A PLEASING OCCASION.

W. L. Plummer Banqueted by His Brother
Woodmen of Chelsea.

The complimentary banquet tendered to Deputy W. L. Plummer by Chelsea Camp, No. 7338, M. W. of A., at the town hall last evening was attended by fully 200 people. After the edibles had been fully discussed the gathering was called to order by Venerable Consul Jacob Hummel who introduced Rev. F. A. Stiles as toastmaster. It was Mr. Stiles first appearance in that line in Chelsea, but he acquitted himself so well and with such a happy adaptability to all circumstances that it will not be likely to be his last appearance in such a capacity.

The program was a long one and it was 12:30 before the last response was made. The features of the evening were the speeches of State Deputy C. J. Byrns, N. W. Laird, Deputy W. L. Plummer, Miss Maud Bisbee, of Jackson, Rev. G. B. Marsh, the prophecy by Worthy Advisor George Jackson, and the vocal and instrumental music among which were solo by Geo. H. Kempf, Geo. A. Ward and Louis Burg, the two former being vociferously encored, duets by Messrs. Ward and Burg, piano solo by Mrs. Geo. P. Staffan and violin solo by Miss Blanch Cole, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ethel Cole.

The whole affair was a fitting tribute to the good work that has been done by Mr. Plummer and the good and favorable impression he has inspired in all with whom he has come in contact.

Dot Leedle Poy, Moran.

The following anonymous parody on the well known German dialect poem, "Dot Leedle Yawcop Strauss," appeared in Saturday's Ann Arbor Argus:

Ve haf von funny leedle poy,
Vot comes vom dis countee,
Der queerest schap, der piggest show,
As efer you did see.
He yellis und rora, und rips up dings,
Und makes sooch a funny plan.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her; and she writes, this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of its power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1. Guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Stimson's drug store.

THE ANTS' CONVENTION.

Put Up a Full County Ticket at Ann Arbor
Last Tuesday.

There were 146 accredited delegates at the Ants' convention held in Ann Arbor Tuesday, and 24 precincts represented. The precincts not represented were Dexter, Freedom, Lima, Manchester, Saline, Sharon, Sylvan, and 4th ward of Ypsilanti. G. Frank Allmendinger, of Ann Arbor, was made chairman, and B. F. Savery, of Ypsilanti, secretary of the convention. The chairman's speech, in which he claimed the justice of the action of those who had assembled in the convention and scored those in opposition to them was received with applause. The usual committees and the tellers were then appointed and the convention adjourned until after dinner.

The program was a long one and it was 12:30 before the last response was made. The features of the evening were the speeches of State Deputy C. J. Byrns, N. W. Laird, Deputy W. L. Plummer, Miss Maud Bisbee, of Jackson, Rev. G. B. Marsh, the prophecy by Worthy Advisor George Jackson, and the vocal and instrumental music among which were solo by Geo. H. Kempf, Geo. A. A tornado in Traill county, N. D., wiped out the village of Forgerings, killed several persons and did great damage to property in other places.

The total foreign commerce of the United States for the year ended June 30 exceeded the $2,000,000,000 mark for the first time in history.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

William C. Maybury, of Detroit, was nominated for governor of Michigan by the democratic convention.

Democrats, populists and silver republicans in Kansas agreed on fusion and nominated John A. Breidenthal (populist), of Topeka, for governor.

The national gold democrats have decided not to put a ticket in the field this year.

Congressional nominations: Iowa, Eleventh district, Lot Thomas (rep.) renominated; Illinois, Seventeenth district, B. F. Caldwell (dem.) renominated; Indiana, Tenth district, John Ross (dem.).

Henry B. Metcalf, of Pawtucket, R. I., was officially notified of his nomination for vice president on the prohibition ticket.

Nathaniel C. Bordwine, a soldier of the Blackhawk war, died in Lewiston, Ill., at the age of 101 years.

The democrats have nominated John W. Leonard for congress in the Eighth Illinois district and Frank A. Horner in the Fifth Indiana district.

The Massachusetts republican state convention will be held October 4.

C. D. Sheldon has been renominated for congress by the republicans of the Twelfth district of Michigan.

Ex-Congressman E. E. Meredith died at his home in Manassas, Va.

FOREIGN.

The Boers drove back Gen. Hunter's command near Bethlehem, the British losing 50 men.

Twenty-five conspirators who plotted to kill the governor of Santiago, San Domingo, were arrested.

An official dispatch received at the state department tells of the collapse of the revolution in Panama.

Advices received at Kingston, Jamaica, announce the renomination for a fourth term of President Zelaya of Nicaragua.

A London dispatch says that all the powers have received an identical Chinese appeal for mediation.

American soldiers killed 82 Filipinos in northern Mindanao for the murder of one of their number.

Edward Bowen, of Lincoln, Neb., has arrived in Paris on his trip around the world on a bicycle.

Admiral Remey telegraphed Washington that heavy reinforcements had been thrown into Peking, making it impossible for the allies to capture the city except with an overwhelming force. Prince Tuan, leader of the rebels, was reported killed in a battle outside Peking. Scores of missionaries at various points have been massacred by natives. An imperial edict says foreigners in Peking were safe July 24.

Lord Roberts reports that Middleburg was occupied by the British and that the Boers were retreating to Machadodorp. President Kruger was at Barberton.

Emperor Wilhelm told his troops sailing from Germany for China to give no quarter and take no prisoners, but to use weapons for vengeance and Christianity.

A brief but fierce storm cost many lives and did great damage in England.

