IN HONOR OF ST. PATRICK.

A Good Entertainment Under the Auspices of St. Mary's Parish.

All praise to Saint Patrick, who brought to our

The gift of God's faith, the great light of His Gospel.

All praise to the Shepherd who showed us the pasture of life.

The feast of the heart of the Father above!

For hundreds of years, in earth and in heaven,

Our faith has been with us, our shield and our stay!

All who may have good, Saint Patrick shows—

He leads us to the light, when earth's lights were all set;

For the light of faith they can never decay,

And the best of our lives is light with us forever.

In the faith and the feast of Saint Patrick's day.

The settlement embraced in the above lines lives in the heart of every true Irish man and impels them, wherever they may be, to celebrate in some way the natal day of their patron saint. With St. Mary's parish it took the form of a musical and literary entertainment and social at the opera house Monday evening, March 17.

The hall was well filled and all seemed to be having a good time. The stage had been prettily decorated with the American flag, and red, white, blue and green bunting. Conspicuous on the center of the stage was a large green shamrock, the Irish emblem so dear to every Irish heart.

The program was a long one of 16 numbers, consisting of vocal and instrumental solos, duets and trio, readings, recitations and essays, and selections on the graphophone. Each of those who took part in their program did their parts in a pleasing manner and the entertainment on the whole was a success in every way. At the conclusion of the entertainment appearing refreshments were served by a committee of the ladies of the parish.

The handsome sum of $125 was realized, which will be devoted to the use of the already well stocked parish library. And so St. Patrick was honored in Chelsea.

Dog Tax Law.

It has been reported that the Supervisor of Bryans returned the tax to the Sheriff of Washington county on 164 dogs and that the Sheriff would not take any action in the matter because the dogs were not described; both of the above statements are not true; it is the duty of the Treasurer of Bryans township to return such unpaid taxes to the Sheriff only in cases where the Treasurer is unable to collect same. For the information of those who have not paid their tax on dogs,

the law defining the duties of the assessing officer and collector is given below:

Act No. 46, public act of 1901.—To provide for a tax upon dogs and to create a fund for the payment of certain damages for sheep killed or wounded

by them in certain cases.

The People of the State of Michigan do enact, that in all townships and cities of this State, except in cities having and enforcing an ordinance imposing a tax or license fee on every dog owned or harbored in said city, there shall be annually levied and collected the following tax upon dogs: Upon every male dog over three months old owned or kept by one person or family, one dollar; upon every female dog over three months old owned or kept by one person or family,

three dollars; provided, That the tax upon a female dog whose ovaries have been removed shall be one dollar, and shall be so levied by the supervisor in every case where the person owning such dog shall file with such supervisor's certificate under oath of a veterinary surgeon that the ovaries of such dog had been removed.

Section 3.—The assessor of every township or ward, at the time of making his annual assessment, shall inquire and as-ertain the number of dogs liable to be taxed, and shall enter in lists to be made by him the name of every person in his respective township or ward owning or keeping any dog subject to the above tax, the number kept by such person, and the amount of tax to be paid by him.

Section 4.—The assessor of every township and ward shall, on or before the day in May in each year, make out a duplicate of the lists made by him as provided in the preceding section and file of his respective township or city, said taxes, as provided for in the preceding section of this act, shall be assessed to and collected from each person as shall be liable for the same, in the same manner as other township and city taxes are assessed and collected, and with like power to distrain and sell any property of the owner or owner, keeper or keeper of dogs liable to be taxed.

Section 5.—The collector to whom such tax rolls shall be delivered shall proceed and collect the sums of money therein specified, in the same manner and with like authority as an assessor and with the orders of the township and city boards as provided in sections five and six of this act. The collector shall give to each

A Car Load of Dimes.

One would naturally think that the package dye business was a small industry, but there is more than one million dollars worth of package dyes sold in the United States every year.

One of the largest package dye factories in the world is that of the Putnam Fadeless Dye Co., Unionville, Mo. In this factory alone three million packages of Putnam Fadeless Dyes are made every year. To put up this amount of dyes requires the handling of seven million of envelopes, think of it, seven millions of envelopes laid lengthwise would reach a distance of seven hundred miles; if laid one upon the other they would make a pile of Putnam Fadeless Dyes 44 miles high. As each envelope has to be handled five times before a package is complete, the completion of three millions of packages requires that they be handled thirty-five million times. This of course gives employment to a number of people. The Putnam Fadeless Dye Company alone employ almost a hundred people—90 per cent. of whom are young ladies.

As each package retails for 10c the weight of the retail price of the three millions packages in dimes is 18,000 pounds, or almost a car load.

GOATS AS BRUSH DESTROYERS.

No animal yet introduced into America will compare with the goat as a destroyer of brush and young timber. The time required will depend upon the closeness with which the leaves are kept eaten by the goats in summer. They will also browse in winter when the snow is not too deep, but at that season they should not be confined to browse alone. They will also eat the bark on many kinds of trees and in that way kill them, but their mission is rather the destruction of bushes and twigs that cover the land, in some places so thickly, that one can scarcely walk through it. As not a little of the cut-over land is of this character, and indeed some that has not been cut over, there is wide room for the introduction of goats as clearers of land. The lands which have been burned over also sustain a most vigorous growth of young trees, such as goats love to browse upon. It is very probable therefore, that large flocks of goats will yet be introduced into Northern Wisconsin to help to clear the land.

A general article upon the great opportunities for goat and sheep raising in Northern Wisconsin by Prof. Thomas Shaw of the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, from which this is excerpted, will be sent, if you mention this paper, by D. W. Cassaday, Agent, "Sog Line," Minneapolis, Minn.

DOZEN ARE DROWNED

Terrible Disaster Occurs in Terrible Sea Off Cape Cod.

Life-saving Crew Seeks Rescue of Shipwrecked Sailors—Seven of the Brave Fellows Drown Together with Five Other Men.

Chatham, Mass., March 18.—Seven life savers, practically the entire crew of the Monomy station on the south end of Cape Cod, met death Monday at their post of duty, and with them into the sea which capsize the lifeboat went five men from the stranded barge Wadena, whom they tried to bring in safety to the shore. One man, Lemuel Ellis, through the heroic work of Capt. Elmer Mayo, of another stranded barge, the John C. Fitzpatrick, was rescued from the bottom of the upturned lifeboat. Among those lost was William H. Mack, of Cleveland, O., who was on the barge, representing his company, the Boutelle Towing and Transportation company, of that city, while Capt. Marshall N. Eldredge, one of the oldest life savers on the coast, went down with his men. All the life savers came from Chatham and Harwich.

The Victims.

The names of the lost are as follows, the first seven being members of the life-saving crew:

Marshall N. Eldredge, keeper, South Chatham.
Edgar Small, Harwich.
Elijah Kendrick, Harwich.
Osborn Chase, Harwich.
Arthur Rogers, North Harwich.
Isaac Thomas Foye, South Chatham.
Volentine Nickerson, Harwich.
William H. Mack, Cleveland.
Capt. Christian Olsen, Boston.
Robert Molanux, Boston, steward of tug Peter Smith.
Walter A. Zevad, Cottage City.
Manuel Enos, Cottage City.

Scene of the Disaster.

