ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION

Of District Epworth Leaguers Held Here Tuesday and Yesterday.

The Epworth Leaguers of the Ann Arbor district to the number of about 100 were in session at the M. E. church Tuesday and yesterday. Up to Tuesday night just 50 delegates had enrolled, but yesterday the enrollment went up to the larger number. It was an enthusiastic convention although there was not so large an attendance as was expected.

Tuesday afternoon's session was notable for fraternal greetings by Saxe C. Stimson, of the Epworth League, D. W. Greenleaf, of the Christian Endeavor, and Rev. F. A. Stiles, of the B. Y. P. U. To these Rev. Howard A. Field, of Milan, responded. "Spiritual department class: Outline of work by leader," was discussed by Mrs. Stoner, of Monroe. Three papers on the program had to be omitted on account of the absence of those who were to give them. Miss Margaret B. Nickerson sang beautifully a solo "The Golden Threshold," and then Rev. C. H. Morgan, of Rochester, spoke on the Bible study movement and how to organize it. This closed the session.

The evening program opened with a praise service, followed with an anthem by the choir. Rev. C. H. Morgan then gave a fine address on "Our new Bible study course," illustrated with charts, and Floyd Ward sang a solo "Beyond the Gates of Paradise," in fine voice. A reception to the visitors in the Epworth League rooms followed.

Three sessions were held yesterday, but on account of going to press a little earlier than usual we are obliged to leave over further mention of this interesting meeting.

CONFIRMED FIFTY-EIGHT.

An Impressive Ceremony at St. Mary's Church Tuesday Evening.

Tuesday evening Rt. Rev. John S. Foley, D. D., bishop of Detroit made his annual visitation to St. Mary's church, and bestowed the sacrament of confirmation on a class of 58. Rev. Wm. Kilroy, of Lennox, was master of ceremonies, and Rev. M. J. Comerford, of Pinckney, celebrant. Bishop Foley's address to the congregation, which filled the church, was a forcible exposition of the life and mission of Jesus Christ and the duties it imposes on the members of his church. His address to the class admonished them to be faithful soldiers of the Divine Master unto their lives' end. The laying on of hands in the sacrament of confirmation followed. John S. Howler acting as sponsor for the boys and Miss Mary J. Miller for the girls. The music by the choir, under the direction of Louis Burg, was excellent.

DEATH OF PETER J. LEHMAN.

He Was an Old Sylvan Boy and a Highly Respected Self-Made Man.

A great many people in Chelsea and vicinity were sincerely grieved last Friday on learning the sad news that Peter J. Lehman, of Ann Arbor, had passed away that morning at 7 o'clock after a brief illness from typhoid pneumonia. Pete, as he was familiarly called, was well known to almost everybody in this neighborhood, which had been his life-long home up to seven years ago when he went to Ann Arbor to reside. One of the family of eleven children of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lehman, he was born in Waterloo township, October 15, 1863, and was like all the family a hustler. He was early thrown on his own resources, but being anxious to secure a good education, he did so by his own efforts. His early education he gained in the schools of Sylvan. To obtain the means to attend the law department of the U. of M. he taught school and during one entire term walked to and from Jerusalem, living in Chelsea with his mother.

He graduated with the class of 1887 and established himself in the law business in Chelsea with his brother M. J. Lehman. During the time of his legal practice here he was justice of the peace for one term. He went to Ann Arbor in 1894 and for two years was deputy county treasurer during William Rehfuus' term. When H. Wirt Newkirk was elected judge of probate he became his probate register, retiring from that position Jan. 1, 1901. Again engaging in the practice of law in the firm of Lehman Bros. & Stivers, he was very successful, and as a result of his labors and thrift leaves his wife and family comfortably provided for.

He was married in 1889 to Miss Paulina Braun, of Freedom, who with three little daughters survives him. A kind and affectionate husband and father, a good citizen and friend, he will be greatly missed by those who knew him best. All of his five brothers and five sisters also survive him.

The funeral, held Monday at the Bethlehem church, Ann Arbor, was largely attended by relatives and friends, about 30 being there from Chelsea alone. The circuit court adjourned out of respect to his memory and the members of the county bar attended the funeral in a body. The interment was in the German cemetery, Ann Arbor.

Electric Railway Notes.

Work on the Boland company's electric road between Marshall and Albion is being pushed. The grading is completed within two miles of Marshall, and considerable steel has been laid between Marengo and Albion.

A force of men commenced Monday to grade the Boland company's electric line between Ann Arbor and Dexter. They began at the city limits of Ann Arbor. Clinton J. Snyder, of that city, has charge of the grading.

The supreme court decided in favor of Hawks & Angus, and the whole of its franchise on West Huron street, Ann Arbor, is good. They can now proceed to take up the pavement again and lay the connecting strip of track between Ashley street and Main street. Might as well have been allowed to do it in the first place.

Hamilton Baluss, jr., a motorman on the D., Y., A. A. & J. electric road, has recently invented and perfected an air brake. The device was given a critical examination by Pres. J. D. Hawks, Supt. Merrill and Mr. Hutchins, of the Westinghouse air brake company. As a result of this investigation a car will be equipped with one of the brakes this week Saturday.

CHASE OF THE COLON.

It Is Described by Lieut. Hodgson in Schley Inquiry.

Witness Insists on Truth of His Statement That Schley Used the Expression During the Fight: "Damn the Texas."

Washington, Oct. 8.—The Schley court of inquiry Monday entered upon the third straight week of the investigation of Admiral Schley's conduct in the Spanish war.

Lieutenant Commander Hodgson, navigator of the Brooklyn during the Santiago campaign, resumed the stand.

The witness, in response to a request from Mr. Rayer, continued his description of the naval battle of July 3, from the point where he had dropped that description at Capt. Lemly's request while he was on the stand Friday. He said in part:

"The Brooklyn did all she could. She got into action just as quick as steam could carry her there. We commenced firing as soon as the first gun on the port bow would bear, and we kept the port battery firing until she turned with port-helm through the arc, using the aft guns until we got all the starboard guns to bear. We got around as quickly as we could with port-helm until we almost paralleled the course of the leading Spanish vessel, when the helm was eased and the ship steered a course parallel with the Viscaya which was then the leading vessel, although the Maria Teresa probably was farther to the westward than the Viscaya. She was standing at an angle into the shore. When we got around the smoke was so very dense nothing could be seen of anything in the rear of us. The three Spanish vessels we were then engaged with were the Viscaya, the Colon and the Oquendo. The Viscaya was about 2,500 yards on our starboard bow; the Colon probably was a little forward of the starboard beam. The Oquendo was abaft the starboard beam.

