A Fraternal Visit.

Monday evening about forty-five of the members of Olive Lodge, No. 156, F. & A. M., visited their brothers at Manchester. Olive Lodge was called upon to exemplify the work in the third degree, and Dr. Tracy of Manchester was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. After the lodge was closed, the brothers were escorted to the dining room where an elaborate supper was served, to which all did ample justice. After supper, cigars were passed and the toastmaster, Fred M. Freeman, took charge of affairs, and after handing out a few warm roasts, proceeded to introduce the speakers, who were J. H. Kingsley of Manchester, Rev. C. S. Jones and Dr. E. E. Caster of Chelsea, all of whom gave some very instructive thoughts.

It was a late hour when the Chelseaites departed for home, all expressing delight with the reception given them.

They Found a Way.

Jackson Citizen: "Love finds a way." This ancient maxim was fully verified in case of Alfred B. Solder of this city, and a pretty Kentucky girl, named Sarah Hodge. All day yesterday the pair strove to bind themselves in the bonds of matrimony, and things looked very dubious for them up to the very last moment.

The young man took the hand of the blushing would-be bride in his at an early hour Sunday morning, while they took the trolley car for Chelsea to get spliced. They argued in vain with an obdurate justice of the peace. He told them they would have to go on to Ann Arbor if they wanted a marriage license. On to Ann Arbor they went as fast as possible. They scoured the city for some one to give them the license. They could find no one.

Finally in despair they concluded to come back to Jackson and have the event come off right among their neighbors. As luck would have it the county clerk's office was open and the license was obtained. The shades of evening then began to fall. Now for a justice of the peace.

They met him with greater effusiveness than is accorded the conventional "long since met" friend, and hustled him down to his office with the greatest possible speed. He performed the ceremony in a very brief space of time and then the tired couple departed happy.

Couldn't Make a Better One.

Sunday's Detroit papers conveyed the news from Washington that Judge E. D. Kinne had been summoned to the White House by President Roosevelt, and that his name is being considered in connection with the United States diplomatic post at the Hague, which means the minister to the Netherlands, and which pays $10,000 a year.

Judge Kinne was accompanied on his visit by Congressman Smith.

What He Thought of It.

Adrian Press: Last week some 35 of Chelsea's Masons went to Dexter, took supper at the Masonic hall, then proceeded to come from refreshments to labor, and gave editor J. O. Thompson of the Dexter Leader, the third degree in a manner that the quill driver will never "dis-recollect." It is said that the goat acted awful, and it was some time before Thompson got down to business. One of the visitors said it reminded him of an Irishman who worked for Geo. S. Wheeler of Salem a number of years ago, and who was quite an athlete. Wheeler had warned Mike that he must keep out of the field where his big bull was kept, as the animal was ugly and would fight anything movable. Mike, however, allowed that "no domed bull leg to drive me at all; at all," and one day crossed the field. The bull was soon after him, but Mike, with a club showed fight. He slipped however, and with a rush the bull caught him on his horns and threw him over the fence.

Mike was not much hurt, but did not go back after his club. The next day Wheeler, who had watched the proceedings, said carelessly, "Mike, I hear you had a little set to with the bull yesterday. How did it turn out?" "Be gorra, sor, it wor a 'toss-up,'" said Mike and he proceeded to feed the pigs, and failed to notice the twinkle in Wheeler's eye.

Through Freight Service.

East of Ann Arbor the service will be continued as at present. Cars will leave Ann Arbor going west at 11:45 a. m. and 4:45 p. m., and arrive at 1:45 p. m. and 6:45 p. m. Cars will leave Jackson at 9:15 a. m., and 2:45 p. m., and arrive at Ann Arbor at 11:15 a. m. and 4:45 p. m. and arrive at Detroit at 4 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Grass Lake's Cement Co. Muddle.

Edward J. Foster of Grass Lake, a stockholder in the Zenith Portland Cement Company, has filed a bill with the county clerk of Jackson county asking that a receiver be appointed to look after the affairs of the Zenith Portland Cement Company. The directors of the company, Robert H. Evans, Robert C. Bane, Burrows H. Rothwell, George Johnston, Edwin T. Allen and T. E. Beebe, are alleged to have committed fraudulent acts in managing the company, and the company is said to have been a bad investment for many innocent stockholders. The stockholders are for the most part small holders. There are 110 in all, the five Jackson stockholders holding $3,000 worth of stock. Forty-five Grass Lake people hold stock, and Gov. Bliss is numbered among the stockholders.

The company was capitalized at $700,000 by Stowe, Fuller & Co. of Cleveland, who own the Grass Lake cement lands, and were active in promoting the company. At a meeting of the stockholders when a trifle over half of the stock was represented, it was voted to issue $300,000 worth of bonds. Some $50,000 worth were negotiated and some $70,000 received by the treasurer. It is charged that five directors, in collusion, secured $1,300 each, or $21,500, which was kept and not returned to the treasurer. An injunction restraining the disposal of any of the property pending the suit has been issued.

Will Test Benzozone.

Prof. Vaughan and Novy of the U. of M., will go to India this coming summer upon a most important scientific mission. It will probably demonstrate the effectiveness of Prof. Novy's benzozone, which laboratory experiments have proven to be a germicide for intestinal diseases.

They go there to investigate tropical dysentery, and will probably start immediately after commencement.

This mission has been kept a secret until now, but it leaked out around the medical department, and the announcement will awake interest throughout the medical world.

Spray the Trees.

It has become well known that in order to raise a fruit crop farmers must spray. As a compound for this purpose Prof. Kedzie of the Agricultural College, gives the following: Boll two pounds of white arsenic and four pounds of salsoda for 15 minutes in two gallons of water. Put them into a jug and label "poison," and lock it up. When you wish to spray slake two pounds of lime and stir into 40 gallons of water, adding a pint of water from the jug. The mixture in the jug will cost 45 cents, and this is enough for 800 gallons or 20 barrels of spray. These 20 barrels will require 40 pounds of lime, which will cost 20 cents more, making the total cost of 65 cents for 20 barrels, or 3 1/4 cents per barrel. It is claimed that Prof. Kedzie's mixture is more reliable in use than Paris green as an insecticide; that it does not burn the tree and is less expensive.

YACHT WAS TIRED.

How a Woman Accounted for the Slowness of a Boat.

The tendency to regard a favorite inanimate object as a thing of life was illustrated at the finish of the last race for the America cup. A young woman distinguished for her magnificent dark eyes and almost blue-black tresses, and who had frankly admitted her ignorance of yachts and yachting, observed the ending of the contest from the deck of a government patrol boat, within good view of the finish line. She had been an intensely interested and enthusiastic spectator of the race throughout the day, and had marveled at the expeditious manner in which the boats responded to the slightest movement of wheel or tiller. Particularly was this noticeable in the maneuvering for the start.

When the yachts neared the finish the Shamrock came about first and stood for the line, the Columbia following several seconds later. The challenger having the lead it appeared that the Columbia was a trifle slow in getting her boom over.

"My! My! Why doesn't the white boat hurry up? The Shamrock is getting away from her!" shouted one of the girls in the party.

"Oh, poor thing, I guess she's tired. Just think, if you had gone thirty miles you wouldn't be in a hurry to jump about either," replied the dark-eyed enthusiast.—New York Mail and Express.

Indian Babies.

The present generation of full-blooded Indian babies is interesting from many points of view. In the first place there is no doubt that in a few years there will be no more full-blooded Indians born, as men and women of pure Indian blood are rapidly marrying either white persons or Indians whose blood is largely mixed with that of the whites, says the Cosmopolitan. Then, too, these little copper-brown babies are something of an anachronism, for many of them preserve to a great extent, the bringing up and training known to their fathers, and at the age of 13 or 14 find themselves well versed in the charms of incantations of the medicine men and expert in the use of the scalping knife, but with a lamentable lack of subjects upon whom to practice their skill. It is only on the reservations of the far southwest that the curious little Indian babies are to be found. There are now among the twenty tribes only 3,000 full-blooded Indian children. In these same tribes there are more than 20,000 children through whose veins courses a strain of white blood. They are fat, healthy youngsters, and, despite their rough usage, grow up to be strong men and women.

