FOUR COUPLES MADE HAPPY.

Weddings Have Been Plentiful in Chelsea This Week.

A hymeneal fever seems to have stricken the young bachelors and maids of Chelsea and vicinity this week, no fewer than four couples having been united in the bonds of matrimony.

GROHNERT-DEALY.

Married, Monday evening, Nov. 18, at St. Mary's rectory, by the Rev. William P. Considine, Mr. Max Ferdinand Grohnert, of Chicago, and Miss Louise Dealy, of Sylvan. The couple were attended by Mr. Michael and Miss Mary Dealy, brother and sister of the bride. They left by the 10:20 train that night for Chicago, their future home, where Mr. Grohnert is employed as a machinist.

ADRION-MOHRLOCK.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mohrlock, of Sylvan, on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 19, at 8 o'clock, a pleasant family wedding took place. At that time Mr. John G. Adrion, of Chelsea, was wedded to Miss Anna Mohrlock, Rev. A. Schoen, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, performing the ceremony. The bridal couple were attended by Mr. Herman and Miss Mary Mohrlock, brother and sister of the bride. After the ceremony a bountiful wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Adrion were remembered by their friends with many pretty and useful presents. They have gone to housekeeping in costly furnished rooms over Mr. Adrion's meat market in the Klein store.

CANFIELD-WILSON.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 19, at 6 o'clock, Mr. Howard Irving Canfield, of Onondaga, Mich., formerly of Lyndon, and Miss Rilla Helen Wilson, of Grass Lake, were married at St. Mary's rectory by the Rev. William P. Considine. The attendants were James Brogan, of Hudson, Mich., uncle of the bride, and Miss Mary Blanche Wilson, of Grass Lake, sister of the bride. Mrs. Elmer Bates, of Chelsea, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Stephen Clark were also present. Mr. and Mrs. Canfield left for Grass Lake at 8:20 p. m., where a supper and reception were given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson, parents of the bride. Their future home will be Onondaga, Mich., where Mr. Canfield has purchased a hotel and livery business.

BROOKS-HIEBER.

Mr. Howard F. Brooks and Miss Henriette Hieber, two well-known and estimable young people of Chelsea, were married last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Heiber, in Dexter township, by Rev. C. S. Jones, in the presence of their relatives and a few intimate friends. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to the assembled guests. The presents to the young couple were numerous, pretty and useful. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks have gone to housekeeping in part of Leander Tichenor's house on Congdon street, and the best wishes of a host of friends are with them.

Neither Can Tell the Truth.

A preacher once said: "Editors cannot tell the truth: If you did you could not live, your newspaper would be a failure." The editor replied "You are right, and the minister who will at all tell the truth about members, alive or dead, will not occupy the pulpit more than one Sunday, and will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The press and pulpit go hand in hand with whitewash brush and kind words magnifying little virtues into big ones. The pulpit and the press are a saint-making partnership." And the minister went away looking very thoughtful, while the editor turned to his work, telling about the unsurpassed beauty of the bride while, as a matter of fact, she was as ugly as a pine stump fence.

Vincent Is Warden.

Alonzo Vincent, of St. Joseph, was elected warden of the Jackson prison at the meeting of the board of prison control held at Lansing Tuesday. A. C. Northrup, who was the first choice of Messrs. Holmes and Bills, on account of his long experience in the workings of the prison, will remain in his present position of deputy warden, and the office force of the prison will not be disturbed. Mr. Vincent had the recommendations of eight of the 12 congressmen, 50 members of the legislature, all the Republican state central committee officers and one-half of its members.

This fine collection of books is open to the free use of all persons, and this entertainment which is given to raise funds for the purchase of new books should be well patronized accordingly. Our congressman, Hon. H. C. Smith, of Adrian, will be present and make a speech. There will also be a program of music and recitations. John Farrell will have charge of the wheel of fortune which will dispense liberal prizes to those who hold the lucky numbers. Donations for this harvest festival may be left at John Farrell's store. The price of the tickets for the supper is 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

Admission 15 cents.

A Startling Surprise.

Very few could believe in looking at A. T. Hoadley, a healthy, robust blacksmith, of Tilden, Ind., that for ten years he suffered such tortures from rheumatism as few could endure and live. But a wonderful change followed his taking Electric Bitters. "Two bottles wholly cured me," he writes, "and I have not felt a twinge in over a year." They regulate the kidneys, purify the blood and cure rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, improve digestion and give perfect health. Try them. Only 50 cents at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

Some very heavy machinery for the D., Y., A. A. & J. transformer station at Ann Arbor has been received there.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18th.—Mr. R. A. Wade, the celebrated criminal lawyer of this city, whose opinion on legal matters is unquestioned, has recently made public his unqualified opinion on a matter of medicine. Mr. Wade says that Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble affect the eyesight, and further, that there is no case of the kind that can not be cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He has no fear of being set right by any of his medical friends, for both statements have a living and indisputable proof in the person of the great lawyer himself, who, as a result of Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble, from which he suffered for years, became totally blind.

Physicians, the best in the country, pronounced his case incurable and hopeless, but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him, restored his sight, drove away the Kidney Trouble and with it the Rheumatism and made an allround well man of him.

LIFE AT THE UNIVERSITY.

In Many Respects It Is Similar to the Everyday Routine of the Busy World.

THE MORAL TONE IS GENERALLY HIGH.

Mingling Together of Various Professions Helps Each in Turn—Some of the Strongest Men and Women Rank as Leaders of the Christian Workers.

[Special Correspondence.]
 University of Michigan—State universities are frequently characterized as "Godless Institutions." It is true that religious instruction is not a part of the curriculum in a state university, but this does not imply that a deep religious feeling is not felt. We are apt to judge the many students by the few. Simply because a small number of students are not a credit to the university many persons overlook the 3,000 or more who are earnest, upright and hardworking. We hear much about the one bad fellow, but seldom do we hear about the 100 good ones.

