MONDAY'S HEAVY RAINSTORM Wrought Great Destruction in Ann Arbor That Is to Be Built at Four Mile Lake by and Other Places.

Monday afternoon's storm hit several places in this county hard, but Chelsea luckily escaped as the rainfall was not so heavy here. The place which suffered the $60,000 worth of damage was done in a short space of time. Dexter also fell in for a goodly share of the water and much damage resulted.

barns, outbuildings, sidewalks and fences replace the seven stone culverts washed into good condition for travel. The coal dealers, whose sheds lie alongside the railroad tracks, had them swamped with water and the contents carried to the low lands. Henry Richards' coal office was washed away and smashed to pieces while his books and records and the safe were carried away in the muddy rush. Traffic on Main street was suspended for six hours. The boats from Tessmer's boathouse near the river had no trouble in getting from the river to Main street and were used to convey people out of the houses that were flooded. A barn was swept from its foundation on top of a fence and there remained after the water had receded. Mrs. Frank Wood had the sidewalk swept from under her feet by six feet of water and narrowly escaped drowning. A paralytic had to be taken out of his home to a place of safety. A woman and her 2 hours old child had to be removed from her house in the ambulance. Sections of water and gas pipes were broken off as if cut with steel saws. Chelsea people who were in the city and wanted to get home had a weary waiting time of it and did not get here until nearly

Dexter and vicinity was also visited by the storm. The large barn of William Benz, north of the village, in Webster, was blown off its foundation and badly wrecked, and a number of trees were blown down. Harry Phelps' barn was also damaged. South of the village cornfields were flooded and the corn washed out for rods. Trees two or three feet thick were broken off close to the ground. The streets of Dexter were washed out in places to the depth of three feet.

The Michigan Central and the D., Y., A. A. & J. railways both experienced bad washouts. A mile and half east of Dexter the new track put in last year was washed out for a long distance. On the electric line the bridge over Honey Creek, east of Lima Center, was washed away. A couple of bad washouts also happened in this vicinity, one in the field west of Wilkinson street and another opposite John Bagge's house in Sylvan. The passengers had to stay here all night. The hotels were filled up and some people could only find lodging in the waiting rooms at the depots.

Lightning raised havor with the telephone poles in front of John Rowe's place on the Cavanaugh Lake road Thursday night about 11 o'clock. The electric fluid shattered 15 poles, throwing some of the pieces 10 rods away. The only pole left uninjured out of 16 poles stood opposite the barn and had a lightning conductor on it. A shed near the barn was struck and the roof and cornice was somewhat damaged. Mr. Rowe's favorite dog was lying on the porch of the house at the time of this great display of fireworks. He was so disgusted with the racket that he got up and left and did not return until the

The company will, besides making cement, make brick and coke, and the offices will be in Chelsea.

Death of Mrs. Joseph Weber.

Mrs. Elizabeth Webor, wife of Joseph Weber, died at her home in Chelsea Monday morning about 5 o'clock, of heart trouble, aged 51 years 7 months and days. Mrs. Weber had been in in poor health for several years past and about two years ago the family moved from their farm into the village on account of her invalid condition. She had been confined to her bed for 41/2 months prior to her death, and although the best of medical talent was secured for her, nothing could be done. She was the second daughter of Peter Hindelang, of Chelsea, and was married to Joseph Weber in 1871. Two children, Edward silver lining. #### President Roosevelt Issues His Proclamation Islands Placed Under Full Civil Control --- Army Praised for Achievements in Cuba and Philippines.

Washington, July 4.—The president | dent Roosevelt pronounces the follow has formally declared the restoration of peace in the Philippine archipelago. He has placed the islands under complete civil control, and has extended reneral amnesty to the Filipinos who have been in rebellion. These three things, marking one of the most important chapters in Philippine history, were accomplished through the issue of three separate orders and proclamations, one by the president, over his own signature, extending amnesty; one through Secretary Root, by the president's order, relieving Gen. Chaffee from his duties as military governor, and a third, which takes the shape of a general order, addressed to the entire army of the United States, in which Secretary Root takes occasion to express the president's high appreciation of the work it has accomplished, both in Cuba and in the Philippines.

Proclamation of Amnesty.

The amnesty proclamation is as fol-

"By the President of the United States-

A proclamation: "Whereas, many of the inhabitants of the Philippine archipelago were in insurrection against the authority and sovereignty of the kingdom of Spain at divers times from August, 1896, until the cession of the archipelago by that kingdom to the United States of America, and since such cession many of the persons so engaged in insurrection have until recently resisted the authority and sovereignty of the United States, and,

"Whereas, the insurrection against the authority and sovereignty of the United States is now at an end, and peace has been established in all parts of the archipelago except in the country inhabited by the Moro tribes, to which this proclamation does not apply; and,

"Whereas, during the course of the insurrection against the kingdom of Spain and against the government of the United States, persons therein, or those in sympathy with and abetting them, committed many acts in violation of the laws of civilized warfare, but it is believed that such acts were generally committed in ignorance the civil or military insurrectionary leaders; and.

"Whereas, it is deemed to be wise and human, in accordance with the beneficent purposes of the government of the United States towards the Filipino people, and conducive to peace, order and loyalty among them, that the doers of such acts who have already suffered punishment shall not be held criminally responsible but shall be relieved from punishment for participation in these insurrections, and for unlawful acts committed during the course thereof

by a general amnesty and pardon; Full and Complete Pardon.