That the ministers at Peking have been massacred and that China must soon be at war with the world is now the uppermost belief in official circles in Washington. A London dispatch says that the Chinese army was advancing on Peking, the soldiers being instructed to kill all Christians on the way. A Russian banker declares all the Europeans at Peking were killed before he left there, July 7.

Lady Randolph Churchill and Lieut. George Cornwallis West were married in London.

A dispatch from Cape Town says Gen. De Wet offered to surrender on condition that his followers be allowed to return to their homes. The offer was refused. Lord Roberts has returned to Pretoria, abandoning the effort to capture Gen. Botha.

Advices from Panama say that a treaty of peace between the government and the revolutionists has been signed.

During a week's scouting in the Philippines ten Americans were killed and 14 wounded and 180 Filipinos were killed and 60 taken prisoners.

King Humbert of Italy, aged 56, was shot dead by an assassin named Angelo Bressi at Monza. The murderer is little known and his motive is a mystery. He is supposed to be insane.

LATER.

British Minister Macdonald at Peiping sent a message to London saying that the legation were alive on July 21. Late messages from the Chinese capital lead to the belief in Washington that the foreigners are still alive. A dispatch from Consul Fowler, at Chefoo, says the American, German, Russian, British and half Japanese and French legations were safe on July 17 and the attack ceased, but might be renewed. The British and American forces at Tientsin were said to be preparing to advance on Peking within 48 hours.

Gen. Prinsloo, with 5,000 Boers, surrendered unconditionally to the British at Fouriesburg.

Caleb Powers, accused of the murder of William Goebel, took the stand in his own behalf in the trial at Georgetown, Ky.

Otto Pennington killed his young wife and himself at Owassa, Ia. No cause was known for the deed.

Frank Jones, aged 16 years, shot and killed James Elam, of the same age, at Pana, Ill., because the latter refused to stand on his head.

Secretary Root ordered two more batteries of the Seventh artillery to China.

James J. Corbett and Kid McCoy have been matched to fight 25 rounds in New York in the last week of August.

Angry citizens razed and burned the church of a strange sect at Shoal Creek, N. C.

Carrie M. Anderson and John H. Cummings, a blind couple, were married at Fort Atkinson, Wis., after a courtship of 20 years.

Thirty persons were killed in a mine disaster at Matchuala, Mexico.

The British steamer Sutherlandshire was wrecked at Sumatra and 13 of the crew were drowned.

The French forces in the Soudan killed Sultan Rabah and routed his army.

The Colorado democratic convention to nominate state officers will meet in Denver September 12.

An attempt to assassinate the shah of Persia at the Paris exposition failed.

All Italy is mourning over King Humbert's assassination and rulers and people of other nations join in condolence. Angelo Bressi, the assassin, says he left America for the purpose of assassination, and that anarchistic principles led him to the crime.

MINOR NEWS ITEMS.

In her first speed trial the new Russian cruiser Variag, built by the Cramps, proved herself the fastest warship of her class afloat, attaining a speed of 24 knots an hour.

The king of Corea has let a contract for $1,000,000 to a San Francisco man for moving the cemetery 15 miles because astrologers told him the dead queen's spirit was unable to rest.

Three women, the wives of famous husbands, have been accorded the honor of burial in Westminster Abbey. They are Lady Palmerston, Lady Augusta Stanley, wife of Dean Stanley, and Mrs. Gladstone.

ON—OFF

When a preparation has an advertised reputation that is world-wide, it means that preparation is meritorious. If you go into a store to buy an article that has achieved universal popularity like Cascarets Candy Cathartic for example, you feel it has the endorsement of the world. The judgment of the people is infallible because it is impersonal. The retailer who wants to sell you "something else" in place of the article you ask for, has an ax to grind. Don't it stand to reason? He's trying to sell something that is not what he represents it to be. Why? Because he expects to derive an extra profit out of your credulity. Don't you see through his little game? The man who will try to sell you a substitute for Cascarets is a fraud. Beware of him! He is trying to steal the honestly earned benefits of reputation which another business man has paid for, and if his conscience will allow him to go so far, he will go farther. If he cheats his customer in one way, he will in another and it is not safe to do business with him. Beware of the Cascaret substitute! Remember Cascarets are never sold in bulk but in metal boxes with the long tailed "C" on every box and each tablet stamped C. C. C.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

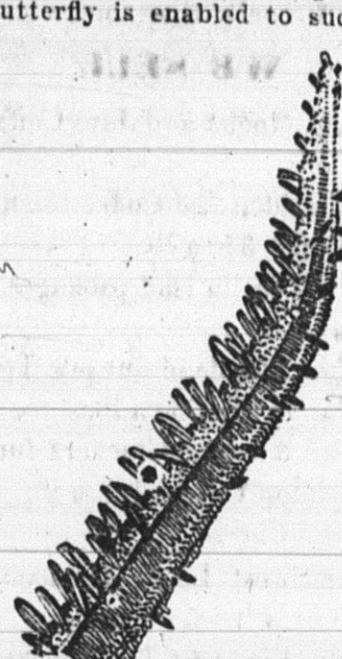

Natural History Study for the Month of August

Butterflies and Unseen Plant Beauties That Come With the Dog Days

UGUST—the month of flowers and butterflies—August, the month of the year when all nature seems to wanton in reckless prodigality of gifts—both flower and fruit; when the air is heavy with the scent of myriad blossoms and the ceaseless hum of insect life arise like a monotone of harmony from the parched and baking earth—walk out with me to the woods and fields; to the woods with their balsamic odors of fir and pine spiced with perfume of the newly-mown hay from the field adjoining. Tramp, tramp, tramp, through the tangled underbrush and the waving grass, and sometimes through little piles of faded leaves—tears which the trees are shedding, even now for very grief at the summer's waning—stirring them up and giving them over to the winds which whisk them away as if to hide them from the wealth of green which still remains, which above and around us fit the spirits of past summers in the shape of the butterflies—frail and evanescent—typical emblems of the passing hour.

