GLAZIER STOVE CO. NOW OCCUPY NEW OFFICE BUILDING

Complete Description of the Building Follows

Of the many extensive improvements n Chelsea the past, year has been the rection and completion of one of the inest office buildings in the state, for the exclusive use of the officials and their on the west side of Main street.

The building is composed of dressed field stone with sandstone trimmings, of town parties. and has a frontage of 50 feet on Main street, and 70 feet in depth, with the the windows so well arranged, that the harmony with the Interior construction.

Adjoining the main room is one designed as a private office of the president and here the same general idea in finishing has been carried out that prevails throughtout the whole interior, in this room however is located a well proportioned private locker.

A little farther down the hall you will ind the office of the treasurer, Fred Wedemeyer. The first object, and one of vast importance, is the large fire proof vault. There are two of these vaults in the building, the other being located on the lower floor. The fixtures in this room have all been built and designed to materially aid in lightening the work that must of necessity fall to the care of the officer who has to handle the finance of corporation of the size of the Glazier Stove Co.

The next office is devoted to the use of the stenographers and typewriters and with the facilities at hand the occupants of | the dye. this pleasant room can very easily handle a large amount of work.

The last office on the right hand side requirements of the board of directors, the open fire place and artistic mantel being well calculated to relieve the monotony as much as possible of fulfiling their part of the duties in the management of the company.

Returning to main entrance and turning to the left you will enter the well regulated and finely designed office of E. G. Hoag, the secretary of the company. This, like the other rooms, is in every detail adequate for all that requires the attention of this gentleman. Here, the same as in the other offices, will be seen the ever home-like furniture that so well tends to blend and harmonize with everything else The secretary has adjoining this room another for his private use that will at all times be a safe retreat from the cares of the main one. About midway down the main hall the lavatories are located and also a hand some stairway that leads to upper and lower floors.

The last suite of rooms is given over to the use of the shipping clerk and so well arranged that mistakes in filling orders of his superiors would seem utterly impossible. From this point the entrance to the Gardner elevator is gained, that reaches all three floors,

LIVELY DAY FOR FIREMEN

Jump all Day Long.

Chelsea's firemen had the liveliest day Tuesday they have put in since the or ganization of the company. While the fire loss was not so great, the amount of work involved made it very lively for the boys. About 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning Robert Leach's barn was discovered to be burning. Owing to the high wind the fire made rapid headway and the efforts of the firemen were unavailing, and the building and contents were soon in rulns. In the meantime the buildings occupied by the section men on the M. C. R. R. and the signal men were destroyed, and the mammoth water tank belonging to the company was soon in chant Milling Co.'s mill, and the fire boys were called there. Within a few .moments they were called to the Lathon Miller residence near the corner of Main and North streets, and about the same time the foundry of Clark & Norton was discovered to be on fire and the employes of the Glazier Stove Co. responded to this were also several others which had caught from flying shingles. It is probable that the fire was started by a spark from a passing locomotive. The tank was filled with water which ran out and tiled floor in keeping with the rest of the point out with pride, to the stranger, the made a miniature lake in the hollow you.

Lawyer P. Riggs.

Lawyer P. Riggs was born in the state of New York, April 18, 1824, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Ward, in the village of Chelsea, Thursday, April 17, 1902, thus lacking but one day of being 78 years of age.

He came to Aun Arbor with his parents in 1831, and after residing there for a few years removed to the township of Sylvan, where he resided the remainder of his life. July 20, 1849, he was married to Irene Metcalf. To them were born four children, three of whom are living, Mrs. Geo. Ward, Mrs. N. H. Cook and Ernest L. Riggs. At the age of forty Mr. Riggs joined the Baptist church at Sylvan Center.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church, Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. F. A. Stiles. Interment at Sylvan cemetery.

In a little more than 63 hours after Prof. Joseph M. Miller had lured Carrie Jennett to the Thirteenth street commons and committed one of the most ghastly and bloody crimes known to the Detroit police, the murderer faced Judge Murphy in the Recorder's Court and heard imposed the sentence of life imprisonment at hard labor in the state prison in Jackson. A few hours later a train was whirling him away from the scene of his terrible deed to begin his slient, solitary life.

The wheels of justice revolved rapidly, but there was no formality omitted, no stone unturned to grant to the cringing wretch in the prisoner's box every right accorded him by the laws of the state. Judge Murphy demanded that the examination and trial proceed with every sign of fairness and regard for decency. He insisted upon every possible precaution being taken to spare, if possible, in some slight way, the invalid wife and the innocent children.

