An Interesting Trip.

which are as large around as a man's laborers. thigh, and he returned also with five rare specimens of large turtles.

But the most interesting part of his trip was incidental. After going a thousand miles up the Amazon and after steaming for fifteen days up the Pusos river he reached a rubber camp where he learned of an almost unknown tribe of wild Indians in the interior. It took two days marching and two days' canoeing on small rivers to reach them. They live about 2,000 miles from the mouth of the Amazon and on the borders of Bolivia. They call themselves the Jam-Maditribe and now consists of about forty people hundred of their number last June.

The Jam-Madis are very wild and go almost naked. The only thing that keeps the men and women from catching cold is a necklace of monkey teeth, although other night I coaxed it into the cabin, there is worn a very small excuse for a breech-cloth. These people also wear a in every night, and I give it something small stick of wood almost six inches to eat. Then it goes out, and I don't see trimmed with tinted feathers.

Prof. Steere easily made friends with the tribe by presenting the chief with some cheap bandana handkerchiefs and small looking glasses, and soon in exchange for similar articles he secured a complete collection of their wearing apparel, ornaments and weapons which will be placed in the national museum. He also made a study of their habits of living and will render the first scientific report ever made concerning this wild tribe.

British Columbian Who Is Intimate with an Assortment of Wild Beasts.

With bear, deer, wild cats, wolves and cougars as his companions, George Greevy, who two years ago left Williamsport, Pa., and went to the Klondike, is now in the wilds of British Columbia, where he is keeping a lonely vigil over property belonging to the Lemon Gold Mining company, of which his brother, M. J. Greevy, of Omaha, an attack of measles having killed off a Neb., is president, says the Philadelphia North American.

"A wild cat comes to my cabin every night," he says in a letter to his brother, W. J. C. Greevy, of Williamsport. "I used to throw food out to it, and the where I fed and petted it. Now it comes long through their noses and this gally it again until the next night. There is a big cougar around the camp, and nearly every evening it gets up on a big cliff opposite my cabin and cries like a baby. I will send you its skin before very long. The other day, while down the wagon road, I turned a bend, and saw walking toward me, less than 20 feet away, a big, ferocious-looking gray wolf. My ax was the only weapon I had. I was afraid to turn my back and run, for fear it would pounce upon me So I put on a bold front and, with my ax ready for any emergency, I gave his wolfship half the road. The bluff worked, the wolf sourcely giving me more than a casual glance as he passed."

A PET FLAMINGO.

Queer Favorite of an Army Officer

"When I was down in Cul a," said Delegate Flynn, of Oklahoma, to a writer in the Washington Post, "I heard a" good story about an army officer and a flamingo. A flamingo? Why, it is a bird of beautiful red plumage which abounds in the tropics. Well, to continue, I heard of a post commandant who, like all other post commandants, was not popular. He had two fads. First, he believed in whitewash and Wm. B. Hatch of Detroit is seeking plenty of it, asserting it to be the most effective preventive of tropical diseases ever discovered. His second fad was an apparently sunreciprocated attachment to a pet flamingo, who resented being kept in captivity and who showed The last gap in the rails for the Boland his resentment by nipping at every solbut swear under his breath and wait for revenge. On a certain Monday morning an order was issued from headquarters that all articles pertaintered from the weather should be whitewashed. No one who knows the American sofdier," added Mr. Flynn, "needs further information. When I saw the flamingo he was as white as the driven snow. The chances are that the bird will survive the operation, but he will hardly outlive the post command-

The advance of cremation in England, shown by the establishment of a municipal furnace in the north and the projection of a new crematorium not far outside the four-mile radius in London, recalls the interesting history of Japan in the matter. Cremation followed Buddhism into Japan about 1,200 years ago, but it only partially superseded the Shinto custom of disposing of the dead by interment. In 1873 cremation was totally prohibited by the Japanese government, whose members seem to have had some confused notion as to the practice being un-European, and therefore barbarous.

Having discovered that, far from Grand Rapids you'll see something, | being un-European, cremation was the goal of European reformers in such matters, they rescinded their -prohibition before two years had elapsed. Cremation in Japan is carried out in a somewhat rough and ready manner. The cheapest process costs about $1.12. When the electric roads are completed This is scarcely adapted to western o Jackson the people along the lines will requirements and is sufficiently denot only have low rates to that place, but scribed by the title which the foreign will be able to travel by electric road still residents of a certain settlement in Japan gave to the native cremation ground among the hills-"Roast Meat valley."