Although we are all familiar with the general outward form of the butterfly—yet how many of us have taken the pains to closely observe him—how many of us that know that that same frail insect possesses a suction pump, which, if enlarged in proportion to the butterfly and adapted to the person of a man, would be of a power lips such as we ourselves use: it could hover around or walk around the brink of a blossom, always in sight of food, but unable to reach it; so, therefore, the lips are extended into the shape of Fig. 2. A tube through which the butterfly is enabled to suck the sweet nectar from the heart of the flower and which, when not in use, is coiled up (like a watch spring) out of the way, immediately in front of the head. By using a very much higher power, we are enabled to observe that this tube or "proboscis" of the butterfly is composed of two separate and divided "half-tubes," divided down its entire length, and which locks together and closes airtight at the edges by muscular action, at the will of the insect.

In Fig. 3 we look upon the extreme tip of the "proboscis" and we see (by the considerably greater magnification now necessary) that the entire tube is accurately ruled off in ridges or lines, each one of which is exactly at the same distance from the other, while scattered (apparently at random) over the surface and projecting up from it some queer small barrel-shaped objects rise, upon the use of which scientific opinion is divided, but are supposed to be organs of taste.

Observing the butterfly as he flies from flower to flower, we note that he has rested upon the petals of a fully-blown rose, a flower which poets have sung the praises of from time immemorial; but although the flower itself has justly been praised and sung, but few know that its beauty is not confined alone to its petals, but wonderful though it is in its wealth of perfume and color, yet in its stem, hidder from all eyes but those who seek it, there is enormous, and furthermore how many of us know that it is by means of that same "suction pump" that the butterfly obtains every particle of food or nourishment.

The Lepidoptera (as they are known to scientists) comprise a large family, which are chiefly known by their four large wings of brilliant lines, and all have noticed at various times that they (the wings) had only to be touched by the fingers ever so lightly to leave a gray powdery deposit, while the portion handled lost more or less of its softness and beauty, simply because you had removed (by the exceeding roughness of your skin) the fine coating of "scales" (really modified hairs), with which they are covered.

If a small portion of the wing of the butterfly should be placed under the microscope the scales may be seen in position very similar to shingles on the roof of a house, while if a few should be rubbed off and a much higher magnification used, they would plainly be seen, shaped as in Fig. 1, which shows the "scales" from the wing of the yellow-winged butterfly common to all our gardens.

Turning now our attention to the mouth of the insect, we see that nature has so adapted it as to be best suited to obtaining the necessary food which is contained at the bottom of the flower, generally deep down in the cup.

Now, the large wings of the butterfly, although adding to its general effect of airiness and beauty, are yet decidedly in the way, had the butterfly depended upon an ordinary pair of beauty and complexity. In Fig. 4 is shown enlarged a view of a thin section transversely cut off, showing faintly the lacework pattern spoken of. All those many openings are simply sections and ground plans of the many canals which serve to carry up the nutrient juices to the leaves and blossoms, and just here let me say that the wonderful way in which these same juices are carried upward to the leaves is justly worthy of study.

Two forces aid in the lifting—first the force of evaporation, which sucks the moisture from the many thousand "mouths" of the leaves, not only serves to keep them cool and fresh, but also serves to draw up, as a form of suction pump, the water through the stem canals. The other force is called "root pressure," as it is caused by the roots of the plant being so formed that although they are able to absorb moisture into themselves from the earth, yet they allow none to pass out. Just as some doors can swing outward and inward in both directions, while some others swing only in the one direction, a greater pressure in the opposite way simply serving to close them the more firmly, so with the roots and stems, water will pass through the root valves inward and upward, but never outward or downward, and it is for that reason that a freshly-cut stem of a plant will exude moisture for some time after it has been severed.

So with the stems of all other plants, all have their own peculiar beauty of formation, and all have the arrangement of their canals different according to their needs.

HOPE IS REVIVED.

British Minister at Peking Sends Dispatch Saying Diplomats Were Alive July 21.

London, July 31.—The admiralty has made public the following dispatch from Rear Admiral Bruce at Tientsin: "Following message from Peking: 'British legation, Peking, June 20 to July 16 repeatedly attacked by Chinese troops on all sides. Both rifle and artillery fire. Since July 16 an armistice, but a cordon is strictly drawn on both sides of the positions. Chinese barricades close to ours. All women and children in the British legation. Casualties to date 62 killed, including Capt. Strouts. A number of wounded in hospital, including Capt. Halliday. Rest of legation well except David Oliphant and Warren, killed July 21.'

"MACDONALD."

London, July 31.—Sir Claude Macdonald's welcome dispatch, dated Peking, July 21, and received in cipher, is accepted on all sides as dispelling any doubts that might still have existed regarding the genuineness of the dispatch. Owing to an error in transmission, the message fails to show the number of wounded.

The message fails to mention the other legations and other matters of pressing importance to know, but it should be borne in mind that the British minister may not be aware that all his previous dispatches have been suppressed. He may be under the impression that the government is fully posted regarding all recent occurrences.

Apart from this dispatch there is practically no fresh news, although a special from Tientsin asserts that the British and American forces are getting ready to advance within 48 hours.

