WANT BOARD OF AUDITORS

Supervisors Want Legislature to Give The Necessary Authority.

Our board of supervisors want a board of county auditors. They ask for a board of three auditors to meet on the 10th of each month to audit all bills against the county. If this provision should be made law as the board desires, the duties of supervisors would be largely if not almost entirely confined to his own township. It is believed that this method would bring about a better financial system.

On motion of Supervisor McCullough of Ypsilanti, a committee consisting of Messrs. Whittaker, Bacon and Harriman was appointed to secure the necessary authority from the state legislature. It is proposed that this board should be elected by the county at large, each member to serve three years and one member's term to expire each year, the first members to be elected for one, two and three-year terms. This is the system in force in many states.

Farmers' Club.

The W. W. Union Club met with Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Cook, Thursday, October 16th. The day was fine and about fifty were in attendance. The dinner was excellent, but probably nothing in comparison to what it will be next month, as the gentlemen are to furnish and serve it at that time. The discussion on the "unit school system" was a lively one, and all seemed very much interested. The question of selling milk or making butter was also discussed, and all who expressed their opinion, thought making butter more profitable, provided there was a good market where it could be sold at a stated price by the year. Mrs. W. P. Schenk favored the Club with several selections from the graphophone, which caused much merriment, and was enjoyed by all.

Good One on "Hy."

Times: Here is one on By Whittaker, which he enjoys as well as anybody.

Yesterday Judge Newkirk and Tip Ball went out rabbit hunting and rounded up at the county house just after the board of supervisors had reached there for the chicken pie dinner.

Among the inmates of the county house is Noble Sackett, a Dexter man, with whom Judge Newkirk has been acquainted for years.

"Hello, Noble," said the judge. "How long have you been here?"

"About three weeks. I was sick and had to come."

"Let me see," said the judge. "Is old man Wade of Dexter here yet?"

"No, he's dead," answered Sackett.

"Well, is anybody besides yourself from Dexter here?" inquired the judge.

"Yes, By Whittaker is here," said Sackett with a face as straight as a plaster of Paris model.

What Theodore Roosevelt Says.

An article on "The Presidency," by Theodore Roosevelt, to be published in the November 6th issue of The Youth's Companion, will be of great public interest. When the article was written Mr. Roosevelt had not even been nominated for the vice-presidency.

Nothing was then further from his thoughts than that he would soon exercise the great powers which are entrusted to the President of the United States.

In view of the circumstances the article possesses an importance more than ordinary, and it will be eagerly looked for. The number of The Youth's Companion containing it, and all the subsequent issues of 1902, will be sent free to new subscribers from the time their subscription of $1.75 is received for the 1902 volume. The new subscribers will also receive The Companion Calendar for 1903, although in twelve colors and gold. Full illustrated announcement of the new volume and sample copies of The Companion will be sent to any address free. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley street, Boston, Mass.

First Rally of the Campaign.

The republicans of Chelsea and vicinity held their opening rally, last Monday evening. The abundant enthusiasm and general good feeling so manifestly present stamped the meeting as one of the most successful so far held in the county. The band was out and the crowd was out and the whole blowout was calculated to make surviving democrats long for ascent in the band wagon. The speakers as announced were the Hon. Milo Campbell of Coldwater, and Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer of Ann Arbor. In addition Capt. E. P. Allen was present as also "Jim" Harkins and his wife and two other companions, and the four colored lads from Ypsilanti, who pour out melody like a busted hydrant connected up with the symphony works. It is hard to say whether the crowd harked more to Harkins or the quartette, but doesn't matter.

But the music wasn't the only feature. Mr. Campbell's speech was terse and breezy and when he compared the "little bald spot" on the back of his head with the trust question, he was so apt with his illustrative methods that every one felt that at last some one had said something understandable. Mr. Wedemeyer spoke in his usual good form and was as usual effective. The speech of Capt. Allen was that of an old republican war-horse. When it comes to the calling up of the republican record and establishing a direct connection between then and now, Capt. Allen is unmistakably the man to do it. His speech was warmly received. And then, too, the Hon. William Judson—no we mean "Bill," every one likes best to say "Bill" whether friend or foe—made a three-minute speech, and it was a corker. When he said, "For God's sake don't vote against Bliss or Townsend, or any of the ticket because you don't like me, you can't hurt me," it was so manifestly the truth that it brought down the house. Of course we might be fooled, but it seemed like an outburst of whole souled party loyalty. Any way the republicans had a love feast that will undoubtedly make votes for them.

Republican Candidate for Senator.

Jackson Citizen: Frank P. Glazier, the republican candidate for state senator from this, the tenth, district, is a man eminently fitted for this important position. Mr. Glazier is a native of this county, and was raised among many who now, like him, are eminent and useful citizens. Trained in early life to correct principles and business methods, he has grown up to many positions of responsibility, and he has filled them well. As the leading personality in several large manufacturing establishments, he gives employment to one thousand laboring men and furnishes the support for more than five thousand people of this district. He is at the head of one of the most prosperous banks in Washtenaw county, and his business judgment and methods are popular among the people where he lives. In every aspect in which you view the candidate, he is an ideal man.

FRANK P. GLAZIER.

His acquaintance among business men of the state is very extensive, and none surpass him for reputation in ability and integrity. He will enter the senate with a good reputation, already made, and an acquaintance with the solid interests of Michigan equalled by few of our citizens.

The tenth is the most populous and important district in the state. Its vast farming and manufacturing interests need a practical and thorough business man to represent them—a man of broad views and much experience in both—and Mr. Glazier fills the bill most admirably. It contains three of the most prominent public institutions in the state—the parent normal school, the great and magnificent University of Michigan, and the state prison—all of which demand a man of large capacity and culture to look after their needs. Mr. Glazier can do all this, and do it well. His business habits and training ensure economy, good judgment and fidelity to all these interests. He will be the right man in the right place.

Hon. William Jennings Bryan of Thos. McClary of the People's Popular Course: "I heartily commend the lecture to those who desire to be both entertained and instructed."

The Wesleyan Quartette has now been in the concert field four years. During this time they have given nearly five hundred concerts in ten states; have been enthusiastically received on Chautauquus and Assembly programs, and have filled many important engagements in lecture and musical courses. The great success of the Quartette has achieved is shown by the fact that they have been re-engaged in almost every city where they have sung, and have given their fourth and fifth concerts in many places. Their repertoire includes more than one hundred quartettes and songs, representing all styles of music. People's Popular Course.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Kirk Johnson Passed Away at His Home Friday Afternoon.

Kirk Johnson, who has been a resident of this place for the past year, died very suddenly at his home on Middle street, west, Friday afternoon. He had been at work all the forenoon, and came home to dinner, after which he complained of not feeling well and laid down upon a couch, and within a few minutes had passed away. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Kirk Johnson was born in Pennsylvania in 1828. In 1861 he enlisted in a Pennsylvania regiment and served during the war. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and loving father. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, Dr. E. E. Caster officiating, and the interment was at Oak Grove cemetery.

Washtenaw's Drunks Cost $10,000.

The cost coming to the county of Washtenaw for the punishment of "drunks and disorderlies," which includes most of the tramp class, has been something enormous and the board of supervisors, at the session a year ago, appointed a committee to investigate. The result is that a committee consisting of Supervisors Harriman, Whittaker and Bacon has been appointed to secure an enabling act from the legislature empowering Washtenaw to build and maintain a work-house in which to punish tramps and drunks.

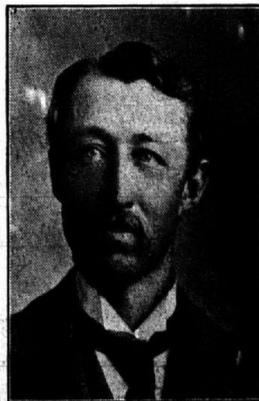

The special committee on Monday reported that the justices of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti had committed a total of 580 persons to the jail during the past eleven months and they had served a total of 6,510 days. Of the 580 there were 521 "drunk and disorderlies" and the total cost to the county for the arrest, sentence and jailing of these 421 persons was $10,000. The highest number in jail in any one month was 131 in February, last and the smallest number was twelve in June last.

The Market.

The market today is as follows: Wheat red or white 70 cents; rye 45 cents; oats 28 cents; corn 25 cents; barley 90 to 95 per hundred; beans $2.00 to $2.10 for crop of 1901, and for crop of 1902 $2.00 to $2.15 for 60 pounds; clover seed June $5.50, alskai $6.50; apples 20 cents bushel; potatoes 40 cents; beef cattle 3 to 4 1/2 cents; veal calves 5 to 5 1/2 cents; live hogs $6.25; sheep 2 1/2 to 3 cents; lambs 4 to 5 cents; chickens 7 cents; fowls 6 cents; eggs 20 cents; butter 17 cents; drying apples 10 cents bushel; cabbage 30 to 40 cents per dozen; onions 50 to 60 cents; packing apples $1.00 per barrel.

For County Treasurer.

HIS LIFE IN PERIL.

"I just seemed to have gone all to pieces," writes Alfred Bee of Welfare, Texa., "billousness and a lame back had made life a burden. SOME OF THE STOCKHOLDERS WHO ATTENDED ANNUAL RAILWAY MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad company in Chicago recently, millionaires and section men brushed elbows and farmers and business men exchanged confidences, all being owners of stock in the company. The youngest capitalist present was a boy 15 years old, who owns two shares. There were women, too, who owned stock.

Young Cornelius Vanderbilt, looking the part of a leader of fashion in his faultless attire, could not boast any more frequent attendance at these meetings than Charles Bacon, who has come every year from Hammond, La., to vote his shares on any question of the management of the great system which might require his personal consideration.