The formalities of the law were all observed and soon after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon a life sentence at hard labor in the Jackson penitentiary was imposed. The sheriff wasted no time and at 8:30 o'clock that night the murderer was on his way to prison in charge of Deputy Sheriff Wm. Gorman,

The prison was reached and before midnight Miller's Mentity was hidden under "Number 7637."

The Heywood Case.

William Jones is now in jail, having een arraigned and bound over for the murder of George H. Heywood, the Detroit bookkeeper, on the night of the 9th inst. Mrs. Heywood was held by the police for several days and let go, it being evident that she was not an accessory. She admitted that improper relations had existed between herself and Jones for some time and laid bare the story of Jones' infatuation for her. For the first time she admitted that she thought Jones was the man who killed her husband, and declared that she was now prepared to do everything to convict the one she believes to be the felon. Rymer, who was at one time a partner of Jones, came on from Lincoln, Neb., and is held by the police as a witness. Jones maintains the utmost coolness and denies that he killed Heywood.

The Chinese Situation.

The populace of Pekin is becoming increasingly excited over rumors that trouble is imminent between the imperial and the foreign troops; but the demeanor of the Chinese continues friendly toward foreigners, the best informed of whom discredit the rumors of the existence of an anti-foreign feeling. The intention of the empress dowager to review the imperial troops on the return of the court from the journey to the eastern tombs of the dynasty, has been abandoned, presumably because the Chinese officials considered that the holding of the review might be construed as a demonstration against the foreign troops.

Important Measures.

Representative Wadsworth, of New York, introduced a joint resolution, proposing an amendment to the constitution providing that "hereafter no territory not embraced within the geo graphical limits of continental North America shall be admitted as a state." The re-Department stated that it was "an alum baking powder" containing alum and pulverized rock.

The different Health Authorities seem to have different ways jot repressing the tale of bad baking powders. In England they have prosecuted the grocers under the general law and broken up the traffic. In Missouri actually prohibited by law. In New York they seize the unwholesome stuff and cast . it into the river without any discussion. The latter way is cortainly effective.

The alum baking powders are usu. ally offered at a low price, ten to twenty cents a pound, or with some prize, as a temptation to the house-Consumers can protect themselves by buying only high-grade baking powder of established name and reputation. Do not be tempted by the grocer to take something else as "just as good" or "our own brand," for the trials show that the grocer himself is often deceived by unscrupulous makers, and is selling an alum powder without knowing it.

Americans. The cosmopolitan character of the population of New York city is admitted by all, and has frequently been commented upon, Considering the constant great inflow of immigration it is impossible that the people could be otherwise than very mixed. Notwithstanding that, however, the last census shows that there is at same time a steady increase in the percentage of native American population. When the census of 1890 was taken the projest of a Greater New York was yet under discussion. The total population of what is now the Greater New York was then, in round figures, 2,460,000, eing 1,520,000, and of foreign-born in habitants 940,000. The percentage of foreign-born inhabitants was 38.20. By the new census figures, just published, the population of New York city, 3,437,202, and is thus divided: Nativeborn inhabitants, 2,167,122, and foreign-born inhabitants, 1,270,000. The foreign-born population of New York city has increased 330,000 in ten years, and the native-born population in the same period has increased 647,000, nearly twice as much. The per entage of foreign-born inhabitants in 1900 was 36.95, or one and a quarter per cent less than in 1900. Ten years ago there were 55,000 Russians in New York, now there are 150,000, a gain of 100,000. Ten years ago there were 50,-000 Italians in New York, and now there are 145,000. Those of other nationalities increased during the decade as follows: Poles, from 9,000 to 32,000; Hungarians, from 13,000 to 31,000: Swedes and Norwegians, from 23,000 to 40,000; Bohemians, from 8,000 to 15,-000, and Chinese, from 2,800 to 6,000. Germans now form the largest foreignborn element in the city. The English, Scotch and French again did not increase their numbers during the decade, while the proportion of Irish was actually less in 1900 than in 1890. During the decade new colonies were formed of Canadians, Roumanians and Syrians.

A Postmaster's Discovery.

Lancaster, N. Y., April 21st.-Mr. John Remers, postmaster of this village, was taken with Diabetes four years ago. For two years he doctored with local physicians as well as several specialists from Buffalo, but got no better. Indeed he was gradually growing worse.

He stopped taking the doctors' medicine and commenced a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He used in all about ten boxes and is as strong and well to-day as ever he was.

He attributes his recovery to nothing but Dodd's Kidney Pills, and says: "If I could only talk five minutes to every one who has Diabetes I am sure I could convince them that they need. n't suffer a moment longer when Dodd's Kidney Pills are on sale in ev. ery drug store.

