THE LATE GEORGE W. TURNBULL.

One Who Was Always a Peacemaker Has Passed to His Reward.

In the death of George W. Turnbull, which occurred at his home on Congdon street Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, the Washtenaw county bar has lost one of its oldest members and Chelsea and vicinity one whose place it will take many years of work and experience for another person to fill. He had been in active practice in Chelsea since his admission to the bar in 1871 and during the 31 years that intervened he had enjoyed the confidence and esteem of all his clients and the public generally. As a lawyer Mr. Turnbull was totally different from the most of his profession. Of an unassuming retiring disposition, he was unselfish to a fault and never used his profession and trust as a means of selfish gain. It was never his desire to get a client embroiled in a long and expensive lawsuit. His advice was always to settle the matter up. He was a peacemaker in the strictest sense of the term and many were the lectures he had given, in no unmeasured terms, to litigants who were disposed to go into the courts rather than peacefully arbitrate the questions in dispute. Such a course as this did not result in making Mr. Turnbull a rich man in a monetary sense, but it left a heritage to his family that is more indestructible than much fine gold, that of having done good to his fellow men.

George W. Turnbull was born in Albert, Province of New Brunswick, Canada, April 5, 1830. He was the son of James Turnbull, a boot and shoe manufacturer. On the death of his father he continued the business in the Province of New Brunswick until 1859 when he came to Chelsea and carried on here his work of shoemaking. Although he did a large business, he decided to enter the legal profession and following his natural bent studied during working hours. He prepared himself for his profession with a broad course of reading that embraced the best legal authorities. On entering the profession his counsel and advice was eagerly sought, and his sound judgment and wide reading made him to be sought after as one of the best counselors in Southern Michigan. He had been president of the village two terms and had also held other offices of trust and responsibility.

Mr. Turnbull's first marriage was to Miss Matilda Mills, of Canada, and to them were born three children, William E., Phoebe and Fred. Mrs. Turnbull died in 1870 and some time after he married Miss Edith Baldwin, of Chelsea. One son, Bert S., was the result of this union. Mr. Turnbull saw service during the War of the Rebellion as first lieutenant of the 11th Michigan Infantry, and was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He was also a member of the K. O. T. M. and A. O. U. W. societies.

Mr. Turnbull joined the Congregational church March 1, 1868, and for years had charge of and drilled a large chorus choir. He was deeply interested in the music of the church and was always present at the public exercises of the Sunday school.

The funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock and at the Congregational church at 4:30 o'clock, and were conducted by Rev. C. S. Jones, who in the course of his address alluded strongly to the well known tendency of the deceased to peacemaking, his remarks being based on the text "Blessed are the peacemakers." The church was filled to the doors with the friends of the deceased who wished to pay their last tribute of esteem to his memory. Among them were about 20 members of the Washtenaw county bar and county officers. The pallbearers were H. M. Woods, Dr. R. S. Armstrong, H. S. Holmes, Thos. Wilkinson, James L. Gilbert and James Taylor. The remains were interred in Oak Grove cemetery.

A Boy's Wild Ride for Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes: "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis, coughs, colds and grip prove its matchless merit for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

Rye as Feed for Pigs.

T. B. Halladay, of Norvell, writes to the Clinton Local the following interesting experiment with rye. It will pay progressive farmers to study it carefully:

To ascertain the value of rye as a feed for pigs, ten bushels was purchased at a cost of 46 cents per bushel delivered at the mill and we then had it ground at a cost of 30 cents.

August 10th, eight Poland China pigs were taken from the wheat stubble, they weighing at that time 762 pounds. Thinking the rye meal too heavy feed we mixed 55 pounds of bran with it for the first week's feed. Skim milk from the creamery, with sufficient water to give them drink, was poured into the trough and the ground feed added before letting the pigs to the trough.

After the first week we fed rye meal without the bran, for the pigs seemed always hungry, and we thought entire rye meal would be more satisfying, but they never lost their squeal when the time came for feeding. The pigs had the run of a yard of  $\frac{1}{4}$  acre adjoining the pen and were fed four times a day.

On the 26th the pigs had eaten the ten bushels of rye meal and weighed 986 pounds, a gain of 224 pounds, which at 6 cents per pound would amount to $13.44. They had eaten 500 pounds of milk which at 20 cents per 100 would be $1.00; 55 pounds of bran at 90 cents per 100, 50 cents, leaving $11.94 to pay for the ten bushels of rye.

The pigs were weighed in the morning before feeding.

Republican Conventions.

The call has been issued by the Republican county committee for a county convention to be held at the court house, Ann Arbor, Friday, Sept. 19, 1902, at 11 o'clock a. m., to nominate county officers.

The primary elections and caucuses in the several townships and wards will be held Thursday, Sept. 18. The polls will be held open from 2 until 8 o'clock p. m. local time.

The representative convention for the first district will be held in the court house, Ann Arbor, Friday, Sept. 19, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative in the legislature.

The second district representative convention will be held at Cleary hall, Ypsilanti, Monday, Sept. 29, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the legislature.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, God in his wisdom has removed from earth George W. Turnbull, be it

Resolved, that the members of Columbia Hive, No. 234, L. O. T. M. M., deplore the loss, but bow in submission to Him who death all things well; and be it further

Resolved, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved widow and family, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the record of the Hive and published in the local papers.

Mrs. T. E. WOOD,
Miss KATHERINE HAAREZ,
Mrs. FRED WEDEMEYER,
Committee.

O. E. S. Officers.

BLUNDERING COURTESY.

The Obliging Young Man Had Hair on His Head and Could Spare His Hat.

Excessive kindness of heart, when allied to a blundering courtesy, is occasionally productive of an amusing incident. Of such is the following: A president in recent times of one of our royal colleges was noted for the possession of a trim little yacht, which he was fond of sailing in one of the reaches of the River Thames, says the Canal Friend. One day the president had the misfortune to capsize his craft, with the consequent result of complete immersion. He was immediately assisted ashore and a change of clothing provided at an adjacent boathouse. This, however, did not include a hat of any description. The president, who is an old man and correspondingly bald, stood shivering, his scant hair uncomfortably stirred by the breeze. His plight was observed with respectful compassion by one of the students of the college who had witnessed the catastrophe, and offered his own headgear. The president, however, seemed reluctant to accept it, saying: "If I take yours, what will you do?" "Oh, sir," said the student, "it doesn't matter for me. I've got hair on my head." This statement was accepted as final by the president, together with the cap, and he laughed heartily at what, after all, was not wholly a one-sided joke, for the consternation of the student may be better imagined than described.

CURE FOR ASTHMA.

Free Sample Packages Will Be Given to All Sufferers.

Sufferers from Asthma, Hay Fever or Bronchitis will be interested to learn that Dr. R. Schiffmann's "Asthma Cure" instantly relieves the most violent attack, insures comfortable sleep and has effected cures in thousands of cases that had previously tried every other remedy in vain. No waiting for results. Its action is immediate, direct and certain. So firm is his confidence that the doctor requests this paper to announce that he has sent to druggists of this town, as well as to all other druggists in this country, sample packages of his remedy which will be given free to sufferers of above complaints, who apply promptly, thus offering an opportunity to such as have not yet tried the remedy to make a personal test which will convince the most skeptical.

Persons failing for any reason to receive a sample package from their druggist will receive one free by mail by sending name and address (enclosing 2 cent stamp for postage) to Dr. R. Schiffmann, Box 814, St. Paul, Minn.

Much of the Same Kind.

From a Connecticut woman's diary, dated 1790: "We had roast pork for dinner, and Dr. S., who carved, held up a rib on his fork and said: 'Here, ladies, is what Mother Eve was made of.' 'Yes,' said Sister Patty, 'and it's much the same kind of critter.'"—Living Church.

THEY CALL HIM A FAILURE.

They call him a failure; he passes by in clothes that were threadbare long ago; his head droops forward that once was high; his step is unsteady and slouching and slow.

