THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Tichenor Were Married Fifty Years Last Monday Evening

It is not given to many couples to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedded life, but this happiness has been allotted to Mr. and Mrs. Leander Tichenor, of Chelsea, and the event was pleasantly celebrated Monday evening amidst a large gathering of their relatives and old friends and neighbors. It was a pleasant occasion and many tokens of love and esteem were presented to the worthy couple as mementoes of the event.

Mr. Tichenor is 78 years old and he has been a resident of Chelsea for upwards of 50 years of that time. He was born in Newark, N. J. Mrs. Tichenor is 66 years old, having been born in Schoharie county, N. Y., in 1834. She was married to Mr. Tichenor at Sylvan Center when but 16 years old. Six sons have been born to them, only one of whom, Irving S. B. Tichenor is alive. One of the notable instances of the anniversary was the presence of Mrs. Tichenor's mother, Mrs. L. Kromb, of Leslie, who is 87 years old, but is as spry and active as most women a great deal younger.

Death of Mrs. Emeline Crowell.

Mrs. Emeline Crowell, mother of George J. Crowell, died at his home on Congdon street, Sunday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock, aged 86 years, 9 months and 24 days. She had been confined to her bed since last May. At times the dimness caused by her extreme age had clouded her mind, but on Sunday those mists seemed to roll away and she knew and conversed with those about her. She also realized that the end of life for her was near at hand and had her family gathered round her to bid them farewell. She was conscious nearly to the end and passed peacefully away as above stated.

Mrs. Crowell's maiden name was Emeline Graves. She was born Feb. 1, 1814, in Waterloo, N. Y. March 3, 1833, she was married to Moses Pierson Crowell, and they settled near Seneca Falls, N. Y. In the spring of 1835 they came to Michigan and settled in Leoni. She was the mother of five children, two of whom died in infancy. Two daughters, Mrs. McNamara, of Traverse City, and Mrs. Durfee, of Williamston, died in 1888, and George J. Crowell is the only one of her children left. Her husband died Oct. 9, 1863, but she had lived to see her children's children. For the past 20 years she had made her home with her son. Mrs. Crowell joined the Chelsea Congregational church in 1849 as a charter member, and was one its most faithful members until the time of her death.

The funeral services were held at her late home yesterday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. C. S. Jones. They were largely attended by relatives and friends. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

The Eastern Star Social.

The Eastern Star social at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Holmes Friday evening was a well attended and most successful event. Entertainment was furnished by a program in which Mrs. Copeland and Miss Enid Holmes rendered piano solos, Miss Nellie Mungay gave a recitation, and an amusing farce in which O. T. Hoover, Miss Ethel Cole, J. B. Cole, L. T. Freeman and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gifford took part. At the conclusion of the program Auctioneer Theo. E. Wood sold 24 boxes at auction which realized $21.95.

After discussing the contents of the boxes the company separated well pleased with the evening's amusement.

Died From His Injuries.

Allen Stephens, of Jackson, brother of Chauncey M. Stephens, of this place, and who was himself a former well known resident, died in Jackson Tuesday night from injuries he received last Friday.

Mr. Stephens was employed at the Lewis & Allen Spring and Axle Works, and on Friday was at work lacing a belt on a pulley, standing on a beam at the time. By some means his clothing got caught and he was thrown on the machinery below. His skull was fractured and his collar bone and three ribs were broken.

The remains will be brought here for interment tomorrow. Mr. Stephens was 42 years old.

If your children are fretful, peevish, and cross, mother the same, ditto the boss, it would seem proper to give 'em all Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. Ask your druggist.

NOT THE REAL THING.

Chelsea High School Football Boys Beaten at Clinton by a Mixed Team

The Chelsea High School football eleven ran up against more than they bargained for at Clinton, Saturday. They supposed they were going to meet the high school boys of that place in a game of football, instead of which they bumped into a team composed of three mill hands, four young men of the village, three high school boys, who played minor positions, and the superintendent of the schools, Prof. Wright, an old football player, who played fullback for the Clintonites. The Chelsea boys did wonderfully well in the unequal match, and it was "beef" that won the game for the Clinton eleven. The score stood 19 to 0 and the professor scored 10 out of the 19 points.

The Chelsea line-up was as follows: Right end, H. Schenk; left end, D. Miller; right tackle, George Speer; left tackle, Leon Kempf; center, Wirt Ives; right guard, Carl Mensing; left guard, George Eisele; quarterback, Gus BeGole; right halfback, E. Zincke; left halfback, Carl Plowe and Edgar Steinbach; fullback, C. Schenk and C. Plowe; substitutes, Harry Foster and W. Spaulding.

The cheese factory now takes milk in every other day. The supply seems to hold up pretty well, about 3,000 lbs. to a delivery. The factory pays 90 cents per 100 lbs. for milk for November.

The officers in school district No. 12, better known as the McIntee district, have purchased a new 300-pound bell and are having a cupola built on the school house in which to place it. Bert Young is doing the work.

We noticed in a recent issue of the Herald an article taken from the Dexter Leader in which the editor seems to conclude that Michigan farmers can no longer profitably grow winter wheat. Now, we are inclined to take a more optimistic view of the matter, and hazard the prediction that Michigan farmers will in the future, as they have in the past, continue to profitably grow winter wheat. It is true that two crop failures in succession and another one in prospect is rather discouraging, but if the editor of the Leader will jog his memory back to the harvest of '98 he would then recall a crop that would not indicate that Michigan soils had become exhausted of their wheat-growing properties.

COMPTROLLER REPORTS.

Laws Regulating Lending of Funds by Banks to Officers and Directors Should Be More Stringent.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The annual report of Charles G. Dawes, comptroller of the currency, for the year ended October 31, 1900, has been prepared for transmission to congress. The report starts with a summary of the reports made during the year by the national banks in response to the call of the comptroller, which shows the aggregate resources of the 3,871 national banks reporting on September 5, 1900, to be $5,048,138,499.29. Between the September call of 1899 and 1900 loans and discounts increased $170,008,391.46. The loans and discounts on September 5, 1900, were $2,688,759,642.57, and individual deposits were $2,508,248,557.53. The capital stock of national banks reporting on September 5 was $630,299,030. Between March 14 and October 31, 1900, 348 banks were organized, 249 being of less than $50,000 capital. The report says:

"The total increase in the circulation secured by government bonds of all national banks in the system since March 14, 1900, has been $32,454,270. The total outstanding circulation on October 31, 1900, was $33,613,268, of which $32,734,204 is secured by lawful money and is in process of retirement. The total bond-secured circulation on October 31, 1900, was $238,829,064. On October 31, 1900, there were 3,935 national banks in operation, with a combined capital of $632,503,395. The combined resources of the national banks, being over $5,000,000,000, is greater than at any time heretofore."

