Was a Success.

The merchants' carnival given by Columbian Hive, No. 284, L. O. T. M., at the opera house Friday and Saturday evenings, was a success spectacularly and financially. The receipts for the two evenings were $139.90. The costumes worn by the ladies were very fine, and represented the various merchants to perfection. The work in the drill was perfect and elicited much applause. The Standard regrets its inability to give a description of the costumes worn. The business men represented, and the ladies representing them were as follows:

Not a Bad Find.

It is related in one of our exchanges that at a recent rummage sale, one of the ladies who were managing the affair chanced to pick up an old pair of pants, which she recognized as having belonged to her husband. Inspired by curiosity and the force of an old habit, presumably, that had led to numerous examinations of newer garments, she began to run her pretty jeweled fingers through the pockets, and was finally rewarded by "feeling something funny" in one of them, which turned out to be a small wad of money, which had been carelessly stowed away by her husband. It is said that the find had the instantaneous effect to set all the other good wives to imitating her example, and not only the pants, but all the old coats and vests were carefully examined. It is not recorded that any more rolls of bank notes were found, but a surprising number of receipts, pawn tickets, beer checks, and confidential letters were discovered, which shed a lot of new light upon the social conditions and habits of the erstwhile wearers of the discarded garments.

This reminds us that the rummage sale, which will be given by the ladies of the M. E. church, will be opened Thursday, November 7th, in the building occupied by S. A. Mapes & Co.

A Comparison.

Since some people have asked the difference between the Hampshire and Shropshire perhaps the following facts will prove that there is a great difference:

First, the Hampshire is a purer bred sheep; second, they are larger, stronger, longer and broader; third, their wool is thicker; fourth, the lambs grow larger and heavier for the same number of days or months.

The Hampshire matures at a very early age, the same as the Shropshire and are ready for market at most any age.

Two years ago Fletcher Brothers sold to A. Dwell of Grass Lake, on October 17th, 81 lambs which averaged 80 pounds; one year ago, on October 31st, 59 lambs which averaged 85 pounds; on August 23d, this year, 58 lambs which averaged 78.9 pounds, 40 of this lot averaged 73 pounds.

These three lots of lambs were all born in March or April and when sold were taken little and big just as they were raised.

Nearly every lamb has a coal black face showing the strong breeding.

The Hampshire is a very quiet, peaceful sheep, and is a pet by nature. In no other sheep is the mother instinct so strongly developed; their young are always cared for very knowingly.

The Schools of Michigan.

Michigan is taking good care of her children. This fact is shown by the statistics concerning Michigan educational interests just published by Prof. Fall, state superintendent of public instruction. The school census shows a total of 731,698 of school age. And of this number 557,224 are enrolled in the schools of the state. In other words, on an average more than five out of every seven of the children between the ages of 5 and 20 are enrolled in the schools. This is a very good showing.

The 8,035 school houses of the state are valued at more than nineteen million dollars. The pay roll of the teachers, of whom there are nearly 16,000 is four and one-half million a year. Michigan has always taken a forward stand in educational matters. Her school system is known and studied all over the world. No tax is more willingly paid by our citizens than the school tax, although about one-half the entire taxes collected are used for school purposes.

Changes in the School Laws.

Several important changes were made in the school laws at the last session of the legislature.

The County School Commissioner's term is made four years instead of two. The compulsory school age is, in the ungraded districts from 8 to 15.

The February examination is abolished. Teachers must be at least eighteen years of age.

The director must provide the teacher with a copy of the school census, for the district and each month the teacher must report the names of such pupils of school age in the district as do not attend school. (This would probably mean those between the ages of 8 and 15 years.)

The trustee officer is required to give but one notice to parents whose children are not in school; if at any time thereafter the same children are not in school, he may at once proceed against said parents or guardians.

Holders of state certificates must file a copy of the same with the Commissioner of the county in which they expect to teach.

Rural high schools may be established in certain townships, which contain no village or city high schools.

Any person who is a graduate of any kindergarten training school approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and who holds a teacher's certificate or diploma from any reputable college in the state or from any high school having a four years course shall be legally qualified to teach in kindergarten departments and to draw public money.

The district board shall provide water supply for pupils.

Flower of the Holy Ghost.

One of the rarest and most wonderful orchids known is a native of the Isthmus of Panama. The early Spanish settlers there named it Flor del Espiritu Santo (Flower of the Holy Ghost), and those who have seen it readily understand why. It grows in marshy places from a decayed leg, or sometimes from the crevice in a rock. The leaf stalk reaches several feet in height, and the flower stalk, which grows from the bulb, bears 12 or 15 buds. The flower is pure white, and is shaped something like our jack-in-the-pulpit. Inside the flower, right in the heart of it, is a perfect image of a dove, with drooping wings, snowy breast, gold tinted head and crimson beak. No effort of the imagination is necessary to see the resemblance. It is a perfect image, exquisitely beautiful in tints and giving off an odor that no perfumer could imitate. The Spaniards named it "The Flower of the Holy Ghost," and regarded it with superstitious awe, but the native Indians, more superstitious still, worshiped it like an idol and would not let the ground on which it grew be touched.—N. Y. Herald.

His Deceiving Earsight.

She—I thought that Rev. Mr. Crossroads was expecting a call to a city church? He—So he was, but after the members of the city church heard his trial sermon they came to the conclusion that he had missed his calling.—Smart Set.

Soundless Powder Next.

The chances of smokeless powder seem seriously compromised by the recent invention of the Roman Gen. Gillette. Thanks to the latter's "acoustic telegraph" it is now possible to ascertain the exact spot whence the firing proceeds.—Manchester Guardian.

Girls Gather Snakes.

At Klamath Falls, Ore., there is quite an extensive industry in snakes. The girls gather their aprons full of them as they would of wild flowers and the boys carry them in their pockets for pets. It all came about in this fashion: The postmaster of the town some time ago received a letter from a concern in Minnesota asking the price of reptiles and inquiring if they could be shipped handily. Thinking it a joke, the postmaster replied that he would furnish all the snakes desired at 25 cents a pound. Imagine his surprise when, by return mail, an order was received for 400 pounds of snake. The Minnesota firm then informed him that next season they would place an order for 800 pounds. That set the people of Klamath Falls to thinking, and the present snake industry of the town is the result of their cogitations. The species of water snake so plentiful there is of a dark color and when full grown about three feet long. So great is the supply that tons of the reptiles could be shipped annually if there were orders for them. The snakes are used for medicinal purposes, as a superior quality of oil can be manufactured from the variety found at Klamath Falls.—Golden Days.

Tried and Convicted Too.

Politics in the west, even more than in the east, is a profession. I remember two men who were candidates for the office of district attorney. One had served before; the other was a young man conducting his first campaign.

The veteran was speaking in a small town, and after setting forth his own claims he spoke as follows of his opponent:

"I understand that Mr. X—is in every sense a worthy and honorable man, but I ask you to remember that he has never been tried—he has never been tried."

"That's so!" exclaimed a voice.

"You've been tried, old man, haven't you? And convicted, too, you know!" After due inquiry it appeared that the veteran had been, indeed, indicted for horse stealing and convicted. He was not elected.—Life and Sport in California.

The Evelean Congo.

French Congo is without a French woman, and there is gnashing of teeth in local official circles. It appears that last year the colony was brightened by the presence of 13 ladies, wives of French officials, but these soon sickened, and the government, finding the cost of transport too much, informed its colonial servants that they would not be allowed to take out their wives at the national expense. Now, a decree of December, 1897, states that inasmuch as wives ought to follow their husbands to the colonies their fares backward and forward would be defrayed by the colonial office. Therefore, the recent government order is illegal, and to get over the difficulty the colonial office will be compelled to send out only bachelors to the colony.—London Express.

Our Commonplace Face.

A gentleman who has made a study of the subject has come to the conclusion that the American face is not distinctive in any sense of the word. Or if it has any distinctive feature it is in the fact that there is no strong characteristic that would differentiate it from other faces of superior races. There is nothing that will call it up in the mind from the world's group of Caucasian faces.—Detroit Free Press.

Prayer Books in Jack Pots.

The ladies of the town of Arensburg are passionate card players, says a German newspaper. Since they are not allowed to play at the local clubs they make up games at their friends' houses and gamble all day through. As soon as the cash funds run short they take to various articles, mostly toilette belongings. Thus one lost to another her corset, one lost a bonnet, a third some lace and perfumes, and they go even as far as losing their prayer books.—Cleveland Leader.

Long-Headed.

Mamma—Now, dear, you may invite one of your little playmates in to share your birthday cake.

Tommy—All right. I'll ask Jimmy Jones.

"I thought you liked Willie Brown better."

"Yes'm, but Jimmy don't like cake, and he don't eat much."—Philadelphia Press.

Luck in Disguise.

The young man who suddenly finds himself without expectations turns his thoughts upon his reserve forces and begins to "know himself." New powers spring into activity and he finds more satisfaction in his business than when prosperity and his father's wealth made him a society dude.—N. Y. Sun.

Aggravating Man.

Mrs. Hitley—My husband's the meanest thing. He had the rheumatism when he woke up this morning.

Mrs. Hitley—Well?

"Well, that's a sure sign of rain, and I've got a lawn party on for this afternoon."—Philadelphia Press.

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN.

Much excitement prevails among pearl hunters at Taylor's Falls, Minn. John Emery found a shell in the river which contained a large pearl perfectly round and of that peculiar luster which makes it very valuable. Those who claim to know say it is the finest ever found in the west and is worth at least $2,000.

Outbreaks of typhoid and diphtheria of a most serious character have occurred at Belfast. In ten days 98 cases of typhoid, all of a severe type, were admitted to the hospital, the total number of cases being 254; while 19 cases of diphtheria had been admitted in two days. One nurse has died of typhoid and several others are ailing. The number of doctors and nurses is to be increased.

The singing of the favorite hymns of the late president was perhaps the most remarkable feature of the services held in memory of him, across the Atlantic as well as in his own land, in synagogues as well as in church. The circumstance shows that "Nearer, my God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light" express emotions that are felt in every religious heart, be the body that encloses it Jew or Gentile.

There was quite a sensation in Rutland square, Dublin, recently, when a Boer flag was found floating from the roof of the Orange Hall. How it got there is somewhat a mystery. It is surmised that some of the members, remembering that their patron of "glorious, pious and immortal" memory came of the same stock as the Boers, took this method of showing their sympathy with the burghers who are still in the field.

Owing to the incessant rains the river Judrio, which flows along the borders of Italy, Austria, and the district of the Friuli, overflowed its banks one night recently, inundating all the land, the surrounding towns of Romans, Medea and Varsa. Alarm bells were kept ringing, and the country people fled in haste to the towns, but eleven persons are reported to have been drowned, and much damage has been done to property and crops.

Sven Hedin has discovered a second Dead Sea in the Highlands of Tibet—a vast lake so impregnated with salt that indigenous life is out of the question. It was impossible for him to get his boat close to the shore, so that he and his companions had to wade out two boat lengths before she would float and this was sufficient to coat their legs and clothes thickly with salt. The entire bed of the lake appeared to consist of salt, and the density of the lifeless water was, of course, very high.