"I will cheerfully answer any letters from sick men or women, as I think every Diabetes sufferer should be toldof Dodd's Kidney Pills, the remedy that saved my life."

REPEAL COUNTERVAILING DUTY

Gestleman from Ohio Asserts That in Voting for the Morris Amendment the Becalchrants Demonstrated Their Inability to Protect Their Own Interests.

Washington, April 21.-Conciliatory actics are to be followed by the Republican leaders in the house to remite the party, temporarily disorganhed by the nght over the Cuban reciprocity bill. There are many sores which may never be healed, but it is hoped that personal animosities may be subordinated to party discipline. The men who have been repeatedly charged with autocratically dictating mrty policy in the house and ignoring il members except the chosen few are the ones who are now making adrances for harmony. Resentment gainst the leaders still exists among the Republican insurgents. They have not been appeased. Their victory in humiliating the leaders by overruling the chair has whetted their appetites and they are hungry for battle.

Realizing that something had to be sone at once to restore discipline, it was decided to experiment first with old tactics. Gen. Grosvenor was selected to chastise the insurgents. He was given the whip, and though he eracked it loudly, he failed to secure the desired stampede. He censured and ridiculed his colleagues who voted for the Morris amendment. He treated them as amateurs in legislative affairs, who, with an objective in view, mew not how to accomplish it. He asserted that the Morris amendment vas wider in effect than they had dreamed, and quoted it in an attempt to prove that while they were attempting to remove the differential duty on refined sugar, they hau also repealed the provision under which the secretary of the treasury is empowered to levy a countervailing duty on sugar that receives a bount.

Mr. Gresvener's interpretation of the effect of the Morris amendment is indorsed by Mr. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee, and of in framing it. There is a question dated coal mine of that city a strike have the effect of repealing the law out of employment. Washington, April 21,-Senate will ake up the river and harbor approriation bill to-day, and when that measure is disposed of will resume consideration of the Philippine government bill. It is not expected that much time will be required to get the tiver and harbor bill through the senate. Senator Frye, who has charge of the bill, believes there will be no de-28 800n as it can be read. Senator Rawlins will lead off in the speechmaking in opposition to the Philippine bill. The opinion is expressed that the bill will be before the senate for at least three weeks.

The early part of this week in the iouse will be devoted to routine business, with a prospect that some important general legislation may be taken up during the latter part of the week. To-day will be devoted to District of Columbia business, Tuesday to war claims and Wednesday to the oleomargarine bill, which was recommended by the senate. During the remaining days of the week it is practically settled that the anti-anarchist bill of Chairman Ray of the judiciary committee will be considered. Plans also are on foot for considering the omnibus public building bill during the latter days of the week. The agricultural and naval appropriation bills are about ready and may be brought in at any time, and the military acadmy appropriation bill is on the calen-

Democratic (ampa'ga Plans. Washington, D. C., April 21 .-Encouraged by the success which Ridicules Their Stand and attended their efforts to unite in support of the amendment to repeal the differential on refined sugar, the Democrats have decided to hold another caucus. This evening they will meet and discuss the Philippine government bill, which is soon to be taken up for consideration in the house The great weakness of the Democrats in congress in recent years is their refusal to bind themselves to caucus action, and the result has been that the party has been divided on most questions of importance. An earnest effort will be made at the caucus to induce all members of the party to stand together on the Philippine question, which is to be an issue in the coming congressional elections and will be given a prominent place in the next congressional campaign.

Seeks Tariff Revision. Washington, April 21.-Tariff revision is now in the air. Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, who offered the free hide bill as an amendment to the Cuban measure, gave notice that he would attempt to get a Republican caucus to appoint a committee to sit through the recess or congress, investigating the tariff question, frame a bill looking to general revision of the Dingley schedule, and report it back to the caucus when congress reassembles in November.

The building itself was damaged $15,000, and the aggregate losses to the tenants will be $10,000.

Kansas City Has $75,000 Fire.

Kansas City, Mo., April 21.-Fire visited the southwestern part of this city, laying waste a section of dwelling houses almost a quarter of a mile long and a block wide, and doing damage to the amount of $75,000. John Stinne of Quincy, Ill., a spectator, was fatally injured by a falling piece of iron and Edward Bennett, a fireman, was overcome by heat.

About fifty dwelling-houses were destroyed and sixty more families rendered homeless. A high wind, amounting almost to a gale, was blowing, and the flames spread with alarming rapidity. Burning embers were blown more han half a mile. After three hours' hard fighting the fire was under control. Many persons lost all their belongings. Much furniture and other property was destroyed after having been piled in supposed places of safety.