"We continued in that direction, when I remarked to Capt. Cook, that it seemed rather lonely for us out there. He was in the conning tower. He asked: 'Why?' I said that we were all alone with the three Spanish vessels and it seemed that it depended upon us to knock them out. At that time the smoke was so dense I could not see anything and I supposed that the New York being away the Brooklyn was steaming ahead of the slower vessels. He stepped out of the conning tower and exclaimed: 'What's that off our starboard quarter?' I looked in that direction and saw the heavy bow of a ship and said: 'That must be the Massachusetts.' He said: 'No, it could not be the Massachusetts; she has gone to Guantanamo.' I said: 'It must be the Oregon,' and he remarked: 'God bless the Oregon.' I said: 'Well, I am very glad to see her.' The Oregon was at that time about, I should say, 400 or 500 yards off our starboard quarter at full speed.

"I remember at one time telling Commodore Schley that it was within about 13,000 yards, and my recollection is he told someone to signal the Oregon to try one of her 'railroad trains.' At any rate, shortly afterward the Oregon fired one of her 13-inch shells which fell short. Then we tried with eight-inch shells and they fell short. The Oregon was signaling to us the fall of our shot and we signaled to her the fall of her shot. We continued occasionally to fire, the Oregon her 13 and eight-inch guns and we our eight-inch guns. I remember seeing one of the 13-inch shells of the Oregon fall well ahead of the Colon and one of our eight-inch shells apparently fell in shore of the Colon. At that time the Colon ported helm hard a port. Previously to this she had ported her helm once or twice apparently seeking a soft spot on shore. She fired her lee gun and hauled down her flag. I pulled out my watch. It was exactly 1:15. We then ceased firing and slowed down, and orders were given to get out a boat. The captain was ordered to go on board to make terms with or tell the terms to the commanding officer of the Colon. On account of steam having been cut off and there being some trouble with the boat, we were some little time getting the boat out. In the meantime we had slowed and as rapidly as could be accomplished one of the cutters was finally gotten out, a crew put in. Capt. Cook went in the boat and boarded the Colon. I think he probably had a mile and a half pull."

Admiral Schley's Conduct.
Mr. Rayer—What was the bearing of Commodore Schley during this engagement or any engagement in which you saw him?

"His bearing and manner, with respect to an officer of his rank and station in the naval service, were naturally those of a commander in chief of a naval force on that occasion."

The witness said that the commodore had occupied a place on a platform around the conning tower during the engagement. This, he said, was a position of danger as the commodore was there always in full view of the enemy's ships.

Mr. Rayer then had the witness scrutinize the letter which he had written to Admiral Schley on June 8 and drew from him the statement that he had not then informed the admiral that he had used the expression "Damn the Texas." When the witness was asked if he thought that there was any suggestion of such an expression he replied: "When I suggested to Commodore Schley that there was danger of colliding with the Texas he said: 'Damn the Texas.' He used the expression as not in any way condemning the Texas for being there, but as if he were irritated as one might be about anything."

Mr. Rayer asked then about the expression attributed to the witness: "She will cut down the Texas." Commander Hodgson replied that there was no such expression in the letter and that he never had said that the Brooklyn would cut down the Texas. "There is a good deal in that reported colloquy that I did not say," he added. "The statement was never made," he went on, "but the commodore did say: 'Damn the Texas.'"

The afternoon session of the court began with a question put to Lieutenant Commander Hodgson by Mr. Hanna. He asked why he had written his categorical denial of the newspaper report of the colloquy between himself and Commodore Schley. The question was objected to and Admiral Dewey said:

"We have the facts. The letters were written. That is all the court wants. We want facts—facts. People are influenced by different kinds of things. We want the facts. Draw out the facts."

Mr. Hanna then changed his question and the witness said that he had written his explicit denial in response to a request from Admiral Schley.

MILWAUKEE PEOPLE

Could Hardly Believe It. A Prominent Woman Saved From Death by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suppose a large number of people who read of my remarkable cure will hardly believe it; had I not experienced it myself, I know that I should not.

MRS. SADIE E. KOCH.

"I suffered for months with troubles peculiar to women which gradually broke down my health and my very life. I was nearly insane with pain at times, and no human skill I consulted in Milwaukee could bring me relief.

"My attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; the first bottle brought relief, and the second bottle an absolute cure. I could not believe it myself, but blessed fact, I have now been well for a year, enjoy the best of health, and cannot in words express my gratitude. Sincerely yours, SADIE E. KOCH, 124 10th St., Milwaukee, Wis.—$4000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

Enrollment at University of Michigan Will Show an Increase Over Any Previous Year.

ENGINEERING BRANCH TAKES THE LEAD.

Corner Stone of the Medical Building to Be Laid October 15—Money Required for Athletics—Student Publications Under Way—Other Notes of General Interest.

[Special Correspondence.]
University of Michigan, Oct. 7.—The present outlook is that the enrollment for the school year will be a trifle in advance of that of last year, which was the largest to date in the history of the university. The indications are that there will be an increased enrollment in the engineering and literary departments and a decreased enrollment in the medical and dental departments. The percentage of increase will be the greatest in the engineering department. The reason for this is probably to be found in the fact that in these days of prosperity there is a great demand for engineers of all kinds to help carry forward the work of installing new industrial plants, projecting and improving railway systems and developing mining enterprises.

An Explanation.
The explanation of the falling off in the medical and dental departments is found in the stiffened requirements for admission and graduation. This is particularly true in the dental department, where the course of study has been lengthened from three to four years. The law, pharmaceutical and homeopathic departments will, in all likelihood, enroll about the same number of students this year as last. The registration in the summer session was less than that in the session of a year ago so that this department of the college work cannot be depended upon to help in a large sum total. It rests with the literary and engineering departments to make up the shortages and make such gains as are made.

