CHELSEA TURNED OUT WELL

To St. Joseph's Church Picnic at Dexter
Monday and to See the Ball Games.

All roads led to Dexter from Chelsea Monday and it seemed as if about everybody took advantage of them for the village was as quiet as a Sunday in the afternoon.

The picnic given by the members of St.
Joseph's church, Dexter, was the ostensible cause of the exit, but the real reason was the baseball games in the morning between the Junior Stars and Dexter, and in the afternoon between a nine playing in the interest of Chelsea and the Anderson team.
The Stars won their game hands down by the score of 13 to 2, and the Anderson boys were defeated by Chelsea's team, although they put up a plucky fight. The score was 15 to 5. It was a very interesting game.

The picnic proper was well attended and was a great success. The dinner was excellent; the sports were well conducted and contested; the speeches by Chas. E.
Townsend, of Jackson, and W. W.
Wedemeyer were much admired; the judging of the babies was, as usual, unsatisfactory to the friends of those who lost; and the songs by Rev. L. P. Gold-rick, of Northfield, and Jas. E. Harkins, of Ann Arbor, were especially pleasing to the crowd. It was a good picnic and well carried off.

MADE A GOOD RECORD.

The Junior Stars Have Closed Their Season and Won 20 Out of 25 Games.

The Junior Stars finish their baseball season last Friday by playing the Banners at Belle Isle, Detroit. This season our townspeople have so generously supported the team that they have been able to play some good teams and to finish the season with a little money ahead. They have won 20 out of 25 games played, being a very good record. They have scored 436 runs to their opponents' 216, or an average of 17 runs for each game. They have not been defeated by either Ann Arbor or Ypsilanti, whom they have played three times each.

The regular pitchers were Dwight
Miller, Chandler Rogers and Howard Holmes, and it is in a great measure due to these three, ably aided by Lalfont Be-Gole as catcher, that several of the games have been won.

The other players have been Gus. Be-
Gole, Paul Bacon, Wirt McLaren, Ray
Cook, Arthur Raftery and Dorr Rogers.
Wirt McLaren has acted as manager and captain during the season.

The Stars expect to put on an entertainment during the winter and hope they will be as well supported in that as their ball team has been.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

Republicans Will Hold One Sept. 19.—
Primary Elections Sept. 18.

The Republican county convention has been called to meet at the court house, Ann Arbor, Friday, Sept. 19. The business to be transacted is as follows: To nominate candidates for sheriff, county clerk, register of deeds, county treasurer, prosecuting attorney, two circuit court commissioners, two coroners and surveyor; to select 21 delegates to the state convention to be held at Grand Rapids on Sept. 25, and to elect 21 delegates to the senatorial convention of the Tenth senatorial district, hereafter to be called, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The caucuses are directed to be called by the members of the county committee, on the primary election plan, Thursday, Sept. 18. The polls will be open from 2 o'clock until 8 o'clock p. m. At 2 o'clock a chairman and secretary are to be elected and delegates chosen and then the electors are to proceed to vote for candidates for county nominations. The county convention is to ratify the choice of the caucuses thus held.

A Boy's Wild Ride for Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, W. H.
Brown, of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes: "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis, coughs, colds and grip prove its matchless merit for all throat and lung troubles.

THE K. OF P. EXCURSION.

Large Crowd Went from Here to Detroit
Last Friday.

The K. of P. Athletic Club excursion to Detroit Friday was generously patronized, 305 tickets being sold. The large crowd was well handled by the D. V. A. A. & J. electric line, under the personal supervision of S. J. Dill, the superintendent, and the accommodation would have been even better had those who went bought their tickets in advance instead of waiting until the last minute. The first car at 5:40 a. m. carried 81 passengers, the 6:40 carried the big crowd, the 7:40 car was loaded and others straggled along as late as 12:40 p. m.

Arrived at Detroit all went their several ways in search of enjoyment. The larger number of those who left on the earlier cars went to Belle Isle to see the excellent baseball game between the Chelsea Junior Stars and the Detroit Banners, while others took the boat ride to Port Huron.
The ball game was a fine one throughout, as the score of 9 to 7 testifies, and the boys have no reason to be ashamed of their defeat.

In the afternoon some went to see the league baseball game between Detroit and Boston and were considerably chagrined to see the poor article of ball put up by the tail-enders. Others went to the theaters and others took in the sights of the city or visited friends. The Ladies' Society of St. Paul's Evangelical church embraced this opportunity to visit Detroit and the Zoar orphan asylum. It was a pleasant day, pleasantly spent, and a highly successful excursion.

FEWER SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Census of Fractional District No. 3 Shows a Decrease from Last Year's Number.

Director W. J. Knapp has completed the school census of Chelsea, and finds there are 433 children of school age in the district. Of these 208 are boys, and 225 are girls. This is a slight decrease from last year's numbers. In fact the number of school children has been steadily decreasing for the past 10 years, although the population has been increasing. Ten years ago when Mr. Knapp took the census there were 463 children of school age in the district. It was then a common thing to find six and eight children in a family, nowadays such families are not found very frequently.

Death of Mrs. Whittington.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Whittington, a resident of Sylvan township for 56 years, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Stephen L. Gage, Tuesday, Sept. 2, aged 83 years, 1 month and 11 days. The funeral services were held at the house this morning
Rev. E. E. Caster officiating, and the remains were interred in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Whittington's maiden name was Sarah Ann White. She was born in the state of New York July 22, 1819, and came with her mother, six brothers and one sister to Michigan in 1834. The family settled on Toland prairie in Kalamazoo county. In 1841 she married Darius Burlingame, and to this union two children Orville Burlingame and Mrs. S.
L. Gage were born. In 1846 they came to Sylvan township, which had been her home ever since. After the death of Mr.
Burlingame she was married in 1857 to John Whittington, by whom she had one son George H. Whittington, of Lima.

Mrs. Whittington was a kind hearted woman, ever ready to do anybody a good turn, and was always known and respected as a good neighbor and friend. Her three children survive her.

tenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co. has

The Village of Morne Rouge, Island of Martinique, Is Destroyed—Le Carbet Swept Away by a Tidal Wave.