Later advices say that the government has begun the practice of artificially feeding the prisoners who are trying to starve themselves. The young clerk, named Orloff, who was compromised in the revolutionary movement and who hanged himself in prison, belonged to a group of prisoners who refused food and were artificially fed.

A Traverse City Crime.

Mrs. John A. Hargreaves, aged 46. was found in a bedroom of her residence in Traverse City Monday morning with her head horribly contused and marks on her throat, which looked as if she had been choked in a struggle. Her husband says that they arose about 6:30 a. m., and after he had partly assisted in dressing her, she asked him to make a fire in the kitchen stove. He says that after a few moments he heard screams, and returning to the bedroom found his wife tumbling about in a fit. He grappled her and they tumbled about together, her head striking against a door and dresser. The police were summoned and a coroner's inquest held. The verdict was "Death by violence by unknown hands, to be determined by a court." The walls of the room are spattered with blood and there is a lorge pool of blood on the carpet. Blood is also splashed on the bed clothing. Hargreaves is in jail.

Cubans Raise a Howl,

An order issued by Governor General Wood provides that judges and prosecuting officers cannot be dismissed from office except for crime or for other serious cause, and never without a hearing. As under the Platt amendment the Cuban republic must recognize all orders issued by the American military government as law, this order virtually means a life At Nacogdockes Texas, six brick tenure of office for the present judges and prosecuting attorneys. The Alleged Philippine Crucities, As a result of the consideration by the cabinet of the charges of cruel treatment of Filipinos by United States soldiers, Secretary Root has instructed the adjutant general of the army to order General Smith tried by court-martial if the facts can be established that Major Waller, of the Marine Corps, was ordered to kill and burn; that the more be killed and burned the better pleased Gen. Smith would be; that it was no time to take prisoners, and that when Maj. Waller asked Gen. Smith to define the age limit for killing he replied:

"Everything over 10." The secretary also orders the most searching investigation of the charges made by Major Gardener that the form of torture known as the "water cure" was administered to the presidente of the town of Igbarras, Iloilo province, island of Panay, by a detachment of 18th United States Infantry under command of Lieut. Arthur L. Conger, under orders of Maj. Edwin F. Falcont the Choice,

Archbishop Falconi, the papal delegate in Canada, has been definitely selected to succeed Cardinal Martinelli, the papal delegate to the United States. This appointment will not be officially announced, however, until the meeting of the consistory next October. It was felt that Archbishop Falconi's experience in Canada, his learning, his command of the English language and his diplomatic abilities especially fitted him for the Washington post.

Stabbed Wife in Prison Cell.

Henry Cross, a negro who was recently indicted for murder in the first degree at Washington C. H., O., for beating his adopted child to death, probably fatally stabbed his wife and attempted to kill himself at the county jail. Mrs. Cross went to the jail to see Cross and was left alone with him for a short time. While the jailer was gone, Cross attacked his wife with a knife, and then cut his own throat. The woman will die, but Cross probably will survive.

CHAPTER L.

In the Street of the Steen, It all happened in quaint old Antwerp, and Charlie Stuart found reason to believe that seldom in romance or history had a more singular adventure befallen a pilgrim from London than chanced to his lot on this same day.

The morning was half spent and Stuart found himself somewhat at a loss to know what he should turn to next for amusement. He had idled in the markets, discovering new and attractive features constantly; had been through the various museums and picture galleries-in short, exhausted the sights of old Antwerp, and was on the point of considering his exodus, which would occur just as omb trouble by using Lydia E. soon as he could make up his mind where his next objective point on the map of Europe or the world would be.

> Then it was that Fortune, fickle jade, took the pilgrim from London by the throat as it were, and radically changed the whole course of his exist-

As he stood there idly twisting his blonde mustache, he became aware of the fact that someone was bearing down upon him at a swift pace, some one whose quick, energetic movements reminded him irresistibly of a hawk pouncing upon its prey-someone who held out a hand in eager greeting and seemed bubbling over with animal spirits.

Stuart welcomed him eagerly. His name was Barnaby-Artemus Wycherly Claude Barnaby-and his profession that of an amateur dramatic novelist. It was simply astonishing. the weird fancies generated in that erratic brain of his, each of which exceeded all others in phantas.nagorie and, it must be confessed, sometimes ludicrous splendor.

"Just the man of all England I wanted to see. Consider it a lucky omen, by Jove, to run across you in this manner. I'm going to en ist your sympathy and co-operation in a little scheme I have on foot, my boy, and,

"Well, I don't know about that; but what wild, hair-brained scheme have you on foot at present?"