Uncertain About the Date.

Old Johnnie Kidd was one of Garrard County's best citizens. He was not, however, as well up in figures as some people are. On one occasion he was sworn as a witness in a case and was told:

"Please state your name, residence and age."

"My name is John Kidd," he answered. "My residence Garrard County (and my age in doubt)."

"Mr. Kidd," said the attorney, "will you kindly tell us in what year you were born?"

"Well," replied Mr. Kidd, "as near as I can remember, I was born either in 1813 or 1818, I don't know which."

Wrote Out Entire Bible.

An old lady named Standon has just died at Slough who some years ago decided to write out the whole of the Bible, setting aside Sunday only on which to perform her task. It took the old lady seven years to complete her self-imposed labor. The manuscript was then bound by the writer, who at the time was 71 years of age.

LIKE A DROWNING MAN.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well known attorney of Nocona, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach troubles. ## CHAPTER II.—(Continued.)

Naturally, Charlie Stuart was justified in believing the girl to be the child of some Flemish citizen. True, she was not dressed in the usual Dutch fashion, but her golden tresses and blue eyes, that shone like twin stars, made him take the fact for granted.

He was, therefore, considerably surprised when, springing to her feet, she advanced a step or two toward them, holding out her hands, a look of great joy illuminating her face, and in a voice which the echoes of her recent sobs still haunted, addressed them in purest English:

"Oh, sir! Heaven has heard my prayer and sent you to my rescue!"

Stuart made up his mind then and there, strange as such a proceeding might be, that there was a deeper mystery about the presence of this young girl in these terrifying surroundings than had at first occurred to him.

Many things united to make him believe this—the fact of her not being missed by her party, her manner in avoiding any reference to the friends who should be so anxious—yes, then and there he became convinced that a story lay back of it as startling as any product of an opium smoker's dream. Charlie knew it would be well for him to divert the girl's mind as much as possible from the horrors she had so recently been forced to face. Thus as they walked along, he even grew somewhat merry, and his object was accomplished, since the girl's temporary trembling fit had passed away and she was now calm enough to ask questions regarding their opportune presence in the dismal place.

Several times Charlie knew she was looking at him intently.

He believed that he could guess the reason—that she had a story to tell, a story far out of the ordinary run, and was studying him when she thought herself unobserved, studying him to determine whether she dared entrust him with its astonishing details.

CHAPTER III.

Charlie Makes an Engagement.

Who was she?

This question came into Charlie's mind many times while they walked through those gloomy passages, seeking the worn stone stairs at the top of which stood the roughly hewn oak door studded with rusty nails.

At the foot of the worn stone steps the girl came to a sudden stop.

"Sir," she said, addressing Charlie as though he were the only party in sight, "unless I am mistaken these steps lead up to the museum of the Steen, and we have reached the exit of this horrible underground tomb."

"We can be in the light as soon as I unlock the door up yonder," he said quietly.

"One moment, before we ascend, I want to catch my breath—to tell you how grateful I am for your timely assistance."

"Please don't mention it," said Charlie.

"Indeed, it was a great pleasure, fair lady," chirruped Artemus, eagerly.

"You overwhelm me with confusion, I have, as you may well suppose, received something of a shock, and hardly feel equal to the task of explaining to you just now what strange circumstances brought me into the desperate predicament from which I have been rescued by your assistance. But I trust I may see you again soon, when the explanation that is due will be gladly given. Forgive me if I say I have been studying you all this time, and something tells me I may surely trust you with my life. God knows I need friends."

Her words thrilled Charlie.

"Pardon me, miss—I should have told you before—my name is Charlie Stuart. I am at present an exile from old London, in search of a mission. Perhaps I have found one," he said, with an amused smile.

A faint flush chased across her countenance.

"And I—am Arline Brand."

She had a small reticule attached to her girdle, as was the custom. Opening this, she took out a quaint little ivory cardcase and handed him a bit of pasteboard.

"When you call, ask for me under that name, by which I am known. But let me say again—as a duty I owe you, Mr. Stuart—let me give you full warning that, while I appreciate the great favor you have done me, I must tell you I have enemies, and that if you should seek to continue the acquaintance so strangely begun, it might possibly bring you into trouble."

"I never yet have allowed fear of mortal man to influence my actions," Stuart said, proudly.

"But these men are cruel and unscrupulous. You can realize that after seeing to what a dreadful fate they would have condemned me because I refused to carry out their will."

"They are a set of precious scoundrels and cowards!" he declared.

"But perhaps they are all-powerful at court—men in touch with a dynasty that can shake the earth if aroused, to whom one poor human life is as a fallen leaf," she said, as if testing his loyalty.

"It is the same—I see no reason why I should draw back." Taking out his watch, he continued, in the most deliberate fashion: "It is now almost high noon. At eight, then, this evening, to the minute, I shall do myself the honor of calling upon you at your hotel, and until I am convinced that it is unlawful for me to do so, all the police of Antwerp shall not stop me in my rights of a British citizen traveling under the protection of my flag."

Arline impulsively held out her hand.

"I thank you. God bless you, Mr. Stuart!" she said, in broken tones.

And Charlie, as he felt the little hand quiver and throb in his, found a strong indignation arising within his breast, directed against those unknown parties who had so mercilessly condemned so charming a young woman to a cruel fate.

It was Artemus who unlocked the heavy door and ushered them into the garish light of day, who gravely relieved Charlie of his brass candlestick and placed it, together with the rusty keys, where they belonged.

Charlie saw that his companion glanced hastily to the right and left through her veil. Once he was almost sure she gave a start, but by no word did she signify discovery.

"Could you get a cab for me?" she asked with a perceptible tremor in her voice.

"Easily, no doubt. There are usually vehicles waiting outside the Steen. This way, please."

Before the vehicle started, Arline Brand threw back the veil, and again Charlie was given the privilege of looking into those honest blue orbs, rivaling the heavens in their hue.

"I will release you from your promise if you regret making it, Mr. Stuart," she said, softly.

"Thanks; but I am a singularly obstinate man, I fear. At eight to-night, I said. Besides, I confess to much curiosity to hear what you promised to tell."

Those wondrous eyes beamed upon him; a little hand crept out to allow of a parting pressure; then the vehicle lumbered away, leaving him there in front of the historic Steen, watching its progress down the crooked thoroughfare, and wondering at the change that had broken into his quiet life.

When Charlie Stuart reiterated his rash promise with regard to seeing the owner of those marvelous cerulean orbs that same evening, he had but a faint conception of the magnitude of the task he had taken upon himself.

He was dimly conscious of a figure hanging from the rear window of a second old vehicle—a figure that made all manner of pantomime gestures, and in which he recognized his friend Artemus.

Remembering the quaint methods by which Artemus invoked the dramatic muse, he ended with a laugh.

"No harm done, I imagine," he said, aloud. To his surprise some one added:

"That remains to be seen, young sir."

Turning indignantly to see who had dared to thus address him without invitation, Charlie faced a middle-aged gentleman of military aspect, who was regarding him with much urbanity.

"I am quite ready to explain the meaning of those words I uttered, young sir, on condition that you favor me with your name."

Charlie's first hasty inclination was to refuse point-blank, but he had up to this point of his existence never known the time when he found reason to be ashamed of his name. It belonged to one of the best families in Scotland, and his ancestry dated back to the days of Bruce and Wallace.

"That is a condition easily complied with, as I have never yet refused it to any man who felt enough interest in me to ask. It is Charlie Stuart."

