The franchise is almost exactly similar to the one granted the Boland line. It is for thirty years, after which the city may purchase through arbritrators, and one provision requires the giving and receiving of transfers to and from any other city company, providing mutually satisfactory arrangements can be made. The franchise was introduced by Ald. Schubert and Pickles, who endeavored to push tt through the usual course. An objection of a Boland alderman that the ordinance had not been previously noticed, of 9 to 5 it was referred to the stree committee, instead of the ordinance committee, in spite of protests from alder men known to favor a monopoly of city street railway business for Boland, Until the franchise is disposed of Jackson promises to be a storm center in the war fare of the rival lines.

Three Rivers' Smallpox Case.

The agitation over the alleged smallpox cases in Three Rivers has nearly subsided. Miss Southworth, who has been in quarantine for several weeks, owing to exposure by a visit from one of the nurses from the asylum at Kalamazoo, has been released Thus far she has not been sick at all. The two fellows picked up on the streets some days ago as suspects, the health officer claiming that they had been exposed, are still detained in quarantine at the hospital, Recently some of their friends smuggled in a case of wet goods, and the result was that both of them got full. During the night they got out, and Constable Jordan, who was detailed to look after the place, had a high time chasing them around the north end of the city before he corralled the fellows again. Next morning Jordan quit the business, claiming that he did not want to take care of smallpox patients and drunken men at the same time.

A Train Born Babe.

Mrs. W. H. Alvin, of 2218 Wabash avenue, Chicago, gave birth to a child Friday night while a passenger on Wabash train No. 6, which arrived in Detroit at about 11 o'clock. The birth took place a few miles this side of Adrian at about 10 o'clock. The child is a boy and weighed seven pounds. Some kind-hearted passenger took up a collection for the youngster which netted $20. Mrs. Alvin was on her way to visit at Point au Chene, Canada. As soon as possible, word was telegraphed to Adrian and Mrs. Alvin was attended to by Dr. Kirkpatrick, of that town, who came on at once. She was taken to the House of Providence, Detroit, on her arrival there. It has been suggested that the boy be named Adrian Wabash Alvin.

He is 23 years old.

Foolish Boys' Freak,

Three young athletes of St. Joseph, Duffy Mason, Joseph Mason, and Bert Morris, will on Wednesday next attempt what has never before been tried. They will row from St. Joseph to Chicago, a distance of 61 miles, in a small open shell boat. There is considerable interest manifested in the event, and considerable money is up. It is hoped by the young men that they can secure a race, and to that effect have issued the following challenge: "We challenge any three oarsmen to row in a contest from the Graham & Morton dock in St. Joseph, to the Chicago Yacht club house in Chicago, in common rowboats. We will leave at 3:30 a. m., on Wednesday, August 21." The young men are determined to take the risk and will not have any steamboat to attend them on their trip.

The Chicora Wreck.

It is thought that the wreck of the lost steamer Chicora has at last been located. Capt. R. J. Gordon, of the steamer Gardom, while nearing St. Joe harbor from South Haven, when some 10 miles to the north of the harbor, discovered a broken spar extending a few inches above the surface of the water during the swell of waves. Gordon noted the location of the spar by landmarks. The spar is stationary. and for that reason it is thought to be attached to a hull below the surface. Gordon is satisfied that it is the hull of the long-lost steamer. Marine men are inclined to entertain the idea that it must be the Chicora wreck, as no other boat has been wrecked in that section of the north shore for years.

A St. Joseph Tough,

During a quarrel at the Indiana, Iliinois & Iowa railroad depot in St. Joseph Friday, "Black C." Martin knocked Joseph Russell, an excursionist, of Laporte. Ind., off a platform to the docks 20 feet below. Russell was kicked in the abdomen by his assailant and received terrible injuries. "Black C." was arrested by the police for attempted murder. He is now in jail. Russell was assaulted in the presence of friends and hundreds of excursionists and a riot was narrowly averted. It is believed the quarrel was over a girl. Fourteen Hundred Bay View Workers Go Out.

WHEELING MEN ALSO STRIKE.

The McKeesport Men Sald to be Restle and Desire to Get Back to Work The Joliet Plant Permanently Shut Down-Latest Peparts of the Situation.

The Strike.

The steel workers were rejolding Saturday over the fact that the Milwankee workers in the Bay View plant of the Illinois Steel Co. decided to strike though there were reports that the McKeesport men might go back to their work, thus adding a weakening of forces in the east. It is sa'd that the plant at Bay View will be shut down indefinitely and about 1,-400 men will be thrown out of work. Leaders of the Amalgamated association declare the action of the Bay Vlew men will have an important bearing upon the situation. They claim that South Chicago will be influenced in the same direction. Of the 1,400 men who were employed at the Bay View mills, 219 belong to the Amalgamated association. They are the tonnage men. Besides the union men, there were 200 other skilled men employed. The engineers and roll turners formerly belonged to the Amalgamated association and are in sympathy with them. Employment was given to 1,000 unskilled men, 200 of whom worked in the blast furnaces. The wages paid the men who have gone out of this plant amounted to $90,000 per month. The news that the Bay View men were to stand by the Amalgamated association was a surprise to the South Chicago workers. Some in the streets declared that at last the local workers would be forced to quit. There were others, however, who asserted that it was too late now to act. Should they strike now, it was declared, the Amalgamated association would see to it that they were taken back at less pay than when they

The news that the Milwaukee men had decided to cast their fortunes with the strikers, supplemented by the wired announcement that the steel men in the Riverside plant at Wheeling had voted to strike, awakened new enthusiasm in the ranks of the Amalgamated association and its followers in Pittsburg.

