The C. E. Fair.

The C. E. fair at the town hall Friday afternoon and evening was a most successful one both from the point of attendance and its financial results. The excellent supper of chicken pie, oysters and other good things was served from 5 o'clock until 8 to a large number of people.

After supper the active disposal of the pretty and useful articles commenced.

This was interspersed with quartette singing by Mrs. L. T. Freeman, Miss Anna Lighthall, George and Floyd Ward, duets by Miss Lighthall and Rev. C. S. Jones, Mr. Hughes and Floyd Ward, and a solo by Miss Lighthall.

The net proceeds of the fair will be about $100. The booths were the tastiest that have been put up for any fair the society has had.

The farmers' booth—an old shack with a roof made of cornstalks and hay—caused considerable amusement.

Foils a Deadly Attack.

"My wife was so ill that good physicians were unable to help her," writes M. M. Austin, of Winchester, Ind., "but was completely cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills." They work wonders in stomach and liver troubles. Cure constipation, sick headache. 25 cents at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

Death of T. S. Ewing.

Thomas Sears Ewing died of typhoid fever at his home in Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 8, 1901. Mr. Ewing was a son of late Dr. Alexander Ewing of Dexter, and a nephew of Thomas Sears of this place.

He was born in Dexter in 1856, and was educated in the schools of that village and at the University of Michigan. During this period of his life the greater part of his vacations were spent with Mr. and Mrs. Sears on the farm just east of Chelsea.

After his graduation Mr. Ewing was for 10 years engaged in the drug business at Reading, Mich., the first few years of that time being in partnership with the late Claude S. Martin, assuming entire control of the business when Mr. Martin relinquished his interest. He went from there to California in 1891, where he has since been engaged in the real estate and loan business. Mr. Ewing is survived by his wife, mother, and one brother, Dr. W. A. Ewing, of New York city.

GOT $50 DAMAGES.

The Jury in Dr. Schmidt's Case Against the Township so Decided.

The case of Dr. H. W. Schmidt against the township of Sylvan for a bill of $600 for medical services in caring for the scarlet fever cases in the family of Luke Guinan last spring, was ended in the circuit court yesterday. The evidence for the defense was flatly contradictory to that offered by Dr. Schmidt in support of his claim. Several witnesses were sworn on each side. Attorney Jones, for the township, wanted the case taken from the jury and a verdict ordered for the defendant. This motion Judge Kinnr denied and the case went to the jury, who awarded Dr. Schmidt $50 damages.

Washtenaw County Saloons.

Washtenaw Times: There are 83 saloons and 5 breweries in Washtenaw county for which there is paid $42,000 in taxes. One-half of this or $21,000 goes to the county and the other half is distributed among the townships, villages and cities according to the number of thirt joints located therein.

There are two breweries in Ann Arbor, two in Ypsilanti and one in Manchester.

The saloons are distributed as follows:

Ann Arbor, 89.

Ypsilanti, 14.

Manchester, 8.

Chelsea, 6.

Dexter, 5.

Saline, 3.

Milan, 3.

Whitmore Lake, 2.

Bridgewater, 1.

Lodi, 1.

In proportion to the population Manchester is the thirstiest spot in the county having one saloon for every 151 inhabitants.

Dexter comes next with a rate of one saloon for every 160 persons. Saline is nearly as unquenchable as it has one saloon for every 195 persons.

Chelsea ranks next with a ratio of 1 to 273.

Milan is a very good village having one saloon to every 380 persons.

For every 372 men, women and children in Ann Arbor there is a saloon although every 372 men, women and children don't make use of it.

Ypsilanti is decidedly moral having but one saloon for every 327 inhabitants, but nobody ever heard of anyone going dry in Ypsilanti.

Electric Railway Notes.

Hawks & Angus still own the D., Y., A. A. & J. electric line and are busy making arrangements for its further extension.

It is understood the Hawks-Angus company will build a temporary car barn near No. 2 engine house in Jackson to accommodate cars this winter.

Manager Merrill of the Lansing Street Railway Co. is in favor of the location in Lansing of the big power house, which will be necessary to furnish electricity for the Hawks-Angus company's system.

Jackson has been the favored point for the power house for some time, but Mr. Merrill says that power could not be thrown across the country from Jackson to Grand Rapids. On the contrary, Lansing, being centrally located, could supply power for both Coldwater and Grand Rapids.—Lansing Republican.

One of the latest electric railroad rumors is that the Vanderbilts have secured the Everett-Moore syndicate holdings in trolley lines. Henry Everett, however, while refusing to discuss the rumor says it is all "rot."

CHRISTMAS PIE.

We are Baking Our Christmas Pie,

And expect to begin serving it on Wednesday, Dec. 18, one week before Christmas. The filling is sweeter and more interesting than ever before.

Drums and Books, Games and Balls, Blocks and Toys, Dolls and Sleds,

All to be given away. Bring the little folks and bring them all; we want every child in town and for miles around to have at least one Merry Christmas present. Every child under 12 years of age is entitled to draw if accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Holiday Goods

Are now all in stock and ready for your selection. We have been hunting the market during the fall months for all that was most attractive in articles suitable for Christmas presents, and we feel confident in saying that our store was never in better shape to meet the heavy demands always made upon it at this season of the year.

Dolls.

We are showing the most complete line of dolls ever displayed in town. Our preparations for pleasing the little people are nowhere more complete than in this department. Whatever your wants may be we are prepared to supply them. We also have a very complete line of dolls' heads both in bisque and china.

The Bank Drug Store

Happenings of the Past Seven Days in Brief.

ROUND ABOUT THE WORLD

Casualties and Fires, Personal and Political Notes, Business Failures and Resumptions, Weather Record.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS

CONGRESSIONAL.

On the 4th bills were introduced in the senate to provide for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists; fixing death penalty for assassination or attempted assassination of the president; for the establishment of a department of commerce; to make the census bureau permanent; to repeal the bankrupt law; for the laying of a cable to Hawaii and the Philippines; fixing the salary of the vice president at $15,000, of the chief justice of the supreme court at $15,500 and of associate justices at $15,000; granting free mailing privileges to Mrs. McKinley, widow of the late president; a constitutional amendment changing the day for the inauguration of the president of the United States from March 4 to the last Thursday in April. The house was not in session.

Debate upon anarchy opened in the senate on the 5th. Senator McComas (Md.) urging the need of a strong law and Senator Hoar (Mass.) pointing to the difficulties and suggesting an international penal colony. Senator Penrose (Pa.) introduced a bill to prohibit all idiots, paupers and persons liable to become a public charge from coming to this country. A bill was passed extending the life of the industrial commission until February 15 next. Adjourned to the 9th. The house was not in session.

The senate foreign relations committee on the 6th decided to report favorably on the Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty. In the house bills were introduced to reduce southern representation in congress; for a 4,000,000-acre McKinley National park in the southern Appalachian mountains; to pension Mrs. McKinley at the rate of $5,000 a year, beginning September 14, 1901, the date of the death of the late president; the isthmian canal bill and several anti-trust measures.

Mythology in Kansas.

"Some one in Kansas proposed that a statue of Ceres be placed on the dome of the new statehouse, but now he wishes he hadn't made the proposition," remarked the exchange editor, as he laid down a Kansas paper.

"What's the objection?" asked the telegraph editor.

"It is urged that no one in Kansas knows the lady, and that she probably was an actress, anyhow. It is the opinion that the figure of Chief Feweloches, an Indian, would be more appropriate as an ornament to the dome of the Kansas statehouse."

"Well, I should think that a statue of Chief Feweloches would be a nude departure, at any rate."—Pittsburg Gazette.

PRINCESS VIROQUA, M. D.

Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound After Following Its Record For Years.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Health is the greatest boon bestowed on humanity and therefore anything that can restore lost health is a blessing. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a blessing to the State and Nation. It cures her mothers and daughters and makes them well and strong."

PRINCESS VIROQUA, Practicing Physician and Lecturer.