The most important recommendation made by the comptroller, and that which is the chief feature of the report, is one for additional restrictions upon loans to directors and executive officers of banks. The comptroller states that the large percentage of bank failures attributable to excessive loans to directors and officers, which amounted to 62 failures, or 17 per cent. of the total failures of national banks, led him to a careful investigation as to all directors' loans now outstanding in the national banks of the country.

This investigation showed that on June 29, 1900, the date of the comptroller's call for a statement of condition from the national banks, that of 28,709 directors of national banks in the country 18,534 were directly or indirectly indebted to national banks under their management, the aggregate of these sums being $202,287,441.

The comptroller urges the passage of the Brosius law to regulate these conditions. This bill provides that no national bank shall loan to its officers or employees until the proposition shall have been submitted in writing to the directors or executive committee and approved by a majority of the members.

In dealing with the subject of loans the comptroller says 'the present need is a provision which will enable large banks to loan more nearly the same per cent. of their total assets which the present provision allows to smaller banks.'

AN AMERICAN VICTORY.

Fortress of Geronimo, the Strongest Position in Island of Luzon, Captured.

Manila, Nov. 26.—The fortress of the insurgent chief Geronimo, at Pinauran, which the insurgents boasted was impregnable, was taken and destroyed Thursday afternoon by a picked force of the Forty-second and Twenty-seventh infantry and troop G of the Fourth cavalry, under Col. Thompson. Geronimo and most of the rebels escaped. The leader has long harassed the Twenty-seventh infantry, operating in the vicinity of San Mateo, Montalban and Novaliches. He was finally located at Pinauran, 35 miles north of Manila. His position was considered the strongest in Luzon. It was a stone fortress surmounting a steep hill surrounded by canyons. The Spanish forces lost heavily in attempting to take it.

Col. Thompson mobilized 1,000 men at Montalban. The attack was made upon four sides, the main body under Maj. Carey, of the Forty-second, advancing from the south; Capt. Atkinson, of the Twenty-seventh, from the east; Capt. Casteel, of the Twenty-seventh, from the west, and Capt. Sloan, of the Twenty-seventh, from the north. The ascents were steep and the men climbed them by grasping the shrubbery. It was impossible for the eastern column to reach the summit, but the others arrived after three or four hours' climbing, under fire from the fortress and the hillside intrenchments. The enemy's force, numbering several hundred, fled before the attackers reached the top. The Americans destroyed 1,000 insurgent uniforms, scores of buildings and large quantities of supplies, and seized a barrel of documents.

CAUGHT IN A GALE.

Coasting Steamer Founders Off Labrador—All on Board, Twenty-Five in Number, Perish.

Quebec, Can., Nov. 26.—Seven passengers and the crew of 19 on the iron coasting steamer St. Olef were drowned Wednesday night in a wreck off the coast of Labrador in Seven Islands bay. Not a soul aboard was saved. The St. Olef traded between here and Eskimo points on the Labrador coast, and carried government mails to the various points of that inhospitable territory. She was on her return from Eskimo points when wrecked. She passed Shelldrake Wednesday afternoon. That afternoon there was a gale of east wind, with snow, in the gulf, and evidently it was in attempting to make the harbor of Seven Islands that she struck Boule island at the entrance of the bay. Saturday a number of bodies as well as a mail bag washed ashore there, and further investigation revealed on the rocks the boiler and part of the bow of the wrecked vessel. One of the bodies recovered is that of Miss Marie Page.

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Pen Picture for Women.

"I am so nervous, there is not a well inch in my whole body. I am so weak at my stomach and have indigestion horribly, and palpitation of the heart, and I am losing flesh. This headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I nearly had hysterics; there is a weight in the lower part of my bowels bearing down all the time, and pains in my groins and thighs; I cannot sleep, walk, or sit, and I believe I am diseased all over; no one ever suffered as I do."

This is a description of thousands of cases which come to Mrs. Pinkham's attention daily. An inflamed and ulcerated condition of the neck of the womb can produce all of these symptoms, and no woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is absolutely no need of it. The subject of our portrait in this sketch, Mrs. Williams of Englishtown, N.J., has been entirely cured of such illness and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the guiding advice of Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. JOHN WILLIAMS.

No other medicine has such a record for absolute cures, and no other medicine is "just as good." Women who want a cure should insist upon getting Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when they ask for it at a store. Anyway, write a letter to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your troubles. Her advice is free.

THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER.

The Sunday schools in Spain are said to have only 3,200 pupils.

One of the large department stores in Paris has a daily income of 700,000 francs.

The game laws of New Hampshire do not allow any person to kill more than 15 partridges in one day.

During 1898 there were 226 accidents in 19 mines on the iron range in Minnesota, resulting in deaths averaging one to every 193 employed. During 1899 there were 421 accidents, with the same average rate of fatalities.

HELPED THE CHIEF.

How a Loyal Engineer Did His Brother's Great Service.

Meadville, Pa., Nov. 26, 1900.—(Special.)—The Loyalty of the Members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is proverbial. A circumstance occurred in this city some days ago, which emphasizes this feeling.

Frank J. Zeller is Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers No. 143. He is extremely popular among his fellow railway men, and one of the best known Engineers running out of Meadville. When the announcement was made a short time ago that Frank was pretty sick, it caused a great deal of regret among the boys. Soon he was missed from his engine, having had to "lay off" on account of his back. A brother of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who had been ill with similar symptoms, some time before, and who had been pulled through, called to see Mr. Zeller, and in a brotherly way, took with him a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the Remedy which had cured him. He advised Mr. Zeller to try them, with the result that after seven boxes had been used, he was entirely well, and able to work.

In an interview Mr. Zeller states: "I had suffered for four years with this affliction, being often kept awake at night with pains, and at times unable to work. I tried several of the advertised remedies, and found that they did me no earthly good. Finally, a member of our Order, who had been cured of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills brought me a box, and asked me to try them. I had little faith in them, but as a drowning man grasps at a straw to help him, so I took the Pills. I used seven boxes, and am to-day as well and strong a man as there is in Pennsylvania."

