A BAD PAIR

The Negroes, Johnson and Henderson, So Considered by the Officers.

Jackson Citizen: If the Jackson police fail to get a "cinch" on the negros, Harrie Johnson and James Henderson, arrested on suspicion of burglarizing the residence of Engineer Warren A. Sanford, 221 Pringle avenue, early Tueseay morn ing, the colored men will be turned over to the officers of Washtenaw county, who have evidence, so they claim, sufficient to land them in prison for burglaries committed at Chelsea Tuesday night. It will be remembered the men suspected of the Sanford burglary were traced to an eastbound Michigan Central freight train, and that it was subsequently learned they alighted from the train at Chelsea and disappeared; the following morning they were arrested in the Michigan Central yards at the prison in this city, hav ing doubled back over the road.

On one of the men was found clothing. coat and vest, whilh is positively idenifihd by a citizen of Chelsea, and which was stolen from his house Tuesday night. There was also found on him a pair of pants which were taken from a house in that place, but a $40 watch in the pocket was not found on either of their

Both Johnson and Henderson were photographed Friday and an effort will be made by Chief Boyle to ascertain who they are, as he thinks they are a pair of desperate fellows. A Valuable Relie.

Times: Mrs. Electa Carrow of 205 Beakes street has an official document of which she is very proud. It is an er. graved copy of the declaration of independance, 125 years qld. Mrs. Carrow is very careful of her prize and explained that she found it 30 years ago while visiting an old fort in New Jersey. At the same time she found some letters written by George Washington, but when she left her friend's home where she was stopping, she neglected to take them with her, and when she sent for the letters they had been destroyed, as old papers. However she saved the copy of the declaration and has during the time since she has had it refused many offers of large sums of money for it. She says that it is one of the 18 original copies that were printed. Each of the original colonles was given one, and the one she found belonged to the state of New Jersey. The decument is becoming yellow with age but is in good condition. From all appearances it had been framed at one time and is undoubtedly all that Mrs. Carrow claims it to be.

She also has a champagne glass that belonged to Washington. She has been quite a relic hunter during her long years and has gathered together curios from many parts of the country.

He Slept in Security,

Washington Star: There is a 5 yearold boy in Massachusets avenue who is of the blood of patriots. His grandfather was in both Mexican and civil wars, and his father was also an old soldler, consequently the little fellow has heard much "flag" talk in his short life and has exalted ideas of its protective quabities. He was the baby of the family till very recently and occupied a crib bed in his mother's room. When the new baby came, Harold was put to sleep in a room adjoining his mother's, and as he had never slept alone before his small soul was filled with nameless fears which he was too proud to tell in full, then the small voice piped up again, household goods and the rest is to be "Oh, mamma!"

"Yes, dear." "May I have grandpa's flag?" "Why, what for? I want you to go right to sleep."

"Please, mamma!" and a small nightgowned figure appeared at the door. "Just let me stick the flag up at the head of my bed, and then I'll go right to sleep, indeed I will! You know the other night grandpa said at the meeting To this end, the most expert experimentthat under the protecting folds of the flag the weakest would be safe,' and I

NEW STAMPMILL

Hoosier Boy Gold Mining Company so Announce.

The Kootenal (Idaho) Herald: The Hoosier Boy Gold Mining Company is selecting a site for a mill on their property this week. Mr. E. J. Foster of Grass Lake, Mich., president of the company, and Mr. John Messner, of Saginaw, Mich. secretary, accompanied by Mr. M. D. Winder, of Spokane, one of the directors, arrived last Monday, and left Tuesday county are anxious to get the colored for the mines. They were accompanied by a mining engineer. Their main pur-Mrs. W. A. Sanford called at the police pose is to select a site for a stamp mill ety.

A Herald reporter interviewed the gentlemen as to their intentions in reference to developing their property, and learned that it is their intention to install a stamp mill as speedily as possible. The number of stamps that are operated to commence with has not yet been determined, but the power plant will be sufficient to operate 40 stamps. Elec trical power will be installed, generated Marshall Wood and Deputy Sheriff by the water power secured from Deer Lehman, of Chelsea, were here, and if Creek, near the mines. They will also operate a sawmill of sufficient capacity "stick," they will take the men to Ann to supply themselves with lumber and other work is to be laid out, including the completion of the wagon road, from place Tuesday for their examination, but the mill site to the mines, and started a a new working tunnel on the Buckhorn, that their boys had been absent two 400 to 500 feet,

The property owned by the Housier Boy Gold Mining Co., iles about 20 miles northeast of Bonners Ferry, the nearest railway point, and includes the wellknown Buckhorn claim. It is a free gold proposition and has been well developed with funnels and shafts, probably $6,000 worth of development work having been done. It is a good, strong lead, prospected through six claims. A value of over $37 to the ion was obtained as an average assay on the ledge in the Hoosier Boy tunnel. The average of the lead is said to be about $25 to the ton, but half that sum would be a rich propositisn in free milling ore. The mines in question have an excellent reputation here at home and are regarded by all competent to judge as being a tine proposition. The new owners I ive an A 1 investment.

The Hooster Boy Gold Mining Co. is incorporated under the laws of Washington with its office in Spokane, but most of the stock is held by Michigan and Indiana people. It is said to be a strong company financially, and the gentlemen at the head of the enterprise are men of large means and practical business ideas. They are going about the matter with conservative methods, yet with a stability that signifies permanency.

On the 17th the stockholders held their first annual meeting in Spokane and elected the following board of directors: J. W. Messner, Saginaw, Mich.

- E7 J. Foster, Grass Lake,
- W. F. Shaler,
- G. W. Fuster, C. P. Taylor, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.
- H. A. Foster, J. U. Leasea, Williamston,
- J. D. Watson, Chelsea, M. D. Winder, Spokane, Wash.
- G. P. Mulcahy, W. J. Stapish, Anderson, Ind.
- From the above Mr. E, J. Foster, was selected as President: Mr. J. M. Messner. Secretary; and Mr. W. F. Shaler and Mr. M. D. Winder, Vice Presidents.

NOVEL CHECK FOR TRUANTS.

This Man Has an Ingenious Plan to Keep His Wayward Boys at School.

