ELECTRIC LINE

Thrown Into Ditch.

Jackson Press: About 9:30 Monday morning, as the Hawks-Angus car was coming to the city from Ann Arbor in making the curve from Page avenue north the car left the trucks and turned over in the mud the trucks running along on the track for about twenty rods, There were about sixteen passengers and all were thrown in a heap each one being somewhat bruised. The only one seriously injured was Rev. Mr. Herbert, pastor of the Congregational church at Grass Lake. His right leg was broken between the knee and hip. The others on the car were: Chas. Whitaker, Chel sea; F. B. Whitaker, Sandwich, Ill. Michael J. Lehman, Ann Arbor; F. A Rowley, Van Wert, O.; Fred Broesamle, Chelsea; Otls Hough, Marcellus; Chas. Moore, Sunfield; Mrs. Emma Stimson and daughter, Miss Matie, Chelsea; Fred Schmidt, Ann Arbor; J. Shaw, Jackson; E. Chapman, Ypslianti, All were brulsed, several received cuts on the Finley B. Whitaker is badly injured in the back, but how seriously the physiclans are not yet able to say.

Otis Hough of Marcellus said the car was running at a high rate of speed down the grade and as it struck the curve there was a terrible creaking and before anyone in the car could realize anything the car left the trucks and rolled over on the ground, throwing the passengers in a heap. Mr. Hough estimated that the car must have been going at the rate of twenty-five or thrity mlles an hour when it struck the curve.

The car was in charge of Conductor Wm. Comstock and Motorman Jas. Smith, both of Ypsilanti. They were both bruised, the motorman receiving some severe cuts on the head.

Supt. Merritt of the Hawks-Angus line came to Jackson on the first car af ter the accident and is looking after the injured. He said to the Patriot that it was impossible at present to say what was the cause of the accident, but that as soon as the injured are properly taken care of a thorough investigation will be made. It is stated that the motorman claimed the brakes refused to work but this Mr. Merrill says could not be true. The brakes are so constructed that they bor to this city. It is stated that the cars are run at an unsafe rate of speed and several times the Hawks-Angus and Boland cars have raced between this city and Michigan Center, causing considerable uneasiness among the passengers.

A Unique Tombstone. In the German burial ground just west of Ann Arbor is a tombstone that has been pointed out for years to visitors as one of the great currosities in this section. On the upper part of the headstone is sculptured an illustration of the tradegy which brought death to the man whose grave it marks, and after forty years it is still in fine preservation despite the elements. Under the carved illustration is a German inscription which

Contests in the Roman Amphitheaters Likened to Those in Which the Christian Withstands the Assaults of the Tempter-Words of Paul

(Copyright, 1902, Louis Klopsch, N. T.) Washington, Feb. 23.—This discourse of Dr. Talmage is full of inspiring thoughts for those who find life a struggle and shows that we have many celestial sympathizers; texts, Hebrews xii, 1, "Seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses;" I Corinthians xv. 32, "I have fought with beasts at Ephesus."

Crossing the Alps by the Mont Cenis pass or through the Mont Cenis tunnel, you are in a few hours set down at Verona, Italy, and in a few minutes begin examining one of the grandest ruins of the world, the Amphitheater. The whole building sweeps around you in a circle. You stand in the arena where the combat was once fought or the race run, and on all sides the seats rise, tier above tier, until you count forty elevations or galleries, as I shall see fit to call them, in which sat the senators, the kings and the 25,000 excited spectators. At the sides of the arena and under the galleries are the cages where the lions and tigers are kept without food until, frenzied with hunger and thirst, they are let out upon some poor victim, who, with his sword and alone, is condemned to meet them. I think that Paul himself once stood in such a place and that it was not only figuratively, but literally, that he had "fought with beasts at Ephe-

The gala day has come. From all the world the people are pouring into Vero-Every place is filled. Immensity of audience sweeping the great circle. Silence. The time for the contest has come. A Roman official leads forth the victim into the arena. Let him get his sword with firm grip into his right hand. The 25,000 sit breathlessly watching. I hear the door at the side of the arena creak open. Out plunges the half starved lion, his tongue athirst for blood, and with a roar that brings all the galleries to their feet he rushes against the sword of his combatant. Do you know how long a stroke a man will strike when his life depends upon the first thrust of his blade? The wild beast, lame and bleeding, slinks back toward the side of the arena; then rallying his wasted strength he comes up with fiercer eye and more terrible roar than ever, only to be driven back with a fatal wound, while the combatant comes in with stroke after stroke until the monster is dead at his feet, and the 25,000 clap their hands and utter a shout that makes the city tremble.

To one of the Roman amphitheatrical audiences of 100,000 people Paul refers when he says, "We are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses." The direct reference in the last passage is made to a race; but elsewhere having discussed that, I take as he died, "If I had ten heads, they now Paul's favorite idea of the Christian life as a combat.

The fact is that every Christian man has a lion to fight. Yours is a bad temper. You have been thrown by it time and again, but in the strength of God you have arisen to drive it back. I verily believe you will conquer. I think that the temptation is getting weaker and weaker. You have given it so many wounds that the prospect is that it will die, and you shall be the victor, through Christ. Courage, brother! Do not let the sands of the arena drink the blood of your soul!