A section boss from Iowa who sat in a rear seat never loved his position or opened his lips except to vote "aye" during the entire meeting, but neither did John Jacob Astor, who sat beside him. Both sat with their legs crossed and while Mr. Astor displayed silk lavender half hose, the Iowa showed white wool socks below his short, baggy trousers.

One of the character types was Mr. Bacon, whose long beard and hair showed aversion to the barber, and who had made a soiled white muffer take the place of a collar. Then again there were a number of apparently well-to-do business men and several women who had come to participate in the annual deliberations of the stockholders.

French Authorities Order Slaughter of Possible Messengers. The French minister of war recently forwarded an order to the troops on duty in the Hautes Alpes to kill all pigeons seen crossing the frontier. This order is the result of the discovery that for some time past pigeons have been sent into France from Italy and then liberated clandestinely. It is believed that by this means spies have been able to send reports out of the country. At Embun the officer in command seized a basket containing 25 pigeons, which had arrived at the railway station from Italy in charge of a man named Maglione, of Tunis. When questioned the man said the birds were for sale, but the military authorities refused to believe him and he was conducted over the frontier.

The Yorkshire Breed

It is reported in a Canadian paper that at a meeting last fall a noted hog packer of the Dominion expressed himself strongly of the opinion that the large Yorkshire hog was the best animal procurable for the bacon trade. He had hesitated to say which was the best hog, but after mature consideration and long experience he had come to the conclusion that the breed mentioned filled the bill in the best possible manner. In his opinion this hog should be largely used to cross upon the common stock of the country with the object of improving the shape of the hogs for the bacon trade. The large Yorkshire gave the greatest percentage of No. 1 sides, while other breeds gave good sides, but not in so large a proportion as the Yorkshire. His observations led him to the conclusion that this breed was more prepotent than any of the other breeds. In other words, it has greater power of impressing itself upon its progeny. The trouble with other breeds was that they seemed to lose their identity when crossed with the common stock of the country. The Yorkshire always asserted itself and therefore was the best hog to use for the purpose of grading up common stock and securing bacon hogs of the most desirable type. If the proper type be an extra long, slab-sided individual, then the Yorkshire hog is, of course, the best living personification of this type. The bacon curers should know what they want, hence we have nothing to say against this gentleman's opinion. In Canada they cannot be expected to raise or finish lard hogs. Corn is too scarce a commodity with them and the nitrogenous foods are grown on every side so that bacon hogs are the main staple of the swine breeder. It is interesting, however, to learn that the long continued breeding and nitrogenous feeding of the Yorkshire has given it prepotency over other breeds. This claim goes to show what we have held in these columns, that natural feeding as is followed for bacon production is best for the hog. He remains more healthy when the muscular system is developed by "hard" foods rather than the fat-making corn ration. The best bacon is made where such foods as barley, peas, wheat, oats and clover prove most luxurious and where the grains mentioned weigh heavy to the bushel. As a rule the altitudes are high, the climate cool and the soil full of mineral matters. Corn delights in deep, humus-rich soils in hot climates. In such an environment grains do not as a rule weigh well to the bushel. If the soil is rich the straw grows rank and the heads fill imperfectly by ripening time. Oats here grown are light and chaffy. Peas do not do well. Corn is the bumper crop and lard hogs prevail and prove profitable. But the lard hog becomes sluggish if long bred and fed in this environment. The litters become small and the bacon curer cannot find what he is looking for in his business. The fat round hog does not afford the sides he wants, and so he says the long-sided Yorkshire is the best hog for him. This is merely a matter of individual requirement. The corn-fed lard hog is all right in its place, and for the requirements of the packer who is handling that class of hogs. It will be good policy for the corn grower to be also a lard hog grower and feeder at the same time. But there is one thing he can learn from what the bacon curer has said, and that is that there is a way of increasing the size of the litters. That is to use prepotent blood, and for the proper environment for the production of the bacon hog. It is not necessary to use the Yorkshire unless one so desires. The conditions which make that hog prepotent also render other hogs prepotent when raised in that environment. It is then only necessary to go to that environment for fresh blood, and this we believe to be the best policy a breeder can pursue when his home bred boars beget small or weak litters. A change of blood may be made without going outside of the breed kept on any particular farm. The defects of the home-bred animals may be remedied by infusing the blood of boars of the same breed and even family.—Farmers' Review.

Trouble begins with the first backache. Backache comes in many forms—sudden twinges of pain, sharp stitches, slow, exhaustive aches. Most backache pains are kidney pains.

The kidneys fail to perform their duties unless intended them to do and the warning of trouble comes through the back.

Neglect the kidney warning, grave complications will surely follow. Urinary disorders, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, are the downward steps of neglected kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every kidney and bladder sickness and kidney cures last. Read this proof of it: Mrs. Adam Guntle, residing at 703 South Plum St., Crawfordsville, Ind., says: "I made a public statement in 1897, saying that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured a member of our family after he had suffered for years with a weak back and kidney troubles. He took three boxes of this remedy and was completely cured. Now three years have elapsed since I made this statement and I am only too pleased to reiterate it. This is a less serious matter than letting the people themselves perish from using water filled with death dealing germs.

Peril from Pinnacle Rocks.

An old officer of the coast survey thinks that the accident to the Brooklyn, which ran on a rock in Buzzard's bay in the recent mimic war off the New England coast, was caused by a pinnacle rock. Such a rock is hard to locate, as it is a stone spire and one may go within six feet of it and never suspect its presence. A weighted rope hung between two launches and the bottom of some unlucky ship are the only things which can discover such a rock. The Pilgrim rock in the East river in New York harbor was not discovered until the Fall river boat of that name ran into it. Schoolship rock off Cottage City, Martha's Vineyard, is another stone of this kind, and a third lies somewhere near the entrance to Vineyard sound. New York harbor has one or two other pinnacle rocks beside Pilgrim rock.

Gen. Matos. In its allegiance. President Castro is believed to have accumulated much money during his incumbency, and it is expected that he will follow the usual course of deposed heads of South American republics—proceed to Europe and enjoy life in luxury.

NEW MINISTER TO SPAIN.

Mr. Sherburne Hardy Has Had Diplomatic Experience. Mr. Sherburne Hardy, appointed minister to Spain, is a son of New England. His father was the late Hon. Alpheus Hardy, born in Andover, Mass., in 1817, he was graduated from West Point, served as a second lieutenant in the Third artillery, and was professor of mathematics at Dartmouth college. He wrote novels, the best known of which were "But Yet a Woman" and "Passe Rose." During

Mr. Sherburne Hardy. his career as a diplomat he has been minister resident and consul general at Tokyo, Paris; minister to Greece, Roumania and Serbia, and minister to Switzerland, having been assigned to the last named post in December of 1900 by President McKinley.

Princess a Successful Author.

King Edward's second daughter, Princess Charles of Denmark, is making a success in literature from a royal standpoint. She has written a book, but it has not been printed. It is circulated in manuscript among the crowned heads of Europe. Not to be outdone by her royal literary aunt, Queen Helena of Italy has written a poem, which is to appear shortly in the German review, Berliner Leben. It is entitled "The Other Crown," and gives the reverse of the medal of royalty as usually seen by popular eyes.

Credit to the Negro Race.

Moses Leonard Frazier, the only negro who was ever graduated from the school of political science in Columbia university, New York city, is a shining light. He has been graduated from three colleges, conducts a real estate business and finds time to manage a barber shop. He is a master of philosophy, a bachelor of philosophy, a master of arts and an inventor. Mr. Frazier was born in 1869 and he was 35 years old before he had earned sufficient money to enable him to enter college.

Vassar Graduate's Good Luck.

A Vassar graduate of 1883, Miss Helen D. Thompson, is turning her knowledge of sanitation and social work to the advantage of a whole community at Orange, N. J., where she has been made sanitary inspector. Her efforts to instruct people in unsanitary surroundings in better ways of living have met with success where men have failed in their attempts.

Up-to-Date Creameries

Last week we had something to say about the filthy conditions existing in some of the creameries in Illinois. In this article we wish to show something of the other side of the shield. There are here and there in Illinois creameries that are models for cleanliness. The writer recently visited such a one at Amboy, Illinois. The creamery is owned by K. S. Townsend. The building is new and well built. In size it is 30x70 feet. All outside walls are of brick with two-inch air space, and all cross walls are of brick. All the floors are of cement, with the exception of the office and store. Every room has a drain to the sewer. There is electric light in every room. There is a butter room and water from a well that supplies water at a temperature of 60 degrees. All the milk is pasteurized between the weigh can and separator, so that both the cream and the skim milk are pasteurized. The eaters of the butter and cheese are thus protected from disease germs, and the calves and pigs that consume the skim milk are likewise protected.

Mr. Townsend is making great efforts to produce perfectly clean butter and cheese and he is succeeding. His butter retails in Washington at 40 cents per pound even in the summer time. His butter has excellent flavor and aroma. The buttermilk is delicious. At no other creamery visited was the flavor of the buttermilk so good as at this, showing that the cream had not only kept pure, but that it had been ripened just right before churning.

FROCKS AND FRILLS FOR THE FAIR

ROOSTER ON A TRAIN

FEATHERED WANDERER MAKES FUN FOR PASSENGERS.

Dignified cicerone Made Use of a Perch for the King of the Barnyard—Stopping of the Express Ends His Antics

Prof. George T. Powell, director of the Agricultural School, at Briarcliff, Westchester county, tells the following story:

"I had been lecturing in northeast Pennsylvania, during the day, and late in the evening I arrived at Dunkirk, where I had to change cars for Buffalo. There were many passengers in the car, and nearly all were asleep. Being very tired, I took a seat, leaned back and had just fallen into a doze, when I was awakened by the loud cluck of a rooster. Arousing myself and looking around, there, greatly to my surprise, was a large game rooster, strutting up the aisle, with head erect, and every few seconds letting forth such a loud cluck that in a moment nearly every one in the car was awake and craning their heads in great astonishment at the unusual intruder.

