FRED B. WOOD FOR CONGRESS.

The Democrats Nominated a Tecumseh Man at Yesterday's Convention.

The Democratic congressional convention held at Ann Arbor yesterday had a full attendance of delegates from all parts of the district. Thomas E. Barkworth, of Jackson, was chairman, and Fred C. Fisher, of Wayne, secretary.

Lenawee's candidate was J. L. O'Malley, of Adrian; Jackson wanted Thomas A. Bogle, of Ann Arbor; Monroe and Wayne were for John Strong, of Monroe; Washenaw had no candidate, although E. A. Nordman nominated James Helme, of Adrian.

At the afternoon session after the reports of the committees had been read, Jackson caucused and then called for a committee of three from Lenawee to meet a like committee of theirs. The result was that when nominations were called for Jas. S. Parkinson, of Jackson, presented the name of Fred B. Wood, of Tecumseh; Lenawee passed; Mr. French, of Monroe, presented the name of John Strong, which was seconded by Mr. McInerney, of Wayne; E. A. Nordman, speaking for himself, presented the name of James Helme, of Adrian. Other speeches were made for the different candidates.

The first ballot did the business, standing: Fred B. Wood 60, John Strong 44, James Helme 1.

Base Ball Notes.

Baseball games have been numerous in Chelsea the past week, two a day being played some days. None of the games, however, deserve more than passing mention. On Friday the Mohawks, the champion 15 years old team of Detroit, came here and played two games with the Junior Stars. They were entirely outplayed by the Stars as the following scores show:

FIRST GAME.
Junior Stars,	4 8 8 2 2 1 *—15
Mohawks,	0 3 3 6 0 0 0—12
SECOND GAME.
Junior Stars,	1 1 4 3 4 0 3 *—17
Mohawks,	0 0 0 1 0 0 4 3 0—7

On Saturday the Junior Stars played the Y. M. C. A. nine from Ann Arbor and again the foreign team was entirely outclassed, not being able to make a single score. The game was called at the end of the sixth inning, standing 10 to 0 in favor of the Stars.

This game was followed by a hot game between Stockbridge and the Chelsea first nine. The visitors won out 17 to 7.

Monday Dexter and Chelsea crossed bats and the Dexter boys went off the ground after the game with the score standing 15 to 10 against them.

Tuesday the K. of P. nine and the Junior Stars played. Both sides got plenty of exercise in this game as the score of 48 to 29 in favor of the Stars shows.

Yesterday the Junior Stars went to North Lake and played a game with the nine belonging to that place. The Stars won 22 to 6. Score by innings as follows:

Junior Stars,	0 0 3 1 0 5 2 11 *—23
North Lake,	2 1 0 0 0 0 1 1—6

Saturday afternoon the Stars will play their last game of the season as a club. It will be against Plymouth, who earlier in the year they defeated by the score of 10 to 4. This will be sure to be a good game and as it is the last of the season everybody who can should turn out to it.

Wirt S. McLaren, captain of the Junior Stars, in a letter to the sporting editor of the Detroit Tribune offers to settle the question of supremacy between the Stars and the Detroit Mohawks at Ypsilanti, or some other neutral place, the losing team to pay the expenses of the trips and dinner for both, at some good hotel. The Stars will dispense with the services of Warren Boyd, who played in the two games Friday, and will play Paul Bacon, the lineup and age of the players being as follows: W. McLaren, r. f., 17; G. BeGole, l. b., 18; Ray Cook, 3 b., 15; A. Raftery, 3 b., 16; L. BeGole, c., 14; C. Rogers, p., 17; Paul Bacon, l. f., 18; H. Holmes, s. s., 15; McGuinness, c. f., 15.

Bill Pique in the Linden Leader says: Rockefeller has been giving a few thousands to charity or establishing a library somewhere. Gasoline has gone up to 14 cents per gallon. The people pay the bill and John gets the credit. "Would be the height of folly for the people to operate the oil business or steel trade. What would the poor people do if they didn't have John and Andrew to buy them all their and poor houses. John is all right, but it's the people that needs saving."

THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

Call Will Be Issued in a Few Days—Neither a Judson Nor an Anti-Judson Move.

Fred W. Green, chairman of the county Republican committee and who is the instigator of the primary elections to be held in Washtenaw county this fall gave out the following words to a Times reporter Saturday:

"This primary election plan is an honest effort to better the condition of the Republican party in Washtenaw county. I believe that long before election day those who do not regard it with favor now will see that it is for the best interests of all. This is not a scheme proposed by either Judson or the anti-Judsonites and neither side was consulted regarding the advisability of the thing until after the meeting of the county committee had been called. If the primary election scheme is successful this fall I can promise the Republicans of Washtenaw county that as long as I am chairman of the county committee we will select both our candidates and our delegates by this system. We are not the first to carry out this scheme as I find that in a good many counties in states having no primary elections this plan is carried out satisfactorily. Our primary election has all the safeguards that are put about the caucuses of today and if we do not gain any protection by it we certainly do not lose any."

"The call for the primary caucuses will be issued in a few days and I am now arranging for the printing of the ballots and the preparation of the booths and ballot boxes."

The K. of P. Excursion.

Everything points to a large number of Chelsea people going to Detroit tomorrow on the excursion run by the Chelsea K. of P. Athletic club over the D., Y., A. A. & J. electric line.

The attractions at Detroit will be a baseball game at 10 a. m. on Belle Isle between the Chelsea Stars and a Detroit club, league game at Bennett park at 4 p. m., Detroit vs. Boston. River and lake trip to Port Huron for which the boat leaves at 8:40 a. m., and to Tashmoo Park and way ports at 2:30 p. m. Band concert on Belle Isle in the afternoon. Continuous vaudeville performance at the Avenue and Temple (Wonderland) theaters afternoon and evening.

The first car leaves Chelsea at 5:40 a. m. The fare for the round trip to Detroit is 75 cents and tickets are good going and returning on any car all day.

Ed. F. Davis' Uncle Tom's Cabin.

This famous old play will again be presented in as new and attractive a form as modern thought and stage invention will permit, and doubtless, notwithstanding its age, will do a profitable business. The cast will include the famous actresses, the Cook Twin Sisters, who will be seen as the two topieces, while Herbert Church, a popular colored actor, will play Uncle Tom, and the remainder of the unusually large cast may be considered a competent one. Some 20 ponies and burros, a large number of colored plantation jubilee singers, a pack of Siberian bloodhounds and an unusually gorgeous transformation scene, necessitating the utilizing in its unfolding of nine distinct drop scenes, will be some of the features that will greet the eye at the opera house, Chelsea, next Saturday evening, Aug. 30.

Stores Will Close Earlier.

We, the undersigned, agree to close our places of business at 8 o'clock local time during the month of September, and at 7:30 o'clock from October 1st until April 1st, except during the two weeks before Christmas, and Saturday evenings.

DAMAGING DISCLOSURE.

The Main Report of a Political Candidate for Office to Read His Opponent.

The two candidates for the legislature were speaking from the same platform, stated the Chicago Tribune.

"My fellow citizens," said the candidate with the long black mustache, rising to speak in his turn. "I am able at last to unmask the hypocrite that has just addressed you. It is a disagreeable duty, but you have a right to know what manner of man he is. Well may he tremble at the disclosure I am about to make, for it knocks the last prop from under him and shows him to you in his true light."

Here the speaker paused to take a drink of water. Then he slowly turned his head, looked over his shoulder at the other candidate with a glance of concentrated scorn, and faced the audience again.

A hush pervaded the hall. "Fellow citizens," he exclaimed, in a voice of thunder, "this man poses as a friend of the common people! He goes around shaking hands with everybody! Do you know why he does it? I will tell you. He does it to deceive you. Fellow citizens, he is no horny-handed son of toil! Those callouses in the palms of his hands were never produced by work. He never did a day's work in his life. Those callouses are warlike! Wars, my fellow citizens! Wars! Wars in the palms of his hands! Let him deny it if he can!"

