They Don't Want Much.

One hundred and fifty thousand dollars is the modest sum Grand Rapids furniture men think the state ought to pay for a building at the St Louis world's fair. A number of the gentlemen appeared before the joint house and senate committees last Thursday evening to urge big appropriation, but it was noticeable that no manufacturers from any other part of the state appeared.

The Grand Rapids people explained hat they do not want the state to pay for own fund, but say they want Michigan to be the leading state at the fair.

Fighting Snow in the West.

The history of railroading in the Rocky mountains and in the northwest is the history of snow-fighting as well as of engineering, bridge-building and tunnelling. The snow begins early in those high altitudes. The railways lie often between sheer mountain walls. The winds-on the plains sometimes friendly as well as sometimes hostile, for they sometimes clear the track-are here all hostile. They can only blow the snow along the tracks. Down the mountain sides the first hint of warmth in the late winter sends the released snow to block all possibility of traffic. Not merely the drift, but the avalanche, must be On reading the statement of votes given fought. The ways in which the snow ventive and the curative. ### Our Big Universities.

Colleges and universities grow faster than ever. The growth was shown chiefly by the larger and wealthier ones, the smaller ones remaining stationary or falling away. Columbia passed Harvard in students, and now leads the list, the figures being 5,865 and 5,782. Chicago made another leap, and is third, with 4,723. California, with 3,848, is running almost neck and neck with Michigan, with 3,843. Minnesota's count is 3,665, and Cornell has reached 3,469. Pratt holds eighth place, with 3,183, and Yale has jumped to the ninth from the eleventh, with 3,154. Then comes a close race of three - Wisconsin, 2,986; Northwestern, 2,981, and Illinois, 2,905. Pennsylvania is thirteenth, with 2,736; Nebraska, fourteenth, with 2,398; New York, fifteenth, with 2,200, and Syracuse sixteenth, with 2,065.—N. Y. World Almanac Statistics.

Stranger Than Piction. The Angel of the Odd has been busy again. The killing of a school girl by a chance swing of a croquet mallet, the stabbing of a boy by a baseball striking the knife in his hand and the breaking of a man's leg by a human missile in the form of a dizzy rider on a carousal are all chronicled in one day's news, yet each of these incidents is such as could hardly be imagined. MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

Michigan will probably have no state representation at the St. Louis world's fair. The house of representatives will not vote an appropriation to exceed $40,000, and Gov. Bliss is not inclined to stand for such cheap representation as this would provide. "I don't find that there is any general demand for an appropriation," said Gov. Bilss. "In Detroit, for instance, nobody seems to care much for it. leorge H. Barbour told me he didn't want to see any appropriation at all unless it were a decent one."

However, the representatives of the rand Rapids furniture interests are undaunted. They maintain that $100,-00 will be appropriated. So sure are they that the bill granting an appropriation and creating a commission will pass that they have already seected some of the men for the commission. Roy C. Barnhardt, of Grand Rapids, president of the Furniture Men's Association, is one of the prorietors of the Downey House, Laning, is another. Mr. Farrell, of the leveland Cliffs Mining Co., has been entioned as another. The house seems to be working eas-lly and in no particular hurry to dispose of the most important matters. There are a general primary bill, mortgage taxation, appropriations for he university, governor's residence, addition to the capitol building, taxation of sleeping cars, municipal ownership and other important matters that are as yet untouched. The proposed amendment to the constitution providing that members of the legislature shall be paid $500 a year, instead of $3 a day, as at present, was taken up Tuesday afternoon under a suspension of the rules. The proposed amendment cuts off all mileage, all pay for extra sessions, and omitted stationery perquisites. There was some sharp discussion of the matter, but it was passed 76 to 10. The idea of pushing the bill is to have it submitted to the people in the April election. Practically the same proposition was submitted in the state election of two years ago, and it was defeated. If this amendment is adopted it will not take effect until 1905 The house ways and means commit-

There are other floral items, bringing the total up to $29.25. Then there was a long string of table delicacies, among which was an item of $15.60 for squabs; $2.50 for blue points; $2.50 for brandled cherries, etc. The comof ice cream and $12.50 worth of flow-

This will compel them to make public their affairs which at present they are not compelled to do.