The other bowed.

"Good! I see we shall get on together amazingly well. There need be no trouble whatever, since we agree so charmingly," he said.

"Ah! about what, now?" asked Charlie, once more keenly on his guard.

"H'm! Say, the pretty fraulein."

"But perhaps we do not agree on that subject; in fact, our views may be diametrically opposite. Tell me, why do you waylay me? I am a complete stranger; I never saw you before."

"Quite true, quite true, young sir," chuckled the other; "but I have seen you before. I know when you came to Antwerp, and just how you have employed your time since."

"The deuce you do! Then you must have known my name. Why did you ask for it?" with the light of suspicion and unbelief in his eyes.

"To ascertain how far you would have confidence in me. I see you are incredulous; but, young man, it is my especial business to know every stranger who comes to Antwerp, whether he be French, English, Russian, American or Turkish; also to discover as much with relation to his business here as is necessary, to understand his status in society. Although you have never met me before, I doubt not you would recognize my name. Permit me."

A card was thrust into Charlie's hand.

Mechanically he glanced at it.

The result was peculiarly unpleasant.

It simply bore a name, but that name was as famous at St. Petersburg and Paris as in Antwerp—Baron Demetrius Peterhoff.

This wonderful man had been at the head of the famous Third Section in Russia; he had been the terror of Nihilists for years; an argus-eyed head of police; until, unfortunately, a cog slipped with fatal result, since the Czar Alexander was murdered through the instrumentality of a bomb, and from that hour Baron Peterhoff's usefulness in Russia was at an end.

"Ah!" Charlie said, very calmly; "I have heard of you very often, baron; but, really, I confess the prospect of meeting so renowned a character never entered my mind. To what am I indebted for the honor?"

"Again the distinguished gentleman uttered the word that had startled Charlie before."

"To the pretty fraulein."

Charlie frowned.

"See here, baron—I know this lady as Mlle. Arline Brand. Surely there must be a mistake."

"She has golden hair?"

"Yes."

"And eyes so blue"—holding up his hands in a dramatic manner that would have delighted Artemus—"that they shame the lovely skies of the Riviera."

Charlie groaned an assent. A crushing weight seemed to press upon his brain and he felt as though tottering on the verge of a precipice.

"As to the name," continued the baron, coolly, "what does it matter? Mlle. Arline Brand is as good as another—indeed, when you come to examine it, there is something of the adventurous stripe about so delightful a cognomen, don't you think, young sir? To my knowledge that is only one of a score of different names the lady has adopted within the last few years."

"Adventurous!"

How like the shock of a rattlesnake's stroke the mention of that word fell upon Charlie's hearing.

"Since you have been so kind as to give me warning, suppose you tell me who this wonderful lady of many names is?" he asked, coldly.

"You must have heard of the Countess Isolda Brabant."

It was a name he had often seen mentioned in London and continental papers, a name belonging to a beautiful Russian young woman, given over heart and soul to the cause of Nihilism, connected with high families in the Land of the White Czar, banished through royal decree, and now turned adventures in Vienna, Paris and other capitals of Europe.

"At least I am under favors to you, baron, for your kindness; and if I make a fool of myself it will not be for lack of warning."

"Well, young sir, I owe my life to your father. Before Sebastopol, when a fierce engagement was in progress, I had been cut down and lay there helpless, when a squadron of British dragoons charged. They would have crushed me to atoms, but that a wounded Highlander captain, crawling over, shielded my body with his own, and, raising himself, waved his tartan in the air, at which the dragoons separated, sweeping past to the left and to the right. That brave Highlander was your noble father. For years we corresponded; but in my eventful life the memory of the debt I owed him—more shame to me—became obscured by other issues. Young sir, for his sake I have sought to save you from the snare of the fowler. Be warned in time."

A cab, doubtless previously signaled, dashed up, the busy baron jumped in, waved his hand to Charlie, and was gone.

He left a very puzzled and deeply worried young man in front of the Steen.

Charlie seemed wrestling with the problem, and drawn first this way, then that; but his natural obstinacy finally won out.

"Well," he muttered through his teeth, "I said eight o'clock to-night; and, come weal or come woe, I shall keep the appointment."

(To be continued.)

QUESTION DEVIL COULDN'T ANSWER

Unable to Predict Action of a New York Jury.

While waiting for the verdict in the Patrick case a few days ago somebody remarked to Mr. Van Diver of the District Attorney's office, that he thought the jury would acquit the lawyer who had conspired with William Marsh Rice's valet to gain possession of the Texas millionaire's fortune. Mr. Van Diver, who had followed the case closely for several months, doubted this, but added reflectively:

"Of course, nothing is more uncertain than the action of a jury. I remember a story my father told me when I was a boy in Alabama. The story was of His Satanic Majesty and a plain citizen who met one day on a narrow pathway cut in the edge of a cliff. On the other side yawned a precipice. There was only room for one to pass, and of these two, one must lie down and let the other walk over him."

"If you'll propound three questions I can't answer," suggested Satan. "I'll lie down and let you pass over my body." The citizen asked:

"What is whiter than snow?"

"Cotton," was the answer.

"What is sweeter than sugar?"

"That's easy again; molasses."

"What will be the next verdict rendered in this county by a petit jury?"

"Pass on your way," said the Devil, as he made a carpet of himself.

TELLER PLANS TAX ON BUTTER TRUSTS

Deals a Blow at the Combination That Fixes Price of Genuine Article.

FULL AND FREE COMPETITION

Colorado Sells Offers Amendment to Oleomargarine Bill in Which Monopoly Is Defined and Tax of 10 Per Cent Levied.

Washington, April 28.—Senator Teller says that butter has recently advanced 4 cents a pound, and he does not believe the farmer is getting any of the advance. He also charges that the combination that controls the price of butter controls the price of beef. The Colorado senator aimed a dart at trusts when the bill imposing a tax of 10 per cent on oleomargarine came over from the house by offering the following amendment:

"That every agreement, contract or combination between persons or corporations which has for the object and purpose, in whole or in part, the creation of a monopoly in butter, or which tends to create a monopoly by preventing full and free competition in the importation, manufacture or transportation of butter, or which shall have for its object and purpose the advancing of the cost of butter to the consumers, is hereby declared to be a trust, and there shall be levied and collected annually, upon the capital and assets and also upon the products of every such butter trust as defined by this section, a tax of 10 per cent and no drawback for such taxes when they have been paid shall be allowed for exports. All the provisions of law in reference to internal revenue taxes, so far as the same are applicable shall apply to this tax and to the persons, partnerships, corporations, trusts and combinations upon which it is imposed."

Upon objection consideration of the bill went over. Senator Teller said: "The oleomargarine bill is merely a measure to increase the price of butter 10 cents a pound by removing the competition of oleomargarine. If the farmers were to get this increase I would not have so much objection, but it will all go into the pockets of the men who have been putting up the price of beef and eggs."

ELKINS PROUD OF WAR RECORD

West Virginia Senator Proposes to Offer Proof of His Service.

Washington, April 28.—Senator "Steve" Elkins of West Virginia proposes to offer official proof of an episode in his life which had a most romantic character. Certain Grand Army men of his state having charged that the senator had no war record, and was therefore not entitled to be a member of the G. A. R., Mr. Elkins has gone on the warpath in defense of his record. Already he has received word from the auditor of the war department telling of the record of his enrollment in the Missouri militia, and later in the regular service, and of his service as captain in Missouri during 1862-63, chiefly against Quantrill and his guerrillas. Senator Elkins said regarding the matter:

"It was asserted several years ago that I was a deserter from the army. Later that I never belonged to the army, and at another time that I was a member of the Quantrell guerrillas. All of these statements it will be very easy to disprove in a very short time, and I propose to do it. The truth of the matter is, I was captured at one time by Quantrell during one of the engagements of my company with him. I would have been shot, and seriously enough, Cole Younger was the man who saved my life. He persuaded Quantrell to give me my liberty. Once after that I was able to perform the same service for Younger."

