H. future by having it understood that the churches will yearly unite in this service. The sermon was based upon the third and fourth verses of H Tim. 2. Compar-Isons being drawn from it showing that the qualities necessary for a good soldier in the military service were necessary also for a good soldier in the Christian service. Only one point of difference was noted, that when a person enters the military service the change is external, to be one of the best addresses of the kind ever given in Chelsea.

The music, which was excellent, showed taste in selection and much care in preparation and execution. An appropriate quartette was well rendered by Messrs L. A. Raider, H. I. Stimson, F. E. Weich and Chas. Quivey. Two fine solos were also given, one by Miss Nickerson, one by R. A. Snyder.

The "Music Machine." The "talking machine," through var ious improvements, says the American Art Journal, might today better be called the "music machine," for it is through Its ability to reproduce musical numbers that it continues to find so much favor. As the novelty wears off, the public is de manding a very different performance from the graphophone than that of a fe a years ago. Now it is simply a means to an end, and that end is to have acceptably played for one the very newest music. With even a $5 graphophoue a man can hear selections from the latest light operas or Sousa's newest march, weeks before they become threadbare.

The Columbia Phonograph Co., No. 88 Wabash avenue, Chicago, headquarters for graphophones and talking machine supplies of every kind, will send y u catalogues on application.

Electric Road Notes.

It is stated that an electric railroad will be built from Jackson to Grand Rapids, and the route of the projected road is by way of Leslie, Mason and Lansing. It is also stated a possible future development would be the construction of a line from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo. These lines are a part of a big system of feeders which Boland's company has in mind for the main trunk line of the Detroit & Chicago system. Another movement is to build a line from Jackson to Cold water and thence to Kalamazoo, which would open up valuable territory to the Boland line.-Jackson Citizen.

Times: Mr. Angus of the Detroit, Ypsilanti Ann Arbor & Jackson electric railway was in the city Thursday and he says work is being rushed on their line between Ann Arbor and Jackson. II. says they will be to the city limits of Ann Arbor with the work in grading by the first of June. They already have 12 miles of iron laid and several more miles ready to put down. They are now working 160 teams and a large force of men. He says they will have the road ready for the cars by July 1-all except the bridge at Ann Arbor which may not be completed. It is not expected elther that the power house here will be ready.

The Boland-Flynn syndicate having decided on what is known as the Ann Arbor Territorial Road route, from Ann Arbor via, Plymouth and Warren avenue into Detroit, was confronted with the necessity of purchasing the D., P. & N. Railway, which in addition to occupying four miles of the route in question had complete rights through all the intervening townships into Detroit and had prepared to build thereupon. The transaction involves the conveyance of the D P. & N. Rallway and all its rights to the Boland-Flynn syndicate, which has a complete private right of way from Plymouth west to Ann Arbor, in which O city it has franchises, and which has, also, Jackson & Ann Arbor line about half completed. The new railway, which is known as the Detroit & Chica-0 go railway, will have by October 1 completed line of electric railway from Detroit to Jackson, passing through Springwells, North Dearborn, Wallaceville, Pikes Peak, Newburg, Plymouth, Dixboro, Ann Arbor, Dexter, Chelsea, Grass Lake, Michigan Center and Jackson. The new road runs through the main streets of all these places. The same interest own the Jackson city system, and it is their intention to build next year from Jackson west through Albion and Marshall to Battle Creek, where a junction will be effected with the lines of the Rallway Companies General, which run from Battle Creek to Kalamazoo.

The home of Peter Frees at Parkersburg, W. Va., was the scene of great excitement the other day from more than one cause. Frees, his son Louis, 14 years old, and Chris Reich went hunting rabbits recently. The boy chased a bunny into its burrow, dropped his gun, which was cocked, and poked a stick into the hole where bunny disappeared. His father and Reich came up and stood at "attention," waiting for the rabbit to appear. But the burrow had two entrances, and Bunny made his exit from a route other than the hole he

S. climate and crop service, issued at Lansing on the 21st, says that in most sections of the state the rainfall has been sufficient, but in the extreme southeastern counties of the lower peninsula the conditions are almost droughty. Several sharp frosts occurred, which were quite general, but the damage, in nearly all cases, was very light, and in most counties confined to low lands; strawberries, southern counties some early corn was cut down and will have to be replanted. With but very few exceptions, correspondents report that fruit prospects continue very good.

Ascher Gets a New Trial. Edward Ascher, convicted in Wayne county of the murder of Valmore C. Nichols, was on the 21st granted a new trial by the supreme court. Ascher's case attracted widespread attention. His alleged victim was interested in spiritualism. He went to Detroit from wire. His money was gone, and his the enterprise, gold watch and other effects were in Ascher. Oakman Ousted From Tax Commission.

The supreme court has onsted Robt. Oakman as a member of the state tax commission. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Montgomery and concurred in by the four other justices. As soon as the order of the court is served upon Mr. Oakman he must relinquish his office to Wm. T. Dust, who was appointed by Gov. Bliss. The facts surrounding Oakman's reappointment by Gov. Pingree, his confirmation by the senate and the immediate reconsideration of the vote by which confirmation was had, and the reference of the appointment to a committee, where it has ever since lain, are familiar. The contention of Oakman's counsel was that having once voted to confirm the appointment the senate had no authority to reconsider such vote. This, the opinion says, is the most important question in the case.

Twas All a Dream

Mrs. John Moon, the mother of Mrs. Ethel Costello, the Kalamazoo nurse. alleged to have recently fallen heir to $300,000 through the death of a rich uncle of her first husband in Honduras, arrived in Kalamazoo from Marcellus on the 22d. She went directly to the home of J. H. Bostwick, where her daughter had been engaged as nurse, but was informed that the alleged heiress had slipped away on the 18th and that her whereabouts was a mystery. Mrs. Moon says that the story of her daughter having failen heir to the large estate was untrue, and also that her daughter was never married to a man named Costello, but after she was divorced from her husband, Fra Washington, she assumed the nar e Costello because of her dislike of both of her former names.

An Outrage at Lake Odessa. A heavy charge of d namite was elaced under the window of Mrs. Alice Montague's residence at Lake Odessa on the night of the 20th, and exploded. All of the windows of the residence were torn out and the woman and her daughter frightened so they have had a doctor in constant attendance ever since. Gossip has been running wild about the woman, and it is evident that this is the result. Mrs. Montague has always born a good reputation. Her daughter is a teacher in the village schools. Great excitement prevails and arrests may follow.