"For fifteen years I have noted the effect of your Vegetable Compound in curing special diseases of women."

"I know of nothing superior for ovarian trouble, barrenness, and it has prevented hundreds of dangerous operations where physicians claimed it was the only chance to get well. Ulceration and inflammation of the womb has been cured in two or three weeks through its use, and as I find it purely an herbal remedy, I unhesitatingly give it my highest endorsement."

—Fraternally yours, Dr. P. VIROQUA, Lansing, Mich. —$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

If you are ill do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for special advice; it is entirely free.

FULL TEXT OF THE NEW HAY-PAUNCEFOTE TREATY.

President Roosevelt Transmits to the Senate Document Providing for an Isthmian Waterway.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The senate committee on foreign relations Friday voted to report favorably the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty providing for the construction of an isthmian canal. The full text of the treaty is as follows:

"The United States of America and his majesty, Edward VII. of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the emperor of India, being desirous to facilitate the construction of a ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, by whatever route may be considered expedient, and to that end to reconsider objections which may arise out of the convention of the 19th of April, 1850, commonly called the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, to the construction of such canal, to the auspices of the government of the United States, without impairing the general principle of neutralization established in article 8, of that convention, have for that purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries:

"The president of the United States, John Hay, secretary of state of the United States of America; and his majesty, Edward VII. of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British dominions beyond the seas king, and emperor of India, Rt. Hon. Lord Pauncefote, G. C. B., G. C. M. G., his majesty's ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the United States;

"Who, having communicated to each other their full powers which were found to be in due and proper form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.
"The high contracting parties agree that the present treaty shall supersede the aforementioned convention of the 19th of April, 1850.

ARTICLE II.
"It is agreed that the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the government of the United States, either directly at its own cost, or by gift or loan of money to individuals or corporations, or through subscription or purchase of stock or shares, and that, subject to the provisions of the present treaty, the said government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction, as well as the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal.

ARTICLE III.
"The United States adopts as the basis of the neutralization of such ship canal, the following rules, substantially as embodied in the convention of Constantinople, signed the 28th October, 1858, for the free navigation of the Suez canal, that is to say:

"1. The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality so that there shall be no discrimination against such nation or its citizens or subjects, in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such conditions and charges shall be just and equitable.

"2. The canal shall never be blockaded, nor shall any right of war be exercised nor any act of hostility be committed within it. The United States, however, shall be at liberty to maintain such military police along the canal as may be necessary to protect it against lawlessness and disorder.

"3. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not revictual nor take any stores in the canal except so far as may be strictly necessary; and the transit shall be effected with the least possible delay in accordance with the regulations in force, and with only such intermission as may result from the necessities of the service.

"Prizes shall be in all respects subject to the same rules as vessels of war of the belligerents.

"4. No belligerent shall embark or disembark troops, munitions of war or warlike materials in the canal except in case of accidental hindrance of the transit, and in such case the transit shall be resumed with all possible dispatch.

"5. The provisions of this article shall apply to waters adjacent to the canal, within three marine miles of either end. Vessels of war of a belligerent shall not remain in such waters longer than 24 hours at any one time, except in case of distress, and in such case shall depart as soon as possible; but a vessel of war of one belligerent shall not depart within 24 hours from the departure of a vessel of war of the other belligerent.

"6. The plant, establishment, buildings and all works necessary to the construction, maintenance and operation of the canal shall be deemed to be parts thereof for the purposes of this treaty, and in time of war, as in time of peace, shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents, and from acts calculated to impair their usefulness as part of the canal.

ARTICLE IV.
"It is agreed that no change of territorial sovereignty or of international relations of the country or countries traversed by the before-mentioned canal shall affect the general principle of neutralization or the obligation of the high contracting parties under the present treaty.

ARTICLE V.
"The present treaty shall be ratified by the president of the United States and with the advice and consent of the senate thereof, and by his Britannic majesty; and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington or at London at the earliest possible time within six months from the date thereof.

"In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this treaty and hereunto affixed their seals.

"Done in duplicate at Washington, the 18th day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one (Seal) "JOHN HAY.

GAGE REPORTS ON THE NATION'S FINANCIAL CONDITION.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Secretary Gage, of the treasury department, Wednesday submitted to congress his annual report on the nation's finances for the year ended June 30, 1901. In the period covered by the report the revenue of the government from all sources aggregated $699,316,530.92, and the total expenditures were $621,598,546.54, leaving a surplus in the treasury June 30 of $77,717,984.38.

According to the report there was in the redemption division of the treasury November 15, 1901, $150,000,000 in gold coin and bullion. The available cash balance in the treasury at that date was $717,017,610.

On the working of the last national bank law the report says:

"The national currency bill became law February 25, 1863, but was repealed and reenacted with material amendment on June 3, 1864. Under the provisions of the former act 488 national banking associations were organized and under the latter 4,971. The act of March 14, 1900, which authorized the incorporation of national banking associations with minimum capital of $25,000 in towns with population not exceeding 3,000, resulted in the organization of 429 banks of that class up to June 30, 1901, making a total of 5,888 organizations under these three acts up to the close of the year. On July 1, 1901, there were in active operation 4,178 national banking associations, with capital stock of $447,696,685. During the existence of the system 1,324, or about 22.5 per cent. of the associations were placed in voluntary liquidation, and 284, or 6.5 per cent., in charge of receivers.

"During the fiscal year 411 banks, with aggregate capital of $20,517,000, were organized; 37, with capital of $8,970,000, placed in voluntary liquidation, and 12, with capital of $1,860,000, placed in charge of receivers. Subsequently to the close of the year one of the 12 associations was placed in a solvent condition and permitted to resume. The authorized capital stock of the banks in existence on June 30, 1900, was $227,503,093. In addition to the capital of banks organized during the year, old associations increased their stock to the extent of $12,821,800."

Secretary Gage reviews at length the Russian sugar bounty case, holding that the ruling made last winter was the most equitable that the department could devise in the interest of all parties.

The secretary urges a modification of the currency and national banking laws. He lays down three principles upon which he bases his recommendations:

1. The United States treasury should be relieved of its responsibility and burden of redeeming the greenbacks in gold and the burden transferred to the national banks.

2. National banks should be permitted to issue circulating notes to the full amount of paid-in capital upon deposit amount of paid-in capital of the amount of 30 per cent. of the amount of the capital in United States bonds and 20 per cent. of the capital in United States legal tender notes.

3. The obligations of the government to pay the notes of insolvent banks should be rescinded.

In support of his recommendations Secretary Gage points to the fact that a retorty Gage points to the fact that a diminishing volume of government bonds will soon make it impossible for national banks to secure a basis for circulating notes.

According to the report touching immigration the arrivals of aliens for the year aggregated 563,868. Of that number 457,919 were steerage passengers and 105,949 were first and second class. Italy leads in the number sent with 137,807 of the number sent. Of the steerage immigrants 321,055 were males and 156,863 females. There were 117,857 who could neither read nor write.

MISS CATHERINE GOGGIN.

Chicago Teacher Who Has Succeeded in Bringing Tax-Dodging Corporations to Time.

One of the most prominent women figures before the Chicago public today is Miss Catherine Goggin, who, with Miss Margaret Haley, has been so deeply instrumental in forcing the recent decision of the Illinois supreme court calling for the taxing of the intangible values of corporate bodies in Illinois.

The fact of this sudden interest on the part of the public is only another proof of the adage that "nothing succeeds like success." A year ago Miss Goggin was one of the targets of abuse and censure in court before the state board of equalization, and on the part of a considerable portion of the public at large. Everywhere she met the innuendo and half-hidden criticism that she was engaged in a work that was not the business of a woman, in the first place, and certainly not the affair of a woman who had come from the pay rolls of the Chicago public schools.