"Charlie, I've run across the noblest theme for a startling drama that ever bobbed up in anybody's path. Why, it actually opens an opportunity for fame and fortune to the gifted genius who has boldness enough to grasp the chance." "You have, of course, visited the Steen, that great castle down the street yonder, once a prison of the Inquisition, now a museum. Did you take a guide with lighted flambeaus and explore the frightful dungeons under the castle, each cell and corridor of which seems to exhale hideous memories of the tortures inflicted upon unfortunate prisoners in the Dark Ages, when Spanish cruelty ruled this country with an iron hand?"

Stuart replied in the negative. His artist soul had feasted on the treasures which lay littered about the courtya d of the onetime palace; but the musty dungeons he had but hastily surveyed, being naturally averse to the contemplation of such horrors.

"Oh, I am glad of that," said Artemus, eagerly, "for you will be better prepared to accompany me to those same dungeons now."

"The deuce!" exclaimed Charlie, taken aback; but, not in the least disconcerted, the other went on:

"Tell me, have you heard the story or rumor that is circulated here and there through certain circles about a modern man in the Iron Mask supposed to be incarcerated in the Steen

"I remember hearing some little talk about such a thing, but really never pursued the subject."

"Briefly, then, it has long been whispered that there was recently. and may still continue to be, a secret prisoner confined in a lonely dungeon under yonder massive pile of masonry-a man whose face is forever hidden behind an iron mask that is secured by a padlock. I have reached the conclusion that this man of mystery might be some troublesome heir to the German throne, or else a son of Louis Napoleon. Think for a minute what wonderful possibilities this vista opens to the dramatist! It is quite enough to inspire the dullest mind! And I am resolved to explore those ancient dungeons personally, as no one has ever done before, with the secretly avowed purpose of learning whether I may found my great drama upon a truth, or the mere fabric of a Dutch legend. And you will accompany me, my boy, out of pure philanthropy, to share in the exhilaration of success"-touching a suspicious bottlelike package he carried under his left arm-"or to support me in case of exasperating failure." Charlie Stuart could not say him nay; he really had nothing on foot whereby to kill time, and Artemus was such a jolly and original dog that the pleasure of his society for a space of time.

So, hesitating, he fell.

And, thus sauntering down the street of the Steen, the two friends arrived in the shadow of the 'great centuries into the dim past. Together they entered, like other pilgrims desirous of gazing upon the art treasures which lay within those ancient walls.

building whose history stretched back

Charlie had seen all these before, and cast but a casual glance around, being more deeply interested in the actions of his confederate.

An old dame with her wide cap started toward them, but one glance from Artemus' eyes seemed to bring about a decided change in her intentions, for she stood still, and then backed away. It was a signal victory, or, as Arte-mus expressed it, a "howling success;" nevertaeless, his companion was still fain to believe the magic of gold had more to do with the old lady's sudden blindness than the exertion of rare hypnotic powers on the part of the proud wizard. Content to follow the other's lead,

Charlie soon found himself in that apartment where several tall brass candlesticks stood upon an antique table, to be used in exploring the mysteries below.

Artemus motioned that he should straightway possess himself of one, in order that their candles might have a proper receptacle, and Char.ie, having enlisted for the war, come weal, come woe, took up the nearest of the lot. which was in itself a treasure of art.

Nervously Artemus tried several keys in rapid succession, muttering to himself the while in a way peculiar to him. At last came a little subdued screech that announced success on the part of the chattering idiot at his side. They were evidently in for it, since the ponderous door opened before them.

Charlie was not the one to hold back, so he stepped beyond the portal and went down. Immediately the door closed, and the clang of it was unlike any sound you can depend upon it, I won't take he could ever remember hearing. 'no' for an answer, so consider your- | That creaking, rusty key turned in "Now," said Artemus, in a shrill voice, pregnant with eager anticipation, "now we are in control, and the devil dungeons of the Steen must yield up their ghastly secrets to a master."

Down the venerable stairs they wended their way. Could those same steps have been gifted with the power of speech, what strange and startling tales they might have given forth, of human misery, of historical personages and deeds that would have made the bravest cheeks pale. But they were mute. The dread secrets of the dim past would ever be safe in their keeping. "Hark!"

Artemus uttered this word in a shrill whisper, and at the same time ciutched his companion's arm. Their surroundings were so earle that it was not wonderful that his vivid imagination seized upon the slightest pretext to arouse the ghosts that had lain here for long centuries.

