TWO NOTED EVANGELISTS

Will Conduct Revival Services in Chelsea Commencing Sunday Evening.

Revs. Hunter and Crossley, evangelists, will conduct revival services in this place for the next few weeks. The meetings will commence Sunday evening in the Congregational church and will continue there during the week. After that they will be held in the M. E. church.

REVS. HUNTER AND CROSSLEY.

Rev. John E. Hunter, the well known evangelist, was born in Durham county, Ont., July 29, 1856. His boyhood days were spent on a farm, where he acquired the physical vigor necessary for the arduous labors of an evangelist. He was brought up a Presbyterian, but at the age of 15 was converted in a Methodist revival, and four years later was called, like Eliza of old, from the plough to the pulpit. His circuits became the centres of extensive revivals, and also many other fields where he assisted in special services. During his probation, Mr. Hunter spent two years at Victoria College, and shortly after his ordination on the 12th of July, 1882, was married to Miss Jennie Jones of Essex. He was then, by his own request, transferred to the Manitoba Conference, where he continued in the pastorate until the conviction of his call to evangelistic work became more intense, he in July, 1884, joined Mr. Crossley, and the two went forth, like flaming evagels, through the principal towns and cities of the Dominion, gathering thousands into the churches. Mr. Hunter is of Irish descent, and possesses all that keenness of perception, nervous sensibility and tendency to wit, so characteristic of the Irish people. He is also endowed with much of that peculiar force called magnetism, which attracts and holds attention and constitutes its possessor a leader of men. He is a man of power in the pulpit, his Bible readings are intensely practical and interesting, and his exhortations, in their melting pathos and impassioned appeal, are unique and full of persuasive power. He shows marvelous tact in managing a revival meeting, no general on the field of battle having more perfect control of his forces. God has endowed him for this special work. His home is No. 113 Wellington street, St. Thomas.

Rev. H. T. Crossley, evangelist, is a Canadian of English and Irish descent. He was born in the county of York, Ont., November 19th, 1850. His boyhood was spent on a farm. At the age of 19 he received a first-class provincial certificate from the Toronto normal school, after which he taught school for four years. He continued his education some years later at Victoria University, preparing for his life work. Mr. Crossley was religiously inclined from a child, and at the age of 17, was converted and joined the Methodist church. When 23 years of age he entered the ministry and spent ten years in the regular work of the church as pastor. During his pastorate he saw the fruits of his labor, many being converted, not only on his own circuits, but on other charges where he was invited to help his brethren. In 1884, by consent of his conference, he began the work of an evangelist, and from that time until now he and his co-laborer, Rev. John E. Hunter, have been engaged in union revival services with the various evangelical churches in the leading towns and cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He has always addressed large audiences, and many thousands have been added to the different churches as a result of these meetings. Mr. Crossley has special qualifications for this great work. First he has a broad catholic spirit and large sympathy. Second, as a preacher, he is clear, logical, pointed and convincing. Third, he sings from the heart to the heart. His voice is a well-trained baritone, and possesses great clearness, sweetness and pathos. Fourth, he has strong confidence in God to bless his own word, when faithfully presented, and to crown personal effort with success. Mr. Crossley will preach in the M. E. church Sunday morning, and in the Congregational church in the evening.

Sunday-school Convention.

A Sunday-school convention for the townships of Sylvan, Lima and Lyndon will be held at the M. E. church, Chelsea, Friday, November 23d, at 2 o'clock p. m. The following program will be carried out:

Devotions, Rev. J. I. Nickerson

Mrs. Sara Looney.

Friday, November 16, 1900, Mrs. Sara Conlan Looney peacefully entered into rest after a brief illness. Mrs. Looney was one of the pioneers of Sylvan, having lived there more than fifty years. She was 72 years of age at the time of her death. Mrs. Looney was greatly respected by a large number of people, who admired her for her loyalty to friends, her industry and her integrity of character. Though the day was very inclement a large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral, which was held Monday from St. Mary's church, of which she was a devoted member. Her pastor, Rev. W. P. Considine, officiated sang the requiem mass and preached an admirable sermon. The remains were laid away beside her husband in St. Mary's cemetery, Sylvan. Mrs. Looney leaves six children and many relatives to mourn her departure.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

The Eastern Star will give a box social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Holmes Friday evening, November 23d. A couple of laughable farces will be presented and a general good time is in prospect. The ladies are expected to bring boxes containing eatables enough for two. The general public is cordially invited.

As previously announced, the C. E. fair will be held at the opera house December 6th and 7th. 'Twill be a good place to purchase your holiday gifts. There are to be several booths, where both useful and ornamental articles will be for sale. Chicken pie supper Thursday evening. Something "extra good" at the Friday evening's supper. Please to come.

The remains of Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron McAllister of Detroit, who died Tuesday, were brought to this place today and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Fuller, where the funeral was held at 3 o'clock, Rev. Thomas Holmes, D. D., conducting the services. The interment was at Oak Grove cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. McAllister have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The fair given by the ladies of the Baptist church at the opera house last evening was a decided success. A large number of people partook of the elegant supper served. The auditorium presented a pretty appearance with the prettily decorated booths and the many articles offered for sale. The ladies disposed of all the latter, and as a result of their efforts have added $150 to the fund that they are raising to assist in remodeling the church.

The engagement of Miss Nina May Howlett, who was a teacher in the Chelsea schools last year, to Mr. Charles Hole of New York City is announced. Mr. Hole is a graduate of the University of Michigan having received his degree from literary department in 1898. Their future home will be in Denver, Col. Miss Howlett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Howlett of Ann Arbor and has many relatives in this locality who will wish the couple a life of prosperity and happiness.

Saturday evening, November 24th, "Peck's Bay Boy" will be given at the opera house in Chelsea. The company is a large one, carrying fifteen people and they will give a first-class performance. They have several fine specialty acts which will be introduced during the play. Among them are the International Quartet, the Creighton's singers and dancers, Stilman & Roberts acrobats, and Miss Bessie Sheldon vocalist. Prices of admission, 25 and 35c. Children 15c. Seats on sale at Schatz's barber shop.

The past week has been one of surprises to several of our citizens. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McLaren of Summit street were surprised when about thirty-five of their friends walked in upon them. They came prepared to stay, as they brought large quantities of eatables. The evening was spent in social games and converse, and was an enjoyable one. On Tuesday evening Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Avery were very unexpectedly called upon to entertain a number of friends who had invited themselves to meet at their home on Middle street, east. Of course they brought along rations enough for the occasion. All enjoyed themselves and the occasion will long be remembered by the participants.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of a certain installment of interest due and payable upon a certain mortgage made and executed by Ernest A. Dietrich of Ann Arbor, Michigan to Rosa Christina Schlatterbeck of Cincinnati, Ohio, to secure a part of the purchase price of the premises therein described and so specified in said mortgage, by reason of which default the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Which said mortgage is dated August 16th, A. D. 1899 and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw county, Michigan, on the said 16th day of August, 1899, in Liber 100 of mortgages, on page 184. And no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and there is now claimed to be due upon said mortgage the sum of fifty dollars ($50.00) as interest, and the further sum of thirty-five dollars ($35.00) as an attorney's fee provided by law and stipulated in said mortgage, and there is also the further sum of two thousand dollars yet to grow due upon said mortgage debt and secured thereby. Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, at public auction to the highest bidder at the east front door of the Court House, in the city of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, (that being the place where the Circuit Court for said County of Washtenaw is held) on Friday the 21st day of December next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon of that day. Which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: Lot number seven (7), in block number two (2), south of Huron street, in range four (4) east according to the recorded plat of the Village, now city of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan. Dated, September 18th, 1900.

Prof. Kolthoff of Sweden, who recently returned from Greenland with a pair of musk oxen, one of the objects of his travels, believes these interesting animals can be acclimated in the north of Sweden. In matter of food, he says, they are as easily pleased as the American goat that digests oyster cans. A full-grown ox will weigh between 1,400 and 1,500 pounds, and its flesh is good eating.

Recent improvements in telephoto cameras are said to have obviated the old difficulty which required long exposures, and have rendered it possible to take pictures with such cameras as quickly as with those of ordinary construction. The improvement has been effected by placing a tube, containing a positive lens at one end and a negative at the other, in front of the ordinary lens of the camera.

An electric railway is to be constructed between Liverpool and Manchester, intended especially for the swift transportation of passengers. It is said that the system adopted will be that of the single elevated rail, the cars being suspended from the rail. The projectors talk of sending trains from one city to the other, a distance of about twenty-nine miles, in fifteen minutes, or at the rate of 115 miles an hour.

According to the results of studies by Prof. A. E. Verrill the beautiful Bermuda Islands are merely the remnant of an island, very much larger than the present entire group, but which has sunk in the ocean. The original island had an area of 300 or 400 square miles, whereas the Bermudas today are only about twenty square miles in area. Within a comparatively recent period, says Prof. Verrill, the Bermudas have subsided at least 80 or 100 feet. Their base is the summit of an ancient volcano, while their surface is composed of shell sand drift into hills by the wind and consolidated by infiltration.

Captain S. P. Emmerson, who has just died in Denver, was distinguished as the leader of a company of irregular Confederate forces, commonly known as guerrillas, who hoped to capture or destroy Chicago. Captain Emmerson escaped capture on that occasion by stealing a horse and riding away. Many of the exploits of his command were as daring as those of the Quantrell, Morgan or Mosely raiders. He was once captured in Kentucky, but escaped by cutting a hole in the roof of his prison. Captain Emmerson was a warm friend to the James boys. He never recovered from the grief caused by the fall of the Confederacy.

The Census Bureau has made public the returns of the population in Alabama. The population of the state in 1900 is 1,828,697, as against 1,513,017 in 1890, representing an increase since 1890 of 315,680, or 20.8 per cent. This rate of increase is slightly greater than that for the decade from 1880 to 1890 when it was 19.8 per cent. The population in 1900 is more than fourteen times as large as that given for 1820, the first census taken after its organization as a state, in 1819. The total land surface of Alabama is approximately 51,540 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being 29.3 in 1890 and 35.4 in 1900.

