MEMORIAL DAY APPROACHING

And the Commander Takes This Method of Appealing to His Comrades-He Asks That All Patriotic Persons Join in Paying Tribute to the Departed Heroes

Memorial Day Order. Department Commander Allen of the G. A. R. has issued general order No. 7 in which he calls attention to the fact that "Memorial day, sacred to the Grand Army of the Republic, and fragrant with tender memories of unforgotten valor, is approaching. Let the woman's relief corps and all patriotic women, the sons and daughters of veterans, all veterans of the civil war and of the more recent conflicts, together with the school children and all civic organiza. tions be invited to participate with you in the duties of Memorial day.

"Post commanders and all officers of the posts are requested to use their best efforts in directing the minds of their fellow citizens to a proper observance of the 30th of May as a day sacred to the memory of men who were instrumental in enabling the business man of today to enjoy the benefits that he calls his privileges. Let there be a proper effort made to dispense with any attempt to make the day one for sport and amusement only.

"Post commanders are requested to arrange, as far as practicable, for an observance by all churches on Sunday, May 26, of an appropriate service commemorating the soldier and sailor dead of our country, and it is earnestly desired that with their colors at the front every Grand Army post in this department will attend some such memorial service in a body on the Sabbath next preceding Memorial day.

"In occordance with the action of the thirtieth national encampment, it is ordered by the department commander that Lincoln's Gettysburg address be read in connection with memorial services.

Canvassers Completed Their Work. The state board of canvassers completed the work of canvassing the vote cast at last month's election on the 1st. The result shows that the Republican candidates had a very easy thing of it. For justice of the supreme court, Robert H. Montgomery, Republican, received 219,097 votes; Allen C. Adzit, Democrat, 124,485. For regent of the university, Frank W. Fletcher, Republican, received 215,365 votes; Henry W. ey, Democrat, 215,011; constitutional amendment relative to the circuit court of Bay county-Yes, 110,885; no, 130,108; majority against, 19,228. Constitutional amendment relative to salaries of members of the legislature -Yes, 112,833; no, 187,615; majority that it is worthless. against, 74,732.

Ice Blockade in St. Clair River. Instead of improving, the conditions at St. Clair, Marine City and Algonac, where the j m is the thickest are continually getting worse, and on the 2d much damage was done. Only for a short time did the immense field of ice move, but in that time its power was supreme and no human effort could save the valuable shipping property from damage. Vesslemen state that it now looks as though it will be May 15 before navigation will be open and when finally the ice does begin to move they anticipate that much more serious results will fellow. The greatest damage thus far was done to the docks of the Marine City Stave Co. and the boats that were tied up there.

Manistee May Get M. N. G. Encampment. Unless the members of the state military board change their minds while on their northern trip the next state military encampment will be held at Manistee, but in all probability this site will not be permanent. The adwantage of the Manistee site lies principally in the fact that the grounds are well covered with sed, while the grounds at Newayge and Cadillae are more or less sandy in character. It is possible, however, that the Cadillac site will be approved as the permanent camping ground of the troops.

$20,000 Fire at Charlotte.

Fire was discovered in Brown Bros.' clothing store at Charlotte on the afternoon of the 5th and an hour later the entire stock was sufficiently damaged by fire, smoke and water to make it a total loss. The origin of the blaze is a mystery. The damage to the block is not large. The front end of the building was torn out by the department in order to get the fire apparatus working on the flames. C. S. Brown estimates the loss at $20,000; insured for $12,600.

200,000,000 Pickerel Eggs.

Representatives of the state fish commission have been at West Bay City for some days past securing pickerel eggs for the state hatcheries, and later the young fry will be placed in waters in various parts of the state. The spawning season for pickerel is nearly over now and the men will leave in a few days. So far they have secured about 200,000,000 pickerel eggs, and they say the season has been one of the most successful for their work that they have experienced.