An Austin father has invented a cure for truancy that is warranted to be effective in the most aggravated cases. He has two sons, one 12 and the other ten years old. They are pupils at a In addition to erecting the mill, much parochial school on Washington boulevard. They are not bad youngsters, just boys. The father and mother were horrified a month ago to learn from the sister in charge of the school weeks. They had been leaving home every morning at the regular time and returning promptly at four o'clock in the afternoon, but the time, instead of being devoted to study, had been given to explorations of the prairie country about Austin, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The father bought a conductor's punch and gave it to the principal of the school. To each of the boys he gave a card, having much the appearance of a commutation ticket, on which was printed the dates of the school days in the month. One edge of the cards was sewed to the boys' vests under their coats, so that they could not say they had lost them.

Each school day the teacher uses the conductor's punch on the proper date on the cards, and the boys return home bearing proof that they have been to school.

NEGROES IN WASHINGTON.

Commendable Progress in a Business Way Has Been Made by the Colored Citisens.

The Union league of Washington has just made an exhaustive inquiry into the status of the colored population there. It finds that commendable progress has been made in business. in spite of a good many drawbacks, there being over 83 varieties of business in which colored people are engaged, says the Star. 'There are more than 1,300 colored proprietors, onefourth of whom have been in business more than ten years. They give employment to over 28,080 persons. They have $654,761 invested in business, and they do an aggregate of business yearly of $1,750,000. Barber shops, restaurants, cobbler shops, express delivery and similar callings constitute the larger portion, but there are 17 contractors, 75 fish dealers, 130 grocers and 49 market stand proprietors, and in all this lot only 11 poolroom keepers and nine saloon keepers. There are 53 physicians, 12 trained nurses, ten dentists and 33 lawyers. Among other conclusions reached by the investigation is that colored people are not disposed to patronize one another in these classes of business in which the whites seriously compete for trade. . This is ascribed partly to lack of confidence, but partly to envy and jealousy.

Murdered While at Work.

Peter Smith, aged 35 years, a respected farmer of Bainbridge township, and a tenant on the farm of Fred Baker, near Sister Lakes, was shot and killed Thursday while engaged in cutting wheat on the Jacob Winn farm, a mile and a half from his home. The first known of the murder by others in the field was the discharge of self behind a shock of grain. The report was heard, the sight of the smoke was noted and the nearness to Smith created a suspicion that murder had been committed. Smith was struck in the back and the balf passed under the shoulder. He lived but three hours.

The lifeless body of Horace Peters, the murderer of Peter Smith, was found in the wooded swamp near Bain bridge Center. He had shot himself through the chin with the same shotgun used in killing Smith early Thursday morning.

From the appearance of the body, it day after the crime. Peters had threatened to kill several people in the neighborhood, and the greatest fear existed until the finding of his body.

PINGREE'S OLD PARTNER.

A mystery that puzzled Detroiters for many years has been solved through the death of former Governor Pingree. Some 14 years ago his partner, Charles H. Smith, sold out his interest in the firm to Mr. Pingree and invested the money in another business that didn't pan out. It was a business failure and not a cloud rested on Smith's name. He thought differently and it worried him. One night while playing cards with a friend he got up, left the house, and from that day until now nothing was ever heard of him. For the present. President Shaffer says, only three companies named will be affected, but later all the union men in the Pederal Steel company, National Steel company and National Tube company may be called out, if it is found necessary to resort to extreme measures to win the fight. At the start, it is claimed, 45,000 skilled workmen, 30,thousands more will be affected, reaching a possible total of 150,000.

Russia's offer.

Another important exchange has occurred between the Russian government and the United States relative to the tariff. The Russian minister of finance, M. de Witte, has proposed that Russia will vacate all of the additional duties levied on American goods since the imposition of the sugar differential. if the United States will vacate its action on the sugar differential. To this Secretary Gage replied that the offer of the Russian government cannot be accepted, as the question of the sugar differential is now in the hands of the court, thus precluding action by the executive branch. These exchanges, although made nominally by the minister of finance and Secretary Gage, have gone through the medium of the Russian foreign office and the state department.

Won't Affect Real Newspapers. Postmaster General Smith has taken up the question of reform in second class mail with Attorney General Knox. These two cabinet members not over $25,000 that any trace can be agree that there is sufficient warrant in existing law for the rigid enforcement of orders against fake publications which have been admitted to the mails as second class matter. It is explained at the postoffice department that it is not the intention to refuse second class rates to legitimate publications. They have not constituted a burden upon the postal facilities of the country. The department's action will be aimed against cheap publications which make offers of premiums evidently of more value than the publication itself.

Mrs. Bonine Indicted.

The first chapter in the sensational murder of James S. Ayres, the Washington, D. C., census office clerk, culminated in the indictment of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine for murder in the first degree. James Seymour Ayres, Jr., 21 years of age, who was employed as a clerk in the census office, and was a resident of Port Austin, Mich., was found dead in his room in the Kenmore Hotel about 8:30 o'clock the morning of the 15th of last May. A woman was seen to emerge from the room and descend by the fire escape to the second floor of the hotel and enter through a window. Mrs. Bonine was arrested and confessed, stating that the killing was done in defense of her virtue and honor.

Fate has made me the only relative start in order to explain, if not justify my discontent; this is not in the least what I should have apportioned for myself. I am not even determined that I should have selected a brother as a solitary relative, but if I had, he should have been a distinguished, university bred person, cultured to his finger-tips and president of Harvard, ho less, and given to entertaining the treatest litterateurs of the day. What Destiny has chosen for me in the shape of Tom is a handsome, well-groom ordinary business man, devoted to the

Desperado, Who Rad Shot Two White Men la a Quarrel, Is Harled to His Doom from a 90-Fout Railroad

