SUGAR BEET GROWING.

A Small but Enthusiastic Audience Listened to Lucid Talks on this Important Subject.

The sugar beet meeting announced to be held at the town hall, Chelsea, Monday, drew a small but interested audience. The day was very cold and stormy, and every man who came out, came to learn of this important agricultural crop.

The meeting was called to order by Jacob Hummel, who made a brief introductory address. Mr. Hummel sold $58 worth of beets off a single acre last year and is a firm believer in the sugar beet as a money crop for the farmer.

John Kalmbach also made a short talk sustaining the industry and believing that sugar beets will prove one of the most profitable farm crops.

Messrs. Hummel and Kalmbach anticipate putting in a considerable acreage of sugar beets this year, provided they can secure the proper kind of land convenient to town.

H. S. Holmes told of his observations in traveling over the state. Where sugar beets were grown extensively, the farming communities had prospered and business circles had shared the benefits. He noticed that land rentals and land values had advanced, as the industry became established. Mr. Holmes expects to interest his tenant in growing sugar beets on his large farm.

J. M. Rankin, a representative of the Detroit Sugar Co., gave a talk containing a good many practical suggestions for the grower of sugar beets. Mr. Rankin will superintend $350 acres of sugar beets for S. O. Burgdorff, who grows 1,000 acres for the Detroit Sugar Co. He was formerly in charge of the sugar beet investigations of the Michigan Experiment Station under the direction of Prof. C. D. Smith.

J. W. Jones, district superintendent for the Detroit Sugar Co., gave a 40-minute talk on the production of beet sugar. Mr. Jones was formerly secretary of the Illinois Beet Growers' Association and has been identified with sugar beet growing and scientific investigation for several years.

He called attention to the fact that the United States imported about $115,000,000 worth of raw sugar last year, which represented more than one-fourth of our entire imports. Sugar is an agricultural product and this is the greatest agricultural country on the face of the globe. Michigan has the soil and natural environments calculated to make this the greatest sugar producing state in the union.

G. T. English told of his experience in growing the sugar beet for the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. His beets tested 18.6 per cent of sugar, whereas the average for the state was but 14.1 per cent, showing conclusively that our soil is well adapted for growing high grade beets.

The factory pays $4.50 per ton for beets containing 12 per cent sugar and scale 33½ cents for each additional 1 per cent of sugar; therefore, 18 per cent sugar beets command $6.50 per ton or nearly timely prices, and they yield from 10 to 20 tons per acre. It usually costs from $18 to $30 to grow, harvest and draw an acre of beets. This district will likely grow a considerable acreage this year.

Lyndon Farmers' Institute.

CHELSEA MFG. CO.

Increases Its Capital and is now Known as Chelsea Mfg. Co. Limited.

The growth of Chelsea's manufacturing interests is evidenced by the recent execution of articles of partnership association limited by A. R. Welch, J. D. Watson and Fred S. Welch, on behalf of the Chelsea Manufacturing Co. Limited, whereby the capital stock of the old company is increased from $25,000 to $200,000 in the new company, all of which is fully paid. The new company completely absorbs the old and will seek to extend its established line of business and in addition thereto will undertake the manufacture and production of automobiles, a highly satisfactory model (known as the Welch Touring Car) having been evolved by dint of extensive experimental work during the past year on the part of the company's manager, A. R. Welch.

The work of producing and marketing 100 Touring Cars of the 1903 model will be one of the additional features of the business.

One of the largest stockholders of the newly organized company is A. C. Wisner, of Battle Creek. Mr. Wisner's reputation as a financier and promoter is second to none, and his well earned reputation as a successful financier gives rise to the prediction that the future outlook of the Chelsea Mfg. Co. Limited is very bright indeed. Success to the new undertaking.

Death of Mrs. Wm. Palmer.

One of the oldest of the pioneer settlers of this section passed away Friday, Jan. 9, when Mrs. Charlotte Palmer, widow of the late Wm. Palmer, and mother of Dr. G. W. Palmer, of Chelsea, died of pneumonia after a week's illness, at the home of her son James H. Palmer, of Waterloo township, aged over 80 years.

Mrs. Palmer was born in King's Lynn, county Norfolk, England. When 22 years old she was married to Wm. Palmer and for 56 years they lived an honorable and happy wedded life. In 1847 they came to Michigan and located on the farm now occupied by Edward Gorman in Lyndon. They had intended going to Illinois, but a sister of Mr. Palmer was taken sick and they nursed her until all their stock of ready money was exhausted and they had to settle where they were. From there they went to a farm 1¼ miles east of Lyndon Center, near Island Lake, and in 1863 they moved to Waterloo which was their home until two years ago when Mr. Palmer died, owning 400 acres of land clear of incumbrance and a good supply of cash in hand. Thus this worthy couple had by industry and thrift arisen from poor circumstances to comparative affluence. Twelve children were born to them, six of whom are still alive: Dr. G. W. Palmer, of Chelsea; James H., of Waterloo; Levi B., of Jackson; Mrs. Sarah Coboon, of Alpena; Mrs. Susan E. Clark, of California, and Perry P., of Jackson.