Killed Her Father and Herself. Gustave Baare, aged 50 years, balliff of the St. Louis, Mo., school board and an ex-representative in the legislature, was shot and killed at his home on the night of the 7th by his daughter, Ida N. Baare, aged 20, who then turned the revolver upon herself inflicting a wound from which she soon died. Both were shot through the head. The action of the young woman was premediated as was shown by the letter which she left. In it she said the frequent insults offered her mother by her father became unbearable and that she had resolved to kill him and then herself. Mr. Baare was taking a nap when he was killed.

Assaulted and Left for Dead. Miss Ethel Bonnie, daughter of G W. Bonnie, an employe of the Kansas penitentiary, while gathering mushrooms near Lansing, was struck on the back of the head by an unknown white man on the 7th, presumably a tramp. and rendered unconscious, after which she was assaulted and her body thrown into an old well, for the purpose of hiding the crime. The young woman regained consciousness and after repeated attempts, reached the surface where she was found, sitting on the edge of the well. She stated that she had caught a glimpse of her assailant and would be able to identify him.

Left 33 Children and $1,000.000. The will of Geo. Q. Cannon, of Salt Lake City, Utah, filed for probate on the 9th, disposes of an estate approximating $1,000,000. The estate is divided into two parts, the first part consisting of gilt-edged securities worth $200,000. This is to remain in trust until his youngest child, now 9 years of age, attains his majority. All of the 33 children of President Cannon are given an acre of land from the Cannon farm, and $2,000 in cash on attaining majority or at marriage, the balance of the $200,000 to be divided among the children when the youngest child becomes of age.

But how clumsy we are at religious work! How little skill are we exercise! How often our miss the mark! I am glad there are institutions established many cities of our land where men learn the art of doing goodring spiritual archery and become as "mighty hunters before the Bow to Be Effectual. he first place, if you want to be dul in doing good you must be Ture of your weapon. There was thing very fascinating about the of olden times. Perhaps you of know what they could do with low and arrow. Why, the chief les fought by the English Plansets were with the longbow. They take the arrow of polished wood leather it with the plume of a and then it would fly from the tring of plaited slik. The bloody of Agincourt and Solway Moss Neville's Cross heard the loud of the archer's bowstring. Now, Christian friends, we have a htter weapon than that. It is the of the gospel; it is a sharp arit is a straight arrow; it is feath-

"Oh, my sins! Oh, my sins!" If ft strikes a man in the head, it kills his skepticism; if it strikes him in the heel it will turn his step; if it strikes him in the heart, he throws up his hands, as did one of old when wounded in the battle, crying, "O Galilean, thou hast conquered!"

Spiritual Archery.

If you want to be skillful in spiritual archery you must hunt in unfrequented and secluded places. Why does the hunter go three or four days in the Pennsylvania forests or over Raquette lake into the wilds of the Adirondacks? It is the only way to do. The deer are shy, and one "bang" of the gun cleans the forest. From the California stage you see, as you go over the plains, here and there a coyote trotting along almost within range of the gun-sometimes quite within range of it. No one cares for that. It is worthless. The good game is hidden and secluded. Every hunter knows that. So many of the souls that will be of most worth for Christ and the most value to the church are secluded. They do not come in our way. You will have to go where they are. Yonder they are down in that cellar. Yonder they are up in that garret-far away from the door of any church. The gospel arrow has not been pointed at them. The tract distributor and the city missionary sometimes just catch a glimpse of them, as a hunter through the trees gets a momentary sight of a partridge or roebuck. The trouble is we are waiting for the game to come to us. We are not good hunters. We are standing on some street or road expecting that the timid antelope will come up and eat out of our hand. We are expecting that the prairie fowl will light on our church steeple. It is not their habit. If the church should wait 10,000,000 of years for the world to come in and be saved, it will wait in vain. The world will not come.