"Now, therefore, be it known, that I Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by the constition, do hereby proclaim and declare, without reservation or condition except as hereinafter provided, a full and complete pardon and amnesty to all persons in the Philippine archipelago who have participated in the insurrections aforesaid, or who have given aid and comfort to persons participating in said insurrections, for the offenses of treason, or sedition, and for all offenses political in their character committed in the course of such insurrections pursuant to orders issued by the civil or military insurrectary authorities or which grew out of internal political feuds or dissensions between Filipinos and Spaniards or the Spanish authorities, or which resulted from internal political feuds or dissensions among the Filipinos themselves during either of said insurrections;

Exceptions. "Provided, however, That the pardon and amnesty hereby granted shall not include such persons committing crimes since May 1, 1902, in any province of the archipelago in which at the time civil government as established, nor shall it include such persons as have been heretofore finally convicted of the crimes of murder, rape, arson, or robbery by any military or civil tribunal organized under the authority of Spain or of the United States of America, but which special application may be made to the proper authority for pardon by any person belonging to the exempted classes, and such clemency as is consistent with humanity and justice will be liberally extended; and further,

"Provided, That this amnesty and pardon shall not affect the title or right of the government of the United States or that of the Philippine islands to any property or property right heretofore used or appropriated by the military or civil authorities of the government of the United States or that of the Philippine islands organized under authority of the United States by way of confiscation or otherwise; and,

Oath of Allegiance.

"Provided further, That every person who shall seek to avail himself of this proclamation shall take and subscribe to the following oath before any authority in the Philippine archipelago authorized to administer oaths, namely:

- solemnly swear (or affirm) that I recognize and accept the supreme authority of the United States of America in the Philippine islands and will maintain true faith and allegiance thereto, that I impose upon myself this obligation voluntarily ithout mental reservation or purpose of evasion, so help me God.

"Given under my hand at the city of Washington this fourth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand-nine hundred and two, and in the one hundred and twenty-seventh year of the independence of the United States. "THEODORE ROOSEVELT,"

"Washington, July 4, 1902.—To the Army of the United States: The president upon. this anniversary of national independence. wishes to express to the officers and enlisted men of the United States army his deep appreciation of the service they have rendered to the country in the great and difficult undertakings which they have brought to a successful conclusion during the past year. He thanks the officers and the enlisted men who have been maintaining order and carrying on the military government in Cuba because they have faithfully given effect to the humane purposes; of the American people. They have with sincere kindness helped the Cuban peopleto take all the successive steps necessary to the establishment of their own constitutional government. During the time required for that process they have governed Cuba wisely, regarding justice and respect. ing individual liberty; have honestly collected and expended for the best interests. of the Cuban people the revenues, amounting to over $60,000,000; have carried out practical and thorough sanitary measures, greatly improving the health and lowering the death rate of the island. By patient, scientific research they have ascertained the causes of yellow fever, and by good administration have put an end to that most dreadful disease which has long destroyed the lives and hindered the commercial prosperity of the Cubans. They have expedited justice and secured protection for the rights of the innocent, while they have cleansed the prisons and established sound discipline and healthful conditions for the punishments of the guilty. They have reestablished and removated and put upon a substantial basishospitals and asylums for the care of the unfortunate. They have established a gensystem of free common schools throughout the island, in which over 200,000 children are in actual attendance. They have constructed great and necessary public works. They have gradually trained the Cubans themselves in all branches of administration, so that the new government upon assuming power has begun its work with an experienced force of Cuban civili service employes competent to execute its: orders.

In the Philippines. "The president thanks the officers and enlisted men of the army in the Philippines, both regulars and volunteers, for the courage and fortitude, the indomitable spirit and loyal devotion with which they have put down and ended the great insurrections which has raged throughout the archipelago against the lawful sovereignty and just authority of the United States. The task: was peculiarly difficult and trying. They were required at first to overcome organized resistance of superior numbers, well equipped with modern arms of precision, intrenched in an unknown country of mountain defiles, jungles and swamps, apparenty capable of interminable defense. When this resistance had been overcome they were required to crush out a general system of guerilla warfare conducted among a people speaking unknown tongues, from whomt was almost impossible to obtain the irformation necessary for successful pursuit or to guard against surprise and ambushes.

An Unserupulous Enemy. "The enemies by whom they were surrounded were regardless of all obligations of good faith and of all the limitations which humanity has imposed upon civilized warfare. Bound themselves by the laws of war, our soldiers were called upon to meet every device of unscrupulous treachery, and to contemplate without reprisal the infittion of barbarous cruelties upon their comrades and friendly natives. They were instructed, while punishing armed resistance, to conciliate the friendship of the peaceful, yet had to do with a population among among whom it was impossible to distinguish friend from foe, and who in countless instances used a false appearance of friendship for ambush and assassination. They were obliged to deal with problems of communication and transportation in a country without roads, and frequently made impassable by torrential rains. They were weakened by tropical heat and tropical disease. Widely scattered over a great archipelago extending a thousand miles from north to south, the gravest responsibilities, involving the life or death of their commands, frequently devolved upon young and inexperienced officers beyond the reach of specific orders or divice,

