Are Willing to Settle.

Grass Lake News: During the past wo weeks the entanglements of the Zenith Cement Company have been given a that the prospects of getting the affairs of the company straightened out are very promising. Since E. J. Foster filed his petition for the appointment of a receiver for the company the directors who manipulated the company's affairs in such a manner that its strong box was depleted, have shown a disposition to settle rather than let the matter get into the courts. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the company was held in Detroit last week Thursday and at that time the fellows who Mr. Foster charged with practicing deception in the management of the company seemed quite willing to surrender the stock they had taken, and some were so anxious to have the matter erle et al., Ann Arbor, 1,050. settled that they offered to return to the company's treasury the money they received, which was paid without the sanction of the board of directors. The propositions for settlement made by these fellows are now being considered by new officers and board of directors, and if the plans upon which the new officers are now at work do not fail the company will soon be in better condition than it has ever been-the water will have been 'squeezed" out of the stock, and the affairs of the company will be in the hands of men in whom the public have able, Northfield, 75. confidence and who are interested in the success of the project. At the meeting Thursday the following lirectors were chosen for the ensuing year: Ephriam Marble, Marshall; S. G. l'opping, Plainfield; Dr. W. J. McHinch, to Fredericka Kalmbach, Sylvan, 1, Brighton; C. C. Corwin and B. Teufel, Grass Lake; John Cook, Ann Arbor; icka Riemenschneider, Sylvan, 1,500. Isaac N. Payne, Detroit. The board of directors held a meeting in this village Monday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, C. C. Corwin; vice president, B. Tenfel; secretary, Isaac N. Payne; treasurer, E. J. Foster.

Sylvan's Delegates.

The following delegates were elected y the Sylvan republicans to attend the county convention at Ann Arbor next Monday: F. P. Glazier, A. W. Wilkinson, W. F. Riemenschneider, W. J. Knapp, Fred Wedemeyer, L. T. Freeman, Fred Mensing, O. T. Hoover, Fred Kalm bach, Martin Wackenhut, Bernard Parker, C. M. Davis, Martin Merkle, S. L. Gage. It was the largest caucus ever held in the county, 344 votes being cast.

Washtenaw Equitably Assessed. Messrs. A. F. Freeman, William T.

Dust and J. C. McLaughlin of the state tax commission, met the supervisors of Wayne, Washtenaw and Jackson countles at Ann Arbor Tuesday.

The purpose was to give the supervisors pointers regarding assessing street railway property.

Mr. Freeman addressed the supervisors. You must put these street railways on your rolls at their real values," said he, but at the same time you must make ertain that all other properties are assessed at their cash values or the com mission will be forced to recover your rolls and correct them."

Many of the supervisors asked troublerome questions but the commissioner answered them. Mr. Freeman made a strong plea for every supervisor to assess a cash values.

"If you do this," he said, "your county equalizes itself. At present there are only two counties in the state where the assessed values are taken as the equalized values, and these two counties are Washtenaw and Marquette."

Fleecing Farmers.

According to the daily papers the farmers are complaining of being fleeced by sharpers in every manner imaginable. The other day a Wall Lake farmer sold his chickens to a traveling buyer, and although the birds were good and fat they did not bring down the scales and he was mystified. The buyer started on to the next farm house, when the husbandman discovered that the chap had forgotten his scales. He examined them and discovered that the scales had been fixed in an inger lous manner, so that they would not weigh over so many pounds. When the buyer returned after them he settled the matter by paying farmer $10.

priestly visitants draw near peak those words they knew; The head upon the pillow dreamed, And joyed when they withdrew. To him their language was but mock, For with silent hope he trod That led his soul to God.

Tis ever thus, thro' death and life, We meet our fate alone ch whisper of the spirit voice ings a message of our own. No hand may guide our foot-steps, No lips may voice our need, Deep in our own, own consciousness Must spring the vital seed.

As stranger treads the city street, Each face he meets unknown, So every soul must wander on, Unrecognized; alone. Its dreams, its fondest hopes unseen, Its visions unrevealed-For mortal eyes are closed to this, And fleshly lips are sealed.

Doom of the rich and mighty, Gift of the poor and weak That back our noblest utterance. Of the strongest words we speak. There dwells a deeper knowledge No language may control. And God alone may minister To the longings of the soul.

The Fruitfulness of Sacrifice.

