$150 DAMAGES GIVEN

Jabez Bacon in the Circuit Court.—The Case Will Be Appealed to the Supreme Court.

The evidence in the case of Jabez Bacon vs. F. P. Glazier, W. R. Lehman, Jay M. Woods, Jacob Mast and Charles E. Stimson was completed Friday in the circuit court. On Monday the attorneys in the case had a long argument concerning the rights of President Glazier in ordering Trustee Bacon out of the council room, the jury being in temporary retirement. Judge Kinne gave the substance of how he would charge the jury, and on that statement Attorney Sawyer discontinued the cases against Jacob Mast, Jay M. Woods and C. E. Stimson. The attorneys made their arguments on the question of assault and battery by defendants Glazier and Lehman, the question of President Glazier's right to order Trustee Bacon from the council room being left out. After several hours deliberation the jury returned a verdict of $150 the plaintiff. The case will be appealed to the supreme court. E. F. Conely, of Detroit, will appear as counsel with Cavanaugh & Wedemeyer in the appeal.

Ann Arbor Masons Visited Chelsea.

Thirty-four members of Washtenaw Chapter, R. A. M., came to Chelsea last evening by the trolley cars from Ann Arbor, and paid a fraternal visit to Olive Chapter, R. A. M. The party was headed by L. C. Goodrich, grand visitor and lecturer, and the officers who did the work of the Most Excellent degree on the nine candidates were E. E. Beal, H. P.; Ed. Staebler, K.; John Lindenschmitt, S.; Herman F. Miller, C. of H.; L. C. Goodrich, P. S.; Robert Barnes, R. A. C.; M. M. Hawthurst, M. of 3d V.; Dr. L. P. Kapp, M. of 2d V.; Ralph H. Miller, M. of 1st V.; Tom Taylor, sentinel. The singing of the quartette, Eugene Mutschel, Geo. F. Key, L. D. Wines and Eugene Koch was splendid and all the work was well done. After the work a supper was served at the Chelsea house. The visitors returned home by a special car at 11 o'clock.

Died of Apoplexy.

Theodore Swartout, a well known livery man, died here very suddenly yesterday morning from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy. He was out taking care of his horses about 7:15 a.m. when he was stricken down. He managed to crawl to the stable door and attract his wife's attention. Assistance was got and he was carried into the house. It was at first thought he would recover, but during the morning he began to sink and died at 11:30. The funeral will be held at the house tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. Swartout was twice married. By his first wife he leaves two sons Frank and Fred, and one daughter Mrs. Charles Carpenter. By his second wife he has two daughters Grace and Bessie.

How News Items Spread.

As an evidence of how extensively a little news item is copied by other papers we quote the item that appeared primarily in the Herald of Oct. 3, relating to Peter Hindelang purchasing flour for the first time in 54 years. The item was copied into the Detroit daily papers from the Herald; from the Detroit papers it was largely copied by other papers throughout the state and also by the Chicago daily papers. In one of the latter it was seen by a cousin of Mrs. V. D. Hindelang, of Albion, who clipped it out and sent it to her. Last Sunday Mrs. Hindelang was here on a visit to her father-in-law Peter Hindelang and told our old friend this incident.

Do You Want a Picture?

J. Fred Rentschler, photographer, of Ann Arbor, has purchased all the negatives made in the studio operated at different times by Lewis & Gibson, Gibson, Gibson & Clark, Gibson & Morgan, and F. Berryman. Any persons who at any time had their photos taken there and still desire to have pictures made from these negatives can have any number printed and finished, for a short time only, by calling on or writing to J. Fred Rentschler, corner Main and Huron streets, Ann Arbor.

What's Your Face Worth?

Sometimes a fortune, but never, if you have a shallow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin—all signs of liver trouble. But Dr. King's New Life Pills give clear skin, rosy cheeks, rich complexion. Only 25 cents at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

THE MERCHANTS' CARNIVAL.

The Several Lady Representatives of the Merchants Did Themselves Proud.

The musical selections Friday evening consisted of solos by Miss Anna B. Lighthall, Miss E. S. Bacon and T. S. Hughes, and a duet by Misses L. Annie Bacon and Anna B. Lighthall. On Saturday evening T. S. Hughes and Floyd Ward sang solos and these two gentlemen and Misses Bacon and Lighthall sang duets.

A Sudden Death.

Andrew Oesterle, 18 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Oesterle, died very suddenly Saturday morning of paralysis of the heart at the home of A. W. Chapman, in Sylvan, where he had been employed for two years past. A little over two weeks previous to his death he had been taken with a milk attack of appendicitis and abscess of the liver, but was almost entirely recovered from that illness. Saturday morning his sister had taken him up his breakfast, which he had eaten with a relish. She then went downstairs and on her return 10 minutes later found him on the floor dead. The funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Chapman and at St. Paul's Lutheran church Monday afternoon. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Death of Dixon Burchard.

William Dixon Burchard, who up to eight years ago was a life long resident of Sylvan and Chelsea, died in Detroit Sunday, aged 54 years, 7 months and 11 days. He had been ill with the fatal consumption that caused his death for nine months, but had been confined to his bed for only six weeks. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Burchard and was born in Sylvan. Besides his wife, his sister Mrs. Abner Spencer is his only surviving relative. The remains were brought here on the 9:15 a. m. train Tuesday and were taken to the M. E. church where the funeral services were held by Rev. Mr. Allen, of Detroit. The interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

The Hawaiian woman's club at Honolulu debated the question: "Is it better to take Rocky Mountain Tea hot or cold?" Either way it magnifies your pleasure. Glazier & Stimson.

Mrs. Ellen Ripley, Chaplain Ladies Aid, Grand Army of the Republic, No. 7, 222 10th Ave., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn., Strongly Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound cured me of ulceration of the womb, and getting such a complete cure I felt that the medicine had genuine merit and was well worth recommending to other sick women.

"For fifteen years I have been your friend. I have never written you before, but I have advised hundreds of women to take your medicine, in fact it is the only real reliable remedy I know of for a sick woman.

"I have not yet found a case of ovarian or womb trouble which has not been relieved or cured by the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"You have brought health to hundreds of women in Minneapolis as you have no doubt to others over the country."—MRS. ELLEN RIPLEY.

$5000 FORFEIT IF THE ABOVE LETTER IS NOT GENUINE.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine.

Paradise for Sportsmen.

To him who knows not where to go, there can be no better place suggested than the Pocono mountains, lying in the northeastern part of Pennsylvania, along the beautiful Delaware river. Whether you go for health, or sport, you can hardly experience the latter without acquiring the former. The elevation of the mountains varies from 1,600 to 2,000 feet, and are one dense growth of pine and fir trees. Deer, bear and other large game are plentiful, and though the region is visited by thousands of sportsmen every year, there seems to be no noticeable decrease in the attractions offered. The Pocono mountain hotels, camps and game preserves are readily accessible by the Lackawanna Railroad, the great trunk line between New York and the Great Lakes.

The fire loss in September in the United States and Canada was the lowest for any month for three years, excepting one month, and amounted to $7,645,000.

THE TEACHER'S WIFE.

Clarissa, Minn., Oct. 28th.—Mrs. Clara Keys, wife of Chas. Keys, school teacher of this place, tells a wonderful story.

For years her life was one of misery. Her back ached all the time, her head ached all the time; neuralgia pains drove her to desperation. She used much medicine, but failed to get any relief till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. She says:

"Very soon after I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills all my aches and pains vanished like the morning dew. I consider this remedy a God-send to suffering womanhood."