Accomplished Its Task. "Under all these adverse circumstances, the army of the Philippines has accomplished its task rapidly and completely. In more than 2,000 combats, great and small, within three years, it has exhibited unvarying courage and resolution. Utilizing the essons of the Indian wars it has relent lessly followed the guerilla bands to their fastnesses in mountain and jungle and crushed them. It has put an end to the vast system of intimidation and secret assassination, by which the peaceful natives were prevented from taking a genuine part in government under American authority. It has captured or forced to surrender substantially all the leaders of the insurrection It has submitted to no discouragement and halted at no obstacle. Its officers have shown high qualities of command and its men have shown devotion and discipline. Its splendid, virile energy has been accompanied by self-control, patience and magnanimity. With surprisingly few individual exceptions its course has been characterized by humanity and kindness to the prisoner and the roncombatant. With admirable good temper, sympathy and loyalty erals have joined with the civilian agents of the government in healing the wounds of war and assuring to the people of the Philippines the blessings of peace and pros perity. Individual liberty, protection of personal rights, civil order, public instruction and religious freedom have followed its footsteps. It has added honor to the flag which it defended, and has justified increased confidence in the future of the American people, whose soldiers do shrink from labor or death, yet love liberty and peace.

civilization has penetrated the darkness of darkest Africa, and where the crack of the slave stealer's whip or the screams of his victims were once heard there is now the click of the telegraph instrument, the shriek of the locomotive, or the hoarse whistle of the steamboat. Where children a few years ago played with what seemed worthless pebbles, are now mines furnishing 98 per cent. of the diamonds of the world; and the gold of Ophir, lost to civilization for centuries, has been rediscovered and become the richest deposit of the precious metal known to mankind.

come wondrous changes in the map of the continent, and instead of the great blank" which covered the interior are now accurately shown the location of navigable rivers and lakes and the boundary lines into which the continent has been divided by the eager nations which have seized upon its territory, section after section, until scarcely a foot of the nearly 12,000,000 square miles remains unreclaimed. On the north and northwest. France claims a territory equal in extent to the entire United States; on

HE searchlight of modern | Africa sends greetings to the seat of the oldest civilization, Egypt, and sends it in the English language. The territory under British control in Africa aggregates 2,700,000 square miles, and if to this were added the Egyptian territory where British influence directs in important affairs, and in part of which the British flag flies beside the Egyptian, the total area would more than equal the entire territory of the United States.

Commercially the development of Africa keeps pace with its development in transportation, mining and agricultural conditions. Wherever steam offers a method of prompt and inexpensive transportation, or wherever the presence of valuable minerals attracts With these developments have mankind in large numbers, commerce quickly develops. The business of ports adjacent to the great diamond and gold mines of South Africa has increased with wonderful rapidity in the last few years. The imports of Cape Colony, through which passes a large proportion of the merchandise for the mining regions in that part of Africa, have grown from £11,588,096 in 1904 to almost £20,000,000 in 1900. Those of Natal, through which also passes a considerable quantity of goods in transit for the interior section, have likewise increased considthe east and west coasts conservative erably, and in Portuguese East Africa. known, perhaps, than of any other part At the north numerous lines skirt the Mediterranean coast, especially in the French territory of Algeria and in Tunis, where the length of railway is. in round numbers, 2,500 miles, while the Egyptian railroads are, including those now under construction, about 1,500 miles in length. Those of Cape Colony and Natal are over 3,000 miles, and those of Portuguese East Africa and the South African Republic another thousand. Taking into consideration all of the roads now constructed or under actual construction, their total length reaches nearly 12,500 miles, or half the distance round the earth at the equator, while there seems every reason to believe that the great through system connecting the rapidly developing mining regions of South Africa with the north of the continent and with Europe will be pushed to completion. A large proportion of the railways thus far constructed are owned by the several colonies or states which they traverse, about 2,000 miles of the Cape Colony system belonging to the government, while nearly all that of Egypt is owned and operated by the state.

the eastern part of the continent, lateral lines from either coast are beginning to make their way. A line has already been constructed from Nafrom Lourenzo Marquez in Portuguese territory and the gold and diamond' fields; another from Beira, also in Portuguese territory, but considerably farther north, and destined to extend to Salisbury in Rhodesia, where it will form a junction with the "Cape to Cairo" road; still another is projected from Zanzibar to Lake Victoria Nyanza, to connect, probably at Tabora, with the transcontinental line; another line is under actual construction westward from Pangani, just north of Zanzibar, both of these being in German East Africa; another line extends northwestwardly from Mombasa, in British territory, to Lake Victoria Nyanza, while at the entrance to the Red sea a road is projected westwardly into Abyssinia, and is expected to pass farther toward the west and connect with the main line. At Suakim, fronting on the Red sea, a road is projected to Berber, on the line running southwardly from Cairo. On the west of Africa lines have begun to penetrate inward, a short line in the French Soudan running from the head of navigation on the Senegal eastwardly toward the head of navigation on the Niger. with the ultimate purpose of connecting navigation on these two streams. road from Walfisch Bay to Windhoek, the capital of German southwest Africa, and this will probably be extended eastwardly until it connects with the great transcontinental line from "Cape to Cairo," which is to form the great nerve center of the system, to be contributed to and supported by these branches connecting it with either coast. Another magnificent railway project, which was some years ago suggested by M. Leroy Beaulieu, has been recently revived, being no less than an east and west transcontinental line through the Soudan region, connecting the Senegal and Niger countries on the west with the Nile valley

> Strikers Number 9,000-Difference as to Wages the Cause-Ninth Week of Miners' Strike Begun Quietly.

Chicago, July 8 .- Nearly 9,000 freight handlers, at a signal given by members of a secret committee, stopped work and went on strike at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Officials of the Interior Freight Handlers' and Warehousemen's union say every depot in the city is tied up, and that not a pound of freight will be delivered to or taken away from the various houses until the railroad companies concede the demands of the men. The strike order came as the result of a refusal on the part of the various railroads entering Chicago to concede a wage scale contained in a schedule presented by the unions recently.