Only a little study and observation will be sufficient to convince us that all the finer spirits of our race have lived and worked on the lines of selfdenial and self-sacrifice. A great impulse, borne on the breath of heaven, has over-mastered them. Personal interests-the love of life and the pleasures of life-have yielded to a higher motive. They have voluntarily lost their lives, and losing them have saved them. To such men we owe all that is noblest in our civilization and grandest in our liberties. The measure of their greatness has been that of their self-denial. They have suffered much that we might suffer less. They have defended human rights by enduring unspeakable wrongs. They have died for the truth that we might live by its diberated might. And now their memory is the life-blood of the moral world. What they did for themselves we do not thank them for, but we do thank them for all they did for us. They have passed away, but their bleeding feet are yet beautiful upon the mountains, and their aching brows are diademed with glory; they lost their life of selfish ease and indolent Indulgence, but they live to rule us from their graves with a sovereignty grander and more lasting than the caesars or the Napoleons ever knew.

And what shall we say of the crowned and holy Sufferer to whom, because of his self-chosen agony, there ·4s "given a name which is above every name." He stood for the principle of sacrifice. He died on the cross of a malefactor to impress upon the world itis own ideal, and to prove that the waw of love was the final bond of soclety; that love is the essence of diwinity; that love, suffering for another, is the highest form of love, and that by this power alone the wrong and hate of the world is to be conquered. and its sinning and sufferings millions gathered home to the God who himself is love.

Presbyterian General Assembly. Talk of moderatorship of the forthcoming Presbyterian general assembly comes down to the fact that some man eminent in home missions will probably be chosen, since the assembly will this year celebrate the centennial of Presbyterian home mission effort. The Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, has been put forward by western interests, and against him home mission interests are said quietly to be bringing out the Rev. Dr. John Dixon, the assistant secretary of the board of home missions. He is regarded as satisfactory to all elements, but 4s classed as a conservative. The board of home missions makes an appeal to Presbyterian churches throughout the country to join with the general assembly, in observing Sunday, May 18, as the centennial anniversary of home missions. The board says to these churches, in its appeal, that "the supreme importance of evangelizing our own country, the splendid history of home missions in founding and nourishing more than 6,000 of existing Presbyterian churches, and the mighty inspiration which such united celebration will bring forth, summon the people to gratitude, prayer and consecration. It is suggested that

Law of Life. In general, the law of life is the law of growth and self-expression Dend things do not grow nor have anything to reveal. But living things grow and must reveal their hidden treasures. This necessity of expression in the lower world prepares us for the necessity of a self-revelation of man, Man's earliest, latest, deepest necessity is the necessity of giving forth his one message, the secret that God has breathed into him.-Rev. Dr. N. D. Hillis, Congregationalist, Brooklyn, New York.

A Happy World.

This world of ours is a happy world so that God is our end, so that we can eay to him, "Thou art my God." Then everything takes new hues of joy and tove. Our daily comforts have a soul in them, for they abound in thanksgiving; our daily infirmities or crosses have a special joy in them, lever which sways the switch. In a because they are so tenderly fitted to nation's life, as in an individual's life, us by the medicinal hand of our God; now is the day of salvation, and if the commonest acts of life are full of Christians only do their duty all will deep interest, because their end is be well-Rev. Dr. Baker, Presbyte-God; daily duties are daily joys, be- rian, Pennsylvania cause they are something which God gives us to offer unto him, to do our very best, in acknowledgment of his love. It is his earth we walk on; his air we breathe; his sun, the emblem of his all-penetrating love, which gladdens us. Eternity! Yes, that, too, is present to us, and is part of our joy on earth. God has given us faither to make our future home as certain to us as this, our spot of earth; and hope. to aspire strongly to it; and love, as a foretaste of the all-surrounding, ever-unfolding. Almighty love of our own God.-F. R. Pussey.

The Day's Date.

Happy he who at the day's end can say, "I have done something to-day." The heathen poet sings, "A master-life that man must live, and joyous, who can justly say at fall of each successive eve, 'I have lived to-day.'" He said it of a life of pleasure, but it is thrice as truly said of a life of duty. And not unworthy of the theme has a Christian man sung in our times:

"Duty done is the soul's fireside. Blest who keeps that ingle wide."