There is a strong possibility that there will be an early break in the ranks of the strikers at McKeesport. Many of the unorganized men have become dissatisfied and make no secret of their threat to go bokily back to the National Tube Co. and ask for their places just as soon as they gain | filed in the Baltimore county circuit sufficient following to withstand pressure from the strikers or are given a guarantee of personal protection. Several of them, in stating their position, say that they have everything to lose and nothing to gain by staying out. They are merely out in an effort to strengthen the hand of the Amalgamated association. When the contest ends, they say, they can see nothing in it for them but loss of wages and possibly a loss of place. The great western works of the American Tin Plate Co, at Joliet never will be reopened. This declaration was made by a representative of the combine located in Jollet. His statement he said was based on positive information, although he declined to give his authority. Following the utterance came news of the transfer of the general manager and of the foreman of the plant to other places.

The Downger-Empress' Husband. A story has reached Paris that Emperor William of Germany has conferred upon Count Von Seckendorff, the alleged husband of the dowager empress, the grand cordon of the Hohenzollern Family Order. This is regarded as a tactful act of mollification on the part of his majesty. Seckendorff, though bitterly protesting, was not permitted to exercise the rights of a husband, to act as chief mourner at the services over the empress' remains. He defied the kaiser and threatened to appeal to the law of Prussia for protection. The kalser is now fearful of scandals. workmen, who were in the crib, 11 others were at work in the tunnel leading from it 200 feet below the bottom of the lake. As air which was pumped from the crib to supply the men working in the tunnel was cut off as a re sult of its destruction, it was at first supposed that these had all perished. Subsequently, however, nine were rescued after heroic work on the part of fellow workmen. One, and possibly two men, are supposed to be lying dead in the tunnel, too far away from the shaft to be

Regarding the situation in the Venezuela-Colombia dispute, President Castro has informed President McKinley: "It is the government's opinion that the conservatives of Colombia, probably led by ruinous and wicked passions, have resolved to assist in a revolutionary movement against Ven exuela and her government. When the government of Venezuela was surprised by the first and second invasions of her frontier by 6,000 and 2,000 men, respectively, the invaders were victoriously expelled by the government and the people of Venezuela. Since said events, 10,000 men have been massed on the frontier for the defense and integrity of Venezuela and its national honor. These are quite apart from her active service troops on other parts of the frontier, as well as national troops scattered over the republic and the reserve militia now under arms. Venezuela has not accepted the invasion as an international attack by the people of Colombia against the people of Venezuela, but, knowing its real source, recognize in it the work of the conservative government of Colombia against the majesty of the nation of Venezuela." There are indications that there will be a considerable gathering of foreign warships at the isthmus, and that American ships will be brought into company with those of the British, German and French navies.

A Schley Surprise. There is said to be a big surprise in store for the navy department when the court of inquiry meets to investigate the charges against Schley. Jere Wilson, the noted lawyer of Washington, will be one of Schley's counsel. and it is said that former Secretary of the Navy Benjamin F. Tracy, of New York, will also appear on that side of the case. That is the surprise which may worry Secretary Long. Gen. Tracy is one of the greatest lawyers in the United States, and was Harrison's secretary of the navy, and it is whispered that his part in the cases will be so to handle the witnesses as to reveal political favoritism and petty department scandals which will not only assist to create the impression that Schley is the victim of bureau jealousies, but will also embarrass the administration.

by Schley's It is intimated friends that Tracy will so develop the bureaucratic methods of the navy department before the court as to create a sensation if not a naval scandal and compel a complete overhauling of the department. Wealthy men in New York and Boston have taken up the cause of Schley and stand ready to contribute all the money needed for the employment of counsel and it is intimated that there will be other great lawyers in the case when it comes to a hearing.

A Million Dollar Swindle,

The details of an alleged attempt to swindle banks on a large scale by means of fraudulent corporations and fictitious notes is told in a petition court at Towson, Md., for a receiver for the Manor Lumber Co., of that town. The amount involved, according to the petition, is over $1,000,000 and it is asserted that the scheme has been at least partially successful. Benjamin W. Cross, of Cincinnati, is the plaintiff, and according to the story told by him, he was induced to accept certificates of stock in the Manor Co. by Charles E. Corkran, originator and promoter of the scheme, which stock he subsequently transferred back to Corkran. Cross has learned since, he says, that the company was not incorperated for the purpose of doing a legitimate business, but formed by Mr. Cockran as a part of a scheme for alleged swindling, covering territory from Boston on the north to Chicago on the west and Asheville on the south

The Gulf Storm.

The gulf coast from Pensacola to New Orleans is at last under view, telegraphic communication having been resumed from one point, which is central. The general report is that aside from damage to wharves and bathhouses, sail boats and smacks, trees, outhouses and fences, the instances of serious loss are few. There has been no loss of life, as far as is known in Mobile and vicinity. A new Orleans dispatch says: It is learned that while the damage had been severe at all points, wharves and bath houses being swept away, there had been no loss of life except one fisherman missing from Bay St. Louis.

Starvation in Russia.

Advices from Moscow say Russia is on the eve of a famine. Nearly a third of the provinces of European Russia are officially declared to have produced "insufficient," others "sufficient," and others still "under the average" crop of cereals. Only two provinces out of seventy have really good harvests. Among the "insufficient" are the best wheat growing districts. The official insufficient means utter starvation. The famine stricken area exceeds half a million square miles, and about the same area as that of the great famine of 1891. The population numhers 43,000,000. The hopes founded on the report of two months ago have vanished.

CHAPTER X. In the Dungeon.

The robber chie tain had been placed in one of the most gloomy dungeons beneath the royal palace, his legs and arms loaded with chains, and his feet shackled to a bolt in the floor. How long he had been there he could not tell. Night and day were the same in the living tomb. Food and drink had been brought to him thrice, and a masked mute had been in to remove the tray. He had but one hope of escape, and even that was so feeble that it would not bear the entertainment. He thought if his followers should d'scover where he was, they might possibly dare to attempt his release; but when he came to weigh all the circumstances, he dared not think they would do it. In short, Julian had made up his mind that death was very near to him.