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, British West Indies, Sept. 2.—The British steamer Korona arrived here Sunday evening from Fort de France, Island of Martinique. She reports that a terrible eruption of Mount Pelee occurred at nine o'clock Saturday night, and that people who arrived at Fort de France from the northern part of the island reported that the village of Morne Rouge, near the district previously devastated, had been destroyed, and that Le Carbet, a village on the coast which was destroyed at the time of the great eruption, had been swept by a tidal wave. About 200 persons lost their lives.

In addition to the 200 persons reported to have lost their lives at Le Carbet and Morne Rouge, many other persons are said to have been killed all over the northern districts of the island. The governor of Martinique is believed to have started for the scene of destruction.

Mont Pelee has been in constant eruption since August 15. There was an enormous fall of ashes from the volcano the night of the 25th. There was a very severe eruption the night of the 28th, when the volcano rumbled were heard at a great distance. The mountain burned fiercely that night, and out at sea passing vessels were covered with ashes. The night of the 30th there were three separate eruptions.

It is impossible to approach the ruined town of St. Pierre from the sea. The people of the village of Le Carbet, on the coast, are terror-stricken and flying to the interior. Hot water is pouring down on Lorrain and Basse Pointe, villages to the northeast of the crater. Horrible detonations were heard, the ground rocked and quaked and articles on tables were thrown to the floor. The governor of Martinique has ordered every available boat to remove people from the coast villages to Fort de France.

Awe-Inspiring Scene.

At eight o'clock on the evening of Saturday, the 30th, the sky was cloudless. Suddenly and without warning, one-half of the horizon was obscured by a pitch black cloud of dust. This cloud was in the center of most magnificent electric effects, the flashes of light surpassing the most elaborate fireworks. Flames and flashes continued to burst from the cloud until nearly midnight. Columns of flame shot out of the crater of Mont Pelee to explode about the cloud in showers of balls of golden fire, which fell through the darkness in myriads of sparks. Three large aureoles were seen in the sky over the opening of the crater.

A tidal wave, rushed upon Fort de France, and the terrified inhabitants fled in large numbers to the interior. The wave was not severe and did but slight damage.

At midnight of the 30th Mont Pelee was quiet; shortly after this hour there came another shower of ashes, accompanied by vivid sheet lightning.

BABY IS GUILTY.

Infant Which Caused So Much Trouble at Keokuk Convicted of Vagrancy.

Keokuk, Ia., Sept. 1.—"Baby" Kellar, 11 months old, was found guilty of vagrancy by a justice of the peace. Sentence was suspended during good behavior. The case was tried with nobody in the courtroom except the mother and her friends, who took a warrant against the infant several days ago as a means of obtaining possession of the child. It had been declared to be in the legal custody of Elmer Park, secretary of the Associated Charities, on his appeal after the acquittal of the mother on a charge of coming within the new law to deprive unworthy parents of their children. The mother still has the child guarded at her sister's house.

CIVIL SERVICE GROWTH.

The Classified Service Under the Federal Government Has 121,000 Positions.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The annual report of the civil service commission shows that in the entire executive service of the government there are, in round numbers, 235,000 places, of which number about 121,000 are classified. Of the 114,000 remaining unclassified, 72,498 are those of fourth class postmasters. The annual expenditure for salaries for the entire executive service is stated to be about $130,000,000, and of this, $85,000,000, or nearly two-thirds, goes to salaries for positions subject to the civil service rules. During the year ending June 30, 1901, 47,075 persons were examined, of whom 33,730 passed.

LABOR DAY.

Some Notable Observances—Thousands Parade the Streets of Various Cities.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Labor day was observed here with the quietude of a Sunday. All the executive departments were closed and business generally was suspended. Following the precedent established a few years ago, there was no public demonstration and the day was celebrated as a holiday dedicated to rest and recreation. It was an ideal summer day and many sought the resorts on the banks of the Potomac or in the suburbs of Washington. Instead of a street pageant the labor organizations gave excursions to the Potomac river resorts. Large crowds joined the organizations in celebration of workman's national holiday.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—It required longer than four hours for the Labor day parade to pass the reviewing stand at the Auditorium hotel. The number of men in line was variously estimated at from 40,000 to 50,000. The Teamsters' National union, the largest organization in the procession, was an hour in passing. Two hundred and twenty-one local unions marched. A box four feet by three by three was carried to hold contributions for the striking miners. When the squad guarding it reached the Auditorium there was enough money to cover the bottom of the receptacle. When it had passed the hostelry the box was half full of money.

The total contributions to aid striking miners are figured at $10,000. The money wagon collected 459 pounds of coins, not yet counted, and five $100 bills, besides a large roll of paper currency.

Labor day celebrations of note are reported from Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Harrisburg, Pa.; Madison, Wis.; Omaha, Neb.; St. Paul, Minn.; Louisville, Ky.; Birmingham, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Memphis, Tenn.; Toronto, Ont.; Cincinnati, O.; Baltimore, Md.; Springfield, Ill.; Boston, Mass., and San Francisco, Cal.

New York, Sept. 2.—A parade with nearly 40,000 men in line was the feature of New York's celebration of Labor day. Besides the parade, there were the usual sporting events and picnics given by various political organizations.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—All business and manufacturing was practically at a standstill in Detroit Monday. Ten thousand union men paraded the streets in the morning in the great Labor day parade, and the route of the parade was crowded with thousands of spectators. The parade was the finest Labor day turnout ever seen in this city. There were many handsome floats in the procession, and several of the unions were handsomely arrayed in uniform costumes.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 2.—Nearly 10,000 men took part in the Labor day parade in this city. All the trades unions were represented, but the majority of those in line were miners. The strikers were cheered all along the line of march. They carried banners, which bore inscriptions.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 2.—Twenty thousand men marched in the Labor day parade here. It was the biggest labor demonstration ever seen in this city. The striking mine workers formed the entire first division and were over 12,000 strong. Two other divisions were made up of various trades unions. After the parade a picnic was held at Lake Ariel.