Your lion is the passion for strong drink. You may have contended against it for twenty years; but it is strong of body and thirsty of tongue. Take this weapon, sharp and keenreach up and get it from God's armory -the sword of the Spirit. With that thou mayest drive him back and con-

But why specify when every man and woman has a lion to fight? I there be one here who has no besetting sin, let him speak out, for him have I offended. If you have not fought the lion, it is because you have let the lion eat you up. This very moment the contest goes on. The Trajan celebration, where 10,000 gladiators fought and 11,000 wild beasts were slain, was for the life of the body; this is for the life of the soul. That was with wild beasts from the jungle; this is with the roaring lion of hell.

Men think, when they contend against an evil habit, that they have to fight it all alone. No! They stand in the center of an immense circle of sympathy. Paul had been reciting the names of Abel Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Sarah, Isaac, Joseph, Gideon and Barak and then says "Being compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses."

On the first elevation of the ancient amphitheater, on the day of a celebration, sat Tiberius or Augustus or the reigning king. So in the great arena of spectators that watch our struggles and in the first divine gallery, as I shall call it, sits our King, one Jesus. On his head are many crowns. The Roman emperor got his place by cold blooded conquests, but our King hath come to his place by the broken hearts healed and the tears wiped away and the souls redeemed. The Roman emperor sat, with folded arms, indifferent as to whether the swordsman or the lion best, but our King's sympa- them but cannibals. Are we persecutthies are all with us-nay, unheard of ed? They were anathematized. And condescension! I see him come down as they look from their gallery and see from the gallery into the arena to help us falter in the pre

SERMON. en thee by the right hand of my pow-

I look again, and I see the angelic gallery. There they are the angel that swung the sword at the gate of Eden, the same that Exckiel saw upholding tue throne of God, and from which I look away, for the splendor is insufferable. Here are the guardian angels. That one watched a patriarch; this one protected a child; that one has been pulling a soul out of temptation! All these are messengers of light! Those drove the Spanish armada on the rocks. This turned Sennacherib's living hosts into a heap of 185,000 corpses. Those yonder chanted the Christmas carol over Bethlehem until the chant awoke the shepherds. And there, holier and mightier than all, is Michael, the archangel. To command an earthly host gives dignity, but this one is leader of the 20,000 charlots of God and of the ten thousand times ten thousand angels. I think God gives command to the archangel, and the archangel to the seraphim, and the seraphim to the cherubim, until all the lower orders of heaven hear the command and go forth on the high behest.

Now bring on your lions! Who can fear? All the spectators in the angelic gallery are our friends. Though the arena be crowned with temptations, we shall, with the angelic help, strike them down in the name of our God and leap on their fallen carcasses! O bending throng of bright angelic faces and swift wings and lightning foot, I hall you to-day from the dust and struggle of the arena!

I look again, and I see the gallery of the prophets and apostles. Who are those mighty ones up yonder? Hosea and Jeremiah and Daniel and Isaiah and Paul and Peter and John and James. There sits Noah, waiting for all the world to come into the ark, and Moses, waiting till the last Red sea shall divide, and Jeremiah, waiting for the Jews to return, and John of the apocalypse, waiting for the swearing of the angel that time shall be no longer. Glorious spirits! Ye were howled at, ye were stoned, ye were spit upon! They have been in this fight themselves, and they are all with us. Daniel knows all about lions. Paul fought with beasts at Ephesus. I look again, and I see the gallery of the martyrs. Who is that? Hugh Latimer, sure enough! He would not apologize for the truth he preacned, and so he died, the night before swinging from the bedpost in perfect glee at the thought of emancipation. Who is that army of 6,666? They are the Theban legion who died for the faith. Here is a larger host in magnificent array, 884,000, who perished for Christ in the persecutions of Diocletian. Yonder is a family group, Felicitas of Rome and her children. While they were dying for the faith she stood encouraging them. One son was whipped to death by thorns; another was flung from a rock; another was beheaded. At last the mother became a martyr. There they are together, a family group in heaven! Yonder is John Bradford, who said in the fire, "We shall have a merry supper with the Lord to-night!" Yonder is Henry Voes, who exclaimed should all fall off for Christ!" The great throng of the martyrs! They had hot lead poured down their throats: horses were fastened to their hands and other horses to their feet, and thus they were pulled apart; they had their tongues pulled out by redhot pinchers; they were sewed up in the skins of animals and then thrown to the dogs; they were daubed with combustibles and set on fire! If all the martyrs' stakes that have been kindled could be set at proper distances, they would make the midnight all the world over bright as noonday! And now they sit yonder in the martyrs' gallery. For them the fires of persecution have gone out; the swords are sheathed and the mob hushed. Now they watch us with an all observing sympathy. They know all the pain, all the injustice all the privation. They cry: "Courage! The fire will not consume; the floods can-

What? Are they all looking? This hour we answer back the salutation they give and cry, "Hail, sons and daughters of the fire!

Courage down there in the arena!"

not drown; the lions cannot devour.

