Mrs. Prudence O. Shaver.

Mrs. Prudence O. Shaver was born in the state of New York April 5, 1831 and died at her home in this village Saturday evening, February 14, 1903, aged 71 years 10 months and 9 days.

At the age of 18 years she was united in marriage with Harry Shaver and for the past 50 years they have made their home in this village or the immediate vicinity. During all of the intervening years that have gone by Mrs. Shaver has gathered about her many friends and associates who will mourn her demise.

Mrs. Shaver was the mother of three children two of whom died in childhood. For the past several months she has been confined to her bed and at times was a great sufferer, which she patiently bore with that Christian spirit that her friends all knew she was possessed of and when the final end came it found her ready and waiting for that peaceful rest she so justly deserves.

She is survived by her aged husband, and one daughter, Mrs. Samuel Tucker of Lima, who have the sympathy of a host of friends in this their sad bereavement. The funeral was held from her late home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. C. S. Jones, officiating, interment at Oak Grove cemetery.

Back to Michigan.

The Detroit Journal's Washington correspondent says: Henry C. Smith has reconsidered his intention of leaving Michigan to locate in Baltimore as the eastern representative of the Gould interests. He will remain in Michigan for the time being at Adrian, after his term in congress expires, and devote himself exclusively to railroad law business. He will have offices in Adrian and Detroit, spending his time in the two cities. He will be one of the attorneys for the Wabash, and some time this year will become general attorney for the Ann Arbor road.

The railroad interests which were fighting for an eastern outlet have come to some understanding with the Pennsylvania railroad and other powerful trunk line interests. The Wabash people, with the allied Gould and Harriman interests, are to have an outlet at Baltimore with the understanding that they will not try to break into the New York field with a terminal. This will practically end the big fight in which Mr. Smith was expected to participate in Baltimore.

That Mr. Smith will remain in politics goes without saying. He has been playing the game too long to quit. While he will not return to congress he will have his own little part in determining who receives the next nomination. It is incidentally true that he will be identified with the old line organization.

President Roosevelt remarked the other day about the retiring congressmen from Michigan that they seemed to be able to take care of themselves, and he had not been appealed to in the interest of any of them to look out for government places which would make their retirement easy.

A Strange Will.

The will of Walter E. Rider of Salem has been filed for probate. He left an estate of $6,000. His heirs include one niece, four sisters-in-law, a brother-in-law, four nephews, a brother, and sister and two half-sisters. According to the will the following Detroit institutions will receive the interest "for one hundred years only": McGregor Mission, $150; Free Kindergarten, $150; Children's Free Hospital, $100; Newsboys Home, $100. No provision is made where these principals are to go to at the expiration of 100 years, but in the will is stated that if, at any time any of the institutions named cease running the interest is to go to institutions like the poor commission.

The remainder of the estate is divided up among the relatives. The will was drawn up in his own handwriting.

Prosecuting Attorney of Manila.
Tuesday afternoon Charles A. Smith, of Jackson received the appointment of prosecuting attorney for the city and province of Manila, Philippine Islands and telegraphed his acceptance. The appointment was made at the instance of Gov. Taft through Chief of the Insular Bureau Edwards at Washington. He will leave for the Philippines March 3. Mr. Smith is a partner of Congre sman-elect C. E. Townsend and is the last member of the firm of Blair, Smith & Townsend to receive an office by appointment or election. Last summer, before election, Mr. Smith was tendered a position on the bench in the Philippines, but declined. He has built up a good legal practice, was admitted to the bar in 1890, and also worked his own way up in it. He has been a member of the state senate and prosecuting attorney for Jackson county.

Determined to be a Rockefeller.
Ann Arbor Record: A certain resourceful business man of Ann Arbor was dunning a debtor to pay up his account. Fearing that he might have been a little too harsh in his method and have hurt the feelings of the debtor, to somewhat mollify him, he said:
"Now Mr. Jones, I am not dunning you for any special benefit to myself. I am urging you to get out of debt. I want you to be a capitalist. There is no reason why you shouldn't be as rich as Rockefeller. The only thing to prevent you from being a Rockefeller is the 'rocks.'"
The debtor went away highly elated, determined to become a Rockefeller.

A Pleasant Event

The children and grand children of Mrs. Mary Merker of Sylvan, together with neighbors and friends, about fifty in all, met at her home last Thursday night to help celebrate her seventy-fifth anniversary. After which a musical program was furnished by Misses Jessie and Florence Heischwerdt, Mrs. S. Stephens, C. Stephenson and O. Merker of Chelsea. The young people were allowed to trip the light fantastic too, for about two hours. The children then presented their mother with a beautiful upholstered rocking chair, she was also remembered by the neighbors and friends. All reports very enjoyable time, wishing Mrs. Merker many returns of the day.

A Card of Thanks.

We, the children of Mrs. Anna Page, wish to extend to our friends our heartfelt thanks for their kindness and sympathy extended to us during her last illness and death of our mother.
Allen, Frank and Emma Page.
Mrs. Chas. Hagdon.

Tipping the Butchers.

In the largest private market in New York nearly every woman who buys meat has her favorite butcher, whom she tips with a dime at each order, thereby compounding a felony, for the fee invariably obtains for her an overweight of the purchase. Recently four of the 26 butchers employed left their places and opened an opposition market three blocks away. This aroused the suspicion of their former employer, who proceeded to investigate. He learned that 20 of his butchers had been systematically robbing him for the sake of tips. If a woman ordered three pounds of steak she would get three and a half pounds in consideration for her dime. On a single order meat, worth seven dollars, was found billed at $3.12. The day before the proprietor detected a butcher in the act of giving away a four-pound chicken to a woman who had tipped him regularly for years.—Detroit Free Press.