Encouraged by their success in her own case, Mrs. Keys induced her mother, an old lady of 74 years, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills for her many aches and pains. Now both mother and daughter rejoice in perfect freedom from illness or suffering which is something neither had enjoyed for years before.

GIVES HIS VERSION.

Admiral Schley Is Heard in His Own Behalf.

Matters Under Investigation Discussed by Him—Audience Bursts Into Cheers as a Witness Tells of Admiral's Bravery.

Washington, Oct. 24.—In the Schley court of inquiry Wednesday the first witness was Mr. James Hare, photographer on the press boat, who stated that Capt. Sigbee, of the St. Paul, had told the correspondents of the St. Paul that the Corveta was not in the harbor at Santiago.

Mr. Hare was followed by Chief Boatswain Hill, of the Brooklyn.

In narrating the pursuit of the Spanish boats on July 3, Mr. Hill related the following thrilling incident, which caused a great outburst of applause in the courtroom, and forced Admiral Dewey to the first time to pound his gavel and admonish the audience against such demonstrations:

"On this run with the Viscaya Ellis was killed. There were 14 or 15 of us standing together. The commodore asked in a matter of fact tone: 'What is the range?' and Ellis raised the shell took his head off. As he fell to the deck, dead, young McCauley said: 'Let's throw it overboard.' The commodore said: 'No, don't throw that body overboard. He died like a brave man, and I am going to bury him like one.' He directed me to look out for the body. I had it wrapped in blankets, laid in the shade and that evening it was gotten ready for burial. The Viscaya was putting up the best fight of any ship there. She fought well and the big shells were going over us and a great many of us ducked. These shells sounded like half a dozen railroad trains under way. As they were heard going through the air, down would go a head, but Commodore Schley's head never bent."

SCHLEY AS A WITNESS.

Main Figure in the Famous Naval Inquiry Takes the Stand.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Admiral Schley on Thursday took the stand in his own behalf at the court of inquiry which is investigating his conduct as commander in chief of the flying squadron during the Santiago campaign. He was summoned a few minutes after the court convened at two o'clock, and after the afternoon session, and when the court adjourned at four o'clock he apparently had only gotten well under way in his testimony.

Capt. Clark of the Oregon, was one of the witnesses who preceded Admiral Schley. He described the chase after the Spanish ships on July 3 and said he was afraid at one time the Oregon would have to sustain the concentrated fire of several of the Spanish ships. Just then the smoke lifted, and he discovered the Brooklyn. "She was well forward of our port beam," he said, "and broadside to the enemy's fleet. The two vessels retained their relative positions approximately to the end of the battle, the Brooklyn steaming nearly straight ahead, I should judge, and engaging any and all of the Spanish ships, the Oregon endeavoring to come to close action with the sternmost one, and when she was driven out of action we kept on after the next one."

"What distance was it that you were engaged in the chase of the Colon after the Viscaya ran ashore? How many miles do you suppose the Oregon and the Brooklyn ran in the chase of the Colon before she surrendered?"

"I cannot tell you that. I have heard the chart has limited the distance to a certain number of miles, and the speed of the ships has been called in question. I presume 50 or 65 miles."

"Can you tell me with how many ships the Brooklyn was engaged when the smoke lifted and you saw her on her westward course?"

"She must have been engaged with all four."

"Did you see the turn of the Brooklyn?"

"No, sir. I never saw the Brooklyn until I came out of the smoke."

The court asked Capt. Clark the following questions:

"Did any of the enemy's ships indicate an intention of ramming our ships during the early part of the battle?"

"Not that I know of. I saw nothing of it."

"Did you at any time receive an order from either the navy department or the commander in chief of the North Atlantic squadron not to expose the Oregon to the fire of land batteries?"

"No, sir."

At 2:06 Capt. Clark was excused and Admiral Schley was called to the stand.

When he took the stand, and after giving his name and rank, he was requested by Mr. Rayner to relate his conduct of the campaign in narrative form. He began by relating the particulars of his taking command of the flying squadron at Hampton Roads, where he said, "the general plan of campaign was thrashed out."

He had, he said, explained it would be impossible to arrange a general plan of battle, but he had explained to his commanders that, in a general way, it was his idea "to attack the head and leading ship of the enemy attacking us, and concentrate the fire upon her. My reasons for this," he continued, "were twofold, the first being the moral effect upon the enemy, and the second the confusion it would create. The older plans for naval attack were to attack the center or rear of an enemy's fleet, which would result in the escape of some of the enemy's vessels. I felt that if we got the head we could get the whole. I think this plan was indicated by the result of the battle some six weeks or two months later," he said, concluding this point.

He then related the details of the cruise to Key West and his meeting there with Admiral Sampson. It was decided that the two squadrons should be divided, one to take the north and the other the south coast of Cuba. Sampson decided to take the north, or Havana, command.

"He told me confidentially that whichever command I should take I must remember not to attack heavily fortified places on the shore until the Spanish ships were disposed of; that we must not risk the ships until the Spanish fleet was out of the way."

The admiral then read the order under which he had sailed from Key West. In this order Admiral Sampson had told Commodore Schley that he should establish a blockade at Cienfuegos with the least possible delay, and had said that after he had written the information more in hand he would write the order. "Under the direction of this order," he said, "and then he related the details of the cruise to Cienfuegos, where the squadron arrived on the night of May 1."

"Toward nine o'clock of the 2d the Dupont brought me the now celebrated 'Dear Schley' letter." In obedience to this dispatch he had sent the Scorpion east to communicate with the scout boats about the Spaniards, "as I was very doubtful of their being at Santiago, as I think the admiral was."

He defended his course in keeping the vessels together—holding the faster vessels for the slower. "We proceeded as a unit," he said, "and I hold that to do otherwise would be unskillful and unwise in changing base with a fleet. I hold that useful auxiliaries and supplies should never be abandoned except under the greatest necessity."

Taking up the coaling question, he said that it was absolutely impossible to coal on May 25.

Admiral Schley then told of meeting the dispatch boats St. Paul, Minneapolis and Yale, and said: "I want to say before I make this statement that I do not believe for his commission. I do not believe that I am capable of stating what is not true, I think in this instance his recollection is at fault, and not his veracity. I said to him: 'Captain, have you got the Dons in here?' He said: 'No. They are not in here. I have been in very close.' He said: 'They are not here; they are only reported here.' I said to him: 'Have any of the other vessels seen them, the Yale or the Minneapolis?' He said: 'No, they have not; they have assumed me so,' and upon that was the assurance to which I referred when I spoke of the assurance of such men as Wise, and Jewell and Sigbee."

"They did not communicate verbally with me, but I assumed with the conversation with Sigbee that he was bearing to me the assurance of all of them. My habit of life, not only in principal command of a squadron, but also the command of a ship, was to assume the responsibility and the danger of a movement of my own. I was never willing, under any circumstances, to be a participant in glories that I would not divide. That was the general principle upon which I acted in this matter. I did not call any council of war. The information which these people gave me led me to infer that the telegraphic information was a ruse similar to that which was telegraphed from Cadiz that the squadron had returned to Cape Verde."

Admiral Schley described the movements of his squadron about Santiago, saying that he had concluded that the move eastward was unwise. "It would not have been wise to uncover Santiago," he said, "that their movements every minute of the day were known in Havana."

Continuing his discussion of the coaling situation, Admiral Schley said that a liberal supply was necessary. The enemy would not come toward the Americans, but would go in the other direction. Speaking of the collier Merrimac's breaking down, he said this accident rendered coaling out of the question. "I don't believe any prudent commander would have attempted to send a ship alongside an unmoving collier to take coal. The risk would be too great. The responsibility was mine, and it was too great to take the chances. I coaled at the earliest possible moment."