The funeral services were held Monday and were conducted by Rev. Mr. Gordon, of Waterloo. Interment was in the family burial lot in Mt. Hope cemetery, Waterloo.

THE THEATER TALKER.
An Intolerable Nuisance Quickly and Quietly Suppressed by a Little Wit.

They had been reading a Rolfe annotated edition of the play, and there was nothing in "Julius Caesar" that they were not perfectly familiar with. Before the performance was half through there was nothing that they knew which everybody within half a dozen rows did not hear about; for among the three of them—a man and two women—there were such capacities for superfluous conversation as are met with nowhere except in a theater, says the New York Mail and Express.

In tones that alternately hissed and brayed and rasped till spinal columns all around them ached they told one another that Antony was much better done than Brutus, that Portia would come on in a minute in the garden scene; that Casca was supposed to be a gruff old Roman; that Caesar actually did have fits—think of it! that it was a pity (this in a whisper that shivered far down the aisle and splintered at least a score of vertebrae) Roman ladies didn't wear corsets. So on, ad nauseam.

At last the ghost and the distraught Brutus met and there was a thrilled silence in all the crowded house save in row Q, where a strident voice complained: "I can't hear a word the ghost says. Why doesn't he speak louder?"

A man behind the querulous disturber, quite beside himself with rage, leaned forward and said in tones as courteously sweet as the sting of a honey bee: "Perhaps the ghost is a gentleman, and does not like to annoy people."

Which, of course, was very rude, though it did fill many hearts with an unholy joy.

At other times I had a heavy, depressed feeling which made my work seem twice as hard, and I grew pale and thin. The medicine the doctor gave me did not do me one bit of good, and I was thoroughly discouraged. The doctor wanted me to stop work, but, of course, I could not do that. I finally began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and felt better after taking the first bottle, and after taking six bottles I was entirely cured, and am now in perfect health, and I am so grateful for it."—Miss GEORGIE MENARD, 537 E. 152nd St., New York City.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Politics of All Parties As Discussed in New York

This is 1903; in 12 months politicians will need to know where to put their hands upon presidential timber. Holidays are over, new legislatures meeting, statesmen swapping views—with most of the uncertainty, of course, on the democratic side.

If Coler had been elected governor here I don't suppose Parker would have been so much pressed as a possibility. As it is, you may as well make your mind to see in print the name of Alton B. Parker, of New York, with great frequency for the next year. And it's a pretty good name.

Politicians are short-sighted people. Platt "shelved" Roosevelt by nominating him for the vice presidency. Now he is president. Hill "shelved" Parker as a gubernatorial candidate by pressing Coler. He really thought Coler would win; Parker, he knew could win, and so did everybody else, but that would have made him a presidential favorite. Coler lost; Hill is like the jockey who tries to make a "close finish" and sees the other horse win by a nose. No doubt within a very few months he will see that there is no possibility of his getting the nomination for himself. That understood, he has no objection to Parker. The two are friends. Judge Parker cherishes no resentment toward Mr. Hill for keeping him out of the governorship. He didn't want it. He will make no move toward the presidency, but that is an office that no man refuses.

What kind of a man is this quiet judge of whom politicians are talking from Galveston to Boston? He is a strong personality, only 51 years old, young for a chief judge of the court of appeals; tall and powerfully built, a practical farmer; a man who takes a high view of judicial dignity and will have nothing to do with politics while he is on the bench, though before his elevation to it he was chairman of the democratic state executive committee. That was in 1885. In that year he steered Hill to victory as governor. Hill appointed Parker to the bench—in a way a political choice, but well justified. Later Parker was elected for the full term, no opponent being named against him.

The secret of Parker's strength is his power over men and his strong common sense. He has something like Lincoln's directness. He is as a judge not slavish to precedents. He has in one or two cases swerved the court of appeals to make precedents that will be heard of if he is nominated for president.

Platt, Odell and Woodruff.

On the republican side there is a contrast. Everything is "cut and dried."

Mr. Platt practically promised the senatorial seat to "Tiny Tim" Woodruff, of Brooklyn. Tiny Tim, the son of a senator, is a able, personally honest, but trains in a bad crowd, and is successful in business. Having been lieutenant-governor and being now ousted from that office with no prospect of getting the coveted senatorship, he might as well attend to business and let politics go. But who ever stopped chasing the rainbow?