"What you hear is only the gurgling of the river Sheldt beneath our feet. At the foot of the worn stone staircase we descended there is a trap in the solid stone, through which opening many a wretched condemned man met his fate. Yes, it was only the fretful flood you heard crying peevishly for more victims."

assured the other. "Perhaps you are right; but it sounded wonderfully like a human

voice calling for help." Thus in tiers the dungeons lay, each individual one seeming to surpass its predecessors in awful associations. Long had they been at their task.

The regular routine pursued by tourist and guide had been done; but there were other dark passages to explore, gloomy as the river Styxpassages that the ordinary voyager never saw, but which Artemus was bound to investigate; for if perchance there was a grain of truth in the story he had heard, surely the prisoner of the Iron Mask must be found in such an unused quarter. Charlie began to feel a bit anxious. He was about ready to confess that for one he had quite enough of it. and only figured on how he might manage to curb this insatiate ambition on the part of his companion,

The task was taken from his hands. however, and in a most unexpected

Artemus was eagerly urging him on to "fresh fields and pastures new." while Charlie held the other in check, fearful lest they fall into some horrible pit, with rusty spikes at the bottom, such as they had discovered in one dungeon, when, suddenly, without warning, there came to their ears a sound so strange in this uncanny region, so utterly out of sympathy with their surroundings, that both men stood still, as though paralyzed -and the sound was as of a woman

CHAPTER IL What They Found. Charlie well who had reason to be- vertebrates.

Although always gallant toward the fair sex, he seemed to be ever on his guard, as though quite determined no mortal who wore petticoats should have a second opportunity to play battledore and shuttlecock with his heart.

But this was something entirely out of the common run; and as he stood there listening, to make sure there could be no mistake, he felt an electric thrill pervade his whole being, such as he never before experienced.

Charlie determined to go forward He was surprised at himself for the peculiar resolution that urged him on. It seemed as though he were being dragged forward by some inexorable fate, whether he would or not.

And the sound of sobbing still continued, stealing along the gaunt passageways. The darkness beyond was apparently as fearfully dense as that which descended upon poor, plaguestricken Egypt at the time Pharaoh declined to let the children of Israel

As Charlie advanced he noted that the sound, which had erstwhile reached their hearing but faintly, grew more distinct. Thus he was presently able to place the sobbing, and, still advancing, he began to discern the dim outlines of a figure upon the

As he drew closer he saw that this was a girl in a long cloak, and that she had hidden her face in her hands, as though to shut out the ghostly figures conjured up by the gloom.

One thing was very sure-when Artemus, in the earlier stages of their exploration, declared he heard a faint shout, it had not been the gurgle of the greedy Sheldt gliding underneath the crypts and corridors, as he (Charlie) had so confidently declared, but in all probability, this lost explorer calling for nelp. Well, thank God they had found her, and were in a position to render her the assistance she craved. After all, it had not been such a wildgoose chase as he had believed when yielding to the importunities of his adventurous comrade. They advanced closer still.

As yet the distresse, one was not aware of their presence, or the blessed answer to her prayers. Her attitude of abandon was most effective, and Charlie could not but think what a charming picture she made there, overwhelmed, not by grief, but the terror of her situation. It was not intentional on Artemus' part, but some sudden chill draught caused him to give a vociferous

This was instantly followed by a little shrick as the girl's hands fell from her face, and she turned a pair of very large and very startled eyes upon the two comrades.

It was, of course, Caarlie's bounden duty to immediately speak and reassure the alarmed fraulien that they were flesh and blood like herself, and not spirits of the olden martyrs who had met deaths of torture in these dungeons; but for the life of him, and perhaps for the first time in the course of his whole experience, he could not say a word.

For the soft light of his waxen taper fell full upon the face that had until now been hidden behind the girl's hands-a face that, tear-marked as it was, and more or less begrimed from contact with foul walls during her groping in the dark, electrified him with its peculiar charm of beauty, and started his traitor heart to beating as it had not done these many moons, since he had quitted the presence of another fair woman, with bitterness against the whole sex raging in his besom.

Costume for a Bride.

The slender, girlish bride who desires softness and fluffiness in her wedding gown and yet has a penchant for smart Louis Quinze effects will choose a draped skirt of embroidered mousseline de soie, its deep double flounces being festooned across the bottom in a charming and graceful manner and caught at intervals with clusters of orange blossoms. Her coat may be of handsome brocade and it will be simply ornamented with a fichu of embroidered mousseline.

Green the Prevailing Color.

Green is the color of the spring and it appears in all shades. Mercerized gingham, German linen or French chambray are ten times its durability. Silk ginghams, striped or figured, to be made in combination with plain gingham, are effective, and are made up by fashionable modistes with all the elaboration of foulard costumes, and such toilettes are considered in perfectly good form for afternoon teas or for church.