Old-Time Fiddler Sings 'Em Up.

Washington, April 28.—Several features of Secretary Long's farewell dinner on board the Dolphin are just coming to light. It is said that there was an old-time fiddler present and that the dignified cabinet officers forgot their dignity for the time and "shuffled a foot." According to rumors, Knox was sprightly, Hay dignified, Shaw brisk and Wilson the heaviest of all.

During the dance the president is said to have remarked to the secretary of agriculture: "Get up, you old corn-stalk."

After that, according to reports, there was an exhibition of skill at the foils between two sailors. A scratch on the cheek brought Wood and the contest closed. Then two other husky sailors put on the gloves and sparred a round or two for the president and cabinet members.

Senate Exclusion Conference.

Washington, April 28.—In the senate Mr. Platt (Conn.) presented a conference report on the Chinese exclusion bill asking that the senate disagree to the report and insist upon a further conference. He explained that the only point of difference between the conferees of the senate and the house was that the house conferees asked the senate conferees to eliminate from the substitute passed by the senate that portion which provides that the present Chinese exclusion law be extended through the life of the present treaty and remain in force until another treaty shall have been negotiated. The motion that the senate insist upon its amendment and agree to another conference was agreed to. Messrs. Platt (Conn.), Dillingham (Vt.) and Clay (Ga.) were named as conferees on the part of the senate.

Iowa Agriculture.

Washington, April 28.—The census report on agriculture in Iowa shows that in 1900 there were in that state 228,622 farms, valued at $1,497,554,790, of which 16 per cent represents the value of lands and improvements other than buildings. The value of farm implements and machinery was $57,960,360 and of live stock $278,330,996. These values added to that of farms give $1,834,845,546 as a total value of farm property. The total value of farm products for 1899 was $365,411,628, a gain of 129 per cent over 1889, and the gross farm income was $263,385,488.

The principal states reporting flaxseed were North Dakota, having 773,999 acres, with a product of 7,766,810 bushels, valued at $7,785,640; Minnesota having 566,801 acres, with a product of 5,895,479 bushels, valued at $5,898,556, and South Dakota having 302,010 acres, with a product of 2,452,528 bushels, valued at $2,422,269.

CONDEMNED IN MISSOURI AND CONFINED IN NEW YORK.

Judge Clarke of St. Louis has convicted and fined heavily a number of grocers for selling baking powder containing alum.

The week before the Health Department of New York seized a quantity of stuff being sold for baking powder which they found was made from alum mixed with ground rock, and dumped it into the river.

The Health Authorities are thus taking effective means to prevent the introduction into our markets of injurious substitutes in place of wholesome baking powders.

Alum costs only two cents a pound. There is a great temptation for those manufacturers who make substitutes and imitations, goods, to use it. Alum baking powder can be detected by the health authorities by chemical analysis, but the ordinary housekeeper, whose assistance in protecting the health of the people is important, cannot make a chemical examination. She may easily know the alum powders, however, from the fact that they are sold at from ten to twenty cents for a pound can, or that some prize—like a spoon or glass, or piece of crockery, or wooden ware—is given with the powder as an inducement.

As the people continue to realize the importance of this subject and consumers insist on having baking powder of established name and character, and as the health authorities continue their vigorous crusades the alum danger will, it is hoped, finally be driven from our homes.

JACK WILSON'S ONCE GREAT GRAFT.

Way of the Plute Indian Who Started the Ghost Dance.

"Jack Wilson, the famous Plute Indian who started the ghost dance craze among the Indians all over the United States a few years ago, lives in Mason Valley, Nevada," said an official of the Indian bureau the other day.

"He does not have the influence among the Indians now that he had ten years ago, although he is more than the ordinary Indian intellectually. His success as an apostle was due to his superior intelligence, combined with low cunning and an utter lack of conscience. To secure the influence and power he wielded over his followers in the early days of his notoriety he resorted to numerous tricks and deceptions."

"On one occasion when he had been lecturing on the new religion he told his audience that on the next day he would make ice from the river and invited all to see him perform a miracle. It being August he knew that to make them believe he had made ice would give him greater prestige. He selected a point below a bend in the river, and after securing a trusty accomplice, who took from a neighboring icehouse a generous lump, and deposited it in the current above the bend, Wilson, with wild gestures and weird incantations, placed himself at a convenient point where he lifted the floating ice from the water when it reached him from above, and thus made the Plutes believe he had supernatural power. By such trickery he made his associates believe that the ghost dance would drive the white man away from this country and bring back the buffalo."

An Honest Man's Opinion.

Vermont, Mo., April 28th.—If what Mr. J. S. Tillery of this place says is true—and none who know him doubt his honesty—the new remedy Dodd's Kidney Pills is a wonderful medicine indeed. Mr. Tillery says:

"I had Kidney and Liver Trouble for years. I had used many medicines but could get nothing to cure me."

"I heard of a new remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills and began a treatment with the result that I was very soon on the mend."

"I kept on using the pills and am now entirely better. I honestly do believe that they are the greatest remedy the world has ever seen."

"I am always willing to help a good thing and I cannot say too much for one that helped me so much."

"If I didn't know that Dodd's Kidney Pills would do all that is claimed for them I wouldn't say a word of praise for them."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Inflammation and ulceration of the uterus laid me low and robbed life of its joys for me. For eight years I was in frequent pain and misery, and then Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me, the greatest boon I have known, for it brought new life and health to me. I used several bottles of Compound and your Sanative Wash. My improvement was slow, but from the first bottle I felt that I was better, and so I kept up courage and continued the treatment. None of my friends ever dreamed that I would be well again, but I have now enjoyed life to its fullest extent for three years."—MRS. MAMIE HERBERT.

She Would Not be Without It Now.
Neither would thousands of others. We refer to Vogel's Curative Compound; it does so much good and seems to reach every form of stomach trouble, that people have found that it is the one true specific. And what are stomach troubles? The easiest answer is that three-quarters of all the diseases and ailments which affect us proceed from one form or another of stomach trouble.

Indigestion is one of the worst and most prevalent forms, but Vogel's Curative Compound cures indigestion. Here is one instance:
Mr. W. Bowell, of 34, Priory Street, Winchester, Col., writes: "I wish to state that my wife has been taking Vogel's Curative Compound for a long time, and it is the only thing that has done her any real good for indigestion, in fact nothing would induce her to be without a bottle now."

When we stop to seriously consider the fact, that this great remedy is made from the formula of one of the most eminent living London physicians, it is no wonder that people who have happily experienced the benefit to be derived from its use, will not be without it at any cost.
St. Jacob's Oil, Ltd., Baltimore, Md., will send you a free sample bottle. Write them.

He Helped Ericsson

How Representative Sperry of Connecticut Proved Himself a Patriot.

"There is the man who was bondsman for the construction of the Monitor."

This remark is often made at the capitol as Representative Sperry of Connecticut is pointed out. It was forty years ago that Mr. Sperry signed his name to the instrument that pledged every dollar he had in the world on the success of an experiment—an absolute experiment—that the United States Navy Department was not willing to back, which a great many people thought was a foolish one, but the success of which marked the turning point in the naval fights of the war of the rebellion.

Mr. Sperry's story of the bonding of the constructors of the Monitor, the fiscal act which was antecedent to the great military drama, is very interesting.

"I was a young fellow," said Mr. Sperry, "but was full of patriotism and ardor for the success of the Union cause, and I guess that was why the projectors of the Monitor approached me to back the scheme with a bond for the successful building of the vessel."