Jorevin de Rochefort, who published in Paris in 1671 an account of his travels in England, tells the following: "While we were walking about the town (Worcester) he asked me if it was the custom in France as in England that when the children went to school they carried in their satchel with their books a pipe of tobacco, which their mother took care to fill early in the morning, it serving them instead of breakfast, and that at the accustomed hour every one laid aside his book to light his pipe, the master smoking with them and teaching them how to hold their pipes and draw in the tobacco."

Lud Madison, who was to have been hanged at Parkersburg, W. Va., for murder recently, has been reprieved by Gov. White for sixty days. Madison claims that he has already been legally executed, and that it is not lawful to hang a man twice for the same offense. Two years ago he was sentenced to be hanged, but a stay of execution was granted, and the state supreme court granted him an appeal. Through an error, the records of the court in which he was convicted showed that he was executed instead of respited. Madison's lawyers claim that, according to the records, Madison is dead and cannot be lawfully hanged again. They will appeal the case to the Supreme Court of the United States.

At a regular meeting of Magnolia Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Sharpsburg, Md., resolutions were adopted denouncing United States Senator Wellington of Maryland, a member of the order, for the remarks he is alleged to have made in regard to the assassination of President McKinley, who was also a member of the Knights of Pythias. The resolutions declare that the remarks made by Senator Wellington were most disgraceful, unpatriotic and unbrotherly; that he violated the principles of the order, and that he is no longer fit to be a member. They conclude by demanding the senator's expulsion from the organization. Mountain City lodge, Knights of Pythias of Frederick, Md., passed similar resolutions.

Holding her three-months-old baby by its clothing in her teeth, and with one arm clasped about her four-year-old daughter, Mrs. Theodore Prie, climbed two stories down the fire escape to get away from her insane husband, after he had attacked her and the children with a revolver. Prie is a Cuban barber, and lives at 745 Tinton avenue, in the Bronx, New York. The neighbors say that he was at one time a well-to-do tobacco grower in Cuba, and that the loss of his plantation there had made him insane.

THE GOLD STATE OF MICHIGAN

A Bloody Tragedy in the Upper Peninsula.

A GRAND RAPIDS SENSATION.

The Facts, Fancies and Happenings of Note Which the Two Peninsulas Afford Gathered and Briefly Told For Busy Readers.

The Beechwood Tragedy.

Later details from the scene of the Beechwood tragedy show that it was the most revolting in the history of the upper peninsula. Instead of four as reported Sunday night there were five victims as follows:

ANDREW ISRAELSON, who committed the crime.

MRS. ANDREW ISRAELSON, his wife.

ANDREW LINDSTROM, his father-in-law.

MRS. AMANDA LINDSTROM, his mother-in-law.

Minnie Lindstrom, his sister-in-law.

It appears that Lindstrom was shot and killed first by the maniac, who then turned his rifle on the three women, as screaming, they ran from the house. The aged mother-in-law was killed at the doorsteps, the sister-in-law a few feet away in the garden, and the wife ten feet distant from the spot where her sister fell. One shot only was necessary to kill each of the maniac's victims. With the family wiped out, the murderer dragged the body of the mother-in-law into the house, which he set on fire. Then walking out to the yard, Israelson put a bullet through his head and fell dead at the side of his wife. The house was entirely consumed, as were the two bodies in it.

Over the Falls She Went.

Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor, of Bay City, 43 years old, went over Niagara Falls on the Canadian side Thursday afternoon and survived, a feat never before accomplished. She made the trip in a barrel. Not only did she survive, but she escaped without a broken bone, her only apparent injuries being a scalp wound, one and a half inches long, a slight concussion of the brain, a shock to her nervous system and bruises about the body. She was conscious when taken out of the barrel. Mrs. Taylor's trip covered a mile ride through the Canadian rapids before she reached the brink of the precipice. As her barrel passed over the brink it rode at an angle of about 45 degrees on the outer surface of the deluge, and descended as gracefully as a barrel can descend to the white foaming waters, 158 feet below. Seventeen minutes after going over the falls the barrel was secured and ten minutes later Mrs. Taylor was taken out. She thanked God she was alive, thanked all who had helped her in any way, said she would never do it again, but that she was not sorry that she had done it. "If it would help her financially," her reason for performing the reckless feat was to advertise herself among theatrical and museum managers. Her barrel was built by a Bay City beer cask manufacturing concern.

The Grand Rapids Sensation.

The alleged attempted bribery of witness Garman in the Salisbury case is the chief topic of conversation in Grand Rapids. William Leonard, the only man as yet taken into custody in connection with the bribery case, and who was locked up at the jail, tells a brief story of his connection with the case. He says he was engaged by a tall, swarthy man, a stranger, to take some papers to Garman. The package he took was a large brown envelope, sealed, and contained something evidently bulky, as the envelope was well padded. Leonard says he took this to Garman's room at the Livingston and there handed it in person to Garman. Witness Garman says he opened the envelope that Leonard gave him and that it contained bank bills, and that he waited only long enough for the messenger to depart before he took the envelope with its contents to the office of Mr. Ward and delivered it to him. There was an eye-witness to the transaction in Garman's room, Arthur Rowe, a young man who was first called to the stand by Mr. Ward Saturday to give testimony in the contempt proceedings. If the prosecuting attorney's chain of evidence is sufficiently strong it will place the two attorneys in extremely unpleasant positions and may lead to sensational developments.

Wiseman Confesses.

After several hours of the sweat box ordeal, Henry Wiseman, the convict, has finally yielded to the irresistible logic and close examination of Prosecutor Rockwell and make a full and complete confession of the murder of Mrs. Christopher Huss on the afternoon of September 20, 1900. The strain to which he has been subjected since Wednesday night was too much, and he finally broke down completely and exclaimed: "I killed the woman." He then said that his statement made Wednesday of how Hale killed Mrs. Huss was in reality a description of his own bloody deed. He refuses to assign a motive for the crime. This confession completely clears up the mystery which has been occupying the attention of the Oakland county authorities for three weeks.

Lansing is short on small dwellings and carpenters and masons to build new ones.

John B. Hamilton, an old resident of Alpena, went violently insane Tuesday night. He broke most of the windows in his residence and was badly cut about the arms, legs and body with broken glass. It took four officers to restrain him and lodge him in jail. He died in convulsions at 10 o'clock next morning.

Edgar A. Miner, of Coldwater, Democratic county treasurer in 1897, whom Accountant Dresser declared to be $700 short in his accounts, will himself hire an expert to go through the books for him. He declares he does not owe the county a dollar and will vindicate himself.

The barns on the farms of John Voorheis and Thomas Jones, located on the Elizabeth lake road, three miles west of Pontiac, burned Wednesday, together with their contents. Loss, $8,000.

Bob Leonard, the 13-year-old son of Ward Leonard, had his right leg shot off at Onekama by his cousin. The shooting was accidental. He was brought to Manistee and his leg was amputated.

Ignatius Brandt, charged with forgery and burglary, has escaped from the Alger county jail. He locked the turnkey in the corridor and got a good start before the officer could make himself heard.

Mrs. James Cassidy, of Lawton, has located her missing husband on a farm near Mishawaka Ind. There was a stormy scene between the couple. The officer who was with Mrs. Cassidy had to restrain her.

Judge Mayne, of the Circuit Court, has upheld the city's right to prevent the Traverse City Gas Co. from laying its mains in the principal streets. The ordinance provides that the mains shall be laid in alleys.

State Senator A. E. Palmer, who resides a short distance from Kalkaska, was refilling his acetylene gas machine, when the apparatus exploded and he was terribly burned about the head and on both hands.

Ernest Post, a farmer, two miles from Attica, took $80 and went to Imlay City. It is said he drank heavily and returned at a late hour. He was found dead in the morning, at his home, his money gone.

Colby Ostrander, aged 70 years, was found dead in his home in Tekonsha Friday morning. He lived alone, having separated from his wife. It is believed to be a case of suicide, and the coroner will investigate.

The mutilated body of a man was found between Battle Creek and Bedford station, on the Michigan Central tracks, Thursday morning. Letters indicate that his name was Eugene C. Dexter, of Danville, Ill.

Fifteen of the surviving supervisors of Oakland county who held office from 1863 to 1870 were given a banquet by former Judge of Probate Thos. L. Patterson. Some of the guests were more than 80 years old.

Some of the supervisors of St. Clair county are opposed to making repairs to the present court house and favor the building of a new court house when the lease of the present one, which has 60 years to run, expires.

As the result of a fight at a dance held at the home of Peter Poupard, Wesley Duclo, a member of a Monroe tough gang, lies at the point of death with a wound in his head, caused by his being hit with an ax.

Alger county is literally a hunter's paradise this fall. Partridges are so numerous that bags of 25 and 30 are common. Deer are everywhere reported as very plentiful. Bears, too, are unusually numerous.

Maud Boals, of Bay City, was granted a divorce from Edward Boals Wednesday and immediately took out a license and was married Thursday to Edward Rouse, although the decree was not filed until Friday.

While walking on the Michigan Central railroad track Wednesday, four miles west of Battle Creek, Eugene E. Dexter, of Danville, Ill., was killed by the express coming east. He was crushed to a shapeless mass.

William Hodgson has been appointed deputy game warden for Iron county. There has been a great slaughter of deer in the county during the past two months, because there was no officer to make complaint.

Leonidas D. Dibble, who built the Peninsular railway from Lansing to Chicago, is dead at Battle Creek. The road is now the Grand Trunk Western, and Dibble was its president from 1865 to 1873. He was 77 years old.

Apples—even cider apples—are so high this fall in some parts of the state that the farmers who have any are letting their cornhuskers go until later, in order to secure the apples before the cidermaking season is over.

George Robinson (white), of Churchville, is 21 years old. Wednesday he was married to Miss Lottie Henderson, his "coal-black lady." Miss Henderson acknowledges to 40 summers, but is the possessor of property valued at $30,000. The groom is a laborer.

Three section men were instantly killed by the Wabash fast mail going west near Milan at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. The men were ordered out to drive some cattle off the track. They were returning on a hand-car when the fast mail struck them.

Difficulties in securing the right of way for the new United Railway extension, which has been surveyed from Farmington via Novi to Lansing, have led to a new survey, which is now in progress on a route going to the capital from Northville via South Lyon.

George I. Watson, charged with defrauding St. Joseph farmers of $1,000 worth of fruit by means of worthless checks, is in jail in default of $1,000 bonds. Watson, while in the meat business in Chicago, was locked up in the icebox and the money drawer robbed.

George Brandow is in jail. He says that John Furti and Ed Thompson came to his home, near Cross village, with the intention of "doing him up." In the fight which followed he killed Furti, then walked to Petoskey, 30 miles, to give himself up. He has a wife and three children.

Mayor Emery, of Owosso, has vetoed the proposition to give $2,000 bonus to a planing mill, and the council has pledged itself to vote against every bonus proposition which comes up unless the mayor rescinds. This will knock out the Bess Machine Works, which a committee of prominent business men has been figuring with.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD.

Chinese Minister Wu's "Cheerful" Prospect.

POWERS AGAIN FOUND GUILTY.

Current Events, Major and Minor Gathered and Briefly Given for the Busy Reader's Information, With Facts and Fancies Interspersed.

Pennsylvania Forest Fires.