"The rooster strutted wonderingly up the aisle until he came to a large, portly man, who was leaning back, with legs crossed, one knee as high as his head and still asleep. He took only one look and then flew up, alighting on the conspicuous knee. At this juncture every one in the car became intensely interested, and nearly all the passengers were on their feet, anxious to see what the man would do when he awoke. It needed only one more sound from the rooster before the stout man opened his eyes, and with a sudden start backward he threw up his hands, in astonishment, while coars of laughter came from every part of the car.

"This excitement was too much for the rooster, and with one jump he flew up on the bell rope, which sagged down under his weight, and the Chicago express, thundering along at fifty miles an hour, came to such a sudden stop that many passengers were thrown from their feet in a confused muddle. The train had no more to come to a stop when an irate conductor came hurriedly into the car and demanded who had stopped the train. By that time the owner of the rooster had awakened, and taking in the situation, reached up and gathered in the wandering bird, restoring him to the bag from which he had escaped, and which contained two more fowls that had not found their way out.

"The merriment was too great for any sleep from there to Buffalo. A man from Chicago who stopped at the hotel with me, said: 'I have been traveling for thirty years, but that is the funniest incident I ever saw.'—New York Tribune.

Sympathy for a Croesus.

Two men hurriedly walking east in Liberty street almost ran into an elderly fellow turning the corner at Nassau, headed for Broadway. The latter's overcoat was roughly put on. Far too tight across the back, it was wrinkled into horizontal corrugations. The collar was partly turned down. The texture was cheap, the shade a rusty brown. An old felt hat was on the gray head, a hat of many seasons, which had been pearl, but now was weather stained and spotted with perspiration. The dark brown trousers were knee and almost frayed. The shoes had not known blacking for weeks. One of the men paused to salute the veteran deferentially, and after passing the compliments of the day rejoined his companion. "How much did he strike you for?" the latter asked. "Strike me?" said the other with a puzzled look. "Yes; I saw you put your hand in your pocket and thought the old codger might have beaten you out of a quarter." "Oh! Why, that was Russell Sage." "Well, I'm damned!"—New York Times.

Promising for the Tenors.

Three tenors, while recently strolling in Paris, began to talk of their engagements for the coming season. "Where are you two fellows going?" asked one. "I'm going to Rio Janeiro," answered one of his companions. "So am I," answered the other one. "That's very queer," said the first speaker, "for I'm going there, too." Then they compared notes and, finding that the same theatrical manager had engaged each of them, they called on him and asked for an explanation. "I don't see why any of you should be dissatisfied," he replied. "I've engaged each of you because I don't want to be left without a tenor in Rio Janeiro. It is very probable that before you are acclimated there yellow fever will carry off two of you, and wouldn't I be in a nice fix if you hadn't a third tenor on hand?"

Resented the Imputation.

There are two John Smiths in the little town of Prella, Kan., one very stout and the other very thin, and they were good friends until one day last week, when the thin John gave the thick John a severe thrashing. The neighbors were much astonished at the row, but laughed when they learned the reason. A green goods letter came in town addressed to stout John, who read it and, seeing a chance for a joke on his namesack, marked it "Opened by mistake" and put it in thin John's mail box. The latter resented the implication and lost no time in hurling up the joker. Then the trouble began.

LOVELY WOMEN OF EUROPE.

Every Nation Has Its Peculiar Type of Beauty.

Every nation has its peculiar type of feminine beauty. The American woman, whom Americans think is the loveliest of them all, would play an inconspicuous part in a beauty show at Constantinople, in Algiers or in Vienna, where the facial features, dress, manners, customs and styles are vastly at variance with the Gibson girl or her cousin.

The Egyptian woman still clings to a blousy dress, patterned something on the order of the Chinese pantalon. The march of civilization has had no effect upon the women of Egypt. But it costs more to dress one of its beauties for a year than it requires to keep an American woman clothed for twice that period.

This Landlord Hates Dogs.

There is a curious clause in a lease, which a gentleman in Paris was asked to sign recently. "I hereby agree not to bring any dog into the apartments which I am about to occupy and not to permit any dog to remain there. Furthermore, I authorize any person who may at any time find a dog in my apartments or on the steps leading to the apartments or on the stairs leading to the front entrance to make away with him immediately in any manner that he pleases, and I hereby promise that I will never take legal action on account of the disappearance of any such dog."

"It is rather surprising," says a French paper, "that this landlord, who has such a horror of dogs, does not append to this clause another one, as follows: 'Be it understood that children come under the same category as dogs.'"

Medicine for "Working People."

"Ohio produced one of the wisest physicians this country ever knew," said Congressman Shattuck recently. "He lived at a small place near Cleveland, and was greatly liked. His practice was large, and sometimes people would tell him that they called him in more for the fun than for it than the medicine. His wit was fully equal to his skill. It was hard to say which did his patients the most good, and as he always gave his best of both at the same time, they probably helped each other. Just as it happened when one of his patients revolted at a monstrous dose of physic and said: 'Why doctor, you can't mean such a dose as this for a gentleman?' 'Oh, no,' said the doctor, 'it's for working people.'"

A Cure for Rheumatism.

Bridgeport, Wash., Oct. 20th.—Rheumatism and kidney trouble seem to be the prevailing ailments in this territory and particularly in Douglas county.

It is called Dodd's Kidney Pills and although but a short time on the market, it has already worked many wonderful cures. One of the most striking of these is that of Mr. John Higgins, who for a long time suffered with rheumatism and kidney trouble. The pains of these diseases had combined to make his life very miserable indeed, and he could get nothing to do him any good till he heard of this new remedy. He tells his experience with it in these words: "Dodd's Kidney Pills have done more for my rheumatism and kidney trouble than anything else I have ever used. There is more virtue in them than in any other medicine and I will always highly recommend them to all of my friends."

A Grand Duke's Costumes.

By all accounts Grand Duke Boris was a spectacular feature of the horse show in Newport the day he attended that function. The rather kaleidoscopic costume of his royal highness included a suit in large gray plaids, a lemon-colored shirt, and silver gray tie; tan shoes, a white and tan belt, fastened by a showy gold buckle, and a white straw hat trimmed with light blue. A jeweled snake, curled in three glittering coils, formed his ring, and the much written about bracelet was in evidence whenever he gesticulated with his left arm.

CONGRESSMAN WILBER SAYS

[To The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, O.]

"Pe-ru-na is All You Claim For It."

Congressman D. F. Wilber, of Oneonta, N. Y., writes:

"Gentlemen—'Persuaded by a friend I have tried your remedy and I have almost fully recovered after the use of a few bottles. I am fully convinced that Pe-ru-na is all you claim for it, and cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with catarrhal trouble.'—David F. Wilber.

Pe-ru-na a Preventive and Cure for Colds.

Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. B., Vice President of "The Pastime Boating Club," writes:

"Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter."

"Last winter I was advised to try Pe-ru-na, and within five days the cold was broken up, and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Pe-ru-na for catarrhal affections. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it."—C. F. Given.

A Prominent Singer Saved From Loss of Voice.

Mr. Julian Weissitz, 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., is corresponding secretary of The Sangerist, of New York; is the leading second bass of the Sangerist, the largest German singing society of New York and also the oldest.

In 1899 The Sangerist celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a large celebration in New York City. The following is his testimony:

"About two years ago I caught a severe cold while traveling and which settled into catarrh of the bronchial tubes, and as affected my voice that I was obliged to cancel my engagements. In distress I was advised to try Pe-ru-na, and although I had never used a patent medicine before, I sent for a bottle.

"Words but ill describe my surprise to find that within a few days I was greatly relieved, and within three weeks I was entirely recovered. I am never without it now, and take an occasional dose when I feel run down."—Julian Weissitz.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory

results from the use of Pe-ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Fashionable Neckwear.

The effect of a woman's costume is very perceptibly influenced by the way she dresses her neck. The girl who seeks to have all the elements of her attire blend into a harmonious ensemble is very critical about her neckwear, for she realizes that a neck which fails to accord in color and character can mar the effect of the most fashionable gown. The displays of neckwear are so

THE LATEST NECKWEAR NOVEL TIES.

Fetching Top Coat.

When the real chilly days arrive you will see the new cape coat. This is a fetching top garment on the slender woman; she of embonpoint contour should go shy of it. It enhances the grace of the tall and willowy woman and accentuates the proportions of her who has accumulated avoirdupois says the Pittsburgh Press.

One style of the cape coat is fitted closely about the shoulders, while the front and back have the full, cape effect, with a ripple at the border. Another style has the box fronts, cut in a dip and with roll back revers that are faced with the satin lining. The garment has a graceful slope under the arm, being closely adjusted. The back has a decided cape effect, rip in a moment nearly every one in the car was awake and craning their heads in great astonishment at the unusual intruder.

Changes in Hats.

One of those curious changes in what had appeared established as fashionable for a season has occurred with regard to hats. The flat shapes remain in full fashion, indeed, but all at once it turns out that high erections are also favored; perhaps a majority of the smartest hats are dubbed "picture," in order that they may be turned up at one side very high. This is a revival of the fashion of a couple of years ago, but the hats are now worn less back upon the head than they then were, so that they have no halo-like effect.

To Cleanse Fabrics.

When gasoline is to be used as a cleanser it will be found to be much more effectual if diluted in water. Pure gasoline serves merely to loosen the dirt, while the added water will wash away the traces of it. Use in the proportion of two quarts of water to a cup of gasoline. Those who use it should understand that it is always employed at the risk of an explosion.

The Newest Shaped Skirts.

All the newest shaped skirts are made with more fullness at the back and are curved outward at the hem. Narrow flouncings of the material, cut on the circle, appear on most of the better class gowns, but for ordinary wear they are quite plain, and only just touch the ground at the back.

To Freshen One's Veils.

