ELECTRIC CARS ARE RUNNING.

The D. Y. A. A. & J. Railway Now Makes Regular Runs to Chelsea.

Shortly before 4 o'clock Monday afternoon the first car moved by electric power to arrive in Chelsea made its appearance on the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor and Jackson Railway Co.'s tracks, and was greeted with much pleasure by our citizens who have almost grown tired of the oft-repeated assertion that the electric cars would be here on both roads at such and such a time.

The car which had been drawn down to the Ann Arbor railroad track on West Huron street, Ann Arbor, before noon on Monday, was very quickly hauled to the west side of the track after dinner, and a start was effected at about 2 o'clock standard time. There were 17 people on the car, which was one of the small cars of the Detroit city railway. The party was chaperoned by Supt. Merrill, and was composed of Attorneys Thomas D. Kearney, Martin J. Cavanaugh, W. W. Wedemeyer, Ald. Arthur Brown, Prosecuting Attorney John Duffy, William McIntyre of the board of public works, Cashier C. E. Hiscok, Dr. A. K. Hale, Geo. Goodrich, Sheriff Gillen, the Washtenaw Times representative, and the electrician of the road. The Washtenaw Times gives the following pleasing account of the trip:

"The run to Chelsea was made in a little over an hour, the only stop being on Jackson avenue, where it took a few minutes to clear the track of clay which had accumulated on the rails. It was an ideal Indian summer day, and the scenery, consisting of beautiful farms with the brightly colored foliage of the woods, made a background that had to be seen to be fully appreciated. The farm houses are so close to each other that it seemed almost as if the car was running through the outskirts of a big city. Everywhere the people at the houses and in the fields waved a welcome to the electric car. Too much cannot be said of the excellence of the roadbed. It was as smooth and the car rolled along as steadily as on one of the best ballasted steam roads. With much interest the various well known homesteads were pointed out.

"When the car reached Chelsea the whole party walked down town and spent a pleasant half hour renewing acquaintances. The Chelsea citizens did not hesitate in expressing their pleasure at seeing the Ann Arbor party.

"It was 4:36 standard time when the car started on its return, the trip being made in one hour. Many expressions of praise were heard on the smooth roadbed. Supt. Merrill, when inviting the party, stated it was an experiment. He felt greatly gratified at the result. A little instrument was in the car which registered the amount of power as the car passed along. There were 575 volts when the car started in Ann Arbor, and it was still strong in Chelsea. This is an evidence of the great care exercised in making connections; there being little if any leakage. The cars ran every two hours during Tuesday and yesterday. Today a regular schedule was put in force. The fare is 25 cents each way. For the present mileage books will not be accepted.

The people of Chelsea are congratulating themselves that the cars are running.

Chelsea Ministers' Club.

The pastors of the Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Lutheran churches met at the Baptist parsonage Monday afternoon and organized the Chelsea Ministers' Club for the coming year, with meetings to be held every week. The members of the club are Revs. F. A. Stiles, E. E. Caster, A. Schoen, Thomas Holmes, D. D., R. W. Northrop and C. S. Jones. The officers of the club are Rev. Thomas Holmes president, and F. A. Stiles secretary.

Dr. Holmes read a very fine paper on "Ethical Love," which was fully discussed. The subject of discussion for next week's meeting is "The Bible and Higher Criticism," based on Prof. King's "Reconstruction of Theology."

The club will review or take up for study each week some current theological work, after which a social hour will follow, thus combining profit and pleasure.

What's Your Face Worth?

Sometimes a fortune, but never, if you have a shallow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin—all signs of liver trouble. But Dr. King's New Life Pills give clear skin, rosy cheeks, rich complexion. Only 25 cents at Glazier & Stinson's drug store.

25 YEARS MARRIED.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Parker Were Greeted by Many Relatives Last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Parker were the victims of quite a surprise party last Friday, when they were forcibly reminded by the appearance of 25 of their relatives and friends from Mason, Stockbridge and Chelsea at their residence on Jefferson street, that it was their 25th wedding anniversary. The good folks came loaded with everything necessary for a sumptuous dinner, to which they all sat down at 1 o'clock.

After dinner was over Mrs. L. V. Ives, of Mason, read a congratulatory poem which had been prepared for the occasion, after which Col. L. H. Ives, of Mason, arose and delivered a pleasing address and presented to the quarter century bride and groom a handsome silver tea set and a silver cake fork on behalf of those present. Both Mr. and Mrs. Parker responded to the kindly words, although completely taken by surprise. After enjoying a season of social conversation the guests dispersed for their several homes.

It is somewhat striking that Mr. and Mrs. Parker were married in a house on the street where their home is located. Mrs. Parker's father, S. G. Ives, at the time of their wedding lived in the house now occupied by Orin C. Barkhart.

A Hallowe'en Magazine.

Superstition Trail, a powerful tale of the west, by Owen Wister, and illustrated by Remington, is the opening story in the Hallowe'en number (Oct. 26) of the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia. Other attractive features are a new episode in the Love Affairs of Patricia and a striking poem by Holman F. Day. Mr. Day's ballad, The Night of the White Review, tells a weird tale current among Gloucester fishermen. It has all the swing and movement of Mr. Kipling's Dipsy Chanteys, and a strength and originality all its own.

STARTLING FACTS ABOUT SUGAR.

As a good deal has recently appeared in print regarding the consumption of sugar, and as the importance of this article as a food, in which every individual is concerned, is apparently not sufficiently understood, the following facts and figures furnished to us by the well-known sugar statisticians, Messrs. Willett and Gray (91 Wall street, New York), who are the publishers of the weekly Statistical Sugar Trade Journal, must necessarily be of great interest to all our readers:

MISS LAURA HOWARD,

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can thank you for perfect health to-day. Life looked so dark to me a year or two ago. I had constant pains, my limbs swelled, I had dizzy spells, and never knew one day how I would feel the next. I was nervous and had no appetite, neither could I sleep soundly nights. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, used in conjunction with your Sanative Wash, did more for me than all the medicines and the skill of the doctors. For eight months I have enjoyed perfect health. I verily believe that most of the doctors are guessing and experimenting when they try to cure a woman with an assortment of complications, such as mine; but you do not guess. The Men and Events That Supply New York Gossip

Lillian Russell and Chauncey M. Depew are the two people in New York most often referred to as examples of marvelous physical preservation.

Depew is Young at 67 Years.