Charlotte, N. C., July 16.-Enraged passengers on an excursion train hurled a negro from a 90-foot trestle near this city, silling him instantly. The train was on its way from Spartansburg, S. C., to this city when a row occurred between the negro and two white men. Blows were exchanged and the negro was beginning to get the worst of the struggle when he drew a revolver and shot both men, killing one instantly and fatally wounding the other. This so enraged He held them at bay for a time with his gun, but finally an attack was made from behind and he was overpowered. Part of the belirope of the train was obtained and the desperate man was bound securely. Then it was decided that the passengers form a court. This was done and the negro was found guilty and sentenced to death, Several of the passengers urged that he be brought here and turned over to the officers of the law. The groans of the wounded man and the sight of the dead man, however, counteracted their humane efforts. As the train approached the trestle it was decided to throw the negro from it and several men picked him up and carried him to the platform of the car. When the train reached the center of the trestle the negro was swung back and forth a couple of times by his captors, who then let go of his body. The negro whirled through the air to instant death on the rocks below. His mangled body was later brought to this city. It is not likely that an investigation of the lynching will be made, as the general opinion here is that the negro met a deserved fate for who loves sunsets and moon-rises; for a bit out of the town where the facmeadows and the sea. One can walk directly into the very heart of the sunset—the changing, mysterious heart of evening as I took my solitary stroll along the "loud-sounding" sea! It was extreme low tide, and the sand flats lay in long, dark-brown reaches amidst tranquil pools of water which reflected faithfully the thousand brilliant colors of the west. Far out at sea the waves were breaking in a white line against the dark, sharp lines of the sand. A wholesome tang of salt was in the air, which blew in freshly across the wide expanse of delicate sapphire-tinted sea. The sun bad disappeared behind a bank or rose-colored cloud, and no words of mine can express the giori-blues, which changed and deepened and brightened in the sky, and threw itset deep down into the peaceful beauty of the salt pools, among the long stretches of black sand. Such things must be seen to be appreciated, but no one can look upon such divine loveliness without becoming a better man, I felt as if I had been in church and had heard the angels singing. When the last triumphant note of color had died away in the deep sky and night was settling down tranquilly over the sea

THE GAMING INSTINCT.

Feeds Upon the Satisfaction Gained Through Acquiring Money and Pleasure Without Labor.

We are now, perhaps, in a position to understand how gambling comes to exist and why it is so fascinating, says the American Journal of Sociology. It is a means of keeping up the conflict interest and of securing all the pleasure-pain sensations of condict activity with little effort and no drudgery; and, incidentally or habitually, it may be a means of seeuring meney-that is, potential satisfactions of all possible kinds, gripe but promote an easy gentle action. through the gains accruing to the winner. In gambling the risk is imminent, the attention strained, the emotions strong; and even where the element of skill is removed entirely and the decision left to chance, an emotional reaction analogous to the feeling in the genuine conflict is felt. From this standpoint our problem is not so much to account for the gambler as to account for the business man. The gaming instinct is born in all normal persons. It is one expression of a powerful reflex fixed far back in an animal experience. The instinct is, in itself, right and indispensable, but we discriminate between its applications. It is valued in war and business; it expresses itself in a thousand forms in the games of children and in college athletics; it is approved in such expressions as golf, tennis and billiards, as a recreation for the man of affairs; but society justly condemns the exercise of the instinct aside from activities which create values. The value may be in the increased health and vigor which the business man derives from the recreation, or thousands of others. He says: "Last it may be in the creation of wealth summer I had an attack of dysentery by this same man in a competitive business, but the gamester pure and simple is not regarded with favor by society, because he creates no values and is therefore parasitical, and is besides a disorganizer of the habits of others.

A GREAT SHOE SALE. *

ON SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 13

We placed on sale 2,000 pairs Ladies' Shoes and Oxfords at the lowest prices you ever heard of.

Think of it over fifty ordinary shoe cases containing 36 pairs each. Nearly a car load of nothing but Ladies' Footwear. All styles; all sizes; all widths. A lot of them, but the people in and around this town will wish there were more when they see the prices. Every pair is new and made up for this season's trade. Not a scratch or mark on them. The heels are right; the toes are right; the bottoms are right; the uppers are right. Everything about them is right but the price and that is below cost to manufacture; but the loss is not ours. We bought them at our own price and we are going to give the Ladies' of this community Shoe Bargains that will surprise them.

Prices that don't talk but they holler and if you don't listen you will be sorry. Here they go:

Ladies' new stylish Oxfords worth every cent of $1.50. All sizes from 21 to 8. All widths from C to EE. Hundreds of pairs piled on tables and you take your choice at 75c.

Ladies' high cut shoes worth from $2.00 | Ladies' $2.00 and $2.50 Oxfords made from the to $2.50 will go at from $1 00 to $1.50.

Ladies' shoes worth from $3.00 to $4.00 will go at from $1.75 to $2.50.

finest leathers to be had; McKay welt and turn soles; all styles. Hundreds of pairs piled on tables and if you hurry up you will get a pair for.....

Think of it. The finest kid shoes; the finest patent calf and patent shoes made up on the most stylish lasts in use this season at prices you must pay elsewhere for common clumsy ill fitting shoes. If you only want one pair of shoes it will pay you to come a long ways, but come early and get in line if you want shoes. Part of our first floor will be cleared for this sale. Shoes and Oxfords will be so arranged that you can easily make a selection. Any shoe or Oxford sold during this sale can be exchanged

Remember we guarantee every pair of Shoes or Oxfords sold during this sale just the same as though we sold them at regular retail prices.

Positively none of these goods will be sold to retailers and only one pair to each customer.

Don't forget that with this sale we begin our Carriers of the rural free delivery mail in the United States must hereafter refrain from other business while performing their regular duties as such carriers. Complaints have recently been received at the department stating that many rural free delivery carriers in different sections of the country have been making it a practice of delivering or selling goods along their mail routes, becoming so zealous in this, that they have neglected their mail duties. Hence an order is to be issued prohibiting the practice altogether.

Deputy Sheriff Ryan was called to a esidence on the east side yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock to arrest a man who had frightened the people of the house. He was found to have a revolver and several knives on his person. He also had in his possession a spirit level, several buck saws, a month organ and a number of other articles. He proved to be John Kramer of Chelsea. He was taken to the lockup and this morning was brought before Justice Frank Jos lyn, who gave him f5 days. It is thought the man is demented and he will prob ably be brought before the probate court to determine his condition.—Times.

Timothy J. Fallen, an old resident of Chelses, died in Detroit, Thursday, July 11, 1901, of pneumonia. The remains were brought to Chelsea last Saturday morning, and the funeral was held from St. Mary's church, the Rev. Pather Considine officiating. Interment was in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Chelsea. Mr. Fallen was born in County Roscommon, Ireland, in 1835. and came to America forty-nine years ago, and settled in Lyndon. In 1866 he was united in marrage with Miss Rose Young who passed away about twelve years ago. Mr. Fallen leaves five children, George of Pittsburg, Pa., Thomas and

PINANCIAL PANICS THE SUB-JECT LAST SUNDAY,

a the Reventmenth Chapter of Jerominh, Verse 11-The Reflacments of Life and Unnecessary Expenses of the me and Family—Live Economically.