Hanking Business on the Incres The annual report of State Banking

Commissioner Maltz, issued on the 6th, says that at the date of the report Jan. 1, there were 199 state banks and three trust companies under the supervision of the department. During the year six state banks, located at Benton Harbor, Blissfield, Mt. Clemens, Flushing, Rochester and Saranac, were organized, increasing the capital stock of the state banks $195,000. During the year there was not a single failure of a state bank. Two national banks, at Durand and St. Joseph, were converted into state banks during the year. Only one bank, the Oceana County Savings Bank at Hart, has reduced its capital stock, while the Wayne County Savings Bank, the Detroit Savings Bank, the Blissfield State Bank, the Dexter State Bank, the First State and Savings Bank, of Evart, the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank, of Benton Harbor, and the Commercial State Bank, of St. Joseph, have increased their capital stock. The total amount of increase in the capital stock of the state banks is $54,000. To this the commissioner adds the increase by organization of new banks, making a total increased capitalization of $735, 000. Deducting the total decrease of capital stock from this sum and the net increase, $635,000, is shown. All but $11,576.15 of this amount has been paid in.

For the steenth time the people of Oceana county will, on June 7, vote on a proposition to bond the county for $10,000 for a new county jail. Hart, the county seat, will give $3,000 toward the new building in case it is decided to have one.

Benton Harbor and St. Joseph are both hustling to secure new industries but there are hardly enough houses in the cities to accommodate the present population, to say nothing of the additional families which would come in with the new factories.

Although he lived within 50 miles of Detroit for 65 years, Alfred B. Hustead, a prominent farmer of Groveland township, Oakland county, who recently died, had never visited the metropolis but once. That was in 1836, when he walked into the city to file a deed to the farm he had purchased from the government.

So many companies composed mainly of wind have applied to the common council of St. Joseph for franchises for electric railroad lines into the city that the souncil has finally adopted a resolution that hereafter no proposed franchise will be considered unless it is accompanied by a check for $1,000 as a guarantee of good faith, the money to Florida Town Gutted by Fire. The most disastrous fire in the history of Jacksonville, Fla., started there shortly after noon on the 3d, in a small factory from a defective wire, according to the best belief, and burned nearly 10 hours. In that time a property damage, estimated from $10,000,-000 to $15,000,000, was caused. According to the city map, 130 blocks were burned, many of them in the heart of the business and residence section. The estimate of houses to the block, is 10; hence 1,300 of them went up in snicke. Many of the finest public and private buildings were destroyed, including hotels, theaters, churches and residences. The casualties cannot be accurately estimated. That there were several seems to be well authenticated. Among them was that of the fire chief, who sustained a bad fall. The mayor ordered all of the saloons closed and has impressed help to clear the wreckage. The mayor, at a late hour, stated that he estimated the loss at $15,000,000, and that 10,000 to 15,000 people were homeless.

Caring for the Homeless.

The hunger of 10,000 homeless people was satisfied at Jacksonville, Fla., on the 5th upon the arrival of relief trains and boats bringing provisions from neighboring towns. In the early morning a commissary was established in the center of the city and thousands were fed during the day. The distress is growing hourly and every mail brings offers of assistance. An order has been promulgated under martial law requiring all merchants, whose stores were spared by the conflagration, to open their doors and sell to all who asked. It is estimated that 3,000 persons have left the city and every outgoing train is crowded with refugees. Five carloads of tents, the property of the state, which are to be used by the homeless temporarily, has been received. It is now estimated that the total property losses will reach $11,-000,000.

CUBA AND PHILIPPINE NEWS.

After a careful consideration of After a careful consideration of the situation in the Philippines as it now exists, the administration has decided to reduce the army in the Islands to 40,000 men. The opinion prevails that this number will be ample for the present needs in the islands, and if conditions continue to improve in the satisfactory manner that has been shown in the past few months the force may be reduced still further.

According to a report received from Gen. MacArthur on the 1st there are 2,586 sick in hospital in the Philippines, and 613 sick in quarters. This is 5.86 per cent, a less percentage of sick than has been shown at any time since the U. S. troops were sent to the archipel-

Gen. Tinio surrendered with his command at Sinalt on the 30th. He will deliver all men and guns in his command as soon as they can be gathered together. This completely pacifies the first department, northern Luzon, for many months the worst in that section.