Each Helped in Turn.
 In many respects life at a great university is similar to the everyday life of the busy world. Each man counts for what he is worth, no more and no less. The mingling together of the would-be doctor and lawyer and teacher and preacher helps each in his turn. The Christian man will be a stronger man on account of the cosmopolitan character of the university. Both the student studying for the ministry and the one training himself for a missionary in the foreign field receives valuable help from each other, and each in turn is an inspiration to those about him.

Religious Census.
 From time to time a religious census of the university has been taken. Each time the results have been as gratifying as they were surprising. In 1868-9 the first religious census was taken, to ascertain the number of church members in the university. In the literary department the percentage was 40; in the medical, 28, and in the law, 16 per cent. In 1886-7 another census was taken. The percentage in the literary department was 47; in the medical, 41; in the law, 26. In 1896-7, the religious census showed a still greater increase. The percentages were as follows: Literary department, 62; medical department, 57, and the law department, 36 per cent., respectively.

Christian Workers.
 Some of the strongest men and women in the university rank among the leaders of the Christian workers. There are two Christian associations connected with the university, both employing general secretaries: The Young Men's Christian association, with a membership of over 400, and the Students' Christian association, having a membership of about 700. The University Y. M. C. A. was organized in the spring of 1895. It started with a membership of 38, two small rooms in Sackett hall serving as the association headquarters. From the very beginning there has been a steady and rapid growth. The old quarters soon proved too small, and in the spring of 1896 all of Sackett hall were outgrown and now both Sackett and McMillan halls are occupied, which provide the association with suitable facilities for its extensive work. It is now the largest organization of men in the university, and this year has a membership of over 450. It is a part of the worldwide Y. M. C. A. movement, whose student department is to-day the largest intercollegiate organization in existence, and is known everywhere as the friend and practical helper of young men.

Object of the Association.
 The object of the association is to promote grace and Christian fellowship among its members, and aggressive Christian work, especially by and for college men; to train them for Christian service; and to lead them to devote their lives to Jesus Christ, not only in distinctly religious callings, but in secular pursuits. McMillan and Sackett halls furnish the association with excellent facilities for carrying on its work. Two meetings are held each week. The Sunday meeting is addressed by members of the faculty and other prominent men. The aim is to get speakers who are in close sympathy with college men, and familiar with their needs. Good music is always provided, and the meetings are very profitable. Hand in hand with the development of the association has arisen a carefully organized department of Bible study, whose purpose is to bring the Bible to the earnest attention of every man in the university, and to enlist as many men as possible, both Christians and non-Christians, in some form of systematic Bible study. The work of the department consists in offering and maintaining a cycle of courses in the study of the Bible, especially designed for college men; and in holding a Bible institute conducted by some prominent man, along with much personal work among the classes. Recently the department has placed a small working library of reference books in the Association reading-room for use in this work, and has secured for the members the privilege of drawing books from the McMillan theological library of 6,000 volumes.

Systematic Bible Study.
 Experience has shown that a man can better acquire the habit of systematic Bible study in college than anywhere else; at no other time in his life will his time be so completely under his own control; moreover, he is living in an atmosphere of study, and is mingling with other men who are seeking to form the habit of Bible study. The student in one of those courses is under the leadership of men trained for their work, and he not only learns what is in his Bible, but also how to study it systematically and profitably. Consistent with its broad purposes the association aims to furnish ample opportunities for social intercourse and good fellowship. One of the very practical features of the work is the employment bureau, conducted in the interest of those who need to earn a part of their expenses while in college. This year about 200 men were furnished with positions for the year.

A Powerful Factor.
 The Students' Christian association occupying Newberry hall, is also a powerful factor in development of Christian life at the great university. The members have their regular religious meetings, an employment bureau, and the social side of life consistently blended together. This organization also publishes the Bulletin, a weekly, the official paper of the association. This is circulated free.

Work in Societies.
 Many of the students work in the young peoples' societies connected with the various churches, instead of the above organizations; so the members of the organizations first mentioned do not by any means include all the Christian workers among the students. The best proof that the faculty, the students and the alumni are intensely interested in the religious life is shown in their toil and contributions to erect such a beautiful structure as Newberry hall, the building of the Students' Christian association. This building, together with its lot, cost over $40,000. It also has an endowment of $3,000.

Churches Give Aid.
 The various churches are earnest in their desires, especially to help young men and women just starting out in college life, and everything possible is done by these organizations to help upbuild the moral side of a student's life. Their work is energetic and persistent, making itself felt more and more every year. Those who are inclined to think that the moral side of life is neglected while the intellectual is developed at the University of Michigan, are not acquainted with the facts regarding the Christian work there. No student escapes the influence of the combined work of the student organizations and churches, and the great majority of their own accord help to extend the influence.

New Books.
 Since September 2, of this year, 1,752 volumes have been added to the general library of the university, including 433 volumes of medical books purchased with the interest on the Dr. Bates memorial fund. The remainder is divided about equally between works of literature, history, science and philosophy and religious taken together.

Will Cooperate.
 As a result of a conference between State Game Warden Henry Overbeck, of Wisconsin, and State Game Warden Grant M. Morse, of Michigan, violations of the game laws of the two states will be reduced to a minimum. The wardens have agreed to cooperate on an extensive scale. Tags will be attached to game for shipment from upper Michigan to the lower peninsula through Wisconsin by which Badger wardens will not seize the game. These tags will be issued by deputy game wardens to hunters.

State Saves Money.
 Secretary Hal Smith, of the Pan-American Michigan commission, is in Ionia closing up affairs of his department. He says his final report will be ready for the printer in a short time, after which the commission will be called to Grand Rapids in December for the final meeting. He says that of the $43,000 appropriated over $11,000 will not be used.