Odell is a strong man. We shall not soon forget the surprise this man, until then known only as a machine congressman and a deputy boss under Platt, gave us when as governor he swung free of political dictation and gave the state such an administration as it had not seen since Tilden's. Even Roosevelt, though equally strong and willing, was not Odell's equal in ruling the unruly legislature and overruling Platt. The governor is to-day the governor of the party, as well as of the state. If he said the word he would be Senator Odell. But he will not.

In truth, this strong-jawed, taciturn, heavily-built, sad-eyed, not eloquent but very positive man, with the heavy lines in his face, is not ambitious. He has refused more political chances in his life than come to most men. Since his son died in Washington, he does not wish to go there. As president, perhaps—but that's a different matter; one not requiring present consideration.

So in a "Let-the-old-man-have-what-he-wants" spirit the senatorship of New York is to go to a physical wreck who has never been a figure on the floor of the upper house, whose health is not equal to the duties of the office, and who is not even the "boss" of the men who will send him there. Queer affair, politics!

The two most popular Vanderbilts are the senior William K., who divorced his wife "like a gentleman," by taking the blame himself, and the younger Cornelius, who married against his father's implacable opposition; the same Cornelius who has just been fighting a bad attack of typhoid fever.

The young man ought to have had little difficulty; the best of care was given him, and a better "risk," as insurance men would say, would have been out long ago.

The younger generation of this family does not seem to inherit much physical stamina. The old commodore was a giant, a great man mentally and physically. William H. was too fat and his life was cut off by apoplexy caused by a fit of anger. The Cornelius of that generation was a failure as a money-maker and an eccentric who lived in retirement. The next Cornelius died at the age of 55, and for years before that dragged himself to his duty by a stress of heroism and against a load of illness that were little known. He used to drag himself to the meetings of the charitable organizations of which he was the chief support long after Wall street saw him no more.

The present Cornelius is rheumatic at 30 and looks several years older. His brothers, Alfred and Reggy, are slender young fellows whose devotion to "sport" might save them if it took more of a turn to sport on the green turf and less to sport on the green cloth. There is a strong family resemblance between the brothers and their cousin, Willie K., Jr. Not one of them is a robust man. Cornelius is a lieutenant in the national guard. He took up soldiering partly for the exercise; it has the advantage that, once committed to it, he cannot dodge it, as a busy inventor might be inclined to do if it were indian clubs or ping-pong.

Two American Girls of Note.

Fifty years ago the ambitious American girl picked out a likely man to marry with the idea of helping him become senator or president. Jessie Benton Fremont, who died the other day in California at the age of 86, did that, though she failed to grasp the prize.

Nowadays if a girl has beauty she goes on the stage; if wealth, she is apt to buy a title. Two American girls who illustrate the two methods have recently arrived in the country, fresh from the scenes of their triumphs. They are Julie Opp—whether the fiancée or already the wife of Faversham, the matinee idol, is not decided as I write—and Countess von Moltke.

Let the lady of quality lead. The countess is a second member of the remarkable Garner family, to which I referred a few weeks ago. One of her sisters married the French Marquis de Breteuil; another became Lady Gordon Cumming, wife of the famous hero of the Tranby Croft baccarat scandal, in which the present king of Britain was unfortunately concerned. William L. Garner, father of these girls, was drowned 20 years ago, and their bringing up was entrusted to an aunt who lived in Paris. Little Edith in time married the Count Leon Moltke Heutfeld, a secretary in the Danish legation in Paris, a fine fellow and a grand nephew of the great German, Gen. Moltke.

Miss Opp is a New York girl, daughter of "Johnny Opp," who kept a saloon on the Bowery. The fact is not to her discredit, and it is much to the credit of her mother and her grandfather, Philip Opp, in whose honorable house she was tenderly reared. Her career on the London stage is a romance of beauty. By right of it and a regal manner well fitted to aristocratic parts she won at once. Her marriage with Robert Lorraine was unfortunate and was followed by a divorce. Faversham was also recently divorced from the wife whom he married more than ten years ago. You have to allow something, you see, to the "artistic temperament" in this romance.

Faversham is the matinee idol of all the schoolgirls in New York. Miss Opp, but for the fact that she has appeared little in this country, would succeed to the place once held by Mary Anderson, as the distant ideal of schoolboys. What a handsome pair they are—six feet and five feet ten inches in height respectively; graceful, polished in manner, fine of feature! I hope they'll act together; if they do, it won't be possible to get in at the afternoon performances without buying tickets a month ahead.

The Railroad Hotel in New York.

