BEAUTIFUL OFFICES.

Are These Now Occupied by the Glazier Stove Company.

With the completion of the handsome new office building of the Glazier Stove Company and its occupancy by the officers, a brief description of the building will not be out of place.

Situated on the west side of North Main street, the building has a frontage of 30 feet and a depth of 70 feet, with a circular corner facing the northeast. It is two stories high and contains three floors, basement, ground floor and upper floor. It is built of dressed field stone and is trimmed with cut sandstone. All three floors are of good height and are well lighted. The building presents a fine exterior appearance and commands from its windows a good view of the works of the company on the opposite side of the M. C. track.

The offices are located on the ground floor and entrance is obtained to them from the street by a broad, easy flight of steps at the top of which is a pretty vestibule with tiled floor. Passing through the handsome polished quarter sawed oak doors, which have ground glass panels, admission is gained to the wide hall which runs the entire length of the building. The hall is wainscoted in golden finished quarter sawed oak panels, its side walls tinted a deep carmine, its ceiling a delicate light shade and is lighted with several clusters of electric lights.

On the right as you enter the hall is the president's room, a fine large apartment, well lighted, with its side walls tinted a delicate Nile green, the pretty blended border uniting this tint with the lighter tint of the ceiling which harmonizes well with the side walls. The room has an open fireplace with tiled floor and quarter sawed polished oak mantel. In rear of this is the private room with walls tinted in terra cotta, the ceiling being the same shade as the front room. A cloak room and a toilet room are also connected with this suite.

In rear of the president's rooms is the treasurer's office finished in a light shade of terra cotta and equipped with a fire proof vault for the safe keeping of the books and records of the company.

The next is the stenographers' room finished in two shades of green, the ceiling being lighter than the side walls. In the rear of this again and the last of the offices, is the directors' room finished in terra cotta with ceiling of a lighter color. Here also is an open fireplace and mantel as in the president's room.

Across the hall from the president's room is the secretary's office, with side walls finished in light blue, the ceiling being of the same light tint that prevails in most of the other rooms. Adjoining this is the secretary's private room and a convenient cloak room.

In the rear of this suite are the ladies' and gentlemen's lavatories, and a small hall from which a polished oak staircase leads upstairs and behind them the stairway going to the basement. A large stock room comes next, in which is placed the elevator that plies up and down between the three floors, and is capable of carrying a load of three tons, also the electric motor that furnishes the power to run it.

All the wainscoting, doors, window casings and other trimmings on this floor are of polished quarter sawed oak and the desks and furniture will also be of the same material. The shades to the windows are all of a green tint on the outside, but on the inside are tinted to correspond with the color of the side walls of the several rooms in which they are hung. The floors are all polished oak and the whole general appearance is rich and tasteful.

The upper floor and the basement are finished off for storage purposes and are large enough to hold 40 carloads of stoves, ovens, etc., for a reserve stock and for the filling of small orders. The building is lighted throughout with electricity and is heated by a hot water heating plant.

The whole building and its equipment are alike a credit to the Glazier Stove Company, its enterprising president, Mr. F. P. Glazier, and to Chelsea.

The plans and designs for the building were executed by Clara Allen, of Jackson. The mason work was in charge of Geo. H. Hindelang, and Geo. W. Beckwith had the carpenter work. Hutzel & Co., of Ann Arbor, furnished the heating plant, and John F. Maier did the electrical work. The Ocher & Ford Mfg. Co., of Grand Rapids, supplied all the wood work.

FANNED BY A HIGH WIND

Fire Destroyed Some Small Buildings and the M. C. Water Tank.

Tuesday was a great day for fires in Chelsea and it is an extremely doubtful problem whether anybody did a real full day's work at his business in consequence of them.

An old frame building on the north side of the M. C. track near the water tank, originally put up for an icehouse but of late used as a barn by Robert Leach, caught fire about 9:30 a. m. from sparks from a passing locomotive. A strong southwest wind was blowing at the time and the flames soon spread to the hand saw and oil houses and the water tank. The barn and the two houses were completely burned down and only the ruins of the water tank are left. The high wind carried the burning brands to the roofs of the flour mill and the houses on North street, setting them on fire several times, even the foundry building at the corner of North and Main streets catching fire. It was a fortunate thing the wind was in the direction it was, for had it been from the northwest, the danger of the fire being communicated to the long row of store houses and the freight shed would have been great.

At 8:20 in the afternoon the barn of A. C. Welch on Madison street caught fire and in 15 minutes from the time it started nothing was left of it but some blackened smoldering pieces of siding and scantling. Mrs. Welch got the horse out of the barn and the best one of two buggies that were in it was also got out. The fruit and ornamental trees were scorched and destroyed by the heat of the fire. The burning debris was blown over on Dr. G. W. Palmer's onion marsh and the peaty soil caught fire. The high wind helped the fire along and the marsh burned until yesterday when it was extinguished. Mr. Welch estimates that $500 will not cover his loss, and Dr. Palmer's loss will be several hundred dollars.

Base Ball Game.