The other candidate couldn't deny it, and it cost him the election.

TROLLEY GARBAGE CAN.

Simple Invention Designed by an Iowa Man to Save Steps for the Housewife.

Since the garbage can is now one of the fixtures among the utensils necessary to the city housekeeper, it behooves the inventor to make improvements in it, as he has done with nearly everything else in which the welfare of man is concerned. To this end the trolley garbage can, invented by John M. Hutton, of Des Moines, Ia., is submitted as a practical time labor saving device, its use being also recommended on sanitary grounds, as it removes the garbage can further from the dwelling than the housekeeper would be likely to place it if a trip to it were necessary every time any refuse was to be disposed of. In this arrangement a large can is stationed as far as possible from the house, with a wire strung tightly from a post above the can to a bracket secured to the wall near the kitchen door or a convenient window. On this wire runs a small rope, with a cord wound on a reel to control its journeys to and from the larger receiver in the yard. The small can has a hinged bottom, which is ordinarily closed and held

FOR LATE SUMMER AND EARLY FALL DAYS

ONE fashion disclosed in late dresses is both pretty and sensible. It includes in the costume a cape that really adds some warmth, or a coat that does so. There's a hint of economy in this, says the Chicago Daily News, for thus the life of the gown is extended, but much of this is nullified from the fact that neither cape nor coat is interchangeable. Thus do new fashions ever overcome the saving scheme. Two of these gowns, which are numerous considering that they are late in the season development, show in the illustration. White nun's veiling was the fabric of the first, ruffles and lace trimmings of cape and skirt matching. Apple green peau de sole was the fabric of the coat, whose fronts were white velvet, draped with black velvet. Besides being a bit longer than recent three-quarter Louis coats, these new ones are much fuller, the waist part blowing all around. Lace collars are usual with them and the sleeves are very baggy at the wrists. The almost plain, tight-fitting Louis coat is rarely seen. The skirt portion is either plaited, finished with applications of some kind or else trimmed with lace, braid and velvet ribbon. Even if not plaited this skirt hangs full. Sun-plaited skirts to Louis hats are stunning, the body showing like treatment. Capes of the sort pictured are of various very fine transparent cloths, sometimes being practically all lace or embroidery. They are lined with white or some bright-colored silk, the two-toned silks being especially pretty for lining. Capes coming away below the waist, of all-over black or cream lace over white or delicate tinted satins, are seen, too.

in position by a latch, but as the can slides down the inclined wire this latch comes in contact with the tripping rod above the receiving can, when the weight of the garbage immediately drops the bottom and allows the can to empty itself. The bottom is then automatically closed by a spring contained in the hinge and the delivery can is ready to be drawn back to the house as soon as it is needed again.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

STONES IN THE ROAD.

Telling Everybody of Your Little Trials and Troubles is a Perverse Habit.

The two boys were drawing their small wagon, full of packages from the grocery, slowly up the road toward home. The older one pushed forward steadily, but the younger was constantly hopping first on one foot and then on the other, and complaining that the pebbles on the road hurt his bare feet. At last his brother turned upon him with a mingling of reproach and contempt:

"Course there's stones in the road!" he said. "There's always stones in the road, and every feller that comes along has to get over 'em the best way he can. You don't have to howl and tell everybody whenever you strike one; that doesn't help any."

But many an older one than Bobby has failed to learn that lesson, and we all have acquaintances whom we cannot meet without hearing a full account of the last pebble they have struck. The maid has gone, or the furnace doesn't work, or they couldn't sleep last night with the toothache. Discomforts, all of them, but the road is full of such things, and telling everybody only fills the air with complaints, and helps not at all. Get over the small troubles silently.—Well-spring.

Sift Cake Flour Twice.

Cake flour should always be sifted twice, first when it comes from the barrel and before it is measured, next when the baking powder or the soda has been added. If it is measured before that first sifting you will surely get too much of it for your cake's welfare. On a damp day or when the flour seems at all clammy set it where it will dry without browning before you are ready to use it.

He Wanted More.—"He's very devoted to Grace Harkins." "Yes. The ordinary rule of business doesn't seem to suit him at all." "What do you mean?" "He wants more than three days of Grace."—Chicago Post.

THE HOTTEST PLACE.

America Has None Hotter Than Yuma, Where the Sun Burns Out Men's Eyes.

The journey by rail from Los Angeles, Cal., to Phoenix, Ariz., in mid-summer days is without doubt the hottest anywhere in the country. From the moment the traveler crosses the Sierras at Banning, Cal., and drops down the eastern slope of the mountains, he finds a temperature that is seldom below 105 degrees in the shade and often nearer 115 degrees, says the New York Sun.

Several times recently the temperature in the cars while crossing the Colorado and Maricopa deserts has been even 121 degrees. From June 23 to July 4 the average daily temperature at stations on the desert along the railroad was 116 degrees, and the old-timers said that the sun had not yet begun to get down to actual business.

In all this region Yuma is acknowledged to be the banner hot town of America. The writer observed the mercury in thermometers at Yuma the other day with interest.

At two p. m. the mercury stood at 117 degrees in the shade of a wide porch. At three it registered 119 degrees, and at 3:40 it was at 120 degrees. That was the highest notch for the day.

At 4:30 the mercury was back at 118, and at six it was down to 116, and from that hour until two a. m. it fell every hour until it stopped at 109. Then the Yuma people went to bed on cots in the dooryards and on piazzas to take advantage of the cool night for slumber.

This is a fair sample of the weather in Yuma and southern Arizona towns from the middle of June until every October. Occasionally the temperature will rise to 124 and even 127 degrees, and there have been a few seasons when for 16 or 18 days at a stretch the temperature in Yuma has ranged from 114 to 126.

Experience has taught people living in this region to give heed to their diet. Only the simplest foods may be eaten with impunity. Melons, corn, fruits and cereals comprise the food of the wise ones. All manner of Mexican dishes and soups are popular.

No one who has never experienced it can have an adequate idea of what such heat means. Many a soldier of the regular army is now drawing a pension for total blindness caused by facing the frightful glare of the sun and the awful heat from the desert while serving in an Arizona garrison.

The walls of the buildings are as warm as if they were about ovens. The railroad men handle couplinglinks and pins only with leathern mittens. Pressing one's hand against a window pane is like touching hot plates.

Still Unsettled.

Mistress—Now, Jane, there is no use of further argument as to how this dish should be prepared, but our ideas on the subject are so different that it is evident one or the other of us is crazy.

Jane—True for you, ma'am, an' it's not the likes of me as would be after sayin' the likes of you would have no more sense than to keep a crazy cook.—Chicago Daily News.

WIND-PROOF HURDLES.

The Kind Here Described is Anchored Securely Enough to Withstand Any Storm.

One objection which seems to be made to the more general use of hurdles is the liability of their being blown over. A writer in the Country Gentleman submits illustrations of hurdles, which, he says, offer less resistance or are better fortified against the effects of the wind.

Fig. 1, while not strictly a movable hurdle, is, nevertheless, considered as such, and is the one in most common use hereabout. I can only give measurements from memory, but should say that they were ten feet long and five feet high when set up. The figure shown is made of sawed stuff, but they are more often made of split saplings. The construction, however, is precisely the same. Holes are made with a bar, and they are set end to end and planned together at the top. These, like those supported on the A crutch, form a perfectly straight fence, which is not so proof against the force of the wind as one built zigzag or wown fashion.

In Fig. 2 I have shown two panels that are intended to be set up in this manner. The left hand end of panel b slips in the right hand end of panel a, and a section of the fence is shown in Fig. 3. These panels are supposed to be ten feet long and four feet high and the lumber one by five inch stuff, but these dimensions can be varied to suit the idea of the user. With these dimensions, however, the distance between the end uprights on the panel ought to be 11 inches. On panel a the end uprights ought to be 15 inches from either end. This ought to make the fence worm about four feet. As can be readily understood, more or less worm will be given to the fence by moving the second upright from either end in panel a.