Naturally, Mr. Zeller feels very grateful, and his complete recovery has delighted his many friends, and none more than the good Brother, who feels that he was instrumental in saving the life of the Chief.

Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Kidney Trouble.

Some of the Toilettes That Will Make the New York Winter Season a Brilliant One

GOLD is the popular trimming of the day

GOLD is the keynote of the new fashions. The charming new modes that have been specially designed for the promise of a brilliant season have shining golden galloon, or tissue and braid put on in decorative designs. This feature of gold you are sure to find somewhere in every costume, either on hats, coats gowns for both day and evening wear. Of these golden-trimmed gowns one that is quite noticeable is of wine-red cloth with narrow bands or ruddily tinted velvet down the front gores and around the bottom of the skirt. The bodice has a bolero with bands of shining golden galloon and fastened in a naval way with little tabs of galloon and tiny gold buttons. The galloon is also at the bottom of the sleeves.

Another is a striking gown of satined cloth in mushroom brown, with elaborate arrangements of stitching in gold on the trim little coat and skirt. Just below the hips on the skirt is a medallion of cloth stitched with dull gold, with a diamond-shaped button of dull gold in the center. The bottom of the skirt is finished with pink's fur. The coat is stitched from neck to waistband with a medallion cloth at the neck, one at the waist and one on each side of the bust.

A beautiful model gown being displayed in one of the uptown Gotham stores is of satin-soft zibeline in a rich blossom tint. The skirt has a sign of graceful convolvulus blossom and trailing leaves embroidered in white velvet and chenille. At the bottom of the skirt is a deep band of gold. The bodice has a short cutaway collar trimmed with embroidered flowers. The waistband boasts a love-buckle, where the flowers embroidered on the dress are repeated in miniature in orozdyzed silver and gold.

NETTY novelties that are seen in the stores

WE are having a season of exceptions. In fact, it is hard to find the rule in fashions now that the exceptions prove the designer who attempts to give you will tell you to have a gown made up so-and-so, or, if you like it better, you may have such-and-such as just as much in touch with the prevailing mode. One sees so many of these exceptions in the New York stores. I say exceptions not because there is any rule that would place a trifle out of the more regular run, and are what are classed as novelties. The following are a few examples:

Pretty jacket idea on a walking dress is three stole pieces shaped like the upper part of a bolero and falling over the other. These are outlined with gold braid, and the end of the stole is pointed, is finished with gold ornament. This idea is used in a calling gown of brown velvet. There is a high belt of tan-colored cloth and an open vest of the cloth lined with small gold buttons. The inner vest is of white lace over a gold. The skirt is laid in plaits, strapped down across the back with straps of cloth and velvet embroidered with gold.

An odd idea for the sleeves of an evening dress is a lattice work of ribbons, chenille or beads worn over the bare arm. Jet is most effectively used in this way on a gown of black lace. A heavy jet fringe trims the décolletage and the bottom of the overskirt. The underskirt is of black tulle, finely plaited where it shows on one side, and finished at the bottom with many rows of plaiting. The gown is finished by a high sash of white tulle, closed with a large tulle rosette. Black and white is such a popular combination this year that it does not suggest mourning, even when used for the evening.

We are in danger of doing the flexible gold ribbon to death with overmuch patronage. Black satin girdles braided in gold are also pretty, but rapidly hastening to destruction through too great popularity.

What are spoken of as the watteau colors are the popular shades for evening gowns. Pink and blue, pink with pale lilac and straw color, and rose and lavender are mixed together in the strangest ways.

The lower edge of little corset covers which reach only to the waist line are edged with lace or to match the trimming of the waist.

SOMETHING about the fashionable shoes

HIGH-HEELED SHOES are in vogue again. This is but the natural sequence of a desire to be tall. When every fraction counts in the race for fashionable favor the half inch added to the height of woman by an unusually high heel is not to be considered lightly. Much as the sensible ones may lament the return of the high heel, it goes well with the present fondness for other Louis XV. styles.

But the American women—at least a great many of them—are making a mistake and rather overdoing the high heel fashion. Such shoes were never intended for anything but a house shoe. It stands to reason that the women who wore them first were not of the class who walked much upon the streets, for in the days of the worthy monarch who plays so prominent a part in the fashioning of our costumes the fashionable woman did not walk. It was only the women of the middle and lower classes, who paid the war taxes and thought less of gowns than of existence, who walked in those days, and they walked in shoes without heels, or perchance, with no shoes at all. To-day the woman who wears her high-heeled shoes on the street might with equal fitness wear an evening dress at the same time.

The popular shoe of the time has the Cuban heel, which is of medium height, and quite suitable for street wear. Among the women who know "what's what" in fashions we find the low, broad heel for rough wear, the Cuban heel for dressier occasions and the Louis XV. heel for slippers and indoor wear. For those who wish to be in style in their footwear as well as in their gowns these are the shapes to wear for such occasions. But the Cuban heel is safe for all of them.

Yellow embroidered crepe de chine makes a pretty waist. A white silk with the bolero outlined with applications of scarlet is striking. A red waist has a vest of pink, and all red waists are always charming and practical.

TALKS AT A BANQUET.

President McKinley Declares in Philadelphia That There is No Danger of Empire.

Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—President McKinley, in a speech before the Union League club of this city Saturday evening, paid a glowing tribute to the silent forces that brought about a republican victory in the recent election. During his speech, which was brief, he also announced the principles for which a great majority of the voters had declared themselves, and expressed the hope that the administration might meet the expectations of the people, who had honored it with a return to power.

The occasion was "founders' day" at the Union League club, and the gathering included many notable men from New York, Washington and leading cities in Pennsylvania. Numerous speeches were made during the evening, and those second in importance to that of the president were by Gov. Roosevelt and Senators Lodge and Wolcott.

When the president arose to speak he was greeted with long-continued applause. When quiet had been restored he spoke in part as follows:

"We are always in danger of exaggeration on an occasion of exultation over a political victory, and while the result is mainly due to the efforts of our splendid party, there is sometimes a tendency to give too little credit to other forces, which, silent though they may have been, were none the less potential.

"We must not withhold generous acknowledgment from that great body of our citizens, who, belonging to another party, powerfully assisted in the achievement of the result which you celebrate to-night; nor from that other large body, former members of our own party, who, with honesty of purpose, separated from us a few years ago on financial issues, have now returned and are home again to stay.

