SECOND C. E. BANQUET.

Bright, Sparkling Toasts, Good Music and a Merry Time.

The second annual Easter banquet of the C. E. society of the Congregational church was held at the church parlors last evening. Over 125 people sat down to the tastefully decorated tables laden with good things and did the justice to them that good appetites always produce. Both the dining room and the C. E. room in which the literary part of the banquet took place were tastefully decorated in red and white, the society colors, and upholstered chairs, settees, etc., made the C. E. room very comfortable.

The program embraced toasts and responses as follows: "The home society," F. C. Mapes; "Men are only boys grown tall," Miss Sattle Spear; "Endeavor loyalty," L. T. Friseman; "O. E. secrets," Miss Mabel Bacon; "Coming conquerors," Ralph H. Holmes; also a vocal solo by Thos. Hughes, piano solos by Miss Nellie Lowry and Mrs. H. W. Schmidt, and a piano duet by Misses Helene Steinbach and Mabel Bacon.

Rev. C. S. Jones made a most capable toastmaster and all the responses to toasts were bright and well given. These interspersed with the excellent music made the hours fly quickly past and the second C. E. banquet an even greater success than the initial one last year.

Had a Good Meeting.

The Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club met with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Everett March 20. The day was fine and there was a large attendance. The conversational powers of all the members seemed to be at their best, and when dinner was announced all were ready to do justice to the good things placed before them. The program which opened at 2:30 p. m. was a good one. The paper, "Will a youth be more likely to succeed if he chooses his own career without parental influence?" by Rev. F. A. Stiles was a very commendable article. A duet by Mrs. Stiles and Miss Everett was so well sung they had to respond to an encore. Mrs. Chase opened the discussion on "Is it better to buy cheap material and often, or expensive material and make over?" She was followed by others who expressed their opinion on the subject. Much interest is manifested at every meeting and all enjoy a good social time as well as the interesting program. The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. John F. Waltrous April 17.

THE WEEK'S NEWS

Happenings of the Past Seven Days in Brief.

ROUND ABOUT THE WORLD

Casualties and Fires, Personal and Political Notes, Business Failures and Resurrections, Weather Record.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS

CONGRESSIONAL.

Most of the session of the senate on the 19th was occupied in considering the bill providing for the protection of the president of the United States. Senator Bacon introduced a bill for the deportation and exclusion of alien anarchists. In the house fair progress was made with the river and harbor bill, and after the close of general debate 27 of the 118 pages of the bill were disposed of. A bill was introduced providing for a 20 per cent. reciprocity agreement with Cuba.

The bill providing for protection of the president occupied the time of the senate on the 20th. The report of the finance committee on the bill repealing the war revenue act was presented. In the house bills were introduced to provide a safer and easier method of sending money by mail and to increase the postal revenues, and to levy a tax of ten cents a pound on renovated butter. The military appropriation bill ($90,000,000) was reported, and the river and harbor bill was further considered.

In the senate on the 21st passage of the bill to protect the president by a vote of 22 to 15, and of the war revenue repeal bill, without division, occupied practically all of the session. In the house the river and harbor bill was passed and a bill was introduced authorizing the postmaster general to make contract for pneumatic tube mail delivery in cities. The naval committee adopted a resolution indefinitely postponing further consideration of the Schley bills and resolutions.

There was no session of the senate on the 22d. The house devoted the entire day to consideration of the contest of J. McKenzle-Moss (rep.) for the seat now occupied by Mr. Rhea, of Kentucky, but no action was taken. The committee on elections has reported adversely to Rhea.

DOMESTIC.

A VERY STRONG LETTER.

La Farge, Wis. Wm. T. Payne, of this place, has written a rather startling letter to the papers. He says: "I was in great pain across my back for four weeks, and was taking medicine from a doctor all the time, but it did not do me any good."

"I bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and had not taken more than four or five doses before I noticed that they were doing me good."

"They helped me right along, and I kept on using them till I had used four boxes, when the pain left me altogether. One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills has done me more good than five dollars' worth of doctor's medicine."

"This remedy has certainly worked wonders in my case, and I feel it my duty to give it the credit due."

STUDENTS' PUBLICATIONS

Supposed to Reflect Literary Development and Practical Benefit Derived at University.

THE GRADUATES ARE THE CONTRIBUTORS

Knowledge Acquired That Has Been of Practical Value to Men in Business Life—Also Makes the Alumni Better Acquainted—The Michigan Alumnus.

[Special Correspondence.] University of Michigan.—Student publications have been said to reflect the literary development of a university; the practical benefit derived from the various courses and the market value of college training; but this is not altogether true, and the reason may be readily gleaned when one stops to count the writers at college who never contribute a line to any publication of the institution.

The converse statement of these apparent facts, however, seems to be more indicative of the truth. A publication designed for and contributed to by the graduates of an institution, such as the alumnus at the University of Michigan, shows the acquired knowledge that has been of practical value to men who have entered business life. It is to such magazines that we are to look for unbiased statement concerning all the questions which arise in the effort to bring about an equilibrium between the college and the business man. It is a mirror reflecting the past and present of the alumni to its readers and the pictures are generally more helpful than one might imagine them to be at first thought.