What the church wants now is to lift its feet from damask ottomans and put them in the stirrups. The church wants not so much cushlons as it wants saddlebags and arrows. We have got to put aside the gown and the kid gloves and put on the hunting shirt. We want a pulpit on wheels. We have been fishing so long in the brooks that run under the shadow of the church that the fish know us, and they avvoid the hook and escape as soon as we come to the bank, while yonder is Upper Saranac and Big Tupper's lake, where the first swing of the gospel net would break it for the multitude of the fishes. There is outgood people there are who drive | side work to be done. What is it that away from Christ instead of I see in the backwoods? It is a tent. The hunters have made a clearing and camped out. What do they care if they have wet feet or 'f they have correspond exactly to your own spiritnothing but a pine branch for a pillow or for the northeast storm? If a moose in the darkness steps into the lake to drink, they hear it right away. If a loon cry in the midnight, they hear it. So in the service of God we have exposed work. We have got to camp out and rough it. We are putting all our care on the comparatively few people who go to church. What are we doing for the millions who do not come? Have they no souls? Are they sinless that they need no pardon? Are there no dead in their bouses that they need no comfort?

Must Have Courage. I remark further, if you want to suc-ecu in spiritual archery, you must have courage. If the hunter stands with trembling hand or shoulder that flinches with fear, instead of his taking the catamount the catamount takes him. What would become of the Greenlander if when out hunting for the bear he should stand shivering with terror on an iceberg? What would have become of Du Chaillu and Livingstone in the African thicket with a faint heart and a weak knee? When a panther comes within 20 paces of you and it has its eye on you and it has squatted for the fearful spring, "Steady there!" Courage, O ye spirifual archers! There are great monsters of iniquity prowling all around about the community. Shall we not in the strength of God go forth and combat them? We not only need more heart, but more backbone. What is the church of God that it should fear to look in the eye any transgression? There is the Bengal tiger of drunkenness that prowls around, and instead of attacking it how many of us hide under the church pew or the communion table? There is so much invested in it we are afraid to assault it. Millions. of dollars in barrels, in vats, in spigots, in corkscrews, in gin palaces with marble floors and Italian top tables and chased ice coolers, and in the strychnine and the logwood and the tartaric acid and the nux vomica that go to make up our "pure" American drinks. I looked with wondering eyes on the "Heidelberg tun." It is the great liquor vat of Germany, which is said to hold 800 hogsheads of wine, and only three times in 100 years it has been filled. But as I stood and looked at it I said to myself: "That is nothing-800 hogsheads. Why, our American vat holds 10,200,000 barrels of strong drinks, and we keep 300,000 men with nothing to do but to see that it is

The Great Monster.

Oh, to attack this great monster of intemperance and the kindred monsters of fraud and uncleanness requires from the wing of the dove of you to rally all your Christian courage. spirit; it flies from a bow made | Through the press, through the pulpit, of the wood of the cross. As far through the platform you must assault the down to calculate it has it. Would to God that all our Amerithe down 400,000,000 of souls. Paul can Christians would band together, on to the bowstring, and its but for holy Christian reform! were camels and horses and elephants, On some princes rode and royal ladies under exquisite housings, and 500 coolles waited upon the train, and the desolate places of India were invaded by this excursion, and the rhinoceros and deer and elephant fell under the stroke of the saber and bullet. After awhile the party brought back trophles worth 50,000 rupees, having left the wilderness of India ghastly with the slain bodies of wild beasts. Would to God that instead of here and there a straggler going out to fight these great monsters of iniquity in our country the millions of membership of our churches would band together and hew in twain these great crimes that make the land frightful with their roar and are fattening upon the bodies and souls of immortal men! Who is ready for such a party as that? Who will be a mighty hunter for the Lord? I remark, again, if you want to be successful in spiritual archery you need not only bring down game, but bring it in. I think one of the most beautiful pictures of Thorwaldsen is his "Autumn." It represents a sportsman coming home and standing under a grapevine. He has a staff over his shoulder and on the other end of that staff are hung a rabbit and a brace of birds. Every hunter brings home the game. No one would think of bringing down a roebuck or whipping up a stream for trout and letting them lie in the woods.

Bring Them to Church.

If you go out to hunt for immortal souls, not only bring them down under the arrow of the gospel, but bring them into the church of God, the grand home and encampment we have pitched this side the skies. Fetch them in; do not let them lie out in the open fie.d. They need our prayers and sympathies and help. That is the meaning of the whurch of God-help. O ye hunters for the word, not only bring down the game, but bring it in.