And what had he to live for? What. but revenge upon the King of Damasmus? He had no parents-no relatives-nothing on earth of his own blood which he could claim. There might be living in the city some human being of his kin; but he did not know of such. He loved his brave fellows: but they could do without him. They were bold, stout men, and could look for themselves. What e'se was there? There were some poor families in the mountains-some friends upon the plain-and a few dependent ones near the river; but Hobaddan would care for them. What else was there?

The youthful chieftain bowed his head, and pressed his heavily laden hands upon his heart. There was one more-one whom he had hoped to see again in the coming time-one who had left an impression in his soul which had warmed and quickened his whole being. But why think of her? What could the beautiful daughter of Aboul Cassem be to him? In a few short days she would be the wife of his bitterest enemy. Thus mused the prisoner, standing erect, with his manacled hands folded upon his bosom, when he was aroused from his reflections by the sound of creaking bolts, and in a few moments more the door of his dungeon was opened, and the rays of a lamp penetrated the place. Two men entered, closing the door after them; but the eyes of the chieftain were not yet used enough to the light to distinguish either their forms or features. Presently, however, as they addressed each other, he recognized the two blacks who had so fatally deceived him, and his first impulse was to raise his heavy chains and smite them down; but they were not near enough to be thus reached.

"Osmir-Selim," he said, "are you

"Yes, my master," replied Osmir,

"Have you come to kill me?"

"No." "To bear me to the king?" "What, then? You have the watch over me!"

"Yes," "And the king fears not to trust

"You see he does trust us." "Aye-as I trusted you. O, you are two ungrateful villains. When you came to me in the forest, I believed your tale of woe, and took pity upon you; and I meant to be kind to you, and make your lot a pleasant one. looked into your faces, and I thought you were honest. I did not trust you from your speech, but from your honest looks. However, it is past. And now what seek ye?"

"Good master," said Osmir, speaking earnestly, "before I tell you why. we are now here, let me say to you that we are not without hearts, and that we have some store of honesty. When we went to your camp, we went in the service of another master, whom we were bound to serve. We had sworn that we would capture you if we could. But, sir, after we had seen you, and known you, we would have recanted had the thing been possible. We asked Judah to free us from the task, but he refused." "Why do you tell me this story

"You action speaks for itself. Look" at these chains; and mark the fate to which I am doomed.

"I meant not the action of the past, good master; I allieded to action that Milwaukee Steel Workers Prepare was to come." "Action to come?"

'Yea. Selim and I are here to speak of your release from this dungeon. Hold-let our words be few, for the time is short. We have promised that we would lead you forth from Horam's power if the thing were possible."

"Promised whom?" asked Julian. The black hesitated. He knew not that he should use the name of the princess, so he finally answered:

"Hobaddan is in the city, and our promise has been sent to him. Butthere is something more. If we lead you from this place, we do so in the face of great danger. We have planned for that, and have freely staked our lives in the work. But, if we succeed, and you are free, we can never more return to Damascus. If we go with you from this dungeon, we must go with you from the city, and remain with you."

Julian believed that the black was speaking truly and honestly.

"Certainly," he said, "if you lead me in safety from the bonds that now encompass me, I will give you such return as you may desire. You may remain with me, if you like, or I will give you safe conduct into the land of the Syrians."

"Your word is enough, my master; and henceforth Selim and I are your servants. We change our allegiance. and the proof of our fidelity shall be manifest in this first act of our service. We have dangers to meet, sir."

upper world; and I ask no more. Once again I trust you, and if you prove true, my gratitude shall be your while I live?"

Without further words Osmir proceeded to the work he had come to while he loosed the irons from Julian's limbs; and very soon the chiefta n stepped forth with his limbs free.

"There is no time to waste," said Osmir, as he cast the chains upon the floor. We have good swords at hand, and for the rest we must trust to our wit and strength. There is danger enough between this dungeon and the open air; but I am ready to meet it."

"By the gods," cried Julian, as he grasped the sword which Osmir had placed in his hand. "I can laugh at danger now. Lead on, and let this present hour be the last of Horam's

BIG STRIKE ON IN EARNEST.

Mr. Tighe Was Sharply Questioned at Milwaukee by Mr. Hickey. Lender of the Anti-Strike Forces New Difficulty in the East.

Milwaukee, Aug. 20.-The Bay View mills are closed down today. The fires were drawn Sunday, and when they will be started again is something on which no one, men or officials, dare to hazard a guess. It is clear, however, that all feel that months of idleness are before them. The men are preparing to take things easy. Some will take a vacation and others will wait quietly for further developments. It transpires that Assistant Secretary Tighe was not successful in answering the charge made by the Bay View men that the strike was unconstitutional and had to succumb to the sharp questioning of J. D. Hickey, who led the anti-strike forces. Mr. Hickey held the floor for over an hour hurling pointed questions at President Shaffer's representative, until finally Mr. Tighe said that it was useless for him to attempt to argue with Mr. Hickey, who was one of the best posted men on the constitutional law of the association. Had a constitutional question alone been at stake there would have been no strike, but Mr. Tighe brought the men "Talk not of dangers," cried the out on two propositions. The first was chieftain. "Throw off these chains; that if they took any action except give me a sword; and lead me to the to vote to obey the order of President Shaffer they would not be in a position to claim work as union men anywhere in the country nor would they have an opportunity to appear before any convention of the association. The second was that if they went out it perform. Selim held the lantern, meant that several mills in the east which had been waiting to see what the western men did would follow them. Among these mills Mr. Tighe named the Duquesne mill, which he said was ready to strike provided the western men stood with the association. With these propositions before them the men by a three-fourths vote, which was afterward made unanimous, decided to strike.

