more sociability and less formality in our lives." Mr. McNair gave a good talk on "Fertility of the soil and how to retain it." F. Storms gave a recitation, and N. W. Laird gave a splendid talk on the question, "Shall we retain possession of the Philippine Islands?" This was well discussed by the members. After singing, Mr. Zincke read a paper on "Should the farmers store their wheat?" The meeting then adjourned to meet with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Waltrous, May 24.

THE UNIVERSITY MUSEUM

The Idea of Grouping Birds in Pairs with Natural Surroundings Being Worked Out.

DETAILS OF HOW THE WORK IS DONE.

Task of Making Accessories Often Requires Weeks of Work—Real Model Always Kept in View—Inspiration Is Drawn from Woods, Fields and Marshes.

[Special Correspondence.]

University of Michigan, April 23.—The idea of grouping mounted birds in pairs and with their natural surroundings is being slowly worked out in the university museum. The scheme was inaugurated a year or two ago by Prof. Dean C. Worcester, now of the Philippine commission. Already over 30 of the natural history pieces have been arranged and placed in the bird room.

Plan of Action.

The plan in a general way is to secure the skins of a male and a female bird—and of the little birds, if possible—also the eggs and the nest and mount them so that they will appear as natural as man's art can make them. Each group, whether large or small, is displayed in a case by itself, so that it stands out and tells its own story, as if it were the only exhibit in the museum.

How Groups Are Arranged.

Norman A. Wood, the taxidermist who arranges the groups, when speaking about them, recently, said:

"When it is possible we get birds that were mates. We secure the eggs that the female laid, the real nest, the very tree or stump in which it was lodged, and then put them together in the museum as near like their former arrangement as we know how. Of course in most instances we are unable to obtain as much of the original home as we might desire. Then we have to supply the lacking parts. A few of the groups have been made up entirely from the stock of skins, eggs, leaves, sticks, etc., on hand in the museum work room. In making the groups, so far as we can we use the real, and only fall back upon the artificial when the real will not do. For instance, we cannot use real flowers, buds, leaves, mosses, etc. They would not keep. These are built up out of a wax cloth, which is made in all the shades and tints of green, red, blue, yellow, etc."

A Difficult Task.

The task of making the accessories for a group is often one that takes days and even weeks. Each petal, stamen, leaf, and every blade of grass has to be molded individually, then carefully tinted or shaded, and finally worked into its place in the group. The accessories are nearly all made of the art fabric. This is a fine silk cloth coated on one side with a thin and even covering of wax. The flowers, leaves and stems made from this appear so near like the real article that the careless observer can easily mistake them for the genuine.

How Work Is Done.

Mr. Wood, in answer to a question as to how the work of making the accessories was carried on, said:

"I always keep the real article before me to model after. If it is oak leaves that I am making, I get a number of the leaves, make molds in plaster of paris of several of the different styles and then with these cut, shape and work the art fabric until the artificial leaf resembles the real. The stems are made by winding pieces of the waxed silk around fine wire. After the leaf is made it has to be tinted. The under side should be of a lighter color than the upper, and then, leaves from the same tree are of different shades. Each blade of grass has to be made with equal care. When it is flowers or buds that are being worked up their every part has to be made separately. The white water lilies in two of the groups required about a day apiece for their manufacture. Even the tinting and shading of the leaves and flowers must be correctly given. Care must be taken to insure the selection of the proper colors, and then the painting must be done with as much pains as the painting of an equal amount of space on a canvas. The ultimate end striven for, and which is constantly before the mind even when only at work on the details, is to produce in each group a complete and well-rounded picture—one which shall be as near nature as possible."

The Inspiration.

The inspiration for successfully prosecuting this work is drawn from the woods, fields and marshes. Mr. Wood is a careful observer of nature. He has spent days roaming across the country noticing the grasses, the trees, the birds and the squirrels. He has learned the habits of the animals of the woods. He knows where they build their homes and how they are constructed. He has been a student of nature while others have been students of books.

Had Good Instructions.