The baseball game last Saturday afternoon between Chelsea High School and Ann Arbor Y. M. C. A. teams was a fine game, although very one-sided. The Chelsea boys won by a score of 17 to 4, and Ann Arbor never had a show to win. The Chelsea boys played together and may be depended upon to win their share of the games played. For Chelsea Rogers and Mohr pitched and held the Ann Arbor boys safe at all times, keeping their hits well scattered, and being very effective with men on bases. Steinbach and Barrus caught finely for Chelsea. The Ann Arbor pitchers were easy, Chelsea getting 31 safe hits. B. Steinbach did the best work with the bat for Chelsea, getting five safe hits. The Chelsea line up was as follows: P., C. Mohr and O. Rogers; c., B. Steinbach and O. Barrus; 1st b., G. Speer; 2d b., C. Schenk; 3d b., B. Steinbach and O. Barrus; s. s., E. Steinbach; l. f., H. Foster; r. f., W. McLaren, H. Holmes and L. Foster; c. f., C. Rogers and E. Mohr. The following is the score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Chelsea	3	3	2	1	5	3	0	2	—	17	31	4
A. A.	0	0	1	1	0	1	0	0	—	4	5	13

A Pleasant Gathering.

The members of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church had a very pleasant gathering at the home of Mrs. J. C. Taylor last evening. At 6 o'clock a dainty repast was served the tables being laden with good things and tastefully decorated with carnations and smilax. Each guest was also presented with a flower and several sick persons had flowers sent to them. After the repast, with Mrs. W. W. Gifford as toastmistress, came a program of toasts interspersed with music from Mesdames A. J. Congdon, E. Keenan, J. W. Schenk and E. B. Hammond. The program was opened by all joining in singing "America." The toasts were responded to as follows: "Our Society," Mrs. M. J. Noyes; "Our Officers," Mrs. N. F. Prudden; "Michigan," Mrs. E. E. Caster; "Our New Territories," Mrs. G. P. Glazier. It was a happy occasion and one that was enjoyed by all present.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

Stands at the Head of Colleges in Securing Gold Positions for Its Many Graduates.

EVERY STATE IN UNION REPRESENTED.

In Nearly Every Foreign Country the Institution is Also Known—Teachers Chosen for Work in the Philippines—Statistics of Attendance—Other Notes of Interest.

(Special Correspondence.)

Ann Arbor, Mich.—The University of Michigan stands at the head of colleges securing positions for their graduates, and in this way the institution is represented in every state in the union and in nearly every foreign country.

During the past year the appointment committee at the university selected 24 teachers for the educational work of the Philippines and was indirectly concerned in the selection of six or eight others. In addition to these it aided, directly or indirectly, about 180 persons in securing positions in Michigan and many other states. It is difficult to state just how much assistance the committee gave in many instances, but the secretary is convinced that both school officers and teachers appreciate this attempt to systematize the method of recommendation.

To Furnish Information.

Stated briefly, the functions of the committee are to furnish school officers with prompt information concerning persons applying for positions, to make suitable recommendations when called upon, and to assist those registered with the committee in securing positions. The completion of a certain amount of work does not entitle the student to a recommendation. He must show such ability in his work and must possess such general qualifications as will, in the judgment of the instructors, entitle him to a recommendation. It is possible that a given individual might not be recommended. This is especially true in those lines of work in which there are more applicants than positions. Every student, however, is entitled to the privilege of having his record investigated and of referring to the committee. A prompt reply will be given to any school officer who makes inquiry.

Qualification Insures Work.

"In what lines of work is there greatest demand for teachers?" is a question frequently asked. The answer must be, to a certain extent, misleading. The literal answer to the question is naturally: "In those lines of work which all students generally take for a comparatively long period of time." On the other hand, the question may mean: "In what lines of work is the relative demand greatest, that is, with reference to the supply?" It is safe to state that a man well qualified by nature, training and scholarship for a teacher need not be long without a position. It may be said that this is true in general of women, but there seems to be a growing demand for men. Interest in athletics has created a demand for young men who can teach and also direct the out-door sports of boys. It is likely that this demand will soon be met.

Any one desiring fuller information is at liberty to consult the secretary of the appointment committee.

School in Italy.

William E. Curtis, correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, writing from Rome, Italy, of the American school of classical studies located there, which has affiliated schools at Jerusalem and Athens, all of them being under the care of the archaeological institute of America, says:

"Any graduate in arts of an American college will be admitted as a student upon satisfactory evidence that his previous studies have been of such a character as to fit him to profit by the opportunities the school offers. The tuition fee is only $25 a year. In addition to these paying students, contributing colleges and universities are authorized to name one student each, who is entitled to free instruction. In the west the contributing colleges are the Universities of Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin, Northwestern university, Western Reserve university, the Chicago Theological seminary, the McCormick Theological institute of Evanston.

"In addition to the regular students, two fellows are appointed each year, after competitive examination, who are exempt from the tuition fee and receive $500 a year as compensation for the assistance they render the institution."

Come from the West.

"In looking over the list of students I am quite struck with the fact that the greater part of them come from the western states. The 15 who have already won fellowships in competition during the six years of the school's existence came from the following institutions:

Michigan University, Princeton, Yale University, Tufts, Cornell, Wisconsin, Columbia, Cornell.

Thus the University of Michigan has furnished a third of the total number of fellows since the foundation of the school, and a number equal to that of Yale and Princeton, the next highest on the list, combined.

In number of students enrolled the University of Michigan has had more than the number furnished by any three other schools.

Enrolled Students.