Burlington, Ia., Sept. 2.—Labor day here Monday was observed by a general suspension of business. Labor unions from Keokuk, Fort Madison, Wapello and other neighboring cities united with Burlington, the features of the day being a big parade, athletic exercises and addresses at the park.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—The organized workmen of Philadelphia Monday paid their tribute to John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and at the same time showed their sympathy in a substantial way for the striking anthracite mine workers of Pennsylvania. The presence of the miners' chief was made the occasion of probably the greatest demonstration that organized labor has ever held on Labor day. In the forenoon a parade was held under the auspices of the Central Labor union, in which nearly all the trades of the city were represented. It is estimated that more than 10,000 men were in line. President Mitchell rode at the head of the procession, and his reception along the route of the parade was enthusiastic. Twelve miners dressed in their greasy overalls and blouses acted as an escort. After the parade a big picnic was held in Washington park, on the New Jersey side of the Delaware river, a few miles below this city. There were probably 40,000 persons in attendance. Here Mr. Mitchell made two addresses.

Aid for Confederates.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Upon the recommendation of Eli Torrance, commander in chief of the G. A. R., veterans of the union army are requested to contribute money for a soldiers' home at Mountain Creek, Ala., for disabled confederate soldiers.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Sheriff Warned.

A plot to kill Sheriff Edward Bensley, of Allegan county, has been discovered. A prisoner named Kahler had planned with two fellow-prisoners to brain the sheriff with a club and then accomplish a wholesale jail delivery. Another prisoner who knew of the plot told the sheriff. Bensley at once found the club hidden in a stove pipe and also three new files secreted in various places. The three prisoners in the plot are awaiting trial for penitentiary offenses.

Will Test Game Law.

The case of William Vanpelt, who was convicted last spring in Wayne county of having in his possession wild ducks for the purpose of shipping them outside of the state, has been appealed to the United States supreme court. The case involves that important provision of the game law forbidding the shipment of game outside of the state. The supreme court sustained the law on the ground that the state owns the game and has the right to restrict its taking and use.

Kills a Burglar.

Edward Lenehan died at the Emergency hospital in Detroit from hemorrhage caused by a bullet, from Policeman J. F. Lemond's revolver. Lemond discovered four burglars entering a grocery in Brooklyn avenue. He endeavored to arrest them and they opened fire on him. The policemen fired but one shot in return and struck Lenehan. A second of the burglars is under arrest.

Jumped Overboard.

A. W. Mitchell, who committed suicide on August 12 by jumping from a Pacific ocean steamer en route to Honolulu, was a member of the lumbering and manufacturing firm of Mitchell Brothers, of Cadillac. He was several times a millionaire and widely known in western and northern Michigan. He started in June for a trip around the world in the hope of regaining his health.

Paroled.

The sentence was for two years and nine months and was imposed by Judge Yapple. The prisoner is reported to be ill, with small hopes of recovery unless he is given his liberty.

Crop Outlook.

The weekly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan: Generally cool, dry weather has retarded growth of corn, beans and late potatoes, corn earing nicely, but is small and will not be safe from frost until September 25; sugar beets and buckwheat doing well; apples, pears and late peaches continue promising; fall plowing delayed by dry, lumpy soil.

Writ Granted.

The supreme court has granted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Frank C. Andrews, recently convicted of misappropriating funds of the wrecked City savings bank of Detroit. The writ is made returnable October 1, and Andrews will remain in jail meanwhile.

GRAHAM'S GREAT FEAT.

The Noted Swimmer Successfully Breaks the Waves of the Lower Rapids.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Carlisle D. Graham swam from the whirlpool, below Niagara falls, through the lower rapids to Lewiston Sunday afternoon. Graham made a better swim than he did on the 9th of September, 1901, when Maude Willard attempted to navigate the upper rapids in Graham's barrel, and was suffocated. Graham Sunday wore a life preserver about his waist and a neck float. He entered the water at 3:17. The swift-running current whirled the swimmer to the center of the stream, and for nearly half an hour Graham battled with the waves. As far as the Devil's Hole it appeared comparatively easy for Graham, and then he plunged into rough water that many times hid him from sight. Only once, however, was he in danger. A current suddenly tossed him toward the shore, dangerously near a big boulder that showed threateningly above the surface. By desperate swimming he just avoided the rock and was carried on down stream. Below the Devil's Hole, where the river narrows, Graham had another hard battle. For a time he was completely hidden from view, and the hundreds of spectators on the bridge and along the banks grew greatly excited. Graham soon appeared in the smoother water, where the river widens, and the crowd cheered him heartily. He declined to enter a boat and swam to the shore just below the new trolley bridge. After a rub down Graham said he felt no bad effects from his hazardous swim.

LOSS OF LIFE HEAVY.

Many Vessels Wrecked in Storm Off South African Coast—Fifty Bodies Washed Ashore.

Cape Town, Sept. 2.—Eighteen vessels, mostly sailing craft, have been driven ashore in a gale at Port Elizabeth. Five of them were dashed to pieces and all the members of their crews were lost. Two tugs also are reported to have foundered, and a score of lighters are ashore.

Sir John Gordon Sprigg, the premier, said in the house of assembly Monday afternoon that he feared the loss of life from the gale would be enormous.

The storm broke shortly before midnight Sunday night and was accompanied by a deluge of rain and brilliant lightning. The night was very dark. Several tugs went out to the assistance of the endangered vessels, but nothing was visible from the shore at Port Elizabeth, except the continual flashes of rockets as signals of distress. Daylight revealed the beach at the north end of Algoa bay strewn with vessels lying high and dry, while others were in the surf and being swept by the huge breakers. With the exception of four vessels which foundered with all hands, every sailing vessel in the roadstead was ashore by midday. Many steamers, after weathering the storm all night, steamed out to sea at daybreak. Fifty bodies have already been washed ashore.

BALLOON IS WRECKED.

Hurricane Puts an End to Journey of Denver Aeronauts—No Lives Lost.

