POLITICAL TREACHERY.

That Is What the Detroit Times Calls Senator Glazier's Work of Monday, April 6, 1903.

When Senator Glazier went back to Lansing Thursday last, after the 10 days' absence granted him by the senate, he boasted that he had been "house-cleaning" in Washtenaw county and incidentally he invited many of his fellows in the legisla ture to take a "smile" with him over the result of his "house-cleaning. It was doubtless a grand thing for the Democrats in the house and senate to be jubilant over, and they possibly "smiled" in a which he had played his "house-cleaning" cards, so that all the tricks had fallen into their hands. But, according to the article which appeared in Saturday night's De troit Times, which, by the way, is an independent newspaper with slightly Democratic leanings, his Republican associates do not look upon his "house cleaning" efforts with as much favor as his Democratic friends do. The article even intimates that they look upon Mr. Glazier's deal of Monday, April 6, in the same light as the Republicans of Sylvan and of Washtenaw look upon it, namely, as a dastardly act of political treachery. There are also a great many Democrats in this section who. express themselves as being disgusted with such an exhibition of "Peanut politics." Here follows the article:

MOVING PICTURES OF THE LEGISLATURE.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lansing, Mich., April 10.-Senator he had put in a part of his time at home 'cleaning-up" in Washtenaw county. He observed, however, that his acquaintances studiously refrained from slapping him on the back and hailing him a great general. The dearth of approbation compelled him to contemplate the meaning of his "cleanup" and by doing that he was enabled to suspect that his friends and acquaintances could not understand how the election of Democrats and the defeat of Republicans, could be properly termed a "cleaning up."

Nobody had the temerity to take Senator Glazier into a quiet corner to tell him that the general opinion of his 'cleaning-up" ranks, with relf-respecting politicians, as a gross exhibition of political treachery. Nobody felt it a sacred duty to inform him that in politics that man is most respected who accepts defeat in his party and bides his time to recoup in open contest within the party. If it occurred to Senator Glazier that Judas Iscariot failed to get a glad hand from the disciples when they knew he had berayed their master for 30 pieces of silver, he must have been reminded of it by the frost that he encountered when he told a few cronies of his success in electing Democrats in Republican townships and cities of Washtenaw county. "Mysterious Bill" may be a very mischievous person and he may resort to naughty means to compass his ends; but it has never been said of him that he went into a party convention, participated in its proceedings, and then went out with a hammer in one hand and a dirk in the other to do things to the nominees. "Bill" has had his bumps many times on his native heath but he never yet publicly got even by "cleaning-up" after the fashion of Glazier. On the contrary he has taken his medicine when it was drastic with an angry wink, and, if he couldn't bring himself to lay down before Sawyer, or any other antagonist, he has taken to the tall and lofty leaving his followers to rally for his triumphant rival. "Bill" may be a quitter, but he is not a trimmer, nor a Hessian.

These observations are not intended as reflection upon the integrity of Senator Glazier. He is a man of scrupulous prowould be denounced for all time if he did Stimson, druggists. Trial bottles free. Give me a call.

the same things. "Bill" Judson hasn't been dethroned by the "cleaning-up" in Washtenaw. All that has happened has been the election of a large number of Democrats to offices that should be filled by Republicans, and would be filled by them, if Glazier Re publicans had voted for them.

Bearing the "blush" of his "victory, Mr. Glazier moved on Lansing with well-defined purpose to jolt "Bill" out of his job as oil inspector. But strangely enough the powers that be inquired for his credentials and the best he could offer was the admission that a lot of Democrats instead of Republicans had been elected quiet aside, even if they did not give him in his county. "Bill" came in on Thurs the merry Ha! Ha! over the manner in day and quietly declared that he worked with all his might to secure the election of candidates who had been nominated by Republican conventions, and that notwithbeat them. It is not the rule in any kind of politics to give to bolters the privilege of dictating appointments and Mr. Glazier is not to be blamed if he has yet to be taught the rule, "Bill" has suffered no loss of prestige in the governor's office and those who were luke-warm in their friendship have been handing Mr. Glazier nice little packages of icicles.

> L. F. WILLIAMS. HAYES-Mckune WEDDING.

A Very Pretty Ceremony at St. Mary's Dining Room and Hall Church Tuesday Morning.