It is with some surprise that one reads in a recent report of the director of the National Observatory at Athens that, taking area into account, earthquakes are about twice as frequent in Greece as they are in Japan. The latter country has been looked upon as par excellence the land of earthquakes. It would appear that its earthquakes are, upon the whole, more severe than those in Greece, although the great architectural monuments of Greece have suffered much from seismic disturbances.

EDICTS WILL BE IGNORED.

Ministers at Peking to Disregard Imperial Decrees.

ABE NOT SEVERE ENOUGH.

Punishments Fixed by Dowager Held Inadequate—Text of the Order Against Foreigners' Lives Issued by Tuan—German's Firm Stand on China.

Peking, Nov. 21.—The talk since Tuesday's meeting of the foreign ministers has been in regard to the imperial edicts issued on that day providing for the further punishment of "the Ministers of state for having participated in and protected the Boxers and bandits in the recent movement." The unanimous opinion is that the punishment proposed in the edicts should not be regarded as sufficient, and many persons hold that the decrees are really an insult to the intelligence of the allies. The representatives of the powers believe that these edicts show the Dowager Empress has the power to further punish the guilty parties if she can go so far as to deprive Prince Tuan of his title and noble rank and sentence him to be confined within high walls, while Prince Chwang is banished to Mukden and sentenced to imprisonment for life, and all military operations are to be stopped. It is admitted that these punishments, if enforced, will be severe, but in considering this people should not forget the offenses of Tuan and Chwang. During the siege of the legations at Peking these two men issued and had posted the following order: "Whereas, the missionary chapels in Peking have been burned and the foreigners have no longer a place where they can hide, they have necessarily absconded from sight, therefore this proclamation is issued to inform scholars, soldiers and brave Boxers and commoners that if foreigners are caught hiding they will certainly suffer death by decapitation. If brought to us alive a reward of 50 taels will be paid for a man, 40 taels for a woman, and 30 taels for a child. They must be alive when turned over to us, and when this is verified the reward will be immediately paid. Let all fear and none disregard this special proclamation." There is no question that Tuan and Chwang issued this proclamation, and hence it is argued that the demand for the death punishment in their cases is reasonable.

Firm Stand on China.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—In the reichstag today, on the occasion of the presentation of the supplementary credit for China, Count von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, emphatically denied the assertion frequently made abroad that the China imbroglio was traceable to the German occupation of Kiaochow. This statement was greeted by the social democrats with loud cries of "It is quite true." Reverting to the Kiaochow allegation Count von Buelow recapitulated the previous territorial acquisitions and expeditions of the other powers in China, adding: "We, with proverbial modesty, restrained ourselves longest of all the powers, even until the massacre of our missionaries in Shan-Tung."

Continuing, Count von Buelow said: "We first acted in China by force of circumstances, and then in such a way that peace was affected neither directly nor indirectly. Our presence at Kiaochow is based on a treaty with China, in accord with international law. We have always shown a friendly and benevolent disposition toward China and demonstrated this speciality in 1895, when China was at the mercy of the victorious Japanese. We have no desire to interfere with the interests of the other powers in China. We wish to protect our rights to the fullest degree. Our position there is one of legitimate defense."

FEARS UNIVERSAL WAR.

M. Constant's Sensational Speech in French Chamber.

Paris, Nov. 21.—During the morning session of the chamber of deputies the budget for the ministry of foreign affairs was discussed and M. Constant, republican, representing the La Fleche district of the Sarthe, asked how long the Chinese campaign would last. He said he feared it would cost a large amount. The could not depend on an indemnity to cover the expense, for it would be necessary to continue the expedition to enforce the payment. The speaker also expressed fear that the exaction of an indemnity would result in the dismemberment of China, resulting in a universal war. Thus, he pointed out, "China lays a trap for Europe to fall into."

M. Marcel Sembat, radical socialist, representing one of the Seine districts, demanded to know by what right the government had engaged in war without the consent of parliament and questioned the government as to the truth of the press announcements of atrocities committed by soldiers. He concluded with the statement that Field Marshal von Waldersee was unfit to be commander-in-chief of the allied forces.

Three Hundred Lives Lost. Shanghai, Nov. 21.—It has been ascertained that 300 lives were lost in the recent Hongkong typhoon.

Death to Christians. Canton, Nov. 21.—Refugees who have arrived here report that anti-Christian riots have broken out in the province of Kiangsi. The non-Christians are wearing badges and all persons not so decorated are in danger of death. The viceroys of the province has appointed a deputy to settle the French claims at Shun-tak and three French gunboats will accompany the deputy with the view of enforcing his orders.

COTTON GROWERS IN SESSION

Interstate Association Convention Opens in Macon Today.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 21.—The Interstate Cotton Growers' association convention was called to order here at ten o'clock by President Harvie Jordan of the Georgia association. The convention is representative of every section of the great cotton belt of the United States, every cotton producing state being represented by Missouri and Oklahoma, which have not yet been organized into the interstate association. It is believed that as a result of this conference a strong interstate organization, with a central headquarters, will be formed. The object of the association is two fold: First, to enable the farmers and bankers so to co-operate that the immediate marketing of the crop may be prevented, and, second, to arrange for the better collection of cotton statistics upon which the growers may depend.

AID FOR GALVESTON SCHOOLS.

New York Teachers and Pupils Contribute About $15,000.

New York, Nov. 21.—Substantial help will be given to the public schools of Galveston, Tex., by the teachers and pupils of the public schools of this city. The hurricane which devastated Galveston destroyed the schools there. President Miles M. O'Brien of the local board of education issued a circular address to the local principals and teachers requesting them to take up a subscription, and this has been done.

The officials of the school board for Manhattan and the Bronx have been busily engaged in counting the money turned in. It is estimated that the amount raised in the two boroughs will not be less than $15,000. President O'Brien says that, while subscriptions are not ordinarily permitted in the schools, he deemed this cause to be so worthy that he violated the rule in this instance.

SUICIDE OF DETROIT MAN.

Will H. Brady, Prominent Young Merchant, Kills Himself.

Detroit, Nov. 21.—Will H. Brady, a prominent young business man of this city, blew one side of his head completely off with a shotgun early today in his home at 200 Euclid avenue. Neighbors were aroused by Mrs. Brady's screams, and on entering the house found Mr. Brady dead in his bedroom. Mrs. Brady, who was almost crazed with grief and horror, could give no explanation of the tragedy. No reason is known why Mr. Brady, who was a successful stone and cement merchant, should commit suicide. He was a grandson of Gen. Hugh Brady, who was a prominent figure in the early history of Michigan.

TRIAL OF GAMBLERS BEGINS.

Second Hearing of Club der Harmonen Case in Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—The second trial of the defendants in the charges of gambling at the Club der Harmonen, after the reichsgericht had annulled the acquitting sentence, began today. One of the defendants, Herr von Kroecker, son of General von Kroecker, commander of an army corps and an intimate adviser of Emperor William, fled to the south, and the court ordered his arrest wherever he should be found. The principal culprit, "Gentleman" Wolff, this time was present.

Judge Puts Ban on Boycott.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21.—Judge Filcraft of the Circuit Court has issued an order restraining the Musicians' Benevolent association from suspending from membership Prof. Carl Froelich, the musician, for his refusal to pay certain fines assessed against him for riding on the street cars after a boycott had been declared against them by the association, during the recent strike.

The court held that the assessment of a fine for riding on the cars was an interference with the private rights of a citizen.

Missionaries Sail for China.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21.—The steamship China, which sails for the Orient today, will take back the first missionaries that have ventured into China, since the Boxer outbreak. Among those who will depart are the Rev. Dr. Trowick and his bride. The former is from Nashville and the latter from Louisville. They go to Shanghai.

Klondike Output of Gold.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 21.—Dufferejn Patuelle, chief clerk of the gold commissioner's office at Dawson, estimates the past season's Klondike output of gold at $20,000,000, as against $17,000,000 for 1899. Next year's gold output of the Klondike, he thinks, will reach $25,000,000. Of this year's shipments of gold United States Consul McCook has records of $14,400,000.

Prince George Writes a Drama.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—Prince George of Prussia has written a drama, which will be performed in Berlin during the coming season.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SOME LESSONS IN CHRISTIAN WARFARE.

Encouraging Words for Those Engaged in the Battles of Life—God's Soldiers Never Turn Backward—Divine Promises.

(Copyright, 1900, Louis Klopsch, N. Y.) In this discourse Dr. Talmage follows Joshua on his triumphal march and speaks encouraging words to all who are engaged in the battle of this life; text, Joshua 1, 5, "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life."

Moses was dead. A beautiful tradition says the Lord kissed him and in that act drew forth the soul of the dying lawgiver. He had been buried, only one person at the funeral, the same one who kissed him. But God never takes a man away from any place of usefulness until he has some one ready to replace him. The Lord does not go looking around amid a great variety of candidates to find some one especially fitted for the vacated position. He makes a man for that place. Moses has passed off the stage, and Joshua, the hero, puts his foot on the platform of history so solidly that all the ages echo with the tread. He was a magnificent fighter, but he always fought on the right side, and he never fought unless God told him to fight. He got his military equipment from God, who gave him the promise at the start, "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life." God fulfilled this promise, although Joshua's first battle was with the spring freshet, the next with a stone wall, the next leading on a regiment of whipped cowards and the next battling against darkness, wheeling the sun and the moon into his battalion, and the last against the king of terrors, death—five great victories.

