PLEASANT PRATERAL VISIT.

Chelsea Masons Had a Good Time at Manchester Monday Night.

The officers and members of Olive Lodge, F. & A. M., to the number of 40, paid a fraternal visit to Manchester Lodge, No. 148, Monday evening, and had a fine time and pleasant visit although through unforeseen circumstances they did not get home as soon as they expected to. The third degree was worked by the Chelseaites the candidate being Dr. B. A. Tracy. Just as the ceremony was about to begin the doctor received an urgent summons to attend a very sick patient and the young man was so sick that it was 2 1/2 hours before the doctor got back. After the lodge work was done a supper was served to the visitors and a few short speeches were made by J. H. Kingley and F. M. Freeman, of Manchester, and Revs. E. E. Caster and C. S. Jones, of Chelsea.

Kelly-Zulke.

The marriage ceremony of Mr. William Kelly and Miss Johanna Zulke was celebrated at St. Mary's church at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning by Rev. W. P. Conidine in the presence of a large number of the young people. Between 90 and 100 of the young ladies' society, of which the bride is the vice president, were present to wish their friend and co-laborer goodspeed in her new relations. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Rose Zulke, and the groom's best man was his nephew Mr. Barnabas Hagan, of Detroit. After the ceremony a bounteous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. August Zulke, on West Middle street. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were the recipients of many pretty presents from their friends among which were plentiful showers of rice as they left on the 7:15 a. m. train for Detroit for a brief wedding trip. They go to housekeeping in part of Jay M. Woods' house on North street which is all ready furnished for their occupancy.

Electric Freight Cars Running.

S. J. Dell, superintendent of the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor & Jackson railway, informs the Herald that freight service was opened between Jackson and Detroit on Monday, April 28. East of Ann Arbor the service will be continued as at present. Cars will leave Ann Arbor going west at 11:45 a. m. and 4:45 p. m., and arrive at Jackson at 1:45 p. m. and 6:45 p. m. Cars will leave Jackson at 9:15 a. m. and 3:45 p. m. and arrive at Ann Arbor at 11:15 a. m. and 4:45 p. m. and arrive at Detroit at 4 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The cars arrive in Chelsea from the east about 1:00 and 6:00 p. m., and from the west about 10:00 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

The "Bees" Swarmed.

Forty-two members of Arbor Hive, L. O. T. M., of Ann Arbor, headed by their lady commander, Miss Emma E. Bower, and the officers and drill corps, came to Chelsea Tuesday evening on a visit to Columbia Hive. The ladies arrived about 8 o'clock and went at once to the K. O. T. M. hall, where the degree work of the order was done by Arbor Hive in a most efficient and praiseworthy manner. After the conclusion of the work ice cream and cake were served and a general social good time was had. The Ann Arborites returned home about 11 o'clock well pleased with their visit to Chelsea.

Fire at the Poor House.

The county poor house in Pittsfield, caught fire from a stove in the lower kitchen Saturday morning and the blaze ran along under the men's main sitting room. There are about 40 inmates and most of them are old people. The men were gotten out, but the women's department was not disturbed. Supt. Shankland attached a hose to a water tank with 2,000 barrels of water at his command, and extinguished the flames. Nobody was injured.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS

CONGRESSIONAL.

In the senate on the 24th Senator Rawlins continued his speech against the Philippine temporary government bill. In the house a resolution was offered to abolish duties on meat and poultry imported from foreign countries. A bill was reported to increase the pension of the widow of Gen. Lawton from $30 to $50 a month. A resolution was offered to investigate the unusual increase in the price of beef, mutton, veal and pork, and consideration of the senate amendments to the oleomargarine bill was begun.

The senate passed 78 private pension bills on the 24th and a bill was introduced to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in all government buildings. Senator Rawlins concluded his speech in opposition to the Philippine government bill. In the house the oleomargarine bill was sent to conference after agreeing to the senate amendments, and the agricultural appropriation bill was considered.

In the senate on the 25th Senator McCumber, chairman of the committee on manufactures, spoke at length on his bill "to prevent the adulteration, misbranding and imitations of food, beverages, condiments, drugs and cosmetics." Senator Carmack occupied the rest of the day with a speech against the Philippine government bill. In the house 145 private pension bills were passed, including bills to pension the widow of Gen. William Ludlow at $50 a month and the widow of "Parson" Brownlow of Tennessee, at $30 a month. The remainder of the day was devoted to general debate on the agricultural appropriation bill.

On the 26th Senator Carmack completed his speech in the senate against the Philippine government bill. The house devoted an hour to the passage of bills and for the remainder of the session listened to tributes to the memories of the late Representative Stokes, of South Carolina, and the late Representative Crump, of Michigan.

Our Fight for the Philippines

A Review of the Contest That Began in Manila Bay, May 1, 1898.

Battle of Manila Bay

May 1 four years ago Admiral Dewey won his memorable victory in Manila Bay that gave to this country a new island empire in the far east. The enthusiasm with which the news of this victory was hailed in the United States has seldom, if ever, been equaled since the day that marked the close of the long civil war. So great has been its effect upon American policies that we can afford to pause for a moment to rehearse its important details.

The admiral, then a commodore, was a man of action, and no sooner did he receive the news that war had been declared than he sailed from Hong-Kong with his squadron, consisting of the Olympia, his flagship, Capt. Charles V. Gridley, the Raleigh, Capt. Joseph B. Coghlan; the Baltimore, Capt. Nehemiah M. Dyer; the Boston, Capt. Frank Wildes; the Monocacy, Commander Oscar W. Farenholt; the Concord, Commander Asa Walker, and the Petrel, Commander Edward P. Wood, for Manila.

The Spanish fleet was lying at Cavite in Manila bay when the intrepid American sailor entered to give battle. He was an unexpected guest, the Spaniards not being used to such energy as it took to put the American fleet into the Philippine harbor at so early a date. They had failed to prepare for his reception and he sailed past Corregidor island, containing what was supposed to be impregnable defenses, almost before the garrison were aware of his presence in the vicinity. It was not until after his last ship was well past that they thought to give battle to the daring Yankees and then sent a few harmless shots after them.