The Miners' Strike.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 8 .- With

President John Mitchell in New York and all the other miners' leaders at Nanticoke, attending the annual convention of district No. 1, strike headquarters was an extremely quiet place Monday. The ninth week of the suspension of anthracite coal mining shows no change in the situation, there not being the slightest indication that either party to the controversy is ready to quit. The visit of the miners' chief to New York continues to arouse interest. No word of his movements in the metropolis has been received here, and there is much speculation as to what caused him to go there. Conditions in and about the collieries remain unchanged excepting that the heavy rains of the last few days has increased the amount of water somewhat in many of the mines. Mining superintendents do not fear much trouble from this, most of them exduce it to its normal level. The entire coal belt was generally very large force of coal and iron policeconstantly on duty for any emergency. There were several arrests made in this valley of persons accused of intimidating alleged "unfair" workmen, but the arrests were made so quietly, however, as to cause no disturbance of any kind.

Report Is Denied.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 8 .- Officials of the Indiana district United Mine Workers are sending out formal pointblank denial of the story widely published to the effect that the national officers have had emissaries in the state to procure instructions for delegates to the July 17 convention to vote a strike. The officials say the story is made out of whole cloth, and that Indiana is not opposing Mitchell in any sense. They say that the miners of the state have the utmost confidence in him, and will cheerfully follow his leadership. It is understood here that he is opposed to a sympathetic strike as are the Indiana offi-

LAST RESTING PLACE.

Body of the Late Ambassador Pauncefote to Be Interred at Stoke, Eng.

Washington, July 8.-It has been determined that the body of Lord Pauncefote, late British ambassador at Washington, shall be interred at Stoke, near Newark, in Nottinghamshire, England, instead of at the old Pauncefote estates at Preston. Stoke is a short distance from London, and is the seat of Sir Henry Bromley, who occupies Stoke hall. The Bromleys are a branch of the Pauncefote family, and one of the younger Bromleys married a daughter of Lord Pauncefote. It is deemed desirable therefore to have the body rest where the friends and relatives are now located, rather than to be taken to the old home at Preston, from which the family have been separated for some time. Moreover, the ancient burying place at Preston has been closed, owing to the number of bodies there. These considerations have led to the decision to make the interment at Stoke, to which place the body will be borne when the United States cruiser Brooklyn arrives at an English port.

BUCKET SHOPS LOSE.

Decision of Judge Hook, of United States Court, in Favor of Chicago Board of Trade.

Kansas City, Mo., July 8.-Judge Hook, in the United States court, Monday, in handing down a suit brought by the Chicago board of trade against the Christie Grand and Stock company, of Kansas City, to prevent the use of the Chicago board's quotation, held against the bucket shop on almost every point.

An appeal to the United States supreme court will be taken. In its suit filed a year ago the Chicago board of trade claimed a proprietary right in its quotations and under the new bucket shop law sought to compel grain speculators in different states to pay for the use of them. The Christie company fought the case on the ground that the Chicago board of trade was itself a bucket shop without standing, and further that its quotations were public property. The suit was in the form of an application by the board of trade for a temporary injunction.

Senator Beveridge said he had heard his name used before in connection with the vice presidency but he repeated emphatically that he has no idea of becoming a candidate.

Two Boys Drowned.

Peoria, Ill., July 8.-Monday afternoon four young boys, Frank Cannon, Frank Case, William Aur and Joseph Blondell, went out on the river in a row boat. Case disrobed and began rocking the boat. Cannon, who could not swim, begged him to desist, which he refused to do. Finally the boat capsized, and as the boys sprang into the water Cannon locked his arms about Case's neck, and they both went to the bottom. They did not appear again. When found three hours later, Cannon's arms were still locked about Case's neck.

Caved In.

Omaha, July 8 .- A cave-in at the west approach of the Union Pacific's Missouri river bridge temporarily destroyed three passenger tracks 400 feet long and cut off entrance to the Union station from the east for the day. The cave-in is supposed to have been caused by an old artesian well, aided by the recent heavy rains. Trains reached the Union station by a roundabout way but 200 men will have a cut-off built soon. No trains were on the track when the cave-in occurred.

Mrs. Fred Unrath, President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My hus-band insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusi-astic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of preg-nancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

Things of Which New Yorkers and Their Neighbors Are Talking &

that the mayor of Paterson, N. J., protests energetically. Yet I'm not so sure that they are not needed. Paterson fills the description of the hymn:

Where every prospect pleases And only man is

It was founded years ago by thrifty, God-fearing Scots, who made an almost ideal industrial town just at a point where the pretty Passaic river curves about the brow of a low mountain and falls into its lower valley. Then New York grew out towards Paterson, and Paterson itself grew more like a city. The grandsons of the settlers fell into strange ways, a revelation of which shocked the community in the murder of Jennie Bosscheiter, a mill girl, by several young men of good family. This tragedy was the beginning of a series. There came fire that swept away millions of property; there came death that closed the great Rogers locomotive works; there came flood that swept away fortunes; there came the horror of Bresci's assassination of the king of Italy as the agent of a Paterson group of "reds."