"Nor is any accounting for the victory either just or accurate which leaves out of the calculation the almost unbroken column of labor engaged in mechanics and agriculture, which rejected the false doctrine of class distinction as having no place in this republic, and which rebuked those teachings which would destroy the faith of American manhood in American character and American institutions. The business men in every part of the country, typified by this great organization, were a mighty factor in the recent contest. And may we not also ascribe much to the influence of the home, with its affiliations? In any previous election, was it greater, or in any did the counsels of the fireside determine more largely the vote of the electors?"

"Nothing in government can be more impressive than a national election, where the people delegate their power and invest their constitutional agents with authority to execute their behests. The very character of the transaction clothes it with solemnity. "We cannot overestimate the great importance and the far-reaching consequences of the electoral contest which ended on the 6th of November. It has to me no personal phase. It is not the triumph of an individual, nor altogether of a party, but an emphatic declaration by the people of what they believe and would have maintained in government. A great variety of subjects was presented and discussed in the progress of the campaign. We may differ as to the extent of the influence of the several issues involved, but we are all agreed as to certain things which it settled.

"It records the unquestioned indorsement of the gold standard, industrial independence, broader markets, commercial expansion, reciprocal trade, the open door in China, the inviolability of public faith, the independence and authority of the judiciary, and peace and beneficent government under American sovereignty in the Philippines. American credit remains unimpaired, the American name unimpeached, the honor of American arms unsoiled and the obligations of a righteous war and treaty of peace unrepudiated.

"The republican party has placed upon it tremendous responsibilities. No party could ask for a higher expression of confidence. It is a great thing to have this confidence. It will be a greater thing to deserve and hold it. To this party are committed new and grave problems. They are too exalted for partisanship. The task of settlement is for the whole American people. Who will say they are unequal to it?"

"Liberty has not lost, but gained in strength. The structure of the fathers stands secure upon the foundations on which they raised it, and is to-day, as it has been in the years past, and as it will be in the years to come, the 'government of the people, by the people and for the people.' "Be not disturbed; there is no danger from empire; there is no fear for the republic."

MURDER IS CHARGED.

Minneapolis Newspaper Man Arrested for Stabbing to Death a Young Millionaire.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 26.—Frank H. Hamilton, a Minneapolis newspaper man, is a prisoner at the Central police station with the charge of murder against him as the result of the stabbing to death of Leonard Day, a young millionaire society man of the city, at the West hotel, early Sunday morning. Hamilton, who has been in the custody of the detectives since the tragedy, was not formally placed under arrest until late Sunday afternoon, when the coroner's jury returned a verdict holding him responsible for the death of young Day. The tragedy took place in the billiard room of the West hotel at two o'clock in the morning, after a quarrel over a woman, participated in by Hamilton, Day and a number of other prominent men. All had been drinking to a considerable extent.

WIND CREATES HAVOC

Tornado Causes Death and Destruction in the South.

Number of Lives Lost About 80 and Over 100 Injured—Property Loss Estimated in Neighborhood of $1,000,000.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 22.—The cyclone that passed over Tennessee and Mississippi Tuesday night from southwest to northwest left in its wake innumerable tornadoes. These as well as the original cyclone were terribly destructive to property, and with the main storm caused at least 80 deaths and the injury of over 100 persons. The following estimate is made from latest reports:

Killed in Tennessee.....	54
Killed in Mississippi.....	26
Missing in Mississippi.....	50
Killed in Arkansas.....	7
Injured in Tennessee.....	72
Injured in Mississippi.....	25
Damage by cyclone.....	$1,000,000

At Columbia, the county seat of Maury county, Tex., on the Louisville & Nashville road, 40 miles south of Nashville, the worst loss was suffered. There 40 persons were killed and about 50 injured. The number of houses destroyed in the Nolensville neighborhood is 16. There were two fatalities.

La Vergne Suffers.

At La Vergne, 16 miles south of here, on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis road, the velocity of the wind was marvelous and from best reports lasted only about 20 seconds. In this short time about 35 dwellings were turned into kindling wood. The loss of life is small compared with the miraculous escapes made. The wind made a swath about 200 yards wide through the middle of the town. The Le Vergne high school and the depot, the two largest buildings, were laid flat on the ground. The loss of these two buildings is placed at something like $7,000. The railroad lost four section houses also, each valued at $900. The victims of the tornado are George Robertson and his six-months-old child.

In Mississippi.

In Mississippi the greatest loss of life and damage to property occurred near Tunica, Lula and Hernando. A report by courier from a point 13 miles from Tunica says that the tornado's devastation was so great that it will take weeks to calculate and repair it. Five negroes lost their lives on the Hamlin place. In Tunica the schoolhouse, church and a number of buildings were totally demolished. More than 50 negroes are missing, and it is feared that several of them have perished. Cotton is reported badly damaged.

In Arkansas.

The storm visited Arkansas and wrought much havoc in Monroe and Lee counties. Information was that the storm came from the southwest, crossed the tracks of the Arkansas Midland railroad 40 miles west of Helena, at Whitley's, where fences, timber and cabins were blown away, but no lives were lost in that neighborhood. At Blackton, on the Pine City branch of the Arkansas Midland railroad, Miss Robinson was killed while trying to escape from a wrecked building, and at Morro, Lee county, the infant child of Prof. Richard Blount was killed by flying timbers, the home of Prof. Blount being blown down.

In Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 22.—A severe windstorm swept over western and northern Ohio Wednesday. Much damage to property is reported, but no loss of life. Sandusky reports that damage to the amount of $20,000 was caused by the storm in that city and vicinity. Much damage is reported to have been done by the blowing down of derricks in the oil fields in the northwestern part of the state.

Losses in Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs, Col., Nov. 23.—The losses to property from Thursday's storm amount to $100,000, divided as follows: Business section of the town, $40,000; Colorado Telephone company, $15,000; Electric Power company $10,000; Western Union, $5,000; Postal Telegraph company, $5,000; Colorado and Philadelphia reduction works, $10,000; balance scattering. No loss of life has been reported.

Without a Parallel.

The storm stands without a parallel in many respects. Former severe windstorms have been accompanied with either rain or snow, but in this case it was neither, and the wind carried sand, gravel and small stones, similar to the awful sandstorms of the desert. It was remarkable and unlike any past storms in the scope of territory covered, though terminating at the foothills, seemingly.

Iowa to Be Free from Cigarettes.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 24.—A special to the Dispatch from Dubuque, Ia., says: Considerable stir was created here, when an order came to all tobacco dealers to at once ship out of the state their entire stock of cigarettes and cigarette papers. The order came from the American Tobacco company, which had been backing the dealers prior to the decision of the supreme court of the United States a few days ago.