The stubbles look gray on his wrinkled face; his eyes are heavy where pride once shone; he has stepped aside and has quit the race; the hope that once led him to hurry has flown.

They call him a failure; but one still clings to the love that he gave her long ago; she sits and she sews and she sometimes sings the words of brave songs that he used to know.

Her face is fair and her eyes are bright and still her kiss on his lips is pressed. When he shiftlessly shambles home at night with a shriveled heart in his sunken breast.

They call him a failure; they do not know that he still is majestic in her glad sight; though she toils for him and is foolish, oh, he still is her girlhood's glorious knight. — E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Dined Out with His Valet

Unusual Experience of a Titled Briton in New York

NOT every Englishman of title who makes a journey to this country has the privilege of dining with his valet at a New York house. But that experience recently befel one titled Briton who came here for the first time.

He and his wife crossed on one of the great liners and for good reasons kept more or less to themselves. One cause for this was the fact that neither one of them was able to enjoy life at sea very much. It is not difficult to see that another reason might have been found in the usual desire to keep away from the majority of their fellow-passengers which seems to grow stronger as Englishmen of title leave their country behind them.

The traveler, who was destined to dine with his valet after he had landed on this free soil, saw very little of his fellow-passengers, therefore. With her ladyship he kept his deck stateroom and mingled little with the rest of the ship's guests. With one family he was acquainted before they had met on the landing stage at Liverpool. They were New Yorkers with an enthusiastic adoration for everything English which made this man little less than a terrestrial god in their opinion.

But if they loved a lord they were sufficiently acquainted with all the provisions of the book of snobbery not to show their preference too openly. So they knew enough to be only polite to his lordship and hold in check the exuberant hospitalities that occurred to them whenever they caught a glimpse of him or his wife.

Smooth-faced and gray, severely dressed in subdued weeds and quiet and as reserved in manner as if he had been a lord himself was his lordship's man. He was a gentleman's gentleman with a completeness that filled the phrase.

His mere appearance was so impressive that nobody would have taken him for anything under the rank of a bishop—a somewhat youthful, worldly bishop, but certainly aristocratic. He seemed something like that to the American friends of his master. They made his acquaintance before the steamer had been out three days.

After 20 hours he was the devoted cavalier of the mother of the family, tucking her into her steamer chair with a care which she never realized was born of long experience, walking her not too actively up and down the deck at night and looking after her comfort in many little ways that make life on a steamer comfortable for a middle-aged woman who has yielded to avoidpools without a struggle. Her son had met the man on deck, recognized that he was English and presented him immediately to his family.

His attentions were generally most assiduous at night. But they were agreeable at all times. His manners seemed perfect to the group to which he had attached himself. He had learned in fact from some very famous masters just what manners should be.

The journey ended and the friends parted. The treatment of his lordship by the family from New York had been so much in accord with English instincts that he and his wife parted from them on the day the steamer landed with great cordiality. That led to an invitation to dine with the New York family. Both of the foreigners realized that their own cordiality had prompted the invitation, so they accepted it.

It happened that the Americans possessed a family name which began with a letter well near to the top of the alphabet. His lordship's initial was far toward the other end. So the Americans did not see the gray-haired Englishman bustling among his lordship's bags, opening them for the custom house inspectors and keeping in charge my lady's maid. The English travelers came through the ordeal quickly, so far as their presence was required, and departed. The valet remained behind to superintend further inspection of the baggage.

It was in this position that his friends on the steamer found him after they had finished with the revenue officers and were walking toward their carriage. It was a most auspicious pose for him to be found in. Scattered about him was the baggage of an Englishman of wealth, and that is always impressive. He took off his hat to the party. The matron stopped and the son and daughter flanked her on either side.

"I won't say good-by," she began, "for I want you to come to dinner with us on Tuesday. We are going to have some other English friends. So you must come."

The address and the card were handed over, and the valet, ignorant of the ill-fortune in store for him, was thrilled with a warm glow of satisfaction at his flattering introduction to America.

The night came. His master and mistress dressed and went out to dinner without indicating their destination. The other guest for the dinner was nearly ready when his master departed. It needed only a few minutes' preparation for him to put the finishing touches to his attire and start from the hotel. He rode in a hansom along the same road through which his employers had taken their way, feeling

"DON'T YOU KNOW ONE ANOTHER?" very much elated at the unusual position in which he found himself.

In the meantime the two other guests of the evening had arrived. In all, there were to be 16 guests. One was still missing after the two in whose honor the dinner was given had arrived. But they had not long to wait. In a few minutes the butler announced him and the valet entered.

The astonishment of the Englishman may be imagined. It would have been difficult to tell which of the two from wholly different causes was the more uncomfortable. The employer, when his valet suddenly turned and faced him, stared as if he could not believe his eyes. The valet looked as if he had been caught with his hand in somebody's pocket.

But there was no time for a consideration of ways and means. Something had to be done on the instant, for the hostess had just turned to present the latest arrival.

"Don't you know one another?" she asked. "Why, we all crossed on the same steamer."

Then she said a few words of introduction and carried the valet on to another group to be presented.

"The emotions that passed through my mind," the master said later, in telling of his remarkable introduction to this country, "went through a remarkable range. I knew my valet to be an honest man. He was even introduced under his own name. What he had done was tremendous presumption. But I don't believe that he acted with the deliberate intention of deceiving. He had certainly not intended as the valets of fiction have done, to be taken for his master."

"I knew that to leave the house then or to order him to leave would make the situation intolerable for everybody. To let the facts be known then and there would embarrass the hostess hopelessly as well as the rest of the guests. The man was obviously in a funk, and if I had told him to go or showed him by my expression that such was my wish, he would have rushed away in a second. So I decided to acknowledge the introduction by a bow and my wife did the same. The man was led away immediately to be presented to the other guests."

"In the minute that my wife and I were together we decided to remain perfectly quiet on the subject. Luckily, the man was placed at a distance on the other side of the table. When the women left the room he excused himself on the ground of another engagement and hurried away."

"When we got home that night to the hotel I found evidence of his services. I was not in the habit of seeing him under any circumstances until morning, and I awaited him with especial interest the next day. It seemed to me that I should have to let him go. I was just starting on a long tour, and had no idea where I should get another man so good, if indeed I found one of any kind. This thought always disturbed me, but it seemed there was nothing left for me to do but to tell him to go back to England, where he was at least free from the temptation of trying to go where he had no business."

"But I never had the opportunity of testing my fortitude in discharging him, for he never came back. A very respectable note was brought by one of the boys in the hotel. It told me that in view of what had occurred the night before he had decided to take passage on a steamer sailing that day for England. He said he had been up all night putting my affairs in readiness for his successor, who would find everything in good order. That was the last I ever heard from him, and I never saw him again—even at dinner."—N. Y. Sun.

CRAB RACING AS A SPORT.

New and Popular Diversion of the Fashionable Frequenters of Eastern Seaside Resorts.

Crab-racing is not like Mark Twain's jumping frog game and it is not exactly like racing beetles off hot plates, but it suggests both those time-honored games. The crab race, however, is a new thing in sporting annals, and is said to be an English importation brought over from the English watering places by a young college student, reports an eastern exchange.

In this form of sport each of the contestants gets a crab to begin with and holds it "on the mark." The start is made at a place not far from the water, and when released the crabs seek its natural element. The person whose crab first passes under the wire which is stretched parallel with and close to the water wins the game and bet.

Some member of the party with a long net stands near the shore, so that as soon as a particularly fast crab gets into the water it can be scooped in and brought back for a start in a race for the fastest. The crabs go in all sorts of zigzags to the finish line.

A college youth who was at Glen Island recently with his mother and sweetheart suggested the sport. A Boston woman was rather suspicious of the game, fearing that it would not be held to be strictly good form according to Back Bay and Commonwealth avenue standards, but she was soon convinced of its propriety by a Brooklyn curate, who said there could be nothing fast about a crab.