With reference to the arrival of the Harvard on the 27th and his conference with Capt. (now Admiral) Cotton, Admiral Schley said that he had never received the dispatch reporting in positive terms the presence of the enemy at Santiago. "I never saw it," he said, with intense earnestness. "I never saw it, and I am sure that Cotton never delivered it to me. If he had done so, it would be among my papers, and it would have burnt itself into my memory, so that I never could have forgotten it."

Admiral Schley also referred again to his conversation with Capt. McCalla, saying that McCalla did not testify to the whole conversation, and then discussed his dispatch to the navy department regarding the disobedience of orders. He said that, as transmitted, this message was essentially different from the dispatch as he had framed it. He contended that there had been no disobedience; that he had complied with orders in returning to Santiago, and held that the proper construction of his dispatch would relieve him of this charge.

At this point the court adjourned.

TELLS OF THE BATTLE.

Admiral Schley Continues His Testimony Before the Court.

Washington, Oct. 26.—When the Schley court of inquiry adjourned Friday Admiral Schley had not completed his testimony in chief. He took the stand about 11:30 o'clock, after former witnesses had been recalled for the purpose of making corrections in and additions to their testimony, and continued his statement until the court adjourned at 3:40 p. m. The chief event of the day was the admiral's relation of the events of July 3, when the American fleet sent Cervera's squadron to the bottom of the sea or to the beach. He told his story of this historical occurrence in plain words and in unaffected style, but the narrative was straightforward and to the point, indicating close familiarity with all the phases of the event. He said that the Brooklyn had for a time sustained the fire of all four of the Spanish ships and also the fire of the Spanish land batteries. Explaining the historical turn of his own flagship, the Brooklyn, he said that she had not approached to within less than 600 yards of the Texas, and that he never had considered that vessel in the least danger. He also stated, in response to an interrogation from Mr. Rayner, that he had never during the battle engaged in any colloquy with Lieut. Hodgson, and that he had not used the expression attributed to him by Hodgson: "This refers to the alleged colloquy in which the admiral is charged with having said: 'Damn the Texas!'"

Admiral Schley also gave the details of the reconnaissance of May 31, when the Spanish ship Cristobal Colon was bombarded. In this connection he denied the statements attributed to him by Commander Potts, of the battleship Massachusetts.

Preceding the adjournment of the court the question of calling Admiral Sampson to the stand was revived by Judge Advocate Lemly, who reminded Mr. Rayner that he (Mr. Rayner) had suggested some time ago that he desired the admiral called. Capt. Lemly said he was prepared to issue a summons if called upon to do so, but Mr. Rayner responded that the incident which had seemed to demand into comparative insignificance, and he added that it was well understood the condition of Admiral Sampson's health was such that he could not be expected to appear upon the witness stand.

As Admiral Schley left the courtroom he was given quite an ovation. A large number of persons had halted outside the courtroom door and many insisted on shaking hands with him. The assemblage escorted him up the hill from the gunners' workshop in which the court sits to the outer gates of the navy yard.

Speak Good Word for Charleston.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The Executive Commissioners' association, composed of commissioners to the Pan-American exposition from the various states, of which Joseph MacMullen, of Minneapolis, is chairman, have adopted resolutions indorsing the Charleston exposition and advising all Pan-American exhibitors to exhibit there.

NEW MEDICAL BUILDING.

Corner Stone of the Structure Laid at Ann Arbor with the Most Elaborate Ceremonies.

ADDRESSES MADE BY SEVERAL PERSONS

Seventh Annual Meeting of the Women's Clubs—President Angell Makes His Annual Report to the Board of Regents—Makes Some Recommendations.

[Special Correspondence.]

University of Michigan, Oct. 21.—With elaborate exercises continuing nearly an entire day, the corner stone of the new medical building was laid October 15. The exercises began in the forenoon by an address to the members of the medical department by Dr. John A. McCorkle, professor of medicine in the Long Island college hospital at Brooklyn, N. Y. The stone was laid with great formality at 2:30 in the afternoon. The introductory remarks were by Hon. Herman Kiefer, of Detroit, regent of the university. He gave at some length the history of the difficulty experienced in getting the funds with which to commence the structure.

He also spoke of the high standing of the Michigan school among the medical colleges of the world, and called the roll of those who have helped to make the institution great.

Dr. Leastus Connor, of Detroit, president of the State Medical society, read a paper upon the history of Michigan, the university and the medical school and then laid the stone. A solid silver trowel, which had been presented to him by the board of regents, was used by Dr. Connor. The large crowd of people present sang "America," and the "Yellow and Blue," the University of Michigan official song.

With the stone in place, a procession with the speakers and distinguished guests at the head, was formed, and all marched to University hall, where addresses were made by Dr. J. George Adams, professor of pathology at McGill university, at Montreal, Canada, and by Dr. James B. Angell, president of the University of Michigan.

In the evening a reception was held by the medical students in honor of the day. The lower floor of University hall, which was used for the event, was crowded. An interesting feature of the day was the appearance of the 500 medical students. They all wore long black gowns and the square caps with green tassels. Even the members of the faculty appeared thus costumed.

The New Building.

The new building is 144 feet 8 inches by 175 feet eight inches in size. Below the first story, which is some distance above the ground, the walls will be faced with field stone, and above the first story they will be pressed brick. The basement will contain the heating apparatus, storerooms for anatomy, demonstration rooms for surgical anatomy, chemical storerooms, etc. On the first floor will be a faculty room, library, two amphitheatres and laboratories for pathology and hygiene. The second floor will be given over to the laboratories for bacteriology and histology, and the third floor for the work in physiological chemistry and anatomy.

Women to Meet.

The seventh annual meeting of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held in the Woman's building of the university October 29, 30 and 31. At the first session a greeting will be extended by President Angell, of the university. Among the special topics to be discussed are "Household Economics," "Education," "Collegiate Alumnae," "Art," "Forestry," "The New Factory Inspector," "The Ministry of the Woman's Club," "The Importance of Scientific and Technical Education as a Preparation for Home Making," "Cooperative Homes for College Girls," etc. Among those who will appear before the federation are Mrs. Mary C. Spencer, state librarian; Hon. Charles W. Garfield, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Rev. Florence Kollock, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Dr. Eliza M. Mosher, professor of hygiene in the university; Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Mrs. Katherine E. Reighard, Ann Arbor; Prof. Albert A. Stanley, director of the university school of music, Ann Arbor.

They Contributed Money.

The Women's building, in which the sessions will be held, is to some extent a testimonial of the generosity of the women's clubs of the state. When the funds were being collected for the erection of the structure, many of the clubs raised money which they forwarded for the work.

President's Annual Report.

At the meeting of the board of regents, held October 16, President Angell made his annual report. In speaking of the enrollment during the preceding year he said:

The whole number of Michigan students was 2,144. Taking the enumeration of the last census, it appears we have one student for 1,129 of the inhabitants. If we add to the Michigan students in the university the number in the agricultural college, the mining school, and in Olive, Albion, Kalamazoo, Hillsdale and Alma colleges, say 1,035, and add 100 for Michigan students in colleges and universities outside of the state—and that number is nearly correct—it appears that the proportion of students securing collegiate or university education to the whole population of the state is just about one to 738. Evidently Michigan believes in higher education. In all the larger universities and colleges of the west attendance steadily and rapidly increases. Each of those institutions has its own constituency which furnishes it a constant supply of pupils.