Folleme of Anti-Strike Lenders. A rumor-and there are many in South Chicago these days-has it that yesterday's meeting was abandoned through a prearranged plan of certain leaders of the anti-strike element and that decisive action may follow at a meeting to be held next Sunday, when Secretary Michael Tighe and Vice-President Davis addressed a monster meeting of loyal Amalgamated men at East Chicago yesterday. The men are employed in independent mills where there is no strike and a large delegation of citizens joined them in crowding the local opera house to welcome the strike leaders of the fourth district. Later the steel workers went into executive session, listened to confidential reports of the progress of the strike and adopted the following resolutions: Condemn South Chicago Men.

"Whereas, Lakeside lodge No. 9, and Commercial lodge, No. 14, of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, located at South Chicago, have refused to obey the call of President Shaffer to strike; and

"Whereas, By deserting the association in time of need they have violated their solemn obligations to their fellow workmen; therefore,

"Resolved. That Lake lodge No. 2 and Emlyn lodge No. 29, of East Chicago, in joint meeting assembled, heartly indorse President Shaffer's action in revoking the charters of said lodges, and we pledge him our undivided support in such action; and,

Breach Probable at South Chicago. Other organizations have expressed similar sentiments and there is a movement on foot to hold a union mass meeting in South Chicago to prelocal steel workers. With the development of the strike, a decided change is noticeable in sentiment and even those who urged the South Chicago men to remain at work are now criticising them with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot and impugning their motives. All this has goaded the local men to desperation. Now that prospects of success are brightening and they are confronted with the possibility of being thrown out of work if the strike is won, there is probability of a general break to the strike ranks regardless of the sentiment of leaders.

report just issued, says a London let-ter, is a fairly hopeful, though neither the exports nor the imports reach the level attained in 1899. The prosperit of the country depends still, as it always has done, and most probably always will do, upon the fruits of the earth. Centuries before the present the anti-strikers will have to prove era, corn and wine and oil were among the chief boons of the Promis ised Land, and though we hear little now of the first, the other two are regaining their ancient reputation. To melons, which also were valued in ancient days, a new fruit has been added -the orange. This and the grape are now the most important products of Palestine, though the exports of the former have declined considerably in value during the last few years. Jaffa oranges, however, maintain their reputation, so that it may be hoped that the depression is only temporary. Southern Palestine has always been noted for its vineyards. Of the principal Jewish colonies in the Jaffa district, Richon-le-Sion, Petach-Tikvah, and Ekron, on the supposed site of the Philistine city which last received the fatal trophy of the ark, the first is the chief one for grape growing. A fourth colony, Sarona, also near Jaffa, is German. In all these agriculture, and especially everything connected with wine-making, is conducted on scientific principles, and the first and last have become really important centers in the trade. Richon-le-Sion has excellent works and machinery for the manufacture of wine, and great underground cellars for its storage. These last year contained about 1,100,-000 gallons, in addition to a considerdepot at Hamburg.

Charles Dickens, the great English novellst, describes in ing his parents at Cavanaugh Lake. one of his admirable works a case tried before a British jury whose tardiness in arriving at a verdict ruffled the calm dignity of the judge, Dickens's procrastinating Lord Chief Justice of her Majesty's bench; but judging from the procrastination of the sworn six who were engaged in the trial of the milk separator, the "gentlemen of the jury" are entitled to the medal for holding out. At seven o'clock today the jury had not arrived at a verdict, but like other human mortals hunger gnawed their stomach and perhaps their conscience. After disposing of a liberal and varied meal the jury retired to further consider their verdict. Dicken's jury has been outrivalled by the tardiness of the separator six who up to the early morning hours of to-day had falled to agree. At 7 o'clock this morning the vagaries of the stomach rebelled against the duties of conscience. The immortal six retired for breakfast and after the liberal meal supplied by the taxpayers the hesitators retired to further chew over the "separator."

How an Extensive French Mining Company Looks After Its Employes' Welfare.

In Cassier's Magazine appears an entertaining article on the industrial betterment of workingmen by Dr. W. H. Tolman. Speaking of the policy of the French Mining company at Anzin, which was a pioneer in this movement, the writer says:

"To help its employes save money the company established, in 1869, a department for deposits, in which the workmen could make deposits up to 2,000 francs, on which the interest allowed was at 3 per cent. The company no longer encouraged these deposits in its own department after the creation of the postal savings' banks, since these give the workers every facility and every guarantee

"A co-operative society was foundtriage and Mrs. Ives was severely ed in 1865 on the initiative of the company. In addition to food stuffs of all kinds, which are bought in bulk, this society had its own bakeries, dairies, butcher shops and wine cellars. All sorts of household utensils, clothing, and, in fact, all articles for which a demand exists, are supplied. The company itself buys from the cooperative stores soaps, brushes, pails and other small supplies for factory and office use. The society has its own chemists, who analyze all the food stuffs and test the merchandise, so that the members are protected in having the purest supplies and standard products at the lowest market rates, "To-day the stores are absolutely independent, with 19 branch establishments and a force of nearly 100 of their own employes. The present number of cooperators is 5,642. The sales in 1899 reached 3,934,611 france, with a net profit of 744,471 france to be divided among the cooperators."

body was some time ago found in the ried have already been found and are Chelmsford woods of Massachusetts held as a part of the state's evidence. has been positively identified, by a set of false teeth, as Mrs. Margaret Reilly Blondin, only one little part of the great murder mystery is solved. Even the time of the murder is uncer- protruding jaw, a slight cast in the Canada. All the tell-tale exhibits in this remarkable case have now been got to- slightly less than medium size-five gether by the state and city police in Boston in the hopes of throwing some new light on the time, place and circumstances of the murder, which may lead to the solution of the mystery his left forearm. He speaks with a and the capture of the criminal.

The Motive Found.