The report that Gen. Alejandrino has surrendered is confirmed. He was looked upon as the possible successor of Aguinaldo. Padre Aglipay, the excommunicated Filipino priest, who preached the doctrine of a holy war against the U. S., has also surrendered.

Quentin Sales surrendered at Iloilo, April 21, and all opposition in that island is now ended,

TRANSVAAL WAR ITEMS.

A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, May 1, says that Grenfell attacked the Boers at Bergplantz, near Halverstsberg, where the last long-tom opened fire at 10,000 yards. Kitchener's scouts advanced to within 3,000 yards, when the gun was blown up and the Boers fled. Ten of them were made prisoners. Other columns reported 10 Boers killed, six wounded six made prisoners and 60 surrendered, and 30,000 rounds of ammunition captured. The British had four killed and seven wounded.

The report that a force of Boers is concentrating under Delarcy at Hartebeestefontein is regarded with a feeling of satisfaction. The British force should far outnumber the Boers, and as the latter must by this time have lost practically all their guns, Delarey cannot have any artillery with him. This fact alone should place him at a great disadvantage. 13

Gen. Delarey, the Boer commander, has now 4,000 or 5,000 men in the hills around Hartbeestefontein. Gen. Babington is without a sufficient force to attack, but Methuen and Rawlinson are converging hither. A battle appears imminent.

Mr. Ray

The calm stars looking on men see all Aspire to power or wealth or fame; And each one comes at the Spirit's call, Through paths of peace or by roads of flame.

The great town's treadmill servants dream-So dear God lightens their want and gloom-Of joys that beckon by sunlit stream, In whispering fields and orchard bloom.

The young man hears, in forest or farm, The Spirit's challenge and hotly frowns; Then wood and meadow have lost their charm-He pits his powers against the town's.

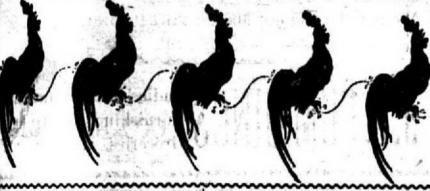

To men grown weary of age-old wrongs, In king-ridden lands past far-down seas, The Spirit speaks in fiery songs That smite and shatter unjust decrees.

West, west and always westward pour The lean horses sired in allen hives-An endless surge through Freedom's door: They sow the desert, and lo, it thrives!

A strong race heaping their riches high, Lords of a continent, land and tide. Leap into regiments, hearing the cry Of Progress fighting on earth's far side.

So hatreds perish; so peoples merge; So Truth has ever a newer birth: While strong men moved by the Spirit's urge

The Eternal Master.

Worldly philosophy said: "Matter is eternal. The world always was, God did not make it." Christian philosophy plunges its crowbar into rocks and finds that the world was gradually made, and if gradually made there must have been some point at which the process started. Then who started it? And so that objection was overcome, and in the first three words of the Bible we find that Moses stated a magnificent truth when he said, "In the beginning."

Worldy philosophy said: "Your Bible is a most inaccurate book. All that story in the Old Testament, again and again told, about the army of the locusts-it is preposterous. There is nothing in the coming of the locusts like an army. An army walks; locusts fly. An army goes in order and procession; locusts without order." "Wait," said Christian philosophy, and in 1868 in the southwestern part of this country Christian men went out to examine the march of the locusts. There are men right before me who must have noticed in that very part of the country the coming up of the locusts like an army, and it was found that all the newspaper unwittingly spoke of them as an army. Why? They seem to have a commander. They march like a host. They halt like a host. No arrow ever wert in straighter flight than the locusts come, not even turning aside for the wind. If the wind rises, the locusts drop, and then rise again after it has gone down, taking the same line of march, not coming like an army; worldly philos-