A Year's Immigrants.

The number of immigrants admitted to the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1902, was 648,743, of which 466,369 were males and 182,374 females. The increase over the preceding year is 160,825. In the number of immigrants from the country, Italy stands first, with 178,375, and Austria-Hungary second, with 171,989. Ireland decreased 1,423, and China 810. For various causes, admission was refused to 4,974 immigrants. Special attention has been given to the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws, and it is desired that the appropriation be so enlarged that a more efficient patrol can be had on the Mexican and Canadian borders and provision made for the appointment of competent officers for the service in Canton and Hong-Kong.—Success.

Four Thousand Godfathers.

Princess Irene, of Russia, is better provided for in the matter of godfathers than any other woman in the world. She can boast of no fewer than 4,000 godfathers, and how she came to obtain so many is a pretty story. When she was born the war of 1866 was drawing to an end, and peace being concluded just at the time of her christening, her father, Prince Henry of Hesse, requested all the officers and men of the regiments under his command to stand godfathers to his little daughter, whom he named Irene (Peace) in commemoration of the end of the war.—London Tatler.

Anything to Oblige.

Mr. Greatman—I wish you'd stop printing my portrait every time any little thing happens to me, or else get a new one. You've had that old plate in 17 times.
Editor—All right, my dear sir. Anything to oblige.
Assistant Foreman (a week later)—I can't find that picture of Sam, the sneak thief, anywhere.
Foreman—Well, dump in that old picture of Mr. Greatman. It ain't going to be used for him any more.—N. Y. Weekly.

California's Lima Beans.

The present average yield of lima beans in southern California is 22,000, 000 pounds, which is about three-fourths of the total production of the world. One ranch in the bean country covers 1,500 acres. This is the largest bean field in the world, and it requires 40 tons of seed beans to plant it.—Agricultural Journal.

As He Called It.

"So you don't mind my piano-playing, Mr. Skorchner," remarked Miss Nexdore.
"Not at all," replied Skorchner. "I like it best when you're coasting."
"When I'm coasting?"
"Yes, when you keep your feet off the pedals."—Catholic Standard.

She Wanted One Saved.

Young Miss Wilgus—Where are you going, papa?
Rev. Mr. Wilgus—To the temperance meeting. We intend to inaugurate a movement to save the young men of the country.
"Try and save a nice one for me, will you, papa dear?"—Portsmouth Times.

Don't forget the old man with the fish on his back.

For nearly thirty years he has been traveling around the world, and is still traveling, bringing health and comfort wherever he goes.

To the consumptive he brings the strength and flesh he so much needs.

To all weak and sickly children he gives rich and strengthening food.

To thin and pale persons he gives new firm flesh and rich red blood.

Children who first saw the old man with the fish are now grown up and have children of their own.

He stands for Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil—a delightful food and a natural tonic for children, for old folks and for all who need flesh and strength.

THE EASY PILL.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe nor weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions moving the bowels gently yet effectually and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble. Glazier & Stimson.

A WEAK STOMACH
causes a weak body and invites disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Christman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and run down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Glazier & Stimson.

NEARLY FORGOT HIS LIFE
A runaway almost ended fatally, started a horrible ulcer on the leg of J. B. Orner, Franklin Grove, Ill. For four years it defied all doctors and all remedies. But Bucklen's Arnica Salve had no trouble to cure him. Equally good for burns, bruises, skin eruptions and piles. 25c at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

ONE MINUTE COUGH CURE gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, causing the cough and at the same time clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation and heals and soothes the affected parts. Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Kaubla of Nevada, Co. says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Honesty's Reward.

A Berrien county farmer had a cow killed on the Big Four a short time ago and wrote to the railroad company asking damages, adding that "$30 will be considered satisfactory, as the animal killed was but a common cow and by no means the best in my herd." The claim agent of the road promptly answered the letter and enclosed a check for $100, saying: "It is the first instance since my connection with the claim department of the road that any other than a full-blooded animal of great value had been killed by our line and I enclose $100 as damages and a reward for your honesty, and I would humbly ask your photo to be framed and placed in my office."

The Rope Broke.

R. J. Kramer, a young farmer living near Battle Creek, fastened a rope to a rafter in his barn and a heavy weight to his feet. He stood on a barrel, placed a loop about his neck and jumped. The weight broke the rope and he fell to the floor, sustaining an injury at the back of the head that stunned him. His brother, E. R. Kramer, heard the fall and, rushing into the barn, prevented him from doing himself further injury. The would-be suicide has made three unsuccessful attempts. Several leading eye specialists have been in consultation, but are unable to stop the progress of the supposed acid action. The young lady is a beautiful golden-haired girl of 20, the belle of the neighborhood, and her eyes were uncommonly attractive.

Bloodgood Acquitted.

After deliberating two hours and 15 minutes Thursday night the jury in the case of Lynott Bloodgood, of Monroe, charged with the murder of Joseph Labarge, returned a verdict of not guilty. The verdict gives general satisfaction. A civil suit started by the administrator of Labarge's estate for $20,000 damages is now pending in the United States Court at Detroit against Bloodgood. On August 29 last he shot Labarge during an exciting chase for a supposed woman assaulter by a large posse of men and boys. Bloodgood is wealthy.

