Is the Route Proposed by the Latest Electric Railway Company.

THE LANSING & SOUTHEASTERN RY.

The officers of the company are well known business men of Chelsea and Stockbridge, who have made a success of their own private business, have plenty of good financial backing, and are possessed of the necessary energy and business ability to make the new line a sure go. They are as follows:

The work of construction will be commenced early in the spring and at least a portion of the line will be built and put in operation the coming season.

The company is now at work securing private rights of way wherever they can be had. Where such cannot be obtained and they are compelled to run along the highway they are securing abulting rights

PINGREE'S MESSAGE.

The Governor's Farewell to the Legislature.

Deals with Taxation Inequalities-Advocates Popular Election of U. S. Senators-The Military Scandal, and Other Matters.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 2.-The first topic touched upon by Gov. Pingree in the meslose of his official term is that of taxation. He says that prior to his election as gov-ernor in 1896 he was particularly impressed with the inequalities which existed in the assessment of property for purposes of taxtion. The unequal distribution of the burden of taxation, as between the large and small owners of property, was brought most forcibly to his attention. It became more and more apparent to him how skill-fully and stealthily the large property owners, especially incorporated companies, had manipulated the laws of the state, so as to shift this burden of taxation from themselves to the small property owners. He then adds: "Although long strides have been taken, and an immense amount of good accomplished, and while the problem is nearer solution than it has ever been, yet I cannot help but feel that if Col. John Atkinson, the head and brains of the contest for equal taxation, had remained alive, the principle for which the people have fought would to-day be firmly established in the law of the state." Summing up the arguments on the question, pro and con, the governor says: Volumes have been written in support of the principle that the property of railroad, telephone, telegraph and express companies should be taxed upon its assessment at actual cash value, by a state board of assessors, and at the average rate of all taxes in the state. Only one argument has been brought forward against this proposition. That argument is that the present plan of taxing railroads at a specific rate upon gross earnings is just and equitable, and that there is no reason why these companies should be taxed upon assessment at

as other companies and individuals. "I have always contended that, whether they are paying their share or not, the property of these companies should be taxed the same as other property is taxed; namely, upon assessment at its cash value, and that, until this was done, it would be impossible to accomplish equal taxation of all property in the state. "But subsequent developments have proved, beyond question, that the contention of the railroads is untrue. They are not paying their share of taxes under the present law providing for a specific tax on gross earnings. It has been shown in the past that, according to the sworn returns the railroads themselves, the cost of their property in the state amounted to a total of $300,000,000. Making a very liberal reduction from this sum, in order to arrive at the present value of the property, and applying the average rate of taxes in the state thereto, it was found that the railroads would not be unfairly treated if their taxes were more than doubled. Speaking of the work of the state tax commission, he submits a table showing an increase of the assessed valuation of the property of the state, as the result of only one year's work of the commission, of nearly $350,000,000. This sum the governor thinks rould be double at the end of another year if the commission is not hindered in its work. He then adds: "At the beginning of the work of the commission the tax dodging interests claimed that the law was going to result in the increase of taxes upon the property of farmers, workingmen and other small property owners. . . . How groundless these criticisms have been will be seen when it is known upon what property this increase in assessment has been made. The statistics of the commission upon this point are not complete as yet, but from what has been finished I am able to show you beyond contradiction that this increase has been made where it should have been made, namely, upon the property of those who have been escaping their share of taxes in the past, and not upon the property of farmers, clerks, workingmen and other small property owners. The increase of assessment in 78 cities of the state has been $133,160,000. The records of the commission show that this increase has not been made upon the smaller homes in the cities. The assessment of the property of the mines of the upper peninsula has been increased $80,000,000. The total of the increase, therefore, in the 78 cities and upon the mines, as above noted, has been $213,160,000 out of the $350,000,000. It must be remembered, however, that there are many corporations, situated in villages and smaller towns throughout the state, and that a large part of the wealth of the state is invested in timber lands, and upon all this property substantial increases have been made. In the case of 1,175 corporations in the state, the increase of the assessment of their real estate has been $73,312,580, and the assessment of their personal estate $31,-283,499, or a total upon these corporations of