And such "duty," as another sings, "is a path that all may tread." The ordinary day's work is honored and sanctified by it. And surely still more true is it of some piece of work done for Christ's sake and Christ's only. To have seen a fallen brother regain his feet; to have trained a little child; to have watched a sick one through to the end; above all, to have stood by and prayed and spoken while a soul passed out of darkness into lightthat is a consummation, a fact accomplished, over which too many praises can never be sung.-R. W. Barbour.

Refusing Petitions a Proof of Love. A father has as much to do in refusing or withholding what would harm his child as in giving what his for another which may not have quite the father's unwillingness to give, refusing to give us so many things find the countess and request her presthat we ask for longingly day by day.

"To have each day, the thing I wish, Lord, that seems best to me: But not to have the thing I wish, Lord, that seems best to thee."

Our evening thanks should often in- Involuntarily a groan welled up Duty's Alm.

We have each to do our duty in that sphere of life in which we have been placed. Duty only is true; there is no true action but in its accomplishment. Duty is the end and aim of the highest life. The truest pleasure of all is that derived from the consciousness of its fullfilment. Of all others, it is the one that is the most thoroughly satisfying and the least accompanied by regret and disappointment. In the words of George Herbert, the consciousness of duty performed "gives, us music at midnight."-Smiles.

Heaven.

Not rest, but aspiration and a movement upward toward an unattained but possible good is heaven. To sit would be monotonous. But to be free drowsily amid absolute perfection from pain and be filled with aspiration, as one catches the fair vision of some new to-morrow, is to fill one with the exhibaration of life and joy. We shall forever be reaching forward to the "things that are before." All who believe in Christ have a certain and glorious future.-Rev. G. B. Vosburg, Baptist, Denver, Col.

The Unit of Society.

One of the most of modern heresies is the one that makes the individual and not the family the unit of society. Man by himself is not a complete being. Man and woman as husband and wife together make the unit. It is an essential part of the teaching of Christ that the unit of society is the family. The father who commands the respect and love of his children is the best citizen before the law as well as the best Christian on the eyes of God .--Rev. A. P. Doyle, Roman Catholic Brooklyn, N. Y.

Spiritua! Pro perity. We must not forget what we have inherited from the past. There has been no such century of unexampled prosperity. It is for us to say if this material, moral and spiritual prosperity shall continue. In our hands is the Arline was the first to recover.

She dropped the curtains and advanced toward him. "Ah! you have come, Mr. Stuart," she said. He took her hand and pressed it.

Boldness was returning it seemed. "Yes, I promised, you know; and, though I daresay I have legions of faults, at least my word is as good as my bond. Pray, be seated," offering her a chair. He was quite himself now, and that meant a wide-awake, ingenious young man, ready to meet and wrestle with difficulties as they arose.

Just opposite to her he sat down. It was, at least, a rare pleasure to be so near her in this confidential mood. The delicate, violet odor that permeated her rustling garments was like a breath of spring, and the magnetism of her presence almost intoxicated him. "You have been wondering what astonishing chain of circumstances brought a girl like me into such a miserable place as that underground dungeon?" turning toward the door with a glance that did not escape the eye of Charlie Stuart.

"Well, yes, to some extent; but it was not alone the desire to hear your promised story that brought me here, in spite of warnings from the baron."

He watched, but by no telltale pallor or start did she betray the fact that she knew to whom he referred by "the baron."

"What other reason could influence you?" she asked, a little eagerly. "The natural desire to meet you again. That wasn't wrong-you don't be better if you forgot me." He detected a plaintive little note in this, and his chivalrous spirit was up in arms at once. "I am not in the habit of deserting any one who is my friend because nerdanger to me to continue my acquaintance."

She seemed deeply affected by his "You overwhelm me with kindness, peared upon the scene me to serve you." "And yet I can hardly refuse, for, Heaven knows, I am in great trouble, and need a friend, if ever a young woman did."

"Compose yourself, I beg; and begin, please."

Charlie believed he was about to hear some news of more than ordinhe ran directly up against the enemy, any importance. In imagination he There stood the p.ofessor, glaring could picture the remarkable young widow who created such a furore all "Will you again deny the truth, vil- over Europe. "I have distressed you; and yet i beg you to believe I meant it all kindly. It was a silly thing for Peterhoff to do, but even the shrewdest of men of his stamp make absurd blunders sometimes. His last famous one cost Russia her Czar. Remember, I never for once took any stock in his ridiculous idea. It was all a mistake." Then the maid looked up.