Corner Stone to Be Laid.
The corner stone of the medical building now being erected will be laid October 15. A programme has been prepared which includes addresses by a number of prominent alumni, members of the medical faculty, President James B. Angell, members of the board of regents and others. In addition to the exercises immediately connected with the laying of the stone a reception will be held by the members of the Students' Medical society and a banquet for invited guests has been arranged for the evening.

Money for Athletics.
If there is anyone who has an idea that athletics are an inexpensive form of amusement they may be surprised to learn that for the year ending September 24 over $22,000 was spent in the interest of the several athletic teams supported by the university. Of this amount $7,786.81 was charged to football; $2,169.24 to baseball and $2,154.72 to the track teams. The interscholastic contests cost $847.54. In addition to these there were incidental expenses to the amount of $2,287.27. The several sources of income and the sums derived from each were: Football, $10,557.13; baseball, $2,413.69; track, $1,598.30; interscholastic contests, $419.11; membership fees, $2,065.90; subscription, $1,729.50; miscellaneous, $3,086.71. Total, $22,295.07. The probabilities are that the figures for the coming season will be somewhat larger than the above. At least the football expenses will be heavier because of the trip the team will take to the Pacific coast.

The Student Publications.
Nearly all of the student publications which will occupy the field the current year have got under way. The Inlander, the literary magazine, has put out a fiction number for its October issue. The colored cover is entitled "The Freshman." It shows the freshman, with her bunch of flowers and dress suit case, on the way from her home to the university. Among the articles is one, "Ann Arbor Architecture," which scores with considerable force the style of private buildings which have been going up during the last few years.

The Michigan Daily News is the name of the successor to the University of Michigan Daily. It is a slight improvement over the old publication in that the front page is given over entirely to reading matter and cartoons. Some new blood has been injected into the editorial force and the result is noticeable. The additional reading matter and the additional crispness of the news matter is quite acceptable.

The S. C. A. Bulletin, the organ of the Students' Christian association, is confining its journalistic efforts to the doings of the Christian association. The Wrinkle, which is to be a student body what Puck and Judge are to the politicians, appears this week with a freshman number. Other special numbers will be published during the year. There is one new publication this fall. It is the Wolverine, a weekly with some pretensions to literary merit. The managing editor is Virgil V. McNitt, and its business manager Samuel A. McGonigal. It has a rather attractive appearance.

Basket Ball Games.
Not only will Michigan students be engaged in playing football this fall but they will also play basket ball, that is the women students will play basket ball in their gymnasium while their brother students are on the gridiron with the football. Plans have already been formulated among the girls for several class teams. A schedule will be arranged so that by a series of contests the champion team may be determined. Last year the honors went to the sophomores. The team will be brought together again this fall and challenges will be issued to the teams of the other classes. About 75 women are interested as players in these games.

R. H. E. GAME WARDEN'S REPORT.

Open Season for Shooting Quail and Other Birds Is from October 20 to November 30.

State Game Warden Morse states in his monthly report to the secretary of state that he has notified the sportsmen of the state that the open season for shooting quail, partridge, woodcock and spruce hen would remain the same as last year—from October 20 to November 30—under the ruling of the attorney general.

During the month of September 162 complaints were investigated, 52 arrests being made, which resulted in 33 convictions, no acquittals, two dismissals, and 17 cases are still pending. The total amount of fines and costs imposed was $427.48.

Four seizures were reported, two of them being of immature fish, which were awarded to charity; one animal illegally held and liberated, and one fawn taken and assigned to the state agricultural college.

GOOD EXAMPLE.

The Owosso Manufacturing Company Divides Some of Its Profits with Faithful Employees.

The Owosso Manufacturing company has divided $2,000 among the employees who have been with them two years or longer. Some received as high as $28. The plan will be conducted as long as the company continues to do a prosperous business. A. M. Bentley, president of the company, said he was not prompted by any philanthropic motive in making the distribution, but that the company had been doing good business the past year and felt that the employes' faithfulness should be substantially noticed.

Excites Curiosity.

A strange curiosity on exhibition in Hancock was puzzling the community. Two local fishermen while fishing in Portage lake hooked a pike weighing nearly three pounds. The fish was only landed in the boat after a hard struggle, and then clinging to it was discovered an object about a foot long. The thing resembled an eel in many respects, though when caught it apparently was sucking the life's blood of the fish, the spot where it was clinging being freed from scales. The freak will be sent to the museum at the University of Michigan.

Ticked Many Years.

C. E. DePuy, of Stockbridge, has a clock that has been in his mother's family for more than 112 years. The old timepiece thus dates back to the time of Washington's administration. It was made to order for a well-to-do family when the nation was in its infancy. The face of the clock is ornamented with designs and a picture of an old homestead adorns the top. There are two smaller dials within the larger one to mark the flight of time. It is run by heavy leaden weights.

Post Office Receipts.

The receipts from the 211 presidential post offices in Michigan for the year ended June 30 last aggregate $2,857,407, an increase of $207,622 over the previous year, the net revenue being $1,533,765, an increase of $67,363. The principal increase in gross revenue was as follows:

Detroit, $64,000; Grand Rapids, $14,000; Battle Creek, $10,000; Albion, $4,000; Harbor Beach, $3,500; Houghton, $3,000; Kalamazoo, $7,000; Lansing, $6,000; Port Huron, $3,000; the Saginaws, $8,000; St. Joseph, $5,000; and Sault Ste. Marie, $4,000. Marshall showed a loss of $14,000.

Annual Reunion.

The seventeenth annual reunion of the Forty-second Illinois infantry was held in Battle Creek, for the first time that the regiment ever met outside of Illinois. This was for the reason that three companies were recruited from Michigan—Battle Creek, Cassopolis and Dowagiac.

Will Be Prosecuted.

United States census officers complain that in some sections of Michigan registrars have been negligent in requiring undertakers to file certificates of death as required by law. The secretary of state says undertakers who violate the law will be prosecuted.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Will Be Tested.

Steps are being taken to test the constitutionality of the law passed by the last legislature, increasing the salaries of the members of the board of state auditors to $1,800 per year. Orders will be drawn on the state treasury for the payment of the salaries on the basis provided by the new law, and Auditor General Powers will decline to audit them. Mandamus proceedings will then be commenced in the supreme court against the auditor general and the court's decision will thus be obtained. The proceedings will be an amicable one and is in pursuance of an arrangement made by Gov. Bliss when he signed the bill.

Charged with Forgery.