In one of the concluding paragraphs of this part of the message Gov. Pingree says he wishes especially to call attention "to the fact that, as a result of the work of the commission, and the application of the tax commission law, the rate of taxation in the state has been reduced from $21.17 upon each $1,000 of assessed value in 1899 to $15.47 in 1900. This reduction of $5.70 taxes upon each $1,000 of property in the state, or of over 26 per cent. in the rate of taxation in the state, has been accomplished, not by raising the assessments of those who have borne the burden of taxation in the past, but by raising the assessments of those who have avoided their share of taxes in the past, and by the placing of property on the rolls which has heretofore escaped taxation

Primary Election Reform.

Primary election reform is the next subject dealt with. The delegate system is condemned, because "of the abuse to which it is and can be subjected is wrong. It should be done away with and, of course, this means that conventions should be abolished. In fact, this demand for the abolition of conventions, and the nomination of candidates by direct vote of the people, has become so general and emphatic that there is nothing for your body to do but to enact an effective law."

The "Colby bill" is objected to on the ground that it compels the voter to publicly announce his party, although it per-mits of secrecy as to the particular candidates for whose nomination he has voted. Gov. Pingree believes provisions should be included which shall in effect admit of the

to the legislatures of the states of a constitutional amendment providing for popu-lar election of United States senators. Article V. of the constitution of the United States makes it obligatory upon congress, upon the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states, to call a convention of the states. tion for proposing amendments to the con-stitution. "I did not learn," continues the governor, "until the early part of last month, that the legislature of Pennsylvania had adopted a resolution requesting congress to call a convention for the purpose f proposing an amendment to the constition of the United States providing for the election of United States senators by pop-ular vote." The Michigan legislature is urged "to second the efforts of Pennsylvania to bring about this much needed reform. It will never be accomplished in any other way.

Municipal Ownership. This reform is urged on grounds of financial, political and social advantage. Reference might be made, the governor says, to a large number of public electric lighting plants, or to the dozen existing publicly owned gas plants. The comprehensive report, just out, of the United States department of labor, conclusively shows that the average financial results for the taxpayer and consumer throughout the country in public management exceed those in private management in water, gas and electric light. The fact that public management of street railways over the Brooklyn bridge is frankly allowed by most investigators to have been better done under public operation for 12 years than during the past year under private control, is indicative of what might be expected also in street railways.

"All forms of either public or private ownership have their peculiar political and moral dangers, yet those resulting from desire of the wealthy owners to protect and add to their franchises under private ownership are greater than the dangers of the spoils system and political manipulation under public control.'

On social grounds the governor urges that "the tendency of public ownership is to improve the conditions of labor and reduce the charges to the user, instead of making the highest possible profits. The advantages of the former policy are obvious." Finances of the State.

"Sensational and hostile newspapers and partisan individuals have declaimed loudly, and uttered a great deal of nonsense concerning the management of the finances of the state during the past four years.

'Comparisons have been made between the expenditures of the state government of 30 years ago with those of the past few years. No account whatever is taken of the increase in population of the state, of the growth in its wealth, of the marvelous development of its resources, of the diversification of its industries.

The following is a table showing the receipts and disbursements of the state during the four fiscal years ended June 30, 1900, classified according to the principal sources of income and expense:

Total disbursements ......$24,937,125 07 "A study and an analysis of the disbursements given in the above table will prove instructive. It will be seen that the expense of maintaining the state institutions for the four years amounted to nearly $15,-000,000, more than one-half of the total expenses of the state. It is apparent, there fore, that there can be no substantial reduction in the expenditures, and therefore in the state taxes, without seriously crippling the state institutions. If a spirit f economy is to prevail, let it be wisely directed. Our state institutions ought not to be made to suffer.