The bridesmaid was ous records of absenteesism; but the efforts Miss Alice Long, of Jackson, a cousin of have not been direful. Upon his return the bride, and the best man was Mr. Wednesday he was proud to proclaim that Herbert McKune, of Detroit, brother of the bride. The bride was dressed in a traveling suit of blue cloth. Rev. W. P. Considine, pastor of the church, performed the wedding ceremony.

It was a gloomy morning outside but the church was brilliantly lighted inside and with the beautiful Easter decorations, which were still intact, made a handsome appearance. During the celebration of the mass Miss Mary Clark, organist of the church, played soft music, which made it very impressive and beautiful. At different parts of the service solos were sung. Michael Barden, of SS. Peter and Paul's church choir, Detroit, sang "Praise ye, the Lord," and "O, Salutaris," Louis Burg sang an "Ave Maria," and Miss Margaret Hayes, sister of the groom, who is the leading soprano of St. Mary's church choir, Adrian, sang a hymn to the Sacred Heart at the time the bridal couple received the Holy Eucharist.

On returning from the church an elegant wedding breakfast was served at the McKune home for which Miss Nan Wilkinson did the catering. The wedding presents were beautiful and costly, two of the finest being a chest of silver from the Knights of Equity, Detroit, and a case of solid silver kuives, forks and spoons from Dr. W. A. Conlan.

Those present from out of town were Henry Blackwell, Willard Pardridge, T. E. Tarsney, sr., T. E. Tarsney, jr., Michael Barden, Arthur O'Connor, Geo. Engle, Richard Lawson, Dr. Sullivan, J. J. Jones, Dr. W. A. Conlan, of Detroit; M. P. Bourke, of Lansing; Mrs. C. Hayes, the Misses Margaret and Mary Hayes, Niel B. Hayes, wife and daughter Dorothy, of Adrian, D. H. Hayes, of Chicago, and J. J. Hayes and wife, of Fort Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left on the 10:40 a. m. train for Detroit, from there they went yesterday afternoon to New York, and sail from New York Saturday on the Cunard steamer Ivernia for a two months' tour of Europe. Showers of rice and the best wishes of all their friends accompanied them in their starting out on the journey of wedded life.

What is Doing in All Sections of the State *****

Crops Are Promising.

In the official state erop report for April Secretary of State Warner says that the weather during March was especially fine for that month. The temperature was uniform throughout the state and much above the normal. The precipitation was considerably below the average. The ground was practically bare all the month. There was very little freezing and thawing, so that no damage was done.

Conditions during March were very favorable to wheat. The crop grew during the month and in most cases suffered no damage, although there was but little snow to pretect it. Considerable wheat was sown very late last fall and is consequently small for this time of year. Some damage by the Hessian fly is reported, but unicis conditions are very favorable for their work a good crop of wheat may reasonably be expected this year. Just 110 out of a total of 553 correspondents reported that wheat was injured during March, the balance reporting no damage. The average condition of wheat in the southern counties is 92. central 80, northern, 91, and in the state 91.

The average condition of meadows is 96 per cent for the state; horses, 95: cattle and sheep, 93; swine, 96.

Reports concerning fruit vary considerably, especially as to peaches. In some localities the buds seem to be may have injured the buds inasmuch and terribly mangled. He died shortly as the warm weather in March had a tendency to open them up. More accurate estimates can be given next month when the buds will have developed more fully.

The following shows the prospects for an average crop of the various kinds of fruit, the figures being for the entire state: Apples, 90 per cent; pears, 93; peaches, $3; plums, 79; cherries, 90; small fruit. 88.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

Labor men in the house were stirred up by a bill which passed the senate last week. It provides that men who take railroad tickets from companies or individuals upon the agreement that they shall do certain work and then refuse to do the work may be punished by fine and imprisonment. Represertative Shea, of Detroit, has prepared some amendments which he will ask the house to add to the bill, calculated to allow workingmen to get even with companies which do not keep their part af agreements as to work, wages. board, etc. It provides that whenever agreements are made to take men from their homes to do work in some other place, the officer or agent of the company making the agreement shall prepare a statement of the conditions in writing giving the wages to be paid, hours work, kind of board, etc., and if the company does not observe these terms their officers or agents may be fined or imprisoned.