Ratio of Girls to Boys Increasing. "When a new and strong university like the University of Chicago is established, it creates its own constituency and flourishes without diminishing the attendance upon the others. The truth is, the population of these northern central states, the number of parents who in the general prosperity are able to send their children to college, and the number of high schools prepared to fit pupils for college work, are increasing at such a rate that the resources of all the better institutions of higher education in those states are taxed to the utmost to meet the multiplying demands upon them. Especially is this true of the coeducational institutions. Since the proportion of girls to boys, who are seeking collegiate education is increasing year by year."

The president made strong recommendations for a new dental college building, an addition to the electric light plant, the enlargement of the physical laboratory, and the engineering department, a new building for botanical, zoological and psychological laboratories, two lecture rooms, each to accommodate 400 literary students, additional library room and a heating plant for the university hospital.

SURPRISING STORY.

Lives of Prominent Women Threatened in Retaliation for the Execution of Assassin Czolgosz.

A surprising story was told in Detroit by a prominent young society woman of Petoskey who was visiting friends there, but who does not wish to be quoted. She says that since the condemnation of Czolgosz the wives of three of the most prominent citizens of that place have received anonymous letters threatening them with assassination. The letters state that the recipient is one of 100 women throughout the United States selected to be killed in retaliation for the execution of the assassin of President McKinley.

Mrs. H. O. Rose, one of the women who has been threatened, is the wife of one of the wealthiest real estate men of that part of Michigan; a second is the wife of Attorney Wachtell, and the third is the wife of Judge Newberry. The matter has been put in the hands of the sheriff and is causing great excitement.

STATE TAX LEVY.

The Michigan Commissioners Request County Boards to Make Another Equalization.

The state tax commission has requested the county boards of supervisors to make another equalization of their respective counties. The Ingham county board has refused to accede to the request, and it is expected that a majority of the others will do likewise. Houghton county has raised a question as to the legality of the levy as made for the Spanish war loan sinking fund, claiming that it should have been based on the equalization of 1896 instead of on the equalized valuation recently fixed. It is claimed that the alleged error invalidates the tax for the purpose named. The authorities insist that the law means that the levy shall be on the current equalization. This has been the interpretation of the university and other mill tax laws, which are worded like this one, no one ever having before suggested that an ancient equalization should rule.

Expect Lively Times.

The state dairy and food department expects lively times enforcing the new law prohibiting the coloring of oleomargarine to resemble butter. Deputy Commissioner Buzzev stated that the department had been defied by a Grand Rapids firm, which has pasted in the window of its place of business the following sign: "We sell oleomargarine colored to imitate butter." This is intended as a challenge to the pure food department, and it will be accepted.

Bonanza of Copper.

Application has been made to the Ontario government for a charter for the Superior Copper company, a corporation organized at Sault Ste. Marie. The company owns a tract of 680 acres of land located on the line of the Algoma Central railway, about 40 miles from the Canadian Soo. The development work apparently shows that the company has a copper bonanza. The ore is of unusual richness, running between five and six per cent. copper.

To Extend Its Road.

The board of supervisors of Leelanau county has given permit to the Manistee & Northwestern railway to build a bridge over the Narrows, Carp lake, for the purpose of the extension of its line from Solon to Northport, 30 miles from Traverse City. The line would be a direct connection with this city and Northport and regular trains run daily from Traverse City to connect with the line to Manistee at Solon.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

A Narrow Escape.

A gigantic waterspout was sighted on the east shore of Lake Michigan, between South Haven and Saugatuck. Tons of water in the form of a round column shot up 50 feet into the clouds. The little steamer Alebar, plying between ports, ran into the monster column and narrowly escaped foundering under the weight of water that fell on her deck. The members of the crew became panic-stricken, and, deserting their duties, rushed for life preservers, expecting the boat would sink. Luckily the little steamer righted herself and cleared the danger. No sea prevailed and the steamer continued on her journey to South Haven.

Admits a Murder.

By the confession of a convict in the state penitentiary in Jackson the mysterious murder of Mrs. Helen Huss has been cleared up. Henry Wiseman admitted that he was the murderer. He went into details concerning the crime, told how he choked the woman to death in the woods near Royal Oak in October, 1900, how he buried her remains in a shallow grave under a log, and, finally, he completely exonerated William Hale, whom he accused of the murder. He refused, however, to explain his motive for the crime.

Wins the County Seat.

The Emmet county supervisors, after a three days' jangle, accepted the lease of the new Petoskey city hall for a county building, and by a vote of 14 to four ordered a vote to be taken at the spring election on the question of removing the county seat to Petoskey. This puts an end to a 20 years' fight, for Petoskey has a preponderance of the voting population.

Found Dead.

The body of William E. Parkhurst, who attempted to murder his wife in Flint and disappeared after seriously wounding her in the breast, was found in a barnyard three miles from town. Parkhurst had blown his brains out and the revolver with which he fired the shot was still clutched in his hand. Mrs. Parkhurst will recover. Jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 90 observers in various portions of the state indicate that cholera infantum and measles increased and diphtheria and pneumonia decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 178 places, measles at 12, typhoid fever at 113, whooping cough at 21, cerebro-spinal meningitis at 2 and smallpox at 29 places.

Went Over the Falls.

Mrs. Anna E. Taylor, of Bay City, a widow, went over Niagara falls in a barrel and came out uninjured with the exception of a few bruises. Thousands of spectators witnessed the feat, never before performed. Hopes of improving her financial condition prompted her to perform the daring feat, but she says she will never try it again.

Pay Big License.

Shingleton, a station in the southeast corner of Munising township, with a population of 35 people, enjoys the distinction of possessing two saloons, each of which pays $500 per year license. The liquor patronage is expected to come from the 600 or 700 men employed in the lumber camps within a few miles of the station.

News Briefly Stated.

County Treasurer R. F. Kay, of Corunna, reports no delinquent taxes returned from any cities or towns in the county with but two exceptions.

Gov. Bliss received the resignation of John D. B. Goodrich as judge of probate for Ottawa county and appointed Edward P. Kirby to fill the vacancy.

Washtenaw county supervisors have refused to adopt standard time for Ann Arbor and the county.

The Union Veterans' union will hold its annual state encampment at Kalamazoo November 26-27.

A bank will be established at Maybee, Monroe county. Farmers of the vicinity are elated over the news.

The corn crop in Van Buren county is much better than expected. Late potatoes are also of a very fine quality, as well as generous in quantity.

All automobile records for one to ten miles were broken in Detroit by Alexander Winton, of Cleveland, O. The mile was made in 1:06 2-5 and the ten miles in 11:09.

The citizens of Parkers Corners, a hamlet near Pinckney, were held at bay by a gang of armed burglars while they robbed the safe in L. F. Peets' general store.

Lizzie Arnold attempted to commit suicide in Port Huron, but a doctor saved her. She was to have been married to James Smith, but he did not appear.

Fire on the Elizabeth Lake road, about three miles west of Pontiac, destroyed several barns, the total loss being $10,000.

Henry Albach, an Ann Arbor brakeman, was killed at Marlon while coupling cars. He lived half an hour. Albach lived at Vernon, and was to have been married there next day to a young lady at Cadillac.

The Railway Won Out.

The D. Y., A. A. & J. filed a bill for an injunction to restrain the township of Canton from interfering with their embankment while cleaning out a culvert, but the work was completed before the township knew suit was begun. In what looks like a spirit of revenge the township authorities filed a cross bill asking that the railway be restrained from operating its railway in the township, basing the application on two grounds. The first was that the franchise should have been granted by the board of supervisors instead of the township board from whom it was obtained, because the state constitution gives the supervisors power to raise money by borrowing or taxation to construct or repair highways. It has been decided that this power relates only to territorial and state highways. Judge Carpenter, in a decision filed Friday in Detroit, holds that the township board and not the supervisors has the power to grant franchises such as that held by the company.