This is hardly fair to Miss Russell, who is but 42 or 43 years old at most. She is generally thought to be older in spite of her youthful beauty, because she has been prominent upon the stage for 24 years.

Depew is another matter; being a man and in the biography books he cannot deny that he is 67, even now that he is engaged to be married. His first wife was a Hegeman, a member of a good old New York family. Their son, "Buster" Depew, is a young lawyer of promise and an orator of ability. The Depew home in New York is a narrow, deep house on one of the side streets.

Miss Palmer I have never seen; the newspapers have told all about her that is known in this country. She is nearly 40. She will have a handsome husband. Depew is about five feet 11 in height and as straight as an arrow. You would never think that he had spent his life behind a desk. His hair is white, of course, and those famous side whiskers by which he is known wherever he goes; but his skin is fair and unwrinkled as a child's, his digestion perfect, his spirits high.

He has always taken excellent care of himself. He is much in demand as a public speaker at dinners, but he never eats the rich food provided at them. Invariably before going to an occasion of this sort he eats at home a plain dinner at his usual hour. He goes asleep as soon as his head hits the pillow at night.

Depew as a Speaker.

Depew always takes pains, and he has the best of help. For years his secretary, Duval, has been almost as famous as himself; never a man knows how more deftly to turn away the man who has no business and admit the man who has.

Depew comes rapidly to decisions. I have seen him settle a question of railroad policy with a few brusque words and then spend 15 minutes helping a stupid or green reporter get an account of some matter straightened out. Depew is never misquoted.

Perhaps no one is quite happy. Depew comes as near to it as most men, but he has his grievance. It is the very thing that has endeared him to the people—his sunny temper. He thinks that if he had early schooled himself to sobriety of face, and had repressed his natural tendency to make a joke now and then, he might have been more successful in public life—though for a man to ask more than to be a senator from New York would be rather unreasonable. Yet he has dreamed like so many men of the presidency. He is now too old to hope for that honor—indeed, his railroad connections would have made him in any case an inexpedient candidate, though he has high scholarship, eloquence, a clear understanding of public questions and the genuine liking of all kinds of men.

Queer Political Doings.

I doubt if there's any place in the country where a campaign is quite as much fun as in New York.

A Campaign Midnight Visit.

Imagine yourself quietly sleeping in a ten-cent room at a Bowery hotel. The door is suddenly thrown open and you are confronted by an election agent and two brawny policemen. They proceed to ask all sorts of questions which, if you have been prepared for the visit, you answer with composure. The agent notes your replies and sets down opposite your name a brief and unflattering description of your appearance.

ance. Then the men leave the room and you resume your slumbers. A common experience; so common that 11,000 Bowery lodgers have this year submitted to it. When they come to vote, their names will be compared, the same questions will be asked; and if a red-haired man with no front teeth tries to vote on the name of a man down on the inspector's list as having brown curls and a sunny smile there will be a fight. In fact there will be a fight anyway.

This is the new plan of seeing that all who vote on election day are actual residents of their district? It means that the man who would colonize voters for the coming election must support them for a full month beforehand. Even at this enormous expense thousands of men have been quartered along the Bowery. Tim Sullivan, the uncrowned king of the East side, is the active agent of this work. As general commandant of the host he sent out these orders: "Answer all the questions they ask. But if any fresh guy tries to take a flashlight photograph of you, smash the camera." No photographs were taken.

Crocker has displayed the shrewdness that seldom fails him when he is in a tight place. Instead of naming for mayor one of the spotted persons concerned with the present administration, he chose a Brooklyn lawyer of fine reputation, who has been for years prominent in opposing the political machine. So you may look to see a real fight, not a walk-over. And a real fight in New York is picturesque. A presidential election doesn't interest the boys half so much. Here the loaves and fishes are involved. The "ins" can draw a campaign fund of two or three millions, by assessing officeholders. The gamblers' combination, which charges half the gross receipts for letting a gambling house do "business," can pour in half a million more if it looks like a good speculation. On the other side nearly as much money will be put up by private subscription, and there is the finished leadership of Seth Low, who seldom makes either a warm friend or a serious mistake, who is always cool and deliberate, the personification of good sense and good judgment.

The Leadership of Low.

Low is the son of A. A. Low. Old New Yorkers remember him, a kindly little gray man, the last of the merchant princes of the Orient.

Fifty years ago tea came from China around the Horn in ships which raced for 150 days to bring the first of the new crop and the latest trade news to the waiting merchant. Low owned as fast ships and as many of them as any other man.

Then came the building of the Pacific railroad and the laying of the Atlantic cables. You could quote tea prices from China in two hours and bring a cargo over by way of San Francisco in a month. Yet for years Low kept on with his old clipper ships, persevering mainly as a matter of sentiment when the profit had disappeared. As a matter of sentiment, and to his honor, the little old office where he used to do his great business is preserved just as it was; the old janitor flicks the dust from the desks, the ledgers are neatly piled away, but no customer walks across the doorsill.

The sons tried to do a little in tea after the father died. On the old lines it was impossible. The days of sailing ships rounding the Horn had passed. They closed the shop and kept the key. William G. Low and A. A. Low, Jr., went into real estate and built some big office buildings. Seth Low became president of Columbia college and gave $1,000,000 of his inheritance to build the stately library which is its principal adornment.

Low first came into public view as president of the Young Republican club of Brooklyn. I was a reporter at the meeting at which it organized. Before the end of the campaign it had 4,000 members. Later Low left the republicans to become an independent. Now the organization is backing him, along with nine independent party organizations.

At the same time and within a stone's throw of the same place Edward M. Shepard was winning fame as an independent democratic leader. Now dependent he has been ever since. Now he, too, has a "regular" nomination. Two famous mugwumps are thus battling for the mayoralty, each with the backing of a party boss and as many independents as he can catch. The city spends $100,000,000 each year. You may imagine that the result interests people.

J. J. Hill and the Erie.

They say that J. J. Hill is to take charge of the Erie railroad. It would be a queer change for that mismanaged property.

How Gould Beat Vanderbilt.

Fisk and Gould built the Erie. Fisk was a gay fellow. He was killed because some one saw his rubber overshoes on a doormat where the some one thought his own overshoes should be. Gould was a man of the strictest propriety in family life and a churchgoer—which did not prevent him from driving a sharp bargain or wrecking a railroad when he wanted to make a profit by doing so.