The details of the process of making the flowers and leaves he learned from H. Minton and his sister, Mrs. E. H. Mogridge. For half a century they enjoyed the distinction of being "modelers to the queen." They built up the natural history groups in the British museum, the Springfield (Mass.) museum, the Stewart collection in Central park, New York; the Cambridge (Mass.) museum, the Leicester (England) museum, and in the Field Columbian museum of Chicago. A part of the summer of 1897, when they were working on the collection for the Field Columbian museum, was spent in Ann Arbor with Mr. Wood.

South American Leaf Runner.

One of the bird groups in the University museum is that of the South American leaf runner. It shows two birds in a marsh walking on lily pads. One bird has its wings spread as if about to fly. The feathers of the wings show the peculiar colorings which are known as recognition marks. The bird is a native of Mexico and Central America. It frequents marshy ground. The enormous spread of its feet enable it to walk on the leaves of aquatic plants without sinking. The two specimens in the museum came from southern Texas.

Sparrow Hawks.

Another typical group is of two sparrow hawks. The birds were shot by Prof. Dean C. Worcester a few miles from Ann Arbor. A small boy then climbed the tree containing the nest, and secured the three eggs that it contained, after which the tree was felled and the rotten knot with the nest was cut out. The birds have been mounted on the piece of the tree and the entire exhibit placed in the museum.

Two Crows.

Not the least interesting group is that of two crows, one black and the other white. They are near a small stub in a cornfield. The black crow has just pulled up a blade of the newly-sprouted corn and is holding it in its bill. The white crow is an Albino. R. H. E.

Postage Stamp Books.

Third Assistant Postmaster General Madden has ordered postage stamp books sent to the following second-class post offices in Michigan:

Adrian, Albion, Alpena, Ann Arbor, Bay City, Benton Harbor, Big Rapids, Cadillac, Calumet, Charlotte, Coldwater, Dowagiac, Escanaba, Flint, Hancock, Hillsdale, Holland, Houghton, Ionia, Iron Mountain, Ishpeming, Ludington, Manistee, Marquette, Menominee, Monroe, Mount Clemens, Muskegon, Niles, Owosso, Petoskey, Pontiac, Port Huron, St. Clair, St. Joseph, Sault Ste. Marie, Three Rivers, Traverse City, West Bay City, Wyandotte, Ypsilanti.

Suicide of a Soldier.

Harlow W. Carter, 19 years old, committed suicide in the Palace hotel in Chicago by taking carbolic acid. Carter had been in Chicago for two years, going there from Hastings, where his parents live. The young man was despondent on account of ill-health. He was a member of a Michigan regiment during the Spanish-American war and contracted typhoid fever in the south.

Railroad Buyers.

It is said in Marquette that the men who bought the Munising railroad at Cleveland are the same capitalists as now own the Cleveland-Cliff iron mine at Ishpeming and the Lake Superior & Ishpeming road, connecting the mines with Marquette. They are headed by William G. Mather. The Munising road may be extended 16 miles from Little lake to Ishpeming, where the company's mines are.

Pay for Extra Clerks.

The extra force of 19 clerks who have been copying the war vouchers from the auditor general's office, to be sent to Washington, presented their bills to the board of auditors and they were allowed. They are paid 40 cents an hour for their work, the total claims thus far amounting to $493.47, and the work is not yet finished. The bills ranged from 70 cents to $80.50.

Has No Paupers.

Berrien township poses as a record breaker on the poor fund. At the annual meeting of the township board the records showed that nothing had been paid out of the poor fund the past year, and that for the two years previous but $1.11 had been expended.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 56 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended April 14 indicate that typhoid fever and scarlet fever increased and intermittent fever decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 161 places, measles at 114, typhoid fever at 27, scarlet fever at 59, diphtheria at 17, whooping cough at 19, cerebro-spinal meningitis at 4 places and smallpox at Detroit, Locke, Coopersville, Colon, Springwells and St. Charles.

Girls Jump for Life.

The butter dish department of the Escanaba Woodenware company's plant was destroyed by fire in Escanaba, entailing a loss of $60,000. The fire started in a dry kiln in the north wing of the factory and spread with such rapidity that many of the girls employed on the second floor had narrow escapes. Four of the girls were compelled to jump from second-story windows and a number of others lost their wraps in the panic.