Her eyes were sparkling with real tears, but Charlie's haste to assure her of the charge had brought a smile to her face.

"It is dreadful, even to be taken for such a notorious woman, don't you think? But perhaps I should look at it reasonably, and believe the baron has made an excusable blunder. Really, some of the garcons here in the hotel have addressed me as countess, and I have been puzz'ed to account for it until now, so we must look alike-I a demure little English lassie, and she a clever, designing Russian diplomat."

Charlie nodded, eagerly.

What she said seemed so very reasonable, and she took it much better than he expected. But he could easily discover that Arline was not wholly at her ease. Frequently she cast quick glances in the direction of the door.

This fact had come to his attention some time back; but Charlie did not find the least reason to suspect that the baron had aught to do with it. She seemed to hesitate, perhaps hardly knowing just how to begin her "Allow me to remark, in the beginning," said Charlie, "that, while I am ready and anxious to serve you, and stand ready to do all that may become a man-if there is any reason why you should wish to keep these things secret, I will try to help you, even while groping in complete ignorance."

"Oh, no," she answered quickly; "it is not that. You are entitled to the fullest confidence. I was only endeavoring to collect my thoughts so that I might know just how to begin. And, besides, I have a natural feeling of hame, because the person who has, I sadly fear, been plotting in secret against me, is one who should be my best friend upon earth-my father!"

Young though she was, this beautiful girl had known what it was to sup with poverty, to be left alone and friendless in the world and to meet with the most unexpected and glorious

Her story, even when briefly told was a series of dramatic surprises, such as are well fitted for the stage, yet occur so seldom in real life.

She barely mentioned her earlier years, save to tell how her father, a sea captain, had been lost as it was believed, at sea; and with her mother she had fought the grim wolf in London, sewing, as such people of refinement reduced to poverty must do in order to earn bread. Then came her mother's death, followed by her bitter fight against the world, and especially the persecution of a dashing gentleman, who seemed determined that she should marry him. no matter if dislike and disgust took the part of love in her breast, Then the wonderful freak of fortune that brought Arline in contact with an eccentric old aunt who was exceedingly wealthy.

It was the old story-Arline's mother had married beneath her, and from that hour had been as dead to her relatives; but when a kind Providence threw the forlorn young girl under the high-stepping carriage horses of the dowager Lady Wallis, and she later on discovered that this lovely creature was her own flesh and blood, a sudden love for the girl sprang up in her withered old heart, which resulted in her adopting this niece as her sole heiress.

Two years later Arline was bereft of her eccentric, but kind relative, and haps, it may mean trouble or even found herself once more alone in the world, this time possessed of a most bountiful fortune.

Then it was, with the abruptness of a cannon shot, Captain Brand ap-

He had a thrilling story to tell of his vessel's foundering in a gale of the African coast, his narrow escape from drowning, of being cast ashore, found by wandering Araba, taken into captivity, sold some years later to a tribe of the Great Sahara, so that he finally drifted to Dahontey where, through the assistance of the faithful woman he had been forced to marry. he eventually made a bold and successful escape, though his companion gave up her life in throwing herself in front of a spear that was meant for him.

Arline accepted it all as gospel truth, and would have at the time believed even a much more miraculous series of adventures could such have been by any means invented by this modern Munchausen.

This was before she knew Captain Brand so well.

She spent money with a liberal hand. He was enabled to indulge his love for fine clothes to its full bent. He smoked the finest cigars, drank the most expensive liquors, and she feared he frequently indulged in gaming.

Thus a year went by. Captain Brand had ceased to beg for money. He demanded it as his right, and in sums so large that Arline was growing alarmed.

He had tried to influence her to make her will leaving all her wealth to him; something might happen to her, though Heaven forbid, and she would not like to think of the great property going to strangers while her poor papa was left unprovided for.

Arline refused to do as he requested, something within warning her against

Some time after the dreadful suspicion had flashed into her brain that Captain Brand was having a will forged to suit his ideas governing the Even then she had not realized what this might portend. How should an innocent trusting young girl desirous of bestowing all reasonable benefits upon the man she had come to believe was her father-how should she suspect that this ungrateful man could conspire with unprincipled confederates to actually take her life, yet by such means as would make it seem a cruel accident?

While in Antwerp he had professed a keen desire to visit the dungeons of the Steen, and yet always made it appear as though she were the one most interested in the abode of ghostly memories.