The stock has never paid a dividend. It has a nominal value because it is just good enough to gamble with. And then something may happen. It will happen if Hill takes hold. He is a famous economist—not perhaps so flashy as Fisk or so diabolically ingenious as Gould but a thorough railroad man.

Once Vanderbilt, the old commodore, of course, tried to corner Erie stock. Gould met the attempt by the device of issuing more stock. "So long as this printing press don't break down we can accommodate the commodore," he said. Vanderbilt was obliged to give up, beaten for once.

But there has been a terrible reckoning. Erie's liabilities, which ought to represent the cost of the road, are six times as much per mile as those of Jim Hill's Great Northern. Yet the Great Northern has a better roadway and far better terminals. The wrecking of Erie a generation ago by a rake and a pious churchgoer has been a blight upon all that region through which it runs. OWEN LANGDON.

FRENCH IDEAS OF NEW YORK.

According to Them Steam Is Discarded and Electricity Considered Out of Date.

Le Matin, a Paris paper of considerable circulation, recently printed an article on New York city and the wonderful things to be seen there. Some of the statements are a trifle tall, as will be seen from the following extracts:

"The Americans are decidedly insatiable. While we are still using steam engines for our railways they have long ago tasted of the benefits of electrical traction, and now they are commencing to abandon electricity for compressed air."

"The New York line of Manhattan uses now, to the exclusion of all other modes, compressed air engines, and it appears that the results are so marvelous that the transatlantic papers proclaim steam as a thing of the past and electricity old-fashioned."

"The air is compressed in what the American calls a 'power station,' something like a gas factory. It is compressed until it attains an expansive power of 1,500 to 2,000 kilos per square centimeter that it occupies. It is then transferred on board the locomotive, where it is stored in a large steel tank, which replaces the boiler. There it is furthermore compressed by the use of reduction valves, and, reaching a certain pressure, it gets heated. It is then ready for use."

"In brief, to listen to the Americans, it is the locomotive long dreamed of."

Outgeneraled.

Kind old Gentleman (to little boy with battered face and torn clothes)—I'm sorry to see you in such a state, my boy; but hasn't your father ever given you advice about fighting? Little Johnnie Fiskwit—You bet he did! But de feller I fit wit' had better advice!—Puck.

In His Pockets.

Mrs. Hardrun—Do you have to ask your husband for money? Mrs. Sly—No, indeed! Mrs. Hardrun—How generous of him! Mrs. Sly—Yes; it is awfully good of him not to sleep in his trousers.—Ohio State Journal.

His Face.

The Visitor—You seem to be much interested in me, my little girl. What is it? The Little Girl—I don't see how your face can be so smooth and clear. Papa says you have traveled all over the country on it.—Boston Transcript.

Mutual Pleasure.

"How pretty and clever you are, mamma!" exclaimed little Edith. "Do you really think so, dear?" rejoined her mother. "Of course I do," replied Edith; "and I'm awfully glad you married into our family."—Detroit Free Press.

This Is to Be a Season of Furs

They Will Be Unusually Popular with All Classes This Winter.

AUTUMN'S first chilly breezes remind us of the winter's furs, or at least of the need of them. But the merchants of New York do not wait until a garment is actually needed before displaying it. The thought of them is sufficient excuse for their display, and as a result the stores are rapidly filling with the new winter models in jackets, coats, collars and in fact every form of fur garment that wealthy femininity may call for.

The coming season may be called a season of furs. The really wealthy woman will not wear more furs than she has usually worn—that would be impossible if she is to remain in style, which of course she will, but there will be more women wearing furs than have previously worn them. Women of the great middle class; women whose husbands are but salaried employees of the fashionable millionaires, will this year indulge in fur garments. The reason assigned for this is the present reign of prosperity. The middle classes are better prepared for the purchase of life's luxuries this year than they have been for a number of years, and they are spending their money.

For this reason we find an unusually large display of the comparatively cheaper grades in furs, such as black marten, fox and astrakhan, and the demand is, of course, for the smaller garments, such as jackets, collars and mufflers.

But this demand for furs on the part of the middle classes has but increased the demand for the better qualities on the part of the wealthy women of fashion. With the employee's wife and daughters wearing marten, fox, astrakhan or beaver the employer's wife and daughters must have an absolutely new supply of seal, sable, Persian lamb, otter, or other of the many expensive varieties. So it is that the trend of the times is for furs, and the merchants, not only in New York, but, judging from the heavy business done by the wholesale houses during the summer and fall, in the smaller cities and towns throughout the country as well.

To assist in creating a demand for new furs on the part of the rich the merchants have not overlooked the important detail of a change in styles. The new models show, among other things, a decided change in sleeves, and the change is an enlargement rather than a decrease. This makes it practically impossible to work over the old garments and makes the purchase of new ones almost necessary. That the demand take the place of the increase in wages.

But to return to the change in styles again. The fur coat collar demanded by fashion is of the high Medici order, though it is not always seen, some of them having instead a deep sailor collar, which is much more becoming to some people. The collars are decorated with a lining of panne velvet or covered with a lace applique.

Velvets will replace furs to some extent, just as they did last winter. Velvet coats promise to have a certain amount of popularity with both the very wealthy and those not so fortunate in their supply of wealth. The wealthy woman who chooses velvet in place of furs does so from a matter of choice, of course, and her choice is often a wise one. Nothing could be prettier than the dainty little velvet jackets and the longer coats that are being shown at the present time. The more expensive ones are fur trimmed with such furs as ermine, sable, chinchilla and black marten, and when so trimmed are by no means a saving in expense over the more popular fur coats and jackets.

Among the smaller fur garments are the boas of fox, stone marten, sable and the beautiful black lynx. Then there are the storm collars of beaver, black marten, Persian lamb with marten, otter and sealskin. Muffs, too, are fashionable again this winter. Some of them are shown with fancy designs, but the most popular ones promise to be the barrel-shaped and plain muffs. These range from 22 to 26 inches.

To give a better idea of the use of velvet as a winter coat material I will describe one I saw in a Broadway store a day or two ago. It was a full-length garment of black velvet, made with a loose sack front and back. It has a high Medici collar, and broad revers that cover the entire front, and extend almost to the waist line. These are of stone marten.