The western slope of the Allegheny mountains, through Fayette county, are ablaze from the Yough river into West Virginia and mountaineers are fleeing from their doomed homes with their families. Careless hunters started a dozen fires during the past week and the brush is as dry as tinder. Streams that were never known to go dry are without water and only a drenching rain will stop the swiftly spreading destruction.

The fire has been spreading for a week and the glare at night can be seen for miles. The destruction has been enormous to crops, fences, barns, stock and dwellings, with many narrow escapes from cremation in homes that were surrounded by the flames.

Stringent Measures Now.

Dispatches from Cebu, Samar, say that stringent and energetic measures are being taken to suppress the insurrection in that island. Gen. Smith has notified all the presidents and headmen of the Pueblos that, in order to avoid trouble, they must surrender all arms and turn over the persons implicated in the Balangiga massacre before November 6, threatening that otherwise the presidents will be sent to the island of Guam, the villages destroyed and the property confiscated. Marines under Maj. Littleton W. H. Waller have been stationed at Balangiga and Basey and ten gunboats are vigilantly patrolling the Samar coast. Most of the towns in the southern part of the island have been destroyed.

Wu's Cheerful Prospect.

The report that Chinese Minister Wu may be recalled and given a position on the new board of foreign affairs, has given rise to gossip that Wu is altogether too popular in America to be loyal to China. According to talk in diplomatic circles, one of the mandarins said recently to an American army officer: "Why do the people of the United States make such a fuss over that Chinese coolie?" "We think him a very clever and useful man," responded the officer. "Bah! When Earl Li dies we will bring him home and cut his head off." Wu says he has received no intimation that his government is dissatisfied with him.

Defied Excommunication.

As an excommunicated priest, divested of every right to claim membership in the Roman Catholic church, Fr. Jeremiah J. Crowley, defied the order of the highest tribunal of the Catholic church in Chicago Sunday, and attended mass at St. Peter's church and the Holy Name cathedral. Several ushers who saw him enter, hurried to the sacristy and informed Fr. Francis J. Barry, the chancellor of the diocese, that Fr. Crowley was in the congregation. Instead of attempting to exclude the excommunicated priest, Fr. Barry said simply, "Close your eyes on him," and the services proceeded.

King Edward's Health.

Reynolds Weekly newspaper is the first British paper to assert that King Edward is suffering from cancer of the throat. It declares that since his majesty's accession, three operations have been performed for the removal of papilloma on the left vocal chord and that one was removed from the right vocal chord. "Assistance was hastily summoned," says this journal, "as his majesty was breathing with difficulty and an immediate operation was performed. But it was regarded as only a temporary relief, the injured epithelium now having become a cancerous growth, and serious developments are expected."

Powers Again Convicted.

Ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers was again convicted of being an accessory before the fact to the murder of Gov. William Goebel, of Kentucky, in January, 1900, and for the second time has been sentenced to imprisonment for life. The second trial began October 8, and has continued with three sessions daily, court adjourning late at night. The present term expired Saturday night. Arguments were limited so that the case went to the jury at 2 o'clock p. m., and a verdict of guilty soon followed.

An Obscene Play.

Senor Tamayo has annulled the order prohibiting the Havana theatrical managers from producing the play "Los Reyes Del Toleño" (The American Pork Kings). The play ridicules the Americans generally and grossly questions the honor of the women of the United States. It is so obscene that the queen regent of Spain stopped its production in Madrid on the eve of the Spanish-American war, when feeling against the Americans was at its height in Spain. The play was also tabooed in Paris.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew is to marry Miss May Palmer in the near future.

No will was left by the late John S. Pillsbury, former governor of Minnesota. His estate is estimated to be worth $5,000,000.

Ninety guests at a wedding near Bath, Me., were taken ill with symptoms of poisoning.

The United States continues at the head of the list of the world's exporting nations. For the nine months ending with September, our exports of domestic products were $1,042,005,181, against $1,018,845,708 from the United Kingdom.

Miss Alice Matson, of New York city, was arrested in Moscow and fined 16 roubles for giving English lessons without a license. As this is a criminal offense under the Russian law, Miss Matson escaped with a remarkably light sentence.

The Dietrich and Hygienic Cacao says: "Walter Baker & Co., of Boston, Mass., U. S. A., have given years of study to the skillful preparation of cocoa and chocolate, and have devised machinery and systems peculiar to their methods of treatment, whereby the purity, palatability, and highest nutrient characteristics are retained." Their preparations are known the world over and have received the highest endorsements from the medical profession, the nurse, and the intelligent housekeeper and caterer."

Buffalo, N. Y., telegram: New England's building at the Pan-American exposition was destroyed by fire. The contents, consisting of rich furnishings of historic value, costly oil paintings and other articles of great value, were also entirely destroyed. The building cost $30,000, and the loss of the contents is estimated at $100,000. The fire was discovered at 11:10 o'clock, and an hour later the building was in ashes. The structure was one of the finest of the so-called state buildings on the exposition grounds.

Major J. E. Hill Resigns Post.

Springfield, Ill., telegram: Word was received at Lincoln that former Major James Edgar Hill of that city, brother-in-law of the late Governor Richard J. Oglesby, and now major in the United States army, has resigned his position as treasurer of Rial province, Philippine islands. He says he finds the responsibilities and labor of his office too much for him, especially as the government makes him responsible financially for all his native duties.

The Teacher's Wife.

Clarissa, Minn., Oct. 28th.—Miss Clara Keys wife of Charles Keys, school teacher of this place, tells a wonderful story.

For years her life was one of misery. Her back ached all the time; her head ached all the time; neuralgic pains drove her to desperation. She used much medicine, but failed to get any relief till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. She says:

"Very soon after I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills all my aches and pains vanished like the morning dew. I consider this remedy a God-send to suffering womanhood."

Encouraged by their success in her own case, Mrs. Keys induced her mother, an old lady of 74 years, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills for her many aches and pains. Now both mother and daughter rejoice in perfect freedom from illness or suffering which is something neither had enjoyed for years before.

The Story of the Horse.

Horses began in western America, says Professor W. B. Scott of Princeton, in the form of animals hardly larger than domestic cats, whose remains are found in the Wasatch beds of Eocene time. Later on, in the form of the mesohippus, these animals attained the stature of sheep, and showed considerable advances in organization. In time the protohippus was developed and it not only attained a greater size, but had a skeleton "so like that of a horse as to require a careful examination to note the difference." The change from the protohippus to the existing equus occurred early in the Pliocene. Yet "the true horse in the restricted sense of the term (species Equus caballus) was not developed in North America, and appears never to have reached this continent until brought here by European settlers. For reasons which can hardly be overestimated, the horses disappeared entirely from the Western Hemisphere before the discoveries of Columbus, and continued to exist only in Spain and Africa."

Care of the Complexion.

Many persons with delicate skin suffer greatly in winter from chapping. Frequently the trouble arises from the use of impure soap and cheap salves. The face and hands should be washed only with clear, hot water with Ivory Soap. A little mutton tallow or almond oil rubbed after the bath to soften the skin will be used after the bath to soften the skin.

Sun-Spots and the Weather.

As we are believed now to be at the beginning of a new maximum sun-spot period, the question of the relation of the sun-spots to the weather is coming again to the front. The observations of Professor E. Bruckner indicate that there is a periodical variation in the climate over the whole earth, the mean length of the period being about 35 years. Mr. W. J. B. Lockyer believes it has been demonstrated that there is a variation in the intensity of sun-spot phenomena also having a mean length of about 35 years. The spot maximum, whose beginning is now at hand, will, according to Mr. Lockyer, resemble that which culminated in 1870, and which was remarkable for its intensity. A cycle of dry, hot weather corresponds with this type of maximum.

THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW.

(Old Favorites Series.)
The snow, the beautiful snow, filling the sky and the earth below;
Over the housetops, over the street, over
the heads of the people you meet, Dancing, flitting, skimming along. Beautiful snow! It can do nothing wrong.
To kiss a fair lady's cheek; clinging
To lips in a frolicsome freak;
Beautiful snow, from the heavens above,
Pure as an angel, and tickle as love!

Of the snow, the beautiful snow, with an eye like its
crystals, a heart like its glow;
Whirling about in its mad dancing fun, it plays in its glee with everyone.
Chasing, laughing, hurrying by, it lights up the face and its
And even the dogs with a bark and a bound, snap at the crystals that eddy around.
The town is alive and its heart is aglow, to welcome the coming of beautiful snow.

How the wild crowd go swaying along, hailing each other with humor and song:
How the gay sledges like meteors dash by—bright for a moment, then lost to the eye.
Ringing, swinging, dashing they go over the crest of the Snow so pure when it falls from the sky, to be trampled in mud
by the crowd rushing by:
To be trampled and tracked by the thousands of feet, till it blends with the horrible filth in the street.

Once I was pure as the snow—but I fell: fell, like the snow-
flakes, from heaven to hell:
Fell, to be trampled as the filth in the street: fell, to be soiled,
to be spit on and beat.
Fleeting, cursing, dreading to die, selling my soul to whoever
would buy,
Dealing in shame for a morsel of bread, hating the living and fearing the dead.
Merciful God! have I fallen so low? And yet I was once like this beautiful snow!

Once I was fair as the beautiful snow, with an eye like its
crystals, a heart like its glow;
Once I was loved for my innocent grace—battered and sought
for the charm of my face.
Father, mother, sisters all, God, and myself, I have lost by my fall.
The poorest wretch that goes shivering by will take a wide sweep, lest I wander too nigh;
For of all that is on or about me, I know there is nothing
that's pure but the beautiful snow.

How strange it should be that this beautiful snow should fall
on a sinner with nowhere to go!
How strange it would be, when the night comes again, if the snow and the ice struck my desperate brain!
Fainting, freezing, dying alone, too wicked for prayer, too weak for my tears,
To be heard in the crash of the crazy town, gone mad in its
joy at the snow's coming down;
To lie and to die in my terrible woe, with a bed and a shroud
of the beautiful snow.

—J. W. Watson, 1862.

Father O'Flaherty's Tactics.

BY ETHEL M. COLSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
It was a neat little house in a neat little street, Dennis Mullaney's residence, but it was not alone because of its neatness that Mrs. Mullaney was proud of it. She had bought that house—on the installment plan, mind
you—out of her own earnings as a seamstress, aided by the little she could save out of her husband's wages of two dollars a day. And she had never, as she herself expressed it, had
"less than eight childer ter kape!"
while the house was in course of acquirement. For these beloved "child-er" the social ambitions were high.
It was no part of her plans that Molly,
her eldest and the flower of the flock,
should marry a "common teamster,"
although young "Jamesy" Murphy owned a fine team.

It is doubtful if the young people would ever have had a chance to be happy—without making a run for it,
which Molly would never have consented to do—but for Father O'Fla-herty's assistance.

Father O'Flaherty was the boyishfaced priest at St. Michael's, a young man just out from Ireland, and, once more to quote Mrs. Mullaney, "wurekin' loike the very divvie ter bate ther favor of homesickness," which was consuming him. Father O'Flaherty was fond of calling at the Mullaney cottage because Mrs. Mullaney reminded him of the good, hard-working, affectionate mother who had sacrificed her own joy in his presence for the sake of his future well being. He was sorry, upon the occasion of the call which directly followed Mrs. Mullaney's flat against "Jamesy" Murphy
to see that Molly looked pale and troubled and that her eyes showed traces of tears.