Now these same "reds" have been the leaders in a fury of rioting which has called out the militia, checked trade, and once more given the town a bad advertisement. It is hard to realize that it is really a good town, with well-filled churches, excellent schools, a population in the main orderly, and a "Jersey justice" so strict and welladministered that the "vigilantes" won't get far with their project of putting down the anarchists,

The Descent of the Hordes. Anyhow, that's not the right way to go to work. The kind of anarchism that makes trouble is pure ignorance. The schools are curing that. Almost all the violent anarchists are Poles or Italians-fine races. both, but races that have come through feverheats of tyranny and resentment of tyrants, which leave them little able to appreciate even a free government. The poverty in which they live keeps their resentment keen. But their children learn better. They are model scholars, these recent comers from the south and east of Europe. At the recent commencement of the college of the city of New York, which is practically a high school, all the honors save one, as well as all the youths who were afterwards arrested for schoolboy yelling in the streets, bore such names as Bolonski, Kretski, Pickelski and Boski. Not one name of English sound appeared upon the honor list. They were German and Polish exclusively. It was so in the Normal college, where thousands of young women who become teachers in New York are trained. Not much danger of a permanent anarchistic party from people whose children almost monopolize the learned professions.

As pupils, the Italians are equally talented, but they do not so often turn to intellectual pursuits. They are of the old Roman stock; doers, practical men. They become masons, contractors, farmers, restaurateurs, caterers, politicians. In every line they undertake they show great energy. It's only the constant horde of new immigrants that keeps their average of wealth and intelligence low.

They were Italians and Poles who drew the fire of the rifles in Paterson; Italians and Poles who did what a native American mob has never yet done, and put women with babies in their arms upon the "firing line," knowing that the police would not club them nor the soldiers fire upon them. But wait until the schools have had a chance at their children!

The point is to curb crime, not to despair of the power of the republic to assimilate and raise and make good even such material as this. Isn't it?

The Romance of Julie Opp.

It's a little late in the year to talk of marrying and giving in marriage, but romance that waits for divorce courts cannot always lead to a June bridal.

It is said that Julie Opp, the actress, will marry Justin Huntley Mc-Carthy, historian, novelist, dramatist, and erstwhile the husband of Cissy Loftus-wasn't it? One of the Cissies, his family for years. They had been anyhow. Here's a London romance simply landowners, enriched by land's that touches America closely. Everyone knows by repute the elder Justin very naturally that the great cleric. bread you have.

Vigilantes in the east! No wonder that ever led a forlorn hope in politics, the Irish irreconcilable whom everyone loves. The younger man? More of an ordinary mortal of the marrying and divorcing sort, evidently, but a decent enough fellow in his way, and a brilliant writer.

> Miss Opp is a New York girl, born on the Bowery, where her father. "Johnny" Opp, owned a saloon of rather poor reputation. But it is not true that the girl grew up in the saloon, passing beer mugs with her own hands, as is persistently told of her. Instead, she was reared by her mother, in the home of her wealthy grandfather, one of the founders of the Staats-Zeitung, in luxury and with the greatest care. A portrait of her, painted when she was but 17, shows the loveliest creature one will often see. Highly educated, imperious, ambitious, she dreamed of the stage. She had a brief preliminary period of newspaper work; more than one New York printer remembers the tall, beautiful girl who, in a gown of extreme fashion, and with her hands in spotless gloves, descended upon the composing room to "make up" the "Woman's page."

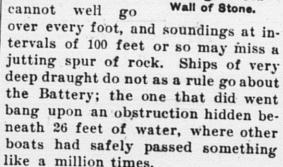

She went to London with a letter from a newspaper editor to "Pat" Collins, then consul general in London, and now mayor of Boston; and soon she was studying with Bernhardt; then at work in George Alexander's company; then taking Miss Neilson's parts as an understudy; then a star; then unfortunately married to a London actor who proved fickle; thenwell, then McCarthy.

And what a curious tangle of lives and loves it is, to be sure!

A Rock in New York Harbor. It's surprising to hear of the discovery of a ledge of rock dangerous to navigation right in New York harbor just off the Battery, the most navigated point in the New World.

Yet that is the fact; and there is a hurry call for money to blast away the obstruction. In sounding and charting a harbor the men cannot well go

Building the Sea

The big rocks in Hell Gate everybody knows about. The government keeps on blasting away at them, and commerce is now fairly safe. I well remember the great day when, after years of blasting and tunneling underneath, Flood Rock at Hell Gate was to be blown up with dynamite. People came from far and near to hear the sound and see the water jump in the air. I was at work within two miles of the place and I hardly heard the explosion. You can't get any one to go far nowadays to assist in blowing up a reef. It's too much "out of sight."

Quite unnoticed, indeed, goes on un ceasingly the improvement of the har bor, a task of the most monumental magnitude. The government keeps the bay clear; the city is replacing all its slovenly water front with enduring granite walls. Some $14,000,000 is being spent upon the work by this administration alone; in time the docks will rival those of Liverpool which Americans go so far to see.

The Liverpool docks are tidal, with gates to keep water in or out. New York's tide rises only about four feet. A ship can lie at an ordinary dock and rise and fall to that extent without interrupting lading. This single difference gives New York an advantage over Liverpool, and most cities in western Europe, that must be computed in millions enough to make one dizzy.

The Death of Dean Hoffman. The richest clergyman in the world has died and is laid away to rest, and Hoffman, dean of the General Theological seminary, was reputed worth $20,000,000. He had never been in the place that knew him is unfilled. For he was a good man as well

as rich, and used his wealth wisely.

The Very Rev.

Eugene Augustus

McCarthy, the author of the "History with his brothers, owned the Hoffman

ury and for the frank beauty of some of its paintings. By a curious coincidence, the lessee of the Hoffman house, "Ed" Stokes, was also a member of a very religious family. Yet the place was long headquarters for sports, and was the first in New York to keep a pugilist in regular employment as a "bouncer" and as a stakeholder of big bets.