But Miss Goggin, says the Chicago Tribune, was not of a stock that quits under discouragement. She is of Irish parents, but was born in the Adirondacks, near Lake Champlain. Her father was a farmer, having emigrated from the south of Ireland, and being the first member of his family to leave the Emerald Isle. Her mother was a native of the west of Ireland, and she, too, was the first of her family to emigrate. While she was still a child Miss Goggin's parents moved to Chicago, and it was in this city that she received her education.

She was graduated from the old Central high school in West Monroe street, and her first term at school-teaching was begun in October, 1872. From that date, excepting only one leave of absence a few years ago, Miss Goggin has been teaching continuously in the public schools until she took up the task of running down the tax dodging corporations of Chicago, and, incidentally, those of the whole state.

It was in 1898 that Chicago school-teachers became interested in an increase of salary. By the movement they began the board of education was induced to make a new schedule, which provided that such teachers as had been employed for ten consecutive years in the school should receive at least $1,000 a year. The increase was to be from $75 a month the first year until in the tenth year of service $1,000 should be reached.

Nearly two years after this schedule had been adopted questions were asked why it had not been put into effect. The answer of the board of education was that it had no money. To the further question of why it had no money, a Chicago newspaper undertook a reply, to the effect that millions of dollars of taxable values were secreted every year by corporations and that the state board of equalization looked on approvingly.

At the time Miss Goggin was president of the Chicago Teachers' federation and Miss Margaret Haley was one of the vice presidents. Their interest had been aroused and the federation in January, 1900, chose the two women to make an investigation on behalf of the federation. The two women were granted leave from school and their salaries were to be paid by the teachers in the federation.

The two women had not been at work long before they discovered that the allegations of the newspaper were true. As this proof became apparent, Miss Goggin began to feel some of the uncomfortable possibilities of her position. Comments upon the work were indulged in on all sides, and everywhere she met evasions of issues. Information against capital stock and franchises was arranged and taken before the state board of equalization, to which body Miss Goggin offered to make oath to the showing. The board did not avail itself of the offer; instead, when an attorney found occasion to express the opinion that both women "should be thrown out of the window," the board of equalization found much amusement in the chivalrous utterance. And it was a third-floor window, too.

But instead of becoming a sacrifice, Miss Goggin was one who made application for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of equalization to spread the capital stock and franchise valuations on the tax rolls. On May 1, before Judge Owen B. Thompson, in the circuit court of Sangamon county, this order was issued, and on appeal the Illinois supreme court has sustained the judgment of the lower court in every respect.

This, in brief, is the story of the public work which Miss Goggin has made of importance to every taxing body in the United States. It has brought her a notoriety which she does not relish, but a satisfaction, at the same time, which is not to be measured. Through it all she has been calm and quiet, forgetful of much of the hard road which she traveled to success in her efforts.

YOUNG WOMAN COBBLER.

She Can Do All Sorts of Jobs, from Stitching a Seam to the Pegging On of a Sole.

Mrs. Nellie Harmer, of Grand Rapids, Mich., would almost as soon peg new soles on a worn-out pair of shoes or patch the uppers as play the piano, and she can do both and do it well in either case.

Mrs. Harmer is the only woman cobbler in Michigan. Indeed, she has never heard of another woman who can do the work she does in this or any other part of the country. True, there are a great many girls and women who are employed in the big manufactories to do certain parts of the work in the making of a pair of shoes by machinery. But Mrs. Harmer is just as good a cobbler as her husband, who was taught the trade by his father when he was a boy, and Mr. Harmer takes pride in acknowledging this fact. She can and does do all the work of a skilled cobbler, from the stitching of a ripped seam in a lady's kid shoe to the fitting and pegging of a sole on a cowhide boot. And she is doing it every day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harmer came to Grand Rapids from Canada, their native home, ten years ago, and Mr. Harmer opened a little shop. Being an industrious and competent workman he soon had more business come to him than he could conveniently take care of without some help. He found difficulty in securing the help he wanted, and that's how Mrs. Harmer happened to learn the cobbler's trade.

Mrs. Harmer has worked on a bench beside that of her husband for the last seven years, and has aided materially in building up their business. They now occupy a large store, and not only operate their repair shop and manufactory, but keep a stock of goods on sale.

Mrs. Harmer is a pretty brunette, well educated, and her modest demeanor and sunny disposition leave the impression of a happy childhood and a finely molded character. A part of the store in the rear of the shop is fitted-up for living apartments, and their tidy appearance and general homelike aspect reflect the domestic contentedness and tranquillity of the Harmers. Here are an upright piano, a well-fitted bookcase, fine pictures on the wall, and other fixtures of a happy home.

Mrs. Harmer is not yet 30 years of age, and is the mother of three bright children, two boys and a girl. She said she did not "stick to the last" as a necessity for a living. Her husband was plenty able and willing to provide comfortably for the family, but she liked the work and to feel that she was helping to build up the business.

Oh, must I, therefore, throw the whole delicious bunch away?

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Will Receive Subscriptions.

Gov. Bliss has appointed the following members of the state auxiliary committee to the McKinley National Memorial association who will receive subscriptions to the McKinley memorial fund in the localities in which they reside:

Thomas Cranage, Bay City; Thomas Harvey, Saginaw; Daniel McCoy, Grand Rapids; Louis Kantz, Muskegon; W. H. Withington, Jackson; E. C. Hinman, Battle Creek; D. D. Aitkin, Flint; Lincoln Avery, Port Huron; John M. Longyear, Marquette; T. B. Dunstan, Houghton; Dallas Boudeman, Kalamazoo; C. A. Gower, Lansing; E. G. Filer, Manistee; Chase S. Osborn, Sault Ste. Marie; Morris Brown, Big Rapids; G. W. Makma, Holland; Benjamin D. Pritchard, Allegan; Willard S. Stearns, Adrian; H. A. Conant, Monroe; James B. Angell, Ann Arbor; W. I. Little, Grand Haven; J. S. Stearns, Ludington.

Given a Life Term.

The jury in the case of Henry Wiseman, on trial in Pontiac for the murder of Mrs. Ellen Huss, whose body was found buried in the woods near Royal Oak last September, returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. Wiseman asked for mercy, but the court refused to listen to his plea, and after severely arraigning the prisoner for his brutality sentenced him to the state prison at Marquette for life.

Salsbury Convicted.

The superior court jury in Grand Rapids in the bribery case against City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury returned a verdict of guilty. Salsbury was indicted by the grand jury last summer on the charge of accepting a bribe of $75,000 for his assistance in pushing through a deal by which the city of Grand Rapids was to award to eastern capitalists a $4,000,000 contract for furnishing the city with water from Lake Michigan.

Railroads Are Prosperous.

During the ten months of 1901 ended October 31 the railroads of Michigan earned $35,172,746.68, a net increase over the corresponding period of 1900 of $3,248,704.71, or 10.17 per cent. This increase is considered a very heavy one and has not been equaled for a number of years. The earnings for the month of October last were $4,006,015.52, or $513,323.57 more than for the corresponding month of last year.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 82 observers in various portions of the state indicate that inflammation of the bowels and whooping cough increased and diarrhea decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 139 places, measles at 12, typhoid fever at 72, whooping cough at 20, diphtheria at 43, scarlet fever at 94 and smallpox at 73 places.

Youngest Suicide.

In the village of Bridgeman Peter Gonder, aged only seven years, took a pistol from a bureau and shot himself fatally below the heart, the bullet taking a downward course and lodging in the stomach. His death will record the youngest suicide in the history of the state and perhaps in the world. A scolding from his grandmother is said to have prompted the deed.

Cash in State Treasury.

The cash balance in the state treasury at the close of business November 30 was $1,299,935.14. This sum will gradually diminish until the last of the month, when the December taxes will begin to come in. The treasury balance will be at low ebb sometime during the month.

A Sweeping Verdict.

The coroner's jury in Adrian found that the recent disastrous collision on the Wabash road near Seneca between trains 13 and 4, in which some 80 lives were lost, was caused by the negligence of the Wabash Railroad company and the trainmen of train 4.