An expedition was accordingly planned.

Arline never could tell just how it came about. She remembered Captain Brand's enthusiasm in leading her deeper into the recesses, and how he suddenly disappeared while she was examining some object of interest; fund 10c. for every package. how she waited for him to reappear, until, growing alarmed by the diminishing size of her candle, she had endeavored to find her way back to the party; how she tripped and fell, losing her light. Then she cried out in terror as the awful darkness closed around her, but no answer came.

Then she realized that the others had gone; that this cruel-hearted man she called father, had deserted her, pretending to believe, no doubt, that she had gone above with a portion of the party upon whom the horrors of the dungeon soon palled.

He could also take it for granted she had gone away with her new-found "rierds, and not show any alarm for it was a cleverly concocted and diabolical scheme, which had for its ultimate outcome the dethronement of her reason.

Doubtless Captain Brand had arranged it so that in such a case he would be appointed the natural protector and guardian of his afflicted child, and thus, of course, have the handling of her fortune.

Charlie was aghast. He had never heard so terrible a thing in all his life. He almost doubted his senses. "I have made up my mind regarding one thing, Miss Brand," he said, positively, "which is to the effect that I do not believe this man to be your father!"

Ladies Calling on President Thought

He Had Reason to Be Plemed "Just send in your cards," said a well known army officer to two New York state women who were wonderng how they could arrange "just to shake hands with the president."

The advice was followed next day, and much to their surprise and delight they were at once shown into the reception room, where the president was bugily engaged in refusing the request. of a prominent senator who had called on the ever-present and everlasting topic of offices. "Very sorry, senator, but this is im-

The next moment the president was shaking hands with both. "I am delighted to see you, ighted," said he.

"Well, you ought to be," said one of the women, recovering from the whirlwind of cordiality.

The president looked embarrassed. "We den't want anything, you know."

This shows the unselfish disposition of Mr. Hodge, of Orchard Cottage, Ippleden, New ton, who, having been cured by Vogeler's Compound, wishes every other sufferer to know of the benefit he has received from this marvellous remedy. He tells his story as follows :-

as follows:

"Centlemen—I find Vogeler's Compound a renedjabove all others; last year I was in a thorough had state of health, and could hardly drag one leg after the other. I had tried dozens of remedies advertised in cure indigestion and all its attendant exits, but was appidly going from had to worse when, I had the god fortune to be recommended to take Vogeler's Compound. I did so, and am thankful to say it made a new man of me. I should like other people to home its virtues, and how completely it knocks under the worst forms of indigestion and dispeptia.

Mrs. Annie McKay, Chaplain Sons of Temperance, 326 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Cured of Severe Female Troubles by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM :- Being a mother of five children I have had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was accrated when one of my children was born and from that hour I date all my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation and frequent flooding. I became weak and dizzy but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment. For seven months t used the Compound faithfully and gladly do I say it, health and strength are mine once more. I know how to value it now when it was so nearly lost, and I appreciate how great a debt I owe you. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me. Yours very truly, MRS. ANNA McKAY, Chaplain Sons of Temperance."

None But The Brave-

By HAMBLEN SEARS Second Edition Ready Illustrated, $1.50

EVERY one who loves the scenes of galloping cavallers, brave swordplay, desperate adventures and the flash and charm of a game of hearts, will want to read None But The Brave -. Merton Balfort, the hero, and his fellow soldiers John Acton and Robert Curtis are bound up together by both choice and circumstance much as were the "three guardsmen" of Dumas, and their adventures are no less thrilling and romantic than the deeds of those classic heroes.

Rarely has there appeared in fiction a maid of such versatile powers to charm and pierce the soul of a 'over, as the tantalizing royalist, Deborah Philipse; for whom the hero gets into trap after trap, risking life and honor for her sake, only to be ignored and insulted a few moments afterward, until-but that's the story; and a charming, graphic and original denouement it presents.

Mr. Lodge's Defense.