To go now to the fur garments I will describe a novelty that is decidedly chic. It is a three-quarter-length coat of chinchilla, made with a rolling Medici collar of the chinchilla and wide revers of a cream velvet and lace applique. Bishop sleeves in very narrow cuffs of velvet applique and lace. The muff made to match this coat is of chinchilla, with circular ruffle of fur, and a full ruffle of cream lace underneath at either end.

But it is the smart jackets and small coats that will be the really popular garments with all classes. Of course the grade of fur will vary with the ability of the wearer to pay, but in cut and general design all will be much alike. One of these chic coats is of Persian lamb, with deep facings of ermine on the turn-over collar, and bordered with choice mink, this latter extending down the front of the coat. The sleeves are slightly bell shaped at the wrist.

One of the many pretty fur boas is composed of four sable skins and two heads, with sable paws and tails at each end. A chinchilla boa, made in a wide flat shape, has each end finished off with trio of tails to simulate sable tails in deep shape.

JACKET OF PERSIAN LAMB WITH ERMINE AND MINK.

for these new garments will be heavy is evidenced from the amount of furs being purchased by the secondhand dealers of the city. These men report an unusual business, and so great have they found the supply of purchasable secondhand garments that they have reduced the scale of prices they are willing to pay. One lady said to me a day or two ago in talking of this that she had found the dealers paying such very small prices that she "believed it better economy to give her old furs to her maid than to sell them." I appreciated her economy better from the fact that she had told me not a half hour before "that servants were beginning to demand outrageous wages; that her maid had asked for an increase which she did not like to grant." The furs would probably starting in the feet or ankles comes from a weak or diseased heart—a heart that cannot keep up the circulation. The blood then settles in the lower limbs where the watery portions ooze out into surrounding tissues causing bloating and swelling. The heart must be strengthened and built up before the dropsy can be cured to stay; and the best of all heart medicines is Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

20TH MICHIGAN INFANTRY.

The Old Boys Held Their Annual Reunion at Ann Arbor Thursday.

The thirty-sixth annual reunion of the famous 20th Michigan Infantry was held at Ann Arbor last Thursday, about 75 of the old veterans, many of them accompanied by their wives and other members of their families, being present.

One of the features of the reunion was the marching of the comrades from the depot to the headquarters behind what is left of the Minnie drum corps, which accompanied the regiment all through the war. Charles Minnis, of Lansing, and Jerry Minnis, of Ann Arbor, played their fives with the same able manner that made them well known in the war. Frank Minnis, who enlisted in the war as a drummer, but who was rejected on account of his youth, beat the snare drum.

At the business session there were nine deaths reported as having occurred within the ranks of the regiment during the past year. It was decided to meet in Lansing next year. Gen. Byron M. Cutcheon, of Grand Rapids, stated that he had just completed a history of the regiment.

At 6 o'clock p. m. the members were banqueted in the armory, the repast being served by the W. R. C. The armory was decorated with flags. On the walls were the names of the battles in which the regiment had participated. The tables were decorated with flowers.

Samuel H. Bow, of Lansing, acted as toastmaster. Mayor R. S. Copeland, of Ann Arbor, gave the address of welcome. Col. Henry B. Dean responded to the toast "Michigan in the War." Gen. B. M. Cutcheon read an interesting chapter of his history of the regiment, describing the siege of Knoxville. Judge George M. Buck responded to "Old Glory." Rev. C. T. Allen, "Return Home," and the benediction was said by Rev. R. E. Manning. The toasts were interspersed with songs by J. E. Harkins, violin solos by Edwin C. Noll, and music by the Ann Arbor Mandolin Club.

Those present from Chelsea were Messrs. and Mesdames T. E. Wood, A. N. Morton and Fred Lehman, Capt. Elijah Hammond, John Strehle and G. J. Crowell.

Stepped Into Live Coals.

"When a child I burned my foot frightfully," writes W. H. Eads, of Jonesville, Va., "which caused horrible leg sores for 30 years, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured me after everything else failed." Infallible for burns, scalds, cuts, sores, bruises and piles. Sold by Glazier & Stimson. 25c.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Next Sunday the annual collection for the students preparing for the sacred ministry, will be taken up in St. Mary's church, Chelsea.

The trolley cars are doing a good business between Chelsea and Ann Arbor. The burning out of an armature on the car yesterday afternoon caused some inconvenience.

Mrs. Katharine Breitenbach celebrated her 83d birthday last Monday by giving a dinner to her children and grandchildren at her home on Garfield street. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Among the bills presented to the board of supervisors for payment at the present session is one for over $800 for the small-pox case in Lima last winter. Dr. John Kapp's bill for medical attendance in this case was $300.

Grass Lake News: Frank Glazier, of Chelsea, is the biggest taxpayer in Washtenaw county. He pays one-sixth of the taxes of Chelsea and still isn't appreciated there. If Frank will move to Grass Lake we'll make him mayor and if he wants to be governor he shall have that office also.

For wedding cards, visiting cards, business cards, letter heads, note heads, bill heads, statements and envelopes at lowest possible prices, for the grades of material, come to the Herald office. You can always get your job work done neatly, promptly and at a right price, at the job office of the Chelsea Herald. Call and see us.

The Business Men's Class chicken pie supper at the Congregational church last evening was a great success. The supper was excellent and was well served. About $50 was cleared. After supper a brief program was given, one of the numbers being the farewell song written on the death of President McKinley and based on his farewell words "Good-bye all, good-bye," which was sung by Mrs. L. T. Freeman. The other numbers were a solo by Floyd Ward and piano solo by Mrs. H. W. Schmidt.

The board of supervisors will, it is thought, finally do something for the protection of the records in the register of deeds' office against fire. A committee of Messrs. Prettyman, Whittaker, Krapf, McIntyre, Bacon, Walters, Miner, McGuire and Damon, was appointed yesterday to investigate and report on the most economical way of protection. A steel case which is made fire and water proof by a steel curtain which fits tightly and in which the books are run in and out on steel rollers seems to meet with the most favor.

Electric Railway Notes.

J. D. Hawks, of the Hawks-Angus syndicate, says the Free Press, has formally announced that the Detroit, Ypsilanti & Jackson road had been sold to the Everett-Moore syndicate and that after a few minor details of arrangements have been attended to, the road will change hands. Mr. Hawks declined to make public the price at which the transfer was made, but it is understood that it is a large amount of bonds in the $50,000,000 mortgage.