Dr. Hoffman had celebrated his golden wedding. He lived simply, gave his money freely for charity and education and was not in sympathy with the modern ritualistic tendency in the church.

As to this latter curious development a New York paper recently printed a list of four orders of Episcopalian brothers and 24 orders of sis ters. These, while their period of vow hold good, are practically monks and nuns. In some cases, though not usually, the vows are perpetual.

In the St. Gabriel's convent in Peeks kill of the Sisters of St. Mary, one of the largest orders of this kind, a number of girls of fashionable New York families have just conducted a "retreat." Miss Mary Morgan, daughter of the trust-maker, headed the list; others were of the Schermerhorn, King, Matoon, Minturn, Bartlett, Clendenin, and Griswold families and of 40 others scarcely less famous.

The Clendenins are the family into which Horace Greeley's daughter married. Her husband, the rector of the little church up in Chappaqua, where Greeley learned "What I Know About Farming," is a wealthy man and one of the leaders of the ritualistic or "High Church" party. OWEN LANGDON.

POSTMASTER TOO HONEST.

Could Have Advanced His Office and Increased His Pay by a Small Investment.

"I noticed," said an old resident of Chicago, according to the Tribune, "the recent story of the Nebraska postmaster who bought goods, and stock, and lands with stamps to such an extent that his office went into another classification and his salary was raised several hundred dollars a year.

"That reminds me of another postmaster out in Missouri who didn't know half as much, and who, without any increase in salary, had to buy drinks for half the town just after he failed to rise to an occasion.

"It was under the first Cleveland administration. The post office had been in the fourth class all its life, and as there had never been any publie stir about putting it into any other class the new postmaster sat down on his job and sold stamps at current rates, making the usual settlements and thankful for small fa-

"But in the third year of his incumbency of the office things took a spurt, and when it came to a final settlement for the year the receipts showed that the fourth-class office had sold things mucilaginous to within $3.85 of the $2,000 limit, making it a third-class office.

"And, don't you know, Smith turned in the proceeds of that last quarter without a thought of buying that $3.85 worth of 1's, 3's and 5's necessary to make his office of the third class for a whole year."

NICKNAMES OUT OF STYLES.

It Is Now Counted Almost a Crime to Call Even an Intimate Friend by One.

The present fashion of using the full Christian names of persons young or old, when addressing them, instead of a nickname, as used to be the rule, is a more sensible thing to do than fashion usually prescribes, but why it should be counted a crime for an intimate friend, in a moment of forgetfulness, to revert to the old nickname, t is hard to understand.

To call her child "Bessie" as once she was called, rouses the ire of the parent of "Elizabeth." "Anne" brings you up with a frown and a sharp reminder should you call her "Annie," though you may never, in her case, have learned of the change from the old style. "Will," as a rule, doesn't care a fig himself what you call him, but be quite sure his mother does, and will say to you reprovingly: "William, if you please," if you chance to call him "Willie." Two persons who had been close friends had a quarrel which parted them for life over one's persistence in calling the child of the other "Babe," instead of "Gladys," which was her name.

A Nasty Smack.

Miss Primseed-So you're going to marry the curate, I hear. Well, I hope you'll be happy and all that sort of thing, but-you mustn't mind my speaking plainly-I wonder you didn't choose some one a little less meek and -er-timid, you know. I can tell you my dear, only a very brave man will

MRS. ALICE SCHWORZ.

Mississippi Lady Who Is Known "the Singer Who Sings People Into Heaven."

Mrs. Alice Schworz has devoted the best years of her life and all her musical talent and accomplishments to singing for invalids in the home or the hospital and prisons, and she is spoken of by all who know her as "the singer who sings people into Heaven."

Mrs. Schworz does not know herself how she obtained this rare gift of soothing and impressing the dying so that the tortured senses find immediate relief, and the sufferer passes away in perfect peace on the wings of song. She sings like one in a trance, unconscious of her surroundings, not even aware of the words she has chosen, her eyes turned upward with a rapt expression, while all who hear her are dominated and thrilled by the power and sweetness of her music. In the wards of the hospital the sick listen as if they were hearing celestial singing, and to those who are not fatally ill, it brings strength and repose, like an electric current. Physicians have declared the effect to be hypnotic, and have themselves listened spellbound to the inspired strains.

The singer does not improvise words or music, but uses the familiar hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," or others as popular and well known. Her voice is a sympathetic contralto of great sweetness, and she had it cultivated in her youth for choir sing-

In her home in Carthage, Miss., she first gave up fashionable pursuits and found her happiness in smoothing the way to another life by her magnetism of song. The knowledge that her voice would have made her famous among the world's vocalists has never disturbed this singularly gifted woman; she gave it free to the helpless.

Mrs. Schworz has a charming personality and is highly esteemed by her friends as the possessor of many Christian virtues. Only two other women have essayed the role in which she is so proficient, Mrs. Augusta Evans Wilson, the southern novelist, and Emma Abbot, who a few days before her own death sung "The Last Rose of Summer" for a dying man. It is only the fortitude and unselfishness of those brave singers that enables them to reach that high climax on the borders of another world.

TO WASH CALICOES.

Some Timely Pointers on How to Set the Colors and How to Brighten the Hues.

Calicoes, before they are put in water, should have the grease spots rubbed out as they cannot be seen when the garment is wet. They should not be washed in very hot suds, mildly warm water will do even better and will not extract the colors. Soft soap should never be used for calicoes excepting for the various buff and yellow goods. The majority of calicoes should be rinsed in fair water and dried in the shade. Pale pink and pale blue would be bleached to white if left in the sun to dry.