Better Acquainted.
The alumnus this year has been the means of making Michigan alumni better acquainted with each other, the old with the new and the new with the old. "How often do both faculty and students of a generation fail to gain the inspiration justly theirs, by reason of their lack of knowledge of the sacrifices and the triumphs of those who have gone before them?" This is also true of the earlier alumni, who lack the knowledge that their successors are working as hard as they and are enjoying life as much. A knowledge of the growth and triumph of their alma mater must needs create within the hearts of all her sons that intangible and powerful emotion called college spirit, and to broaden this knowledge of what Michigan has done and is doing has been the aim and purpose of the alumnus this year.

Prominent Men Contribute.
Shirley W. Smith, a former instructor of the university, and editor of the Alumnus this year, has been the means of bringing that magazine into a prominence that it has never before occupied. He has obtained articles from men for which the best publications in the country would have paid big prices. To evidence this fact any number would serve, but the March number, which is just out of press, is an excellent specimen of what the Alumnus has been doing the current year. In this number appeared articles by Judge William Rufus Day and Prof. Henry Wade Rogers, both writing on "What Influence in College Life has been of Most Force in My Later Life." It is striking enough that both these eminent men voice the same sentiments, and the following quotation from the article of the latter serves to show the general trend of their ideas:

"The good which a university exerts is not simply that which a student derives from the mental growth, which comes through the exercises of his intellectual faculties. All that is valuable and essential. But in the last analysis the value of the university depends upon the character of the men it graduates."

General Character.
The following will be the general character of the remaining numbers of the Alumnus:

The May number of the Michigan Alumnus, the graduates' magazine of the University of Michigan, will be largely devoted to the alumni who have made a success in various fields of four years of authorship. Among those who will contribute to a symposium entitled "The Work I Should Emphasize If I Had My College Course to Take Over" are Charles Greenhouse, and Charles F. Thompson, '89 L., both journalists of Washington, D. C.; Winthrop Chamberlain, '88, managing editor of the Minneapolis Journal; E. J. Ottaway, '91, of the Port Huron Herald; Stewart E. White, '85, author of "The Westerners"; Harry Coleman, '88 '95, of the Pontiac Post; Karl Edwin Harrison, '94 '96, author and journalist, of Detroit, will discuss the work of Michigan men who have done something worth while in fiction. A critical review of current student journalism at Michigan will be contributed by Willis Abbott, '84 L., journalist, of New York; Walter B. Stevens, '70, for many years Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; and at present secretary of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, writes on the subject, "Getting a Start as a Reporter." The month's series of letters on "What Influence in College Life Has Proved Strongest in After Life" is written by Joseph B. Davis, '68, professor of surveying in the university; Angie Clara Chapin, '78, professor of Greek at Wellesley; Charles S. Brumback, '78 L., of the Congress bar; John J. Lents, '82, member of congress from Ohio; and Dr. W. C. Brazier, '83, surgeon in the navy of the United States. The department of news will receive careful attention and the number will be fully illustrated and indexed.

A teachers' number of the Michigan Alumnus, the graduates' magazine of the University of Michigan, will be published in June. It will contain among other things a discussion of the rank of teaching as a profession, by Duane Doty, '64. Mr. Doty has been a soldier, an editor of the Detroit Free Press, superintendent of schools at Detroit and Chicago, and has been many years the civil engineer of the Pullman company. Eureka Hoyle, '96, who is now in the Philippines as a teacher, contributes an interesting paper entitled "A Schoolmaster in the Philippines." "Are Teachers Underpaid?" will be discussed by a successful business man, who was for many years also a successful teacher in the university and in schools of lower grade. He is John J. Maple, '73, professor of English literature in California university. Flora M. Barbour, '78, professor of English in the Michigan state normal school, and Henry M. Orr, '80, the present attorney general of Michigan. The number will be fully illustrated and will be complete in the department of news.

Commencement Annual.
The concluding number of Volume 8 of the Michigan Alumnus, the graduates' magazine of the University of Michigan, will be published in July, and will deal most exclusively with the affairs of commencement week. Portraits of prominent members of the graduating class, reports of addresses and full details of all the happenings of commencement will be presented.

MICHIGAN MANUFACTURES.

United States Census Bulletin Shows a Gratifying Increase in Many Industries in the State.

The bulletins of the twelfth census, just issued, containing the manufacturing statistics for Michigan, give most interesting information and show a most gratifying increase in the industrial conditions of the state during the last ten years.

The reports show a capital of $284,097,133 invested in manufactures and mechanical industries in the 16,807 establishments reporting for the state of Michigan. This sum represents the value of land, buildings, machinery, tools and implements, and the live capital utilized, but does not include the capital stock of any of the manufacturing corporations of the state. The value of the products is returned at $350,944,082, to produce which involved an outlay of $12,562,855 for salaries of officials, clerks, etc.; $66,467,867 for wages; $25,495,423 for miscellaneous expenses, including rents, taxes, etc., and $199,559,905 for materials used, mill supplies, freight and fuel.

TIES FOR MEXICO.