Denver, Col., Sept. 2.—After a lapse of more than 24 hours, during which no word was received from the three aeronauts who left Denver Sunday to try for a transcontinental balloon voyage, a telegram came Monday night announcing that the airship had been wrecked in a storm 27 miles north of Florence, Col. Although bruised and somewhat frost-bitten the occupants were not seriously hurt. The storm first struck the balloon at 9:30 Sunday night, and between that hour and daylight the experience of the aeronauts was terrible in the extreme. Three times the balloon was carried over Pike's Peak and the last time it was necessary to throw out all of the water, provisions and instruments in order to clear the rocky summit of the mountain. At daylight a landing was made and Monday night the men reached Florence. The adventurous men are Thomas Baldwin and Percy Hudson, both experienced balloonists, and C. L. Shortman.

BIG CORN CROP.

Said to Be Past Danger from Usual Sources and a Heavy Yield Is Assured.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—According to the current issue of the Corn Belt an immense crop of corn is maturing in the fields of Nebraska, Iowa, northern Kansas, northern Missouri and north-eastern Colorado. Reports gathered from 900 agents in the territory covered indicate that the silk and tassel have served their functions and are withered and that the crop is so far advanced as to be practically "made" and past danger from any usual source. These same reports say all small grains are cut and in the stack and that thrashing has reasonably progressed.

DEFEAT FOR FLEET.

Half of Admiral Higginson's Squadron Destroyed in Attack on Ports.

Headquarters of Gen. MacArthur, Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn., Sept. 2.—Half of Rear Admiral Higginson's squadron attacked Ports Michie, Wright and Terry at 10:20 last (Monday) evening and was destroyed. A furious battle was fought, every battery in the forts named and every gun in the fleets being brought into action. The battle raged for fifty minutes, and when the firing ceased army officers declared that every ship in Rear Admiral Higginson's squadron had been put out of action. It is not yet known whether Rear Admiral Higginson intended a real attack on the forts as a part of the war game programme. Many are inclined to think it was simply a preliminary demonstration.

The result of the operations Monday and Monday night seems to be a triumph for the army. The navy captured Block Island yesterday morning, landed 600 marines and destroyed all cable and telephone communications, capturing all signal men but one. Lieut. Sears escaped, but in spite of all efforts to find him managed to keep up communication with headquarters all day from a concealed station.

Wood's Hole, Mass., was captured by the Olympic yesterday morning and the telegraph, telephone and cable lines destroyed, thus cutting off all communication with Martha's Vineyard.

Just before midnight Monday night four vessels tried to storm Price's Neck signal station, near Narragansett, and their gun fire against that point was followed by 96 shots from Fort Adams. So well placed were some of the latter that it is believed at the fort that two of the vessels were put out of action. The vessels retired towards the westward.

The attack on the forts guarding the entrance to Long Island sound began soon after dark. At 10:20 Rear Admiral Higginson's fleet was reported as passing the lighthouse here. At the same moment came a message stating that the battleships had opened on Fort Michie at Gull island with their heavy guns. Fort Wright opened fire at 10:20 on a battleship believed to be the Indiana and steaming rapidly toward Fort Terry on the Long Island sound side. Afterward the guns of Fort Terry were heard apparently trained on the battleship. A message was received a short time ago from the signal station at Fort Mansfield announcing that the whole fleet was coming toward Fishers island. The ships were discovered by the searchlights and the fire of three forts concentrated on them. The ships withdrew after an engagement lasting about ten minutes. The result is in doubt.

STATEMENTS ARE FALSE.

On Authority of President It Is Denied That Justice Shiras Has Resigned.

East Northfield, Mass., Sept. 2.—The attention of the president having been called to the published statement that Attorney General Knox's name was being considered with the view of appointing him to a justiceship on the supreme bench to succeed Justice George Shiras, it can be said on the authority of the president himself that not only does he not contemplate such a move but Justice Shiras has not resigned. The president classed all such statements as without the least foundation and that they only come into his mind when he sees them in print.

The same published statement also credits him with having reached the conclusion to place the construction of the Isthmian canal under the jurisdiction of the army with Gen. Leonard Wood as chairman of the canal committee. The president likewise is authority for the statement that he has no intention whatsoever of changing the civil nature of the commission.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 2.—Justice George Shiras, Jr., was asked about a report from Lake Champlain that he had sent to the president his resignation from the supreme court. "There is nothing in it," said the justice. "It is without foundation. I have said before the president will be the first to be notified of my resignation. He has no statement from me on the subject."

CATTLE DYING.

Lack of Food and Water Bad for Live Stock Industry in Oregon.

Burns, Ore., Sept. 1.—There has never been a time in the history of the stock industry in Harney county when stock has suffered so much for feed and water as during the present summer. The hot weather in the last six months has dried the grass in the hills, and the springs and small creeks have been fenced up, causing the stock to travel a long distance for water and return to range, which is causing a great falling off in flesh. In several places cattle are dying for want of feed and water.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1902.

Hon. George H. Durand, of Flint, the Democratic nominee for governor of Michigan, lies at his home stricken with paralysis and with but slight hopes for his recovery. The attack was the result of the nervous strain entailed upon him by the excitement and large amount of work necessary to the gubernatorial campaign. Judge Durand is one of the brightest and honestest men in the state and his loss will be a calamity to all.

President Roosevelt had a very narrow escape from death yesterday at Pittsfield, Mass. The carriage in which he was riding with Governor Crane, Secretary Cortelyou, Secret Service Agent Craig, and the driver D. J. Pratt was struck by an electric car going at a rapid pace. Pratt and Craig were both killed and the president, governor and secretary were bruised and cut about the head and face.

The Republican convention to nominate a candidate for representative in the legislature for the second district of Washtenaw county has been called to meet in Ypsilanti, Monday, Sept. 29. Sylvan township is now in the second district. The first district convention will be held in Ann Arbor, Sept. 19, the same time as the county convention is to be held.