The motive for the Blondin crime is still a matter of speculation. It may have been a desire on the part of the miserly husband to get hold of the $400 which his wife had saved before her marriage and then be rid of her. He had another wife at St. Polycarpe, Canada, a much handsomer woman than Margaret Reilly. He wanted to go back to Canada to get a position on a St. Lawrence river steamboat, which his father had lately found for him He would hardly have dared to take back a second wife, as he would quickly have been prosecuted for bigamy.

By a strange mischance the discovery that the body found in the Chelmsford woods was that of Mrs. Blond'n was not communicated to the Boston police until after it had been printed in the morning papers. So Blondin read of how his secret was out hours before the same papers came to the eyes of the police. He at once left Boston and took a train to New York. This is evident from the fact that next day the baggage master at Fall River received a letter from "James Marrou," New York, which read:

Bear Sir: Would you please send my bicycle and my trunk to New York station; you find the check in this letter and send me check to this address.

JAMES MARROU. New York. Chief Watts, head of the Boston Detective bureau, and Chief Wade of the State police had already found the trunk at Fall River to be Blondin's without a doubt. It was sent on to New York in the hopes of catching the owner when he should call to claim it. By June 13, when the trunk and letter containing checks should have arrived in New York, such a sensation had been aroused about the murder that Blondin, alias Marrou, was too wily to apply for either letter or trunk.

Knives Are Blood-Stained. This trunk is now in Boston at police station No. 3. When opened it was found to contain four butcher knives, stained with what is apparently human blood, though an effort had been made to wash them clean. The trunk also contains Blondin's marriage certificate to Margaret Reilly. The most careful examination of the goom where the Blondins lived failed to show any trace of blood on the floor, watls or on any article in the room. There was no evidence of any struggle, such as broken furniture. There is a heory that Blondin may have choked his wife to death and let her body lie ill the blood had almost ceased to slow growth. There is no doubt that loon-smashing crusade. He says that Row, then cut off the head, put the the ease with which land could be had he has been patient with her and tried to persuade her to return home, but that she has treated his overtures with that she has treated his overtures with the contempt.

WOMAN AND HOME" THE SUBJECT LAST SUNDAY. Some Is the Only Sphere in Which

Woman Can Succeed in Ruling the World-Her Best Rights Defined-The

[Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch, N. Y.] Washington, Aug. 18.-In this discourse Dr. Talmage exto's home as a leld of usefulness, and especially enlourages wives and mothers; text, Genesis i, 27, "Male and female created de them."

In other words, God, who can make ao mistake, made man and woman for a specific work and to move in paricular spheres-man to be regnant in his realm, woman to be dominant in bers. The boundary line between Italy and Switzerland, between England and Scotland, is not more thoroughly marked than this distinction between the empire masculine and the empire feminine. So entirely dissimilar are the fields to which God called them that you can no more compare them than you can oxygen and hydrogen, water and grass, trees and stars. All this talk about the superiority of one sex to the other is an everlasting waste of ink and speech. A jeweler may have a scale so delicate that he can weigh the dust of diamonds, but where are the scales so delicate that you can weigh in them affection, sentiment against sentiment, thought against thought, soul against soul, a man's word against a woman's word?

You come out with your stereotyped remark that man is superior to woman in intellect, and then I open on my desk the swarthy, iron typed. thunderbolted writings of Harriet Martineau and Elizabeth Browning and George Eliot. You come on with your stereotyped remark about woman's superfority to man in the item of atfection, but I ask you where was there more capacity to love than in John the disciple, and Robert McCheyne, the Scotchman, and John Summerfield, the Methodist and Henry Martyn, the missionary? The heart of those men was so large that after you had rolled into it the hemispheres there was room still left to marshal the hosts of heaven and set up the throne of the eternal Jehovah. I deny to man the throne intellectual. I deny to woman the throne affectional. No human phraseology will ever define the spheres while there is an intuition by which we know when a man is in his realm and when a woman is in her realm and when either of them is out of it. No bungling legislature ought to attempt to make a definition or to say, "This is the line, and that is the line." Woman's Best Rights.

I know there are women of most undesirable nature who wander up and down the country, having no homes of their own or forsaking their own homes, talking about their rights, and we know very well that they themselves are fit neither to vote nor fit to keep house. Their mission seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such women would enact, or to have cast upon society the children that such women would raise. But I will show you that the best rights that woman can own she already has in her possession; that her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congratulation; that the grandeur and power of her realm have never yet been appreciated; that she sits today on a throne so high that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not make for her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot box and the congressional assemblage and the legislative hall.

Appreciation of Her Rights.

Woman always has voted and always will vote. Our great-grandfathers thought they were by their votes putting Washington into the presidential chair. No. His mother, by the principles she taught him and by the habits she inculcated, made him president. It was a Christian mother's hand dropping the ballot when Lord Bacon wrote, and Newton philosophized, and Alfred the Great governed; and Jonathan Edwards thundered of judgment to come. How many men there have been in high political station who would have been insufficient to stand the test to which their moral principle was put had it not been for a wife's voice that encouraged them to do right and a wife's prayer that sounded louder than the clamor of partisanship! Why, my friends, the right of suffrage, as we men exercise it, seems to be a feeble thing. You, a Christian man, come up to the ballot box, and then drop your vote. Right after you comes a libertine or a sot, the offscouring of the street, and he drops his vote. and his vote counteracts yours. But if in the quiet of home life a daughter by her Christian demeanor, a wife by her industry, a mother by her faithfulness, casts a vote in the right direction, then nothing can resist it, and the influence of that vote will throb through the eternities.