"John A. Griswold of Troy, at that time a member of Congress; Cornelius S. Bushnell of New Haven and a Western man named Winslow were the builders. The vessel was designed by Ericsson, as is well known, but these three men were to construct her. The Navy Department was skeptical of the practicability of Ericsson's idea, and declined to advance the money unless bond could be provided to secure the department against loss if the plans should not work out successfully."

"There was great commotion about the building of the Confederate ram Merrimac. We knew that she was going ahead at the Gosport navy yard and would be the most formidable vessel afloat. She was iron-clad, and the though of that invincible ship being turned loose among the wooden vessels of the coast was a terrible one.

"She could have levied tribute on every city along the coast from the Chesapeake to Maine, and would have had everything her own way. Well, when the Monitor was proposed, people said that was just the thing if it would work out. But many people were doubtful about the 'cheese box,' as they jeeringly called Ericsson's vessel."

"Mr. Bushnell thought she could be built. So Mr. John Drew of New York and myself went on his bond with the Navy Department and the work was started at Greenpoint, N. Y. Everybody knows how the Union vessel was finished, went down the coast and was in Hampton Roads when the Merrimac came out."

"I will never forget the day of the battle. It was an exciting time in New Haven, for we had a kind of local pride in the Monitor, on account of Mr. Bushnell's connection. All day long crowds clustered around the telegraph office, receiving bulletins of the fight."

"Mr. Bushnell and I were there, too, you may depend upon it. At last, along about 5 or 6 o'clock in the evening came the news that the Merrimac had been disabled by the Monitor and had put back to port. Bushnell, who was a strapping big fellow, with a hand in proportion to his size, brought his hand down on my shoulder with a whack that nearly knocked me down."

"Sperry," says he, 'your bond is safe.' I tell you, there was great celebrating in New Haven that time. A peculiar thing is that the original bond we signed has never been found. No one knows what became of it."—Washington Star.

SCARED THE SHARK

Adventures of a Diver Who Was at Work in the Magdalena River, Colombia.

Few men lead more adventurous lives in these latter days than divers; and few divers have survived more perils of the deep than one known to his fellows by the name of "Tim-mans." This is how he describes one adventure with a shark—a more exciting than dangerous one, as it happily proved:

"I once had an experience with a shark," he said, "while we were trying to save a 3,000-ton steamer of the Hamburg-American Packet Company, wrecked on a bar in the Magdalena river, Colombia."

"I'd been working for days patching her keel, hung on a swinging shelf we'd lowered along her side, and every time I went down I saw swarms of red snappers and butterfly under my shelf, darting after the refuse I'd scrape off her plates; and there were big jewfish, too, and I used to harpoon 'em for the men to eat. In fact, I about kept our crew supplied with fresh fish that way."

"Well, on one particular day I noticed a sudden shadow against the light, and there was a shark sure enough; not such an enormous one, but twelve feet long anyhow—big enough to make me uneasy. He swam slowly around me, and then kept perfectly still, looking straight at me with his little wicked eyes."

"I didn't know what minute he might make a rush, so I caught up a hammer I was working with—it was my only weapon—and struck it against the steamer's side as hard as I could. You know a blow like that sounds louder under water than it does in the air, and it frightened the shark, so he went off like a flash."

"I'll tell you how hungry those sharks were. They'd swallow big chunks of pork, sir, nailed and wired to barrel heads, as fast as we could chuck 'em overboard; swallow nails, wire, barrel heads and all; and then we haul 'em in by ropes that did for fish lines, only it took twenty or thirty men to do the hauling. And there were plenty of sharks round about, only they never seemed to tackle a man in the suit."

The passenger is likely to make better time in the car than in the cab.

was after all a good thing, because no horse ambulance ever made was big enough for a mammoth, and there the ice closed over him, and for 2,000 years, more or less, he reposed in his frayed tomb, until some wandering scientist came along and stared at him through the crystal walls. Then they cracked him out from his frost-bitten nose to his frozen feet, and set him up and danced the dance of triumph about him.

Poor old mammoth! The world has changed a good deal since fate dealt him that fatal jolt in the neck.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.

PERUNA CURES CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS.

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys contracted in the army. Medicine did not help me until a comrade who had been helped by Peruna advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon I was blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years, thanks to Peruna."—T. H. Mars.

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Peruna to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."—John Vance.

Mr. J. Brake, of Petrolia, Ontario, Canada writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Peruna and Manilla, and in three months I was a well man and have continued so ever since."—J. Brake.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It attacks the catarrhal kidneys, the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood.

Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease.

Peruna cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

to water but you can't make him drink.

You can't make him eat either. You can stuff food into a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course. Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't. A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use it's food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again—making new flesh. That's the way to get fat.

NAVY NOT REPRESENTED.

Efforts to Secure Speakers for a Kansas Banquet Were Futile.

This is a story that was overheard. The dramatic personae were two gentlemen who came to Washington from Kansas City, Kan., to secure "talent" for a democratic banquet. They were ordered to secure Admiral Schley at all hazards. But Admiral Schley had his hands full and declined. They invited two or three other prominent naval men and they declined—the order was to secure some one to represent the navy. The two gentlemen were canvassing the situation on the street car. "Say!" exclaimed Smith—which wasn't his name any more than Jones belonged to the other—"What about the man who said 'Don't cheer! they are dying,' maybe he would come. What—was—his—name?" "Um—er—oh, yes—Phillip," replied Jones.

"Suppose we ask him." "He's dead," answered Jones. Smith seemed to be thinking very hard for a few moments, then slapped Jones on the knee as an idea struck him.

"I've got 'er now. Let's get that fellow that was with Dewey. He's straight goods. The one that Dewey told 'You may fire when ready.' What's his name? I can't recall it." "That was Gridley," returned Jones. "Well, let's get Gridley," said Smith. "He's dead, too," Jones replied, gloomily. Then they went back to Kansas City and declared the banquet off, says the Washington Star. "When a Democrat takes to 'ater he usually dies," was Smith's ironic report.

The German Crown Prince.

Notwithstanding the German emperor's desire that the crown prince should give strict attention to his school duties, it is nevertheless his expressed wish that the young man's university career shall be unburdened by the oppressive official homage from the many small municipalities through which his excursions may lead him. This desire of an imperial father has been respected, but it does not prevent the crown prince from becoming the cynosure of interest wherever he may halt. Not long ago he stopped with his motor car at Rheine, a dreamy old town on the Rhine. In the public house of the place there was a Hungarian band playing its peculiar melodies to the delight of the townspeople. When the prince arrived he insisted on learning to play on the piano, and after a short lesson actually succeeded in enticing some simple melodies from the instrument, to the great joy of the innkeeper and his assembled guests, who vigorously applauded the young man's efforts. #### The Storm's Work.

The storm which swept the lakes Friday night and Saturday has its accompaniments of wrecks and loss of life. From nearly every point on the lakes comes some report of disaster, and it is positively known that several vessels have been lost. The storm was the most severe in years, and embraces all parts of the lakes, but centering particularly over Lakes Michigan, Huron and Erie. Schooner Grace E. Gribbe foundered off Point Pelee and went to pieces. Capt. Wilson and two men washed ashore on wreckage. Three sailors drowned. Details of the effects of the storm come in slow owing to the damage to telegraph wires.

Change of Venue.

Thomas F. McGarry, under indictment for bribery in the Lake Michigan water boodle scheme, will be tried in another county than Kent. This was decided by Judge Newham when he granted a motion of the defense for a change of venue, but the county to which the case is to be transferred has not been announced by the judge. When the motion was reviewed the judge asked the prosecution if it had anything to say and Mr. Ward replied he did not know that he had anything; that he fully appreciated the difficulty in securing a jury here, that he considered a fair effort had been made and that he would be satisfied with any course the court might take.

Roads Must Obey Orders.