I look again and I see another gallery-that of eminent Chri tans. What strikes me strangely is the mixing in companionship of those who on earth could not agree. There is Albert Barnes and around him the presbytery who tried him for heterodoxy! Yonder are Lyman Beecher and the church court that denounced him! Stranger than all, there are John Calvin and James Arminius! Who would have thought that they would sit so lovingle together? There are George Whitefield and the ministers who would not let him come into their pulpits because they thought him a fanatic. There are the sweet singers Toplady, Montgomery, Charles Wesley, Isaac Watts and Mrs. Sigourney. If heaven had had no music before they went up, they would have started the singing. And there the band of missionaries-David Abeel, talking of China redeemed; and John Scudder, of India saved; and David Brainerd, of the aborigines evangelized; and Mrs. Adoniram Judson whose prayers for Burma took heaven by violence! All these Christians are looking into the arena. Our struggle is nothing to theirs! Do we in Christ's cause suffer from the cold? They walked Greenland's icy mountains. Do we suffer from the heat? They sweltered in tropics. Do we get fatigued? They fainted, with none to care for

Must you be carried to the skies On flowery beds of case While others fought to win the prize Or sailed through bloody seas? Toplady shouts in his old hymn:

Your harps, ye trembling saints, Down by the willows take; Loud to the praise of love divine Bid every string awake.

While Charles Wesley, the Methodist, breaks forth in words a little va-

A charge to keep you have, A God to glorify, A never dying soul to save And fit it for the sky!

I look again and I see the gallery of our departed. Many of those in the other galleries we have heard of, but these we knew. Oh, how familiar their faces! They sat at our tables, and we walked to the house of God in company. Have they forgotten us? Those fathers and mothers started us on the road of life. Are they careless as to what becomes of us? And bose children-do they look with stolld indifference as to whether we win or lose this battle of life? They remember the day they left us. They remember the agony of the last farewell. Though years in heaven, they know our faces. They remember our sorrows. They speak our names. They watch this fight for heaven. Nay, I see them rise up and lean over and wave before us their recognition and encouragement. That gallery is not full. They are keeping places for us. After we have slain the lion they expect the king to call us, saying, "Come up higher!" Between the hot struggles in the arena wipe the sweat from my brow and stand on tiptoe, reaching up my right hand to clasp theirs in rapturous handshaking, while their voices come ringing down from the gallery, crying, Be thou faithful unto death, and you shall have a crown!"

But here I pause, overwhelmed with the majesty and the joy of the scene' Gallery of the King! Gallery of an gels! Gallery of prophets and apos les' Gallery of friends and kindred! ( majestic circles of light and love! Throngs, throngs, throngs! How shall we stand the gaze of the universe? Myriads of eyes beaming on us! Myriads of hearts beating in sympathy for us! How shall we ever dare to sir again? How shall we ever become dicouraged again? How shall we ever feel lonely again? With God for us and angels for us and prophets and apostles for us and the great souls of the ages for us and our glorified kindred for us-shall we give up the fight and die? No. Son of God, who didst die to save us! No, ye angels, whose wings are spread forth to shelter us' No. ye prophets and apostles, whose warnings startle us! No, ye loved ones. whose arms are outstretched to re ceive us! No, we will never surren

Sure I must fight if I would reign, Be faithful to my Lord. And bear the cross, endure the pain. Supported by thy word.

Thy saints in all this glorious war Shall conquer though they die; They see the triumph from afar And seize it with their eye

When that illustrious day shall rise And all thine armies shine In robes of victory through the skies. The glory shall be thine.

My hearers, shall we die in the arena or rise to join our friends in the gallery? Through Christ we may come off more than conquerers. A soldier dying in the hospital rose up in bed the last moment and cried, "Here. here!" His attendants put him back on his pillow and asked him why he shouted "Here!" "Oh, I heard the roll call of heaven, and I was only answering to my name!" I wonder whether after this battle of this life is over our names will be called in the muster roll of the pardoned and glorified and, with the joy of heaven breaking upon our souls, shall cry, "Here, here!"

"Lifting the King".

One of the picturesque English coronation ceremonies which have been discontinued is that of lifting the king. In the old days the monarch always slept at the palace of Westminster on the night before the coronation. The regalia, which is still, technically speaking, in the possession of the dean and chapter of Westminster, were brought to Vestminster Hall in preparation for the ceremony. These were arranged on a long table, so on. The king, when he descended from the palace to Westminster Hall, was lifted by his nobles on a marble chair, which, by the way, perished in when they were burned sixty or seventy years ago.

The lifting of the king into this hair was a survival of the old Saxon custom of carrying the king on his shield. The custom survived up to the time of the coronation of George pointing his finger which one of his nobles should carry the various parts of the regalia to the abbey, and the procession began.

Spent Eight Cents in Campaign. Richard Evans, who was recently candidate for the London common council and was defeated, in his report of expenses declared that he had spent only fourpence in his campaign.

Number of Recruits for the Army Is Falling Off Yearly-Germany Has Now a Decided Numerical Advantage Over Her Old Enemy.

The depopulation of France is a subject that is attracting no little attention in the military countries on the continent, chiefly in connection with the already visible effects on recruiting. The constant falling off in the number of recruits and the consequent decline in the strength of the French army appear to have been regularly recorded by the intelligence departments of foreign armies, and it is significant that military writers are permitted to publish comparative statistics on the subject in the daily press, says the London Standard.

One of these writers, referring in an Austrian paper to the alterations which, he says, France was compelled to make last month in the peace footing of her army, points out that, as late as 1898, the number of trained soldiers in France exceeded the corresponding total in Germany by 140,000 men. It was then calculated, he adds, that it would take Germany ten years to make up the difference, as she proposed at that time to increase the number of recruits by 14,000 every year.