Archibald W. Freeman, a well-known lumberman of Menominee, and formerly in the employ of Raber & Watson, railroad contractors, of Chicago, was arrested at the Briggs house in Chicago, charged with forgery and embezzlement while acting as district agent at the Raber & Watson cedar mills in Menominee. The amount involved is $20,000. He was given a preliminary hearing in Menominee, waived examination, and was bound over to the November term of the circuit court under $5,000 bonds.

Native of Michigan.

Robert L. Booth, cook of company C, Ninth United States infantry, whose company was nearly wiped out by Filipino insurgents on Samar island, is a native of Michigan. Whether he escaped the bolomen is not yet known. His mother, who lives near Bear Lake, has received no information from the war department as to his fate as yet, and she is nearly frantic with suspense. Young Booth was born at Manistee in 1873.

Large Sale.

The Calumet & Hecla Mining company recently made one of the largest sales of copper ever closed in the Lake Superior district. The exact price is not known, but it is understood to be close to 16½ cents a pound. As the sale will absorb the production of the mine until about December 1, or a quarter of the entire year's output, the value of the metal sold was nearly $3,300,000.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 81 observers in various portions of the state indicate that consumption, measles, pneumonia and scarlet fever increased and cholera infantum and neuralgia decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 172 places, measles at 13, typhoid fever at 125, whooping cough at 14, cerebrospinal meningitis at 2 and smallpox at 29 places.

Fire at Edmore.

Fire that started from a gasoline engine in Skarritt & Sack's meat market in Edmore destroyed it and adjoining buildings occupied by the post office, Edmore Journal, Cole's bicycle shop and also the town hall, before the flames were checked. Florence Groat, aged seven years, living over the meat market, perished in the fire.

To Be Sold.

On November 14 Land Commissioner Willey will offer for sale at public auction a large amount of reappraised agricultural college, primary school and swamp lands at his office in the capitol. The number of acres of land to be sold has not been determined.

Railroad Earnings.

Michigan railroad earnings for August were $3,972,578, a gain of $391,909 over the corresponding month last year. The total for the first eight months of this year was $27,219,418, a gain of $1,570,000 over the corresponding period of 1890.

Heavy Gale.

A heavy gale swept over Middleville and vicinity, in Barry county. Barns were unroofed and much other damage was done. Carriages on roads were overturned and their occupants spilled out. No one was seriously injured.

News Briefly Stated.

The post office at Quincy is now a domestic money order office. Lightning struck the M. E. church in Colon and did considerable damage. The state board of health has been informed of an outbreak of smallpox in Shiawassee county.

The meeting of the Upper Peninsula Educational association will be held at Hancock October 24-26.

Menominee's new federal building will be completed about the last of this month. Work was begun in October of last year.

The lighthouse at Coats Creek was burned. It is thought the oil must have overrun, become ignited and caused the damage.

Capt. James H. Rogers, superintendent of the life-saving service in the Tenth district, died at Detroit at the age of 60 years after a long illness.

Fred B. Lee, aged 60 years, a veteran of the civil war, publisher of the Monroe Monitor for many years, and for 12 years a member of the capitol police force, died in Lansing.

MISS ABBY ALDRICH.

Young John D. Rockefeller's Bride to Be Is Well Known in Educational Circles.

Miss Abby G. Aldrich's engagement to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is universally talked about, although Miss Aldrich has not a wide circle of acquaintances at the capital. Senator Aldrich has been in the upper house of congress for 20 years, but his family has resided in Washington less than six months during this entire period. Mrs. Aldrich and her daughters have attended several inauguration ceremonies, but they did not tarry after the festivities.

Miss Abby has the reputation of being bookish and of making a profound study of all the intricate questions connected with higher education. Several eminent educators of Washington assert that while Miss Aldrich's love affair with Mr. Rockefeller may date only from July of this year, her interest in his plans antedates this by several years. Some time ago there was a movement inaugurated to affiliate the Columbian university with that of Chicago.

Both institutions are under Baptist patronage, and some of the trustees believed that the connection would be mutually beneficial. Miss Abby Aldrich heard of this and visited Columbian during one of her brief visits to Washington. Her questions showed a deep knowledge of the problems at issue and convinced the authorities that she would be a strong champion of their cause. These same professors express the belief that young Mr. Rockefeller has shown the same wisdom in the selection of a wife as marked his business career. Miss Aldrich, they say, is not only entirely fitted to take her place with grace and dignity as the wife of one of the richest men in the world, but she is eminently capable of assisting the large philanthropic schemes in which the elder and the younger Rockefeller are engaged.

Miss Lucy and Miss Abby Aldrich, the only children of the Rhode Island statesman, will inherit large fortunes, but they are far from among the richest heiresses in the senatorial set. There are several charming young maidens whose papas can write checks in the millions fluttering around in the gay set at the capital. Senator

MISS ABBY G. ALDRICH. (Engaged to Be Married to John D. Rockefeller, Jr.)

Hanna's two daughters, Miss Mabel and Miss Ruth, will be well dowered, as will the three lovely daughters of his colleague, Senator Foraker. Senator McMillan, of Michigan, is accounted one of the solid men of the senate, and his daughter, Miss Elsie, is given all the prestige due a great heiress and belle in the highest official set.

Senator Stephen B. Elkins' friends are fond of saying that the gentleman does not know how many millions are to his credit, and that he adds a few more every year. He has a bright young daughter, Miss Katherine, who will be among the reigning belles two winters hence, if she repeats the social triumphs of her mother, who as Miss Hallie Davis, daughter of Senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, was the loveliest and most popular young woman in Washington society. Senator Wetmore, colleague of Senator Aldrich, is an immensely wealthy man, who has two daughters, both well known in the fashionable world of Washington, New York and Newport. Some colossal fortunes come into the senate with the next term of congress. Mr. Kearns, of Utah, is said to share honors with Senator Clark, of Montana, as the richest member of the august senatorial body. He has a young family, but they will not be social factors for some years to come. In the lower house Representative Newlands, of Nevada, is the most prominent man in the social world. He has been twice married and has three daughters in society. All are heiresses. —Washington Letter in Chicago Chronicle.

THE MYSTERY OF LOVE.

It Has Been Studied Without Avail by the Sages and Philosophers of All Ages.

