"The announcement comes from officials of the road and is entirely dependable. There has been signed an agreement to consolidate the line of the Jackson & Suburban Tarction Co., which is operated in Jackson city and Grass Lake and Wolf Lake, summer resorts, the lackson & Ann Arbor Co., usually known as the Boland company, which has a road bed and rails from Jackson to Dexter and right of way to Ann Arbor, and the Detroit, Plymouth & Northville Electric

"The plan is at once to complete the ine between Jackson and Ann Arbor and o build the missing link between the east terminal of the Boland and the Detroit, Plymouth & Northville, the latter road affording an entrance for the line into Detroit. The Jackson & Battle Creek line will pen for ousiness in a few days. The authoritative statement is that cars will be running between Detroit and Battle Creek over this new combination by the end of the year.

New R. F. D. Route from Chelsen.

Patrons of the Chelsea postoffice are be congratulated upon the fact that a new rural route is to be established July 1. Congressman elect Townsend of this district says that the Chelsea office should count itself particularly favored by the establishment of this third route lnasmuch as the pressure for the establishment of routes from localities where there are none at all makes it all but impissible for localities so well served as this to get increased rural facilities. Only persistent pressure has brought about the result.

Postmaster Hoover says that the new route will be as follows: East from the postoffice 2 miles to the northeast corner of Sec. 8. Thence south 78 miles to the school house, east 1 mile to Westfall's corner, and north to the end of the road north 2 miles to end of road. And from that point west in an angling direction to school house 11/2 miles. From that point angling northwest to school house. on section 25 a distance of 3 miles. West then angling two miles to town hall. South from town hall to Lyndon road, to the end of the road 3 miles. From that point angling east to McGuines' corner, a distance of 3% miles. South to the end of road 7-8 mile. West to end of road 1 miles and then south to post office 11/4

This route traverses a total of 23 7-8 miles and covers an area of 35 square miles. The numbe of houses on the route is 101 and the population served

Friday Evening's Recital.

The recital given under the auspices of the young people of St. Paul's church on Friday evening was an affair of more than ordinary merit. A number of programs and entertainments of a musical nature have been given in Chelsea recently and this was by no means least among them.

Every number on the program was rendered in a truly artistic manner. The program was varied by the rendition of selections upon the organ, plane and vocal solos intersperced by readings.

The work of the individuals was certainly beyond the criticism of one not well versed in musical lore and the only comment that could in any way be offered is that possibly the whole program was somewhat too classical to be in the highest degree entertaining to an aurailway, now operated by the Boland in. dience not professedly educated in music. There was a good attendance and baring a few moments of coolness at the beginning the audience was enthusiastic and showed all the performers and solosts that they to were appreclated.

The young people of St. Paul's church are to be congratulated upon the successful out come of their efforts. They generously accord to the artists and to the Methodists who gave the church the thanks and appreciation due them.

cials at St, Louis.

Thursday morning, April 9th, a jolly party of nearly one hundred, consisting of members of the Eastern Michigan Press Club and their wives, met at the union depot in Detroit, and there took one of the Wabash Railway's fast trains. Two of the companies best cars had been placed at the disposal of the Club, and they were nearly filled. Mesers. R. S. and A. F. Wolfschlager, district passenger and ticket agent, accompanied the party and did all in their power to make the trip pleasant as possible.

The Wabash carries one down through the prarie and corn belt of Illinois. The road bed is in excellent condition, making fast time possible, and they made it, too, some of the runs reeling off the miles at the rate of 75 to the hour. The route takes in a corner of Michigan, and Ohlo and traverses the states of Indiana and Illinois. For a portion of the way it runs along "The Banks of the Wabash faraway," so well known in song. As it is the most direct route from this section of the country to St. Louis, it will undoubtedly receive a large amount of travel from those attending the exposit-

At St. Louis the party was met by a couple of former Michigan men who formed themselves into an escort and piloted us to the LaClede hotel where the headquarters of the Club were established.