If Mithridates liked hunting so well that for seven years he never went indoors, what enthusiasm ought we to have who are hunting for immortal souls! If Domitian practiced archery until he could stand a boy down in the Roman amphitheater with a hand out, the fingers spread apart, and then the king could shoot an arrow between the fingers without wounding them, to what drill and what practice ought we to subject ourselves in order to become spiritual archers and "mighty hunters before the Lord!" But let me say you will never work any better than you pray. The old archers took the bow. put one end of it down beside the foot, elevated the other end, and it was the rule that the bow should be just the size of the archer. If it were just his size, then he would go into the battle with confidence. Let me say that your power to project good in the world will ual stature. In other words, the first thing in preparation for Christian work is personal consecration.

Oh, for a closer walk with God, A calm and heavenly frame, A light to shine upon the road

That leads me to the Lamb! I am sure there are some men who at some time have been hit by the gospel arrow. You felt the wound of that conviction. And you plunged into the world deeper, just as the stag, when the hounds are after it, plunges into Schroon lake, expecting in that way to escape. Jesus Christ is on your track today, O impenitent man! Not in wrath, but in mercy. O ye chased and panting souls! Here is the stream of God's mercy and salvation, where you may cool your thirst! Stop that chase of sin today. By the red fountain that leaped from the heart of my Lord, I bid you stop! There is mercy for you -mercy that pardons, mercy that heals, everlasting mercy. The 12 gates of God's love stand wide open. Enter and be forever safe.

NEED A GOOD APPETITE.

Sometimes We Need a Change of Food and of Scene, How frequently we hear the remark made, when a person's indisposition is spoken of, "Oh, he can't have much the matter with him. He eats well and threfore he must be all right." As a matter of fact, although a good appetite is sometimes considered as a test of the state of the health, it is not an invariable test, for often those who are seriously ill have good appetites. This is the case with many consumptives and others, but a person with a bad appetite is not in good health-there is something wrong with him. Appetite and hunger are generally used synonymously, but hunger is more than appetite; it is imperious, but is allayed after eating. What is the best thing to do when the appetite wanes? The usual remedy is a tonic, sometimes it takes the shape of too frequent "nips" of gin and bitters, sherry and bitters, or some other compound. For a want of appetite the real remedies needed are often rest and sleep, together with fresh air. Overwork when feeble is a cause of loss of appetite. A change of food is a good remedy; sometimes the regimen has not been varied enough, and the system becomes overburdened with one kind of material, and another kind is deficient. An entire change of food may work wonders. A change of scene, of thought, and of environrestore a jaded appetite for food, Outdoor exercise, work, sea-bathing-all these have a good effect, and promote those changes in the body which make a demand for food imperative. These remedies are all natural ones, and if rightly used can do no harm. Of course it requires judgment to decide

INCANDESCENT LAMPS.

The Pan-American Exposition to Be Lighted by Hundreds of Thousands of Them.

In a recent interview Thomas A

Edison, the great inventor, said: "Yes, the incandescent lamp is still my pet. I feel that the best of those who are working with the lamp, even to-day, know little or nothing about it." It is evident that Mr. Edison feels that there is much about the popular incandescent lamp that is M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of still to be developed for the benefit and statement are of particular interest at this time, because the Pan-American exposition grounds are to be lighted by incandescent lamps. Hundreds of thousands of them will be used, and the grounds will glow with greater illumination than has ever been used at any previous exposition. And then, in the evening, when day is about to give way to the coming of night, these lights are not to burst upon the sight with their full, rich glow all at once. But gradually, almost without the assembled multitude knowing it, the lamps will feel the impulse of the turning on of the mighty current from Niagara. CHAPTER XIII.—(Continued.) "Words cannot express the pain you have given me tonight," he said; "but let It pass. You are free, and I have so right to reproach you. Good-bye, and God bless you, Rose!"

He kissed her hand, but she snatched It away and sprang into the carriage. She felt annoyed and out of temper. When she reached home, she went up ato her own room and stood before the glass. It was a very fair face that she gazed at-he had often praised it, and she knew her power well.

"And he thinks I am going to beg and pray for forgiveness, does he?" che said, tossing her head wilfully. "We shall see, after all, what crime I have committed, that I need to tremble and shrink from his eye. Tomorrow I will not-tomorrow I will show him that if he chooses to play the part of a tyrant, I do not intend to take that of a sert. He had better fetter me at once."