Steaming veils by winding them evenly around a broom handle or roller and laying them across a boiler or saucapan of boiling water to steam for three-quarters of an hour is said to be an effective method of renovation. Leave the veils on the wood until dry.

To Remove stains from and

beautiful, extensive and varied—indeed,

almost to the extent of being bewildering—that the selection of just the right bit of fashionable and becoming adornment for the throat is not difficult. There are stocks and ties of smart simplicity which at once suggest tailor-made gowns, and there are more frivolous and fluffy pieces for wear when an ornamental impression is sought for. The neckwear which comes with the stamp of fashion upon it is very artistic in composition; the various commingling of color are really beautiful from an aesthetic point of view, and as pieces of skillful needlework, the new stocks are equally worthy of admiration. The results achieved by the homely little needle are wonderfully intricate sometimes. Taffeta and Lou-laine silks, crepe de chaine, chiffon, mousseline, lace, velvet and ribbon are all employed in the evolution of fashionable neckwear. Lace in some way or other appears on many of the neckpieces. There is, too, a delicate shimmer of tiny steel beads, and the revival of jet for gowns and millinery is noticeable in neckwear.

Fashion is very partial to the note of black in neckwear and a touch of it is introduced into many of the prettiest pieces. In combination with pale blue it is especially effective. Pale blue, it may be said, in passing, will be as much worn this fall as it was in the summer. Green is a striking note in the new exhibits.

A Lovely Gown.

A gown recently from Paris is of pale gray camel's hair cloth. The hairs are very long and shiny. It is made with a skirt that clears the ground, or seven gores that flare at the border, and with a flat back closing over under folds. The seams are slotted and their edges outlined with silver cord. There are three bands of the material, an inch wide, round the bottom of the skirt, each edged with silver cord. The front of the bodice opens over a cream cloth vest, lined with the least bit, and embroidered in silver and pale blue.

At the top of the back of the bodice are interlaced strappings of the cream satin elaborately braided in silver and pale blue.

The sleeves are close from the shoulder to the elbow and from thence fall in a froth that is confined at the wrist in a band braided in silver. The stock is of cream satin, tucked, with gildings of silver and blue in the tucks.

Autumn Coats.

The coats of all the costumes designed for autumn are made long enough to come more than half way down the skirt, and the short jacket of last year and the year before is quite out of date. And yet, to show how capricious is fashion, an immense smart little coat is on the old-fashioned reefer style, double-breasted and curved in at the sides. After all, the fashion which remains as many styles

Great Elephant's Tusk.

For years it has been known that some African elephants have unusually long and heavy tusks, but it is not easy for foreigners to get any of them, since they are highly prized by the natives, who use them as ornaments for their houses and temples and as decorations for the graves of their ancestors. For this reason exceptional interest attaches to an elephant's tusk, which is said to be the longest that has ever been imported into Europe. It is nearly nine feet in length, and was imported by a Hamburg merchant in Tabora, who was informed that it had come from the Tanganyika region in central Africa. In this region the elephants are noted for their fine tusks and a higher price is asked than for any others. Moreover, during the past few years the price has advanced considerably, for the reason that in Tanganyika elephants are by no means as plentiful as they used to be.—Detroit Free Press.

The Autograph Letter.

The autograph letter is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Short-hand and the typewriter have killed it. No business man nowadays writes a letter. It is an age of short cuts, and even literary men find it more profitable to dictate than to write their copy. One of the most successful of modern newspaper proprietors says that he has not written a letter for seven years, although his private correspondence amounted to more than 50 letters daily. Cabinet ministers alone seem to cling to the old tradition. Lord Salisbury abhors a typewritten letter, and Arthur Balfour writes a large part of his correspondence himself. Even Mr. Chamberlain, who is essentially up to date, seems to regard the typewriter as altogether inferior to the telegraph as a vehicle for conveying his opinions.—Detroit Free Press.

Smiths in Office.

The government blue book, lately from the press, gives the names of all employees, their place of nativity, from where appointed, place of employment and rate of compensation. The book shows there are more than 2,700 Smiths on the pay rolls of the government, not counting, perhaps, half as many more who are drawing pensions. Of these Smiths something over 400 go through life as plain John Smith. The Jones family is a close second, with over 1,800, while Brown and Johnson are neck-and-neck for third place, not missing the 1,000 mark far.—Chicago Tribune.

Hadn't Sufficient Faith.

It is a firm belief of the Greek monks that God will not allow a monastery to be burned. When the Russian monastery of St. Pantelemon at Mount Athos was burned a few years ago the Greeks, who constitute the great majority of the 6,000 monks on the peninsula, maintained that their Russian brethren had brought the calamity on themselves because they had fire engines and extinguishers and did not trust wholly in God.

Must Have Been a Bird.

"I was just thinking." "Yes?" "I was trying to figure out the probable prehistoric proportions of this mammoth boat called the Mayflower that brought over so many ancestors." 2. A proposed amendment to Article IV, of the constitution, by adding

SHYLOCK

Shylock was the man who wanted a pound of human flesh. There are many Shylocks now, the convalescent, the consumptive, the sickly child, the pale young woman, all want human flesh and they can get it—take Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion is flesh and blood, bone and muscle. It feeds the nerves, strengthens the digestive organs and they feed the whole body.

For nearly thirty years Scott's Emulsion has been the great giver of human flesh.

We will send you a couple of ounces free. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409-415 Pearl Street, New York, N. Y. See and get it, all druggists.

a new section thereto, to stand as Section forty-seven, empowering the legislature to enact a law imposing indeterminate sentences as a punishment for crime, and to provide for the parole and return to prison of persons imprisoned on such sentences. BRAT B. TURNBULL, Township Clerk.

NATURAL ANXIETY.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. It's attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Always safe. Acts immediately. Cures coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga. "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." Glazier & Stimson.

OUT OF DEATH'S LAWS.

"When death seemed very near from a severe stomach and liver trouble, that I had suffered with for years," writes P. Muse, Durham, N. C. "Dr. King's New Life Pills saved my life and gave perfect health." Best pills on earth and only 25c at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

GOES LIKE HOT CAKE

"The fastest selling article I have in my store," writes druggist C. T. Smith of Davis, Ky. "is Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, because it always cures. In my six years of sales it has never failed. I have known it to save sufferers from throat and lung diseases, who could get no help from doctors or any other remedy." Mothers may rely on it, best physicians prescribe it, and Glazier & Stimson guarantee satisfaction or refund price. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c and $1.

THE PEOPLE'S LIVERY AND FEED BARN

I have opened a livery and ten-cent feed barn in the McKune barn, south Main street, and ask for a share of your patronage. Don't leave your horses out in the cold and storm when they can get good care for ten cents. This is the only barn in the town where you can hitch or unhitch your horse without being out in the storm. In the livery you will always find first-class turnouts.

A TIN OR METAL ROOF

Is a good roof only so long as it is kept properly painted. Almost any material will do as long as it lasts. But few paints last. Oxide of Iron (Iron rust) and Linseed Oil is short lived. It becomes brittle and cracks off. For durability on metal, a paint must be elastic; it must expand and contract with the metal. This elastic quality is secured in the highest degree in FEDERAL ROOFING PAINT

It is impossible for this paint to crack, peel or blister, and is a perfect protector for all metallic surfaces. Manufactured only by The Federal Paint and Oil Co., Detroit, Mich.

A GREAT CLEARING SALE

Buggies, Surreys and Light Road Wagons.

Having decided to use my hall above my store for other purposes than for a carriage repository the coming winter I will offer all my large and magnificent stock of buggies at prices that will move them off quickly. I shall make such prices that even if you do not need a buggy or surry in a year it will pay you to buy now. Come and look my stock over and satisfy yourself as to quality and price.

HARNESS DEPARTMENT.—I find that in my harness department I am overloaded with stock, heavy, light and single harness of all kinds on which I will give special bargains for the next 90 days. I have a few first-class second hand single harness which will go at a bargain.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT.—In my musical department I have some fine Pianos, Organs and Small Instruments all of which will be sold at greatly reduced prices.

I intend to make this the grandest bargain sale ever held in Chelsea for quality of goods and prices considered. Come and investigate.

Wm. L. Keusch and family have moved into the residence on Grant street recently vacated by Henry Heselchwerdt.

There will be a pedro party at Modern Woodmen hall, Thursday evening, October 30th. Everyone is invited to be present.

Miss Emma Jensen is very ill with appendicitis, at her home south of town. She was resting a little easier this morning.

The Grass Lake News has entered upon its twenty-fourth year, and under the guidance of Bro. Brown is one of the best country papers in Michigan.

Mrs. Wm. Remnant, sr., has moved to Jackson where she will make her home with her son Joseph, who has a position as guard in the state's prison.

Mrs. Emory Chipman sustained a broken elbow and various bruises last Friday by some unruly cattle breaking down a gate near which she was standing.

Geo. C. Codd of Detroit wishes to thank the Chelsea friends who so kindly presented the bouquet of American beauty roses at the time of the death of Mrs. Codd.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve supper next Thursday evening, on the occasion of the meeting of the Washtenaw Sunday-school Association. Price 15 cents.

The Royal Neighbors of this place entertained a large number of the members of the order from Ann Arbor Tuesday evening. A general good time was enjoyed by all.

Stephen Beach, father of Elmer Beach of this place, died at his home in Lima, Wednesday morning, aged 75 years. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon.

The Chelsea high school football team was defeated at this place Saturday afternoon by the Jackson Independents. The latter was considerably heavier than the local boys. Score 12 to 0.

The board of directors and stockholders of the West German Portland Cement Co. are here today inspecting the work that has been done on the plant. From this time on the work will be rushed to completion.

There will be a Halloween conundrum social at the home of R. Phelps on the electric line east of Chelsea, Friday evening, October 31st. It will be given by the pupils of the Parker district. Supper 15 cents.