Married in Montana.
 Loyal to her heart's choice, Miss Anis Rhoda Fry, of Benton Harbor, traveled 2,000 miles to a Montana home, where she has been united in marriage to E. W. Pond, at Kernville. Mr. Pond left here 20 years ago with the promise that Miss Fry would become his bride when a home was established. The marriage was performed by Judge G. Burns.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Years of Theft.
 M. Trass, a trusted watchman, and Charles Kipp were arrested at Holland on charge of having systematically robbed the West Michigan furniture factory. It is charged that this stealing has gone on for years. Valuable chiffoniers and dressers which Superintendent Hadden identified as property of the company were found in the Trass home. Trass, his wife and Kipp confessed. The stolen goods were sold outside the city. The officers believe that thousands of dollars' worth of goods have been taken at night from the factory in wagon loads.

Swept by Fire.
 The business portion of West Branch was swept by fire and for a time complete destruction of the village was threatened. The fire originated in the West Branch hotel, which was destroyed. Aided by the high wind the flames spread until the Commercial hotel, Norton's hotel, G. A. R. hall, two livery stables, two residences, a grocery store and a photograph gallery had been consumed. The losses, which are over $20,000, are covered by insurance. The town is now without a hotel.

Health in Michigan.
 Reports to the state board of health from 74 observers in various portions of the state indicate that diphtheria, smallpox and measles increased and scarlet fever decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 187 places, measles at 4, typhoid fever at 109, whooping cough at 15, cerebro-spinal meningitis at 1, diphtheria at 51, scarlet fever at 94 and smallpox at 38 places.

Travels of a Bullet.
 One of the strangest accidents of the hunting season occurred at Stephenson. George Richardson shot a deer, and the bullet passed through its body, hit a tree, glanced off and struck William Everhardt, first going through his wrist. It then hit his gunstock, glanced up and entered his mouth through his cheek, lodging in his neck. The wound is a serious one.

Belanger Is Dead.
 Felix Belanger, the aged French Canadian who murdered his wife and daughter with an ax at Winona mine recently, died at St. Joseph hospital in Houghton from his self-inflicted injuries. As he has given indisputable evidences of insanity since his crime his death came as a relief to all concerned.

Important Decision.
 The contention of the secretary of state's department that mercantile corporations filing articles of incorporation with the secretary of state shall have their entire capital stock subscribed for, although only ten per cent. is required to be paid in, has been sustained by the supreme court.

News Briefly Stated.
 Matt Britz was mistaken for a deer in the woods near Lathrop by George Miller and was shot and instantly killed.

Fred Nordstrom, a prisoner sent to jail at Houghton for 30 days for disorderly conduct, was found suffering from smallpox.

The finding by a game warden of a hunting dog in the upper peninsula woods during the deer season this year is a warrant for the immediate death of the dog.

John Shepherd, aged 71 years, an inmate of the county house, died in the county jail in Corunna, as the result of exposure.

The German Lutherans of Farmington have purchased a site and will build a new church in the spring.

Yale is trying to secure Port Huron's canning factory, and from the latest developments it looks as if the attempt will be successful.

Merchants of Almont would not stand for free rural milk delivery and petitioned the post office department not to establish any route because it would interfere with their business.

The corner stone of Grand Haven's new $60,000 schoolhouse has been laid.

The preliminary survey for the Toledo & Northwestern railway has been completed from Charlotte to Hanover.

A large amount of thieving is reported among farmers at Willow and vicinity.

Power's theater in Grand Rapids was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $100,000. Edgar W. Warrenton, an employe, perished in the flames.

Thomas J. Kelleher, proprietor of the Occidental saloon in Sault Ste. Marie, was burned to death. He was in his room alone, and it is supposed his lamp was overturned.

The Wyandotte savings bank, of Wyandotte, has had its corporate existence for 30 years.

Solomon Donding, 75 years old, died in Marshall. He served in the Twenty-eighth Michigan infantry in the civil war.

MAN OF MANY WIVES.

A Doctor in Montcalm County Married His Fifth a Little Too Soon and Faces Divorce Court.

Dr. Elam Mann, of Montcalm county, formerly a resident of Lansing, is defendant in a proceeding for divorce commenced by a lady residing in Lansing, who is claimed to be the fourth wife of the respondent. All previous wives were divorced, and it is alleged that Mann supposed he was divorced from No. 4. He married a fifth wife, however, before the decree was granted, and the circuit judge, finding out the real facts, afterward annulled the decree. Wife No. 4 is now prosecuting a suit for divorce in this county.

HAZING IS OBSOLETE.

President Angell of the University of Michigan Says the Trouble Is Easily Disposed Of.

President Angell, of the University of Michigan, says: "The question of hazing at the University of Michigan is one that can be disposed of very easily. For 27 years we have either suspended or expelled every student who has been apprehended in any such practice, and it is practically obsolete here. As it rushes, the practice is simply the survival of the earlier days of the university, and I am glad to say that these clashes are gradually being eliminated as to their extent, and hope speedily to see the time when they will be matters of history only."

Applicants Waiting.

There are about 1,300 applications on file in the office of the home for the feeble-minded at Lapeer, and of these 490 have been accommodated, leaving 700 or 800 to be acted upon. The institution is now accommodating 390, and by the end of the month will be handling about 425. On an average, ten applications per month are received. To care for the applicants, seven new cottages will be needed.

Excites Envy.

An announcement recently made stating that "Tekonsha has 25 attractive widows among its 600 population," has excited the envy of adjacent towns. Colon, a jealous neighbor, with 200 more population, boasts of having "50 widows, eligible, good looking, mostly young, all attractive, many with means and affectionate as one could wish."

Fifty Years in One Home.

At their pleasant home in Volinia Mr. and Mrs. Milton Gard celebrated their golden wedding. Between 75 and 100 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Gard have lived in one home their entire married life, and are esteemed and cherished by a host of friends.

WANTS BETTER NAVY

Secretary Long Urges Increase in Ships and Men.

Keynote of His Annual Report—List of New Vessels Whose Construction He Urges—Other Recommendations Made.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The keynote of the annual report of Secretary Long for 1901 is "increase"—an increase in both the number of ships and the number of officers and sailors for the navy. "The navy to-day," he says, "is a far greater factor in our relations with the world than it was before the recent national expansion, which now includes Porto Rico, the Hawaiian islands, the vast area of land and sea in the Philippines and our obligations to Cuba. If we are to have a navy at all it must be commensurate with these great extensions—greater in international even than in territorial importance."