My chief anxiety, then, is not that woman has other rights accorded her, but that she, by the grace of God, rise up to the appreciation of the glorious rights she already possesses. I shall only have time to speak of one grand and all absorbing right that every woman has, and that is to make home happy. That realm no one has ever er to make it the most attractive place on earth. It is the only calm harbon in this world. You know as well as I do that this outside world and the business world is a long scene of jostle and contention. The man who has a dollar struggles to keep it; the man who has it not struggles to get it. Prices up. Prices down, Losses. Gains. Misrepresentations. Gougings. Underselling. Buyers de preclating; salesmen exaggerating. Tenants seeking less rent; landlords demanding more. Gold fidgety, Struggles about office. Men who are in trying to keep in; men out trying to get in. Slips. Tumbles. Defalcations, Panics. Catastrophes. 0 woman, thank God you have a home, and that you may be queen in it. Better be there than wear a queen's co; onet. Better be there than carry the purse of a princess. Your abode may be humble, but you can by your faith in God and your cheerfulness of demeanor gild it with splendors such as an upholsterer's hand never yet kindled.

The Most Queenly Woman. When you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catherine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or Maria Theresa of Austria, but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen you think of the plain woman who sat opposite your father at the table, or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway, sometimes to the thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always together soothing your petty griefs, correcting your childish waywardness, joining in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle, or at the spinning wheel, and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last, on that day when she lay in the back room dying, and you saw her take those thin hands with which she toiled for you so long and put them together in a dying prayer that commended you to God, whom she had taught you to trust-oh, she was the queen! The charlots of God came down to fetch her, and as she went in all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep foundations of your soul, and you feel as much a child again as when you cried on her lap, and if you could bring her back again to speak just once more your name as tenderly as she used to speak it you would be willing to threw yourself on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying, "Mother, mother! Ah, she was the queen-she was the thousand -miles a woman like that would have to travel down before she got to the ballot box? Compared with this work of training kings and queens for God eternity, how insignificant seemsall this work of voting for aldermen and common counc lmen and sheriffs and constables and mayors and presidents. To make one such grand woman as I have described how many thousand would you want of those people who go in the round of godlessness and fashion and dissipation, distorting their body and going as car toward disgraceful apparel as they dare go so as not to be arrested of the police, their behavior a sorrow to the good and a caricature of the vicious and an insult to that God who made them women and not gorgons, and tramping on, down through a frivolous and dissipated life, to temporal and eternal destruction. Oh, woman, with the lightning of your soul strike dead at your feet all these allurements to dissipation and to fashion. Your immortal soul cannot be fed upon such garbage. God calls you up to empire and dominion. Will you have it? Oh, give to God your heart, give to God your best energies, give to God all your culture, give to God all your refinement, give yourself to him for this world and the next. Soon all these bright eyes will be quenched and these voices will be hushed. For the last time you will look upon this fair earth; father's hand, mother's hand, sister's hand, child's hand, will be no more in yours. It will be night, and there will come up a cold wind from the Jordan, and you must start. Will it be a lone woman on a trackless moor? Ah, no, Jesus will come up in that hour and offer his hand, and he will say: "You stood by me when you were well; now I will not desert you when you are sick." One wave of his hand, and the storm will drop. and another wave of his hand and midnight shall break into midnoon, and another wave of his hand and the chamberlains of God will come down from the treasure houses of heaven ty. "It's true, isn't it?" "Yes," sale with robes lustrous, blood washed and heaven glinted, in which you will array yourself for the marriage supper of the Lamb. And then with Miriam, who struck the timbrel by the Red sea, and with Deborah, who led the Lord's host into the fight, and with Hannah, who gave her Samuel to the Lord, and with Mary, who rocked Jesus to aleep while there were angels singing in the air, and with Florence Nightingale, who bound up the battle wounds of the Crimea, you will, from the chalice of God, drink to the soul's

To the Ballet Box. Now, can you tell me how many

And I walked forth, and I the sun rise, and I said, "When will it set again?" and the sun sank not And I saw all the people in holiday apparel, and I said, "When will they out on workingman's garb again and delve in the mine and swelter at the ge?" But neither the garments no the robes did they put off. And I wandered in the suburbs, and I said "Where do they bury the dead of this great city" And I looked along by the hills where it would be most beartiful for the dead to sleep, and I say castles and towers and battlements. but not a mausoleum, nor monument nor white slab could I see. And I went into the great chapel of the town, and I said: "Where do the poor worship? Where are the benches on which they sit?" And a voice answered, "We have no poor in this great city." And I wandered out seeking to find the place where were the hovels of the destitute, and I found mansions of amber and ivory and gold. but no tear did I see or sight hear. I was bewildered, and I sat under the shadow of a great tree, and I said What am I and whence comes all this?" And at that moment there came from among the leaves, skipping up the flowery paths and across the sparkling waters, a very bright and sparkling group, and when I say their step I knew it, and when I heard their voices I thought I knew them but their apparel was so different from anything I had ever seen I bowed a stranger to strangers. But after awhile, when they clapped their hands and shouted, "Welcome! Welcome!" the mystery was solved, and I saw that time had passed and that eternity had come, and that God had gathered us up into a higher home, and I said "Are all here?" and the voices of innumerable generations answered, "All here." And while tears of gladness were raining down our cheeks and the branches of the Lebanon cedars were clapping their hands and the towered the great city were chiming their wilcome, we began to laugh and singue leap and shout: "Home! Home! Home!"

HAVE RULES FOR MOURNING.