The trolley wire of the D. Y. A. A. & J. railway, is now extended beyond Francisco and will reach Grass Lake this week. Tuesday S. F. Angus and Supt. Merrill passed over the road from Jackson to Chelsea on a hand car. They found the roadbed in fine condition. The addition to the power house in Ypsilanti is now under roof and in a few days the work of placing the new machinery in position will be commenced. Until this is completed no large cars will be used west of Ann Arbor.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 21.—Talk of consolidation of the Michigan Traction Co. with the Boland Detroit & Chicago line, is revived here by a visit from General Manager D. E. Hegard, and Gerald Holzman, assistant to President Evans Dick, of the Railways General, Philadelphia. The Railways Company General owns the Michigan Traction Co. The rumor that the Boland line, of Jackson, would purchase the Michigan Traction Co. is believed now to be an error, and instead it is probable the Railways Company General will purchase the Boland interests.

How Gas Acts on "The Sun."

The Stockbridge Light & Fuel Co.'s plant was started up Wednesday night of last week, and the inhabitants of the little burg will not have to grope around in the darkness with a lantern to find their way home any more. The Stockbridge Sun goes into ecstasies over the advent of the new plant as follows:

"Gas! That is the potent word in Stockbridge just at present. Gas, bright, glowing, white-livered gas! No more running off the sidewalk on dark, stormy nights, or dashing your pate against shade trees till the whole starry host of heaven seems suddenly to come out to light you home. No more hugging right on the principal street corners. This town is going to have street lights that will make the little fireflies of Chelsea, Leslie, Grass Lake, Pinckney and every other burg in the country pale their ineffectual fires into insignificance."

We, the jury find that the deceased came to his death from heart failure, caused by not taking Rocky Mountain Tea made by Madison Medicine Co. 35c. Glazier & Stimson.

Here are some more words from an exchange along the same old line: "Some times it seems that young people are not so very much to blame for going crooked. Look at the boys who play on the street every night, swearing and smoking cigarettes. These youngsters, who are about six or seven years of age, are not responsible. It is the way they are brought up. Parents who let their children run the streets cannot expect them to amount to much when they grow up."

Stockbridge Sun: John McClear, of Gregory, this year harvested the eleventh consecutive crop of beans from the same ground. They're bigger than ever and will go 15 bushels to the acre at the lowest estimate. L. K. Hadley, of North Lake, for five successive years has raised a corn crop from the same piece. Last year it went 125 bushels. This year it will exceed that figure. He claims to have the biggest corn in the section and furnishes seed to his neighbors. In both cases systematic manuring accomplished the result.

The annual attempt to have the court house clock at Ann Arbor set to standard time has again been defeated by the country supervisors, although this desirable change is a notch nearer being successful than ever before. It was practically agreed finally that if the university would set its clock on standard time and if the D., Y., A. A. & J. road would run its schedule on standard time, the hands of the court house clock would be turned back. When the electric road gets its cars running as far as Jackson it is probable that standard time will be adopted, as there is about five minutes difference in the local time of Detroit and Jackson and some uniformity must exist.

THE SCHLEY INQUIRY

Proceedings of the Naval Court in Session in Washington.

Officers and Seamen Testify For and Against the Admiral—End of the Case in Sight—Day by Day Summary.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Only one new witness was heard in detail by the Schley court of inquiry Tuesday. This was Lieut. Commander James H. Sears, who was Admiral Schley's flag lieutenant during the Spanish war. He gave a detailed account of the brief siege of Cienfuegos, including the retrograde movement of the flying squadron in search of coal, the blockade of Santiago, the reconnaissance of the Santiago shore batteries and the bombardment of the Cristobal Colon May 31, and the battle off Santiago July 3, when Cervera's fleet was destroyed. He placed the distance out of the blockading line at Cienfuegos at from one to four miles, and at Santiago at from three to six miles. He expressed the opinion that in the battle of July 3 it had been the Viscaya's intention to ram the Brooklyn.

In reply to a question, Commander Sears said he had been with Commodore Schley in five engagements, all told. He was then asked as to the bearing of that officer under fire, and replied:

"His bearing to me was a model for anybody, worthy of emulation at all times. Under fire his faculties, if it was possible, seemed to be clearer and more in possession of them than at any other time. He was not excited in the slightest degree, and was absolutely cool and calm. He was always putting himself in exposed positions. I requested him many times not to expose himself, as it was useless to do so."

Capt. Cook was recalled during the day and in response to a question by Capt. Lemly made an additional statement concerning the retrograde movement of the flying squadron May 26 to May 28. He also said in answer to a question by the court, that Commodore Schley during the battle of July 3 was "cool, brave and enthusiastic. I cannot imagine any conduct in battle more admirable."

Mr. Rayner sought to secure the introduction of a brief report of the battle of July 3, which Commodore Schley prepared for transmission to the secretary of the navy. It was stated that Commander Sears had taken this dispatch ashore to be cabled to the secretary, but that it never had reached that official. The dispatch was ruled out on the ground that as it was not received it was not an official communication.

Admiral Schley thinks it quite probable that the presentation of the testimony in his behalf can be completed this week and next. He will be the last of the witnesses to be heard, and when he goes on will make a review of the entire campaign, covering the points in controversy.

OFFICERS OF THE BROOKLYN.

They Add Their Testimony in Behalf of Schley.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The officers of Admiral Schley's flagship, the Brooklyn, occupied the attention of the Schley court of inquiry for Wednesday. The proceedings began with the recall of Capt. Cook and Lieut. Commander Sears, both of whom made material additions to their former testimony, and they were followed in succession by Commander N. F. Mason, who was the executive officer of the Brooklyn; Lieut. Edward McCauley, Jr., who was signal officer, and Lieut. Charles Webster, who had charge of the forward gun deck battery of the Brooklyn during the battle off Santiago and was a watch officer on board that ship.

Capt. Cook's new testimony related to the uncoupling of the Brooklyn's engines and to the voyage of the flying squadron from Cienfuegos, explaining in some detail the cause of the slow progress made on that occasion.

Commander Sears spoke again of the conversation reported as having taken place between himself and officers of the Massachusetts in the wardroom of that vessel on May 31, in which he was alleged to have said that it had been difficult to get Commodore Schley up to the point of undertaking the bombardment of the Colon, and again denied that he had said anything reflecting upon his superior officer.