SAVING IN GOOD ROADS.

Figures to Show Why the Entire Country Should Have the Very Best of Highways.

An Indiana engineer has been estimating the cost of transportation by road and has produced a strong argument for the very best roads.

He figures that the cost of moving one ton by horse power over one mile of dry, sandy road is 6 cents; over wet sand, 32 cents; over ruts and mud, 39 cents; over broken stone and ruts, 26 cents; over an earth road that is dry and hard, 18 cents; over a broken stone road in good condition, 8 cents; over a compact gravel road, 8.5 cents; over stone paving, 5.43 cents; over asphalt, 2.7 cents.

The engineer argues that if wagon transportation at a cost of five cents a mile were to be universal in this country, many millions of dollars would be saved, and millions of tons of merchandise, which cannot now be handled at a profit would be available in the markets.

A BALANCED RATION.

Why Dairymen Cannot Afford to Feed Anything Else If They Want to Prosper.

The other day, standing on the streets of Fort Atkinson, we listened to a group of dairy farmers talking about the difficulties and expense of feeding their cows the past winter, says the editor of Hoard's Dairyman. It was really interesting, much so for the reason that it was astounding to hear men who pretend to be dairymen give evidence, as they did, of profound ignorance of the real economics of dairy feeding. One man said he wouldn't buy bran or gluten meal, $18 per ton for the first and $24 for the second, "I feed ground corn and oats," said he. "I raise my own feed, and I know it's cheaper." We ventured to ask him if he could tell what oats were costing him per ton when they were selling at 45 cents a bushel. "Well," said he, "I don't know exactly, but I do know they are a good deal cheaper than bran or gluten." The man was in reality paying $28.12 1/2 per ton for his oat feed, because that was the price oats were selling for. Another man said he wasn't feeding any grain, and all I get is clear gain. Finally one farmer, noticing, no doubt, that we were somewhat interested in the conversation, asked us to tell why any one should feed a balanced ration.

"I have looked over the Dairyman time and again," he said, "and I can't make head or tail out of what you say when you fix up those rations for the men who write you. Is it all humbug, or what is it?"

We asked this farmer if he had ever given the subject of feeding dairy cows any study, and he admitted he had not. All the men in the group, numbering a half-dozen, confessed that they were in the same boat. Now, here were six farmers, with large herds of cows, all financially interested in getting all they could from their cows, and yet not one of them considered it worth while to stop and look into the feeding question to see if it was not worth looking into.

There is a confession of childlike weakness here that is almost pitiful, and yet it is the condition of a great mass of the men who keep cows.

These men were all agreed that they would not buy bran at $18 per ton, but they would feed oats at $28 a ton. In answer to the question: "Why should we feed a balanced ration?" we undertook to explain as follows:

We should feed a balanced ration because the cow is compelled to produce in milk a perfectly balanced food. By that we mean that all the elements in the milk are balanced up to relative percentage of each food element in it. The cow cannot help herself. She cannot drop off the percentage of the carbohydrates or protein, or fat, if the farmer doesn't know enough or is too stingy to supply her with any of those elements. What does she do? Simply this: She reduces the amount of her milk until the quantity is reduced to an amount that she can balance from the food she gets. Therefore, we should feed the cow a balanced ration in order that she may keep up her milk flow to the point of good profit to the owner.

GOOD DAIRY COW TYPE.

Thinness of Neck on Top and Flatness on the Side Are Two Principal Characteristics.

The general appearance of the head and neck of a good type of dairy cow as seen from the front while looking down is brought out very nicely in the illustration reproduced from Farmers' Bulletin No. 143, issued by the United States department of agriculture. The thinness of the neck on top and the flatness on the side characteristic of the type are very well shown. The fineness of the neck where it blends with the head and the freedom from dewlap show breeding and quality.

COW'S NECK FROM ABOVE.

The sparseness of flesh desired in the dairy type and the flatness of the neck where it joins the shoulder make the neck vein very marked in this class of animals—so much so, in fact, that the shoulder seems to be abnormally developed when compared with the beef type.

THE CHELSEA HERALD

T. W. MINGAY, Editor and Proprietor.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY for $1.00 per year strictly in advance. Entered at the Post Office at Chelsea, Mich., as second class matter.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1909.

The harvester trust just formed, promulgates a new idea, it has for its avowed purpose the "keeping down of prices." Well, wouldn't that jar you? When the farmer comes to buy a new machine in the seasons to come we are afraid he will find that "keeping down of prices" a delusion and a vision of the biggest kind. Whoever heard of a trust "keeping down prices"?

The business men of Chelsea are to be congratulated and commended for their action in closing their stores at reasonable hours of the night for the coming seven months instead of keeping them open till 9 and 10 o'clock. Both they and their employees will feel the benefit of the movement, it will not hurt the public any, and the storekeepers will not lose any trade by it.

Among the amendments to the constitution to be voted on at the fall election is one abolishing the provision allowing $15 to each newspaper publishing the general laws enacted at any session of the legislature. The newspapers publish only the laws enacted at a special session when the cost of such publication is merely nominal, and never think of publishing those enacted at a regular session. In the aggregate this publication costs the state nearly $10,000. We have benefited by that provision of the constitution several times to the extent of the $15 remuneration provided in it, but at the same time we are heartily in favor of seeing it abolished, and would advise every voter to vote for abolishing it. Furthermore, we shall act on our own advice and vote as we talk.

Just what voice are the people of Michigan going to have in the choice of a senator to succeed James McMillan, deceased? W. C. McMillan, the son of his father, has sent out his ukase that the reelection of A. T. Bliss as governor of Michigan shall first be accomplished, and then all efforts shall be put forth to make Wm. C. his father's successor. Where do the people come in in such a deal as this? Is it any wonder that like high mottled horses they should become restive under such galling treatment and demand that there be a change in the powers that be and in the manner of electing them? The people have the power in their own hands, if they only have the sense and backbone to use it. It is only by holding before the workmen the bugaboo of "If you don't do as we want you in you cannot continue in our employ, or be employed by us in any way," that the rich men who are politicians hold their followers in the leash, and it is high time that the masses of the people broke away from such conditions. It is the first wrench of the breaking away that causes people to hesitate, after it is once made the feeling is not so bad. Break away, people, break away; use your own judgment in political affairs, don't let others judge for you.

The Name of Ann Arbor.

David Hackett, 92 years of age, who left Ann Arbor in 1880 and has never been back again until now, is visiting his old time home. He rudely shatters the accepted story of how Ann Arbor came by its name, and says that while Ann Arbor was named after a woman it was not after the wives of the two early settlers and their arbor, but after a French woman named Ann D'Arbeur, who was a guide to parties going westward from Detroit, and who lived alone on the north bank of the Huron almost on the identical spot where Judge Kline now has a summer cottage. He also says that in the stream, below the cottage, is a large rock on which the early settlers engraved a cross and the words "In memory of Ann D'Arbeur," at the time of her death, but 70 odd years of exposure to the weather have effaced the inscription, much the same as time has effaced all memory of her who gave the city its name.

If it wasn't popular, if it wasn't loved by the people why do dealers say? "We have something just as good as the Madison Medicine Co.'s Rocky Mountain Tea." Think it over. 35 cents. Glazier & Stimson.

THE DORF'S BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. The Dorf's Black-Draught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original The Dorf's Black-Draught, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.

Kansas, Ark., May 25, 1901.
I cannot recommend The Dorf's Black-Draught too highly. I keep it in my house all the time and have used it for the last ten years. I never gave my children any other laxative. I think I could never be able to work without it on account of being troubled with constipation. Your medicine is all that keeps me up.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Name Used without Written Consent.

Cured When All Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary. I was no more afraid than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Not Spring helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I blame the day your New Method treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience with the virus of blood disease, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in all this time there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1902.

The harvester trust just formed, promulgates a new idea, it has for its avowed purpose the "keeping down of prices." Well, wouldn't that jar you? When the farmer comes to buy a new machine in the seasons to come we are afraid he will find that "keeping down of prices" a delusion and a vision of the biggest kind. Whoever heard of a trust "keeping down prices"?

