HONOR TO THE DEAD.

Chelsea with All the World Mourns the Death of President McKinley.

In common with other places in the United States the death of President McKinley cast a gloom over Chelsea that could be felt. Flags at half mast on the public buildings, factories and homes, with badges of mourning, have borne mute testimony to the great respect felt for the lamented dead.

On Sunday all the churches were draped in the emblems of mourning, and memorial sermons were preached by the several pastors.

On Monday F. P. Glazier, president of the village, issued the following proclamation:

"It is fitting that action be taken by all citizens of this country showing our love and respect for, and appreciation of our martyred President, William McKinley.

"Let us then, as far as possible, display our flags at half-mast, and drape our homes and places of business with emblems of mourning.

"On Thursday, between the hours of 12 to 4 o'clock, let us close our schools, stores, offices, shops and mills, and cease from labor in our places of daily occupation.

"It is requested that memorial exercises be held Thursday, Sept. 19, at 2:30 o'clock, at the town hall, commemorative of the life and splendid virtues of our beloved dead.

"F. P. GLAZIER, President.

"Chelsea, Mich., Sept. 16, 1901."

In accordance with this proclamation, the Glazier Stove Works and the Chelsea Manufacturing Co. closed their doors today and no work was done. The banks, stores, public schools, post office and other places of business generally, closed at 12:30 and memorial services were held at the town hall at 2:30 o'clock, the memorial address being made by Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer, of Ann Arbor.

RETURN THE "SOUVENIRS."

The Michigan Central Wants Possession of the Stuff Taken from the Recent Railroad Wreck.

Yesterday the Herald had a call from Special Agent DesRosiers, of the Michigan Central. He said he was very much surprised at the way some Chelsea citizens had helped themselves to goods of all kinds from the wreck, near town, on the 3rd inst. He further stated that unless the goods taken or their equivalent are returned to Agent E. A. Williams by Saturday next, the guilty parties will be prosecuted under the following section of the statute:

"Section 11624. Sec. 2. Every person who shall steal from any car while detained by accident or injury to any railroad locomotive, tender or car, etc., shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for a term not exceeding 20 years or by fine not exceeding $3,000 or both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court."

We would advise those who may have any of these "souvenirs" in their possession to return them as requested above. The value of the goods taken that morning was between $500 and $600 and the railroad is bound to recover possession of them.

Have Filed Their Plea.

In the $10,000 damage suit which Jabez Bacon, of Chelsea, has entered against Frank P. Glazier, William R. Lehman, Charles E. Stimson, Jay M. Woods and Jacob Mast, the defendants have put in their plea.

"They insist that their defence for throwing Bacon out of the town hall is justification. They set forth that on June 5, while the board of trustees was in regular session the said Bacon became obstreperous and disorderly, and used obscene and abusive language to the trustees. Further, that President Glazier ordered him to keep quiet and that the ejection of Bacon by Marshal Woods was for the purpose of restoring order.

The defendants also make a motion that the plaintiff give security for costs.

A Shocking Calamity

"Lately befell a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kellett, of Willford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly cured him. It's simply wonderful for burns, boils, piles and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25c. Sold by Glazier & Stimson.

RECEPTION AND PRESENTATION.

A Kindly Farewell to Rev. and Mrs. J. I. Nickerson and Family by the Chelsea Methodists.

One of the most enjoyable gatherings ever held in Chelsea was the farewell reception given to Rev. J. I. Nickerson and family in the parlors of the Methodist church Monday evening. The rooms were very tastefully decorated with cut flowers and ferns, while the floors were dotted with beautiful rugs and easy chairs. Ice cream and cake of the richest and choicest quality were served, and Mr. Nickerson and family were presented with a dozen solid silver teaspoons and a dozen silver knives and forks, as a slight token of the love and esteem in which they were held by their friends. The following presentation address was given by Mrs. C. E. Stimson:

"Like as a plank of driftwood tossed on the watery main,
Another plank encounters, meets, touches and parts again;
Thus 'tis with us forever on life's unresting sea,

We meet, greet and sever, drifting eternally."

Dear Friends: We knew when you came among us five years since, there would also come a parting and I believe though the parting be sad, we would not have missed the "touch" that has been such an inspiration and help to us, even to have been spared the pain of separation.

Your work here has been more arduous than usually falls to the lot of a pastor, and you have met every phase of it in a true Christian spirit. It would be impossible to glance retrospectively at the affairs of this church for the past five years, and they have been many and successful, without seeing you and your family actively engaged, and we certainly congratulate the Adrian Methodist church on what the Detroit Conference of 1901 has done for them. May sweet peace, the reward of faithful service, rest upon you and yours.

As you go to your new field of labor, your friends wished to express in a substantial and lasting way their appreciation and love by giving you these beautiful and useful things with a hope they will often remind you of dear old Chelsea.

Mr. Nickerson briefly responded in feeling words of thanks on behalf of himself and family.

Mr. Nickerson leaves for Adrian to take up his permanent residence Saturday. Mrs. Nickerson and daughters will follow the first of the week.

County Jail Inspectors' Report.

The report of W. L. Watkins, judge of probate, P. J. Lehman, county agent, and James Taylor, E. P. Mason and F. J. Fletcher, superintendents of the poor, who comprise the inspectors of the county jail was completed Tuesday. It covers the period from February, 1901, to Sept. 17, 1901. During that time 432 prisoners were confined in the jail charged with offences as follows.

A Ten Years' Struggle for Life.

Miss May White, of Stockbridge, whose remarkable state of catalepsy ten years ago created a great sensation in the medical world, is now on the highroad to recovery. For years no one could waken her except Dr. Herman E. Brown, her physician. Now she awakens herself. It took the doctor over five hours to waken her the first time; she had then been asleep 26 hours. The length of time grew gradually less, until for many years it varied from five to thirty minutes, usually about ten. The longest time was six hours. The method of awakening was a sort of exaggerated massage.

At one time Miss White weighed only 65 pounds. She now will tip the beam at 120.

Miss White has lost the control of her legs and she must again learn to walk. At present she uses a wheel chair.

William McKinley died in Buffalo at 2:15 o'clock on the morning of the 14th. After every resource had been exhausted for over 24 hours, after the sinking spell early on the morning of the 13th, death came to the twenty-fifth president of the United States. For many hours the president's hold on life was so slight that the work of the surgeons was confined to watching the flickering spark without attempting to fan it into life artificially. Practically all medicines and oxygen treatments were abandoned a considerable time before midnight. All hope was abandoned then, and the only thing left to do was to wait for the worn-out machinery to run down. Mrs. McKinley had been with the president twice during the early part of the previous evening. Just before the president lost consciousness Mrs. McKinley knelt at his side. He knew her and said: "Good-by, all; good-by. It is God's way. His will be done."