As a rule when the general of an army starts out in a war he would like to have a small battle in order that he may get his own courage up and rally his troops and get them drilled for greater conflicts, but the first undertaking of Joshua was greater than the leveling of Fort Pulaski, or the assault of Gibraltar, or the overthrow of the Bastille. It was the crossing of the Jordan at the time of the spring freshet. The snows of Mount Lebanon had just been melting, and they poured down into the valley, and the whole valley was a raging torrent. So the Canaanites stand on one bank, and they look across and see Joshua and the Israelites, and they laugh and say: "Aha, they cannot disturb us until the freshets fall! It is impossible for them to reach us." But after awhile they look across the water, and they see a movement in the army of Joshua. They say: "What is the matter now? Why, there must be a panic among those troops, and they are going to fly, or perhaps they are going to try to march across the river Jordan. Joshua is a lunatic." But Joshua, the chieftain, looks at his army and cries, "Forward, march!" and they start for the bank of the Jordan. One mile ahead go two priests carrying a glittering box four feet long and two feet wide. It is the ark of the covenant. And they come down, and no sooner do they just touch the rim of the water with their feet than, by an Almighty fiat, Jordan parts. The army of Joshua marches right on without getting their feet wet, over the bottom of the river, a path of chalk and broken shells and pebbles, until they get to the other bank. Then they lay hold of the oleanders and tamarisks and willows and pull themselves up a bank 30 or 40 feet high, and having gained the other bank they clap their shields and their cymbals and sing the praises of the God of Joshua. But no sooner have they reached the bank than the waters begin to dash and roar, and with a terrific rush they break loose from their strange anchorage.

No Going Backward.

As the hand of the Lord God is taken away from the thus uplifted waters—waters perhaps unlifted half a mile—they rush down, and some of the unbelieving Israelites say: "Alas, alas, what a misfortune! Why could not those waters have staid parted? Because perhaps we may want to go back. O Lord, we are engaged in a risky business. Those Canaanites may eat us up. How if we want to go back? Would it not have been a more complete miracle if the Lord had parted the waters to let us come through and kept them parted to let us go back if we are defeated?" My friends, God makes no provision for a Christian retreat. He clears the path all the way to Canaan. To go back is to die. The same gatekeepers that swung back the amethystine and crystalline gate of the Jordan to let Israel pass through now swung shut the amethystine and crystalline gate of the Jordan to keep the Israelites from going back. Victory ahead, but water 30 feet deep behind, surging to death and darkness and woe. But you say, "Why did not these Canaanites, when they had such a splendid chance, standing on the top of the bank 30 or 40 feet high, completely demolish those poor Israelites down in the river?" I will tell you why. God had made a promise, and he was going to keep it. "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life."

But this is no place for the host to stop. Joshua gives the command, "Forward, march!" In the distance there is a long grove of trees, and at the end of the grove is a city. It is a city with arbors, a city with walls seeming to reach to the heavens to buttress the very sky. It is the great metropolis that commands the mountain pass. It is Jericho. That city was afterward captured by Pompey and once by Herod the Great and once again by the Mohammedans, but this campaign the Lord plans. There shall be no swords, no shields, no battering ram. There shall be only one weapon of war and that a ram's horn. The horn of the slain ram was sometimes taken, and holes were punctured in it, and then the musician would put the instrument to his lips, and he would run his fingers over this rude musical instrument and make a great deal of sweet harmony for the people. That was the only kind of weapon. Seven priests were to take these rude, rustic musical instruments, and they were to go around the city every day for six days—one day for six days—and then on the seventh day they were to go around blowing these rude musical instruments seven times, and then at the close of the seventh blowing of the ram's horns on the seventh day the perforation of the whole scene was to be a shout, at which those great walls should tumble from capstone to base.

Victory Follows Defeat.

The seven priests with the rude musical instruments pass all around the city walls on the first day and score a failure. No so much as a piece of plaster broke loose from the wall, not so much as a loosened rock, not so much as a piece of mortar lost from its place. "There," say the unbelieving Israelites, "did I not tell you so? Why, those ministers are fools. The idea of going around the city with those musical instruments and expecting in that way to destroy it. Joshua has been spoiled. He thinks because he has overthrown and conquered the spring freshet he can overthrow the stone wall. Why, it is not philosophic. Do you not see there is no relation between the blowing of these musical instruments and the knocking down of the wall? It is not philosophic." And I suppose there were many wiseacres who stood with their brows knitted and with the forefinger of the right hand to the forefinger of the left hand arguing it all out and showing that it was not possible that such a cause could produce such an effect. And I suppose that night in the encampment there was plenty of caricature, and if Joshua had been nominated for any high military position he would not have received many votes. Joshua's stock was down. The second day the priests blowing the musical instruments go around the city and again a failure. The third day and a failure, the fourth day and a failure, fifth day and a failure, sixth day and a failure. The seventh day comes, the climacteric day. Joshua is up early in the morning and examines the troops, walks all about, looks at the city wall. The priests start to make the circuit of the city. They go all around one, all around twice, three times, four times, five times, six times, seven times, and a failure. There is only one more thing to do, and that is to utter a great shout. I see the Israelitish army straightening themselves up, filling their lungs for a vociferation such as never was heard before and never heard after. Joshua feels that the hour has come, and he cries out to his host, "Shout, for the Lord hath given you the city." All together the troops shout: "Down, Jericho! Down Jericho!" And the long line of solid masonry begins to quiver and to move and to rock. Stand from under! She falls! Crash go the walls and temples, the towers, the palaces, the air blackened with the dust. The huza of the victorious Israelites and the groan of the conquered Canaanites mingle, and Joshua, standing there in the debris of the walls, hears a voice saying, "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life."

The Savior's Deliverance.

Only one house spared. Who lives there? Some great king? No. Some woman distinguished for great kind deeds? No. She had been conspicuous for her crimes. It is the house of Rahab. Why was her house spared? Because she had been a great sinner? No, but because she repented, demonstrating to all the ages that there is mercy for the chief of sinners. The red cord of divine injunction reaching from her window to the ground, so that when the people saw the red cord they knew it was the divine indication that they should not disturb the premises, making us think of the divine cord of a Savior's deliverance, the red cord of a Savior's kindness, the red cord of our rescue. Mercy for the chief of sinners. Put your trust in that God, and no damage shall befall you. When our world shall be more terribly surrounded than was Jericho, even by the trumpets of the judgment day and the hills and the mountains, the metal bones and ribs of nature shall break, they who have had Rahab's faith shall have Rahab's deliverance.

When wrapped in fire the realms of ether glow And heaven's last thunder shakes the earth below Thou, undismayed, shalt o'er the ruins smile And light thy torch at nature's funeral pile.

But Joshua's troops may not halt here. The command is, "Forward, march!" There is the city of Ai. It must be taken. How shall it be taken? A scouting party comes back and says: Joshua, we can do that without you. It is going to be a very easy job. You must stay here while we go and capture it. They march with a small regiment in front of that city. The men of Ai look at them and give one yell, and the Israelites run like reindeer. The northern troops at Bull Run did not make such rapid time as these Israelites with the Canaanites after them. They never cut such a sorry figure as when they were on the retreat. You who go out in the battle of God with only half a force instead of your taking the men of Ai the men of Ai will take you. Look at the church of God on the retreat. The Bornean cannibals ate up Munson, the missionary. "Fall back!" said a great many Christian people. "Fall back, O church of God! Borneo will never be taken. Do you not see the Bornean cannibals have eaten up Munson, the missionary?" Tyndall delivers his lecture at the University of Glasgow, and a great many good people say: "Fall back, O church of God! Do you not see that Christian philosophy is going to be overcome by worldly philosophy? Fall back!" Geology plunges its crowbar into the mountains, and there are a great many people who say: "Scientific investigation is going to overthrow the Moslem account of the creation. Fall back!"

God's Soldiers Must Advance.

But friends of God never have had any right to fall back. Joshua falls on his face in chagrin. It is the only time you ever see the back of his head. He falls on his face and begins to whine, and he says, "O Lord God, wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan to deliver us into the hands of the Amorites, to destroy us? Would to God we had been content and dwelt on the other side of Jordan. For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear of it and shall environ us round and cut off our name from the earth." I am very glad Joshua said that. Before it seemed as if he were a supernatural being and therefore could not be an example to us, but I find he is a man, he is only a man. Just as sometimes you find a man under severe opposition or in a bad state of physical health, or worn out with overwork, lying down and sighing about being defeated. I am encouraged when I hear this cry of Joshua as he lies in the dust. God comes and rouses him. How does he rouse him? By complimentary apostrophe? No. He says: "Get thee up. Wherefore liest thou upon thy face?" Joshua rises, and I warrant you, with a mortified look. But his old courage comes back. The fact was that was not his battle. If he had been in it he would have gone on to victory. He gathers his troops around him and says: "Now, let us go up and capture the city of Ai. Let us go up right away." They march on. He puts the majority of the troops behind a ledge of rocks in the night, and then he sends comparatively small regiments up in front of the city. The men of Ai come out with a shout. The small regiments of Israelites in strategic fall back, and fall back, and when all the men of Ai have left the city and are in pursuit of these scattered, or seemingly scattered, regiments, Joshua stands on a rock—I see his locks flying in the wind as he points his spear toward the doomed city, and that is the signal. The men rush on from behind the rocks and take the city, and it is put to the torch, and then these Israelites in the city march down, and the flying Israelites return, and between these two waves of Israelitish prowess the men of Ai are destroyed, and the Israelites gain the victory; and while I see the curling smoke of that destroyed city on the sky, and while I hear the huza of the Israelites and the groan of the Canaanites, Joshua hears something louder than that all, ringing and echoing through his soul, "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life."

No Place to Stop.

But this is no place for the host of Joshua to stop. "Forward, march!" cries Joshua to the troops. There is the city of Gibeon. It has put itself under the protection of Joshua. They send word: "There are five kings after us. They are going to destroy us. Send troops quick. Send us help right away." Joshua has a three day's march, more than double quick. On the morning of the third day he is before the enemy. There are two long lines of battle. The battle opens with great slaughter, but the Canaanites soon discover something. They say: "That is Joshua. That is the man who conquered the spring freshet and knocked down the stone walls of Jericho and destroyed the city of Ai. There is no use fighting." They sound a retreat, and as they begin to retreat Joshua and his host spring upon them like a panther, pursuing them over the rocks, while the catapults of the sky pour a volley of hailstones into the valley, and all the artillery of the heavens, with bullets of iron, pound the Canaanites against the ledges of Beth-horon. "Oh," says Joshua, "this is surely a victory!" But do you not see the sun is going down?