But in addition to the ordinary number of recruits, so many supernumeraries offer themselves for enlistment in Germany that, according to the writer quoted, the numerical advantage of trained men which France had over Germany three years ago will have disappeared in half the contemplated period-that is, in two or three years' time. He lays particular stress on the facts that the number of recruits prescribed by law in France can no longer be reached, and that last year there was a considerable deficiency, so that, with all the volunteers-25.882 in 1899. and re-enlisted soldiers, 6,528 in 1899it was impossible to form all the fourth battalions for which credits were voted, simply because the men were not forthcoming.

Doubtless these statistics are known and followed with interest in Germany. Russia and elsewhere. It may be said. of course, that for the present the military equilibrium between France and Germany still exists, but it is no secret that, while Germany could easily enlist between 30,000 and 50,000 men more yearly, the greatest sacrifices in France would not suffice to bring about any considerable increase, simply because the sources of recruiting are dried up.

NO BEAUX FOR CENTRAL GIRLS.

Singular Decree Promulgated by the Dresden Postoffice. With the advent of the telephone girl trouble has come to the Dresden postoffice, says a correspondent of the Western Mail. About 30 young women are employed in the telephone department, and their comings-out and goings-in attract to an inconvenient degree the young man population of the city. The male admirers and sweethearts collect in groups, and when the fair 300 troop out the mutual salutations are demonstrative to a degree usually reserved for the tete-atete. Not infrequently a score or so of young men, whose admiration is general rather than particular, make their way into the doorway and there pass critical review upon the whole 300 as they pass out. "Kiss in the street," as practiced in front of the Dresden postoffice, has at last reached proportions which austere authority can no longer permit, and the director of posts and telegraphs has just issued an order declaring that male escort to or from business is no longer allowed by the regulations. The subject is keenly debated in the Dra den press.

This Man Should Get Rich. Bir Arthur Sullivan discovered at Monte Carlo one time that certain restaurant proprietors had a way of regulating their charges with the appearance and standing of their customers. When lunching alone Sir Arthur was in the habit of frequently one particular place, where he knew to a centime what the prices were. SOME AGED ANIMALS.

Who Have an Hasy Life Live for In the vicinity of Paris a home fo old domestic animals was established some time ago, and among the present inmates are a mule 72 years old, a cow 36, and a pig 25 years old. It is claimed that domestic animals which lead an easy life are likely to live far beyond the average age, if properly cared for. Many birds certainly attain an extraordinary age. Eagles, ravens and parrots frequently live a hundred years and pelicans probably live as long, for it is recorded that one of these birds was placed in the Amsterdam soological garden some time before 1792, and was still there in 1870. This pelican, too, was at least four or five years old when it was placed in the garden. Eels are also long lived. Professor

Buchner tells of one, which was kept for twenty-six years in a pond at Thiengen, in which it was placed at the age of eight years. It attained a length of nearly five feet, and its favorite haunt was in the current that flowed into the pond. All authorities agree that domestic animals which are obliged to do a good deal of work do not live so long as those which lead a placid life.

MUSOULAR SORENESS.

As the result of over-exertion and exposure to heat and cold, or from whatever cause, may be treated guecessfully by the timely application of St. Jacob's Oil. A thorough rubbing is necessary. The Oil should be applied vigorously, for at least twenty minutes, two or three times daily, when all pain, soreness, stiffness will be removed in twenty-four hours. It will also strengthen and harden the muscles. Football players, gymnasts, and all athletes will find St. Jacob's Oil superior to any other remedy for outward application, for the reason that its action is more rapid and its effect permanent. Thousands of people all over the world use and recommend St. Jacob's Oil for muscular soreness. A twenty-five cent bottle is quite sufficient to prove its efficacy. In cases where muscular soreness is complicated with any disease which requires an alterative, Vogeler's Curative Compound should be taken. This is prepared by the proprietors of St. Jacob's Oil, Baltimore, Md., who will send a sample free on application.

Age of the Eggs.

The Backer und Konditorseitung gives the following method of determining the age of eggs as practiced in the markets of Paris: "About six ounces of common cooking salt is into a large glass, which is then filled with water. When the salt is in solution an egg is dropped into the glass. If the egg is only one day old it immediately sinks to the bottom; if any older it does not reach the bottom of the glass. If three days old it sinks only just below the surface. From five days upward, it floats; the older it is, the more it protrudes out of the water."

The Horses of Russia. A French writer says that Russia contains 38,000,000 horses of various breeds, from the tarpan, the singular wild horse of Turkestan, to the thoroughbred Arab. It was like a dream—Overton in his fildest moods, when 'ancy ran away with reason, had never imagined so marvelous a thing.

Finally Barrajo said: "Remember our sacred compact, Senor Jack—an equal division if we both live; should distortune overtake us while we are h the act of removing the treasure, the one who survives is entitled to all, after he has settled a few bequests we have taken the pains to write lointly. He had no time to speculate upon the result.

There was a blinding flash just in the spot where the trio of adventurers had concealed themselves, a most terrific concussion that actually threw Jack from his feet, and then a deathly silence.

Overton, only a trifle bruised, managed to gain his feet and rush forward

Where the San Jose treasure seekers had lain hidden the utmost havoc had been done, and Jack knew no human being could have been within twenty feet of that exploding bomb and escaped with his life.

It was a most terrible and overwhelming catastrophe. He remembered poor, brave Barrajo,

The general had half raised himself to a sitting position, and was eagerly looking toward the scene of desolation his terrible little hand grenade had wrought. "It is-victory?" he gasped, as Jack-

SULTAN LOVES MUSIC.