"It's hankerin' after Jamesy Murphy
that she do be," the indignant mother

drive team these days is good enough for my Molly. It's eddication an'
style that helps a mon up in ther
wurld these days."

"It's love that makes people happy," ventured Molly, emboldened by the priest's evident sympathy.

"I believe you're right, my girl,"
Father O'Flaherty told her a few moments later, as she showed him out at the front door. "Keep up a good heart and a good courage, Molly, and you'll be a happy woman one of these days."

Straight home to the study where a committee of "solid" parishioners

"Heaven bless ye, father."

waited to discuss plans for the building of the new church went Father O'Flaherty, thinking of Molly and "Jamesy" and Mrs. Mullaney as he went. And thinking a little, too, perhaps, of the bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked Irish girl for whose sake he had been hurried off to college a little earlier than he had expected, but of whose charms a man dedicated to the priesthood from his infancy had no right to think. She, too, had looked a little pale and troubled when last he saw
her. The thin face of Father O'Flaherty looked thinner than ever as he faced his parishioners.

"I'll leave most of the details to you,
gentlemen," he said, presently, "but I want young Jamesy Murphy to have the contract for the teaming. He's a good lad and the contract will help him. None of you will have any objection, I am sure."

"Jamesy isn't prepared for't," suggested one of the three contract teamsters in the room.

"I understand he soon will be," was Father O'Flaherty's quiet reply.

That night he had an interview with the young teamster.

"I'm thinking, James," was the substance of this conversation, "that you could borrow the money for a couple of new teams from your father if you had a good contract in sight, couldn't you? And I myself shall be glad to lend you the money for still another good team and wagon. With three or four teams you'd be in shape to undertake the teaming contract for the new church of St. Michael."

"Never mind thanks, lad," he concluded the interview by saying. "Go and talk to your father—and see if you can't overcome Mrs. Mullaney's prejudice against having a teamster
for a son-in-law by telling her that you've got the church contract."

"Heaven bless ye, father," said

young "Jamesy" relapsing into the vernacular.

And, as Father O'Flaherty had expected, Mrs. Mullaney's social ambitions for her daughter recognized a wide difference between a "common"
teamster who drove his own single team and the "contract teamster" who rejoiced in four teams and the church
contract.

The neat little house was replaced
by a tall flat building some time ago,
and Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, blissfully happy and successful, are joint owners with Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Mullaney of this new building. Father O'Flaherty, albeit that he never finds the new building quite so snug and homelike as the old one, calls there quite often and he is usually a little happier for every visit.

The sweet little Irish girl of whom Father O'Flaherty has no business to be thinking slipped out this life last winter, and it comforts the man who has no business to think of her to know that Molly Murphy, nee Molly Mullaney, was made happy for her sake.

RESPECT FOR THE LAW.

A Blow at the President is a Manoeuvre
to us All.

So far as the American people can protect the life of their chief magistrate against the common enemies of all governments, no effort will be spared to do so. A stricter enforcement of existing legislation, possibly
new legislation looking to the closer supervision of the speech and action
of suspicious elements in the community is likely to follow. A blow directed against our president is a menace to each one of us, and we have full right to take every precaution
against the foes of established order.
But in a democracy like ours, founded
upon free opinion and free speech,
choosing its rulers from the ranks,
and desiring those rulers to mingle
more or less freely, during their term
of office, with their fellow-citizens, it becomes difficult and probably impossible to surround the life of an American president with those safeguards
with which European sovereigns have grown sadly familiar. In witnessing the slaying of our chief magistrate by an anarchist, we are sharing in the evil inheritance of old world tyranny
and absolutism, without being able to utilize those defensive measures which absolutism makes possible. The only permanently effective weapon against anarchy, in a self-governing republic, is respect for law. Fortunately, this weapon is within the reach of every citizen of the American commonwealth, and we believe that the untimely death of the president has already resulted in a profound popular reaction against lawlessness in every form.—Atlantic Monthly.

His Question of Faith.

A religious old darkey had his faith
badly shaken not long ago. He is exactly for a white church in a Fayette county town, and one afternoon as he was in front sweeping the pavement a strong wind arose, tearing a piece of the cornice off and taking a few bricks
out of the wall. Realizing that a good run was better than a bad stand, the old man sought shelter in the station house on the opposite side of the street. Several minutes later a member of the church of which Uncle Isham is sexton came by, and noticing
him in his retreat, remarked that he thought the station house a strange place for a man of faith to seek shelter in a storm when a house of worship was near. "Dat's so, but whut's
a man gwine ter do when de Lord begins to frow bricks at 'im?"—Memphis Scimitar.

A New Fuel Gas.

Much interest is felt in England in the Mond fuel gas, which is made from the cheapest class of small coal and dust, known as "bituminous slack."
This gas, which is intended for furnaces and gas engines, can, it is claimed, be supplied at a cost of four cents per thousand cubic feet. It is not a lighting gas, as it burns with a pale blue flame, and its heating value
is lower than that of illuminating gas,
but greater than most other "producer gases." In the process of manufacture a very large proportion of the nitrogen of the coal is recovered in the form of sulphate of ammonia,
worth nearly two dollars for every ton
of slack gasified.

Artificial Ice in Arizona.

A company has just been formed at Phoenix for the unique purpose of making ice by electrical currents and storing it in artificial glaciers in high altitudes, for purposes of irrigation.
The inventors claim that their scheme
will not only solve the water problem,
but will tend to greatly reduce the summer temperature in the arid regions. They declare that, while, heretofore, only heat has been produced by electricity, they, by a simple process, reverse the method and secure the opposite results, producing intense cold.

An Afflicted Brother.

Brother Dickey was under the weather the other day. In describing his symptoms he said: "Yes, suh, hit's true dat I ain't feelin' half well. In de fust place, I 'flicted wid rattlin' er
de bones; den I troubled wid battin' er
de eyelids, liftin' er de leg, wobblin' er de right foot, en crackin' er de top skull. All I needs now ter finish me complete is six months er de un-fined rheumatism!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Some men will do for strangers what their relatives may ask in vain.

QUERIES FOR W. S. SCHLEY.

Cross-Examination of the Admiral
the Next Step.

COURT WILL TAKE A HAND.

Questioning by Attorney Rayner and
the Judge Advocate May Occupy Two Days—Rayner Will Ask a Complete
Vindication of Schley.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The next step in the programme of the Schley court
of inquiry is to place the "applicant"
under examination by Mr. Rayner in order to bring out more strongly the points which he had made and to make clear the ones which he left obscure. In the cross-examination of Schley centers the greatest interest.
The judge advocate has prepared a long list of questions which he means to ask the witness, and the court has
in store many more on which it needs enlightenment. It was noted that during Schley's recital of the Santiago campaign, which he gave during the two days he was on the stand,
Admiral Benham wrote on slips of paper questions which the court will ask when the cross-examination has been concluded. It is estimated that it will require fully two days to complete the cross-examination. Then will follow these questions by the court, and probably another day will be consumed in redirect examination. This finished, witnesses will be called in rebuttal. By these the navy department will endeavor to show that Schley had received direct intimation that the Spanish squadron was in Santiago before he began his retrograde movement. This retrograde movement, the failure to destroy the Colon
and the Kildeson correspondence now seem to be the points on which the navy department mostly relies to prove its case.

No Criticism of "Loop."

As to the Brooklyn "loop," that spectacular feature of the Santiago battle and the one which has been more widely discussed than any one of the ten precepts, it is pointed out by navy officers directly concerned in this investigation that whatever individual officers may have said, the department itself has never made any criticism of Schley for that maneuver.
Secretary Long, in his letter, made no mention of it, and it is now known that he had early information that Cook and not Schley had given the order—that Cook had regarded it as a good tactical move and that officers
like Clark of the Oregon had approved
it as such. It is claimed by the Admiral's friends here that Schley in his narrative of events very nearly demolished or satisfactorily explained
the mass of testimony which had piled up against him concerning the other counts. In his examination of the witness Mr. Rayner hopes similarly to dispose of all the rest, and in his summing up will endeavor to show cause
why his client should receive full vin-dication at the hands of the court, as he has already received it from the public.

Invitation from Louisville.

Louisville, Oct. 29.—A telegram
signed by Mayor Weaver, Marion E.
Taylor, president of the board of trade; Clarence Dallam, president of the Commercial Club, and others, has been sent to Rear Admiral Schley inviting him to visit Louisville after he has visited Chicago on invitation of the Hamilton club. Admiral Schley accepted an invitation to attend the triennial convocation of Knights Templar
in Louisville in August last, but later found it would be impossible for him to be present.

Schley Again on Stand.

Contrary to expectations, Judge Advocate Lemly began his cross-examination Monday morning, and assumed the role of prosecutor so clearly that those who have asserted it was an impartial court of inquiry were compelled to abandon that position. Captain Lemly read from the naval regulations in an attempt to show that Schley violated the code if he did not have a plan of battle July 3 and give it to his captains. General Rayner fought vigorously and in the course of his remarks declared that the simple signal, "Follow the flag" was a sufficient plan of battle.

"Nelson at Trafalgar, signalled 'England expects every man to do his duty,'" said the counsel. "Schley's
words were, 'Follow the flag.'"

Admiral Dewey and his colleagues
retired for consultation, and, returning announced that they wanted no
questions asked concerning Schley's control of the fleet after the date when he surrendered command of the squadron.

Judge Advocate Lemly overlooked
no opportunity to substantiate the charges made in the department precept. He asked a multitude of questions calculated to show that Schley
was guilty of various misdemeanors,
and delved into trivial details until
the faces of the admirals of the court
showed they were growing impatient.
Lemly did his best to elicit information unfavorable to Schley, but made no effort to develop other lines of evidence. Doubtless the judge advocate will leave it to Schley's counsel to bring out that part of the testimony.

Kills Wife and Himself.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Maddened by the report that his wife, from whom he had separated, was going to secure a divorce and marry again, James Kennedy killed her and then ended his life by sending a bullet into his left temple. The tragedy occurred at the residence of Mrs. Annie Barrett, mother of Mrs. Kennedy.

Shot by Sunday Hunters.

Though the season for hunting deer
is not yet open, hunting fatalities in Michigan have already reached an alarming figure and are being added to daily. Warnings have no effect on the sager hunter as familiarity with the gun breeds contempt. Sunday the additions to the list were: Gus Achtenberg, of Lansing, while returning from a hunting expedition in an automobile was shot and instantly killed.
Charles W. Hagen was accidentally shot and killed by Charles Palmer
while hunting about three miles east of Hillsdale. While Samuel Gay, proprietor of the Gay hotel, Rockwood,
was out shooting quail on his farm he accidentally shot his wife who was coming to meet him, the charge of No. 7 shot striking her in the face. The slight of one eye is entirely gone and it is feared that she will lose the other one as two shot penetrated the eye-ball.

In some manner Ed. Alcorn's rifle was discharged in the woods near Harrisville. The ball went in one side and came out of Alcorn's shoulder. His condition is critical.

An accidental discharge of Leonard Mee's gun in the brush near Manistee struck his cousin, Bob Leonard, in the right knee. Leonard's leg will have to come off.

Stanley Chappel, aged 17, of Clare,
was killed instantly by the discharge
of a gun he was carrying while hunting.

Asa Fuller Implicated.