If there is one question more than another to which it is difficult to get or give a satisfactory answer, it is surely this: "Why did you fall in love with your husband?" In nineteen cases out of twenty a woman would probably confess candidly that she did not know, or else she would declare conclusively that she did because she did, and that ought to end the matter.

In the rare cases where a lady confesses to declare her reason the answers are both interesting and instructive.

"Whatever made you marry the prisoner?" a London magistrate asked a woman whose face bore "striking" evidence of her husband's affliction. "Because he punched all the other fellows' heads," she answered, "and nobody else dare make love to me."

Another good lady confessed that she fell in love with her husband because he was the "only man who ever dared to snub her." While other men were stumbling over each other to pay her court and attention, he always treated her with absolute indifference and even rudeness.

The consequence was that she determined to bring him to her feet and his knees. She succeeded, but lost her heart in the attempt.

"I fell in love with my husband," one lady recently declared, "because he was the only man about whom no one was ever heard to say an unkind word. Even the women, although he paid them no especial attention, were agreed that he was 'a darling,' and, although he was plain, almost to ugliness, and old enough almost to be my father, I loved him and determined to marry him long before he had any such thought of me."

Not long ago a Yorkshire lady of wealth and beauty shocked her friends by marrying a poor cripple. It had come to her ears that he had long loved her in silence and had counted each day happy if he only caught a distant glimpse of her. She discovered that he was a devoted son and brother, and a man of unusual gifts and culture for his humble position; and, moved by one of those sudden, generous impulses to which some women are liable, she sought an interview with him, told him that she had learned his secret and offered her hand and fortune. This may appear a strange and improbable thing, but thousands know that it is literally true.

Another lady whose marriage resulted from a similar impulse gives this explanation of it: Among the friends of her family was an old bachelor with a reputation for crustiness, who had known her from a child and had often nursed her in early days. To her he had always been gentle and kind, and she had loved him "in a way" as long as she could remember.

One day she said: "Why have you never married, Mr. —?" "Marry, my dear! Why, no one would ever marry a grumpy old man like me." "Of course they would!" she answered, indignantly. "Why, I would marry you myself." "Thank you, my dear!" came the unexpected answer; "then we'll consider the matter settled."

In spite of her surprise and misgivings the girl loyally kept her promise; and she has never had reason to regret her "moment's indiscretion."

A lady friend of the writer married her husband for the very illogical reason that he was an avowed woman hater. He made no secret of his aversion to the fair sex, and declared it so constantly that, as she says, "I vowed I would convert him and make him change his mind, at least so far as one of my sex was concerned." He was not a difficult convert, for within 12 months he had forsworn his creed so far as to conduct one of the "hated sex" to the altar; and now he declares that he "loves them all." —London Tit-Bits.

Stocks with Jewels.

The pendant is one of the features of the new stock, though it is in no way connected with it. It consists of a handsome dangle or jewel which is fastened to a very slender chain in such a way that the pendant falls directly under the chin while the chain is invisible inside the waist.

THE CHELSEA HERALD

T. W. MINGAY, Editor and Proprietor.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

for $1.00 per year strictly in advance.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1901.

FRIENDS AND PATRONS OF THE CHELSEA HERALD WHO HAVE BUSINESS AT THE PROBATE OFFICE ARE REQUESTED TO HAVE JUDGE WATKINS SEND THEIR PROBATE AND OTHER LEGAL NOTICES FROM THAT OFFICE TO THE HERALD.

A lot of Boston sentimentalists, calling themselves the Social Alliance, have started a petition to Gov. Odell, of New York, to commute Czolgosz' sentence of death to imprisonment for life. All the fools are not dead yet.

The postal deficit this year will be $3,981,521, or $1,500,000 smaller than last year. The receipts increased $9,250,000. The total business was $803,355,577, an increase of $89,000,000. At this rate the postal department will soon become a money earner.

The total state tax to be levied in December is $3,835,844, the largest levy ever made in the history of the state. In 1891 the state levy was $1,443,849.61. The population of the state today is 2,420,982, ten years ago it was 2,093,889. In other words the state tax has increased nearly three times, while the population has increased but about one-sixth. The increase in taxes is not justified by the increase in population.

The free silver craze is surely over when the former Democratic state chairman, Fred A. Baker, comes out in an open letter to the 237,166 electors of Michigan who voted for Bryan, congratulating them that the increase of gold since 1896, and the rise in prices of commodities, have provided all that the silverites contended for and have rendered the immediate free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 unnecessary. Requiescat in pace.

Tot Causes Night Alarm.

"One night my brother's baby was taken with croup," writes Mrs. J. C. Snider, of Crittenden, Ky., "it seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor, so we gave it Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from croup and whooping cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Infallible for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Glazier & Stimson's.

Michigan's Potato Crop.

The potato yield in Michigan this year will be the biggest ever known says M. J. Konold, of St. Joseph, Mich., who last week returned from an extended trip through the Michigan potato raising districts and as a result of his observations states that beyond a reasonable doubt Michigan will harvest the largest crop of potatoes this year in the history of the potato industry of the state. He stated that the reports of drought were greatly exaggerated. He estimates the yield in Washtenaw county at 150,000 bushels and the total yield in the state at 24,000,000 bushels.

PUT TO NOVEL USE.

Storage Battery of an Electric Automobile Is Used to Light a Church.

We have heard of the application of an automobile storage battery to an X-ray apparatus where a physician was in a hurry to complete an X-ray examination; but recently a use of a novel and more general character was made with very satisfactory results, says the Scientific American.

In Stratford, Conn., there has lately been installed a system of electric lights in the Congregational church, current being supplied only at night from the neighboring city of Bridgeport. A certain gentleman resides in this town and operates an electric survey.

It happened that one Sunday morning was dark and cloudy, and as no current was furnished during daylight, there was no way to illuminate the dark interior portions of the church except by the use of a few oil lamps.

The owner and his family rode to church in the electric vehicle, then ran it under a window in the rear of the church, near where the switch-box is located, and, after throwing off the main supply switch, connected the feed wires to the storage battery in the carriage. As the several switches in the panel-box were turned on the church was well lighted up, and remained so through the service. At its conclusion the wires were disconnected and the family and minister taken home in the automobile.

Many in the congregation took it for granted that the lighting occurred from the regular source; and were much surprised upon learning of the method of supplying the electric current that was actually used.