Want Cattle Test.

The state live stock sanitary commission will at its next meeting recommend to Gov. Pingree that a proclamation be issued prohibiting the importation into Michigan for dairy or breeding purposes any cattle that have not been subjected to the tuberculin test and found to be free from tuberculosis.

Fatal Explosion.

The boiler in John E. Ritter's sawmill at the hamlet of Sylvester exploded, killing David Zimmerman, aged 70, and James Moffitt, aged 25. Oscar Zimmerman, a spectator, was probably fatally injured. The mill was completely demolished. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop report issued by the agricultural department in Washington says for Michigan:

Cold weather and snowfall have retarded farm work and checked growth of all vegetation; clover seedling advancing slowly; plowing and oat seeding in progress, but not yet general; wheat still looks sickly and discouragingly; some will be plowed under.

Paroled.

Gov. Pingree has paroled the following convicts:

Jacob Vincent, sent from Tuscola county, September, 1898, to Jackson for three years for adultery; Theophile Tesherski, sent from Detroit, March, 1897, to Jackson for five years for assault with intent to kill; Amos Moore, sent from Kent county, August, 1897, to Jackson for five years for larceny.

Both Were Drowned.

Mike Barre and his little son were drowned in a sink hole at Ironwood. The boy, aged eight years, tried to get a drill out of the water for his sister, which had fallen in, and lost his balance and fell in. Mike Barre, the father, tried to rescue him and both were drowned.

News Items Briefly Told.

Horse thieves are working in Hillsdale county.

Francis Herman Idem, of Grand Rapids, has been adjudged insane at Port Angeles, Wash.

Battle Creek claims to have been the home of 79 authors.

There were 3,133 deaths in Michigan in March, the rate being 15.4 per 1,000 population.

Burglars entered the university hospital in Ann Arbor and secured $210. The two rural free mail delivery routes established at Tekonsha are giving excellent satisfaction to the farmers.

Farmers living south of Bancroft for a distance of 12 miles are to have free mail delivery.

Gad Smith, of Marquette, will be one of the officers in the new Porto Rican government.

George W. Roby, aged 77, of Detroit, died in Santa Monica, Cal. He was at the head of the Roby Transportation company and very well known in lake marine circles.

The new Michigan fruit vender law has been declared unconstitutional.

The village council at Stockbridge has passed an ordinance prohibiting the opening of a saloon in the village.

Shiawassee supervisors have adopted a resolution to assess all bank stock and personal property at their full value.

Four free rural mail delivery routes will be asked for by the farmers living about Vicksburg.

Railroad mail service has been established from Belding, by Smyrna and Alton, to Lowell.

Judge George P. Wanty, of the United States district court at Grand Rapids, has appointed as commissioners Ira C. Jennings, of Escanaba; Belmont Waples, of Ironwood; and Henry Hoffman, of St. Ignace.

Hon. Sullivan M. Cutcheon, ex-speaker of the Michigan house of representatives and prominent in local business circles, died at his residence in Detroit, aged 67 years.

Charles Bacon, a fireman on the steamer Ann Arbor No. 2, was drowned off the boat at Frankfort. The body was recovered.

PIONEER SOCIETY.

President Luce Urges a Large Attendance at the Annual Meeting in Lansing in June.

Cyrus G. Luce, president of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical society, urges a larger attendance of the members of the society at the annual meeting to be held in this city the first Wednesday in June. He says that this meeting will have much to do with the future life and usefulness of the society.

Mr. Luce calls attention to the fact that the society had published 27 volumes of historical papers and another volume being now in press, thus gathering together a mass of state history that is not to be found anywhere else. Nearly all the old pioneers have been called hence, and the ex-governor emphasizes the fact that if the society is to live and accomplish its sacred purpose, it must enlist the good will and active efforts of the younger men and women of the state. The children and grandchildren of the nobler pioneers must be interested, and the work of the pioneers expanded.