At the session of the Fuller inquest in Saginaw considerable testimony of an unimportant nature was introduced,
the only item of sensational interest
being derived from Mrs. Frank Fuller,
the wife of the man who died under such peculiar circumstances. Mrs.
Fuller's testimony showed that Asa Fuller, the younger brother of the dead man, had kissed her and rubbed his face against hers, leaving a sore spot
which he said came from his having the barber's itch. She also said that Asa told her he would be her second husband.

Halls From Flint.

From the statement of Marie Forrest, who claims Flint, Mich., as her home, George Armitage, messenger in jail for robbing the Amsterdam, N. Y., bank, is a liar. Marie said: "I lived at 310 West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, with Leona Kuhn and husband Simon, who is a piano player in concert halls. I met Armitage some weeks ago in the tenderloin; he made
love and frequently visited the flat.
He claimed a fortune had been left him and later he flashed a big bundle of checks and money, saying it was the first installment of the fortune. He gave me $500 to furnish the flat, and invited us out for the night. We all went to Brooklyn. He spent $500, and we stopped at the best hotel. After the theater he called a messenger and expressed the bundle of checks to the bank, saying they would be placed to his credit there. The next day we separated, and I haven't seen him
since. I am an actress, but have no engagement. Marie returned $485 to the police, having spent only $13.

A Theatrical Ransoming.

The theater-goers of Lansing Tuesday night were startled between the second and third acts of the play by the cries of a little girl who exclaimed:
"here's, my papa; look! look!" The man was William Shively, whose wife left him a couple of years ago. He had two children, both girls, and the mother obtained his permission to let them visit her at Grand Rapids. She disappeared from that city afterward,
taking the children with her. Unknown to her husband she placed them in the custody of her sister at Milwaukee and went to live in Kenosha. The sister decided to restore the children to their father and she came with the two girls. Unable to find any trace of Shively, she went to the theater and was rewarded by finding the missing parent in the audience. Father and daughters were reunited in a very theatrical manner. Mrs. Shively's sister gave an assumed name while in Lansing, as she is said to be a lady of high standing in Milwaukee.

The Asylum is the Place.

T. A. Upton, of Adrian, was shot at Saturday afternoon by a demented nephew, Archie Hodges. Upton was moving his sister's goods when her son became infuriated and fired, the 38-caliber ball passing through Upton's federal hat. Upton grabbed the young man and held him until officers arrived. Application for his admission to the Kalamazoo asylum has been made. Hodges has been troublesome before, but never vicious. It is not known where he got his revolver and ammunition.

herited.

Oil for the Children.

Give them oil—cod-liver oil.

It's curious to see the result.

Give it to the peevish, fretful child, and he laughs. Give it to the pale, anæmic child, and his face becomes rosy and full of health. Take a flat-chested child, or a child that has stopped growing, give him the oil, and he will grow big and strong like the rest.

This is not a new scheme. It has been done for years.

Of course you must use the right oil. Scott's Emulsion is the one.

Scott's Emulsion neither looks nor tastes like oil because we are so careful in making it pleasant to take.

Insect Pests in Brazil.

I should take a small gang of practical coffee planters from Ceylon with good digestions to be not afraid of giggers, ticks and Berne flies—to say nothing of the dear little mosquito. The writer had extracted during four years in Brazil no less than 200 giggers from underneath every toenail of both feet. The Portuguese, Brazilians, Italians and Spaniards called it a recreation on Sunday to dig them out of each other's feet. Of all the vile insects on earth, the Berne fly is the worst. She lays her eggs inside your flesh, and hatches three very ugly insects an inch long with three rings of bristles round the body and sharp nippers. They take about six weeks to develop under your skin; then commence to turn somersaults just when you want to go to sleep after a hard day's work in the sun. The natives of Brazil adopt a novel way of extracting the brute when full grown; they tie on a piece of raw pork and the Berne comes out of your skin and takes a header into the piece of pig-skin.—Ceylon Observer.

Franks of the Earth.

The residents of East Grinstead, an English village, are the latest persons who have been alarmed by the disappearance of a local stream. There is nothing unprecedented in such an event. It was only last year that Sven Hedin, the Swedish explorer, reported the disappearance of a lake which has long been known as Lob-Nor, and one of the islands of the Tonga group in the South sea disappears periodically. Switzerland has even now a moving mountain which threatens to wipe out several towns; and it is recorded that in 1806 a portion of the Ronberg, near Lucerne, rolled down into Lake Lowertz, creating an immense wave which swept away several hamlets, drowned every living creature on the island of Schwanau, and carried a little wooden chapel over a mile.—London Mail.

Russian Female Hermits.

Among the villagers on the Volga in the province of Samara a curious sect of women has made its appearance. It was originated by an elderly peasant woman in Sosnova, called the "Blessed Mother." These women have fled from the villages around into a remote district, where they live singly in holes dug out of the face of the hill. They lead a life of fasting and prayer, and believe themselves called from the world, which they think it shortly about to perish in a general conflagration. The "Blessed Mother" has "ten wise virgins" as a sort of bodyguard, and the sect believe that these eleven women are possessed of miraculous powers.—London Globe.

Then He Fled.

A tramp called at a farmhouse on the Yorkshire wolds the other day and asked for some refreshments. As the lady of the house refused to give him any, and the man would not go away, she told him she would call her husband. "Oh, no, you won't," replied the tramp, "because he ain't in." "How do you know?" asked the lady. "Because," answered the tramp, as he sidled down the garden path, "a man who married a woman with a face like that is only home at meal times."—London Answers.

Valuable Building Material.

"Keramo," a new building material manufactured mainly of powdered glass waste at Penzig, Silesia, is a bad conductor of heat, slow to deteriorate under exposure to weather, fireproof, and resists perfectly oil, grease and all ordinary acids. A devitrifying process turns the waste into stone of which bricks are made by pressure, which retain their hardness though losing the transparency and brittleness of glass. The product may be colored with pigment. Tiling sells for about $1.75 a square yard.—Science.

Didn't Satisfy Her.

Her masterly effort had been received with extreme favor by the other members of the woman's club. "There can be no doubt," asserted one of her admirers, "that you are entitled to the laurel wreath." "Laurel wreath!" repeated the budding poet, bitterly. "What's the matter? Can't the club afford any roses?"—Chicago Post.

The Very Latest.

The Time to Tackle Him.

ANTS AND LEMONADE.

The Little Insects Know How to Make a Refreshing Summer Drink.

"Did you ever" know that ants will make lemonade?" asked the talkative grocer, relates the Philadelphia Record. "Yes, it's a fact. I happened to cut a lemon the other day, and left it on the counter. A couple of minutes later I noticed a bunch of ants making a great to do around the lemon. The antics of the little insects were so methodical that I took a few minutes off to investigate. A little sugar had been spilled on the counter near the spot where the lemon lay, and the ants were busy making trips between the sugar and the fruit. You may not believe it, sir, but every time one of the little creatures made the trip he carried back a grain of sugar, which was dropped into the lemon juice and then eagerly devoured.

"It struck me that maybe the manufacture of the lemonade was only an accidental process, due to the close proximity of the sugar and the lemon, so I carefully swept the sugar away. It seems incredible, but as true as I'm standing here those ants hunted around until they found the sugar barrel, when the whole bunch trooped back laden with sugar, which they dipped in the juice and swallowed. Wonderful is no name for it!"

Great Maine Forests.

Maine's woods are known of all men, but few realize that, vast and deep as they are, they exceed sevenfold the extent of the "Black Forest" of Germany, and cover nearly one-half (9,000,000 acres) of the area of the state. Hidden within these shaded wilds, the home of the moose, America's greatest game animal, there are more than 1,800 lakes, comprising one-fifth of the surface of the state. Their pure, pellucid waters fairly abound in fish of many kinds. In only three or four spots on this globe may one find in the same area an equal number of lakes and ponds. Combined, they represent a water surface of 2,300 square miles. From these sources flow 6,000 rivers and streams.

A Poem That Paid.

Rudyard Kipling's poem, "The Absent-Minded Beggar," made about $100,000 for the British South African relief fund. Kipling turned over the $1250 paid him by the Daily Mail, and all other journals copying it paid in $25, while $500 a week was earned for some weeks by its recital at London musicals.

BRAIN-FOOD NONSENSE.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. C. Green's reliable remedies at Glazier & Stimson's. Get Green's Special Almanac.

A FIENDISH ATTACK.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

My Motto

An honest Piano at an honest price

Look at this picture. It is the celebrated

Hamilton Piano made by D. H. Baldwin & Co. of Cincinnati, O. which took a Silver Medal Prize at the Paris Exposition.

In buying a Piano a good many points must be looked after.

The First and Prime points are durability of construction, easy and responsive action, and fine singing tone quality, all of which are embodied in the Hamilton Piano. Call and examine them.

Do not fail to give me a call when you need a first-class single or double HAMILTON. Our prices are always the lowest. In our Carriage Department we can please the most critical. Come and examine.

St. Mary's Literary Club will meet at the home of Mrs. H. H. Penn next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The members of Olive Chapter, E. A. M. entertained about thirty of their brothers from Ann Arbor, Wednesday evening.

The M. C. R. R. started eight teams Tuesday afternoon at Hayes street to do the grading for their new side track in the west end of their yards here.

George R. Gunn, probate register of Washtenaw county, and Miss Mollie Rappelys of Ridgeway were married at Grace church, Detroit, October 16.

The electric cars between Chelsea and Ann Arbor have been doing an enormous business since they began running last week, and the people find them a mighty convenient article.

The Washtenaw supervisors on Wednesday decided to protect the records in the register of deeds office and ordered a $2,200 equipment of steel shelves and cases with steel roller curtains.

Anna C. Paige has started a suit against the village of Chelsea, claiming $5,000 damages for injuries sustained by falling over a tree, which had been cut down and allowed to remain across a walk.

The committee on behalf of Columbian Hive wish to extend to the merchants and tradesmen of Chelsea a vote of thanks for their hearty co operation in making their Carnival such a financial success.

LaFayette Grange will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Mason Whipple Thursday, November 14th, at 10 o'clock a. m. Subject for discussion, "What can we do to make our farm home more convenient, comfortable and attractive?"

S. Hirth has moved the old Vogel wagon shop to the rear of his blacksmith shop, which gives him a larger shop, and he will use the space in the rear for farmers to leave their teams when they are having work done.

Linemen for the Michigan Telephone Co., were engaged here the first of the week in running another line into the office of the Chelsea Telephone Co., which will give a much needed addition to their toll service.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Updike of Grass are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. D. Spaulding. Mr. Updike is 92 years of age and his wife is four years his junior. While here Mr. Updike had his first experience with a telephone.

There will be a football game at Snyder's Park next Saturday afternoon, between the Jackson High School team and the Chelsea team. Everybody come and bring your pocketbook so as to help the boys out with their expenses.

We wish our readers to remember that we want the news, and we want all of it. We are not printing a paper for any particular class, clique or clan, but for the whole people—everybody. Therefore send us items. Call up telephone No. 50.

The third rail system will be used between Albion and Battle Creek on the Boland electric road, and the track will be fenced in on both sides. The contract calls for the completion of the road, between Albion and Marshall by November 15.

Thomas Murray of Dexter township lost a barn, his hay and bean crop, wheat crop of two years ago, and farm implements by fire early Sunday morning. The loss was about $2,500, insurance $1,300. It is thought that it was the work of an incendiary.