Grand Planes Purchased for the Ladies of the Harem.

It will be news to most people that the Sultan of Turkey is an enthusiastic musical amateur. The statement, however, is nevertheless true.

A well-known Anglo-German firm has just sent his majesty two more grand pianos. This firm has already supplied him with many such instruments, but the Sultan is still unsatisfied.

He does not play himself, but some of the ladies of his harem do, and, of course, many brilliant pianists perform before him. But if he does not play himself, he is at any rate fond of singing to music, The Shah is another lover of musical instruments. The same firm has also supplied him with grand planos. His majesty takes the greatest interest, too, in his band, and he is a keen collector can. Your hand trembles-come, bear of musical instruments and is said to up; it is but the luck of a soldier, after be a connoisseur in fiddles. Strangely enough, too, those huge mechanical structures which are so commonly found in Germany and Russia, and which purport to be organ, ochestra, and brass band in one, are very popular both with the Sultan and the Shah. Another curious fact is that a grand piano has just been bought by an Arab sheik at Khartoum. It is to be played by his chief wife. Fault in the Home.

It is one of the manifestations of tha careless, superficial way in which many people consider an important matter that the minute a word is said about overstudy and sitting up until 2 o'clock with a cup of black coffee and a history lesson the tendency is at once to shove all the blame upon the public school system. Part of this is thoughtleseness and part is cowardice—the exhibition of an indisposition to face the difficulty exactly where it is. In every case like that which Mr. Griggs cites, or any case that is approximate, the trouble is so much in the home that all other contributory elements are of no account whatever,

On the seventh day, when breakfast was over and he got up to go out of the wardroom, Hunker asked him to sit down again. He requested all the other officers of the mess to go on deck and stay there till he sent for them. They could see in his eye what he intended to do, and it was a pity; he was thin as a rail and stoop-shouldered-bent as if with a cough. But they went out and left him with the giant. Ten minutes later Hunker invited them in again. The bully looked as if he had been through a meat chopper. He went to bed and stayed there for three weeks. It will not do to mention this officer's name, but in the navy there is commander who thought it part of his duty to play the sneak act. When the men were in their hammocks he used to creep in on them in stocking feet to see if they were talking or otherwise infringing orders after taps. One night a sailor reached up from his hammock and smashed in his face with a hammock hook. The officers of the ship, sitting as a court on the sailor, acquitted him on his defense that he thought the catlike intruder was a thief trying to rob him. Officers and men will have no sneak business in the navy.

Clothing a Hen.

An old hen belonging to Mrs. M. A Stormont began laying late in the fall, and was so persistent that she laid twenty-six eggs before she concluded to stop. During all this time she had neglected her-moulting, and when she finally got ready to shed her feathers it was in the middle of winter, but the old ones had lost their life and were dry and harsh, consequently there was no other way but to make the change. In a short time she was almost bare and suffering from the cold.

The Misses Stormont, seeing her predicament and appreciating the value of her service rendered, determined to come to her rescue. They accordingly took the old hen into the house, took her measurements, made a suit of flannels to fit, and then released her. Her ladyship took the matter very philosophically, and hustled off to her companions, apparently very comfortable in her new suit.-Kirkwood (Ill.).

Mr. Clayton of the Blue Hill observatory, has a suggestive paper in the Popu ar Science Monthly on the influence of rainfall on commercial and Barrajo. If it were my brother I could political affairs. Every severe financial panic in the United States has "Ah, I believe you, senor. We have been closely as oc ated with a protracted season of deficient rainfall. The outbreak of the boxer war in China was at least partially due to the impoverishment of the people by drought. A severe winter precipitated the French revolution. The Russians saying that January and February are two invincible generals was exemplified by the disastrous Moscow campaign of 1812. In the year 54 B. C. Caesar's legions in Gaul were defeated on account of their scattered stations, and the stations were placed wide apart because a scanty harvest had made this disposition a necessity. These are only a few of many examples that might be cited.

European Architecture in Japan. European architecture is gradually gaining a foothold in Japan, and must sooner or later dominate, just as European styles of dress are soon to dominate, in the big cities. In Tokio and other large centers of population all the new business-houses are built on European plans. They are found to be more practicable. The residences are still of the Japanese style. Some of the larger and finer residences in the cities are built like American houses, but most stick to the old customs. The government does not own its buildings, but rents them, and these, without exception, are of European design. The Europeans and Americans never stop at the Japanese hotels, because they cannot do without chairs. The hotels have nothing but couches.

Ambassadors Have Sinecures.

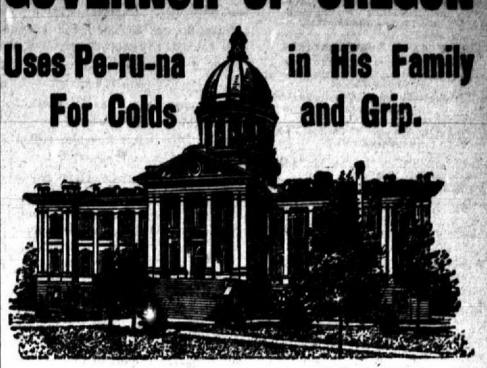

For several years the ambassadors from European powers to the Holy See have enjoyed sinecures. The Russian and German ministers are seldom there. They go to Rome to attend formal ceremonies at which their presence is required by the etiquette of the Vatican, but return at once to their homes as soon as these duties are performed. The Spanish, Austrian and Belgian ambassadors are the only ones that regard their positions seriously, and even they have nothing to do but attend dinners and receptions given by the princes of the "Black" party.