News Briefly Stated.

The main building of the Michigan Alkali company's soda-ash plant at Wyandotte was burned, the loss being $500,000.

Nelson Culver during a fit of temporary insanity ran away from his home at Hamilton, climbed to the top of a tall tamarack tree and shot himself dead.

Powder exploded at the Anthony Powder company's works near Ishpeming and two men were killed.

John F. Wynne, of Allegan, was thrown under a wheel and killed while trying to board a wagon to which a team of colts was attached.

Rev. Ale Bursma, pastor of the Fifth Reformed church in Grand Rapids and a member of the local board of education, died very suddenly.

Two additional rural free delivery routes will be established at Flushing, Mich., beginning January 1, to serve a population of 1,701. The post offices at Judd's Corners and Hazleton will be discontinued and mail sent to Flushing.

Ed. Husted, farmer, 35 years old, committed suicide in Greendale township by shooting.

Steve Cook, one of the earliest fruit growers in southwest Michigan, died in Benton Harbor, aged 76 years.

Tired

that's all. No energy, no vim, no vigor, no ambition. The head aches, thoughts are confused, memory fails. Life becomes a round of work but half accomplished, of eating that does not nourish, of sleep that fails to refresh and of resting that never rests. That's the beginning of nervous prostration.

Lyndon.

Ed. Gorman, jr., is working in Detroit. Chas. Daley visited his brother and family near Owosso last week.

Will Fox has bought the Robert Johnson farm, 200 acres, for $2,000.

Mathew Hankerd is now in the market with some fine Christmas trees.

Miss Florence Collins, who teaches at the Center, is now boarding with Mrs. Jas. Howlett.

Mrs. H. T. McKune has been quite ill for the past few days, but is much better at this writing.

Miss Rachael McKune returned last week to resume her studies at St. Joseph's academy, Adrian.

The Misses Nellie and Margaret Neary and Master Chas. Irwin, of Jackson, visited with Mr. and Mrs. P. Prendergast and family last week.

Miss Mary Gorman left last week for Valparaiso, Ind., to attend the Normal college of that town, where her brother Charles is now at school.

Wirt Boyce had the misfortune to be kicked by a horse last week and was thought to be quite seriously hurt, but is nearly over the accident now.

Louis Paine, who moved into the John McKone house recently, moved in with Silas Young on Friday last and on the Monday following moved to the Wellburn house.

John Schwikert has bought the Coulston farm. It seems that a new set of young men are to try their skill at farming in the short hills of Lyndon. Hope they may have better success than some of their older predecessors, who after years of faithful toil have quit with nothing.

Mr. Roberts, better known as Peddler Roberts, is around on what he thinks will be his last trip. At least he is saying farewell to his many old patrons and friends, whom he has visited regularly for more than 40 years. He contemplates moving to Oregon, where his youngest son is now located.

John Daley, a boilermaker from Jackson, inspected the boiler at the cheese factory Tuesday of last week and advised the company to send the boiler to Jackson to have it repaired, which they have done, consequently they have not taken any milk at the factory since Nov. 26, and don't know now when they will be ready to start again.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

W. M. Fox has purchased the Robert Johnson farm in Lyndon.

Mrs. Andrew Fluor, of Jackson, was the guest of Mrs. W. F. Kress Wednesday of last week.

Rev. C. S. Jones went to Brighton Tuesday where he performed a marriage ceremony yesterday.

Miss Maude Everett, of North Adams, who is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Spencer, is confined to her bed by illness.

The H. S. Holmes Mercantile Co. has bought H. T. DuBols & Co.'s general stock of merchandise at Grass Lake and opened up for business at that place this morning.

Mr. Willard S. Holmes and Miss Mildred H. Shetterly, of Ann Arbor, were married by Rev. Thomas Holmes at his residence here on Monday. Dr. Holmes is uncle to the bridegroom.

The Chelsea Baseball and Football Association will put on a drama at the opera house about Jan. 1. The proceeds of the entertainment will go towards raising money to pay for a ball ground.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Glazier left for New York and other eastern points Tuesday afternoon. They were prevented leaving home last Friday, as they anticipated doing, by reason of Mr. Glazier's suffering from a severe cold.

Congressman H. C. Smith has refused to tell several postmasters in his district whether they will again hold down their jobs or not. He says, "You tell a postmaster weeks in advance that he is not going to hold over, and that postmaster immediately loses interest in his work and the public suffers on account of poor service."

A Michigan Central official says it will not be the policy of that road to compete with the D., Y., A. A. & J. in the matter of cheap fares between Detroit and western points to Jackson. He further says that so far as the competition in freight business is concerned it is the express companies that will feel that much more than they will.

The interior of the barn on Thomas Wilkinson's farm south of town was somewhat scorched by a fire yesterday noon, the origin of which is unknown. Through the prompt and effective work of the Chelsea fire department and the willing workers who were on hand before they got there the fire was extinguished before it had done much damage. Some hay and fodder was badly smoked up and some oats and wheat got wetted by the water thrown into the building. Insured in the Washtenaw Farmers' Mutual.

A. E. Jennings was in Chelsea Monday morning with a party of 25 farmers who own property along the proposed line of the Hawks Angus people between Jackson and Concord. It had been reported to these gentlemen that the electric lines were leaving the property adjoining their roads in bad shape wherever they have been. The party was being taken on an inspection tour so that they could see how the Hawks-Angus people, at least, are leaving things. The party came in by the Grand Rapids express on the Michigan Central and were conveyed over the D., Y., A. A. & J. to Grass Lake.

The senior class of the law department of the University of Michigan is larger this year than ever before. It contains 280 students, the same number are found in the second year class. The first year class has over 800 enrolled.

The amount paid to the state as inheritance tax in this county since Jan. 1, 1901, is $5,240.69. Of this the Geo. P. Glazier estate paid $165.40, and the Nathan Pierce estate $994.73. In addition the Glazier estate will pay $101.55 to the United States government.

It will always pay to patronize the merchants who advertise. There are many reasons why this is true, and one is because advertising increases business and the more business a firm does the lower prices they are enabled to make customers. Bear this in mind and it will be money in your purse.

Cars started to run as far as Grass Lake Sunday on the D., Y., A. A. & J. line. The management hope to run a small car to Jackson by Dec. 20, but cannot say positively, when regular runs will be made. The cars now make the trip to Ann Arbor every 1 1/2 hours instead of every hour.

The Hunt Stock Co. will be at the opera house all next week in a refined repertoire of comedies and dramas. The Hunt Co., have been doing business in Michigan for the past three years, closing neither winter nor summer. The opening play, Monday night, is a beautiful romantic drama, entitled "A Sailor's Lass."

The 40-inch pulley on the main shaft at the electric light and water works plant, which drives all the electric machinery, split to pieces Tuesday night and no more electric light can be had until the new one which had already been ordered is received. It may be some days before it gets here as it has to be made.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

M. J. Noyes is feeding 50 head of young cattle on his farm in Sylvan.

Mrs. C. W. Maroney and Miss Minnie Vogel were Ann Arbor visitors Monday.

L. Emmer will dispose of a number of turkeys at his place of business Monday evening, Dec. 23.

Mrs. James McMahon is visiting Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Schmidt and family. The ladies are sisters.

The proceeds of the concert at the Waterloo M. E. church Monday of last week amounted to $18.

Gottlob Hutzel, of Lima, on Tuesday, contracted 10 dressed hogs to Ann Arbor butchers at $0.75 a hundred.

Leonard Embury has leased the Gorman farm in Lyndon, where he now resides, for another term of three years.

The Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent to its stockholders.

The Lyndon cheese factory was shut down for a few days the past week owing to the boiler having sprung a leak.

Will Denman is able to be out and around again and is rapidly recovering from the effects of his recent runaway experience.

Miss Eunice Belle Thorpe and Wm. J. Daley were married at the home of the bride's parents in Waterloo Tuesday of last week.