New Vessels Needed.

The secretary's recommendation for new construction, based on the report of the general board, headed by Admiral Dewey, and that of the board of construction is as follows:
 Three first-class battleships.
 Two first-class armored cruisers.
 Three gunboats, each of about 1,000 tons trial displacement.
 Three gunboats, each of about 200 tons trial displacement, for insular service.
 Three picket boats, each of about 650 tons trial displacement.
 Three steel sailing training ships, each of about 2,000 tons trial displacement.
 One collier, of about 15,000 tons trial displacement.

Four tugboats.
 All the vessels recommended in these two reports, says Secretary Long, are desirable in the respective and harmonious development of our naval force, and a larger increase this year than usual is desirable because none were made last year. He, however, found that some of the vessels recommended could better be omitted from his list than others and await appropriation hereafter.

More Officers and Men.

The secretary places emphasis on the necessity for more line officers and more enlisted men. He recommends that the number of lieutenants be increased from 300 to 350 and that the limit of the number of junior lieutenants and ensigns be placed at 600. As to the enlisted men, he recommends that that force be increased by 3,000 men. Tables are submitted showing that in the number of commissioned officers of the executive branch and in the total strength of all ranks and ratings, the United States navy is in the rear of that of England, France, Germany, Russia, Japan and Italy, and that the proportionate increase in our navy's personnel has for six years been away behind the pace set by the nations mentioned. Secretary Long directs attention to Germany's law, which increases her personnel along with her shipbuilding, and which, by an average annual increase of 1,800 officers and men will give the German navy in 1920 a total personnel of 59,408.

Naval Reserve.

Another pressing need set out in the secretary's report is that for a national naval reserve, which was so strongly advocated by President Roosevelt when he was assistant secretary of the navy. The lesson taught by the Spanish-American war, he says, was that steps should be taken at once to meet this "one certain and positive requirement which will face the nation upon an outbreak of war."

Personnel of the Navy.

In connection with the subject of naval personnel, Secretary Long makes a number of important recommendations as follows: The revival of the grade of vice admiral; an increase of 50 per cent. in the number of cadets at the naval academy; an increase of the marine corps by 750 men; increase in the corps of naval constructors and of civil engineers, and no further appointments to the office of professor of mathematics.

The Retired List.

One of the most important recommendations in this respect is that officers of the navy be retired with the rank and three-fourths of the sea pay of the grade held at the time of retirement, instead of the next higher grade, as at present. The secretary points out that much-needed officers are now offered a premium to go on the retired list. He also strongly advocates that the law providing for the advancement of officers "for service rendered during the war with Spain" be given a general application so as to include service in China, the Philippines and elsewhere. He says that some provision should be made by which retired officers, when ordered into active service, shall have such service reckoned in their favor as to rank and pay when they are put back on the retired list. Recommendation is also made that all honorable service in the navy, the marine corps and the army be embraced in the law authorizing the retirement of petty officers and enlisted men who have served 30 years in the navy.

Naval Station in Porto Rico.

The secretary announces that the naval board appointed to examine the coast of Porto Rico, with a view to selecting a suitable site for a naval station, recommends that it be located on the shores of San Juan harbor, and that its recommendation also includes the construction of a dry dock.

Naval Observatory.

The secretary devotes considerable attention to the naval observatory and earnestly recommends that there be no limitation upon the field from which its superintendent is to be selected. Its head, he says, should be, of course, the best astronomer with the proper administrative qualifications that can be found in the country. It is especially desirable, he states, that the superintendent should have continuity of tenure, as the observatory has suffered from the frequent changes at its head.

Civil Service.

On the subject of civil service, Secretary Long says: "The navy department bears witness to the utility of the present system of the civil service. It prevents favoritism and makes merit the test of entrance into place and of standing and advance in it, and the result has been a decided increase in efficiency."

Jail for Newspaper Men.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Judge Haney Tuesday morning gave his decision in the Chicago American contempt case. He fixes the punishment of Andrew M. Lawrence, managing editor, at 40 days in the county jail, and that of H. S. Canfield, reporter, at 30 days. John C. Hammond, assistant city editor, and S. S. Carvalho, financial manager, were discharged.

Sit up in bed.

When it becomes necessary to sit up in bed to get your breath; when the least exertion such as walking, sweeping, singing, talking or going up and down stairs, causes shortness of breath, fluttering or palpitation; then it is time to do something to brace up and strengthen your failing heart. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It is best of all.

"I could not rest at night and often had to sit up in bed to breathe. The least exertion would make my heart palpitate dreadfully. Our doctor prescribed Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and it completely restored me to health."

Electric Railway Notes.

The Boland people have shipped several carloads of surplus ties from Chelsea and Dexter to Marshall the past week.

There will be no electric railway war between the Detroit, Holly & Lansing and the D., Y., A. A. & J. companies. An agreement has been reached by which the first named company will enter Lansing over the Hawks & Angus city lines.

The new Boland power house at Jackson is to be equipped with a new mechanical novelty in the way of steam turbine engines which the General Electric Company has been perfecting for some time and which promise great steam economy.

An amended ordinance for W. A. Boland's electric line in Ann Arbor received its second reading at the council meeting held in that city Monday evening. One of its provisions is that Mr. Boland will put up $10,000 towards the grade separation plan.

The Detroit Evening News says that J. D. Hawks and S. F. Angus, as a result of the sale of the D., Y., A. A. & J., railway to the Everett-Moore syndicate, will divide the immense sum of $1,500,000 between them. The $2,600,000 of stock was sold at 60 cents on the dollar.

Mayor Copeland, W. A. Boland and H. W. Ashley, general manager of the Ann Arbor railroad, had a conference in Ann Arbor Saturday over the question of grade separation. Mr. Boland has expressed his willingness to put up from $8,000 to $10,000 towards the object.