The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan. the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher-all agree that Pe-ru-na is the catarrh remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing catarrh as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony. Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh out of its victims. Pe-ru-na not only cures catarrh, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth. The Governor of Oregon is an ardent entitled "Winter Catarrh.

It will be noticed that the Governor save he has not had occasion to use Pe-ru-na for other ailments. The reason for this is, must other ailments begin with a cold. Using Pe-ru-na to promptly cure colds, he protects hi-family against other ailments. This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, la grippa, and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house. #### HEARING SET FOR FEBRUARY 28

There Seems to be no Escape for the Bank Wrecker Bank Commissioner's Statement shows well for Depositors -Things ld and Done in the State.

The case of Frank C. Andrews, now in fall for alleged looting of the Detroit City Savings Bank, assumes new phases daily. Thursday a statement ssued by Bank Commissioner Maltz indicates that depositors may get 66 per cent on their claims if the certified checks to the amount of $662,000 are left out. Mr. Maicz also said; "On the Sunday night before the closing of the bank, I told Andrews, You say you can't tell what has become of the $1,-000,000 or more of cash or securities that you seem to have gotten hold of this week. That is strange, when you could remember a small note that you held against another man.'

"Why," continued the commissioner. "it looks simply impossible that Andrews could have lost all of this money. He made $800,000 out of the sale of electric lines to the Detroit United. For the purchase of the roads between here and Flint, in which Andrews was interested, the Detroit United has issued $3,000,000 of bonds secured by the earnings of the Detroit United. These bonds are as good as gold, and most of them have been sold. The biggest share of this money went to Andrews, and his profits are estimated at $800,000. In the last few days of his career he overdrew by about $400,000 and issued $662,000 of certifled checks. There is another million

"There is another case where he picked up $100,000, making the total of cash or resources at his command nearly $2,000,000. It is simply out of the question that he could have lost all of this money. He has sent word that he might be able to straighten things up if released. That in itself is an indication that he still has re-

As shown by the complaint, overdrafts, secured and unsecured, were reported on Feb. 5, 1901, to be $987.58, while the books show that they amounted to the sum of $198,987.58.

With three criminal warrants starring Frank C. Andrews in the face, the end has not yet been reached. Prosecuting Attorney Hunt stated that he expected to bring additional complaints against the bank wrecker. He also in timated that others who had participated in the financial revel would soon wake up with a call to the police court.

"We expect to dig out everything crooked," said Prosecutor Hunt, with his most pugnacious emphasis; "and hammer it into complaints. We have unearthed some very queer business up to the present time and haven't reached the bottom yet. You can rest assured that anyone who had a finger in that pie will have to answer for it in court if it is in the power of this office to bring him there.

"As far as Mr. Andrews is concerned, we intend to confront him with all the evidence of guilt that appears. However, the complaints will all be bunched and there will be but one examination.

Cashier Henry R. Andrews, of the wrecked City Savings bank, was brought down to the Police Court Monday for arraignment, on the two charges of violation of the banking laws pending against him. On the first charge of false certification of one of Frank C. Andrews' checks, Justice Whelan simply placed the prisoner on his personal recognizance of $1,000. It is virtually understood that this charge against both the Andrews will be dropped, and that their prosecution will be upon the later one of looting a bank, for which there is a penalty of 20 years' imprisonment. Bail in the sum of $20,000 was given for the cashier's appearance. The fixing of February 28 as the date of examination is merely a temporary arrangement, as neither the defense nor the prosecution will be ready by that time.

Some Rich Picking.

Five hundred thousand dollars in diamonds and jewelry in a space 300x 400 feet! This beats a Klondike mine. yet such is the condition which confronts the people of Battle Creek. The latest estimate on the losses of the guests, in the sanitarium are places them at the above figure. Many of the valuable diamonds were undoubtedly consumed in the fierce flames, but others probably fell to the basement and are now in the debris. The gold in the jewelry, even if melted, will make exceedingly rich picking, and the question arises, who will it belong to. if found. A great sensation was caused in the Probate Court when Mrs. Clara Edsall, supposed to have been dead five years, made ber appearance to claim a widow's interest in the property of her late husband, George E. Witness was so startled at what she thought was an apparition that she swooned and the case had to be adjourned. Mrs. Edsail says she left her husband many years ago on account of domestic difficulties.

A Foolish Run.

Monday afternoon a crowd of depositors surrounded the doors of the down-town office of the Dime Savings bank. Detroit, a needless run having been started by some wild rumor. The cashier stated that he had $695,000 in cash on hand and was in readiness to meet any emergency that could possthly arise. The bank was kept open till to p. m. and all who called for their deposits were promptly paid,

"I now say," continued Mr. McLaurin, with distinct emphasis upon every word, and half turning toward his colleague, Mr. Tillman, who sat in the same row only three seats away, "that the statement is a wilful, malicious and deliberate lie."

Mr. McLaurin got no further with his statement.

Mr. Tillman, who was occupying his regular seat in the main aisle, sprang with tiger-like ferocity at his colleague Mr. Teller (Col.), who was sitting at his desk between the two South Carolina senators, was swept aside without ceremony. Indeed, the infuriated TII. man climbed over him in his effort to reach McLaurin.