Day had not yet broken when Cavite was reached, and Dewey quietly awaited its coming. When the sun rose in the east instead of immediately beginning the destruction of the Spanish ships that lay before him the daring sailor preferred to play with his enemy, and so weighed anchor and sailed up to the defenses of Manila with which he exchanged a few shots as a matter of international courtesy, then returned to give more detailed attention to the Spanish fleet.

It was early even when he got back again to Cavite, so early that it was only 19 minutes past six, when, with the Olympia 5,500 yards from the enemy's ships, he uttered those historic words:

"When you are ready, Gridley, fire."

Instantly the eight-inch guns of the good cruiser broke forth in smoke and flame, and began raining a shower of steel projectiles upon the Spanish ships. Gradually the American fleet drew closer. Submarine mines exploded in front of them, but they did not waver. The Spanish gunners answered the challenge of the Olympia's guns with a shower of projectiles of equal size, but without doing any considerable damage. As the American boats got within closer range the smaller guns added their roar to that of the larger ones, and the terrific fire was kept up until 7:35 when Dewey felt that he had had enough for a beginner, and not wanting to spoil a good thing too soon, quit for breakfast, and a pull at the pipe or cigar.

It was not until 10:50 that he again went at the Spaniards. He had furnished sufficient sport for his sailormen, and now intended to finish the job in a hurry and put the enemy out of their misery without further loss of time, and before it could interfere with his dinner arrangements. The midday meal would be served aboard the flagship at one, and it was necessary that the job be completed and the muzzles cleared up before that time. To accomplish this every gun, big and little, that could be brought into play, was used, and it was but little more than an hour before all of the Spanish ships were either lying at the bottom of the bay or destroyed, and at 12:30 a white flag run up over the Spanish batteries at Cavite proclaimed their surrender.

As they do things on board an American man-of-war 30 minutes was ample time in which to attend to the wants of the few slightly wounded and prepare dinner to which Admiral Montojo was invited, but declined.

The Spanish loss was 12 ships—their entire Asiatic squadron—and 618 men either killed or wounded.

For that little morning's work Admiral Dewey gave to the United States something like 125,000 square miles of territory, and secured for himself the thanks of the American people and the rank of admiral in the American navy—and not an American sailorman killed or an American vessel seriously injured.

Our War in the Philippines

Dewey's victory at Cavite, followed by the combined land and naval fight that resulted in the surrender of Manila to Gen. Merritt and the American forces on August 13, gave to this country new and untried problems with which to deal. As in Cuba Spain had encountered for almost a century almost continuous revolutions on the part of the natives, fighting for almost the same reasons that prompted the patriots of Cuba. The victories of May 1 and of August 13, 1898, relieved Spain of her vast colonial territories, but at the same time it transferred from her to the United States the rebellious subjects that had given her just troubles for a century.

On the evening of February 4, 1899, at 8:30 o'clock was fired the first shot in the revolution of the Filipino soldiery against American occupation, a revolution that has continued to the present time, though is now, after almost two and a half years' fighting, seemingly near a close.

The Filipinos demanded absolute independence of the American people, and that this country refused to grant. That, in a concise way, may be accepted as the cause of the present rebellion in the Philippines. During the three days following the firing of the first shot the American troops drove the insurgents from the line of defenses they occupied outside Manila and secured possession of the suburbs of the city. During this three days of fighting 13,000 American troops were opposed to Aguinaldo's army of 20,000 Filipinos.

The battle of Pagsanjan, on March 13, was the next important engagement between the two forces. It was early in March that the advance on the rebel capital at Malolos was begun. The first fight of this campaign was on March 20 at Malinta, and this was followed by the capture of Malolos on March 31, but Aguinaldo had moved his government to San Fernando, and upon his departure fired the government buildings. The victory was a signal one, however, as it resulted in the capture of substance stores valued at one and a half million dollars.

The American troops continued to push northward toward the new rebel capital rapidly, and on April 10 was fought the battle of Santa Cruz, which place was captured on April 25, and on May 5 San Fernando fell into the hands of the American troops. The capture of this place practically closed the campaign to the north of Manila until the close of the rainy season. Gen. Lawton's command returned to Gen. MacArthur's lines on May 24 after having marched a distance of 120 miles, fought 22 engagements, taken 28 towns, captured and destroyed 300,000 bushels of rice, and with a loss of only 6 killed and 35 wounded.

But the intrepid officer, who was later to lose his life in the conflict, was not allowed to rest his troops. He was assigned to command an expedition against Gen. Pio del Pilar, who was operating around the shores of Laguna de Bay, and from the third of June to the thirteenth of the same month succeeded in driving the insurgents not only from the shores of this body of water, but from around the shores of Manila bay as well, and soon after had driven the enemy from every stronghold in Cavite province.

MAJ. GEN. ARTHUR MACARTHUR.
Second American Military Governor of the Philippines.

Gen. MacArthur opened the second campaign to the north of Manila on August 9, when he moved against Angeles. Bacolor was first captured, and on August 16 the army arrived before the intrenchments at Angeles. The place was captured with a loss of but two killed and 12 wounded. During the same time Gen. Young had taken the towns of San Mateo, Balicuas and Quingua.

While American troops had been fighting the insurgents in Luzon the rebellion had spread to other islands and insurgent garrisons had been established in Panay, Leyte, Cebu, Negros, Samar and other islands. Gen. Miller had captured Iloilo on February 11; Bacolod, in Negros, was taken by Col. Smith, and on February 21 Cebu was taken by Capt. Cornwall, of the Petrel. On August 24 Gen. Bates returned to Manila from the Sulu group and announced the signing of an agreement with the sultan extending American authority over the entire group.

Campaign followed campaign rapidly, but there was little severe fighting for the American troops. On October 2, 1899, came the first overtures for peace on the part of the insurgents, but the attempt was looked upon by American officers merely as an effort to gain some recognition of the Filipino government and was futile of any result.

GEN. A. R. CHAFFEE.
Present American Military Commander in the Philippines.