Look out when a good man makes the Lord his ally. Joshua raises his face, radiant with prayer, and looks at the descending sun over Gibeon and at the faint crescent of the moon, for you know the queen of the night sometimes will linger around the palaces of the day. Pointing one hand at the descending sun and the other at the faint crescent of the moon, in the name of that God who shaped the worlds and moves the worlds he cries: "Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon, and thou, moon, in the valley of Ajalon!" They halted. Whether it was by refraction of the sun's rays or by the stopping of the whole planetary system I do not know and do not care. I leave it to the Christian Scientists and the infidel scientists to settle that question, while I tell you I have seen the same thing. "What?" say you. "Not the sun standing still?" Yes. The same miracle is performed nowadays. The wicked do not live out half their day, and their sun sets at noon.

JACK LONG'S TWO THANKSGIVINGS

Seated by the glowing embers in the gloomy old fire-lit hall, watching the flame retreat, advance, flare up in splendor, and then die into a dull glow, was Jack Long. Thirty-five years had elapsed since Jack first saw the light of day, and his life had been as full of joy and misery, of light and shadows, as the ordinary life of mankind.

Typical of the ever-burning glow was a love within his heart which ten years had not smothered. Like the fire flame leaping high and sinking low, was the hope in his breast.

As Jack sat there alone, gazing into the fire, thoughts of bygone days came over him, trooping at his memory's call.

Mingled with those memories was a fair and radiant maiden, with hair of sunshine and eyes of azure. This image conjured up so vivid and lifelike was his loving, laughing sweetheart, Queenie Graham, as she looked on that Thanksgiving night so long ago.

It would be ten years on the morrow since he had last gazed upon the dimpled, smiling, roguish face which he loved so well.

They were then betrothed, and she wore the betrothal ring which he had placed upon her finger only a few weeks before.

How vivid that picture came before his eyes. Ten years seemed to have rolled backward, and he was a youth of 25 again, and Queenie Graham, his adored one, a blushing maiden of 18.

The old-fashioned farmhouse, with white, oaken floor, and the boys with their sweethearts, and the jolly old fiddler who played half asleep, only awaking to call out in deep, stentorian tones:

"Swing partners to place." The lamps swinging from the ceiling flooded the scene with the most brilliant light.

Gay laughter and jest told of light hearts, and happy faces glowed to the soul-stirring music of the "Irish Washerwoman," sawed off by the fiddler.

Jack's love, like all true love, did not run smooth. In fact, love begets its own misery. He was madly jealous when she smiled on Sam Brown, and in swinging partners Sam held her hand too long and squeezed it too ardently to suit the jealous lover.

"Queenie, you're a flirt," he declared, "I saw you wink at Sam Brown."

She turned on him with proud, flashing eyes, and said: "Don't be surprised if I call you another. You kissed Susie Bell."

"That's not true." "Yes, you did; for I heard her tell Mary Courtwright."

"It is false, Queenie," he cried, in his indignation. Susie Bell was a round-faced, ugly country girl with no attractions, and tongue given to mischief making.

The dance went on, and the lovers quarrel with it. As Jack and Queenie whirled in the giddy mazes of the dance that silly, childish quarrel waxed hot, entrancing her beauty with every angry word she uttered.

At last, as the "set was over," she suddenly jerked the betrothal emblem from her finger, and thrusting it into his hand said:

"Here is your ring; you can marry Miss Sue."

With a heavy heart the angry Jack Long donned his topcoat and winding his muffler about his neck to keep the chill November air from his throat, went out into the night never to look upon the face of that adored being again.

He heard from Queenie occasionally, and at last that she had gone east to live. How far east or what part of the east, he did not know, and was too proud to ask.

She was lost to him forever, and he grew melancholy. He went west, to be as far from her as possible, and engaged in business at a frontier town, with cowboys and ranchmen for his associates.

Then came the mutterings of war with Spain. He had always loved the weak, and sprang to the first call to arms. Rough riders were wanted, and he had learned to mount the wildest broncho. He enlisted, and hurried off to the front. At Santiago he landed, and in the march to the city was in the first skirmish.

Then came that noble charge on San Juan hill. He led the charge amid dust and heat, fighting like a mad man until struck down, faint and bleeding, he lay on mother earth to die.

"Queenie, Queenie, oh, my long-lost loved one, shall I never see you more?" he was heard to murmur, as borne away from the field. Somehow there was something in this piteous cry which touched the hearts of those who heard it. A newspaper man who was near sent with his report the following brief sentence:

"A soldier, wounded and dying, while being carried from the field, was heard to exclaim with his last breath: 'Queenie, Queenie, oh, my long-lost loved one!' No doubt this piteous appeal wrung from a noble heart was to some faithless sweet-

"WILL YOU DANCE WITH ME?" heart who had deserted him years before."

This simple little paragraph had been copied and recopied, and discussed, and made the theme for countless stories and ballads.

But Jack, who uttered it, didn't die. He lived to return to America, was honorably discharged, and resolved to pass another Thanksgiving in the old neighborhood where his young days had been spent. So he returned, after an absence of nearly ten years, and was at the house of his father on this evening, gazing sadly into the fire which seemed to reflect his own aching heart.

What was life to him now? That chief charm, that only light to his soul, had gone out, leaving all gloom and darkness.

He was like an old man. His hair, once dark as the raven's wing, showed traces of silver in it, and his face, so handsome, clear and fresh, now had the lines of care upon it.

Though he sometimes smiled and assumed an appearance of gaiety, his mother knew that his heart was sad.

But that mother had a hope that happiness would yet dawn on her son. She had a piece of intelligence she had not broken to him. Queenie Graham, after an absence of ten years, had returned to visit an aunt.

There was to be a great Thanksgiving party at Jack's grandmother's, the oldest lady in the neighborhood, at which she was to invite all the young folks, for "Grandma Goodwin" took great pleasure in young people.

Queenie would no doubt be there, and she determined that Jack should meet her. The mother knew that her son's pride would keep him away if he knew Queenie was to be there, so she kept that surprise a secret from him.

She little knew how love had humbled Jack's pride. In the vest pocket of the veteran, he carried the self same ring which Queenie had thrust back on him ten years before. It was next his heart when he stormed San Juan hill, and he hoped if he was slain the bullet would pass within the golden circle of his youthful love, and that he might die with her name on his lips.

But fate destined Jack to live. He was once more home, among friends who had crowded about to hear him tell of the wild charge and the storm of death.

Would he go to grandmother's next day to the Thanksgiving dinner? Yes, he would.

The mother was happy. The old carriage was loaded with jolly young folks and middle-aged people, and among them the veteran of San Juan.

Grandma's table groaned with plenty: geese and turkey, pies and candies, claret, nuts and apples in abundance.

But what was far more precious to the ex-rough rider was a radiant face he had loved so long before.

He thought she had suffered as well as he. He thought that neither would tell what emotions were being stirred in the other's heart.

Queenie's beauty was matured and seemed more heightened by time. She was far more lovely than before. After the first moment's shock of surprise pride assumed control, and placed each other on the guard.

They longed to break the ice, but neither wanted to make the advance. After the feasting was over the happy group assembled in the great parlor to talk over pleasant reminiscences or indulge in a quiet tete-a-tete.

Then someone, may his tribe increase, said: "I brought my violin. I will play and call off; let us have a dance to-night."

The suggestion was greeted with a hearty shout, and the young fellows rushed to find their partners.

Right quickly they all took their places on the floor, when they found that they wanted just one couple more.

"Come, come, Soldier Jack, secure a partner," cried the voluntary musician.

Moved by some uncontrollable impulse, Jack arose and went to where Queenie Graham sat, and, bending low, whispered:

"Will you come and dance 'Haste to the Wedding' with me?" She assented, and all were at their places.

Then someone on the piano accompanied the violin in that sweet old melody, "Haste to the Wedding." There is always an opportunity in a quadrille for a sly word now and then between partners.

"All join hands and circle to the right." "I want to ask you something," she whispered, when they were at their places again.

"What is it?" "First four forward and back again." And away they went.

When next they had an opportunity she thrust into his hand an item clipped from a newspaper.

It was of a young soldier carried bleeding and dying from San Juan hill, murmuring:

"Queenie, Queenie, oh, my long-lost loved one, shall I never see you more?" "Was that you?" she asked.

"Yes," he answered. Then he took her hand. It trembled, and her azure eyes grew dim.

"Balance all." It was several minutes before either could speak.

The sweet-tuned violin, accompanied by the piano, poured forth such soul-stirring music as can be found only in that precious old air, "Haste to the Wedding."

He was about to speak when the musician "calling off" shouted: "Gents to places—all promenade."

It gave him an opportunity to recover himself, and when next they glided across the room he whispered: "Say, Queenie, will you keep that old promise you made long ago?"

She looked up at him, smiling through her tears. Ten years of misery and suffering had passed since he held that hand.

Oh, it was reward for all that suffering! "Queenie, I have it yet," he whispered, taking from his vest pocket the betrothal ring which he had carried all these years.

"It has never left me, for I always had hoped that a time might come when I could restore it to the finger where it belonged. It was with me on that dark, gloomy day at San Juan hill, where I saw so many noble men die."

"I carried it over my heart and prayed that if I fell some Spanish bullet might pass through the band of love to reach a heart that beat for you. Oh, Queenie, did you know that you have never—"

"Swing partners to place." What an abomination was that old fiddler and the dance to Jack. When he next got an opportunity he whispered:

"Never been out of my mind."

CLANCY'S RAFFLE. There's a raffle down at Clancy's; They are throwing for a "turk." By the way the dice-box dances. You can see it's hard at work.

Where's the air close and smoky! There's a crowd about the bar; Every stalwart thirsty bloke Down his pint without a fear.

"Twinty-wan," called Jerry Clancy And he pointed on the bar. "Shure, the game is rather chancy, Lucky divil that ye are!"