Hawks & Angus have completed a deal which gives assurance that their system will be extended so as to give people along the D., Y., A. & J. electric line service to the capital city. They have purchased the Lansing street railway, and will make it a part of their system.

One of Chelsea's young married men has a fine dog, in which he takes much interest, and has taught it many tricks. The latest endeavor is in the line of a cakewalk, and it is expected that with the usual amount of patience that is needed in such an effort, it will be entirely successful.

Grand river is described in the books on Michigan as one of the principal rivers. The stream runs near this city and irrigates portions of Jackson, Eaton, Ingham, Clinton, Ionia, Kent and Ottawa counties, and then is lost in the depths of Lake Michigan.—Jackson Citizen. We think that "irrigates" would be a better word than "irrigates."

J. Pierpont Morgan and his party who have been to the Pacific coast, passed through this place on their special train Friday morning. The most that could be seen of the outfit was a cloud of dust. Flagmen were placed on every crossing between Jackson and Detroit, and the train made record breaking time.

Theodore Swarthout died suddenly from a stroke of apoplexy Wednesday morning, October 30th. He was stricken while at the barn engaged in attending to the chores. He was carried to his residence where he breathed his last about 11 o'clock. Mr. Swarthout was 67 years of age, and leaves a widow and five children. The funeral will be held at his late residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Died, on Sunday, October 27, 1901, at his home in Detroit, William Dixon Burdard, aged 54 years. Mr. Burdard was a former resident of Chelsea, and was well-known by our citizens. He leaves a widow and one sister. His remains were brought to Chelsea and the funeral was held at the M. E. church, Rev. Allen of the Tabernacle M. E. church of Detroit conducting the service. Interment at Sylvan.

Andrew Oesterle, a young man about 19 years of age died very suddenly at the home of A. W. Chapman, Saturday morning. The young man had been ill with appendicitis but was much improved, and was expecting to be able to be out in a few days. His breakfast was taken to him Saturday morning, and at the time was feeling unusually well. Soon after, his sister went to his room and found him dead upon the floor, he having had an attack of heart trouble.

Rapid progress is being made on the roof of the new addition to the power house of the D., Y., A. & J. road at Ypsilanti. It is not probable, however, that this new power house can be completed and the power plant fully installed short of 60 days. At that time power enough will be developed to run the electric line through to Jackson with the heavy cars. It is probable, therefore, that the road to Jackson will be fully opened and running about January 1st.

The Boland company received seven new cars with observation and smoking compartments and lavatories Tuesday and will put them on the Jackson-Grass Lake run. J. B. Foote says grading on the section of his road between Jackson and Albion will be commenced in a few days, and if the weather is favorable, the roadbed to Battle Creek will be completed by February 1. Between Grass Lake and Ann Arbor work is at a standstill, owing to the non-arrival of the third rail with which that section of the road will be equipped.

In the case of J. Bacon vs. F. P. Glazier et al., Judge Kline announced to the lawyers that he would charge the jury that the president of the council, acting in good faith, has a right to order the ejectment of a disorderly trustee from the room, even in the absence of any rules of order which the body failed to adopt. Attorney Sawyer, for the plaintiff, then announced that he would withdraw all questions except that of simple assault and battery, and would discontinue the case as against Mast, Simson and Woods. The jury was out three hours Monday night and returned a verdict against the defendants, Glazier and Lehman, and gave a judgment them of $150. The case will be carried to the supreme court, and E. F. Conley of Detroit has been retained as counsel.

The patent suit of the United Blue Flame Oil Stove Co., against Frank P. Glazier in which Judge Swan of the United States Circuit Court recently rendered a sweeping decision in favor of Mr. Glazier dismissing the case, and as settling all costs against the United Blue Flame Co., was one of the most important patent suits ever tried in the United States Circuit Court. Judge Swan's decision places Mr. Glazier's patents at the head of the list on this class of blue flame stoves, as he says that they in no wise infringe on the patents of the United Blue Flame Oil Stove Co., who hold all other important patents on this line of stoves either through purchase or direct inventions. This case has been in the courts over four years, and Mr. Glazier is much elated over his victory, especially as some of the Chelsea people decided this suit against him over three years ago.

The marriage of Miss Bethia Estelle Ellis to Walter H. Woods of Chicago took place at the M. E. church Ypsilanti, Wednesday, October 30th, at 7:30. It was a pink-and-white wedding, the bride and her matron-of-honor, Mrs. Frank Wilbur of Grand Rapids, wearing white, and the bridesmaids, Misses Clara Drury, Maude Allen and Winifred Childs of Ypsilanti and Jennie Woods of Ann Arbor, wearing white over pink. The ring-bearer was Miss Ione Wilbur of Grand Rapids, the bride's niece. The best man was Prof. E. T. Rankin of Ann Arbor, and the ushers, Edmund P. Kline, Frank Ellis of Owosso, Howard Coffin of Ann Arbor and Dr. Nicholas Greusel of Detroit. Prof. Pease presided at the organ. Rev. Dr. Allen performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the bride's home on Normal street. Mr. Woods was a former Chelsea boy, and his many friends here join in the congratulations.

HOUSE OF TOO MUCH TROUBLE.
In the House of Too Much Trouble
Lived a lonely little boy,
He was eager for a playmate,
He was hungry for a toy,
But 'twas always too much bother,
Too much dirt and too much noise,
For the House of Too Much Trouble
Wasn't meant for little boys.

And sometimes the little fellow
Left a sock upon the floor,
Or forgot and laughed too loudly,
Or he failed to close the door,
In the House of Too Much Trouble
Things must be precise and trim—
In a House of Too Much Trouble
There was little room for him.

He must never scatter playthings,
He must never romp and play;
Every room must be in order
And kept quiet all the day.
He had never had companions,
He had never owned a pet—
In the House of Too Much Trouble
It is tim and quiet yet.

Every room is set in order—
Every sock is in its place,
And the lonely little fellow
Wears a smile upon his face.
In the House of Too Much Trouble
He is silent and at rest—
In the House of Too Much Trouble
With a fly on his breast.

THE BUTTERFLIES' KISSES.

"Here comes the sun!" cried Downie, stretching her wings. "Shall we have a game?"

"I am ready," answered Brightwings, and out they danced into the warm sunshine.

"Hide-and-seek," or "Follow-my-leader?" replied Brightwings. "You lead, and Pearly and I will follow."

Presently Pearly paused. "Isn't it nearly breakfast time?" she said. "I am so hungry."

"Very well; race me to that flower over there," laughed Downie, and darted off. But, alas! she did not notice the big spider's web that hung across the path.

Pearly and Brightwings called to her to stop, but it was too late.

"Oh, what shall I do? Help! help!" she cried.

Brightwings flew up. "Don't struggle," she said, "and I will see what I can do."

Downie did as she was told, though she felt very frightened. "Oh, please be quick," she sobbed.

Bidding Pearly stay by her friend and cheer her up, Brightwings flew off toward the path.

Soon he saw a little sailor boy, in a big white hat, trotting over the grass beside a tall lady.

The butterfly's heart beat fast, but he fluttered on and danced his best just in front of the boy.

"Oh, mother, what a beautiful butterfly!" he cried. "May I go after him?"

"Yes, dear; but mind you don't touch it," answered his mother.

"No, of course not, mother."

The boy followed him down the path until they reached the web. He at once saw what had happened.

"Oh, you naughty, wicked spider!" he cried; "you must not catch the pretty butterflies!"

The two kind little hands soon released Downie from the clinging web, and the three danced around the little boy; they kissed his rosy cheeks, and when he ran back to his mother she could not guess how he had learned to give such beautiful butterfly kisses.—Cassell's Little Folks.

ANIMALS LEARN TRICKS.

Animals show great aptitude in learning things that are of peculiar interest to them in the struggle for existence," said a gentleman talking recently to a reporter for the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "and I have been very much amused at times at the little things they do in an effort to comfort themselves and to make life burdens as light as possible. They are very astute at times. We have an old bay horse which is an expert when it comes to slipping the bridle, and even since we have discovered his peculiar trick it is almost impossible to keep him hitched on account of the proficiency he has acquired by long practice. He is one of the best natured horses I ever saw, and it is the easiest thing in the world to catch him. Really he will meet you half way in the pasture if he believes you are coming after him. He probably does this because he delights in slipping the bridle and getting away from you and probably causing you to walk several miles after sunset. For a long time I could not understand the ease with which he would slip his bridle and get away. I was always extremely careful about the throat-latch and would buckle it up so tight it would seem almost cruel to animals to force it any further. In spite of this precaution, in a short while after the horse was hitched he would slip the bridle, leave it dangling from the post and gallop playfully toward the road. Frequently I would have to walk miles in order to get back home. I finally concluded to make a close study of the fellow in order to find out just how it was he would slip his head through a throat-latch that had been buckled so tightly under his neck. I learned how it was.

He had a way of swelling the muscles of his throat and neck until there was probably a difference of several inches at the point where the throat-latch circled his neck near the head. He would keep his throat in this abnormal condition until he was hitched and the rider was out of sight. Then he would relax the muscles, rub his head against the post until the top of the bridle slipped over his ears, and then, because of the laxity of the throat-latch it was an easy matter for him to pull his head through the frame of the bridle and skip out."

MINT MARKS.

Every coin of the United States, of twenty-five cent piece and over, shows distinctly what mint it comes from. There are only four places of coinage in the entire country. These are situated at Philadelphia, San Francisco, New Orleans and Carson City. The first mint was established at Philadelphia, and as the founding of other places of coinage was then unforeseen, there was no necessity for putting a mark on coins which came from that city. But as the country grew in territory, population and wealth, and as the mines in the west were developed more and more each year, it became necessary to establish other mints, and to adopt a method whereby the government could keep track of the output from each place, and, in an error should occur in the coinage, could at once locate the mint from which the defective coin had come. All coins are supposed to weigh exactly the same as others of the same denomination. While on the one hand, but little attention is paid to the differences in weight that every day wear and tear occasions on silver pieces, on the other hand, the slightest deviation from the fixed standard in a gold coin necessitates the trouble of recoining that piece. For these reasons small marks were put on coins which came from mints other than that located at Philadelphia.

To find the marks, turn the coin so as to observe the tail side. Then look directly below either the eagle or the bunch of arrows. If there be a letter in the place designated, it will be either a small s, o, or the two double letters cc. Those bearing the letter s are from the mint at San Francisco. Others having the letter o are from New Orleans, while those bearing the letters cc are from Carson City. If you do not find any letter on the coin at all, it is an indication that the coin came from the city of "Brotherly Love."

BURIED TREASURE.

It is probable that on some occasions a number of boys were idly kicking a can about, and the game of buried treasure just evolved itself without any particular effort on their part. It is certainly a good game, and those whom I have watched play it seem to enjoy themselves immensely. The equipment for the game is not difficult to procure; cans are always available. Decide by counting out who shall be "it," or the miser who must guard his treasure. The miser will take a position directly over the can, his treasure, one foot on each side. At least, this is the position usually chosen as being the best suited for guarding the can. There is no rule, however, about this, and some boys prefer other defenses, as standing just behind the can or continually moving about it.