Graves Robbed.

Wholesale grave robbery has been discovered at the Springbrook cemetery in Newaygo county. Nine bodies, so far as known, were stolen, and all but one were those of persons who had died within the last year, as follows: Mrs. Carlotta Eldredge, aged 35; her daughter, Mildred, 9 years old, both of whom died of typhoid fever; Charles James, 60 years old; Henry Houston, a middle-aged man; Clarence Cole, a 17-year-old boy; Don and Bertie Creston, infants, and Mrs. George Bailey, about 50 years of age.

Fiftieth Anniversary.

The Grand Rapids board of trade celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation of the city by a monster banquet at the armory hall. Gen. Russell A. Alger, of Detroit, who began his career in Grand Rapids as a poor man, laying the foundations of his present large fortune by making a small investment in lumber, was the guest of honor. He spoke to "Reminiscences of Early Days."

Claims Clerical Errors.

Edwin Austin has petitioned at Marshall for a mandamus against the board of county canvassers, to show cause why he should not be declared elected county clerk. He claims there are clerical errors in two townships which would give him two pluralities. The face of the returns give his opponent ten pluralities.

Damage by Fire.

Fire which started in the engine room of the Detroit Bridge & Iron works early in the day did between $65,000 and $75,000 damage. Five hundred men are thrown out of employment. The loss is covered by insurance. Repairs will be begun immediately and the works started again as soon as possible.

Five Perished.

Word was received in Newberry by D. N. McLeod, lumberman, that one of his scows used in transporting freight from Sault Ste. Marie to Deer Park, where he has a number of lumber camps, was caught in a storm on Lake Superior off Deer Park and five of the six men on board were washed overboard and drowned.

Fight Fire.

For two hours 500 men and boys worked vigorously in an effort to save the town of Algona from destruction by fire. They were successful after four buildings had been destroyed and several others damaged by fire and water. The combined losses will not be far from $20,000.

Sunday School Convention.

The union township Sunday school convention held at the M. The meetings were held in the Epworth League room. The feature of the afternoon session was the normal class conducted by E. E. Calkins, of Ann Arbor. At the evening session Rev. W. L. Tedrow, of Ann Arbor, read an excellent paper on "Has the Sunday school failed in its mission?" It was a carefully prepared paper, strong and full of good points. Mr. Calkins also read a good paper on "The home department of the Sunday school."

Some mean person or persons entered Mrs. I. M. Whitaker's chicken coop Tuesday night and wrung the heads off four fine hens and a rooster. Western Electrician: The Ann Arbor and Jackson Electric Railway Company, of Michigan, has given a contract to Barney & Smith, of Dayton, Ohio, for 10 cars, 50 feet in length, each equipped with toilet rooms, a smoking compartment and card tables. This is the company in which Mr. Boland, of Grass Lake, is interested, and which has been given a franchise in this village.

All the locomotives on the main line of the Michigan Central are being equipped with water scoops and in the spring the main line and air line between Detroit and Chicago will be provided with water troughs between the rails. When this has been done trains will be able to take water to fill their boilers while going at full speed, instead of having to stop at tanks, as at present. A material reduction of the running time will be the result.

Russell J. West has sued the township of Sylvan for $7,000 for damages which he claims he received April 1, 1899. In his bill of complaint he alleges that on that date he was driving along the highway near the old Dan Doran farm, when they came to the culvert. There was a dangerous hole in the culvert and the horses attempted to jump it. The wagon broke down and he was thrown out receiving injuries that he claims will be permanent. A. J. Sawyer & Son represent the plaintiff.

Miss Mary R. Nov. 14 she called on the Chicago chief of police and made complaint against F. Guth, a St. Louis showman, for stealing one of her cars valued at several thousands of dollars. Car tracers, detectives and lawyers have been on track of it since then but had not at last hearing located its whereabouts. Miss McMahon came into possession of her railroad cars eight years ago, when her brother, the well known circus manager, died and left them to her.

Grass Lake News: Mr. Boland has bought a strip of land along the farm of L. E. Dwelle for his electric railway track, on either side of which will be planted shade trees. No doubt in time Mr. Boland will run his trains through an avenue of trees between Grass Lake and Jackson. This during the heated term would afford a cool and refreshing shade, which would be greatly enjoyed by the patrons of the road.

The Thanksgiving supper and harvest festival of St. Mary's parish last evening was largely attended. An elegant supper was served, the provision made being so profuse that a large quantity of dressed fowl, cakes, etc., remained untouched after all had been served. This was sent to the Home for the Aged at Detroit by express this morning. Rev. W. P. Considine was the recipient of many congratulations from his parishioners on his 15 years' pastorate of the church.

Dexter Leader: The item in the last issue of the Leader, stating that Rev. L. Koelbing would move to Sidney, Ill., was an error. Mr. Koelbing will move to Dexter and assume the pastorate of the German church here. Heretofore the churches at Dexter and Chelsea have employed a pastor in common but each church will hereafter have its own pastor. During their former residence here Mr. and Mrs. Koelbing made many friends who are pleased to welcome them back.

Washtenaw Times: A. W. Chapman, of Sylvan, was in the city calling on School Commissioner Lister. He is one of the auditors of the Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co. He is quite a successful onion grower, his crop this year being 2,500 bushels, which he sold for 25c. a bushel. On one acre of new ground he raised 788 bushels. He says that while he raises onions year after year on the same ground he uses fertilizers so that the fertility of the ground is kept up. Mr. Chapman is one of the up-to-date, substantial farmers of the county.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen, of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and that he must soon die. OLD THANKSGIVIN'

OH, THE wind is moanin' lone-some as it's creepin' to and fro
Through the branches of the trees so bleak and bare;
And the sky looks kinder threat'nin' and there's jest a hint of snow,
And November's writ his name 'most everywhere.
But the bright red fire's a-roarin' up the big brick chimney flue,
And the old house kinder wears a happy grin;
What's the odds about the weather when the loved ones get together,
And it's jolly old Thanksgivin' come ag'in!

There's a turkey full of stuffin' that's a picture ter the eye,
There's a puddin' that won't hold another plum;
There's celery and there's cranb'ry sass, there's mince and punkin' pie,
All settin' there a-holl'rin' ter yer: "Come!"

And here's mother, who's been countin' up the days fer weeks and weeks,
And me a-feelin' young as twenty-four,
And there's welcome runnin' over jest like dew drips off the clover,
For it's jolly old Thanksgivin' come once more!