There are at present 22 regularly enrolled students in the school. Two of them, T. L. Compagnette and Esther E. Van Deiman, are from the University of Michigan. The two fellows, whose places were won in the competitive examinations, are both University of Michigan graduates: George H. Allen, of the class of '98, and Charles R. Morey, of the class of '99.

Of the former fellows William Warner Bishop, of the University of Michigan, is now instructor in Latin in the Brooklyn Polytechnic institute; Walter Denison, of the University of Michigan, is professor of Latin at Oberlin; and Clarence L. Meader is instructor in Latin in the University of Michigan.

Attendance at University.

In the last issue of the Harvard Graduate's Magazine, there is presented the table annually compiled by the magazine, showing the academic populations of 13 leading American universities. The figures are furnished to the magazine by the various universities themselves and are thus to be regarded as correct. On such a basis, these authentic figures show a ranking as follows:

In total number of undergraduates, the University of Michigan ranks fourth, with 1,745 students. Above Michigan rank, in order, Harvard, California and Yale. Below Michigan, in order, are Columbia, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Chicago.

Advanced Students.

In total number of "advanced students," including graduate schools and professional schools, Michigan stands second, being surpassed by Columbia. Michigan has 1,722 advanced students. Columbia, 1,727. Northwestern comes next with 1,660, 620 of whom are students of dentistry. Michigan's graduate school of 103 ranks eleventh among the 13. In number of medical students, Michigan ranks fifth, with 474, being surpassed, in order, by Columbia, Pennsylvania, Harvard and Northwestern. In dentistry, Michigan with 200 is third; Northwestern leading, with Pennsylvania second. Michigan's engineering school seems to have been included in the undergraduate figures. The University of Michigan law school is first, with 819 students; Harvard comes next, with 626.

Regular Students.

In total number of regular students, excluding summer school students, others not registered for a full year and those whose work is not pursued inside the university precincts, and omitting duplications, Michigan is surpassed only by Harvard. Harvard has 4,123 students; Michigan, 3,468; Columbia, 3,199; Minnesota, 2,924; California, 2,784; Yale, 2,650; and Pennsylvania, 2,335.

In total regular and adjunct students, Michigan has fourth place, following Harvard, Columbia and Chicago.

In total number of teachers, Michigan ranks eighth.

SKELTONS FOUND.

Bodies That Were Thrown Into a Hole Promiscuously Discarded in Shiawassee County.

C. E. and F. E. Jones, of Morrice, made a ghastly find. They were digging a load of sand alongside the highway when they uncovered three human skeletons only 16 inches below the surface of the ground. The bodies had been thrown into a hole promiscuously and were those of two men and a woman. The skeletons show evidence of murder. The skull of one man was perforated by two bullets, the skull of the second was crushed in by a blow and several ribs of the woman were broken.

Within the memory of the oldest citizen around Morrice, no mysterious disappearances account for the find and the matter is a deep mystery. Surgeons state that the skeletons are those of white men and not Indians.

REAPING WEALTH.

Investments Made Several Years Ago by Michigan Woman Now Bringing in a Fortune.

Mrs. J. P. Maas, of Negaunee, and her nephew, George Lonsdorf, of Milwaukee, Wis., are reaping great wealth from a tract of mining land which in 1880 cost Mr. Maas and the father of Mr. Lonsdorf only $15,000. The tract is one of 224 acres and upon it is located the Negaunee iron mine. A deal has been closed with a Chicago mining concern under which it gets a 50-year lease of the mine upon payment of $1,500,000 to the owners. The bonus is the largest in the history of the Lake Superior district. The royalty to be paid is 30 cents a ton and the minimum output will be 300,000 tons annually.

Football Schedule.

Athletic Manager Charles Baird, of the University of Michigan, has given out Michigan's football schedule for next season. It is as follows:

September 27, Albion at Ann Arbor; October 4, Cass at Ann Arbor; October 11, Indiana at Ann Arbor; October 18, Notre Dame at Ann Arbor; October 25, Ohio State at Ann Arbor; November 1, Wisconsin at Ann Arbor; November 8, Iowa at Ann Arbor; November 15, Chicago at Chicago; November 22, Oberlin at Ann Arbor; November 29, (Thanksgiving), Minnesota at Ann Arbor or Detroit.

State Homestead Lands.

Under section 181 of the general tax law a large quantity of tax homestead lands became subject to purchase April 1, at the office of the state land commissioner, who announced that upon application to purchase being made the lands do not will be appraised, but that there will be no general appraisal of such lands.

Summer Fashions for the Little Ones

A Season of Extravagance With Dainty Colors and Dainty Materials. White is the Keynote in Colors.

SUMMER gowns for the little folks are quite as necessary as summer gowns for the grown-ups. We can well call the present an age of children, for scarcely has there been a time when the wee ones were given so much consideration as now. This is true not only with regard to the care for their health, their pleasures, their training and education, but of their clothing as well.

Just as extravagance marks the epoch in the dress of the elders so does it in the dress of the children. For several years past we have had this extravagance, with a general tendency towards increase rather than decrease. The dainty frills and ruffles of babyhood are now carried out in elaborate conceptions in the short dresses of the little misses, and there has ceased to be a season of plainness between the days of babyhood and those of young womanhood. I would not attempt to argue that this is right, but it is true. It is the outcome of the attempt on the part of the wealthy to distance the middle classes in the matter of extravagance, and the efforts of the middle classes to follow the example set them.