Railroad Commissioner Osborn's power to grant or refuse applications from suburban street railways for grade crossings over steam railroad tracks is curtailed by a bill which passed the house on the 21st. It vests the power in the state crossing board. The bill also provides for a general law for incorporation or reincorporation of suburban railways.

The Monroe Traction Co. commenced grading at Monroe on the 20th with 100 men and 10 teams. It is now believed that they will not experience any further trouble from abutting property owners. However, the private right of way at the point of the L. S. & M. S. Ry. crossing has not been secured and it is still a question as to how the crossing will be made.

In a smash-up on the Pere Marquette at Sparta on the night of the 23d, more than a score of women of the Order of the Evening Star, who were in a special car, were seriously injured. All of the injured were from Grand Rapids and had been to Sparta doing degree work. The car was sidetracked and an engine running to meet it crashed into the end of the car.

The home of Glenn S. Allen at Kalamazoo was robbed of $800 worth of jewelry on the night of the 25th. The work was all done upstairs, entrance being gained through a window over a rear porch. REVISION OF THEIR CREED.

Fifty of the 233 Members Ask Dismissal of Subject Many Ask Revision or at Explanatory Statement - An Indian Outbreak Looked for in Wyoming.

Revision of Presbyterian Confession The important question of revising the creed, which for the last two years has been agitating the Presbyterian cliurch, came before the general assembly at Philadelphia on the 23d. The controversy regarding revision has led to the formation of three groups among the 640 commissioners to the general assembly. One group opposes change in doctrinal standards. Another is desirous of setting aside the confession of faith as not truthfully expressing the belief of the church. The third favors maintaining the old confession with a few modifications, and desires the adoption of a clear "declarative" statement, setting forth the most important doctrines. In answer to the questions submitted to the presbyteries, 50 asked the assembly to a revision nor a supplemental statein the U. S. and 16 in foreign lands, The senate passed the following bills failed to respond. Of the remaining whole number ask for some change in vision of the confession, 11 an explanatory statement, 1 revision and an explanatory statement, 52 a supplemental statement, 15 revision and a supplemental statement, 1 an explanatory statement and a supplemental statement, 14 a substitute creed, 1 an alternative creed, and 6 some change, not specified.

The Presbyterian general assembly, by a vote which showed conclusively that a revision of the confession of faith is desired by the church, on the 24th defeated the amendment dismisssystem in Ontonagon county; to fix the ling the whole subject offered the day before by Rev. Geo. D. Baker. of Philadelphia. The assembly decided by aboverwhe'ming majority to continue consideration of the great question.

> Chastly Scenes in Albany. Electric cars racing for a switch while running in opposite directions at the rate of 40 miles an hour, cost five lives on the afternoon of the 26th, by a terrific collision in which over 4 prominent people were injured, some fatally and others seriously. scene of the accident was a point about two miles out of Greenbush, N. Y., on the line of the Albany & Hudson railway. The point where the cars met on the single track was at a sharp curve and so fast were both cars running and so sudden was the collision that the motormen wever had time to put on the brakes before the crash came. The lobby of the local postoffice filled with dead and wounded, hysterical women and children looking for relatives and friends, surgeons administering temporary relief and ambulances racing through the city taking the wounded to the hospitals were the early intimations of the accident.

King Edward had a Narrow Escape. The most dramatic incident in the history of the America's cup occurred on the 224 when a sudden squall on the Solent completely wrecked the new challenger and endangered the life of King Edward and several distinguished persons, including Sir Thomas Lipton. Sir Thomas calculates that a delay of three weeks or a month in the date of the contest in American waters will enable him to come to the scratch. He says that he is greatly handicaped by the fact that he has no duplicate masts for the Shamrock II., but by an unlimited expenditure of money and energy he believes the defects can be remedied in time to sail this year .-

Carnegie's Big Gift Gets a Cold Welcome Scotland is not very enthusiastic over Andrew Carnegie's gift of $10,000,-000 to establish free education in four Scotch universities, Edinburg, Glasgow, Aberdeen and St. Andrews. Carnegie stipulated that the beneficiaries be his "Scotch fellow countrymen" only, no English, Irish, colonials or foreigners. According to the education authorities the administration of Mr. Carnegie's gift presents considerable difficulties and for this reason the Scotch papers for the present, are rather looking the gift horse in the mouth, while the English press is inclined to cavil at the method of Mr. Carnegie's munificence.

Twelve were drowned, including a woman. The steamer Baltimore was sighted from Au Sable early this morning about midway between the dead Au Sable and Au Sable Point with her engines apparently disabled and drifting in a helpless condition. The Ottawa life-saving crew were telegraphed for but were delayed in reaching the scene and were unable to locate the wreck until late this afternoon. The tug Columbia, of Detroit, with a government steam dredge and one loaded lighter for the Soo, was caught in the storm. The lighters and dredge was lost, parting their six-inch cable, but were afterward rescued with their crew of six men. While searching for her tow, the Columbia picked up an engineer and a deckhaud of the Baltimore on a raft. They were almost dead, and were taken to East Tawas. The deckband went insane on the raft.

Allen's First Annual Report. Gov. Charles H. Atlen, of Porto Rico, as presented to the President, through the state department, his first annual report. He expresses the opinion that a scheme of colonial administration, such as is found in the Danish, French and English West Indies, might be safely instituted with variations dependent upon the future policy of the home government. The governor refers to the many suggestions offered that the form of territorial govern-ment adopted by the J. S. be applied to Porto Rico, but points out that & standard form of such government. while useful in the U. S., would not apply successfully to this island possession. He calls attention to the fact that while in such close proximity to the U. S. Porto Rico has been a comparatively unknown island to Americans. In conclusion, Gov. Atlen urged the introduction of fresh blood and Anglo-Saxon push and energy as the means of lifting the little island out of its lethargy, and by thrift and industry, develop its riches to their full measure.

Threw Acid in Ills Face for Revenge.

Charles A. Spencer, better known as 'Doc" Spencer, committed a cowardly assault upon Attorney John S. Starkweather at the railroad station in Romeo, on the 20th. As Starkweather entered the door of the building Spencer sprang at him and threw the contents of a bottle containing a strong acid in the attorney's face. Spence was immediately placed under arrest. Starkweather was badly burned about the right eye, chin, mouth and breast, but his injuries are not serious. Spencer says he intended to maim his victim for life, and expresses no regret for his act. He says he has waited for years for an opportunity to wreck vengeance upon Starkweather. Spencer used to live at Romeo, but his home is now at West Bay City.