"Come, O'Brien, tak' the bi-r-d!" Then said Clancy, with a wink: "Whirra, boys, an' haven't ye hear-d O'Brien ashk ye ahi to drink?"

There were twenty-seven husky men Gathered there about the bar. "Whiskey here!" each shouted then. Clancy answered: "Here ye are!"

"Tin clnts aish, ye lucky sinners!" "Fais!" O'Brien said, "tho'ts mazel Tis a mighty costly dinner— Eight years old, four pounds in weight!"

A day for toll, an hour for sport, but for a friend, a life is too short—Emerson.

CHINA WAR NEWS.

Gen. Chaffee says that the American field guns are better than those of any other powers in China.

Gen. Chaffee of the U. S. forces in China, on the 17th reported two deaths among his men by disease.

Count von Waldersee officially announces that he has stopped looting and restored peace in the province of Chi Li.

Large numbers of southern Chinese now residing in Peking, fearing further retribution during the winter, are preparing to leave for the south.

The French force which went to the relief of the Catholic priests besieged at Chen Ting, in Chi Li province, succeeded in rescuing them.

It is asserted at Shanghai that the empress dowager has appointed Sir Robert Hart, director of Chinese imperial maritime customs, to arrange the indemnity question with the powers.

As the outcome of the protest by Great Britain against the transfer of Yu Chang to the governorship of Wu Chang this official will be replaced by a governor who is pro-foreign in his sympathies.

It is reported that Gen. Ma with 1,000 men, Gen. Fang with 8,000, and Gen. Yu with 5,000, are marching toward the borders of the province of Chi Li to check the advance of the allies westward.

A special dispatch from Tien Tsin, dated Nov. 10, says a force of Russians has captured the arsenal northeast of Yang Tsun, with trifling loss, killing 500 Chinese and capturing a quantity of arms and treasure.

Li Hung Chang and the Yang Tse viceroys, it is said, have guaranteed the empress dowager's personal safety if she will return to Peking, but she believes that they are in league with the allies to capture her.

Refugees who have arrived at Canton report that anti-Christian riots have broken out in the province of Kiang-Si. The non-Christians are wearing badges, and all persons not so decorated are in danger of death.

The American consul at Canton has been notified that the board of reconstruction has been ordered to pay $10,000 as the first installment of American claims. All the consuls are pressing for indemnity for the destroyed missions.

The withdrawal from North China of a large portion of the American and Russian troops, and repeated but unconfirmed reports that Japan contemplates similar action, has caused much comment in military and commercial circles at Tien Tsin.

Sanitary conditions at Peking are becoming serious. Since the foreign occupation many Chinese have died of smallpox and other infectious diseases. Fearing that their funerals would be interfered with, they have kept most of the coffins containing their dead in their houses and court yards.

Official advice from Voynon, commander of the French troops in China, announce that the international columns are occupying the tombs east and southwest of Peking. He reports a small engagement with the boxers, in which they lost 300 killed, the foreign troops sustaining no casualties.

The following was received from Tien Tsin on the 19th: Numerous instances of robbery and mistreatment of Chinese by European soldiers have been reported to the authorities, and since the withdrawal of the American contingent of the military police of the walled city lawlessness has increased. Much of it is laid at the door of recently arrived troops, but the Chinese fear of foreigners makes it practically impossible to get evidence against the perpetrators. The American coolie gangs have been robbed several times while returning at night to the native city, and they assert that the French soldiers did it. Now each gang carries a small American flag, and as far as reported this has afforded them protection.

A Noted Knight Templar Owes His Health to Peruna

Colonel T. P. Moody, a prominent Knight Templar, is well known in every city in the United States west of Buffalo, N. Y., as a Jeweler's Auctioneer. In the city of Chicago as a prominent lodge man, being a member of the K. T.'s and also of the Masons. The cut shows Colonel Moody in the costume of the Oriental Consistory Masons, 32d degree.

In a recent letter from 5900 Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill., Mr. Moody says the following:

"For over twenty-five years I suffered from catarrh, and for over ten years I suffered from catarrh of the stomach terribly. I have taken all kinds of medicines and have been treated by all kinds of doctors, as thousands of my acquaintances are aware in different parts of the United States, where I have traveled, but the relief was only temporary, until a little over a year ago I started to take Peruna, and at the present time I am better than I have been for twenty years."

"The soreness has left my stomach entirely and I am free from indigestion and dyspepsia and will say to all who are troubled with catarrh or stomach trouble of any kind, don't put it off and suffer, but begin to take Peruna right away, and keep it up until you are cured, as you surely will be if you persevere."

"My wife, as many in the southwest can say, was troubled with a bad cough and bronchial trouble, and doctors all over the country gave her up to die, as they could do nothing more for her. She began taking Peruna with the result that she is better now than she has been in years, and her cough has almost left her entirely. The soreness has left her lungs and she is as well as she ever was in her life, with thanks, as she says, to Peruna. Yours very truly, T. P. Moody."

Catarrh in its various forms is rapidly becoming a general curse. An undoubted remedy has been discovered by Dr. Hartman. This remedy has been thoroughly tested during the past forty years. Prominent men have come to know of its virtues, and are making public utterances on the subject. To save the country we must save the people. To save the people we must protect them from disease. The disease that is at once the most prevalent and stubborn of cure is catarrh.

If one were to make a list of the different names that have been applied to catarrh in different locations and organs, the result would be astonishing. We have often published a partial list of these names, and the surprise caused by the first publication of it to all people, both professional and non-professional, was amusing. And yet we have never enumerated all of the diseases which are classed as catarrh. It must be confessed, however, to see even this partial list drawn up in battle array is rather appalling. If the reader desires to see this list, together with a short exposition of each one, send for our free catarrh book. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Wednesday, November 15, was a day of great rejoicing to Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Collins, it be the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

A goodly number were present to help them celebrate. Their six daughters done all they could to make the day one to be long remembered.

The house was tastefully decorated with large bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and potted plants. While the dining hall was liberally draped with yellow bunting and evergreens, where the guests were seated and waited upon by the children and grandchildren.

After all had been served they returned to the parlors where their daughter, Mrs. Leslie, read the family

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

One Issued by Gov. Pingree in Accordance With the President's

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Thursday, Nov. 29, the Date Set—The Secretary of State's Monthly Report Shows That There Were 2,817 Deaths in Michigan During October.

Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Gov. Pingree on the 15th issued the following Thanksgiving day proclamation:

In accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States, and in compliance with a venerable custom, I, Hazen S. Pingree, governor of the state of Michigan, hereby designate and appoint Thursday, the 29th day of November, 1900, as a day of thanksgiving and praise to the God of men and nations, for the manifold blessings received during the past year.

Let us on this day be thankful for the abundant yield of our orchards and fields, for the freedom from pestilence and famine.

Let us remember the ready response which has come from sympathetic hearts, touched by the calamities of our fellow citizens, the generous contribution to those whose homes have been destroyed by tempest and flood, and the development of humanity in the invention of methods which alleviate the sufferings attendant upon war.

Let us as we unite in our services of thanksgiving and praise, remember with gratitude the growing sense of justice among all classes of men, and the establishment of higher ideals of social life.

While we remember these blessings with thankfulness, let me gratefully aspire to utilize our high powers of citizenship that we may be more worthy of the place we now hold among civilized nations of the world.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the state of Michigan, at the capitol, in Lansing, this 15th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fifth.

H. S. PINGREE, Governor.

Secretary of State.

2,817 Deaths in Michigan Last Month.

There were 2,817 deaths reported to the secretary of state as occurring in October, the death rate being 13.8 per 1,000 of population. The total is 500 less than the number returned for September. There were 622 deaths of infants under one year old; 234 of children from one to four years of age, and 622 of persons aged 45 years and over. Important causes of deaths were as follows: Pulmonary consumption, 130; other forms of tuberculosis, 48; typhoid fever, 163; diphtheria and croup, 65; diarrheal diseases of children under 5 years of age, 353; cancer, 111; accidents and violence, 143.

Husband and Cash Missing.

Mrs. Hattie Norton, of Vernon, was the name given by a woman who received from the influence of some powerful drug at the Manninghouse, Windsor, Ont., on the 18th, and told a fearful story of marrying a man named C. R. Holmes, who answered her matrimonial advertisement in a Detroit paper, and of waking up terribly sick from the effect of a drug and finding that her husband of a day had skipped out with her $700, which she had drawn from the bank in Vernon the day before they were married by Rural Dean Hind, of St. John's Episcopal church at Sandwich.

Abducting Quartermaster Has Returned.

Will L. White, the abducting quartermaster-general of the Michigan National Guard, delivered himself up in person to the authorities at Lansing on the 15th, and stood before the bar of the Ingham county circuit court, to answer to the charge of having conspired to defraud the state of Michigan out of $43,000. It was at first thought that White would enter a plea of not guilty when arraigned, but instead, he stood mute. However, his attitude and that of his friends make it certain that he will plead guilty on Nov. 26, the date to which the case was adjourned.

New Electric Line.

Negotiations are in progress looking to the construction of an electric railroad from Saugatuck along the lake shore to Benton Harbor and St. Joseph. Such a line would tap the richest portion of the fruit belt and give an outlet to Grand Rapids, as it would connect with the Grand Rapids-Holland electric at Saugatuck. The right of way along the proposed route is now being secured.

St. Joe's Quick Marriage System.

The ministerial association of the Grand Rapids district of the M. E. church at the closing session at Grand Rapids on the 14th, discussed St. Joseph's quick marriage system and adopted a resolution asking that the license law be enacted, requiring that a license shall be issued five days before the ceremony be performed.

Disease in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health show that rheumatism, bronchitis, neuralgia, tonsillitis and diarrhoea in the order named caused the most sickness in Michigan during the week ending November 10. Cerebrospinal meningitis was reported at 2 places, whooping cough 3, smallpox 17, measles 18, diphtheria 37, scarlet fever 91, typhoid fever 163 and consumption at 192.