Judge Durand's name will be withdrawn from the head of the Democratic state ticket in consequence of his illness. His successor will likely be chosen at the rally to be held in Grand Rapids next Tuesday, Sept. 9, although there are some who favor calling another state convention for that purpose.

A Matter of Interest to Farmers and Stock Raisers.

A matter which will no doubt greatly interest the farmers and stock raisers of this vicinity is the introduction through C. Steinbach of the American Stock Food Co.'s famous remedies. The gentleman has been successful in securing the agency in this locality, in which he is to be congratulated as the goods manufactured by the American Stock Food Co., Fremont, O., seem to have peculiar merits not possessed by similar remedies.

A remarkable feature of this company's methods is that they give away free sample packages to demonstrate their faith in the goods.

They also publish a valuable book which can be had for the asking, which gives many good pointers regarding stock and stock raising.

Their advertisement in behalf of their agent, C. Steinbach, appears for the first time in this issue. We believe it would be well for farmers and stock raisers to follow their advertising which will run for a period of six months in this paper.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

Methods of Several Different Types of Flirts

G. B. Burgin, Noted English Novelist, Writes of the Peculiarities of Each.

IT IS a little difficult to define flirting. A good many authorities on the subject profess to hold it in holy horror, and would be glad to add an extra commandment to the Decalogue, making it a penal offence. If they had their way, society would be rendered even duller than it is. The horror of flirting is not easy to understand when one considers that most flirts are actuated by the desire to please—a desire which is not so general as to become oppressive. With due courtesy, the other sex reciprocates; and, sometimes, there are difficulties—difficulties which seem to pass the time and make life much more enjoyable than usual. On the whole, however, the men and women who flirt generally do it with their eyes open, enjoy themselves thoroughly, and keep out of real mischief.

Flirtation in this progressive twentieth century of ours has been reduced to a science. Among its wide and varied branches are the coy flirt, the intellectual flirt, the affinity flirt, the serious flirt, the hoydenish flirt, the tragic flirt, the girl who flirts because she cannot help it and the doctor thinks it is good for her, and the girl who flirts because she does not want to help it, and does not care what anyone thinks about it. I am excluding from this incomplete category the contemptible male flirt—the man who devotes the whole of his time to “lady killing.” As if it were sport, forsooth, to slay something infinitely nobler than himself. This “sort of insect,” as Artemus Ward says, deserves to be “sot upon,” and frequently is.

The coy flirt opens the campaign in so imperceptible, gradual and enchantingly diffident and wholly accidental a manner that the onlooker would indeed be unjust to condemn her. By dint of careful study (this is one of the few subjects in which women display more perseverance than men) she has reduced the whole business to an exact science, and, as soon as she has gone through her course with one individual, begins again with another, carefully conveying in a timid, frightened sort of way the impression that this is the first time she has ever felt really drawn towards a member of the opposite sex, and that she is overcome with maidenly confusion lest her timid little advances should be misunderstood.

Occasionally, for we are all human, however much some of us are belied by our appearance, the coy flirt goes a little further than she intended, and becomes desperately in earnest. Frightened, abashed, she draws back in her shell, and begins to take the matter of life seriously. It is like putting one's foot into the sea to feel the temperature. Sometimes it is cold; sometimes, it isn't. From that moment she ceases to flirt, gets thin, writes verses which do not scan, and is convinced that in reality men are not the monsters depicted by careful mammas.

The serious flirt generally wears spectacles, and believes that “Life is real, life is earnest,” that the only way to attempt to convert so vain a creature as a man, if you are not prepared to imperil your soul by marrying him, is to flirt him gently into the paths of salvation. For “A book of verses underneath the bough,” she substitutes a selection from Herbert Spencer, or gradually puts him through a John Stuart Mill. The serious flirt's methods, as a rule, are somewhat sledge-hammer, and are not always convincing. Still, there is a firmness about her which leaves no room for escape. Her flirting is curiously impersonal. She has a definite object in view and makes the most of herself with a view of attracting the attention of a member of the opposite sex in order to convert him to her own opinion. Occasionally, she succeeds—when she is possessed of more staying power than her victim; occasionally she does not. But, whether she succeeds or fails, directly she sees a sinner to be saved, she invariably begins to flirt with solemn assiduity. After many years' unceasing devotion to the conversion of mere man, she concentrates her failing energies on an elderly professor, and offers him up as a solemn burnt offering upon the matrimonial altar. Then, she alludes with a sigh to her frivolous and giddy past, and worries the professor into a premature grave.

Perhaps the most dangerous of all flirts is the intellectual, well-read one. She is, as a rule, unusually pretty, in a serious, pensive, attractive kind of a way, and when she begins to flirt by means of her favorite authors, the chances are that she will do so very effectually. As a rule, this flirtation is generally a prelude to matrimony; for one day both of them discover that man proposes and woman accepts. If the man only is in earnest the woman refuses him, and is indignant that he should ever seek to break up so pleasant an intellectual friendship. The man says the only condition on which he will forgive her is that she will not consider it necessary to be a sister to him, for he has had so many in his time that it is becoming monotonous. Then the intellectual flirt indignantly wonders at his presumption, and the man goes to the music halls and drinks of the waters of Marah, modified by the customary proportion of whisky.

Deep down in the heart of the dells is to be met the hoydenish flirt—the simple, cream-faced, butter-and-primrose rustic who dresses bewitchingly, and, sitting beside you on a stile, reverts to the role of Eve, and offers you a bit of her apple. This kind of flirt, to the weary hunter of towns, is as refreshing as country cream, and as wholesome. Finding life rather dull on the paternal farm, she improves the passing hour in her simple way, is usually good-natured, full of fun, and affects to be wholly unconscious of her own prettiness. When the time comes for the “furriner from the city” to depart, she sheds a tear or two, cheers up at the sight of the little trinket as a parting souvenir, frankly kisses him, fetches another apple, and goes back to her stile to wait the coming of another cavalier.