Temptations of the Traveler. Again, I remark that the traveling disposition of the world, which was is very honest at home who when he is In the olden times God forbade the traveling of men for the purposes of trade because of the corrupting influences attending it. A good many men now cannot stand the transition from one place to another. Some men who seem to be very consistent here in the way of keeping the Sabbath when they get into Spain on the Lord's day always go out to see the bull fights. Plato said that no city ought to be built nearer to the sea than ten miles lest it be tempted to commerce. But this traveling disposition of the world which was adverse to that which is good is to be brought on our side. These mail trains, why, they take our bibles; these steamships, they transport our missionaries; these sailors, rushing from city to city all around the world are to be converted into Christian heralds and go out and preach Christ among the heathen nations. The gospels are infinitely multiplied in beauty and power since Robinson and Thompson and Burckhardt have come back and talked to us about Siloam and Capernaum and Jerusalem, pointing out to us the lilles about which Jesus preached, the beach upon which Paul was shipwrecked, the fords at which Jordan was passed, the Red Sea bank on which were tossed the carcasses of the drowned Egyptians. A man said: "I went to the Holy Land an infidel. I help it."

Universality of Religion. So it has also been with the learning and eloquence of the world. People say, "Religion is very good for aged women, it is very good for children, but not for men." But we have in the roll of Christ's host Mozart and Handel in music, Canova and Angelo in sculpture, Raphael and Reynolds in painting, Harvey and Boerhaave in medicine, Cowper and Scott in netry, Grotius and Burke in statesman ship, Boyle and Leibnitz in philosophy, Thomas Chaimers and John Mason in theology. The most brilliant writings of a worldly nature are all aglow with Scriptural allusions.

Samuel L. Southard was mighty in the court room and in the senate chamber, but he reserved his strongest eloquence for that day when he stood before the literary societies at Princeton commencement and pleaded for the grandeur of our Bible. The antiquarian goes and looks at pictured ruins or examines the chiseled pillars of Thebes and Nineveh and Pompell and then comes back to tell us of the beastliness of ancient art, and it is a fact now that many of the finest specimens-merely artistically considered-of sculpture will read if it is translated right, and painting that are to be found amid those ruins are not fit to be looked Wasnington, May 5. The art of the world on the side of obscenity and crime and death.

> Much of the art of the world has been in the possession of the vicious. What to unclean Henry VIII. was a beautiful picture of the Madonna? What to Lord Jeffreys, the unjust judge, the picture of the "Last Judgment?" What to Nero, the unwashed, a picture of the baptism in the Jordan? The art of the world on the wrong side. But that is being changed now. The Christian artist goes over to Rome, looks at the pictures and brings back to his American studio much of the power of these old masters. The Christian minister goes over to Venice, looks at the "Crucifixion of Christ" and comes back to the American pulpit to talk as never before of the sufferings of the Savior. The private tourist goes to Rome and looks at Raphael's picture of the "Last Judgment." The tears start, and he goes back to his room in the hotel and prays God for preparation for that day

Christ's Social Position.

So I remark it is with business acumen and tact. When Christ was upon earth, the people that followed him for the most part had no social position. There was but one man naturally brilliant in all the apostleship. Joseph of Arimathea, the rich man, risked nothing when he offered a hole in the rock for the dead Christ. How many of the merchants in Asia Minor befriended Jesus? I think of only one-Lydia. How many of the castles on the beach at Galilee entertained Christ? Not one. When Peter came to Joppa, he stopped with one Simon, a tanner. What power had Christ's name on the Roman exchange or in the bazaars of Corinth? In the front rank of all our Christian workers today are the Christian merchants, and the enterprises of the world are coming on the right side. There was a farm willed away some years ago, all the proceeds of that farm to go for spreading infidel books. Somehow matters have changed, and now all the proceeds of that farm go toward the missionary cause. One of the finest printing presses ever built was built for the express purpose of publishing infidel tracts and books. Now it does nothing but print Holy Bibles. I believe that the time will come when in commercial circles the voice of Christ will be the mightiest of all voices and the ships of Tarshish will bring presents and the queen of Sheba her glory and the wise men of the east their myrrh and frankincense. I look off upon the business men of this land and rejoice at the prospect that their tact and ingenuity and talent are being brought into the service of Christ. It is one of the mightlest of weapons. The Fulton street line of the Brooklyn elevated road branches just before it gets to the Franklin avenue station. one division continuing out Fulton street to East New York and the city came back a Christian. I could not line, the other going out to Flatbush and Brighton Beach, says the New York Sun. As a train from the bridge was approaching the station late yesterday afternoon a stout, elderly man among the crowd waiting for it fell off of the platform on the tracks. The train was about forty yards away, and coming at a clipping gait. Half of the crowd screamed to the old man to get out of the way, but he seemed somewhat dazed by his fall, and made two attempts to get up from the tracks without success. By this time the train was barely fifty feet away, and coming with a rush. A half-dozen women began to scream, four or five men rushed down the platform signaling the train to stop, and a young fellow in overalls jumped down on the track, ran across it and laid hold of the old man's shoulders. But the old man was a load, and his struggles didn't help matters. Most of the women on the platform looked away and covered their eyes. The young fellow in overalis made a last desperate, unsuccessful pull, and the train turned off twenty feet from where the old man lay and rattled on to the Flatbush station. Then, after a moment or two the crowd laughed, but not much, The young fellow in overalls and several