Another practical use of storage batteries in boats has come to our notice. A gentleman in Connecticut has a small launch operated by a storage battery; this is charged in the daytime, and when not in use the boat is tied to the dock from which feed wires run (connected with the storage battery in the boat) to his house a short distance away. In the evening he thus uses the battery in the boat to light the house, and finds it a very satisfactory arrangement.

CASHING A CHECK.

Difficulties Experienced in a Strange City by a Well-Known New York Newspaper Man.

The difficulties of cashing a check in a strange city were experienced the other night in Boston by a well-known New York newspaper man, who conducts one of the chief departments of one of the principal metropolitan journals, relates the New York Times. It happens that he has no friends in the Hub; that is, no acquaintances. In his search for some one to cash his check—and it was all he had except a few cents—he found several people who, when he told them who he was confessed to be daily readers of his writings, but either they were temporarily impecunious or doubtful that he was the man he pretended to be.

He had been on a vacation in a rural district, where the natives made no hesitation of giving him greenbacks for the newspaper checks, but when he struck the city he found things entirely different. The hotel clerk remembered him as a guest of June, and recognized the indorsement of the check and the signature on the register as the same; but he said that that would not serve as identification. No newspaper man knew him except by reputation, and, after plodding from one office to another, he was obliged to ask his office to telegraph on a description of his personal appearance. Then, and not until then, did he succeed in getting ahead of the incredulity of the hotel clerk and secure money enough to settle his bill and buy his ticket back to New York.

INCREASING CHURCH FUNDS.

Queer Method Suggested by an English Parson for Replenishing His Treasury.

Clergymen in charge of small and poor congregations frequently find themselves hampered by want of funds with which to carry on their work, but it is doubtful if even a frontier missionary, who is generally acknowledged to be the most hampered of American ministers, would adopt the method for increasing his resources which an English parson is reported to have pursued. This clergyman is in charge of a church at Millwall and is quoted as offering to give

KEEP BATS IN THE HOUSE.

People Who Think They Destroy Mosquitoes and All Other Insects in the Air.

"Down in the Neck," said an old resident of Long lane, according to the Philadelphia Record, "the people have no terror of bats, not even the women folk. In fact, bats are encouraged just as soon as the mosquitoes make their appearance in the early summer.

"Now, there's Mrs. Young, who lives in the lane. She says she is really fond of bats. She had two sheltered behind picture frames in her parlor all last winter. When

HON. GEORGE R. PECK.

Statesmen and publicists who have heard George R. Peck speak in public pronounce him the foremost orator of our day and generation. Mr. Peck, who now is general counsel of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, with headquarters at Chicago, began his legal career in Independence, Kan., in 1872. Two years later President Grant appointed him United States attorney for the district of Kansas. He was reappointed by President Hayes, but resigned in 1879. He then became connected with the Santa Fe railroad as general solicitor, and in the fall of 1885 accepted the Chicago appointment.

any West end church a thorough spring cleaning, the payment to go to his own church funds. In his letter announcing his offer the clergyman says, according to a paragraph in a Scottish journal: "With the practical experience I have acquired I can now beeswax and polish a floor, or varnish floors with anybody, and my wife is at painting and decorating."

The wives of some American clergymen, particularly in frontier stations, could do tell tales of hardship and trial, but it is safe to assume that no matter how low the church treasury might be they would hardly be expected to aid in its replenishing by hiring out to do church cleaning, even if spring came and she heard them rustle, she moved the frames and let them out of the window at night, and recently they came back with a family of three young ones. In one night they cleaned out all the mosquitoes from the second story, and the next night she shut the second story windows and opened those on the top floor. The bats came in and devoured all the mosquitoes there.

"Old Neckers never drive a bat out of the house, for, contrary to popular belief, the creatures are quite harmless and keep the air clear of all insects. They are not covered with vermin, as some people think, but, on the contrary, have a fur as soft as

APACHE INDIAN PLAYING HIS FIDDLE.

The Apache Indians have a fiddle that, in a way, is a highly-developed instrument. It consists of a short cylinder, made of soft wood, hollowed out and painted. The string, of horsehair, is nearly as long as the entire body, and at one end, some times at both ends, winds around the turning peg. Under it there is a slit through the body which acts as a sound hole. The bow is strung with horsehair. The music produced on this instrument is not as sweet as it might be, yet Indians proficient in the musical art manage to extract many sweet and melancholy tunes from its simple strings.

it were simply "painting and decorating," and not the regular scrub work.

A Prince's Preference.
The many anecdotes told of Prince Edward of York all point to his unusually keen powers of observation and his intense wish to appear grown up and to do as older people do. A short time ago, when asked what he would like to do to celebrate his birthday, the reply came without a moment's hesitation: "Go for a drive in an omnibus with all the other people."

Why Some Plans Miscarry.
Lots of plans of ours would succeed if it were not for the "other fellow."—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

sealskin, with a clean skin underneath. I'd rather have bats in my house any time than mosquitoes."

Rural Night Telegrams in England.
The British post office is about to try the experiment of giving the rural districts the benefit of a night service of telegrams, says a London correspondent. At present all rural districts are shut off from telegraphic communication with the outside world from eight p. m. till eight a. m. next morning. The experiment, however, is to be tried in villages where the parish council asks for it and are willing to pay a guarantee fee against loss, and is to be weighted with the charge of a late fee for delivery on each message.

MURDER BY WHOLESALE.

Woman in Dayton, O., Under Arrest Charged with Poisoning Fourteen Persons.

Dayton, O., Oct. 8.—Mrs. J. A. Witwer, a widow residing in this city, has been arrested by the police at the instigation of the coroner and is held a prisoner at central station, pending an investigation into very serious charges. Mrs. Witwer, the police say, is suspected of 14 murders, the list including four husbands, five children, one sister and four members of different families in which she was employed as housekeeper. The last supposed victim was her sister, Mrs. Anna Pugh, who died a week ago under mysterious circumstances. An autopsy performed at the request of Mrs. Witwer's mother, who came here from Detroit, is said to have disclosed the presence of arsenic and copperas in the stomach. Following closely upon the death of her first husband, Fred Schweger, came, according to police department data, the death of two children. The second husband died suddenly several years after the wedding and the children of this marriage died in rapid succession. Her last husband, J. A. Witwer, died last April. In each instance death was somewhat sudden and all were strangely alike.