The business men of Chelsea are to be congratulated and commended for their action in closing their stores at reasonable hours of the night for the coming seven months instead of keeping them open till 9 and 10 o'clock. Both they and their employees will feel the benefit of the movement, it will not hurt the public any, and the storekeepers will not lose any trade by it.

Among the amendments to the constitution to be voted on at the fall election is one abolishing the provision allowing $15 to each newspaper publishing the general laws enacted at any session of the legislature. The newspapers publish only the laws enacted at a special session when the cost of such publication is merely nominal, and never think of publishing those enacted at a regular session. In the aggregate this publication costs the state nearly $10,000. We have benefited by that provision of the constitution several times to the extent of the $15 remuneration provided to it, but at the same time we are heartily in favor of seeing it abolished, and would advise every voter to vote for abolishing it. Furthermore, we shall act on our own advice and vote as we talk.

Just what voice are the people of Michigan going to have in the choice of a senator to succeed James McMillan, deceased? W. C. McMillan, the son of his father, has sent out his ukase that the reelection of A. T. Bliss as governor of Michigan shall first be accomplished, and then all efforts shall be put forth to make Wm. C. his father's successor.... Where do the people come in in such a deal as this? Is it any wonder that like high mettled horses they should become restive under such caressing treatment and demand that there be a change in the powers that be and in the manner of electing them? The people have the power in their own hands, if they only have the sense and backbone to use it. It is only by holding before the workmen the bugaboo of "If you don't do as we want you to you cannot continue in our employ, or be employed by us in any way," that the rich men who are politicians hold their followers in the leash, and it is high time that the masses of the people broke away from such conditions. It is the first wrench of the breaking away that causes people to hesitate, after it is once made the feeling is not so bad. Break away, people, break away; use your own judgement in political affairs, don't let others judge for you?

All Were Saved.

"For years I suffered such untold misery from bronchitis," writes J. J. H. Johnston of Broughton, Ga., "that often I was unable to work. Then, when everything else failed, I was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. My wife suffered intensely from asthma until it cured her, and all our experience goes to show it is the best croup medicine in the world." A trial will convince you it's unrivaled for throat and lung disease. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. True bottles free at Glazier & Stimson's.

The Name of Ann Arbor.

David Hackett, 93 years of age, who left Ann Arbor in 1880 and has never been back again until now, is visiting his old time home. He rudely shatters the accepted story of how Ann Arbor came by its name, and says that while Ann Arbor was named after a woman it was not after the wives of the two early settlers and their arbor, but after a French woman named Ann D'Arbure, who was a guide to parties going westward from Detroit, and who lived alone on the north bank of the Huron almost on the identical spot where Judge Kinnelnow has a summer cottage. He also says that in the stream, below the cottage, is a large rock on which the early settlers engraved a cross and the words "In memory of Ann D'Arbure," at the time of her death, but 70 odd years of exposure to the weather have effaced the inscription, much the same as time has effaced all memory of her who gave the city its name.

If it wasn't popular, if it wasn't loved by the people why do dealers say? "We have something just as good as the Madison Medicine Co.'s Rooky Mountain Tea." Think it over. 35 cents. Glazier & Stimson.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

There are 1,786 voting precincts in the state of Michigan.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Fletcher, of Lima, Monday, a son.

Born, Wednesday, Aug. 20, to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Foster, of Grass Lake, a son.

Mrs. Dan Corey is having a new upright built to her house on West Middle street.

Geo. Lehman will teach the school in the Dorrit district, Sharon, the coming school year.

The Chelsea schools will reopen next Tuesday, Sept. 2. Monday being Labor day is a legal holiday.

Both the apple evaporators in this village expect to begin operations about the first of September.

Mrs. W. Campbell has had her house on West Middle street repainted, which is a great improvement to its looks.

Today is sports day in Manchester. One of the events is a tug of war between Chelsea, Clinton and Manchester.

The grass has all been cleared from the sides of the road on East street and the street is greatly improved in looks thereby.

George E. Davis conducted a very successful auction sale of household goods, etc., for H. T. DuBols, at Grass Lake, Saturday.

For up-to-date printing done with type of the latest designs, on first class stock and in the best style come to the Chelsea Herald office.

Mrs. Ben Kuhl had an ovarian tumor weighing 29 pounds taken from her at the University hospital, Ann Arbor, Friday. Mrs. Kuhl is progressing very nicely.

E. G. Hoag has rented a store on South State street, Ann Arbor, which he will occupy until the large store at the corner of Main and Washington streets is ready for him.

Mrs. James McLaren and Mrs. J. S. Cummings entertained a number of their lady friends in a very pleasant manner Friday afternoon with croquet and a dainty luncheon. About 85 were present.

The farmers of Livingston county are dead set against the threshers' combine in that county and absolutely refuse to hire any of their machines or help a neighbors who hires one to do his work.

According to an exchange the biggest trust of all is the country newspaper trust. It trusts everybody, gets cussed for trusting, mistrusted for cussing, and if it busts for trusting gets cussed for busting.

Charles W. Vogel, of Ann Arbor, is the latest candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket. Charlie is an old war horse at the business of seeking that nomination, and four years ago it was a close run between him and Sheriff Gillen.

Somebody entered Adam Eppler's meat market Sunday night by the rear door and tapped the cash register, getting $3.40 for their trouble. Whoever did the job was evidently very nervous as 35 cents was dropped on the floor in their hurried exit from the place.

A swarm of bees located between the clapboards and the siding of the house occupied by the Faber family, just northwest of the cemetery. When Jasper Graham took them out of their queer swarming place and put them in a hive there was not a bit of honey to be found in all the comb they had made, and it was a fine swarm of bees, too.

The millers and agricultural papers are advising farmers who have grown wheat not to be in a hurry to thresh it. They advise letting it lay in the straw until cold weather when the berry will be in a much better condition and a higher grade of wheat will result. In fact the best agriculturists advise late threshing for all kinds of grain.

Hon. William Ball, of Hamburg, is seriously ill with valvular disease of the heart at the residence of his cousin, Harris Ball, in Ann Arbor, where he had been taken for treatment by the medical men of that city, and hope of his recovery has been given up. Mr. Ball is one of the best known farmers in Michigan. His probity, honor and intelligence have everywhere been recognized. He has served his fellow citizens well in various public capacities and his death will be a distinct loss to the state.

S. A. Mapes will occupy H. I. Davis house on Jefferson street.

Peter Hathaway, of Milan, is now in the employ of Wm. Schatz.

Wm. Judson has sold his hardware business in Sallies to Otto Bliss and Geo. Hornung.

The Royal Neighbors of America will hold a social in the Woodman hall Friday evening, Sept. 5.

The Junior Stars will play the Avon Tigers of Detroit at Belle Isle tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Homer P. Finley, a retired farmer, living in Ann Arbor, has been granted a patent on a grain harvester.

W. R. Lehman says his canvass for the nomination for sheriff on the Democratic ticket is a very satisfactory one.

The union service will be held at the Baptist church Sunday evening. Rev. O. S. Jones will preach the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Davis moved to Ann Arbor last week, where Mr. Davis will clerk for E. G. Hoag in his new store.

The Washtenaw Times says the Democratic convention to nominate county officers will probably be held Thursday, Sept. 18.

All the electric cars will take you to Detroit and return for 75 cents tomorrow. You had better take in this K. of P. Athletic Club excursion.

Have you noticed how much the trees begin to look like fall? The leaves on the maples are already turning their various rich shades of red and brown.

Mrs. R. A. Snyder will give a "thimble party" to the ladies of the Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church, Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 3, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

E. G. Hoag's household goods were taken to Ann Arbor by road today. He and his family have also gone. Their old neighbors wish them all kinds of prosperity in their new home and surroundings.