The legislature resumed its sessions Tuesday night after an adjournment for the election. There were quite a number of absentees, but the house went to work. A large number of petitions were received asking for the passage of the Holmes liquor bond bill. Most of them were from ministers and their congregations. Some of the members wanted to begin holding morning sessions to-morrow, but a resolution to that effect was voted down, 18 to 20. However, to show that they were not lazy the members went into committee of the whole. When the bill to appropriate $78,000 for improvements at the asylum at Newberry was reached, Representative Rodgers objected to a $30,000 item for an amusement hall. But Chairman Neal, of the ways and means committee, said the new building is necessary, but Rodgers thought the figure too high and the bill was laid over.

Speaker Carton is one of the strongest advocates for an early cessation of lawmuking. He said: "I can see no reason why we cannot finish our work in four more weeks. Of course, we could quit at any time, but I believe that all the work that is necessary to be done for the good of the people may be accomplished by the early part of May." It is said that some of the sention providing for final adjournment on May 15.—The house may begin holding morning sessions next week, in order that the heavy list of bills now on the general order may be disposed

CHAPTER VIII.

Upon the Threshold.

If we believe that life is worth living, our belief helps to create that fact, for faith is in matters of the spirit all that courage is in practical affairs. To Jane and Cluny this belief was not difficult, for limitation always works for happiness, and during the ensuing year life kept within the bounds of their mutual probation and of Cluny's military duties, was full of happy meetings and partings; days in which Love waited on Duty, and again, days in which Love was lord of every hour; when they wandered together in the Park like two happy children, or, if the weather was unfit, sat dreaming in the stately rooms of Sandys about the little gray house in Fifeshire, which was to be their own sweet home.

news, Jane. That is one of your "Cromwell wants only that Parlia- faults. Cymlin was here last night. ment should know its own mind, and He spent a couple of hours with me," then she smiled so peculiarly, Jane could not help asking her:

"What is there in your way of smiling, Matilda? I am sure it means a story of some kind."

"I shall have to tell you the story, smile was made of. Forst, however, what did you see and hear at the Cromwells."

"I heard in a passing manner that Prince Rupert is off the seas foreverthat he is at the French court, where he is much made of."

"Jane Swaffham, have you no fresh-Wick, for he vows he will not leave England again until he has speech with you."

"Then he is forsworn; I will not see

"It will be no treason-now to speak to your old servant. The Amnesty Act will cover you. But I fight not Stephen's battles; I have enough to do to keep my own share of your friendship from fraying. Now, I must tell you something concerning myself. I am going to France."

"France!" cried Jane in amazement "Yes, France. I have persuaded my uncle that he ought to go there, and look after his affairs. I have persuaded my aunt that it is not safe for my uncle to go without her, and they both know my reason for going with them, although we do not name Prince Rupert."

"When do you go, Matilda?" "To-morrow, if Stephen be ready. And let me tell you, Jane, Stephen's readiness depends on you."

leaves little to chronicle. Jane's chief | dangling after you since you were ten excitements came from her visits to Mary Cromwell and Matilda de Wick.

The affection between Jane and Matilda had the strong root of habit as well as of inclination. They could not be happy if they were long apart. Jane visited frequently at Jevery House, and Matilda quite as frequently at Sandys. One morning in the spring of 1653, Jane was returning from a two days' visit to the Cromwells. The air was so fresh and balmy she went to Jevery House, resolved to ask Matilda to drive in the Park with her. As she went up-stairs she wondered what mood she would find Matilda in, for there was a certain mental pleasure in the uncertainty of her friend's temper. She found her lying upon a sofa in her chamber, her little feet, prettily shod in satin, showing just below her gown; her hands clasped above her head, her long black hair scattered loosely on the pillow. She smiled languidly as Jane entered, and then

"I have been expecting you, Jane. I coud not keep the thought of you out of my mind, and by that token I knew you were coming. Pray, where have you been? Or, where are you years old."