A committee of three was appointed to obtain the crabs. After an hour's work some three dozen crabs were obtained and the track was made ready for the race.

Each maid, matron and man selected a crab, and this in itself was merry sport. Trial races were run off first, and the crabs that proved to be selling platers were allowed to escape into the water.

Finally, after the animals had been well tried out, each contestant obtained a satisfactory crab and a book was started on the result of the races. Everything but money was wagered—gloves, candy, cigars, ribbons, dinners, soda water, ice cream or anything else that suggested itself to the ingenious sporting fraternity.

Much amusement was caused when the crabs began to elbow each other in the race. As in other races, this was apt to lead to a fight, and the crabs clinched and allowed themselves to be distanced. Water seemed to be the one thing that would cause the struggling crabs to break away, and it was voted that any crabs that stopped to fight should be flooded with a bucket of water.

The course was a 12-foot straightaway dash—that is, it was for the crabs who seemed to understand the game. Others that took a circuitous route to the shore were ruled off the track after one or two trials and more intelligent runners substituted.

Restraining Circumstances. Ethel used to play a good deal in her Sabbath school class. One day she had been very quiet. She sat up primly and behaved so well that after the recitation was over the teacher remarked:

"Ethel, my dear, you were a very good little girl to-day."

"Yes'm, I couldn't help being good. I've got a stiff neck."—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Natural Inference.

"I infer that your father doesn't know of your engagement to Reginald yet," said the dear, sweet thing. "He doesn't," admitted the girl in blue; "but why did you infer it?" "Because," answered the sweet thing with her sweetest smile, "if Reginald had told him I think Reginald would now be walking with a limp at the very least."—Chicago Post.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Killed by a Mob. Joseph La Barge was killed at Monroe by a mob that chased him through the streets and finally rounded him up in a corn field, where he was given the wounds that caused his death. La Barge was running away from a policeman and some one raised the cry of "assault," and in a moment a crowd of men were in frenzied pursuit of the supposed criminal. La Barge, who was 24 years old, was a printer, living at Toledo, O., and was visiting Mrs. Walter Lemerand, whom he had known for five years, and Lemerand came home and assaulted La Barge, who fled, with the result as stated.

Was Widely Known. Richard A. Montgomery, aged 56, for 25 years one of the leading lawyers of Michigan, died at Lansing of nervous exhaustion induced by a chronic ailment of the stomach. He was widely known as a railroad attorney, and he had tried many famous cases, among which was the celebrated Crouch murder trial of Jackson. He was a brother of Judge Martin V. Montgomery, who was once judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, and a cousin of Robert M. Montgomery, a member of the Michigan supreme court.

Five Persons Drowned. Five employees of the Battle Creek sanitarium, nurses, probationers and stenographers, were drowned at Lake Gogouac as a result of a collision between the steamer Welcome and a rowboat containing a party of young people. Those drowned were Mr. Bennett, Dallas, Tex.; Fannie Brady, Battle Creek, Mich.; Mabel Ricard, Traverse City, Mich.; Ella Dorsey, Allegheny, Pa.; Fannie Willis, North Toronto, Can.

Crop Outlook. The weekly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan: Bright, dry weather and cool nights have retarded growth of corn, beans and late potatoes; corn slightly improved, but making slow growth; late potatoes slightly blighted; beans nearly ripe; sugar beets and buckwheat doing well; peaches, pears and early apples plentiful; late apples continue fairly promising.

Insurance Report. That part of Insurance Commissioner Barry's annual report covering the business of life, casualty and fraternal insurance shows that the volume of business transacted by the life companies far exceeded last year all previous records and the companies are in excellent condition. The receipts were $323,027, an increase of $53,000 over the previous year, and the disbursements were $12,211.

Health in Michigan. Reports to the state board of health from 83 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week influenza and remittent fever increased and smallpox and pneumonia decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 222 places, measles at 23, typhoid fever at 92, whooping cough at 23, scarlet fever at 53 and smallpox at 25 places.

Arrested for Murder. Lynott Bloodgood, a money lender at Monroe, was arrested as soon as the coroner's jury had rendered a verdict that his was the shot that killed Joseph LaBarge when the latter was chased into a cornfield by a crowd laboring under the misapprehension that he had assaulted Mrs. Walter Lemerand. He furnished $5,000 bail.

Held for Frauds. Charles Sjouquist, of Homestead, Wis., was arrested at that place by Deputy Sheriff Carley, charged with conspiracy to rob Raber & Watson, cedar dealers, of Menominee, of $7,111.05. In default of bail, which was placed at $3,000, he was remanded to jail till the October term of the circuit court.

Millionaire Killed. George W. Bissell, a prominent capitalist, well known in local marine circles, was so badly injured in a runaway accident in Detroit that he died at Harper hospital. His pair of spirited horses were frightened by an automobile and ran away, throwing Mr. Bissell, who was 81 years of age, out on his head.

News Briefly Stated. A valuable deposit of asbestos has been proved up near the Ropes gold mine, several miles from Ishpeming, and a local company is organizing to develop the find.

David P. James, of Holtan township, killed his son and wounded a neighbor in a family quarrel.

The revival in the iron mining industry has caused a great shortage of labor in the vicinity of Crystal Falls and the demand is over 1,000 men ahead of the supply.

Grover Little, aged 14 years, son of a prosperous farmer near St. Joseph, was accidentally shot and killed by Julius Benky.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Eighteenth Week of the Trouble Opens with the Outlook by No Means Bright.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—The anthracite mine workers' strike enters upon its eighteenth week to-day with the lines between the operator and the mine owner drawn almost as tightly as when the suspension was inaugurated on May 12. There were many predictions that the contest would be over by the first week in September, but if the officials of the Mine Workers' union are to be believed the struggle will continue for months unless the coal companies grant concessions. Some of the operators looked for a serious break in the ranks of the men weeks ago, and admit they are surprised at the way the strikers are holding out. Rumors are current and, in fact, statements have been made by prominent men both in and out of the coal trade, that the strike will be ended this month. President Mitchell, of the union, maintains he knows nothing of a possible early ending of the trouble, and says he knows nothing of any negotiations on foot looking to that end.

The only move now in contemplation is the suggestion that Gov. Stone call an extra session of the legislature for the purpose of passing a law that would have the effect of amicably and speedily ending the deadlock. Gov. Stone has given the matter considerable thought, and has announced that if a bill can be framed that will have the desired effect he will immediately convene the legislature.

Last week more coal left the mining region than in any previous week since the strike began. Statements have been made by mining officials that the shipment for the last six working days aggregated 100,000 tons. The normal weekly output is a little more than 1,000,000 tons.

The number of men at work throughout the entire anthracite territory is difficult to obtain. It is safe to say, however, the number, compared with the total number of workers (estimated at 145,000), is small, and that among those at work the certificate miners are few. Coal is being cut in some of the mines, but as far as can be learned much of it is being done by "bosses," who are experienced miners. The coal companies say they have long lists of names of men who are ready to return to work, but are unwilling to take the chance because they fear violence. With the coming of cooler weather the companies look for a break, believing that the relief now coming to the mine workers will not hold out long, and that they will be compelled to return to prepare for the winter, which is usually a rigorous one in the mountain regions.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 8.—It was authoritatively denied Saturday that President Roosevelt has made any statement regarding the settlement of the coal strike as published Saturday morning. The president, it is stated, on the same authority gave out no interview of any kind in Philadelphia.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 8.—The coal miners' strike in the Kanawha and New River fields, involving 15,000 miners, which has been in existence since June 7, is practically at an end. Each local union is instructed to go back to work on the best possible terms without regard to the action of any other local. Several of the largest operators in the New River field have made terms with their men and will resume on Monday. No concessions have been granted, and, from the miners' standpoint, the strike is a complete failure, the men returning to work at the same rate as before the strike. There is great activity here among the operators in getting ready to start up. Evictions will stop now and old men will be given employment were possible. Most of the strikers are happy that it will soon be over, as many went out under protest at the beginning.