John Merrinane filled the position of operator in the Michigan Central depot at Grass Lake last week, owing to the illness of operator Arthur Collins.

Cavanaugh Lake is frozen over and ice boating and skating will doubtless be indulged in by the young people, and some of the older ones too.

Judging from the success of the corn husker the present season there will soon be a large army of one-armed soldiers in the country, and they won't get pensions either.

There have been 60 new members added to the roster of Ann Arbor Lodge, No. 325, B. P. O. Elks, since last April, several of whom reside in Chelsea and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stapish, of Lyndon, had a little daughter born to them Friday afternoon, which only lived a few hours. It was buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery Saturday.

Through the efforts of Congressman Smith, the name of J. D. Schnaitman has been restored to the pension rolls, and he will receive a pension of $24 a month, from February, 1887.

A special Christmas program will be given by the Sunday school of the Congregational church Tuesday evening, Dec. 24. There will also be a Christmas tree and distribution of gifts by Santa Claus.

Mr. Fred W. Notten and Miss Bertha Kalmbach were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Caroline Kalmbach, in Sylvan last Thursday evening. A large number of their friends were present.

The regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors will be held next Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, at 7:30 o'clock. All the members are requested to be present as the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place at that time.

The rate of taxation in fractional school district No. 3, Sylvan, in which Chelsea is located, this year is $11.78 per $1,000 assessed valuation, or 40 cents less than it was last year. In the other districts the rate of taxation is less than this.

The annual Christmas entertainment of St. Mary's Sunday school will take place at the opera house, Friday evening, Dec. 27. The committees having charge of the entertainment are: On Christmas tree—Miss Anna Miller, Miss Frances Hindelang; literary and musical—Mrs. J. Edward McKune, Miss Mary A. Clark; fancy booth—Mrs. J. Stockbridge Brief: There is some talk of organizing a stock company in this and some neighboring village another year to have a series of ball games, to be governed similar to the leagues.

The snow that fell Monday night and Tuesday started up the hunting instincts of many Chelsea sportsmen, who with gun and dog have been out rabbit and fox hunting with considerable success.

Raynor H. Newton, of Grand Rapids, formerly of Chelsea, has secured a permanent position in the government navy yards at Washington, D. C. He will take hold of his new job in March next.

The editor of the Pinckney Dispatch has a curiosity in his possession in the shape of a small pamphlet of 16 pages on the "History and use of the Barometer," by Lum Woodruff, barometer maker, Ann Arbor. The printing was done by Davis & Cole in 1857.

The climate of Michigan is said to be good for raising broom corn and there are some people in Washtenaw county who have raised it at a good profit. The crop can be raised where common corn is a success. Broom corn brings a good price and it might pay our farmers in this neighborhood to investigate the matter.

Several of the Chelsea Elks took in the B. P. O. E. minstrel show at Ann Arbor Tuesday evening. It was a clean, bright show, the stage setting was handsome, and the actors, all of whom were amateurs, did their turns with a vim and snap that was very pleasing. The Athens theater was filled by the appreciative audience.

The Michigan Telephone Co. is raising its rates all along its lines and subscribers threaten to quit using telephones rather than pay the extortionate demands. The dear people, who grant franchises to companies that profess they will always sustain a competition and then quickly sell out to their monopolistic rivals, will perhaps after a time see that safeguards are placed about such franchises that will prevent this oft-repeated abuse of public confidence.

Rev. E. D. Kelly, of Ann Arbor, met a large number of the gentlemen of St. Mary's parish, Chelsea, on Sunday afternoon, and delivered a talk to them at the church on the objects and scope of the Knights of Columbus. It is desired to establish a council of the order in Chelsea. An initiation of a large number of candidates will take place at St. Thomas' hall, Ann Arbor, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22, at 2 o'clock, when it is hoped by the leaders in the movement to have a class of 25 from Chelsea. Ten applications have already been filled out.

All night workers by the hundred will locate on our main street soon.

Growth of the Episcopal Church in and About New York

The filling upon the same day of two important Episcopal bishoprics has called attention to the remarkable growth of that denomination in influence in this region.

Hard to Find a Man for the Place.

One diocese is a new one, comprising the western end of Massachusetts, the home and stronghold of Congregationalism not so long ago. The making of a new diocese was made necessary by the rapid increase of churches due to the influx in that region of "summer people," mainly from New York, and for the most part in Berkshire county. About Lenox, Great Barrington and Stockbridge, where once men of intellect like Bryant, Holmes and Sedgwick were the social "lions," New York families distinguished solely by wealth have now gathered to such an extent that they have submerged the original population, especially in autumn. They live upon "farms" or in "cottages" of cost, and worship the horse with assiduity. The villages have grown largely by the advent of a similar element, but poorer in worldly goods—people not able to "live upon a farm," where that amusement costs $50,000 or more a year.

It is not so easy to find a man for the new bishoprics as one would naturally imagine. True there are many men anxious to fill the place, but they are not always the men wanted. The place was first offered to Dr. Greer, Vanderbilt's pastor, but much to the surprise of the public he declined the call, "preferring," he said, "to remain where he was."

The "Institutional Church."

Of the two men, Dr. Rainsford has been better known, perhaps, because he is more outspoken, more original, less clerical. Dr. Greer is conservative by comparison.

Scene in One of the Boys' Clubs.

It must be three years since I was familiar with the workings of Dr. Greer's church. Even then there were six ministers to do its parish work, and many lay helpers who gave it all their time. There were services in Armenian, Chinese, Swedish; there was a Brotherhood of St. Andrew which conducted an employment agency; a rescue mission, a girls' club, a charitable bureau, a clinic, a dispensary, a penny provident fund, a kindergarten, sewing school, fresh air work, men's club, boys' club, and various religious services.

These were and are not mere names. The girls' club house provides board and lodgings under excellent management at cost. A country mother sending her daughter to the city may feel that she is in good hands if she belongs to the club and lives there. The Boys' club provides a gymnasium, a drill corps, classes in bookkeeping, penmanship and other useful branches. The Loan association is open seven hours every day. The clinic sends doctors to the houses of the poor as well as advising visitors.

All this costs money. It costs a lot of money. Dr. Greer secures it and handles it like a business man. It is true that the Vanderbilt family has been his mainstay in the work, but I fancy that this may be less the case in the future. The late Cornelius Vanderbilt was a deeply religious man, and neither he nor his wife cared personally for society. It was understood that any one of a number of workers for charity had only to mention a need to Mr. Vanderbilt to have that need supplied.

Bishop Littlejohn's Successor.

The late Bishop Littlejohn, of Long Island, was a "character." He had been a bishop for many years, and in his daily life and surroundings resembled an English ecclesiastic more nearly than most of his compeers in the chair. It was he who insisted, although more than three-fourths of the churches of his diocese were in Brooklyn, in establishing the see at Garden City, on the Hempstead Plains, in the beautiful little cathedral built by A. T. Stewart.

Following the Spirits.

Thirty years ago Garden City was a meadow. From it sprang up almost at once the cathedral, a school for boys, a school for girls, an Episcopal palace—though the diocese owned and still owns a splendid "bishop's house" in Brooklyn. It was from the vault in this cathedral that Stewart's body was stolen. My first work as a newspaper reporter was to watch the hirelings of a detective agency dig for it in preposterous places pointed out by "spirits" or by practical jokers. In the end the joke was on the public, for whether the body ever did get back to its place or not no one really knows. Certainly the Stewart estate is gone, eaten up in lawsuits or swallowed in trade and dragging a trail of evil luck after it. But from ten miles in every direction about Garden City the slender spire of the cathedral mounts skyward, one memorial of the unhappy merchant prince and his purposes, one great work out of many that he attempted that turned out as he would have wished.

The new bishop, Dr. Burgess, has been but four years in the east. He is a quiet man of conservative manners and utterances, a Detroitier in recent years. His most conspicuous opponent for the honor was Dr. McConnell, who has written books. It is not well for clergymen to write books if they would become bishops.