On November 1 a movement was begun against Tarlac, then the insurgent capital. Malabacat was the first place captured, and on the following day, November 9, San Fabian fell into American hands, and Tarlac was captured on November 12, but Aguinaldo and his government had moved. The following day the insurgents were attacked at San Jacinto, the place being captured, but not until it had cost the life of Maj. John A. Logan. The fighting continued with but small loss to the Americans until Dagupan, the northern terminus of the railroad running from Manila, was reached on November 20. Four days later President Bautista, of the Filipino congress, surrendered himself to Gen. MacArthur and Gen. Otis telegraphed the war department at Washington that "the insurgent government could no longer claim an existence." At that time the insurgent treasurer, secretary of the interior and president of its congress were in American hands.

The American troops pushed steadily northward, and on December 5 Gen.

HON. WILLIAM H. TAFT.
First American Civil Governor in the Philippines.

Young's command arrived at Vigan, near the northwest extremity of Luzon. In order to follow the rapidly dispersing enemy Gen. Young divided his force into smaller bodies of troops and dispatched them in different directions for the purpose of capturing Gen. Tino and Gen. Del Pilar, and on December 11 Gen. Tirona surrendered the whole of the district to the American forces, Capt. McCalla, of the navy, accepting the surrender.

During the middle of December two notable events occurred. The first, on December 18, was the rescue of Lieut. Gilmore, of the navy, and his men, who had been captured near Baler, April 12, and the other was the death of Gen. Lawton, killed during the fight at San Mateo on December 19.

By the opening of the year 1900 the insurgent opposition had dwindled to but little more than a force of scattered bandits and guerrilla warfare was the rule. The northern portion of the island had been pretty generally cleared, and Gen. Schwan and Wheaton began a campaign against the insurgent forces in the south, and Gen. Bates and Bell headed an expedition which left Manila February 16 to drive the enemy from the Camarines. Both of these expeditions encountered considerable opposition from small bodies of insurgent troops, but were in the end successful in accomplishing the objects for which they were organized with but small loss of life.

The details of the campaigns of 1901 and of the present year are so fresh in the public mind that a rehearsal of their details is unnecessary. Of last year the two most important occurrences were the capture of Aguinaldo by Gen. Funston on March 23 and the establishment of civil government in the islands by the Taft commission on July 4. There has been considerable fighting since that time. The campaign in Samar, with its attendant horrors, will probably not soon be forgotten, either by the participants or the American public, and now promises to result in a number of court-martials for different army officers. The recent surrender of Gen. Malyar has seemingly virtually ended the organized opposition to American rule, and the officials at Manila are in hopes of an early and permanent peace.

Resources of the Philippines

Speaking of Philippine resources Hon. John Barrett, formerly United States minister to Siam, and an authority on all the far eastern countries, says "a richer isolated land or group of islands, viewed comparatively as to area and population, variety of agriculture, mineral and forest resources undeveloped, in addition to those already improved, cannot be pointed out on the map of the world."

That paragraph gives in a general way the wonderful resources of the Philippines. The soil of the islands is of phenomenal fertility, but its capacities have been most imperfectly developed, neither the natives or the Spaniards seemingly ever thinking of the future. When even improperly cultivated as it has been it produces bountiful crops of tropical staples, such as sugar, tobacco, rice, coconuts, gums of various kinds, arrowroot, indigo, cotton, pepper, cochineal, betelroot, areca nut, coconuts, coconut oil and the Mahila hemp so well known to commerce. Of this product between 800,000 and 700,000 bales are exported annually, of which practically one-half comes to the United States. The annual value of the hemp crop exported is about $7,000,000.

The mineral resources of the islands are as yet almost an unknown quantity. Gold, copper and coal are all found, but as yet in limited quantities. Native legends are authority for the tales of fabulously rich gold mines, but these have never been found. It is said that gold formed the chief product of Luzon as far back as the third century, and to-day it is mined in several sections of the island. Paracale is the center of the gold mining industry, and is a village that is but little known to the majority of the people of the islands excepting the Chinese traders who purchase the product of the mines and dispose of it secretly in Hong-Kong or Amoy. It is so far removed from the centers of population that even the Spanish officials, ever looking for something to tax, failed to seriously disturb it. Cebu, Mindanao, Panay and Mindanao are all said to be rich in gold deposits.

Luzon produces some copper, but the mines, all of which are worked by natives, are not of sufficient value to warrant development on a large scale, and the industry will probably continue a primitive one. There are comparatively few coal deposits known in the islands. Cebu has a limited coal belt of rather inferior quality, and another coal field of some magnitude and of better quality is located in the island of Masbate, not far from the coast. This latter field has been worked to some extent by a local steamship owner who secured fuel for his ships from this field so long as the native laborers could secure it by the use of crowbars only. When the vein ran beneath the ground, so that tunneling was necessary, the field was abandoned. Practically all the coal found in the islands, however, is not true coal but lignite, but experts claim there is no reason why the better mineral should not be found in paying quantities.

Area of the Philippines

The Philippine group contains approximately 125,000 square miles of land area, and numbers about 2,000 different islands. Of the islands Mindanao is the largest with 46,621 square miles, and Luzon second with 42,000 square miles. Either of these are larger than Ireland. Among the others of the larger islands are Mindoro, Panay, Samar, Masbate, Negros, Cebu, Leyte, Bohol and Palawan. These vary considerably in size, averaging from 6,000 square miles down to less than 3,000. Of the more than 2,000 islands there are only some 600 that are inhabited, or are large enough to support a population of any size, the majority of the others being but mere rocks or reefs.

Island of Mindanao.
Mindanao island, from which comes our latest troubles in the Philippines, promises to become a veritable paradise for fortune hunters along various lines. Its soil is probably more fertile than that of any of the other islands, and its streams and mountains are said to abound in liberal quantities of gold and other minerals. It is inhabited by the Moro tribes, all of whom are Mohammedans. Spain never succeeded in establishing anything like a staple government in the island.

Mountains of Mindanao.
Mindanao island is more or less affected by volcanic mountains. Its mountains are among the highest in the archipelago, one peak, Apo, rising to a height of 10,812 feet. This is a volcanic mountain, Malindang rises to a height of 8,560 feet, and numerous others vary in height from 8,000 feet down to 3,000 feet.