The news that the Pennsylvania railroad people will build a big hotel over their new station in New York has set people wondering whether the example will not be followed often. I think it will. In fact, we have what are practically railroad hotels already. Willie Stokes' huge Ansonia apartment house has a separate entrance in its basement to the rapid transit line which will be opened within a year; other big apartment houses share this advantage. You go from your room to a restaurant on the roof, where 3,000 people are daily fed, thence to a gymnasium in the basement, where you can exercise under charge of a "professor;" thence to a barber shop, which pays $10,000 rent per year, and thence to your seat in the downtown train without once having stepped out of doors.

So from the Pennsylvania hotel one can leave for any part of the United States without getting out in the wet. It will be a favorite staying place for western people, just as the Grand Union is now. This is practically a railway hotel for the Central, though to get to it you have to get across one of the liveliest streets in the world. I'd have to live in the city 50 years longer before I'd get past shuddering at that ordeal. OWEN LANGDON.

Horse Breeding in Germany and France.

It is only during the last few years that special attention has been given to horse breeding in Germany. Careful inquiries into the subject show that the system so far followed does not fill the requirements of the army or of the public in general. While in England, France, Belgium and Denmark horse breeding pays farmers—especially small ones—better than any other branch of industry, this is not true in Germany, where many complaints are heard with regard to government rules, which are said to be adverse to a favorable development of horse breeding. In consequence, the importation of foreign-bred animals is continually increasing. In 1900, France exported 3,000 horses, more than she imported, but Germany had to import 90,000 more than she exported. In view of these facts, the German foreign office sent an expert to northern France to investigate French horse breeding. His printed report says, in part:

"After the Franco-German war (1870-71), French horse breeding was nearly ruined, and in 1874 the French chamber of deputies had to grant money to gradually reestablish it, and the success now attained proves the wisdom of that act. In France, 18,000,000 francs ($3,474,000) of which the state alone contributes 2,355,570 francs ($454,626) are spent every year in the improvement of horse breeding, while in Germany the government spends only a little more than 300,000 marks ($71,400) and gives a number of prizes for races.

Among the causes which have contributed to the advancement of horse breeding in France is the fact that the whole management is under the charge of a specially appointed staff (in Germany, it rests in the hands of one man). At the head of the French staff (under the supervision of the minister of agriculture) is the director general, with his seat in Paris. Under him are six inspectors general and other necessary employees, who purchase and care for the stallions for the state.

Another beneficial institution is the stud school at Le Pin, where the training of employees is finished. The 'breaking-in-schools' are of great help in the rearing of half-bred horses. The better classes of coachmen and horse grooms often come from these schools. The skillful way in which the Paris hackney coachmen handle their horses and make their way through the crowded thoroughfares—due less to use of the whip than to attention—should be credited to a great extent to the beneficial influences exercised by the breaking-in schools."

The forming of horse-breeders' unions, a rational selection of stud-horses, and some method of helping private persons or associations to keep the necessary stud animals is advised. France had, in 1900, 3,087 stallions belonging to the state and 7,480 to private persons, while in the kingdom of Prussia only 2,924 stallions belonged to the state and 1,599 to private parties; and it must be remembered that Prussia is doing more than any other German state to improve her horse-breeding establishments.

OLIVER J. D. HUGHES.

Worried. "I am very much afraid," said Mrs. Cumrox, "that our daughter isn't making the progress in musical culture that she ought to, considering the cost of lessons."

"Why not?" inquired her husband. "She prefers a piece that cost only fifty cents to one that I paid a dollar for."—Washington Star.

Pleasing News. Marian—I showed those verses you wrote me to papa, and he seemed pleased.

Harry—He did? Marian—Yes. He said he was so glad to see you were not a poet.—Spare Moments.

TEAM RAN AWAY.

Secretary of the Navy Moody Seriously But Not Dangerously Injured at Annapolis.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 13.—Secretary of the Navy William H. Moody was seriously, but not dangerously, injured in the naval academy grounds Monday by a runaway accident. Accompanied by Senator Hale, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, the secretary arrived here at two o'clock to inspect the new buildings being erected in the naval academy grounds, and as the carriage bearing the secretary, Senator Hale and their escort, Lieut. Poyer passed in review, a salute of 17 guns belched forth from the guns on the Santee wharf. The restive horses attached to the carriage swerved suddenly and got beyond control of the driver. They dashed down Upshur row, past the line of cadets, the driver, meantime, making every effort to quiet them. The breaking of the pole of the carriage as the spirited animals dashed down the roadway served to render them more excited.