Corded Brilliantine.

A charming white fabric for shirtwaist suits, also very light weight, is corded brilliantine. It is striped, a triple-cord stripe, alternating with an inch-wide stripe composed of satiny serpentine bayadere stripes. This is lots of description for a really simple effect, but nothing less would tell the story. This costs 45 cents per yard and has the glossy quality which makes brilliantine popular.

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless—Cured by Peruna.

MRS. ANNA B. FLEHARTY, recent Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters, at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, when living, was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, at Lincoln, Neb.

In a letter written from 401 Sixty-seventh street. W.. Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Fleharty says the following in regard to Peruna:

"Having lived a very active life as wife and working partner of a busy minister. my health failed me a few years ago. I leat my health failed me a few years ago. I lost my husband about the same time, and gradually I seemed to lose healt; and spirit. My daughter is a confirmed invalid, and we both felt great need of an invigorator. "One of my neighbors advised me to try Peruna. A bottle was immediately secured and a great change took place in my daughter's as well as in my own health. Our appetites improved very greatly, the digestion see med much helped, and restful sleep soon improved us, so that we seemed like new women.

"I would not be without Peruna for en times its cost."-Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty.

What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the e.vic organs are the cause of most cases of emale disease.

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's great physicians to make this di-covery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women, and long ago he rea hed the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female disease. He therefore began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now beome the most famous remedy for female diseases ever known. Everywhere the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna. Mrs. E. L. Brown 329 Elliott street, Memphis. Tenn , writes:

A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring skin, scalp, and blood humours, eczemas, rashes, itchings, and irritations, with loss of hair, when the best physicians, and all other remedies fail.

MILLIONS USE CUTICURA

Assisted by CUTICURA OINTMENT, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Millions of Women use CUTICURA SOAP in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and excoriations, for too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers. No other medicated soap is to be compared with CUTICURA for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other f reign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, the DEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

The secret was an open one, and all the ship knew that close m the starboard here, almost touching them perhaps, was a low, hostile shore, where were eyes as vigilant and heen as their own, and that, were their presence known or suspected, the mission of the ship would be frusestily. "If they did, they would. But what are we to do? We've got to get away from here before daylight." "Maybe a boat-" began another officer; but the captain cut him short. "Wouldn't do at all under the circomstances," he declared, "the shore may be ten rods away, and it may be two miles, and we don't know the enemy's position. A boat would make more or less noise, and in a haphazard search for a landing would be sure to be heard. Captain Bixby is of course at his old camp on the other of the river, a mile in the interfor. If he could show a light for an instant, we could make directly for it, some one slip from the boat near the shore and steal through the undergrewth to the camp. A few seconds would acquaint Bixby with the fact that Gen. Clay is fifty miles up the coast, marching toward him, and before morning he could have his men and the women and children well on the way toward safety. So far the esemy have counted on starvation as an easy and effectual means of subjugation. Neither they nor Bixby suspect the General is even in the country. But by to-morrow night the enemy's scouts will discover his presence, and then-well, it will be a quick rush and another day of horror for the people who read the newspapers. This sort of foe doesn't know the meaning of civilized warfare." The sailor looked up from the hal-yard he was winding. "I'm a good swimmer, sir," he said, significantly. The captain regarded him keenly for a moment, then shook his head. "You don't understand these Southen waters," he answered. "They are fall of sharks. You wouldn't live to get a boat's length from the ship." "But there are many lives in danger over yonder," the sailor urged. and some of them are women and children. I'm only one. Perhaps I night get through. If I did, I'd show a light for one instant to let you know that everything was all right and that you could put on steam to join Gen. Clay and hurry to meet us."

But the captain again shook his head decisively. "There's isn't a chance of succeeding," he said; "If there were, you should go. But I don't feel that I have the right to sacrifice a life uselessly. No, we will cruise back and forth until two hours before daylights the present of lose of before daylight; then, if no means have been found to communicate with Bixby, we will put on full steam to join Gen. Clay. If we can get a re-enforcement of a few hundred men. we will hasten back and effect a landing. We may be in time to help highly that way, either by driving the enemy back or holding them in check until the General arrives."

The sailor did not answer. And apparently he thought the halyard sufficiently wound, for as the captain ceased speaking he walked aft. But he did not seek other work; instead, he slipped down to the lower deck and continued aft until he found a place near the rail where he was alone. It took but a moment to fasten the end of a rope into one of the rail rings, test it, and drop the other end overboard. It was not long enough to reach the water, he knew; but he had no time to seek another. However, it was even shorter than he supposed, for when he reached the end of it, opposite a circle of light which came from one of the ship's port holes, he found the water many feet below.