White is the keynote of the children's fashions for the coming summer. No matter what the material may be white will be the leading color, and the materials will include practically the entire line that is known to the elders with the exception of the large patterned fabrics. The favorite material will, however, be linen in every grade—fine linen, butcher's linen, canvas and mercerized linen. While for the linen garments white will lead there will be a sprinkling of such shades as rose, cadet blue and forget-me-not blue.

As a sample of the extravagance of the times there is being used on the children's garments great quantities of real lace. Of course the less wealthy follow the lead in this line by using the machine made article, of which there are so many beautiful patterns that almost defy detection, that it seems but wanton waste for even the rich to use the more expensive quality. This material is used for the pretty broad collars for the little coats, or bertha collars for the guimpe gowns. The coats, by the way, are often of black silk, taffeta being the most popular, but pongee, tulle, moire and black satin also having a number of adherents.

The lawn and nainsook gowns are made more beautiful than ever because of the attractiveness of the embroideries with which they are trimmed. Hem-stitching, feather-stitching and tiny bands joined with the open stitch are also distinctive features in trimming both the thin gowns and the silk ones. Another of the favored trimming materials is fine hand embroidery. There is no limit to the amount used except as the size of the gown limits the space. Then, too, the dotted mulls, trimmed with lace insertion and edging, make attractive little gowns.

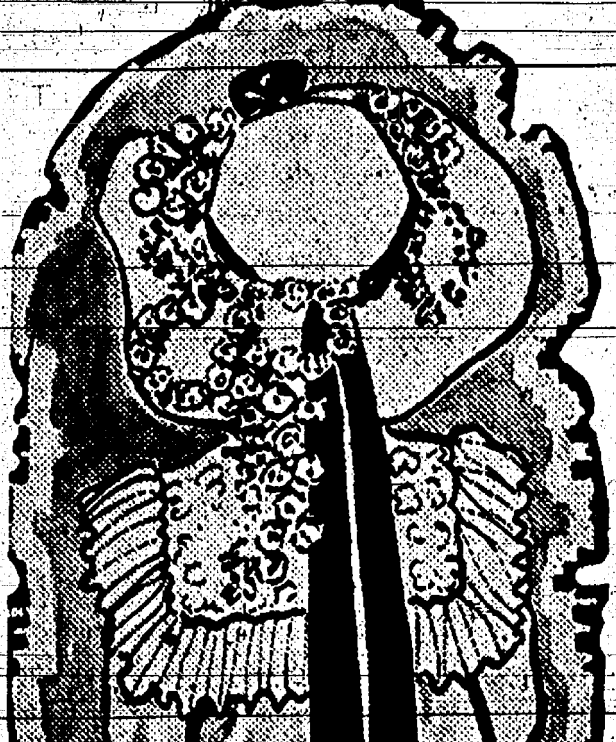

It is pleasing to note that the always sensible sailor suits have not yet lost their vogue for the little folks. They are made of linen, duck, plume and serge, with the plain sailor collars of another color, or of silk if the material is wool. But there are elaborate editions even of the sailor suits in which the collars are entirely of lace or embroidery, and others made of linen cut out on the edge in some design which sets into a deep, heavy lace border.

Of course the boys must have sailor suits—they are always the pride of the little man's heart—and for these there is a great variety. For the smaller ones, those not yet in trousers, the Russian blouse suits are the prettiest things to be found. They are made of linen in different colors and of galeas in stripes, finished with bands of plain linen. Something of the same effect is pretty for the little girl as well, and may be made in linen canvas with three box plaits in the waist, front and back. Between these are bands of embroidery pointing up from the belt and down from the neck, with an inch space between the points. Large pearl buttons fasten the third plait at one side, where the blouse opens. The belt and collar bands may be of embroidery, and the skirt made in box plaits.

Suggesting a Remedy.

With sarcastic fingers the deaf and dumb lady lectured her husband for betting on the races.

"Either talk slower," he spelled out on his hand, "or put hobbles on your fingers. They interfere when you strike this gait."—Judge.

PRETTY EFFECTS IN CHILDREN'S GARMENTS.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

League Enjoined.

Deputy Attorney General Chase has secured from Judge Coolidge an injunction restraining the League of Educators of Chicago and its agents from transacting business in this state. Judge Coolidge recently entered a judgment of ouster against the league, which is a form of matrimonial bureau, on the ground that the business transacted by it is fraudulent. The officers of the league then defied the state authorities.

Perish in Flames.

Mrs. Wallace E. King, Vida King, aged eight years; Verna King, aged six years, and Miss Anna King, a niece, aged 18 years, were burned to death at Wallin, Baulab, the three-year-old daughter, was thrown from an upper window by her mother and saved. The fire originated in King's general store, over which his family lived. Mr. King, who is township treasurer, was not at home at the time.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 75 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week measles and meningitis increased and typhoid fever and diphtheria decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 215 places, measles at 80 typhoid fever at 32, whooping cough at 15, diphtheria at 21, scarlet fever at 34 and smallpox at 133 places.

Given Preference.

The circuit court in Detroit has decided that the savings depositors of the wrecked City savings bank must be preferred over the commercial depositors in the distribution of the money to be realized from the sale of the bank's real estate investments. If this decision is upheld by the supreme court it will result in the savings depositors getting 70 to 80 per cent. of their claims.