The prisoner is 47 years of age and formerly lived in Middletown, this state. She has two sons in the Philippines and a sister, it is stated, in a New York asylum. No conceivable motive for the suspected crimes has been disclosed. Drugs which were found in the house occupied by Mrs. Witwer are in the possession of the police and will be examined.

The third husband of Mrs. Witwer was William Stowe, who died at Middletown under symptoms, it is stated, of arsenic poisoning. Mr. Stowe's death at that time created a sensation and was the subject of an investigation by the coroner. It was shortly after Mr. Stowe's death that Mrs. Witwer came to Dayton. She shortly afterward assumed the duties of housekeeper for Charles K. Keller, a widower. Keller died suddenly and the information since gained by the coroner concerning Keller's death is that his ailment was similar to that of a person affected by poison. She next acted as housekeeper for John A. Wenz, an East End druggist. Wenz died in September, one year ago. The doctors attributed his death to blood poisoning, but now tell the coroner that they were dissatisfied with their diagnosis at the time. Two months before Mr. Wenz' death his four-year-old son died suddenly. Mrs. Stowe next resided with a Mr. and Mrs. Gabler, on Best street, Riverdale. These two persons died suddenly and the coroner now says that their sickness was of the nature of arsenical poisoning.

ILLINOIS DAY AT FAIR.

Governor and Other State Officials Accompanied by Militia Carry Out Programme.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 8.—After three postponements Illinois day at the Pan-American exposition was finally celebrated Monday. The day opened clear and cool and the travel in the direction of the exposition during the morning indicated a large attendance. At ten o'clock in the morning Gov. Richard Yates, accompanied by his staff, was escorted by the First regiment, Illinois national guard, under command of Col. John B. Sanborn, from the Niagara hotel to the Lincoln Parkway entrance to the exposition, where the members of the Chicago city council joined them and proceeded to the Temple of Music, where the exercises of the day were held. The temple was crowded when Senator James W. Templeton, president of the Illinois state commission, called the assemblage to order.

After music by the First regiment band, Bishop Samuel Fallows, of Chicago, offered prayer. The remainder of the programme consisted of an address of welcome by John G. Milburn, president of the Exposition company, and response by Gov. Richard Yates, of Illinois, and addresses by United States Senator William E. Mason, Lieut. Col. Frank O. Lowden, of the First regiment, and Hon. Edwin A. Munger, of Chicago.

A dispatch from Simla says the ameer was taken seriously ill September 28. Habib Oullah Khan October 3 asked the darbar that public prayers be offered for the ameer. In the morning of October 3 Habib Oullah Khan announced that his father had expired at three o'clock that morning. Nothing is known of the state of affairs at Cabul.

LAST GREAT BATTLE.

Sheridan's Ride from Winchester, Twenty Miles Away.

It Marked the End of the Confederacy—Interesting Comments by Leaders on Both Sides of the Conflict.

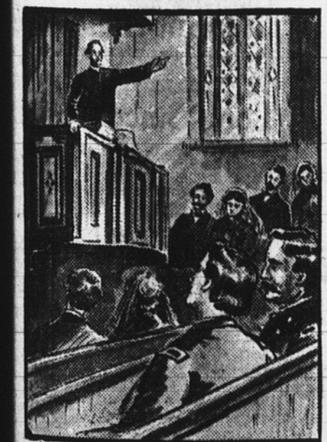

[Special Washington Letter.]

WHEN the distinguished soldier-statesman and orator first announced his lecture, Gen. Dan Macaulay, of the treasury department, said: "So Gen. Gordon is going to lecture on 'The Last Days of the Confederacy,' is he? Well, I must surely attend. It would never do for me to miss it. I heard the first part of that lecture on the morning of October 19, 1864; and it was exceedingly interesting and eloquent, although a little loud at times, and also very harrowing. "I was commanding a brigade in the Nineteenth army corps that morning, when there was a sound of rattling musketry away off on the left which surprised me very much, because I knew, or thought I did, that the confederates had been so badly defeated at Winchester that they would never dare attack us. Soon, however, there was a booming of cannon also that sounded like business and battle. I had a dandy on my staff—Lieut. Rundlette—who was always the best-dressed officer in our brigade. No matter where we marched, nor how long, Lieut. Rundlette was always free from dust, because he carried a wisp broom with him and used it. He was brave enough, but always scrupulously neat in appearance.

"Well, I sent Rundlette off in hot haste to find out what all the firing meant. He soon came back excitedly telling me that the confederates were attacking in force. I mounted, had the long roll sounded, and said: 'Go back, lieutenant, form a line of stragglers, make them stand their ground, and do not report to me until that has been thoroughly done.' Inside of 15 minutes I was shot into the midst of the biggest pension roll on earth and awakened to find myself cared for by relatives and friends in home, sweet home at Indianapolis. That was the first part of this lecture, and I must surely go and hear the conclusion of it.

"Seven years later, while I was holding court as mayor of Indianapolis, proceedings were interrupted by the appearance of a handsome young man, slight of figure, faultlessly attired, who came up to the bar, saluted in true military style, and said: 'Gen. Macaulay, I have come to report that there is nothing over there on the left but Gordon's whole division, fighting like devils.'

"Court is adjourned," said I, immediately. It was Lieut. Rundlette, whom I had not seen since that morning of October 19, 1864. Court remained adjourned for three whole days while Indianapolis was painted redder than it had ever been painted. The little cuss had been shot in seven places, left for dead, but finally was picked up and nursed back into life and health. He told me all about it during our three days' reunion. Oh, yes, Gordon lectured well that morning, and he had a lively audience, too. Of course I shall go to hear the conclusion of that lecture and shall try to see Gordon himself and tell him how well his lecture was received by us on that autumn morning so many years ago.

The recurrence of the anniversary of that battle which was made memorable by the gallant soldier and brilliant poet, because of the ride "from Winchester, 20 miles away," caused Capt. Patrick O'Farrell, of this city, to say: "I remember a good many things about that battle. I remember that Grant was commander in chief of all our armies, but he was not present in that battle. He claimed no credit for the great victory, but gave all praise to Sheridan.