The serate did quite a bit of business Tuesday afternoon, among the bills passed being one which defines criminal anarchy and provides imprisonment up to 10 years for agitators of that kind. Favorable action was also given the Sovereign bill providing for greater precaution and investigation before juvenile offenders are sent to penal institutions. It provides that courts may designate private persons to take charge of such children. A faint twitching of the eyelids or a murmur of pain were the only signs of returning consciousness perceptible during the 24 hours the injured woman was in the hospital ward. There is no doubt that the plunge of the auto with its occupants into the stone quarry was an accident and not purposely made as at first surmised. The machine was found with brakes firmly set and reversed to stop it, showing that Pennell had used every precaution to prevent the dis-

President Roosevelt told Senator Cullom Friday that he would call congress in extra session in October if the senate could not conclude action on the Cuban treaty without the aid of the house. The palaces are splendid Along Fifth avenue: The castles up the Hudson Are very fine to view: But fairer are the acres. All white as ocean foam, When snowy bolls are bursting In the cotton-fields at home.

I ate from silver dishes,
But smelt the pleasant steam
Of johnny-cakes and spare-ribs
In every homesick dream;
So I didn't wait for packing,
But took a brush and comb
And started back one morning
For the cotton-fields of home.

I hear the banjo strumming Beneath the climbing rose; The mocking-bird is singing Farewell to daylight's close. The purple dusk is fragrant With whiffs of dewy loam, Around my easy cabin In the cotton-fields of home.

shoulders for all he was worth. "By the Lord, son, now you look like the man you ought to be!' the old man was saying to my cook, and they the cat was out of the bag. My cool was my employer's scapegrace son of whom I had often heard. The boy had been in hot water, owing to his addiction to the old stuff, even since his early youth. He had been banished from Heldelberg, where he was getting his education, for alcoholic pranks, and upon his return to Michigan he had embarked on a series of colossal toots that had almost driven his family to distraction. He had been offered the alternative of going into the woods for a winter of sobering up and hard work or of being cast off altogether by his dad, and he had the good sense of taking the sobering up end of it. The ecamp was just the thing he needed to thoroughly work the liquor out of his system and build him up, and he has never taken a drink from the time I saw him go through his fight with that 'after feeling' on our way to the camp. His dad was so grateful for what he foolishly imagined I had done for the boy that he made me general superintendent of all his lumber interests. The young man you saw entering the automobile a few moments ago with as pretty a wife as Michigan has produced took charge of the great business when his father died a few years ago. "The bricklayer's trowel," said a dealer in such things, "might have seemed long ago to have reached its final perfected shape, never to change again; but, as a matter of fact, it has been in the past dozen years altered considerably in its proportions, the better to adapt it to modern condi-

"The old style trowel was used for laying bricks with mortar, but now bricks are laid more commonly with cement, wich is used in a far more nearly fluid state than was mortar, and the old style trowel wouldn't take up enough of it. So masons were continually calling for a wider trowel, and in answer to this demand the trowel has gradually been widened until now it is an inch or more wider than it formerly was. It is also made nowadays a little shorter than formerly.

"And of trowels in general there are now more styles than there formerly were, due to the greater complication of modern construction, and the greater need of trowels for special uses.

"While the bricklayer's trowel shorter and wider, as I have described it to you, is now the standard hereabouts, bricklayers throughout the country do not everywhere use the same kind. Thus, while we use here a trowel of a certain form and dimensions, they use in California a trowel with a bigger and thinner blade than that of ours; there they don't cut and trim bricks with the edge of the trowel, but use a chisel that is made for the purpose. But, then, men in different parts of the country have different methods in bricklaying prac-

Wonderful Hospital Work. Some remarkable figures have just been given out by the secretary of the London hospital to convey an idea of the immense work done by that institution. It is stated that last year 2,500,000 pills were taken by people who came to the hospital for treatment, and that over three tons of cough lozenges were used by them. In dressing injuries, ninety-two miles of lint, 476 miles of bandages, six tons of cotton wool and nine miles of plaster were used. Every day half a ton of ice and 400 syphons of soda water were made way with. The eggs consumed, if placed end to end, would form a chain six and one-half miles long. The year's milk bill was over $15,000, and the meat bill over $25. 000. The hospital goes so far as to estimate that if last year's patients could be stood side by side they would make a line sixty-six and a half miles long.