John Tyler was the first, succeeding William Henry Harrison. Next came Millard Fillmore, who succeeded Zachary Taylor. Andrew Johnson succeeded Abraham Lincoln and Chester A. Arthur took the place of James A. Garfield. Three of the five vice presidents owe their advancement to the assassin's bullet.

Big Forgery of Railroad Tickets.

As a result of the arrest, on August 15, of a ticket broker's concern at St. Louis, charged with swindling a customer, a gigantic railroad ticket counterfeiting scheme was uncovered. After the arrest of the brokers their office was ransacked and an immense number of tickets and passes found. It was almost impossible to place an estimate on the value of the tickets recovered, but it is stated by railroad authorities that $50,000 would be a conservative figure. It is believed that many of the tickets and passes were forged.

At Buffalo a number of ticket scalpers have already been lodged in jail on account of fraudulent manipulation and forgery of railroad tickets. These instances are so numerous the public should take pains to see that their tickets are purchased only at the authorized offices of transportation lines. This avoids all complication and trouble to the passenger and assures him that the railroad tickets purchased are valid and will be honored as printed. Exchange.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Bath, N. Y., Sept. 16th.—There is now at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home here an old soldier who has been nearer death than anyone who has lived to tell the story.

His name is A. E. Ayers. For many years he lived in Minneapolis, Minn., where he is well known.

Four physicians of that city once told Mr. Ayers that he could not live four days. He had Bright's disease.

As a last resort he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. He is strong and well to-day.

He says: "I was in the very presence of death but Dodd's Kidney Pills saved me. They are the greatest medicine in the world."

MIRACLES OF TODAY

The Wonderful Stories of Two People Saved from Horrible Death

CALLED TO REST.

President William McKinley Finally Succumbs to Bullets of Assassin.

The Sudden Relapse of Thursday Night Culminates in Death—His Last Words.

An Autopsy Shows That Gangrene Had Set In and Death Was Inevitable.

Brief Account of Impressive Funeral Services at the Milburn House Sunday.

Imposing Cortege Escorts Remains to City Hall Where Thousands View the Body.

Milburn House, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14.—President McKinley died at 12:15 a. m. He had been unconscious since 7:50 p. m. His last conscious hour on earth was spent with the wife to whom he devoted a lifetime of care. He died unattended by a minister of the Gospel, but his last words were an humble submission to the will of the God in whom he believed. He was reconciled to the cruel fate to which an assassin's bullet had condemned him, and faced death in the same spirit of calmness and poise which has marked his long and honorable career. His last conscious words, reduced to writing by Dr. Mann, who stood at his bedside when they were uttered, were as follows:

"Good-by, all; good-by. It is God's way. His will be done."

His relatives, and the members of his official family, were at the Milburn house, except Secretary Wilson, who did not avail himself of the opportunity, and some of his personal and political friends, took leave of him. This painful ceremony was simple. His friends came to the door of the sickroom, took a longing glance at him and turned tearfully away. He was practically unconscious during this time. But the powerful heart stimulants, including oxygen, were employed to restore him to consciousness for his final parting with his wife. He asked for her, and she sat at his side and held his hand. He consoled her and bade her good-by. She went through the heart-breaking scene with the same bravery and fortitude with which she has borne the grief of the tragedy which ended his life.

Announcement Slightly Delayed.
The announcement of the death to the members of the cabinet was made by Webb Hayes, who said: "It is all over."

Mrs. McKinley last saw her husband between 11 and 12. At that time she sat by the bedside holding his hand. The members of the cabinet were admitted to the sickroom singly at that time. The actual death probably occurred about two o'clock, it being understood that Dr. Rixey delayed the announcement momentarily to assure himself.

The announcement of the news to those waiting below was postponed until the members of the family had withdrawn. Through Secretary Cortelyou the waiting newspaper men received the notification.

Present When Death Came.
Those present at the time of the president's death were: Secretary Cortelyou, Dr. Rixey, Mrs. and Miss Barber and Miss Duncan.

DEATH INEVITABLE.

Autopsy Shows That Gangrene Caused President's Demise.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The following report of the autopsy upon the remains of President McKinley was issued at five o'clock p. m. Saturday:

"The bullet which struck over the breast bone did not pass through the skin, and did little harm. The other bullet passed through both walls of the stomach near its lower border. Both holes were found to be perfectly closed by the stitches, but the tissue around each hole had become gangrenous. After passing through the stomach the bullet passed into the back walls of the abdomen, hitting and tearing the upper end of the kidney. This portion of the bullet track was also gangrenous, the gangrene involving the pancreas. The bullet has not yet been found. There was no sign of peritonitis or disease of other organs. The heart walls were very thin. There was no evidence of any attempt at repair on the part of nature, and death resulted from the gangrene which affected the stomach around the bullet wounds as well as the tissues around the further course of the bullet. Death was unavoidable by any surgical or medical treatment, and was the direct result of the bullet wound."

The above is signed by 14 physicians and surgeons, including all of those in attendance on the president, with the exception of Dr. McBurney, who had left the city before the autopsy was performed.

Some of the doctors, notably Mr. Wasdin, are inclined to believe that President McKinley was shot with poisoned bullets. This is not proved. The only way in which it can be proved is by examination of the remaining bullets, and particularly of the bullet which struck the president in the breast without penetrating the skin. But the president would have died of his wound just the same if the bullet was perfectly clean. His system did not possess the vitality to repair the damage done to his vital organs. This does not mean that the president's system was in bad condition, but only that his vitality was low, or, in other words, that he had small recuperative powers.

Lodgment of the second bullet in the abdominal wall back of the stomach had nothing to do with the president's death. It did all of its damage in the abdominal cavity. That bullet remains a mystery. It was not located during the president's life, and the two hours of careful search for it after death failed to find it. The fact that this bullet remained in the president's body finely finished. The corners are capped with polished copper, and the handles are of the same material. On the top of the case is a copper plate bearing a duplicate of the inscription on the casket.

The New President.

Just before 11 o'clock President Roosevelt entered, coming into the room from the rear through the library. After passing into the hall he had made his way around through the sitting-room behind into the library. There was an instantaneous movement in the room as the president appeared. The procession was still passing from the south side around the head of the casket and back between it and the members of the cabinet seated at its side. Everyone rose and all eyes were turned toward the president. He moved forward again with the tide of the procession to his place at the head of the line of cabinet officers. He held himself erect, his left hand carrying his silk hat. Those who were coming toward him fell back on either side to let him pass. He paused once or twice to shake hands silently, but there was no smile to accompany his greetings. He, too, seemed to be restraining a great grief. When President Roose-back of the room. The service concluded with a simple benediction.

Borne from Milburn House.