A Sugar Beet Road.

The Alma Sugar Co. is preparing to build a sugar beet electric line from Alma to Hubbardston. Electricity will be generated by water power, and the falls at Matherton and on the farm of William Lundgren have been contracted for. The line will be free from all competition, and will carry passengers and regular freight, but its main purpose is the hauling of sugar beets to the factory. There are now 30 miles of graded roadbed extending from Hubbardston in the direction of Alma, which the promoters will purchase. It was built for another road, which failed to materialize.

Wicked Saginaw.

The Saginaw police made a sudden raid Tuesday night on the stall saloons in the city, and although but five were cleaned out, 15 women were arrested, of whom one was a married woman, well known; two others were young girls of very respectable parents. Nine of the fifteen were held in jail over night and were fined. It is now believed the police will clean out all stall saloons at once and also drive out all penny-in-the-slot machines.

State Treasurer McCoy has a bill prepared to relieve him of the responsibility for the loss of $75,000 state funds in the defunct City Savings bank, of Detroit, the same bank in which Wayne County Treasurer Buhner had $15,000 of state money. McCoy's chief argument is the same as Buhner's, namely, that Warner and Power, two state auditors, designated that bank as a safe depository.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

The house Tuesday, by a vote of 251 to 10, adopted the conference report on the bill creating a department of commerce, including the Nelson amendment.

The main provisions of the Nelson amendment are as follows:

The said commissioner (of corporations) shall have power and authority to make, under the direction and control of the secretary of commerce and labor, diligent investigation into the organization, conduct and management of the business of any corporation, joint stock company or corporate combination engaged in commerce among the several states and with foreign nations, excepting common carriers subject to an Act to Regulate Commerce, approved February 4, 1887, and to gather such information and data as will enable the president of the United States to make recommendations to congress for legislation for the regulation of such commerce, and to report such data to the president from time to time as he shall require; and the information so obtained, or as much thereof as the president may direct, shall be made public.

The Pension Bills.

The house on Saturday passed the sundry civil bill, which has been under consideration since Tuesday and then broke all previous records in the matter of private pension legislation. It was the latest opportunity of passing pension bills at this session and the calendar was cleared, not only of the house but of senate bills, 325 in all being passed. Three hundred and twelve is the highest previous record, made in the fifty-first congress. Among them was a bill to grant a pension of $30 a month to the widow of the late Representative Rumpke, of Iowa, who died about two weeks ago. Mr. Rumpke had a gallant war record, having taken part in more than 30 battles and having arisen from private to the rank of captain.

Louise Repentant.

The report that the former crown princess of Saxony has attempted to commit suicide is untrue. Her health is as good as possible, considering her delicate condition and the grief caused her by recent events. The princess is reported as saying in a letter to a friend that she dismissed Giron delinately and went to the Nyon sanatorium of her own accord. She now deeply regrets her flight and declares she is unable to long endure the condition of a prisoner. The crown prince was on Wednesday granted a divorce from the princess.

Our Internal Commerce.

The new department of commerce will have the unique distinction of dealing with the largest commercial interests of the world. In domestic exports, in manufactures, in transportation and in internal commerce the United States is at the head of the world's list of great nations. Some figures just compiled by the treasury bureau of statistics, which by the new law becomes a part of the department of commerce, estimate the internal commerce of the country at $20,000,000,000, or equal to the entire international commerce of the world.

Michigan Legislature.

After the junkets, work is to be the programme of the legislators, though it is not probable that any specially valuable legislation will be started this week. Senator Smith, of Houghton, will soon put in a bill for a new equalization on the ground that under a new equalization the figures for the copper mining country would be reduced. Like the copper country, Wayne county was given a heavy dose in the last equalization, and the copper country members will try to enlist the Wayne senators and representatives in their fight for a new deal.

A bill to provide for the indeterminate instead of a fixed sentence for the punishment of criminals, was introduced into the senate Tuesday. Under its regulations every prisoner must serve at least the minimum term for the crime for which he was committed. If the prisoner after parole relapses into criminal ways or violates the conditions of his parole he will be liable to serve the maximum term for the crime for which he was first incarcerated, such term to begin when he is taken into custody and no credit being allowed him for any time previously served.

Miss Henderson, who accompanied Senator Laframboy on the upper peninsula junket, will resign her position as committee clerk of the senate and leave for her home.

"Her position here in view of the criticism is very uncomfortable," said Lieut. Gov. Maitland. "She ought to resign for her own good."

Miss Henderson's resignation will probably close the incident, as Senator Laframboy does not feel that he is called upon for an explanation. Miss Henderson refused to make a statement as to her intentions.

Senator Woodman, by request of Mrs. Ida Case Watson, of Lansing, proposes to institute just one more state officer, with a salary of $2,000 a year and expenses, and holding his appointment under the governor. He would be called the state sanitary commissioner. His main job would be to see that the right men were appointed as "local" sanitary commissioners, and were properly posted in the very latest styles of sanitation and the most up-to-date knowledge pertaining thereto.

Senator Sovereign proposes in his bill relating to fire insurance companies to make them bear a proportionate share of the expense of keeping up village and city fire departments. The measure calls for the payment to each locality 2 per cent of the gross premiums from the insurance companies' receipts in the localities maintaining fire protection. The bill is taken from the Wisconsin law upon the same subject.