Here is a really good string puzzle. Have some boy remove his coat. When this is done take a long string tied into a loop. but very few will succeed. Fig. 2, with a brief explanation will show you how it can be done. Take the bottom of the loop and raise it up to the shoulders, being careful that you do not cross or twist is in any way. Insert this loop in the armhole of the vest, pass it over the head, under the vest again, through the other armhole, down over the hand, and then reach up under the vest and pull it down. The string will come down all the way under the vest. Then clear from the vest it will drop to the floor and he may step out of it, his hand still in his vest pocket and the string free from him.

The Magic Penknife. Take any good-sized dark bottle, like a champagne bottle, and an ordinary penknife. You should, beforehand, prepare a length of fine, strong black thread. Wax one end of it for two or three inches and roll this end up into a wau, which you should slip in where it will be caught between the butt of the blade and the knife handle when you open the knife. Before you do this, and while you are allowing your audience to inspect the knife, have the waxed, end of the thread stuck to a button or some other hard object on your clothes where it will not be noticed and will be handy when you want it.

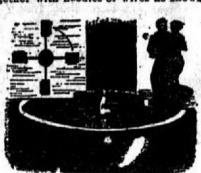

Having gotten the waxed end fastened to the knife as described, drop the knife down into the bottle, sit down before the bottle, and while you are talking quietly pin the other end of the thread to your dress or trousers so that by a mere motion any questions. Half an hour after get tain deductions so far as man is contained the grip the cook emerged from tain deductions so far as man is contained the grip the cook emerged from tain deductions so far as man is contained to your leg you can cause the knife tain deductions so far as man is contained.—Family Poctor.

Tireless Dancers.

Five pieces of cork are fastened together with needles or wires as shown in the diagram, and to the right side of each of the outer corks a small piece of gum camphor is fastened by means of sealing wax. If the corks are now placed on the surface of water they will turn in the direction of the arrow for several days. The experiment may be made more amusing by attaching two little figures, representing a waltzing couple to the central cork.

The smallest trace of grease will prevent the motion. The hands should be washed carefully before making the apparatus, and if it still refuses to work it should be held with pincers and dipped in weak ammonia to remove any particle of oil.

A Toy Electroscope.

Some very pretty experiments may be made with the simple apparatus herein described. An ingenious boy can make all the necessary preparations and without expense.

Get a piece of wire about six inches in length and bend two inches of it down at right angles. Then bend the other end, also at right angles, but in a direction opposite to the first.

Place the upper horizontal branch of the wire on the rim of an ordinary glass tumbler, and let it hang there so that the vertical part of the wire shall not touch the inside of the glass. Over the lower branch of the wire hand a piece of tin foil, and then place on top of the glass an ordinary tin

Now what you have to do is to electrify the tin foil, and this you can do by rubbing a glass rod, or a stick of sealing wax, with a woolen cloth and holding it close to the tin plate, when into your hand, with its uncovered the two ends of the tin foll will fly apart suddenly. This shows that you have electrified the foil by means of the electricity awakened in the glass rod or sealing wax by rubbing it.

The Prompt Boy.

"How I do appreciate a boy who is always prompt-always on time," said John Wanamaker, the great dry goods merchapt. "One soon learns to depend upon the boy who is never late in taking his place—who is never late in delivering a letter or a package-never late in going to meet a railroad train-never late in keeping an engagement of any kind. Such a boy will soon be trusted in weightler matters, be promoted at an early date to higher positions, and honored by the shrewd men of finance who will desire to be associated with him in important business transactions. Promptness is better than a big capital for a business man or woman, and is one of the most important elements of success in life.

How the Bear Got His Short Tail. A Norwegian fable satisfactorily accounts for the short tail of the bear. The bear, it seems, was once met by the fox, who carried a load of fishes, and who in answer to the question how he had obtained them, replied that he had obtained them by fishing. The bear expressed a desire to know an art so useful, when the fox informed him that he had only to make a hole in the ice, and insert his tail. "You must stop long enough, and not out." The silly bear followed the instructions and kept his tail in the hole

Magnanimous Boys.

Horace Mann says: "You are made to be kind, boys; generous, magnanimous. If there is a boy in school who has a clubfoot, don't let him know you ever saw it. If there is a boy with ragged clothes, don't talk about rags within his hearing. If there is a hungry one, give him part of your dinner. If there is a dull one, help him to get his lessons. If there is a bright one, be not envious of him; for if one boy is proud of his talents, and another boy is envious of them, there are two great wrongs, and no more talent than before. If a larger or stronger boy has injured you and is sorry for it, forgive him."