'I believe that more than $1,000,000 would have to be expended in putting the buildings of our state institutions in proper condition and in erecting new buildings, and I desire to go on record as favoring such expenditure as may be necessary to do this." The Legislature.

The governor recommends abolishing the ime limit for the introduction of bills. He also recommends that members be paid a fixed salary, not less than $1,500, and that the constitution be amended accordingly. Fixed salaries prevail in a number of states, and I am assured that the effect has been to shorten sessions. It has proved to be economy in the long run.'

The efficacy of special sessions, says the governor, has been abundantly proved by experience during the past four years. At regular sessions it is comparatively easy for powerful interests to protect themselves by preventing the enactment of just laws affecting them, and, in the hurry and confusion, to secure laws granting them special privileges. Special sessions, on the other hand, each called to consider only one subject, especially if they are called within a short time before general elections, bring the members face to face with the propositions submitted for legislation and compel them to take action upon them, with the eyes of the entire people of the state fixed upon them.

In order to make these sessions less expensive, it is recommended that not only salaries of legislators should be fixed at a gross sum for their term of office, but also that section 35 of article 4 of the constitution of the state be repealed. This section reads as follows: "Every newspaper in the reads as follows: "Every newspaper in the state, which shall publish all the general laws of any session within 40 days of their passage, shall be entitled to receive a sum not exceeding $15 therefor." There are more than 800 newspapers in the state, and if they all availed themselves of this constitutional provision the cost to the state would be over $12,000 for each special session. The governor further recommends a sion. The governor further recommends a reduction of the mileage expenses of mem-

Pardons and Paroles.

Concerning the matter of pardons and paroles, Gov. Pingree says: "It is interesting, In this connection attention is called to Minnesota's prinary election law, especially to those provisions of it which make it impossible for anyone to know for the candidates of what party the voter expresses his preference.

Popular Election of U. S. Senators.

The governor says he has become convinced that it is useless to look to the or purposes of comparison, to know what

United States senate for favorable action favorably upon 63 per cent. of the application a joint resolution for the submission tions considered by him. It will be noticed from the above table that, during the year just ended, 26 per cent. of the applications were granted by me. I do not mean to say, however, that President McKinley abused the power granted him by the United States constitution to extend executive clemency. These comparisons are made merely to show how senseless and groundless has been the criticism and vitupera-tion and abuse which has found ready publication in the sensational press relating to the record of this administration in the matter of granting pardons."

War Claims, "By the provisions of act No. 1, public acts of 1898, extra session of the legislature, the sum of $500,000 was borrowed by the state, secured by state bonds known as 'Michigan war loan bonds of 1898.' This money was raised for the purpose of organizing and equipping volunteer troops for the war with Spain. It was disbursed by the quartermaster general of the state. You will recollect that a committee was appointed by the legislature of 1899 to investigate the disbursements from this fund. The committee submitted two reports, the minority report attacking and condemning the manner in which the fund was expended. The history of the collection of this claim, and the events which have transpired since the filing of this minority report, have made it clear to the unprejudiced that the criticisms of the manner in which the fund was disbursed, as well as the investigation by the last legislature, were conceived in prejudice, partisanship, and, more than all, in a desire to attack and discredit the present administration, whether the facts warranted it or not."

Cheboygan Indians.

"Several months ago the Cheboygan band of Indians, through regular legal proceedings, were ousted from the lands owned by The proceedings of ouster were based upon a title acquired upon sale of the lands for nonpayment of taxes. These Indians are destitute and there is imperative need for immediate action upon the part of the state government. I, therefore, strongly urge and recommend that you pass such a law as will provide for their relief. The present owner of the lands, who acquired his title at the delinquent tax sales. is willing to reconvey them to the Indians upon payment to him of the amount of the taxes which he paid, with legal interest thereon, the expense he has been put to in connection therewith, and the cost of the improvements which he has made. All of these expenses amount to the sum of $6,700." The governor declares that "one of the most useless, profitless and extravagant expenditures of the state's money is that for advertising real estate to be sold for nonpayment of taxes." The repeal of the law providing for the inspection of salt is recommended.