VICTIM OF CANCER.

Ex-United States Senator William N. Roach, of North Dakota, Dies in New York.

New York, Sept. 8.—William Nathaniel Roach, who was United States senator from North Dakota from 1893 to 1899, died here Sunday. He had been ill from cancer almost from his coming to this city, where he made his home after retiring from the senate. Under special treatment here he progressed favorably, and about a month ago it was announced that he was out of danger. He suffered a relapse, however, and died after having been confined to his bed for ten months.

A Desperate Battle.

Durant, I. T., Sept. 8.—A bloody battle was fought about ten miles east of here Saturday night between Rev. W. F. Whaley and his two sons, Alf and Ernest on one side, and J. H. and J. A. Richardson and their brother-in-law, Mr. Waltenberger, on the other, in which the elder Whaley was killed, and Alf, his son, had both arms shot to pieces, and J. A. Richardson received a severe flesh wound in the thigh. There has been trouble between the Whaleys and Richardsons for the past few months.

A Good Hearted Man,

or in other words, men with good sound hearts, are not very numerous. The increasing number of sudden deaths from heart disease daily chronicled by the press, is proof of the alarming prevalence of this dangerous complaint, and as no one can foretell just when a fatal collapse will occur, the danger of neglecting treatment is certainly a very risky matter. If you are short of breath, have pain in left side, smothering spells, palpitation, unable to lie on side, especially the left, you should begin taking for $1.00 per year strictly in advance. Entered at the Post Office at Chelsea, Mich., as second class matter.

THE CHELSEA HERALD

T. W. MINGAY, Editor and Proprietor.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1902.

By the unanimous vote of the Democratic state committee, it was decided at the meeting held in Grand Rapids Tuesday to retain Judge Durand as the head of the state ticket. The satisfactory progress toward recovery from his illness made by Judge Durand within the last few days is highly gratifying to his friends. The resolutions passed at the meeting to retain him as the candidate for governor were as follows:

"Whereas, the condition of Judge Durand gives encouragement for his speedy recovery, which is earnestly desired by all good citizens of Michigan, therefore,

"Resolved, that it is the desire of the Democratic state central committee and of all Democrats that he should remain the candidate for governor."

Wm. C. McMillan has declined to be a candidate for U. S. senator from this state to succeed his father the late Senator James McMillan. He says he is strongly impressed that the best interests of the party will be advanced if he is not a candidate. Mr. McMillan shows good sense and good judgment in his decision, and if the announcement does cause consternation in the McMillan ranks, it is a good thing to know it. Michigan and every other state can get along very well without machine or heredity politics, and the people are slowly waking up to the fact that they, not the political bosses, are the whole thing, if they have a mind to be.

Another candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket has popped up in the person of George Sweet, of Ann Arbor. There certainly is the biggest crop of candidates for that office this year of both political faiths that was ever known in the history of the county. But, then, "It is sweet to die in the service of one's county."

Hon. H. C. Smith has announced himself a candidate for U. S. senator from Michigan. If he were elected and carried his independent ideas into the upper house he would create somewhat of a consternation among that august body. But, then, they need a good shaking up anyway.

Fred A. Graves, of Ypsilanti town, a life long Republican, is out as a candidate for the legislature from the second district. Mr. Graves is one of the substantial farmers of Ypsilanti and is an honorable straightforward man.

A meeting of the creditors of the Ann Arbor Printing Co. has been called for Sept. 17 in Detroit. It is not all trusts that have such a hard row to hoe as that defunct Ann Arbor newspaper trust.

F. P. Glazier, of Chelsea, announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state senator from the tenth district at the coming senatorial convention.

Lyndon.

Miss Alta Skidmore will teach the Canfield school the coming year.

Miss Lizzie Hammack is teaching the school in the Howe district this year.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Tuomey, of Solo, visited the families of Edward Gorman and John Clark Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Turner, son and daughter, of Stockbridge, visited John Clark and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Mingay, of Chelsea, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Florence M. Collins, who taught school at the Center last year, will teach near Eaton Rapids this year.

School in Fractional District No. 12, the McEntee district, opened Monday with Miss Margaret Conway as teacher.

Eureka Grange, No. 2, will meet at the town hall tomorrow (Friday) evening. County Organizer George T. English, of Sylvan, is expected to be present.

The barn on H. A. Keltz's farm one mile south of Waterloo, together with its contents, which included a lot of hay, was burned to the ground Sunday night about 9 o'clock.

Those who own peach orchards in this neighborhood are very busy harvesting and marketing the crop. The crop is a good one in size and quality, but prices are low. Among those who have quite large crops are H. S. Barton, the Shannahans, John Clark and Jas. S. Gorman.

Thomas Murray, of Dexter township, well known to many in this township, which was his home when he was a young man, died Wednesday of last week after a lingering illness. The funeral, held at St. Joseph's church, Dexter, Friday morning, was attended by several people from Lyndon.

The school in District No. 11 opened Monday with Miss Kate Collins as teacher. She is a graduate of the Chelsea high school and if she makes as good a record as her sister Miss Florence M. Collins did during her two years as teacher the district officers and patrons will be pleased with her services.

John Clark shipped 15 bushels of apples to Detroit Saturday that were mammoths in their line. They were of the Wolf River variety and are fine in flavor and quality. Four of them weighed 3½ pounds; the largest of the four measured 15 inches in circumference one way and 13 inches the other and weighed an even pound.

W. J. Howlett has a small number of young peach trees on some ground close to the road which came into bearing this year. He had contracted all of the yield and intended marketing them Monday. The best laid plans, however, sometimes go astray, and it was so in this case. Saturday night some prowlers picked about three bushels of peaches from the trees and Will had to go and buy of his neighbors to supply the unlooked for deficiency in his crop.

The pupils of Miss Inez Leek, who has a large music class in Lyndon and Waterloo, gave a recital in the M. E. church at Waterloo, Saturday evening, assisted by Miss Marjorie Wasson, of Plainfield, and Will Kennedy, of Stockbridge. There were 25 of Miss Leek's pupils, many of them little folks, who took part in the program which consisted of selections on the piano, guitar, banjos and violins. It was a most creditable performance and Miss Leek is to be commended for the care she has taken in the training of her numerous pupils. The singing of Miss Wasson and Mr. Kennedy was much enjoyed and formed agreeable breaks in the long list of instrumental music. The church was nicely decorated for the occasion, the audience numbered fully 200, and the two young ladies who acted as ushers were most courteous in receiving and seating the people. The fine-toned piano used was loaned by the Ann Arbor Music Co.

Prohibition County Convention.

The Prohibition electors of the county of Washtenaw, state of Michigan, will meet in mass convention in the court house, Ann Arbor, at 2 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 13, 1902, for the purpose of placing in nomination a county ticket to be voted at the next regular election, and the transaction of any other business that may properly come before them.

By order of county committee,
HOBACE T. PURFIELD, Chairman.

President McKinley died in Buffalo one year ago com. Sunday, Sept. 14.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Meachem, of Lima, Saturday, a daughter.

The next regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors of America will be held Tuesday evening Sept. 16.

Michigan stands third in the list of onion growing states, New York and Ohio leading the list.

Miss Stella Conlan has secured a situation as trimmer in the millinery store of Mrs. Wheaton at Grass Lake.

The last of the union services for this season will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The editor of the Herald is indebted to J. S. Gorman and John Clark for baskets of fine peaches of the late Crawford and Prolific varieties.

Rev. W. P. Conside is expected home from his European tour this evening. He will be given a reception by the members of the L. C. B. A.

The funeral of the late John B. Koebbe, of Freedom, who died Friday aged 74 years, was held at Emanuel's church, Manchester, Sunday. Mr. Koebbe was the father of Mrs. Edward Weiss, of this place.