There is some adverse criticism of a requested appropriation of $78,000 for an administration building for the Newberry asylum especially as $8,000 of the sum is for furnishing the building not only for offices, but also as a residence for the superintendent with piano, table ware, napkins, etc., which would add to the state's expense the supply of a furnished home for that official as well as a salary for his service.

Senator Burns' bill to punish hunters who carelessly shoot other hunters, provides a maximum penalty of 10 years or $1,000 fine. Senator Baird and some of the other members of the upper house do not seem to be satisfied with the measure, which went through rather speedily, and may move for reconsideration. Several senators say the bill will die in the house.

Unless the governor changes his present opinion of T. J. Navin, the name of the Detroit man will be sent next Tuesday to the senate for confirmation as a member of the Jackson prison board of control. Moreover if the attitude of senate leaders is indicative, Navin will be confirmed as an official of the institution of which he was once an inmate.

A move is on for a woman's prison in Ionia, which would deprive the Detroit House of Correction of quite a snug sum, as most of the women prisoners are in that institution. It is regarded as the entering wedge for the state to provide more buildings to care for the women convicts in the proposed Ionia institution and, of course, a fat appropriation.

The general appropriation bill for the Industrial School for Boys calls for an expenditure of $70,000 for each of the fiscal years of 1904 and 1905. There is also a special appropriation bill for the fiscal year ending June, 1904, asking for $4,000 to meet a deficiency of this amount on account of the increased price of coal during the present winter.

The first anti-trust measure of the session was introduced in the Senate on Wednesday by Senator Moriarty of Crystal Falls. It is the bill drafted by the National Live Stock Association, "to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraint and monopolies and to prohibit the giving or receiving of rebates on the transportation of property."

A bill has been prepared in the office of the secretary of state which aims to make it unhealthy for lotties, bond, certificate and investment companies, other than building and loan associations, attempting to do business in the state without authority.

A bill to provide for the assessment of property and collection of taxes contemplates the entire removal of real estate mortgages from taxation.

One more bill to regulate the confinement and punishment of infant criminals has been introduced. Two, including the Hunt bill, for the establishment of a juvenile court in Detroit, are already before the house. The object of the bill is to completely separate juvenile offenders from older criminals.

Talk among some of the members indicate that they will do some slapping on the figures for administration buildings as it is considered likely that the various boards and superintendents will vie with each other in the getting of fine residences at state expense.

Frank Andrews' Prison Life.

Thirty or more members of the legislature visited Jackson prison Friday to look over the situation as regards the appropriations asked for improvements. They were shown round the institution by Frank Andrews, the former financier of Detroit. He is bookkeeper of the big box factory, and appears to have general supervisory control over the business of the institution. He was sent for from one of the offices of the prison and came forward with the same quick nervous step that was once so familiar on Griswold street. He shook hands all around and told how well he felt, and immediately began making inquiries as to the affairs of those in the party with whom he was acquainted. Andrews asked some of the members of the official party if they would help him to get a parole, and they generally acquiesced, a number of them being heard to express sympathy. The Detroit ex-banker had no complaint to make against his treatment in the prison. He had nothing but words of the warmest praise for Warden Vincent. He urged the members of the legislature to vote for the appropriation of $147,000 for a block of new cells in the west wing, which appears to be so sadly needed.

Navin to Be Appointed.

Gov. Bliss, who was in Detroit Saturday morning, expressed his intention to newspaper men to appoint Thomas J. Navin as a member of the Jackson prison board some time this week. In arguing in favor of the appointment, Gov. Bliss said a great many people are asking for a great improvement, while few have opposed it. His excellency declared that the appointment of Navin would be an encouragement to men who may have committed errors, but who have afterwards lived upright lives. He said that Mr. Navin is thoroughly competent to fill the position.

Killed by Street Car.

Dr. George Young, the Pioneer, O. man who was struck by a street car in Detroit last week, died of his injuries Sunday in St. Mary's hospital. He was 64 years of age. Two sons of the deceased took the remains to Ohio. The deceased was an influential citizen of Pioneer. He owned a one-third interest in the bank there and was a stockholder in the Standard Savings & Loan association.

The latter included cavalry and infantry equipments of every description and 1,000,000 rounds of Krag-Jorgensen smokeless ammunition. The contents were worth $1,500,000. The building was a massive structure, three stories high, erected 20 years ago at a cost of $400,000.

IN HISTORIC CAMBRIDGE

Where General Washington First Took Supreme Command of the Continental Army.

On Sunday, July 2, 1775, an illustrious stranger, mounted on a noble steed, and accompanied by several attendants, rode into Cambridge. He was a tall, well formed man, of distinguished mien, and wore the cocked hat, the blue and buff uniform, and insignia of a major-general of the Continental army.

It was soon noised about town that this stranger, Gen. George Washington, the newly appointed commander-in-chief of the patriot army, had arrived, and, furthermore, that next day, at the west side of the training field, he would formally assume command of the troops. As may be supposed, the news spread like wildfire, and the excitement was intense.

Up to this time the American forces were practically without a head, but now it was instinctively felt that a brilliant and trusted leader had arisen, who was to be their civil and political chief. And the event fully proved that the quiet entrance of this noted Virginian into the place was not only an event of great local importance, but one of the most momentous and far-reaching incidents in the world's political history.