The department of justice, at the request of the secretary of war, has directed District Attorney Corvill to begin criminal proceedings against the Big Four and Pere Marquette railroads, for refusing to obey the act of March 4, 1910, declaring Paw Paw river a navigable stream. The war department a year ago notified both companies to unlock the draws of their bridges at Benton Harbor so that vessels could get through. The companies have failed to obey the orders. Proceedings will be by indictment by the grand jury in the United States court at Grand Rapids, presumably against the presidents.

Expensive Shoes.

J. M. Bigelow, the young man who was arrested in Albion for obtaining goods under false pretenses, proved to be J. M. Barker, of Quincy. He pleaded guilty to that charge when arraigned, and was taxed a fine of $10 and costs. The boy's father, who is said to be a retired farmer, drove from Quincy during the night to render financial assistance to the son in his dilemma. It seems that young Barker, in company with another companion, were out for a time taking in several of the neighboring towns and became infatuated with a pair of patent leather shoes which was the cause of his downfall.

Fooling With a Gun.

Roy Nichols, a 14-year-old Saginaw lad, was shot and probably fatally injured by Andrew Frazer Wednesday night. Frazer's story is that the boy picked up a revolver which had been taken apart and began snapping it. Frazer said in fun: "I've got a gun, too." Pulling one out of his pocket, which he didn't think was loaded, he pointed the muzzle at the boy and pulled the trigger twice. The first chamber was empty, but the second contained a ball which went through the little fellow's abdomen.

Held for Trial.

According to announcement, Edwin T. Bennett and Dr. Roy W. Griswold were arraigned on a new complaint in the Bay City Police Court Saturday, on the charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Agnes Eberstein, of Battle Creek. An additional count is added in the new complaint. The defendants were held for trial in $5,000 each, with two sureties. They were furnished by Dr. Griswold, but Bennett went back to the county jail.

Died in the Road.

At Jones, ten miles west of Three Rivers, the funeral procession of the late Mr. Steck was stopped while on the way to the church, by finding the dead body of a man in the road. There was nothing on his person to identify him. He was apparently about 65 years old and had $41 in cash in his pocket. An old horse and wagon were in the road near the body. The authorities took charge of the remains.

Postmaster in Trouble.

Acting Postmaster Mason C. Adams, of Leesburg, was arrested at that place on a charge of detaining and opening official mail, and held under $1,000 bonds. Some time ago a new postmaster was appointed for Leesburg, and the papers sent from the department failed to reach the appointee. An investigation was started, and when duplicate appointment papers sent to the appointee failed to be delivered to him the acting postmaster was arrested. The papers have been recovered and turned over to their owner.

Algonac Bank Failed.

The bank belonging to the Algonac Banking Co. was closed Wednesday. J. Will McKenzie and P. J. Kean are the principal stockholders, the former being manager. The defunct bank contained $32,000 in deposits, the greater part of which will probably be lost, as the present assets of the bank are very poor. George W. Carman, the head of the Marine Savings bank of Marine City, will open a new bank at Algonac. Mr. Carman is known all over the state and has been in the banking business since 1870. There is the probability that considerable litigation will follow the failure, as bankruptcy proceedings will be started.

It appears that nearly every merchant, sailor, hired girl and schoolboy or girl had money in the defunct Algonac bank. The Algonac school district had $100 in the bank; the township about $500; the village, $900; Har- sen Island school district, $2,350; J. J. Harper, $2,350; the Macabees, Odd Fellows and United Workmen small amounts, and about 100 other depositors had from $1 to $300.

There was a meeting of the depositors Thursday afternoon in the town hall. Probate Judge Stephen Graham of Port Huron was appointed as their attorney. It is believed the bank's liabilities are about $32,000. The assets remain as yet unknown. J. Will McKenzie has left town.

Michigan Coal Fields.

The state geological survey has just issued a report on the coal of Michigan, its mode of occurrence and quality. By State Geologist A. C. Lane. It contains a map showing an extreme area of about 11,000 square miles, confined to the central part of the lower peninsula. This map also shows roughly the elevation of the bed rock surface, from which the depth of drift under which the coal measures are buried may be inferred. In the northern part this is very considerable, amounting to hundreds of feet, and proves an almost insuperable bar to exploitation. Sections are also given which show the way in which the coal seams occur. There is an interesting discussion of the prospects of over-production, which the author considers possible if the rate of increase in production is kept up, and also some figures on the value of coal lands and royalties. The customary royalty appears to be about 8 cents per ton.

Shockingly Mangled.

Caught by her long hair by a rapidly revolving shaft, Pauline Becker, of Detroit, was killed almost instantly at the Physicians' Pharmacy Co. laboratory, Thursday morning. So suddenly did the accident occur that the other employees had not time to turn at the sound of her scream of terror before her mangled and disfigured body fell to the floor. Miss Becker carried a tray of bottles to some shelves, where a whirling shaft was running, which she came too close to in mounting the steps with the tray. Her hair floated loosely and the suction of the shaft caught it. There was a scream and her body was whirled over the shaft at terrible speed. It struck against the beams and rafters, bespattering them with blood. The scalp of the girl was torn loose and her body fell against a partition between two tiers of shelves. Her legs had been battered off just below the knee and her arms were broken in many places.

Sixth Murder in Detroit.

John Reinhardt, a stone mason living at 62 Scott street, was shot and killed Friday afternoon by Frank Colling, a 16-year-old boy, whose home is next door. The story of the neighbors as to the shooting is that both the man and boy, who live in adjoining houses, came home at noon time. The boy commenced to tease Reinhardt and the latter, in a rage, picked up a sledge hammer and started for his tormentor. Then Colling pulled out a revolver and commenced to shoot. Four shots were fired around Reinhardt's feet, and then Colling raised the gun, and fired point blank at Reinhardt. The bullet pierced his heart and Reinhardt fell dead.

In the patrol wagon en route to the station Colling manifested no regret for his crime.

"Well, is the old guy dead?" he asked.

"Well, he got what he deserved," he added.

Farmers Lose by Fire.

A spark from a Pere Marquette engine started a fire in the lumber yards of Mann, Watson & Co., Muskegon, which consumed 1,000,000 feet of lumber, valued at $15,000.

Sparks from burning rubbish carried by the high wind destroyed James Dunn's barn near Emmet, with tons of hay, $400 worth of lumber, five thoroughbred calves, and farm implements, was destroyed. William Dingman, a neighboring farmer, went to the fire, a burning ember from which set fire to his barns and every building on his place was wiped out, as well as all of his sheep, horses and cattle.

It looks now as if the new union depot to be built at Benton Harbor will go to St. Joseph instead, the railway officials being sore at the action of the Benton Harbor council suggesting an ordinance limiting the speed of trains inside the limits in an unreasonable degree. It is intimated the Big Four will come to St. Joe over the Pere Marquette, thus relegating Benton Harbor to the rank of a way station.

George O. Putnam, the degenerate youth from Williamstown, who pleaded guilty to the charge of taking indecent liberties with a 4-year-old girl, was sentenced by Judge Wiest to three years at Iowa.

Queen Wilhelmina Improving—Senator

Allison on Reciprocity and the Army

Bill—A Chicago Judge Says Wives May

Kill Husbands Who Beat Them.

A Dastardly Deed.

As the night shift went to work Saturday evening in the tunnel of the Canadian Power Co., at Niagara Falls, discovery was made of an attempt to wreck the tunnel and kill the men, 30 in number, working 180 feet below the surface of the earth.

The shaft leading down to the tunnel is 100 feet deep. From the bottom of the shaft the tunnel runs north and south and men work at both headings. The blasts are discharged by means of batteries which are operated at the foot of the shaft, the wires extending to the headings.

One of the "nipper" boys discovered that one of the batteries had been cut and a cartridge cap connected and placed in a stick of dynamite. The stick of dynamite had been placed between two boxes of dynamite containing 75 pounds of the material. Had an explosion occurred the havoc wrought would have been fearful. No motive can be ascribed for the plot.