Back in her own room again with its comfort and color and photographs and other reminding bits of college life, Miss Harwood quickly made another Gibson picture of herself among the enveloping cushions of the couch and prepared to read the letters which the west-bound train had brought in. From among the advertisements with their typewritten envelopes, and the fashionable stationery of girl friends, she picked out the big letter with the Chicago postmark, the letter that she waited for from day to day. They were not engaged-not yet, but she knew they would be some day when he should get established in a good hospital position and should ask her to come.

She tore the envelope open anticipating the pleasure to come. But this one was not like the others. It was short and stated briefly that he expected to be married in May. The lady was Miss Estelle Manwaring, whose father Virginia Harwood remembered is chief surgeon on the hospital staff and a very wealthy man.

There was little else except the name which was signed at the bottom. "The same old story. A girl with money is just as good as a girl without," said Miss Harwood aloud with a hard little laugh as she dropped the sheets to the floor and lay staring at

For a long time she sat before the fire. After awhile she arose and went to her writing desk. Her pen flew hurriedly over a page of note paper. Then she rang her call-bell furiously.

"Tell John," she said to the boy at the door, "to saddle his horse and take this note to the Malchero ranche. No. not tomorrow, tonight. Quick now!" Then to herself, "I'll take another walk tomorrow with Larry."

VALUABLE GROSBEAK EGGS. $4 Each Received by La4 Who Caught

Some of the Birds Last February, when the temperature held at zero for a week at a time and the snow was falling every other day, Hector Sanborn, aged 15, set horse hair snares about his home and caught more than two dozen pine grosbeaks, says the Dexter, Me., correspondent of the New York Sun. Most of them were females. He kept the birds in a large, open and well-lighted room at the rear of the barn and fed them on seeds and refuse fruit. While the weather continued cold the birds were mostly healthy and took kindly to the new way of life, becoming fat and frisky with nothing to do but eat and sleep. In March several pairs mated, built nests and began to lay eggs, and by April 1 the boy had seceured 34 fine specimens. Then the spring weather came and caused the birds to have convulsions, from which nearly onehalf died. Finding that he would be unable to keep his pets through the summer young Sanborn liberated the survivors, allowing them to go north and seek more congenial temperature. Last week the boy received an offer of $4 each for every pine grosbeak egg eggs, and two days ago he received a check for $120. If next winter proves to he cold enough to drive the grosbeaks to Maine the boy can see a big

"JUDGING OTHERS" THE SUB-JECT LAST SUNDAY

From the Following Bible Text: "The Lord Weigheth the spirits"-Prov. XVI: 2 -Weighed in the Divine Scales-Nations Like Individuals.

(Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch, N. Y.) Washington, May 26.—In this discourse, from a symbol of the Bible, Dr. Talmage urges the adoption of an unusual mode of estimating character and shows how different is the divine way from the human way; text, Proverbs xvi, 2, "The Lord weigheth the spirits."

The subject of weights and measures is discussed among all nations, is the subject of legis ation, and has much to do with the world's prosperity. A system of weights and measures was invented by Phidon, ruler of Argos, about 800 years before Christ. An ounce, a pound, a ton, were different in different lands. Henry the III. decided that an ounce should be the weight of 640 dried grains of wheat from the middle of the ear. From the reign of William the Conqueror to Henry VIII. the English pound was the weight of 7,680 grains of wheat. Queen Elizabeth decreed that a pound should be 7,000 grains of wheat taken from the middle of the ear. The piece of platinum kept at the office of the exchequer in England in an atmosphere of 62 F. decides for all Great Britain what a pound must be. Scientific representatives from all lands met in 1869 in Paris and established international standards of weights and measures. . . .

Two Kinds of Truth.

There are Christian people who had faith that China would be redeemed and for thirty years have been contributing toward that object, but they changed their minds and now despair of the Flowery Kingdom since the Boxers began their massacres. There are those who were busy in New York missions and expected the salvation of our American cities until recent developments showed that the police were in complicity with crime, and now these Christian workers are despairful, as though all were lost. Of what worth is such a man's faith? When weighed, will they have what the chemists call atomic weight-the weight of an atom? No. Such faith is no faith at all. But there is a man who by repentance and prayer has put himself into alliance with the Almighty God. Made all right by the Savior's grace, this man goes to work to make the world longed daylight, and the spirit of crulaunched this world, and he never in Jeremiah's lamentation, and the launched a failure. The garden of Eden spirit of evangelism in Paul between was a useless morass compared with the road to Damascus, where he first what the whole world will be when it saw the light, and the road to Ostia, blossoms and leaves and flashes and the place of his beheadment, is weighresounds with its coming glory. If I can Lord weigheth the spirits." say nothing but vile of them, I will keep my lips shut as tight as the lips of the sphinx, which for 3,000 years has looked off upon the sands of the desert and uttered not one word about the desolation. The scheme of reconstructing this world is too great for me to manage, but I am not expected to boss this job. I have faith to believe that the plan is well laid out and will be well executed. Give me a brick and a trowel and I will begin now to help build the wall. I am not a soloist, but I can sing 'Rock of Ages' to a sick pauper. I cannot write a great book but I can pick a cinder out of a child's eye or a splinter from under his thumb nail. I now enlist in this army that is going to take the world for God, and I defy all the evil powers, human and satanic, to discourage me. Count me into the service. chestra."

All through that man's experience there runs a faith that will keep him cheerful and busy and triumphant. I like the watchword of Cromwell's Ironsides, the men who feared nothing and dared everything, going into battle with the shout: "The Lord of hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge! Selah!" No balance that human brain ever planued or human hand ever constructed is worthy of weighing such a spirit. Gold and precious stones are measured by the carat, which is four grains. The dealer puts the diamond or the pearl on one side of the scales and the carat on the other side and tells you the weight, But we need something more delicately constructed to weigh that wonderful quality of faith which I am glad to know will be recognized and rewarded for all time and all eternity. The earthly weighman counterpoises on metallic balances the iron, the coal, the articles of human food, the solids of earthly merchandise, but he cannot test or announce the amount of things spiritual. Here is something which the Attic and Babylonian weighing systems of the past and the metric weighing system of the present cannot manage. "The Lord weigheth the time career. From an old book part-Greek translated into good English, he reads of a great farmer like Amos, a great mechanic like Aholiab, a great lawyer like Moses, a great soldier like Joshua, a great king like Hezekiah, a great poet, like David, a great glean like Ruth, a great physician like Luke, a great preacher like Paul, a great Christ like no one on earth or in heaven because the superior of all beings terrestrial or celestial. He has learned by heart the Ten Commandments and the sermon on the mount and has splendid theories about everything. Between that fair haired boy and the achievement of what he wants and expects there are obstacles and hindrances known only to the God who is going to discipline him for heroics magnificent. I have no power to prophesy that different experiences of his encouragement and disappointment, of his struggle or his triumph. but as sure as God lives to make his his word come true that boy who will sleep tonight nine hours without waking will be final victor. I do not know the intermediate chapters of the volume of that young man's life, but I know the first chapter and the last chapter. The first chapter is made of high resolves in the strength of God, and the last chapter is filled with the rewards of a noble ambition. As his obsequies pass out to the cemetery the poor will weep because they will lose their best friend. Many in whose temporal welfare and eternal salvat'on he bore a part will hear of it in various places and eulogize his memory, and God will say to the ascending spirit, "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life which is in the midst of the paradise of God." In the hour of that soul's release and enthronement there will be heavenly acclamation, as in the royal balances "the Lord weigheth the epirits."