Discovered in Time.

Stanley Hollinger, 15 years old, attempted to wreck a Big Four train at Niles by placing a heavy timber in an upright position between the ties on a trestle which crosses Dowagiac creek. A section boss discovered the trap a few minutes before a passenger train was to cross the trestle. Young Hollinger confessed that he had placed the obstruction on the trestle to derail the train.

Crop Outlook.

he semi-monthly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan:

Season backward and all vegetation greening up slowly; past week cool and dry; winter wheat small but healthy and quite promising; plowing general and oat seeding in progress; fruit buds, with exception of a few peaches, wintered nicely and are promising; grass and meadows starting very slowly; warm rain much needed to improve seed bed.

The Death Record.

Reports of township and city clerks made to the secretary of state say:

During the month of March there were 2,959 deaths in Michigan, the death rate being 14.1 per cent. per 1,000 population reporting, a slight increase over the record for February. There were 486 deaths of infants under one year of age; 205 deaths of children aged one to four years inclusive, and 912 deaths of elderly persons aged 65 years and over.

Lived 112 Years.

Mrs. Kate Ziellinski, undoubtedly the oldest person in Michigan, died at Coldwater at the age of 112 years. Mrs. Ziellinski, or Green, as she has been called for years, was born in Poland, March 22, 1790. Notwithstanding her great age, she could read ordinary print without glasses.

Jackson Congregational Association

The annual meeting of this association was held here Tuesday and yesterday at the Congregational church. The sessions of the Woman's Home Missionary Union were held Tuesday morning and afternoon and were well attended. The delegates were welcomed to Chelsea by Mrs. C. S. Jones, and greetings were given by some of the ladies. The reports of the officers and auxiliaries were enthusiastic and encouraging. The program was carried out in full. The papers read were good and the meeting on the whole was very encouraging. The officers elected were: President, Mrs. Ella Felt, Jackson; 1st vice president, Mrs. Marie Root, Ann Arbor; 2d vice president, Mrs. W. Thompson, Warden; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Thos. S. Sears, Chelsea; superintendent juvenile work, Mrs. C. E. Strong, Jackson; superintendent young people's work, Mrs. E. L. Cooper, Grass Lake.

The Association held four sessions commencing Tuesday evening. The attendance at all the sessions, both of delegates from other places and residents here, was good and the interest shown in the program was gratifying. The program was carried out in full. The addresses Tuesday evening by Rev. Baalton Smith, of Jackson, and Rev. H. N. Dascomb, of Port Huron, and on Wednesday evening by Rev. C. S. Patton, of Ann Arbor, and Rev. A. G. Beach, of Ypsilanti, were strong and thoughtful presentations of their several subjects. The papers read at the morning and afternoon sessions are also highly spoken of. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: Moderator, Rev. David L. Holbrook, of Union City; scribe, Rev. Peter Schermerhorn, of Salem; registrar, Rev. A. G. Beach, of Ypsilanti.

We have been told on several occasions that we do not publish all the things that happen. In the first place we have others who depend on us for a living. If we published all that happened we would soon be with the angels. In order to please the people we must print only nice things of them and leave the rest to the gossips. Yes, it's a fact that we don't print all the news. If we did it would make spy reading. But this would be for one week only. The next week you would read our obituary and there would be a new grave in the cemetery.

ANN ARBOR THEATRICALS.

Kathryn Klidder on the Comical Peggy in "The Country Girl."

"The Country Girl" is what Kathryn Klidder will appear at the Athens theater, Ann Arbor, next Thursday evening, May 1. It is claimed by some dramatic authorities to be the funniest comedy ever written. Whether this is so or not, it is a fact that the play has been amusing audiences since 1876 when it was originally produced at the Theater Royal in London. The comedy which was the work of William Wycherley was first known by the title of "The Country Wife." In 1769 another version of the play appeared this time called "The Country Girl." The author was David Garrick the most celebrated actor of his time and in many respects the most distinguished disciple of Theophrastus who ever trod the boards in England. There have been many productions of the play in this country and on the other side of the Atlantic and the revival has always met with much popular favor. Various reasons have been given for the long life of the amusing old comedy. It would be difficult to decide which was correct, inasmuch as the play abounds in interesting features which always gain the approval of theater goers. Some of the most noted actresses in England and in this country have essayed the role of Peggy, the comical heroine of "The Country Girl" who outwits her jealous old guardian and finally through a clever ruse weds the young man of her choice. Perhaps the best remembered scene in the piece is in the park where Peggy disguised as a boy is taken for a stroll by her guardian. The efforts of her lover to talk with her and the desire of her guardian to keep her away from all men but himself, are a basis of a series of complications which never fail to convulse the audience. The last prominent American actress to play Peggy was Miss Ada Rehan who appeared in the role at Daly's theater some years ago when it enjoyed such a successful run that it was put on the next season for another long period. Miss Klidder has often been advised by her friends and admirers to give an impersonation of the peculiar characteristics of the awkward Peggy. Their advice was not followed until this season when the actress decided on a spring revival of the immortal play. The hit she has made in the part is said to have surpassed all her previous efforts. She is supported by an exceptionally strong company. As "The Country Girl" is one of the classics of English dramatic literature, and as Miss Klidder is one of the most popular stars, it is safe to predict that her engagement at Ann Arbor on Thursday, May 1, will draw one of the largest and most fashionable audiences of the season.