The work on the K. of P. Athletic Club's grounds is progressing nicely, and when the time comes for the boys to play ball next spring they will have a first-class ground on which to display their prowess in that line. Bleachers will be erected on the north side. A tennis court and a croquet ground will be laid out for the use of those who do not enter into the more strenuous life.

Graduates of the University of Michigan have started a movement among their organization looking to the erection of a headquarters building for the men of that University at the world's fair at St. Louis.

An up-state young man smoked enough cigarettes to get a rifle free with the tickets from the packages, and now his nerves are so ruined by his indulgence that he can't shoot straight and the gun is a dead loss to him.

The Standard comes out this week in an enlarged form, there being seven instead of six columns on each page. This move was made necessary by the increased advertising, which was cutting into the space of the reading matter.

The ladies of the Lima Epworth League will serve dinner in the church parlors on election day. They will not have a social in November. Everybody is invited to come and take dinner with them. Bring the ladies with you. Dinner 15 cents.

Dan Morris Sullivan's comedians and original Hibernalion will be at the opera house Thursday and Friday evenings of next week and a Thursday afternoon matinee. The entertainments will be given under the auspices of St. Mary's church.

The ladies of the W. R. C. will serve dinner and supper on election day at G. A. R. hall. The proceeds are to be placed in the fund which the ladies are raising with which to purchase a drinking fountain which will be placed in the business portion of the village.

There will be a republican rally at the town hall, Chelsea, Wednesday evening, October 23rd, at which time Hon. Chas. E. Townsend, republican nominee for congress, and other noted speakers will be present. James Harkins and the Aeolian Quartette will also be present.

If those supervisors who are so very anxious to cut down expenses would cut out that annual dinner at the county house, they might talk about economy. About the only economy that some of them know anything of is the kind that affects others not themselves, as regards county matters.

Workmen are engaged in taking out the engine at the Boland power house at this place, and shipping it to Battle Creek. A larger engine will be erected in place of the one removed. A larger dynamo is also to take the place of the one which was taken out and placed in the Grass Lake power house a short time ago.

Mrs. Christina Freeman Tucker, mother of Samuel Tucker of Lima, died at the home of her son-in-law, Walter Dancer, in Ann Arbor, Monday, October 20, 1902, at the ripe age of 93 years, 2 months and 15 days. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Dancer, and her remains were deposited in what is known as the Vermont cemetery.

A teacher who is teaching in Washtenaw county on a U. of M., Normal or State certificate which has not been filed, or a copy of the same, as the law provides, in the office of the Commissioner of Schools will be considered, after November 10, 1902, as an unqualified teacher and the contract with the school board, void. Teachers holding such certificates should attend to this at once. This of course does not apply to schools under special charter.

The postoffice department recommends spelling the names of states and territories out in full in addressing letters, and particularly against abbreviating Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Ohio, Oregon, Samoa and Utah. "Ala." may be Alabama or Alaska; "Ia." might mean Indiana or Iowa; "Io." Idaho or Iowa, and "O." may stand for Ohio, Oklahoma or Oregon. In the handwriting of some people, "Ind." is often mistaken for "Md." and vice versa.

Attorney A. J. Sawyer received a letter from William A. Boland, the electric railroad magnate, which is very encouraging as to the prospects of both grade separation and the completion of the Boland road. He writes that he has made arrangements with a security company to give bonds for his contribution of $10,000 and he has wired H. W. Ashley, general manager of the Ann Arbor road, to send on the contract, and the bond will be issued. Mr. Boland also writes that he has made application to the state railroad commissioner to allow grade crossing pending negotiations and completion of grade separation. Mr. Boland evidently means business.—Times.

FIT AND FASHION

There are some things which can't be improved. One of these things is the Queen Quality shoe for women.

You can make it more elaborate, you can decorate it, embellish it, and all that. But for $100 a pair you cannot make a better shoe than Queen Quality, having regard solely to the two great essentials of Fit and Fashion. This means that mechanically it is perfect. As for its appearance, the fact that one hundred thousand women choose it instantly above all other shoes would seem to indicate that it is attractive. It costs nothing to see them fit your foot. ## Did Not Co-operate.

A petition was filed in the Grand Rapids Circuit Court Saturday, asking for a receiver for the Co-operative Home Purchasing Association and an injunction to restrain the treasurer from disposing of any property. The action is taken by plaintiffs in the interest of shareholders.

It is alleged that the company was organized by men looking for a soft snap for themselves, and that while a trust fund was to be maintained for the payment of contracts, the officers used up their expense funds and tapped the trust fund so that there is not now enough on hand to meet contracts outstanding. It is also alleged that the officers of the association have never been elected, because no meeting has been held, but that they simply named themselves and had their names placed on the association's stationery. The records are said to be faulty, and general wrongs are alleged to have been perpetrated on the shareholders.

The officers of the association are: President and manager, H. M. Wood; vice-president, L. A. Ogden; secretary, R. H. Budworth; treasurer, T. H. Gossen.—The company has written 1,500 contracts, 27 of which have matured.

A Bloody Tragedy.

The bloodiest tragedy ever recorded in the history of Isabella county took place on the farm of Joseph Gulick, five miles west of Mt. Pleasant, Thursday morning, Archie Woodin, in a fit of jealous rage, killed his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gulick, his own 1-year-old child, and attempted to kill himself. Some time ago Woodin and his wife had some words and he struck her. She at once left him and went to the home of her parents. Previous to this she had threatened to leave him and go to work. Thursday morning Woodin went to the home of his wife's parents with the intention of taking her or the child away, and got into an altercation with the old man. He accused Gulick of inducing his wife to leave him, and hot words followed. Woodin is then supposed to have shot his father-in-law. In his frenzy he attacked Mrs. Gulick with a knife, cutting her throat and wound up his bloody work by killing the babe and attempting to take his own life.

The Assaulter Fled.

It is alleged that Robert Eldridge, an actor who does a turn in "sand modeling," tried to assault Miss Grace Barton at the Hamilton opera house, Battle Creek, Saturday afternoon. He was introduced to Miss Barton that afternoon by a stage hand, and invited her to watch the matinee performance from the wings. After the show was over he asked her to wait and watch the theater, however, and then she says, he made proposals which she scorned. She alleged that he tried to use force. She managed to break away, though he grabbed her by the skirt as she ran down stairs, and almost pulled off the garment. She defended herself with a hat pin.

Eldridge got out of town at once Saturday night, having been warned by local friends the police were after him.

A Child's Terrible Death.

During the absence of the mother, who was out in the garden digging potatoes with her husband, Tuesday evening, the little 5-year-old daughter of Robert McDonald, of Seesawee, secured matches in one, and her clothes caught fire. She ran out in the yard. The father caught her, and threw her in a barrel of water. She lived in terrible agony until morning. It is supposed she tried to light a lamp as she had seen her parents do, it being out of his place on the table.

A Test Case.

Judge Frank Hammond, of Benton Harbor, who declared that the quail season opened October 1 and who shot a large number of birds on October 9 in direct violation of the orders of the state game warden's department in order to make a test case, was placed under arrest Thursday by a constable acting for the state game warden. Hammond is the well known attorney who made a test case of the same law last year and won out.

POINTS FOR ARBITRATION

The agreement to settle the great anthracite coal miners' strike by arbitration was reached at 1 a. m. Thursday and resulted from two conferences of President Roosevelt with John Mitchell and two with Messrs. Bacon and Perkins, who are J. P. Morgan's partners. The commission to inquire into, consider and pass upon all questions at issue between the operators and miners in the anthracite coal fields, named by the President, follows:

1. An eight-hour day for all employees working by the day, week or month.

2. An increase of 20 per cent in the wages of all miners employed by the ton.

3. The establishment of a 2,240-pound ton in all mines.

4. Recognition of mine committees in adjusting disputes or grievances.

5. More thorough organization of all skilled mechanics employed in and about the mines.

6. Condemnation of the Delaware & Hudson Company in reducing wages at the Plymouth colliery.

7. Reinstatement of the colliery men discharged by the Delaware & Hudson Company for refusing to work on "swing" shifts.

8. Revision of the contract system and limitation to two in the number of laborers to be employed by any one contractor.

9. The abolition of the "blacklist" system.

Here are the demands of the miners that the operators refuse to submit to arbitration. They will not be considered by the commission:

1. Recognition of the union.

2. Investigation of opposition of union miners to work with non-union men.

3. Systematic examination of working cards at the mines.

4. The right of union miners to strike at collieries employing non-union labor.

It will be seen from this schedule that Mr. Mitchell has forced consideration of nine out of thirteen demands submitted by him five months ago.

JIM YOUNGER.

The notorious bandit commits suicide, Being Despondent.

James Younger, formerly a member of the notorious Jesse James band of outlaws, which infested the western country a quarter of a century ago, committed suicide in St. Paul by shooting. He left a letter to the press in which he gives as a reason for his act, despondency over continued ill-health, and separation from his friends.

Younger, since his parole from the penitentiary in July of last year, has led an exemplary life. His first employment was as traveling agent for a tombstone dealer, and on one of the trips he made about the state, he was seriously hurt by a fall from a wagon. Old wounds also gave him much trouble, and although he obtained lighter employment, his health was precarious, and this caused him much worry. He was 54 years of age.

On a bureau in the room was found a long Manila envelope on one side of which was written:

"To all that is good and true, I love and bid farewell."

"JIM YOUNGER."

On the other side of the envelope were these words:

"Oh, Lizzie, good-bye.

"All relatives, just stay away from me. No crocodile tears wanted.

"Reporters—Be my friends. Burn me up."

"JIM YOUNGER."