Pittsburg & Lake Superior Iron Company Filling Orders for Some Extensive Purchases.

Twenty Mexican Central box cars loaded with ties were standing on a side track at L'Anse, where they were loaded, awaiting shipment to the southern republic. The ties number 10,000 and are part of a purchase made from the Pittsburg & Lake Superior Iron company. Only the largest and best ties have been accepted by the railroad's representative. Other Mexican Central cars were being loaded at other points in the peninsula by the iron company, which this winter has gone into the cedar business on a large scale, having employed from 600 to 800 men in the woods steadily.

In Postal Service 21 Years.

Assistant Postmaster F. B. Orcutt has been in the government postal service in Kalamazoo 21 years. He began as a clerk, leaving Kalamazoo college in the middle of his sophomore year to accept a place under the late Postmaster L. B. Kendall. In 1890 the late James Monroe made him his assistant and he has been continuously in the place since then. The postmasters have been of both political parties, but his standing has been equally good with both.

Brotherhood of St. Paul.

At the state council in Flint of the Brotherhood of St. Paul it was shown that the brotherhood was in excellent financial condition, with a total membership of 1,000 in the state, representing 28 chapters. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Rev. E. S. Nide, Ann Arbor; general secretary, T. C. Boughton, Kalamazoo; secretary, George W. Field, Jackson; treasurer, Harry F. Going, Pontiac.

Four Generations Baptized.

An unusual thing has occurred in Corunna. Mrs. Albert Stickney, aged 103 years, and her daughter, Mrs. Stone, aged 70 years, who resides at home, and daughter, Mrs. Fulkerts, and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Fox, and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Fox, were baptized in the Methodist church by Rev. J. H. Thomas. The mother and grandmother is a hale and hearty old lady despite her years.

Bad Luck with Mills.

The barn and sawmill belonging to Ed Gilliam, of Millville, have been burned with all their contents. The loss is over $2,000. This is the third time Gilliam has lost a mill by fire, and he has also lost one by an explosion. The origin of the fire is not known. There was a $1,000 traction engine in the mill. There was no insurance.

Fashions Favor Tall and Slender

Clinging Skirts Will Have Another Run During the Spring and Summer.

FAT girls have been overlooked by Dame Fashion in her preparations for the spring and summer seasons, but this has been true for so many seasons that they have almost ceased to wonder and worry at the neglect. It is tall, slender femininity that is in favor, and for them all styles are prepared.

The hopes of the fleshy rose high for a time, as there came from Paris rumors of a revival of gathered skirts and panniers, even though it was but a modified form of these that were said to be coming. Had the prophecies been fulfilled it would have been the fleshy woman's season, but, alas, they have not been, and instead there is the same clinging effect in skirts in which the slender have glorified for several seasons in the past.

But all is not yet lost, for while it is the tall, slender woman who has been treated best by the fashion designers, it does not necessarily mean that it is the angular woman. In fact, it is the softly rounded form that serves as a model over which to construct the fashionable garments of the coming seasons, and with the assistance of the corset maker even those inclined to stoutness may hope matter. The modern corsetiere is a veritable genius, and it is thanks to her alone that we are to-day permitted to portray the charming silhouette we do, affecting at the same time that supreme simplicity than which nothing is more difficult to attain, or, attained, is so indicative of perfect style and taste.

In looking over the spring and summer models so plentifully displayed one cannot help but notice the predominance of the blouse. There is probably greater variety of style and elaboration offered for the warm months of this year than there was for those of last, but it will be a hard matter to make the blouse more popular than it was then. But that the blouse will be equally popular for practically all occasions as it was then cannot be doubted.

I have selected three of the most charming models for purposes of illustration. One is a combination of tucked mauve glace silk and embroidered lawn with a vest of chiffon. Another is of tucked cream orient satin and tinted Irish lace, and the third is of pink crepe de chine applied with ficelle guipure, and carrying a quaintly shaped collar, together with pointed cuffs and belt of old rose panne.

Sleeves show an infinite variety.

THREE MODELS OF SPRING BLOUSES.

for a measure of success in securing desired effects in form and figure to suit the approved styles.

I proclaim without fear of contradiction that one of the first cults of the day pertains to corsets. Given that two or three women are gathered together in friendly convalescence, the chances are certain that the conversation sooner or later will drift into a discussion on the merits or demerits, as the case may be, of some particular corsetiere. Respecting corsets, I observe a growing predilection for a soft fitted band over the hips, the which is held in place by suspenders. Now the advantage of this will be obvious to those who have studied this absorbing corset subject. For the benefit of the ignorant, however, I may explain that the side band serves to lessen the strain downwards in front, otherwise rendered necessary when the corsets are cut off quite short over the hips.

It is a deplorable fact that only experience teaches, and in this instance it is a lesson learnt at some considerable cost. For there is no doubt the shapeless hipless figures owe everything to a skillful short cut over the hips. Prior to the advent of the pliable hip piece, it was a shapeliness achieved, as I said before, at a cost occasioned by a severe front strain, rendered imperative by the absence of any hold over the hips.