In that mood she went to bed.

But ah! we should be very careful how we part with those we love, even though they only leave us for a few hours. Do they always come back? of it they do come, do we always know Just how we shall meet them? It may be as utter strangers, for aught we can say, I have known those who have loved each other dearly as they said good-bye, and yet within three -months they stood face to face as cold-My as if they had never met.

But the case of poor Rose was even worse than this, for Mr. Vere never came again.

She had preserved a discreet silence es to this episode in her history on her return home. No one had ever heard her mention Mr. Vere's nameat one of her own family ever knew that such a person was in existence. Her woman's pride came to her aid. She learned to live without him-to be happy without him; yet he was not

And on this morning, when she sat in her own room, thinking of the past, she had a letter in her hand from him. It had been forwarded with others from Mecklenburgh Square. The simple words set her hear! beating, so that she could scarcely see:

with you long ago. Time has taught me that there is nothing so precious and I know what that feeling is so -as your love. If I have lost it, I am coming home to try and gain it again God grant I may not be too late.

> "Ever yours, "Stanley Vere."

Coming home, and to win here? But bow, and when, and where?

When and where, indeed? She could not hope for a meeting so romantic as him up, and send him down to the vilthat of her two cousins had been; and lage, shopping. He will come home yet, in what other way could her lover as blithe as a lark." seek her presence?

For you must bear in mind that the parent birds had no idea that their scarcely fledged nestling had tried her rings in so bold a flight. Rose in tove! Rose, who had scarcely given up playing with ber doil! The thing was simply absurd!

So the young lady sat alone in her coom, and stared at the letter, and wondered what on earth she should do, and wished she had a confidente who would give her some advice as to the best way of extricating herself from the dilemma. It would not do to speak to her mother, and Catharine would only laugh at her. At last she thought of Marjorie, who had a romance of her own, and thereby would know how to sympathize with another. She went.

She found the lady alone in the turret-chamber. Charles was smoking a cigar, in fear and trembling, in one of the empty attics, and at the same time gesting a / ath of fresh air. So Rose had her cousin all to herself, and told her tale without much loss of time. Marjorle listened silently.

"Well," she said, when Rose had anished, "the old fairy tale is true. The Princess Perfect may be shut up the highest and most impregnable of towers, and guarded by the fiercest of dragons, yet in one way and another Prince Imperfect will continue to get the stairs, and fall at her feet all the same. It is ccurious, and, at the came time, very edifying." "But I am not Princess Perfect,"

ald Rose

"Nor was I shut up in a tower." "If you had been it would not have mettered. But never mind that-do wen want to see the Prince?"

"That is frank and to the purpose. Why did you let him go?' "He thought I flirted, my dear," said Rose, firmly. "Oh, indeed," replied Marjorle, with "Httle cough. "Men do take queer fancies into their heads now and then."

"However, I will do all I can to help rou though, of course, you must romise to be very good, and never, under any consideration, to firt

"Poor papa!"

"Yes! but it will do him good in the end. Is he up yet?"

"No ;he has had some gruel in bed." "May it make him penitent and more inclined to obey the orders of his superior officer, your good mamma. Where would you like us to pitch our tent in town, Rose?"

"Oh, somewhere near Mecklenburgh Square."

"In it, if you like. Charley is rich. and can live where he pleases, thank goodness. Then that is settled?"

"And you will come to us?"

"With pleasure."

"As soon as we can get him back to "And the preux chevalier? By the

"Of what county.

Rose colored. "Really I don't know."

"But where do his family reside?"

"I cannot tell you." Marjorie elevated her eyebrows.

"Do you know nothing of him,

"Very little. But General Grantham. with whom I was staying at the time. introduced him as the son of one of his oldest friends. And he moved in the best society."

"Well, time will show. At all events, we can soon find out all about him if we set to work the right way."

"Yes," said Rose; and leaning her chin upon her hand, she fixed her eves upon the glaring coals, and fell to musing about the lover of whom she knew The door opened, and Mrs. Cowley

"What?" "I can't get him up."

"Then what can be easier than to tell him that his wish is granted." "And that Charles is here?"