Other balances may lack precision and fail in counterpoise. Scales are affected by conditions of atmosphere and acid vapors. After all that the nations have done to establish an invariable standard, perfection has never yet been reached, and never will be reached. But the royal balances of which I speak are the same in heat and cold, in all weathers, in all lands and in all the heavens just and true to the last point of justice and truth. The same balance that weighed the tempted spirit of Adam under the fruit tree, and the spirit of Cain in the first assassination, and the spirit of courage in Joshua during the proright. He says to himself: 'God elty of Jezebel, and the spirit of grief one six-thousanth part of a grain. Weighed in D vine Scales. In the same divine scales the spirit of nations and civilizations is weighed. Egyptian civilization did its work, but it was cruel and superstitious and idolatrous and defiant of the Almighty. It was cast out and cast down. The tourist finds his chief interest not in the generation that now inhabits the regions watered by the Nile and sprinkled by her cascades. but in the temples that are the skeletons of ancient pride and pomp and power-her obelisks, her catacombs. her mosques, the colossus of Rameses the dead cities of Memphis and Thebes, the temples of Luxor and Karnak, the resseum containing the mummified forms of the pharaohs. It is not the Egypt of today that we go to see, but the Egypt of many centuries ago. Her spirit has departed. Her doom was sealed. The Lord weighed

Now cross over the Dardanelles or Hellespont and see Grecian civilization put in the royal balances. Surely that is an imperishable spirit. A land that produced a Pindar and a Homer in poetry, a Sophocles and an Aeschylus in tragedy, a Herodotus and Thucydides in history, a Socrates and Plato in philosophy, a Strabo in geography, a Hippocrates in medicine, a Xenophon in literature, a Plutarch in biography, a Miltiades and an Alexander in battle and could build a temple of Dianna at Ephesus and the acro-Corinthus at Corinth and could crown the Acropolis with a Parthenon -surely such a land, with more gentus compressed in small space than in my of the nations of all the ages, will stand forever triumphant among surrounding nations. No. Her pride of heroics, her pride of fiterature, her pride of architecture, must be brought down lower and lower, and humiliation must follow humiliation until in the latter part of the nineteenth century she is compelled to submit to the outrages of a sultan whose hands are red with the blood of 50,000 Armenians. Had Athens prayerfully listened to Paul's sermon on Mars hill and adopted his precepts of brotherhood and divine worship she would have stood in her old power today, and all Greece would have stood with her, the city of Birmingham an estate of and that civilization so long dead un- 416 acres, valued at $900,000, upon But look into the dream of that der the carved pillars of her shrines which to build houses for working

> The Weighing of Nationa And so the spirit of our American nation is put into the royal balance, and it will be weighed as certainly as all the nations of the past were weighed and as all the nations of the present are being weighed. When we go to estimate the wealth of this nation, we weigh its gold and silver and coal and iron and copper and lead, and all the steel yards and all the balances are kept busy. So many tons of this and so many tons of that, a mountainful of this metal and another mountainful of another metal. That is well. We want to know our mining wealth, our manufacturing wealth, our agricultural wealth, and the bushel measure and the scales have an important work. But know right well there is a divine weighing in this country all the time going on, and I can tell you our country's destiny if you will tell me whether it shall be a God honoring nation, reverential to the only book of his authorship, observing the "shalt nots" of the law of right given on Mount Sinai and the aw of love given on the Mount of Beatitudes, one day out of the week observed not in revel; but in holy convocation, marriage honored in ceremony and in fact, blasphemy silenced in all the streets, high toned systems of morals in all parts of our land, then our institutions will live and all the wondrous prosperities of the present are only a faint hint of the greater prosperities to come.

Keep the National Life Pure. But if our character and behavior as a nation are reversed and good mora's give place to loose living and God is put away from our hearts and our schools and our homes and our people and our literature be debauched and anarchism and atheism have full sway and the marriage relation becomes a joke instead of a sanctity and the God whom Columbus prayed to on the day of his landing from stormy seas and whom Benjamin Franklin publicly reverenced when he moved amid derisive cries the regular opening of the American congress with prayer shall in our national future be insulted and blasphemed, then it will not be long before we will need another Edward Gibbons to write the decline and fall of the United States republic.

Pyrrhus was king and had large dominion, but was determined to make war against the Romans, and Cineas. the friend of the king, said to him, Sir, when you have conquered them what will you do next?" "Then Sicily is near at hand and easy to master." "And what when you have conquered Sicily?" "Then we will pass over to Africa and take Carthage, which cannot long withstand us." When these are conquered, what will you next attempt?" "Then we will fall in upon Greece and Macedonia and recover what we have lost there." Well, when all are subdued, what fruit do you expect from all your victories?" "Then," said the king, "we will sit down and enjoy ourselves." 'Sir." said Cineas, "may we not do it now? Have you not already a kingdom of your own, and he that cannot enjoy himself with a kingdom cannot with the whole world." I say to you who love the Lord, the kingdom is within you; make more of the invisible conquests. Study a peace which the world has no bushel to measure, no steel-yards to weigh. As far as possible we should make our balances like to the divine balances.

The Uniform Standard.

By joint resolution of congress, in 1836, the treasurer of the United States was ordered to send a complete et of the standard weights and measures adopted by the national government to the governors of all the states, so that there might be uniformity and accuracy, and that distribution was made. So, now, the Ruler of the earth and heaven, having established forever the right standard. sends to us all and to all people a copy of that standard-the standard by which "the Lord weigheth the spirits."