The second contention of the township was that the railway should be so constructed as to be adapted to the use of ordinary vehicles traveling on the highway. Judge Carpenter holds that until required by the necessities of public travel, this is not necessary and orders that both bill and cross bill be dismissed.

Rev. E. E. Caster Writes Its Praise to a Howell Newspaper.

In a letter to the Livingston Herald, published at Howell, Rev. E. E. Caster, the new pastor of the M. E. church, has the following good words for his new home town:

"The next week after our arrival here, we were given a public welcome reception in the church, which was so elaborate and fraternal that we were at once made to feel at home, and that we were among an appreciative and intelligent people.

"Chelsea is the same number of miles from Detroit that Howell is, and is just about midway between Ann Arbor and Jackson. The surrounding country is rich and beautiful. Corn and potatoes are yielding large returns to the farmers. Many acres of low brush lands, which used to be considered almost valueless are being cleared up and utilized for onion raising. It is said that Chelsea is by odds the largest onion depot and shipping point in Michigan. Loads and loads of the savory things are coming in from all directions, from morning till night. One man, R. A. Snyder, has raised 25,000 bushels on his own land, and bought 25,000 more from neighboring farmers. He will reap a fortune from his venture.

"Chelsea is a live, rushing town, and is rapidly increasing in population. There is not an unoccupied house or store in the place. Besides several residences that are under construction in different sections of the city, three business blocks, one of brick and two of faced stone, are nearing completion on Main street. One of these will be occupied by the Chelsea Savings Bank. It is a beauty. It has three marble columns in front which cost $1,000 each.

Electric Railway Notes.

Hawks & Angus have been granted a franchise for an electric line in Coldwater.

A deal was closed in Detroit Monday whereby J. D. Hawks and S. F. Angus gained control of the Lansing street railway system, buying out the line at a price said to be in the neighborhood of $250,000.

Seven cars for the interurban service of the Boland electric railway, building between Detroit and Chicago, arrived at Jackson Tuesday. They are large coaches and cost $12,000 each. Work on the Detroit and Chicago road is now busiest between Albion and Marshall.

Rapid progress is being made on the roof of the new addition to the power house of the D. Y., A. A. & J. road at Ypsilanti. It is not probable, however, that this new power house can be completed and the power plant fully installed short of 60 days. At that time power enough will be developed to run the electric line through to Jackson with the heavy cars. It is probable, therefore, that the road to Jackson will be fully opened and running about Jan. 1.

A barn belonging to Thomas Murray, of Dexter township, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning at 4 o'clock. All his crops were in the barn and were burned up, also a large number of his farm tools. The loss will aggregate $2,000, insured for $1,100 in the Northwestern Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

An Owosso teacher of small pupils while giving her class some first lessons in anatomy, said: "The eyes are to see with, the nose to smell with and the feet to run with." At this point in her remarks, a little hand went up. "What is it my little man," asked the teacher. "That isn't the way with my papa. His nose runs and his feet smells."

A game of football will be played Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on R. A. Snyder's field, between the Jackson High School and Chelsea teams. The Chelsea boys have to pay the expenses of the Jackson team and as they have no way of securing admission money from those who attend, they ask such to contribute as liberally as they can to help them out.

In view of the several big bills for medical care of smallpox patients, which have been presented to the board of supervisors at this session, the board has decided to ask for bids from the physicians of the county for such cases during the coming year. The county has also been divided into three districts for the more equitable placing of the cost of caring for such cases.

From James Grieve, Sault Ste. Marie, we have received a handsome atlas of Canada, containing maps of the world and of different portions of the Dominion of Canada; also excellent photographic scenes, illustrating public buildings and prairie views in the Canadian North West. Mr. Grieve would be pleased to forward a copy prepaid to any of our readers who will send him their address.

It costs about $5,000 a year to take care of the poor of the county. The report for the year ending Oct. 1, 1901, adopted by the board of supervisors, is as follows: Money on hand, Oct. 1, 1900, $579.67; cash from county house, $304.78; cities and townships, $2,247.05; appropriation, $2,000.00; total, $5,131.50. Orders paid to date, $4,568.61; orders outstanding, $35.72; cash on hand, $532.17.

Tomorrow (Friday, Nov. 1) the auction sale of the farm stock and implements belonging to Charles Samp will be held on the H. S. Holmes farm, in Lima, five miles southeast of Chelsea and one mile south of Lima Center. The farm will also be offered for sale at the same time. Geo. E. Davis will sell the property and the sale will begin at 9:30 a. m. Lunch and hot coffee will be served at noon.

Athletics and Society People of New York

It was by accident that Miss Genevieve Hecker became a golf champion.

The Typical Golfing Girl.

She didn't take to the game at first, but spent her summers yachting and wheeling. Late in the fall of 1898 her brothers went to Yale to train for baseball and most of her chums returned to the city before she did. She began to bang the white balls about "just for fun." Practically she has played three seasons to Miss Hoyt's six or seven.

They call her the "Flour of the Links." Naturally, since her father is the "Hecker's Oats" man, principal member of the Hecker-Jewell flour trust that a few years ago combined a lot of small eastern flouring mills to fight the supremacy of western giants like Pillsbury and Washburn. Miss Hecker herself won out against a western girl.

The worst foe that women golfers have to contend against is nerves. There are players who can make tremendous scores while going over the links alone for practice, but who go to pieces when a great "gallery" watches them and a championship hangs on the result. That is one reason why champions last so short a time. The most successful player at a pinch often proves to be some schoolgirl so young that an earthquake cannot keep her awake the night before a match. Frances Griscom won her title to the championship in that way last year.

Van Tassel Sutphen says that $10,000,000 is invested in golf, and that $5,000,000 is yearly spent in the game by 150,000 members of private clubs. There are besides public links like the famous one supported by the city of New York at Van Cortlandt park, where a perfectly kept green is kept and a professional teacher employed for anybody who wishes to play.

The Woman Champion.

There are probably a hundred men in the country who can beat Miss Hecker at golf. The wonder is that there are not more. It is odd that women do better at games of strength and skill than at intellectual games like chess. Why?

I presume that the best woman chess player in the country is Mrs. Showalter, wife of the gigantic champion player of that name. It is safe to say that there never was a woman chess player of the rank of Steinitz and Lasker and Showalter and Pillsbury.

The latter has just done a feat of chess playing that to me seems almost incredible. Against him were pitted 30 members of the Brooklyn High School Chess club—boys, of course, but some of them capable of putting up a stiff game. Pillsbury was blindfolded. He was led from board to board in turn, making his move promptly and entirely from memory. Each boy had time to lay plans while Pillsbury was making 29 other moves. The expert won 28 of the games. Of course it's no great feat to beat a boy at chess; the difficulty is to remember 30 games at once, not one move of which one can see.

Of the Making of Records.

Besides politics, there is much talking about the making of records. Proctor Smith, for instance, has just run from New York to Philadelphia in three hours and 53 minutes in an automobile. The distance is roughly 90 miles. The feat is bigger than it sounds, because the machine had to slow up while passing through city streets both at the beginning and the end of the run and in towns between.

Much more excitement was caused by the breaking of the coaching record, because Alfred Vanderbilt took part in it. The six men who shared this feat drove from New York to Philadelphia and back in less than 20 hours. It was a costly excursion. For days in advance the route was carefully covered by agents distributing the horses and making sure that there should be no mishap or delay in transfers. Four horses went usually less than ten miles before being replaced by a new team. Young Howlett, who did most of the difficult driving, is the best amateur whip in the world.