As the maddened animals dashed down the hill towards College creek, the driver, seeking to stop them, suddenly turned their heads into a vacant lot between two houses. Secretary Moody, who had opened the door of the carriage as the horses dashed over the frozen ground, suddenly leaped to the pavement, as the carriage made the turn into the enclosure. He landed on his face on the pavement and was rendered unconscious by the shock. The battalion of midshipmen had broken ranks without orders as the carriage dashed by, and very soon the secretary was lifted by tender hands and carried to the nearby residence of Superintendent Brownson, where he shortly recovered consciousness. Slight cuts and bruises on his forehead, nose and face are thought to be the extent of the secretary's injuries. Neither Senator Hale nor Lieut. Poyer were injured, as the horses were brought up against a wall soon after making the turn into the open lot.

Later reports from Annapolis are that the secretary probably will remain at Annapolis for a day or two, in order to recover from the shock resulting from the accident. He is quite stout, and his fall was so severe as to render him unconscious for a few minutes. His face is unpleasantly disfigured, and among the injuries is a contusion over one of his eyes and a cut on the nose. He is at the home of Superintendent Brownson, of the Naval academy, where he will remain during his enforced stay at Annapolis.

YOUNG LADY ROBBED.

Cashier of a Neenah, Wis., Firm Loses $3,000 in a Very Mysterious Manner.

Neenah, Wis., Jan. 13.—Miss Emma Briggs, cashier for W. Simon & Co., of Neenah, was robbed of drafts, money orders and other valuable papers valued at $3,000 on a train somewhere between this city and Oshkosh Monday afternoon. The theft was so cleverly accomplished that the young woman did not discover her loss until she reached the bank in Oshkosh where she was to deposit the papers. The drafts were in an envelope, which she had placed in a chattraine bag suspended from her belt, but when or how the robbery was accomplished she has not the slightest idea. The bank has been notified to stop payment on the checks and drafts.

Killed by a Woman.

Portland, Mich., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Oscar Chase shot and instantly killed Asa Manhart, a former boarder, at her home in this village Monday afternoon. Mrs. Chase had forbidden Manhart to come to her house. Monday afternoon, however, he came and began hammering on the door. Mrs. Chase warned him to desist, but he paid no attention. The woman then shot through a window, killing him instantly.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

Both Branches of the General Assembly Met in Lansing—Summary of the Proceedings.

Lansing, Jan. 9.—Both branches of the legislature met at noon yesterday and organized. In the senate O. B. Fuller, of Delta county, was elected president pro tem, and other officers were chosen as follows: Secretary, E. V. Chilson, of Sault Ste. Marie; sergeant-at-arms, Moses Parschelsky, of Detroit; messenger, Harry Barter, of Detroit.

The house met and organized by re-electing John J. Carton, of Genesee, speaker; Charles S. Pierce, clerk; A. H. Smith, reading clerk; W. H. Whitbeck, sergeant-at-arms, and Albert S. Roe, postmaster.

Lansing, Jan. 9.—Both houses listened to the governor's message yesterday, in which he urged the law-making body to prune vigorously. He said many sins of legislation are committed in the name of courtesy to members. The message favors municipal home rule, revision of game and fish laws, supervision of electric railways and commends the work of the state tax commission. Since 1899 the valuation of the state has increased from $968,000,000 to $1,418,000,000.

The following nominations were sent to the senate:

Railroad-commissioner, Theron W. Atwood, of Tuscola; banking commissioner, George W. Moore, of St. Clair; insurance commissioner, James V. Barry, of Ingham; labor commissioner, Scott Griswold, of Kent; dairy and food commissioner, Alfred W. Smith, of Lenawee; salt inspector, John Porter, of Saginaw; tax commissioner, full term, A. F. Freeman, of Washtenaw; tax commissioner, to fill vacancy, Manville Jenks, of Marquette.

The legislature adjourned in the afternoon until next Wednesday.

ENDED IT ALL.

Strangled Couple Meet in Adrian and Husband Kills Wife and Himself.

Adrian, Jan. 12.—William B. Chio, aged 45, of Toledo, on Friday afternoon shot and killed his wife, Elizabeth, aged 35, and then fired the revolver at his own breast. Both victims were dead, the woman with a bullet wound through her heart, when a crowd of people, who heard the shots, broke into the parlor of Platt's hotel, where the tragedy occurred. The couple had been living apart and the woman was an employee of the hotel. She had charged that her estrangement from her husband had been due to the latter's abusive treatment of their 14-year-old daughter. Chio came here from Toledo Thursday and Landlord Platt, fearing trouble, had hesitated about allowing him to see his wife Friday afternoon, but finally consented when Chio promised that he would not again trouble Platt with such a request, if he was granted the interview. The couple had been conversing alone in the parlor about a quarter of an hour when the five shots that ended their unhappy lives rang out in rapid succession.

TO ENLARGE PLANT.