The scene of the accident was in the well known tide rips off Monomy point, which make down from Chatham into Nantucket sound. Last Thursday the barges Wadena and John C. Fitzpatrick, on the way to Boston with cargoes of coal, stranded on the Shovelu shoal, about three-quarters of a mile off Monomy point. Since then every effort has been made to float the barges and all day Saturday and Sunday men from Vineyard Haven were at work throwing coal overboard from both of them. Sunday night the tug Peter C. Smith, which has been lying beside the barges, ran alongside the Wadena and told those on board that a storm was coming on. All the wreckers were taken on board the tug with the exception of the five men who met their fate Monday.

Life-savers to the Rescue.

Monday forenoon Capt. Eldredge, who had been watching the barges very closely, sighted signals of distress on the Wadena. He got out his crew and surfboat. It took nearly an hour to reach the barge. By that time the tide had turned to the eastward and a fierce cross sea had been kicked up. Capt. Eldredge steered the lifeboat under the lee of the Wadena, and one after another the five men dropped into the boat. With the wind astern, it seemed comparatively easy to gain the smooth waters behind the point. The seas were tossing and turning in the rips, and Capt. Eldredge was constantly looking for smooth spots. When about half way in he thought he discovered one over what is called a hole, and the boat was sheered off for it.

Lifeboat Capsized.

As she did so a tremendous sea caught her under the stern and she went over, throwing all the men into the water. Being used to the sea, all the life-savers clung to the boat and managed to pull the Wadena men along with them. An attempt was made to right the boat, but although all lifeboats are supplied with cork gunwales, they are very heavy, and being full of water, the life savers only managed to get her partially cleared. They had some hope, however, of reaching land, until another wave again capsize the boat.

Dropped One by One.

Mr. Mack was the first to succumb, and one by one the others dropped away, until there were only four left, and these climbed on the bottom of the overturned boat. All were fearfully exhausted. The four men drifted down in the direction of the Fitzpatrick, where Capt. Mayo, of that craft, caught sight of them. With much darning he dropped a dory over the board, and jumping into it, started after the exhausted men. Before he reached the lifeboat three of them had fallen into the sea. Ellis managed to hold on, and caught the rope which Capt. Mayo threw to him. He was dragged aboard, and then Capt. Mayo, being an expert surferman, pulled around the point into the smooth water and landed the only survivor of the 13 who started from the barge. Ellis was too exhausted to give any accurate account of his experiences for two or three hours after getting ashore, and although recovering physically from the ordeal, his mind is still perplexed.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

Synopsis of the Provisions of the Measure, Which Has Just Passed the Senate.

Washington, March 18.—After prolonged debate, the senate Monday passed the ship subsidy bill, the final vote upon the measure being 42 to 31. Senators Allison and Doolittle (Ia.), Spooner and Quarles (Wis.), and Proctor and Dillingham (Vt.), republicans, voted against the final passage of the bill, and Senator McLaurin (S. C.) voted for it. Some amendments to the bill were adopted, but they were all agreeable to those in charge of the measure, the friends of the bill voting down all other amendments. With the exception of amendments offered by Senator Allison, and accepted by Senator Frye, limiting the time of the operation of contracts made under the provisions of the bill to July 1, 1920, and providing that the amount of the expenditure under the mail subsidy paragraph should not at any time exceed $8,000,000 annually, none of the amendments agreed to materially affected the bill as it was reported from the commerce committee.

The senate agreed to an amendment offered by Senator Spooner, providing that congress should have power to amend or repeal the act, without impairing any contract made under its authority. Senator Hanna (O.) offered, and the senate adopted, three amendments applying directly to the acquisition by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and his associates of the Leyland line of British ships. They provide that no foreign built ship shall participate in the proposed subsidy; that nothing in the act shall be construed to prevent American citizens or corporations from holding or operating foreign ships in the ocean-carrying trade; and that no foreign-built ship of any line thus acquired by American citizens shall be admitted hereafter to American registry.

The title of the bill passed by the senate is "To provide for ocean mail service between the United States and foreign ports, and the common defense, to promote commerce, and to encourage deeper fisheries." Section 1 of the measure as passed deals with ocean mail steamships and their subsidies. The postal subsidy act of 1891 is amended as to direct the postmaster general to enter into contracts for not less than five nor more than 15 years with American citizens for the carrying of mails on American steamships to such foreign points as will best promote the postal, commercial and maritime interests of the United States; the mail service on such lines to be equitably distributed among the Atlantic, Mexican, Gulf and Pacific ports, and the contracts to be made with the lowest responsible bidder.

The vessels employed in the mail service shall be American-built and owned and officered by American citizens. During the first two years one-fourth of the crew must be American citizens; during the next three years one-third must be American citizens, and during the remaining life of the contract at least one-half must be American citizens. The ships must be steamships of iron or steel, and divided into the following classes according to speed: First class, 20 knots or over; second class, 18 knots; third class, 16 knots; fourth class, 14 knots; fifth class, 12 knots; sixth class, 10 knots; seventh class, 8 knots. All steamships of the first four classes shall be constructed with particular reference to prompt conversion into auxiliary naval cruisers and shall be of the highest rating known to maritime commerce. Mail steamships are required to carry as apprentices one American-born boy for each 1,000 tons gross register. He shall be educated in seamanship and engineering and rank as a petty officer.

Section 2 of the bill provides for the general subsidy to be paid. It directs the secretary of the treasury to pay to the owners of any vessel in the United States duly registered and engaged in the foreign trade of the United States a compensation amounting to one cent per gross registered ton for each 100 nautical miles sailed, not exceeding 16 entries in any one year, and on each entry, not exceeding 16 in any one year, for a period of five years from the date of registration of a vessel of 1,000 gross tons, which shall be completed after the passage of this bill; one-fourth of one cent per gross ton for each 100 nautical miles sailed, in addition to the above-mentioned compensation. The bill specifies certain vessels which shall not receive compensation under its provisions, among them being vessels engaged in the coastwise trade exclusively. Each subsidized vessel is required to carry as a member of its company one American boy for each 1,000 gross tons, who shall be taught seamanship and engineering. The owners of the vessel must, before receiving compensation that the ship in emergency may be used by the United States for the national defense or for any purpose, at a fair valuation for this service.

Section 3 of the bill directs the secretary of the treasury to pay to the owner of a documented vessel engaged in deep sea fishery for at least three months in any one year two dollars per gross ton per annum, provided that at least one-third of the crew shall be citizens of the United States; and he is directed to pay also to a citizen of the United States serving as a member of such crew one dollar per month for the time he is necessarily employed.

Section 4 provides that no vessel shall be given compensation under two or more sections of this act at the same time; that a subsidized vessel shall not be sold to a subject of a foreign power; and that the president of the United States shall cause proper regulations to be framed for the execution of this act.

PRINCE COMPLETELY RESTED.

Henry's Trip Across the Ocean Gives Him a Chance to Recover from Strain of American Visit.

Plymouth, England, March 18.—The Deutschland arrived here at 12:30 p. m., and proceeded for Cherbourg and Hamburg at 1:15 p. m. Prince Henry, who was browned, hardy-looking and completely rested after his visit to the United States, spent most of his time on the bridge, with the captain or first officer of the steamer.

PERISHED FROM COLD.