An addition is being built to the east side of the Methodist parsonage, which will give space for a large bedroom, clothes press and bathroom. A new porch is also being built all round three sides of the house.

It is said the D., Y., A. A. & J. Co. will establish a fast car service between Detroit and Jackson, running two cars each way per day. These cars will stop only at the more important stations on the road and will make the trip almost as fast as the steam cars.

The regular service of St. Paul's Evangelical church will be held next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, Sunday school following it. The pastor, Rev. A. Schoen, will attend the missions-fest of St. Andrew's church, Dexter, in the afternoon and evening.

The dates for the Plymouth fair are Sept. 16-19. Among the attractions will be a baseball tournament the last three days. Pontiac, Brighton, Cleary Business College, of Ypsilanti, and Plymouth will contest for cash prizes. Thirteen hundred dollars will be given for speed premiums.

Mrs. W. D. Arnold gave a surprise dinner party Monday in honor of the 50th anniversary of her husband's birth. About 20 guests were present, among them being three persons whose birthday also came on Monday. A silver gravy bowl, tray and spoon was presented to Mr. Arnold, the presentation speech being made by Rev. C. S. Jones.

The October Delineator offers many valuable suggestions to women who would like employment at home and notes several instances in which a competence has been acquired by women who have followed such unusual lines of work as marking linen, sewing on skirt braids, making plum pudding, Saratoga chips, paper dolls, favors for weddings, etc.

A young man dropped into the village Monday morning who did a great many tricks in bicycle riding. He rode forward or backward at will, made his machine act like a bucking broncho, picked pieces of money off the ground while riding, disjoined his bicycle and rode on one wheel, etc. He was quite clever at his tricks but did not reap a fortune by them.

The Lenawee county fair at Adrian is always one of the best fairs in Michigan. This year's dates are Sept. 22-26. In addition to their already large list of exhibition buildings, the association has now in process of erection a large live stock exhibition amphitheatre with seating capacity of 1,500 people, an educational building 50x50 feet, fully equipped for display of school work, a long line of stock sheds with cement floors and much other progressive work.

At the Michigan Methodist Episcopal conference which will meet in Traverse City next Wednesday, Sept. 17, one of the most important matters to come up will be the time limit for which a preacher may remain in one church. The limit was formerly three years, later it was made five years, and finally the time limit was abolished entirely. Many ministers and influential laymen are opposed to the present scheme and will work for the return of the five year limit.

Marcellus Maier, father of John F. Maier, the electrician at the electric light plant, met with a painful accident Saturday morning. He was assisting to move the arc dynamo at the lighting station, when the pry he was using slipped and he fell into the big drive wheel. The wheel was not moving at the time, but the clutch was revolving and struck Mr. Maier in the head and right ear, almost completely severing the ear and cutting a gash in his head. Dr. S. G. Bush attended to his injuries, sewed the ear back in place, and hopes to save it.

Herman L. Foster is teaching school in the Pierce district just south of town.

The electric line is doing a great business these days in carrying peaches to the Detroit market.

Whitaker & Wacker will as usual make a fine exhibit of Black Top sheep at the state fair Sept. 22-26.

A larger number of students are in attendance at Olivet College this year than there were last year at this time.

Mrs. Carrie Seper Cushman will organize her music class for the coming season at the home of Mrs. C. W. Maroney Saturday.

The St. Mary's Literary Club will meet with Mrs. J. E. McKune next Monday evening to arrange work for the coming season.

Thos. Wall, of Ann Arbor, has pulled out of the race for county clerk on the Republican ticket, and James E. Harkins, city clerk, of Ann Arbor, has announced his candidacy.

Rev. Faye A. Moon and Miss Jessie Ross, of Joliet, Ill., were married at that place yesterday. Mr. Moon was a former resident of Chelsea, his father Rev. L. N. Moon having been pastor of the Methodist church.

The Manchester friends of William Burtless have started his boom for state senator on the Republican ticket. Mr. Burtless is a well known stock buyer and has been supervisor of Manchester for several terms.

Ann Arbor Argus: Miss Sophie Schatz, of Chelsea, who has been ill at Dr. Peterson's private hospital several weeks, was removed Saturday to the home of Mrs. William Andres, on Monroe street, where she will remain some time before going home.

BOOKED FOR ARREST.

Bench Warrants Issued in St. Louis Boodling Cases.

Fugitive Returned from Mexico—Makes a Confession Implicating Eighteen Members and Ex-Members of House of Delegates.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—A sensation was caused here to-day by the issuance of bench warrants for the arrest of 18 members and former members of the house of delegates on the confession of Delegate J. K. Murrell, who fled to Mexico last spring after being indicted for bribery by the December grand jury in connection with the alleged boodling operations of the municipal assembly, in relation to the granting of street railroad franchises, and who unexpectedly returned to the city through the efforts of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and surrendered. He is now in the custody of Circuit Attorney Folk and will, it is stated, be granted immunity from punishment for turning state's evidence.

The Accused.

Following are the names of alleged combine members for whom bench warrants were issued, charging bribery and perjury in connection with Suburban street railway and other legislation: Ed. E. Murrell, John H. Schnettler, Charles F. Kelly, T. E. Albright, George F. Robertson, Louis Decker, John Helms, Charles A. Gutke, Adolph Madera, H. A. Faulkner, Julius Lehmann, Edmund Bersch, Otto Schumacher, John A. Sheridan, Charles J. Denny, William Tamblin, J. J. Hannigan and Emile Hartman.

Warrants were served on Messrs. E. E. Murrell, Schnettler, Albright, Robertson, Helms, Gutke, Faulkner, Schumacher and Hannigan. Albright and Faulkner were released on bonds of $30,000 each.

Murrell's Statement.

J. K. Murrell made the following statement for publication Monday: "I have surrendered unconditionally to the circuit attorney and have made a full and free confession. I could no longer stand the agony I endured as a fugitive from justice and the wrong done me by the parties just as guilty as I, who made me their catspaw. I am not permitted to give the details of the evidence that I have put the circuit attorney in possession of. This will all come out on the trials, and I am willing to go on the stand and tell all I know. I held the key to the box in the Lincoln Trust company containing the $75,000 bribe money to go to the house of delegates upon the passage of the Suburban bill. This money was put up as the purchase price for the votes of the combine, that price having been agreed upon.

The Combine.

"The combine of the house of delegates was composed of 19 men. This combine held frequent meetings in the room adjoining the house of delegates' chamber. There most of the schemes to get money for votes were concocted.

"I am not permitted to make the operations of the combine on this particular matter public at this time. The purpose of the combine was to control legislation and sell legislation for the benefit of the members of the combine.

Paid $2,500 for Votes.

"Shortly before the Suburban bill the combine sold their votes on the lighting bills for $47,500. This money was handled by Kelly, and was paid to the members of the combine at a meeting arranged for that purpose at Julius Lehmann's house. Each member of the combine received $2,500."

Bryan on Campaigning Tour.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 9.—W. J. Bryan began Monday a speech-making tour which will continue with little interruption until the November election. In the evening he made the opening address to the members of the grand army at their state reunion near Hastings. To-day he will open the campaign for the democrats of Missouri at Joplin. He will make other political speeches during the month in nearby states. Practically all of October will be spent in Nebraska in the interest of the fusion state and congressional tickets.

Murdered by Miners.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 9.—Death and probably fatal injuries were allotted to two Italian striking miners Monday. They were attacked by pickets, who ignored their claims to affiliation and beat them down with rocks and clubs. Sistine Vancostello, after being shot in the leg, was dashed to the ground by murderous blows of clubs, and while prostrate his brains were beaten out. Frank Portay, his companion, was felled and then beaten unconscious. He is expected to die.

Blew His Head On.

Ottumwa, Ia., Sept. 9.—Believing he was threatened with insanity Nelson Rasmus, a farmer, 30 years old, residing two miles south of Mt. Union, repaired to a cornfield with a shotgun, placed the muzzle to his forehead, pulled the trigger with his toe and blew his head off.