In vindication of the administraion's policy in the Philippines, Mr. Lodge (Mass.), chairman of the Philppine committee, addressed the senate ong before he began to speak, the galleries were thronged with people and the attendance on the floor of the senate was unusually large. His review of the situation in the islands was notably interesting, forceful and effective. He spoke with deep earnestness and at times became cloquent,

Mr. Lodge warmly resented the imputations cast on the president, the ecretary of war and the army for the alleged cruelties and atrocities said to have been practiced in the Philippines. He said every effort had been employed by the officials in authority to prevent such cruelties as had been referred to and measures had been taken to punish those guilty of them. Such things, however, were incidents of very war and could not be prevented

He paid a high tribute to the American army in the Philippines, all the members of which, he pointed out, under our army system, were volunteers. They represented thoroughly them birth. They were not saints- ing. they were not devils. The atrocities which had been committed in isolated instances, and which all regretted, had grown out of warfare.

Senator Tillman, in the senate debate on the Philippines, Thursday said: "When we get ready to put a nigger's face in the sand, we put his body there, too. The south would not submit to negro domination."

HEALTHAMPALLITS BLESSINGS

Health will come with all its blessings to those who know the way, and it is mainly a question of right-living, with all the term implies, but the efforts which strengthen the system, the games which refresh and the foods which nourish are important, each in a way, while it is also advantageous to have knowledge of the best methods of promoting freedom from unsanitary conditions. To assist nature, when nature needs assistance, it is all important that the medicinal agents used should be of the best quality and of known value, and the one remedy which acts most beneficially and pleasantly, as a laxative, is-Syrup of Figs-manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

With a proper understanding of the fact that many physical ills are of a transient character and yield promptly to the gentle action of Syrup of Figs, gladness and comfort come to the heart, and if one would remove the torpor and strain and congestion attendant upon a constipated condition of the system, take Syrup of Figs and enjoy freedom from the aches and pains, the colds and headnches and the depression due to inactivity of the bowels. In case of any organic trouble it is well to consult a competent physician, but when a laxative is required remember that the most permanently gratifying results will follow personal cooperation with the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs. It is for sale by all reliable druggists. Price fifty

The excellence of Syrup of Figs comes from the beneficial effects of the plants used in the combination and also from the method of manufacture which ensures that perfect purity and uniformity of product essential in a perfect family laxative. All the members of the family from the youngest to the most advanced in years may use it whenever a laxative is needed and share alike in its beneficial effects. We do not claim that Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of known value, but it possesses this great advantage over all other laxatives that it acts gently and pleasantly without disturbing natural functions, in any way, as it is free from every objectionable quality or substance. To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine and the full name of the Co.-California Fig Syrup Co.-is printed on the front of every package.

Volcanic Eruption in the Island of Martinique Kill Many Thousands.

30,000 BURIED UNDER ASHES AT ST. PIERRE

Reports from the Stricken Cities Show Horrible Conditions-Streets Filled with Dead Bodies-Entire Northeastern Portion of the Island Laid Wasta-Molten Lava is Still Pouring From Mont Pelee and Fresh Crevasses are Constantly Appearing.

On Thursday, May 8, at about 8 o'clock in the morning, a terrible volcanic eruption occurred in St. Pierre, Island of Martinique, the effect of which was felt all over the island. At Fort de France stones fell weighing from seven to 10 and even up to 15 grammes. Thick clouds of ashes obscured the sun and filled the atmosphere. Panie seized the population. The sea receded a distance of 15 metres and rushed back with great force, afterwards resuming its normal level

A steamer which arrived at Fort France from the scene announced that St. Pierre was overwhelmed; that the town was in flames as well as the settlements along the shore, The ships in the harbor were on fire and the sea greatly disturbed. The French cruiser Suchet sailed at once for St. Pierre, returning at 6 p. m., bringing 30 persons who were frightfully burned. Nine of these succumbed while they were being taken to the hospital. It is estimated that 30,000 persons perished at St. Pierre, All the roads leading out of the city are choked with dead bodies, according to the reports.

A second relief expedition from Fort France, on returning, reported St. Pierre entirely destroyed. Dead bodies found were entirely nude. The houses seem to have disappeared as though they had been swallowed up in a great pit. Immense iron columns were found twisted and bent over in the direction of the sen. The volcano of the island of St. Vincent has burst out in sympathetic eruption. A steamer which returned to Castros, St. Lucia, B. W. I., from there Friday night reports that the northern third of the island was in flames and cut off from assistance by a continuous stream of burning lava, ashes falling in heavy showers as far as 150 miles away. Kingston, the capital of St. Vincent, is safe, but people are very anxious as to the fate of that island.