It is estimated that the army of deer slayers this year in the upper peninsula forests numbers in the vicinity of 8,000.

Tornado in the South.

A tornado visited north Mississippi on the 20th, causing loss of life and much property damage. Reports from Lulu, Tunica county, state that three Negroes were killed, their bodies having been carried a distance of three miles by the wind. At Coldwater several houses were destroyed and one Negro child was killed and one seriously injured. At La Grange, Tenn., three persons were killed outright and much property destroyed. At Nashville the station and 18 houses were demolished, while one man and his child were instantly killed. The tornado was general throughout the sections mentioned.

Brown a Second Alford.

U. S. Bank Examiner Tucker on the 18th took possession of the German National bank at Newport, Ky., and posted a notice that the bank would remain closed pending an examination. Examiner Tucker also announced unofficially that Frank M. Brown, the individual bookkeeper and assistant cashier, was missing, and that a partial investigation showed that Brown was short about $191,500. Brown had been with the bank 18 years, was one of the most trusted men ever connected with this old bank, and it is stated by the experts that his operations extended back as far as 10 years.

Did Not Hit the Kaiser.

Emperor William was the object of an attempted outrage on the 16th, which, however, failed. As he was driving in an open carriage to the Cuiraasser barracks, accompanied by the hereditary prince of Saxe-Meiningen, a woman in the crowd hurled an axe at the carriage. The rapidity with which the vehicle was passing saved its occupants. The axe, or hatchet, fell just behind the carriage. The woman was immediately arrested.

Will Submit a Proposition to Congress.

The President will submit to congress at the approaching session the claims for indemnification and for other substantial recompense of the British cable corporation which suffered as a result of the American occupation of the Philippines. The corporation claims damages for the interruption of their cable business by the American forces. This claim was reduced to a very low figure, but was disallowed.

An Attack on Panama Expected.

The British steamer Atrato, Capt. Copp, which left Southampton, Oct. 17, for Barbadoes, arrived at Kingston, Ja., on the 18th, from Colon, Colombia. Capt. Copp reports that the insurgents during the fortnight that preceded his departure, and that when he left Colon they were marching in force against Panama, where the stores had been closed in momentary expectation of an attack.

The President and His Cabinet.

At a cabinet meeting, held on the 13th, President McKinley, discussing the recent elections and their results, expressed the hope that every member of the cabinet would remain in his official family during the next four years. He regarded the result of the elections as an endorsement, not only of his own ideas and policies, but also of the administration of every department of the government.

Turkish Barbarity.

A party of 38 Turks wishing to leave Russia, secretly sailed at dead of night from Tschurukus to cross the Black sea. A storm arose and the boat filled. First the baggage was thrown overboard. Then the children and finally the women were committed to the sea, but this did not prevent the vessel from foundering and all perished save one lad, who clung to the mast and was washed ashore.

Washington the Capital for 100 Years.

Nov. 19 was the 100th anniversary of the meeting of the first congress which assembled in Washington after the capital of the republic was transferred to that city from Philadelphia. The centennial anniversary of the removal of the seat of government to Washington is to be elaborately celebrated Dec. 12. Exercises will be held at the capitol and the White house of an appropriate character.

Four Men Burned to Death.

Four men were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the McGonigal house, a three-story frame building, the hotel barn and opera house at Oswego, Pa., on the 18th. The three buildings were burned to the ground in half an hour from the time the fire started. The property loss is estimated at $5,000.

GREATER ACTIVITY.

Americans and Filipinos Both Showed It Last Week.

The following report is the first uncensored news by cable from Manila since the American occupation:

Last week witnessed a very considerable increase in rebel and American activity in the field. Many skirmishes occurred and several small engagements in northern and southern Luzon. The termination of the rains permits a resumption of operations on both sides.

The Americans are undertaking a series of aggressive movements against the insurgents, notably upon the island of Samar, against Gen. Lukban, whose forces hold the entire island with the exception of three coast towns, each of which is garrisoned by two companies of the 29th infantry, and a platoon of artillery.

The rebels are continually shooting into the garrisoned towns, and our forces have not been sufficient to retaliate effectively. Commerce in Samar has been at a standstill, and most of the influential inhabitants have departed. Gen. Hare has arrived there with 250 men. He will bring eight companies of the 3d infantry from the island of Marinduque, as they may be needed, and will proceed energetically to crush Gen. Lukban, while the U. S. gunboats will patrol the coast to prevent the escape of the insurgent leader. Lukban still holds three members of the 43d regiment prisoners.

The rifles which the party of Capt. Devereaux Shields of Co. F, 29th volunteer infantry lost last September in Marinduque at the time of the capture have not yet been recovered from the Filipinos. All the Marinduque garrisons are being continued.

The 14th infantry, which recently arrived from China, will relieve the 21st infantry from duty in Manila, and the 21st will relieve the 38th infantry in southern Luzon, the 38th infantry proceeding to the island of Panay to reinforce the troops there.

More Troops for Young.

The 28th infantry will reinforce the garrisons in the island of Mindanao, particularly at Kagayan, where an armed truce between the rebels and the Americans has existed for months past.

Gen. Wheaton, commanding in the department of northern Luzon, is sending reinforcements to Gen. Young's provinces, where the natives, under Gen. Tinio and Aglipay, the excommunicated priest, are showing signs of restlessness, deserting the domiciles they have occupied during the rainy season, and joining under compulsion of fear the insurgents in the mountains.

Notable among the week's engagements was Gen. Grant's advance, with Macabebe and American scouts, upon a rebel stronghold 35 miles north of Manila, which was defended by 200 insurgents armed with rifles. After skirmishing and fighting for the greater part of a day and night, the enemy was dislodged from the mountain fastness, and immense quantities of rice and stores with ammunition were destroyed. Fifty Filipinos were killed and many others wounded. The insurgents carried off their dead. The American losses were 11 privates and one officer wounded and one Macabebe killed.

Lieut. Fred Alstaeter of the engineers, who was captured by the insurgents in Luzon last September, has sent, with the permission of his captors, a letter to Manila asking for food, money and clothing, which will be forwarded to him by a native runner. His health is broken and his release problematical.

Gen. MacArthur has gone to Subig bay with Admiral Remy on the U. S. cruiser Brooklyn for the purpose of examining the locality. It is probable that 1,800 marines, now in Philippine waters, will be used to relieve certain army posts, rendering the relieved soldiers available for other and more urgent duties. It is understood that Gen. MacArthur is considering the question of establishing more marines in the vicinity of Subig. He is expected to soon return here.

Although news and commercial messages between Manila and points in America and Europe are not subject to censorship, all messages between the Philippines and the orient are censored as heretofore.

10 Per Cent Charge on Mexican Money.

For the purpose of maintaining the existing ratio of two Mexican silver dollars to one gold dollar, arbitrarily fixed by Gen. MacArthur last August, to be maintained until such time as the Philippine commission should consider the date had arrived for establishing a gold medium in the Philippines, Henry C. Ide, of the commission, introduced a bill which has been passed by the commission providing for a charge of 10 per cent on all Mexican silver coin exported from the Philippines. The demand of China for Mexican currency has created exportations and threatened a derangement of business in the Philippines. The commission passed the bill because it seemed obligatory to provide, so far as possible by legislation, a stable and ample currency for the protection of business.

Rural free mail delivery service was established at Clinton on the 15th.

At a meeting of the general committee of the M. E. church at New York on the 14th, a special committee of five, with Bishop Thoburn as chairman, was appointed to devise means and ways to raise $2,000,000 for missionary work, the sum to be known as the 20th century offering.

Steps have been taken for resuming the important work of the Anglo-American commission, made up of representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Canada and consideration of the subject now in progress probably will determine within a few days what course will be pursued.

Photographic Printing.

There seems to be a likelihood that before long movable types for printing will be done away with altogether, and their function, hitherto regarded as indispensable in the art, performed by ingenious photographic processes. The books of the near future, it is predicted, will be made by photography, and it is not improbable that even newspapers will be issued by methods in which the camera and dry plate will take the place of the form of metal letters and the stereotype from a paper matrix.—Saturday Evening Post.

Self-Culture Is Possible.

Self-culture is possible, not only because we can enter into and search ourselves—we have still a nobler power, that of acting on, determining, and forming ourselves. This is a feat as well as glorious endowment, for it is the ground of human responsibility. We have the power not only of tracing our powers, but of guiding and impelling them; not only of watching our passions; but of controlling them; not only of seeing our faculties grow, but of applying to them means and influences to aid their growth.—W. E. Channing.

Mrs. Olberg, a Prominent Minn.

Lady, Tells a Remarkable Story. Albert Lea, Minn., Nov. 19.—(Special)—There are few men and women in this state or indeed in the whole northwest, who have not heard, or do not know personally Mrs. Henriette C. Olberg of this city.

Mrs. Olberg was Judge of Linen and Linen Fabrics at the World's Fair, at Chicago, and Superintendent of Flax Exhibit at the International Exposition at Omaha, Nebraska, in 1898. Mrs. Olberg is Secretary of the National Flax, Hemp and Ramie Association, and Assistant Editor of the "Distant."

Her official duties are naturally very onerous, and involve a great deal of traveling and living away from home. She says:

"During the World's Fair in Chicago, my official duties so taxed my strength, that I thought I would have to give them up. Through the continual change of food and irregular meal hours, and a poor quality of water, I lost my appetite, and became wakeful and nervous in the extreme. My kidneys refused to perform their usual duties. One of my assistants advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and sent for a box. I am pleased to say that I derived immediate and permanent benefit. I used three boxes, and feel ten years younger."

"I have great confidence in the efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and am always glad to speak a good word in their favor."

In truth poor Harvey, in many ways a boy still, needed the comfort the woman he adored alone could give; in her presence he was speedily cheered and soothed.

"It's an ugly story, darling," she said, "but no one knows it. And the situation is substantially the same; you are your grandfather's heir morally, if not legally, and surely your mother will not let you suffer all your life for her fault—no woman in her position could be so wicked."