"My dear child, that would do very well with some men, but not with Mr. Cowley. "Oh, no: not so bad as that," was the cheerful reply. "I will manage it so that he need never know we have been here before. Rose, you have already lent me half your wardrobe! give me the other half-your out-door portion. He will not recognize your hat and cloak, I suppose?" "No."

"Yes-to an English girl, though." "If he had married a New Zealander, tatooed from head to foot, I should not care. Zounds! give me my clothes, Mrs. C.! This news is worth ten pounds, at the least. We'll rout the ghosts out now, or my name is not Cowley."

on, with his back to the fire.

"Why, so I hear," replied the nephew demurely. "You have been getting yourself into a bit of a scrape, I imagine, and want me to help you out. Oh, you naughty old boy! But let me introduce you to my wife."

CHAPTER XV.

Mr. Cowley shook hands with Marjorie-decided, after his first glance at her, that she was a nice sort of a girl, and then dismissed her from his mind entirely. He was burning for an uninterrupted ten minutes' conversation with his nephew, alone, that he might rela.e the wonderful things that had befallen him. Few men could boast of having seen three real ghosts, one after another! And Marjorie, like the other women, was sadly in the way just then.

However, there was no help for it Tea was waiting, and Mr. Cowley, junior, fell to work upon the muffins. and ham, and tongue, like a man who had fasted all the way from Australia. When the cloth was taken away, his uncle breathed freely again. The ladies sat gossipping together before the fire. The worthy banker rose, nudge: Charles in the side, and whispered, "Come with me a moment." Charles followed him from the room, merely pausing at the door to give a nod and a wink, expressive of great enjoyment, to the group he left behind.

Mr. Cowley seized his nephew by the arm when they stood in the hall, and dragged him up the stairs. A amp was burning in the turret-chamber-a fire blazing on the hearth, Seeing this, as he opened the door, Mr. Cowley started back with a look of

"Why, those born fools cannot think of putting you here to sleep!" he ejaculated.

"Why not?" asked Charles, looking extremely innocent.

"Why not? The jades! I'll have no tricks played off on people under my roof. I know it is the fashion to put the guests in the haunted room, to see if there really is a ghost there: but, by George! we want no such tests here! They shall give you another apartment-it is like their impudence

HARD TO WRITE TURKISH.

Few Foreigners Are Able to Place Its Words on Paper.

Arabic words, phrases and expressions, as in the case of the Persians, were freely employed by the Turkish writers. So the original Tartaric, or Turkish, dialect of the Ottomans, blended with the refined, melodious tongue of the Arabs and the sweet and harmonious language of the former followers of Zoraster, formed what is today the literary language of the Turks. Hence the variety in the expressions and the richness of the words of the Turkish literature. While in the European languages Latin and Greek words are merely used as a foundation stone upon which the respective national words are built, the Turks, on the contrary, employ almost to an unlimited extent Persian and Arabic phrases in their original shape. Hence, again, the difficulty of mastering the literary Turkish, which necessitates also the study of the other two oriental tongues.

This variety of languages, coupled with the difficulty of the union of sentences into the one so-called "chain." which is unknown to any European language, renders Turkish one of the most difficult of the living tongues of the world. To be able to write well in Turkish, or, to use their own expression, to be a good "kiatib" (writer) not in the sense of an author—is held in that country as one of the highest accomplishments that a person can possess.—Chicago Chronicle.

BIG FIRE NEAR DETROIT.

Nearly a Half Million Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed. Upwards of 50,000 telegraph poles, two sawmills, a salt block, a dredge, a fug and many thousand feet of lumber were burned in a fire that started shortly before 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the 12th in Salliotte & Furgason's sawmill at River Rouge, causing a loss of at least $323,000, divided among the several firms as follows: Western Union Telegraph Co., $200,000; Salliotte number of American settlers (those & Furgason, $50,000; John Brownlee & Co., $45,000; Carkin, Stickney & Cram, $15,000; Malthy Lumber Co., $12,000; John Mason, salt weil tools, $1,000.

Fanned by the furious westerly gale that blew fully 30 miles an hour at times, the fire was soon out of the control of the village firemen and was licking up the mills and lumber piles hundreds of yards away. It swept over huge piles of lumber almost as fast as the eye could follow it, and in less than an hour had eaten its way from the place where it started to a point fully a half mile distant, where eight acres of land were p.led high with cedar poles belonging to the Western Union Telegraph Co.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from the smokestack of Salliotte & Furgason's salt block, which is immediately west of the sawmill. Fortunately no fatalities occurred.