PRAISES UNIONS.

President Roosevelt, at Chattanooga, Talks of Value of Organization.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt has been elected an honorary member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen. The brotherhood first held its executive session, which the president attended. Acting Grand Master Hannahan welcomed the president, stating that his attendance at the convention would do great good to organized labor, not only in this country, but in Canada and other countries as well.

The president returned his thanks for the welcome and said he was glad to be with the brotherhood. He said the Firemen's brotherhood was the result which naturally comes from the application of the principle of common sense to their work. He said that organized labor never had made an unreasonable request of him, and that if it had he would have denied it.

John F. McNamee, of Columbus, O., one of the grand officers and a democratic member of the legislature, moved that the degree of grand honorary membership be conferred upon President Roosevelt, and the motion was unanimously adopted.

The president thanked the convention for the compliment paid him and Grand Master Sargent then gave him a pass which admits him to all meetings of the brotherhood.

At this point the brotherhood adjourned until nine o'clock Tuesday morning and the public was admitted to the Auditorium to hear the president's address. While the audience was being seated the band rendered "America," the president and the others in the hall rising.

Mayor Chambliss delivered a short address of greeting in which he welcomed to Chattanooga all the firemen, whether they came from Canada, Mexico or Oyster Bay. After an address of welcome in behalf of the state by Gov. McMillan and an address by Grand Master Sargent, President Roosevelt was introduced by Acting Grand Master Hannahan.

"I believe emphatically," he said, "in organized labor. The worth of an organization," he continued, "depends upon its being handled with the courage, the skill, the wisdom, the spirit of fair dealing as between man and man, and the wise self-restraint which I am glad to be able to say your brotherhood has shown."

"I feel that organizations like yours, have a tonic effect upon the whole body politic. It is a good thing that there should be a large body of our fellow citizens who exercise the old qualities of courage, daring, and resolute, unflinching willingness to meet danger at need, and that there should be a profession whose members must year in and year out display these qualities. I hope to see all our people develop the softer, gentler virtues to an ever increasing degree, but I hope never to see them lose the sterner virtues that make men."

The president told of his trip over the battlefield of Chickamauga Monday, and drew a lesson of the heroism shown by the armies of the north and south. The men who composed these armies, he said, possessed the requirements of which good citizens are made. He referred to the inscription on the monument raised by Kentucky to the union and confederate soldiers from that state who fell on the battlefield. He read the inscription as follows: "As we are united in life and they united in death, let one monument perpetuate their deeds and one people, forgetful of all asperities, forever hold in grateful remembrance all the glories of that terrible conflict which made all men free and retained every star on the nation's flag."

"That is a good sentiment; that is a sentiment by which we can all stand."

"And oh, my friends, that sentiment has as its underlying spirit a spirit of brotherhood. I firmly believe in my countrymen, and therefore I believe that the chief things necessary in order that they should work together is that they should know one another; that the men north should know the southerner; that the men of one occupation should know the men of another occupation; so we may all realize that the things that divide us are superficial, are unimportant, and that we are and must ever be knit together into one indissoluble mass by common American manhood."

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt braved the elements late Monday afternoon and in defiance of a hard rainstorm was driven through streets lined with people to a stand on Main avenue, nearly a mile from the depot, where he spoke to 12,000 people who stood in quiet while a drenching rain poured down upon them.

Instantly Killed.

Washington, Sept. 9.—While driving across the Baltimore and Ohio railroad track near Takoma Park, several miles from this city, Monday afternoon, Maj. Daniel O'Driscoll, one of Washington's prominent lawyers, was struck by a train and instantly killed. He came to this city from Chicago, where he was prominent both in the law and in politics.

TAKES HIS OWN LIFE.

William Bartholin Commits Suicide Near Riceville, Ia.

Leaves a Confession Exonerating Men Under Arrest as Accomplices in Murder of Mother and Minnie Mitchell.

Riceville, Ia., Sept. 8.—The body which was buried here Saturday morning and which was believed to be that of William Bartholin, was exhumed Sunday afternoon and positively identified as that of the Chicago double murderer. The identification was made by William Mitchell, a brother of one of Bartholin's victims, and Detective Andrew Rohan, of Chicago, who arrived here Sunday morning from Chicago. Dr. A. J. Coey, of Chicago, who came here with Detective Rohan, cut out the lower jaw of the dead murderer, which contained the two gold-crowned teeth which have figured so largely in the description sent broadcast throughout the country for purposes of identification. The jaw will be taken to Chicago by the detective.

Discovery of the Body.

Bartholin's body was found last Friday afternoon about six miles from Riceville by J. G. Pratt, a resident of Riceville. Mr. Pratt was driving to Elma and when passing a flax field saw the body lying against a stack of flax. Thinking it was a man asleep he paid no attention, but on returning found the man still there.

A Confession.

Coroner T. S. Carpenter was notified and the body was removed to an undertaking establishment at Riceville. There J. B. McCook, editor of a Riceville paper, discovered that the dead man bore a striking resemblance to the published pictures of the Chicago murderer. On searching the clothing the following letter was found:

"To Whom It May Concern: I wish to state that I am the Bartholin the police are looking for. I also wish to certify that I had no assistance of any kind from anyone. Thompson, Claffy and Counselman are all as innocent as an unborn child, and should be freed at once.

"I cannot go into details in regard to the crime. They were not planned. It was all Minnie and I could do. My mind is wandering. Such a drop in life in so short a time, two months ago traveling in the best company, to-day leading the life of hoobes a murderer.

"I intended to go into details and tell all, but I can't get my mind centered. Even my handwriting is disgraceful, but above all things I ask clear everybody from under suspicion; there is no second party and I am the last.

"WILLIAM J. BARTHOLIN.

"Riceville, Ia., Aug. 31."

In the note signed Bartholin there is evidence of great mental stress. After the words "It was all Minnie and I could do" stretches an illegible scrawl, clearly showing that the writer had no intention to connect the girl with the crimes to which he referred in the preceding sentence. At the same time, it is apparent that Bartholin and Miss Mitchell shared in some trouble to which the suicide referred.

Several notes to Bartholin, signed "M. M." and identified by William Mitchell as the handwriting of his sister, were turned over to the brother, who seemed eager to prevent their publication.

His Doings at Riceville.

Inquiry here develops that Bartholin came to Riceville August 6, before the bodies of Mrs. Bartholin and Miss Mitchell were discovered. Thomas Phee, a contractor doing some work here for the Great Western road, advertised for laborers in Chicago on August 5, offering free transportation to the place of work. Among those who responded was Bartholin, who hired under the name of George Edwards. He worked at the construction work for but half a day and has since been working on a threshing machine and in the harvest fields until last Sunday morning, when he was last seen leaving Riceville in the direction of the place his body was found.

When the Day Went to Sleep.

Once upon a time, from behind the curtain of darkness, came smiling day, and, wrapped in the gray dawn, took its bath in the sparkling dew. Then its morning garment was changed to a cloth of gold, new made by the sun.

The day wore on. Through the hours it went wearing a smile of satisfaction, until the donning of the more somber evening dress, after which it was wrapped in the mantle of the night.

Moral—Even the day has its close.—N. Y. Herald.

"Some folks," said Uncle Eben, "takes credit for being patient, when dey is simply takin' life easy an' showin' sense enough not to interfere wif de folks dat does de work."—Washington Star.

DINING CAR SERVICE.

Mobile and Ohio Reduces Time to St. Louis.

The Mobile and Ohio Railroad is engaged in a commendable effort to annihilate space between this city and St. Louis, and, beginning Sunday, August 31st, it will materially shorten the time taken to traverse the distance between the two cities by the way of Meridian. And this date, too, will mark the inauguration of dining-car service a la carte, on this line. This innovation will be a welcome one to travelers, who heretofore have been subjected to the abomination of taking their meals on the catch-as-catch-can plan at meal stations along the route. Passengers, by means of this new service, will be enabled to eat when they feel disposed, eat what they want at their leisure, and pay only for what they order, with a choice of anything in the gastronomic line from a cup of coffee to a course dinner.