The average amateur flirt generally confines her efforts to one individual; but the professional, like a juggler, dexterously manages half a dozen at once. It requires immense tact and skill to accomplish such a task as this. If the utmost care is not exercised, the half dozen admirers quarrel profoundly with each other, and talk about running over to Boulogne to settle their differences by means of “pistols for two and coffee for one.” When the gloomy youth of 19 hugs the three hairs which, in his eyes, constitute an incipient mustache and in scathing terms rebukes her for her cruelty the six-in-hand enjoys herself thoroughly, and once more takes him with veiled eyelids. It is as natural for her to flirt as it is for birds to fly. When, however, she is engaged to the man of her choice, unless he is a prudent individual, and marries her out of hand, the chances are that she will have so many fresh flirtations in spite of her engagement, that he will break off the affair and retire in dudgeon.

Perhaps the most insidious, interesting and dangerous of all flirts is the woman who would flirt with a broomstick for lack of something better on which to exercise her skill. Every one of the opposite sex within her radius becomes her prey; but the whole thing is done so dexterously, with such sympathetic, artistic touches, that even the victim cannot help enjoying the process. It is only when it is over and she has been attracted to “fresh woods and pastures new” that he somewhat ruefully realizes how admirably he has been fooled.

HALF A DOZEN AT A TIME.

Any woman can flirt with a man if she persuades him that everyone else misunderstands him, that the world has never done justice to his heroic qualities, and that she alone possesses the key to that inner, nobler self which he so jealously hides.

On the whole, the woman flirt is a very amiable sinner, lends a new zest to the sunshine, brightens the flowers, helps to pass the time. Her sinning, if sinning it be, arises in most cases from an innocent desire to please the other sex. Who would be ungrateful enough to quarrel with so amiable an object? But what may be amiable in a woman sometimes becomes despicable in a man. The man who flirts with every girl he meets and persuades her that she is the only woman he ever loved, deserves, to use a wild-westernism, to be “shot on sight.” Men should always remember that it is a woman's prerogative to amuse herself at their expense; it is what men are for; and he should be properly grateful when she cares to take the trouble to do so. The case is widely different for a man. Men, as a rule, have a wide experience of the world and its ways. Women very often have not. And, surely, there is nothing sadder under Heaven than the grief of a sweet, true girl, who has given her whole love to a man and finds that he has been flirting with her just to pass the time. For such a man no condemnation is too great. Women lend so gracious a charm to life that anyone who causes them pain or sorrow ought to be mercilessly excluded from the happiness to be experienced in their society.

G. B. BURGIN.

A Mere Waste of Energy.

“Ah,” he said, as they were exploring among the rocks back of the hotel, “here is ‘Lovers’ Lane.’ Let's go through.”

“That deep place there, where it is so dark, with the steep, rocky sides?”

“Yes. Come on.”

“I'm afraid you would kiss me if we were down there alone together.”

“No, honest!”

“Well, then, we may as well remain up here.”—Chicago Record-Herald.

What It's Coming To.

“I will have to have three more days out a week, and receive my company in the parlor,” said the cook-lady, firmly.

“Bridget,” replied the mistress of the house, “I warn you not to push me too far. You seem to forget that I belong to the Housewives' union, No. 17!”—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Cruelty to a Wife.

Nodd—I got ahead of my wife. I told her to decorate the house to suit herself.

Todd—But how did you get ahead of her?

“Why, half her pleasure is finding out first what I want, and then getting something else.”—Brooklyn Life.

A Common Trouble.

“He seems to be a very well informed person.”

“Yes; but he insists on distributing samples of his information among his acquaintances.”—Brooklyn Life.

An Optimistic View.

The invalid looked out of the window just as a hearse went by, and he smiled happily.

“D'ye mind, Biddy,” he said, “it's worth th' dyin' to have a ride in a thing like that, with th' feathers on top an' a man with a bug on his hat, an' you bein' gr-reater an' more necessary than th' marshal iv a St. Patrick's day parade. There's wanst in ye'er life ye're th' whole thing, an' that's whin ye're dead.”—Chicago Post.

Precaution.

“Do you think you can give my daughter the surroundings to which she is accustomed?” asked the parent.

“Well,” answered the young man, “I won't guarantee that. You see, Claribel has talked the matter over and says she's tired of the neighborhood.”—Washington Star.

Doubly a Blessing.

American Bride—Indeed, count, yes; I do love you very much.

Count Boylon de Bakkovisnek—Ah! Zat will repair my ruined life.

American Bride—And I bring you, you know, a million.

Count Boylon, etc.—Ah! Zat will r-repair my r-ruined chateau.—Chicago Tribune.

Matter Out of Place.

A particular old gentleman, pulling something out of his soup that should not have been included among the other ingredients, thus addressed his cook:

“Josephine, I am much obliged for your thoughtfulness, but next time kindly give it to me in a pocket.”—Tit-Bits.

Sure to Be Seen.

Merchant—I wish this dry goods advertisement put in some part of the paper where the woman will be sure to see it.

Editor—Why, great snakes, man! When we want to print anything where the women will be sure to see it, we put it alongside of a dry goods advertisement.—N. Y. Weekly.

An Envious Position.

Biggs—I met a man yesterday who makes his living by buying millinery.

Boggs—Well, what of it?

Biggs—Oh, nothing; only I've been buying millinery ever since I was married, and I never made any money by it.—N. Y. Herald.

PART OF HIS TRADE.

Mrs. Anntie—Are you not ashamed at your age to smoke cigarettes?

Mr. B. Stormer—No, I am obliged to do it for a living.

Mrs. Anntie—What, smoke cigarettes for a living. What do you mean?

Mr. B. Stormer—Why, madam, I am the villain in a melodrama. — Chicago Tribune.

A Fair Traveler.

He was an oculist, and she

—N. Y. Herald.

Borrowing Trouble.

“Of course,” said the young mother, “our little girl is the sweetest child in the whole world, but if we had another how could we pick out the sweetest child in the whole world?”

And the young father had to give it up.—Chicago Post.

A Dissipated Idea.

Mrs. Handout—You look like a dissipated man.

Tramp—I am, mum.

Mrs. Handout—Were you ever married?