Carrie Nation Again.

Carrie Nation, the famous saloon smasher of Kansas, will invade Michigan for the first time since she gained notoriety on Friday, May 2, when she will give her original lecture "For God and My Neighbor." Washtenaw county is already guessing what the Kansas cyclone will do when she visits the county seat, and a genuine circus-day crowd is expected. Ann Arbor merchants are preparing to decorate their business places in honor of the greatest advertised woman in the world. Carrie Nation, and a regular holiday will no doubt be the result. At the Athens theater, Friday evening, May 2.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage

His Active Life. His Sermons for Many Years
Published Weekly in Hundreds of Papers in This and Other Countries.

REV. T. DEWITT TALMAGE, D. D.

One of the world's greatest preachers has passed away. Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, having devoted his life and wonderful talents to the pointing of others to the way of eternal life, has at last himself stepped over into the larger, fuller life of God's eternal day. The tenement house of clay has been given up for the one not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. The glories of the future home of the soul, which has been so often eloquently and graphically portrayed by Dr. Talmage in his sermons, has burst upon his vision as he sees face to face and realizes the force of the Scripture which his lips have spoken so many times: "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."

Death has been swallowed up in victory. As he fell asleep in Jesus and awoke in His likeness, this valiant soldier of the Lord Jesus Christ could exclaim in ringing tones of triumph: "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" And as he passed on into the presence of his King and Saviour, the minor strain of the words: "The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law" have been lost in the mighty chorus of the redeemed with which his voice has mingled as they sing: "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Dr. Talmage was a firm believer in the Bible as the Word of God. The higher criticism could never shake his faith in the realities of all the Bible set forth. He frequently declared that he believed every jot and tittle of it between the covers of the book, every word of it as it stands. And it was because of this that his preaching was so vivid and forceful. He believed what he spoke. Did he speak of hell, he painted it as a reality and made his hearers believe that when the Bible talked about hell it meant exactly what it said. Did he undertake to set forth the realities of heaven, his graphic portrayal of Scriptural passages on the subject carried his hearers up to the very gates until they could almost see the white robed throngs passing through the golden streets. The pictures which he drew at times were startling, and his illustrations striking and forcible. Bible characters as he talked, about them became living realities and that vagueness which generally surrounds sacred history in the minds of people was lifted, and Moses and Elijah, Daniel and David, and the others in the long list of Bible heroes stood out with a vividness that held the wrapt attention of his hearers and the readers of his sermons.

He was dramatic and sensational in his manner in the pulpit, but always with the purpose of emphasizing the message he was delivering. On one occasion, when it was time for him to begin his sermon, he went to the edge of the platform, buttoned his coat, raised his arms and wheeled suddenly about dashed in running jumps across the platform, his arms waving like the sails of a windmill, his coat-tails flying behind him, and his trousers working above his shoe tops.

He had not spoken a word, and some of his congregation were ready to shriek, not knowing what to make of it, when Mr. Talmage stopped short, turned and walked back to the center of the platform and exclaimed, as the beginning of his sermon: "Young man, you're rushing to destruction!" And amidst the profound impression he had created he preached powerfully of the dangers of city life to young men who yielded to temptation, and made them realize that they stood on the very brink of hell.

Dr. Talmage did not belong to a class. He was a type by himself. His sermons were unique. His comment on his style of preaching was: "My positive mode of preaching seems to stir the hostilities of all earth and hell." In telling the story of his life he once said:

"Feeling called upon 15 years ago to explore underground New York city life, that I might report the evils to be combatted, I took with me two elders of my church and a New York police commissioner and a policeman, and I explored and reported the horrors that needed removal and the allurements that endangered our young men. There came upon me an outburst of assumed indignation that frightened almost everybody but myself. That exploration put into my church 30 or 40 newspaper correspondents, from the north, south, east and west; which opened for me new avenues in which to preach the Gospel that otherwise would never have been opened. Years passed on and I preached a series of sermons on amusements, and a false report of what I did say roused a violence that threatened me with poison and dirk and pistol and other forms of extinguishment, until the chief of the Brooklyn police, without any suggestion from me, took possession of the church with 24 policemen to see that no harm was done."

Dr. Talmage is said to have reached a far greater number of people with his sermons than any other preacher. The sermons he delivered to his congregation on Sunday appeared Monday morning in a syndicate of papers in this and other countries, and through these channels it is estimated that they reached 50,000,000 readers. He also made his influence felt as editor of the Christian Herald and as a constant contributor to numerous periodicals, and was a voluminous writer of books. He edited the Christian at Work from 1873 to 1876; the Advance of Chicago in 1877 and 1878 and more recently Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

Among his writings were the following: "Crimbs Swept Up," 1870; four volumes of sermons, 1872-1875; "Abominations of Modern Society," 1872; "Old Wells Dug Out," 1874;

"Sports and Life," 1875; "Night Scenes of City Life," 1878; "The Brooklyn Tabernacle, a Collection of 104 Sermons," 1884; "The Marriage Ring," 1886.

Among his lectures the more prominent were the ones on the Holy Land and Athens, the material for which he gathered on his travels. The University of New York conferred on him the degree of A. M. in 1882, and he received that of D. D. from the University of Tennessee in 1884.