It was within a minute of 11:30 o'clock when three long rolls of a muffled drum told those outside the house that the funeral cortege was about to appear. From the darkened rooms the assemblage began to file out to the street. Soon the walks and lawns were again covered with the silent throng, with heads bared. At the moment the casket appeared, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" ascended in subdued strains from one of the military bands. Tenderly the bearers lowered the casket from their shoulders and placed it in the hearse. The notes of Chopin's funeral dirge succeeded the strains of the hymn. The soldiers and sailors swung into long columns, and took up the march southward toward the city hall.

As the funeral cortege moved south through Delaware avenue toward the city hall, it passed through a vast concourse of people filling the walks and cross streets and crowding house tops, windows and every available space of the buildings along the line of march.

At City Hall.

As the escort of soldiers swung slowly into Franklin street a few drops of rain fell. In two minutes it was raining hard. The long line of troops took their positions at attention, facing the city hall. When the hearse appeared the four horses were led slowly to the entrance and stopped. The band, some distance away, began "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Lying in State.

The casket was lifted from the hearse to the shoulders of the sailors and marines, and was borne into Buffalo's official home. A moment later and the body of President McKinley was lying in state.

At 12:25 o'clock exactly the police were notified that the body could be viewed by the people. A minute later and the first of the long line came through the door.

Throughout the long hours of the afternoon there was never a cessation of the silent, moving stream of people who passed into the city hall. In the early hours the function was rendered disagreeable by the violent rain.

To Be Taken to Washington.

When the doors were closed at midnight it was estimated that 80,000 people had viewed the remains, but thousands of disappointed ones were still in the streets. The body lay in the city hall until morning. It will be taken to the station by a military escort this morning, and at 8:30 the funeral train, consisting of seven cars, will start for Washington over the Pennsylvania railroad. Mrs. McKinley, the president, the cabinet and relatives and friends of the dead president will accompany the remains. Mrs. McKinley bore up bravely Sunday during the service at the Milburn residence, and Dr. Rixey, her physician, thinks she will be able to support her trying part in the state funeral at Washington.

Death Mask Made.

A death mask of the president's face was made at 7:20 p. m. Saturday. The mask was taken by Edward L. A. Pausch, of Hartford, Conn. Pausch has modeled the features of many of the distinguished men who have died in this country in recent years. The mask is a faithful reproduction of the late President McKinley's features.

TAKES THE OATH.

Theodore Roosevelt Is Sworn In as President of the United States.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, who was tragically elevated to the chief magistracy of the American republic by the death of President McKinley, entered this city of mourning Saturday afternoon after a remarkable and perilous journey from the heart of the north woods. He took the prescribed oath to support and defend the constitution and laws of the United States at 3:30 Saturday afternoon in the library of the residence of Ansley Wilcox, a personal friend with whom he stopped earlier in the week, when the physicians thought President McKinley would recover from the wound inflicted by the assassin. There were present when he swore to the oath Secretaries Root, Hitchcock, Long, Wilson and Postmaster General Smith, and a large number of invited persons: Judge John R. Hazel, of the United States district court, administered the oath. The scene was a most affecting one.

His Policy.

The new president was visibly shaken, but he controlled himself, and when he lifted his hand to swear, it was as steady as though carved in marble. With the deep solemnity of the occasion full upon him, he announced to those present that his aim would be to be William McKinley's successor in deed as well as in name. Deliberately he proclaimed it in these words:

"In this hour of deep and terrible national bereavement, I wish to state that it shall be my aim to continue absolutely without variance the policy of President McKinley for the peace and prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

The great, far-reaching significance of this pledge to continue the policy of the dead president, announced at the very threshold of a new governmental regime, profoundly impressed his hearers, and President Roosevelt's first step after taking the oath was in line with its redemption.

His first act was to ask the members of the cabinet to retain their portfolios in order to aid him to conduct the government on lines laid down by him whose policy he had declared he would uphold. Such an appeal was not to be resisted, and every member of the cabinet, including Secretary of State Hay and Secretary of the Treasury Gage, who were communicated with in Washington, have agreed for the present, at least, to retain their several portfolios.

A Proclamation.

President Roosevelt Saturday night issued the following proclamation:

"By the President of the United States, A Proclamation: A terrible bereavement has befallen our people. The president of the United States has been struck down; a crime committed not only against the chief magistrate, but against every law-abiding and liberty-loving citizen."

"President McKinley crowned a life of largest love for his fellow men, of most earnest endeavor for their welfare, by a death of Christian fortitude; and both the way in which he lived his life and the way in which, in the supreme hour of trial, he met his death, will remain forever a precious heritage to our people."

"It is meet that we as a nation express our abiding love and reverence for his life, our deep sorrow for his untimely death."

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, do appoint Thursday next, September 19, the day in which the body of the dead president will be laid in its last earthly resting place, as a day of mourning and prayer throughout the United States. I earnestly recommend all the people to assemble on that day in their respective places of Divine worship, there to bow down in submission to the will of Almighty God, and to pay out of full hearts their homage of love and reverence to the great and good president whose death has smitten the nation with bitter grief."

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed."

"Done at the city of Washington the 14th day of September, A. D. one thousand nine hundred and one and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-sixth."

(Seal.) "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."
JOHN HAY,
Secretary of State."

No Extra Session.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—President Roosevelt announces that there will be no extraordinary session of congress. The constitution does not demand it, and after discussion with those members of the cabinet here he decided it was not necessary.

The president's family consists of his wife and six children. They have made their home for years at Oyster Bay, Long Island, a retreat much enjoyed by the president himself, as well as his family. The home life is a simple one. Fashion, social custom, conventions, have little to do with it. It has been old-fashioned and delightful. Mrs. Roosevelt is essentially part of the president's life. Husband and wife are heartily in accord with one another, and their purposes are one. The eldest child is a daughter, Miss Alice, aged 17, and the next eldest, Theodore, is a boy of 14.

FUNERAL PLANS.

Arrangements for the Ceremonies in Washington About Complete.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The funeral pageant in Washington on Tuesday will be magnificent in solemnity. Men of prominence in all walks of life will form part of the escort of the remains of the dead president from his late home in the executive mansion to the capitol building, where in the house of representatives Mr. McKinley first came into national prominence. It is expected that fully 50,000 will be in line. Statesmen, diplomats, chief executives of the various states, jurists, land and sea warriors and humble citizens will assemble in Washington to do honor to all that remains of their beloved chief executive, whose untimely death is deeply felt by all. Grover Cleveland, the only living ex-president, will be present. The entire supreme court will attend in a body. Ambassadors and ministers and other representatives of foreign governments are already on the way to Washington to attend the funeral. Senators and representatives in congress will attend, and every official of the government at Washington will be present at the obsequies.

Postpone Yacht Race.