But, Myrtle, dear, have we not all se all we could for you and are we at trying to arrange it so you will ske a happy marriage?" asked her ent in aggrieved voice.

"Oh, yes, you are all wrapped up in bappiness," replied the girl sarostically. "I can see that. If I unther left ample means for my educa. and maintenance—yes, and a godly dower on top of it all. I have ot quest oned your s ewar ship of th money and I will not unless you try make me miserable. Then I will st-so I will."

But you never have seen Mr. Monugue," replied her aunt, trying with he tact for which she was famous, to mooth over this threatened breach. Why make your decision until you me him. He is as handsome as a picme, of one of the very best families. as plenty of money, and is the son your father's dearest friend."

"All that is what makes me hate im so cordially, exc aimed the girl. Tou all seem not to be able to underdand that a girl may have ideals and esires wholly independent of the Mendships and alliances of the genention before." Then she continued, pssionately. "You have shut me up ha convent all my life. I know nothbg of the world, its joys, excitements ad sorrows. And now you propose to order all my life to come without givme me the tinlest bit of a chance to choose for myself."

"Why, child, we are acting for your good only," answered her aunt gently. Wha. experience have you had that would fit you to make a choice that would affect all your future?"

"And why not?" asked the Girl ernfully. "You have used the aumonty given you in my father's will to keep me shut up in a convent all my life until I know nothing of the real things of the world. And now that I am barely out of prison you vant to select a husband for me and settle my life for all time. I tell you it is not fair and I will not stand it." "But Tillson Montague is esteemed the handsomest young man of the younger set, and is distinctly eligible, of good habits, old family, ample fortme, and a great favorite in society."

"Why, you little ingrate," continyed Aunt Eleanor, with indignation. "After all the thought given this matter in order to find the very best man mitable for you—to act in that way. It is scandalous-" and Aunt Eleanor sought refuge in tears.

Before anything could happen the bell rang and Mr. Tillson Montague was announced. Aunt Eleanor railied at once, and said hurriedly:

"Now don't, for pity's sake, do anything rash that will drive him away. at least wait until you have a chance to become acquainted with him.

And so presently they swept into the parlor to greet Mr. Tillson Monhgue, designed by the decree of Myrthe's aunt and Montague's mother to become the husband of the young when, after the introduction had been tily accomplished, she led him sweety to the conservatory, and having sotten him into a corner opened up the entire situation.

"I guess you are a very nice manverybody tells me so," she said, "but do not love you a little bit, and ever could. I would hate you for the fact that I don't believe you coul. help yourself in this pickle. Now let's be 5004 friends, but marry whom we

"Never," he replied, fervently. "Why, hang it all, I want my fling first, don't you know."

"And I, too," she replied. "And I need it more than you because I have spent all my life in a convent." And so they parted.

Now it happened that Myrtle was a full blooded little creature, with all the spirit that her full, ripe lips and clear, red cheeks indicated. And all her life she had been shut up in a convent with no vent for her ardent young animal spirits excepting through the medium of her imagination-fed only by surreptitious reading of smuggled novels. But that was sufficient to people the young mind with knights and lovers and champions galore.

And it came to pass that the great Masquerade Lall of the sons of the Seventh Daughters was held soon after Myrtle came home. It was to be a swell affair, and Myrtle was crazy to go. But Aunt Eleanor was horrifled and vetoed the bare suggestion.

Then the spirit of the dead father arose in the daughter and Myrtle resolved to go whether or no.

And she did. It took plenty of sho went that day to spend a couple of days with a girl friend, and arranged with her so she could slip in upon her return. Of course it was a very naughty and a very dangerous thing for a girl to do-and especially a young girl just out of a convent, but only such a one would have the nerve to attempt it.

She appeared as a lady of the Elizabethan period, and was one of the striking figures of the ball. No sooner had she appeared than a Knight of the Crusades approached her and paid violent court. He was a most persistent knight and was not to be satisfied with one dance, but haunted the El za bethan Lady most ardently. And he was good to look upon and most devoted and princely in his manner, an i Myrtle's blood ran through her veins as it never had before. This fors oth was life. Marry Tillson Montague? Never. She would find a knight of her own who would choose her for her own charms, and not because mammas and aunts and dead people had willed it-and she went whirling off on another delicious waltz with Sir Knight All too quick it came to an end -as all things do, even a girl's first ball. And when the time for unmasking came he was standing before her, begging for the next dance.