Senator Allison's Views.

Senator Allison, of Iowa, said in Chicago Saturday: "Some form of reciprocity will undoubtedly be granted the Cuban people at this session of congress, but what that form will be, no man knows at this juncture. I should not care to forecast."

"Do you think it will take the recent form of the house amendment?" was asked.

"No."

"Will the beet sugar interests of the west be looked after at all?"

"The amendment, as passed by the house, will not be repealed by the senate. That does not mean, however, that the beet sugar interests will not be cared for."

"Will the army reorganization bill be disposed of at this session of congress?"

"No. I can state positively that it will not be acted upon at this session."

General Smith Denounced.

In the house Monday, Mr. Sibley (Rep., Pa.) made a bitter denunciation of Gen. Jacob Smith. He said he had always defended the course of the administration and had believed in expansion, but when it came to such orders as had been issued by Gen. Smith, humanity seemed to have marched backward. "I have heard of Timur, the Tartar, and of the Saracen scourge, but thank God it took 18 centuries after Calvary to produce a Gen. Smith." He declared Smith should be discharged in disgrace.

Mr. Williams (Miss.) heartily endorsed Mr. Sibley's onslaught on Gen. Smith, whom he described as a "brute in uniform. But I am a little afraid," he continued, "that he does not strike the evil in the right quarter. It is the system which should be struck at, not the man who unconsciously carries out the spirit of the system."

A Wife's Rights.

Judge Richard S. Tutbill, of Chicago, while trying a divorce suit, asserted that when a husband made a practice of beating his wife, she had a right to kill him, if she wished.

The evidence submitted to Judge Tutbill showed that the husband had made a practice of pounding his wife, and after granting the decree of divorce, he made from the bench the assertion that the woman would have been entirely within her rights if she had killed her husband when he beat her.

Later, in an interview, Judge Tutbill reiterated his statement.

The Day Beyond

When youth is with us, all things seem to be bright and new; but when it is gone, and we are left to the dreary monotony of the day beyond, we find that the world is a different place. The sun is no longer so bright, the sky no longer so blue, and the world no longer so full of life and joy. We find that the day beyond is a long and dreary one, and that we must make the most of the day that is before us.

Only Surviving Officer

Of the officers of the little ironclad Monitor, which went into commission on January 30, 1862, and before the 10th of March had achieved her momentary victory over the Merrimack, only one remains. His name is Captain John A. Stodder, and he is at present in command of the gunboat USS Albatross, and is a veteran of the United States revenue service, says the Brooklyn Standard Union. Captain Stodder was born in Boston in 1838 and entered the navy from the merchant marine at an early age, and was in the gunnery school then established in Brooklyn, when in January, 1862, a call was made for volunteers to work the guns of the "cheesebox on a raft," then in an unfinished state at Greenport. John Ericsson's "newfangled concern," as some then styled it, was the laughing stock of all the naval wits who had seen or heard of it, and the prospective gunners were warned that they were taking their lives in their hands when they volunteered. But men were found and the vessel was constructed at a rate of progress probably unprecedented. Within 100 days from the laying of the keel the Monitor was launched with machinery complete, and within 150 days she had won the victory over the Merrimack, which revolutionized naval architecture.

The Monitor was commenced in October, 1861, and was launched January 30, 1862. Mr. Stodder was present on both occasions, and as he remained with his vessel until she was launched off Cape Hatteras the last day of December, 1862, it will be seen that he stood by her during her entire existence.

Last of Lincoln's Family

When Robert T. Lincoln dies, he will be the only surviving member of the martyred president's family, the name dies with him. He did have a son, but the boy crossed the dark river to the eternal city years ago. Mr. Lincoln is 58. He was born in a tavern, before his father, Abraham, owned a home. He was educated in New England at the Phillips Exeter Academy and Harvard college. He has been a successful lawyer in Chicago, secretary of war in the cabinet of Garfield, the American minister to the court of St. James, and frequently has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency. Yet he never made capital of the fact that by the accident of birth he was the direct descendant of a great and good man.

Mad Anthony's Battle Flag.
Dr. Henry G. Moore of Wabash, Ind., has an old battle flag, said to have been carried by Gen. Anthony Wayne (Mac Anthony) during his campaign through northern Ohio and Indiana, toward the close of the eighteenth century. It is made of homespun linen, with thirteen red, white and blue stripes, and in the corner in faded letters is the name Anthony Wayne. The holes in its canvas show it was on the firing line. Its dimensions are four by five feet.

Dr. Moore obtained the flag from an Indian named Dickinson in 1835. He was a Miami and claimed that the flag had been in his family for years, descending from an ancestor. Recently the flag was shown to Mrs. Rev. Mr. Wayne, the venerable Indian squaw, aged 90, while she was here perfecting her title to the little tract of ground on which she lives, and the facts were explained to her by Chief Godfrey. Mrs. Rev. Mr. Wayne is the daughter of an Indian named She-mock-e-mish by Gen. Wayne himself, and is an emblem of peace. He gave it to a relative of Kill-so-quah, and in later years it disappeared, and Mrs. Rev. Mr. Wayne supposed it had been destroyed.

Two Presidents in a Battle.
President William McKinley's and President Hayes' parts in the battle of Antietam will be marked by a monument erected by the state of Ohio. In this battle McKinley, then a private, acted as commissary to the Ohio troops. The monument will stand at the place where he stood during the fiercest part of the fight. At the head of the Twenty-third was the late president, then Colonel Ruth-erford B. Hayes, on whose staff Mr. McKinley was an aid.

Veterans Want Monument.
Members of the various Grand Army Posts in Boston are much interested in the proposed soldiers' monument to be erected by the city in Logan Square, and for which competitive plans were received and prizes awarded by council. Joseph R. Craig, president of the Grand Army Association, announced that he had appointed a committee to cooperate with councils to secure an appropriation to build the monument.

Good Soldier Though Deserter

"I remember," said the Major, "a bright young fellow who came to me from the Third Ohio, in June, 1861. He enlisted in our company, explained simply that his company in the Third had gone to pieces on the three years' question, and finding himself out in the cold, he had come over to us. Later it appeared that he had told the truth, except as to the manner of his leaving. When his company seemed on the point of breaking up he left camp disgusted; but the next week most of the men decided to enlist for three years, and the missing man was reported as a deserter."

"He served a year in our regiment, when he received a visit from an officer of the Third. Possibly the officer threatened him, for the next day he disappeared, and we never heard of him again, except in a vague way. One of our boys was sure that he saw him in another division in the mix-up at Chickamauga, bareheaded and fighting among the best of the desperate fighters of that day; but there was no way to trace him, and in truth, no one cared to do it. He probably served creditably through the war; and yet he was, on the rolls, twice a deserter."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

National Memorial University.
The first and main building of the National Memorial university being built at Mason City, Iowa, solely by contributions from the Sons of Veterans of the United States and allied organizations is about completed. The structure, erected at a cost of $100,000, occupies a central position in the 160-acre site on Patriots' hill. It is of stone, fireproof, 155 feet long and seventy-six feet high, and three stories high above the subbasement. Probably the next building to be completed will be the National Civil War museum, where, it is planned, the greatest collection of war relics in the United States will be brought together. Another building soon to be erected is to be known as the Barton hall, in honor of Miss Clara Barton of the American National Red Cross society. The responsibility for this building and for the ladies' college, which will be housed in it, has been assumed by the National Alliance of Daughters of Veterans. The various buildings will be completed in time for opening the university in the fall of 1903.

J. S. MORTON PASSES AWAY

Member of Cleveland's Cabinet Is Dead at Lake Forest, Ill.