On the morning—Monday, July 3—Washington formally took command of the American army. It goes without saying that it was a day of deepest importance to this country. For on that day George Washington, intrusted by the Continental Congress with the chief command of the American army, and thus made the foremost man of the revolution, entered upon the active duties of his office, and was received with enthusiasm by the little band of heroes assembled at Cambridge. As he entered the confined of the camp, the shouts of the multitude and the thunder of artillery gave note to the enemy, beleaguered in Boston, of his arrival. His military reputation had conditions of the wants of the country and of the army. The necessity of appointing a commander-in-chief and the qualities requisite in that high office were dwelt upon, and then the speaker concluded by putting in nomination George Washington of Virginia.

"As soon as his name was mentioned, Washington rose and withdrew from the hall. For a moment he was overpowered with a sense of the responsibility which was about to be put upon him, and to his friend Patrick Henry he said, with tears in his eyes: 'I fear that this day will mark the downfall of my reputation.' On the 15th of June the nomination was unanimously confirmed by Congress, and the man who had saved the wreck of Braddock's army was called to build a nation."

With great dignity he accepted the appointment, refused all compensations beyond his actual expenses, set out with an escort by way of New York, and reached Cambridge fifteen days after the battle of Bunker Hill.

When Washington arrived in Cambridge one of the first things that occupied his attention was the selection of a building suitable for his headquarters. After inspecting several of the most commodious and available ones in that immediate vicinity, his choice fell upon a large, square mansion on the Watertown road, built in 1759 by Col. John Vassell, an unwavering Loyalist—a "Tory," as his class was opprobriously termed—who had just fled to England. Here, in the future home of Longfellow, the illustrious soldier established his headquarters, and continued it as his military home for the ensuing eight months, during the remainder of the siege of Boston. Washington's office and Longfellow's study were in the room on the first floor to the right of the door (as you face the house); the officers' room and library being back of it, and the drawing room

AS A POLISH POET SAW HIM.

Interesting First Impression of Gen. George Washington.

The Century recently contained an historical "And" in the unpublished diary of a friend of Kosciuszko, the Polish poet Niemcewicz, who visited General Washington at Mount Vernon in June, 1798, as confirmed by the general's diary. The impressions of the first President and his conversations give unique value and interest to the paper. The visitor thus records his first meeting with the general and his wife, the narrator's "lie" referring to his effort to conceal the fact that Kosciuszko had left America to head a Polish organization:

"Mr. Peters' house is at the extreme point of the city, quite near Georgetown. We arrived there between 6 and 7 o'clock. One can guess how my heart was beating. I was to see the man for whom since my youth I had had great respect. I caught sight of him through the window and recognized him at once. About a dozen people were coming toward us. I saw only him. I was presented to him by Mr. Law. He held out his hand to me and clasped mine. We went into the parlor. I sat down beside him; I was moved, dumb and could not look at him enough. It is a majestic face, in which dignity is united with gentleness. The portraits that we have of him in Europe are not like him at all. He is nearly 6 feet high and very strongly built; he has an aquiline nose, blue eyes; his mouth and particularly his lower jaw, are large.

"He wore a tall coat, black stock-

DOULTRY

Winter Eggs.

From Farmers' Review: The most successful winter poultry house I ever saw was a big open straw cattle shed. The shed had been covered from the stacker of a thrashing machine. The roof, north side and ends were several feet of straw and chaff. Some 30 head of cattle were in the shed and yard nights and running in the corn stalks daytime; besides there was a hog trough in the yard, where the shoats got their daily slops of bran, shorts and waste vegetables. I was a boy at home with Dad and Ma at the time. My father believed in being liberal with salt, the cattle had their salt box and all the slop of the swine was seasoned with salt. I remember that an argument was up as to whether the fowls would get too much salt at the hog troughs.

Up over head in this shed were a variety of poles and brush that served to hold up the straw. Flock after flock of the early hatches took up their roosting place in the cattle shed and by cold weather the regular hen house was almost entirely deserted. Some 150 hens, mostly early pullets were roosting in the cattle shed by December 1st, and the daily output of eggs was from five to eight dozen, and it continued all winter. When the weather got colder, and stormy days came, the cattle were fed in racks, clover and timothy and millet hay, corn fodder, etc. The cattle were continually working down some of the straw shed, and finally the shoats went to sleeping in the litter. That old straw shed seemed to be a home for most everything that could get into it. Even the flocks of quails made daily visits and worked with the hens in and around the yard and shed. I do not remember of a single ailing fowl all winter and when spring came, they were bright and ready to hunt in the nearby grove and orchard.

At the time, I looked at all these things as a "matter of course," but since I have grown older and read and listened to up-to-date methods, scientific ventilation, Jim crack feeds and sanitary poultry houses, my mind wanders back to the old straw shed, its simplicity and its success. I have firmly made up my mind that lots of up-to-date poultry theories are more theoretical than practical and that if it were possible for all poultry raisers to have an old straw shed, chicken doctors and remedies would not be so popular as they are.

I am a firm believer in lots of litter for the fowls to work in, also a variety of feeds and unlimited pure air. Still more, I believe fowls should have plenty of salt and water. Stop and think of it. An egg is nearly 80 per cent water; the hens must have water in abundance and unlimited exercise in pure air. Yes, salt will kill fowls and it will kill stock, too, but it will kill nothing if it has been managed carefully. Sunshine and pure air was made for fowls as well as other life, and while it is so cheap, why be stingy with it? Straw, chaff, leaves or other kinds of litter is enjoyed by hens just as much as a pond of water is by ducks. The water may not do the ducks any particular good, but keeps the hens warm and healthy and the litter absorbs moisture and keeps the ground or floor under it warm. In building poultry houses, we should study the hens more and ourselves less.—M. M. Johnson.