Some Philippine History

Spain must credit Magellan with her possession of the Philippines. That bold explorer sailed around Cape Horn, crossed the Pacific and landed on the island of Cebu in 1521, where he attempted to take possession in the name of Spain, but was killed in a skirmish with the natives. The ships of Magellan returned to Spain and his companions aroused an interest in the wonderful lands they had discovered, but it was not until 1565 that another attempt was made to subdue the natives and gain a foothold in the islands. At this later date a Spanish fleet sailing from Mexico punished the natives for the killing of Magellan, and formally took possession of the entire group in the name of the Spanish sovereign. Five years later the city of Manila was founded, and the different native chiefs in Luzon took the oath of allegiance to Spain.

Chinese pirates, who had virtually been the rulers of the islands for many years previous to the Spanish occupation, gave the new rulers much trouble, and disputed with them the sovereignty. Two serious attempts were made by these pirates to drive the Spanish from the islands, but both resulted disastrously to them, and in time they learned that the hated Europeans were too powerful for them.

In 1608 the Dutch attempted to wrest the control of the islands from Spain, but were unsuccessful, losing their fleet in the project. In 1762 Manila was captured by England. That country intended to hold the city, and would probably have added the whole of the archipelago to the British empire had not political combinations in Europe prevented. As it was Manila was again surrendered to Spain upon a promise to pay a ransom amounting to $5,000,000. It is a debt that England has never been able to collect.

Throughout the present century rebellions on the part of the natives have been frequent. The first serious one began in 1822, which continued for some months before it was suppressed by the Spanish troops. Another came in 1841, lasting through the following year. The next one of any consequence was that of 1872, and this was followed by the one of 1896-97, which resulted in the banishment of Aguinaldo and his followers to Hong-Kong.

Spain's Method of Government

The "little governor" was the foundation of the Spanish system of government in the Philippines. He represented the lowest rung of the official ladder, and ruled in the parish. He was an official of but little power, with but small opportunity for "graft," and whose greatest perkquisite consisted in the wearing of the official hat, a stiff, mushroom-shaped affair, liberally covered with ornaments of silver bullion. Of far more influence were the priests, an influence that was much more often exercised for good than for bad, and many evidences of their rule are to be found throughout the islands in the shape of roads and bridges. To be sure the natives were taxed for far more of these conveniences than were built, but it is a question if any would have been built had it not been for the priests.

The real government of the islands lay in the hands of the governor-general, a crown appointee. He was assisted by a council of state. The minister of the colonies at Madrid was the direct head of the government, as he was of all the Spanish colonies, but he was assisted by an advisory council for the Philippines, residing in Madrid, and to this council was specially intrusted the interests of the Philippines.

The islands could never be properly termed a Spanish colony. They were held only as a military possession. To extort money from the people, under the various forms of taxation that cunning and rapacity had devised, was the sole purpose of Spain and the business and object of the governmental officers that were maintained there. How much these extortions amounted to will never be known outside of Spanish official circles, but there were but few Spanish officials sent to the islands who did not return to Spain with a competence, the greater part of which was the result of various forms of bribery and official dishonesty.

School System Established.
A department of public instruction for the Philippines was established at Manila on January 21, 1901, and rapid progress was made during the year in the organization of free public schools. Some 800 teachers were sent to the islands from the United States. English was made the official language of the schools.

Climate of the Philippines.
A weather record kept in Manila between the years 1853-98 shows that the temperature never went beyond the 100-degree point and never fell below 60. The annual mean temperature is given as about 80 degrees.

No Time to Lose

You cannot afford to disregard the warnings of a weak and diseased heart and put off taking the prescription of the world's greatest authority on heart and nervous disorders—

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

If your heart palpitates, flutters, or you are short of breath, have smothering spells, pain in left side, shoulder or arm, you have heart trouble and are liable to drop dead any moment.

Major J. W. Woodcock, one of the best known oil operators in the country, dropped dead from heart disease recently, at his home in Portland, Ind., while mowing his lawn.—The Press.

Mrs. M. A. Birdsell, Watkins, N. Y., whose portrait heads this advertisement, says: "I write this through gratitude for benefits I received from Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I had palpitation of the heart, severe pains under the left shoulder, and my general health was miserable. A few bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure cured me entirely."

Grass Lake's Cement Co. in Trouble.

Edward J. Foster, of Grass Lake, backed by other stockholders of the zenith Portland Cement Co., organized to operate a cement factory in Grass Lake, has started suit in the Jackson circuit court to have a receiver appointed for the company.

It is charged in the bill of complaint that the directors owning most of the stock and the promoter of the company were in collusion and it is charged that five directors took $4,800 each, or $24,000, which should have been returned to the treasurer. After little over half of the stock was sold there was a bond issue of $300,000, and bonds and stock sold together to the extent of $80,000, of which the treasurer received $70,000.

There are over 100 stockholders in the company, of whom 45 are Grass Lake people. The defendants named in the bill of complaint are Robert H. Evans, Robert C. Buss, Burrows E. Rothwell, George Johnson, Edwin T. Allen, and T. E. Beebe. An injunction has been issued restraining the disposition of any property of the company, pending the suit.

Base Ball Notes.

The best game by all means on the high school schedule will be that with Wayne, May 9.

Chelsea city team defeated Ann Arbor city team here yesterday 24 to 13. Beissel, Miller and Stelzbach were the battery for Chelsea, and Gillen pitched for Ann Arbor. B. Stelzbach was the star for Chelsea.

The Junior Stars and Congregational Sunday school teams will meet in the only ball game here next Saturday at 2:30, at the Park one-quarter mile east of the D. Y., A. A. & J. waiting room. The Stars will play this season as follows: P., F. Kelly; c., Paul Bacon; 1st b., W. McFadden; 2d b., R. McGuinness; a. s., H. Foster; 3d b., R. Snyder; i. f., Emmet Carpenter; c. f., G. McNamara; r. f., B. Snyder. As the teams are evenly matched a good contest may be expected. C. Rogers will act as umpire.

COUNTY CLEANINGS.

Ann Arbor has 15 churches and 30 saloons.

Mrs. Eugene VanArsdale died Sunday at her home in Dexter aged 60 years.

There were 64 deaths in Washtenaw county during the month of March.

Manchester creamery is receiving so much milk that another separator has been put in by the company.

Henry Coe, a plowser of York township, died Sunday of blood poisoning, aged 62 years. He was born in this county in 1839.