Copyright, 1901, Louis Klopsch, N. T. Washington, July 14.-In this disurse Dr. Talmage shows the causes of great financial disturbances which take place every few years and arraigns the people who live beyond their means; text, Jeremiah xvii, 11, "As the patridge sitteth on eggs and hatcheth them not, so he that getteth riches, and not by right, shall leave them in the midst of his days and at his end shall be a fool,"

Allusion is here made to a well known fact in natural history. If a patridge or a quall or a robin brood the eggs of another species, the young will not stay with the one that happened to brood them, but at the first opportunity will assort with their own species. Those of us who have been brought up in the country have seen the dismay of the farmyard hen, having brooded aquatic fowls, when after awhile they tumble into their natural element, the water. So my text suggests that a man may gather under his wings the property of others, but it will after awhile escape. It will leave the man in a sorry predicament and make him feel very silly.

Extravagance C uses Rula. What has caused all the black days of financial disasters for the last 60 years? Some say it is the credit system. Something back of that. Some say It is the spirit of gambling ever and anon becoming epidemic. Something back of that. Some say it is the sudden shrinkage in the value of securities, which even the most honest and intelligent men could not have foreseen. Something back of that. I will give you the primal cause of all these disturbances. It is the extravagance of modern society which impels a man to spend more money than he can honestly make, and he goes into wild speculation in order to get the means for inordinate display, and sometimes the man is to blame and sometime his wife and oftener both. Five thousand dollars income, $10,060, $20,000 income, is not enough for a man to keep up the style of living he proposes, and therefore he steers his bark toward the maelstrom. Other men have suddenly snatched up $50,000 or $100,000. Why neighbors. Others have a country seat; a palatial residence; so must he.

the great panics and the great financial disturbances, no sooner have you found the story than right back of it you will find the story of how many horses the man had, how many cardences in the country the man had. ways, and not one exception for the last 60 years, either directly or indirectly extravagance the cause.

The Refinements of Life. Now for the elegances and the re-Inements and the decorations of life. I cast my vote. While I am considering this subject a basket of flowers is handed in-flowers paradisiacal in their beauty. White calla with a green background of begonia. A cluster of Leliotropes nestling in some geranium. Bepal and perlanth bearing on them the marks of God's finger. When I see that basket of flowers, they persuade me that God loves beauty and adornment and decoration. God might have made the earth so as to supply the gross demands of sense, but left it without adornment or attraction. Instead of the variegated colors of the seasons the earth might have worn an unchanging dull brown. The tree might have put forth its fruit without the prophecy of leaf or blossom, Niagara might have come down in gradual descent without thunder and winged

Look out of your window any morning after there has been a dew and see whether God loves jewe's. Put a crystal of snow under a microscope and see commanded the priest of olden time to have his robe adorned with a wreath of gold and the hem of his garment to be embroidered in pomegranates. The earth sleeps, and God blankets it with the brilliants of the night sky. The the burnished layer of the sunrise. So I have not much patience with a man who talks as though decoration and adornment and the elegances of life are a sin when they are divinely recommended. But there is a line to be drawn between adornment and decorations that we can afford and those we cannot afford, and when a man crosses the line he becomes culpable. I cannot tell you what is extravagant for you You cannot tell me what extravagant for me. What right for a queen may be squandering for a duchess. What may be economical for you, a man with larger income, will be wicked waste for me, with smaller income. There is no iron rule on this subject. Every man before God and on his knees must udge what is extravagance, and when man goes into expenditures beyond is means he is extravagant,

Meeting One's Obligations. Of course sometimes men are flung ended and the lights are out. having failed as other men are honest in succeeding. I suppose there is hardly a max who has gone through life but know but some of you in high dudgeon heavily in stocks.—New York Sun. of misfortunes and they cannot pay. I has been so hurt of misfortune he well! Some of you make a great could not meet his obligations, but all swash in life, and after awhile you that I put aside. There are a multitude of people who buy that which they never intend to payfor, for which there is no reasonable expectation they will ever be able to pay. Now, if you have become oblivious of honesty and mean to defraud, why not save the merchant as much as ou can? Why not go some day to his store and when nobody is looking just shoulder a ham or the sparelb and in modest stience steal away? That would be less criminal, because in the other way you take not only the man's goods, but you take the time of the merchant and the time of his accountant, and you take the time of the messenger who brought you the goods. Now, if you must steal, steal in a way to do as little damage to the trader as possible.

John Randolph arose in the American senate when a question of national finance was being discussed, and, stretching himself to his full height, in a shril voice he clied out, "Mr. Chairman, I have discovered the philosopher's stone, which turns everything into gold-pay as you go!" Soclety has got to be reconstructed on this subject or the seasons of defalcation will continue to repeat themselves. You have no right to ride in a carriage for which you are hopelessly in debt to the wheelwright who furnished the landau, and to the horse dealer who provided the blooded span, and to the harness maker who caprisoned the gay steeds, and to the liveryman who has provided the stabling, and to the driver, who, with rosetted hat, sits on the coach box.