The sound was in the room exactly overhead-a steady, continuous knocking that s emed to summon him to the place without delay.

"What room is that? The turret chamber! Rose said there was something there and that was why she moved her room!"

For a moment or two the worthy banker sat like one paralyzed, a cold moisture on his face and his heart beating a muffled march within his breast. At last his "British pluck" came to his aid.

"By St. George of England, I won't turn coward in my old age!" he exclaimed. "Man, woman or ghost-let it be what it may, I'll go and meet it!" He took the candle and left the room.

All was quiet on the stairs, in the hall, in the gallery above. The knocking

With trembling hand he opened the door of the turret chamber. A tall and slender woman stood alone in the center of the room. Her face was hidden by a black mask. A full mantle, or robe of crimson cloth covered her from head to foot. It was girded at the waist by a cord of variegated silk, and the full sleeves were embroidered with threads of gold. Upon her breast something shone and sparkled in the shape of a star.

"On that day, I, a child of three years, had lain speechless and sense'ess for more than twelve hours. The strange and sudden illness terrified every one around me-they thought me dead, and a veritable resurrection from the tomb could hardly have created more excitement than my recovery. I remembered the recovery perfectly, but all before it was a blank. Now, however, as I stood gazing on that picture. I seemed to remember dimly some other stage of existence, some lost life in which I had loved or suffered in this. It was the old mystery that had puzzled so many minds far stronger than mine—the mystery that we shall all, perhaps, see one day was but the dim working of a veiled and hidden

CHAPTER XIII.

It is strange how ultimately scenery becomes connected with some of the strongest emotions and passions of the "While I stood in the hall I thought human mind. We gaze out upon a fair as we lie beneath the trees, and a vague sadness steals over us, because "Yow!" yelped Mr. Cowley, flinging the eyes whose beauty has sunk into enely through the deep blue sky and sigh, thinking of the days that are no more. Nay, even the storms that roar loudly over land and sea, set us brooding over the past, and our tears fall wi'h the rain

So thought Rose Cowley, as she sat alone in her dressing room one gloomy morning. Poor Rose! she had been washed in many a shower of tears, in spite of all her present gayety.

Her father would as soon have believed that Gog and Magog would come down from their pedestals and fall in love, as that his merry Rose had fallen a victim to the little urchin with the bow. Yet it was true. A year after she left school, she had paid a visit to one of her mother's relatives-a gezuine, old-fashioned, hearty English squire. It was at his house that the mischief was done-under his protection that she met the man who was to be at once the blessing and the torment of her future life. She had first seen him at church, where, I am afraid, his blue eyes and regular features and golden hair had attracted more of her attention than she gave to her prayer book. And when, at the end of the service, her host came up to her and introduced the handsome stranger as the son of his oldest and dearest friend there were not wanting those who marked the shy smile, the slight blush, and the bashful drooping of her eyes as she greeted him. Rose was a free, wild Rose no longer. Love, even at first sight, will be lord of all; and there is no time on earth, I think, where he plays so many vagariees as during the visit of a pretty city girl to an old-fashioned English country-