Overpeck & Behrens will have 40 head of well bred, sound western horses for driving and draft purposes at the stock yards, Chelsea, next Saturday, Aug. 30, which Geo. E. Davis will sell at auction. This will afford a chance to get a good horse for a little money.

There will be an excursion to Toledo from Chelsea, via the D. Y. A. A. & J. and Ann Arbor railroads, next Sunday, Aug. 31. Cars will leave Chelsea at 8:40 and 9:15 a. m. Fare for the round trip, Chelsea to Ann Arbor 35 cents, Ann Arbor to Toledo 50 cents. Returning train leaves Toledo at 9 p. m.

An exchange says: A woman wouldn't be satisfied without an unnatural bump on her somewhere. For a time the bustle sufficed. The big sleeves with an unnatural bump on the shoulder came next, but did not last long. The bump then moved from the shoulder to the cuff. Just now it is the fad to wear a shirt waist that looks as if a peck of apples had been dumped into it in front.

There was one death from smallpox in Michigan in July, one death from hydrophobia and two from lightning. These three causes have occasioned all told only four deaths in two million and a half of people. Yet many people are very much afraid of death in one of these three forms. Compared with other forms of death such as tuberculosis (pulmonary and other forms) which caused 180 deaths, pneumonia, 102, cancer 140, typhoid fever 87, accidents and violence 235, etc., they are mere nothings.

The Labor day celebration and picnic under the auspices of St. Joseph's church, Dexter, in Birkett's grove, Dexter, next Monday, Sept. 1, will include many features of enjoyment. There will be two baseball games. In the morning Dexter will play Ypsilanti, and in the afternoon Chelsea will play Anderson. The latter will be a hard fought game as the Anderson boys are quite noted players. There will also be athletic contests open to all, and speaking by Chas. E. Townsend, of Jackson, and Geo. F. Monaghan, of Detroit. Dinner will be served in the grove.

Holmes & Gilbert will open their apple evaporator the first part of September and want 25,000 bushels of apples for which they will pay the highest market price.

APPROVES THE TRIP.

President Gives Gen. Miles Permission to Go to Manila.

The Visit of the Commander is for the Purpose of Inspecting the Army—Can't Interfere with Gen. Chaffee's Plans.

Boston, Aug. 26.—With reference to the statement that Lieut. Gen. Miles is going to the Philippine islands, Secretary Cortelyou said Monday night: "Gen. Miles is going to the Philippine islands with the permission of the president to inspect army conditions there."

The secretary refused to discuss the matter further. Gen. Miles, as the commanding general of the army, may go anywhere he pleases within the military jurisdiction of the United States. As the commanding general he has the right to inspect troops of the United States wherever they may be stationed. The Philippines being merely a military division like any other, Gen. Miles may with as much propriety go there as to Boston or Chicago.

Inspection Tour Solely.

But if Gen. Miles goes to the Philippines it will be precisely as Gen. Corbin went a year ago, or as the surgeon general or any other high officer might go. In other words, Gen. Miles may go on an inspection tour, may observe conditions and make a report to the president when he returns, which the president may do with as he likes, but Gen. Miles will have absolutely no authority to interfere in anything, to give any orders to Gen. Chaffee or anyone else or to modify in the slightest the present policy.

When Gen. Miles made a recommendation to the president several months ago that he be sent to the Philippines he suggested that he be permitted to take with him some Cubans and Porto Ricans, so that the Filipinos could see what the United States did for its dependents and how well they were treated. This suggestion was promptly disapproved.

Gen. Miles may be accompanied by the staff which under the law and the military regulations is assigned to the commanding general, but nothing more. Gen. Miles, outranking Gen. Chaffee, it might be supposed that a complication might arise should Gen. Miles think it necessary to give Gen. Chaffee orders which the latter considered it well to ignore. Nothing of the kind will happen. Gen. Miles can give all the orders he pleases and Gen. Chaffee need pay no more attention to them than if they were given by a civilian.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Girl and Her Rescuer Land at the Edge of a Precipice in a Fall in Tennessee.

Monteagle, Tenn., Aug. 26.—Miss Vinnie Tucker, one of a party on a mountain trip, stepped over the cliff at Forest Point. Sidney Cowan, a young Nashville man, sprang to her rescue. He caught her, but too late to prevent her fall, and himself was dragged over the edge of the precipice, the two going down together and landing 35 or 40 feet below. Cowan was still conscious and as he rolled down the ledge he caught on a bush, which stayed his progress. Miss Tucker, bleeding and unconscious, was falling in the path he had come. As she passed he caught and held her, their flight ending three feet from the edge of a 300-foot drop. Their companions organized a rescue party, descending to the ledge by a narrow, circuitous path. Cowan was found clutching the girl's clothing in one hand and a clump of bushes in the other.

COST ONE LIFE.

Woman Killed and Seven Persons Injured in Accident to a Memphis Trolley Car.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 26.—One person is dead and seven injured, one of whom may die as the result of an unusual accident Monday. Mrs. Newton E. Morris, of 308 Iowa avenue, was killed. As a car, southbound for Jackson Mound park, neared the crossing of Georgia and Kentucky avenues, the trolley wire broke in front of it. The wire flew around the car like a whip, the noise causing a panic. The passengers made a mad rush for the rear door. Conductor Jones was on the platform, and was swept off by the frantic rush of men and women. The first passengers out fell in a heap on the ground, and those following continued to leap on the pile. When finally the mass was separated Mrs. Morris was found unconscious. She died before an ambulance could reach the scene.

Spanish War Veterans.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 26.—At the state assembly of Spanish war veterans, held in this city Monday, a committee was appointed to secure for veterans of the Spanish war, if possible, the same preferences now accorded veterans of the civil war under the civil service law.

TO CONTROL TRUSTS.

President Roosevelt Says Present Laws Are Weak—Government Should Be Given More Power.

Boston, Aug. 26.—The week's work for President Roosevelt in his trip through New England began in earnest Monday afternoon, when he departed from the summer home of the junior senator of Massachusetts, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, at Nahant, and, amid the enthusiasm of the greatest number of people he had faced since the Pittsburg visit, on July 4, rode into Lynn under canopy escort and spoke from a platform at city hall. Then he was taken to Boston by special train, and on arrival went to Symphony hall, there addressing a great gathering of Boston businessmen. His speech here was devoted almost entirely to consideration of the trust question. From the hall the president went to Hotel Touraine, where a little later in the evening he was the guest of Gov. Crane at dinner. This morning bright and early the presidential party will start for Maine.

The president in his address at Symphony hall said in part:

"I am far from being against property when I ask that the question of trusts be taken up. I am acting in the most conservative sense in property's interest. When a great corporation is sued for violating the anti-trust law it is not a move against property; it is a move in favor of property; because when you can make it evident that all men, big and small alike, have to obey the law, you are putting the safeguard of law around all men. When you make it evident that no man shall be excused for violating the law, you make it evident that every man will be protected from violation of the law."

"I am inclined to think that much the greatest trouble in any immediate handling of the question of the trust comes from our system of government. Let me go back one moment. I want to guard what I am saying. I want you to understand that my words are being taken at their exact face value. Remember I am not saying that even if we had all the power we could completely solve the trust question."

"Now, when this government was founded, there were no great individual or corporate fortunes, and commerce and industry were being carried on very much as they had been from the days when Nineveh and Babylon stood in the Mesopotamian valley. There was no particular thing at that time to bother as to whether the nation, or the state had control of the corporations. They were easy to control. Now, however, the exact reverse is the case, and remember, I say to corporations, I do not say merely trusts, merely combinations or corporations or corporations under certain peculiar conditions. For instance, some time ago the attorney-general took action against a certain trust. There has been considerable discussion as to whether the trust aimed at would not seek to get out from under the law by becoming a single corporation."