Oh, I am so glad it is not the absolute necessities of life which send people out into dishonesties and fling them into misfortunes. It is almost always the superfiulties. God has promised us a house, but not a palace; raiment, but not chinchilla; food, but not canvasback duck. I am yet to see one of these great defalcations which is not connected in some way with extravagance. Extravagance accounts for the dis-tu bance of national finances. Aggregations are made up of units, and when one-half of the people of this country owe the other half how can we expect financial prosperity? Again and again at the national election we have had a spasm of virtue, and we said, "Out with one administration and in with another and let us have a new deal of things and then we will get over our perturbation." I do not care who is president or who is secretary of the treasury or how much not be? The present income of the man breadstuffs go out of the country or not eing large enough, he must move how much gold is imported until we asking for any. Pay! Do not starve earth and hell to catch up with his learn to pay our debts and it becomes so must be. Others have an extrava- men must buy no more than they can gant caterer; so must be. Others have pay for. Until that time comes there will be no permanent prosperity. Look Extravagance is the cause of all the at the pernicious extravagance. Take defalcations of the last 60 years, and, if the one fact that New York every you will go through the history of all year pays $3,000,000 for theatrical amusements. While once in a while a Henry Irving or an Edwin Booth or a Joseph Jefferson thrills a great audience with tragedy, you know as well as I do that the vast majority of the riages the man had, how many resi- theaters are as debased as debased they can be, as unclean as unclean they can how many banquets the man gave-al- be and as damnable as damnable they can be. Three million dollars, the vast majority of those dollars going in the wrong direction. Harmful ant Unnecessary Expense. Over a hundred millions paid in th's country for cigars and tobacco a year. About $2,000,000,000 paid for strong drink in one year in this country. With such extravagance, pernicious extravagance, can there be any permanent prosperity? Business men, cool headed business men, is such a thing a possibility? These extravagances a so account, as I have already hinted, for the positive crimes, the forgeries, the abscondings of the officers of the banks. The store on the business street swamped by the residence on the fashionable avenue. The father's, the husband's craft capsized by carrying too much domestic sail. That is what springs the leak in the merchant's money til. That is what cracks the pistols of the suicides. That is what tears down the banks. That is what stops insurance companies. That is what halts this nation again and again in its triumphal march of prosperity. In the presence of the American people so far as I can get their attention I want to arraign this monster curs: what God thinks of architecture. God of extravagance, and I want you to pelt it with your scorn and hurl at it your anathema.

How many fortunes every year wrecked on the wardrobe. Things have got to such a pass that when we cry over our sins in church we wipe world wakes, and God washes it from the tears away with a $150 pocket handkerchief! I show you a domestic tragedy in five acts:

beautiful. Enter newly married pair. Enter contentment. Enter as much happiness as ever gets in one home. Act the second-Enter discontent. Enter desire for larger expenditure.

Enter envy. Enter jealousy. Act the third-Enter the queenly dress-makers. Enter the French milliners. Enter all cost!y plate and all great extravagances. Act the fourth-Tiptop of society. Princes and princesses of upper tendom floating in and out. Everything on a large and magnificent scale. Enter contempt for other people.

Act the fifth and last. Enter the assignee. Enter the sheriff. Enter the creditors. Enter humiliation. Enter the wrath of God. Enter the contempt of society. Enter ruin and death. Now drop the curtain. The play is the opening of the market on the gedy. That is a I called it there have been some times when he would get up and go out. You stand it will die, and ministers will be sent for to come and stand by your comn and lie about your excellences. But they will not come. If you send for me, I will tell you what my text will be: "He that provideth not for his own, and especially for those of his own household, is worse than an infidel." And yet we find Christian men, men of large means, who sometimes talk eloquently about the Christian church, and about civilization, expending everything on themse'ves and nothing on the cause of God, and they crack the back of their Palais Royal glove in trying to hide the one cent they put into the Lord's treasury. What an apportionment! Twenty thousand dollars for ourselves and one cent for God. Ah, my friends, this extravagance accounts for a great deal of what the cause of God suffers.

And the desecration goes on, even to the funeral day. You know very well that there are men who die so'vent, but the expenses are so great before they get underground they are insolvent. There are families that go into penury in wicked response to the demands of this day. They put in casket and tombstone that which they ought to put in bread.

God's Cause Impoveri hed.

And then look how the cause of God is impoverished. Men give so much sometimes for their indulgences they have nothing for the cause of God and religion. Twenty-two million dollars expended in this country a year for religious purposes! But what are the twenty-two millions expended for religion compared with the hundred millions expended on cigars and tobacco and then two thousand millions of dollars spent for rum? So a man who does: sell it for what it will bring had a fortune of $750,000 or what but never put your name on it so that amounted to that, in London spent i: all in indulgences, chiefly in gluttonies, and sent hither and yon for all the delicacies and often had a meal that would cost $100 or $200 for himself. Then he was reduced to a guinea, with which he bought a rare bird, had it cooked in best style, ate it, took two hours for digestion, walked out on Westminster bridge and jumped in o the Thames-on a large scale what have made most money selling direct men are doing on a small scale.

against the extravagances of society. Do not pay for things that are frivoous when you may lack the necessities. Do not put one month's wages or salary into a trinket, just one trinket. Keep your credit good by seldom a whole year to afford one Be'shazzar's carnival. Do not buy a coat of many colors and then in six months be out at the elbows. Flourish not, as some people I have known, who took apartments at a fashionable hotel, and had elegant drawing rooms attached and then vanished in the night, not even leaving their compliments for the landlord. I tell you, my friends, in the day of God's judgment we will not only have to give an account for the way we made our money, but for the way we spent it. We have got to leave all the things that surround us now. Alas, if any of you in the dying hour felt like the dying actress who asked that the casket of jewels be brought to her and then turned them over with her pale hand and sald, "Alas, that I have to leave you so soon!" Better in that hour have one treasure of heaven than the bridal trousseau of a Marie Antoinette or to have been s ated with Caligula at a banquet which cost its thousands of dollars or to have been carried to our last resting place with senators and princes as pallbearers. They that consecrate their wealth, their time, their all, to God shall be held in everlasting remembrance, while I have the authority of this book for ways had a large trade of this kind. announcing that the name of the wicked shall rot.

SOUP AND STOCKS.

Omens Which Cave Warning to a Heavy

Speculator. A New Yorker in London during the recent time of excitement on the stock exchange attributes his fortunate issue from a sories of heavy speculations to an incident that was connected with nothing more occult and supernatural than a plate of soup. He was at dinner when the recent crisis was at its height. The soup was vermicelli, with the customary letters floating in it. In the conversation the New Yorker was contending against the general argument that the existing high prices were not likely to decline but rested on a business basis which made it certain they would be maintained. He was lifting the spoon to his lips after a very spirited utterance Act he first-A home, plain and on the subject, when he saw that the four letters in his spoon spelt the word "Sell." He is not a supers itious man, but the incident set him thinking. He swal owed the omen without mentioning it. He continued to eat, and the party confined its talk chiefly to the condition of the stock market in this city. When he dipped his spoon in the soup for the last mouthful, the New York operator saw that only six of the flour letters remained in the plate, but they spelt the word "Unload." This coincidence was too much even for the doubting stock broker, who excused himself from the table and went to the cable office of the hotel. He sent word to his broker to close out all his railroad holdings, and the difference in time brought the message here for day of the panic. His broker followed his directions, and he came out heavy winner. It is not surprising apart. that his favorite soup is now vermicelli, especially when he is operating acre, with stalks fourteen inches apart.

AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Tp-to-Date Bints About Cultivetion of the Soil and Yields Thereof-Horticulture Vicioniture and Fiorical-

How to Se'l Fruit. R. M. Kellogg, the well-known fruitgrower of Michigan, writing in his annual catalogue on the way to sell fruit, says:

Never give the market a thought until the berries are ready but spend your time growing such a grade of fruit that customers will wait for your coming. You will not have to run around to drum up trade

If your fruit is right you will not have any trouble in arranging with the leading dealer to handle all you have. Get a neat circular letter printed describing your berries and have one left with every family who is a customer of your dealer, telling them where they can be had. Have notices put in the papers to the same effect. Pack your fruit honestly in a nice, clean box and don't forget to put some big berries in the bottom. The people will find them and give you a good deal of credit. If you ship to a distant city secure a reliable dealer in the same way and have a neat stencil or label which shall act as a trademark, so that people will become accustomed to it and insist on having your brand. You will have no occasion to make consignments to a commission house but will be put to your wits' end to get enough fruit to supply regular customers.

If you are so fortunate as to have common fruit, do as the other fellow people shall find out that it came from your establishment. A good reputation is a splendid stock in trade. It gives you the advantage on the market and causes people to pass by the other growers and patronize you. Have a neat letter head and bill head to use when you have occasion to write to a customer or present a bill. Take pride in your business and do business in a business-like way. I to private families. I never failed to Oh, my friends, let us take our stand secure for customers nearly every family on all the principal streets. Other growers would tag around after me and offer my customers their berries for two or three cents less per quart, but I paid no attention to them.

Always insist on a fair price and back it up by a comparison of values and you will have no trouble in getting and holding customers. Be firm courteous under all circumstances; don't get angry if they do quit you, but express your regrets and leave them in a mood in which they can come back without prejudice. It costs nothing and it is pleasant to be known as a gentleman with whom everybody likes to deal. Don't cut prices but look up new customers if you have a surplus of fruit. Don't peddle indiscriminately from house to house but have regular customers whom you supply daily.

Insist on a good price for fancy fruit and you will always get it. You will rarely or never lose a customer. but you will keep on getting more patronage as the quality of your fruit becomes known. Nine-tenths of the people will buy the best fruit they can get, and a reasonably high price cuts no figure if they can only know where to get a regular supply. Any groceryman will tell you he always sells his fancy fruit first and the low grades last. The word goes from one family to another and to their friends in distant towns, where families will club together and have several bushels shipped daily by express and divide them among themselves. I have al-

When selling one kind of fruit engage the next coming on, so as to have everything sold in advance. You will soon find all your time occupied in selling fruit and directing work, and you can hire the drudgery done by people of less enterprise. Pay your men good wages, so they will prize their places, but let them understand that everything depends on first-class, careful work. When they see the drones being weeded out they will take the hint; and don't forget the worst use you can make of a man is to quagrel with him and call him hard names. Just say to him kindly that his services are no longer needed, and let him go. A neat personal appearance is a good stock in trade. Wear a good business suit and keep your shoes blacked, and be in condition to approach a wealthy family and make a good impression, and never offer a customer berries in an old dirty box. Keep your wagon as neat and attractive as possible.

This vs. Thick Corn Planting.

How thick should corn be planted when it is to be used for ensilage? This question is of considerable importance, as the thickness of planting has a direct bearing on the yield possible. No absolute rule can be given that will suit all soils, since it is evident that light and heavy soils will behave differently, and that difference of fertilization also has much to do with the result.

At the New Jersey Experiment Station last year one acre of ground was divided into one-fourth acre plots and planted to Southern White corn, June 8th. The corn was planted in drills on all of the plots, the drills being three feet and six inches apart.

Plot I was planted at the rate of six quarts of corn per scre. The stalks stood ten inches apart in the drill. Plot 2 at the rate of five quarts per acre, the stalks standing twelve inches

Plot 4 at the rate of three quarts only twice as heavy as water, per acre, with stalks sixteen in of silage corn on plot I was at the rate of 8.03 tons per acre; on plot 2 16 was at the rate of 7,79 tons per acre; on plot 3 it was at the rate of 7.49 tone to the acre; and on plot 4 at the rate of 7.48 tons per acre.

It was noticed on plot 1, where the It was noticed the thickest, that it about. Two ranchers in the Verie took the moisture from the soil more rapidly and suffered more from the drouth than the other plots. The ears were also noticeably smaller on plots 1 and 2, where the corn was planted thickly than on the more thinly seeded plots. The experimenters express the opinion that the thickest planting is the most profitable for silage corn.

We are sure that some of our siloists will disagree with the above, but know also that others will sustain the conclusions reached. Some want to grow a goodly proportion of grain with the stalks and such will plant at wider distances. On the other any more profit out of the mine, it hand, the writer once heard H. B. was abandoned for several years ties for silage.

Broad or Windsor Bean

(Vicia faba). This is the "bean of history," or that which was earlier cultivated. This bean grows erect, about 21/2 feet high, has a square, reddish stem, and the leaves are made up of oval leaflets. The pods are broad, thicker at the end and generally curved and pendent, containing thickish, bulging seeds. Several varieties are grown in Europe oth for fodder and for human food, but it does not continue as long in tured bones of a man's leg in order bearing as other beans. It is said to be that he may use his knees while the more generally eaten there by the poor bones are knitting together. than by the wealthy, but, as it has a distinct and agreeable flavor of its own, quite different from the kidney bean, it should be better known among us. It is gathered when full grown, but unripe, as it is then best flavored. The Broad Windsor is perhaps the best known of the cultivated varieties, but it is less successfully grown in the United States than in Europe, the climate being apparently unsuited to its hest development. It is imported to some extent in exchange for varieties grown here.