Mysteries of Incubation.

To the novice there are no mysteries about incubators. He has read a few things about them, and the way seems plain. A man who had had nothing to do with incubators was telling the writer of this how easy it was to manage them, saying he proposed to try one before long—"It would be so interesting." His remark elicited the inquiry: "Did you ever try one?" to which he replied, "Oh, no, but it is easy enough." The man who has run incubators knows that it is not "easy enough" sometimes. The old hen is adjusted somewhat automatically; she seems not to mind temperatures or supplies of moisture, and in due time brings off her hatch. But with the incubator it is different. It must be studied. The cheerful amateur soon finds that there are mysteries about it he has to learn or try to learn. He has been told that certain locations, as in the cellar, are the best places for the incubator. He tries it and fails to get a good batch. He then puts his incubator in some place he had been warned against and succeeds. Why? Then the temperature. He has been told to keep his incubator at 102 or 103 degrees. He tries to do so. But in a short time he finds that there is a great variety of temperature in the incubator, the temperature of the eggs being one thing and over the eggs another. He begins to wonder where his standard of temperature is to be. He is given full instructions on how to use the regulator, and follows directions beautifully and successfully generally, but now and then it does not seem to give proper results and his eggs get too hot or too cold. Why? The question of moisture claims some of his attention, and he begins to read up on the matter. Then he discovers that poultry-raisers have had all kinds of experiences with that thing they call moisture. After a year or two, the amateur discovers that there are mysteries connected with incubation, and he gets ready to investigate in earnest.

Jealousy and envy are paid-up mortgages of human nature.

Places of Historical Interest in Nuremberg

Best Worth Visiting of All of Germany's Ancient Cities—Architectural Gems and Famous Patrician Houses Still Stand in Its Narrow Streets.

(Special Correspondence.)

Lying on the right bank of the Danube, and opposite the point where the Regen flows into the larger river, the town has a picturesque and beautiful many rare and beautiful works of art, but the finest specimen of German sculpture in Nuremberg is found in the church of St. Sebald, and is a bronze monument, designed and partly executed by Peter Vischer.

This beautifully wrought monument to St. Sebald was completed in the year 1519, after careful work during fifteen years. It consists of a sarcophagus, with the twelve apostles standing in niches around it. Above are the fathers of the church and prophets, with many mermaids, genii and other imaginary figures at the top.

situation. Six gates divide the walls around the city, and there is a bridge across the river 1,100 feet in length.

A German poet has wisely sung: "If any one would know and praise Germany, he must see Nuremberg, the home of Albrecht, Durer, Fischer and Hans Sachs." Although art and architecture in Nuremberg belong to a later period than that of Ratisbon, the city is even more interesting. The fortifications date back as far as the middle ages, and still present a formidable appearance. A rampart encircles the city, with here and there a tower, and protected outside by a dry moat, which is 35 feet in depth.

The old castle in Nuremberg is called the "Burg," and is full of historical interest. It was built in the eleventh century, and afterward enlarged and repaired by Frederick Barbarossa. Its foundations are of solid rock, and its architecture is Gothic.

Near one of its curious towers is an old well of great depth, and on the castle wall are two hoofprints, made by the horse of a robber-knight, who was imprisoned in the "Burg," but escaped by leaping over the high wall. The "Burg" has also its torture chamber, and the terrible "Iron Virgin," written of in all histories of the Inquisition, is here preserved. This is a tall iron figure, opening in halves, and filled with long, sharp iron spikes,

A small statue of the artist himself, chisel in hand, and wearing his apron, stands in a niche below. This "Shrine of St. Sebald," as the monument is called, is celebrated throughout all Germany, and is a most beautiful piece of work.

A small side door of St. Sebald has a finely wrought screen or canopy, and is called "The Bride's door," for through this narrow portal the happy brides of Nuremberg have, for many years, passed in, and out again, after the knot has been tied.

The life and activity of Nuremberg have not passed away with the middle ages. Modern Nuremberg has its factories outside the town, its wonderful toy ships and its unique and costly ivory work. Six miles from the city is a factory where lead pencils are made and sent all over the world. Railway carriages are also manufactured here, and a large number of workmen are employed in these factories.

The shops are full of curious and valuable faience jugs and vases, and these are sold at fair and reasonable rates, while there is a delicious kind of cake, called "Lobkuchen," made only by the skillful bakers of Nuremberg.

Art and architecture, in the highest sense, are, however, no longer cultivated in Nuremberg, and it is, perhaps, for this reason that the old which pierced the body of the victim, clasped slowly in its awful embrace.

In an extended view of Nuremberg the towers of the St. Lawrence church are a conspicuous feature. These towers are not alike, except in size and shape, as one is of richly gilded copper and the other is plain and severe. The church itself is Gothic and was built in the thirteenth century. There is a famous stained glass window over one of the portals, which is called the Rose window.

The St. Lawrence church contains houses, fountains and churches are so carefully preserved. Nuremberg delights in honoring her poets and painters of past years, and there is no other German city so full of artistic and historic memories.

Concepts Severely Punished.

A LITTLE TOO MUCH.