I hope sincerely all this is not deplorably dull and technical. But the woman of normal, general interest is so much at the mercy of any corsetiere that comes along, I felt emboldened to proffer a little advice born of an interested study in the

WAS UP A TREE.

A Copper Country Trapper Spends a Night Fighting Howling Wolves and Traps Two.

The Youngs, a copper country trapper who this winter has killed many wolves and wildcats, was in Houghton and reported having had an exciting experience one night recently. He was returning to camp at nightfall and was followed by a pack of wolves.

There were so many of the animals that Youngs considered it discretion, although armed, to take to a tree. He found refuge on a limb and was soon besieged. At times the trapper would fire into the pack, which he could but dimly see, and all night, with the temperature below zero, he clung to his perch.

At daybreak the wolves disappeared, leaving behind them two dead and blood in the snow, which indicated that others had been wounded. Youngs done well this winter, receiving from the state and seven dollars for the county for every wolf killed.

QUEER ACCIDENT.

A Man in a Hypnotic Sleep Falls Ten Feet at Howard City and Is Uninjured.

A practical demonstration of hypnotism has been witnessed at Howard City. Prof. Hemstreet put a young man to sleep in a department store at noon and he lay there all the afternoon. At eight o'clock in the evening a crowd assembled in front of the store to see the sleeper taken to the hall for the performance.

Just as they carried the young man out the sidewalk gave way and dropped about 100 people, including the young man, into the basement, ten feet below. No person was seriously injured, but a number were more or less bruised.

The sleeper was picked up, still sound asleep, and was taken to the hall, where Prof. Hemstreet awakened him. He was unhurt and took part in the performance as usual.

RURAL DELIVERY.

Free Mail Service Will Be Established in Several Michigan Towns on April 1 Next.

Rural free delivery service has been ordered established in Michigan to commence April 1 as follows:

At Pentwater, Oceana county; length of routes, 6 1/2 miles; population served, 1,687; number of houses on route, 376; carriers, Egbert N. Briggs and Judson J. Scott. Post offices at Wears and Smith's Corners, Oceana county, Bass Lake and Squireville, Mason county, to be discontinued. Star routes 3762 and 3745 to be discontinued. Crystal Valley post office to be supplied by rural carrier, mail to Pentwater. At Clayton, Lenawee county; length of routes, 60 miles; population served, 1,610; number of houses on route, 368; carriers, Perry W. Bates and Albert E. Terwilliger. Post offices at Fairport and Onedia to be discontinued. Star routes 3707 and 3712 to be discontinued. Mail to Clayton. At Clinton, Lenawee county; length of route, 2 1/2 miles; population served, 671; number of houses on route, 127; carrier, Charles S. Eddy.

LOSES AN ESTATE.

Sportsman Who Spent $41 a Day for Two Years Gives His Daughter Deed for What Is Left.

Fuller McClellan, one of the richest property owners in Berrien county, through his representative, Charles W. Francis, of Chicago, has filed a trust deed to his property in the county, now valued at only $18,000. The property is placed in trust for his daughter Elizabeth and will go to her when she becomes 21 years of age, which will be May 21, 1921. McClellan is well known in sporting circles of the south and west. Two years ago he inherited a fortune of $300,000. McClellan for the past year has been a resident of Chicago, and from the face value of the deed filed he has spent an average of $41 per day during his career of two years.

Congregation Falls.

The Finnish and Swedish Cooperative association at Crystal Falls has failed after an existence of a little more than a year. It has been transacting a general grocery and meat business. The closing of the doors was the result of an attachment issued on behalf of local creditors, though the stock and accounts are in excess of the liabilities. There are 81 holders of stock in the concern, and an attempt is being made to put the association on its feet again.

Sugar Factory.

The Mount Pleasant Sugar company has made a contract with the National Construction company of Detroit to erect a 600-ton beet sugar factory in Mount Pleasant and have it in readiness for the season of 1903. The county in general is jubilant over the announcement that there is really to be a factory in the place.

Will Have to Swear.

The state oil inspector and his deputies have never been required to swear to the accuracy of their expense accounts as other state officials have. A new blank upon which to make out their claims is being prepared, and hereafter the expense accounts will be sworn to.

A Medicine for Old People.

Rev. Geo. Gay, Greenwich, Kaa, is past 83 years of age, yet he says: "I am enjoying excellent health for a man of my age, due entirely to the rejuvenating influences of Dr. Miles' Nervine. It brings sleep and rest when nothing else will, and gives strength and vitality even to one of my old age."

"I am an old soldier," writes Mr. Geo. Watson, of Newton, Ia., "and I have been a great sufferer from nervousness, vertigo and spinal trouble. Have spent considerable money for medicine and doctors, but with little benefit. I was at bed, my mind above and nerves at weakness. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I know it saved my life."

Dr. Miles' Nervine

Saved me from the insane asylum, Mrs. A. M. Heifner, of Jerice Springs, Mo., writes. "I was so nervous that I could scarcely control myself, could not sleep nor eat, would even forget the names of my own children at times. I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it helped me from the first, and now I am perfectly well."

GRANDMOTHER'S EASTER HYMN.

By Mrs. Emily Sanders

VERY year she softly sang it, bending above the lilies there.