The Detroit Tribune has the following: "The Boland Flynn syndicate has made an agreement with the Railway Companies General, which owns the Battle Creek-Kalamazoo road, which gives the syndicate that property and requires the completion of a through line from Kalamazoo to Detroit by July 1 next. East of Jackson the road is completed to Dexter, and the grading gangs are now nearing Ann Arbor. Within two weeks the third rail material will be on hand, and within 60 days the line between Jackson and Ann Arbor will be equipped with the third rail outside the villages."

A party of Pittsburg, New York and Chicago capitalists will join Messrs. Hawks and Angus in building a line from Lansing to Grand Rapids, and when the road is completed it will be amalgamated with the Grand Rapids, Grand Haven & Muskegon. The gentlemen who will be interested in these roads are: J. D. Hawks, S. F. Angus and Wallace Franklin of Detroit; Henry J. Conant and W. W.

Churchill, of New York, directors Grand Rapids, Grand Haven & Muskegon railway; Stacy C. Richmond, New York; Walter C. Kerr, of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co.; B. H. Warren, vice president Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Co., Pittsburg, and Geo. C. Smith, vice president Security & Investment Co., St. Louis.

The Jackson Press says that during the past week the Hawks-Angus interests in that city have built about 80 rods of road on North Milwaukee street and finished the straight work on the Chapin, Ten Eyck and Pearl street line. Then the men were transferred to the Vandercreek's Lake line where steel is being laid. A large force of men are busy at the Michigan Central crossing at the head of Chapin street, where the Hawks-Angus line passes under the Michigan Central tracks. Contractor Griffin of Detroit is doing the work of cutting the tunnel for the electric line also raising the roadbed and tracks of the Michigan Central spur tracks. The bondings gang is well along with its work, and with the completion of the Michigan Center electrical sub-station cars can be run from Ann Arbor to Jackson. The machinery has arrived for this, and will soon be placed.

The Address He Got.

A Russian gentleman tells a funny story of his first encounter with the English language.

The day after his arrival in London he made a call on a friend in Park lane, and on leaving the premises inscribed in his notebook what he supposed to be the correct address.

The next day, desiring to go to the same place again, he called a cabman and pointed to the address that he had written down. The cabman looked him over, laughed, cracked the whip, and drove away without him.

This experience being repeated with two or three other cabmen, the Russian turned indignantly to the police, with no better results. One officer would laugh, another would tap his head and make a motion imitating the revolution of a wheel.

Finally the poor foreigner gave it up, and, with a great deal of difficulty, recalling the landmarks which he had observed the day before, found his way to his friend's house. Once there, and in company with one who could understand him, he delivered himself of a hot condemnation of the cabmen and the police of London for their impertinence and discourtesy.

His friend asked for a look at the mirth provoking address, and the mystery was solved. This was the entry:

"Ring the bell."

The Russian had with great care copied, character for character, the legend of the gatepost, supposing that it indicated the house and street.—Pearson's.

Mustn't "Own" Their Engines.

The railroad engineer who "owns" his engine is not in favor with his superiors. Complaints about trivial matters are likely to be made against him, and soon he finds himself without a berth. The phrase "owning an engine" does not mean that the engineer has acquired title to his iron horse. The expression is used of a man who has been with a certain engine so long that he becomes a part of it. He knows its every peculiarity, he feels its every protest against a heavy load, and he nurses it and coddles it as if it were his child. He dislikes to run the engine at top speed for fear something will happen to it, and in consequence his train is frequently behind time. He takes a grade at half the rate he should, and he runs cautiously down hill. In a word, he "owns" his engine.

Of course this is all very nice and idyllic, and it is the kind of thing a person likes to read about in stories of the railroad. But plain, practical railroad men look at it differently. They argue that the best engineer is the man who never fails to run his train according to his running time, the man who is never behind and seldom ahead. So it comes about that the engineer who makes a master of that which should be his servant wonders who has a grudge against him. But it isn't a grudge; it's business.—New York Mail and Express.

In the sixteenth century it was customary in Germany to get up at 5 o'clock, dine at 10, sup at 5 and go to bed at 8.

Next Sunday, Nov. 24, is the 84th anniversary of Rev. Thomas Holmes' birth. In commemoration of this fact Rev. E. E. Caster, pastor of the M. Price of admission 15 cents; members of Chelsea schools, 10 cents.

Here is the latest a la Ella Wheeler Wilcox: "Drink and the gang drink with you, swear off and go it alone, for the bar room bum who drinks your rum has a puerile thirst of his own. Feast and your friends are many, fast and they cut you dead, they'll not get mad if you treat them bad so long as their stomachs are fed. Steal if you get a million, for then you can furnish ball. It's the big thief who gets out on leave and the little one who goes to jail. Advertise and the dollars will come; quit and they fail to arrive. For how are men who have money to spend to know you are still alive.

The Christmas number of the Delineator is about the first of the special Christmas issues. It is a beauty. The cover is a most artistic production, showing a beautifully gowned woman, standing gracefully in a brilliantly lighted salon. Two charming love stories, one by Cyrus Townsend Brady, plenty of advice regarding Christmas Gifts, timely pointers on cookery, winter-time care of plants, all the fashions of the day interpreted into simple language, can be found in the Christmas number of the Delineator. It is a splendid magazine, satisfactory inside and out. There is no magazine for women at present published that is more practical in all its pages. As a Xmas gift itself, it bears its own recommendations.

Horses and Automobiles Are the Talk of New York

Sixty cavalymen dashing with thunderous hoofs and ringing cheers across a hard-trodden training ground suggest power; a fellow in front would feel like getting out of the way if convenient.

At the automobile show the most observed machine was that of Henri Fournier, hastily patched together after its wreck by a railroad engine. That single machine has 60-horse power. To drive it on a perfect road at the speed of a railroad train requires the equivalent in hoofs and oats of a double line of horses as long as a city block.