High Church and Low Church.

Far more than books, which may or may not contain something heretical, the Episcopal churches hereabouts are divided by high church and low church lines, just as in England, though no Kentsit has arisen here to protest loudly against the singing of mass and to be dragged out of church after church by the police.

If there were a Kentsit in New York, he might find plenty of amusement. Not 20 rods from Dr. Greer's church on the West side is one of the Episcopal faith where the priests, all unmarried and one with tonsured head, swing censers in time to the service, where the singing is antiphonal, where high and low masses are sung, the stations of the cross are observed and lay brothers and sisters devote their lives to chastity, obedience and the service of the church. There is nothing remarkable or novel in this, but it is not the Episcopalism of the old days, which was, as I remember it, simple and unceremonial. Not is it the Episcopalism even now mainly ruling in the country parishes except in fashionable districts.

The present trend of the fashionable churches is all towards ritualism, and it grows harder every year for the bishop of New York, who happens to be a diplomat and a good business man and the son and nephew of famous bishops, to preserve the balance between the factions. Indeed there was one explosion over Rev. Mr. Clendenin, known at one time over all the country from having married the daughter of Horace Greeley. Mr. Clendenin is a high churchman of the highest sort and was at the time I speak of subjected, as he supposed, to serious annoyances because of his beliefs.

The hottest controversy of course rages over the confessional, which is enconced in the familiar form—the little box in the middle and a smaller box at either hand for the penitent to kneel and whisper at the "auricular"—in several New York churches. In no one of them, I believe, is monthly confession compulsory upon members; it is, however, "strongly urged."

New York's Women's Clubs.

In women's clubs New York is behind many western and some eastern cities. The two first in all the history of the city have just been opened.

At the Women's Club.

I mean real clubs, where women can get meals in a restaurant at any time, or hire a room, or entertain a party. Of course there have been clubs where women met and read papers upon all sorts of things.

The new ventures are the Woman's club and the Woman's University club. The latter has perhaps most to promise permanence. Its membership is restricted to graduates of the best colleges for women. It has hired an old-fashioned house and fitted it up for the purpose, and hired an old-fashioned housekeeper to look after it. The dues are only ten dollars a year, lunch costs 35 cents, rooms according to quality. These prices seem absurdly small compared with those at men's clubs, where the dues range between $100 and $250 per year and club dinner is never less than a dollar. But in New York, just as anywhere else, women have little money even when their husbands have plenty. They are accustomed to make money go farther.

A large proportion of the members are teachers and unmarried. They yearn for intellectual companions and most of them have friends living anywhere from five to ten miles away—such are city distances—and it will be handy to write or telephone: "Meet me at the club," like a man.

Make no mistake about one thing. There are no barrooms, no smoking rooms, in these clubs. Their management will be conservative. There's not nearly so much smoking among women as there was seven years ago, when it began to be a brief fad, and there wasn't nearly so much then as some thought at the time. What there was was upon the surface. But the famous "Turkish room" isn't New York.

BRACING WIRE FENCE.

Everything Depends on the Scientific and Durable Anchoring of the Various End Posts.

Ever since wire fences came into use, farmers have been devising and putting into use many different plans for bracing or anchoring the end or corner posts. Some of the means adopted are satisfactory in a way, while others which at first sight appear to be strong and substantial, are, when we give the matter a little thought, only clumsy, inconvenient affairs, which do not have the least mechanical reason for their being applied to use. Of all the ways for anchoring an end post that have been observed or described, the one providing for its having an anchor block firmly established against undisturbed earth, is the best—as it gives unlimited power of resistance as regards the part which is in the ground.

To brace or anchor the post at a corner of a field, which has to resist the pulling effect of two lines of fence at direct angles to each other, nothing is better than to use two cables or rods anchored at right angles, or in conformity to the two lines of fence. As it is not always possible to run a straight fence from corner to corner, slight angles will sometimes occur which require the posts to be braced at these points as well as at the ends or corners. The method in common use for this purpose is shown in the illustration, Fig. 1. Either a brace post is put on the inside of the angle or an anchor rod or cable on the outside. Both these methods have the disadvantage of being inconvenient because in the way, and the first is, to say the least, very unsatisfactory as regards rendering the fence more stable.

Where a slight angle of this kind is unfortunately met with, it is a better plan to set two large and durable posts at each angle, about three or four feet apart. Brace each of these posts on its lower line of resistance by putting a heavy brace from its top to the foot of the next post, which should also be a large and firmly imbedded one. Between the two posts which are thus braced and set nearest to each other, let the fence wires be left slack so as to allow these posts to be independent of each other in respect to line of resistance, as shown in Fig. 2. While a fence in which an angle of this nature occurs cannot be made as stable as a perfectly straight one, it will be much more satisfactory than if braced in the manner first shown.—J. G. Allshouse, in Ohio Farmer.

Hints on Marketing Turkeys.

If turkeys are well fattened and are sent to market in a dirty, shabby, cramped-up coop they are apt to be left until late in the day, and nine times out of ten if the market is well supplied they will not sell at all, just because their appearance knocked them out. Again, if turkeys are placed in a close coop so that they are compelled to sit or stand in a cramped condition, when dressed the breast and thighs will be very black and not fit for sale at any price. The people who buy turkeys for holidays are people who understand all these things and will not buy them at any price, even if they are well fattened. Turkeys should not be fed for 24 hours or at least 12 hours before shipping, as when not fed they will not drift nearly as much and will be in better condition for dressing.—Rural World.

Top-Dressing Wheat Fields.

Wheat may be top-dressed in the fall or early winter, if the manure is fine and free from coarse litter. It is an excellent way to use the manure, so as to preserve it from loss. As wheat land is plowed in the fall, it is consequently loose, and the rains carry the soluble portions down to the roots of the plants. The roots also follow the plant food that may be carried below the top-soil. By top-dressing wheat with manure the plants are also, to a certain extent, protected in winter, while the spreading of the manure at this season saves labor in the spring.

TREATMENT OF COLTS.

Systematic Training and Careful Feeding Are Matters That Should Never Be Neglected.

I like to have a colt go some in harness when a yearling, and then if it is not wanted in harness again for a couple of years when it is harnessed again its past associations with the harness all seem to come back to it again, and it is ready to begin where it left off. The summer the colt is a yearling is the hardest time to keep it in good flesh, and even with an extra chance it will get thin. When the colt is a two-year-old it will do some work or some driving, but I never intend to use them much at that age. My colts are stabled nights for five months during the cold weather—that is, they are tied with a halter. I do not like the way of letting them run loose, for they will move about too much of the time. But if they are tied up, with some bedding under them, they will lie down most of the night. This takes the weight off their joints and rests their legs, and seems to me the better way for them.

Even if I intend the colt to get its living in the fields during the winter it is put in the barn at night, given a little grain in the morning, curried, watered and turned out. Its stomach is empty; it will go out to the fields and eat most of the day. Toward night it will be back for some water and its place in the stable. If I have a three-year-old I want two of them; then work them a half day each—that is, make them do one horse's work. This is good for them, and will go a long way toward paying for their keeping; and then a colt treated thus will, if properly fed and handled, make a better growth and develop into a more desirable horse than if turned out in the best pasture to care for itself as a four-year-old.

For the same reason that a boy eats more from the time he is eight years old till he is 20 than afterward, the colt needs more feed than the mature horse. If I kept a horse till it was old and decreased in value I would not part with it, for those that deal in that class of horses are not always the best to them, and when a faithful animal has been kept in good shape till it has passed its usefulness as painless a death as possible and a decent burial would be a fitting tribute to the noble animal—the horse.—L. S. Green, in Farm, Field and Fireside.

CATTLE FENCE OPENING.

A Person Can Step Through It Readily But Cattle and Horses Cannot Force Passage.