Mr. Vere became a constant visitor at the house of his friend, and Rose entered upon a new phase of her life, and that sweetest, happiest and most foolish of times, when a young girl's heart first finds out that it has other work to do besides beating. She would sit for hours, when her lover was absent, realling every trivial circumstance of their-last interview; and then with a blush at the thought of her employment, welcome another idea, touching in its tenderness, to her heart, and weep for joy that she had reserved the first fond love of her young spirit

In such musings-such happy companionship—a month passed rapidly away. No word of love had been spoken between the two; yet enough had been said (though something always seemed to check the avowal upon his lips) to leave her happy in the belief that she was very dear to him.

True, he had never asked her to be his-had never told her definitely that he loved her. But he had kissed her hand; and a lock of that beautiful golden hair rose and fell with every pulsation of her happy heart.

Alas for that first sweet, innocent joy! Ere long that sunny curl was wet with bitterest tears, and hidden carefully away—the first of the lost say dignified, retreat, and, having at childish; perhaps vain and trifling at times. She loved him dearly, and yet secure in her possession, she was at times very cruel to him. For when a man loves a woman truly, she has it in her power to hurt and torment him in a thousand different ways.

Rose took the heart that had been given her; and, half carelessly, half maliciously, wounded it very grievous

Among the guests at Howlet Flouse was one who had been seriously inclined to worship at her shrine before Mr. Vere had made his appearances. That he loved her she could not help believing; that he was unhappy about her, she and every one else around her knew. And yet she allowed him to hang over her chair-to talk to herto bring her ices-to hold her bouquet when she danced giving him encouragement (in the countless ways a woman knows so well), without seeming to do

Mr. Vere looked on and said nothing. She was not engaged to him, and he had no right to interfere. It may be that he might have asked for such a right; but in his heart he disapproved so strongly of her conduct, that he preferred to watch the drama to its close before he committed himself in

The crisis came at last. They were at a party one even-this man and Rose. Mr. Vere was absent, but was expected later in the evening-a proceeding on his part which did not please his wilful lady-love But she would not show her displeasure. She listened to the passionate words that were breathed in her ear, and said to herself that she would not "wear the willow." Come what might with that thought, some chain that bound her spirit seemed suddenly unloosened, and she became the gayest of the gay. The band struck up a waltz-couple after couple glided easily away from the ground around them, till she was the only lady left.

"One waltz-only one!" breathed that voice in her ear.

She shrank back at first, well remembering in what terms Mr. Vere had expressed his opinion of the dance a few days before. "Oh, I cannot!"

"Surely you are not afraid of Mr. Vere? He is not here—he will not know. Will you not grant this favor To Be Enlarged Before the First of July. -perhaps the last I shall ever ask of VOII ?"

The pleading glance of the sad, dark eyes prevailed. She rose from her seat. His arm was around her waist; his breath upon her cheek; his voice breathing passionate words of admiration in her not unwilling ear; and the absent lover seemed almost forgotten. to watch them; for both were young, and graceful, and beautiful, and they moved as if they had but one soul between them. Rose's vanity was roused by the flattering exclamations she heard on every side. Flushed and smiling and happy, she floated around; when, as she passed the door, she looked up and saw a gentleman standing there with folded arms, and his eyes fixed intently upon her face.

It was Mr. Vere. She was proud-too proud to show how frightened she was, though her partner felt her trembling from head to foot. She said that she was tired, and they left the circle and sat down.

Mr. Vere did not come to her. She saw him talking to a lady near the door, as grave and calm as ever, only that he never trusted himself to look that way until the party was breaking up. Then he crossed the room and stood before her.

"The carriage waits," he said quiet-"Will you allow me?"