Commander Mason and Lieut. McCauley and Webster all gave accounts of the engagement of July 3. Mr. McCauley related in detail the signals made in connection with that historical event at the instance of Commodore Schley. When asked if Commodore Schley had said anything during the battle for the encouragement of the men this witness replied that he several times had said: "Give 'em hell, boys!" All these witnesses testified that the conduct of the commodore when under fire was cool and courageous.

FRIENDLY TESTIMONY.

Evidence in Schley's Behalf by More Men from the Brooklyn.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The presentation of Admiral Schley's side of the controversy was continued before the Schley court of inquiry Thursday, eight witnesses being examined. Of these five were ensigns, and the entire eight had served on board the Brooklyn, with Admiral (then Commodore) Schley. The first of the day's witnesses was Lieut. Charles Webster, who had begun his testimony Wednesday. He was followed by Lieut. Commander T. D. Griffin, who had charge of the powder division of the Brooklyn during the fight off Santiago. The witness said that Schley impressed him as being remarkably cool. He was perfectly natural in manner and bearing. Lieut. Commander Griffin was succeeded by Ensign C. A. Abele, John Halligan, Jr., Ulysses S. Macy, James M. Hand and Ralph N. Marble.

The last witness of the day was Medical Director Paul Fitzsimmons, who was chief surgeon of the flying squadron. He observed the battle of July 3 from the gun deck of the Brooklyn, and said that it seemed to him at the time that the Brooklyn was fighting the battle entirely alone. He thought the Brooklyn kept the Colon from getting away.

While Ensign Halligan was on the stand, Mr. Rayner sought to bring out information as to the American ships in sight at the beginning of the battle of July 3, but Judge Advocate Lemly objected on the ground that question was intended to show the absence of the New York, and the interrogatory was withdrawn. Ensign Marble stated that he had heard Capt. Sigbee tell Commodore Schley when he came aboard the Brooklyn on May 26 that the Spaniards were not at Santiago.

THE OREGON HEARD FROM.

Lieut. Commander Nicholson Testifies in the Schley Inquiry.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Lieutenant Commander Nicholson, of the Oregon, was the principal witness in the Schley inquiry Friday, and gave a vivid description of the fight at Santiago. He said he observed the Spanish fleet as it came out of the harbor at Santiago; that they were in column and in order, three or four ships' lengths apart; that all ported their helms and turned to the westward, apparently with the intention of going ashore if necessary. During the early part of the engagement he had seen but one of the Spanish vessels turning toward any of the American ships, and he was sure that there was no well-developed movement in that direction. Yet the smoke was dense, and he could not be certain of all details. After telling of the destruction of the Maria Teresa, the Oquendo and the Viscaya, Commander Nicholson then detailed the chase of the Colon, her subsequent going ashore and surrender.

Dr. Charles M. de Vallin followed Commander Nicholson. He said that he had been medical officer on board the Brooklyn and had observed the battle of July 3 from the forecastle. He gave a brief description of the battle, saying he had been present when Yeoman Ellis was killed and that he had observed Commodore Schley during the entire engagement. "His conduct and bearing," said the witness, "was all that could be expected. He seemed to know what he was about and to be doing all that he wished to do. He was in perfect control of the situation."

J. P. J. Ryan, who was assistant engineer on the Brooklyn, was introduced. He was followed by Lieut. B. W. Wells, Jr., who was Commodore Schley's flag lieutenant during the Cuban campaign. All testified to scenes witnessed and the bravery of Schley.

WANT CHINESE LABORERS.

Need of Hawaii to Solve the Industrial Problem Which Confronts the Island.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Mr. Henry E. Cooper, territorial secretary and for several months prior to his departure for the United States acting governor of Hawaii, has discussed with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson the conditions in the territory. One of the main aims of Mr. Cooper's trip here is to acquaint the administration with the actual situation in Hawaii. In his conference with Secretary Wilson he emphasized the seriousness of the labor problem. The natives are dying off rapidly, the mortality being in the neighborhood of 40 deaths to the thousand, and foreign laborers are getting out of the country much more rapidly than they are coming in. The encouragement of Chinese labor, said he, is regarded as the most promising solution and the territorial government is anxious that large numbers of laborers shall come in from China.

AGAINST ANARCHY.

National Bureau of Identification Takes Important Action Urging Congress to Pass Law.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The board of governors of the national bureau of identification, comprising leading police chiefs and the head of the Pinkerton detectives, Thursday adopted a recommendation to be urged on congress for legislation looking to the suppression of anarchy. The recommendation, which will be forwarded to each member of the National Association of Chiefs of Police, urges the necessity for congressional legislation defining anarchy and authorizing all police officers to arrest and prosecute all such offenders under that law who may be found within their jurisdictions. The board further recommends that all police and city marshals use their utmost endeavors to impress on their respective senators and representatives in congress the necessity for immediate action.

SORT OF A TEA PARTY.

Cabinet Meeting Listens to Entertaining Account of Culture of the Plant in United States.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The cabinet meeting Friday lasted less than an hour. Secretary Hay was present for the first time under the new administration, but he had nothing to submit to the cabinet. Secretaries Root and Gage were the only absentees. Practically the whole time was occupied by Secretary Wilson, who entertained the cabinet with a talk about the growth of tea in this country. Secretary Wilson was especially complimentary about the cultivation of tea in South Carolina. He said that the green tea grown in that state is as good as any grown in the world.

TARIFF REVISION UNWISE

Senator Mitchell Says That Congress Ought Not to Make Any Radical Changes.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 19.—In an interview upon the question of a revision of the tariff by congress, United States Senator John H. Mitchell said:

"I firmly believe nothing congress could do would tend so strongly to the destruction of the good business conditions now prevailing as to enter upon a general revision of the tariff. I am in favor, however, of ascertaining if possible whether any foreign products upon which tariff is now imposed can be included in reciprocity arrangements, and then I would favor taking off the tariff and placing them on the free list."

Postoffice Robbed.

CIRCLES THE TOWER.

Santos-Dumont, with His Dirigible Balloon, Triumphs.

Famous Airship Sails Around the Eiffel Tower in Twenty Minutes—Steering Apparatus Works in Perfect Order.