A gate in a pasture fence is often source of much bother. A permanent passageway through such a fence is shown in the cut. A person can step through it readily, and it is always open, but cattle cannot pass, and, unlike a gate, they cannot force it open. Such an opening in a fence can be made in a few minutes.—Orange Judd Farmer.

HOGS AND THEIR WAYS.

Wheat alone does not make a good feed for fattening hogs. Corn is needed to put on the finishing touches.

There are two kinds of pigs. One never squeals and the other always squeals. You want neither of them. You will find either unprofitable.

Because hogs are hogs do not make the mistake of supposing their pens never need cleaning. Give plenty of clean straw for bedding.

Some farmers have the idea that the fattening hog must be confined in a small pen. Not necessarily. It will do better if given a chance to exercise.

The pumpkin is a hog food par excellence, but especially so as a relish. It is wasteful to throw a load of pumpkins into a dirty hog pen or yard. Better cut them up and feed them a few at a time. Give seeds and all.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Pasture Lot for Hogs.

My hogs have a lot to themselves. It is seeded to white clover. I prefer the red, but have failed to raise it so far. I prefer an extended range for brood sows and pigs and a limited range for hogs that are to be fattened. I consider pastures necessary to successful hog raising. Trees are a good thing for shade, but I prefer temporary shade. Hogs should always have plenty of good water. I have never been troubled with disease among my hogs during grass season. I like to have a pasture provided with a well sufficiently large for the hogs to wade low in it. The sides should be curbed and the floor should be of cement, rock or oak plank to keep the water as clean as possible.—E. A. Haines, in Farmers' Review.

WAS A GOOD LISTENER.

Eulogies by the Neighbors for Queer Aunt Marcia After the Funeral Services.

The funeral service had ended and the neighbors had lingered a moment at the gate to say the things the preacher could not say—because he did not know, says the Youth's Companion.

"Aunt Marcia did curious tricks, sometimes," the squire remarked. Nobody had ever seen the squire cry before, and now that the funeral was over he felt it incumbent upon him to speak temperately, if thereby he might save his dignity. "I knew of her paying a man's poll-tax, after she'd assisted the family in all kinds of ways. She said when she gave me the money that if a man was worth helping at all, he was worth a good deal more than a dollar to his own town, and she wouldn't want him to feel as though he was in debt to all his neighbors."

"So?" the storekeeper said. "Well, she made me play Santa Claus once to a wuthless gang that lived over beyond Squab Holler. That was 20 years ago, and wouldn't believe who they was if I should tell ye, for they've turned into good, straight, forehanded people. She said she thought all they needed was to realize there was folks in the world that could meet 'em without givin' 'em a kick or a cuss. She was right, too. She ginerly was."

"When me and Jared had trouble"—this was a fierce little black-whiskered man who spoke—"Aunt Marcia was about the only one in the whole place that didn't keep yap-yap-yappin' about it and help make it wuss!"

There was a moment of silence. Then there pressed into the outer edge of the group a young woman, whose grotesque dress showed, as unmistakably as her wandering eye, that she was one of "God's poor." It seemed as if, having heard all, she wanted to bear her testimony.

"Aunt Marcia was a mighty good listener, she was!" the poor creature cried.

That saying fitted well, although the speaker did not plan it, with the words of him who preceded her, as well as the eulogies of those who had spoken before. To be a good listener, as Aunt Marcia was, means to have ears always open, tongue under command, purse ready and sympathy never withheld.

"If you kind o' keep an eye on these self-made men," remarked Uncle Jerry Peebles, "you'll find that lots of 'em think the job's so well done it don't need any polish."—Chicago Tribune.

Suggesting the Way.

Mrs. De Blinks—No, sir, you cannot have my daughter with my consent. I detest you, and I wish I could think of some way to make you miserable. Mr. Hicks—Well, then, why not become my mother-in-law?—Tit-Bits.

MRS. WINFIELD SCOTT SCHLEY.

Mrs. Schley, who stood nobly by her distinguished husband, Admiral Schley, during the trying ordeal of the naval court inquiry, is one of the brightest and ablest women in Washington. Before her marriage, which took place nearly 40 years ago, she was Anna R. Franklin, the daughter of a family that has given its sons to the army and the navy since colonial times. She is a woman of tact and admirable discretion, and has scores of friends in and out of official circles. The Schleys at the present time reside at Washington. They have pleasant apartments at the Arlington.

WILL NOT INSURE CUBANS.

They Must Learn to Live Like Americans Before They Can Be Eligible.

A Cuban who applied for insurance from a local company the other day almost wept when told by the examining physician that he could not insure him, but that he should call again in about two years. The agents had assured the Cuban that he would be a first-class risk. In despair he went to New York and confided his woes to an old friend, who is the head of the firm for which he is the Philadelphia representative, says the Times of that city. The friend said:

"Since the Spanish war, when so many young men from Cuba and Porto Rico have come here to engage in trade. I have seen scores of cases like yours. You are killing yourself by insisting on living in Philadelphia as you did in Havana. Persons who come to the United States to live, no matter from what part of the world, must make certain concessions to climate. You drink as much black coffee and smoke as many cigarettes here as you did at home. Very well, it will kill you if you keep it up. Your insurance man probably thought you were consumptive. Stop living like a Cuban in Philadelphia; eat, drink and smoke as

ENGLISH WASPS.

As a Rule They Are Not Vicious and Rarely Sting Each Other When They Become Aggressive.

The common wasp, as a rule, keeps its sting for self-defense, says the London Spectator. It will bite a fly in two with its jaws if it gets in its way on a window pane, but it does not use its sting even when trying to rob a beehive, and "tackled" by the bees. The latter will push a wasp away five or six times, hustling it off the footboard, without provoking it to sting. But if a bee endeavors to sting the wasp, it then grapples with it and stings back, killing or benumbing the insect almost at once. British wasps are fussy and excitable, but not vicious, like many of the Indian wild bees. However crowded or uncomfortable they may be, they very rarely quarrel with or sting each other, as, for instance, when a number are on the same window pane, fretting and anxious to get out. Only when the entrance to their nest is threatened do they become actively aggressive, and then as a rule the attack is not begun till the person who excites their fear interposes between them and the entrance to the nest. A setter dog was

FOREIGN FACTS AND FANCIES.

Nearly the whole of the Central American indigo crop is gathered in San Salvador. Brigandage is reported to be rampant within two hours' ride of Vienna on the Austro-Hungarian frontier. The production of tea has been so great that 19 out of 45 companies in London could not pay a dividend this year. Large shipbuilding companies in Germany which had ordered the construction of a number of large freight vessels for ocean trade have countermanded the orders on account of business depression. India was in possession of a steel secret once, which is lost now. This was the inlaying with gold of steel blades in such a manner that the strength of the blade was not impaired nor its temper spoiled.

The souvenir postcard boom has reached its height in Germany. The imperial post office instituted a check for a week and discovered that the daily average of these pictorial mementos of travel reached the enormous total of 1,446,938. The postage paid on these cards average $17,250 per day.

The latest English channel scheme is to run submarine boats on cables strung 50 feet below the surface of the channel between England and France. The speed would be 20 knots, there would be no vibration and perfect safety would be secured by an iron weight which on being dropped would allow the boat to rise to the surface. There would be salon compartments with electric lights and all conveniences.

ALONG THE TROLLEY LINE.

The most expensive trolley car ever designed is about to be built in West Philadelphia for a trolley line syndicate in Ohio to cost $15,000, fitted up as a sleeper and dining-car, with sofa beds, sleeping berths, plate glass flooring, sheet metal siding, pneumatic gongs, whistles and sand boxes, bathroom with tile floor, tea and coffee urns, electric heaters, folding washstands, disappearing ice boxes, food refrigerators, disappearing tool boxes and controllers, patent electric headlights fitted with interchangeable glass for danger signals, electricity, gas, hot and cold water.

ODDS AND ENDS.