CHINA WAR NEWS.

Inquiry at Washington confirms the report that the U. S. is working, and finds support in its effort, toward the opening of all China, including the provinces, to the trade of the world. This does not mean the abolition of customs duties, but would make every Chinese city a market for the world's goods instead of limiting foreign commerce to the few existing treaty posts. The project is one that appeals temptingly to the commercial interests of others of the great powers than the U. S., and, if it should command the support of the necessary number, hope is entertained that it will indirectly aid in the settlement of the troublesome indemnity question.

The report of Gen Ketteler, received at Pekin from Kuo Lu, differs from the other rep rts concerning the German-French expedition previously received. Gen. Ketteler's report shows that the Chinese troops did not leave the province till they were forced to do so. The entire brigade, commanded by Gen. Ketteler, met the enemy on April 23 and inflicted immense loss. The report does not give the loss. The Germans had one officer and three soldiers killed and 28 soldiers wounded.

The foreign ministers on the 7th deded to address a collective note the Chinese government informing it that a joint indemnity of 450,000,000 taels would be demanded, and asking what method of payment is proposed. A reply is expected at the end of the week, which will probably propose to meet the indemnity by raising the cus-ampled Fertility.

During the past year or two a large going from the United States to Canada), have made homes in the Saskatoon district in Western Canada, They have found the climate all that could be desired and their prospects are of the brightest. In writing of it a correspondent says: The lands for sale are choice selections from a large area, and every farm is within easy distance of a railway station. Experience has shown that this district enjoys immunity from summer frost, from cyclones and blizgards. The South Saskatchewan, flowing through the tract, is one of the finest rivers in the country, being navigable and having an average width of stream of 1,000 feet. The agents of the Canadian government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in your paper and who will be pleased to furnish full information, tell me that within the limits of the tract there are two distinct varieties In winter it is cold, but extremely erof soil. One is a rich black loam, and the other is a somewhat lighter loam, containing a small admixture of sand. There appears to be no appreciable of profit as well as enjoyment to the difference between the fertility of these two kinds of soil. Both are alluvial in their characteristics, both are marvelously productive, and both rest upon a subsoil of clay. The advantage of this formation is that it retains the heat of the day during the night, and is favorable to the early maturity of crops. Every kind of crop will here attain the highest perfection of quality. The land is admirably adapted for stock-raising and dairy farming, as well as growing grain. Some idea of the richness of the natural grasses of the prairie may be formed from the fact that more than 200 tons of hay were gathere: within a short distance of Saskatoon and stored up for use during the win THE SASKATOON DISTRICT. and atored up for use during the winstrates beyond all possible question the suitability of the land for pasturing cattle, and no doubt this important industry will be largely carried on.

Nature has been lavish in her sitts to this territory. Not only is the soil of unexampled fertility, but the climate is delightful and healthy. Such is the testimony of every settler, and this testimony is confirmed by enthusiastia opinions from every traveler, explores, missionary or newspaper correspondent who has ever visited this farfamed Saskatchewan Valley. In form. er years vast herds of buffalo came here to winter from the elevated storm-swept regions south of the United States boundary line, proving thereby the adaptation of these rolling prairies to the purpose of raising stock. The land is dry, with sufficient but not excessive rainfall, capable of early cultivation in the spring, and free from summer frosts. The configuration of the country renders artif. cial drainage unnecessary, and prevents the accumulation of stagnant pools; mists and fogs are seldom seen The days of summer are full of sunshine, under the genial influence of which crops rapidly ripen. Autuma is characterized by an almost unbroken succession of fine weather, during which the crops are safely garnered hilarating and pleasant, owing to the wonderful dryness and bracing qualities of the air. The winter is a source people, being far healthier than a humid climate.

Before the morning is very old the dreadful BACKACHE attacks them, the brave spirit sinks back in affright; no matter how hard they struggle, the "clutch" is upon them and they fall upon the couch crying: "Why should I suffer so ! What can I do!"