With the sunlight dancing, glancing, resting on her silvery hair;
And her voice still sweet, though quav'ring,
mingling with the bells' older chiming,
Is a memory most precious, of our earliest Easter time!

"Jesus Christ is risen to-day,
Alleluia!
Our triumphant holy day,
Alleluia!
Who did once upon the Cross,
Alleluia!
Suffer to redeem our loss,
Alleluia!"

And at church one Easter morning, I remember how she sang,
In her new so feebly sitting, loudly the responses rang!
Hymn-book grasped by trembling fingers,
dim blue eyes upraised in prayer,
Every word so long and pondering, rounded out with tender care!

"Hymns of praise then let us sing,
Alleluia!
Unto Christ our Heavenly King,
Alleluia!
Who endured the Cross and Grave,
Alleluia!
Sinners to redeem and save,
Alleluia!"

How we children loved to listen, while she sang for us alone,
Sitting in the Easter twilight, even when far older grown!
She would speak of Christ's great sufferings,
death, and resurrection too,
Ending with these Easter hymn-words,
all so wonderful and true:
"But the pain which He endured,
Alleluia!
Our salvation hath procured,
Alleluia!
Now above the sky He's King,
Alleluia!
Where the angels ever sing,
Alleluia!"

Long she's sung with myriad angels,
round the shining throne above,
Seeing too the risen Saviour, whom she ever knew to love!
And perhaps this hymn inspiring, she so treasured here below,
Is repeated in remembrance of their dear Lord's earthly woe:
"Jesus Christ is risen to-day,
Alleluia!
Our triumphant holy day,
Alleluia!
Who did once upon the Cross,
Alleluia!
Suffer to redeem our loss,
Alleluia!"

THE MESSAGE OF THE LILIES

By T. McRoss.

"HY, yes, Miss Barr, of course we must have the church decorated Easter; we always do. Miss Perkins, the minister's wife that was here before you came, was a master hand to fix up the church. I'd be proper glad to let you have some of my plants, only I know just how they'd look when they'd come home; every body'd be a-helpin' themselves to slips an' pickin' off the flowers. You can have that wanderin'-jew, though; it wandered off'n the shelf onto the floor, an' broke it up some. Sister Wilder'll prob'ly let you have hers if you'll go an' git 'em an' bring 'em home ag'in. They're all covered with red spiders an' all manner of creepies, so it won't hurt 'em to go most anywhere."

Mrs. Barr could not restrain a smile as she said: "I have heard that Miss Prescott had a great many handsome plants; perhaps—"

"Land of freedom!" interrupted Mrs. Saunders. "You don't think of askin' her for any, do you?"

"Why not?"

"Why not?" scornfully; "because she never gives nor does anything for anybody but herself, an' hasn't for more'n fifteen years!"

"Did anything happen—"

"Yes, I suppose there did," Mrs. Saunders again interrupted. "Olivia Prescott wa'n't more'n seventeen or so when she an' Philip Eustis was keepin' company, in spite of the Squire who did his best to stop it. 'Liv's mother was dead, an' the Squire brought his girl up awful strict; wouldn't listen to an engagement between such children, as he called 'em. But the trouble all come over religion; beats all how folks will quarrel over religion!"

"Over beliefs," Mrs. Barr quickly corrected her. "It is difference of belief that often kindles quarrels which true religion must heal."

"Religion never healed that one. You see, Phil was strong Episcopal, an' Squire Prescott was just the unitest kind of a Unitarian, an' I s'pose there is some difference between the two. Well, just this same day, the Saturday before Easter, Phil went to get 'Liv's to help decorate the church, 'cause sometimes she used to go with him to the Episcopal. He an' the Squire got to arguin', just as they always did when they met, an' got to quarrelin', just as they always did when they argued. Somehow 'Liv's got drawn into the jangle, an' at last the Squire brought his fist down an' says: 'Olivia Prescott, don't you ever dare set foot inside that Episcopal church ag'in; if you do I'll—' but he never finished, for 'Liv's spoke up: 'You needn't be afraid that I will go into that or any other church again as long as I live! If religion can breed such angry words and hard feelings I don't want it! As for you, Philip Eustis, before I speak to you again you will have time to get that temper of yours under better control!"

"By the time she was through talking both men had cooled off some and tried to make her take back what she had said; but 'twasn't in her to take back, any more'n 'twas in the Squire. She's never been to church since and she an' Phil never made up."

"What has become of Philip Eustis?"

"He went off out west somewhere. The old Squire died a few years ago, an' late years 'Liv's doesn't go hardly anywheres."

"At any rate, I think I shall call upon her," decided Mrs. Barr, as she at last rose to go.

"You won't get any further than her doorstep if you try," answered Mrs. Saunders, laughing indulgently.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, sure. When you ring, 'Liv'll come to the door; she won't ask you in, but just stand there and freeze you with her cold looks until you'll be glad to go home."

"Mrs. Saunders was not far wrong," Mrs. Barr thought, as she was confronted by Olivia, standing tall and straight in the doorway, a look of inquiry upon her cold, handsome face.