New York, Sept. 14.—On account of the death of President McKinley the international yacht race for the America's cup between the Shamrock II. and the Columbia will be postponed. Whether or not the postponement will be for a few weeks or until next season has not yet been decided.

Will Be Given Speedy Trial.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The Commercial says: District Attorney Thomas Penney Saturday took steps to bring Leon Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, to an immediate trial for that crime.

Blames Cartoonists.

West Superior, Wis., Sept. 16.—Bishop Cranston, of the Methodist church, in a sermon on anarchists, condemned newspaper cartoonists as in the same category with anarchists.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES.

Impressive Ceremonies at Bier of the Dead President.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Buffalo on Sunday became a city of mourners. The gay and flaming decorations of the Pan-American exposition gave way to the symbol of sorrow. The black drapery of the city's streets muffled the tolling bells of the churches. Bits of crape appeared on every sleeve. The sorrow was everywhere apparent.

Military Arrives.
At 10:30 o'clock the military and naval detachments took temporary station on West Ferry street immediately around the corner from the Milburn house.

Meantime the members of the cabinet, officials high in the government service and near friends of the martyred president began to fill the walks leading up to the entrance of the Milburn residence. They came separately and in groups, some walking, while those in carriages were admitted within the roped inclosure up to the curb. There were Secretaries Wilson, Root, Hitchcock, Long, Attorney General Knox and Postmaster General Smith. Others who arrived about this time were Senator Hanna, Judge Day, Govs. Odell, Yates and Gregory, Representatives Alexander and Ryan, Maj. Gen. Brooke, E. H. Butler, H. H. Kohlsaat and many others.

The Casket.

The casket in which the body rests bears the following inscription:

WILLIAM MCKINLEY,

Born January 29th, 1843.

Died September 14th, 1901.

The coffin is of red cedar, handsomely carved and covered with the finest black broadcloth. The interior is lined with copper, over which is a full tufted satin covering. A French bevel plate glass runs the length of the top of the casket. The outside case is made of red cedar, velt reached the head of the line of cabinet officers he kept his face away from the casket.

An Impressive Scene.

The president spoke to Secretary Root, or perhaps it would be more precise to say that the latter spoke to him. The president appeared to be steeling himself for a look into the face of him whose death had made him the first ruler of the world. The tension in the room was great. Everyone seemed to be waiting. The minister of the Gospel stood with the Holy Book in his hand ready to begin. Perhaps it might have been 60 seconds. It seemed longer. Then the president turned and at the same time advanced one step. He bowed his head and looked down upon the man whose burden and responsibility he had taken up. Long he gazed, standing immovable save for a twitching of the muscles of the chin as he labored with heavy breath to repress his emotion.

The Services Begin.

At last he stepped back. Col. Bingham, the aid to the president, standing ten feet below the foot of the casket at the side of the loyal Cortelyou, glanced in the direction of Rev. Charles Edward Locke, of the Delaware Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, who was to conduct the service. The pastor was at the door leading into the hall, a station whence his words could be heard at the head of the stairs. The signal was given and there welled out from the hall the beautiful words of "Lead, Kindly Light," sung by a quartette. It was President McKinley's favorite hymn.

When the singing ended the clergyman read from the words of the fifteenth chapter of the First Corinthians. All had risen as he began and remained standing throughout the remainder of the service. Again the voices rose with the words of "Nearer, My God, to Thee," the very words President McKinley had repeated at intervals of consciousness during the day of agony before he died. As the music died away the pastor spoke again. The minister then offered a most impressive prayer. At its conclusion all present joined in the Lord's Prayer as the minister repeated it, President Roosevelt's voice being audible at the that's all. No energy, no vim, no vigor, no ambition. The head aches, thoughts are confused, memory fails. Life becomes a round of work but half accomplished, of eating that does not nourish, of sleep that fails to refresh and of resting that never rests. That's the beginning of nervous prostration.

Order of Presidential Succession.

Many people have asked the Herald what was the order of succession to the presidential chair in the event of the death of the president and vice president. The line of succession is as follows:

When Chester A. Arthur became president on the death of President Garfield, he, in his first message to congress, recommended that congress take action on the succession to the presidency. A bill was introduced in the senate and the matter was briefly debated in both houses of congress for five years until in January, 1886, a law was passed which provides for the taking up of the duties of president by the vice president during the partial inability of the executive, but provided that if the presidency and vice presidency are both vacant the presidency passes to the members of the cabinet in the historical order of the establishment, beginning with the secretary of state. If he dies, is impeached or disabled, the secretary of the treasury becomes president, to be succeeded in a like crisis by the secretary of war, he by the attorney-general, he by the postmaster general, he by the secretary of the navy, he by the secretary of the interior, and he by the secretary of agriculture.

A Study of Political Hysterics.

"A Most Lamentable Comedy" is the title of a powerful novelette by Mr. Wm. Allen White, which begins in the September 21 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia. This absorbing serial is a study of political hysterics—the story of a state gone mad. The scene of the novelette is a western state laboring under the burdens of a panic year. The central figure is a grocery store demagogue, whose bareheaded oratory captures the state convention. The story rises to a height of dramatic power and intensity rarely equalled in the fiction of the day.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham, of MacIntosh, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvellous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

Rev. J. I. Nickerson.

The following points on the ministerial career of Rev. J. I. Nickerson, who leaves here Saturday to become pastor of the Methodist church at Adrian, are taken from the columns of the Adrian Times:

Rev. J. I. Nickerson was born in Oxford county, Ont., and received his education in the Canadian schools. His early training in the ministry of the Methodist church, was also received in Canada. In 1883 he came to Michigan and was made a member of Detroit conference. In the intervening time he has had charge of churches in Pinconning, West Branch, Cheboygan, Bay City and Chelsea.

At the latter place he has served five years, leaving behind him an excellent record. During his stay there the church has been very materially strengthened, having erected a fine stone edifice, at the expense of $23,000. This has been done without incurring any indebtedness whatever. The membership of the church has been increased from 180 to 290 during that period. The church he is leaving now stands second to none, in proportion to its membership, in its gifts for benevolent purposes.

Mr. Nickerson brings with him a wife and three daughters, the eldest of whom graduated last spring at the University School of Music, Ann Arbor. The second daughter is a student at Albion college, and the youngest will finish her high school work here the coming year.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by Glazier & Stimson.

Electric Railway Notes.

The Ann Arbor Railroad was on Thursday granted a temporary injunction against Hawks & Angus to prevent them from crossing the tracks of that railway on west Huron street, Ann Arbor, at grade.

The Detroit & Chicago Traction Co. is preparing to begin the grading between Dexter and Ann Arbor. A proposition will be placed before the Dexter council to lower the grade of the steep hill in front of the school house.