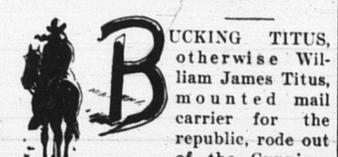

Oh, it's good ter be a child ag'in, if only once a year!
It's good ter have the children round the place,
It brings yer back the old sweet days in mem'ry allers dear,
And kinder smoothes the wrinkles from yer face.

Our boys and gals are back at home with children of their own,
So let the fun and frolics now begin;
We old ones' hearts are cheery, though our eyes, maybe, are teary,
For it's blessed old Thanksgivin' come ag'in!

Bucking Titus

A THANKSGIVING STORY

BUCKING TITUS, otherwise William James Titus, mounted mail carrier for the republic, rode out of the Gunnison country with an unwelcome companion. The companion had joined him at Yoe's ranch, where he had been staying for a month, bracing up a degenerate lung. Titus hated a "lunger," as he opprobriously termed the invalids who made Colorado melancholy; and, anyway, Titus was a man of prejudices. He covered more ground than any other mail carrier in the whole state, and the snowbound pass that would daunt him, the height which would make him giddy, the path he would not venture, the storm he would not face he had yet to encounter. His critics might have claimed for him more bravado than wise courage—but Titus did not care about critics. Talking was one of the superfluous arts at best, according to Bucking Titus.

That was one of the two reasons why he objected to Bernard Anderson, his companion. Anderson would talk. He exclaimed about the glory of the mountains; he thought it worth his while to make comments upon the splendor of the autumnal foliage, and he even went so far as to say what he thought about the mists that entwined themselves around the cruel front of the Old Man's mountain—that grim wall of granite whose canyons knew the blackest tragedies of all the mountains in the country round about. Anderson was stupid enough to relate some of these tales—though they were ancient history to Titus.

But the second reason for dislike which Titus entertained for Anderson was of a more serious nature. Anderson had been four weeks under the same roof with Claribel Yoe. As for Titus, though for two years past he had ridden over the pass like the wild huntsman, thinking only of the face that he should see in the valley beyond, he had never so much as known what it was to press her hand or to sit opposite to her at table. To be sure, she had brought him out hot coffee now and then or bidden him to sit beside the fire, and on holidays had given him a true stirrup cup, yet he said to himself with endless iteration that she cared nothing for him—that she had never noticed him any more than she had 20 other men.

All men were chivalrous to her. How could they be otherwise? She coaxed sociability out of the solitude and made a home in the wilderness and tenderness in the country of granite rocks, and there were warmth and light and cheer in her dwelling among those bitter snows. Perhaps Claribel Yoe had ceased to be a mere woman and become something symbolic to the men who knew her—the adventurers who passed along the cruel road to Tin Cup.

Anderson, taking the unnecessary trouble to pick the way for his horse—who was an old mountain climber—talked cheerfully to the mail carrier.

"It's an experience that a city man like myself is sure to remember to the last day of his life, you know. I never felt such liberty in all my life. Faith, I've seen no paper that was not a week old before I got it, and I'm as ignorant of my business as you are. But I'm glad of it. I'm rested clean through to the bones. And then the people at the ranch! Why, Jim Yoe's a man in a thousand! I've seen smart men, but he's got more practical sense and courage crammed in his head than any man I ever had the pleasure of meeting. As for Miss Claribel, she's an eidelweiss here in the snow."

Bucking Titus gave a fierce lurch at the saddle bags, though they seemed to Anderson to be adjusted quite correctly.

"How a girl can grow up in such surroundings as hers and yet have that soft voice and charming accent and all those adorable little ways of hers is more than I know. And she manages the affairs of the house perfectly. It doesn't matter how many drop in to dinner, she always seems to be prepared for them and to make them welcome. The servants are at her feet. I thought I'd seen some mighty fine ladies in my day, but I confess I had to come to the Gunnison country to see the finest of them all."

Bucking Titus spoke. He was a hero in his way and had known great dangers and had had combats with the elements and with wild beasts and wilder men but he spoke like a sulky schoolboy.

"If you think so mighty much of her," said he, "why don't you take her out of the Gunnison country?"

Bernard Anderson threw back his handsome head and laughed.

"Good-by!" cried he. "I like the idea! I'll have to go home and think the matter over. If it seems likely confidences, and any man so loose of soul as Anderson, who blabbed his affairs to any chance companion, seemed to him something less than a "natural."

"But she's bound to like the pretty boy," he thought. "He's the kind that takes a woman. Somehow, the nicer a woman is the bigger fool she marries."

And he said to himself that he would make no effort to eat turkey at Yoe's. But it may have been that his horse was fond of turkey—no, that is wrong, for there were two relays between Bixby's and Yoe's. Indeed, upon reflection, it is absolutely impossible to tell just why it was that Bucking Titus drew rein at Yoe's ranch at high noon of Thursday and blew upon his horn like a warder of an ancient port.

Ten faces appeared at the front windows and the door. There were the three dogs, and the two Chinamen, and Danny Cummings from over the range, and Evans, the Methodist missionary, and Quivey, the engineer, and Yoe, blond and glowing as Olaf, and Claribel, with mountain berries in her yellow hair and a smile of welcome in her violet eyes. Bucking Titus turned a trifle giddy and reeled as he tried to walk to the door—but that, no doubt, was because of the cold. Yoe brought him a hot glass of goodly drink.

"You've hit it in the nick o' time," cried he. "The turkey is just coming out of the oven, and it's been sizzling mad these last two hours because you wasn't here to help eat it."

Savory scents and hot-oven sounds emanated propitiously from the kitchen. Bucking Titus tried to be gay, and made a good deal of noise as he got out of his bear coat and unbuttoned his leggins. But his heart was trembling like an aspen in a storm and he felt sick—like a man who hears the hammer that makes his gibbet. He delayed pusillanimously for about five minutes before he pulled out the letters. There were two for Yoe and the fatal one for Claribel.

He tried not to look at the girl while she read hers, but finally he had to steal an upward glance. Her face was flushed a little and she was smiling. An invisible hand of iron came from somewhere and gripped the mail carrier's throat. He leaned his head upon his hands.

After a minute the girl came over and sat near him, her letter in her hand.

"You seem really ill," she said, softly, looking at him with a glance of friendliness that almost broke his heart. "Was it so very cold?"