"I am Mrs. Barr, the minister's wife," she introduced herself, with an embarrassed smile. "May I come in and talk to you a few moments?"

In silence Olivia led the way to the sitting-room. It was a chilly April day, but the wood fire blazing upon the hearth made the room warm and cheerful. Soft carpets, rich hangings, well-filled book-cases and a table piled high with the latest books and periodicals spoke of the occupant's luxurious tastes.

Olivia made no effort to break the silence, and at last Mrs. Barr said:

"Ever since I came here I have been hoping to meet you, Miss—"

"I am not a member of any church; it has been many years since I was in a church, and I never intend to go again."

She spoke decidedly, but without anger, and Mrs. Barr looked perplexed.

"I am sorry, not alone for ourselves, though with your abilities you might do a great deal for us, but I am sorry for you, too, because you are losing the happiness that comes from doing and giving."

Olivia gave no sign of interest, and Mrs. Barr did not have the courage to pursue such a one-sided conversation. She looked toward the large bay window filled with blooming plants; conspicuous among them was a tier of Easter lilies, a mass of snowy, fragrant bloom.

"Consider the lilies," quoted Mrs. Barr, reverently. "Do you consider them?"

"I have taken all the care of them since I put the bulbs into the soil, so

On her way she passed a little cottage; at the window was a crippled boy, caressing the leaves of a sickly flowerless geranium.

"Consider the lilies; consider the lilies." The words rang in her ears, whistled through the leafless branches and vibrated in the air.

She filled her hands with twigs of budding willows, partridge-vine and princess pine, and hurried nervously home. When she opened the door the lily-scented air rushed upon her with sickening force; she sank into a chair, and looked at the lilies long and steadily until the beautiful waken bells changed to reproachful faces. Old memories crowded upon her—of that quarrel years ago; of Philip Eustis, her father and old schoolmates. Somehow she felt that she had not done altogether well. The past years seemed so barren and useless; the future loomed before her dreary and desolate.

She went upstairs, shut the door to keep out the scent of the lilies, and again tried to read, but the lilies kept telling their story. She threw down her book and sprang angrily to her feet.

"Consider the lilies! Consider the lilies!" she cried. "It seems to me I am considering them whether I want to or not! I'll try repeating the words a hundred times; they say that is the way to lay such haunts!"

Back and forth she walked, repeating the words over and over; but the charm failed. The perfume of the lilies stole into her room, and their message surged through her brain as she lay awake through the long night. She rose in the morning unrefreshed by sleep, but with mind at rest. After breakfast she said to Jane Simmons her old housekeeper "Jane, can you harness Prince into the open wagon?"

"Why, yes, of course I kin; but what are you going to do with him on a Sunday?" asked Jane, with the familiarity born of 20 years' faithful service.

"You'll see," was the smiling answer. The smile was as rare as the flushed face and elated manner. Jane stared a few moments, then went reluctantly to the stable.

"Now help me put these lilies into the wagon," was Olivia's next command. The lilies were followed by palms, ferns and flowering plants until the wagon was full; then Olivia drove away, and Jane gazed after her, muttering:

"She's either gone clear out of her senses, or else," Jane paused, "she's come into them; now, which is it?"

There was more astonishment than reverence in the faces of the congregation assembled in the old meeting-house that Easter morning. Olivia sitting in the Prescott pew! Olivia's lilies perfuming the air, her flowers making the dingy room beautiful! What could have worked the miracle?

Olivia was outwardly calm and attentive; in reality she was thinking of the little cripple who had that morning

"I have never before had so many nor so fine lilies. I want to give them to you." The hardness and coldness had left her face; instead there shone a warmth of tenderness and glow of kindness.

"You see I have 'Considered the lilies,'" she said, as she handed a pot of them to Mrs. Barr.

"Seems as if you an' the lilies must be related," 'Liv' you look so much alike," said old Mrs. Prince, as she looked first at Olivia and then at the lilies.

A flash of color swept over Olivia's face, leaving it deadly pale. Philip Eustis had once told her that she was like the pale, slender lilies, and that he loved them for the likeness!

Reaction from her excited feelings was fast taking place, fatigue and depression of spirits settled upon her. With a weary smile she said good-by. As she stepped into the church vestibule a man came forward to greet her. "Olivia!" he said, and held out his hand.

Pale, trembling, bewildered, she put her hand in his and looked into his face.

"Philip!"

"Olivia, I came back here just to get a glimpse of you; I didn't expect that you would care to see me after all this time; but something in your face this morning, while I watched you giving away your lilies, gave me courage to wait and speak to you."

"You did right," she said, as they turned together and walked slowly down the path from the church.

"I have come to ask your forgiveness."

"My forgiveness, Phil!" she exclaimed; and the old name sounded good from her lips. "It is I who should ask yours, for it was I who did the wrong, not you. I had shut you out; I had determined to forget you, and I had almost succeeded. And all these days my heart has been hardened against the good. I have been selfish, so selfish. But it is over now; the flowers, Phil, my Easter lilies, they made me see and understand. I have asked God to forgive me, too?"

He smiled at her without answering, but she understood.

"We must both forgive," she said.