The route these young men took was not the famous old one traversed by Washington when he came to New York to be inaugurated president. Washington traveled from Philadelphia to Perth Amboy and there was rowed by "barge" to the Battery, New York. Newark scarcely existed in those days. The coaching route now runs through Newark, New Brunswick and Princeton. Bicyclists almost always follow Washington's route, ferrying from Perth Amboy to Staten Island and from that to the Battery, landing a few rods farther east than did the Father of his Country.

Activities of the Young Vanderbilts.

While Alfred Vanderbilt was coaching across New Jersey, young Willie K. was leaning far out over the side of a racing auto on a track, making nearly a mile a minute and going about the turns on two wheels. And on the previous night Cornelius Vanderbilt was attending a drill of the Twelfth regiment of the militia, where he has just been elected a second lieutenant. His first lieutenant, by the way, is "Reggie" Foster, a star newspaper reporter, brother of Maximilian Foster, the author of hunting yarns and bear stories.

Cornelius is the only one of these three young men who seems to pay serious attention to serious subjects. Alfred disregarded a jury summons to start on his Philadelphia race. William K. is a merry young man with considerable physical vitality. Cornelius has the strong jaw and heavy face that made old William H. a marked man wherever he went. I shouldn't be surprised to see him some day the richer of the three, though his father did try to "cut him off with a million" for his marrying to suit himself.

People will persist in regarding Alfred as the "head of the family," which he is not, either in the English or the American understanding of the phrase. By the English rule Cornelius, the elder son, could not be displaced from his rights for marrying as he pleased or for any other reason. By the American rule William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., is the head of the family, by right of greater wealth and responsibility in the business world.

Alfred Vanderbilt has just leased a town house for the winter, not caring to share with his mother the great $8,000,000 palace at the corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street. He is to pay $14,000 a year rent for the Kingsland mansion near by.

It seems like a few months only since Alfred Vanderbilt was married to the beautiful Elsie French. Really it was last spring, and—well, as soon as the storks heard that Alfred had leased the Kingsland mansion they began flying about it, wondering if the roof would be a good place to alight.

A Typical Marriage.

I wonder if we must consider the marriage of the Freddie Gebhards as typical.

Mr. Gebhardt is 44, tall, by nature strong and robust. He became famous just 20 years ago when he attended Mrs. Langtry through the country on her first visit here, and bought her a ranch in California and other things. After that he took successively to horses, dogs, the Keeley cure, coaching. Then he fell in love again—seriously.

This time the lady was "Lulu" Morris, of Baltimore. From the first the nickname was so commonly used that few remembered that she was christened Louise. She was fond of adventure and excitement. It was she who helped start Harry Lehr toward the summit of undying fame—of a sort—by wading with him in a Baltimore street fountain one night. She seems to have been fond of the water. Once she jumped overboard from a yacht fully dressed, dragging a man in after her. Once she bathed in street costume from the beach at Narragansett pier.

The Storks Are Investigating.

When these two were married, people said that Gebhardt had settled down and that Mrs. Gebhardt would doubtless become more demure. The latter prediction was correct. Mrs. Gebhardt is a favorite in that society of which she is a member, but not one of the most extravagant either in costume or manner. But the husband has tired of the marriage. So he goes to Dakota, and there brings divorce proceedings based upon the charge—desertion. His sister sympathizes with Mrs. Gebhardt and goes driving with her in Newport to show her allegiance.

No, I don't think it is a typical case; but it is a common one.

OWEN LANGDON.

HOW IT IMPRESSED GOLDBERG

Lectures on Personal Hygiene That Were Almost Too Successful.

Any one who comes in contact with the most ignorant of the immigrant class in this city soon realizes that the education that is derived from books is only a very small part of what they need. Teach them to read and write English, and they are little changed, except to become rather more self-important; but teach them to wash, and they are different beings. One teacher of immigrants had this so firmly impressed on her mind that she would look at her large English class and sigh hopelessly as she tried to plan how grammar and the art of bathing could be taught together, relates the New York Tribune.

One day she had an inspiration. She made a little speech to her class on elocution. She said that to speak good English a clear pronunciation was indispensable, and a clear pronunciation necessitated a good deal of care of the teeth and so on. Then she wound up by saying that she would like to have the whole class come up to her house to listen to lectures on elocution.

This done, she secured a lively young elocutionist and explained her purpose. "I don't care," she said, "whether you teach elocution or not. At least three out of the six lectures I want you to give must deal entirely with personal cleanliness. Drag it in by the hair of its head, but get it in somehow."

The elocutionist liked the idea. The audience of 30 or 40 foreigners was most attentive. This was to them a new gate to success. It appeared that to speak good English and get on in life one must have a clear enunciation, which required good teeth, which required daily brushing, and general good health, which in turn required washing and exercise and open windows. By this simple but effective house-that-Jack-built system the conspirators could reach anything they wished to say, and hurt nobody's feelings by doing it. The whole thing was, to the eyes of the class, a part of the teachings of English composition.

Now, the most attentive listener was to the teacher's great content, the dirtiest member of the class. Not that he, poor fellow, was much to blame, or that teacher or elocutionist felt that they would have been much better had they his past life behind them. Still, Goldberg was facing his opportunity now, and so far as washing of body or teeth went, he hadn't seized it.

The class turned to its lessons on grammar much improved. Hands were cleaner, teeth brighter; so the teacher felt repaid. But Goldberg did not come back—patient, industrious, cheerful Goldberg—and she wondered what had happened. Some two or three weeks later he appeared, still patient, but with an air of subdued triumph and somehow oddly changed. The teacher welcomed him, and asked why he had not appeared before.

"I was busy," he explained.

"Too busy to learn English?" she inquired.

"Was trying to be able to speak good English," he explained, and suddenly showed by an expansive smile what was the change that the teacher noted. His teeth were simply aggressive in their brilliancy.

"Why, how fine your teeth look!" exclaimed the teacher.

"Dentist, he fix 'em," explained Goldberg, complacently. "Dat was why I stayed away."

"He took a fortnight to polish them!" cried the teacher.

"Pulled 'em all out," said Goldberg. "All but four in the back!"

He had been so impressed by the elocutionist that he had really had every tooth in his head but four extracted, and a complete false set put in.

Feeling the Baby.

New Girl—Please, sir, the missus is out, and I can't do a thing with the baby. He cries all the time.

Mr. Winks—Humph! Something must be done. Let-me-see. There's an idiot asylum only a few squares away. Send up for one of the female inmates to come down here—at once. I'll pay all charges.

"But what do you want of such a creature as that?"

"I think maybe she will be able to talk baby talk to him until his mother returns."—N. Y. Weekly.

CURRENT THAT KILLS

It Is Applied to the Body of Leon F. Czolgosz.

The Assassin of President William McKinley Electrocutated in Auburn Prison—Relatives Relinquish Claim to Body.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—7:18 a. m.—Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of President William McKinley, was electrocuted in the death chamber of the penitentiary at 7:15 o'clock this morning. No details of the event have as yet been made public.

RELINQUISHES CLAIM.

Czolgosz's Brother Agrees to Burial of Body in Prison.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The body of Leon Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley, will not be removed from Auburn. Superintendent of State Prisons Cornelius V. Collins and Warden J. Warren Mead, after hours of controversy with Czolgosz's brother, succeeded in obtaining from him the following relinquishment of the family claims to the remains when the executioner shall have finished his work:

"Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 28, 1901.—J. Warren Mead, Agent and Warden, Auburn Prison: I hereby authorize you, as warden of Auburn prison, to dispose of the body of my brother, Leon F. Czolgosz, by burying it in the cemetery attached to the prison, as provided by the law of the state of New York.