Put it another way. On a smooth, hard road a horse can pull two or three tons. Fournier's machine weighs less than one ton. Each horse power of its engine has to draw but 25 pounds of its weight. It's like a horse drawing a baby wagon.

There were other machines at the show as prodigal of power. One made by an American builder is priced at $15,000. There are autos with horse power as low as 3½, sold at $550—light machines for family use that will carry two persons or at a pinch three at moderate speed. These, which seem a useful type of vehicle, attract no attention. The public interest is centered upon the great racing machines which are useless, which it should be made a misdemeanor to drive at full speed on any road, whose cost places them beyond the means of ordinary people.

I have driven my bicycle 50 times over the grade crossing where Fournier suffered the first bad accident in his career as a "chauffeur." It is in the heart of the nearest village to the country homes of E. D. Morgan, W. C. Whitney and others. It is surrounded by houses. It is impossible to see the tracks in either direction. The engine was running 50 miles an hour; the auto at least as fast. It is wonderful that some of its occupants were not killed outright.

Coming of the Horse Show.

Meanwhile, after a brief intermission, the horse show follows the automobiles at the great gleaming garden of Madison square. The time may come when the automobile problem is worked out, when we will wonder that people ever harnessed such nervous beasts as horses and tried to drive them. Just at present, with our millionaires trying to see how many people they can just miss killing by the new machine, the horse seems by comparison sedate.

The horse show is still the fashionable function. A surprisingly large number of swell people were at the Automobile show, but not in war paint. You could not pick them out of the throng by their clothes. They were perhaps even more interested in the exhibits than they will be in the horses, but it was all informal. Now the gowns must come out—the wonderful gowns that the dressmakers have been contriving for a month and more.

It is the strangest of shows. Fifty years from now it will be hard to believe that the society leaders of 1901 sat in boxes almost level with the arena and within ten feet of a multitude of milliners and counter-jumpers that came to gaze upon them as an exhibit; that the number and location of every box and the names of those who occupied it were printed in the newspapers; that the people on the floor audibly discussed as they passed the famous beauties and belles and haughty matrons of New York.

Queer Show, But Has Its Uses.
Do you suppose the perpetual feeling of being "on show" doesn't get tiresome to those overworked ladies? It does; and it is responsible for some queer outbursts of temper.

It was once my fortune to witness a curious incident of this sort. A woman whose name is known the country over was "riled" by some more than usually audacious impertinence on the part of a young fellow whom she had never seen before. She sprang upon him with a tigerlike bound, grasped him by the shoulders and hissed out: "You devil, I—"

Her voice died away. The words shocked her more than they did the ill-bred fellow who provoked them. He smiled up into her face as innocently as a baby. The woman released her hold upon his shoulders, went back where she had been, and with trembling lips tried to resume her set smile. The whole extraordinary scene was over in a fraction of a second, as it would seem.

But if it irks the rich and powerful to be thus placed on exhibition, why do they do it?

I spoke of the people who throng the horse show aisles as milliners and counter-jumpers. That is the literal truth. Quick-witted girls observe at the horse show the very latest fashionable fit and cut. They take surreptitious sketches of the most notable toilets. The papers publish brief accounts of the showy gowns of the "leaders."

As for the counter-jumper, he will be able all winter long to say: "Yes, ma'am; this piece of goods is practically the same that Mrs. So-and-So wore at the horse show." In the cause of business the "leaders of society" have their use.

Two Sermons on Extravagance.

Yet it is a doubtful use. Extravagance in dress has been pushed to the limit within the past two years. A great dignitary of the fashionable Episcopal church made young Mrs. Mackay's horse show cloak last year the text of a powerful sermon on extravagance and ostentation. This year a more powerful sermon yet has been silently preached by a woman—Mrs. Roosevelt.

The news that she had said that her annual expense for clothes was $300—and it is true—was received in New York with shrieking and with shudders. Women I know whose husbands have but moderate salaries threw up their hands and said: "Why, it isn't possible! She can't do it; or else she must look like—well—there!" Language would fail at about this point.

As I wrote in these letters before anyone thought that Mrs. Roosevelt would become mistress of the white house in so sad a manner, she is not a society woman. Her birth and lineage are of the best; she is a lady to her finger tips—too much a lady to dress with the slightest attempt at ostentation. In public she is always inconspicuous, yet no one would ever take her for other than what she is. She does not have to wear showy clothes to proclaim her station.

For that matter, the Roosevelts have never had money to burn. Not until he became governor of New York in 1899 did Mr. Roosevelt ever enjoy a large official salary. Up to that time his income and his pen earnings combined never equaled the salary of a successful working newspaper man in New York in a good editorial position.

Why, then, should that $300 story cause such astonishment—unless the women who were astonished have their standards of expense "geared too high?"

"Big Six" in Football.

There is a "Big Six" in football instead of a "Big Four." Columbia, by beating Princeton, Harvard and Pennsylvania in three successive years, has won the right to be classified with them. Cornell comes close behind. Yale, usually first in prowess, is not invulnerable.

After these schools, there is a falling off. The Carlisle Indians are not what they were a few years ago. The West Pointers are always favorites upon the gridiron, but, though they play with dash and pluck, they average two or three years younger and several pounds lighter than any of the teams in the "Big Six."

The big colleges are helped out by their professional schools. There's a giant weighing 230 pounds, and not one of these pounds superfluous, playing on the Columbia eleven who was last summer a curbstone broker on Wall street. He is a bona fide student of the law school and entitled to play with his university. There are two others in the line as heavy as himself.

Columbia has the finest "backs" in the country. They are Berrien, the captain; Morley, who was a deputy sheriff in the southwest before he became a college man, who plays like a demon and is afraid of nothing; Weekes, a young fellow with candle-colored hair, the most remarkable single player in the country, and Smith, who is just a shade inferior to Weekes.