On another sheet of paper Younger had written this message, evidently his last words before committing suicide:

"Oct. 18.—Last night on earth. So good-bye, Lizzie, for I still think of thee. A. U. G. Forgive me for this, for this is my only chance. I have done nothing wrong. But politics is all that Van Sant, Wolfner and others of their stripe care for. Let the people judge. Treat me right and fair, reporters, for I am a square man. A socialist and decidedly in favor of woman's rights. Bryan is the brightest man these United States has ever produced. His one mistake was in not coming out for all the people and absolute socialism. Come out, Bryan. There is no such thing as a personal God. God is universal and I know him well and am not afraid. I have pity for the pardoning board, they do not stop to consider their wives nor to think of the man who knows how to love and appreciate a friend in truth. Good-bye, sweet Lizzie."

The envelope contained a package of letters that had passed between Younger and a lady with whom he is said to have been much in love. The lady, who is prominently connected, is said to have reciprocated his affection, and it was reported at one time that they were to be married. The lady's relatives raised strenuous objections to the marriage, and a further obstacle was the fact that it was pointed out that a paroled prisoner could not legally contract a marriage.

Coal Stringency Over.

The president of an anthracite coal road, a member of the coal trust, asked how soon the hard coal stringency would be relieved by the developments of the last couple of days, replied:

"The stringency is ended now. You must remember that everybody has been holding up in case of an emergency, until certain of a supply from the mines. All this stored coal will now be released and will be brought to market."

Secretary Shaw spoke in Oakland City, Ind., Friday night. He said he was opposed to a reduction of the tariff for the reason that it would throw thousands of workmen out of employment.

Wm. Coates, aged 18 years, has been convicted at St. Joseph, Mo., of the murder of his mother, Eliza Coates. The crime was committed 3 months ago. The boy had been anxious to obtain possession of the property held by his parent, and choked her to death with the expectation that he would become the principal beneficiary of the estate.

The little mining town of Keoto, Mo., was almost destroyed by a hurricane Sunday night. Two men, one woman and one child, names unknown, were killed. Edward Yall was badly injured.

Board of Arbitration To Settle Labor Dispute.

The appointment by President Roosevelt of a board of arbitrators to settle the dispute between operators and miners is the longest and costliest in the history of the Pennsylvania coal region. The decision of the board is to be made in the month of November.

General John M. Wilson ("an officer of the engineer corps of either the military or naval service of the United States") is the late chief of the engineering department of the United States. He was born in 1837, was graduated from West Point in 1860, and served in the artillery branch of the service. He was transferred to the engineers in 1862. He reached the grade of lieutenant colonel at the end of the war, although in the war he was breveted colonel of volunteers for gallantry in various battles. For thirty years he has had charge of engineering work on rivers, harbors, canals and other public enterprises. He retired in October, 1901.

Bishop Spalding of Peoria, Ill. Spalding, John Lancaster, R. O., bishop of Peoria, Ill. ("A representative of the United Mineworkers of Judge George Gray. Judge George Gray of Wilmington, Del. ("One of the judges of the United States courts"), was born in New Castle, Del., on May 4, 1840. He is a graduate of Princeton, 1859 (A. M. 1862, LL. D. 1889), and studied law at Harvard. He was admitted to the bar in 1863 and practiced at New Castle and afterward at Wilmington. He was attorney general of Delaware from 1879 to 1885; United States senator 1885-'99; was a member of the foreign relations and judiciary committees in the senate. Though a Democrat, in 1896 he was affiliated with the national (gold) Democrats. He was appointed a member of the Spanish peace commission which sat in Paris, and a member of the joint high commission at Quebec. He was also a member of the international committee of arbitration under The Hague convention.

Edward Wheeler Parker, statistician of the United States Geological Survey, expert special agent of the twelfth census, and editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New school education. Mr. Parker is the author of the annual reports on production of coal in the United States; production of coke in the United States; production of good salt in the United States, and other chapters in the annual volumes of the United States Geological Survey.

Edgar E. Clark. Edgar E. Clark, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grand chief of the order of Railway Conductors and member of the executive committee of the National Civic Federation. ("A man of prominence, eminent as a sociologist.") President Roosevelt in appointing Mr. Clark assumes that for the purposes of such a commission the term sociologist means a man who has thought and studied deeply on social questions and has practically applied his knowledge.

Thomas H. Watkins. Thomas H. Watkins of Scranton, Pa. ("A man who by active participation in mining and selling coal is familiar with the physical and commercial features of the business.")

Carroll D. Wright, Recorder. Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor, will act as re-

America). His grace was born in Lebanon, Ky., in 1840. He was educated at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., the University of Louvain, Belgium, and in Rome. He was secretary to the Bishop of Louisville in 1865, and in 1869 built St. Augustine's church for Catholic Negroes of Louisville; chancellor diocese of Louisville, 1871; in New York, 1872-'7. Bishop Spalding is the author of the life of the Most Rev. M. J. Spalding, of essays and reviews; Religious Mission of the Irish People. He is a lecturer on education and the higher life. He has held the bishopric of Peoria since 1877.

York. "An expert mining engineer, experienced in the mining of coal and other minerals, and not in any way connected with coal mining properties, either anthracite or bituminous." Mr. Parker was born in Port Deposit, Md., in 1860. He received a common order of the Board of Arbitration. He is one of the best known labor authorities in the United States.

The membership of the board is as satisfactory to the miners as any selection that could have been made, and in convention the men agreed to abide by the decision. Public opinion, which has all along been on the side of the strikers, was so largely in favor of this method of ending the strike that practically no other course was open to them. The shortage of coal had become a serious menace and the country demanded a settlement.

Good Parliamentary Record. A remarkable example of constant attendance in the house of commons through a long series of years has been given by an Irish M. P., Donald Sullivan. He has been seventeen years a member and has taken part in over 5,000 divisions. This year he has been in the house during every division, though refraining from taking part in five through the Irish party abstaining. Mr. Sullivan goes down to the house every session day at noon and remains till the end, however late it may be. His only exercise is walking on the terrace and he is in the best of health.

Good Memory for Faces. The late Lord Charles Russell of Killowen had a wonderful memory for faces. On one occasion he visited a theater in Manchester and between acts went behind the scenes to see an old friend. While they were chatting and actor passed and Lord Charles said to his friend: "I remember that man. He was the original Father Tom in the 'Colleen Bawn.' I saw him in that character the night the play was produced twenty years ago." Though Russell had not seen the actor in all that time he remembered him at once.

The Largest Cave in Europe. In the Mucotthal, near Schwyz, Switzerland, there is probably the largest cave in Europe. The existence of the cave had long been known, but it could only be entered by crawling, no one had troubled to investigate the interior. This summer, however, three separate parties have explored it. The distance traversed amounts altogether to no less than 8,000 yards, and the end of the cavern has not yet been reached.

Indian Girl a Society Favorite. One of the most interesting passengers among those brought to New York by the American liner St. Paul on her latest trip from Southampton was Miss Grace Naylor, 16 years old and a full-blooded Indian. After the battle of Wounded Knee, which was fought in South Dakota fifteen years ago, a soldier found a baby girl on the battlefield and took her to Capt. Naylor. Mrs. Naylor adopted her, educated her, took her abroad and now Miss Grace is a Washington favorite.

Schemes of Diamond Thieves. Probably there are more ingenious thieves in Kimberley than in any city of its size in the world, and they are all after diamonds. One day a French man appeared at Kimberley. He wore boots, fitted with Parisian heels, two inches or more in height. A trifling matter of being seen talking confidentially with a native woman directed attention to him. His boots were hollow and filled with diamonds.

English Bishop to Visit Us. Rt. Rev. Arthur Thomas Lloyd, who bears the title of lord bishop of Thetford, England, is expected to arrive in this country shortly and will conduct a series of missionary meetings in New York city. The bishop is one of the vice presidents of the Church Missionary Society of England, the largest foreign missionary organization in the world, and is noted throughout Great Britain as an able preacher.

Rev. Thomas B. Neely. Rev. Thomas B. Neely, of the Methodist church and secretary of the Sunday School Union. Dr. Neely is said to be foremost among his brethren in his knowledge of the history of the church and of conference work. He is an orator and has been specially successful in his pastoral labors.

She was easily persuaded to wait another day before she called on the sick man. Laura little dreamed that the unconscious stranger whom her companion was nursing was the one her fond, loving heart longed for. Thus, in blissful ignorance of the peril of her Paul, she waited for the train to move on. She had not long to wait. Next morning, long before it was light, she was awakened by the noise of Esquimau teamsters and yelping dogs and cracking whips. She hurriedly dressed and gazed out into the starless night. She saw angry clouds gather about the mountain peaks, and the air was full of flakes. "Sled ready," the Esquimau chattered.

She made haste to get ready to take her place on it. All was bustle and confusion. Laura looked in vain for the face of some one she knew. For the first time in her life the face of Lackland would have been welcome. "Where is he? Where is Lackland?" she asked. "Um, boss gone," the Esquimau answered.

"What of him—what of him?" asked Clarence, eagerly. "Well, we don't know; old Glum thought as how may be you better come down and interview them mummies an' see what ye can git out o' 'em." "You say they are at Ralston's shanty?" "Yes." "Why didn't they come here?" "Well, ye see, they're a little off their feed. Their peddles are bent an' their feet don't track—all from goin' over d' rocks and snow until d' skin's worn off." Ethel seized her own and her husband's cap, saying: "Let us hasten to Glum's shanty." "As you say, my dear. Come, we will go at once and learn all we can." They closed up their house, and, accompanied by Dick and Gid, hastened away toward the shanty of old Glum Ralston.

The Klondyke Gold Mystery.