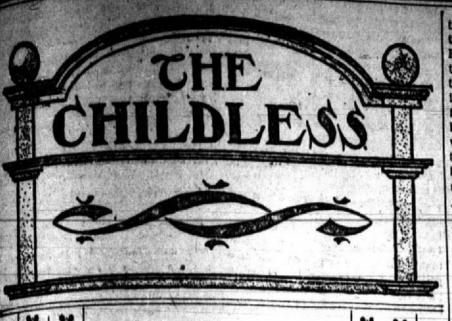

Chinese Enforce Laws Prescribing flow Bereavement Must Be Shown'

Chinese laws prescribe severe penalties for neglect of children to properly observe the prescribed customs on the death of an ancestor. If a son 1 receiving information of the death of his father or mother or a wife suppress such intelligence and omits to go into lawful mourning for the deceased such neglect shall be punished with sixty blows and one year's banishment. If a son or wife enters into mourning in a lawful manner, but previous to the expiration of the term discaros the mourning habit and, forgetful of the loss sustained, plays upon musical instruments or participates in fest ities, the punishment shall amount for such offenses to eighty blows. Whoever on receiving information of the death of any other relative in the first degree than the above mentioned suppresses the notice of it and omits to mourn shall be punished with eighty blows; if previous to the expiration of the legal period of mourning for such relative any person casts away the mourning habit and resumes his wonted amusements he shall be punished with sixty blown When any officer or other person in the employ of the government has received intelligence of the death of his father or mother, in consequence of which intelligence he is bound to retire from the office during the period of mourning, if in order to avoid see retirement he falsely represents deceased to have been his grandlate, grandmother, uncle, aunt or count shall suffer punishment of 100 wes, be deposed from office and rendered iscapable of again entering into the lic service.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Girl of Lamy.

BY H. A. CALLAHAN Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Pub. Co ) Just a hardful of wooden houses in lamy, thrown together as if by the haphazard hand of a careless God into the little pocket of the mountains that stand like priests around the city of Santa Fe. Here it is that the dust pay coaches which thunder in from Arizona on the west, meet their brothers from the east and exchange for a by brief moments the greatings of the

Of course, the red clap-board eatingouse and station are the main attracons during these arrivals and present mes of unwented activity to those customed to the aching solitude of a place by day or its blinking dreambes beneath the stars at night. No one distinct y remembers just when or how the Girl became an institition at Lamy. However, they do renember that one September morning some years back there was a new face behind the counter in the eating-house; face framed in dull gold hair and lighted by two blue-gray eyes, which seemed forever on the brink of laughter. The boys who made their home in the little clap-board affair used to call her Mollie; but it was a name of their own devising and she accepted it, as she did many other little things, with an inscrutable smile that puzzled, jet meant nothing. When the crews would come in from a heavy climo. soaked to the bone with rain and sleet, the Girl was there in a motherly way. with a stiff three fingers of whisky and supper that lifted them clear of their Veriness. Or, if on a Saturday night, sounds of a brawl would flaunt own on the still air the Girl would walk over to German Joe's in a busiof them with a quiet word and an admounitory jerk of the sleave that sent them sheaking out like coyotes. Then, Perhaps, she would stand and smile in the doorway with her hair blowing in the wind, her eyes speaking more plainly than words that a new era had begun in Lamy. Her sway was absolute. And it was not long before every fireboy and throttle-man on the Division had had his own individual experience.

"Where's Dan?"

tamed by the graceful slip of a girl with golden hair, who seemingly came from nowhere—the Angel of the Grade.

This was all before Dan Beard happened in. Dan was from the Colorado hills and no angel. They had put him first on the little bunt line that runs crazily over the hills to Santa Fe. Then he was shifted to the main line for relay work and became a fixture at Lamy. Dan was six feet one, brown as leather and as tough, and incidentally sould drink more whisky than any man this side of Phoenix. He spent his mornings against the bar in German Joe's place, cursing out the road, from the president down. Then about ten minutes before his run began he would shuffle over to his machine and get his orders. When these were duly scanned Dan would open up No. 20 gently and sneak out of Lamy like a snake, but before the whistling post was ressed he had her galloping over the rails like a frightened thing and bellowing like a bull. He became notorious as the most reckless devil on the road, and everybody said that sooner or later there would be a smash somewhere up in the hills and Dan Beard would get off the line forever, But the smash didn't seem to come, and Dan's mad way continued. Then a change came. It was almost imperceptible. But gradually Dan dropped sway from the whisky and bade fair to quit it altogether. He didn't take the grades so fast and slackened up on the curves almost like the rest. Some said it was "Mollie." Some said the Division Superintendent. Nobody ever that a double-header would be needed to carry it over the grades. Dan Beard's No. 20 could climb a tree, and the big fellow got his orders to make the run. It was getting close to starting time and Johnny Coleman, Dan's fire boy, was growing anxious. Dan had not shown up all morning. He was not at German Joe's, nor around the station. 'The dispatcher was standing in the sun looking at his watch and swearing safely to himself. He was just on the point of putting another man on No. 20, when something white caught his tye on the hill-path that runs above the cut. As It came nearer he saw it was Mollie, and right behind was Dan, clumsily picking his way ever the stones. At the station Dan' called out: "All ready," to the dispatcher, looking rathers sheepish and strangely happy.

BASE BALL.

Ninety-four couples from Chicago

"Remember, Dan," spoke Mollie, as No. 20 began to move. "Not another drop, little girl. Not another -- " and e waved a brown fist back at the girl, the tender bumped over the switch to the main track. And not until the big machine dwindled to a mere bug in the distance did Mollie turn her back and disappear in the doorway.

That night the special from the east was late. It crept into Lamy with one engine and that engine was not No. 20. The little knot that gathered in curiosity on the platform felt in their hearts something was impending. Johnny Coleman limped up, his head bandaged in white cloth, and looking weak and sick.

"Where's Dan?" asked a little woman with a face very white.

Johnny Coleman did not answer, but looked uneasily away. They were lifting something very gently from the baggage car to lay it on the platform. Johnny told as briefly as possible the details.

"Making up time, we left the track at the culvert," he said. "I jumped clear, but Dan didn't get out in time. When we got him from beneath he was pretty bad. And-" (someone was crying very softly over where Dan lay.) Johnny continued: "I guess we could ha' pulled 'im through at that. But he wouldn't take the whisky we give him.

"'Ain't drinking, Johnny; not another drop,' was all he said, and then he sort o' turned over like a tired little kid and-I 'spose that's when he died."