France pays England about £100,000 a year in cable rent. The daily rail Beaumont oil shipments are 7,500 barrels exclusive of pipe shipments. Oak lumber loses 20 per cent of its weight in process of seasoning, and over 30 per cent. when perfectly dry. A heathen was originally a dweller on the German heaths, the last localities in Germany to accept the Christian religion. The mountain Indians of Mexico have different kinds of rattles, the body bearing a grotesque resemblance to the human form. This year 60,000,000 young fish will be turned loose in the Columbia river, Ore. It is estimated 6,000,000 will return to get caught after fattening up along the ocean coast. The present annual pack there takes 1,000,000 fish.

What is said to be one of the earliest known maps of America has been discovered in the library of Wolfegg castle, which belongs to Prince Von Waldburg-Wolfegg. The map was drawn in 1507 by Martin Waldsee Muller, by whom America is said to have been named after the explorer Amerigo Vespucci.

PHYSICIANS MUCH INTERESTED.

Northport, Mich., Dec. 9.—The medical men are just now eagerly discussing a most remarkable cure of a severe case of Kidney Disease in this county. Mr. Byron O. Leslie, of Northport, has for years been a victim of Kidney derangements with all the consequent pain and annoyance. He was gradually growing worse and as the disease advanced he became very despondent, often wondering if he would have to endure this suffering all his lifetime.

But at last he found a remedy that cured him in Dodd's Kidney Pills. He was much pleased, but did not say much about it lest the good effect he experienced would not last. Now, however, after months of continued good health he has concluded that he is permanently cured, and his announcement of this has caused a profound sensation among the physicians and the people who knew of his apparently hopeless condition.

THE CONTENTED FARMER

Is the man who never has a failure in crops, gets splendid returns for his labors, and has best social and religious advantages, together with splendid climate and excellent health. These we give to the settlers on the lands of Western Canada, which comprises the great grain and ranching lands of Manitoba, Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Exceptional advantages and low rates of fare are given to those desirous of inspecting the full grant lands. The handsome forty-page Atlas of Western Canada sent free to all applicants. Apply to F. PRIDLEY, Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to C. J. BROUGHTON, 87 Monarch Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. BARTHOLOMEW, 55 Fifth Street, Des Moines, Ia.; E. T. HOLMES, Room 6 Big Four Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.; Canadian Government Agents.

Persons contemplating a journey East or West should be careful that the rates paid for their transportation do not exceed those charged by the Nickel Plate Road. This company always offers lowest rates and the service is efficient. Careful attention is given to the wants of all first and second class passengers by uniformed colored attendants. The dining car service of the Nickel Plate Road is above criticism and enables the traveler to obtain meals at from thirty-five (35) cents to $1.00 but no higher.

The Pullman company is the usual high grade standard. Semi-weekly transcontinental tourist cars ply between Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. Confer with nearest agent of the Nickel Plate Road.

COLT FOR WHICH $105,000 WAS PAID.

This figure, paid by G. Faber, of London, to R. S. Sevier, for the two-year-old colt, Duke of Westminster, is the record price for an untried horse. Celebrated stallions in a few instances have brought more, but the best price ever received for a two-year-old was $40,000, for King Thomas. King Thomas never won a race, and there is no certainty that the Duke ever will. The animal was bought upon the assumption that blood would tell, and that his performances would equal those of his illustrious ancestors. But at this moment he stands in the position of a lottery ticket.

men there do, and I will guarantee you an insurance policy in less than two years."

A Gigantic Tunnel.

The subject of a tunnel connecting Ireland and Scotland has been brought before the British government, and the project will be pushed if the requisite financial support can be obtained. The estimated cost is $50,000,000. The route provisionally selected is from Strarner in Scotland to Belfast in Ireland. The total distance is 51 1/2 miles, of which 34 1/2 miles would be under the sea, along a line where the maximum depth is 480 feet. Electric motors would be used to drive the trains at an average speed of 60 to 70 miles per hour.—Youth's Companion.

noticed to turn and bite itself, whimpering with pain, just as the party were sitting down to a shooting luncheon by the side of a wood in Yorkshire. The dog, being tired, had lain down on the hole of a wasps' nest, and five or six of the yellow insects were stinging it at once; but they did not touch the persons sitting close by.

Uses of Peat.

Peat is being made into a kind of wood that will answer admirably for paving and railway sleepers. Peat wood can be made to resemble any kind, from willow to oak; it will not warp, is very durable, holds nails and screws with a firm grip, and becomes harder when laid on damp surfaces.—N. Y. Post.

of Syrup of Figs and the universal satisfaction which it has given attest the fact that it possesses the qualities which commend it to public favor. With the diffusion of knowledge of what a laxative should be and a general understanding of the fact that it should have a truly laxative and beneficial effect and be wholly free from every objectionable quality, or substance, the large and growing demand for shows that it is destined to supplant the old-time cathartics which were generally injurious and usually disagreeable as well. In Syrup of Figs one finds a true laxative, simple and pleasant to the taste, gentle in its action and beneficial in effect.

In the process of manufacture figs are used as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal virtues of Syrup of Figs are obtained from an excellent combination of plants known to be medicinally laxative and to act most beneficially. In order

COUNTY CLEANINGS.

George Read and family have moved on the Spencer Noble farm in Unadilla which he purchased last spring.

Nathan Sutton, of Northfield, has recently sold 40,000 pounds of wool to Traugott Schmidt & Son, of Detroit.

The U. of M. senior medals will have to pay $1, each when they get their diplomas, for having demolished the seats in the amphitheater recently.

The number of pupils at the Bethel school in Freedom is 25 and not six as was stated last week. The paper from which we took the item was in error.

Frank Klinschmidt, of Freedom, and Miss Bertha Krueger, of Ann Arbor, were married at the home of the bride's parents Dec. 8. They will reside in Ann Arbor.

The F. & A. M. and O. E. S. lodges at Pinckney had a Thanksgiving entertainment and dancing party and took in $130 as the proceeds of the same besides having a royally good time.

A. J. Waters' house in Manchester was entered by thieves the other night, who ransacked the bureau drawers, took a suit of clothes, an overcoat and a purse containing a small sum of money and left.

Ella Wilson, of Ypsilanti, objected to Ella Brooks having supplanted her in the affections of a young man, and hammered her rival's head with a brick, cutting several gashes in it. All the parties are colored.

Eighty of Rev. J. B. Meister's parishioners surprised him at his home at Roger's Corners Thanksgiving day, and after spending a pleasant afternoon and evening left many tokens of their esteem for him behind them.

The university board of regents has purchased the first ward school building and grounds on South State street, Ann Arbor, and will use it for laboratories and class rooms. The school board will erect a new school building south and west of the present one.

The Ann Arbor common council has declared war on the excessive rates charged the citizens by the Ann Arbor Water Co. The matter will be fought out in the courts. On Monday the Union Trust Co. filed a mortgage for $350,000 on the water company's plant.

Albert Claviter, of Ypsilanti, charges his wife with forging his name to a $90 certificate of deposit and collecting the money at the bank. He further says she used the coin to carry on a suit for divorce which she has instituted against him. The case is on trial in the circuit court.

The Youth's Companion in 1902

To condense in a paragraph the announcement of the Youth's Companion for 1902 is not easy. Not only will nearly two hundred story writers contribute to the paper, but many of the most eminent of living statesmen, jurists, men of science and of letters, scholars, sailors, soldiers and travelers, including three members of the President's Cabinet.

In a delightful series of articles on military and naval topics the Secretary of the Navy will tell "How Jack Lives"; Julian Ralph, the famous war correspondent, will describe "How Men Feel in Battle," and Winston Spencer Churchill, M. P., whose daring escape from a Boer prison pen is well remembered, will describe some experiences "On the Flank of the Army."

And this is but a beginning of the long list. A complete announcement will be sent to any address free. The publishers also announce that every new subscriber who sends $1.75 for the 1902 volume now will receive all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1901 free from the time of subscription; also the Companion Calendar for 1902—all in addition to the 53 issues of the Companion for 1902.