"And with your forgiving you must also give."

She looked up.

"Will you give me—yourself?" he questioned.

There was a glow in her eyes as she put out her hand to touch his sleeve.

"Yes, Phil," she said, quietly, "though I don't deserve it. I should have been punished more. Instead, I am made happy."

They drove home together in the wagon, and Olivia laughed over it.

"See," she said, suddenly, as they passed a small house at the end of the village, "it is the little cripple to whom I took some flowers!"

The boy in the window waved his hand and laughed to them, and the blossoms by his side seemed to nod, too.

"They have done so much good—the lilies," said Olivia, looking up into her companion's face. "We must have them every year, Phil, you and I."—Woman's Home Companion.

ON EASTER MONDAY.

Egg-Rolling on the White House Lawn—A Festival for the Youngsters.

For one day in the year—Easter Monday—the president's back yard is open to all the boys and girls of Washington for a sort of all-day picnic. In some parts of the country Easter Monday would be rather early for an outdoor frolic, but down along the Potomac river the grass is usually green by Easter time, and the sun shines down with a bright glow so that the air is warm and balmy.

Preparations for the egg-rolling are usually made in Washington homes on the Saturday preceding Easter, and before the sun is very high on Easter Monday groups of boys and girls are seen on their way to the white house carrying baskets of lunch and supplies of decorated eggs. All day long they play games on the velvet lawns and romp up and down the hills, skip ropes and sail boats in the fountains.

The colored eggs take a prominent part in the games. The "littlest" folks roll their eggs down the hillocks, the larger boys and girls "pick." Two boys or girls strike the ends of their eggs together and the one who first cracks the other's egg wins it.

When the sun goes down in the afternoon a tired but happy crowd of boys and girls troop through the gates homeward, while the white house grounds are a sight—eggs and eggshells are everywhere, orange peel, peanut hulls, the remnants of cake and bread, fruit and paper bags litter the beautiful grounds. Whenever there are any children in the president's family they, too, come out with baskets of colored eggs and join in the fun.

A good many years ago the egg-rolling at Easter was a common custom throughout the city of Washington, grown-up people all joining in games of rolling eggs down every hill in the neighborhood, but for several years past the custom has been confined to boys and girls on the white house lawn.—Adapted from the Epworth Herald.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

Law Is Unconstitutional.

In an opinion the state supreme court declares unconstitutional an act of the last legislature giving each of three state officers who constitute the board of state auditors an annual salary of $1,800 in addition to the salary provided by the constitution. This additional salary was designed to compensate them for the performance of the duties imposed by the legislature and not contemplated by the constitution.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 70 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week consumption, measles and diphtheria increased and typhoid fever and remittent fever decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 207 places, measles at 71, typhoid fever at 48, whooping cough at 17, diphtheria at 27, scarlet fever at 100 and smallpox at 145 places.

Crime of a Farmer.

Myron Seymour, a well-known farmer of Stephenson, drove to the home of his cousin, John Seymour, in the same town, entered the house, and without a word of warning shot Mr. Seymour, who was playing with his children. The bullet entered the woman's right cheek, and her recovery is reported to be doubtful. No motive is known for the act.

Wins His Suit.

In the United States court at Grand Rapids R. C. Luce was given judgment against the Phoenix Insurance company for $3,902. Luce's block collapsed last summer while undergoing repairs and the company refused to pay the policy on the ground that the collapse caused the subsequent fire instead of fire causing the collapse.

Sent to Prison.

James B. Farrington, who was convicted in Adrian of manslaughter in connection with a charge of murder for having killed Jesse Hooker, who was found in a room with Mrs. Farrington, has been sentenced to Jackson prison for three years and to pay fine of $500.

Fatal Accident.

A carriage containing Fred Yates and W. W. Magee, father of Alderman Magee and a well-known provision dealer, was struck by a Woodward avenue car in Detroit and wrecked. Magee was killed and Yates was in Harper hospital in a serious condition.

Millionaire Dies Aboard.

The body of Jonathan Boyce, the millionaire lumber merchant of Escanaba, has been shipped from London to the United States for burial. Mr. Boyce died a few days ago at Tivethall, Norfolk, where he spent his boyhood as a herd boy.

News Briefly Stated.

There are 102 licensed saloons in Bay City.

There are two schools in Ontonagon county which have but two scholars each. The teachers each receive $9 a month, which it is declared makes the per capita cost for instruction the highest in the state.

Andrew Carnegie will give Escanaba $25,000 for a public library.

At the request of Grant M. Morse, of Portland, state game and fish warden, the Chicago police are trying to find in Chicago his missing son, Leon G. Morse, 19 years old. The youth disappeared from the agricultural college at Lansing on February 26 last.

Myrtle E. Young has instituted proceedings for a divorce in Escanaba from her husband, Chester Young, on the charge of nonsupport. Both husband and wife are under age, the former being 18 and the latter 16. They were married a year ago.

The Dog Law.

It has been reported that the Supervisor of Sylvan returned the tax to the Sheriff of Washtenaw county on 184 dogs and that the Sheriff would not take any action in the matter because the dogs were not described; both of the above statements are not true; it is the duty of the Treasurer of Sylvan township to return such unpaid taxes to the sheriff only in cases where the Treasurer is unable to collect same.