"Not so very cold. You'd better write the answer to that letter before I go so I can take it on with me. Or you can fix up a message and I'll wire if you like."

"You are uncommonly good, Mr. Titus, but there is no haste." The accent was dry.

"Eh?" gasped Titus, stupidly. The girl broke into a radiant smile.

"Are you so anxious to get rid of me?" she whispered.

"Good God, no! Are—are—you—"

"Am I going of my own free will? No; so there!"

The mail carrier leaned back in his chair with a sigh of indescribable relief. The Chinaman brought the turkey in. It was a lordly bird, and the hungry mountaineers arose at its entrance—one rises when a king enters!

"Anything else you want to know?" whispered the girl, archly. Her eyes were dancing, her lips parted, her cheeks crimson. She was tempting past resistance.

"You know there is something else I want to know," came back the whisper. He caught her hand with a cruel clasp. "Do—do you—Claribel, do you ever think of me?"

"Sometimes, Thursdays." (Thursday was mail day.)

He dropped her hand, and with a white face walked toward the table. She caught at his coat, unseen by the others. He stopped and faced her, his eyes piteous.

"I think of you some other days, too, Mr. Titus—most other days."

"Claribel!" There was a beseeching inquiry in the tone.

"All other days, Mr. Titus."

"Claribel!" This time it was joy that shook his voice.

"Come, come, come!" called Yoe to them above all the racket of laughter and talking and shuffling of feet. "The dogs are howling for their share, and parson has to say grace yet. Get to your places, you two back there!"

They went to their places, which happened to be side by side.—Chicago Tribune.

A UNIQUE PROCLAMATION.

Issued by Gov. Atkinson, of West Virginia, in 1899, for the observance of Thanksgiving Day.

One of the most unique Thanksgiving proclamations ever issued was sent out by Gov. George W. Atkinson, of West Virginia in November, 1899. It was printed and bound, containing the great seal of West Virginia. It set forth the reasons for giving thanks, followed by a number of scriptural quotations. The proclamation read as follows:

"In accordance with the time-honored custom, and one worthy to be continued in all civilized lands, I hereby set apart Thursday, November 30, 1899, as a day of Thanksgiving, praise and prayer to the Almighty God for His mercy and goodness to the people of our state and country; and I request that this day may be observed as such by a cessation from all business vocations and by public gatherings in consecrated places, in order that God may be glorified for the bountiful blessings He has bestowed upon all our people.

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto Thy name, the most high.—Psalms lxxxvii, 1.

Then they took away the stone . . . and Jesus lifted up His eyes and said: Father, I thank Thee that Thou hast heard me.—John xi, 41.

Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and might be unto our God forever and ever.—Rev. vii, 12.

Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most high.—Psalms l, 14.

First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world.—Romans, i, 8.

And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him.—Col. iii, 17.

By Him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips giving thanks to His name.—Hebrews, xiii, 15.

Give thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.—Eph. v, 20.

I will give thanks in the great congregation; I will praise Thee among much people.—Psalms xxxv, 13.

In everything give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.—I. Thess. v, 18.

So stood the two companies of them that gave thanks in the house of God, and I, and the half of the rulers with me.—Neh. vii, 40.

Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers.—Eph. i, 16.

Sing unto the Lord, O ye saints of His, and give thanks at the remembrance of His holiness.—Psalms xxx, 4.

Rejoice in the Lord ye righteous; and give thanks at the remembrance of His holiness.—Psalms, lxxxvii, 12.

Praise ye the Lord. O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good, for His mercy endureth forever.—Psalms, cvii, 1.

O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good; for His mercy endureth forever.—Psalms, cvii, 1.

We give thanks unto Thee, O Lord, God Almighty, which art, and wast, and are to come, because Thou hast taken to Thee Thy great power, and hast reigned.—Rev. xi, 17.

I thank Thee and praise Thee, O Thou God of my fathers, who hast given me wisdom and might, and hast made known unto me now what we desired of Thee.—Daniel, ii, 23.

He that regardeth the day regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day to the Lord, he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks.—Romans, xiv, 6.

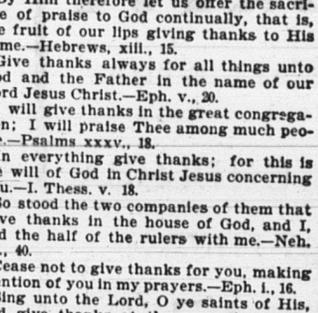

I exhort therefore, that first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men.—I. Tim., ii, 1.

I thank God, whom I serve from my forefathers with pure conscience, that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day.—II. Tim. i, 2.

I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify Him with thanksgiving.—Psalms lxxxix, 30.

And to stand every morning to thank and praise the Lord, and likewise at even.—I. Chron., xiii, 30.

A JUST CAUSE.

"For what are you thankful?" the father inquired.

Of his dutiful son, Master Freddie. The boy hesitated, and then gave a wink: "Oh, just because dinner is ready."

Needs Smoothing Out.

It looks, says the Chicago Record, as if southern China might also need a little laundry work done on it.

Siberia is no longer to be a penal colony. The imperial decree abolishing the former status is the result of the building of the Trans-Siberian railroad. No Doubt of It.—"So there was a real fashionable audience at the musicale?" "Oh, yes; they kept right on talking through all the music."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PAIN OPENED HER SKULL

Mrs. Lasher's Remarkable Story—Dr. Greene's Nervura Cured Her.

MRS. FRED. C. LASHER, JR.

The case of Mrs. Fred. C. Lasher, Jr., a well-known woman of Westport, N. Y., is one of the most interesting on record. It is an actual fact that headaches caused her head to split.

"For thirteen years," she says, "I suffered from terrible headaches night and day, until the bones of my skull opened so that the doctor could lay his hand right into the opening on to my brain. Two doctors attended me and I was under their care for nine months, but got no relief. Then I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and inside of a year the bones of my head had taken their natural shape again."

That Mrs. Lasher's statements are true is vouched for by reliable men of Westport, and by a Justice of the Peace there. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured Mrs. Lasher when all other remedies failed, and it cures thousands of suffering women every year. If your head aches, if you cannot sleep and are weak and nervous, remember that this great curative agent, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, will make you well and strong.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a physician's prescription, formulated from a discovery after years of investigation and experiment. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, is the discoverer. He can be consulted free personally or by letter.

WELCOMED TO PARIS.

Paul Kruger the Object of Many Attentions.

Great Demonstration on His Arrival in the French Capital—He Exchanges Calls with President Loubet.