What a world this will be when it is weighed after its regeneration shall have taken place! Scientists now guess at the number of tons our world weighs and they put the Apennines and the Sierra Nevadas and Chimborazo and the Himalayas in the scales. But if weighed as to its morals at the present time in the royal balance the heaviest things would be the wars. the international hatreds, the crimes mountain high, the moral disasters that stagger the hemispheres on their way through immensity. But when the gospel has gardenized the earth. as it will yet gardenize it, and the atmosphere shall be universal balm and the soil will produce universal harvest and fruitage and the last cavalry horse shall be unsaddled and the last gun carriage unwheeled and the last fortress turned into a museum to show nations in peace what a horrid thing war once was, then the world will be weighed, and as the opposite side of the scales lifts as though it was light as a feather the right side of the scales will come down, weighing more than all else those tremendous values that St. Peter enumerated-faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, charity.

One of the new type of passenger engines of the Michigan Central has arrived from Schenectady and is a matter of considerable interest about the Junction. It has 6 feet 9 inch drivers, four on a side and a trailer under the firebox. It is so arranged that the weight of the engine can be thrown ahead on the drivers in climbing up hills. The small trailer allows an extra wide fire box. Two doors in stead of one, one on either side, are of particular interest to the fireman. The locomotive is built for hauling heavy passenger trains at a high speed. It has not yet been run in the yards. Other engines of the same type are expected in a few days.—Jackson Press.

Cicero Cuntiffe and Dan Holton, two Jackson boys, found a hawk's nest while out in the country the other day, and in it were a young hawk and an egg. Cicero gave the bird to his companion and put the egg in his own pocket. When he got home he put his hand in his pocket to get the egg, and instead found something wet and soft, which investigation proved to be a young hawk. He accused Holton of having made the substitution, but Dan proved an alibi by showing the bird Mrs. Haddy Ordway and daughter Cicero had given him. Then it dawned upon the boys that Cicero had usurped the malernal function of Mrs. Hawk at a critical stage and hatched out the bird by the warmth of his own body.

ABOUT IMMIGRATION.

Some Points of Interest in This Connection Gathered from Statistics.

The changing character of our immigration may be seen by the ten months' record of the present year, says the Atlanta Constitution.

The total immigration is 460,000, of which only 50,000 were from Great Britain and Ireland. Over 300,000 came from Italy, Austria-Hungary and Russia. Of the 50,000 from the British islands 40,000 were from Ireland.

Only 4.000 people came from the tropics, which leads the report to say:

The fact that during that year the immigration from Oceanica, India, Arabia, Africa, South America, Central America and the West Indies, combined -the entire tropical territory of the world-amounts to less than 4,000 people, or less than one per cent. of the total immigration, indicates the unwillingness of the average citizen of tropical lands to transfer his residence to even so mild a climate as that which the southern part of the United States of-

The further fact that during the year 1900 the total number of immigrants prosperity such as exists in no other part of the world with natives of the tles free at Glazier & Stimson's.

Under the designation of immigrants from the tropics are included all immigrants from Mexico, Central America and the West Indies, all of lies south of the Tropic of Cancer.

DENTISTRY FOR DOGS.

er drawn? In London there is dentist who devotes himself to the dogs of his patrons. No amalgam fillings are put in by his hand—noth-ing in that line but gold. He says the bulldog is the best patient. You can pull his jaw off and not a whimper will be heard. On the other hand, the softest dog is the King Charles spaniel. These dogs sometimes frighten themselves into fits when the work of drawing a tooth begins. A good deal of the snapping and snarling of pupples is due to their teething. As in infants of the human race, new teeth come and try times serious complications ensue, as with babies. So the dog dentist has to take out the old teeth and give the new ones a chance.

Of course the dog dentist is likely to be bitten, and this one in London bears on his hands the marks of many a refractory dog's teeth. But these bites never cause him any worry. He dabs vinegar and salt on the wound and considers that this treatment is better than cauterizing.

CHAPTER XVI.-(Continued.) We returned late, and very tired; and as there were two beds in my room, Lee consented to occupy one other end of the town.

It might have been three hours later, when I was roused from a deep sleep by the consciousness that something was in the room, and bending ever my bed. I had heard the words, "Are you coming?" in a deep, low tone close at my very ear; but when I started up, I saw nothing. The moon shone in at the window, broad and full. I could discover nothing more than the familiar furniture, and my little terrier, sleeping quietly on his cushion in the corner.

That voice, so deep and full, was still ringing in my ear. A vague ter-For was at my heart. I turned upon my pillow. As I did so I saw-I swear I saw-through the curtains-that face! And the cold and gloomy black eyes were bent full upon me; and the clenched hand, with its signet ring, was raised to draw the curtains further away. The vision faded: 1 looked over at the opposite bed. Lee alept quietly with a smile upon his

I was glad that he did so, even in the midst of my horror. I did not dare to raise my head again; but as I lay counting the slow ticking of the clock upon the mantelpiece and expecting every instant to feel that clenched hand upon my own, a sudden drowsiness seized me, and, in spite of my terror I fell into a second slumber, as deep and dreamless as the first.

I awoke again and quite as sud denly. I drew back the curtain and looked out into the room.

"Are you there, Lee?" I asked. No answer come. His bed was empty. I rose at once and began to dress. Far up the lonely, moonlit was Lee. I knocked at the door of the next room, where the janitor of our college him once again. slept. He came and opened it.

"For heaven's sake, dress quickly come to the college with me said. "You have the keys?"

"They are in the hall," he said. looking bewildered.

I went to the nail-they were not there. "Lee has them-h-e has gone!" I exclaimed wringing my hands. The janitor seemed to comprehend everything instantly and hurried on his clothes in an instant. Going cautiously down the stairs, we closed the hall door behind us. We leaped the hedge, for the gate was still locked, and ran swiftly up the road. But the lonely figure I had seen, vanished before we reached the college grounds.

I paused a moment under the portico and leaned against one of the pillars to recover my breath. The great hall door was open; we entered and stole up the stairs without a word The moon lighted us.

We tracked him through the first and second hall, the lecture-room and the library. Then we found the door of the second staircase unlocked, and knew by the faint, sickening smell that came up that he had found his way to the dissecting room. We paused in the hall outside its door to watch his movements. His eyes were open, but it was evident that he was still asle p, and my companion held me back, whispering, "Don't make any noise that will wake him suddenly. " If he finds himself here with that corpse he will die of fear. We must get him into the open air before we speak to him."

The body lay as they had left it that night-a- headless trunk-carved and cut in many directions by the scalpel.