Trick With Matches. Five matches are lying on the table. Try to lift them in such a way that you pick up No. 1 with your thumbs, No. 2 with both index fingers, No. 3 with the third fingers, No. 4 with the ring fingers and No. 5 with the little fingers, as shown in the illustration. After succeeding with this, try to lift two or three in the same way.

Trip Around the World.

An interesting game to play at a party is "A trip around the world." Give each guest a small blankbook, with pencil attached. The numbers of the blanks in the book correspond with those on various articles scattered about the room, intended to suggest places to visit.

A tiny jar of salve means Greece; a small pot of baked beans stand for Boston; a bottle of perfume, Cologne: a cigar, Havana, and so on, according to one's ingenuity. The contest, of course, is to decipher as many of the places as possible.

The prizes are germane to the travel plan, a book of travels, a silver traveling cup, etc.

Cutting Out Convict Labor. The E. Bronk Co., manufacturers shirts, who employ a larger number of Jackson prison convicts than any other single contractor, have taken a step towards employing only free ! bor. They have a contract with state for the work of 250 convicts at 35 cents a day, but at the expiration of the six months' notice which they have served upon Warden Vincent, they will cancel their contract, which has two years to run. The Withington-Cooley Company, another large employer of convict labor, has, for some time, been increasing its freeshop product, and decreasing the number of its convict workmen. Last year this company dropped 25 convicts from its employ. The managers say they find free labor cheaper than convict Flooded the Country.

The Saginaw river was spreading over a wide area on Wednesday, North of the city toward Bay City the country for miles is a vast lake. Much inconvenience has been caused and some damage has resulted, but it is believed the limit has been about reached. Cass. river came up five inches since Tuesday, but the ice is all out and no inconvenience is caused except from the flooding of low lands. The Riverside coal mine was drowned out and is full of water, caused by a big leak in the air shaft. At Frankenmuth, Cass river has fallen four inches. In the lower part of the town many houses are flooded.

Flushing's Fire Loss.

Fire broke out in Flushing at midnight Thursday, which destroyed the double store building of Niles & Kennedy, dealers in general merchandise. The furniture and undertaking establishment of Cameron & Shannon, adjoining, was completely gutted. The People's bank building was also damaged several hundred dollars and the plate glass fronts of the postoffice and J. B. French's store were completely wrecked. Niles & Kennedy sustain a loss of $7,500, covered by insurance; F. A. Niles, $3,000, no insurance; Cameron & Shannon, $2,500.

Bad Indians.

A few days ago an Indian shanty at School Lake, four miles from Maple City, was burned. It now develops that the shanty was set on fire, and it is declared that two Indians had pounded another into insensibility and left him in the shanty, then set it on fire, presumably to hide their crime. A fourth Indian, who came to the fire, discovered the wounded brave's danger. He dragged him from the burning structure and saved his life. The Leelanau county authorities are inves-

A LOVE STORY BY AMELIA E. BARR

(Copyright, 1900, by Amelia E. Barr)

CHAPTER IV .- (Continued.) At this moment Mrs. Hyde entered the room, her fair face alight with love. A servant carrying a tray full of good things to eat, followed her; and it was delightful to watch her eager happiness as she arranged meats, and sweetmeats, in tempting order for the hungry young man. As he ate, he talked to his father of those things interesting to him.

"Pray," asked Gen. Hyde, "what can you tell me about the seat of government? Will New York be "Upon my word, sir, the opinions are endless in number and variety: but, in truth, there is to be some sort of a compromise with the southern senators, who are promised the capital on the Potomac, finally, if they no longer oppose the assumption of the state debts."

"And Joris, the ladies? What say they on the subject?" asked Mrs. Hyde.

"Indeed, mother, some of them are lamenting, and some looking forward to the change. All are talking of the social disposition of the beautiful Mrs. Bingham. 'She will have to abate herself a little before Mrs. Washington,' I heard one lady say; while others declare that her association with our republican court will be harmonious and advantageous: especially, as she is beloved in the home of the president."

Our republican court! The definition is absurd!" said Gen. Hyde. "court pre-supposes both royalty and nobility!"