The other boys are brigands and circle about, attempting to get the treasure, or, in other words, kick it away without being tagged. If one succeeds, another immediately kicks it, and away goes the can down the street with a crowd of yelling brigands after it, doing their best to prevent the poor miser from regaining his position over the treasure. If the miser succeeds in tagging any boy who has kicked the can before another boy kicks it, the boy tagged becomes the miser and must stand over the treasure. Of course, the boys who are attempting to get at the can will help one another. One should attract the miser's attention in front, while another creeps up from behind, or vice versa. If the distracted guardian of the treasure turns his attention to the man behind him, the boy in front will immediately dart in, and so on. I think you will find that the game, simple as it seems, offers numerous chances for judgment and quick maneuvering.—American Boy.

BIRD VENTRILOQUISTS.

Many birds have the gift of ventriloquism. They use their power to a good effect because by it they are often enabled to mislead their enemies, although ornithologists say they do so unconsciously, because often when the birds resort to ventriloquism to throw their pursuers off their track silence would have served the purpose much better. The plumed grouse, or prairie chicken, has this power to a remarkable degree, as its tone when produced but a few rods from the listener often has the effect of a sound originating nearly a mile distant. The little bird known as the Maryland yellow throat, which lives in low, bushy swamps during the summer, shows considerable ability as a ventriloquist, and during the nesting season makes use of the power as a protection—though apparently an unnecessary one, for the nest of this species is generally so carefully hidden from sight that it is almost impossible to find it. When a person approaches the vicinity of its nest, though probably within a few feet of the intruder, it will throw its voice back and forth so realistically that it is almost impossible to locate the bird. Many of the ground birds have a peculiar habit of throwing their voices upward so that they appear to come from the tree tops.—Philadelphia Times.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

RIGHTEDNESS OF RELIGION LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From Job XXXVIII as follows: "Canst thou bind the Most Influences of the Pleiades?"—The Meaning of the Passage Clearly Defined.

[Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch, N. Y.]
Washington, Oct. 27.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage demonstrates that we are affected by forces that we seldom recognize and enlarge upon human accountability; the text is Job xxxviii, 31. "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades?"

What is the meaning of that question that God put to Job? Have we all our lives been reading it and are most of us ignorant of its beauty and power and practical suggestiveness? A meaningless passage of Scripture many thought it to be. But the telescopes were busy age after age and astronomical observations kept on questioning the skies until the meaning of my text comes out lustroously. The Pleiades is a constellation of seven stars appearing to the naked eye, but scientific instruments reveal more than 400 properly belonging to the group. Alcione is the name of the brightest star of that group called the Pleiades. A Russian astronomer observed that Alcione is the center of gravitation of our solar system. Hugh Macmillan says that the sun and its planets wheel around that center at the rate of 422,000 miles a day in an orbit which it will take 19,000,000 years to complete. The Pleiades appear in the springtime and are associated with flowers and genial warmth and good weather. The navigation of the Mediterranean was from May to November—the rising and the setting of the Pleiades. The priests of Belus noticed that rising and setting 2,000 years before Christ.

Now, the glorious meaning of my text is plain as well as radiant. To give Job the beautiful grace of humility God asked him, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of the Pleiades?" Have you any power over the laws of gravitation? Can you modify or change an influence wielded by a star more than 400,000 miles away? Can you control the winds of the springtime? Can you call out the flowers? How little you know compared with omniscience! How little you can do compared with omnipotence!

Armed with Interrogations.

Called upon, as we all are at times, to defend our holy religion, instead of argument that can always be answered by argument let us try the power of interrogation. We ought to be loaded with at least half a dozen questions, and always ready, and when Christianity is assailed and we are told there is nothing in it, and there is no God, and there never was a miracle, and that the Scriptures are unreasonable and cruel, and that there never will be a judgment day, take out of your portable armory of interrogation something like this: What makes the condition of woman in Christian lands better than in heathen lands? Do you think it would be kind in God to turn the human race into a world without any written revelation to explain and encourage and elevate and save? And if a revelation was made which do you prefer, the Zenda-Vesta of the Persian or the Confucian writings of the Chinese or the Koran of Mohammed or our Bible? If Christ is not a divine being what did he mean when he said, "Before Abram was I am?" If the Bible is a bad book, where are the evil results of reading it? Did you see any degrading influence of the book in your father or mother or sister, who used to read it? Do you not think that a judgment day is necessary in order to explain and fix up things that were never explained or fixed up? If our religion is illogical and an imposition upon human credulity, why were Herschel and Washington and Gladstone and William McKinley its advocates? How did it happen that our religion furnished the theme for the greatest poem ever written, "Paradise Lost," and to the painters their greatest themes in the "Adoration of the Magi," "The Transfiguration," "The Last Supper," "The Crucifixion," "The Entombment," "The Last Supper," and that all the schools of painting put forth their utmost genius in presenting "The Madonna?"

Sweet Influence from Afar.

Astronomers can easily locate the Pleiades. They will take you into their observatories on a clear night and aim their revealing instruments toward the part in the heavens where those seven stars have their habitude, and they will point to the constellation Taurus, and you can see for yourself. But it is impossible to point to influences far back that have affected our character and will affect our destiny. We know the influences near by—paternal, maternal, conjugal—but by the time we have gone back two generations or at most three our investigations falter and fall. Through the modern interesting habit of searching back to find the ancestral tree we may find a long list of names, but they are only names. The consecration or abandonment of some one 200 years ago was not recorded. It would not be so important if you and I by our good or bad behavior blessed or blasted only those immediately around us but our goodness or our badness will reach as far as the strongest ray of Alcione—yes, across the eternities. Under this consideration what do you think of those who give themselves up to frivolity or idleness and throw away fifty years of their existence as though they were shells or pebbles or pods instead of embryo eternities?

Surprise of the Next World.

I suppose one of the greatest surprises of the next world will be to see what wide, far-reaching influence for good or evil we have all exerted. I am speaking of ourselves, who are only ordinary people. But who can fully appreciate the far-reaching good done by men of wealth in Great Britain for the working classes—Mr. Lister of Bradford, Edward Akroyd of Halifax, Thomas Sike of Huddersfield, Joseph Wentworth and Josiah Mason and Sir Titus Salt? This last great soul, with his vast wealth, provided 756 houses at cheap rent for 6,000 working people and chapel and cricket ground and croquet lawn and concert hall and savings bank where they might deposit some of their earnings and life insurance for those who looked further ahead and bathing houses and parks and museums and lecture halls with philosophical apparatus, the generous example of those men of a previous generation being copied in many places in Canada and the United States, making life, which would otherwise be prolonged drudgery, an inspiration and a joy.

At Dunfermline, Scotland, is a stone house, the room on the second floor twelve feet by fourteen in size. The annual rent of this room years ago was $7.50. That was the one room in which the father and mother of Andrew Carnegie lived with the whole family. Influences were started there which made Andrew Carnegie the most distinguished philanthropist of all time, and what his gifts of great libraries on both sides the sea will do for the coming generations I do not think any angel of God would have enough capacity to calculate. Who could bind the sweet influences of that Pleiades?

Influence of Other Worlds.

Notice also in my text the influence of other worlds upon this world. We all regard the effect which our continent has upon other continents or one hemisphere upon the other hemisphere. Great harvest or drought on one side of our world affects the other side of our world. A panic in Wall street, New York, has its echo in Lombard street and the bourse. The nations of the earth cablegrammed together all feel the same thrill of delight or shock of woe. But we do not appreciate the influence of other worlds upon our world. The author of my text rouses us to the consideration. It takes all the worlds of known and unknown astronomy to keep our world in its orbit, every world dependent on other worlds. The stellar existence is felt all through the heavens. Every constellation is a sisterhood. Our planet feels the benediction of Alcione and all the other stars of the Pleiades. Yea, there are two other worlds that decide the fate of our world, its redemption or its demotion. These two worlds are the headquarters of angelology and demology. From the one world came Christ, come ministering spirits, come all gracious influences. From the other world rise all satanic and diabolic influences. From that world of moral night rose the power that wrecked our poor world 6,000 years ago, and all the good work done since then has not been able to get our world out of the breakers. But the signals of distress have been hoisted and the life lines are out, and our world's release is certain. The good influences of the consecrated people in our world will be enticed by the help from the heavenly world, and the divine power will overcome the demonic. O man, O woman, expand your idea and know the magnitude of a contest in which three worlds are specially interested. From all the seven worlds which my text calls the Pleiades there come so much powerful influences as from the two worlds that I am now mentioning. My only hope for this world is in the reinforcement that is to come from another world. But that is promised, and so I feel as sure of the ratification of all evil as though looking out of my window today I saw the parks and the gardens flowering into another paradise and the apocalyptic angel flying through the mist of heaven with the news that the kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord.

The Wife's Influence.

Not sufficiently do we recognize the sweet influence of the wife. We men are of rougher mold, and our voice is loud, and our manners need to be tamed, and gentleness is not as much of a characteristic as it ought to be, and we often say things we ought to take back. It is to change this that the good wife comes in. The interests of the twin are identical. That which from outsiders would be considered criticism and to be resented becomes kindly suggestion, sweet influences that make us better men than we otherwise would have been or could have been.

The last chapter of Proverbs recognizes the good wife's influence when it says, "Her husband is known in the gates when he sits among the elders of the land"—that is, his apparel indicates that he has some one to look after his wardrobe, and his manners show that he is under refining influences at home. But no one fully appreciates the sweet influences of the wife until the dark day comes and the slight symptoms become serious and the serious phases of the disorder pass into the fatal and the temperature is 106 and mental ingenuity is exhausted and you are told for your consolation that "while there is life there is hope," which means there is no hope at all, and the precious life flutters and is gone and you must put out of sight the one who from the day she took the vow amid the orange blossoms under the marriage bell had been to you more than all the world besides. Then you realize as never before what had been the sweet influences.

The World of Reunion.

The sweet influences of the heavenly world, which many wise men thought for a long while was Alcione, the center of the constellation of the Pleiades, world of our future residence, as we hope; world of chorus and illumination, world of reunion, world where we shall be everlastingly complete, world where our old faculties will be intensified and quickened and new faculties implanted, world of high association with Christ, through whose grace we got there at all, and apostles and poets—Habakkuk and St. John of Patmos and Edward Young, his "Night Thoughts" turned into eternal day, and Horatius Bonar of modern hymnology and Hannah More and Mrs. Hemans and Mrs. Sigourney, who struck their harp to nations listened, and David, the victor over Goliath with what seemed insufficient weapons, and Joshua of the prolonged day in Gibeon, and Havelock, the evangelist hero, and those thousands of men of the sword who fought on the right side. What company to move in! What guests to entertain! What personages to visit! What choirs to chant! What banquets with lifted chalices filled with "the new wine of the kingdom!" What victories to celebrate!