The Grand Rapids Street Railway Company Builds Shops and Will Add More Trains.

Grand Rapids, Jan. 12.—The Grand Rapids Railway company, owing and operating with electric power all the street railway lines of this city, has recently constructed a thoroughly modern and finely-equipped power-house and car shops at a cost of over $325,000. The company has just sold $250,000 first mortgage five per cent. gold bonds to N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, who bought the original issue of $2,500,000 first mortgage gold bonds which were brought out in 1900. The population of Grand Rapids is increasing steadily, and with the additional equipment the company expects largely to increase its already prosperous business.

Michigan Huntress Has Good Luck.

Mount Pleasant, Jan. 12.—Mrs. J. W. Roberts, who recently returned from the Klondike, brought with her a collection of pelts which have been fashioned into rugs and are worth $1,000. In the collection are the hides of a monster cinnamon bear, a silver tip bear, two Wolverines and of a malemut, or Eskimo dog. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts sold other pelts to the value of $2,000 at Seattle. They were in the Klondike for some time, but they did not find much gold.

A Mammoth Football.

Ann Arbor, Jan. 12.—The biggest football in the world is now possessed by the University of Michigan football team. As a fitting trophy for the team that made the biggest season's score ever recorded, it is a very fit tribute—the gigantic pigskin, the gift of A. G. Spalding, of the firm of A. G. Spalding & Co., Chicago. The football was made specially for Michigan, measures one yard through from end to end and is nearly two feet in diameter.

Mrs. Perry Noah and Mrs. Mattie Leach arrived home safe from their visit to their brother in Mt. Pleasant, in time to attend the social here.

Sunday night last was a right down cold nipper. The vagrant fowls that will not be persuaded to go into the hen house and prefer roosting on trees, were found Monday morning at the roots of the trees beyond the power of the henhouse to bring them to life.

There has been a week of meetings here followed by quarterly meeting on Saturday and Sunday, when it was decided to hold the meetings another week at least, beginning Tuesday evening. No meeting on Monday evening on account of the funeral of Mrs. Wm. Palmer, at Waterloo, once a faithful member of the church here over 40 years ago now. She died as she had lived, trusting in God.

The year 1903 was ushered in at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Glenn, and warmly welcomed by a large company of as cheerful, happy people as you are likely to meet anywhere. The company waited on the new born year until it was thought safe to let it begin to toddle for itself, then with many and hearty expressions of good will for the future they all took their homeward way, except the minister, who took to the nearest bed close to the old heater. He has a great dread of parlor bedrooms that are more than 30 feet from any fire. All went well except one horse in starting for home insisted on facing the young couple he was expected to furnish locomotion for. Things looked awkward for a time, but all came out right later on. The ladies put up such a splendid lunch that several more boxes could have been sold.

Many of the ills from which women suffer can be completely cured with Rocky Mountain Tea. Rich, red blood, good digestion and health follow its use. 35 cents. Glazier & Stimson.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itching of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have a cure. Beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

this week in our advertising columns. The well known firm of Hoag & Holmes, which has been in existence since 1888 has passed away, and the firm name has been changed to Holmes & Walker. The new member of the firm is Mr. R. Dennis Walker, who has for the past four years clerked in the store and made hosts of friends by his genial, courteous ways of service. The old firm has had a good reputation for honest, straightforward dealing, which will not be sacrificed under its new name. The busihis time between the two. Mr. Freeman's many friends in Chelsea will wish him

THE DORFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Theford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Theford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Theford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.

I have used Theford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it.
It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

WOMAN

GIRL SAILED AS BOY.

Fifteen-Year-Old Esther McEwen Makes Three Voyages Disguised in Male Attire.

Esther McEwen, the 15-year-old Scotch girl who has just got back home after making her third sea voyage, dressed as a boy, says she was inspired to become a sailor by reading a novel about a girl who did so. Esther says the story was an exciting one, but it is doubtful if its heroine had a more eventful experience than that which befell her flesh-and-blood emulator.

The girl first made a trip all around the Scotch coast. Then she shipped for a long cruise to Valparaiso. After that she "signed" for a voyage to the east, visiting France and Spain and finally brought up at Alexandria. She would have continued her wanderings if having to undergo a medical examination had not forced her to admit that she was a girl. Her captain brought her back as a cabin passenger to England, where she fell into the hands of the police, as "having no visible means of support," and has just been released.

Esther ran away from home because her half-sister, with whom she used to live, treated her unkindly. Her parents were dead. Big, strong and healthy, she had been working in the fields up to the time when the book about the sailor lass fell into her hands. Then she decided to cut loose.