"We have both of them intrinsically, father."

"In faith, George! you will find. that intrinsic qualities have no social value. What people require is their sible." external evidence. Now I am sleepy. I will talk to you more on these subjects in the morning. Good night!" He put his hand on his son's shoulder and looked with a proud confidence into the bright face, lifted to the touch.

Then George was alone with his mother; but she was full of little household affairs; and he could not bring into them a subject so close and so sacred to his heart. "I will speak to my mother in the morining," full of other things."

But in the morning Mrs. Hyde was still more interested in "other things." She had an architect with her, her servants were to order, her house to look after. So he ate his breakfast rapidly, and went out to the lew stables. He expected to find the General there, and he was not disappointed. There was much to interest them; men were busy draining and building stone walls; plowing and sowing, and digging and planting. Yet, in the midst of all this busy life, George detected in his father's manner an air of melancholy. Presently he asked, "How goes it with your law books, George?"

"Faith, sir, I must confess, very indifferently. I have no senses that "Consider, George, that not only this estate, but also the estate of your Grandfather Van Heemskirk must eventually come to you. Much of both has been bought from confiscated properties, and it is not improbable that claimants may arise who will cause you trouble. How necessary, then, that you should know something of the laws affecting land and property in this country."

"My grandfather is in trouble. I forgot to tell you last night, that his friend, Elder Semple, is dead." "Dead!"

"Yes, sir."

For a few minutes General Hyde

He watched his son's angry carriage. remained silent, then he said with much feeling, "Peace to the old Tory! He was once very kind to me and my family. Who told you this news?" heaven! you must forget Miss Moran. She is not to be thought of as a wife-for one moment."

"Sir, you are not so unjust as to make such a statement without giving me a reason for it."

"Giving you a reason! Look east, and west, and north, and south-all these rich lands were bought with your Uncle William's money. He made himself poor to make me rich. Tell me now what child is left to your uncle?"

"Only his daughter Annie, a girl of fourteen or fifteen years." "Well, then, sir, what is you duty to Annie Hyde?" "I do not conceive myself to have any special duty to Annie Hyde." "Upon my honor, you are then per versely stupid! When your uncle wrote me that pitiful letter which informed me of the death of his last son, my first thought was that his daughter must be assured her right in the succession. There is one way to compass this. You know what that way is. Why do you not speak?"

"Because, sir, if I confess your evident opinion to be just, I bind myself to carry it out, because of its justice." "Is it not just?"

"It might be just to Annie and very unjust to me."

"No, sir. Justice is a thing absolute; it is not altered by circumstances. What are you going to do?" "I know not. I must think-"

"I am ashamed of you! In the name of all that is honorable, what is there to think about? Have I a son with so little proper feeling that he needs to think a moment when the case is between honor and himself?" "Sir, you are more cruel and unreasonable than I could believe pos-

"The railings of a losing lover are not worth answering. A man mad in love has some title to my pity."

"And, sir, if you were any other man but my father, I would say 'Confound your pity!' Our conversation is extremely unpleasant, and I desire to put an end to it. Permit me to return to the house."

"Let it be so. I will see you tomorrow in town."

He stood in the center of the roadway watching his son's angry carhe thought. "To-night her mind is riage and his rapid, uneven steps. "He is in a naked temper, without even civil disguise," he muttered, "and I hope that he will keep away from his mother in his present unrea-

> His mother was, however, George's first desire. He did not believe she would sanction his sacrifice to Annie Hyde. When he reached the house he found that his mother had gone to the pond to feed her swans, and he decided to ride a little out of his way In order to see her there. Upon the soft earth the hoofs of his horse were not audible, but when he came within her sight, it was wonderful to watch the transformation of her countenance. A great love, a great joy, swept away like a gust of wind, the peace on its surface, and a glowing, loving intelligence made her instantly restless. She called 'him with sweet imperiousness, "George! Joris! Joris! My dear one!" and he answered her with the one word ever near, and ever dear, to a woman's heart-"Mother!"

"I thought you were with your father. Where have you left him?" "In the wilderness. There is need for me to go to the city. My father will tell you why. I come only to see you-to kiss you-"

"Joris, I see that you are angry. What has your father been saying to you?"

"He will tell you." "Money, is it?"

"It is not money. My father is generous to me."