"What about Cymlin and yoursey?" Then Matilda laughed, and her countenance changed, and she said seriously, "Upon my word and honor, I was never nearer loving Cymlin than I was last night, yet he was never less deserving of it. 'Tis a good story, Jane. I will not pretend to keep it from you, though I would stake my last coin on Cymlin's silence about the matter. He came into my presence, as he always does, ill at ease, and why, I know not, for a man more handsome in face and figure it would not be easy to find in England. But he has bad manners, Jane, confess it; he blushes and stumbles over things, and lets his kerchief fall, and I swear to you that I was struck dumb, and he had taken himself out of the room in a passion ere I could find a word to throw after him. Then I got up and went to a mirror and looked at my ears, and they were scarlet, and my cheeks matched them, and for a moment l was in a towering rage. I sat down I cried, I laughed, I was amazed, was, after a little while, ashamed, and finally I came to a reasonable temper and acknowledged I had been served exactly right. For I had no business to put my wicked little tongue in my cheek, because a brave gentleman could not crook his leg like a dancing master. Are you laughing, Jane? Well, I must laugh, too. I shall laugh many a time when I think of Cymlin's two big hands over my ears. Had he kissed me afterward. I would have forgiven him-I think."

"I cannot help laughing a little, Matilda, but I assure you Cymlin is suf- been that the railway companies not fering from that discipline far more than you are."

"I am not suffering at all. This morning I admire him. There is not another man in the world who would have presumed to box the Lady Matilda de Wick's ears; accordingly I am in love with his courage and selfrespect. I shall laugh and cry as long as I live, and remember Cymlin Swaffham."

"It was too bad of Cymlin-but very like him. He has boxed my ears more than once."

"You are his sister. That is different. I will never speak to him again. There, let the matter drop. I wish row, you would either take Stephen or send him off forever. Many letters were promised on both sides, and Jane was glad to notice the eagerness and hope in her friend's voice and manner. Whatever her words might assert, it was evident she looked forward to a great joy. And as long as she was with Matilda. Jane let this same spirit animate her, her ride home, however, was set to a more anxious key. She was a little angry also. Why should Stephen de Wick intrude his love - upon her? and though they were not alike, they "It is. I hope you will be definite, Twice already she had plainly told farms of the best wheat land in the him that his suit was hopeless, and she did not feel grateful for an affection that would not recognize its limits, and was determined to force itself beyond them.

> She entered Sandys with the spring all about her; her fair face rosy with the fresh wind, and her eyes full of the sunshine. Cymlin and Stephen were sitting by the fireside talking of Irish hounds and of a new bit for restive horses which Cymlin had in vented.

When Jane entered, Cymlin and Stephen both rose to meet her. Cymlin was kind with the condescension of a brother. He spoke to her as he spoke to creatures weaker than himself, and kissed her with the air of a king kissing a subject he loved to honor. Then he made an excuse to the stables and gave Stephen his opportunity. The young man had kept his eye fixed on the beautiful face and slender form of the girl he loved. He went to her and clasped her hands and said with a passionate eagerness, 'Jane, dearest! I have come again to ask you to marry me. Say one good, kind word. When you were not as high as my heart, you did promise to be my wife. I vow you did!"

"Stephen, I knew not then what marriage meant. You were as a brother to me. I love you yet as I loved you then. I cannot be your wife. I am already plighted."

"To Lord Neville. You shall never marry him. I forbid it. I will hunt him to the gates of death."

"It is sinful to say such things." "Let my sins alone. I am not in the humor to be sorry for them. I say again, you shall not marry that scoundrelly Scot." "He is not what you call him-far from it.' "I call things by their right names. I call a Scot a Scot, and a scoundrel, a scoundrel." He threw her hands far from him and strode up and down the room, desperate and full of wrath. "You shall marry no man but myself. Before earth and heaven you shall!" "If God wills, I shall marry Lord Neville." "Oh, Jane! I shall go to total ruin if you do not marry me."

"Shall I marry a man who is not lord of himself? I will not." "You have made me your enemy.

What follows is your own fault." "Tis a poor love that turns to hatred; and you can do no more than you are let do."

"You will see. By my soul, 'tis truth! Oh, 'tis ten thousand pities you will not love me!"

"It is nowise possible, Stephen." He flung himself into a chair, laid drive an hour in the park. Do you deed, 'twas a very scornful smile, and his arms upon the table and buried he caught me at it and what do you his feet in the caught me at it know that Cymlin arrives from Ire-

In the Fertile Wheat Fields of Western Canada.