Colors can be set by washing the goods in lukewarm water with beef's gall in the proportion of a teacupful to four gallons of water. Rinse in rain water-no soap being necessary unless the clothes are very dirty. The beef's gall can be kept several months by squeezing it out of the skin in which it is incased; add salt, bottle it and cork tight. Soap must never be rubbed on calico or lawns; lukewarm soapsuds is used for more soiled goods.

A little vinegar in the rinsing water for pink, red and green calicoes is good to brighten the colors Crabshaw—Yes. I make my wife and keep them from mixing.—Cincin-knows? I, for one, wouldn't like to

LATEST CHICAGO FAD.

It Is Called the Dew Bath and Its De votees Claim That It Improves the Complexion,

Chicago has a new fad which to enuine novelty and originality seen likely to stand unrivaled in a little class of its own for some time to come In years gone by Chicago has imported most of its really successful fads from the east and across the Atlantic, but this one grew and blossomed on me. tive Illinois soil and as soon as society gives it vogue it is sure to leap into instantaneous popularity, for society approval is all that is necessary to the success of a fad.

This absolutely new thing in fads is the morning dew bath for the complexion and it threatens to outelass even the beauty doctors themselves Some morning, if you happen to be m in time to commune with the sun as it slips up across the lake, and, looking over your back fence you behold a wonan, young or old, kneeling in the center of a grass plot with her face in close proximity to the earth, don't call the police. This is the fad. As a complexion producer it is said to surpass anything in the squegee line yet introduced, and the best thing about the new complexion producer is that it is easily within the reach of every woman, who can find a grass plot large enough to envelop her face.

These morning dew baths for the complexion were something of a secreturtil recently. The idea was such a capital and original one that those who made the unique discovery that green grass, freshened by morning dew, contains the skin invigorating ingredients for which the beauty doctors charge money, held their tongue with considerable persistency. But the truth leaked out down in Elgin, Ill. Miss Evangeline Brusk, a young woman residing in that place, has enjoyed some local fame on account of the beauty of her complexion. Indeed, she has been the envy of her friends on account of this supposedly rich gift of nature, The expose, however, came one morning not long ago, when a neighbor arose

early to catch a train out of Elgin. He lives next door to the Brusk home, and as he was passing down the back steps he was considerably surprised to see the young woman crouching on the lawn and gesticulating in unseemly fashion as though saluting the sun. She would run her hands across the grass, and then bury her face in them nd go through all the motions of washing: It was a new one on the Elgin nan, because he wasn't up in dew baths. His curiosity was aroused to the point of investigation, so he crossed the lawn noiselessly and, walking up behind the intently occupied young woman, he surprised her with a question.

Such interruption was unpardonable. Without replying, the young woman jumped to her feet and fled to the house. But this was enough, for it was in reality the beginning of this new beauty fad, which seems likely to outdo anything in the way of novelty for women's faces that ever has been imported even from Paris, New York or

There really is nothing to the dew complexion bath but dew and grass, yet in addition to its complexion-giving properties the early morning contact with nature is said to be exhilarating. In the first place, to derive the full benefits a young woman must be up and out before the world is astir, as dew will not wait for her to finish a morning nap. This in itself is one step in the direction of a good complexion, and when a dip in the cool, refreshing grass is taken into consideration along with this first natural consequence, it appears that there is more to the dew bath than is evident.

But it isn't a big hit with the beauty doctors and complexion specialists. "I wouldn't like to commit myself for fear of incurring the ill-will of the women," said one doctor. "If some young woman has found that a dew bath in the early morning air improved her complexion she ought to know what she is talking about. At least I wouldn't care to contradict her without first having given myself over to an investigation. Grass naturally absorbs, through its roots, many of the natural properties of the earth. And, as every one knows, dew falls on grass, so it may be that there is something say."-Chicago Tribune,

"I bave often noticed a peculiar irregularity about your pulse-and yet there is nothing wrong with your heart-not in the least. However, I am glad you have no fever."

And he surreptitiously snatched a plance into the book. Girls with a fine polor were plentiful, but this treatment for diphtheria, if it should prove

She seemed to have lost her voice. and paused to regain it. When she raised her eyes, presently, he was aware of their color for the first time. They were gray, and they had black lashes. He had not noticed that before, though he had treated her professionally for some weeks.

"You must make allowance for my great loneliness," she cried out, desolately. "I have no one really belonging to me-no one in the world. My guardian, Mr. Bond, is a good man-but you know how old he is, and troubled about many things. Sometimes he doesn't see me for weeks at a time. The others are servants, or dependents-how could I go to them with confidences, or ask their advice?"

"Not to be thought of." murmured the doctor, looking at the gray eyes very steadily. Clearly, there was something in the world outside of booksand perhaps an orthodox something in hearts that he had never found with the stethoscope.

"And so I have none," went on the desolate girl, with a look of timid appeal. "And I have—have learned to know you so well-have learned to trust you-will you mind very much if lask your advice-your friendly advice -in a matter that concerns myself alone?" The gray eyes drew him on, and made him say things that surprised him. They made him reply, without the least reference to the big books and the treatment of diphtheria. "Why, surely I will be only too glad to assist you any way in my power." And he said it frankly, and cordially, too, leaning forward and looking at her with eyes that had begun to be unprofessional. Really, she did have a lovely color. "I have received an offer of marriage," she said, with her eyes down again. "You know I had a little money left me-only a few thousands-and my education and other expenses have almost exhausted that. If I don't accept this-this gentleman, I must go out into the world as a bread winner in a little while-a very few months. If I should-marry him, I would be very wealthy-so rich that it would almost frighten me, I think," she added. with a wistful glance at the attentive face. "My guardian has set these two alternatives before me so many times that I know them, word for word. Remember that I am all alone—and tell me what to do—as you would tell your sister—or any friend for whom you her lap, and a man who was not studying out a treatment for diphtheria would have seen how tight the clasp was. This, perhaps, would have made him delay a long time in his answer.