"Then some woman it is?" "Kiss me, mother. After all, there is no woman like unto you." She drew close to him and he stooped his handsome face to hers and kissed her many times. Her smile comforted him, for it was full of confidence, as she said:

"Trouble not yourself, Joris. At the last, your father sees through my eyes. Must you go? Well, then, the Best of Beings go with you!" She lifted her face again and

George kissed it, and then rode rapidly away. He hardly drew rein until he reached his grandfather's house. The speaking, she answered: "To sell thee, Joris, is a shame, and for nothing to sell thee is still worse. This is what I think: Let half of the income from the earldom go to the poor young lady, but thyself into the bargain, is beyond singing the first hymn he opened the arry Miss Moran, and I never all reason. The train was traveling so fast it sucked the water up behind it as it rushed across the trestle, and I could hear the fishes groan as we flew over this neck of the gulf. soil being stronger. I go through the peach country in that state every winter and notice the difference. The methods of pruning peach trees are the occasion of much discussion amongst growers. The difference of opinion turn chiefly about three practices: Short trunks with rapidly ascending branches, high trunks with more horizontal branches, and shortening in or heading back the annual growth. Each system has distinct merits for particular cases. The nature and fertility of the soil are often the denominating factors in these opposing methods; a system of pruning which suits the slow growth and hard wood of sandy soil may not be adapted to the rapid growth and heavier top of trees on stronger soil. We plant one year old trees topping back from 18 inches to 2 feet, getting our trees headed low. The first six weeks after growth begins the trees should be gone over frequently to rub off all sprouts that are not needed. Four or five are left to form the main branches; these should be evenly distributed. Three or four feet of new growth for each branch the first year is considered fair. The first pruning occurs the following winter, cutting back from one-half to a third of the previous year's growth. The low trunk permits a more open top and this is an advantage as the fruit colors up better. One reason for heading back is the necessity of checking the growth and keeping the tree within bounds when it is growing in strong soil. Heading in the branches tends to make a thick topped tree. The best growers give attention to cutting out the unprofitable wood from the center of the trees. The pruning may be made a thinning process. There is a very general neglect in thinning fruit. It should be a rule that no two peaches should stand closer on the same branch than five inches. The fruit from well thinned trees usually sells for twice as much as that from overloaded trees and the vigor of the tree is conserved at the same time. There are two rules to observe in thinning: First, removal of injured or inferior fruits, second, allow no two fruits to stand closer together than the distance which has been decided upon. The time to thin is when the peaches are three-eighths of an inch in diameter; at this size

Michigan Peach Belt.

From Farmers' Review: In the February 11 number of the Farmers' Review I notice that we are misinwhat is called the Michigan peach belt. You say that it is confined to sandy loam soils. Now that may be the case in certain parts of the fruit seph in the south to Grand Traverse in the north; but here in the Grand river valley successful peach culture and kidneys and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as its carried on for thirty or more miles. in the north; but here in the Grand is carried on for thirty or more miles back from the lake. Neither is it confined to sandy solls; as we have thousands of acres of peach orchards on clay and clay loam soils producing as fine peaches as can be grown in the state. To give your readers some idea of the truth of this statement I will say that our beautiful city of Grand Rapids is situated about twenty-five miles from the lake, and peaches are drawn to that market from one to twenty miles in nearly every direction; and as high as 1,500 loads of peaches have been counted through the market gates before 7 a. m. in one day, to say nothing of the hundreds of loads that were drawn to the freight houses and commission houses during the day; besides carloads and carloads that were shipped from the many stations outside of the city. The prospects are fair for the coming crop up to this time, February 16, as we have had no zero weather at this point until last night, when the thermometer registered 5 below.-Wells Parish, Ottawa County, Michigan.

Food for the Plum Curculio. Prof. F. M. Webster: The plum curculio no longer confines itself to the wild plum, though it does return, if possible, to the woodlands there to pass the winter among the fallen leaves; but the plum orchard of the horticulturist offers a better feeding ground, with larger and more attractive varieties than the wild plums of the woodlands. The insect is enabled to breed more unrestrained, and a greater supply of food is offered it, than was possible under the old existing conditions. The inroads of birds upon its numbers in the primeval woods are now greatly reduced, and the few trees that happen to be located in an occasional chicken park, are the only ones where there is much of the old time trouble from feathered enemies. If there are not plums enough, it can get along with the earwhich to breed and feed.