Harvey winced. Only the other day he had thought that mother little lower than the angels. Helen saw that even she might speak too plainly, and took another tone. But inwardly she rejoiced that the woman she had felt was her superior had not always lived above reproach. The knowledge promised a certain hold upon her, and in her manner toward Gladys when next they met there was a hint of power and a measure of contempt the latter found it hard to bear.

Harvey's demeanor, too, had altered. For days he looked pale and grave. Although perfectly respectable to his mother he spoke to her as seldom as possible, addressing most of his remarks, when the little family met at table, to his wife. Gladys sympathized with his mood, and waited patiently for it to pass. She knew how galled his proud spirit must be; still, as the monotonous days crawled by, bringing no change, she began to feel very lonely.

She would have consoled herself with the baby had she been allowed to do so, but Helen had her own ideas, wise ones, all of them, on the subject of child rearing. It made an infant precocious, she said, to notice them too much; his intellect should be allowed to develop gradually. As for the insane nonsense called baby talk, no child of hers should listen to it. Good English was just as simple and far more sensible. And Gladys, who would have cooed the sweet mother jargon by the hour, all the world forgetting save the smiling mite in her arms, knew that a reproof was intended, and accepting it, left Harvey's baby to Harvey's wife.

Had she been a strong-minded woman she would have risen above her trials and found happiness in her own occupations; but she was only a gentle, clinging creature to whom love was as the breath of life. That gone, nothing remained.

She wondered sometimes how Harvey, even though displeased, could neglect her so. In the past they had been everything to each other. Now he seldom gave her a thought; his wife was his all in all. Helen's coldness did not hurt her; she was not of her blood, and she had no claim on her affection; but she had given her life to Harvey, and his indifference was hard to bear.

One cold, rainy day Phebe found her crying in her private parlor, which was divided from her sleeping and dressing rooms by a wide wall. The curtains were drawn and the spacious apartment usually so pretty in its tints of crimson and blue seemed cold and gloomy.

CHAPTER IV.

The housekeeper said not a word, but went to the window and threw back the curtains, then touched a match to the wood laid ready in the grate. The flames leaped forth as if glad to escape from their resinous prison, making glittering reflections in the polished tiles and filling every corner with a rosy glow. Phebe rolled her mistress's favorite chair to the hearth.

"Come and sit here, Miss Gladys, while I get you a cup of coffee. It will warm you up. The room is like a vault."

Gladys crushed back a sob and meekly did as she was bidden. She always obeyed Phebe. She drank the coffee when it was brought and looked apologetically into the housekeeper's kind if grim face.

"I miss Louise Leonard so much!" she said.

"I know all about it, Miss Gladys. That reason will do as well as any other. When are you going to have Mr. Walter Barr and his young wife here to dinner? They've been married three months now."

"I suppose I ought to invite them soon," said Gladys, brightening a little. "But Mrs. Harvey so objects to company."

"And is the house to be kept like a tomb to please her? She has her husband and baby, and you have nobody, it seems. It's little I ever thought to see Mr. Harvey a woman's fool! She twists him around her finger, and the great booby doesn't know it. Well, well, I won't say any more, but you're being moped to death, and I'm not going to stand by and see you fade away before my eyes. Rouse yourself, my dearie. You'll be a different creature if you see living people once more."

Gladys looked thoughtfully into the fire for a space.

"I think you are right, Phebe," she presently said with an air of decision. "I will do as you say."

She dressed herself with unusual care for dinner. She was resolved to charm her sulky boy into good humor. He had just taken his place at the table when she entered, a charming vision in pale pink and white, and he smiled involuntarily.

"Why, how lovely we are this evening!" he exclaimed.

Helen darted at him a disapproving look; but the pleasant words had escaped, and Gladys was responding to them in kind as she took her place at his right. She had long ago given Helen the head of the table. She coveted it, and Harvey was pleased to see her there, and she herself cared nothing for petty distinctions.

The conversation moved on pleasantly, if a trifle haltingly, and presently Gladys announced her intention of inviting Mr. and Mrs. Barr and one or two other friends to dinner.

"I had thought of next Tuesday, Harvey, if you and Helen are disengaged for that evening," she said.

"We are, as far as I know," he answered, glancing at his wife.

Helen did not respond. She was displeased that Mrs. Atherton should contemplate entertaining company at all, and doubly so that she had addressed her question to Harvey instead of to herself, and went on eating her dinner in her usual deliberate way. She had a fine appetite, and took excellent care of her digestion, as a wise young woman should.

"Then we'll say Tuesday evening," said Gladys, all unconscious of what was passing in Helen's mind, and mistaking her silence for acquiescence. She regarded the matter as settled.

It was not until the very day of the dinner that she discovered her error. By this time she and Harvey were on their old terms again, the coolness between them apparently forgotten. Helen's manner never relaxed; she had her own grievances and resented them in her own way. Gladys, however, gave no evidence that she observed anything amiss.

"I am sure you will like Mrs. Barr, Helen," she said at breakfast on Tuesday, hoping to draw the younger woman into conversation, for her persistent lack of interest in any talk in which she was not directly included was irksome. "She is a girl after your own style—an excellent daughter, now a capable wife. I hope you will become friends."

"Thank you," said Helen, in wintry tones. "I am not a believer in married women's friendships. My husband and my child suffice for me. A woman's home should be her kingdom."

She glanced at Harvey for the approving smile with which he always applauded her borrowed phrases, as though every word were a nugget of wisdom fresh from the mine, and added a trifle less deliberately:

"I dislike strangers, and care nothing for social pleasures, so I can not truthfully say I am sorry I shall not meet Mrs. Barr this evening."

"What do you mean, Nell? Have you forgotten she is to come here to dinner?"

"No; but you and I are to dine at father's. I promised him ten days ago."

Helen spoke calmly, though her color flickered as she encountered Harvey's astonished stare. Gladys, too, looked surprised.

"My dear girl," Harvey burst out, "why in the world did you not tell the matter so when she was making arrangements for her dinner?"

"Because she did not consult me. She addressed you, and took it for granted I had no engagements. I never offer unsolicited information."

Gladys saw an ominous look in Harvey's eyes, and rose hastily. She had no desire to witness a matrimonial squabble.

"It is not of the least consequence, Harvey. I should like Helen to meet Mrs. Barr, who has a great deal of social influence, but there will be plenty of opportunities for her to do so in the future, as I intend to open the house to my friends again. I have been living too quietly of late."

She looked full at Helen, and there was a touch of defiance in the manner of both. "Do not give this little misunderstanding a thought. I shall not; for it isn't worth it."

She had left the room before the last word was uttered, and ran lightly down the piazza steps to the garden.

"What a woman!" she thought.

"What a hard, narrow, revengeful, sullen woman! Poor Harvey! I hope he may continue blind to the end. It is his only chance for happiness."

She need not have been concerned for Harvey. Already Helen, her arms about his neck, her voice broken with emotion, was making her cause good; and although he could not see exactly where Gladys had erred, he was soon convinced that his wife had been wantonly insulted, and was grievously hurt in consequence. Nothing could have been further from the truth than either conviction; but gazing into seductive eyes, tear drenched, pressing warm, red lips quivering with sobs, few men are wise enough to discriminate between the chastening dews of sorrow and the bitter waters of spite or envy.

Gladys' dinner was a success. She felt Helen's absence to be a relief. It seemed pleasant to have the house to herself again, and to sit at the head of her own table. She threw off her sadness and became the charming, frivolous Gladys every one petted and loved. Her guests lingered late. Long after Harvey and Helen had retired the sound of their voices rang through the house, and Helen complained next day at breakfast that baby was fretful and unwell, having been robbed of his sleep the night previous.

Mrs. Atherton made no answer to this plaint. She had discovered that Harvey's geniality had vanished, and his manner toward her was cold. She divined the reason for the change, and while resenting his injustice was hurt by it. She could retain his favor only by submitting to his wife's caprices, it seemed. Her long years of devotion counted for nothing; all was forgotten when this woman, between kisses, accused her of some petty meanness of which she was incapable. How dared he listen to charges so unjust?

Before the meal was half over she rose from the table with a sudden hot anger that dismayed her, for she had never felt anything like it before. She realized that she should end by hating Helen and despising Harvey; a material love that crushes out all purer affections degrades a man; not even the sacrament of marriage can render it holy.

She rode further than usual that day, and was overtaken by one of the violent thunder storms peculiar to the season. She came home drenched and shivering with cold. Phebe, who was waiting for her on a side veranda with a thick shawl, almost carried her to her room, and without ceremony undressed and put her to bed.

"We shall have you down with a fever next," she grumbled. "You were about ready for it before."

Gladys, strangely inert, languidly opened her eyes.

"If I am ill, Phebe, and I fear I am going to be, no one must wait on me but you. I may be delirious and talk. Keep Harvey out of the room at all hazards. Poor boy! If he should learn the truth—"

"It would put him just where he deserves to be put," said Phebe, her smouldering anger against the married couple kindled into a flame by Gladys' condition. "But don't fret, dearie; I'll do as you say. Shall I give the keys to Mrs. Harvey?" she added, feeling that her mistress was very ill already.

"Yes; it will keep her out of your way," said Gladys with a faint smile. Then her eyes closed again and she sank into a troubled sleep.

Next morning she was tossing with fever, and for three months knew nothing of what was going on around her. One bright October day she opened her eyes and looked searchingly into Phebe's face. The faithful woman, wearied by her long vigils, was nodding in her chair by the bedside.

"Why, Phebe, how thin you are!" she exclaimed in a weak voice.

Phebe started up with a stifled cry. "Oh, my lamb, my lamb, thank God you've come back to us again!" she said, tears streaming from her eyes.

"Why, how long have I been here?" Gladys asked.

"Fourteen weeks."

"Fourteen weeks!" She lay thinking the wonderful fact over, then turned to Phebe with her own merry smile. "And haven't you given me anything to eat in all that time, you cruel woman? I am famishing."

THE HAIR HARVEST.

Over 12,000,000 Pounds of Human Hair Used Annually.