The first of the 10 new cars for the Detroit & Chicago Traction Co. is to be shipped this week. The cars are 56 feet long and 13 feet high and are equipped with air brakes and other modern safety appliances.

The Jackson council on Monday night by a vote of 10 to 6 granted a franchise to Hawks & Angus to operate a street railway on several of the streets of Jackson. The bond demanded by the franchise of Hawks & Angus was approved by the council. The franchise carries with it workmen's tickets, eight-for-a-quarter, and a provision for universal transfers.

Judge Kinne handed down a decision yesterday afternoon in favor of Hawks & Angus, saying that it is now too late for the city of Ann Arbor to question the validity of the franchise it has given to those gentlemen.

Styles for the Winter.

The easiest and simplest way we can suggest for our readers to get a good idea of the styles that will be popular this winter is to buy a copy of the October Delineator, just on sale at every news stand. The Delineator for October fore shadows, by means of its New York, Paris and London connections, those tendencies of fashion that will certainly prevail.

In addition to the fashion features and practical dressmaking advice that has made the Delineator famous, the October number is full of good general reading, most tastefully illustrated under the immediate direction of the well known artist, William Martin Johnson. Mr. Johnson's work is known to lovers of the beautiful, by reason of the Garfield edition of Ben Hur, as well as some other books of large sale. Mr. Johnson believes in illustrations that illustrate, rather than in pictures that only ornament a page. The whole October number of the Delineator is full of interest to men as well as to women.

MOURNFUL JOURNEY.

Remains of the Late President Reach Washington.

Escorted to the White House and Placed in the East Room—Progress of Funeral Train from Buffalo.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Through a living lane of bare-headed people stretching down Buffalo up over the Alleghenies down into the broad valley of the Susquehanna and on to the marble city on the banks of the shining Potomac the nation's martyred president on Monday made his last journey to the seat of the government over which he presided for 4½ years. The whole country seemed to have drained its population at the sides of the track over which the funeral train passed. The thin lines through the mountains and the sparsely-settled districts thickened at the little hamlets, covered acres in towns suddenly grown to proportions of respectable cities, and were congested into vast multitudes in the larger cities.

Precautions Against Accident.

Mrs. McKinley stood the trip bravely. In the morning soon after leaving Buffalo she pleaded so earnestly to be allowed to go into the car where her dear one lay that reluctant assent was given, and she spent half an hour beside the coffin. All the way the train was preceded about 15 minutes by a pilot engine sent ahead to test the bridges and switches and prevent the possibility of an accident to the precious burden it carried. The train had the right of way over everything.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The remains of President McKinley Monday night lay in the east room of the white house, where for more than four years he had made his home as the chief magistrate of the great American republic.

The train was a little late. The train was due at 8:25, but the clock stood at 8:38 when the headlight of the big locomotive flashed along the rails and the cars swept quietly to a stop at the gates. The way was cleared, and down the pathway strode a body of sturdy soldiers chosen as the body bearers and guard. They were met at the entrance of the observation car where the remains lay by an officer and admitted at once.

The Sad March Begins.

The hearse bearing the third martyred president quickly moved away, and was followed at once by President Roosevelt and those accompanying him. In the president's carriage beside Mr. Roosevelt were Secretaries Hay and Gage and Capt. Cowles. Carriages containing other dignitaries followed. The military were already in line. As the procession swept from the Sixth street station into Pennsylvania avenue, a deeply impressive sight was presented. The historic thoroughfare was hung in black. Emblems of the nation's mourning were displayed on every building. The stars and stripes, furled and knotted with crepe, floated from hundreds of windows. Over all gleamed coldly scores of electric lights, defining sharply each detail of the solemn scene. Banked on both sides of the avenue, from Sixth street to the executive mansion, were tens of thousands of people. They were come to pay their tribute of respect and love to the memory of their president.

Placed in the East Room.

When the sad cortege arrived at the white house the hearse stopped under the portico. The body bearers took the coffin upon their broad shoulders, and, passing up the three or four steps, waited until President Roosevelt and the members of the cabinet had alighted from their carriages and then followed them through the wide-open doors into the east room. Just in the center of the room, under the great crystal chandelier, they deposited their precious burden upon a black-draped base and stood at salute while the new chief executive, the cabinet members and others with bowed heads passed by.

The carriage containing Mrs. McKinley, Dr. Rixey and Mr. Abner McKinley had preceded the funeral cortege to the white house by some little time. Dr. Rixey was the first to alight, and then Mr. Abner McKinley. They tenderly assisted Mrs. McKinley to the stairs. With her right arm resting heavily and wearily upon the shoulder of her dead husband's brother, and supported on the other side by Dr. Rixey, she walked slowly along the stone flagging into the house. She was closely veiled, but her feeble steps told the story of her great suffering. She was assisted at once to the elevator and to her old room and soon retired. Dr. Rixey and Mr. Cortelyou later said that she had stood the journey very well indeed, and they had confidently expected that she would complete the sad journey to her old home without difficulty. Among those who know her best and were with her at Buffalo it is doubted whether she yet fully realizes the calamity that has befallen her, and it is with some apprehension that they look forward to the first days alone in Canton.

FIRST POINT FOR SCHLEY.

Admiral Howison Is Excused as Member of Court of Inquiry—Ramsey Named as Successor.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Within three hours from the time of convening the court of inquiry Thursday it was announced that Rear Admiral Howison was disqualified from serving as a member of the court, and was excused from further duty. This brought proceedings to an abrupt termination, and caused a temporary adjournment of the court in order to permit the navy department to designate an officer to succeed Admiral Howison. It had been expected that little official business would be accomplished on the opening day, and the prompt decision as to Admiral Howison came somewhat as a surprise.

GAGE'S PROMPT ACTION.

Secretary Will Release $25,000,000 Treasury Surplus as Asked by New York Brokers.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The following announcement was made Tuesday at the treasury department:

"The secretary of the treasury hereby gives notice that he will receive and consider proposals for the sale to the government, on account of the sinking fund, of United States three per cent. bonds, loan of 1908-1918; four per cent. bonds, loan of 1907; four per cent. bonds, loan of 1904; and five per cent. bonds, loan of 1904, to an amount not exceeding $20,000,000. Proposals should be submitted to the secretary by letter or telegraph not later than Thursday, the 12th inst.; any bonds accepted to be promptly delivered at the United States treasury in New York or to the treasury department at Washington.

"The right to reject any or all proposals is expressly reserved."

"LYMAN J. GAGE,"

Secretary.

The secretary also has directed that internal revenue receipts be deposited with national bank depositaries up to the par value of all bonds deposited including the two per cent. bonds. This will release about $5,000,000.