For the information of those who have not paid their tax on dogs, the law defining the duties of the assessing officer and collector is given below:

Act No. 48, public acts of 1901.—To provide for a tax upon dogs and to create a fund for the payment of certain damages for sheep killed or wounded by them in certain cases.

The People of the State of Michigan enact:

Section 1.—That in all townships and cities of this State, except in cities having and enforcing an ordinance imposing a tax or license fee on every dog owned or harbored in said city, there shall be annually levied and collected the following tax upon dogs: Upon every male dog over three months old owned or kept by one person or family, one dollar; upon every female dog over three months old owned or kept by one person or family, three dollars: Provided, That the tax upon a female dog whose ovaries have been removed shall be one dollar, and shall be so levied by the supervisor in every case when the person owning such dog shall file with such supervisor a certificate under oath of a veterinary surgeon that the ovaries of such dog had been removed.

Section 2.—The assessor of every township or ward, at the time of making his annual assessment, shall inquire and ascertain the number of dogs liable to be taxed, and shall enter in lists to be made by him the name of every person in his respective township or ward owning or keeping any dog subject to the above tax, the number kept by such person, and the amount of tax to be paid by him.

Section 3.—The assessor of every township and ward shall, on or before the Tuesday next following the third Monday in May in each year, make out a duplicate of the lists made by him as provided in the preceding section and file the same with the township or city clerk of his respective township or city; said taxes, as provided for in the preceding section of this act, shall be assessed to and collected from such persons as shall be liable for the same, in the same manner as other township and city taxes are assessed and collected and with like power to distrain and sell any property of the owner or owners, keeper or keepers of dogs liable to be taxed.

Section 4.—The collector to whom such tax rolls shall be delivered shall proceed and collect the sums of money therein specified, in the same manner and with like authority in all respects as in the collection of taxes imposed by the board of supervisors of the county, and shall, after deducting the commission allowed by this act, retain the remainder in the township or city treasury and subject to the orders of the township and city boards, as provided in sections five and six of this act. The collector shall give to each person paying the tax on any dog, a receipt for the amount paid, which receipt shall bear date on which payment is made, shall describe the dog on which the tax was paid, and shall be numbered with a serial number and the year. He shall also give to such person a metal label that may be securely affixed to a dog collar. Such label shall bear the serial number and year, as does the receipt, such receipts and labels to be paid for from the dog tax fund of said township or city: Provided, That in each and every case where the collector is unable to collect the tax in the manner above specified prior to the first day of February in each year it shall be his duty to provide the sheriff of such county with a list of each and every dog upon which such tax has not been paid and it shall be the duty of the sheriff of such county to levy upon each and every dog upon which such tax has not been paid whenever said dog or dogs may be found, and it shall further be his duty to take possession of said dog or dogs and kill or cause the same to be killed. The absence of before mentioned label, or inability of owner to show a proper receipt, shall be sufficient evidence that the tax on any dog has not been paid. For this purpose the sheriff shall receive from the township or city in which said dog or dogs are assessed, a fee of one dollar for each and every dog so killed and buried, the same to be paid from the dog tax fund of said township or city upon the order of said township or city board.

MINSTRELSY AND VAUDEVILLE

The Chelsea Cornet Band Will Give a Benefit Show April 4.

Friday evening of next week, April 4, 25 of Chelsea's musicians, vocalists and comedians will don the burnt cork and under the stage management of George W. Barnes, of Columbus, Ohio, present an up-to-date minstrel and vaudeville entertainment at the Chelsea opera house, under the auspices and for the benefit of the Chelsea Cornet Band. A refined performance is promised, filled with laughable character creations, original musical specialties and humorous burlesques. A big three-hour show with an original first-part setting, closing with the farce "Little Eva's Ascension and the Pearly Gates Alar," an olio of worthy specialties, and a side-splitting after-piece entitled "A Surgical Seance" are a few of the many laughable features.

At 4 o'clock p. m. of the day of the performance a free street parade of "The Funny Farmer Band" will take place. You don't want to miss it. It will take place rain or shine.

Admission, adults 25 cents, children 15 cents. Reserved seats at the Bank Drug Store. Boards open Tuesday, April 1.

Palm Sunday at St. Paul's Church.

Last Sunday was quite a notable day with the congregation of St. Paul's Lutheran church. The church was nicely decorated with palms, flowers, etc., it being Palm Sunday, and both the morning and evening services were largely attended.

In the morning a class of 12 children were confirmed by the pastor, Rev. A. Schoen.

The names of those confirmed were Herman Gross, David Laubengayer, Edwin Laubengayer, Jonathan Seitz, Albert Steinbach, Emma Koch, Louise Laemmle, Ida Mast, Roeline Seitz, Emilie Steinbach, Bertha Visel and Clara Winter.

In the evening a reunion of all the confirmants connected with the church took place. About 125 answered to their names as the roll was called and quoted the remembrance verse of scripture that they had learned at the time they were confirmed. It was a very interesting and impressive service.