Washington, July 31.—Now that the London foreign office has heard from Sir Claude Macdonald, the officials here confidently expect that within a very short time something will come from Minister Conger if he be still alive. This belief is based upon the assumption that Minister Conger's facilities for communicating to his government are at least equal to those possessed by his diplomatic colleague, and that he will avail himself of the very first opportunity to let the people of the United States know that he is alive and what are the real conditions in Peking. Some disappointment is expressed here because of the absence of any date to Sir Claude's dispatch, the message in its present shape leaving uncertain just up to what time it brings events in Peking. It is pointed out, however, that the probability is that the date, July 21, at the end of the message, is the day on which it was sent, as the body of the communication says an armistice has been in existence since July 16.

Officials are horrified at the great number of persons who have been killed and wounded, and say that when the day of reckoning comes China will have a big account to settle with different nations.

London, July 31.—The British consul at Tientsin telegraphs to the foreign office Monday that a letter from a Japanese colonel in Peking states that the legations were safe July 22. There had been no firing on the legations since July 17. The consul adds:

"A reliable messenger, who failed to enter Peking, but reached there, returns stating that there was no firing on the legations between July 15 and July 19."

In view of this evidence, the British government is convinced that the legations are safe.

Washington, July 31.—The secretary of state received at midnight a dispatch from Mr. Fowler, American consul at Chefoo, dated July 29, noon. Mr. Fowler says:

"A letter from the German legation dated 21st inst., received at Tientsin, German loss 10 dead and 12 wounded. Chinese ceased their attack on the 12th. Baron von Ketteler's body said to be safe. The Austrian, Dutch and Spanish legations destroyed and the French partially. A letter from the Japanese legation dated 22d arrived at Tientsin on 25th. Ten battalions of Chinese shelled the legations consecutively from the 20th of June and stopped on the 11th of July, but may renew. The enemy are decreasing. The German, Russian, American, British and half the Japanese and French legations still defended. Japanese say they have food for six days, but little ammunition. The emperor and empress are reported at Peking."

Berlin, July 31.—The German council at Tientsin has telegraphed under date of Saturday, July 28, to the foreign office as follows:

"The German secretary of legation at Peking, Herr Below, writes, July 21:

"Thanks for your news, July 19th the condition of Cordes satisfactory. The remaining members of the legation are all right. The detachment of the guards lost 10 killed and 14 wounded. The houses of the legation much damaged by cannon fire; are held by guard. The attack of the Chinese troops on us ceased July 16. Speediest possible advance of relief troops urgently necessary."

"According to trustworthy report, the body of Baron von Ketteler has been buried by the Chinese government."

St. Petersburg, July 31.—The Russian general staff has received dispatches from various sources indicating a serious state of affairs throughout Manchuria. The revolt in the neighborhood of Mukden and the district northward has assumed such proportion that the Russian column has been compelled to retreat from Mukden southward. Fighting continuously, the column with difficulty reached the station at Ajasdzian, where on July 8 it was surrounded by Chinese troops. Reinforcements were sent, and the withdrawal of the column was effected to Daschiao, with 48 casualties, killed, wounded and missing.

Four Typical American Women

The Wives of the Four Principal National Candidates

Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley is a wife. The rest are Theodore, aged 13; Kermit, aged 11; Ethel, aged nine; Archibald, aged six, and Quentin, aged three. Mrs. Roosevelt was at Philadelphia with her husband.

Mrs. W. J. Bryan was Mary Baird, of Perry, Ill., and was married to Mr. Bryan on October 1, 1884. She attended the female academy in Jacksonville when he was in another school at the same place, and was graduated the same week that he was, and was also the valedictorian of her class. She studied law and was admitted to the bar without any idea of practicing, but simply to be more thoroughly companionable to him. She is a year or two younger than he. Mrs. Bryan has an immense amount of determination and aggressiveness, is studious and reserved. She does not care for fashion or society. Attention was at first drawn to her at the time Bryan made his famous tariff speech in the house, when it devel-despite her physical weakness Mrs. McKinley says she is the happiest of women. The president likes nothing better than to tell of the assistance his wife has been to him in his work.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt was Miss Edith Kermit Carow when she was married to the now candidate for vice president in 1886. She is a handsome woman, well educated, and thoroughly familiar with the requirements of society. She is a warm admirer of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, especially as a wife and mother, and warmly approves the declaration of the former president's wife that children belong exclusively to the home and fireside, and should never know they are objects of public interest, especially during a political campaign. She is careful to screen her children in all ways possible from photographers, and likewise shuns publicity for herself. She declares children, if promiscuously admired, become self-conscious, vain and conceited, and lose those traits of innocence and loveliness beautiful in children. There are six children. HAIR BRUSH AND COMB.

Their Neglected Condition Is Said to Be Responsible for Many Cases of Scalp Trouble.

"The thing I'd like to impress upon the public is the vital importance of clean hair brushes," says a scalp specialist. "The condition of the average hair brush is simply disgraceful and makes a perfect mass of infection. The brush should be washed every week, and washing isn't enough. It should be thoroughly sterilized at least twice a month. All hair does not need much brushing, and the kind of brush required depends upon the peculiarities of the scalp. A stiff brush is necessary for some heads and fatal to others, and one's brush should really be prescribed by a competent specialist. Then, the comb should be a different thing from the ordinary affair. It should be coarse. A fine comb is all wrong. The teeth should round both on the sides and the ends, so that it will glide smoothly through the hair, and there shouldn't be any corners between the teeth."

"Women keep their hair better than men. In the first place there's more of it and their scalps are better protected, but they wear their hats so much less than men, and the hats, when they are worn, do not fit the head so tightly and create such a heat and moisture, generating poison, as the man's hat does. A leather hatband should be changed frequently. It gets dirty, and decomposition of leather is a wonderful microbe producer."

Iced Water Is the Best.