To the Editor: The emigration of well-to-do farmers from the United States to the Canadian Northwest has assumed such proportions that organized efforts are now being made by interested persons and corporations to stem the tide. The efforts are being initiated chiefly by railway and real estate interests in the states from which the bulk of the emigration takes place. The movement of population has taken from numerous states thousands of persons whose presence along railways in these states made business for the transportation companies. The movement has also become so widely known that it has prevented the settlement of vacant lands along these lines, parties who might have located there being attracted to the free and more fertile lands of Canada. The result of the movement has only see the vacant lands along their lines remain vacant, but they also see hundreds of substantial farmers who have helped provide business for these railways move away and so cease their contributions. The farmers have moved to Canada because they were convinced that it would be to their financial interest to do so. In moving they have been inconsiderate enough to place their own financial interests before those of the financial interests of the railway corporations.

In addition to the railway corporations, real estate dealers are working to stem the flow of emigrants. Of course every emigrant who goes to Canada means the loss of commissions on land deals by real estate dealers. stop the flow to know what motive is influencing their course. The emigration means financial loss to railway corporations and to real estate men. These interests therefore are not directing their opposition efforts out of any love for the departing emigrants or out of any high patriotic motives either. They are doing so purely from selfish interests. It is a matter of dollars and cents with them. They are so patriotic, they are so consumed by love for their fellow-citizens, that they want to prevent these fellow-citizens going to Canada and getting free world, and instead they want to make them stay on high-priced farms in the United States, where they will continue to pour money into the pockets of these railways and real estate men.

One of the methods employed by these interests to stem the tide is the distribution of matter to newspapers, painting Canada in the darkest colors. These articles emanate chiefly from a bureau in St. Louis. They are sent out at frequent intervals for simultaneous publication. A writer is employed at a high salary to prepare the matter.

Moreover, statements absolutely at variance with the truth have lately been published broadcast. These appear chiefly in what purport to be letters from persons who are alleged to have gone to Canada and become disgusted with it. Only a few of such have been published, and they contain statements that are absurd in their falsity. Whether the parties whose names appear in connection with these letters have ever been in Canada, and, if so, their history while there, is to be thoroughly looked into. The discovery of their motive, like the discovery of the motive of the interests who are engineering the opposition, may prove illumining. In the meantime, however, it may be pointed out that only a few of such letters have appeared, but since 1897 over 87,000 American settlers have gone to the Canadian West. Can any reasonable person suppose for a moment that if Canada was one-quarter as bad as represented in these letters the 87,900 Americus now there would remain in the country; or, if the Canadian West had not proved the truth of all that was claimed for it, the papers of every state in the American Northwest would not be filled with letters saying so? Imagine 87,000 aggressive Americans deceived and not making short shift of their deceivers. The fact is the 87,000 are well satisfied and are encouraging their friends to follow

Anyone who sees any of these disparaging letters should remember that it is railway and real estate interests who have from purely selfish reasons organized a campaign to stem the flow to Canada. If Canada were half as bad as represented there would be no need of such an organization. The fact that such exists is of itself a magnificent tribute to Canada. Finally it should not be forgotten that the letters published are brimful of falsehoods. and that 87,000 satisfied Americans in the Canadian West constitute a living proof that such is the case.

The Canadian Government agent whose name appears in advertisement elsewhere in this paper is authorized to give all information as to rates and available lands in Western Canada.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Permanently Cured Me.

"A year age I suffered from extreme nerv-is stomach trouble. I was afraid of every-ing, could not bear to hear singing or music thing, could not bear to hear singing or music and reading or hearing of a death nearly brought on my own. I could not sleep or hardly lie down, the back of my head hurt me so badly I nearly went crasy. My shoulders hurt and the least thing I did would bring on an attack of extreme nervousness. There were times when I would have a lump in my throat and my mouth would be so dry I could hardly speak. I was in despair until I began to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have taken in all twolve bottles and consider myself permanently cured. My home doctor has since remarked on my healthy appearance and said he wished he could say his medicine helped me. Mrs. Carrie T. Sage, wife of the well known singing master, Prof. Sage, died at he family home in Ann Arbor, Friday

Gov. Bliss has appointed L. D. Watkins, of Manchester, a delegate to 'the national ad international good roads convention, which will be held in St. Louis April 27-

University students are swiping "smallnox" and other signs in Ann Arbor. The police department promise to make it warm for this class of "souvenir" collectors if they don't desist.