Consider this man Weekes for a moment: He is five feet ten or 11 inches tall, and weighs about 178 pounds. He is by actual test with all manner of queer machines the strongest man of the 2,500 in his university—stronger than the 230-pound broker, for instance; he can run a hundred yards in ten seconds or perhaps a shade better; he can dodge like a weasel; he can jump over a bar at his own height or more.

It is this young man's pleasing habit to "make gains" for his team by jumping right over his own line and the opposing one—"hurdling" over the mass of 20 bucking, grunting players, soaring in the air almost like a bird, treading lightly on an occasional ear, neck or cheek. Or to get the ball and dash for 75 yards around the ends, dodging man after man of the opposing players.

The capacity for the "strenuous life" seems to grow in spots. Weekes lives within half a mile of President Roosevelt's home in Oyster Bay.

HAS FOUND HIS IDEAL.

The Venerable Senator Chauncey M. Depew Will Marry May Palmer, a Maid of Thirty.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew, after being kept busy for several years denying rumors that he was about to take a wife, admits at last that he is engaged to be married and that this time it's no joke. The woman of his choice is Miss May Palmer. She is a New Yorker by birth, but is little known there. Almost from her childhood she has lived abroad and has visited this country only a very few times. Miss

MISS MAY PALMER.

Palmer is the daughter of the late Henry Palmer and granddaughter of John I. Palmer, who founded the Merchants' bank. Her mother was one of the three Herman sisters, of New Orleans, who, a generation ago, were famous for their beauty the country over.

"Yes," said Senator Depew, to a New York Sun reporter, "it's true this time I'm engaged to be married. Naturally I'm elated, but for six weeks I've kept the fact a perfect secret. I've been around everywhere without anyone guessing it."

"When I went abroad last summer one of those periodical rumors that I was engaged to some one had just cropped out, and I denied it. I wasn't engaged then, and I said so. I told you reporters that I wasn't going to get married over on the other side, and that was true, too. But when I returned in September I brought a secret which I smuggled past customs inspectors and reporters without their getting a whiff of it, so I feel proud."

"I met Miss Palmer nine years ago during a trip abroad. It was at Vevey in Switzerland. Miss Palmer is an intimate friend of my cousin, Countess de Seres, and it was through my cousin that I was fortunate enough to meet her. Since then I have seen her every time I have been abroad. I always stay two or three weeks with my cousin, and Miss Palmer and her mother are neighbors of hers when they are in Paris. Last summer I spent three weeks there and before my return we had become engaged. The wedding will take place some time this winter in Paris. The date has not been set yet."

"Miss Palmer has lived practically all her life abroad, but she was born here in the family house on Fifth avenue. Yes, she more than fills the ideals that I set for a wife in an interview I gave last summer," and the senator laughed.

In the interview the senator referred to he said he wanted for a wife a woman who could reach the men that he couldn't reach, and he cited Mrs. John A. Logan as an example. He also said that she must be a woman who would be content to sit at home in the evenings, must be handsome and attractive and be between the ages of 25 and 75, adding that youth was not always the most necessary requisite in a bride.

Miss Palmer will be Senator Depew's second wife. His first wife was Miss Elsie Hegeman, whom he married in 1871, and who died in 1893. He has one son, Chauncey Depew, Jr., who is now 21 years old. For some years Mr. Depew's niece, Miss Paulding, has made her home with him.

Miss Palmer as Mrs. Depew will be the hostess of the Corcoran mansion at Washington. This was built by William Corcoran, the banker and philanthropist, and is now owned by his heirs, members of the Eustis family, including Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr. It has been the scene of many of the most brilliant entertainments at the capital, both during the day of its original owner and of the late Senator and Mrs. Calvin S. Brice, who, while they occupied it, enlarged and beautified it greatly.

To Clear a Grassy Skin.

For a greasy skin nothing is better than the combination of an ounce of dried rose leaves, half a pint of white wine vinegar and half a pint of rose water. Let the vinegar stand on the rose leaves for a week, then add the rose water. Use a tablespoonful in a cup of distilled water.

SOUND HOME TRAINING.

It is Necessary to Make the People of the New Century Such as the Nation Needs.

In the training of children the mother is usually the supreme power. The father is frequently absent for long hours, but the mother is nearly always at the post of duty, and her life has its sphere as well as its center there. She only can deal with the children during their most helpless years. The trust they put in her, at first through the instinct of helplessness, comes to be the habit of the after years. The wise mother will never let it go, but maintain it, by ceaseless self-devotion, and by delicate handling of mind and heart, even when the children have reached the strength of maturity.

Yet the father should neither forget nor neglect his duty to his children. He has no right to assume that the children are the mother's care, and may be left entirely to her. His wisdom, his strength, his authority should constantly support her. He should so impress his children when with them, that even when absent his authority and influence will be present with them, controlling, guiding and inspiring. Especially to the "growing boys" the father should be a great power. In the little kingdom of the family the king and queen should not only reign but govern. At the present time many parents neither can nor dare attempt to control their children. This is utterly wrong. It means anarchy in the family, and ultimately anarchy in the state. The first element in training is government. It should be calm, kind, reasonable, intelligent, affectionate, but it should be firm. The parent cannot afford to be beaten. If he gives way to-day, it will be harder to conquer to-morrow; if he gives way often, he himself will be completely and finally conquered, and the child will henceforth go his own way and do his own will. If the people of the new century are to be such as the nation and the world need, they must be more powerfully influenced in habit and feeling by church and school, and above all must be more readily, wisely and thoroughly governed in the home.—N. Y. Weekly.

STRAIGHTENING RUGS.

A Simple Device That Prevents the Corners from Curling and Assures Level Surface.

The illustration pictures a simple device invented by George T. Weeks, of Edon, O., for straightening rugs and door mats and preventing the corners from turning up.

The straightener consists merely of stretcher rods, pivoted in pairs, the ends entering pockets secured to the rug or mat. The rods are stitched to the rug to hold them in place. By means of the light, extensible frame formed by each pair of stretcher rods the rug is kept flat and held in its place. Since the stretcher rods are applied to the bottom of the rug, the straightening means are not visible.