This busy, helpful, noble life of service was begun at Bound Brook, N. J., in 1832. He was the youngest of 13 children, five girls and seven boys. His father, David T. Talmage, was a farmer and well-known for his decision of character and good humor, while his mother coupled keen wit with marked amiability, traits which found a happy combination in the boy who was destined to fill the world with the sound of his powerful preaching.

When he was 18 years of age Dr. Talmage entered the University of New York city, but did not complete the course there, taking up instead the study of law. Not long after this he determined to enter the ministry, a calling which two of his uncles, a brother-in-law and three brothers were following, and in later years Dr. Talmage was gratified to see his own son Frank enter the ministry, and he is at the present time filling a successful pastorate at Chicago. Mr. Talmage completed his theological training at the New Brunswick theological seminary in 1850.

He became pastor of the Reformed Dutch church in Belleville, N. J. Later he went to Syracuse, and while holding a pastorate there he married his first wife, Miss Avery, of Brooklyn. Soon after he went to Philadelphia as pastor of the Second Reformed Dutch church, where he remained seven years. While in Philadelphia Dr. Talmage received three calls at once, to Chicago, San Francisco and Brooklyn. His fame as a pulpit orator had spread wide, and power to attract worshippers to his church brought demands for his services from many places. It was in 1869 that he accepted the call to the Central Presbyterian church of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dr. Talmage preached in the old church in Brooklyn for 15 months and then the congregation and membership outgrew the sanctuary. The organization therefore decided to build the first Brooklyn tabernacle. It was in the form of a horseshoe and inclosed half an acre. It was burned in 1872, after standing two years, during which time the 3,400 seats proving inadequate the capacity of the building was increased 500 more. Work was at once begun on a new tabernacle, which was dedicated February 22, 1874, with seats for 5,000 persons. It was then the largest Protestant church in America. After the church edifice had burned for the third time, in 1880, Dr. Talmage resigned his pastorate of 25 years, not asking his congregation to build a fourth time. In 1894 he accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church in Washington, D. C., and had made his home in that city up to the time of his death.

Dr. Talmage's first wife was drowned in the Schuylkill river during his Philadelphia pastorate, and two years later he married again, his wife being Miss Susan C. Whittemore, of Brooklyn, by whom he had several children. Two children, a boy and girl, were born to him of his first marriage.

With the impressive funeral services in the Church of the Covenant at Washington and the interment of the remains in the family plot at Brooklyn, passes from the activities of the earth life one of the greatest factors in the religious forces of the past century, but his words and his deeds live on. Like the ripples spreading out in ever-widening circle, the influence on the lives of the thousands who heard and read his sermons will continue and Talmage, the great preacher, though dead, will continue to speak.

Sacrificing Men to Principles.
That principles live although men die is a truism that may be expressed in another way, even if it takes considerable frankness to say it. It is recalled by a gentleman that his father was once traveling with Wendell Phillips, and took occasion to speak with some bitterness of the harsh treatment that had been accorded to Gen. Banks by certain citizens of Boston. "Yes," said Mr. Phillips, with charming ingenuitiveness. "When we want to establish a principle we do not hesitate to sacrifice a man to it."—Youth's Companion.

Siberia has evidently not been abolished as a penal colony. Reports from St. Petersburg show that many students who were engaged in the recent demonstration have been exiled to Siberia, though for only short terms. Nicholas II, it was said a year or two ago, had stopped sending prisoners to Siberia. The running of the railroads through that continent, however, will ultimately do more than the ukase of czars could toward knocking the penal colony obsolete. It was isolation that made Siberia a stowing-away place for the dangerous persons of Russia.

An injury to the tongue is repaired by nature with more rapidity than is the case with any other part of the system.

GEN. SMITH TO BE TRIED.

Court-Martial at Manila Will Inquire Into His Conduct in Island of Samar.

Manila, April 22.—A court-martial has been ordered for the trial of Gen. Jacob H. Smith, who was in command of the United States troops on the island of Samar. Gen. Lloyd Wheaton, Samuel S. Sumner, James M. Bell and William H. Bisbee and Col. Chambers McKibbin, William A. Rafferty, William E. Dougherty, Alfred C. Markley and Jesse M. Lee compose the court. The judge advocate is Maj. Harvey C. Carbaugh. Col. Charles A. Woodruff will appear for the defense. The charge brought against Gen. Smith is conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline. The trial will begin Thursday.

Washington, April 22.—The senate committee on the Philippines on Monday, in executive session, refused to call Edward Atkinson, of Boston, as a witness, but directed that subpoenas issue for a number of sergeants and privates who were witnesses of the water cure. The matter of calling Sixto Lopez, Mabini and Aguinaldo was left for future determination.

GEN. JACOB H. SMITH.

The committee then adjourned until Tuesday, April 23, on which day Gen. MacArthur will again be heard.

Grover Flint, of Cambridge, Mass., who served as first lieutenant in the Thirty-fifth volunteer infantry, was the first witness Monday, and testified that early in May, 1900, he had been a witness to the water cure, as administered to the natives by the Maccabebe scouts and that this was done to get information as to the whereabouts of their guns. The guns were delivered.

The following day some men of his own regiment applied the cure, but their act was without the authority of their commanding officers. The Maccabebes at the time referred to were not under command of a commissioned officer, but under a sergeant of the United States army. Flint had been, he said, a witness to at least 20 cases of water cure. He never had seen any one die as a result of the cure, but had seen a hospital corps man working on a native who had been rendered unconscious. It also had been reported to him that one Filipino died from the effects of the water cure.