Defroiting of Meat. In the foreign meat trade great interest is being manifested just now in the discovery of a new method of defrosting meat. As everyone knows, meat which has been preserved by freezing invariably presents a flabby and washed-out appearance on being thawed by the ordinary process, but A. H. Chapman, sheep farmer, of Ku-row, the defrosted meat presents cultias fresh an appearance as the fresh meat which has never been frosted. The new process consists in wrapping up the meat in a waterproof and airtight canvas while the carcass is be- onade. Three children are reported ing thayed, and this method is said dead and many seriously ill. to be altogether successful in preventing the loss of freshness, which always results when frozen meat is thawed in the ordinary way. It is estimated that at present thirty tons sumed weekly in Edinburg alone. It is therefore easy to see the box. is therefore easy to see the huge possibilities that there are for any perfected system which will bring over the meat in better condition than can be done at present.-North British Agriculturist.

Brick Preserves. The Australians, it appears, are putting up fruit preserves in the form of bricks, and the United States Agricultural department has become interested in the subject, as it is believed that in a country, especially in Califormia, where fruit is so plentiful, that vast industry can be developed in preserves put up in this form. The process consists simply in compressing fruit-pulp into bricks and wrapping them in oil paper or other similar substance that will keep out the moisture. The method has the advantage of doing away with glass or tin packages which are necestary in liquid preserves. It is also hoped that the brick preserves can be made to taste like fresh fruit, but comp'ete success has not yet been attained in this respect

"What robber?" asked the princess. "The same one that came yesterday." Ulin did not stop to think whether the visit would be pleasant or otherwise. The man had signified his purpose, and as he was master in the palace, she had no idea of opposing him. Calypso withdrew, and presently afterwards the robber entered. He came in with the same noble step and bearing; the same pleasant, genial face; and with the same look and salute of reverence and respect.

"I t.ust that the Lady Ulia has passed a quiet night," he said, in deep sincerity.

"I have rested well, sir," she re-"Good. I am glad of that. I feared you might have bad dreams,"

"Not many, sir." "Ah-and did you have any such?"

"Not-not many." "You dreamt that Julian was a demon, eh?" "No, no, sir-my dreams were not of him." "I hope, sweet lady, that you dreamed not darkly of me."

"No, sir. It was of-" The maiden hesitated, and seemed troubled; but her visitor came to her essistance.

"Never mind, lady. I meant not to inquire into the secret twinings of your mind. I only hoped that I had not been unfortunate enough to excite the apprehension of your slumbering fancies."

He smiled as he spoke, at the same time moving a step nearer, and then

"Then, let him come."

"Gentle lady, pardon me if I have led you upon a fanciful way of thought. I am Julian. I am he whom men call the Scourge of Damascus And now I crave your indulgence; but still I shall bow most humbly to your commands. At your word I leave th's apartment; yet, I should like to speak a litt'e further. I should like to expain more fully why I'am here."

Was Ulin frightened? Not at all. the was startled when she first knew that the man before her was the dread-I Scourge of whom she had heard much; but it was an emotion of asmishment. At first she could hardly believe that she had heard the tru h. "You-Julian?" she murmured, gaz-

"Not exactly that." returned Ulin. with a smile, "though I am free to confess that I shou'd not have been so much surprised as I have been, if had seen a worse looking man."

"Thank you," cried the robber aughing. "I shall take that as a compliment, and tay it up among the most precious of my recollections. I understand you; so, upon this point, I need only assure you that I am Julian, and that I must own the somewhat dub'ous title which has been bestowed upon me. And now, lady, may I sit here for a few moments, and speak with you further?"

The very thing Ulin had been upon he point of suggesting. She did not like to see him standing before her; hor was she anxious that he should leave her. She had a strong curiosity to hear him speak further. There was something in the appearance of the Youthful adventurer that deeply intersted her. She bade him be seated, and then, without intending to be heard, she murmured:

"So young!" "Aye, lady," he said, catching the whispered words, "I am young—rounger, perhaps, than I look. Only ree-and-twenty years have cast their hadows upon me. knew that I was an orphan, and that my misfortune was the work of the King of Damasevs. O! how the iron settled into my soul. I had grown strong and resolute, as though heaven would enable me to work retribution upon the tyrant. Do you ask me if I enjoy the life I have led. I answer-I have made enjoyments for myself. I have felt a peculiar satisfaction in knowing that the king feared me. When I have heard my name spoken by the rich and powerful with fear and trembling, I have liked it; and when I have known that Horam dreaded my approach, I have fet that my labors were not without their result. But these have not been my joys. In Damascus the name of Julian is a terror; but there are other places where that name is spoken with love and gratitude. Upon the plains of Abilene, and in the mountain passes of L banon, where the busy craftsmen prepare timber for Jerusalem-there Julian is hailed as a friend and benefactor. The grim satisfaction of torturing the phere of these friendly regions." Why did Ulin sit so still and listen with such rapt attention to the words of the speaker? She bent her head as though soft music were stealing o'er her senses; and she gazed upon the man before her as though a grand, inspiring picture had been unfolded to her vision. His words carri d truth in their very sound, and all her sympathies had been aroused. She was a woman whose nature had not been warped by art; and the avenues to her soul were guarded only by the pure instincts of virtue and humanity. Not always the safest guard; but still the happiest when surrounding influences are not evil.

"You will remember him as little as possible, my mistress," said the slave girl, taking a seat close by Ulin's side, and resling her hand upon her arm.

"What mean you, Albia? Why should my memory be narrowed or shortened?"

"Because you are to have a husband who will demand your every thought and feeling. Horam is deeply versed in all the secrets of the female heart, and his eyes will not sleep while you have a thought which he does not understand."

"Indeed, Albia," cried the princess, with a look of amazement, "you m sunderstand me.".

"If such be the case," replied the girl, very quietly, 'you will forgive me for what I have said; and of Julian we will think no more."

Ah-was it so? Had Ulin been misunderstood? Had the keen-eyed Albia been mistaken? Would there be no more thought of Julian?

The day passed away, and towards evening Aswad returned from the mountains. He said he had not fled from fear of the robbers; but that, when he saw that defeat was inevitable, he had sought safety from capture so that he might communicate with Damascus. Perhaps he old the truth. At all events, he resumed his command, and once more posted his guards about the valley: and then came to assure the princess that she was safe.

It was in the evening, just as the and before the lamps had been lighted -at that season when the thoughts are most apt to wander and strange fancies visit the mind.

The warning was most seasonable: and Ulin, by obeying it so conducted herself that Horam thought she only suffered from the dreadful fright occasioned by the appearance of the terrible Julian. He spoke to her words of cheer and assurance, and announced his purpose of carrying her back to Damascus.