The stories of that world and its holy hilarities come in upon our soul sometimes in song, sometimes in sermon, sometimes in hours of solitary reflection, and they are, to use the words of my text, sweet influences. But there is one star that affects us more with its sweet influence than the center star, the Alcione of the Pleiades, and that is what one Bible author calls the Star of Jacob and another Bible author calls the Morning Star. Of all the sweet influences that have ever touched our earth those that radiate from Christ are the sweetest. Born an Asiatic villager in a mechanic's home, living more among hammers and saws and planes than among books, yet at twelve years of age confounding robed ecclesiastics and starting out on a mission under which those born without optic nerve took in the clear daylight, and those afflicted with unresponsive tympanum were made to hear, and those almost doubled up with deformities were straightened into graceful poise, and the leprosy became rubicund, and the widow's only son exchanged the bier on which he lay lifeless for the arms of his overjoyed mother, and pronouncing nine benedictions on the Mount of Beatitudes and doing deeds and speaking words which are filling the centuries with sweet influences. Christ started every ambulance, kindled every electric ray, spread every soft hospital pillow and introduced all the alleviations and pacifications and rescues and mercies of all time. He was the loveliest being who ever trod our earth, more beauty in his eye, more tenderness in his manner, more gentleness in his footstep, more music in his voice, more dignity in his brow, more gracefulness in the locks that rolled upon his shoulders, more compassion in his soul.

How Gladstone Was Relieved.

The fact that the duke and duchess of Cornwall had to give up promiscuous hand-shaking while on their visit to Canada recalls an incident of Mr. Gladstone's memorable Midlothian tour. At one time there was a great hand-shaking ordeal at the window of the old gentleman's railway carriage, and he was rapidly getting the worst of it. A stalwart young policeman who accompanied Mr. Gladstone proved equal to the occasion. Crouching behind the great man and thrusting his hand under Mr. Gladstone's Inverness cape the muscular policeman gave each comer in turn a grip that had no lack of cordiality. "The auld man's uncommon vigorous at his time o' life," observed one unsuspecting Scot as he stroked his fingers. "He is that," concurred another of the policeman's victims, "but did ye notice his nails?"

Official Mourning Paper.

All departments of the government are now using mourning stationery, and will continue to use it until the thirty days of mourning for the late president shall have expired. At first only the executive mansion, the state and the treasury departments adopted mourning stationery, but President Roosevelt ordered that all departments at the capital should use the same paper. So great were the demands of the white house, the state and treasury departments for this paper that the supply in Washington was quickly exhausted and telegraphic orders were sent to other cities. Black bordered paper is used for all communications to the world outside of the national capital. Such paper costs a goodly price, and the total expense of this government mark of respect to the late chief will be $20,000.

A Circus Tragedy.

A tragic occurrence took place recently in a circus in Batignolles, France. Carriere, a well known tamer, made his first entrance into a cage containing a tiger. He had scarcely closed the door when the animal sprang at him, tearing his clothes, and fixing its claws tightly around his ribs. A terrible panic ensued. The keepers were at length able to rescue the unfortunate tamer, who was taken mangled and bleeding to the hospital.

Crimes of a Mexican.

Rafael Pohando, a wealthy ranchman, who is well known on the Rio Grande frontier, Mexico, killed one of his servants a few days ago. The authorities while investigating this crime discovered the bodies of fourteen other men in an old well on the ranch and all bore marks of having been murdered. The murdered men were formerly employed on the ranch, and all disappeared suddenly.

THE WORKING OF FATE.

How it Affected the Career of McKinley and Roosevelt.
Fate is peculiar. It knows better than we do what is best for us. It fixes our destiny without our knowledge, and often against our will, says Leslie's Weekly. William McKinley's most vigorous battle was his contest for the speakership with Thomas H. Reed, in 1890, which Reed won. According to custom, Mr. Reed made his distinguished opponent chairman of the ways and means committee, and thus it was that the protective tariff measure drafted by that committee, largely through the influence of Mr. McKinley, came to be popularly known as "the McKinley bill." This made McKinley the champion of the working masses, the candidate of his party for president, and finally gave him a triumphant election and re-election for the office of chief magistrate. At the Republican national convention at Philadelphia, a little over a year ago, the party leaders of New York insisted that Governor Roosevelt must accept the tender of the vice presidency. He resolutely declined, insisting that he was entitled to re-election to the governorship. The party leaders of New York, aided by those of Pennsylvania and several other states, forced the nomination of Roosevelt, and then compelled his reluctant acceptance. Scarcely six months have elapsed since his inauguration, and he is now the president of the United States, with nearly a full term to serve. This is destiny, and who shall say that the Fates are always unkind?

The man who is willing to learn something at a time will soon know much. Seamen nearing land can tell that fact by the deposits of dew on the vessel.

Ohas. Conklin of Saline started for Oklahoma one day last week. He will make the trip with horse and carriage. Things are whooping along at a great rate at Plymouth. There are thirty cases of whooping cough at that place.

The Jackson Maccabees are hustling to increase their numbers. They now have a membership of 1,300 and are striving to make it 1,500 by January 1st.

Timothy Lane, John Skinner and Harry Twigg were killed by a fast train at Milan last Thursday. The men were on a hand car, and evidently did not see the train.

The board of supervisors of Jackson county have made the city of Jackson one legislative district and the 19 towns of the county the other. Blackman was formerly attached to the city district.

Rev. O. F. A. Spinning of Grass Lake and Miss Ella McBride of Cornum were united in marriage Tuesday, October 22d. The groom is a retired Baptist clergyman, aged 74 years. The bride is 54 years old.

The mill dam at Pinckney was washed out last week. The damage was caused by rats. Thousands of small fish were left on the weeds, and the people of Pinckney will soon be treated to a fine smelt. The dam went out in the same place a year and a half ago.

The old homestead of "Squire" Harvey I. Baldwin, in Palmyra village, was destroyed by fire. "Squire" Baldwin had a record of performing 3,000 marriage ceremonies in this house during his career of 30 years as justice. The house was originally the home of Tiffany, of "Tiffany's guide" fame. The barns on this place also burned within a week.

Friday evening sometime before midnight a murderous assault was made upon a Mr. Denny, night watch for the M. C. bridge gang at Delhi. He was sleeping in a box car used as a cabin but failed to lock the door as is his usual custom. The intention was evidently robbery, as the regular watch is known to have considerable money on his person at times.

Clark Cornwell of Jackson was in town last Friday on business connected with the improvements now in progress at the Hudson pulp mill, and the Leader has it from very good authority that he incidentally investigated the possibility of his company putting in an electric plant and furnishing lights for Dexter from the water power at Hudson. This is admitted to be the best power on the river and would be ample for the purpose. The company's decision will be awaited with interest.—Dexter Leader.

There was a large attendance of stockholders at the meeting held in the village hall Thursday afternoon of last week. Different matters were discussed and the sentiment of the meeting was to abide by the judgment of the directors, and go on with the drilling and use up what money there is, but not to run the company into debt. Henderson & Jameson, the contractors, had a representative present, who said that the contractors did not feel as if they could go further, as they had lost money and if they drilled 2,500 feet the scheme would be a loser for them and they were not financially well off enough to lose money in completing the contract. They proposed to ship their tools and leave the hole in good shape for some other contractor to complete the drilling. Henderson & Jameson did not get one cent for their work so far and leave the work without any pay. The Britton well at the depth of 1,500 feet has struck a fine salt well and our directors will wait and see if this salt is in paying quantities before they proceed, and make a contract with another driller to complete the well.—Milan Leader.

C. M. Phelps, Forestdale, Vt., says his child was completely cured of a bad case of eczema by the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of all counterfeits. It instantly relieves piles. Glazier & Stimson.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not a mere stimulant to tired nature. It affords the stomach complete and absolute rest by digesting the food you eat. You don't have to diet but can enjoy all the good you want. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure instantly relieves that distressed feeling after eating, giving you new life and vigor. Glazier & Stimson.

HARD ON THE TOPERS.

The Short Corn Crop Will Increase the Price of Whisky Considerably.

"Lovers of cocktails, gin fizzes, creme de menthes and other seductive little mixtures in which spirituous fragments form the principal ingredient will probably be interested to learn that the next few months will mark a considerable increase in the price of whisky," said a traveling man, according to the Charleston News and Courier.

"The practical failure of the corn crop," he continued, "in some of the western states, which heretofore furnished the greatest portion of the supply to the people of this country, and the consequent increase in price, will cause the distillers to pay a great deal more for their raw material than they have been in the habit of doing in the past. The consumers in this instance, as in all others since the law of supply and demand has been known, will, of course, be compelled to pay this increase in price. A number of people in this country are probably not aware of the fact that about 75 percent of the whisky distilled in this country is made from corn. Thousands every day are drinking what they suppose to be rye, when in reality it is nothing more than colored corn juice. Out in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa there will be less corn harvested this year than ever before in my recollection. Taking into consideration that these four states, where nearly all the corn in the United States is raised, or rather an enormous percentage of it, are so short as to the output this year, it can be readily seen what effect the decrease will have on the market. Distillers will be forced to pay well for their corn, and the only avenue of escape for them is to make the consumers fork over the difference."

The Beam and the Mole.
The man who finds fault with his neighbor's religion should spend a little time repairing his own.—Chicago Daily News.

Mothers every where praise One Minute Cough Cure for the sufferings it has relieved and the lives of their little ones it has saved. Strikes at the root of the trouble and draws out the inflammation. The children's favorite Cough Cure. Glazier & Stimson.

A TYPICAL SOUTH AFRICAN STORE
O. R. Larson of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to the value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by all druggists.

STEPPED INTO LIVE COALS
"When a child I burned my foot frightfully," writes W. H. Eade of Jonesville, Va., "which caused horrible leg sores for 30 years, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured me after everything else failed." Infallible for burns, scalds, cuts, sores, bruises and piles. Sold by Glazier & Stimson's. 25c.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They are safe, prompt, gentle, effective in removing all impurities from the liver and bowels. Small and easy to take. Never gripe or distress. Glazier & Stimson.

"I had long suffered from indigestion," writes G. A. LaDeis, Cedar City, Mo. "Like others I tried many preparations but never found anything that did me good until I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One bottle cured me. A friend who had suffered similarly I put on the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. He is gaining fast and will soon be able to work. Before he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure indigestion had made him a total wreck. Glazier & Stimson.

PROBATE ORDER.
STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY OF WASHTENA. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on Friday, the 11th day of October, in the year one thousand nine hundred and one. Present, Willis L. Watkins, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of William H. Calkin, deceased. James H. Taylor trustee of part of said estate, comes into court and represents that he is now prepared to render his final trustee account as such trustee. Thereupon it is ordered that Friday the 8th day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for examining and allowing such account, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed. And it is further ordered, that said trustee give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said account, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. WILLIS L. WATKINS, Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.
Default having been made in the conditions of payment of the sum due upon a certain note and indenture of mortgage made on the 25th day of July, 1892, by Eliza C. Bird to John M. Wheeler, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County of Washtenaw, on the 25th day of August, 1892, in Liber 79 of Mortgages on Page 61 on which there is claimed to be due the sum of $400.17, and no proceedings at law or equity have been taken to recover the said sum of money or any part thereof. Notice is hereby given that on the 25th day of January, 1902, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the south front door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, State of Michigan, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the lands and tenements thereon conveyed will be sold at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder to satisfy the debt secured thereby, and the costs and expenses of these proceedings including an attorney's fee of $15 provided for therein. The lands, tenements and premises in the said mortgage mentioned and then and there to be sold are described as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situated and being in the City of Ann Arbor, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, to-wit: Lot number twenty-four (24), Block two (2) in R. S. Smith's Third addition to the City of Ann Arbor, according to the recorded plat thereof. Dated, Ann Arbor, Mich., October 28, 1901.