Several Lives Lost During the Blizzard in the Northwest—Losses of Live Stock Heavy.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—The great blizzard which had raged over the Dakotas and Manitoba since last Friday subsided Sunday night and Monday the weather was generally fair, but intensely cold, the thermometer ranging from ten to sixteen below zero. In view of the fury and suddenness of the storms it is remarkable that so few lives are reported lost. While the reports so far have been meager and many remote points have not yet been heard from, it is general belief that not above eight or ten persons perished throughout the storm-swept region. A family of four is reported to have perished near Minot, N. D., and two or three others are said to have been frozen to death in different localities. The loss to stock is hard to estimate. A report from Dickinson, N. D., places the loss at from 25 to 30 per cent, while rumor places it, in other localities, at a much higher figure. It will be several days before definite information in this regard can be obtained. There has been a good deal of suffering among the new settlers, many of whom arrived but recently and were ill prepared to withstand the severe weather, but relief committees from the older inhabitants have taken charge of this matter and are doing their best to alleviate the needs of the newcomers.

The mild weather of the previous three or four weeks and appearances of an early spring resulted in many farmers and stockmen being caught napping, although warnings were sent out by the weather bureau 48 hours in advance.

At Dickinson, N. D., the stock shipping center, conservative estimates place the losses at 25 to 30 per cent, a little more on sheep than on cattle. The storm came up gradually on the 14th, and stockmen had ample warning, but it is feared that the fine weather had made them careless. Many streams were swollen, and among herds and flocks scattered on the prairie the loss must be considerable. In the broken country the loss will be much less than in the open country. Banker Moss, of Billings, unloaded 4,600 sheep on the prairie west of Wibaux just before the storm, and it is reported that he has already lost 3,000. A dispatch from Heron, S. D., says 800 sheep and 100 head of cattle are estimated to have perished in Beadle county.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Big Celebration Marks Day at New York City—The Shamrock in Evidence in Other Cities.

New York, March 17.—St. Patrick's day was observed in this city by special services in all Roman Catholic churches, by a parade and a number of dinners. The parade was the largest in some years, 15,000 men being in line. The line of march was up Fifth avenue. The paraders included the Sixty-ninth regiment, national guard, the First regiment of Irish volunteers, and the Hibernians rifles, acting as an escort to the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Tons of shamrock graced the day's commemoration. It is stated that more genuine shamrock was brought over from Ireland this year than ever before.

Chicago, March 18.—In celebrating St. Patrick's day Irish-Americans of Chicago promoted the cause of the United Irish league in this country. Two distinguished leaders of the Irish movement direct from the Emerald Isle, William Redmond and John Devlin, took part in the celebration at the Y. M. C. A. at night and added to the enthusiasm for Irish liberty.

TO QUIT THE CABINET.

Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock Decides to Tender His Resignation—His Probable Successor.

Washington, March 18.—Ethan Allen Hitchcock, secretary of the interior, has decided to send in his resignation to the president. The formal letter of resignation and the letter of acceptance of it will be made public before long. Present indications are that Willis Vandevanter, of Wyoming, now connected with the interior department, will be Mr. Hitchcock's successor. Mr. Vandevanter is a young man, and in his position as legal adviser of the department has determined upon and written most of the decisions which nominally have been issued by the secretary of the interior. Mr. Vandevanter emigrated to Wyoming from Indiana.

Killed by the Cars.

Chicago, March 18.—Miss Katherine Holt was instantly killed by a Pittsburgh & Fort Wayne passenger train at Cottage Grove avenue and Seventy-second street and her sister, Mrs. Lucie Ahearne, was saved from a like fate by the bravery of an aged flagman, who sprang in front of the approaching engine and shoved her out of danger, though he himself was seriously injured. The women were on their way to Hegewisch, where their brother had just died of heart disease.

The Order of Succession.
"Of course," said the bachelor, thoughtfully, "there can be no such thing as joint rule in a family. Some one must be the head."
"True, but the acceptor passes from one to another."
"How?"
"Well, at the beginning of married life the husband holds it; then it gently and unobtrusively passes to the wife, and he never gets it back again."
"She keeps it forever."
"Oh, no; the baby gets it next."—Chicago Post.

He Was the Real Thing.
Scenes, having sent a stupid servant to do an errand, was greatly annoyed on finding that he had done exactly the opposite to what he had been ordered.
"Why, you haven't common sense," he remonstrated.
"But, sir—"
"Shut up! I should have remembered that you were an idiot. When I'm tempted to send a fool on an errand again, I'll not ask you—I'll go myself."—Tit-Bits.

His Great Qualification.
The animals were preparing for amateur theatricals.
"I want to be the heavy villain," said the sheep.
"You!" snorted the intelligent horse. "You'd make a fierce-looking villain, wouldn't you?"
"Maybe not," retorted the sheep, "but I'll bet none of you can beat me saying 'Bah!'"—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Diplomatic Grocer.
"I don't see why you continue to deal with Sands?" said Mr. Hauskeep, "he's the most dishonest grocer in the neighborhood."
"How can you say such a thing?" exclaimed Mrs. Hauskeep, who is growing distressingly stout. "He weighed me on his scales the other day and I only weigh 151. I think he's real gentlemanly."—Philadelphia Press.

Somewhat Put Out.
"The service at this hotel," said the boarder who was generally behind in his payments, "is abominable, and I'm not going to put up with it much longer."
"You're right," said the landlord, overhearing him. "If you don't put up something pretty soon you'll put up somewhere else."—Chicago Tribune.

Consider.
Consider well your actions, What's done you can't recall; No use to pull the trigger, Then to try to stop the ball. —Lippincott's Magazine.

HE DIDN'T SEE THE JOKE.

"Really, Capt. Blueblazes, it was so kind of you to make me a present of this little puppy," warbled Miss Nastinook. "It's so like you, yknow."—Ally Sloper.

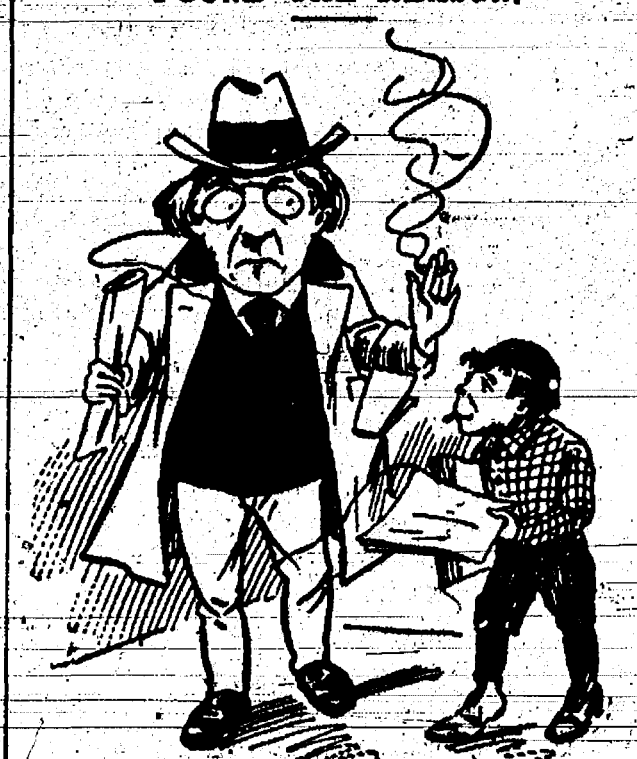

She.
She shops all day and she dances all night. And she gads all around as she wishes; But her mother complains that she's never found strength To tackle a pan full of dishes. —Baltimore News.

Self-Distrust.
"What you lack," said the person who reads your character, "is self-confidence."
"I can't help it," said the young man. "You see, I was for a number of years employed in the work of preparing weather predictions."—Washington Star.

Glee.
"I met Bliggins this morning," said the man with the muffer. "It's a good joke. He was so hoarse he couldn't talk."
"You don't mean to tell me you are glad your friend has a cold?"
"Well, I'm not exactly glad. But I have one myself, and it was a great comfort to meet some one who couldn't talk loud enough to tell me what to do for it. All I had to do was to stand three feet away and he was powerless."—Washington Star.