Lee bent over it with an absorbed air. One hand held the keys he had taken; the other grasped the cold elenched fingers, seeking for the signet ring. He found it-then he raised himself up with an anxious, thoughtful air. He walked slow toward the window and seemed to look out, though the heavy wooden shutters were closed with bars of iron, and the only light tht entered came through the open door.

I sat down upon the stairs and leaned my head upon my hand, for the fetid air sickened me. An exclamation of horror from my companion's lips roused me before many moments had passed and following his outstretched fingers with my eyes I saw Lee in the act of unlocking a closet door.

"The head is there!" whispered the

I sprang forward-he followed me. The headless corpse was in our path. Our sudden entrance jarr d the slight boards and the body fell to the ground with a dull, heavy sound, that woke Lee from his sleep just as the key turned in the closet door.

"Don't look there!" I cried wildly. "Look at me, Lee only at me, and you are safe!"

"Oh, how horrible!" said Marjorie shuddering. 'Rose, if you read any more such tales I cannot stay in this house!"

CHAPTER XVII.

By the five o'clock train and coach of the evening a strange gentleman arrived at a little roadside inn about two miles from Holllow Ash Hall, and four from Banley. He was a handsome, foreign-looking man, apparently about thirty-four years of age-"A perfect gentleman!" as the landlady rapturously called him because he drank her weak tea without complaining and afterwards sat quietly in his parlor over the wine and cigars, without giving any human being in the house the least trouble.

Secured from all intrusion, he watched the cold moonlight falling on the distant fields, and listened idly to the "Last Rose of Summer," played on a cracked piano, without much regard to tune or time, by his landlady's on the mountains of peace, his cry road I could see a figure hurrying daughter, in the room below.

He sat still and pensive "in golden toward the college. I knew that it quiets of the moon," and thought of his early, long-lost love, now so near

Would any secret instinct tell her that he was coming?

Would she feel his presence—his of them?

Who shall say?

His thoughts grew dim and more indistinct. The song below, and the voices of the people at the bar beyond, seemed to blend in one low, continuous murmur, but faintly heard, yet soothing from its very indistinct-

His eyes closed-he slept-but in his dream, Rose was still with him. He awoke some time after with a sudden start.

The moon, now high in the heavens, shone full in his face, and showed the deserted street beneath.

A clock struck upon the stairs. It was just eight.

He uttered an exclamation of surprise took his hat and cloak and going out at the open front door, took his way alone toward Hollow Ash

A.id, as he walked, he thought of the quiet and beautiful English home where most of his boyhood had been spent, and where, in after years, the Rose of his life had bloomed for him -bloomed, but never fadea! Among those trees and flowers his heart got rooted in so deeply that to the day of his death the fibres could never be wrenched away. He had gone far from the place; possibly he could never look upon it rgain; yet ever and anon, as he wandered through the world a violet springing at his feet. a bird singing in the air, a little of blue sky beyond the distant hills made him young again, and brought the old house so vividly before him, that he could almost see the faces and hear the voices, nay, catch the very words of those who were fiving there, and who had doubtless forgotten him en-He thought of those old times witth a smile and a sigh as he walked quickly along the village road. He thought of Rose as he had seen her there, evening after evening, laughing. singing and flirting-yes, certainly flirting, like a princess of love among her worshipers. He thought of a night when they had quarreled, and when he had left the house in anger only to return and hide within the grounds, watching her fealously, as the curtains waving in the breeze gave him glimpses now and then of the lighted rooms. Oh, what sighs he breathed against the rough bark of the tree which supported him, as he saw her beautiful face, sparkling with delight and laughter, turned toward the window! How, later on, he envied the partner who held her hand, or clasped her waist! How he longed to be the flower in her bouquet, the apangle in her slipper, the very ground beneath her feet, so that he might be touched or looked upon again by her. She had never known of this passionate devo- 100,000 additional acres of land devot-It was too late. think not. What has once been a part of us can scarcely fade into utter nothingness again. In another and more perfect state of existence, these elements of happiness, disturbed here, but peaceful forever there, will be our own again. Their parting had been very much like all others, to all outward seeming. The tearful eyes, the halfchoked farewell, were all there; and careless eyes looked on and careless laughter arose around them. But I doubt if ever there was a sorer heart than Stanley Vere took with him as the train moved slowly away, as he caught the last glance from those soft eyes, the last wave of that snowy hand.

In such separations pity is wasted on the one who goes; it should be given to the one who is left behind, to follow each daily occupation, yet forever miss the voice and eye that once lightened and illumined them.

But the breaking up of such an attachment is no light thing, and to him the world seemed suddenly dark and cold. Missing Rose, he groped blindly on his way, as if the light of his existence had gone out. In fact, she was the only one who had stood between him and the world. Others might have a mother, a father, a brother, or a sister, to stand between them and that harsh and cruel judge. He had but her, and when she was taken from him, all those sweet ties were rent in the one that bound them together, and he stood face to face with all the antagonists, unarmed and unshielded. He tried to supply her place ening difficulties, Count von Waldersee, because he loathed loneliness. In every instance he failed. Those whom of China. he sought had other ties and friends; at least, he could only occupy a secondary place within their hearts. What was more important to him than this -they were of the common order of women. Their souls were narrowbrains capable of supporting but one set of ideas. Probably he wearied them, but it is certain that they wearied him most unbearably.

Now Rose, with all her girlish fun and gaiety, had a noble soul, that fed upon high thoughts, and intimate association with such a fresh, pure spirit as hers had unfitted him for any lower companionship. So it came to pass that he still went on his way alone; and in the valley of humiliation, or had ever been, "Will she ever come back to me? Shall I find and win her once again?" He asked that question standing in the public road and looking up at the white walls and lighted windows of her present home. As he gazed, he saw a figure—a female figure -pacing up and down the lawn. His love-even before he had assured her heart told him who it must be. In a moment he was by her side.

"Rose! Rose! Will you welcome me back?" he cried in a voice that trembled with eagerness.

And she, pale and startled, but smiling all the while, put both her hands in his.

"Dear Stanley, welcome!" And so the question was answered.

A PRINCE OF INDIA.

Enys Something About Life and Educatien in His Country.