WILES OF A CONSUL

HOW ONE MAN "GINCHED" DIP-LOMATIC JOB.

Secret of His Long Tenure in South Competitors.

A man from South America tells this story of an American consul down there who died recently after having retained possession of his office through administration after adminis-

"Brown," he said, "held his post through sunshine and through rain, through Republican and Democratic administrations, through revolutions and through invasions, through yellow fever and through everything else on the South American calendar. Not that he was a particularly bright and shining light at the diplomatic game, either, and not that he worked particularly hard at Washington to hold his job, for he just plodded along in an even way and didn't appear to care a rap for his place.

"I learned the secret of his system some years ago and now that he is dead it won't do any harm to talk about it.

"The place where he was consul was one of the choicest yellow fever hatcheries anywhere on the globe. All the troublesome applicants for consular jobs who went to Washington were assigned to that place when nothing else served to put them off. "When Brown learned that he was practically proof against the old yellow and the rum habit he hatched up. a little scheme to stay there. "When a new aplicant came down to take the post Brown always greeted him with the utmost cordiality, saying that he was glad to get out of the blasted old hole and that nothing on earth could tickle him more than to take the very first steamer back to civilization. His next words were always an offer to take the new man around the town and show him a few of the ropes of the place.

"In the course of this trip they always got to the graveyard sconer or later and then Brown always, be-came deeply affected. Going around he pointed out this and that tombstone, accompanying his gestures with something like this: "Do you see that grave over America Told After His Death— there? Well, that's poor old Robin-Had Little Trouble in Driving Away son's. He came down here full of son's. He came down here full of hopes of a good beginning in a bril-lant career and, poor fellow, he was carried away at almost the beginning

"'If my memory does not fail me he. came here on the 7th and died on the 11th, Oh, yes, he was the consulhere, I followed him, in fact.

"That over there is old Carey's grave. He was a very popular fellow, too, Yellow jack got him. I think he had hardly landed before he became ill. His folks were terribly cut up over it. Can't blame them.

"'And Paisley's grave is somewhere. in here. I don't see it just now, but it's here just the same. Yes, another case of yellow jack.

"'What's the matter, old man? Not feeling well? Oh, it's nothing, I dare say. A fellow is often taken that way, when he has been here a little while.

"The thing invariably ended in the newcomer's taking the next steamer back and in Brown blowing the gang off at his joint. It was at the final scene of one of these occasions that the poor old chap was taken off, and he met one of the most tragic deaths in view of the circumstances, that I ever heard of.

"He had ordered the first bottle from the servant when it came. You see, it was always a celebration for him because all he had to do after the newcomer sailed back was to ask for the job over again.

"'Here's prosperity and long life to the new consul,' he said, raising his glass and waving his hand at the departing steamer.

Then he suddenly grew pale and tottered for a moment. "'Guess there is a new man coming this time,' he sald, regaining his composure. 'The old yellow jack has hit the consul at last. "And he died within forty-eight

The Ills of Women Act upon the Nerves like a Firebrand.

The relation of woman's nerves and generative organs is very elese: consequently nine tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Herein we prove conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will quickly relieve all this trouble.

Details of a Severe Case Cured in Eau Claire, Wis.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I have been alling from female trouble for the past five years. About a month ago I was taken with nervous prostration, accompanied at certain times before menstruction with fearful headsches. I read one of your books, and finding many testimonials of the bene-ficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, experienced by lady sufferers, I commenced its use and am happy to state that after using a few bottles I feel like a new woman, aches and pains all gone.

"I am recommending your medicine to many of my friends, and I assure you that you have my hearty thanks for your valuable preparation which has done so much good. I trust all suffering women will use your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Minnie Tierz, 620 First Ave., Eau Claire, Wis. (May 28, 1901).

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it soothes, strengthens, heals and tones up the delicate female organism. It is a positive cure for all kinds of female complaints; that bearing down feeling, backache, displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and is invaluable during the change of life, all of which may help to cause nervous prostration.

Read what Mrs. Day says:

"DEAR MRS. PINERAM: - I will write you a few lines to let you know of the benefit I have received from taking your remedies. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, sick headache, painful menstruation, pain in the stomach after eating, and constipation. I often thought I would lose my mind. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon feeling like a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly. It does all that it is recommended to do, and more.