Without the slighest hesitation Mr. McLaurin sprang to meet the attack half way. Mr. Tillman aimed a wild blow at his colleague with his right fist. It landed upon Mr. McLaurin's forehead, just above the left eye, although its force was partially spent upon McLaurin's arm which he had raised in an effort to parry the blow.

Instantly McLaurin's right arm shot out, the blow landing upon Tillman's face, apparently upon the nove. Again Tillman struck out frantically, this time with his left hand. The blow did not land upon McLaurin. Then followed a wild scrimmage, both senaters clutching at each other madly, but were finally separated, and forced into the r seats, Tillman wiping the b'ood from his face and staunching the flow from his swelling nose.

sentiment, there were verbal greetings from the representatives of President Roosevelt, the army, the navy and the city of New York, and a great crowd lined the way into the city to see and cheer the sailor prince of Germany. The prince left New York for Washington Monday morning, arriving in that city at 10:20. He was met by Secretaries Hay and Long and Count Quadt and two other attaches of the German empassy. Ten minutes later beleft for the White House, where in conformity with diplomatic etiquette the president received the royal visitor in private and without introduction. This was made necessary by the fact that there is now in the United States no representative of the German nation of sufficiently high rank to present to the president a prince of the blood royal, a brother and personal representative of the German emperor.

After the greetings had been exchanged the president led the prince into the red parlor and introduced him to Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Alice. After-a few words with them the royal visitor was conducted into the green room and introduced to the members of the cabinet and their families.

Hon, B. F. Macfarland, president of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, welcomed the prince on behalf of the District. Among other things he said: "We are especially glad to welcome to-day a representative of the land of Frederick the Good as of Frederick the Great: the land of Goethe and of great masters of philosophy, of music, of science, a land of lovers of freedom, of learning and of religion.

"We trust that the visit to this country may be as agreeable to your royal highness as to us, and that it may be followed by a safe return to the fatherland.' '

Miss Stone Released.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary who, with Mme. Tsilka, was captured by brigands in the distriet of Salonica September 3 last, bas been released and arrived at Strumitza, Macedonia, at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Spencer Faldy, first secretary of the United States legation at Constantinople, who had charge of the negotiations for the release of Miss Ellen M. Stone and Mrs. Tsilka, says that the kidnaping was entirely a political matter, for the Macedonian people believe it a step toward freeing Macedonia from Turkish rule, and the money they demanded ($100,000) was intended for the Macedonian cause. The manner of the payment of the ransom remains a secret.

Never Was Done. Gen. Frederick Funston, in discussing the "water cure," a form of torture charged against the soldiers in the Philippines, said that he had never seen the "water cure" applied, but he had heard it described. "The charge which I have just refuted at the request of the war department was most vague. It was made by a soldier and to the effect that he had helped administer the water cure to 160 natives." That is the kind of rot a soldier is apt to write home when business is dull, and he has three or four beers under his jacket to belp his imagination. Nothing of the kind ever occurred with the knowledge of the officers, or ever occurred at all, for that matter."

AID GARMENT WORKERS.

Give $1,000 to Strikers and Urge Moral Support

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 24.—The state conrention of United Mine Workers Saturday pledged their united support to the striking garment workers, who walked out in this city, and presented them with a check for $1,000 to help carry on the fight against the firm. A resolution declaring the firm to be unfair and appointing each delegate a committee of one to spread the information to each of the 40,000 union miners in the state was enthusiastically adopted. The revision of the constitution occupied all the time of the session which was not occupied in executive session. A resolution providing for the election of members of the executive board, the members of the national board and the delegates to the State Federation of Labor, as well as the state officers, was passed, as was one calling upon the state legislature to increase the annual appropriation of $1,000,000 for educational purposes.

Mitcheil Hopes for Peace. Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 24.-President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America discussed the meeting of the executive committee of the National Civic Federation at New York, from which he has just returned. The executive committee was appointed to consider ways and means of bringing labor and capital into closer relationship. The committee adopted a constitution and by-laws and hereafter will meet once each year, unless called together by an emergency. President Mitchell firmly believes that the object for which the committee was appointed will be achieved and points to the settling of the big strike of garment-workers in New York recently in which over 40,000 persons were out as one of the substantial results already attained.

Mr. Fitzgerald theu produced months the junior of his imperial the document, which consisted of a brother, Emperor William II. He marnumber of reports and sundry letters ried in Berlin in 1888, Princess Irene and statements made by Indian inspectors relative to the conduct and management of Indian schools, Among others it contained a report relative to the Wind River boarding school, Shoshone agency, Wyoming, made June 4, 1900 to the secretary of the interior, when Nardin was superintendent there. The inspector not only charges neglect and incompetency on the part of Nardin, but also makes the statement that his own findings and also the result of an investigation made by Inspector Nickerson show 'that this school has educated more girls to harlotry than any other similar school in the service." Appended to the reports are the statements made by a score of the female pupils which indicate that a frightful state of affairs must have existed among the pupils. Nardin was promoted to the Mt. Pleasant school about two years ago and is highly regarded. This school is in Representative Darragh's district, and the latter said that he had understood Nardin to be well fitted for the position.

Owing to the character of the testimony given by the Indian girls there was a great demand for the report and they were withdrawn from the document rooms in order to prevent them from becoming generally circulated.