Commenting upon the offer made in his circular, Secretary Gage said that the active movement of crops had begun throughout the country, and he did not desire that the treasury should absorb millions of dollars that might be in trade channels. The subtreasuries in the west and south have been calling heavily for currency to move the crops, and the amount sent so far is in excess of any year in the history of the treasury. The placing of addi-

HOPE DISPELLED.

President Shaffer Again Declares False Rumors of Settlement of Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 13.—The air was again full of rumors Thursday that the strike had been settled. The absence of President Shaffer from Amalgamated headquarters all day up to four p. m. lent color to the report. By many Mr. Shaffer was supposed to be in New York in conference with President Schwab, and others were convinced that he was in conference with the American Tin Plate officials discussing a proposition to call the strike off, so far as that company was concerned. When President Shaffer finally appeared at headquarters he dispelled all hopes by saying there was no change in the situation. Immediately after arriving at the office Mr. Shaffer called the national officers to his room for a conference, which lasted 40 minutes. It was impossible to learn what the talk was about, as none of the participants would talk.

It was said at Amalgamated headquarters that the steel combine has refused to entertain any further propositions of settlement from the Amalgamated association. This would seem to strengthen the report from New York that the situation is now in just the shape that it was before the first conference at Cleveland, in the hands of the constituent companies for a settlement; that Mr. Schwab and Mr. Morgan have turned the matter over to the local officials, and that if anything is done it must be done by them, and through the officers in New York.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Mob a Veteran.

Chauncey Bronson, an inmate of the Michigan soldiers' home at Grand Rapids, exclaimed when he heard that President McKinley had been shot: "It's a good thing. He ought to have been shot long ago." Camerades who heard him jumped upon him instantly, tore his clothes, bled him but for the arrival of the home's officials. Bronson was sent to his room by Commandant Judd pending investigation, but he escaped and has not since been seen. Veterans are now circulating a petition that his pension be revoked.

Will Enforce New Law.

Food Commissioner Shaw announces that the new law prohibiting the manufacture or sale of oleomargarine colored to resemble butter which has gone into effect will be rigidly enforced. The department insists that the law is constitutional and that the people have had ample time to familiarize themselves with its provisions. Inspectors have been instructed to keep dealers under strict surveillance and promptly prosecute offenders.

Given His Freedom.

Gov. Bliss has pardoned John Page, aged 61, convicted in Hillsdale of arson, and sentenced in November, 1900, to imprisonment in the Ionia reformatory for six years. The governor has paroled Albert M. Tracey, convicted in Jackson county of larceny, September 17, 1900, for one year and eight months, also William Brix, convicted in the Jackson circuit court of larceny, and sentenced September 12, 1900, to Ionia for 20 months.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 81 observers in various portions of the state for the week ended September 7 indicate that diphtheria and typhoid fever increased and whooping cough decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 183 places, measles at 11, typhoid fever at 106, scarlet fever at 65, diphtheria at 25, whooping cough at 7, cerebro-spinal meningitis at 2 and smallpox at 26 places.

A Horrible Death.

William Nadeau, 12 years old, met a horrible death at South Lake Linden. He was playing on the waste sands near the Tamarack stamp mill when he suddenly began to sink and before help arrived he was buried beneath several tons of sand. Several men worked for hours trying to recover the body, but the waste sand ran in like quicksand as fast as it moved.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan:

Warm, dry weather and abundant sunshine has greatly hastened maturity of corn, beans and buckwheat; corn cutting quite generally begun; bean harvest nearly completed; buckwheat well filled; potatoes short and soil rather dry for plowing; sugar beets continue promising; apple yield very poor.

Pilots Were Drunk.

Nathaniel Pomeroy, aged 21, Oberlin, O., and William Boucher, rapids pilots, were drowned while shooting the rapids at Sault Ste. Marie. The boat struck a rock near the foot of the rapids, overturning it. The pilots, it is alleged, were drunk, and this was the cause of the accident.

News Briefly Stated.

Elmer Pearce, aged 27, and Thomas Cameron, 25, were drowned by the capsizing of a rowboat near Calumet. The young men were on an excursion from Lake Linden.

Henry Young, under arrest in Elkhart for a criminal assault on Allice Price, a nine-year-old girl, attempted suicide by cutting his throat just before his examination. He will recover.

Gustave Hans, of Chicago, was killed by a Grand Trunk train near Goodells.

The Tenth district prohibitionists have nominated Joseph Leighton, of Bay City, for congress.

A vein of fine bituminous coal has been found in Robinson upon the farm of Fred Bethke, near the old Grandville road.

Potatoes in Wexford county will be a larger crop this year than for many years, and will average over 150 bushels per acre. The corn crop will be larger than for ten years.

The coroner's jury investigating the killing of William Potter at Morrison's lumber camp, near Gaylord, returned a verdict fixing the crime on Oscar Morey, with Nathan Brown and Mary Potter as accomplices.

Six buildings in the business part of Kingsley, including the Odd Fellows' hall and the town hall, were destroyed by fire.

Chester Roy, a well-known citizen of Mount Clemens, died suddenly of his home, aged 65 years.

Ira Koch had his left hand blown to pieces by a cannon firecracker while celebrating at a wedding reception in Benton Harbor.

THE SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY.

WILSON. RAYTOR. PARKER. BENHAM. SCHLEY. DEWEY. HOWISON. LENLY. Copyright, 1901, by B. M. CLINEBIST, Washington, D. C.

A salute of 17 guns in honor of the admiral of the navy marked the opening of the proceedings at one o'clock. The usual formalities on the opening of a court were transacted with dispatch. Admiral Schley opened the first skirmish by challenging Admiral Howison's eligibility as a member of the court, and presented three witnesses in support of his challenge. They gave very positive testimony as to expressions they had heard Admiral Sampson and unfavorable to Admiral Schley.

Admiral Howison made a reply to the challenge and it was then submitted to the court, which, under the circumstances, was narrowed to Admiral Dewey and Rear Admiral Benham to pass upon. After hardly more than 15 minutes spent in retirement to the consultation room of the court, Admiral Dewey briefly announced that the court sustained the challenge and that Admiral Howison would be excused from further attendance.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Admiral Dewey informed Admiral Schley by telephone Friday that the court of inquiry will resume its sessions at 11 o'clock on Monday morning next. The third member of the court, who will fill the place vacated by Admiral Howison has been selected. Rear Admiral Francis M. Ramsey was the one selected to take Howison's place on the court of inquiry. Admiral Ramsey was retired in April, 1897, and his home is at Washington.

Britain's Power Broken.

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—Michael Davitt, the Irish nationalist who resigned his seat in the British parliament on account of the Boer war, has arrived in this city en route to Cape May, where he intends to rest a few days. In an interview Mr. Davitt reiterated his previously expressed opinion that the power of the British government is broken in South Africa.

Injunction Granted.