Harlan P. Briggs, baritone singer, of Ann Arbor, will sing at the commencement exercises of the Manchester high school, June 19.

A Michigan Central freight car was robbed of five boxes of tobacco, one box of dry goods and two boxes of hardware either at Ann Arbor or Dexter Friday night.

A young bicyclist fell off his wheel in front of a moving electric car in Ann Arbor Friday evening. The prompt stopping of the car by the motorman saved his life.

Brown Bros., of Bridgewater, cut down an oak tree in their woods this winter that made six logs, four of them 10 feet long, one 12 feet long, and one 14 feet long. The tree was 5½ feet in diameter at the base.

Fred Kern, a section foreman on the L. S. & M. S. railway at Manchester, picked up a prairie chicken that had flown against a passing train and was killed, the other day. Prairie chickens are quite rare in this section.

Mrs. Hattie M. Dole, a leading W. O. T. U. worker, died of heart disease Sunday, and Miss Perels Willard, for 35 years in the millinery business, was found dead in bed from the same disease that morning, in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Caroline Kaerber, of Ann Arbor, was doing some housecleaning at the American house Friday when she fell through an open skylight 10 feet to the floor below, lighting on her head and face. When picked up she was suffering from concussion of the brain.

General Manager H. W. Ashley, of the Ann Arbor Railroad, has notified the city of Ann Arbor that he will accept the conditions of the grade separation ordinance. The electric railroad people have agreed to put up their share and everything looks favorable for grade separation.

The Y. M. C. A. building fund at Ann Arbor has passed the $21,000 mark and subscribers are now beginning to send in the amount due on their subscriptions, one-fourth of the amount they subscribed. About $8,500 still remains necessary to complete the building which is to cost $30,000.

Benjamin S. Trombley, a veteran of the civil war, who was committed to the Eastern Michigan insane asylum last August by the probate court of this county, suicided Monday night. His remains were found on a pile of burning ties near the Detroit & Milwaukee railroad at Pontiac, he having jumped into the fire. The body was entirely consumed except a portion of the trunk and one hand.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Mrs. Fred Jaeger, of Lima, died suddenly Monday night, aged 55 years. That day she was assisting her son to bag some wheat, she holding the bag, when she fell to the floor unconscious. She never regained consciousness and died during the night. A blood clot on the brain was the cause of death.

Some Ann Arbor and Dexter butchers do not think much of the business of retailing meat these days. Louis Weinmann, of Ann Arbor, makes this proposition that if anyone will pay the expenses he can have all the profits of his market for the next two months and he (Weinmann) will put in all his time working for him and not charge a cent for his services. It is said that a Dexter butcher goes this proposition one stronger and offers to give a man $900 to assume all financial responsibility of his shop for the next couple of months. This seems to be about the general cry all over.

John H. Aiken, who was last year elected judge of the superior court of Allen county, Indiana, has again been nominated for a second and longer term in that position on the Democratic ticket. The first term of a superior court judge in Indiana is one year, but if he is again elected his term is for four years. Mr. Aiken is well known in Chelsea. He is a nephew of Mrs. L. Winans and graduated from the law school of the U. of M. in 1891, practicing law in Chelsea for two or three years afterwards. The Fort Wayne papers speak of him as a just and impartial judge, and his Chelsea friends will wish for him a continuance in the office to which he aspires.

Some Gossip of the Pretty Summer Fashions

Evening Gowns That Will Show the Full Measure of the Season's Extravagance.

EVENING gowns are the subject of our illustrations in this letter, but I am going to say very little about them, for the reason that the pictures tell even more than I can, and depict the very latest and choicest modes for the summer ballroom, and evening parties of all kinds.

But before we change the subject from evening gowns to something else, I must give a slight description of the three costumes which are pictured that, if possible, I may give a better idea of the regal splendor which is theirs.

One of them is of white Dalghall crepe, its soft, clinging folds finished off at the trailing hem by a trio of little frills; while then the empire corsege is all embroidered in pearls and crystals and pale pink stones, a line of the softly shimmering pearls, with here and there a bright crystal, edging the short-frilled drapery of the sleeves. The dress is charming enough even in this form, but this is in reality only the beginning of its loveliness, for scarves of softest rose pink Bengal satin are fastened on the shoulders, and drawn at either side of the corsage through jeweled circles, then widening, as they pursue their graceful career, on the skirt, they are so draped as to reveal a lining of pale blush-rose pink, and then eventually they tracery of pearls to catch in the fullness below the elbow.

The blouse shown is made of blue satin, with a fichu collar tucked and spotted net in the delicate tone of old ivory, with medallions of lace applique for its further adornment, and, for fastening at the left side, loosely knotted scarf ends, also decorated with lace. The sleeves are finished off at the elbow with a deep frill of the net.

And now let us go to something else, something that is general and that will be of value to all whether they be able to afford the high-priced gowns for which the season is to be notable, or must be content with something less expensive. The general cut of the gowns will be much the same whether they be made of some of the pretty cheaper materials or of the higher priced stuffs. Such, for instance, is the cut of the season's skirts.

The smart gown this season must be more clinging than ever in effect, and this feature is emphasized in the new form-fitting or serpentine skirt, an attractive example of which consists of a five-gored, closely-fitted upper portion held back by elastic straps and lengthened by a rippled, graduated, circular flounce, and is further distinguished by two long back gores that may be plaited or gathered at the top. This skirt may be made with or without the dip and in sweep or round merge into the softly-flowing folds of a train of the same satin, which falls from between the shoulders, where it joins in the mutual bondage of jeweled clasps, those satin scarves which from such a simple beginning attain to such decorative importance.

The other evening gown is a graceful affair, where present-day fashion is artistically followed in soft Orion

satin, the gracefully hanging skirt bordered with a broderie of pearls and crystals, and the bodice boasting of a quaintly shaped collar embroidered to match; while the design is repeated once more on the scalloped fronts, and shows up well against the softness of white Dalghall crepe which forms the draped vest. The transparent sleeves are also of the filmy crepe with a light length. It is extremely effective when developed in velvet or corduroy.