NOT GOOD LAW.

The Measure Requiring Fruit Merchants to Give Bonds Is Declared to Be Class Legislation.

In the circuit court in St. Joseph Judge Coolidge granted a motion to quash the indictment against William B. Thompson in the test fruit case on the ground that the new law is indefinite class legislation, inconsistent and unconstitutional. The case will go to the supreme court of Michigan on an application for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Coolidge to vacate his order.

The new state law provided that no person shall solicit fruit or vegetables without first giving bonds for $5,000 and paying the state license of ten dollars annually. Thompson was financially backed by the South Water street commission merchants of Chicago.

FOUND IN A GARDEN.

Treasure Buried by a Woman in Rockland, Consisting of Gold and Bank Notes, Dug Up.

Mrs. Jerry O'Neil died in Rockland at the age of 93. She was born in Ireland, and came to this town with her husband some 50 years ago. Neighbors knew that she had money, but no one knew how much or where she kept it until the day before she died, when she revealed the hiding place after making her will. Witnesses were called and over $3,400 were dug up out of the garden. It was mostly gold, bank notes of the old Spinner issue and checks on the old Minnesota Mining company. The checks are now valueless.

Give Up the Fight.

After battling a number of years to rid the state of tuberculosis the state commission has concluded that it is folly to make further efforts in this line so long as infected animals are being brought in from other states. Gov. Pingree will be asked by the commission to issue a proclamation prohibiting the importation of dairy and breeding cattle that have not successfully withstood the test.

Brother's Kind Act.

Alexander Schluppe died in Ann Arbor several months ago, leaving his widow and child in very straitened circumstances. Marshal Gerstner has received word from Schluppe's brother in Switzerland, a wealthy man, asking that the widow and child be sent to him at his expense, and saying that he intends to provide for them in the future, whether here or there.

Fine Marl Beds.

Another fine marl deposit has been located at Sand lake, 3 1/2 miles west of Hillsdale, by Hillsdale's capitalists, who have secured options on all the land in the surrounding territory. It is likely that a cement factory will be erected there, if the Mosherville plant, now approaching completion, turns out as well as anticipated.

Pay Their Own Expenses.

Gov. Pingree has appointed 400 delegates for Michigan to the Farmers' National congress, to be held at Colorado Springs, Col., August 21 to 31. They consist of the officers of the Michigan state grange and masters of subordinate granges. They will serve without compensation and pay their own traveling expenses.

Has a Cinch.

William Kirby apparently has a cinch on the office of clerk of Volinia township, in Cass county. He has been elected to the office every year for 20 years until this year, when the vote resulted in a tie between himself and his competitor. They decided to settle the matter by drawing cuts, and Kirby won.

Law Enforced.

Hermansville is one of the few towns in the upper peninsula, or in the whole state for the matter, where the curfew idea is enforced. At eight o'clock the mill whistle notifies the boys that it is time for them to go home. Those who do not heed the warning are arrested.

PERISH BY FLOOD.

Man, Wife and Five Children Are Drowned Near Jackson, Miss.

Jackson, Miss., April 24. — John Horton, a negro, his wife and five children were drowned in the backwaters of Pearl river while trying to escape from the flood. Their cabin had been inundated by the high waters and the family was endeavoring to make its escape in a wagon when the vehicle fell through a broken bridge. Pearl river is now stationary, the heavy rain Sunday night having checked the falling waters. The weather continues threatening, and railroad traffic is in a very bad condition.

New Orleans, April 24. — One of the heaviest rainstorms of the season occurred here during the night and New Orleans was flooded. Monday in the upper and rear sections of the city water still covered streets and sidewalks and rafts had to be used to reach street cars. The city is suffering commercially as a result of the Mississippi floods and the crippled condition of four railroad lines entering New Orleans. The Mississippi valley has made some headway in getting its tracks in condition and the Illinois Central is operating a partial service, but the Northeastern is still completely blocked. Not until Wednesday or Thursday will traffic be resumed.