Ernest Spliniers, of Bay City, aged 22 years, was drowned in the Huron river at Ypsilanti Saturday afternoon. He fell off the new iron bridge which is being built scross the river just below the Peninsular paper mills. He leaves a wife to whom he had only been married three months.

Mrs. Edith Bullis, of Stockbridge, left her baby cab standing outside a store while she went inside last Thursday. A gust of wind put the cab in motion driving it against a horse, which kicked and reared, breaking the cab to pieces, but the child that was in the cab at the time was luckily not injured.

The Hartford Day Spring published the following last week, and the editor a minister 100: "Two years ago a Polander out on Nubbin ridge swallowed a grain of wheat. Last week he was attacked with a ft of coughing and coughed up a 50 pound sack of flour and 100 pounds of bran." Truth is mighty and will prevail. James Burden, of Unadilla township, was on Thursday granted $300 damages for slander in the Ingham county circuit court against W. S. Holmes, of Lansing, The case was founded on the repetition of a story heard by Mr. Holmes concerning Burden to the effect that he had been one of a gambling party where a Unadilla farmer had become intoxicated and lost $10. The case will be appealed as Mr. Holmes claims the verdict was excessive.

The Ann Arbor Machine works are building a number of H. P. Finley's revolving grain decks for the McCormick Harvester Co., of Chicago. This contrivance overcomes a defect (clogging at the upper edge of the grain deck) common to all binders and as it can readily be built on any other machine, it would appear that Mr. Finley owns patents of great value. He has patents in this country, Canada, and five European countries.

Not a Luxury.

From the Salem, Oregon, Sentinel: About 20 years ago persons who were privileged to hear Edison's first crude phonograph thought it a wonderful thing, but little did they dream that these machines in improved and perfected form would within a few years be available to every home. Then the records were made on tin foil and it was impossible to preserve them. Later the recording was done on wax and by delicate handling the records were good for considerable service. Today the records are perfect, being molded from hard wax. With proper handling they will last for years. The Columbia Phonograph Co. is turning out first class grapophones so cheap that no family can afford to do without the pleasure and satisfaction of owning one. The writer has had one in his family three years and looks upon it now as a necessity rather than a luxury.

The Columbia Phonograph Company, 37 Grand River avenue, Detroit, headquarters for graphophones and talking machine supplies of every kind, will send you catalogues on application.

A Word to Our Readers.

We want the news in regard to your family. If a birth has happened, a party been held, a wedding celebrated, a death recorded, we wish the facts for the public. If you are putting up new buildings, buying additions to your farm or one of a thousand other matters, they are all of interest to the public. We have correspondents in the different townships. but they cannot reach all. Always sign your own name as a matter of good faith, not for publication.

A Veteran's Story.

Bath, N. Y., April 13th.-The first consideration of the Commandant and Officers in the conduct of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home here is the health of the Veterans, Kidney Troubles are the most common cause of ailment, very few of the old men escaping these in some form or other.

Of course the comrades do as much as possible for themselves, and one or the most popular and useful remedies employed is Dodd's Kidney Pills, which seem to be almost infallible in cases of Kidney derangements. Indeed there are among the veterans several who claim to owe their lives to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

For instance, A. E. Ayers, who came to the home from Minneapolis, Minn., was given up by four doctors in that city. He had Bright's Disease, and never expected to live through it, but his life was saved and his health restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills. His experience has made the remedy very popular among the men, and no one who has used Dodd's Kidney Pills for any Kidney Trouble has been disappointed.

Charles L. Hill says: An excellent plan is to buy an old bull, if still vigorous, and only in this way can you what kind of a sire you may have. Many of the best sires of all the breeds have gone to the shambles long before their uesfulness was known. In the selection of a bull for his individnality, the first thing I would want would be masculinity. This is not necessarily shown by his being coarse or having a big head, but by his resolute, sturdy, commanding appearance. This has nothing to do with his being cross, for this is largely education, or, rather, the lack of it. He wants to show that he has energy to spare. Then I want him to have a good muscle, showing good appetite, and then a large barrel, showing good digestive capacity. For use in a grade herd, never mind if his great barrel has caused his back to sag a little.