These new dining-cars, by the way, are to be veritable palaces, fitted with every possible convenience known to modern railroad traffic. The decorations are of a superb order and the cars are brilliantly illuminated with incandescents, while a plentiful supply of electric fans will keep the atmosphere at a comfortable temperature, no matter how high the mercury may soar outside the cars. The cuisine will leave nothing to be desired. One of the most striking as well as pleasant features of this service is the announcement that the dining-car service will be made merely a convenience for the traveling public, serving everything at as near cost as possible, with no desire to make the service a source of profit to the company.—"Times-Democrat," New Orleans, August 29.

Their General Orders.

A Washington boy, son of a well-known official of the District government, is home for a brief visit from his station at Columbus Barracks, Ohio, he being a second lieutenant in the United States army. A large number of recruits are being "licked into shape" at Columbus Barracks, and the young officer has a store of amusing anecdotes relating to the "rookies," says the Washington Star.

One of the recruits was walking past as a sentinel when he was approached by the officer of the day, and asked to repeat his instructions. The reply was:

"Walk this post, keeping always on the alert, and don't let any disreputable people in, except officers' wives and families."

Another sentinel, in reciting his instructions, said:

"I must not let any children go outside the post alone, unless accompanied by their mothers or nurses."

UNABLE TO RISE.

Morenci, Mich., Sept. 8th.—Mr. J. S. Whitehead of this place has given the following letter for publication:

"Unsolicited I wish to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills and to return thanks for the great benefit I have derived from a few boxes of this splendid remedy.

"I had kidney trouble very bad, in fact, I suffered so much that for days at a time I could not get out of the chair where I had been sitting without assistance.

"I cannot describe the pains I suffered, for they were something fearful.

"About seven or eight months ago I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and very soon found that they were helping me.

"I can truthfully say that they have done me more good than all the other medicines I have ever taken.

"I have been greatly benefited by them and it is my desire to let others know that if anyone is suffering as I suffered they may know where a cure may be found."

ESTEY VOICING IS PERFECTION

A good organ properly voiced, as the Estey organs always are, improves the voices of those who sing with it, whereas a cheap or poor organ will do the voice great injury. This fact should be considered when the purchase of an organ is contemplated for the use of children. Write ESTEY Organ Co., Brattleboro, Vt., for a catalogue.

NEW MODES IN NEGLIGEE GOWNS ARE ATTRACTIVE

All sorts of negligee gowns are growing in grace with the passing of each season. It has long since passed the wrapper stage of its existence, and is today one of the essentials of every elaborate wardrobe. It is no longer a shapeless gown, but one to which modelers can give their best attention in modeling to fit the graceful figure, or in making the ungraceful figure appear as graceful.

Even the wadded lounging robes have been gradually losing their shapelessness, and new models are now shown that are as warm and comfortable as the old robes, yet graceful in line and with a touch of daintiness about them. Here, for instance, is one in crinkled red silk lined with white and finished with double-plaited frills, one of white and one of red silk. Another such robe has a deep, becoming lace collar in the new shawl form.

The elderdown lounging gowns, too, are taking on new graces, and, in dainty colors, trimmed with wide white silk sotasche braid, and fastened by huge pearl buttons and soft white silk scarves, deserve recognition.

In more elaborate negligees come the accordion plaited robes, which are charming in nuns veiling, with insertions of lace and a deep taffetas collar applied with lace motifs. The accordion plaited model is particularly effective, too, for the short negligee or dressing sacque, and may be fashioned in soft silk or nuns veiling at very slight expense, although, in the shops, rather high prices are asked for such garments.

American women have never really given the negligee the time and the serious consideration it deserves. We do not belong to a lounging nation and must have time to learn picturesque lounging, but the development of the negligee costume indicates that our women at least are at last mastering the art.

CHARMING FALL COATS OF MANY PRETTY MODES

Fall coats are in order at the present time, and the styles for early autumn are more charming, though much in the same line as in the past season or two. Long coats, and the three-quarter lengths are, of course, the proper thing for all out-door pleasures, such as driving and automobilizing. For either of these purposes the one shown in the illustration, made of navy blue cloth, piped with red, is especially well fitted.

One of the popular fall coating materials is cravenette. It is a comparatively thin material, with just sufficient body to afford protection against the autumn winds, and then it is waterproof, and so a shelter against autumn rains. And yet to all intents, purposes and appearance is it merely a coating, one that in experienced hands is capable of being built, without reproach, into one or other of these convincing loose coats which La Mode has decreed we shall call stylish. Those on holiday thoughts intent are seriously advised to consider such a wrap, which serves the double end of a light warm wrap and also a waterproof.

One detail of the present about which I have no shadow of doubt is popularity of the short cape. This cape has come to us gently, stealthily but securely, presaged by the pelerine, and is already well established in the tailoring world, where it comes to take the place of the ousted collar and revers. For the moment it is more incidental than emphatic; the signs, however, are sure and unmistakable that we shall shortly lend an ear to its greater emphasis, and accord it a place in our affections fully equal to that attained by the taffeta bolero.

Speaking of which reminds me that the little putty-colored cloth coat, a possession that makes a perennial appearance every autumn, has taken unto itself a velvet collar facing, privileged to run through the entire gamut of red and rose tints, this creating a pleasing diversity to an old story. I was shown a sweet model that persuaded me dreadfully to its ownership, boasting three short superposed basques, the top one of which disappeared beneath a narrow band buttoning over at the back, and at the shoulders came three similarly shaped capes, over which fell a small collar and revers of rose-colored velvet.

GIRL ATTACKED BY PYTHON.

Twelve-Year-Old Child Essays Role of Snake Charmer and is Badly Injured.

A 12-year-old girl, who tried to enact the role of a snake charmer, was attacked by a python at an annual show in Revere, Mass., the other night. The woman who usually does the act was sick, and her place had been taken for several nights by the girl. She had no trouble in managing the huge reptiles until on the last day, when a newcomer was added to the collection, a snake 14 feet long.

When the snakes were brought on the new reptile rushed at the girl and fastened its fangs in her hand. The child fought the snake bravely and succeeded in releasing its hold, but before she could escape from the cage the reptile seized her by the leg.

There was a rush of attendants to the rear of the platform to assist the little actor. Before they could reach her she had fainted away. Manager Weller beat off the reptile with a club, and catching up the child made his escape from the cage, but not before the snake had fastened its teeth for an instant in his hand. Other attendants pinioned the snake to the floor with long iron forks and got it back into the box before any further damage was done.

He Was Wise.

DEMOCRATS NAME TICKETS.

Nominations Made and Platforms Adopted by Conventions in Wisconsin, Iowa and Ohio.

Sandusky, O., Sept. 4.—The democratic state convention nominated the following ticket: For secretary of state, Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati; supreme judge, Michael Donnelly, Napoleon; food and dairy commissioner, Philip H. Bruck, Columbus; member state board of public works, Joseph J. Pater, Hamilton.

The platform favors a new municipal code for Ohio cities, with home rule as the cardinal principle and the federal plan as secondary, and denounces what is called "municipal government by boards." It also denounces the proposition of perpetual franchises and favors such charters subject to popular vote. In national affairs the last national platform and standard bearer are strongly indorsed, and the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people is favored, declaring it the policy of the democratic party in Ohio to indorse at state conventions the candidate of the party to be voted for at the next legislative election of a senator.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 4.—The following ticket was named by the democratic state convention here Wednesday, the nominations being by acclamation in every case: Secretary of state, Richard Burke, of Mahaska; auditor of state, J. S. McLuin, of Guthrie county; attorney general, John Dennison, of Wright county; treasurer of state, R. U. Chapman, of Des Moines; judge of supreme court (long term), Thomas Stapleton, of Iowa county; for clerk of supreme court, Jesse Tripp, of Jasper county; for supreme court reporter, John F. Dalton, of Calhoun; for judge of supreme court (short term), W. H. Quick, of Woodbury; for railroad commissioner, Thomas Benson, of Fayette.