"This request is made upon the express understanding that no part of the remains will be given to any person or society, but that the entire body will be buried in accordance with the law in the cemetery attached to the prison.

"WALDECK CZOLGOSZ."

"Witnesses: John A. Schleicher, George E. Clarke."

Accepts Terms.

When the superintendent submitted the instrument relinquishing all claim to the body to Czolgosz he refused to sign it until he had an opportunity to advise with Waldeck Thomas Bandowski, his brother-in-law, who was the leader in the plan to secure the body. He promised a final answer at seven o'clock, when he was to call with Bandowski for a final visit to the condemned man. Collins agreed to send for him, but would not let the brother leave the prison. Finally he was, at six o'clock, informed that the people at the Buffalo crematory would not accept the body, and Superintendent Collins at once pointed out to him that he would have the body on his hands. At a few minutes past six he agreed to sign, and it was at once decided to bury the body in the prison. The agreement signed prohibits any portion of the body being removed from the prison, and this will be strictly enforced.

EXTREMELY NERVOUS.

How the Assassin Spent His Last Day of Life.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Czolgosz suffered a slight nervous attack late Monday afternoon, but the prison officials do not regard it in the light of a breakdown, and adhered to their belief that he would go unflinchingly to the chair and death. Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald and Prison Physician Gerin visited the cell at six o'clock. They found the prisoner suffering from extreme nervousness that manifested itself in dilated eyes and free flowing perspiration. When they finished the examination the prisoner turned sullenly from them and retired into the corner of his cell, refusing to talk. They gave him no treatment and were of the opinion that, while he was very nervous, he did not show signs of absolute collapse. Czolgosz had just concluded a lengthy interview with Fathers Fudzinski and Hickey. There had been considerable traffic in the corridor leading to the death chamber, and the prison officials were inclined to ascribe the disturbance of the prisoner to those circumstances.

Aside from the break at nightfall, Czolgosz spent his last day of life much as he did all the others since he passed into the hands of the law. The approach of death seemed to awaken no greater consciousness of his position. He again turned his back upon the priests who came to urge him to confess and repent, and was undemonstrative in the presence of those of his kin who came to say a last farewell to him.

When alone with his guards he remained silent and passed the time either lying on his bunk or in slowly pacing up and down the cell. He talked, when addressed, to those admitted near his cell, but with his old deliberation and slowness. If he knew strong emotion at any time, he was successful in concealing it from those who watched over him. The prison guards combatted the suggestion that his stolidity was a daze of fear, and that the hour of execution would find him helplessly broken down. The prisoner suffered no loss of appetite, and during the day ate the usual allowance of food given to prisoners. Throughout his entire confinement he has had a good appetite, and his physical condition has been excellent. He weighs about 155 pounds, which was thought to represent a slight gain since his arrest.

CLOSELY QUESTIONED.

Admiral Schley Is Cross-Examined by Judge Advocate General Lemly.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The cross-examination of Admiral Schley began Monday before the court of inquiry, and lasted more than a third of the ground was covered when the court adjourned at four o'clock. After Admiral Schley concluded in his behalf, Admiral Baker and Captain Thomas Borden. The latter was an officer of the marine corps aboard the Brooklyn. The judge advocate then will call his witnesses in rebuttal, of whom there are understood to be more than 15, and is probable that Admiral Schley's command will call witnesses in sur-rebuttal.

Nothing sensational developed Monday, and the only outburst in the court occurred when Mr. Rayher, Admiral Schley's counsel, objected to a line of inquiry of the judge advocate designed to criticize Admiral Schley's alleged failure to formulate a plan of battle, with the declaration that as Admiral Sampson was in command the junior had no right to plan an order of battle.

Admiral Schley concluded his direct examination, which continued only about ten minutes after the court convened Monday morning, with a statement of the effect of the fire of the respective fleets at Santiago showing that 96 per cent. of the hits suffered by the enemy were scored by the Brooklyn's five-inch guns, while his ships received 70 per cent. of the hits from the Spanish ships.

Capt. Lemly's cross-examination was very searching. Admiral Schley, however, appeared to be unflinching throughout the examination, frankly admitting on several occasions that he could not remember little details after the lapse of three years. One line of inquiry which the judge advocate tried to press to show that Admiral Schley did not proceed "with dispatch" from Key West to Cienfuegos by attempting to contrast the speed made between Charleston and Key West with the time between Key West and Cienfuegos was curtailed by a decision of the court, which confined the questions to the time subsequent to May 19, the day on which the flying squadron left Key West.

The judge advocate in his cross-examination dwelt upon the interview between Admiral Sampson and Commander Schley at Key West before the departure of the flying squadron, at which the latter testified that Admiral Sampson instructed him not to expose his ships to shore batteries until the Spanish fleet had been destroyed on the fact that Admiral Schley issued no written order of battle, on the question of coaling off Cienfuegos and the steps Schley took there to ascertain the presence of the Spanish fleet. He was cross-examining the witness upon matters connected with the cruise of the squadron from Cienfuegos to Santiago when the court adjourned. The retrograde movement, the firing upon the Colon and the battle of Santiago, which constitute the main features of the precept, were not touched upon Monday.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

News with Reference to Miss Stone Is Not Such as to Give Rise to Much Hope.

Constantinople, Oct. 29.—Those who have been in hourly expectation of favorable news regarding Miss Stone and her companion have again been disappointed. Nothing definite has yet been reached in the dealings with the missionaries' abductors. A point which is much discussed among those here who are interested in the case is what shall be done if the brigands insist on being paid the $25,000 (Turkish) which they at first demanded. Scarcely half that sum is available thus far, and it is believed that should an agreement on reduced terms be impossible the offer of a less sum than $25,000 (Turkish) will be withdrawn, even at the cost of the life of Miss Stone.

London, Oct. 29.—"Mr. Dickinson, United States consul general at Constantinople, has written to Miss Stone at Belitz, requesting her to induce the brigands to consent to reduce the ransom," says the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. The Bulgarian opposition journal, the Mir, declares that the troops fraternized with the brigands and allowed the latter to escape through the cordon."

GIVES HIS REASONS.

Senator Hoar Explains Why He Declines Invitation to Deliver Eulogy on McKinley.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 29.—Mayor Philip J. O'Connell sent to the city council the letter of Senator George F. Hoar asking to be permitted to decline the invitation to eulogize President McKinley. In the course of his letter Senator Hoar refers to the fact that he will be extremely busy the next few weeks, but if business was the only reason he should endeavor to overcome it. Continuing, he says: "But I ought in frankness to state another and even stronger reason. I think the eulogy on the president should be delivered by some person who was in full accord with him upon the principal political measures of his administration: I never questioned his absolute sincerity, his devotion to his public welfare, his love of liberty and his desire to do his duty as God gave him to see it. I was fully in accord with him on the great fiscal measures with which he was identified. But, as you know, I differed with him and his administration—and my opinion on that subject has been strengthened and not weakened in the lapse of time—in regard to his policy in dealing with the Philippine Islands."

Mrs. Grant Ill.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Julia Dent Grant, widow of Gen. U. S. Grant, is ill at her home here. She has been confined to her house since her return from Canada about ten days ago. At present her illness is not regarded as critical. It began with a cold and the developments have been such as to alarm her friends. Monday day she was thought to be a little better.