Meridian, Miss., April 24. — Additional rains have added gravity to the flood situation in the surrounding country. Small streams are all out of the banks and larger ones began to rise again by nightfall. The temporary track work which had been done will be damaged on all railroads entering the city and resumption of traffic will be longer delayed. The situation in cut-off towns is growing desperate. Food-stuffs are running short and relief is nowhere in sight. Reports from the interior continue to come in showing great devastation. Farmers are abandoning farms as worthless and entering the service of railroads, which employ all applicants. Meridian suffered great damage in Sunday night's rain by severe washouts. Fifteen inches of rain have fallen so far this month.

Portage, Wis., April 24. — The government levee broke through below the toll gate in the First ward Monday evening, washing away a piece of the levee 30 feet wide. The entire lower portion of the First ward is flooded, and the tracks of the Milwaukee road are threatened with being washed away. A big force of men is unable to stop the break. The plank road leading to Portage is being flooded, and will be impassable. The river broke through four miles below the city in Pacific early Monday afternoon, and all the surrounding property is now covered with several feet of water. The stage of water Monday evening was over 11 feet, only two inches below the top of the government lock at the head of the canal. A special train from Watertown brought 100 men to work on the levee under the direction of United States Engineer Mann, to save the Milwaukee road tracks. It is expected the break will be repaired today. A rise of a few feet more will flood the whole lower portion of the city between Wisconsin and Lock streets. Many people in the First ward are moving out, and quite a number of the houses are partly submerged.

GET DOWN TO BUSINESS.

First Real Work of the Ecumenical Conference Began with Monday's Session.

New York, April 24. — The first business session of the ecumenical conference on foreign missions began simultaneously at 9:30 o'clock Monday in Carnegie hall and the Central Presbyterian church. Walter B. Sloan, secretary of the inland mission of China, led the devotional exercises in Carnegie hall and Rev. James Cunningham, M. A., of the Memorial Presbyterian church of Wansworth, London, conducted exercises at the Central Presbyterian church. At Carnegie hall Rev. Dr. Augustus H. Strong, president of the Rochester theological seminary, delivered an address on the "Authority and Purpose of Foreign Missions."

At the conclusion of Dr. Strong's address Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, founder of the China inland mission, spoke on "The Source and Power in Foreign Missions." Robert E. Speer, secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church of the United States, spoke on "The Supreme and Determining Power in Foreign Missions."

No meeting of the ecumenical conference was held Monday afternoon. Instead, eight sectional meetings were held in as many neighboring churches. Reports were made at these meetings concerning the work and prospects in China, Burmah, Assam, Siam, India, Ceylon, Oceania, Mohammedan lands, Africa, North and South America, and also among the Hebrews in all lands. All the meetings were largely attended, and addresses were made by several missionaries in each. Both Carnegie hall and the neighboring Central Presbyterian church were crowded to their capacity at the evening meetings. At Carnegie hall addresses were read on "A Century of Missions."

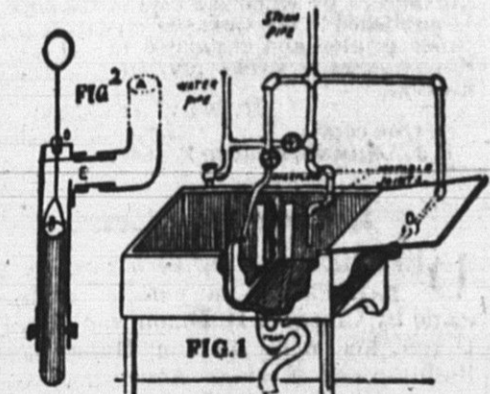

GOOD CREAMERY SINK.

It Helps to Keep Things Clean and Neat and Is a Great Labor Saver, Besides.

This sink is made of wood, is about ten inches deep, divided into two compartments, of any size desired, and lined with galvanized iron. The bottom is tilted slightly toward the drain pipe. Into each of these outlets is snugly fitted the overflow pipe so that when in position the top is $\frac{3}{4}$ inches lower than the top of the sink. A ring or shoulder is soldered around the bottom about an inch from the end, to prevent the tubes being crowded too far down the outlet.