Paris, Oct. 21.—M. Santos-Dumont made good his promises and theories Saturday afternoon. He left the Aero station park at St. Cloud in his airship at 2:44 o'clock and rose to the height of about 250 meters, directing his huge, batlike machine toward the Eiffel tower, which he doubled and then returned to the point of departure in exactly 20 minutes from the time he rose into the air. As a matter of fact, however, the official time of the flight was somewhat longer, though still within the 30 minutes stipulated by M. Deutsch, president of the Aero club, as the time within which the prize of 100,000 francs ($20,000) offered by him for the feat, must be gained. Comte de Dion, the member of the Aero committee who held the stop watch, declared, as soon as Santos-Dumont set foot on the ground that he had not gained the prize, since he had spent 40 seconds too much time in his descent.

M. Deutsch Admits Victory.

However, hearing hisses and shouts of derision from a thousand spectators who had witnessed the plucky exploit and who were enraged at the thought that the reward was to be withheld, M. Deutsch himself stepped forward, crying in a voice loud enough to be heard by everyone within a radius of a hundred yards:

"In my opinion, my brave young friend, you have amply gained the prize."

Santos-Dumont displayed the greatest indifference, wiping his head with a silk handkerchief as he nonchalantly replied: "In any case, if I am successful, the money is destined for the poor citizens of Paris."

Thus ends, so far as appears now, the series of experiments that are without parallel in the annals of aerial navigation. Even several of Santos-Dumont's rivals, who have steadfastly refused to consider him as really a "scientist," acknowledge the complete success of his maneuvers Saturday, pointing out at the same time, however, that all the conditions were in his favor, including the all-important velocity of the wind. If the wind had been violent it would again have made the feat impossible.

Favored by Wind.

At no time during the afternoon did the wind have a greater velocity than seven miles an hour, and most of the time its velocity remained steadily at about four miles an hour. Therefore all of Santos-Dumont's apparatus was given the fairest possible chance to work well.

The young aeronaut appeared to rule his airship with the greatest ease, making a graceful curve when he reached the Eiffel tower, where he was assailed, though beyond earshot, by prolonged cheers from great crowds which had gathered on the different galleries of the huge structure. The ovation was repeated at the Parc d'Aerostation on his return to St. Cloud as well as all along the banks of the Seine, which were literally black with humanity.

What future experiments he will make Santos-Dumont has not yet determined, but M. Deutsch expressed the opinion that these would consist of attempts to travel between Paris and different French towns within a radius of 20 miles of the capital.

Demand Payment Be Made.

French public and newspapers demand that the Aero club pay to M. Santos-Dumont the prize of 100,000 francs for having circled the Eiffel tower in his balloon.

Made Several Attempts.

M. Santos-Dumont has made several attempts previous to his present successful effort to win the prize of $20,000 offered by M. Deutsch this year to the aeronaut who should steer a balloon from St. Cloud around the Eiffel tower and back in 30 minutes. Six airships have been constructed by the young Brazilian, each being regarded by the inventor as an improvement on its predecessor.

M. Santos-Dumont made a trial of his first steerable balloon in September, 1898, when he proved the possibility of steering an airship. Further tests and trials have been intermittent during the last 18 months at Nice and Paris.

For the Deutsch prize eight aeronauts were announced to be in competition with M. Santos-Dumont, namely: MM. Tatin, Rose, Ader, Capt. Renard, Baron Bratsky, Don Sarlat, Marquis de Dion and M. Deutsch himself. Of these, only M. Rose has so far attempted the course, but without success.

On three occasions in his attempts for the prize, July 14, August 8 and September 10, M. Santos-Dumont narrowly escaped disaster from his balloon being driven against trees or high buildings.

M. Santos-Dumont is 28 years old. He was born at Rio Janeiro in 1873, his father being "the coffee king" of San Paulo. He is of French descent on his mother's side. At 12 years of age he drove steam engines on the railways of his father's estate and became a clever mechanician.

New York, Oct. 21.—President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, have sent out the formal call for the annual convention of the national body to be held at Scranton, Pa., December 5.

DOING ITS UTMOST.

Government Exerting Every Energy to Saving of Miss Stone's Life—Hopeful Spirit.

Nashington, Oct. 22.—There has been no report since Saturday at the state department from Turkey or Bulgaria touching Miss Stone's case. The officials, however, are by no means discouraged and are still confident that they will succeed in saving her life, but whether by diplomacy or by force is not clear. It is gathered that the friendship of the Russian government has much to do with the confidence of the officials here. That government has responded in the most cordial spirit to the appeal of the state department which, unable itself from geographical and political reasons to exert pressure upon the government of Bulgaria, has been pleased to avail itself of the powerful influence of Russia on that government. The Turkish government has for its part responded in the same spirit to the appeal of the United States, and altogether the two governments, Turkish and Bulgarian, probably have been put to a degree of expense equal to the amount of the ransom demanded by Miss Stone's captors in the military operations they have already directed in her interests.

London, Oct. 22.—The idea that the capture of Miss Stone originated with the Macedonian committee is corroborated, according to the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail, by the fact that numerous Macedonians in Sofia have offered to mediate with the brigands.

TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.

Prominent Citizens Engage in Street Duel at Waco—Father and Son Killed.

Waco, Tex., Oct. 22.—One of the fiercest street duels ever fought in this section since the famous Brann-Davis tragedy occurred shortly after one o'clock Monday afternoon on Austin avenue, the busiest thoroughfare in the city. The principals in the tragedy were ex-Sheriff W. T. Harris and his son, W. T. Harris, Jr., on one side and Dr. J. G. Lovelace and his stepson, Z. T. Reynolds, on the other. It is believed bad feeling existed between the men for some time over family affairs, and trouble had been expected as a result. The parties met by chance in the Turf saloon and young Harris, it is alleged, opened fire with a shotgun on Lovelace over his (Harris') father's shoulder, but without effect. Lovelace immediately returned the fire with a revolver, killing young Harris almost instantly. Lovelace then turned his revolver on the elder Harris, who likewise was killed.

Lovelace and Reynolds were both uninjured. They immediately gave themselves up and were taken to the county jail and locked up to await the action of the grand jury, which is now in session. The bodies of the two Harris were taken to an undertaking establishment and prepared for burial and then were transferred to their home.

DEATH DAY DRAWS NEAR.

Arrangements for the Execution of Assassins Czolgosz About Completed.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Warden Meade, of Auburn prison, spent several hours Monday in conference with Superintendent of State Prisons Cornelius V. Collins, arranging for details for carrying out the sentence of death imposed on Leon F. Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley.