Lenten Sacrifice.
The dear girl sought some way of keeping Lent. And chose her special sacrifice with care; She thought and thought, and then in good intent Gave up the chapple whom she couldn't bear. —Louisville Times.

FOUND THE REASON.

Newsboy—Pape, papry, sir? All de news.
Editor (in a rush)—Go 'way, boy, I make those things.
Newsboy—Geel! If dat's right, no wonder we can't sell 'em!—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The War.
"Oh! Can we not be mated?" he cried.
"Why yes," she answered deftly. "We'll fix it this way: I'm the right. And you, sir, will be left."—Puck.

Longing for One.
"By the way, Miss Quickstep," said the young man, brightening up a little. "I am awaked to take the part of the foolkiller in a charade. How ought I to dress for the part?"
Suppressing a wild desire to tell him it would be suicide for him to act such a part, she merely replied, with a despairing glance at the clock:
"I don't know, Mr. Longstayer. I don't believe there is any such person."—Chicago Tribune.

It Puzzled Her.
"I can't understand about this wireless telegraphy," said Mrs. Wunder.
"Why, it's plain as day," said Mr. Wunder. "They just send the messages through the air, instead of over wires."
"I know that," said she, "but how do they fasten the air to the poles?"—Baltimore American.

How Binks Was Hooked.
"Mrs. Weeds," said Mr. Binks, "I asked your daughter to marry me, and she referred me to you."
"I'm sure that's very kind of Susie, but then she always was a dutiful girl. Really, Mr. Binks, I hadn't thought of marrying again at my time of life, but since you insist suppose we make the wedding day the twentieth of this month."—Tit-Bits.

Friendly Criticism.
Clara—Mr. Simpson paid you a great compliment last night.
Maude—Indeed! What did he say?
Clara—He said you seemed to be growing more beautiful every day.
Maude—That was nice.
Clara—Yes; and I reminded him of the old adage about practice making perfect.—Chicago Daily News.

Splendidly Located.
"I will bring some verses to you to-morrow," said the would-be writer to the editor he met out one evening. "Is your office conveniently situated?"
"Oh, yes," replied the scribe, pleasantly; "the hospital is just across the way from my office."—Yonkers Statesman.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1902.

With a smirking self-complacency, ludicrous to witness, the editor of the Stockbridge Sun says:

"When Chelsea shows up an election report like that on the first page of the Sun this week, people will begin to think that her editors have an excuse for ranging their town alongside Stockbridge for comparison."

We never knew there was any degree of comparison that was fitted to compare the two towns. Simply because Stockbridge likes to go wet one year and dry the next is nothing to draw a comparison from. People who don't know their own minds any better than that must be a very unstable quantity. We will now bid you adieu on the question, Mr. Sun.

A Matter of Evolution.

The graphophone is one of those wonders of modern times that has come to us through the perfecting processes of evolution. The first talking machine, the phonograph, while successful in demonstrating the basic scientific principles of sound-recording and reproducing by mechanical means, was a failure so far as everyday use was concerned. The process employed in making the sound record was crude, the means of reproducing the sound when once recorded were elementary, and the reproduction itself was so imperfect as to be, in the case of speech or song, almost unintelligible. There were other difficulties in the way of the practical use of the phonograph. After years of painstaking and determined effort, in the course of which a vast amount of well directed experimental work was carried on, the graphophone was finally evolved with its entirely novel method of recording and its hitherto unused tablet or cylinder of wax or a wax-like composition upon which the sound waves were engraved.

It became at once apparent that in the graphophone were successfully overcome those difficulties which were prohibitive of a practical use of the phonograph. The engraving process of recording, as distinguished from the method of indenting, was a much more exact one and gave a reproduction marvelously faithful to the original sound. The use of wax cylinders allowed the removal of a record once made from one machine and its subsequent reproduction on another. Records on graphophone cylinders could be and were stored away for months or years, to be reproduced, afterward, at the pleasure of the owner and as many times as desired. The crude invention of Edison is no more to be compared with a graphophone than were the primitive steam craft of Fulton and his immediate followers to be compared with the modern steam palaces in which we cross the sea.

"When Chelsea shows up an election report like that on the first page of the Sun this week, people will begin to think that her editors have an excuse for railing their town alongside Stockbridge for comparison."

We never knew there was any degree of comparison that was fitted to compare the two towns. Simply because Stockbridge likes to go wet one year and dry the next is nothing to draw a comparison from. People who don't know their own minds any better than that must be a very unstable quantity. We will now bid you adieu on the question, Mr. Sun.

A Matter of Evolution.

The graphophone is one of those wonders of modern times that has come to us through the perfecting processes of evolution. The first talking machine, the phonograph, while successful in demonstrating the basic scientific principles of sound-recording and reproducing by mechanical means, was a failure so far as everyday use was concerned. The process employed in making the sound-record was crude, the means of reproducing the sound when once recorded were elementary, and the reproduction itself was so imperfect as to be, in the case of speech or song, almost unintelligible. There were other difficulties in the way of the practical use of the phonograph. After years of painstaking and determined effort, in the course of which a vast amount of well directed experimental work was carried on, the graphophone was finally evolved with its entirely novel method of recording and its hitherto unused tablet or cylinder of wax or a wax-like composition upon which the sound waves were engraved.

It became at once apparent that in the graphophone were successfully overcome those difficulties which were prohibitive of a practical use of the phonograph. The engraving process of recording as distinguished from the method of indenting, was a much more exact one and gave a reproduction marvelously faithful to the original sound. The use of wax cylinders allowed the removal of a record once made from one machine and its subsequent reproduction on another. Records on graphophone cylinders could be and were stored away for months or years, to be reproduced, afterward, at the pleasure of the owner and as many times as desired. The crude invention of Edison is no more to be compared with a graphophone than were the primitive steam craft of Fulton and his immediate followers to be compared with the modern steam palaces in which we cross the sea.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Next week is the spring vacation in the Chelsea schools.

H. Lighthall is moving into his new house on his farm south of the village this week.

Friday of next week will be Good Friday. Services will be held in St. Paul's church at 10:30 a. m.

Next Sunday will be Palm Sunday. The blessing and distribution of the sacred palm will take place before high mass in St. Mary's church.

A special meeting of Chelsea Camp, M. W. of A., will be held at their hall Monday evening next, March 24. All members are requested to attend.

Dr. J. G. Lynde, of the U. of M., who at one time practiced in Chelsea, has resigned his professorship and will establish a private sanitarium for women in Ann Arbor.

"What makes life worth living" is the subject for discussion by the Business Men's Class at the Congregational church next Sunday. W. J. Knapp will present the opening paper.

Mrs. Myron Webb, of Saline, mother of Miss Ida Webb, science teacher in the Chelsea schools, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. M. Blackner, of Milan, early Tuesday morning.

Quarterly meeting of the Waterloo charge M. E. church will be held at the North Lake church, Sunday, March 23. Presiding Elder Ryan will preach at 10:30 a. m. Conference Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Have you ordered your Easter bonnet yet? Our Chelsea milliners have a fine selection of pretty things for their spring openings which would charm a bird off a tree or the money out of a miser's pocketbook.

Insurance rates on all stocks of goods in buildings not occupied as dwellings above the ground floor, and on all factories, etc., have been advanced 25 per cent. This action has been decided on by the fire insurance companies because they claim to have been losing money the past three years.