CHAPTER XIII. (Continued.) "Information about what?" "Bout the youth as has slipped an eccentric and started to take in d' hills last winter." In a moment Ethel was on her feet, her pretty face all glowing with interest and cried: "Do you mean Paul—Paul Miller?" "That's the chap whose name I was flirtn' with." "What of him—what of him?" asked Clarence, eagerly. "Well, we don't know; old Glum thought as how may be you better come down and interview them mummies an' see what ye can git out o' 'em." "You say they are at Ralston's shanty?" "Yes." "Why didn't they come here?" "Well, ye see, they're a little off their feed. Their peddles are bent an' their feet don't track—all from goin' over d' rocks and snow until d' skin's worn off." Ethel seized her own and her husband's cap, saying: "Let us hasten to Glum's shanty." "As you say, my dear. Come, we will go at once and learn all we can." They closed up their house, and, accompanied by Dick and Gid, hastened away toward the shanty of old Glum Ralston.

They reached the lower part of the camp, which had grown to quite a village of shanties. Great fires were blazing in pits. These were fires built to thaw the ground so the miners could dig it up and wash it. A small knot of people were gathered in front of Glum Ralston's shanty, talking in strange whispers, nodding and gesticulating in a manner which indicated that some matter of great moment was under discussion. Clarence and Ethel passed through the throng and entered the shanty. Here a slight met their gaze calculated to awaken their profoundest sympathy. Four dark-skinned young men whose once robust frames had been worn away to skeletons were reclining on piles of skins, filling their empty stomachs with food placed before them.

"Where are you from?" Clarence asked. "From the island of Metlakahla," one answered. "Have you come direct from there?" "No." "Where have you been?" "We were lost in the woods for a long time and almost perished from cold and hunger. We wanted to wait until spring, but he did not. He had been detained for so many months that he would wait no longer. He said months and years were rolling over his head since he had seen her or written to her." "Of whom are you speaking?" "He called himself Crack-lash." "Paul—Paul! It is Paul!" cried Ethel, clapping her hands in delight. "Hush, dear; let us be sure," whispered Clarence, then turned to further interrogate the stranger.

"What kind of a young man was this Crack-lash?" "Like you, only darker; that's all." "Well, how did he reach your island?" "Come on an ice boat?" "Ice boat?" "Yes—great mountain of ice. He was on ice." "He surely means an iceberg," said Clarence, fixing his eyes on Glum Ralston. The old man nodded his head and said: "There ain't no doubt of it. He means an iceberg." "If he does, then this man he calls Crack-lash is none other than Crack-lash Paul." "You're correct, mate," Glum Ralston answered, with a nod of his head. The Indian then took another sip or two of the soup and told how on the way they had captured one of the men who had robbed him. They had crossed a mountain range and were making their way toward the Yukon, when they were, all four drawn off on a moose trail.

On their return they were unable to find neither the prisoner Crack-lash nor the mysterious captain, who had years before been on their island, but had been abducted by two of his own sailors, one of whom they had captured, and Crack-lash recognized him as one of the robbers. It was a long story, and took a long time to tell. Paul's fate was unknown, but the chances were he was a prisoner or dead in the forest. "Do you believe this story, Glum?" Clarence asked. "Every word o' it is the gospel truth," he answered. "What are you going to do?" "I am going to look for him. I'll find him dead or alive. If dead, I'll bury him; if alive, I'll bring him home." Clarence arose, and taking the hand of the blind old miner, said: "Glum, I'll go with you." "And her," cried Glum, nodding toward his wife. "Oh, never mind me; never mind me," the wife quickly answered. "I can get along very well alone. I want him to go and try to find poor Paul, if such a thing is possible." "I'll go," he declared. Clarence Berry then proceeded to interrogate the Metlakahlians, and drew from them the story in detail. Next day, in company with Ralston, he set out to find the men lost in the forest.

It had been nearly three years since Theodore Lackland had seen Paul Miller, and no wonder he failed to recognize him. Such a change had suffered and hardship marked on him that he more nearly resembled some ferocious animal than a human being. When he uttered a cry and pronounced Lackland's name that individual asked: "Who are you?" But he had heard that voice and knew the man. It was Paul Miller transformed into a wild man. Paul glared ferociously at the man whom he had first welcomed as friends. "Don't come—don't approach me!" he hissed, his eyes flashing with fire. "I understand your devilish, malicious designs upon me, and I will shoot you dead if you come too close." "I have come to find you, my dear friend. The dog courier bore the message to us that you were perishing in the woods, and we set out to find you." Paul grew weak and dizzy, and sitting down on the snow, gasped: "I didn't know it would fall into your hands, or I would have perished in the woods before I sent it."

Lackland gave Cummins a wink and continued to hold the attention of Paul, while his hireling slipped behind him to attack him from the rear. "You misapprehend us, Paul," continued Lackland. "We don't intend any harm to you. You are sick; you are almost perishing, but we want to save you." "I don't want to be saved by such as you. Go on, I say, and I will make my way to Dawson City alone." Cummins at this moment seized him from behind. Paul made a desperate struggle to free himself, but famine, suffering and toil had overcome him completely, and he soon lay breathless on the snow. "I am sent by Miss Laura Kean, who is in Juneau, waiting for you, to conduct you to her."

"It's a lie! Oh, my heavens, I know it is a lie, and I am unable to resist." The name of the woman he loved pronounced by the lips he hated most seemed to have filled him with rage, and he struggled like a madman to break away from his captors. Two more came to the assistance of Cummins, and they threw him upon the snow with such force that when they lifted his body his head fell back. Paul was insensible. The blood was trickling from a wound in his forehead, and dyeing the virgin snow. "Thunder, I'm afraid he is dead!" Lackland declared. They carried him down the mountain side for a mile, where there was a grove of pines, and, calling a halt, built a fire. He then sent for a sled to take the wounded man back to camp. "Cummins," said Lackland, "now comes the finest scheming we have ever done."

"What is it?" "We must keep them separate." "Who?" "The wounded man and the girl. I also want to separate the old woman from the young woman, and I think I have hit upon a scheme that will be sure to win. This fellow will need a nurse, and I will coax the old woman to stay with him." The sled was brought and Paul, who had recovered, but was delirious, was placed on it. He had every symptom of brain fever. Lackland began to speculate on the chances of his recovery, and decided they were slim. They conducted him to a place on the lake two miles above the present camp and set his men to work building a hut for the wounded man.

After seeing the sufferer comfortable in the rude shanty constructed for him, and setting some Indians to cutting wood to supply him, Lackland went to the camp where Laura had been left. Then with a face deeply furrowed with anxiety he waited on Miss Kate Willis and said: "My good woman, I came to ask a favor of you." Kate gave him a doubting glance, and said in a snappish manner: "What is it?" "I almost hesitate, for the request is a serious one. We found a poor, wandering Klondyker on the mountainside, bereft of his reason and nearly dying. He needs the tender care of some kind-hearted woman to nurse him back to life."

"Where is he?" she asked, her manner at once changing. "He is at the grove a mile or two back on this trail." "Why didn't ye bring him here?" "Because he is too weak to bring so far. Besides, we have built a shanty and made him as comfortable as possible." So skillfully did he manage it that Laura was detained in the camp and Kate Willis sent flying back in her dog sled. As evening came Laura declared her intention to go to her female companion, but the rascally Esquimau, who had been posted what to do, could not catch the dogs to harness them to the sled. She found herself alone in the camp with those strange men, and her soul was filled with dread. But morning brought Kate back. Her heart was filled with sympathy for the unfortunate young man. "I will go with Kate," declared Laura.

She was easily persuaded to wait another day before she called on the sick man. Laura little dreamed that the unconscious stranger whom her companion was nursing was the one her fond, loving heart longed for. Thus, in blissful ignorance of the peril of her Paul, she waited for the train to move on. She had not long to wait. Next morning, long before it was light, she was awakened by the noise of Esquimau teamsters and yelping dogs and cracking whips. She hurriedly dressed and gazed out into the starless night. She saw angry clouds gather about the mountain peaks, and the air was full of flakes. "Sled ready," the Esquimau chattered.

She made haste to get ready to take her place on it. All was bustle and confusion. Laura looked in vain for the face of some one she knew. For the first time in her life the face of Lackland would have been welcome. "Where is he? Where is Lackland?" she asked. "Um, boss gone," the Esquimau answered.

"Where is she? Where is Kate? I do not want to go without her; I will not go alone," cried Laura, beginning to fear treachery. "Hold!" shouted the Esquimau, and crack went his whip, and the dogs bounded forward like the wind. "Stop! Hold!" she shrieked, but her voice was lost on the raging wind, and she went soaring away into the night and beating snow. Meanwhile Paul lay on his hard pallet of skins asleep, with his faithful nurse at his side, her eyes on the face of the sufferer. He was sleeping peacefully. The fever had almost abated, and his brow was less flushed. The woman held the lamp closer to his face and muttered: "He is getting better."

CHAPTER XIV. Kate for Harmony. Morning dawned amid a raging snowstorm, but thanks to the logs and frozen mud with which the little cabin had been daubed, the patient was comfortable. Kate brought some warm broth and gave him a few spoonfuls, and he whispered: "Where am I?" "I don't know. Somewhere in that everlastin' cold, snowin' country called Alaska; but I couldn't give ye the metes and bounds if I was to try." "Who are you?" he whispered. "I'm Kate Willis, the woman that washes for a living at Seattle. I'm on my way to Klondyke to start a laundry." "Who are you with?" "Well, there's a hull passel in our crowd, but I don't know many o' 'em. Yed better be quiet, an' when yer better ye kin git acquainted with 'em."

Paul acquiesced in her plan by simply nodding his head and closing his eyes, and she resumed her work. When he awoke there was a marked change in his manner, and he was regaining his strength. She brought him, some more broth, and, after he had taken a few spoonfuls, he said: "Did you say you came from Seattle?" "Yes." "Who brought me here?" "It was the boss of the train that's goin' to the Klondyke. I reckon he'll be here after while an' then ye can see him yourself. I don't think ye ought to talk too much." "Yes—I ought not. They struck me on the head." He shut his eyes and tried to sleep and she went to the door of the little cabin. All was clear. She saw one of the Indians loitering near and called to him and ordered him to go to the next camp and ascertain what had detained the dog sled. (To be continued.)