The witness described the burning of small villages, the idea being, he said, to drive the people to the woods or to the towns and concentrate them. "Who did the army borrow that from?" inquired Senator Culberson.

"I saw it in Cuba," answered the witness, "under the authority of Gen. Weyler."

THE STRICKEN QUEEN.

Condition of Wilhelmina Reported Unchanged—Great Sorrow in the Netherlands.

The Hague, April 22.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina is unchanged. Her physicians say it is impossible to predict the date of the crisis in her illness. An extraordinary cabinet council was held Monday. The meeting engendered numerous rumors concerning a decision in the matter of the regency, but it is said upon good authority that this matter was not discussed at the council.

London, April 22.—In a dispatch from Castle Loon, the correspondent of the Daily Mail declares the information vouchsafed the public minimizes the gravity of Queen Wilhelmina's condition, and magnifies her chances for recovery. The grief-stricken nation, which loves the queen to the point of idolatry, is in a state of terrible suspense, while the politicians are agast at the possibilities of a fatal termination of her illness.

Fire in Chicago.

Chicago, April 22.—Thirty families homeless and one of the finest and most fashionable apartment buildings in the city a mass of debris, is added to the score of the fire-fend by the burning of the Vincennes apartment building at Thirty-sixth street and Vincennes avenue, Monday afternoon. The building, which was of stone and brick, finished inside with marble, was six stories in height, and was occupied by the more aristocratic class of tenants. The loss will be about $200,000, partially covered by insurance.

FRANKLYN FOUND DEAD.

Grosses Discovery Is Made in Chicago Building.

George Butler, a Negro, Given Wife and Six Children Poison and Taken a Dose Himself—Poverty the Cause.

Chicago, April 22.—Lying still death, their bodies in a very bad decomposed condition and gnawed most beyond recognition by rats, in a novel at 3413 South State street, while in life they had called home, the police Monday night found George Butler, negro, his wife and their six children ranging in age from six months to 12 years. The wife and children were dressed, and had apparently retired while Butler had only removed his coat. Upon the table sat a half-filled can of salmon and nearby a bottle which contained some drug which the police think is strychnine. The police believe that Butler after poisoning the salmon had offered it to his wife and children, and after they ate greedily, had then eaten enough to kill himself.

Two weeks ago Butler entered one of the groceries and complained bitterly of conditions. He said he was unable to make both ends meet, and that it would be a good thing if he and his family were all dead. He remarked at the time that he could not stand it to have his little ones taken away from him again.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage Leaves to His Heirs $300,000 in Stock, Bonds and Real Estate.

Washington, April 22.—The will of the late Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage was filed here Monday. It leaves an estate valued at more than $300,000, of which about $250,000 is in personal property consisting of secured notes, United States four per cent. bonds, stock and cash in bank, furniture, pictures and household effects. The real estate is worth about $50,000, comprising his house at No. 1400 Massachusetts avenue, in this city, and property in East Hampton, Long Island and in his former home, Brooklyn. The Washington Loan and Trust company is named as executor and Monday petitioned the district supreme court to admit the will to probate. All the heirs at law are said to be entirely satisfied and have consented to the probate. The will gives "the widow's third" to Mrs. Talmage and the remainder share and share alike equally, to all of his children and their lineal descendants. The will is dated February 3, 1898. The heirs at law are as follows: The widow, Mrs. Eleanor M. Talmage, of this city, and his children, Mrs. Jessie T. Smith, and Mrs. May Mangum, both of Brooklyn; Mrs. Edith T. Donnan, Richmond, Va.; Frank DeWitt Talmage, Chicago; Miss Jennie G. Talmage, of this city, and Mrs. Maud T. Wyckoff, Cape Vincent, N. Y.

Dr. Talmage's widow, his son, Frank DeWitt Talmage, of Chicago, and Dr. Louis Klepsch, of Brooklyn, are appointed literary trustees under a codicil dated March 15, 1901. The gold enameled tea service presented to Dr. Talmage by the emperor of Russia, is given to the widow and at her death to the eldest surviving child, then to the next oldest and so on, and finally goes absolutely to the last survivor among the children.

THE PHILIPPINE BILL.

House Democrats in Caucus Decide to Approve the Minority Measure.

Washington, April 22.—The democrats of the house of representatives held a caucus Monday night to consider the Philippines civil government bill agreed on by the democratic members of the insular committee. The caucus lasted until shortly before midnight, when a resolution by Representative Jones (Va.) was adopted unanimously approving the minority bill and requesting the democratic members on the insular committee to confer with democratic senators in order to reconcile any differences existing as to the details of a Philippine measure, with a view to reaching an agreement upon one bill to be urged in both branches of congress. Before the adoption of this resolution the democratic members of the insular committee explained the terms of the four separate Philippine measures now proposed. The republican bill in the senate provides temporary form of civil government, in effect continuing the present system. The republican house bill proposes a complete form of civil government, with a Philippine legislature. The democratic bills, both in the senate and in the house, look to ultimate independence of the islands, but the house measure goes more in detail on the period preceding independence, fixing July 4, 1911, as the date for complete insular independence. It is with a view to reconciling the details of the two democratic measures that the resolutions were adopted Monday night.