Those who attend the geographical society of the L. O. T. M. at their hall Monday evening report a good time. There were a large number present, the ladies being more numerous than the gentlemen. The evening was pleasantly spent with cards, music and toothsome refreshments.

The Herald has received from Dr. Fred N. Freer a copy of Vol. I, No. 1, of the Myers Creek News, published at Chesaw, Wash. Dr. Freer's card in the paper shows that he is practicing medicine there and an advertisement of the Chesaw drug store gives his name as manager of its drug department.

The Archconfraternity of the Holy Holy Rosary was established in St. Mary's church last Sunday, March 16, by the Rev. F. L. Weinman, S. J., of Detroit. There was a very large congregation present, and an excellent instruction on the Rosary was given by Father Weinman. The society starts out with a membership of two hundred.

Next Sunday being Palm Sunday confirmation services will be held in St. Paul's Lutheran church at 10:30 a. m. A class of 12, five boys and seven girls, will receive the rite. The offering will be for the synod church building fund. In the evening there will be a reunion of those who have been confirmed in the church and other confirmed members who are connected with the church.

The Business Men's Class supper at the Congregational church Friday night was a very successful one, and was largely attended. The program was an excellent one consisting of solos by Geo. Ward, duet by Mrs. L. T. Freeman and Miss Edith Boyd, recitations by Mrs. C. S. Jones and James Schmidt, and music by the Ann Arbor Junior Mandolin Club. The net receipts of the supper were $20.

The farmhouse of George Miller in Lyndon had a narrow escape from destruction by fire at noon on Sunday. Miss Lena Miller went upstairs to do some housework in one of the bedrooms and discovered flames coming out of the chimney and which had already caught into some clothing. A high wind was blowing, but luckily the three boys were at home and by their strenuous efforts the fire was put out.

Albert C. Schumacher, a nephew of Jacob Schumacher, of this place, died at his home in Ann Arbor Sunday morning, of pneumonia, after a brave struggle for life against that dread disease. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Schumacher was 43 years of age and leaves a wife and two children. He was well known to many in Chelsea, having frequently visited here in years gone by. He was president of the state board of pharmacy and was serving his second term on that board.

An Eastern Star chapter was organized to Saline Monday night of last week with 27 charter members.

H. Lighthall lost one of his gray team of horses Sunday. It was taken with inflammation of the stomach and died.

Gas is now only $1 a thousand feet in Ann Arbor. It is less than that even in some places when a hot political debate is on.

Ann Arbor Commandery, No. 13, K. T., will attend Easter services at St. Luke's church, Ypsilanti, Sunday evening, Mar. 20.

Judge O. D. Long, of the supreme court, is seriously ill from stomach and kidney trouble with but slight hopes of his recovery.

The First M. E. church, of Ann Arbor, celebrated the 75th anniversary of its organization last Thursday evening, it having been founded in 1827.

George Lehman, teacher of the school in district No. 2, Saline, and several of his scholars were afflicted with the mumps last week and the school had to be closed.

Mrs. Frederick Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burch, of Sharon, died at her home in Fishville Wednesday of last week, after a brief illness aged 83 years.

About 25 Chelsea people took in "David Harum" at the Athens theater, Ann Arbor, Thursday night, and an equal number attended the opera "The Belle of New York" on Friday night.

Stockbridge again went dry at the charter election. The temperance ticket won out having things all its own way. There will be no saloon in Stockbridge after May 1 for a year at least.

Dexter Leader: Mrs. James Dancer, an old and highly esteemed resident of Dexter and Lima, died Wednesday, March 12, of pneumonia. The funeral was held at St. Joseph's church, Dexter, Saturday.

The two gramophones offered as prizes by the Ann Arbor Music Co. for those who sold the most tickets for the recent Maccabees piano fund concert, were won by Mrs. M. Boyd and Mrs. A. J. Congdon.

E. E. Palmer has fully decided to move his flouring mill from Napoleon to Grass Lake and will soon commence the erection of a building on the site selected just north of the Michigan Central tracks on Lake street.

A number of Chelsea people went to Ann Arbor Sunday evening to hear Prof. Henry VanDyke, of Princeton college, speak in University Hall on the Wesleyan Guild course of lectures. His subject was "Morality and Art."

James B. Farrington, who killed Jesse Hooker, his wife's paramour at Adrian, was sentenced on Monday, by Judge Chester to three years' imprisonment at Jackson state prison and to pay the costs in the case which amount to $500.

As the Misses Mary Hindelang and Anna Leomer were driving to school in Chelsea last Tuesday, their horse became frightened and ran away, overturning the buggy. The girls were thrown out on the frozen ground but were not seriously injured.

Mell Gillespie, the banjo soloist at the Ann Arbor Music Co.'s concert here Wednesday evening of last week, stepped off the platform at the D., Y., A. A. & J. depot while the party were waiting for the car to take them home, and badly sprained his ankle.

The Ann Arbor police force is making a determined effort to do away with the noisy proceedings of the riotous students who imbibe too much and then make night hideous with their singing, yelling and cursing. Several have been gathered in and fined during the past two weeks.

Congressman Henry C. Smith has introduced a bill in congress to pay mail carrier William J. Miller, of Ann Arbor, $500 to reimburse him for salary and expenses caused by his illness from smallpox last summer. It is supposed Mr. Miller caught the infection while handling mail matter.

Jacob Eschebach died Saturday night at his home in Freedom, one mile east of Rogers' Corners, after five months' illness from gangrene, aged 71 years. The funeral services were held at Zion's church, Rogers' Corners, Tuesday morning, Rev. Carl Lemaster officiating. The remains were interred in the church cemetery.

FOR STUDY OF MEDICINE.

Something of the New Building in Course of Erection at Ann Arbor University.

ACTION OF REGENTS IS COMMENDED.

The Michigan Institution Has Long Been in Need of a New Home for Its Medical Department—Short Description of the Building—Other Notes of Interest.

(Special Correspondence.)

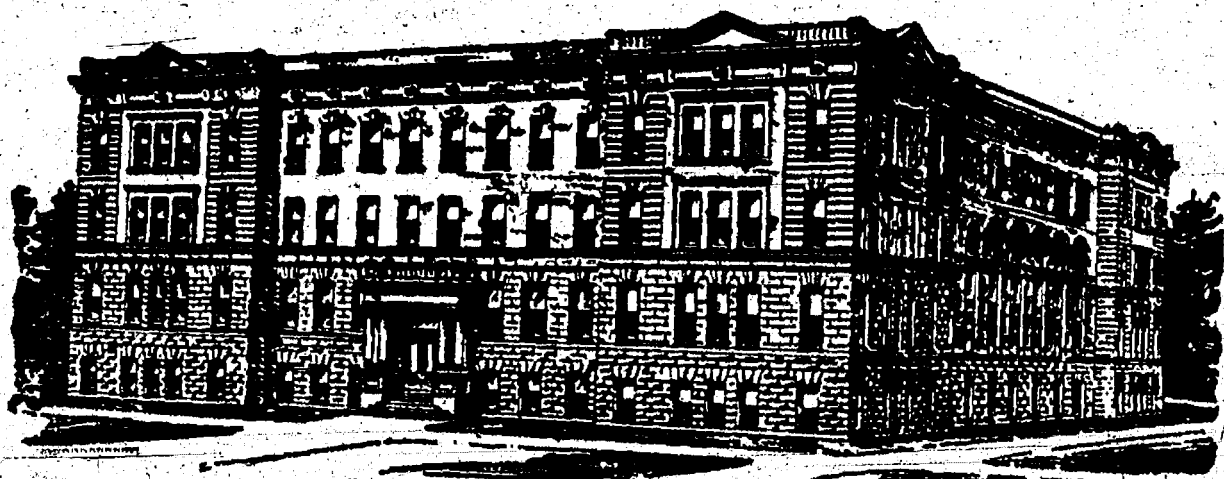

University of Michigan.—To me, an interested and perhaps biased observer, it would seem that no recent action of the board of regents has aroused so much interest and called forth such universal and withal favorable comment as their act of appropriating a sum of money sufficient for the erection and equipment of a modern laboratory building destined for the use of students of medicine.