Street gowns are a prominent feature of every season, summer not excepted. For these there are three or four distinct styles, from which it is possible to select, and still be in keeping with the correct mode. There are really short skirts—not rainy-day skirts, either—but as fascinatingly made and trimmed as any reception gown. These are of rough cloth, of velveteens and of corduroys, and are made with blouse and fancy coats of all kinds and also with three-quarter coats. The skirts are plaited, tucked and trimmed; made with several gores, or with attached flounce, with lines of braid or straps on every seam; with insertions of heavy lace and cut work; with narrow bands of velvet and with rows of machine stitching.

To continue on this ever interesting subject of skirts, let me mention the distinguishing features of some of those of the thin materials. Noticeable among the models of the class are the five, eight and nine-gored garments. These are often disguised by the vertical tucking and plaiting so much in evidence that the gores are almost invisible.

A pretty model without tucks has three narrow bias ruffles around the hem, and insertions of cross stitching set in around the hips in yoke form, each line turning at the back and extending down to the ruffles. This may be reversed, the long lines extending down the front.

A five-gored skirt may be arranged very prettily in shallow box plaits all around and stitched down to the knee in the usual way. A band of embroidery, or lace, or a group of tucks are a pretty finish at the hem.

A design carried out in white velvelling shows a pretty use of cross-stitching around the waist and at the head of the flounce. In points, covered partially by guipure lace motifs. A group of fine tucks finish the hem and the collar and cuffs are of lace.

SOL SMITH RUSSELL DEAD.

Celebrated Actor Passes Away at Washington After Long Period of Ill Health.

Washington, April 29.—Sol Smith Russell, the actor, died here at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mr. Russell's death followed an illness of more than two years. While his condition was not so serious as to prevent the continuance of his work on the stage, it was not until last Thursday that the end was seen to be near, and his relatives and friends gave up hope. On Thursday morning he was able to go out for a short time, and as usual, during good weather, was wheeled about the parks in his chair. His figure had been a familiar one at the local theaters during his illness, particularly at the matinee performances. He seemed to take especial pleasure in witnessing the work of Joseph Jefferson, for whom he had a great friendship; Stuart Robson, Nat Goodwin and William Crane. He was usually wheeled to and from the theaters in an invalid chair. He was considered one of the wealthiest actors on the American stage, his real estate holdings including many properties in Minneapolis. The total value of the estate is said to be more than $2,000,000.

Mr. Russell was born in Brunswick, Me., June 15, 1838, and received his early education and training in St. Louis and Jacksonville, Ill. He prepared himself for a university course, but when the war broke out between the north and the south he joined as a drummer boy. In 1862, during the siege at Cairo, the soldiers put up a canvas theater, called "Deafness," and here Mr. Russell alternated as an actor of small parts and a beater of the bass drum, for which he received six dollars a week. His struggle to rise in the histrionic world began at that time; he played in melodrama in Deafness theater, St. Louis, and went from city to city and town to town doing what he could. In 1863 he joined the Berger family in impersonations and songs, and in this line he appeared for the first time in New York at the Edwin's theater, then on Broadway, and also in Mr. Daly's Fifth Avenue company. His career as a star began in 1869 in "Edgewood Folks," by J. E. Brown, of Boston. He sang seven songs and made ten changes in this play, and in the course of ten years appeared in it 1,500 times. Since then he has starred in the following plays: "The Country Editor," "Bewitched," "A Poor Relation," "Peaceful Valley," "An American," "April Weather," "Heir at Law," and "The Honorable John Grigsby."

PUNISHED BY ITALY.

Officers of Cruiser Chicago Sentenced at Venice for Disorderly Conduct—Sent to Prison.

Venice, Italy, April 29.—The officers of the United States cruiser Chicago arrested for disorderly conduct and street fighting in this city last Friday night were on Monday sentenced to terms of imprisonment. Capt. Robert P. Wynne, commanding the marine guard of the Chicago, was looked upon as the leader in the disturbance and received the heaviest sentence. The court ordered him to serve four months and ten days' imprisonment. Robert E. Ledbetter, assistant surgeon, Lieut. John S. Dordridge and a marine named Wilfred Langtry were each sentenced to three months' imprisonment. At their trial in the San Marco police court the prisoners admitted they were intoxicated when the disorders occurred, and pleaded that they acted in self-defense when mobbed by the crowd. It is understood the prisoners will pay the costs of the trial and compensate the persons who sustained injuries as a result of their disorderly conduct. Two of the injured persons claim $800 each.

In addition to the foregoing, all the members of the crew of the Chicago arrested for disorderly conduct here Sunday have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from three to four months each. The officers took their sentences lightly and expect to be set at liberty after their case has been appealed to a higher court.

Rome, April 29.—The United States minister has begun an investigation into the facts connected with the charges against the officers of the cruiser Chicago. Commander Becher, the American naval attaché, visited the minister of marine Monday. He intended to express regret over the behavior of the American officers, but the minister, appreciating his embarrassing position, avoided the subject, at the same time expressing great admiration for the American navy.

FOSS ON THE NAVY.

Chairman of House Committee Declares It Has No Real Value—Extracts from His Report.

Washington, April 29.—The naval programme for 1903, as presented in the naval appropriation bill and accompanying report filed Monday by Chairman Foss of the house naval committee, is one of unusual interest. The report does not take an optimistic view of our naval progress as is generally held, and Mr. Foss points out that comparatively few of our ships have any real fighting value. He accompanies this with a statement of the enormous naval armament and programmes of other countries, particularly Germany.

It is shown by the report that the total number of vessels of our navy, built and building, is 138, and the total cost will be $235,082,200. "The report adds:

"While we have built and are building, all told, 138 ships, yet comparatively few of them have any real fighting value. Our naval progress lies almost entirely in our 13 battleships, eight armored cruisers, and 21 protected cruisers. The rest of our ships would cut but little figure in actual war. Ships of the battle line practically alone determine the naval strength of a nation."

Referring to the foreign naval programme the report says: "Of all the countries, Germany has been building during the last few years faster than any of the others. Her ship-building programme started in 1898 and will be completed in 1903; possibly in 1907 instead of 1916 as first planned. This programme will give her in all 33 battleships, 14 large cruisers, 38 smaller cruisers, and 98 torpedo-boats. After the completion of this programme the plan contemplates new constructions to replace ships which, though still serviceable, may have reached the prescribed age limit."