The Maharajah of Bavoda, in Indiamaharajah means "sovereign prince," you know-talks very well in the Nineteenth Century Magazine about the difference between life in his country and in England. He says, among other things: I can hardly compare life in England, where I am a private gentleman, with my life in India, where I am a ruling prince, but the high level of Milwaukee ...... 19 intelligence usual in England, and my coming into contact with men of different culture, pursuits and interests, makes life, and especially a holiday, more enjoyable and more instructive. I also find the climate produces bodily and intellectual activity. I am much struck with the time and pains devoted to public affairs and to helping the poor by private citizens in Europe, but I do not intend hereby to establish any comparison to the disadvantage of the people of India, as they do not possess so large a rich, educated and leisured class. In India, in order to live happily and to prosper, one must not attempt to be above the common herd. Prominence of intellect or originality of thought is disliked and looked upon with suspicion. There can be no statesmen or generals where there is no scope for the exercise of those qualities. The great majority of the people, on account of long thraldom, ignorance and poverty, are incapable of right discernment. The absence of intelligent, independent and effective criticism renders - difficult any high standard of indigenous growth. The government of the day, whose favorable criticism is valued as a hallmark, has set before them models of foreign origin-a fact which makes individuality of thought still more rare and difficult. I would myself preserve the village as the unit of administration, and would not centralize Buffalo more than is avoidable. I would endow the village with schools, sanitary establishments, public offices, courts of justice, and drinking water for men and animals. I should introduce many commercial and technical institutions.

CHINA WAR NEWS.

The state department has been made fully acquainted by Mr. Rockhill with the character of the proposition as to the floating of the indemnity loan unfolded at Pekin. While grave objections are perceived to the Russian project for a joint guarantee of the loan, because of the immense difficulty of securing the assent of congress to an agreement which would entangle for more than a quarter of a century at least, there is nothing in Mr. Rockhill's instructions which would cause him to autagonize the proposition, provided it is fully developed so as to secure the safety of the loan while assuring the integrity of China. It is suggested that these objects can be best secured by causing China to deliver to each nation bonds bearing 4 per cent interest to the face value of the nation's indemnity claim. The nation holding the bonds could dispose of them at its pleasure, it could affix its own guarantee and sell the bonds in the open market. England, too, is opposed to a joint guarantee of Reports have been received from Pekin to the effect that Field Marshal Count von Waldersee has informed the Chinese that the troops will not leave Pekin until the court returns, and he himself is received in imperial audience. The French have withdraw from the Shausi expedition, and the English have refused to take any part in it. It is probable, therefore, that the Germans will be compelled to go alone. In spite of constant and threat--not because he was inconstant, but single-handed, continues to maintain the prestige of foreigners in this part

A dispatch from Taku says that Gen. Chaffee was told as he was about to leave Pekin that there were two cases of smallpox among the Indian troops now in camp at Tonku, where the Americans were to proceed to board their transports. Gen. Chaffee is now awaiting developments. In the event of being held by quarantine he will probably move up the Pei river for two weeks.

The foreign ministers' meeting at Pekin on the 23d was very unsatisfactory. No power was willing to accede to the Americans' idea of a reduction of the Chinese indemnity to $230,000, 000, though Great Britain recognizes the advisability of some reduction.

INDIAN RELICS ARE BOOUS

There is an organized system of imposition in Indian relies. Very few of those found in the cities were ever seen by redskins; they are made by wholesale for purpose of deceiving the credulous. One firm in North Carolina does a large business in this line. The fraud they practice is almost impossible to detect so thoroughly have they mastered the art. Recently this firm tried to palm off on Rev. J. H. Frazee, D. D., of Knoxville, Tenn., who is a collector, some of their goods, but without success. Dr. Frazee received a letter from the firm which mentioned that his name had been recommended by a prominent physielan of Knoxville as a person who would likely wish to buy soms relics. They represented that they had been making extensive collections of all kinds of relics and had disposed of some, but wished to go out of the business, and therefore would sell relics on hand cheap. The letter said a box of samples would be sent, which was done. Dr. Frazee examined the contents of the box and finding nothing that he did not already have returned them. Shortly afterward a man in the west who had heard of Dr. Frazee as a collector of Indian relics, wrote him, asking that he might put him in the way of getting some Tennessee relica Dr. Frazee, having given little attention to the specimens from North Carolina, and not detecting the fraud, recommended to his western friend this firm as having represented that it had some relics for sale. In a short time the western man answered and branded the North Carolina firm as flagrant frauds. He had already fallen into their trap. He said the relics he had secured from the bogus dealers of North Carolina were difficult to detect from the real. He had the relics investigated by prominent collectors in the west, who could not determine accurately as to the fraud. The relics were then sent to government experts, who said the whole collection was bogus. The North Carolina tricksters have probably done an extensive business.-Chicago Chronicle.

The State That Makes History.

Kansas' inhabitants are among the most active, tolerant and versatile on the globe. They give fads and hobbies of all kinds at hospital receptions. Maine has had prohibition in one shape and another for fifty years, but Kansas' brief experience with it has attracted far more attention from the country than it won in the half a century in which it has been in operation in the parent state. Just now, through that law, Kansas is contributing to "the gayety of nations." The entire gamut of the human emotions-tragedy, melodrama, burlesque, farce—has been swept by the events in which Kansas has participated. Across the pages of the story of Kansas in the past forty-five years have passed as striking and picturesque characters-John Brown, Jim Lane, the guerilla, Quantrell; John J. Ingalls, Mrs. Lease, Jerry Simpson, William A. Peffer, Carrie Nation, Gen. Funston-as have figured anywhere in the novels of Dumas, Balzac and Dickens.-Leslie's Weekly.

Ruskinites Settle Mooted Questi n. The mooted question of how little a man can live on per day has been definitely answered by the Ruskinites, who have a settlement about ninety miles south of Savannah, Ga. They are a band of Socialists and number about 300 persons, and they have proved that a man can live on less than eight cents a day when living in a community such as theirs. Every man works eight hours per day, and all board at the main hall. Artificial Rilk to Valuable-Artificial silk apparently can be made, but it answers to the real thing as oleomargarine answers to butter. Going the rounds of the papers of Continental Europe is an item that three factories for the production of artificial silk are in operation; that one, in Wolston, England, produces 6.600 pounds a week; one in Besancon, France, 12,000 pounds, and one in Sprejtenbach, Germany, 3,500 pounds. It is stated, furthermore, that other factories will soon be built in Belgium and in Germany. Before the Frankfort Society of Natural Philosophy Dr. Freund, in a recent lecture on the subject, said that though artificial silk can compete with natural silk, it is not as valuable. Artificial silk has been used as a covering for cables and as a substitute for horsehalr, but it has a tendency to break if wetted, and, therefore, it must usually be mixed with natural silk and cotton. The artificial more brilliant effects can be produced with it. This industry, which is said over the old man fell ill, and the wife's developed to its fulleset extent in a few years.-New York Press.