When he rose he was far from the vessel.

But he was too expert a diver and swimmer not to know how to enter the water from that distance without making a splash. Letting himself hang rigidly at full length, with his toes bent downward and close together, to form a point, he released the rope and shot into the water like a wedge, leaving scarcely a ripple upon the surface. When he rose he was twenty yards from the vessel. Presently he glanced over his shoulder at the few lights about the ship's decks, and the two or three that showed through her ports, wondering if they would be significant to the enemy. But he decided that they would not. - Most of the ship's lights had been extinguished, and the few remaining would doubtless be thought lights of their own boats or of some wandering fisher or sponger. An hour later the captain and his officers were at the same place on deck, still anxious and undecided. Suddenly one of them uttered a low exclamation and pointed into the darkness. 'Look yonder at that light," he cried, waying as though it might be a signal. I wonder what it can benot Captain Bixby."

"No," said the captain with puzzled speculation in his voice. "It's not far enough away. There, it has disappeared." Then a sudden, comprehending, exultant ring came into his voice as he demanded: "Where's that sailor, Barton? Some of you go and find him, quick!"

Two of the officers hurried away. Ten minutes later they returned. "We have had the entire vessel searched, sir," one of them reported, "but Barton is not to be found anywhere. He must have fallen overboard."

"Dropped overboard, you mean," said the captain dryly. "He's slipping through the underbrush toward Bixby's camp by this time. Go tell the engineer to put on all steam. We'll get to Gen. Clay as quick as we can now."

What Is the True Woman ? "Perfect woman, nobly planned, to warn, to comfort and command," described by Wordsworth as the ideal of his age, meets with various definations at the dawn of the twentieth century. Kipling called her in "The Vampire," "a rag and a bone and a hank of hair," but this has not been accepted as the last word. Maeterlink is rather nicer, when he speaks of her as 'the only mystic." Meredith says that by virtue of her abundant hair she is more of a vegetable than man. Isobel Osborne Stevenson, the stepdaughter of Robert Louis Stevenson, voiced one notion of womanhood at a tea given in her honor by Professor Eugene Lamb Richards of Yale, She had spoken of Mrs. Stevenson as about the perfect woman. Some one asked if she could write. "No," was the reply. A fire of questions developed the admissions that Mrs. Stevenson was not peculiarly gifted in any artistic direction, and that she had no Easton, Mass., an institution of her great interest in charities or women's clubs. "Just what is your mother's specialty?" finally asked a young tutor's wife. "Oh," replied Mrs. Strong, "she can roll cigarettes and talk to Suffered 18 Years with Itching Piles-Cured by Pazo Pile Ointment.

Some two months ago I purchased from Mr. D. A. Barton, druggist, a box of Pazo Pile Ointment for the cure of Piles. I wish to make the statement that I have suffered with Itching Piles for the last eighteen years and have purchased salve after salve and would get only temporary relief. The druggist called my attention to Pazo Ointmont. I have not used up one box yet, but feel cretain in saying that the Ointment has entirely cured me, and I fully recommend it to others suffering with Piles for I know whereof I speak.

A. T. MOORE, Gallipolis, Ohio.

Bleeding Piles Cured by Pazo Ointment.

Fou remember I wrote you in my first letter that I had been bothered with Piles, both bleeding and protruding, for twenty-five years. I have used every Pile cure on the market without relief, but now, after using nearly one box, I find the bleeding has stopped. I have not noticed any trouble of this kind for ten days, and believe that the Paso Cintment will effect a complete cure. Enclosed find 50c in stamps, for which please send me another package.

Piles of 25 Years' Standing Cured by Pazo Pile Ointment

Enclosed find 50c for the box of Pazo Ointment you so kindly sent me. It has done all you claimed it would, and did I not know that I could get another box at any time, I would not take $10.00 for it.

After suffering with piles for twenty-five years and having tried numerous 'sure cure' Pils remedies, I nevestruck the right thing before Pazo Ointment gave instant relief and I have every reason to believe that I am permanently cured of the Piles. I recommend Pazo to every person I hear complaining of this trouble.

W. S. HOBSON, Paint Creek, W. Va.

Says Pazo Ointment Is Worth Fifty Dollars. i received a box of your Ointment which cost 50e but has been worth $50.00 to me. I want another box for myself, and also one for Mr. G. S. Smith, of this place.

My case is of thirty years' standing, and I believe your Pano Ointment is going to effect a cure. In fact, it has already cured me for the present, and if it does not come back on me I will be all right. I feel a little tinge of it once in a while, but am grateful for the relief it has given me.