Transparent Ice Cream.

On one of the transatlantic steamship lines the dessert for one dinner of the trip of each ship through the past season includes "transparent ice cream." It is always served with much ceremony, the lights of the dining-room being put out, or, if in daylight, the portholes being covered and a judicious moment of delay permitted to heighten the effect. Then the waiters march in, carrying on trays large molds of ice, cone-shaped or resembling inverted flower pots. These are in clear and also scarlet ice, and hold the candles which alone light the room. Around the base of the forms are piled the little individual molds to be served to each person. After the waiters have made a tour of the tables two trays are placed on each and the serving of the cream is begun.

This Happens Every Day.

If a load of coal is left out of doors, exposed to the weather, say for a month, it loses one-third of its heating qualities. If a ton of coal is placed on the ground and left there and another ton is placed under a shed, the latter loses about 25 per cent. of its heating force, the former about 40 per cent. Hence it is a great saving of coal to have it in a dry place, covered over on all sides.

A NEW WEDDING CUSTOM.

An Elaborate Attempt to Have Fun with a Bridal Couple on a Train.

A passenger on a train out of New York the other night observed the most elaborate attempt to have fun with a young married couple that he ever encountered, says the New York Sun.

After the train left Trenton, a man passed through the car and laid on every seat a printed handbill. It announced that at Philadelphia, a young married couple, then seated in the drawing-room of a car of which the name was given, were to leave the train.

They were described briefly, and notice was given that they would be more closely indicated when the train stopped. The handbill closed with the announcement that rice would be distributed among the passengers and they were requested to make the customary use of it.

In accordance with the notice the distributor of the original announcements appeared in a few minutes and laid on the seat of every passenger a paper bag of rice. The train soon reached Philadelphia and some of the passengers went to the platform to see what effect this elaborate attempt to worry the young people would have.

Apparently it was a failure. The bridal couple alighted and a party of five or six friends pelted them with rice. But the rest of the passengers paid no attention to the matter.

NEW TREATY SIGNED.

Another Important Step Toward Building Canal.

Hay-Pauncefote Agreement Now Awaits Ratification by the Senate—An English Version of the Treaty.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The new Hay-Pauncefote treaty was signed Monday at 12:05 by Secretary Hay, for the United States, and Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador, for Great Britain.

This treaty is intended to replace the first Hay-Pauncefote treaty. That convention was amended so extensively by the United States senate at its last session that the British government declined to ratify it. Within a few weeks negotiations began afresh between Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote which have just resulted in the signature of the new treaty, drawn with special reference to the objections found by the senate with the first treaty.

Treaty to Be Kept Secret.

From a due sense of the courtesy which must be observed towards the United States senate wherever a treaty is concerned, the state department is estopped from making public the text of the new convention, and that will remain secret until the senate itself shall break the seal of confidence. It is said at the state department that the various publications which have been made of the alleged text of the treaty are all erroneous and conjectural, though, in view of the rather free admissions that have been made of the purposes of the negotiators, it has been possible, by the use of the text of the first treaty, to construct one similar in general terms to the new convention.

Principal Point of Difference.

The principal point of difference between the new and the failed treaty is the withdrawal of Great Britain from the joint guarantee of the neutrality of the canal, thus leaving the United States the sole guarantor. The excision of the old provision respecting the right to fortify the canal leaves that right by inference optional with the United States. All commerce of whatever nationality passing through the canal will fare alike; there will be no discrimination in rates in favor of United States shipping.

Otherwise the new treaty is in scope similar to last year's treaty. It replaces technically the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, concluded on April 19, 1850. By the terms of that old convention the United States and Great Britain agreed that neither should seek any advantage in rights of transit across the isthmus. By the new convention Great Britain yields her right in favor of the United States, which is thus at liberty to construct a canal.

British Version of Treaty.

New York, Nov. 19.—The Journal and Advertiser publishes a London dispatch giving what it claims is the text of the new Nicaragua canal treaty. The London cable states that the copy of the Nicaragua canal treaty was shown to a Journal and Advertiser correspondent in London by "a high official of the foreign office."

After giving the preamble the dispatch continues:

"It is agreed that the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the government of the United States, either directly at its own cost, or by gift or loan of money to individuals or corporations or through subscription to or purchase of stock or shares, and that, subject to the provisions of the present convention, the said government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction, as well as the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal."

Other provisions follow:

"1. The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations, observing these rules on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic, or otherwise."

"2. The canal shall never be blockaded, nor shall any right of war be exercised nor any act of hostility be committed within it."

"3. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not revictual nor take any stores in the canal except so far as may be strictly necessary; and the transit of such vessels through the canal shall be effected with the least possible delay, in accordance with the regulations in force, and with only such intermission as may result from the necessities of the service. Prizes shall be in all respects subject to the same rules as vessels of war of the belligerents."

"4. No belligerent shall embark or disembark troops, munitions of war or warlike materials in the canal except in case of accidental hindrance of the transit, and in such case the transit shall be resumed with all possible dispatch."

"5. The provisions of this article shall apply to waters adjacent to the canal, within three marine miles of either end. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not remain in such waters longer than 24 hours at any one time, except in case of distress, and in such case shall depart as soon as possible; but a vessel of war of one belligerent shall not depart within 24 hours from the departure of a vessel of war of the other belligerent."

"6. The plant, establishments, buildings, and all works necessary to the construction, maintenance and operation of the canal shall be deemed part thereof, for the purposes of this convention, and in time of war as in time of peace shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents and from acts calculated to impair their usefulness as part of the canal."

Cured When all Else Failed
"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I knew the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee.
You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

DON'T BE DUPE
There have been placed upon the market several cheap reprints of an obsolete edition of "Webster's Dictionary." They are being offered under various names at a low price.
By
dealers, agents, etc., and in a few instances as a premium for subscriptions to papers.
Announcements of these comparatively worthless reprints are very misleading. They are not to be the substantial equivalent of a higher-priced book, while they are all