Mr. Secondman's Strange Refusal to Make His Wife Happy. "Warmed-up love," remarked Mr. Secondman, "is all right in a good many respects, but it has its disadvantages. For instance, my wife is a good, loyal woman, but things occur frequently in our private affairs that well might wound the sensitive nature of a trusting, affectionate man."

"Now, of course, I am glad that my wife thought a great deal of her first husband—in fact, I should judge from what she says that he was a wonderful, a remarkable man—but it hurts my pride to have her keep his photograph and her own side by side in the album. I didn't much care to have her celebrate her crystal wedding last autumn on the fifteenth anniversary of her first marriage. I felt melancholy for six months after she gave our boy the full name of her first husband. Indeed, I know he must have been a great, noble man, and she is certainly a true, loyal woman; but there are some things that I flatly refuse to do, no matter what my marriage vows were."

"Ah! does she forget and call you by her first husband's name?" inquired the sympathetic listener.

"Very often, of course; but I don't care for that. Her latest idea is to have me trim my whiskers just as her first husband did, wear an old suit of his clothes in the evenings, and talk through my nose. She says that would make her just the happiest wife in the world."

END OF A UNIQUE RAILROAD.

Passengers Became "Seasick" on the "Turkey Trail" of Montana.

Before another winter comes the famous "Turkey Trail" Railroad of Montana will be no more. It is going the way of other typical western pioneer railroads. It has been absorbed by an overland "system" and its gauge is being changed from narrow to broad.

The "Turkey Trail," as it is known, is the Great Falls & Canada railroad. It runs north from Great Falls to Lethbridge, and is largely engaged in hauling coal from mines near the international boundary. James J. Hill has taken the "Turkey Trail" into his vast Great Northern family, and limited trains will soon be running over a newly graded broad gauge road.

The "Turkey Trail" existed before anyone thought of a railroad between Great Falls and Canada. When the time came to build the road the surveyors simply followed the old trail across the plains. They laid the track on the prairie without bothering to build up a grade. If a buffalo wallow was particularly deep, it was filled up, but that was all. The track rose and fell on the prairie waves, and if the trains had not gone slowly they would not have gone at all, unless into the ditch. As it was, many who had crossed the Atlantic without a tremor became deathly sick from riding on the "Turkey Trail" express.

Hickory Best Firewood.

Shellbark hickory, says the Hartford Times, is regarded as the standard of our forest trees, and, calling that 100, other trees will compare with it for real value as fuel for house purposes as follows: Shellbark hickory, 100; pignut hickory, 95; white oak, 84; white ash, 77; dogwood, 75; scrub oak, 73; white hickory, 72; apple, 70; red oak, 67; white beech, 65; black birch, 62; yellow oak, 60; hard maple, 58; white elm, 58; red cedar, 56; wild cherry, 55; yellow pine, 54; chestnut, 52; yellow poplar, 51; butternut and white birch, 45; white pine, 30. It is worth bearing in mind that in woods of the same species there is a great difference, according to the soil on which they grow. A tree that grows on a wet, low, rich ground will be less solid and less durable for fuel and therefore of a less value than a tree of the same kind that grows on a dry and poor soil. To the ordinary purchaser oak is oak and pine is pine, but for home use the tree grown on dry upland and standing apart from others is worth a great deal more.

Enough Said.

Down in Anderson county, of soon-to-be-Senator Latimer's domain, there resides a notable character, known to public life of the Palmetto state as Josh W. Ashley. Some years ago Josh, illiterate in speech, but possessed of much good sense, broke into the legislature, and his campaign notes have been replete with homely anecdotes.

"I once heard Josh tell a story," says Mr. Latimer, "which amused his hearers immensely."

"A young fellow had been a-cot'n," said he, "and wanted to ax the girl to marry him. He went to see her and sot a-sot and sot closer and closer to her."

"Mary, he axed her, 'will yer hev me?'"

"'Yes,' she told him."

"Then he sot and sot and sot."

"'Why don't you say somethin'?" she finally ventured.

"'Wall, nuff a been said,'"—Washington Post.

Thompson, Master of Trinity.

He was walking with the author one day at Kissingen when a befurred and most distinguished looking personage passed them and saluted the master with a courteous freedom. "Just what I was saying," Dr. Thompson remarked when he was gone. "You and I couldn't have done it like that. Superiority without patronage. So thoroughly affable." "What is he?" I said. "A Russian nobleman?" "No; he's my courier."—From Melville's Recollections.

WASHINGTON ELM AND SHEPARD CHURCH.

premiered him, and excited great expectations. They were not disappointed. His personal appearance, notwithstanding the dust of travel, was calculated to captivate the public eye, and as he rode through the camp, amid a throng of officers, he was the admiration of the soldiery and of a curious throng collected from the surrounding country. Happy was the countryman who could get a full view of him and to carry home an account of it to his neighbors.

His excellency was on horseback, of course, and was accompanied by several military gentlemen. It was not difficult to distinguish him from all others, for his personal appearance was truly noble and majestic. He was in the prime and vigor of middle life, having, on the 22d of February, reached the age of 43.

And then, on the broad highway—new Garden street—not far from and in sight of embryonic Harvard college, in the grateful shade of a majestic elm, the "father of his country" drew his sword and performed the simple ceremony of taking command of the patriot army, an army whose action at Concord bridge April 19 had fired the shot heard round the world; whose few brigades of raw militia on June 17 had met the veteran troops of England on Bunker Hill and demonstrated their prowess, winning a moral, if not a military, victory; and which newly organized and persistent army, after a wasting, disheartening war of seven years' duration, firmly established upon this continent a republic of freedom that was destined to become one of the greatest as well as the best nations on the face of the globe. The incident marked the commencement of Washington's career in the service of his country. How gloriously was the promise given by his bearing redeemed!