That night was a lonely vigil in Lamy and along in the early dawn they buried Dan Beard. He's up there near the hill-path that runs above the cut, and can hear the 100 tonners climbing, up the grade. And sometimes when the boys give the long blast Pittsburg...... 55 for the Junction they just pull a short

If you are ever down that way, drop in on the girl at the eating-house. She's not very stylish, and I guess perbaps her talk is a bit western, but somehow or other they seem to think pretty well of her in Lamy. And, by the way, they don't call her "Mollie" any more. It's just Dan Beard's girlthe Girl at Lamy.

"There's a Pipe."

Do you know there is much fake business about the pipe-smoking and pipe-offering host? So long has the earth been flooded with rot and rubbish about "the pipe" that ordinary men must live fifty years before they can break away from the idea that a briar or cob, packed with long-cut or granulated at 20 cents a pound is the very quintessence of comfort and hospitality. . Tut-tut! Who wants to put between his lips a guttapercha stem that others have slobbered through? I have in mind several acquaintances who keep on hand from ten to a dozen rancid old pipes to hand around when friends call. Such men are practicing economy for economy's sake. They are too mean to offer you a 10-cent cigar, and pretend that their dirty old pipes are good enough for anybody. Catch 'em outside and ask if they'll have a smoke. Why, certainly. And they order quarter cigars. I have had much experience of these chaps.-New York Press.

Advice to filris Who Travel,

The young girl who is traveling by herself should seek information from the train people rather than from her companions on the train. No girl in traveling should make confidants of strangers of either sex, disclose her name, her destination of her family affairs, or make acquaintances on the road. She may, however, show kind attention to a mother traveling with little children, amuse a wearled little one, and politely thank anyone who does her an unobtrusive kindness .-Margaret E. Sangster in the Ladies' Home Journal.

A Cosmopolitan Army.

The conflict between the Germans and Czechs in Austria-Hungary, which deserves Secretary Seward's appellation of "the irrepressible conflict," makes interesting a study of the elements composing the army of that country, which consists of 428,000 Slavs, 227,000 Allemants, 120,000 Mag yars, 48,000 Roumanlans and 14,000 Italians. The Slavs are made up of 174,000 Czechs, 76,000 Poles, 75,000 Ruthenians, 75,000 Croatians and Servians and 28,000 Slavonians.

How to Button a Coat.

The art of properly buttoning a coat any coat-is, do it the other way. That is to say that nine out of every ten of us button our coats the wrong way; we commence with the topmost button when we should commence with the bottommost. The frailest portion of a coat, in respect to shape-retaining qualities-no matter how well made-is the region of collar and lapels. The swagger merchant tailor always cautions his customer to "wear it buttoned a few days so that the collar may set properly." Christian Mack of Ann Arbor died suddenly last week Thursday.

The body of Frank Benedict, who was drowned near Howell July 11th, was found last Thursday. his brother recently received a letter from him, from South Dakota. A son of Martin Howard of Northfield was accidentally shot by his brother one day last week. The bullet struck the little fellow at the root of the ear and passed slong a line between the base of the brain and the roof of the mouth. About half hour after the accident he sneezed hard and out came the bullet. The wound in the mouth bled a little, but when the doctors arrived they found that he was not seriously hurt and will recover. It seems like a miracle that the boy was not killed. Ugele was found lying dead in the barnyard of his father Gottlob Ugele, in the township of Lodi. He was lying face downward embedded in the straw, etc., with his neck broken. Wednesday evening, about 9 o'clock, he unhitched his father's team and put them in the barn, his mother holding a lantern for him to see by. She asked him to come into the house, but he dechined, saying he would sleep in the hay mow as he had often done before. It is supposed that during the night he may have rolled over and fell through the open door of the barn.

Two strangers claiming to represent the Dr. King's Medicine Co., of Elk hart Ind., passed through the outskirts of Saline Tuesday of last week taking in the farmers as they went, selling medicine at $1 per bottle with a written guarantee if not satisfactory to have money returned by Weinmann & Mathews one of the druggists of that such medicine and could not give him his money back. Upon further investigation it was found that the strangers had sold nearly 100 bottles and had worked other places with the same

litary Training Alone Not Calcu-lated to Dovelop Originality

The truth is that military men in England did not show themselves one whit more competent to estimate the military problems of the Boer war than civilians. They relied, like civilans, on tradition, and laughed at the dea that any such changes had taken The story about Ed. Grossman of place in the art of war as were predicted by theorists, who declared, his brother recently received a letter warfare was much more difficult than formerly, says Jean de Bloch, in National Review. The cause of mili-Military training is itself antagonistic to original thought. It is no wonder, therefore, that nowadays when rilles and artillery are a hundred times more powerful than before, when arimes are five to ten times larger, and when railways have changed the whole art of war, that we find the system of instruction differing very little from that employed in the days of Napoleon, or, for the matter of that, in the days of Gustavus Adolphus. Yet even among military men themselves the more enlightened feel as many doubts as Marshal Saxe. That the methods to be adopted in the future wars are a matter of grave doubt has been declared by writers as eminent as von Rhone, Janson, Muller, Pellet-Narbonne and Skugarewsky. It is expressed excellently in the words of Gen. Luzeux: "Let the instructors first agree among themselves." Nor can soldiers nowadays claim that experience has given them a right to dictate to civilians. Nine out of ten "experienced" soldiers have at most shot or hunted savages, and the majority have seen no fighting at all.

I have learned to be very fond of the Mexican's favorites, and are chiles stuffed with chasses and such as chiles stuffed with-cheese and roasted; very delicious combination of peas, pineapple and banana boiled together; meats dressed with chile; salad of the alligator pear (butter fruit); onions, tomato and chile, and the standby of all Mexicans, tortilla; (corn cakes) and frijoles (beans). These last are always served after the meat courses. Then we have the dulees (preserved fruits) and coffee. The cena (supper) at seven is of the same number of courses as the dinner and very much like it.