Removal of State Capital. "I have long been of the opinion that the capital of the state should be removed either to the city of Detroit or the city of Grand Rapids. I have no doubt but that the people of either one of these cities would be willing to contribute all of the necessary money to erect a new capitol building so ocated, and which would cost not less than 5,000,000, and donate it to the state, and ould well afford to do so. If this were done, bler men could be induced to accept elecion to the legislature, and, as a result, betwould be more accessible than Lansing, and the living accommodations infinitely better. If the removal of the capital is impossible of accomplishment, a new modern, fire-proof building should be erected." Forest Preservations.

"There is nothing of more importance to he people of Michigan than the preservaion of the forests of the state. The legisature of 1899, upon my recommendation, assed a law creating a forestry commission of three members. (Act No. 227 of the public acts of 1899.) As the president of the commission said, in his letter, transmiting the report of the commission to me, 'is purely a business proposition, for the state to take care of its own property and make it profitable.

Within a lifetime, under wise supervision, at very slight cost, the vast barren racts of the north could again be made to reproduce the great forests which have been cut off. New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota are all grappling with this problem, and Michigan has more at stake than any state in the union.'

County Agents.

"The work which county agents do is exceedingly important, and it should be done by thoroughly competent men. The law should be amended and so framed that it would be impossible to appoint to these positions, as has been too often the custom, retired ministers who are so advanced in years as to be unable to render proper or competent services. There should be an age limit fixed, and it should be made impossible to appoint men to these positions who are above 50 years of age.'

The Military Frauds.

"I cannot, if I would, omit reference to the disgrace which came upon the state, and indirectly upon me, through the conspiracy of certain men of supposed high repute and social standing with some of the officers of the state to defraud it. I refer to the so-called military board steal. When the fraud was discovered, at my request the attorney general at once took steps to compel restitution. His action was so prompt and vigorous that the entire amount of which the state was defrauded has been recovered. It is to be regretted that the criminal prosecutions were not equally vigorous and faithful. The fact appears to be, however, that the real criminals in the transaction—the ones who planned and suggested the commission of the crime-possess a charm that has thus far proved a complete protection not only against punishment, but even the inconrenience of an indictment.

"When one, who had fled on account of the publication of the supposed secrets of the grand jury room, voluntarily returned, he was asked by the prosecuting attorney, and by the judge of the court, not to confess the truth, but to give testimony implicating one who had already been declared innocent by a jury. He was willing to tell the truth, but he was not willing to do what was asked, informing them it would not be the truth. Refusing the requests, he was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment by the same judge who had heard the principal conspirators confess their crime before him, and yet failed to exercise his prerogative and power to bring them to justice. "I did not, and do not now, believe that justice was served by such proceedings, and I promptly issued a pardon in this case. No good reason can ever be given why immunity should be given to the rich and powerful while punishing the lesser crim-

The final recommendation of the message is in regard to extending the hours for voting, especially in the city of Detroit. In conclusion, Gov. Pingree says:

have no apologies to make for my course. I have done what I took the oath of office to perform. I have attempted to secure legis-lation which the people have demanded, and am willing that whatever of failure there may be in the future should rest where it belongs."

Professors in University of Michigan Are Preparing an Interesting Catalogue.

WILL CONTAIN NEARLY 30,000 NAMES

Will Also Give a Brief History of the Students' Career Since Leaving Ann Arbor-The Work Under Way Will Require a Vast Amount of

[Special Correspondence.]

University of Michigan, Jan. 7 .-Under the direction of Profs. Demmon and Pettee a general catalogue or directory of all the graduates of the university and students entering previous to the fall of 1897 is being prepared. When printed it will be a volume of several hundred pages and will contain close to 30,000 names. Since the first commencement day, in 1845, about 18,000 men and women have been graduated and over 10,000 have been students in the institution without taking degrees.