First she went to a barber and without a tremor told him to take off her long black hair. She had him crop it close to her head. Then she got a suit of boy's clothes and left the little village, Wishaw, where she was living, for Glasgow. She got into an empty "compartment" and changed her clothes between stations.

Soon after she had reached Glasgow she postponed her plan of going to sea for awhile. Instead she worked as a boy in a colliery. Wandering about the streets one night in her male get-up, somebody offered her a chance in the mines. She took it, and for three months worked in her shirt sleeves beside the men and earned six dollars a week. One day, however, part of the colliery roof underneath which she worked fell in, just missing the girl and killing the man next to her. This scared Esther so badly that she quit the coal business. Her first plan of going to sea came back to her, and leaving Glasgow for Ayr on the seacoast, she prepared to carry it out.

Esther didn't find much difficulty in getting a "berth" on board ship. She signed as cabin boy on a vessel called the Discovery, and it was on this craft that she took her trip around the Scottish coast. She called herself Allan Gordon. She was paid off at Newport, England, and promptly found a place as cabin boy on a ship bound for South America. After this voyage was over she found herself in Cardiff with about $13 in her pocket. When at the eastern city the word was passed round that a doctor was coming to examine the entire ship's company, she went to her captain and confided in him. Fortunately for her he proved to be kindhearted and immediately told her that he would take her home and see that she didn't suffer on the way. "He treated me like a father," Esther said.

Of course it got out that there was a girl on board dressed as a boy—for the sailor-lass had not been able to get any other clothes—and when the ship reached port a policeman heard some of the men talking about Esther and forthwith made it his business to arrest her. The girl was released after a day or two, one of her sisters having turned up and claimed her.

Esther says she doesn't like the sea at all, and that she didn't have a good time on ship-board, for the men's ways displeased her. Of course, she didn't care for their amusements, either, and they thought her mopeish and a "bad fellow."—London Letter in Detroit Free Press.

CHAFING DISH COOKERY.

Proper Setting of the Table Is Quite as Important as Correct Preparation of Food.

If the dining-room is to be the scene of a chafing dish feast use a bare table, with a handsome luncheon cloth or linen centerpiece for floral decorations to rest on. A dolly should be at each cover, with a plate, knife and fork and whatever glasses are necessary. Make the table as inviting as possible. A little smilax or greenhouse asparagus is inexpensive and adds to the attractiveness of the supper.

Authorities differ as to the mixing of a Welsh rarebit. Each man is a law unto himself and is quite sure that he makes a better rarebit than his neighbor. The following recipe is for six persons: One pound of cheese, as rich and new as possible, cut into small bits.
Place a tablespoonful of butter in the chafing dish. When hot add the cheese; as this melts stir all the time. Season with plenty of salt and cayenne pepper and a pinch of dry mustard. When it is well heated through and cooking, add about half a pint of beer. Watch carefully and stir constantly, and when thoroughly melted serve on thin slices of hot toast or square biscuits.

Scotch woodcock is another savory dish. First prepare the toast, cutting the bread thin and toasting an even brown. Butter when hot, and spread with anchovy paste, leaving it on a hot plate to soak into the toast. Cut bacon in the thinnest possible slices. Have the chafing dish hot, and put in the slices of bacon. As soon as they look transparent turn them over, and as the edges curl they are done. Put a slice on each bit of toast. While this is being prepared scrambled eggs should have been made in another blazer and poured over the anchovy toast and bacon, and the Scotch woodcock is complete. Four eggs are enough for six persons.
Break them into a dish and beat until as light as possible. Add a cupful of milk or cream and season with salt and pepper to taste. Have the chafing dish hot and place in it a tablespoonful of butter. Pour in the egg and stir constantly.—N.

DUCHESS OF ORLEANS.

Should Republicanism Fall in France
Her Husband's Rank Might Make Her a Queen.

It is a common saying in Europe that one can never tell what will happen to-morrow in Paris. Of late the royalists have been very active, and the faithful followers of the house of Orleans are shouting for the duke of Orleans—in the secrecy of their palaces on the Faubourg Saint Germain, of course. Should they attempt to shout on the streets their aristocratic persons would quickly find lodgment in a jail.

Should republicanism fall in France, however, the duchess of Orleans, whose latest picture is herewith presented, might become a French queen. Her recent return with her husband to England was notable because it was the first time that the couple had been allowed to land in that country since the duke wrote to a French artist, complimenting him on caricatures of the late Queen Victoria.

DUCHESS OF ORLEANS.

The duchess, before her marriage in 1896, was Maria Dorothea Amelia, daughter of Archduke Joseph, of Austria. The duke is the great-grandson of the last of the French kings, Louis Phillippe, who abdicated the throne in 1848 in favor of his grandson, the count of Paris. French royalists, as many as could be gathered, were present at the wedding.