Cincinnati, Sept. 12.—Judge Charles D. Clark, of the United States district court, at Chattanooga, granted an injunction asked for by the American Tin Plate company, restraining 350 strikers at Cambridge, O., from interfering with nonunion men, tional money with the national bank depositaries will divert about $5,000,000 from treasury vaults and put it into circulation. At the same time the purchase of $20,000,000 in bonds would be a decided relief.

Four Killed in a Railway Wreck.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 13.—Advises received here are to the effect that a disastrous freight wreck occurred on the Great Northern railroad near the Cascade tunnel in Washington. The engineer of freight train No. 15, west-bound, while making the western decline in the tunnel lost control of the air brakes and the train attained such a high rate of speed that when a slight curve was reached the cars jumped the track and piled up in a confused heap. Fire ensued, and 31 cars loaded with merchandise were totally destroyed. Four men were killed.

Yokohama, Sept. 14.—The special Chinese envoy, Na-Tung, sent to express condolence and apology for the murder of Sugiyama Akira, who was chancellor of the Japanese legation at Peking, previous to the Boxer uprising, was received in audience by the emperor Friday at Tokio. The envoy presented to his majesty a letter of regret, couched in satisfactory terms. The emperor accepted the apology and said he hoped China's expressed desire for the maintenance of peace in the east would be realized.

Col. J. Coryell, of Pennsylvania, was elected commander in chief.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 13.—Steel workers at Joliet who four weeks ago went on a strike in response to President Shaffer's order decided at a joint conference to return to work this afternoon.

DRIVE BOERS BACK.

Report from Kitchener Tells of Battle in Which Many Are Killed or Made Prisoners.

London, Sept. 12.—Lord Kitchener reports to the war office from Pretoria as follows:

"Methuen engaged Vautonder and De Larey in Great Marie's Valley September 6 and September 8, driving them from a strong position September 8. The Boers left six dead September 6 and 12 September 8. Forty-one prisoners were captured."

Matjesfontein, Cape Colony, Sept. 12.—Col. Crabbe has surprised the camp of Van Der Merwe, the most trusted lieutenant of Commandant Scheeper, killed him and another Boer and made prisoners of 37 out of the 100 men under Van Der Merwe's command.

Ten manufacturers of cigars and a printer are said to be involved in the fraud, and several arrests are expected this morning.

Post Office Robbed.

Ladoga, Ind., Sept. 14.—The post office here was broken into by thieves, who had first secured tools by breaking into G. B. Read's blacksmith shop. They entered by prying open a rear window. No attempt was made to open the large burglar-proof safe, and so far as can be ascertained only about one dollar in pennies was taken.

McKinley's Death.

by Men in All Walks of Life.

"President McKinley crowned a life of largest love for his fellow men, of most earnest endeavor for their welfare, by a death of Christian fortitude, and both the way in which he lived his life and the way in which, in the supreme hour of trial, he met his death will remain forever a precious heritage of our people."—President Roosevelt.

"I cannot let him go. The country cannot spare him."—Mrs. McKinley.

"This is dreadful news, and the more cruel because it strikes down the confident and comforting expectation which all our people were encouraged to entertain that their president would be saved from death. In the afflictive gloom surrounding this third presidential murder within the memory of men not yet old, we can scarcely keep out of mind a feeling of people. Through these they understand and appreciate him. In their hearts can be found the love and the gratitude, which his unselfish, untiring and affectionate devotion to his country justly inspire."—Secretary of Treasury Lyman J. Gage.

"When the whole American nation is filled with sorrow at the untimely death of our chief magistrate, it is no time to talk politics. Under the great affliction that has befallen us, democrats and republicans stand side by side as Americans citizens, with uncovered heads, shocked and grief-stricken at the death of our dead president."—Richard Croker.

"President McKinley's death is a great blow to our country. I had known the president in his official position and had learned to respect him for his many good qualities and for his devotion to his duty. It seemed to me that now, when he was about to enjoy the fruits of his wise policies and when the care and anxiety incident to his first term were to be followed in his second term by the consummation to the full of these policies, it was lamentable that he could not have been spared to rejoice with the American people over the wisdom of his course. The sympathy of the American people will go out to the widow and relatives of the late president."—Gov. Odell, New York.

"The death of President McKinley is one of the saddest events in American history. Sad not only on account of his great value to the country and the community in which he lived and to his enfeebled wife, but sadder still on account of the manner of his tak-their realization. His last hours were a lesson in patient self-control."—Chicago American.

"President McKinley is dead and the nation mourns. It mourns as one which has suffered a great loss, but a loss which is not irreparable. His work has been, to a great extent, accomplished. Of the problems which confronted him when he was elected, or which have arisen since his election, nearly all have been happily solved by him."—Chicago Tribune.

"This affliction enters every home in the land. To-day the American people mourn as one family for the head of the household."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Eulogistic Expressions in South.

"In public life he was a man of unblemished reputation, whose every act was above suspicion. The representative of interests with hundreds of millions of dollars, interests whose wealth was doubled and quadrupled by his election, President McKinley remained to the end a poor man, profiting not one cent by the fortunes that owed their origin to his election and his policy."—N. O. Times-Democrat.

"A great statesman; the best type of American citizen; a loyal and kindly gentleman; a brave, true man, has been done to death by an assassin, and on his bier fall the tears of the south, while the shadow of a cruel tragedy envelops the entire land. May his gentle soul rest in peace."—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

"The hour of death removes politics, but, better still, the life of a lifetime had extracted whatever asperity might have existed."—Atlanta Constitution.

Tributes from Across the Water.

"Poor president! What a misfortune to befall a noble people."—Pope Leo XIII.

"I am deeply affected by the news of the untimely death of President McKinley. I hasten to express the deepest and most heartfelt sympathy of the German people to the great American nation. Germany mourns with America for her noble son, who lost his life whilst he was fulfilling his duty to his country and people."—Emperor William, Germany.

"May I add personally my deep grief to that of the people of this nation and the nations of the earth for the loss of a great and good life, so ruthlessly snatched away in the fullness of love and honor."—Sir Henry Irving.

"Most truly do I sympathize with you and the whole American nation at the loss of your distinguished president."—Edward VII., England.

"I desire to express in behalf of the Church of England the deep grief with which we have heard of the death of the president. The loss of so great a ruler is a calamity to the whole world. The triumph of wickedness fills us with sorrow. Our prayer and good will will be an earnest for the American people."—Archbishop of Canterbury.

"I learn with deep pain that his excellency, Mr. McKinley, has succumbed to the deplorable attempt on his life. I sympathize with you with all my heart in the calamity which thus strikes at your dearest affections and which bereaves the great American nation of a president so justly respected and loved."—President Emile Loubet, of France.