The catalogue aims, besides giving the collegiate history, so far as degrees, years of residence, etc., of each graduate and former student, of death and place of burial and age to give his occupation, post office ad- take the place of the facts regarding dress and the more important positions which he has held since leaving the university. The editors and their assistants have been working for over two years in gathering together the desired information and, as yet, are far from having their task completed.

First Step Taken. In going to work upon this alumni directory the first step was with the college records. Much of the information which was desired was already in the possession of the university in alogues, the lists of graduates, etc. These facts, however, had to be got out of the registers, catalogues and lists of graduates, arranged in a form that would make them of service in compiling the directory, and everything had to be verified. In order to degrees were corrected and hundreds got into the printed volume were eliminated. Persons who attended the university at different times under slightly differently spelled names were identified and the facts of their college life brought together in one record. The work of making sure that two names did not stand for one individual was only equaled by the labor of deciding which one of the several different forms of spelling the name was correct. It was not always as easy as "falling off a log" to know that Dick M. Brown stood for the same person as Richard Matthew Brown or that John Smith and Jona than Smith had to do with one person and not two. Securing Facts.

The university records furnished the names, the departments in which the different persons pursued studies and the degrees taken by those who graduated. In addition to these, according to the plans for the general catalogue, the occupations, the addresses and more important positions held since leaving the university were also desired. The latter group of facts had to be secured in a far different way than the former group. In most cases only the individuals themselves could furnish the facts, and in order to get the addresses, etc., of the former students from the students themselves it was almost necessary to have the address to begin with.

It is the problem of getting into communication with the alumni that is now chiefly occupying the attention of the catalogue force. Four forms of inquiries have been drawn and printed on reply postal cards and are used daily. The cards filled out with the first form are called "postmaster cards," with the second: sity, which was left vacant by the "Are you?" With the third "middle death of Prof. B. A. Hinsdale. Dr. name" and with the fourth "registration." The "postmaster cards" are from 1879 to 1888, when he resigned to sent to some lawyer or doctor in the city or town from which the student came when entering the university, and it asks for the address of the former student or of some relative or friend who would be likely to know his address. In this way a clew is often obtained which when followed gives the information sought.

Sometimes, however, three, four and five cards are sent before the right information is secured. The "are you?" cards go to persons whose names are secured from directories, etc. The question is, if the person addressed is the one who is being sought for. The "middle name" cards are for the lar, is an undertaking of magnitude.
When an alumnus has been "spotted," cither by a "postmaster" or "are failed so she does not recall much of you?" card, he is sent a "registration" the past.

card. On this is a blank asking for his name in full, permanent address, oc-cupation, degrees from other institutions and positions held. These cards will furnish more than a third of the information that will go into the cata-

Some Shortages.

Theoretically, there should be a card for every man and woman ever entering the university and not yet dead. Practically, there will be some shortages, as it is not possible to get into communication with every former student, try as hard as the catalogue force may. It is this effort to find alumni which draws out to the utmost the resourcefulness of the editors and assistants. Clews, the discovery of which would do credit to a Pinkerton, are not only brought to light, but are followed by means of the postal cards and letters to all parts of the world. In consequence of these tracers men whom their classmates supposed dead and buried have been located in some far-away part of the country; in a prison, an insane asylum, a hospital or some charitable institution. On the other hand the cards not infrequently bring the particulars of the death of the alumnus. It may tell how he died on the field of battle, was drowned in some distant lake or river, fell a victim to the assassin's knife, perished in the cold north searching for gold, or found the burden of life too great to bear and departed of his own accord. In the case of the deceased the date and place occupation and address.

"Search for Clews.