"These are difficult questions to decide for another," he said at last, judicially looking out at the window. "My opinion would be that it would be wiser to marry the gentlemanwho is a gentleman, I take it for granted-than to go out into the struggle with the world. Personally, I don't it can be avoided—and in this instance it seems that it can," he added, with a swift look at her face.

At his first calm words she had shrunk as if from a blow, and now she arose and turned toward the door, her eves lowered.

"Thanks-you are very kind," she murmured. He saw her put out her hand and feel for the knob, as though something blinded her, but he was there before her, looking at the downdropped face.

"I-I omitted to ask one question," he said. "Do-do you love this man?" "Does it matter? No!" she replied, as she went out. But he had seen her eyes.

He sat down at the table and looked at the page he had been reading last-looked at it until the afternoon had waned and night had set in. It is a singular fact that while the eyes of the body can go patiently reading lines and paragraphs and pages of learned treatises, the eyes of the mind can be looking steadily at a gray-eyed girl with her fingers twined together in her lap. True, here is this investigation carried on successfully to this interesting point; but-why was it that she went away so soon?-and her eyes-now why should there have been tears there? And she would go away and marry the rich man he had advised it. Well, why should it concern him?

The doctor suddenly arose, leaving his books scattered on the table, and went out into the street for airhis office was insufferable. Where he was going he did not know. He was not conscious of any resolution until he found himself in the door of Miss Willoughby's little sitting-room, and a girl with a very pale face rose up from the chair before the fire. Her eyes were wide with fear-what was he going to say? What had he

"I was forced to come," he said humbly. "I know you will be angry perhaps you will be amused at the fact that I-a poor student, a physician who has his thoughts on you, when you have an opportunity to make a wealthy and distinguished marriage. I knew at the first that there was no hope-yet I felt that I must come. It only remains for you to tell me so, yourself, and then I will go back to my work and have done with the dream."

No, it was a mistake about her having been pale; for when she leaned on the mantel with her face turned to the fire she was as rosy as the morn.

"You are too considerate to tell me outright," he said; "but I see what must be. Of course it is insane-the idea that you could take poverty, and the struggle for life with me, when wealth and ease are offered you. It would not be possible, unless you loved me so devotedly that your love would set all other considerations aside—"

He paused and gazed at her miserably; and without turning she half whispered a faint suggestion.

"I-I might learn." she said. He turned white and leaned against the table for support.

"Learn-learn to love me?" he asked, in a daze. "It is impossible." "It will be difficult-but I am willing to try," said the arch-hypocrite with the gray eyes.

When he went back to the office, several hours later, with the step of one who walks on air, he found a number of books scattered in most unseemly disorder on his table."

"Really, John is growing insupportable," he said to himself. "All these books lying around-but I remember now, I was studying about-oh, yesdiphtheria. Well, there's plenty of old Bonanna Gold Bed Discovered While Digging a Well at Melena, Mont.

P. R. Martin, while digging a well at his residence in northwest Helena, Mont., has found the old bed of Last Chance creek, which in the early days produced upward of $15,000,000 in gold. Prospectors have searched for years in vain for the old route of the creek, believing that another bonanza would be uncovered, and one man lost his life while engaged in this pursuit.

Mr. Martin recently purchased a house and lot on lower Hauser street and started to sink a well. At a depth of 65 feet he encountered the old bed of the creek, and thinking the sand might contain gold, panned it and obmany persons will prospect in that Chicago Daily News.

THE NORTH-WESTERN AND UNION

Only One Night En Route to Colorado from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis and Chicago.

A notable change has been made in the Colorado service of the Chicago & North-Western and Union Pacific Railways.

The famous Colorado Special now leaves Chicago at 6.30 p. m., arriving at Omaha 6.55 a. m., Denver 8.00 p. m. and Colorado Springs 10.20 p. m. This enables passen-gers from Atlantic Coast points to reach Denver with only two nights on the road. while from Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Chicago only one night is required en route. The entire train will be run solid between Chicago and Denver, with through sleeper to Colorado Springs. East bound the train will be known as the "Chicago Special," and will leave Colorado Springs daily about 10.00 a. m., Denver 1.00 p. m., arriving in Chicago at 4.00 p. m., at a convenient hour for making connections for the east. A train from Des Moines in connection with this new train, east bound, enables passengers to leave Des Moines at 7.00 a.

m. and arrive in Chicago at 4.00 p. m. Accommodations are provided for all classes of passengers, the equipment including free reclining chair cars, dining cars, buffet smoking cars, drawing-room sleep-ers and day coaches. The entire service is as nearly perfect as modern and skillful railway management can make it. A second daily train for Colorado points leaves Chicago for Denver at 11.30 p. m.

KAKKKK THOUSANDS of men are priseners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vices of early youth, exposure to contagious disease, or the excesses of manhood. They feel they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The vim, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you nervous and despondent? tired in the morning? have you to force yourself through the day's work? have you little and bition and energy? are you irritable and excitable? eyes ennken, depressed and haggard looking? memory poor and brain fagged? have you weak back with dreams and losses at night? deposit in urine? weak sexually?—you have