He offered his arm. He did not seem angry. No man could have been more courteous than he. He never spoke as they descended the stairs together; but at the carriage door he stopped a moment and looked at her very a man. A writer from India tells a story of how, having sent his guns and luncheon on before him, his attention was arrested by a rustle in the jungle, and looking that way, he saw a tiger crouched low, coming rapidly toward him. He says: "My first fe ling was one of horror, for it seemed all up with me, the tiger being very close and in a rush. Of course, it was not me, but the pony, that he wanted, but had he knocked out the latter his own fears at finding a man under him would have made him maul me, too. There was but one thing to be done, namely. to put a bold front on it and try to frighten him, and I, therefore, instantly wheeled the pony's head toward him, shouting at the same moment. The tiger stopped short and stared at me, but he did not offer to retreat. I then moved the pony toward him, shouting loudly as I did so, and the tiger then turned his tail to me, and, having retired about thirty yards, he sat bolt upright on his haunches and stared at me. I was naturally desirous of withdrawing from an interview so unpleasant to me in my unarmed condition. I therefore rode straight in at the tiger, waving my arm and sternly ordering him off, and before I reached him he decided to move himself, this time somewhat hastily and in marked contrast to his previous orderly, not to

DOUGLAS FACTORY

Will Make 6,000 Pairs Daily. Advertising pays.

W. L. Douglas is going to increase the capacity of his factory to 6,000 pairs of shoes per day. The addition will add 16,000 square feet of space for manufacturing purposes. At the same time a new 400 horse-power engine and an additional 150 horse-power boiler will be installed, which will afford adequate power for the present and another addition to the factory, which will no doubt be necessary later on. When the factory starts up the first of July it will be on an output of 500 dozen or 6,000 pairs of shoes per day, and the weekly pay roll, exclusive of office help, superintendent, foremen, etc., will be $22,000 per week. The Douglas salesmen on the road are selling 25 per cent more goods than last season. The increased sales is the direct result of good shoemaking and extensive advertising. The advertising expenditure of Mr. Douglas is now larger than at any period of his business, and this is to be still further increased. Beginning this week halfpage advertisements of the Douglas shoe will appear in all the principal newspapers of the large cities, as well as such papers as the Youth's Companion.-Brockton, Mass., Times.

The other day a woman living in Rivington which exist under the foreign military ule in north China, involving a situacion not hitherto fully realized, even n Washington, and utterly unapprecharacter of the in ormation which has now come into the administration's possession is summarized in the folowing extracts from a communication written by one of the most trusted officials in the service abroad and mailed from Pekin a month ago: "The question of raising the indemnity, though one of the most serious for the Chinese government, is not paramount. All the people who are likely to know club proposes.—New York declare that the Chinese peasant can stand no greater burden of taxation than in the past, as the question resolves itself largely to reducing the expense of collection, which in China involves radical reforms. Another proposition for meeting the indemnity is to grant lucrative mining and indusindicates that it is indigenous trial concessions to foreigners, by that means bartering their independence and laying up endless trouble for the Chinese, which are quick to recognize the fact."

> The report of Gen Ketteler, received at Pekin from Kuo Lu, differs from the other reports concerning the German-French expedition previously received. Gen. Ketteler's report shows that the Chinese troops did not leave the province till they were forced to do so. The entire brigade, commanded by Gen. Ketteler, met the enemy on April 23 and inflicted immense loss. The report does not give the loss. The Germans had one officer and three soldiers killed and 28 soldiers wounded.

> The legation guard at the American egation at Pekin will not be subjected to the order of any foreign general. Official reports of the latest phases of the negotiations at Pekin, as told in press dispatches, have not reached Washington. The American legation guard will retain its independence, even if necessary to remove it from Pekin and from China.

> A dispatch from Pekin, dated May 1, says that a bloody battle has occurred between the Russians and Chinese near Mukden. The Russians lost 60 in killed and wounded. Four Russian officers were killed, and among the wounded was Gen. Zerpitzki.

Liver Don't Act?

You know very well how you feel when your liver don't act. Bile collects in the blood, bowels become constipated and your whole system is poisoned. A lazy liver is an invitation for a thousand pains and aches to come and dwell with you. Your life becomes one long measure of irritability and despondency and bad feeling. CASCARETS act directly, and in a peculiarly happy manner on the liver and bowels, cleansing, purifying, revitalizing every portion of the liver, driving all the bile from the blood, as is soon shown by increased appetite for food, power to digest it, and strength to throw off the waste.