"We will rest tonight, sweet love." he said, "and on the morrow you shall find a safer shelter."

Ulin gazed upon the wrinkled face, not repress a shudder. She looked upon the thin, hard hands of the monarch, and they seemed covered with blood. She watched him as he departed with her father; and when he had gone she sank down, and leaned her head upon Albia's bosom.

Not all of the other 24 patients in Kansas City hospitals are out of danger. Indeed, England, as against 227,662 in 1889. all of those scalded about the head are probably injured internally by inhalation of steam, and the physicians and attendants say that many of the cases are serious. A passenger says of the wreck: "The train was making a fine sprint and everybody feeling pleasant and happy, when all of a sudden there was an awful crash and it seemed as though a tremendous fist had struck the train in the face. In an instant last gleams of day were fading out, the air was filled with cries and screams; cars were smashed into splinters, while several rolled down the huge embankment. In an instant that splendid train was reduced to a mere mass of debris, with human bodies crawling, screaming or lying in mangled heaps on the ground. Fire immediately added its horror to the scene, and above all the terrible clamor of our train were heard the almost human cries of the burning cattle of the

ADVANTAGES OF THE DOCTOR.

He Is Not Under Restraints Such as Those by Which Preachers Are Environed.

Physicians, like clergymen, are concerned in trying to make their fellow men better, but they have a great advantage over the clerical brethren in being able to shape their lives according to their whims and necessities without undue criticism from their fellows. We prefer that our doctors should be good men. We insist that they shall have a high degree of professional honor. We expect them not to be unduly mercenary, and not to grudge a fair measure of their time to the public service. But we don't concern ourselves about what they eat, or drink, or smoke, or how they choose to have their share of fun, says a writer in Harper's Weekly. We don't even insist that they shall practice what they preach, and we should be disappointed if we did, for, though doctors spend their lives in efforts to induce people to take care of their health, it is unusual for a busy doctor to take even ordinary care of himself. His sleep is broken, his meals are irregular, he overworks himself; very likely he smokes too much. But as long as our confidence in his skill is unimpaired we don't criticise him.

Doctors are supposed to know what is good for themselves, and in their hands we leave the responsibility for their cases as well as for ours. To be sure, we scoff a great deal at the medical profession, carp at its contradictions and remark upon its limitations, but in the long run the good doctors get the credit that is their due, even though its arrears may not come in until after they are dead.

America the Land of Stability. What other civilized government can boast such continued stability as the United States since the inauguration of our first president? During this period the form of government in France has changed ten times. Germany is but 30 years old. Austria, as a nation, is the outcome of the Hungarian rebellion. Italy is a still later product of popular evolution. Cavour tore down many walls to build one nation. England and Russia are the only great powers which are now identical in structural character with what

The water in the mill pond was the owest last week that it has ever been, unless during a period when the pond was drained .- Dexter Leader.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fillenberger of Bridgewater, who two weeks ago was afflicted by a paralysis of her tongue, is alightly better. She can now speak a few words, but cannot speak with her former fluency.

Martin Conrad, an Adrian young man, narrowly escaped drowning while in bathing on Monday. Then he got on a locomotive to ride home, and was overcome by the heat and came near dying. Then he went home and went to bed, for fear if he stayed about death might-take another chance and that it would be a case of three times and out.

D. E. Quish was quite badly injured Monday, by being cut in the thigh with a piece of glass. He was passing by a keg in the store in which broken glass is kept. Being in a hurry, he did not notice that a long piece projected from the keg and this struck him in the leg, making a bad though not serious wound which has confined him to the house since .- Dexter

Eddie Townsend, the 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Townsend, who reside on a farm four miles north of Stockbridge, had a miraculous escape from death. While climbing about the rack which supported a load of hay on Thursday, he lost his hold and fell. A rear wheel of the wagon, which-weighs 1,540 pounds and carried a ton and a half of hay, passed directly over the boy's ankle. The physician who was summoned expected to find the member completely crushed, but great was his surprise to find that not a bone was even cracked. they were when our republic adopted Only the print of the four-inch tire her constitution .- Albion W. There was an arrival at the prison vesterday out of the ordinary and it came without being in the custody of a sheriff and without commitment papers. The arrival consisted of a swarm of bees which alighted in the front oung man, Warden Chamberlain was something of an adept in the care of bees and his knowledge came into play vesterday. He hived the swarm and and they have commenced work for the state. The warden is uncertain as to how long they will be contented to work for the state, but says they appear to becontented and happy. -Jackson Patriot.

The water supply in the village has been rather limited for some time and the village fathers are wrestling with the problem of increasing the supply. The trouble lies in the main between the spring and the reservoir. The council members went out Monday taking with them an engineer. The estimated flow at the spring is a million gallons per day, yet the reservoir is practically empty all the time. The council is considering ways and means that will bring about the solving of the question of supply and in the meantime every watertaker should be as economical possible in the use of water. estimated flow at the spring is a mill economical possible in the use of water. The lands, tenements and premises in the -Plymouth Mail.

Dr. Chas. Chadwick and C. E. Babrock have placed a handsome new electric launch on Grass Lake. The affair is finished in oak and the seats upholstered with corduroy. All the metalic work in sight is silver plated and every detail about the little craft is perfect. Should there spring a leak an automatic appurtenance does the bailing; the engine is set in motion or is stopped, as desired, by a small lever and the electric batteries that work the propellers are out of the way and out of sight. This beautiful launch will carry eight or ten people and its cost was $275. It will skim over the waves at the rate of 10 miles an hour -Grass Lake News.

A horse was killed on Henry Platt's farm in Pittsfield yesterday afternoon and a little boy had a narrow escape. The storm blew down a trolley wire. lodging it on a wire fence and charging the same with electricity. There were five horses in the field. They moved towards the fence. The first one that touched it doubled up in agony, and was instantly killed by the electric shock which he received. Another horse just slightly touched the fence with his nose and received just No.8—Detroit Night Express 5:22 a.m. Sausage and Lard is all enough of the fluid to make him wheel and retreat to the center of the field, no. 36—Atlantic Express 7:15 a.m. our own supervision. WHITE MAN TURNED YELLOW. Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky.. when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderfml stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After yard. Twenty-five years ago, when a taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold by Glazier & Stimson.