AN IRISH "WITCH DOCTOR." Strange Story of Superstition That is Vouched For. At Ballymore police court, County Galway, Ireland, a few days ago, a "witch doctor" was charged with having obtained money by false pretenses. The accused was a small farmer in the district and the prosecutor another farmer named Moore, who had been ill. The accused met Moore and told him if he carried out his instructions he would be as sound as a rock. As a first installment he demanded about 12 shillings from Moore to get through the preliminaries and when he came to the real "cure" he said it would be necessary to have gold, silver and copper coins. The sick man provided a sovereign, a 2-shilling piece and a penny. The witch doctor then stripped him, wound him up in a sheet and placed him sitting in a chair in which were two red-hot bricks. The patient underwent terrible agony, but he bore it patiently, while the witch doctor went on his knees and uttered some unintelligible prayers. After the burning the "doctor" put the coins separately into the sick man's mouth, refusing to allow him to touch them with his hand. Then he buried the coins and told Moore he was cured, but warned him against looking for the coins, saying that if any one dug the place up they would very likely instead find a couple of "darkidies"—insects credited by the ignorant and superstitious with the powers of evil. The police subsequently dug up the ground where the coins were supposed to have been buried but none was found there. The prisoner was held for trial.

Starved on Condensed Milk. Dr. Raymond of the Brooklyn Board of Health, has, according to the Eagle, investigated the 663 deaths among children under two years old due to cholera infantum, diarrhea and other similar diseases. He ascertained that fully 90 per cent of these children had been fed on condensed milk, 10 per cent were nursing infants and the remainder were nourished by various prepared baby foods. Most of the condensed milk used was of the canned variety, depending on the large amount of sugar in it to preserve it. The mothers were accustomed to dilute this in ten parts of water. In this form it was fed to the child. Owing to the sweetness of the mixture the children liked it, of course, and seemed to thrive, as the sugar fattened them. But there is a preponderance of casein in condensed milk which is not digestible. There is also an absence of fat. Hence the children, who had been fed with this food presented broken down systems to the summer heat and could not stand the strain. Death followed.

Be this as it may, it emphasizes the necessity of putting a stop to the fraud of selling condensed skim milk as condensed milk.—New York Produce Review.

Relation of Fat to Cheese Products. A good many people are still ignorant of the fact that the richness of milk largely regulates its value for cheese-making. Yet this truth has been known for a number of years. At the Wisconsin state fair, Professor Farrington showed six cheeses to illustrate this. His exhibit was as follows: 11-lb cheese—Made from 200 lbs. skimmed milk, testing 10 per cent. 13.4-lb cheese—Made from 200 lbs. milk, testing 1 per cent fat. 16-lb cheese—Made from 200 lbs. milk, testing 2 per cent fat. 18.4-lb. cheese—Made from 200 lbs. milk, testing 3 per cent fat. 21.8-lb. cheese—Made from 200 lbs. milk, testing 4 per cent fat. 24.8-lb. cheese—Made from 200 lbs. Milk, testing 5 per cent fat. It will be seen that the old rule of one pound of cheese from ten of milk seldom holds good, the best milk in this case yielding about one pound of cheese from eight of milk, while the poorest gave one pound of cheese from about 19 of milk. The casein content of milk holds nearly a constant relation to its fat content.

Pump Irrigation. In our western country and even in some localities in the central west, considerable irrigation has been done by the means of pumps. Some declare that irrigation by means of pumps can never amount to much. But we know that this practice is as old as civilization, and this mode of irrigation has been employed in some parts of the world successfully for centuries. There are many places in our western states, where from five to fifteen acres of land are irrigated by pumps driven by wind-mills. Doubtless the future will see the further utilization of the pump, whether driven by wind or by other force.

Fat-Tailed Sheep in Siberia. Vast tracts of natural pasture in Siberia are considered ideal for sheep raising, says the Live Stock Journal. The fat-tailed Tartar sheep is the best. At present these sheep are reared for the fat on their tails. The fat grows all throughout the summer and a yearling will give 20 pounds of tallow. In the winter months the fat gradually disappears; it is one of the provisions of nature. When no more food is to be had because of the snow the sheep derive sustenance by absorbing the tail fat. If housed and fed in the winter, the fat remains. This fat-tailed sheep is not a great wool producer, and an inferior breed is kept for that purpose.

Dormant Bacteria. Prof. John L. Sheldon says: "Like some weeds, bacteria may remain dormant for long periods. When the conditions necessary for their growth return they immediately become active. Seeds of the sockle-burr, ragweed and sunflower may lie in the ground for a year or more without germinating, but when the soil is stirred up and they begin to feel the influence of the sunshine and air, the seedlings burst from their seed coats and push their way up through the soil, apparently all the more vigorous on account of their long rest." New Zealand Bacon Shipments. For some years the New Zealanders have been trying to ship bacon to England and get it there in good condition. Until recently they have met with little success so far as getting their product to market in good shape was concerned. The bacon generally came onto the market either tainted or discolored, due to the methods of freezing. Now a method of chilling and freezing has been invented that is said to make it possible to put the bacon onto the English market in as fine condition as when it came from the New Zealand factories. The food and drink of hogs should be perfectly pure, if a pure product is desired.

There is some talk of Stockbridge getting a brickyard in the near future. At last Ypellanti has a soft thing. A feather bed factory has located in that city.

The Jackson Maccoobees are making preparations to erect a temple to coast in the neighborhood of $20,000. Stockbridge's gas plant is being rushed to completion, and it is hoped to have it in running order within a short time.

It is reported that Miss Hazen will resign her position as teacher in our schools at Thanksgiving time and Miss Mingay at Christmas.—Clinton Local.

The Stockbridge Sun wishes that some man with a little enterprise would purchase the mill at that place and turn a little steam loom in the wheels that adorn the engine room roof.

Mrs. Laura Kellogg of Stockbridge celebrated her 91st birthday Tuesday of last week. She still remains well and smart, taking nearly all the care of her room, and doing other kinds of work about the house. She does not use spectacles and her hearing is good.

The students at Ann Arbor have solved the fuel problem in a manner that is not at all pleasing to the city officials. The city is doing some paving with block asphalt, and the boys have discovered that for heating purposes it beats coal to a standstill, and the blocks which are piled up along the street are rapidly disappearing.

Last year Godfrey Fowle of Hudson went to the Hillsdale fair and his pockets were picked of quite a considerable money, so this year he went prepared for the light fingered gentry, and filled an old pocketbook with paper, and put it in his hip pocket. When he got ready to come home the pocketbook was gone, and he thinks he played a pretty good joke on the man that picked his pockets.

A very valuable pointer dog belonging to Dr. Hutchins died yesterday. A post-mortem showed that it had been shot, a small rifle ball in its body being the cause of its death. The dog was probably the most valuable one in the city and Dr. Hutchins would not have taken $500 for it. He paid $275 for it. A reward has been offered for the discovery of the party who shot the dog.—Argus.

Two students from Ann Arbor were in the city Tuesday on mischief bent, but found that Jackson was not accustomed to "student privileges." One of them attempted to engage a lady, passing on the street, in conversation, and was promptly arrested. Upon the promise of his friend that he would take the brazen student back to Ann Arbor, he was released and his promise was kept.—Jackson Patriot.

We understand that a change is soon to be made in the Citizen's Bank workings. Shares of stock are being offered to a limited number who will form a stock company and organize a state bank. Mr. Davenport & Son will doubtless be heavy stockholders in the new firm. It is possible that this change will destroy the prospects of the previously talked of bank in the Burg building.—Saline Observer.

The highest as to the cause of the death of Henry Giltner, who was killed in the collapse of the Otsego hotel at Jackson Saturday, ended with a verdict which completely exonerated Architect Albright and Contractor Pickles. It attributed the cause to the effect of the wet weather on the mortar of the partition wall, which collapsed under the added weight of the cement floor saturated with moisture from heavy rains. The verdict was in accord with the unanimous opinion of several experts, who declared that the plans were all right; that their execution was all that it should have been and that both the contractor and architect took all the precautions that would have been suggested to men of ordinary prudence.

Blind During Attacks Of Heart Failure. Would Appear To Be Dead. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Relieved and Cured.

"I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is all that one can wish it to be. I was troubled with heart disease for fifteen years. I have tried many different remedies but until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could not get well. I was subject to headaches and had tried your Pain Pills and they were so effective I thought your Heart Cure might help me. I would have attacks at times so severe that I would be stone blind for the time being. During these attacks I would be to all appearances dead. I took the medicine strictly as directed and I can truthfully say that I am completely cured. I advise all that are troubled with heart disease to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure at once. I wish to give my name to my fellow sufferers."—S. E. Purdy, Atkinson, Nebraska.

"I first felt the effects of a weak heart in the fall of 1896. I saw an advertisement in the Sioux City paper in which a man stated his symptoms which seemed to me to indicate a trouble similar to mine. I had a soreness in the chest at times, and in my shoulder, an oppressive choking sensation in my throat and suffered from weak and hungry spells. I was truly frightened at my condition and procured six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Since taking my first bottle I have never been bothered by any of the old disagreeable symptoms and now am well and consider my cure permanent."—Lewis Anderson, Kuhn, S. D.

Eugene Field's Views on Ambition and Dyspepsia. "Dyspepsia," wrote Eugene Field, "often incapacitates a man for endeavor and sometimes extinguishes the fire of ambition." Though great despite his complaint Field suffered from indigestion all his life. A weak, tired stomach can't digest your food. It needs rest. You can only rest it by the use of a preparation like Kodol, which relieves it of work by digesting your food. Rest soon restores it to its normal tone. Strengthening, Satisfying, Evaporating.