Nearly the same words will apply to the selection of a young buil. Let him be active, robust, intelligent looking and showing large capacity. If you wish his daughters to have good shaped udders and good sized teats see that his dam has such an udder and that the bull himself has good sized, squarely placed rudimentary teats. Let him be thin in the thighs and show no tendency to beefiness at any place. In fact, let him be all that is different from a beef sire.

To Produce Clean Milk.

From Farmers' Review: In connection with the sanitary production of dairy products I believe that much could be accomplished if people would run their cows loose in a shed or covered barnyard and have a stable for milking only. From a sanitary standpoint there are two great advantages in this system, one is that the milking stable can be kept much cleaner, and the other is that if the cows are kept properly bedded they do not become soiled, as they almost invariably do when kept confined in the stable during the night, both of which are great aids to the production of clean milk. In addition to this I think this system is fully as economical, while it takes more buildings they can be of cheap construction. Cows kept in this way are much more comfortable and for this reason will, I believe, give a larger flow of milk. The labor is certainly no greater as there is almost no manure to be removed from the stable and the manure from the shed can be hauled directly to the field whenever convenient, which may not be for a month or two at a time during soft times in the winter and the rush of work in the early spring. Besides this the manure is kept in the best possible condition as there is no loss of fertility from leaching.-W. Frazer, University of Illinois.

Oleomargarine in Russia.

In Russia the government permits the selling of oleomargarine, but places the trade under such rigid control that its expansion is prevented. Oleomargarine factories are permitted only in cities where there are municipal slaughter houses. As most of the slaughter houses in Russia belong to private companies or persons, the opportunities for establishing oleomargarine factories are not many. In each case the government appoints a physician to watch the process of manufacture and see that only healthful products are turned out. He is paid by the manufacturer. A veterinarian and a government inspector have also to be reckoned with. Tallow and milk are the principal ingredients, and the oleo oil is made in the factory from the tallow. Even the poorest Russians refuse to eat oleomargarine, and it is shipped to eastern Siberia, where butter is unobtainable. This region consumes annually over 600,000 pounds of oleomargarine. A little is also sold in the Caucausian provinces of Russia. There are at present only two or three factories in Russia, and the officials of the government are not encouraging the establishing of new ones.

Turnips as Humus Makers.

From Farmers' Review: We are not able to ascribe to the cow horn turnip any special advantages for humus restoration. It may possess these, but we find no confirmatory evidence. Of course, no member of the turnip family is able to return to the soil any more nitrogen than it takes away. However, all such crops restore organic matter to the soil, and the cow horn turnip, being deep rooted, might be particularly valuable, in addition for purposes of aeration-mellowing the soil. All such crops, as green manures, must be used with discretion, since the fer-mentation might be rapid and acidity result.-B. M. Duggar, University of Missouri.

FIRST, mix a lukewarm quart, my daughter, One-half of milk and onehalf of water: To this please add two cakes of yeast, Or the liquid kind if preferred in the least.

NEXT stir in a teaspoonful of nice clear salt. If this bread is n't good, it won't be our fault. Now add the sugar, tablespoonfuls three; Mix well together, for dissolved they must be.

Pour the whole mixture into an earthen bowl, A pan's just as good, if it hasn't a hole. It's the cook and the flour, not the bowl or the pan, That—"Makes the bread that makes the man."

Now let the mixture stand a minute or two. You've other things of great importance to do. First sift the flour—use the finest in the land.

Three quarts is the measure, "GOLD MEDAL" the brand.

SOME people like a little shortening power, If this is your choice, just add to the flour Two tablespoonfuls of lard, and jumble it about, Till the flour and lard are mixed without doubt.

NEXT stir the flour into the mixture that's stood Waiting to play its part, to make the bread good. Mix it up thoroughly, but not too thick;

Some flours make bread that's more like a brick.

Now grease well a bowl and put the dough in, Don't fill the bowl full, that would be a sin; For the dough is all right and it's going to rise, Till you will declare that it's twice the old size.

KNEAD IT WELL!

BRUSH the dough with melted butter, as the recipes say; Cover with a bread towel, set in a warm place to stay Two hours or more, to rise until light, When you see it grow, you'll know it's all right.