"I want laws to enable us to deal with it, no matter what shape it takes. I want to see the government able to get at it definitely, so that the action of the government cannot be evaded by any turning, within or without the federal or state statutes. At present we have really no efficient control over a big corporation which does business in more than one state. Frequently the corporation has nothing whatever to do with the state in which it is incorporated except to get incorporated, and its actions may be taken in entirely different communities which may object very much to the methods of incorporation in the state named. I do not think you can get action by any state, action by all the states, that will give us satisfactory control of the trusts or big corporations, and the result is at present that we have a great, powerful artificial creation, which has no creator to which it is responsible."

"Of course it is a mere truism that the corporation is the creature of the state; that the state is sovereign. Now, I want to make a real and not a nominal sovereign; to have some one sovereign to which the corporation shall be really, and not nominally responsible. At present if we pass laws nobody can tell whether they will amount to anything. Now that has two bad effects. In the first place the corporation becomes indifferent to the law-making body, and in the next place, gentlemen, the law-making body gets into that most pernicious custom of passing a law, not with reference to what will be done under it, but with reference to its effects on the opinions of the voters. That is a bad thing. When any body of law makers passes a law not solely with reference to whether that law will do good or ill, but with the knowledge that not much will come of it, and yet that, perhaps, the people, as a whole, will likely think it was good, it does not speak well for the law makers, and it does not speak very well for the people either. What I hope to see is power given to the national legislature which shall make the control real."

"The first thing we want is publicity, and I do not mean publicity as a favor by some corporations. I mean it as a right from all corporations affected by the law. I want publicity as to the essential facts in which the public has an interest. I want the knowledge given to the accredited representatives of the people of facts on which those representatives can, if they see fit, base their actions later. The publicity itself would cure many evils. Some of these things I have said can be done now. A good deal is being done now. As far as the anti-trust laws go they will be enforced. No suit will be undertaken for the sake of seeming to undertake it. Every suit that is undertaken will be begun because the great lawyer and upright man whom we are so fortunate as to have as attorney-general, Mr. Knox, believes that there is a violation of the law which we can get at, and when the suit is undertaken it will be compromised excepting on the basis that the government wins."

"I believe it is possible to frame national legislation which shall give us more power than we have now, at any rate over corporations doing interstate business. I think we have got to make up our minds to the fact that no matter what our reverence to the past may be, our duty to the present and to the future will force us to see that more power is conferred upon the national administration. When the power has been conferred it will rest with the national government to exercise it. "Wise laws can do something, and we are not to be excused if we fail to insist upon these wise laws. Honest administration of the laws can do something more, and still less are we to be excused as a people if we do not insist that at a failure to administer the laws by the public servants of the people."

ARMY VS. NAVY.

Land Forces Will Try to Prevent Dash of Warships Past Long Island Forts.

New York, Aug. 26.—Maj. Gen. MacArthur has made public the text of the rules agreed upon for the coming army and navy maneuvers. The whole scheme of operations is based upon the assumption that, in anticipation of a declaration of hostilities, a strong hostile fleet, without torpedo boats, determines to make a sudden dash on the eastern entrance of Long Island Sound to secure a naval base, in the expectation of finding the land forces, in the absence of a declaration of war, in a somewhat unprepared condition. The periods of the maneuvers are to be divided into two distinct phases—period of preparation and period of hostilities. During the first period it is intended that there shall be a day attack and a night attack by the fleet, and if possible a bombardment and the forcing of a passage. During the ensuing period mines and obstructions may be planted by the defense and the conditions of war are to be followed as closely as possible.

On the part of the army the information to be gained relates to the general efficiency, down to the smallest detail, of all that appertains to the construction and armament of the land defenses and the training of the forces manning them. The navy will concern itself with the best means of obtaining ranges, the effect of mines and obstructions, formations of attack, efficiency of signals, the use of search lights, and the general control of artillery fire.

Umpires of both services are to be detailed to all ships and forts and will report to a board of arbitration of five officers whose judgment will be final. In addition a number of observers will not with each of the forces as the representatives of the other.

The period of preparation will be from midnight August 29 to midnight August 31, the period of hostilities extending from the latter hour to noon September 6. The defense will consist of Forts Rodman, Adams, Wetherill, Greble, Mansfield, Wright, Michie, Terry and the fort on Gardner's point. There will be no floating defenses. The attack will consist of about 15 ships, of which five will rank as battleships and the rest as cruisers and gunboats.

The naval militia will embark at Newport on August 30 to be distributed to the ships. At the close of the maneuvers the attacking fleet will pass in review before the forts.

OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Meets in Special Session to Enact a Code of Laws for the Government of Municipalities.

Columbus, O., Aug. 26.—The Ohio legislature convened at three p. m. Monday in extraordinary session to enact laws to provide for the government of municipalities and to restore lost jurisdiction to the supreme court, these matters having been rendered chaotic by the action of that court during the early summer.

In his message Gov. Nash first calls attention to the act passed last May, depriving the supreme court of nearly all the appellate jurisdiction formerly possessed by the court. The repeal of the act is recommended.

The governor then traces briefly the history of constitutional government of municipalities in Ohio and advises that the legislature ignore the requests for a constitutional convention. He then submits his ideas of the necessity of the situation in the form of a municipal code bill, the enactment of which he recommends.

Independent Parcels Post.

London, Aug. 26.—Beginning September 21 the post offices of Great Britain will accept parcels for transmission to the United States. The various attempts of the British government to conclude a parcels post arrangement with the United States having resulted in failure, the British postal department has arranged this independent service. The Cunard and White Star lines will convey the parcels to the United States, and the American express company will deliver them in that country. The charges will be 24 cents for each three-pound package and 72 cents for packages weighing from seven to 11 pounds, to principal points in the United States, with an additional charge of 24 cents for a British customs clearance fee. The United States customs fee will also be added.

AGREEMENT SIGNED.

Completion of the Tariff Negotiations Between United States and China.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Word has been received here that the Chinese commissioners at Shanghai have signed the agreement drawn up by T. S. Sharratts providing for the substitution of specific for ad valorem duties on imports entering China. Mr. Sharratts is now on his way to this country with the treaty. The document will not require action on the part of the United States.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

The will of the late Senator James McMillan disposing of an estate, variously estimated at from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 has been filed for probate in Detroit. It contains public bequests amounting to $44,000. Three of his former confidential men—George M. Black, Charles Moore and Richard Rice—are left $5,000 each. All other employees in the Detroit office are left $250 each. Bequests of $100 and $200 are made to all the family servants. All the rest of his personal estate is bequeathed to the senator's wife and to his sons and daughter.

Stolen Property Found.

The house and barn of Jacob Nagel at Benton Harbor were ransacked by officers, and dry loads of stolen property, including dry goods, farm implements and clothing, valued at $2,000, was hauled to the county jail to await identification. Jacob Nagel has been placed under arrest. Sheriff Collins thinks Nagel is the leader of a well-organized gang that operated successfully in Berrien county for several years, and other important arrests will probably follow.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the state board of health from 88 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week scarlet fever and inflammation of the bowels increased and typhoid fever and diphtheria decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 222 places, measles at 24, typhoid fever at 76, whooping cough at 23, scarlet fever at 52 and smallpox at 38 places.

Alger Is Willing.

Gen. Russell A. Alger, former secretary of war, issued a statement in Detroit announcing himself a receptive candidate for the United States senate from Michigan to succeed the late James McMillan. He says that while he will not seek election as Senator McMillan's successor, he will accept the office if the people of the state through the legislature see fit to elect him to it.

Death Rate for July.

There were 2,347 deaths returned to the department of state for the month of July, or 113 more than the number recorded in June. The death rate was 133 per 1,000 population. There were 609 deaths of infants under one year of age, 186 deaths of children aged one to four years, inclusive, and 625 deaths of persons aged 65 years and over.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan:

Cool weather continues to retard growth of corn, which is eating nicely, but is small and backward; frosts in upper peninsula and northern counties did some damage to corn, potatoes and garden truck; fine crop of oats mostly secured; beans and late potatoes in fair condition; sugar beets and apples continue promising.

Afraid of Insanity.