Perhaps there is no staple article about which less is known by the average person than human hair as an article of commerce. It will doubtless surprise many when it is stated that the dealers in human hair goods do not depend on chance clippings here and there, but that there is a regular hair harvest that can always be relied upon. It is estimated that over 12,000,000 pounds of human hair are used annually in the civilized world for adorning the heads of women, says a writer in the Toledo Courier. Two-thirds of the ladies nowadays use false hair, more or less. The decree of fashion or the desire to conceal a defect or heighten a charm is the reason, of course. One woman, for instance, has a high forehead and wishes to reduce it in appearance. Another has worn off the front hair by continued frizzing, and would like to conceal the fact. Both make use of front or top piece, with a choice of many styles. Ladies' wigs cost from $20 to $100. Half wigs, top pieces and switches, from $5 to $50, according to quality.

The rarest supply of hair comes from Switzerland, Germany and the French provinces. There is a human hair market in Merlans, in the department of the lower Pyrenees, held every Friday. Hundreds of hair traders walk up and down the one street of the village, their shears dangling from their belts, and inspect the braids which the peasant girls, standing on the steps of the houses, let down for inspection. If a bargain is struck the hair is cut and the money paid on the spot, the price varying from fifty cents to $5 in our money.

Our Sun a Third-Rate One.

Our sun is a third-rate sun, situated in the Milky way, one of myriads of stars, and the Milky way is itself one of myriads of sectional star accumulations, for these seem to be countless, and to be spread over infinity. At some period of their existence each of these suns had planets circling around it, which, after untold ages, are fit for some sort of human beings to inhabit them for a comparatively brief period, after which they still continue for years to circle around without atmosphere, vegetation or inhabitants, as the moon does around our planet. There is nothing so calculated to take the conceit out of an individual who thinks himself an important unit in the universe as astronomy. It teaches that we are less, compared with the universe, than a colony of ants is to us, and that the difference between men is less than that between one ant and another.—London Truth.

"But the world never forgives," observes one of the characters in a popular novel, "it is only God and our mothers that can do that."

FADED IN HER YOUTH

Pretty faces and graceful forms of young women! Why is it they are so soon replaced by plainness and lankness? It is because the young girl just entering into womanhood does not know how to take care of herself and has no one competent to instruct her. It is not necessary that there should be anything weakening or wearying about the obligations of a female organism. Parents of young girls, should inform themselves and prevent their dear ones from making costly errors.

That young woman has a just cause of complaint, who is permitted to believe that great periodic suffering is to be expected, that severe mysterious pains and aches are part of her natural experience as a woman. These things are making constant war on her health, her disposition and her beauty. It is a wanton sacrifice, absolutely unnecessary and cruel. It is more—it is criminal.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA

for the Blood and Nerves

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is the right medicine for every young girl who is just entering the first stage of womanhood. It prepares the system in every way to act normally. It enriches the blood supply, and keeps the nerves calm and steady. Fortified with this great medicine, all the womanly duties may be undertaken and experienced without the slightest jeopardy to health. It preserves the gifts of nature and assists their development into glowing, healthful beauty.

Mrs. MARY FRANCES LITTLE, of 2 Hunter Alley, Rochester, N. Y., says:

"I was very pale and delicate—had no color. I took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and now I am well and strong, my face is plump, and cheeks red, and my complexion pure."

Mrs. WILLIAM BARTELS, 239 East 57th St., New York City, says:

"Dr. Greene's Nervura made a wonderful improvement in my health, and that dark, sallow look left my face. My friends hardly know me. I have gained flesh and am like a different person."

The nervousness in women which invariably comes with pain is of itself certain to stop the development of beauty in face and figure. Excited nerves make sharp lines and hasty speech. The beautiful curves which make women so attractive are not possible when the female organism is out of order, as it surely is when discomfort and pain are always or even periodically present. It is only necessary to look in the faces of young women everywhere to see that this must be so. Else why are they so pale and thin?

GET FREE ADVICE FROM DR. GREENE

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. It is possible to every woman who takes the matter in hand intelligently. Get advice from Dr. Greene, the great specialist in these matters. He will tell you why all this is so, and show you how to avoid the stumbling blocks that bar woman's way to happiness. "I am so nervous, there is not a well inch in my whole body. I am so weak at my stomach, and have indigestion horribly, and palpitation of the heart, and I am losing flesh. This headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I nearly had hysterics; there is a weight in the lower part of my bowels bearing down all the time, and pains in my groins and thighs; I cannot sleep, walk, or sit, and I believe I am diseased all over; no one ever suffered as I do."

This is a description of thousands of cases which come to Mrs. Pinkham's attention daily. An inflamed and ulcerated condition of the neck of the womb can produce all of these symptoms.

toms, and no woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is absolutely no need of it. The subject of our portrait in this sketch, Mrs. Williams of Englishtown, N.J., has been entirely cured of such illness and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the guiding advice of Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass.

No other medicine has such a record for absolute cures, and no other medicine is "just as good." Women who want a cure should insist upon getting Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when they ask for it at a store. Anyway, write a letter to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your troubles. Her advice is free.

CHAPTER IX.

For nearly a week after the homecoming of his beloved daughter John Folsom was too happy in her presence to give much thought to other matters.
By the end of that week, however, the honest old westerner found anxieties thickening about him. There were 48 hours of undimmed rejoicing. Elinor was so radiant, so fond, and had grown, so said the proud father to himself, and so said others, so wondrously lovely.
His eyes followed her every movement.
He found himself negligent of her gentle little friend and guest, Jessie Dean, to whom he had vowed to be a second father, and such a friend as she had been to his Pappoose when, a homesick, sad-eyed child, she entered upon her school days. Elinor herself had to chide him, and with contrition and dismay he admitted his fault, and then for hours nothing could exceed his hospitable attentions to Jessie, who, sorely disappointed because Marshall was not there to meet her, was growing anxious as no tidings came from him.
Two whole days the damsels spent in going over the new house, exclaiming over papa's lavish preparations, but wishing presently that Mrs. Fletcher were not quite so much in evidence, here, there, and everywhere. Only when bedtime came and they could nestle in one or other of their connecting rooms were they secure from interruption, and even then it presently appeared they could not talk confidentially as of old. Folsom had taken them driving each afternoon, he himself handling the reins over his handsome bays, Elinor at his side the first time, and Jessie, with Mrs. Fletcher, occupying the rear seat. But this, Elinor whispered to him, was not as it should be. Her guest should have the seat of honor. So, next day, Jessie was handed to the front and Mrs. Fletcher and Pappoose were placed in rear, and in this order they bowled round the fort and listened to the band and talked with several of the women and one or two officers, but these latter could tell nothing about Lieut. Dean except that they had been expecting him for two days—he having taken the long way home, which both Jessie and Pappoose considered odd under the circumstances, though neither said so and nobody thought to explain. But the morning of the third day "Miss Folsom"—as the veteran was amazed to hear his daughter addressed, yet on reflection concluded that he'd be tempted to kick any man who addressed her otherwise—seized a favorable opportunity and whisked her fond father into a corner of his library, and there gave him to understand that in eastern circles the housekeeper might sometimes, perhaps, accompany the young ladies when they were going shopping, or the like, alone, but that when escorted by papa it was quite unnecessary. It was, in fact, not at all conventional.

"Bless my soul!" said Folsom. "I supposed that was what she was for.
What did these women mean by telling me I must have a companion—a guide, etc.?"

"They meant, you blessed daddy, that they wished to provide you with —one of their number, and me—with something I do not want. If Mrs.
Fletcher is to be housekeeper, I have nothing to say, but—don't you think your big daughter old enough and wise enough to select her own companions? Daddy dear," she continued, after a little pause, and nestling close to him with a pathetic look in the big brown eyes, her lips twitching a bit,
"I know how loving and thoughtful you have been in all this, and I wouldn't have you think me ungrateful, but—did you believe I was always going to be a little girl? What do you suppose I studied housekeeping for at school? Mrs. Fletcher is engaged, I presume, and I can't ask you to undo that now, but I wish you had written to me first. However, if you don't mind, there's somebody I'd rather you would invite to take the fourth seat to-day, and then you can have Pappoose beside you, if you wish."

"Why, of course, sweetheart, anyone you like."

"Lieut. Loomis, then, daddy—the officer we met on the train. Jessie likes him, and he's such a friend of her brother—the 'only one we have yet seen who seems to know him at all.
Then you could ask him to dinner,
too."

Folsom's face was a study. Doubt and perplexity both were twitching in the little muscles about his lips.

"Let me refresh your memory."

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat;
and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: overwork and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can;
but, whether you can or not,
take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it,
take no other.

A freight-going east early Sunday morning, when about two miles west of here, the fireman discovered something on the front of the engine. The train was brought to a stop and a cow was found there dead, but still warm.
They claimed they did not know where or when she was picked up.—

Tuesday, F. W. Roach purchased from Pat. Nolan of Milan township, 26 head of young steers, paying therefor $1,125, making a "lump" deal.
The purchase was made for J. F. Slayton. They came to Dundee Wednesday for shipment, but instead the entire bunch was purchased by Geo.
Paxson, for winter feeding at his farm.

The slide track leading to the location where the big cement factory is to stand, was used for the first time on Wednesday when a gravel train ran over it. There will be four tracks put down, leading up to different buildings, and the entire expense is borne by the Michigan Central company. This effects a marked saving of money to the cement folks and shows the kindly cooperation of the railroad people with the new enterprise.—Grass Lake News.

Co. L. has a souvenir of old Co. G's Spanish war experience which they wouldn't dispose of for a small fortune.
It is a small push-cart "lifted" from a company of another regiment at Chickamauga and carried to Cuba and back. Co. L. guarded "Mr. Dooley," for so they named their prize, with the greatest care, and more than once were a number of them obliged to battle royally to prevent its being carried off by a rival company. "Mr.
Dooley" is now passing a peaceful existence at the armory, like an old fire-eater warrior spending his declining days at a soldier's home.—Argus.