Duke Robert was born in 1869, and succeeded his father, the late count of Paris, in 1894, as the head of the royal family of France. His mother, who is still living, was the Spanish infanta Louise, of Montpensier. He has one brother and four sisters, the eldest of the latter being the charming queen of Portugal, and the second, Helena, is married to the duke of Aosta, the heir-presumptive to the throne of Italy.

Was a Widower, of Course.
"And here is where friendship ceases," remarked the groom, as he led the blushing bride to the altar.—

Praise Pe-ru-na as a Cure for Colds and a Preventive of Catarrh.

MISS ELIZABETH UBER

MRS. M. J. BRINK

FIRST STAGE OF CATARRH

A Serious Mistake Which Thousands Are Making.

The first stage of catarrh is what is commonly known as "catching cold." It may be in the head, nose, throat or lungs. Its beginning is sometimes so severe as to cause a chill and considerable fever, or it may be so slight as to not hinder a person from his usual business. In perhaps a majority of cases little or no attention is paid to the first stage of catarrh, and hence it is that nearly one-half of the people have chronic catarrh in some form.
To neglect a cold is to invite chronic catarrh. As soon as any one discovers the first symptoms of catching cold he should at once begin the use of Peruna according to directions on the bottle, and the cold is sure to pass away without leaving any bad effects.

Unless this is done the cold is almost sure to end in the second stage of catarrh, which is making so many lives miserable. If Peruna was taken every time one has a cold or cough, chronic catarrh would be practically an unknown disease.

Miss Elizabeth Uber, No. 57 Bassett street, Albany, N. Y., writes:
"I have always dreaded unsettled weather because of my extreme liability to catch cold, when a catarrhal trouble would quickly develop through my entire system, which it would take weeks to drive away. I am thankful to say that since I have taken PERUNA I do not have any reason to dread this anymore. If I have been at all exposed to the damp, wet or cold weather, I take a dose or two of PERUNA, and it throws out any hint of sickness from my system."
—Miss Elizabeth Uber.

Mrs. M. J. Brink, No. 320 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, Mich., writes:
"This past winter during the wet and cold weather I caught a sudden and severe cold, which developed a catarrhal condition through my entire system, and so affected my general health that I was completely broken down, and became nervous and hysterical and unfit to supervise my home. My physician prescribed for me, but somehow his medicine did me no good. Reading of PERUNA I decided to try it. After I had taken but three bottles I found myself in fine health."—Mrs. M. J. Brink.

Sibyl A. Hadley, 26 Main street, Huntington, Ind., writes: "Last winter after getting my feet wet I began to cough, which gradually grew worse until my throat was sore and raw. Ordinary remedies did not help me and cough remedies nauseated me.
Reading an advertisement of what PE-RUNA could do, I decided to try a bottle,

MISS SYBIL A. HADLEY

MISS SARA MCGAHAN

and you can imagine how glad I felt when it began to relieve me in a very short time.
In less than two weeks I was completely cured."—Sibyl A. Hadley.

Miss Sarah McGahan, No. 197 3d street, Albany, N. Y., writes:
"A few months ago I suffered with a severe attack of influenza, which nothing seemed to relieve. My hearing became bad, my eyes became irritated and feverish.
Nothing seemed right and nothing I ate tasted good. I took PERUNA and within two weeks I was perfectly well."—Sarah McGahan.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-runna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be glad to give you his valuable advice gratis.

The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Constipation Will Undermine Your Health.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the system of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC
is a crushed fruit tonic-laxative which permanently cures the affliction.
The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

Send 10c. to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., for large

CURES SICK HEADACHE.
MISS BERTHA H. INGRAM, a typical Southern beauty, writes from her home at No. 104 Broadway, Augusta, Ga.:
"Dear Sir:—Read her letter."
"I have been troubled for nearly two years with periodic headache, which at times was so severe that I was convinced there was something radically wrong. I took headache powders and other remedies some of them gave me temporary relief and others none at all, but two bottles of your Syrup Pepsin effected a complete cure."
"I am pleased to make this statement, believing it will help others who have been troubled as I have to a permanent cure." Respectfully,
BERTHA H. INGRAM.

CURES INDIGESTION.
J. L. WARREN, Chancellor Commander Acme Lodge No. 44, Knights of Pythias, Leon, Kan., writes:
"For fifteen years I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble, during that time I tried all kinds of remedies and several physicians, but without cure or benefit. About a year ago my attention was called to your remedy, and I can truthfully and conscientiously state that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin relieved me; entirely left me. I am willing that this testimonial should be used for the benefit of others who may suffer from that dreadful disease, dyspepsia.
Yours very truly,
J. L. WARREN.