The department of medicine and surgery of the university was pioneer in giving laboratory instruction to students. Laboratory instruction in chemistry was instituted in the early fifties; the histological and physiological laboratories were equipped in building, will extend through the first and second stories, the one accommodating 450, the other 250 students. This building will accommodate the departments of hygiene and bacteriology, physiological chemistry, pathology, anatomy including anatomy of the nervous system; histology and embryology; and will provide faculty room and offices for the dean and secretary of the department. In a general way it may be stated that the rooms allotted to each department in this building, will include one general laboratory for elementary work, which will accommodate from 40 to 60 students respectively, smaller rooms for heads of the departments, rooms for assistants, rooms for special work, rooms for advanced and research students, departmental libraries, storerooms and animal rooms and laboratories.

A suite of rooms, designed for microphotography, photography, developing and printing is placed in the basement, and will be used in common by the several departments.

Certain changes in the buildings now occupied by the medical department are contemplated. It is hoped to remodel the "Old Medical Building" to the extent that the departments of physiology and pharmacology will be suitably accommodated. Of the two lecture rooms now in this building, one will be renovated and used for instruction in chemistry, the other, primarily for instruction in physiology; while a third room, primarily for in-

THE NEW MEDICAL BUILDING.

1877; the following year an extended course in physiological chemistry was added to the curriculum, and at about the same time laboratory teaching in pathology was begun. A laboratory of hygiene and bacteriology was equipped in 1888, and laboratory work in these branches was demanded of the students of medicine. In 1891 a laboratory of clinical medicine was established, and the following year one for experimental pharmacology. Medicine is a growing science, as its history for the last two decades may well testify. In order to meet this growth and enable students of medicine to benefit by this development and progress, constant additions to medical curricula have been necessary, and this is especially true as regards the fundamental or "scientific branches" of the medical curriculum, those branches which all educators agree should be taught by the laboratory method. At present nearly half the time of residence of a student of medicine is spent in the various laboratories.

The science of medicine has unfortunately, in recent years, developed much more rapidly than have the buildings and equipment necessary for teaching the same. This is true not only of this medical school, but to a large extent also of our sister institutions. It would be of interest to note the "make-shifts" resorted to on the part of medical educators, to meet these increasing demands, to record the evolution and metamorphosis of buildings and rooms which have taken place in order to furnish space to carry on the necessary laboratory work. Necessity has often compelled the use of rooms which no flight of poetic fancy would call suitable for the purpose to which they were put, and yet, to the credit of many teachers be it said, good work has been done. Such environments have not only cramped instruction, but have materially retarded research.

This is, however, not the time to think of the past, but rather the moment for reflecting on the future; and here the outlook is hopeful. Gifts, and in some instances very generous gifts, have in recent years been made to a goodly number of medical schools, which will enable these schools adequately to meet their obligations. It is therefore gratifying to those especially interested in the welfare of the department of medicine and surgery of this university to see that the board of regents has recognized and appreciated the need of a modern medical school, and has given material expression of this appreciation by the appropriation of funds necessary for the erection of a laboratory building for the use of this department.

This sum, though modest when compared with the $500,000 and $1,000,000 gifts recently made to two American medical schools, will permit of the erection and equipment of a medical building.

The building is rectangular in shape, measuring 175 by 145 feet, the long sides facing north and south. An anterior court, measuring about 75 by 45 feet, admits light to all parts of the building. The structure will consist of a high basement and three stories.

Two amphitheaters, placed in the center of the southern portion of the struction and demonstration in pharmacology, will be added. A smaller building now in use for practical anatomy, will in all probability be remodeled for the use of the department of electrotherapeutics. During the coming summer the hospitals will be enlarged by the building of an addition to be known as the "Palmer ward," and by the erection of the psychopathic ward.

The corner stone of the new medical building was laid with appropriate ceremonies on October 15, 1901. It is hoped that the building will be inclosed by the latter part of May, and should nothing unforeseen intervene, it will be ready for occupancy by the opening of the coming session. It seems fitting that this department should be able to enter these new quarters at the threshold of its second semicentennial. May it develop and prosper and may its influence expand in the coming 50 years in a measure equal to that of the 2½ decades so recently completed. We delight in honoring the founders of this department. They built wisely and broadly. If those of the future shall cherish similar feelings toward us of the present, our work will not have been vain.

G. CARL HUBER.

SAVED BY BOY HERO.

Timely Warning Prevents the Flyer on the Pere Marquette Road from Being Ditched.

James Osborne, a ten-year-old lad of St. Joseph, saved the flyer on the Pere Marquette railroad. His brave act has made him a hero, and it has been reported to the company.

Young Osborne, with two small companions, was playing about the tracks and noticed that the switch was open. He knew it was time for the flyer to arrive. He stationed his companions at a nearby curve with instructions to stop the train in some manner, while he ran like a wild man to the station. He reached the depot exhausted and quickly told his errand.

The train was 12 minutes late. Had this not been the case fully 200 passengers would have been carried down an embankment. An employee of the road hurried to the switch, adjusted it, and a moment later the delayed train dashed by.

Reform Wave.

The reform wave that is sweeping through the upper peninsula has struck Negaunee. An enthusiastic meeting was held in the Methodist church to take steps to compel the saloons and candy stores to comply with the Sunday closing laws. A committee was appointed to wait on Mayor Connors. If he fails to see that the laws are obeyed, the matter will be taken to higher authorities and steps taken to have him ousted.

Hated to Lose Trade.

Health Officer Nelson found two children afflicted with smallpox in the rear of a little candy store kept by their mother, Mrs. C. Meyers, on the main street in Escanaba. One of the children has had the disease three weeks, but the case was kept from the authorities, as Mrs. Meyers said she hated to lose any trade. Several people have been exposed.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Divorce Record.

Secretary of State Warner has compiled divorce statistics as follows for the last calendar year, which are complete with the exception of Eaton county:

There were 139 divorces granted in 1901, 46 applications refused and 36 withdrawn. At the beginning of the year there were 237 bills for divorce pending, bills filed numbered 1,773 and bills pending at the close of the year, 1,481. During the previous year 2,435 divorces were granted, last year showing a slight decrease.

Mystery Unsolved.

Thus far all effort to solve the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Ada Klump, of Lowell, has failed. The verdict of the coroner's jury is as follows:

We find that Mrs. Ada Klump came to her death by strychnine poisoning, and that strychnine was sent her through the mail with murderous intent by some person at present unknown to the members of the jury, the envelope containing said strychnine being delivered to her by the hand of her husband.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 88 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week diarrhea increased and scarlet fever and measles decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 208 places; measles at 73; typhoid fever at 50; whooping cough at 16; diphtheria at 33; scarlet fever at 115 and smallpox at 140 places.

Exonerated.