She Counted Her Predecessors. George Washington Anderson, the confessed husband of seventeen wives, most of whom are still living, has just been sent by the seventeenth to the Pleasants county poorhouse, West Virginia, while she attempts to recover a little of the wealth that she gave up to marry him, and sues for a divorce. Anderson was 68 years old and his bride 74 when they eloped to Parkersburg last month and were married there. They had known each other only two days, but in that time he had learned the lesson he had so often and so easily learned before, and she, seeing in him, no doubt, the realization of a lifetime's longing, accepted him as soon as he proposed. He represented that he was drawing a pension. She was also receiving a pension, but as he was drawing support from the government she willingly gave up hers for him. After the honeymoon was devotion to him was remarkable. But as time wore on she began to suspect that he was not all he represented himself to be. The time to fill out vouchers for his pension came and went and he neglected to attend to his. She began a search through his pockets after the papers, and the first fession that he had been married 16 times before he saw her. That took all the glamor of the married life which she had hoped would bring her happiness, and when he added that nearly all of the preceding 16 are alive and well she bundled him bodily out of divorce,-Chicago Journal.

No woman really enjoys wealth unless shifeels that she is inspiring envy.

"I Followed Mrs.Pinkham's Advice and Now Lam Well:

A woman is sick—some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story.

She holds back something, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and this completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it a wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician. This is the reason who hundreds of thousands of women are now in correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can give every symptom, so that when she is ready to advise them she is in possession of more facts from her correspondence with the patient than the physician can possibly obtain through a personal interview.

Following we publish a letter from a woman showing the result of a correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. All such letters are considered absolutely confidential by Mrs. Pinkham, and are never published in any way or manner without the consent in writing of the patient; but hundreds of women are so grateful for the health which Mrs. Pinkham and her medicine have been able to restore to them that they not only consent to publishing their letters, but write asking that this be done in order that other women who suffer may be benefited by their experience.

Mrs. Ella Rice, Chelsea, Wis., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-For two years I was troubled with falling and inflammation of the womb. I suffered very much with bearing-down pains, headache, backache, and was not able to do anything. What I endured no one knows but those who have suffered as I did. I could hardly drag myself across the floor. I doctored with the physicians of this town for three months and grew worse instead of better. My husband and friends wished me to write to you, but I had no faith in patent medicines. At last I became so bad that I concluded to ask your advice. received an answer at once advising me to take your Vegetable Compound. and I did so. Before I had taken two bottles I felt better, and after I had taken five bottles there was no happier woman on earth, for I was well again. I know that your Vegetable Compound cured me, and I wish and advise every woman who suffers as I did to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Believe me always grateful for the recovery of my health."-Mas. Ella Rice, Chelsea, Wis.

HOW INDIANS MAKE SUGAR.

They Will Not Eat the Kind That Is

If the people in general would follow the example of the full-blood Indians in this section, the sugar trust would soon see its finish, writes an Eufaula (I. The Indians are not particular whether the kettles, are clean, and the sugar and molasses that they manufacture are only palatable to themselves. Their objection to the white man's sugar is that they don't know what it is made of. They are afraid it is injurious to health. None of their mills belong to the trust.

PONY FARM IN YORK STATE. Where Scores of the Hardy Little Shetlands Are Always to

In New York state there is a stock farm to visit which would delight the heart of any boy or girl. Here they raise Shetland ponies and at all times you will find from 60 to 70 of these thoroughbreds grazing about or romping with one another. When these ponies are born they only weigh from 20 to 35 pounds, and can be fondled and played with like a dog, and the more you make of them the better they like it.

The ponies are ridden and driven all the time by the children of the neighborhood and sometimes six or go to inspect the Shetlands they are quickly relieved of any anxiety as to the gentle disposition of the ponies when they see six or eight boys rush to harness them. They have a little fox terrier dog on the farm that loves to jump on the ponies' backs and ride, and the ponies don't mind it a bit.

All the stock ponies and colts run out all winter. They roam the farm and hunt under the snow for grass. They prefer to stay out no matter how stormy. At the same time they have access to a big straw stack and a warm barn, but it takes a blizzard to drive them to the barn except at feeding times.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas default has been made in the Naomi Oles, the little six-year-old conditions of a certain indenture of mortdaughter of Frederick Oles, of Lans- gage, dated the twentieth day of April, A. D. 1895, executed by Ebenezer C. Rhoades and Helen M. Rhoades, his wife to Matthew E. Keeler, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said county of Washtenaw, in said state of Michigan, on the 23d day of April, A. D. 1895, in liber 90 of mortgages, on page 116, by which the power of sale in sald mortgage has become operative and whereas there thousand eighty-six dollars is now claimed to be due the sum of hundred principal and interest and thirty dollars as an attorney fee as provided by law, and was not becoming that a boy of his age should wear such pendants, and it was with much persuasion that she finally induced him to have his hair cut. When the barber had shorp him given that by virtue of said power of the said every given that by virtue of said power of sale and the laws of this state on Monthem and placed them away for safe keeping.

Recently she had a doll's wig made of the hair, and, having had it placed upon a pretty doll, the grandmother presented it to Naomi. The little girl is extremely proud of her gift, and seems to thoroughly realize the day of July, 1901, at 12 o'clock, noon, at the east front door of the court for said county of Ann Arbor, in said county, and show cause, in the city of Ann Arbor, in said county and show cause, the hair had being the place where the circuit court for said county of Washtenaw is held), I will sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, the lands and premises described in said mortgage, or so much with the court of the persons interested in said account, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

W. L. WATKINS, Judge of Probate. day the 1st day of July, 1901, at 12 value of this doll with natural hair thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy so peculiarly secured. Little Naomi's the amount due, interest, cost and expresent is the envy of all the little penses of said sale, said premises being situated in the township of Sharon, county of Washtenaw, state of Michigan, and described as follows, to wit:

The west half of the southeast quarter The old saying about sending coals of section number four, also the north dull aches or acute pains in my back. SHUDDERS AT HIS PAST. "I recall now with horror," says mail carrier Burnett Mann of Levanna, O., my three years of suffering from kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and me feel like a new man. They're unrivaled to regulate stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson. Only 50c.

Smart Man.

In a busy quarter of a bustling town a boot and shoe emporium was doing a fairly good business, until a discomfort. They are famous for their ing in its window a flaming placard a bottle of One Minute Cough Court Glazier & Stimeon. -"A mind conscious of rectitude,"

The proprietor of No. 1, seeing that his neighbor was getting more than a determined to checkmate him.

Accordingly one morning the public was informed by gorgeously colored letters that: "Men's and women's conscia recti may be had here of the best quality at lowest possible prices."