Ice-cold water is not so good as iced water—that is, water cooled by ice without coming in contact with it. The less of either the better. It is an excellent practice to drink water—an abundance of it—just before retiring; also the first thing in the morning. It is a cleaner of the system, especially of the stomach, and is a good diuretic.

It Needs an Airing.

The Chinese boast that their civilization is 4,000 years old. Perhaps that is the reason why, says the Omaha World-Herald, it is necessary to shoot a few holes through it for purposes of ventilation.

The west end of Washtenaw county was not represented at the convention Tuesday. The Moran slogan is not loud enough to call delegates from this distance.

It was stated at Tuesday's convention that the delegates present had no collar around their necks and had no boss. What was the matter with Boss Moran, he seemed to act in that capacity and to direct and order what should be done?

Tuesday's convention was said by those who took part in it, to be in the interest of future harmony in the Washtenaw Republican ranks. That may be so, but when the olive branch of peace was twice refused by the convention, it looks as though they wanted to defer the matter for a long time into the future.

Ninety per cent of the delegates present Tuesday were claimed by one of the leaders of the Antis to be friendly to Judge Newkirk's re-election. But, the leaders, headed by S. A. Moran, were dead set to have a full ticket of their own, and so his name was not mentioned. We will wager that when the votes are canvassed in November the judge will astonish these men with the number of votes that are credited to him.

The statement made in the resolutions adopted at the convention that Republicanism stood for freedom of speech and action on the part of all, was strangely at variance with the action of the chairman in applying a parliamentary rule to gag Mr. W. K. Childs when in the interest of future harmony in the party he proposed to leave three places on the ticket vacant to be filled by the Republican convention which will meet Sept. 5. The motion to lay this matter on the table was carried with a whoop, and as under parliamentary rule such a motion is not debatable, Mr. Childs was denied the privilege of saying anything in behalf of his motion. Consistency is a jewel the convention lost sight of.

Poultry Food Did This.

Manchester Enterprise: Robert Laming drove through Sharon some time ago and advised a family to try some poultry food he was selling, saying the hens after being given it would even bring the eggs into the house. The hens were fed with it and shortly afterward a hen came to the house to find a place for her egg. First she flew onto the flower stand, but finding that to be no place for a hen's nest she walked around the house and seeing the pantry window open she flew in, where the egg basket was kept, and probably would have left an egg in the basket had she not been driven out by the mistress.

For the benefit of fishermen the state game warden defines a set line, within the meaning of the law, as any line in use for the purpose of catching fish in any of the inland lakes of this state, and not held in the hand or under the immediate control of the party using it. This would include bobs, tip-ups, lines tied to brush or poles set in the mud or ice, lines stretched across lakes with short lines with hooks attached; in short, any device for catching fish other than single apparatus held in the hand of the operator or under his immediate control.

Manchester horsemen are talking of leasing grounds and fitting them up for a race track, ball grounds, etc. The Enterprise suggests that partially shaded grounds should be selected so that picnics could be held there.

The Bell and New State telephone exchanges at Ypsilanti, are to be consolidated. It is only a question of time when this policy will be carried out in every town and village where there are now two exchanges of these companies.

The speakers at the farmers' picnic at North Lake next Tuesday, Aug. 7, will be Geo. B. Harlow, master of State Grange; Hon. H. C. Smith and Rev. Chas. O. Reilly, of Adrian; Thos. E. Barkworth, Jackson; Rev. C. S. Jones, Chelsea, and others.

Glen V. Mills, the well known Ann Arbor directory publisher, now has underway directories for Pontiac and Oakland county, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, Tonawanda, N. Y., North Tonawanda, N. Y., and his next U. of M. students' directory. As a publisher of A1 directories Glen V. is a success.

Karl E. Harriman, son of Judge W. D. Harriman, of Ann Arbor, has been engaged for three months past writing stories of undergraduate life at the U. of M. He has written eight of these stories, each about 7,000 words long, and he has sold them to Harper & Sons for publication in Harper's Magazine. Mr. Harriman formerly wrote for the Detroit Free Press under the nom de plume of "Kenneth Herford."

Washtenaw Times: The guards on the special western express (otherwise known as "the blind baggage") that goes through the Michigan Central take no chances on a hold-up. Very recently when the train was opposite the Ann Arbor Water Co.'s plant, it was observed to stop suddenly. The guards jumped off and with leveled Winchesters made some men who were riding between the cars get off in short order.

A suit has been instituted at Port Huron that may jar the telephone companies a trifle. A man's barn caught fire, and he at once attempted to call the fire company by phone. The "hello" girl paid no attention to him till the barn was about burned down, and now he sues to collect the value of the barn. It is the first suit brought to determine the right of a subscriber and liability of the company, and will be watched with interest.

E. L. Negus received Saturday from Albert Sonn, a copy of the Cobleskill, N. Y., Index, which contained an account of a disastrous fire in that place in which he and his family lost their home all their household goods, furniture and clothing, and barely escaped with their lives. Their loss amounted to $5,000 with an insurance of $1,000. Mr. Sonn was a resident of Chelsea about 25 years ago. He built and owned the house now occupied by Prof. Gifford on East Middle street.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease, is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. It is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Cure guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Stimson, the druggist.

SUMMER STUDENTS BUSY

They Are Going Through the Daily Routine of Work with Clock-work Regularly.

THE CLASSES TAKE FREQUENT OUTINGS.

Lecture by Prof. Scott on Porto Rico and One by Prof. Kelsey on Old Roman Tombstones—Death of a Noted Character—Other University Notes of General Interest.

[Special Correspondence.]