"Ah, my Lady, I am at last to see your face." he exclaimed.

"No, no," she replied hast'ly, "rea'l; I cannot unn ask. Please take me to the dressing 100m.

He offered his arm, expostulating all the time that it was his privilege to see the face of the lady who had permitted him to be her knight all the evening, and who had become the mistress of his heart. But she was obdurate and they started toward the dressing room.

Alas, for the honesty of man-he guided her, not to the dressing-room at ail, but to a cosy corner, far from the throng drunk with the excitement and surprises of the unmasking.

'I air Lady," said he, "I am but human. I am mad with the intoxication of your presence. If I do not see your face. If you escape me now I will spend all my life in a fruitless search for you. You are the one woman in the world for me and I cannot let you escape."

"Oh, please do not," she cried, throwing up her hands to protect her mask from his threatening hands. "You must know that I have no right to be here; I am promised to another." "And so am I," he responded triumphantly, "and that's why we are both here-to escape a bondage we hate. Ah, this is a dispensation of providence. I will protect you from any attempt to force an unwilling lover upon you-any lover but me-if you will let me, dear."

And with a bold move he tore off both masks. There were two quick gasps of surprise, for there, face to face stood Myrtle Vernon and Tillson

Story of Wse Dor. Sir Walter Scott tells of one of his dogs that one day furiously attacked the boker and was with great difficulty called off. But as the dog observed the baker coming every day to leave bread for the family, he began to regard him in a more favorable light, and in time the dog and the baker became great friends. One day Sir Walter was telling somebody how the dog had attacked the baker, and as soon as he began the story the dog skulked into the corner of the room, turned his face to the wall, hung down his ears and lowered his tail and displayed every sign of being heartily ashamed of himself. But when he came to the end of his story, and said; "But Tray didn't bite the baker," the dog turned around, jumped and frisked about, and was evidently quite restored to his own good opinion. To try the dog, Scott repeated the story in a different versation, but it was always the same. Directly he began the dog crept into the corner, but when he came to "But Tray didn't bite the baker," he always capered back in triumph.

Other members of the committee think the date of the vote may be postponed until some time next week, but none of them place the vote later than the 24th ist., two weeks hence. Consideration of the bill will be interspersed with the consideration of appropriation bills, to-day being set apart for the fortification bill and to-morrow for the agricultural appropriation bill. Neither of these measures will conorme a great deal of time and on each day it is expected that there will be time left for the consideration of the Philippine bill. Senator Foraker has given notice of a speech on the Philippine subject to-day, and Senator Stewart will navy. speak to-morrow, both in support of the pending bill. Senator Spooner also probably will be heard on the bill during the week. Among the opponents of the bill still to be heard are Senators Clay and Money. County and Vicinity

Frank Miller had a rather funny, and might have been serious accident Monday. He was using a spraying machine when suddenly it exploded, knocking him over and completely demolishing the machine. -Stockbridge Brief,

Last week while drilling for water on his farm in London township, Monroe county, Lewis V. Moulton struck a strong flow of gas at a depth of thirty-six teet. A second well was drilled with the same result and now the people in that part of the county have the gas fever. A company has been organized at Maybee and next week a well will be sunk near Oakville which is about seven miles northwest of Moulton.

It took the jury over two hours to agree upon a verdict in the case of Mrs. Anna James vs. John Schafer et al. At the end of that time they came into the court room and rendered a verdict that of a wife sung a Saline saloonkeeper and his bondsmen for the loss of the support of her husband who was permanently injured while in an alleged state of intoxication from drinks procured at the Schafer bar.

The 2-year-old son of Attorney J P. Kirk of Ypsilanti, was saved by a Normal co-ed Friday afternoon from being killed by a D., Y., A. A. & J. electric car. The little fellow stepped on the trackin front of a car which was so near that there was no possibility of stopping in time to avoid a fatality. Elmer E. Allen, the auditor of the Buckwheat road, who was riding with the motorman, climbed out on the fender, but at the last moment a passing co-ed rushed by DENTISTRY. Therefore see to it out and rescued the imperiled child.

Lightning sometimes plays peculiar White Corn capers and shakes people up generally, and to this chapter, Elmer Stimpson and family fell victims. WHOOPING COUGH.

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustly for cough syrup between whoops.-Jessie Pinkey Hall, Springville, Ala. This remedy is for sale by all drug-