To go back a little: On the very day that the important British fortress, Fort Ticonderoga, surrendered to Col. Ethan Allen, the Colonial Congress, which had adjourned in the previous autumn, reassembled at Philadelphia. Washington was there, and John Adams and Samuel Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Patrick Henry; Thomas Jefferson came soon afterward. "A last appeal was addressed to the King of England; and the infatuated monarch was plainly told that the colonies had chosen war in preference to voluntary slavery. Early in the session John Adams made a powerful address, in the course of which he sketched the on the other side of the front door. Here, in December, the general was joined by his wife, Martha Washington, who remained there until after the British evacuation of Boston.

More than a century and a quarter has passed since the dramatic scene of July 3, 1775, was enacted beneath the historic elm in ancient Newtowne, but the tree, alive, but showing the decrepitude of age, still exists.

The "Washington elm" is aptly framed in historic environments. On one side of it is the elegant Shepard Memorial church, completed in 1872, which is the religious home of one of Cambridge's earliest denominational societies (Congregationalist), among whose modern distinguished members were the late Hon. Charles Theodore Russell (its senior deacon) and family, including his son, the late Gov. William E. Russell. On its other flank is Cambridge Common, with its elaborate soldiers' monument, erected to honor the memory of 4,588 Cambridge men who served and the 938 who perished in the civil war.

A neat circular iron fence protects the elm from vandal hands, and attached to the fence is a granite tablet bearing this inscription, written by the poet Longfellow:

"Beneath this tree Washington first took command of the American army, July 3, 1775."

Although Washington, on taking command of the army, found his duties manifold, intricate, appalling and overwhelming, he was strengthened and encouraged then and thereafter by the loyal, efficient support of the civil and military leaders of New England.

This in Massachusetts alone was a tower of strength, for, besides Benjamin Lincoln of Hingham, the first secretary of the war department, and Henry Knox of Boston, the founder and chief of the artillery service of the Continental army, the successor of Gen. Lincoln as secretary of war and founder of the celebrated Society of the Cincinnati, he had the moral and practical support of four great civil Bay State leaders—Samuel Adams of the sturdy old Puritan stock of Boston; John Hancock of Boston, president of the Continental Congress of 1776, first signer of the Declaration of Independence and afterward governor of the commonwealth; John Adams of Quincy, second president of the United States and one of the most active members of the Congress of 1776, and

With this additional amount Mrs. Johnson will be very comfortably situated.—Washtenaw Times.

James Gage, whose farm lies just outside the village on the south, brought a quantity of peat to the Enterprise office a few days ago for our inspection. Some 30 years ago, John Moran dug a ditch through an eight acre piece of Mr. Gage's land and threw out what he claimed was as good a quality of peat as they have in Ireland. After chunks of it had dried for several months, Mr. Gage says he burned it in his stove and it made a hot fire. He does not know how deep the peat is. No doubt there are many acres of peat in this vicinity, at any rate the matter is worthy of investigation.—Manchester Enterprise.

A company is being formed at Ypsilanti which proposes to do away with coal famine in the future. Among those interested in the Beaumont Oil Burner & Stove Co. are Fred W. Green, Tracy L. Towner, B. F. Savary and F. A. Worden. The company holds the patent of a specially constructed stove which burns crude oil. This oil can be obtained for three cents a gallon and as the stove burning all day will only consume about three gallons, the expense of running the stove is brought down to about ten cents a day. The company expects to locate here permanently and expects soon to erect a factory.

Swedish Country.
When a train leaves a platform or a steamboat pier in Sweden, all the lookers on lift their hats to the departing passengers and bow to them, a compliment returned by the travelers. If you address the poorest person in the street you must lift your hat. A gentleman passing a lady on the stairs of a hotel must do the same. To enter the shop or a bank with one's hat on is a terrible breach of good manners. If you enter or leave a coffee room you must bow to all the occupants.

J. B. BELSER, St. Louis, Mo.
Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it is possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses get better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

Grip
Brought On Sciatic Rheumatism.
Nervous Prostration Followed.
Dr. Miles' Nerve Gave Back Health.

"I was laid up during the winter of 94-95 with sciatic rheumatism and nervous prostration brought on by a severe attack of La-Grippe. The rheumatic pains were so severe at times that it was impossible for me to turn in bed. I was unable to sleep. I had two of our best physicians in attendance, took all the advertised remedies for troubles of this kind but got no help whatever until I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. Six bottles restored me to health; I am better than for years; in fact am entirely relieved. I can say with a clear conscience that it was Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve that restored me to health. When the pains of sciatica and rheumatism were most severe I secured almost immediate relief by the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I have recommended Dr. Miles' Remedies to many people."—Fred Myers, Redfield, S. D.

"I was taken with pain in my heart and under the left shoulder; with such heavy oppressed feeling in my chest that I could hardly breathe. I had palpitation so bad that my heart would throb so that it would shake my whole bed. I also had a weak, gone feeling in the region of my heart. My doctor treated me for liver and stomach trouble but I failed to receive any benefit until a friend recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Restorative Nerve. I used both and one box of the Anti-Pain Pills. I believe I am completely and permanently cured."—Mrs. J. W. Golding, Noblesville, Ind.