University of Michigan, July 30.—The past week has not been a particularly brilliant one in the university world. The summer students have with very few exceptions caught onto the ropes with a good grip by this time. They are going through the daily routine with the steadiness of a well regulated clock. The classes in zoology, botany and physical geography take frequent outings, going to the fields, the river bank and the woods. They try to study nature there as well as in the laboratory. It is quite an interesting sight to see two dozen or more young men and women passing down the street with nets for catching butterflies and bugs and with hooks, spears and lines for capturing frogs, mud turtles, etc. The class

GREGORY NAGELE.

In geology and physical geography have been visiting the big railway cuts in the vicinity of Ann Arbor to study stratification, etc.

Outdoes All Others.

The nature study class, however, has been outdoing all the others in the matter of taking outings. This work began last week. Each exercise consists of lecture-room work and an outdoor study. Among the recent visits made by the class was one to a rabbit park near the campus. About an hour was spent in watching these animals feed, play, sleep and fight.

This course is open to all the students of the summer sessions of both law and literary departments and as a result are being largely attended.

Lecture on Porto Rico.

Prof. Charles R. Scott gave a lecture Friday evening on life in Porto Rico, where he has been for the past 18 months engaged in educational work. The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views made from photographs.

Old Roman Tombstones.

Saturday evening Prof. Francis W. Kelsey gave a lecture regarding the large collection of old Roman tombstones recently sent to the university by a friend who procured them in Italy. The value of these is in the Latin inscriptions which are chiseled across their face. Some of the stones date back to the first century after Christ.

Homeopathic Hospital.

All arrangements are being made for the opening of the new homeopathic hospital. This building will be ready for use by the latter part of September. Already the task of rearranging the building which is to be a home for the hospital nurses has been begun. The home stands near by the hospital.

Death of Janitor Nagele.

Gregory Nagele, the old janitor of the medical building, died Saturday from cancer of the liver. For a long time he has been counted among the interesting people connected with the university. For over 50 years he has been in the employ of the institution. "Doc," as he was called, for a long time had charge of the bodies coming to the anatomical laboratory for dissection. In this position he had experiences which would make an ordinary man turn pale. Before the university was supplied with subjects from the state prison and county houses he was the person who received the bodies and asked no questions. He kept the secrets well.

Kept His Bell Ringing.

For some time past his principal duty has been to walk around the medical building at the hour of the meeting of the classes and ring a large hand bell. There was really no need of his doing this, as for the past 15 years the big clock in the library tower has announced the hours, quarter hours and half hours with such loudness that there could be no mistake. But "Doc" called the students together with his hand bell before the library clock tower was built, and he considered it his duty to continue to do so.

Catalogue Office.

The office of the general catalogue has been established in the alumni association reception-room. The editors of the catalogue are securing the addresses of the 30,000 persons who are alumni of the university. As soon as the desired information is gathered and arranged it will be published in book form.

MAYBURY IS CHOSEN.

Michigan Democrats Nominate the Detroit Mayor for Governor.

All the Candidates for State Offices Were Selected Unanimously Without Ballots—Text of the Platform.

Detroit, Mich., July 26.—Hon. William C. Maybury, mayor of Detroit, was on Wednesday evening tendered the democratic nomination for governor of Michigan with a unanimity which rendered useless the taking of any ballot. Not a dissenting voice was heard when the vote on the proposition to nominate Maybury was acted upon, and the withdrawal of the half-dozen other gubernatorial candidates before any vote was taken was decided by the delegates with loud cheers of approval.

It was the field against Maybury throughout. Most of the speakers for other candidates insisted that a farmer ought to be named to insure a winning ticket, but the overwhelming Maybury sentiment could not be stemmed by the scattering of other candidates, either individually or collectively.

The business done by regular life

LIFE INSURANCE.

Annual Report of the Insurance Commissioners Presents Some Interesting Statistics.

The second part of the annual report of Insurance Commissioner Stevens, which will soon be issued, treats of the business of life insurance in Michigan. Commissioner Stevens says that under the laws of the state at this time he considers that the 75,000 Michigan policy holders carrying old-line insurance, and the 111,000 having industrial policies are fully protected. The report says:

There are now doing business in the state two Michigan life insurance companies, 36 life insurance companies of other states, 34 casualty, fidelity and surety companies, 12 accident, assessment life and sick benefit companies of Michigan and 26 of other states, 24 fraternal associations of Michigan and 45 of other states.

The business done by regular life companies in the state during the year 1890 is as follows: Policies issued, 17,341; amount of policies, $26,035,541; policies in force at the end of the year, 74,764; amount of policies in force, $146,055,515; premiums received, $5,223,574; losses paid, $2,086,107. The receipts of the department for the year were $270,049 and the disbursements $13,926.

FIFTY YEARS OLD.

Big Celebration Held in Ishpeming by the Cleveland Cliffs Officials and Employees.

The semi-centennial celebration of the Cleveland Cliff Iron company took place in Ishpeming. The principal exercises were from a stand erected over the first pit operated. Hon.

Peter White, of Marquette, who saw the first ore raised from the mine, gave an address dealing with the early history of mining in Ishpeming. Capt. Frank Miles, Sr., now 75 years old, the first superintendent of the Cleveland mines, also first mayor of Ishpeming, took part in the exercises. Other officials of the company were present. President William G. Mather; secretary, J. H. Sheadle; auditor, R. C. Mann; directors, E. R. Perkins and J. H. Hoyt, all of Cleveland; also Charles E. Mather and son, boat owners of Philadelphia. Over 1,700 employees were given a holiday with full pay. President Mather gave a banquet to the mine officials and others at his cottage at the conclusion of the exercises.