Concerning new ships for our navy the report says:

"The committee recommend that for the purpose of furthering the naval expansion of the United States the president have constructed two first-class battleships carrying the heaviest armor and most powerful ordnance for vessels of their class upon a trial displacement of about 16,000 tons, and to have the highest practicable speed and great radius of action, and to cost, exclusive of armor and armament, not exceeding $4,212,000 each; two first-class armored cruisers of about 14,500 tons trial displacement; to cost, exclusive of armor and armament, not exceeding $4,559,000 each; and two gunboats of about 1,000 tons trial displacement."

"In view of the fact that there is some public sentiment favorable to building ships in our government naval yards, it has been deemed advisable by the committee to insert a provision in the appropriation bill of this year leaving it in the discretion of the secretary of the navy to build any or all ships in government yards, but making it mandatory on him to construct at least one battleship or one armored cruiser in such navy yard as he may designate. An experiment and it is further provided that he shall keep an accurate account of all expenditures for labor and material in the inspection and construction of such ship and report to congress at each session, and upon the completion of said ship he shall make a detailed report showing the relative cost of one built by the government and one by contract. It is believed by your committee that nothing short of an experiment of this kind will show whether private contractors have been reasonable in their bids, and furthermore be a means for future guidance in the continued construction of our navy. An appropriation of $175,000 is recommended for each yard in which a ship is built."

"The complete cost of the two first-class battleships, two first-class armored cruisers, and two gunboats, with total tonnage of 63,000 tons will approximate $29,500,000. These battleships and cruisers will be larger than any heretofore authorized by congress, and the plans have already excited the favorable comment of the naval authorities abroad. The committee is of the opinion that in recommending the above naval programme it is making a substantial and healthy increase of our navy, and one which will meet everywhere with popular favor."

Other interesting features of the bill are provisions for a board of naval officers to recommend a site for a naval training station at some point on the great lakes; an increase of the enlisted force of the navy by 3,000 men; provision for a new navy ration is reported by a naval board; an increase of the number of cadets at the naval academy by 600.

The detailed statement shows that the appropriation bill carries $77,559,386, which is slightly below the appropriation made last year.

THREE KILLED AT CROSSING.

Terrible Accident at Joliet—Occupants of Buggy Hurt Into Eternity by Santa Fe Train.

Joliet, Ill., April 29.—Three people were killed at the Patterson road crossing of the Santa Fe road just south of Joliet Sunday night. A fast passenger train crashed into a buggy containing Mrs. M. B. Mulock, her daughter, Orla, and a young man, Floyd C. Pearce. The man and young woman were killed outright and Mrs. Mulock died shortly after reaching the St. Joseph's hospital. The watchman had the gates down, but the horses broke through, getting upon the tracks just in front of the train.

This is the same crossing where Alderman Christy Byrnes and his wife were killed about four years ago.

Maso Pledges Support.

Havana, April 29.—President-elect Estrada Palma left Bayamo early Monday morning for Manzanillo. At Yara he met Gen. Bartolome Maso, the candidate of the democratic party for the presidency of Cuba, but who withdrew from the campaign, and received an affectionate greeting from him. Gen. Maso pledged his support to the president-elect. The reception accorded Senor Estrada Palma at Manzanillo outdid any thus far tendered him. The entire Spanish colony turned out in his honor.

HOW CHEAP BAKING POWDER IS MADE.

The Health Department of New York has seized a quantity of cheap baking powder, which it is to be sold in the department stores. Samples were taken and the chemists of the Health Department reported the stuff to be "an alum powder which analysis showed to be composed chiefly of alum and pulverized rock. The powder was declared to be dangerous to health, and several thousand pounds were carted to the dock and destroyed."

It is unsafe to experiment with the so-called "cheap" articles of the kind. They are sure to be made from a rock, or other injurious matter, baking powders, the high class, even of tartar brands are the most economical, because they go farther and are healthful beyond question.

THE TAG ENDS OF THINGS.

The records left us by the Phoenicians, Assyrians and Persians show that among all those nations the use of perfumes was very common.

A recent real estate sale at Brighton hampton transferred from the Low family, of Long Island the piece of land that had been in the family since 1665.

A New Yorker who carried matches which ignite "only when struck the box" added some chlorate of potash lozenges to his match pocket contents. The fire resulting from a union of the chlorate with the phosphorus on the box ruined his clothing and emptied the street car which he was riding.

Mrs. Bruce, a Noted Opera Singer, Escaped an Operation.
That Many Operations for Ovarian Troubles are Unnecessary.

Mrs. PINKHAM:—Travelling years on the road, with irregular hours and sleep and damp beds, broke down my health so completely two months ago that the physician advised a complete rest, and when I had gained different vitality, an operation for ovarian troubles. Not a very cheerful prospect, to be sure. I, however, was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanitary Wash. I did so, fortunately for me. Before a month had passed I felt that my general health had improved; in three months more I was cured, and I have been in perfect health since. I did not lose an engagement or miss a meal.

Your Vegetable Compound is certainly wonderful, and well worthy the praise your admiring friends who have been cured are ready to give you. I always speak highly of it, and you will admit I have good reason to do so. —Mrs. G. BRUCE, Lansing, Mich. $5.00 per bottle. MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Health in Michigan.
Reports to the state board of health from 62 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week consumption, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and meningitis increased and intermittent fever decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 214 places, measles at 91, typhoid fever at 32, whooping cough at 17, diphtheria at 17, scarlet fever at 85 and smallpox at 126 places.

Woman Murdered.
Mrs. John A. Hargraves, aged 46 years, was found dead in her bedroom, in Traverse City, with frightful contusions on her head and marks on her throat that look as though she had been choked in a struggle. Hargraves is suspected of the crime and was placed under arrest and taken to jail. Mrs. Hargraves had been an invalid for eight months.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan:
Week too dry and cool for growth of wheat, rye, meadows and pastures and for germination of spring seedling; wheat and grass very slow and much in need of rain; seeding of oats, barley and peas making good progress; planting of early potatoes begun; plowing for corn becoming general; all fruit budding nicely.