Tramp—Uv course, mum. Dat wuz wot dissipated de idea I once had dat I wuz a man.—Judge.

It Would Cool Them Off.

Hewitt—I tell you, it's too hot to go to the theater.

Jewett—Oh, come along; the play will be a frost, anyway.—N. Y. Times.

Get One of Them Right. “I wonder why so many men live double lives,” says the earnest student of humanity.

“It may be,” ventured the equally earnest student of human nature, “that they do so in order to correct in one of the lives the mistakes they make in the other.”—Baltimore American.

False Alarm.

Poor slaves of fickle Fortune's whim, How many people whoop That they are getting in the swim, But find it's just the soup.

—Philadelphia Press.

HIRED IN SELF-DEFENSE.

“I'm Prof. Herr and I came to give you a singing lesson.”

“Why, I didn't send for you!”

“I know it; but aren't you the lady that sings every evening?”

“Yes.”

“Well, the neighbors sent for me and paid me for the lessons in advance.”—N. Y. Journal.

His Private Opinion.

He says “all men are equal.” But in his heart you'll find He feels that he is gifted with A most superior mind.

—Washington Star.

His Method.

“This party,” said the grand vizier, “is willing to allow us ten per cent discount.”

“Good!” said the sultan. “See if you can't get him to send us a check for the discount and tell him we'll pay the bill in the regular course.”—Puck.

Artistic.

“She is very artistic,” said the impressionable youth.

“Yes,” answered the man with the steely eye, “she is one of the sort of girls who think a bunch of hand-painted daisies are more important on a dinner plate than an omelette.”—Washington Star.

Lineage.

Willie—Say, pa, do men descend from monkeys.

Father—Yes, my son.

Willie—What do monkeys descend from?

Father (puzzled)—The monkeys descend from—er, aw—trees, my son.—N. Y. Journal.

Not Popular.

“Miss Sereleaf says that she was called ‘The Poster Girl’ at the resort where she spent the summer,” remarked Maude.

“Very appropriate,” replied Maude. “She was up against the wall most of the time, I noticed.”—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

An Historic Bird.

Customer—What sort of a chicken do you call this?

Waiter—That sir, I believe, is a Plymouth Rock.

Customer—Ah, I'm glad it has some historic interest. I thought it was just an ordinary cobblerstone.—Chicago American.

Seasoning Needed.

“I trust,” said the young missionary, “that we will be mutually agreeable.”

“Well,” replied the king of the Cannons Ball islands, “it strikes me that you are rather fresh. However, pepper and salt are cheap and I have a good chef.”—N. Y. Herald.

In Bridget's Domain.

Mrs. Haughty—Bridget, if I hear of other such rumpus as there was in the kitchen last night I shall call in a policeman.

Bridget—Shure, mum, an' if I did know where we'll be after that room for another wan, at all, at all.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Truly Remarkable.

“Do you think there is anything remarkable in love at first sight?” asked the romantic youth.

“Not at all,” answered the cynic. “It's when people have been looking at each other for four or five years that it becomes remarkable.”—Washington Star.

Glad of the Chance.

“Did the old man seem to hesitate when you asked him for Laura?”

“Not a bit of it. He said the caterer and the florist owed him a lot of money and it would be a good way to pay even with them.”—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Pretty Gowns for the Early Fall Season.

Summer holidays, which promise to run well into the second week in September before they give way to autumn gayeties and gowns, promise to go out in a glorious setting. The late summer and early fall costumes are even more brilliant than were the earlier ones, though as a rule they are not so expensive. Simple muslins in grays and whites are showing themselves as extreme favorites for the most charming afternoon and garden party gowns imaginable.

Muslin and silk is an odd combination, but it is one at which modistes have arrived. Embroidered muslin and poppy red taffetas piped with white are united with surprisingly good effect in a new costume. The new design is a flounced afternoon gown which is displayed on a pretty brunette model. The skirt is simply a series of shaped flounces which are longer in front than in the back. Each flounce is strapped with the red and white silk. The bodice has a peculiar bolero—one that tapers below the waist, give a long and narrow basque effect. The jacket is surrounded by a single band of the strapping, cut short and square over a blouse of lace and muslin. The sleeves are raised on the shoulders, giving the first hint that we may again see a modification of the puff. The silk is slashed open down the forearms and permits undersleeves of plaited muslin to display their very voluminous folds.

Silk lawn is one of the most charming materials for garden party frocks. It is soft and light and so exactly suited for a slender, graceful figure! Pale blue is just the tint for a blond. A silk foundation is necessary when this material is used, for it is so thin and pliable that it is impossible to make a skirt take on a fashionable flare about the lower part unless some supporting fabric is placed underneath it. Two flounces headed by lace insertions and edged by lace make a pleasing skirt trimming for the pale blue silk lawn frock.

Hip Yokes the Feature of Fall Skirts.

Hip yokes are the striking feature of the autumn skirts. To women blessed (?) with stout figures this will be pleasing news, for there is nothing so becoming to such a figure as the hip yoke. It gives a form of chicness to such a woman that she can get by no other arrangement, yet the style is so striking that it must be fashionable if it is to be worn at all. It is not one of those little details that Dame Fashion leaves to individual tastes. Hip yokes are either fashionable or they are not. There is no half way point of the wear or not wear as you please kind.

We had hip yokes in our modes of last spring. Then they were tiny affairs comparatively, which dropped but a few inches from the waist line, and scarcely ever exceeded six inches in depth. The modes of the fall call for something different. Many of the hip, or skirt yokes, as they are now being called, reach half way to the knee, and below the skirt spreads out in a charming fullness of gathers and tucks.

But while hip yokes are becoming to the stout person they also give a far better figure when shirred or elaborately tucked to the very thin woman. So it is that two distinct types of femininity may be pleased with this fall fashion.

The fall materials will be of the thin, clinging kind, and these are essentially adapted to the making of skirt yokes. In fact, many of them on the model gowns are of lace, liberally covered with applique, or ornamented with rows of insertion. Variety in effect may be secured by having the yoke cut deeper in front than at the back. One of the fall models in particular that attracted my attention was a figured foulard with strips of plain taffeta set in the yoke. The same effect was used to excellent advantage in the bodice.