TO REWRITE THE BIBLE.

Rev. A. M. Rihbany, of Morenci, Says the Book in Its Present Form Is Not What It Should Be.

Rev. A. M. Rihbany, a native Syrian, educated in this country, and a few years ago pastor of the Morenci Congregational church, has startled the town by announcing his withdrawal from the orthodox church. He gave as his reasons that he did not believe in the divinity of Christ and various other doctrines. Then he started a new paper called the First Ray, and began to gather a new organization, which he calls the New Age church. Rihbany attributes theological dissatisfaction and religious unrest to the Bible itself, which he claims is crude Jewish legends, not up to the standard of Christian teaching. He contends that the Bible in its present form is not a fit book to put into the hands of children and young people, so he promises to publish in a short time a new edition of the Bible in which pure and lofty teachings will be distinguished from legendary lore.

A CURIOUS FREAK.

Peach Tree in South Coloma Swept from Its Place and Transplanted by Water Sprites.

A peculiar freak of the water sprites in a recent rainstorm is shown in William Enders' peach orchard in South Coloma. The torrent of water must have found a subterranean outlet through the suites of rooms and hallways constructed and probably occupied by a family of woodchucks, or other members of the underworld, the soft earth being gullied out to a depth of fully seven feet by nearly 20 feet in breadth. Two peach trees were borne from their former locations, one of which was laid prostrate, and nearly covered by the sand, while the other had retained its upright position, and was found as neatly transplanted to its new place as if moved by the most skillful arboriculturist.

The top of the tree, which was fully six feet in height, was below the level of the surrounding plain.

Long Bicycle Trip.

Clyde Smith and Claude Morehouse, of Pontiac, decided on a novel trip for a summer outing. They left on bicycles for Tennessee, going by way of Chicago, and will return by way of Niagara Falls, New York and the east. They took only a small amount of money with them to use in cases of emergency. They will secure meals by means of a hard luck tale which they propose to tell to an ever-credulous people.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Name a Ticket.

At the state convention in Saginaw of the social democratic party Eugene V. Debs was endorsed for president and the following state ticket was put in nomination:

Governor, Henry Ramsey, Battle Creek; Lieutenant governor, Clayton J. Lamb, Lapeer county; secretary of state, Joseph Dick, Detroit; state treasurer, Albert Elyon, Saginaw; auditor general, David C. Hendricks, Saginaw; commissioner of state land office, John D. Hunt, Hillsdale county; attorney general, George A. Eastman, Detroit; superintendent of public instruction, Miss Ross McBrearty, Detroit; member of state board of education, Joseph Carr, Saginaw.

Shot and Killed.

Joseph Mitchell, a cigarmaker, was shot and instantly killed by Chris Eck, a Marinette policeman. The former was intoxicated and resisted arrest. Mitchell was a young man and his parents reside at Kingston, Ont. Eck gave himself up. He claimed that Mitchell had a companion, who attempted to take the prisoner away from Eck, and that when the latter discharged his revolver to call assistance Mitchell got within range and was accidentally killed.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 81 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended July 21 indicate that whooping cough and typhoid fever increased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 120 places, measles at 68, typhoid fever at 53, scarlet fever at 50, diphtheria at 19, whooping cough at 21, cerebrospinal meningitis at 3 places, and smallpox at Grand Rapids, Springwell, Durand, Walker, Ausable and Hersey.

Badly Injured.

Z. McKinley a prominent citizen and hardware dealer in Camden, while attempting to subdue a vicious broncho became entangled in the ropes, was thrown to the ground and dragged several rods among trees, stone piles and other rubbish and was terribly injured. Mr. McKinley was a lieutenant in the civil war, and is about 60 years of age.

Victim of Racers.

May Bacon, aged 20, daughter of Oscar Bacon, of Chicago, died in Tekonsha, where she was visiting, from the effects of an injury received in an accident. She was driving with a young man who started to race with an acquaintance. The buggy ran into a hack and the pole struck Miss Bacon, nearly severing her jugular vein.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan:

Frequent and heavy showers have greatly delayed haying, harvesting and cultivation; considerable hay damaged and some wheat sprouting in shock; oat harvest begun promises heavy yield; corn, potatoes, beans, sugar beets and garden truck doing very well.

Snow at Marshall.

Snow fell in Marshall for a few minutes during the course of a hard wind-storm. The wind did much damage, blowing down orchards and barns, unroofing houses and breaking glass. Arthur Day lost two valuable houses by lightning.

World to End This Year.

This is the recent decision of one of the prominent societies of the world, but the exact day has not yet been fixed upon, and while there are very few people who believe this prediction, there are thousands of others who not only believe, but know that Hoetetter's Stomach Bitters is the best medicine to cure dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness or liver and kidney troubles. A fair trial will certainly convince you of its value.

Housewife and Burglar.

The burglar had entered the house as quickly as possible, but his shoes were not padded and they made some noise. He had just reached the door of the bedroom when he heard some one moving in the bed as if about to get up, and he paused. The sound of a woman's voice floated to his ears. "If you don't take off your boots when you come into this house," it said, "there's going to be trouble, and a whole lot of it. Here it's been raining for three hours, and you dare to tramp over my carpets with your muddy boots on. Go downstairs and take them off." He went downstairs without a word, but he didn't take off his boots. Instead he went out into the night again, and the "pal" who was waiting for him saw a tear glisten in his eye. "I can't rob that house," he said. "It reminds me of home." Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

The merits of the preparations of the J. C. Maguire Medicine Company of St. Louis, Mo., are beyond all question. This firm has succeeded in furnishing the Army and Navy. They went into business in 1841, and have steadily grown in favor with the public, not having one failure to report in 50 years! Their Benne Plant, Cundurango, etc., have become a household word. They are sold by all druggists. Ask for booklet free, and if you ever get Diarrhea, Dysentery or Cholera-Morbus, give the Benne Plant a trial, and you will be convinced. Every article made by the Maguire Medicine Company is guaranteed to do what is claimed for it.