WAS FOUNDER OF ARBOR DAY

His Efforts in Behalf of Tree-planting Aided in Converting Vast Stretches of Barren Prairies in the West Into Beautiful Forests.

Chicago, April 23.—J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture under President Cleveland, and founder of Arbor day, died at the home of his son, Mark Morton, at Lake Forest, Ill., yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. He had just rounded out his seventeenth year. At the bedside were his three sons, Paul Morton, second vice president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company, and Joy and Mark Morton, of Joy Morton & Co., with their families.

Mr. Morton had been in poor health for more than a year. The death of his youngest son, Carl Morton, at Waukegan, last January, was a great blow to him, and it is said that he never recovered from it.

His serious illness dated from last November, when he contracted a severe cold as he was speaking at the stock show in Chicago. The cold ran into an attack of grip, and Mr. Morton was in a hospital for some time. After a partial recovery he went, early in March, to the City of Mexico.

During his stay in the Southern country a disease of the bronchial arteries developed, and he returned North. Three weeks ago Mr. Morton was taken to Lake Forest in the hope of securing the services of a specialist. The condition of his throat again became aggravated, and a week ago he suffered an attack of apoplexy. His death was due immediately, however, to an inflammation of the bronchial arteries.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mark Morton Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The relatives and friends will then accompany the body on a special train to Nebraska City, where services will be held at the family home, "Arbor Lodge," Wednesday afternoon.

Since his retirement as secretary of agriculture in 1897 Mr. Morton had remained in private life, but had been a strong influence in both state and national politics. He was a staunch member of the gold wing of the Democratic party and refused to follow the lead of William Jennings Bryan and the Chicago and Kansas City platforms. After returning to his Nebraska home from Washington he established a weekly paper called the Conservative, in which he discussed the politics of the day and current events. This paper had a wide circulation, and with it Mr. Morton supported McKinley for president in both his campaigns.

The achievement of which Mr. Morton was proudest was his founding of Arbor day, which is observed each year on April 22 throughout the country with the planting of trees. It has converted vast stretches of barren Western prairies into spots of beauty and comfort. Since its start in Nebraska in 1872, it is said that more than 13,000,000 trees have been planted in that state alone. His constant motto was, "Plant trees."

STRIKE BACKBONE IS BROKEN

Singer Company Advances Wages of Those Who Return to Their Places.
South Bend, Ind., April 23.—The backbone of the strike of the employees of the Singer manufacturing company has been broken, and although the strikers' executive committee did its best to prevent the blow from landing, there is little doubt that all of the 1,700 men will be working in the Singer shops soon. The blow which caused the break in the strike, now ten weeks old, was the payment of the 400 men who had returned to work, nearly all of them having their wages increased from 25 to 50 cents per day.

PINGREE ON THE STAND IN DETROIT BANK CASE

Says Vice President Andrews Told Him to Resign If He Wanted the Institution to Go Down.

Detroit, Mich., April 23.—Frank C. Pingree, president of the wrecked City Savings Bank, was called to the witness stand at the examination of Frank C. and Henry R. Andrews, vice president and cashier of the bank, who are charged with causing its ruin. Pingree testified that last July the directors discovered that the bank was holding some of Frank C. Andrews' paper which they had not approved. Pingree said that he talked the discovery over with Frank C. Andrews and told him that if the bank was going to be robbed he (Pingree) did not want to have anything to do with it and would resign.

Andrews, said Pingree, "said he would not take the presidency if I would resign. He added that if I resigned he would and if I wanted the bank to go down all I had to do was to resign."

After a heated argument Andrews finally agreed to sell his real estate and straighten out the affairs. Pingree said that Andrews told him they could sell the City Savings Bank by fall, as there were two banks that wanted to buy it.

Irish Immigrants for America.
London, April 23.—Emigration from the west of Ireland to America is assuming what is called "alarming proportions." # Red Money.

Senator Money was placed in custody in Washington Friday on information sworn out by Orpha D. Shaner, the street car conductor who ejected the senator from his car Thursday. The information charges the senator with assaulting the conductor during the disturbance and the conductor produced a witness who corroborated his version of the story.

A witness named Martin, who saw the occurrence, said he heard an exchange of words between Money and Shaner regarding a transfer. The senator refused to pay either transfer or fare. The conductor then took hold and ejected him. Then the conductor left the senator and was returning to the car with his back to the senator, when the latter approached the former and struck him with a knife.

Witness Martin swore to this statement, and the information then was made out against the senator. Attorney Dunlop, a son of the president of the road, represented Shaner and Hooper.

Senator Money pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault, and asked for a trial by judge. The other two defendants also pleaded not guilty.

The Army in Cuba.
Secretary of War Root has returned from Cuba and said: "My visit to Cuba was for the purpose of arranging for the transfer of the island to the Cuban government on May 20. Seven artillery companies consisting of 800 men, will remain in charge of the guns, ammunition, etc., which will be retained in Cuba for the United States naval stations, which have been arranged for in the treaty with the Cuban government. The troops will be stationed at Havana, Santiago and Cienfuegos."

The secretary says that no claim has been made by the United States for the settlement of sums expended in freeing Cuba, but that the matter will be taken up with the Cuban government. The party will leave at once for Washington.

County and Vicinity

The Ypsilanti Dairy Association is one of the prosperous institutions of the city. Last year it did a business of $105,000.

Moses J. Howe has been supervisor of Milan township for 31 years, and bids fair to make it a half-century record.—Ypsilanti. Moses! How he hangs on.

Stockbridge people were surprised to see the familiar face of Cephas Smith gracing the obituary of a Bay City physician in the Detroit Tribune last Thursday.—Stockbridge Sun.

Sedgwick Dean has filed his 32d annual account as guardian for George Sutton, an incompetent. This guardianship has extended over a greater term of years than any other in Washtenaw county.

One of the sights worth seeing in Milan is the Belgian hare breeding establishment of James Gauntlett on east Main street. Mr. Gauntlett has over 200 hares from a few days old up.—Milan Leader.

Miss Olive Cressy of Saline met with a painful mishap at the Observer office Thursday. In some manner her left hand became caught in a gear crushing the middle finger so that amputation was necessary.

The Ann Arbor Water Company will build a 100 foot smoke stack on its property on west Washington street. It will require 65,000 brick to complete the job and will be the largest stack in the city of Ann Arbor.

Word has come of the marriage of Miss Lorena Oldfield, a former Normal student, who is teaching in the Philippines, to G. W. Salmon, a wealthy American, who made his fortune in the islands. The bride is continuing her school work, but will break her three-year contract after June.

The Ely dowl works is just booming these days, and Northville's smallest industry may in time prove to be one of the leaders. Already the growth of the business compels the company to equip the plant with electric lights so as to enable the factory to run nights in order to keep anywhere near their orders. The company has on hand orders for three car loads of dows, besides a number of small orders for regular customers, and every mail brings additions. Two of the car loads mentioned must be delivered by May 26. A number of additional hands have been put at work, and the factory will soon be running to its full capacity. Proprietor A. W. Ely states that if he had twice the amount of room and machinery he could use it to a good advantage, as there is an almost unlimited demand for the line of dows and mouldings which his factory makes.—Northville Record.

WHOOPIING COUGH.
A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops.—Jeane Plinkey Hall, Springville, Ala. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

WANTS OTHERS TO KNOW.
"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to endorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it." writes Alfred Helme, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills. Glazier & Stimson.

DANGEROUS IF NEGLECTED.
Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected and become troublesome sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequence. Even where delay has aggravated the injury DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yankee town, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. Glazier & Stimson.

It consumes the vitality faster than nature can replenish it, and we cannot tell just what moment a temporary or complete aberration of the mind will result. CAUTION!
This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase for the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of consumption and throat and lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe coughs, bronchitis, croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectation and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. Sold by all druggists in the civilized world. G. G. Green, Woodbury, N. J.