Because of the small attendance that can be had under the statute there will be but a limited number of representatives of the press present. The details for the execution have been practically completed, and, while the prison authorities guard with great secrecy all facts, it is believed that the execution will take place before six o'clock on the morning of October 28, or if everything cannot be gotten ready on that day at a similar hour on the 29th. The work of selecting a jury to sign the death warrant of the murderer has been completed, but their names are withheld from publication. They will not be known until the morning of the execution.

A LITTLE GIRL HERO.

Rescues Two Babies from Burning Grass and Then Falls Exhausted Amidst the Flames.

Milwaukee, Oct. 22.—A Journal special from Appleton, Wis., says the eight-year-old daughter of Reynold Ludeman, living near Clayton, was burned to death after rescuing two little children, aged two and four years, respectively, from a section of burning grass in a field near the homestead. Mr. Ludeman had set fire to the grass and cautioned the children to remain away from the field. The little children disobeyed and were in danger of being burned to death when rescued by the oldest child, who sank to the ground from exhaustion after the heroic act, and was burned to a crisp.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Get Light Sentences.

Albion Stroud and Cyrus Windlate, convicted of manslaughter, were sentenced, respectively, to three and 2½ years' imprisonment at Ionia by Judge Smith. Windgate got off with six months less than Stroud because of the recommendation of the jury. Both are minors, this counting for their unusually light sentences. The crime of which they were convicted was the killing of Fred Newbirth May 18 of this year. Both assaulted Newbirth during a drunken brawl.

Dead Woman Identified.

Mrs. Lillian Stevenson, of St. Joseph, is the name of the woman who was found dead near the railroad tracks in Chicago. The remains were identified by Thomas Kendrick. Mrs. Stevenson went to Chicago from Michigan ten weeks ago. She rented rooms in the home of Mrs. Samuel Kendrick, 3308 Calumet avenue. After living there quietly for six weeks she announced that she would return to St. Joseph, and left the house. Nothing more was heard from her until her death.

Consumption was reported at 178 places, measles at 16, typhoid fever at 114, whooping cough at 17, cerebro-spinal meningitis at 1 and smallpox at 24 places.

Primary School Fund.

It was erroneously stated some time ago that the semiannual apportionment of the primary school fund would be at the rate of $2.41 per capita. The apportionment is now being made by the superintendent of public instruction on the basis of two dollars per capita. Since there are 720,612 children of school age in the state, the amount to be apportioned will be $1,441,224.

Fatal Freight Collision.

Three trainmen were crushed to death in a head-on collision between an east and a west-bound freight train on the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad at a curve five miles west of Birmingham. The dead are: R. Moffatt, engineer, of Detroit; H. Luce, fireman, of Detroit; Otto Neurenberg, brakeman, of Clarkston.

RAIDED BY ROBBERS.

Thieves Loot Main Post Office at Chicago.

Tunnel Under the Building, Bore Through a Steel Vault and Escape with $74,610 Worth of Postage Stamps.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Thieves entered the vault of the wholesale department of the Chicago post office between Saturday evening and Monday morning and accomplished the biggest postage stamp robbery on record. They secured $74,610 in stamps of various denominations and escaped. Skill, ingenuity and wonderful endurance were required successfully to carry out the plans that evidently had carefully been laid.

Two brick walls, each two feet thick, were tunneled through, and a hole 19 inches square was made in the bottom of the steel vault. The air under the building where entrance was gained is stifling. Inspector Farrell was overcome by the bad air Monday when making the first investigation, and the wonder is that some of the thieves did not succumb to the odors and the hard work in so close a place.

Entrance was gained to the space under the temporary structure on the east side of the main building through a small door. The men then took a diagonal path to the main brick wall and tunneled through it.

Over a Path of Darkness.

This admitted them to the space under the main building, with nothing between them and the vault foundation but 300 feet of darkness. The path to the vault was made almost in a straight line, as shown by the trail in the slime and dirt. When it was reached the wall was broken through, evidently with a pickaxe, and only the steel floor remained to be broken through. It was attacked with a drill and 97 holes bored through half an inch of steel. A lever was used and the piece encircled by the holes pried out.

The stamps taken weighed more than 700 pounds, making the task of transporting them to the open air one of hardship when the necessity for haste and the long dark tunnel with its foul air are considered. It was accomplished, however, and all that was lost en route were five one-cent stamps found underneath the vault Monday morning by Paul Hull, Postmaster Coyne's secretary.

Wagon Used to Carry Stamps Away.

Wagon tracks at the rear of the building lead up to the door entered by the men, and it is thought that a wagon was used to carry away the loot. The size and weight of the pile of stamps would make a wagon necessary, in the opinion of the post office authorities.

When Fred Spaulding, chief clerk in the wholesale stamp department, closed the vault Saturday evening it contained $76,068 worth of stamps. He discovered the robbery Monday morning about seven o'clock, when he opened the vault to prepare for the day's business.

Detectives at Work.

Inspector Stuart was notified in haste, and all the inspectors, with a squad of a dozen detectives from Central station, were soon at work on the case. Clues are lacking. Inspector Farrell went through the tunnel, followed by Inspector Stuart and W. S. Mayor. Farrell was overcome by the bad atmosphere, and before his companions could continue their trip under the floor of the post office it was necessary to admit air through half a dozen trap doors in the floor.

The path of the thieves was easily followed, and the inspectors reached daylight finally through the small door on the east side that had served the robbers.

The foundation of the vault makes a small room about four feet high, and it was there that the work of drilling the holes through the steel floor was done. Besides the large hole through which the men reached the vault door, there is a smaller one near the foundation of the cashier's vault joining the first on the north side. This leads the inspectors to believe that perhaps the men made a mistake. In the cashier's vault there was about $35,000 in money and about $1,000,000 in stamps.

This vault could have been reached as easily as the other, but the floor is thicker, being composed of two sheets of steel and a layer of concrete.

Will Ask for Relief.

Washington, Oct. 22.—It is explained at the post office department that the law allows a credit up to $10,000 to postmasters at offices where losses occur in which proper precautions had been taken. All above this amount has to depend upon the action of congress. Postmaster Coyne, of Chicago, will present a claim for the amount of the loss, and the department will transmit it to congress. Meantime, any balance against him on account of the loss will remain outstanding, but if congress should fail to act favorably, he will be called upon to make the loss good. It is a foregone conclusion, according to the belief of postal officials, that the relief will be granted as usual in such cases.