I hope that every one who suffers as I did will give Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies a trial." - MRS. MARIE DAY, Eleanora, Pa. (March 25, 1901.)

Free Medical Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women to write to her for advice. You need not be afraid to tell her the things you could not explain to the doctor - your letter will be seen only by women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Another Case of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — Allow me to express to you the benefit I have derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous prostration. Could not sleep nights, and I suffered dreadfully from indigeston and headache. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine, and began its use, which immediately restored my health.

"I can heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. Bertha E. Deirkins, 25% Lapidge St., San Francisco, Cal. (May 21, 1901.)

Chicago papers have been reporting recently that a German was trying to establish in Chicago a plant for the killing and packing of horses for domestic and foreign consumption. It has been predicted that he would fail in his undertaking, and it is probable that he will. At present there is a city law prohibiting this business in Chicago. Doubtless horse meat is as clean as any other kind of meat, but that is not the only thing to be considered. If the practice of selling horseflesh for food once became lawful, it is about certain that it would injure the trade now existing in beef. We have had our experience with oleomargarine and filled cheese. Had they been always sold under their own names little harm would have resulted to the interests of the buttermakers or the cheese-makers. But they were sold as pure butter and full cream cheese. If horseflesh were always sold for horseflesh and always eaten as such, the objections to the practice of selling it would be less numerous than they are now. But we are morally certain that if the practice were permitted, horseflesh would soon be discovered being palmed off as something else, both to the local consumer and the foreign buyer. Legitimate trade would simply have one more fraud with which to contend. Moreover, it is doubtful if the horses that went to supply this trade would belong to that class known as "healthy." Healthy horses that are cheap enough to be eaten are very scarce. The few crippled old and lamed horses that could be secured would hardly suffice to keep a good sized plant running. There is a certain foreign element in Chicago that might be satisfied to eat horseflesh if they could get it at a very low price. This element is not, however, sufficiently large to justify Americans in jeopardizing their immense meat trade to cater to. We think it will be a long time before Chicagoans get down to herse meat as a steady diet.

How the Steer Cuts Up.

We reproduce a diagram published in the last report of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture. It is of a 1,200pound steer, and shows how a market topper retails in a first-class market. The value of this steer is figured out in detail about as follows: 68 pounds of rib, $10.88; 92 pounds of porterhouse, $20.24; 34 pounds of sirloin, $6.12; 28 pounds of rump, $2.80; 124 pounds of round, $10.54; 24 pounds of neck, 96 cents; 112 pounds of plate, $4.04; 22 pounds of flank, $1.10; 130 pounds of chuck, $9.75; 50 pounds of shin, $2; 24 pounds of shank, 72 cents.

This gives a total of $50.58 for the better cuts of meat ending with the round, and $18.57 for the poorer kinds. The lesson to be drawn from it is the profitableness of feeding and breeding in a manner designed to give the greatest proportion of high priced meat and the smallest proportion of low priced.

Some Statistics on Horses.

In an address recently, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson spoke of the flourishing condition of the horse business at the present time. He presented some statistics in which he showed that in 1868 the total number of horses in the country was 5,756,-940, valued at $432,696,226. In 1892 the number had increased to 15,498,-140, and the high-water valuation mark of $1,007,500,636 was reached. There were a million more horses in the country the next year, but their value had declined, and a decline both in number and value set in and continued until 1897, when the former was 14,364,667 and the latter only $452,647,396, showing a shrinkage in . value of more than 50 per cent in five years. In fact, the value of the 14. 364,396 horses in the United States delicate organism. Physicians will in 1897 was only $20,000,000 more testify to the truth of this statethan the value placed upon 5,756,940 ment. See page 21 of our book of "Proofs." Have been giving him Syrup Pepsin for about a month, with very natisfactory results, his stomach haid bowels being in good healthy condition and his former weight regained." ued from the street car service and the bicycle superseded the noble steed in many instances. In 1898 the reaction in his favor began. That year the number of horses in the country was smaller than . had been for eight years, but the value of the stock advanced to $478,362,407; the following year the value of about the same number advanced to $511,-074,813, and in 1900 a smaller number by over 200,000 reached a valuation of $603,969,442, the highest point in six years. Secretary Wilson is friend of the horse, and a firm believer in his ultimate triumph over all unfavorable circumstances.