Pleaded Guilty.
Glen France was arraigned in the circuit court in Paw Paw and pleaded guilty to manslaughter. Young France is only 16 years old and pleads guilty to killing his father in Pine Grove in February last during an altercation that the father and mother were having.

Died of Paralysis.
John Graves aged 73 years, deputy clerk in the United States district court at Detroit for the past 30 years, and United States court commissioner, died at his residence in that city. He had been confined to his home for two months by a stroke of paralysis.

Gives Big Mortgage.
Henry C. Ward, son of the late David Ward, of Detroit, who was known as the richest man in Michigan, has filed trust mortgages covering all his real and personal property and also his interest in his father's estate. The total liabilities are $382,305.

Bank Closed.
The bank belonging to the Algonac banking company has been closed. J. W. McKenzie and P. J. Kean were the principal stockholders, the former being manager. The bank had about $32,000 in deposits, the greater part of which, it is said, will be lost.

AN HONEST MAN'S OPINION.

Vermont, Mo., April 28th.—If what Mr. J. S. Tillery, of this place, says is true—and none who know him doubt his honesty—the new remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, is a wonderful medicine indeed. Mr. Tillery says:

"I had Kidney and Liver Trouble for years. I had used many medicines but could get nothing to cure me.

"I heard of a new remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills and began a treatment with the result that I was very soon on the mend.

"I kept on using the pills and am now entirely better. I honestly do believe that they are the greatest remedy the world has ever seen.

"I am always willing to help a good thing and I cannot say too much for one that helped me so much.

"If I didn't know that Dodd's Kidney Pills would do all that is claimed for them I wouldn't say a word of praise for them."

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.

DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys contracted in the army. Medicine did not help me any until a comrade who had been helped by Pe-runa advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon found blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years. thanks to Pe-runa."—T. H. Mars.

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Pe-runa to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."—John Vance.

Mr. J. Brake, of Petrolia, Ontario, Canada, writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Pe-runa and Manalin, and in three months I was a well man, and have continued so ever since."—J. Brake.

At the appearance of the first symptoms of kidney trouble, Pe-runa should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It at once relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Pe-runa stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease.

Pe-runa cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-runa, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

HEALTH AND ALL ITS BLESSINGS

Health will come with all its blessings to those who know the way, and it is mainly a question of right-living, with all the term implies, but the efforts which strengthen the system, the games which refresh and the foods which nourish are important, each in a way, while it is also advantageous to have knowledge of the best methods of promoting freedom from unsanitary conditions. To assist nature, when nature needs assistance, it is all important that the medicinal agents used should be of the best quality and of known value, and the one remedy which acts most beneficially and pleasantly, as a laxative, is—Syrup of Figs—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

With a proper understanding of the fact that many physical ills are of a transient character and yield promptly to the gentle action of Syrup of Figs, gladness and comfort come to the heart, and if one would remove the torpor and strain and congestion attendant upon a constipated condition of the system, take Syrup of Figs and enjoy freedom from the aches and pains, the colds and headaches and the depression due to inactivity of the bowels. In case of any organic trouble it is well to consult a competent physician, but when a laxative is required remember that the most permanently gratifying results will follow personal cooperation with the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs. It is for sale by all reliable druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

The excellence of Syrup of Figs comes from the beneficial effects of the plants used in the combination and also from the method of manufacture which ensures that perfect purity, and uniformity of product essential in a perfect family laxative. All the members of the family from the youngest to the most advanced in years may use it whenever a laxative is needed and share alike in its beneficial effects. We do not claim that Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of known value, but it possesses this great advantage over all other laxatives that it acts gently and pleasantly without disturbing natural functions, in any way, as it is free from every objectionable quality or substance. To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine and the full name of the Co.—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package.

THE LAST CHARGE.

Trumpeter, blow on, terrible and thunderous. Blow till thy eagle cutting the wild gales, Sweep not the wounded that writhe and wail on the air.

Down in our ears all their piercing death wails! Steady, dragons! Get together your forces! Aim at the breast, for that makes the best target.

Now let us fly like a whirlwind of heroes! Make like your forefathers! Cavalry, charge!

Trumpeter, sound me a dread note and dangerous! Blow to the end of thy desperate breath! Now till the cry of it, clinging and dangerous, Call back the squadrons that rode to their death.

Close up, dragons, and ride forward the girded. Trumpeter, blow me once more loud and large! This is not earth, but dead men, that we ride on! They were your brothers once! Cavalry, charge!

Trumpeter, sound a note tender and tremulous! We'll for those lost, to us, for our dear dead! Cry loud for vengeance! Oh, let your note emanate.

Rival the roar of the souls that have fed! Steady, dragons! Ye are fifty that follow! Burst as a river burns over its margin! Who first can sling his horse into the hollow? On, up and over them! Cavalry, charge!

—Thomas Tracy Bourne in McClure's Magazine.

The Evolution of the Pocket.

The ancient wore a single pouch at his belt. The modern has—how many pockets in an ordinary costume for outdoors? Let us count them: In the trousers five, in the waistcoat five, in the jacket five, in the overcoat five, making 20 in all, a full score of little pockets or bags, and arranged so conveniently that they are scarce noticed.

Truly this is an evolution! How long may it be before we have pockets in our hatbands—where the Irishman carries his pipe, the American soldier his toothbrush and internally the pettifogger his legal papers, the papers that his predecessors in England thrust into the typical "green bag"? How long before there may be pockets in our gloves—for there are, I believe, patents covering this invention—and in our shoes? The cane also, with its screw top, begins to be a useful receptacle.

Two centuries from now, so the man with a long foresight can clearly see, the main idea underlying the wearing of clothes will have entirely changed. The chief purpose of garments will no longer be considered to protect the body. They will be regarded first of all as textile foundations for innumerable pockets—Tudor Jenks in Woman's Home Companion.

German silver is not silver at all, but an alloy of various of the baser metals, which was invented in China and used there for centuries.

The Leading Specialists of America. 25 Years in Detroit. Bank Security.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by slightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped. The NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the BLOOD must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active; the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—so more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no pay. We treat and cure: Varicocele, Blood Diseases, Stricture, Gleet, Emissions, Urinary Diseases, Rheumatism, Gonorrhea, Unnatural Discharges, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.