The platform as adopted declares anew faith in the fundamental principles of the democratic party and renews allegiance thereto, but this is as close as it comes to mentioning the Kansas City platform. It denounces the Fowler bill now pending in congress as an attempt to convert the banking interests of the country into a huge financial trust, opposes government by injunction, finds fault with the administration's policy in the Philippines, renews the demand for the election of United States senators by direct vote, demands equal taxation, declares for the repeal of the mullet law, and the enactment of a local option law.

Milwaukee, Sept. 5.—The democratic state convention completed its work Thursday. The following is the ticket nominated:

For governor, David S. Rose, of Milwaukee; lieutenant governor, John Wattawa, of Kewaunee; secretary of state, Louis A. Lange, of DAVID S. ROSE.

Fond du Lac; state treasurer, E. L. Luckow, of Baraboo; railroad commissioner, W. A. Redner, of Ashland; insurance commissioner, William Ferber, of New London; superintendent of public instruction, Karl Mathie; attorney general, Olef A. Skaar, of La Crosse.

The convention adopted a platform which deals mainly in state issues and denounces Gov. La Follette. After accusing the Wisconsin state administration of aiding and abetting monopolies, it denounces trusts and demands tariff revision. There were two surprises in the platform, one the revival of the ghost of the Bennett law in the denunciation of "paternalistic interference" with the rights of citizens in the matter of schools, and the other an appeal to the women of the state to vote against the republican candidate for state superintendent of public schools on the ground that his nomination was the result of trafficking in the interest of the state. Silver and the money question were let alone.

The biggest surprise of the day, and a sensation at that, was the turning down of a resolution, just before the convention adjourned, endorsing the national platform. While the delegates gave a respectful hearing to its reading it was not entertained for an instant.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 4.—The democratic convention nominated Franklin K. Lane, of San Francisco, for governor.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Cured by Pe-ru-na of Systemic Catarrh.

An Interesting Letter From Mrs. M. K. Bousch, of Richmond, and Her Little Daughter, Pearl.

Mrs. M. K. Bousch, Richmond, Va., writes:

"I had catarrh all through my system for two years and could get no relief. I was advised to try Peruna, and I have taken five bottles of it and am well and better now than I have been for years. I can advise any one who has catarrh of any part of the body to take Peruna. My little girl, who is eleven years old had catarrh, but was cured by Peruna. Before I began to take Peruna I was sick all the time, but now I am entirely cured and all praise is due Peruna."—Mrs. M. K. Bousch.

Miss Pearl Bousch, writes: "When I was a baby I contracted catarrh, and was doctored by several good physicians, but none did me any good. My mother was taking Peruna at the time and gave some of it to me, and I soon began to improve, and am now well and fat as a little pig. I am twelve years old. The doctors told mother I had the consumption, but it was only catarrh."—Miss Pearl Bousch.

It is no longer a question as to whether Peruna can be relied on to cure all such cases. During the many years in which Peruna has been put to test in all forms and stages of acute and chronic catarrh no one year has put this remedy to greater test than the past year.

Peruna is the acknowledged catarrh remedy of the age. Dr. Hartman, the compounder of Peruna, has written a book on the phases of catarrh peculiar to women, entitled, "Health and Beauty." It will be sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

EVERY CHILD BORN INTO THE WORLD with an inherited tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp, and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest, and most effective treatment available, viz., THE CUTICURA TREATMENT.

Warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, gentle anointings with CUTICURA OINTMENT, to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skin-tortured infants and children and the comfort of worn-out, worried mothers. A single set is often sufficient to cure when the best physicians fail.

COUNTY CLEANINGS.

The Manchester post office now closes at 7:30 p. m. standard time.

Grass Lake's direct tax for school purposes the coming year is $2,000.

The annual mission festival of Emmanuel's church, Manchester, will be held Sunday, Sept. 21.

The Ypsilanti Knights of Pythias will give a carnival and street fair in that city Oct. 8, 9 and 10.

Owen Scully, of Manchester, threshed 302 bushels of rye from 9½ acres of land one day last week.

A carload of rye was shipped from the Isbell elevator at Anderson to Germany the first part of last week.

The Michigan osteopaths held their state meeting in Ann Arbor Saturday. About 40 members of this school of medicine were present.

The amount to be expended for the support of the Dexter schools the coming year is $5,245.13, of this $2,800 will be raised by direct tax.

The funeral of Mrs. William Trolz, who died at her home in Sharon Wednesday of last week, was held at the church at Rogers' Corners Friday.

Fred Jedele, of Dexter, had a big barn filled with hay and grain destroyed by fire Tuesday of last week. Cause supposed to be spontaneous combustion.

There were 104 pupils in attendance at the Pinckney school when it opened, as follows: High school 24, grammar department 12, intermediate 28, primary 40.

The Ypsilanti Lubricator Co. has filed articles of incorporation with County Clerk Blum. It will manufacture and sell lubricators and all kinds of steam appliances.

The 50th anniversary of the dedication of the first Normal school building at Ypsilanti, will be observed Monday, Oct. 6, afternoon and evening. A suitable program has been arranged.

Toledo parties have contracted with Bird Gregory, of Gregory, for red dirt found on his farm, which contains iron oxides, used for purifying gas. They will ship about 150 tons at a time.

Four hundred and fifty excursionists took in Ypsilanti day Thursday and the trip to Port Huron and way ports on the Tashmoo. The stores in Ypsilanti were all closed and the city looked deserted.

A number of Ann Arbor merchants were victimized last week by a check forger. He forged the name of C. A. Sauer & Co. to a bunch of checks and passed them out when he purchased a small bill of goods. He raked in about $75 on the deal.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Lederer, of Saline, were surprised by their friends Monday, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of his pastorate of the Saline Lutheran church, also the 25th anniversary of their wedded life. Many handsome gifts were given them among which was a handsome silver tea set from the Ladies' society of the church.

The American Telephone Construction Co. would like to locate in Ann Arbor according to letters received by Mayor Copeland. The concern is one of the largest manufacturers of switchboards, telephone supplies, etc., in the country, and employs about 2,500 hands. It would be a great boom for Ann Arbor to secure such an industry.

Saline Observer: Mr. and Mrs. Weinmann had a caller Wednesday (not by invitation however). It was a good sized skunk which got into the cellar during the night. It climbed upon a barrel and then fell in causing itself to be a prisoner. The barrel, skunk and all was carried out and destroyed with no serious results to property or people.

Judge Kinne on Monday dissolved the injunction obtained against the Ann Arbor Democrat Publishing Co., by Receiver Johnson, of the Ann Arbor Printing Co. It was shown by the sworn averment of J. E. Beal when Johnson was appointed administrator that the plant of the Democrat Publishing Co. was only leased to the trust, and the same point was also made by Beakes & Hammond in their answer to the bill. Judge Kinne did not think that under these conditions it would be right to continue the injunction further and dissolved it.

What threatened to develop into a strike of the workmen in the employ of the Ann Arbor Organ Co. has been amicably settled by a conference between the men and the officers of the company. The men asked for a 9-hour day June 1 last. A compromise by which the men were given Saturday afternoons off was effected until Sept. 1, when the matter again came up. On being informed by the superintendent that the prices of the manufactured organs for the whole year had been fixed, and that the company could not make any profit if the price of wages went up now, the men agreed to defer their demand until later.

Frequent Vaccination.

Although almost absolute immunity is secured for a period of six months by vaccination, there is no certainty that its effects will continue beyond that time. In the majority of cases it does, but the interval for which this additional benefit is enjoyed is variable. Hence those who have studied the matter most carefully recommend a fresh operation if more than six months have elapsed since the last one, if a person is liable to be subjected to peril, as in time of an epidemic.—New York Tribune.