The coroner's inquest on the death of Abner Case, the sole victim of the sanitarium fire of February 13 in Battle Creek, exonerated the sanitarium management from blame. It was shown that Case reached a place of safety, but went back after a grip containing $1,100. He was 83 years of age and lived in Bath, N. Y.

State Crop Report.

The crop report of the state weather bureau for February says: The opinion is nearly universal that wheat is in good condition; many correspondents say that the crop looks better than when winter began. The condition of horses, sheep and swine is 96, and of cattle 95. There are several diseases prevalent among live stock, but nothing alarming except in one or two instances.

Bodies Recovered.

The bodies of five of the ten victims of the Negaunee mine disaster have been recovered and they have been identified as William Williams, John Sullivan, John Pearce, John Pascoe and Louis Mattson. It may be some days before the other bodies in the drift are taken out.

Paroled.

Gov. Bliss has issued a parole for John O'Rourke, who had the good luck to have a pal in crime who was pardoned by Gov. Pingree. O'Rourke was convicted in Wayne county in 1890 of robbery and was sentenced to 2½ years' imprisonment at Jackson.

Not a Briefly Stated.

Charles D. Thompson, former supreme finance keeper of the Supreme Knights of the Maccoheas, who some time ago confessed to a shortage of $57,000, was arrested in Port Huron on a complaint sworn out by Sheriff Matthes and gave bail.

A lamp exploded at the home of Mrs. Marie Bankson in Ishpeming and her daughter, aged 38 years, was burned to death and mother and three sons were more or less seriously burned.

Gov. Bliss has appointed Eugene S. Bowen, of Mount Pleasant, county agent of the state board of corrections and charities for Isabella county.

Oxford will have a new bank as soon as a building can be erected for its accommodation.

A 100-barrel flour mill is to be built at Saline at once, the contract having been let to a Jackson firm.

A stock company with $7,000 capital has been formed at Climax to build a cannery factory in the village.

Eddie Burns, of Detroit, and "Kid" McPartland, of Brooklyn, N. Y., fought ten slow rounds to a draw before the Twentieth Century Athletic club in Detroit.

Mrs. Isaac N. Lybrick, aged 55 years, died on the farm near Berrien Springs her husband took from the government 65 years ago.

Herman Day, charged with horse stealing, was sentenced by Judge Perkins in Grand Rapids to the state prison at Marquette for a term of ten years.

After 20 years of prohibition Sparta has gone "wet."

The Detroit & Cleveland Navigation company has opened navigation between Detroit and Cleveland, two weeks earlier than last year.

A coffeyette company with a capital of $150,000 has been organized in Battle Creek to make a substitute for coffee.

Mrs. Sally Wells, aged 66 years, died at the home of her son, Cassius Wells, at High Banks, near Armada. Mrs. Wells was the first white woman in that neighborhood.

While sitting up with the corpse of O. M. Hansen at Menominee, B. J. Gjelsteen stole $20 from the widow. He was arrested and the money found in his pocket.

NORWEGIAN CABINET.

Richly Ornamental With Burnt Wood Designed and Colored to Suit Owner's Fancy.

Among the farmer-folk of Norway much of the time that they are forced to spend indoors during the long winter season is utilized in wood carving. They make a great variety of small boxes, drinking vessels and pails of white wood. These they decorate with the sharp point of a hot poker, making excellent designs of conventional character.

The hot point burns a line of rich brown in the white wood, making really beautiful objects of the utensils of every-day life.

Many drinking-bowls are painted in the strong primary colors; vermilion serves as the first background color, on which lines of green or blue accent the curves and rim of the vessel, and an inscription in which letters warns the partaker that "Both mead and beer make red cheeks, but I will advise you not to drink too much."

As the bowl is a two-quart basin in capacity this is undoubtedly good advice.

Our illustration presents a cabinet with decorations in pyrography and color. Pyrography is another word for burnt wood decoration.

During the festivals of Christmas-tide great bowls of beer are brewed, and many quaint-shaped drinking cups are set afloat in the beer for the guests to help themselves. The wooden boats with carved meads which are shown in the illustration are used for this purpose. They are decorated in color and form altogether unique ornaments. Some objects of table service in silver have handles and designs in repousse and antique pattern.

READING THE LIPS.

They Furnish an Index to One's Character Which Rarely Deceives Careful Observers.

The lower lip is the most important part of the mouth as an indicator of character. According to its fullness, freshness in appearance and width it indicates benevolence and liberality. A pale, shriveled and narrow lower lip reveals a decided want of these qualities.

Where are thick underlips which so hang that they become almost a disfigurement, and these, as well as looking ugly, denote indolence and a love of luxury. Taking the opposite extreme, however, it is not desirable to have pronounced thin lips, for when the outline of the lips is narrow, and united to a mouth with a sinister expression, there is indicated a great deficiency of natural kindness in their owner, a want of warmth and but little capacity to love. Well-defined and developed lips, the outlines of which are rounded out, are admired for their beauty and moral worth, being, as they are, tokens of a tender-hearted amiable and sympathetic disposition.

Well closed lips are a sign of discretion. If the upper one is long, in addition to being pressed down firmly upon the lower one, both mental and physical power appertain to their owner. When the upper lip is very short and the middle teeth of the top row are constantly exposed, a fondness for praise is betrayed.

Frequently another type of mouth is seen, one in which the corners of the lips descend, indicating a person of a despondent disposition, prone to dwell overmuch upon the serious side of life. But when the corners turn up in the form of a Cupid's bow, their possessor is of a bright and cheerful nature, always finding a silver lining to every cloud and good in everything. —N. Y. Weekly.

Soap for Washing Blankets.

Shave fine two pounds of good white soap and put into a saucepan with two quarts of boiling water. Keep on the fire until the soap is dissolved—stirring occasionally. Add four ounces of borax, stir well and the soap is ready for use. Never use brown soap when washing woolen goods. —Ladies' Home Journal.

ELABORATION THE RULE.

Negligee Attire Is No Longer Satisfied by the Simplicity of Bygone Days.

Elaboration is increasing in negligee attire—indeed, it is almost a rule now, to a satisfactory garment, long ago everything but a comparatively simple boudoir gown graded as more or less extravagant, according to its degree of complexity, but now it is possible to copy the costly ideas at comparatively small outlay, so highly worn robes and jackets are the rule. potent aid in much of this copying the beauty and abundance of fabrics made in imitation of silk, mercerizing processes have brought many handsome stuffs and practically all the lighter ones have been made available for house gowns, negligees and the like, and while not a few of these are worthy of really fine trimmings, there is no end of inexpensive garnitures that will set them nicely.

While garments composed in any way may and do reflect the new styles, it is better to study fashion in more costly materials. And it is easy, for in the model gowns, fine stuffs without end. In the China silk, foulards and soft velvets, especially for tencowns, alternate bands of silk and lace imitation compose many. Handmade gowns of all-over white and beige broidery are finished with rows of tiny satin-ribbon ruffles. Empire styles predominate, and nearly all made with short elbow sleeves, beautifully finished with lace ruffles and ribbon bows. Gowns of transparent cloths are applied with lace, medallions, appliqued here and there on the body of the gown being a frequent finish. Black velvet ribbon often is used as a finish. Figured lawn dimities and swisses are very prevalent and are as elaborately trimmed as any.