"Never did the friendly expressions of the two sister republics appear more justified than at the present moment, when there is only room for a sentiment of profound cordiality."—Paris Journal des Debats.

Tribute from a Spaniard.

Juan D'Aljor, born in Madrid, and once a Spanish soldier, doffed his hat and bowed his head before the half-mast flag and the picture of the dead chieftain.

"Even in Spain," said the man who fought for the red and gold of old Castile, "there will be mourning to-day, and mourning of the deepest, truest kind. The Spanish people never hated McKinley, and they will honor him in death as in life—a man who was a good ruler, a merciful enemy and a kindly friend."

"I have known Admiral Cervera in the old home, and heavy will be the heart of our great sailor now. He ever spoke of McKinley as his ideal of a ruler—the ballot-chosen master of a contented people, and a man as pure and noble in his private life as he was colossal in his vast career."

Sympathy of President Diaz.

"I have been deeply shocked by the horrible crime, which has not even the excuse that the anarchist is persecuted in the United States, since, as is well known, freedom and tolerance are there extended to him. Nor has it the excuse that President McKinley was a ruler of exclusive or aristocratic tendencies, for he was, by reason of his position as a popular ruler and his own personal feelings, sympathies and habits, a good friend of the people, a genuine democrat in the best sense of the word; so that this crime was as useless and unprovoked as it was abominable in every respect. With regard to Mexico, President McKinley had ever evinced such friendly sentiments that his death will be mourned in this country hardly less keenly than in the United States; for myself it is a loss of a warm personal friend."—President Diaz, Mexico.

Views of the Press.

"That such a noble, true soul, such a high-minded gentleman should have been struck down in the very fullness of his powers, when his great abilities were receiving a broadening recognition and he was still growing in the affectionate esteem of his countrymen, is lamentable. But his fame is secure forever, and his sincere, the devout Christian has realized the aspiration breathed out in his last words: 'Nearer, My God, to Thee.'"—Chicago Record-Herald.

"His dreams of American victory, expansion, prosperity and commercial supremacy were realized, and he saw stunning amazement that in free America, blessed with a government consecrated to popular welfare and contentment, the danger of assassination should ever encompass the faithful discharge of the highest official duty. It is hard at such a time as this to calmly and patiently await the unfolding of the purpose of God."—Ex-President Cleveland.

"It is inexpressibly sad. His life was remarkable, and his character above reproach. His personal qualities were such that he had no enemies. The blow aimed at him was at the government and it is felt by all. We all feel the humiliation that our country has suffered and our hearts are with the lonely woman from whom a foul and brutal assassination is taking one of the most faithful and tender of husbands."—William J. Bryan.

"I cannot say I shall not try to utter sentiments of tribute. For many years the president has been my dearest friend. My devotion to the president during all these years ought to indicate how I esteemed the man and what I thought of him."—United States Senator M. A. Hanna.

"The death of President McKinley is a blow to me. I feel as though I had lost a brother. He was my personal friend, a good man, and a great character and one who well filled the presidential position. He is dead, and his assassin still lives. Czolgosz was not killed by the mob when he struck the dastard blow, and this shows that law and order are supreme in this land. Our eyes turn to the future, and I have no fear for the government to come, as it is in able hands."—Speaker David B. Henderson.

"It seems like mockery to attempt to eulogize him. No words can carry from one mind to another a proper understanding of that unique personality. He himself must be his best interpreter. His acts, his utterances, with their indescribable charm, have made him known to the American

CATARRH OF KIDNEYS Quickly Develops Into Bright's Disease.

(PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH WHEREVER LOCATED.)

John Herziger, son of Alderman Herziger, of Neenah, Wis., and Vice President of the Neenah Young Men's Club, writes in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, the following:

"After suffering for two years with kidney trouble I received relief and a cure from using your wonderful medicine, Peruna."

"For months I was unable to work on account of a severe pain in my back, and when I was able to do anything I was in pain and distressed most of the time."

"Hearing so much of the good results people had obtained through the use of Peruna I determined to give it a trial and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I am well now and it only took a few bottles of Peruna."—John Herziger, 307 Commercial street, Neenah, Wis.

Two years suffering with catarrh of the kidneys, unable to work on account of the severe pain; could find no relief from medicine; gave Peruna a trial and was promptly cured—such was the experience of John Herziger, of Wisconsin.

This experience has been repeated many times. Not only in Wisconsin but in every state in the Union. It was indeed a lucky day for this young man when his attention was called to Peruna. What would have been the result had he continued suffering on and fooling away precious time with other remedies, no man can tell. But it is almost certain that it would have ended in incurable Bright's disease of the kidneys, which sooner or later would have proved fatal.

Peruna is a sure cure for incipient Bright's disease of the kidneys. Taken in the early stages of this disease, it cures permanently. Bright's disease always begins with catarrh of the kidneys. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

Congressman Bankhead's Statement.

Congressman J. H. Bankhead, of Alabama, one of the most influential members of the House of Representatives, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., gives his indorsement to the great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following words:

"Your Peruna is one of the best medicines I ever tried, and no family should be without your remarkable remedy. As a tonic and a catarrh cure I know of nothing better."—J. H. Bankhead.

Samuel R. Sprecher, Junior Beadle Court Angelina No. 3422 I. O. O. F., 205 High St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes:

"I came here a few years ago suffering with catarrh of the kidneys, in search of health. I thought that the climate would cure me but found that I was mistaken, but what the climate could not do Peruna could and did do. Seven weeks' trial convinced me that I had the right medicine and I was then a well man. I know of at least twenty friends and members of the lodge to which I belong who have been cured of catarrh, bladder and kidney trouble through the use of Peruna and it has a host of friends in this city."—Samuel R. Sprecher.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Australian Mail's Record Trip.
The most important mail that has left Australia in years for London recently made a record-breaking trip. The mail consisted of 347 sacks and contained many documents for the British parliament. At Sydney it was put on board the steamer Ventura, a steamship sailing under the American flag and built only last year for the Oceanic Steamship company at the Cramps shipyard in Philadelphia. The trip across the Pacific occupied just 21 days, the former time having been 26 days. From San Francisco the mail was hurried east on special fast trains on the Southern Pacific (Ogden line), Union Pacific, and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroads, but arrived in Chicago too late to connect with the fast mail train of the Lake Shore and New York Central, which is a 24-hour train from Chicago to New York. A special train was made up and attached to one of the fastest engines on the Lake Shore line. The regular train was overtaken at Toledo, and the hour and a half lost time was made up. At Buffalo the regular train was made into two sections by the New York Central with the mail cars, including the Australian mail, in the first section. New York was reached three minutes ahead of schedule time. At New York the mail was delivered to the Campana and that vessel left on regular time. Barring accidents or unusual delays it will be delivered in England in several days shorter time than ever before.