The draining board at the right is slanted somewhat toward and into the sink. In the center of the board projects a one-fourth inch steam jet regulated by the long-stemmed valve from the front. The left division is provided with a cold water faucet and steam connection. The right division, which is designed for the purposes of rinsing and scalding, is fitted with a combination of steam and water pipes, and with a flexible delivery tube, one form of which is represented in the movable joints in the cut.

Another plan suggested by an engineering friend is represented in Fig. 2. Here the pipe is attached in place of the movable joints with the tee, e, extending away from the wall; b is a smooth brass cylinder sliding loosely in an outer iron pipe and being packed all around at the union, c. The wire stem with loop is firmly soldered onto the top of the cylinder and passes up through the packing and plug at d. This makes an adjustable outlet which if of proper length can be lowered to near the bottom of the sink or raised for insertion in any tin or wooden vessel without danger of burning one's fingers.—Orange Judd Farmer.

MONEY IN QUINCES.

There is No Reason Why This Fruit Should Not Be Grown Wherever Apples Thrive.

One of the fruits that should be more generally grown than it is is the quince, which is nearly always in good demand for canning and sells at good prices. Quinces are not so dear as they were years ago, when they were held as a monopoly by farmers in certain sections, owing to the belief that this tree was easily killed by severe cold weather. This was the fact until it was learned that this winter killing was due to the freezing of the roots. Quince roots run near the surface, and even when the soil only freezes a few inches deep, that freezing so cuts off the supply of sap that even the slight circulation which exists in all live trees during cold weather cannot be supplied, and the tree cannot be saved. It was once thought that quince trees needed low, wet ground, mainly because snow lies here when it will not on high land unless protected. Where quince trees are planted on high and dry soil it should be somewhere near a fence, so that snow may bank up against it and protect the trees. This snow protection exposes the quince tree to be injured by mice, and if a deep bank forms around the tree it will break down the limbs by crushing them to the earth. Probably the best protection around a quince orchard is a row of evergreen, whose branches are so near the ground that snow will not drift under them. On dry land the quince roots go deeper and the soil will stand pretty deep freezing without being injured.—American Cultivator.

The Warfare Against Insects.
There are about 50 different kinds of insects that attack garden crops, while nearly 200 kinds attack the vineyards and orchards. Different species are attracted to the plants suited to the wants of their offspring, and are sometimes repelled by orders which, to them, indicate danger. The kerosene emulsion should always contain a small proportion of crude carbolic acid, which will add to its efficiency by its powerful odor.

Did you ever take a pencil and paper and spend half an hour in figuring whether you were putting more dollars in labor into your dairy than you were taking out in cash? The sequel might surprise you very much.

FOOD FOR POT PLANTS.

Substances Quite as Good as Those Sold in Stores Can Be Prepared Easily at Home.

The great demand for plant food which is in convenient form for use and is also cleanly has caused many such articles to be placed on the market. Most of these are very good, but one can prepare them at home, making the cost less while they produce the same results. The following are both used in the water given the plants, though they can be used dry by digging a small quantity into the soil around the roots. The former method is safer, however, as one can more easily tell what quantity is being used.

Take a gallon jar and fill it with bones, packing them in closely; then add one cup of potash which will fill in among the spaces. Cover with water and set away for a time. Before long the bones will all be dissolved and the substance in the jar will resemble soft soap. A tablespoon of this dissolved in the water given each large plant will be a suitable dose; other plants being given a quantity suitable to their size. The following formula will also be found good: To one gallon hot water add four ounces white sugar, 16 ounces sulphate of ammonia and eight ounces nitrate of potash. When dissolved, place in bottles, cork tightly and use a tablespoon and a half in each gallon of water used on the plants. Water only the soil, as many of these fertilizers are too strong for the foliage, leaving unsightly spots on it.—Marion Meade, in Farm and Home.

GOOD GRAFTING WAX.

Materials That Enter Into Its Composition and How to Mix and Prepare Them.

Rosin, four parts (by weight); beeswax, two parts; tallow one part. This is not difficult to remember, making just seven parts—ounces, for instance—and each succeeding ingredient is half as much as the one before it.