White tea gowns are stylish and are numerous in dainty laces and muselins, Valenciennes laces and medallions trim many of these. Some are made with Spanish flounces, tucked or trimmed with lace; others have plain gathered ruffles, headed with embroidered beading, with delicate colored ribbons run through. The handsome tea-gown pictured here was made with a Spanish flounce and white Persian lawn, white lace and white satin ribbon. Often the tea gown in empire style, more or less distinct, has handsome garniture in bolero effect. NURSED BY ELEPHANT.

huge nursemaid, and she is a very sensible creature. She is 50 years of age and weighs something like 6,000 pounds. The baby is Master Evan Healey, a bright 15-month-old youngster, who betrays not the least fear in the "hands" of his strange nurse. The methods adopted by the elephant when it wishes to give its precious charge a ride in its baby-carriage are certainly unique. Sometimes it pushes the perambulator along with its trunk with its end on the ground, as seen in the illustration; at others it will grasp the handle with the tip of its trunk, while occasionally it will push the carriage with one of its huge feet, guiding it at the same time with its trunk.

Covers for Flower Pots.

Straw canvas, such as is sold by the yard, makes excellent covers for flower pots. An especially fine quality is utilized for wrapping bouquets that are to be placed in jardiniere or wicker baskets.

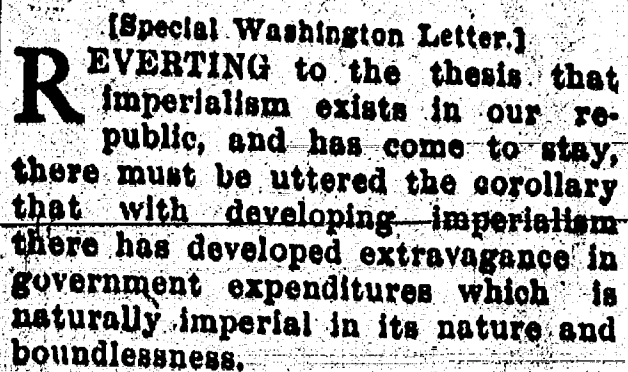

To Remove Rust Stains.

Lemon juice and salt will remove rust stains from linen without injury to the fabric. Wet the stains with the mixture and put the articles in the sun. Two and three applications may be necessary.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

Useless Employees Devour Big Percentage of Our Revenue.

A State of Affairs for Which No Political Party Is Responsible, But Which Should Be Abolished at Once.

One of the elements of extravagance long well known to experienced newspaper men has been the top-heaviness of the pay-rolls of the senate and house of representatives. The business of the congress might easily be transacted with one-half of the number of employees now on the pay roll. Competent men and women might also be obtained for smaller salaries; and each individual have a competence, with enough to "lay aside for a rainy day."

Only recently there came before the senate a resolution providing for the appointment of 20 additional clerks to the senate clerical force; and it would have been adopted but for the vigorous and determined opposition of Senator Allison, of Iowa, the chairman of the committee on appropriations. You must understand that each branch of the congress has a contingent fund, and out of that fund each house pays its employees regardless of what the other house may do. Neither the senate nor the house of representatives encroach upon the contingent fund of the other. Consequently, if the proposed resolution had been adopted, the contingent fund of the senate would have been increased and the additional clerks have been employed, while the general public would have known nothing of it whatever. Immediately thereafter, the house of representatives, looking after its own rights to the spoils of office, would have increased its contingent fund, and employed 20 additional clerks, although their work is not needed.

Now as to the effort to have 20 additional clerks appointed for the senate, there is one reason worthy of your attention. The senate pay roll has been increased from time to time, because the senators have so much required of them that they cannot attend to all of their duties without additional help. Instead of appealing direct to the people for additional help, the senators have anticipated that the people would object to direct additional expenditures; and so they have voted additional clerks, messengers and laborers for the senate. But those employes have not worked for the senate at all. They have worked for individual senators as stenographers and confidential clerks. Thus the senators have gained by indirection what they could not take directly, although they were entitled to additional help.

 The senators who opposed the recent attempt to add 20 clerks to the senate pay roll are in favor of going

Representatives receive $5,000 each per annum, and senators receive the same. Representatives are obliged to correspond with the people of their

Not many years ago the senate pay roll contained the name of a prominent newspaper correspondent, who was ostensibly employed in "the folding room," where he was reported, as folding all the way from 60,000 to 100,000 documents per month, at one dollar per 1,000. That meant that he was drawing from $60 to $100 per month from the contingent fund of the senate. It was known, however, that he never folded a single document, but simply drew the money on the cheques of the sergeant-at-arms of the senate.

At the same time there was a veteran newspaper man who has long been afflicted with granulated eyes, whose sight has been so affected that he could scarcely see to read the daily papers. He was on the pay roll as a blacksmith at $75 per month, and he drew the money, although, of course, he never did any work for it. Col. Sterrett, of Texas, was here at the time and he said: "I can understand how an energetic fellow like this husky correspondent could fold 100,000 documents by working day and night all during the hot months of July and August, but I cannot understand how this blind old rascal shod any horses for the money." That was a sarcastic characterization of the looting which was rampant and well known in the press galleries.

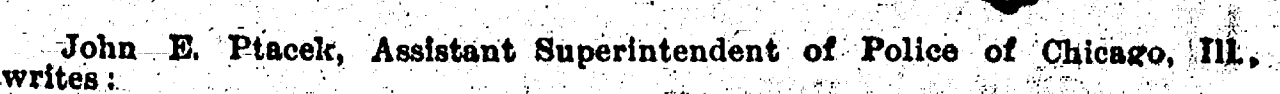

Now while senators need additional salaries and clerk hire there is extravagance beyond measure on the payroll of the house of representatives. Every member of the majority party must have one appointment, no matter whether the house needs the services of a man or not. Then the older members of the house manage to work in an extra policeman or two, in order to provide places for their working constituents and political backers. There are messengers, watchmen and assistant doorkeepers galore, whose services might well be dispensed with; but they are on the pay roll because of their political pulls, and there they will remain until something like a political earthquake strikes the republic. Up to date, it doesn't seem to make any difference which party is in the majority, the loot goes on.

Twenty years ago, when we were 50, 60, 70,000 people, it cost an aggregate of $100,000,000 for the yearly expenses of the government. Now, with 70,000,000 population, the expenses of government are ranging up towards the $1,000,000,000 point. It may be true, as the old song says, that "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm," but he is not rich enough to stand continual increases of expenditures out of proportion to the national growth. Nobody needs to be niggardly in order to be economical. The government does not be niggardly to avoid extravagance. But it is not necessary to pay an army of men in the civil service salaries of from $2,000 to $5,000 per annum for services of less value and importance than are performed by men in ordinary business pursuits for approximately half of that amount.

It will be known as "Dexter M. Ferry Athletic Field," and will make the largest athletic field in the United States outside of that owned at Harvard. It will take two years to put the grounds in proper shape. The gift includes a house that can be used for club purposes.

To Avoid a Total Loss. A Pittsburg man tells of a visit he made at a thrifty home in a nearby town. The call was quite a pleasant one and during the evening "Abe," the hopeful son of the family, was sent to the cellar for refreshments for the guests. He could be heard groping his way through the dark, and then came the noise of something falling and the crash of glass. "Abe's" mother was plainly uneasy, but she assumed the unnatural composure which her society duties demanded. Soon "Abe" came up with an armful of bottles.

"What was that noise we heard, Abe?" asked the mother.

"Nothing much," replied "Abe."

"I knocked over a bottle of milk and it rolled down the steps and spilled."

"Did you call the cat, 'Abe'?" asked the thrifty woman.—Pittsburg News.