Each day's mail brings to the office of the general catalogue postal cards marked "unclaimed" and "not known at this office," and others on which is written "never heard of the party," "left for parts unknown many years ago," "can't tell you anything about the person. Nobody in this village remembers such a man," "moved to Chicago ten years ago. Do not know his street number," and many other bits the registration books, the annual cat- of information equally encouraging. In these cases the only thing to do is to search for some other clew and try it.

Women Hard to Locate.

The women alumni as a rule are hard to locate. In most cases they have changed their names since commencement day and the clerks at work on the avoid errors every list was checked catalogue are not always certain by one or more other lists. In this | whether the alumnus in question at a way variations in spelling were dis- particular moment has changed her covered, descrepancies as to dates and name to Brown or Smith or Jones; and if, for argument, it be Brown whether of errors which otherwise might have it be John Brown or George Washington Brown or Benjamin Franklin Brown or some other Brown.

Stupendous Task.

In a village of a few hundred it is not impossible to identify and locate a person, but in a city of 100,000 it is a more serious matter, and there is a chance of not being successful; but when the limits of possible location become the world, with its 3,000,000 John Smiths and hundreds of thousands of Joneses, the task of identification and securing the address sometimes becomes one which gives room for a limitless amount of resourceful-Hope for Correctness.

It is the hope of the editors of the catalogue that the 30,000 names will all be correct; that the degrees and dates will be accurate, and that in the vast majority of cases correct addresses will be given; more than this cannot be hoped for-at least not so long as the alumni are free agents at liberty to move and to change their names.

Death of Joseph Vance.

Joseph H. Vance, assistant librarian of the law department of the university, died at his home in Ann Arbor of typhoid pneumonia. He had been a familiar figure to several generations of law students, having served the university for nearly 40 years. He was general librarian from 1854 to 1856. He was graduated from the law department in 1861. He was never married. His age was about 73 years.

A PLEASANT OCCASION.

Fittingly Described by One Who Was There and Was Glad to Be There.

Last Thursday evening the installation of officers of the local branches of the L C. B. A. and C. M. B. A. took place at their respective halls, Mrs. John Clark president of the L. C. B. A. acting as installing officer for that society, and Jacob Hummel, president of the C. M. B A, as installing officer for that society,

Before the opening of the ceremonies President Mrs. J. Clark and Presidentelect Mrs. J. J. Raftrey, of the L. C. B. A. presented themselves at the C. M. B. A. hall and in behalf of their society extended a cordial invitation to the officers and members of the C. M. B. A. to attend a little luncheon at the L. C. B. A. hall, given by the ladies of that society in honor of the retiring officers.

At the close of the ceremony of installation and the business work of the C. M B. A. President Jas. S. Gorman called the members attention to the invitation which | hospital." had been so cordially extended to them by the ladies of the L. C. B. A, and hoped that every member present would accept the invitation, an admonition which needed no urging, as every member signified his willingness to accept by immediately going to the L. C. B. A. hall, where a luncheon of fruit, ice cream, cake and coffee was served by the ladies.

A pleasant evening, long to be remem bered, was spent by the united branches. Mr. Burg favored the company with some of his inimitable songs. Mr J. 8 Gorman being called on, gave a brief informal talk which was by turns serious and amusing.

We have heard of it being asserted by some weak kneed members of the C.M.B.A. that that society would not long survive in Chelsea. We want to say to all such that the C. M. B. A is here to stay and now has a membership that are determined to stay by it, and they make no mistake in so doing, for it is a society to which any Catholic may feel proud to belong.

We would like to say something in praise of the L. C. B, A., but will refrain from so doing farther than to compliment the ladies on their ability to entertain, for in a business way they have demonstrated that the L. C. B. Inaugural Address of Michigan's Incoming Executive.

Makes Many Recommendations Says Reforms in Tax Laws Are Recessary-Xeed of Economy in Conducting Public Affairs.