S. E. Sower, a well-to-do farmer who has been living in Ithaca for several months, killed his wife with an ax as she lay in bed and then hanged himself in his barn. Despondency over the fear that he was becoming insane and grief over the death of his only daughter, ten years ago, impelled him to commit the crime.

Given Fifteen Years.

Frank C. Andrews, a young Napoleon of finance, who said that a man should have his fortune made before he reached the age of 36, was sentenced in Detroit to 15 years in Jackson prison at hard labor, after conviction of misapplying the funds of the City savings bank, of which he was vice president.

News Briefly Stated.

The old government dock at Macatawa went down with 300 persons, who were crowded together to see an exhibition by the life-saving crew. About 15 were injured, none seriously.

Rural mail delivery has been inaugurated at Saranac. There are four routes.

The Methodist Protestant college at Adrian is in debt $41,000 net, and it is planned to issue bonds in the denomination of $100 each, payable in five years, interest at two per cent.

A tramp giving the name of Fred Held attempted to kidnap Roy Powell, aged eight years, at Iron Mountain. He was overtaken a mile from town and brought back and placed in jail.

Augustus Torrey, chief civil engineer of the Michigan Central railroad, died at a hospital in Detroit, aged 80 years. He leaves a widow and four children.

The Grand Rapids & Indiana station in Potoskey was robbed of over $200 in cash in broad daylight.

An effort is being made to secure the parole of Edwin T. Bennett, sentenced to Jackson for seven years in connection with the death of Agnes Eberstein, of Battle Creek. Gov. MHS has been appealed to.

WHITE SQUADRON LOST.

Attacking Vessels in Mimic Naval Warfare Surrendered at Gloucester, Mass.

Rockport, Mass., Aug. 25.—The naval search problem on the New England coast was terminated at 5:40 Sunday morning by the signal "Surrender; demand and unconditional," from Rear Admiral Higginson's flagship, and the reply "Accept surrender," from the fore truck of the Prairie. Commander Pillsbury's flagship, the battle between the blue, or defending squadron, and the white, or attacking squadron, was thus quickly ended eight miles south of Thatcher's Island. The enemy had most signally failed to make a harbor, having for its object Salem. A preponderance of fighting strength, represented by the battleships Kearsarge, Alabama and Massachusetts, Scorpion and a torpedo boat, had overwhelmed the 45 points represented by the auxiliary cruisers Prairie, Panther and Supply. To speak from a theoretic standpoint, the white squadron was entirely destroyed by the guns of the defending battleships. Thus on the fourth night the game of naval strategy was brought to an end, having covered a period of unceasing toil, sleepless nights, of anxious and wearing vigil and of grave uncertainty to its participants.

The destruction of Pillsbury's squadron occurred at 5:40 Sunday morning at a point just within the outer limit of Gloucester harbor, not over eight miles southerly from Thatcher's Island, off which had been anchored since Wednesday, when the war game was declared opened, the three powerful battleships of the blue squadron. The surrounding and "putting out of action" of the squadron in command of Commander Pillsbury was the culminating incident in one of the most interesting chapters in the peace history of the American navy. For the placing in operation of the maneuvers of the warships off the coast of New England the navy had long prepared itself and had long looked forward to them with keen anticipation. As planned by the naval authorities at Washington, two squadrons were to be put into the game, one the blue, the defending fleet, and the other the white, to be a hostile fleet bent upon effecting an anchorage in some unprotected harbor on the coast—from Cape Elizabeth to Cape Cod, opposed all the time by the first named fleet. This anchorage had to be maintained against the defenders for a period of six hours.

Commander Pillsbury's white squadron consisted of auxiliary cruisers Prairie (flagship), Panther and Supply. The two former boats were each assigned 20 points of fighting strength, while the Supply was assumed to represent five points.

Admiral Higginson's fleet was actually superior in the number of its members, and, by the same arrangements made as to the Pillsbury ships, it represented a grand total of 91 points of strength. The Kearsarge, the Alabama and the Massachusetts battleships, were given 20, the cruisers Brooklyn and Olympia eight each, the Cincinnati and Montgomery, Gloucester, Mayflower and Scorpion three points each, while a number of torpedo boats made up the remaining numbers. To win in the mimic war the blue squadron had to bring against the attacking vessels, as it did early Sunday, warships superior in the combined assumed fighting power. Each side had the right to capture individual craft of the other fleet by overcoming them in point of strength, and under the rules of the game the captured vessels were to retire altogether from the field of action.

A RACE RIOT.

Serious Trouble Between Whites and Negroes at Indianapolis—Two Persons Killed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 25.—A race riot broke out at Haughville, a suburb of this city, Sunday afternoon, between 200 negroes and whites employed by the National Malleable Castings company. There has been bitter race feeling between them for several years and trouble has frequently broken out. Two people have already been killed. A ball game in the morning between the two factions caused excitement. As the crowd left the field hostilities broke out. Stones, bricks, clubs and other missiles were used. Two hundred persons were immediately crushed together in a fighting mass. Twelve or 15 shots were fired, and it is reported one negro was shot, but he was slipped from the field before the police arrived. The whites were victorious, driving the blacks from the field and wounding a number of them. Several white people were badly injured. Ten arrests have been made and others will be made as rapidly as the persons are found. The police responded to a riot call, but on account of the distance did not arrive till the fight had been fought to a finish. Officers of the company fear other outbreaks will follow.

TO MOTHERS

Mr. J. H. Haskins, of Chicago, Ill., President Chicago Arcade Club, Addresses Comforting Words to Women Regarding Childbirth.

WHAT AN ALMANAC DID.

Matthews, Ark., Aug. 25th.—Mrs. Lee S. Sanders, of this place, tells how an almanac saved her life.

"I have been troubled a great deal with my kidneys all my life and was constantly growing worse.

"I chanced to get a copy of Dodd's Almanac for 1902 and in it read some stories of how Dodd's Kidney Pills had cured many very bad cases of Kidney Trouble.

"My husband bought a box and I began to use them and in a short time we were surprised and delighted at the wonderful improvement in my case.

"I am now as well as anybody and I can not say too much for Dodd's Kidney Pills. It was a lucky day for me when I picked up that almanac.

"I believe Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure any one who suffers with Kidney Trouble."

THINGS THAT TROUBLE US.

There is nothing in this world but trouble. How this, that or else the other is going to come out. Takin' thought into the matter, feelin' trouble right ahead. With a heart a trifle heavier than so much bulk o' lead. Jes' a studyin' an' broodin' an' despondin' an' cast down. Mouth an' forehead puckered up into an overlastin' frown. For you'll notice, if you care to, an' I've watched it mighty close. That the things that never happen are the ones that trouble us.

Them there people that is allus stayin' in the doleful dumps. Is, in my sincere opinion, jest a set o' cussed chumps. With their faces long as fiddles an' their voices all awine. 'Lowin' it'll rain tomorrow when the weather now is fine; Prophesyin' tribulation of all kinds laid up in store. War an' pestilence an' famine, fire an' flood an' then some more; Never stoppin' to consider that things allus might be wuss. An' the things that never happen are the ones that trouble us.

If there's troubles, we can bear 'em, takin' 'em jest as they come. Havin' all the pleasure meantime we can get an' not feelin' grieved. Over what's hid in the future—that's philosophy, I guess. Not to let what may be give us no particular distress. Make the most of all our blessins, and if troubles come it's wiser To consider they are blessins, sorter fixed up in disguise. Once you git that way o' thinkin' you won't fret or stew or fuss. For the things that never happen are the ones that trouble us. —Chicago Daily News.

The Tenderfoot in Wyoming

BY E. K. WOOLEY.

THE Tenderfoot sidled cautiously around the half-open door of the Managing Editor's sanctum, after which he deliberately and with extreme care seated himself upon the softest chair therein.

"Well," he sighed, "I'm back."

"I see," replied the Managing Editor.

"Where you been?"

"Casper, Wyoming," said the Tenderfoot.

"Couldn't you go a little farther?" facetiously inquired the Managing Editor.