The Tailor-Made Is Being Elaborated

They Are Becoming More Feminine in Appearance, and Are Used for More Purposes.

But a year ago and our tailor-made costumes were of the decidedly plain nature. They were but little trimmed, and the mannish in appearance. They are still plain, but it is a plainness that is more becoming to the average woman than was the plainness of last winter. In other words, it is a femininity rather than a masculine plainness. And what a difference between the two!

There is also greater variety offered in the tailor-made garments of this year than of last. There was considerable variety of a certain kind last winter, but after all every garment had a decided resemblance to every other garment, and there was not sufficient latitude offered to secure the desired variety. Then it was strappings, and, while a variety of strappings might be put on, yet they looked very much the same in a general way when it was done. In the winter there is a variety offered in the cut of the gown; in the variety of trimming and in the general decoration. We have the tailor-made skirt, with one or more shaped flounces, or we have the plaited skirt, or the plain skirt. And the variety of trimming are even more variable than the ways of cutting.

The one thing that fashion demands absolutely, in the tailor gown as well as the evening or house gown, is a decided fullness about the feet. For this reason the shaped flounce skirts, the plaited skirts, made with the fluting underneath, are popular. Even this one thing, and almost any tailor gown will pass as a modish garment, but this fullness it must have. One very dainty, yet not overly elaborate tailor gown, the design of which comes to us from London, is a brown Venetian cloth, trimmed with velvet and satin to match. The

with a narrow mixed-silk braid of the same colors but with a little white mingled with it. The braid extends from the waist line down the front of the skirt, with a diamond shape of black velvet just at the knees, the black velvet revealing again in a small panel shape at the foot of the skirt, with three rows of braid to finish at each side and at the hem of the skirt. It has a tight-fitting jacket, with the velvet set in in diamond shape at the bust line. The lower part of the vest is of velvet and made tight-fitting. The upper half is of white silk with lace applique. Strappings of velvet around the neck, and to finish the loose bell-shaped sleeves. Four large velvet buttons fasten the coat over the bust, with small ones on the lower part of the vest.

This is another of the tailor-made gowns designed more for afternoon wear than for the purposes to which tailor-made gowns are usually put. It is in no sense a shopping or street gown. Rough materials in light, delicate blues and grays and biscuit tints make some very stunning gowns. One in pale blue, for example, has a double skirt effect, each edge trimmed with one of the fancy silk braids in white with black dots. By the way, it is well to remember the fancy braids this season, as they were never before so varied, never half so pretty as they are now. There are all sorts of mixtures, but nothing else is quite so fascinating as the black and white.

One very effective trimming in black is a silk serpentine braid in different widths, each scallop widening almost into a point. All the braids are flexible, soft and glossy, so they are easily arranged in any design. Something called the new art braid is so pliable that you can give it different shapes by stretching it in places.

Another feature of trimming shown in the shops is an embroidery on both black and white taffeta, which is cut out in different designs on one edge and embroidered by machine in imidie is slightly full, with strapings over the shoulders of brown velvet and satin. The velvet is edged with a fine cream and gold braid. The bodice is edged with mink-tail where it opens over a vest of white satin and a chemisette of real lace. The sleeves are bell-shaped and go below the elbow, with underflings of white silk. The wristband and small shaped frill over the hands are trimmed with brown velvet baby ribbon. The skirt has graduated box pleats at the foot, the plaits being underneath, with trimming on each velvet edged with cream and gold braid.

A beautiful gown on the tailor-made order, designed for wear either in the afternoon or evening, is made of blue modelcloth, with a demiprincess skirt the sides and back, and with girde black velvet in front. The bottom of the skirt has three bias flounces, the first one on the other, with piping underneath of black velvet. A very bolero over a blouse of white velvet, with lace applique on the turner collar and down the front. The sleeves, with pipings of black velvet, and undersleeves of the white velvet.

This tailor-made gown, designed for afternoon and evening wear, illustrates the possibilities of the tailor-made of this season. It has been some time since we had gowns on the tailor-made order that would have been considered elaborate enough to be suitable for such purposes. But the tailor-made is tending toward elaboration and becoming more and more feminine. In fact, it is becoming less and less a tailor-made.

Another of the new tailor-mades, while less elaborate, is much more startling in appearance. It is made of black and gray cheviot, trimmed tation of hand work. White on black and black on white are the rule. The bands are not wide and the embroidery is around the edges, with some very small pattern scattered through the center, but this does not conceal the silk at all. These bands make a very pretty finish for the top of a circular flounce where it is sewed on the upper skirt and for the front edges of the bodice down either side of the vest.

SOMETHING ABOUT CARROTS.

A sirup is prepared from carrots. Carrot is easy of digestion, and gently laxative.

Boiled carrot is used as a poultice for foul sores, and as a vermifuge.

Carrots, when cut into small pieces and roasted, are occasionally used as a substitute for coffee in Germany.

A strong ardent spirit is distilled from carrots in some parts of Europe, ten pounds of carrots yielding about half a pint.

In the reign of Charles I. ladies wore carrot leaves as an ornament instead of feathers; and the beauty of the leaves is still acknowledged by placing a root, or the upper portion of one, in water, that it may throw out young leaves to adorn apartments in winter.

As an article of food carrots contain a large amount of what are called heat-producing compounds, with a small proportion of flesh-forming matter. It consists essentially of starch, sugar and albumen, with a volatile oil which communicates a flavor unpleasant to many dyspeptics.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

A hank of yarn is 840 yards. Three hundred people die daily from accidents in Europe.

Net receipts from convict labor in Mississippi last year were about $10,000.

In New Orleans last year 78 persons died from the effects of gunshot wounds.

The world grows 154,000,000 acres of wheat, 115,000,000 acres of rye, and 108,000,000 acres of maize.

To cross the Atlantic in four days a steamer must be 935 feet long, 87 wide, and driven at 30 knots by 110,000 horse power. She would burn 1,700 tons of coal a day.

The Family Home Run.

The national game is frequently productive of "home runs," and one of the most interesting of this variety of tallies was made by a Philadelphia batsman in Chicago. He hit the ball squarely, and drove it over the right field fence. It entered the window in the second story of a house, rolled down the back stairs into the kitchen and lodged in a pan of dough under the stove. The natural inference is that the family partook the next day of ball-bearing bread.—Youth's Companion.

An Incomplete House.

We run wild over the furnishings of a house; its furniture, carpets, hangings, pictures and music, and always forget or neglect the most important requisite. Something there should be always on the shelf to provide against sudden casualties or attacks of pain. Such come like a thief in the night; a sprain, strain, sudden backache, toothache or neuralgic attack. There is nothing easier to get than a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and nothing surer to cure quickly any form of pain. The house is incomplete without it. Complete it with a good supply.

Care of the Complexion.

Many persons with delicate skin suffer greatly in winter from chapping. Frequently the trouble arises from the use of impure soap and cheap salves. DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN Specialists in the Treatment of Nervous, Blood, Private and Sexual Diseases of Men and Women. 25 Years in Detroit.
No Name used without Written Consent. Cures Guaranteed.
Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. One Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me.
I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, dependent, gloomy, had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, burning sensation. To make matters worse, I became reckless and contracted a blood disease.
I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Dr. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and honest Specialists in the country."
READER—We guarantee to cure you or no pay. You run no risk. We have a reputation and business at stake. Beware of frauds and impostors. We will pay $1,000 for any case we take that our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will not cure.
We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Varicose, Stricture, Weak Parts, Kidney and Bladder Diseases. Consultation free. Books free. Call or write for Question List for Home Treatment.