The answer is ready, your cry has been heard, and a woman is able to restore you to health and happiness. Backache is only a symptom of more fatal troubleheed its warning in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will stop your torture and restore your courage. Your pains come from unnatural menstruation or some derangement of the womb. Let those who are suffering read Mrs. Morton's letter and be guided by he experience.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN.

"DEAR MRS. PINEHAM:-I have been so delighted with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would write and thank you. My system was entirely run down. I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright; was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking your Com-pound I have gained fifteen pounds, and am gaining every week. My appetite has improved, have no back-ache, and I look better than I ever looked before. "I shall recommend it to all my friends, as it cortainly is a wonderful medicine."—MRS. E. F. MORTON

The St. Louis Show.

Everything is show, show, show.. In 1903 St. Louis will ce ebrate the Louisiana purchase, an affair of some note in the days of Thomas Jefferson, involving disposition of 1,171,931 square miles of virgin territory. The tract reached from the Mississippi river to the Rocky Mountains, from the Gulf of Mexico to British America, and was about twenty-four times as large as the state of New York. The price paid was $15,000,000, the cost of two or three big office buildings in this city at the present day. Now, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition already has in its treasury more money to begin the show with in 1903 than our government paid in 1803 for nearly the entire west, a princely domain of 750,035,840 acres. The municipality of St. Louis has given $5,000,000, the federal government $5,000,000 and the people of Missouri by voluntary subscription, $5,000,000; total, $15,000,000. Add to this sum the amount already received from concessonaires, or agreed upon, and you will have some $17,000,000 or $18,000,000.-New York

The Ditch to Be American Clayton-Bulwer Treaty Not to Stand in the Way of Completing Link Between the

Washington, D. C., May 14.-When Secretary Hay returns to Washing on with the President he will, it is said, begin actual consideration of the Nicaraguan canal problem. There is now in writing at the department a summary of the views of more than a majority of the senate. There is wide divergence in these views, which were expressed verbally and in informal conversation. A careful study of ...e opinions of sunators indicates, so it is said by those in a position know, considerable unanimity on certain salient features of the problem. In the first place, it is agreed that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is the only thing in the way of an actual contract which prevents the United States from building the canal itself. In the second place, a majority of the senate is clearly of the opinion that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty can be abrogated or "denounced," as the diplomats term it. The senators entirely reject the idea that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is in the nature of a perpetual contract which can be terminated only by the consent of both parties to it. A clear majority of the senators are of the opinion that the treaty should be abrogated as the easiest way to build the canal, but there is a large element in the senate which believes that forcible abrogation of the treaty by the United States, against the wishes of Great Britain, would be an unfriendly act and would result in strained relations between the two countries. The senatorial sentiment favors a guarantee of the neutrality by the United States. The majority of the senate favors a distinctively American canal, owned and controlled by the United States alone. Guided by the opinions of military and naval authorities, however, a bare majority of the senate is not inclined to insist on the fortification of the canal. There is practical unanimity, however, on the proposition that in case of war to which the United States is a party, there must be no treaty obligation with Great Britain or any other nation preventing this country using the canal as a milita ryand naval advantage of its own, open to its own ships, senate would or would not abrogate

POOR LITTLE JOHNNY! AND HIS "TUMMY"!

Small boys, and many times large ones, and occasionally girls, too, big and little, suffer terribly from convulsive pains or "cramps" in the bowels and stomachpain so violent that it "doubles up" the ones attacked, and makes it impossible for them to stand up.

Some people call it colic, but most honest, plain-spoken people call it "belly-ache" and very properly, for the seat of the trouble is in the bowels, and caused by the violent efforts of the bowels to rid themselves of something which doesn't belong there. The small boy usually gets it from over-eating or from eating forbidden fruit, and suffers mostly in the summer time.

It's spring now, and "in times of peace, prepare for war." Let the boys and girls and the big folks, too, for that matter, clean out the clogged channels filled with winter bile and putrid undigested food, strengthen the 30-feet of bowel canal, liven up the liver, and "summer bellyaches" will have no terrors, because they won't happen. The way to make the body ache-proof is to use CASCARETS, gentle, sweet, fragrant CASCARETS, the perfect system cleaners and bowel strengtheners. For fear that anybody in the family should ever be attacked by belly-ache, keep a box of CASCARETS in the house always, and semember that all pains and troubles in your insides are