These materials are to be melted and well mixed, over a slow fire. In 20 minutes or so a convenient portion can be poured into a vessel containing cold water. In a short time—a minute, perhaps—it will have cooled sufficiently to be lifted out in the hands and pulled like taffy, the hands having been greased over with tallow in advance, slightly, to prevent sticking. When the mixture becomes pale yellow in color it has been pulled enough, and may be made into rolls or balls of convenient size, and placed in a different vessel of cold water, to harden.

More of the melted wax may then be poured out into the first vessel of cold water, and this process repeated until all has been worked up.

This recipe was found in Cole's American Fruit Book, a small work published a number of years ago.

Strips of muslin or calico half an inch wide, soaked for a few minutes in the wax while melted, will be useful when both waxing and tying are necessary in holding the stock and scion firmly together, in certain forms of grafting.—National Stockman.

FOR CATCHING RABBITS.

A Contrivance Which Is Very Simple and at the Same Time Unusually Effective.

A simple, easily made and sure-catch rabbit device is made by nailing together two six-inch boards in the shape of letter V. Use boards ten feet long.

CATCHING A BUNNY.

Dig a shallow trench just deep enough to place the trough in. Place the trough in trench inverted, as illustrated, and cover with dirt. When the rabbit enters the trap take a small pole and push him out into a sack which should be so placed as to cover one end of the trough. The opposite or entering end should be banked over in part to make an attractive entrance and not left exposed as shown in the cut to more completely show the trough.—A. E. Tintsmann, in Farm and Home.

Good Roads Badly Needed.

The statement is made that there are 200,000 miles of railroads in this country and not exceeding 20,000 miles of good ordinary roads. This suggests a wide field for improvement. A great many more people use the ordinary than the railroads. Considered from an economic view point, the loss sustained by the country on account of bad roads is incalculable. It amounts annually to multiplied millions. Considered from the standpoint of civilization no country that is progressive can afford to neglect its ordinary public highways. The time has come when the good roads movement should receive universal aid and encouragement. It is of a great deal more importance now than new railroads and that will be constructed; but the necessity for good ordinary roads is greater.—Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal.

Millions for Baseball.

A million of dollars are spent every year upon the game of baseball, but as large as this sum is, it cannot begin to equal the amount spent by people in search of health. There is a sure method of obtaining strength, and it is not a costly one. We urge those who have spent much and lost hope to try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It strengthens the stomach, makes digestion easy and natural, and cures dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness and weak kidneys.

MARCH AND APRIL.

Are the Most Disagreeable Months of the Year in the North.

In the South, they are the pleasantest and most agreeable. The trees and shrubs put forth their buds and flowers; early vegetables and fruits are ready for eating, and in fact all nature seems to have awakened from its winter sleep. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company reaches the Garden Spots of the South, and will on the first and third Tuesdays of March and April sell round-trip tickets to all principal points in Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and West Florida, at about half rates. Write for particulars of excursions to P. Sid Jones, D. P. A., in charge of Immigration, Birmingham, Ala., or J. K. Ridgely, N. W. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

ALABASTINE

Is a durable and natural cement-base wall coating, in 5 lb. paper packages, made ready for use in white and fourteen beautiful tints by mixing with cold water. It is a cement that goes through a process of setting, hardens with age, and can be coated and recoated without washing off its old coats before renewing.

ALABASTINE Is entirely different from all the various kalsomines on the market, being durable and not stuck on the wall with glue. Alabastine customers should insist on having the goods in packages properly labeled. They should reject all imitations. There is nothing "just as good."

ALABASTINE

Prevents much sickness, particularly throat and lung difficulties, attributable to unsanitary coatings on walls. It has been recommended in a paper published by the Michigan State Board of Health on account of its sanitary features; which paper strongly condemned kalsomines. Alabastine can be used on either plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick or canvas, and any one can brush it on. It admits of radical changes from wall paper decorations, thus securing at reasonable expense the latest and best effects. Alabastine is manufactured by the Alabastine Company of Grand Rapids, Michigan.