The following is in part the message of Gov. Bliss, Michigan's incoming executive, to the legislature:

The problems of state management presenting themselves to the Fortyfirst legislature being chiefly non-political, require in their solution the same kind of common sense used in the ordinary dispatch of business. Michigan is prosperous, its people well-employed, and the great strides taken in development point to a future of diversified industries. In the way of legislation nothing should be done tending in the least to impede the progress or to hinder the welfare of the state. Reason and not prejudice should be

I ask the legislature to give its careful attention to the tax laws, so that every dollar's worth of property shall bear its fair and equal proportion of the public burdens. If there are wrongs in taxation, they should be corrected. As a Republican governor, I out, to the end that all property may be taxed equally, believing that under perfected state supervision of taxation there will come an end to the inequalities that have prevailed. There is no better way to secure the interests of the people than by legislation which does equal and exact justice to

At the hands of the Fortieth legislature certain railroad charters were repealed, and I recommend that this legislature satisfy itself before adjournment that no further legislation is needed to make absolutely sure that these special charters have disappeared from Michigan.

One of the most important problems in the admistration of the state government is the increasing cost of the state institutions and the growing demand for the multiplying of these great public works. There are two philanthropic work of the state must come to a partial halt.

In calling your attention to economy in the conduct of public affairs, I advise the practice of an economy of the kind which appeals to every business over the steam roads. man, farmer and householder. It is of no value to secure fair and equal that appropriations regulate the tax

A Michigan Lady's Battle with Disease and How It Was Won.

Flushing, Mich., Jan. 7, 1901 (Special).-One of the most active workers in the cause of Temperance and Social Reform in Michigan is Mrs. P. A. Passmore of this place. She is a prominent and very enthusiastic W. C. T. U. woman, and one who never loses an opportunity to strike a blow against the demon of Intemperance. Mrs. Passmore has suffered much bodily pain during the last three years through Kidney and Bladder Trouble. At times the pain was almost unbearable, and the good lady was very much distressed. She tried physician after physician, and each in turn failed to relieve her, let alone effect a cure. Home remedies suggested by anxious friends were applied, but all to no purpose. At last some one spoke of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a great Remedy for all Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and Mrs. Passmore decided to try them. She did, and is now a well woman. She has given the following statement for publication: At different times in the past three years, I have suffered severely with Kidney and Bladder Trouble, and after trying four of the best physicians I could hear of, two of them living in the State of New York, I found myself no better. I took any amount of home remedies suggested by kind friends, with little or no relief from anything. I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Less than one box has done me more good than all the other treatments combined. I am still using them, and can say from experience that they are an excellent Remedy for Kidney and Bladder Trouble. I would heartily recommend them to all those suffering from these ills in like manner.

MRS. P. A. PASSMORE, Flushing, Mich. When physicians and all other methods of treatment have failed, try Dodd's Kidney Pills. What they did for Mrs. Passmore, they will do for any one similarly afflicted.

Children Cremated in an Asylum Fire in Rochester, N. Y.

Many Others Forced to Jump from Windows and Are Seriously Injured-A Terrific Explosion Adds to the Horror,

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 8, 3 a. m .-Twenty-seven children are dead and 25 injured, many so badly they cannot recover, as a result of a fire which wrecked the Hubbell orphan asylum in this city since midnight.

The debris of the building still is burning flercely, so it is impossible to learn the real number of victims. There were 180 inmates, and nearly all had to leap from the windows. Many were taken to near-by houses, and as the names of these have not all been reported it is impossible to learn the identity of those who perished.

"For four years I was troubled rith nervous debility and hysteria in a most aggravated form. It caused sleeplessness and mental depression, and for months I was confined to my bed. My constitution wasted and I totally lost my appetite. I had many doctors, but they failed to give me any relief. I was advised to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I was in a terrible condition when I began its use, and almost immediately there was a wonderful change came over me. I regained my appetite, the disziness in my head departed; it renewed my interest in life and made me feel, in fact, like another person. After taking six bottles I thankfully proclaimed myself strong and well. Those six self strong and well. Those six bottles did for me what hundreds of dollars and numerous physicians failed to do."