As soon as it's light place again on the board; Knead it well this time. Here is knowledge to hoard. Now back in the bowl once more it must go, And set again to rise for an hour or so.

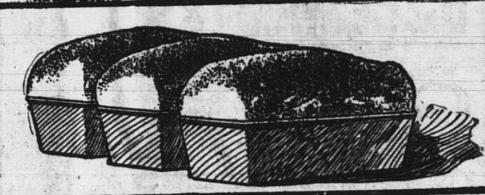

FORM the dough gently into loaves when light, And place it in bread pans greased just right. Shape each loaf you make to half fill the pan, This bread will be good enough for any young man.

> EXT let it rise to the level of pans-no more, Have the temperature rightdon't set near a door. We must be careful about draughts; it is n't made to freeze,

Keep the room good and warm-say 72 degrees.

OW put in the oven,—it's ready to bake,-Keep uniform fire, great results are at stake. One hour more of waiting and you'll be repaid, By bread that is worthy "A Well Bred Maid."

Here is the Same Thing in Prose. GOLD MEDAL FLOUR.

BREAD RECIPE.

To one quart of lukewarm wetting—half water and half milk, or water alone—add two half-ounce compressed yeast cakes, or the usual quantity of liquid yeast, and stir until dissolved.

Add one teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of sugar and when well dissolved, stir in with wooden spoon, three quarts of well sifted flour, or until dough is sufficiently stiff to be turned from the mixing bowl to the moulding board in a mass.

If shortening is desired add two tablespoonfuls lard.

Knead this dough, adding if necessary from time to time, flour until it becomes smooth and elastic and ceases to stick to fingers or board.

Do not make dough too stiff. Spring Wheat Flour needs a little more working than Winter Wheat Flour, and should be a little softer to make it rise properly.

to make it rise properly.

Put dough into well greased earthen bowl, brush lightly with melted butter or drippings, cover with towel and set in warm place, about 75 degrees, for two hours, or until light, then knead well and return to bowl, cover as before and set for another hour's rising or until light.

When light, form gently into loaves or rolls, place in greased bread pans, brush with butter or drippings, cover again and let stand for one and one-half hours, then bake.

Treble Clef Club Concert.

The Treble Clef Club, of Ann Arbor, fepeated their success of last year in the concert given at the Congregational church last Friday evening. The program as a whole was well arranged and the singers were given much well merited applause.

The work of the Treble Clef Club was Wirt McLaren spent the latter part of good in all their numbers, and the group "Hunters' Song," "The Owl and Pussy Cat," and "Kentucky Babe," was warmly encored. The club responded by repeating the last number of the group.

Miss Seltzer has a good contralto voice and her numbers were well received.

Fred Daley's fine boyhood soprano voice, which gained him so much credit as a soloist, has developed into a clear baritone. He sang two numbers and was encored both times.

Miss Mella Taylor did good work as the soprano soloist, and in her group of songs 'My Ships Are Coming Home," "The Robin Sings in the Apple Tree," and "A Bonny Curl," was encored. She responded with Lehmau's "If No One Ever Mar-

Mrs. Emma Fischer Cross captured the audience by her brilliant playing on the plano and was given a hearty encore, to which she responded.

Just before the last number Rev. Thos. Holmes in a few words thanked the club Grass Lake, spent Sunday with relatives on behalf of the Woman's Guild for their excellent concert and for their kindness in giving it.

Easter at St. Mary's Church.

Although E ster Sunday was gloomy and depressing, there was a very large congregation at St. Mary's church at the first mass at 8 a. m., during which the Juvenile choir sang some very beautiful Easter anthems. The altars and sanctuary looked lovely with many Easter lilies, palms and lights. It was said the churchnever looked more beautiful. The high mass was not so largely attended on account of the storm. Emerson's mass, which is exceedingly beautiful, was sung in fine style. The vesper service was enjoyed by a large audience and the music was very fine. The pastor officiated at each service, and preached appropriate sermons on the "Resurrection of Christ." The Easter services will be repeated next Sunday, and those who love good music. excellently rendered, will enjoy a treat Strangers and nop Catholics are always welcome at St. Mary's church.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: 'I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters: to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

Mrs. Fred Unrath. President Country Club, Benton Harber, Mich.

After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of preg-nancy and childbirth. It prevents mis-carriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.