ITALY'S KING SLAIN.

Bullet of an Assassin Pierces the Heart of Humbert.

The Ruler Shot Down at the Close of a Fete at Monza—Angelo Bressi, the Assassin, Captured—Said to Be an Anarchist.

Monza, Italy, July 30.—King Humbert has been assassinated. He was shot here Sunday evening by a man named Angelo Bressi, and died in a few minutes.

The king had been attending a distribution of prizes in connection with a gymnastic competition. He had just entered his carriage with his aid de camp, amid the cheers of the crowd, when he was struck by three revolver shots fired in quick succession. One pierced the heart of his majesty, who fell back and expired in a few minutes.

The assassin was immediately arrested, and with some difficulty saved from the fury of the populace. He gave his name as Angelo Bressi, describing himself as of Prato, in Tuscany.

King Humbert was shot at 10:45 o'clock Sunday evening and died at 11:30. The murderer cynically avowed the crime.

Assassin Thought to Be Crazy.

His majesty had entered his carriage attended by his aids-de-camp and a guard of troops, and was standing and bowing in reply to the cheers of the people when he was shot.

The attendants and people were horror-struck and Monza was changed from a festival town to a city of mourning. Doctors were hastily summoned, but their efforts were in vain.

The king was dead before they arrived.

The assassin's deed is execrated by the masses in Italy.

The murderer is little known and his motive is a mystery. He is supposed to be insane. The queen is prostrated by the news.

HUMBERT'S REIGN.

A Brief Sketch of the Life of the Murdered Ruler.
King Humbert's full name was Umberto Renier Charles Emmanuel Jean Marie Ferdinand Eugene. He was born at Turin on March 14, 1844. He was the son of Victor Emmanuel II, who died on January 9, 1878, and of Queen Adelalde, who was before her marriage Archduchess of Austria. He succeeded to the throne upon the death of his father. He was married to Princess Helene of Montenegro in Rome on April 22, 1868.

Was Attacked in 1878.

Once before his majesty was attacked by an assassin. On November 17, 1878, shortly after he had been crowned, an attempt was made on his life while he was entering the city of Naples. Giovanni Passante, a cook, waving a flag, approached the royal carriage and stabbed the king in the arm with a short dagger. His majesty drew his sword and wounded the man. Members of the royal suite came to his assistance, but not until one of them was severely wounded was the would-be murderer secured.

Knit His People Together.

King Humbert's reign has been marked more for his ability to keep his people knit together than for any extraordinary activity he has shown in the affairs of the nations of Europe. Most of the historians of modern affairs contend that Italy's stability since 1861, when Victor Emmanuel was first saluted king, has been due to the sagacity of her ministers rather than to the greatness of either Humbert or his father. But it is memorable that even when Humbert ascended the throne the army and navy of his country were as nothing, his people were impoverished, roads were unbuilt and the nation had a poor standing among the people of the earth.

Triple Alliance His Greatest Work.

The triple alliance, with its accompanying ready armies and equipped navy, has flourished under his rule, and his people have remained loyal to him, in spite of the scandals which shook, in turn, every minister from place and power.

The most notable achievements of King Humbert's reign have been the consummation of the triple alliance between Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, and the securing of Turkish adhesion to the compact as a precautionary measure against the possible encroachments of Russia and other powers. Beyond this he seems to have been content to care mostly for the internal and material advancement of his people, as though they were at most and at least his neighbors, companions and friends.

Of late years he has followed more closely in the humane and generous practices of his amiable wife—visiting hospitals, mingling with the poor and giving his personal care to charities that are not included in the written duties of the state departments.

Raised in a court where the chief business was military, King Humbert did not receive as broad and thorough an education as that obtained by most latter-day monarchs. He was born and bred a soldier, but he lacked many intellectual attainments, and in his younger days fell into some frivolity which displeased but did not estrange his gentle queen. All his critics agree that he never trusted a minister or a party that he had not first won to love him.

The Seat of War.

"My husband is so nice about explaining these war terms to me. I know I aggravate him awfully, too, sometimes. Why, only think, I had to ask him this morning what the seat of war was for?"

"Yes?"

"Wasn't it foolish? But he's so patient. The idea that I didn't have sense enough to see that it is for the standing army to use when it gets tired!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Philippine natives run pell-mell.

At the sound of our Yankee yell.

But, oh, what a gait they'll have maybe,

After taking Rocky Mountain Tea.

Ask your druggist.

Lyndon.

H. S. Barton is now connected with the new phone line.

Beans and corn promise an abundant crop from the outlook just now.

One of the heaviest showers of the season fell here last Sunday about 11 o'clock.

Hankard Bros. and Clark Bros. are making the marsh hay on the Otto farm this week.

Thomas Clark has been camping at North Lake the past week with some Chelsea friends.

The masons are working on the wall of J. McKune's new house. The carpenters expect to begin work next week.

McClear Bros. and Bert Young are this week repairing Edward Gorman's house which was recently damaged by fire.

Making marsh hay is the order of business just now and every available bit of that commodity is being gathered in with great care by the farmers this season.

The festive grasshopper is still putting in his time eating beans, clover, garden ruck and other green things to his liking. He grows fat even on the mullin which is so plentiful this year. Wish he would confine his diet to that plant.