"I remember how our army was scattered and almost shattered before ordinary breakfast time. It was a wonderful surprise for us, and would have been the end of that army, for the time being, but for the work of our signal corps. Sheridan was full of confidence. He had gone to Washington, supposing that his work had been practically completed by the victory at Winchester and Fisher's Hill, in September. But our signal corps men, on October 17, had taken from the confederate signal lights the message to Early: 'Remain where you are until I arrive, and we will crush Sheridan.' This was signed Longstreet. The fact was telegraphed to Sheridan at Washington. The great cavalry corps was on its way to Petersburg, but Sheridan ordered it back, and hastened himself to join his army. He arrived just in the nick of time. If Sheridan had not been there disaster would have been complete."

In a book, published soon after the conclusion of the civil war, Whitelaw Reid wrote: "At a glance Sheridan comprehended the disastrous situation and proceeded to organize victory from chaotic panic. The battle has been fitly likened to Marengo. The French had been driven back at sunrise. So had the federals. Napoleon arrived upon the field at noon. So did Sheridan. At three o'clock the French army moved forward. At four o'clock the union army commenced its advance. Marengo was saved by the arrival of Dessaix's corps of veterans. Cedar Creek was saved by the arrival of a general."

Several years ago the writer visited Maj. Beverly Randolph, at Millwood, Va., who had been chief of ordnance to Jubal Early. Together we went over the historic field, and the gallant confederate explained many features of the battle. The narrator who had handled many official documents in the war department, and who was familiar with the movements of all union troops, remarked: "If it hadn't been for the Sixth corps, major, you would have swept this field and destroyed Sheridan's army before he arrived."

"You are mistaken," was the surprising reply. "It was the Nineteenth corps that whooped us. Of course the Sixth corps did lots of good fighting, but it was your Nineteenth corps that did the business."

This produced a brief argument, the narrator asserting that the Nineteenth corps had run away from the field early in the morning, the Eighth corps was driven back soon afterwards, and the Sixth corps formed an unyielding line along the turnpike, and thus gave Sheridan a nucleus for his subsequent formations. The major ended the matter by saying positively, with his Virginia accent: "I tell you I was there, and I know it was the Nineteenth corps that licked us. We surprised the union left, and there was the Nineteenth corps which ran away. If they had stood firm, we could have swung onto the others all right. But the Nineteenth corps guarded all of the Yankee commissary stores. When all of those stores fell into our hands our soldiers went pillaging, and we couldn't stop them. They were hungry and thirsty. They ate up everything they could grab, and thousands of them buried their noses in the whisky barrels so that by noon they were stupid with their bellies full of food and drink. They thought the whole union army had run away, and they were just having a hell of a time. The officers could do nothing with them. Besides, hundreds of our officers got full, too. I don't want to say anything to detract from Sheridan's work, for it was the work of a good soldier and a great general anyway. But the army he whooped that afternoon was an army of drunken men. It was the flight of the Nineteenth corps that knocked us out."

That version of the story had never been heard by the writer, and it is probably the true story. Maj. Randolph was graduated from the naval academy, but went with his state into the confederacy. There being no navy, he entered the army and rendered service of value to his cause on many fields. At that time he told a story about Gen. Early, which was interesting, and also true. After the disastrous battle at Winchester, Gen. Early had moved back to Staunton where he attended church one Sunday evening. Maj. Randolph sat beside him. Although Early often attended the church he was an irreverent man. The preacher delivered a sermon on the resurrection, in the course of which he told the hearers that all of their friends lying in the churchyard would arise. Early turned to Randolph and whispered: "I wish they'd rise now. I'd conscript every mother's son of them, for I need men."

SMITH D. FRY.

LAND SEEKERS, HELLO!

Here is a Splendid Chance in the "Cloverland" of Wisconsin.

You want land. You realize that land is getting higher-priced and in greater demand every year. If you get a farm now and hold it 10 or 20 years—even if you should not make any money by farming—the farm will make you rich. A farm tributary to the cities of Minneapolis or St. Paul in northern Wisconsin, will increase in value faster than land in the prairie states because of its nearness to market and because of its greater productiveness.

It is hard for people who have never seen that section to appreciate its wonderful growth of blue grass and clover. Where else in America will you find grass, clover and alfalfa spring up spontaneously and cover a patch or a field as you will among the hard wood lands of northern Wisconsin? The waters of this section, the soil, the climate and all the natural elements tend to make it an ideal dairy country, and the markets near insure a good price for products all the year. Our readers will do well to write to D. W. Casseday, land agent of the "Soo" Line, Minneapolis, and ask him to send them printed matter describing that great section for the landseeker.

STILL TALKING ABOUT IT.

Bryant, Mo., Oct. 7th.—The case of Mrs. M. A. Goss, continues to be the chief topic of conversation in this neighborhood. Mrs. Goss was a cripple for a long time with Sciatica, she was so bad she couldn't turn over in bed, and for four months she lay on one side.

She had tried every thing without getting any relief, till at last she heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills. She is strong and well to-day, and has not a single ache or pain.

Mrs. Goss says: "I don't know if Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure anything else or not, but I do know they will cure Sciatica for they cured me, and there couldn't be a worse case than mine."

The Best Business College.

In selecting a business training school the best is not only the cheapest, but it is the only one to be considered. Business colleges are a feature of modern life, as business is now a science which is studied as it never was before. The best business college in America, in every point of age, efficiency, enterprise and proved results, is the Detroit Business University, Detroit, Mich. It points to fifty years of success, and has educated more students and found more positions for them than all other business colleges in Michigan combined. This is pre-eminently the college which fully meets the requirements of our ambitious young people, and it invites the strictest investigation of its claims.
All interested should write for its illustrated catalogue, mailed free.

SINFUL HABITS IN YOUTH
MAKE NERVOUS, WEAK, DISEASED MEN.
THE RESULT of ignorance and folly in youth, overexertion of mind and body and future happiness of thousands of promising young men. Some fade and wither at an early age, at the blossom of manhood, while others are forced to drag out weary, fruitless and melancholy existences. Others reach middle age but find no solace or comfort there. Their victims are found in all stations of life—the farm, the office, the workshop, the equip, the trades and the professions. Nervous Debility and "I am 33 years of age and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's Disease. Married life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I found treatment from Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act skilful and responsible financially, so why patronize Quacks and Fakirs when you can be cured by reliable doctors."—W. A. Belton.