POOR WEEK FOR FARMERS.

As a Whole, Weather East of Rocky Mountains Is Too Cool for Growing Crops.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Following is the agricultural department's weekly summary of crop conditions:

As a whole, the weather conditions east of the Rocky mountains have not been favorable, being too cool in the northern districts eastward of the Missouri valley, with too much moisture in portions of the central valleys, while excessively hot in the southern states, with drought of greater or less severity generally throughout the cotton belt. Although fairly favorable for maturing crops in the Ohio valley and over the southern portion of the middle Atlantic states, as well as on the Pacific coast.

Corn is greatly in need of warm, dry weather throughout the northern portion of the corn belt, where the abnormally cool weather of the past two weeks has greatly retarded its maturity. Over the southern portion of the corn belt an excellent crop of early corn is now practically assured. In portions of Iowa and central Illinois corn has badly lodged as a result of local storms.

Spring wheat harvest is unfinished in the northern portion of the Red River valley, where it has been interrupted by frequent showers, which have also seriously interfered with stacking and threshing. Sprouting and rotting in stack and shock are reported from Iowa and in southern Minnesota threshed wheat is damp and discolored. Harvest is about three-fourths finished in Oregon and will be completed in Washington during the present week, with yields about the average, though less than expected in Washington.

The outlook for apples in New York is more favorable, and slightly improved prospects are reported from Ohio and northern Illinois. A good crop is indicated in Kansas, Michigan and New England and a fair crop of some varieties in Iowa and portions of Missouri. In many important apple states, however, a light crop is promised.

It has been too dry for favorable progress with plowing for fall seeding in portions of the middle Atlantic states, lake region and Oklahoma; elsewhere the reports indicate that this work has made favorable advancement.

A NOVEL TRIP.

Youthful Chicagoans Reach New York by Way of Lakes and Rivers in a Canoe.

New York, Aug. 28.—James Wallace and E. R. Parsons, aged 21 years, clerks in the office of the Royal Insurance company in Chicago, arrived in New York Wednesday morning after a canoe trip from Chicago by way of the lakes, the Erie canal and the Hudson river. They left Chicago on July 22 in a 13-foot open canoe, carrying a small supply of provisions and a tent. They paddled down the east shore of Lake Michigan, the west shore of Lake Huron, and the southern shore of Lake Erie to Buffalo. Both Wallace and Parsons are members of the naval militia of Chicago. They will go back to Chicago by rail.

Those drowned were: Mr. Bennett, Dallas, Tex.; Fannie Brady, Battle Creek, Mich.; Mabel Ricard, Traverse City, Mich.; Ella Dorsey, Allegheny, Pa.; Fanny Willis, North Toronto, Ont. Carrie Fyock, of Johnstown, Pa., clung to the boat, and was the only one saved.

DISASTER AT SEA.

Collision Between Steamers in Straits of Malacca—Twenty-One Lives Lost.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 29.—A Singapore telegram says: A collision occurred in the straits of Malacca between the Dutch mail steamer Prinz Alexander and the British steamer Ban Hin Guin. The Prinz Alexander sank and the first officer and the first engineer and 19 passengers and crew were drowned. Twenty passengers, including the captain, were saved by the Ban Hin Guin.

Naval Changes.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The navy department announces that Capt. Colby M. Chester will succeed Capt. Charles H. Davis as superintendent of the naval observatory. Capt. Davis will be placed in command of the battleship Alabama, as the successor of Capt. Willard H. Bronson, who, in turn, will succeed Commander Richard Wainwright as superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis. Commander Wainwright will be assigned to the command of the protected cruiser Newark, when she goes into commission October 15.

Can Be Spared.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Gen. Chaffee has cabled to the war department that he, and his successor, Gen. Davis, are of the opinion that another regiment of cavalry can now be spared from duty in the Philippine islands. The necessary orders have been forwarded to him to send home one regiment, and the headquarters and six troops of the Ninth cavalry will be relieved from duty and will sail on the Logan for San Francisco September 16; the remainder of the regiment will sail October 1.

John G. Feldkamp, of Freedom, did something this year that is new in his experience. He had a field of timothy on which two weeks ago he cut a second crop, securing splendid hay. What was peculiar about this was, that the timothy had blossomed out and stood up just as well as the first crop that had been cut.

A stranger who gave his name as George Miller, alias Meinicke, stole a watch from J. L. Chapman's jewelry store in Ann Arbor Thursday and sold it to a Detroit street saloonkeeper for $3. Less than an hour afterward he tried to steal another watch from George Haller, the jeweler, but Mr. Haller caught him at it. Miller said it had slipped up his sleeve in some way. Mr. Chapman was notified and caught the fellow who went back to his store protesting his innocence. He was put in jail, however, and next morning was identified by the man to whom he had sold the watch. He is now awaiting trial for his misdeed.

The Sulky Corner.
The sulky corner is a feature of some of the up to date women's clubs. It has been claimed with justice that women could not be quiet in their clubs, that if a woman tried to sit still and take no notice of her sister members she was an object of commiseration or of suspicion and was either "rescued" or forced out of her isolation. The sulky corner—often a whole room—is for the benefit of those women who wish to be let alone. Any one retreating to such a corner must not be spoken to, and no one must occupy the corner and from it invite conversation. Here the woman who likes to be still and either watch others or dream them into unreality may find peace. An increasing demand for chairs in the sulky corner is reported. The club of any pretensions keeps a maid always in attendance, and the maid is supposed to be ready to fasten on a button, mend a glove or catch a slipped skirt binding. Many women whose business or pleasure takes them much from home belong to a club merely for the privilege of "running in for repairs," including sometimes a cup of tea. This shows that women are learning to make the club a matter of comfort and convenience and less a place for gossip, display and strenuous social effort.

A vulgar man is captious and jealous, eager and impetuous about trifles. He suspects himself to be slighted, and thinks everything that is said meant at him.