"Went as far as my pocketbook would let me," retorted the Tenderfoot. "Besides, I've got some uncles and cousins and aunts out there."

Here he shifted his position slightly, with an accompanying groan.

"Sick?" unsympathetically asked the Managing Editor.

"Riding horseback," explained the Tenderfoot. "One of those measly little sleepy-eyed, white-faced broncos. Had a back like an arch in a suspension bridge. Kicked in four directions at once. See-sawed with both ends and made me think of my happy childhood, while I held onto the saddlehorn with both hands and said prayer words in a different arrangement from what my mother taught me. And when he finally lit on the ground it jarred the marrow in my spinal column. Say, you ought to see me! I look like an Easter egg with my clothes off!"

The Tenderfoot groaned again, and the Managing Editor leaned back in his chair and yelled.

"Oh, say!" he gasped. "You're good! You are!"

handsome, symmetrical shape. Been

"I stuck, though—but it spoiled my walking bow-legged ever since."

"You know, I always wanted to go out west, so when I got my two week's leave of absence I counted over my shekels and decided I had enough to get me out to Casper and back. I therefore packed my grip, wired one of my uncles I was coming and choo-chooed out of the railway station that same evening.

"It takes two nights and two days to get to Casper, and I wouldn't walk a mile to view the scenery on the way until after we passed the Wyoming state line. From there on I found sections worth seeing. It gets hilly and rocky, and sandy, and sagebrushy, and cactus and snakey. I can't help but think there must have been a vast sea there in past ages. We went through part of the Wyoming 'bad lands.' I might remark that they are positively obnoxious—especially the rattlesnakes. I saw one 14 feet long, two feet wide and—"

"Forget it," suggested the Managing Editor.

"Well, I don't want to build a residence in the Wyoming 'bad lands,'" insisted the Tenderfoot. "It is horrible—horrible—the essence of hopelessness—a glaring, pitiless, poisonous, waterless hades for damned souls. Yet they say there are no more fertile lands in the world if there was only water there. And farther on, where there is water, and wherever the slim irrigation canals wind their way, there are green fields and trees and flowers. Teddy Roosevelt knew what he was doing when he put that irrigation business through—and say, talking about Roosevelt, you ought to hear what the wild and woolly west thinks about him! I didn't see a cowboy out there who hadn't slept side by side with Teddy when he was roughing it.

"I don't know what I expected of Casper. Maybe I thought it was made up of tents, canvas-top wagons, yelling cowboys and dirty Indians. If I did I was disappointed. When I first set foot in the place I thought I'd got turned around and was back in Chicago. Honest! Lively? It has three big hotels bristling all the time; three department stores doing a rushing business every day in the week; a whole block of saloons that are rolling in wealth and working overtime; two banks, two newspapers and 822 inhabitants, every one of whom tends to his business so actively that he constantly keeps the air stirring violently around him. That must be why it's so windy in Casper. Going out on the street was like turning the corner of the Masonic Temple at home here.

"I had prepared myself to do without a bath until my return to civilization. What was my astonishment to find a modern bathroom, with all attachments, in my uncle's house—running hot and cold water! He also had a telephone in the house. You can have your choice of gas or electric lights, and Uncle Charlie is even talking of installing a hot-water heating plant in his house; this fall. How is that for a frontier town in the wilds of Wyoming?"

"There isn't a poor man in Casper. I wouldn't mind living there. It's the same altitude as Denver, and a sick person is a curiosity. The name of the masculine element is Charlie. This includes horses, dogs and Chinamen. Occasionally you find a Bill. Anyone with a more high-flown front name is looked upon with suspicion. I didn't tell them that mine is Alger-hon."

"The native masculine costume of Casper consists of a $7 pair of boots, a $5.50 hat and a 75-cent pair of overalls—about $1.25 for shirts, I guess. I didn't see many cowboys. They call 'em sheepsman now. Everything's sheep out there. Casper isn't a stockyard, but once in awhile a bunch of cattle went by the house, and once I got mixed up with a bunch of sheep. If Mary's little lamb smelled anything like it I don't wonder that the teacher objected.

"The native Casperite is not a modest man. His voice is large, and when he talks you don't have to ask him twice what he said, if you happen to be standing a mile across the prairie away from him. He is partial to exaggerating the truth. His children are the finest, his wife the best cook, his ranch the biggest, his crops the largest, his sheep the most numerous, his state the best, his politics the only kind in the whole union. He wouldn't change shoes with Pierpont Morgan—not on your life! He's honest and big-hearted and open-handed. I like the native Casperite."

"The woman of Wyoming votes. She wears divided skirts when she rides horseback, so you may know that she rides in the fashionable attitude. She doesn't powder her face and frizz her hair. She's big and buxom and healthy, and when she laughs it isn't a windy giggle. She can hit a rabbit on the jump with a 45, and she knows how to fry sage chicken and bake rabbit pie. She rears a numerous and husky progeny, and to express it mildly, she 'rules the roost.'"

"Fruit is scarce out there, and bananas are 50 cents a dozen, so they buy 'em by the bunch. The Casper taste runs to bananas—bananas for breakfast, bananas for dinner and bananas for supper. And say—talk about feed! Maybe you don't think they feed a fellow down there!"

"I don't see that you're any fatter," interposed the Managing Editor.

"The bronco did that," mournfully returned the Tenderfoot. "I lost 20 pounds in perspiration, epidermis and fatty tissue. And say—I ain't just a tenderfoot any more—I'm tender all over now."

"Well, I guess you'd better go to work and get tough again. You can give us a story of your western experiences as a starter. Go on now, I'm busy," commanded the Managing Editor.

"All right," grunted the Tenderfoot, as he laboriously prepared to lift himself into a standing position. "You'll excuse my moving gradually for a day or two, however. I ought to have another week to rest up in."

"Guess you don't want to go west again in a hurry, hey?"

"Don't!" said the Tenderfoot.

"Next time I go I'll stay there, top. I'll buy half a dozen sheep and go up in the lovely cool mountains and roost with my gentle babasas, and get rich in a couple of years. Say, you can buy land for 80 cents an acre out in Wyoming—plenty of water on it, too!"

"Where?" demanded the Managing Editor.

"On the river bottom," serenely replied the Tenderfoot, as he limped hastily out of the Managing Editor's atmosphere.—Chicago Record-Herald.

AN ITALIAN CAPTAIN

Cured by Pe-ru-na of Catarrh of the Stomach After Doctors Failed.

Hon. J. D. Botkin, Congressman from Kansas, Writes an Interesting Letter.

CAPTAIN O. BERTOLOTTO.

Captain O. Bertolotto of the Italian Barque "Lincelles," in a recent letter from the chief office of the Italian Barque Lincelles, Pensacola, Fla., writes: "I have suffered for several years with chronic catarrh of the stomach. The doctors prescribed for me without my receiving the least benefit. Through one of your pamphlets I began the use of Peruna, and two bottles have entirely cured me. I recommend Peruna to all my friends."—O. Bertolotto.

In catarrh of the stomach, as well as catarrh of any part of the body, Peruna is the remedy. As has been often said, if Peruna will cure catarrh of one part, it will cure catarrh of any other part of the body.

Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, and the remedy that will cure it anywhere will cure it everywhere.

The following letter from Congressman Botkin speaks for itself:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.:

My Dear Doctor:—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines—Peruna and Mannin. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure. Peruna is surely a wonderful remedy for catarrhal affections.—J. D. Botkin.

This is a case of catarrh of the stomach which had run for twenty-five years, according to his statement, and Peruna has at once come to his relief, promptly accomplishing for him more benefit than he had been able to find in all other remedies during a quarter of a century.

It stands to reason that a man of wealth and influence, like a Congressman of the great United States, has left no ordinary means untried and no stone unturned to find a cure.

If such cures as these do not verify the claim not only that dyspepsia is due to catarrh of the stomach, but also that Peruna will cure catarrh of the stomach, it is impossible to imagine how any evidence could do so.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.