Supt. E. C. Nardin, of the Mt. Pleasant school, says the charge is absolutely false. The moral tone of the school is of a high character and the atmosphere surrounding the pupils is clear of such suspicions. Such a charge could not be made truthfully. He demands the fullest investigation. Cannon said he wouldn't condemn a dog on the report. Sherman, who is chairman of the Indian committee, finally proposed to have a committee appointed to investigate the charges. Commissioner Jones, of, the Indian department, says Nardin's record for two years at Mt. Pleasant is excellent. He admits there was a basis for Mc-Connell's charges, but says that Shoshone Indian Agent Nicholson, who was Nardin's superior, investigated them and exonerated Nardin.

Albert William, Prince Henry of Prussia, third ranking admiral of the imperial German navy, is every inch a sailor. Favorite of his imperial parents, coming to manhood amid napremier scion of the kingdom has dedicated his best talents to the sea service of the nation. The Prince will of Hesse. From this union, one of the conspicuously happy marriages of reyal Europe, there have been three sons-Princes Waldemar, Sigismund and Heinrich, aged, respectively 13, 5 and 2 years. They are destined to inherit the maritime inclinations of their father, if there be virtue in a birthplace, for all three scanned their first horizon at Kiel. Prince Henry's naval station.

The first German prince to visit United States territory has upon four previous occasions sailed far from the fatherland. One of the journeys took him around the world. By way of the Cape Verde Islands, he cruised through the South Atlantic, around Cape Horn and through the Pacific to Japan and China, where he tarried for almost two

In the spring of 1880 he started home, touching the Cape of Good Hope and St. Helena. Two years later he crossed the Atlantic again, upon this occasion as junior commanding officer of the corvette Olga, whose captain, Baron von Seckendorff, as court marshal of Prince Henry's official household, will accompany him to America. For thirteen years following, Prince Henry occupied himself with the ceaseless activities attendant upon the birth and development of Germany's modern navy. In 1897 he found himself a full-fledged flag officer. When the Chinese port of Kiachow was taken by the Kaiser a few months later he dispatched his brother to East Asia as the commander of the second division of German cruisers. His departure from Kiel, aboard his arst flagship, the Deutschland, was the center of a fervent German naval demonstration. Cruising through the friendly waters of China, Japan, Siam, Korea and the Russian possessions along the Amur, chance found Prince Henry in eastern seas during the bristling pleased to recall Admiral von Diedrichs, the command of all Germany's sea forces in the Asiatic region fell very naturally to the Prince. As every American officer who met him in those days will testify, his career was marked by tact, ability and kindness. Prince Henry's distinguishing characteristic has been love and regard for the men behind the guns and beneath the deck. A disciplinarian, he has still found it compatible to rule with gentleness and consideration. He knows his ships from fighting-top to keel. He has mastered the practical side of navy things and understands the armor strength and bunker capacity, as well as maneuvers and strategy. He is intensely modest, almost to the point of retirement. Prince Henry was the favorite son of both his late father and mother. Once when Senator Pendleton of Ohio, then United States Minister to Berlin, was received in audience by Emperor Frederick, the American diplomat spoke in admiration of Crown Prince William, to whom he had been presented the day before. "Yes," said Emperor Frederick, "William is a fine boy, but wait until you see my Henry!" Next to navy matters, yachting claims first place in Prince Henry's professional affections. He is even a more ardent water sportsman than his brother, besides being a practical yachtsman. Prince Henry sails his own craft with consummate skill. The Irene, named after his wife, has many a time won a Kiel regatta cup under the personal guidance of its royal Rumor That Miss Roosevelt Is to Be In vited to Berlin.

It is stated in American circles in London that when Miss Roosevelt comes over to attend the coronation of King Edward she will proceed to Germany as the guest of Ambassador White at Berlin. This will be done at the suggestion of the Kaiser, who is anxious to show impartial hospitality to the President's daughter, whose charming personality is so closely identified with the present Anglo-American civilities, the launching of the Emperor's new yacht and the visit of Prince Henry to the United States. It is certain that the daughter of the President would be cordially welcomed by the German people.

Queer Advertisements. A general servant advertised in a Bristol paper for a place the other day, but required "no inquiries; no caps or aprons; every evening out; good wages," and a journalist advertised himself as of "no particular ability" as a recommendation. A clerk recently sought a place "where great strength, personal appearance, or ability are not required." "Good butter, 6d a lb. Nobody can touch it," was ambiguous and may have been wrongly interpreted by the public: and a Gloucestershire paper which inserted days following the battle of Manila, the advertisement, "Our one-andand, when Emperor William was ninepenny dinner at 6:30 p. m. Funerals promptly attended to," apologized next day for mixing up two separate and distinct announcements. But it is a fact that a church paper appealed lately for "Old man, lame, deaf, epileptic. Will any Christian take him for a gardener?" and that in a leading Scotch journal an advertiser asked for £65 to pay debts incurred through losses at betting."

Stop the Blight

It is a sad thing to see fine fruit trees spoiled by the blight. You can always tell them from the rest. They never do well afterwards but stay small and sickly.

It is worse to see a blight strike children. Good health is the natural right of children. But some of them don't get their rights. While the rest grow big and strong one stays small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion can stop that blight. There is no reason why such a child should stay small. Scott's Emulsion is a medicine with lots of strength in it-the kind of strength that makes things