Paris, Nov. 26.—Mr. Kruger arrived in Paris at 10:40 Saturday morning and was given a magnificent reception. The boulevards were crammed with vast crowds.

Mr. Kruger and party entered the train at Dijon at 6:50 a. m. His saloon cars were attached to the train de Luxe from the Riviera to Paris.

Cheered Along the Route.
In spite of the early hour a fair number of inhabitants assembled on the platform to cheer the departing statesman. Mr. Kruger uttered a few words of thanks to the city for its splendid welcome.

Elsewhere along the route there were the same scenes as Friday. People were waiting on the sides of the track and on bridges and other points of vantage. They waved their hats and cheered as the train rushed past at the highest speed.

Welcomed by the Mayor.

Mr. Kruger was to have passed through the station-hall, which had been specially arranged as a salon of honor, being profusely decorated with flowers, and where he was to be formally received by the mayor and municipal councillors, but, for some reason, the mayor welcomed him on the platform instead, and Mr. Kruger, to the great disappointment of those waiting in the salon of honor, passed out through another door to the front of the station, where a pair-horse landau was drawn up.

A large escort of mounted municipal guards rode around Mr. Kruger's carriage. Over the entire route from the station to the hotel enthusiastic cries greeted Mr. Kruger.

Flowers Thrown at Kruger.

Along the route flowers were thrown into Mr. Kruger's landau and women tossed their handkerchiefs in his direction. Mr. Kruger smiled and regarded with curiosity the balconies and roofs, which were alive with people.

On his arrival at the Hotel Scribe Mr. Kruger was greeted on the threshold with the Boer hymn, sung by the children of the Transvaal consul, to which Mr. Kruger listened with tears in his eyes.

Reception at the Elysee.

Just before four o'clock a gala landau from the Elysee palace was driven to the Hotel Scribe, and Mr. Kruger, his interpreter and M. Crozier proceeded to the Elysee, escorted by a strong detachment of cuirassiers. The scenes of enthusiasm of the morning were repeated. Mr. Kruger was received at the Elysee with semi-official ceremonies, such as were accorded to the sovereigns who visited the exposition. A detachment of infantry, with its standard and band, drawn up in the courtyard, rendered the honors. Both Mr. Kruger and President Loubet took a somewhat roundabout route from the hotel to the Elysee in order to avoid passing the British embassy, which is situated upon the direct road. Special precautions had been taken to protect the building, the gates of which were closed, and police and mounted guards formed a cordon extending some distance on either side of the embassy to provide against any hostile demonstration being made. President Loubet received Mr. Kruger in the hall of the ambassadors, where M. Delcasse, the minister of foreign affairs, was also awaiting him. The interview lasted five minutes, and had no political tinge. Mr. Kruger then returned to his hotel, with the same ceremonial.

Loubet at the Hotel.

M. Loubet returned Mr. Kruger's visit at 4:30 p. m. The French president was warmly acclaimed during his drive to the Hotel Scribe, and during his stay at the hotel the crowds raised alternate shouts of "Vive Kruger!" and "Vive Loubet!" After President Loubet's departure Mr. Kruger withdrew to his own room and declined to see further visitors, even the officials of the municipal council, who were desirous of ascertaining the day on which he would accept a reception at the Hotel de Ville. Mr. Kruger dined with the members of his family at 6:30. He was very much fatigued and retired early.

Spends a Quiet Sunday.

Paris, Nov. 26.—Mr. Kruger passed Sunday with his family at the Hotel Scribe, observing the Sabbath in accordance with the customs of his fatherland. His apartments were closed to visitors, and he remained with them, indulging in perfect rest. Although the boulevards were alive to a late hour Saturday night with merry-makers and singing songs, the Hotel Scribe was cordoned, and the revellers did not disturb his rest. The morning found him quite recovered from the fatigue. After an early breakfast he conferred with Dr. Leyds. There being no church of his own denomination in Paris, he held a private service in his apartments, surrounded by his entourage.

A NARROW ESCAPE. A GRATEFUL WOMAN.

MRS. F. J. LYNCH, GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

Mrs. F. J. Lynch, 324 South Division street, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen— "I earnestly recommend Peruna to any suffering woman as it cures quickly. I had a most persistent cough which nothing seemed to cure. Two bottles of Peruna did more for me than all the doctors seemed to do. In a couple of weeks I found myself in excellent health, and have been enjoying it ever since. Hence I look on Peruna as a true friend to women."

MRS. F. J. LYNCH.

Chronic Coughs and Colds Are Catarrhal Diseases.

Catarrh is the Continual Scourge of Christendom.

Catarrh hovers ominously over every city, and nestles treacherously in every hamlet. It flies with vampire wings from country to country, and casts a black shadow of despair over all lands. Its stealthy approach and its lingering stay makes it a dread to the physician and a pest to the patient. It changes the merry laugh of childhood to the wheezy breathing of croup, and the song of the blushing maiden to the hollow cough of consumption. In its withering grasp the rounded form of the fond wife and mother becomes gaunt and spectral, and the healthy flush of manhood turns to the sallow, haggard visage of the invalid. Cough takes the place of conversation, speech gives way to spitting, the repulsive odors of chronic catarrh poison the kiss of the fondest lovers, and thickened membranes bedim sight, impair hearing and destroy taste.

Like the plague-stricken Egyptians a cry of distress has gone out from every household, and the mildew of woe clings to every hearthstone.

Catarrh in some form, catarrh in some stage lurks as an enemy in the slightest cough or cold and finishes its fiendish work in heart disease and consumption.

No tissue, function, or organ of the body escapes its ravages; muscles wither, nerves shatter, and secretions dry up under its blighting presence. So stubborn and difficult is this disease that to invent a remedy to cure chronic catarrh has been the ambition of the greatest minds in all ages.

Is it therefore any wonder that the vast multitude of people who have been cured of chronic catarrh by Peruna are so lavish in their praise of this remedy? That the discovery of Peruna has made the cure of catarrh a practical certainty is not only the testimony of the people, but many medical men declare it to be true.

As a drug store in this age of the world is incomplete without Peruna, it can be obtained anywhere with directions for use. A complete guide for the prevention and cure of catarrh and all diseases of winter, sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

For ten years I tried scores of doctors, electric belts and patent medicines. Some helped me, none cured. I was giving up in despair, in fact, contemplating suicide when a friend advised me as a last resort to give the New Method Treatment of Dr. K. & K. a fair trial.