Friday morning the sun forgot to risewith the rest of the world, and we discovered that it could rain nearly as hard n Missouri as in old Michigan, but that did not dampen the ardor of the party. When the street cars which had been placed at the disposal of the Club arrived they were soon filled, and a ride about the city was taken. After a time the exposition grounds were reached, and the party was taken to the administration building, where the gathering was called to order by President Neal of the Club, who introduced President Francis of the Exposition Commission, who delivered an address of welcome, which was responded to by A. E. Meigs of Detroit. Secretary W. B. Stevens and Miss Emma Bower talked for a few minutes. After this the party was shown about the building, and at one time formed a group and were shot by the photographer. When this job had been safely completed the company was escorted to the dining room where a seven course dinner was served. This was followed by a carriage ride about the grounds, which was of interest to all, showing the magnitude of the enterprise, and the different stages of construction in which the buildings are at the present time. The exposition ground are the largest ver occupied by an exhibition ever held in the world, being two miles long by one mile wide, and containing more than 1200 acres. Four fifths of the entire work on the exposition has been completed, and if the expectations of the commission are carried to a full completionand we have no doubt that they willthe Louisiana Purchase Exposition will be "the largest ever."

While in the city we met a Chelsea boy, Earl L. Foster, who is a railway mailclerk with a run from St. Louis to Loganeport, Ind., and return.

A few words about St. Louis. It is not as clean as our more northern cities. The streets are narrow and paved with stone, and are exceedingly rough, and the noise occasioned by the passage of heavy trucks is deafening. The city has an excellent street car system, which is being betterd every day in anticipation of the work of next year. The Mississippl river is a disappointment, as it is a muddy stream, being about the color of a mud puddle in the midst of a field of yellow clay. This is the water that is served up to the citizens of the city. It is no wonder that the largest brewery in the world-the Anheulser-Busch-is situated there.

Saturday was spent in sight-seeing and it was a beautiful day for that sort of Sunday morning saw the gang at the station ready for their return trip which was made in the same cars which they occupied on the journey out. The run of 448 miles was made in schedule time and the party which had been such a jolly one for several days, was broken up, each glad however, that he had been able to take in the trip, which had been the greatest event in the history of the Eastern Michigan Press Club.

"Beauty sleep" and rest are words one seldom hears nowadays. Perhaps this is the reason one hears so much of rest cures and insomnia, things almost unknown in the days when people took naps at regular times and long, really restful vacations.

Good, honest hard thinking never hurt anybody. It is wholesome, natural and health-giving. It is exhilarating, not depressing. Bad air, late hours, unwholesome food, unnecessary stimulants, and the various dissipations of student life cause more men to break down in one year than all the honest thinking and study since the American colonies were founded, remarks the Christian Register.

The carnation industry has risen to considerable importance during the past ten years, says Town and Country. As 2,500,000 of young carnation plants are sold each year and florists produce an equal number which are young carnation plants approximates 5,000,000 per annum. These plants are grown under glass during the winter time for cut flower purposes, producing an annual average of more than 100 .-000,000 blooms. What becomes of this enormous number of flowers is somewhat of a mystery.

Jackson prison is not so expensive appropriations to be reported. The amounts to be allowed for prison maintenance being $204,000, of which $78,000 is for the prison at Marquette while Jackson, with more than twice as many convicts, has cost the state $20,000 less. The reformatory at Ionia has been more expensive than either, the amount allowed for that place being $88,000. Altogether the prisons cost $12,000 less in 1902 than ever, since 1899, the amounts for that year and 1900 being $138,000, or $66. 000 less than in 1901 and 1902. Insane asylums are much more expensive than prisons, the amount spent for the care of mental unfortunates during these two years being $1,293,-122, au increase of $129,084 over 1809 and 1900. The amounts spent for the Pontiac, $323,641; Kalamazoo, $386,-311; Traverse City, $338,133; Ionia, $88,959; Newberry, $123,859; Wayne, Senator Waterbury has taken from the table his bill providing for the inand steam railroads and had it referred to the committee on railroads. also presented several petitions from his district asking for the passage of this bill. The measure provides for the interchange of freight between steam and electric railroads and the regulation thereof. In case matters of difference arise between the roads in the regulation of business the railroad commissioner determines all disputes.

It looks as if there would be no action on the Colby primary bill for some time. The senate could have ordered the bill printed much sooner, but nothing was done until Wednesday. when, on Senator Baird's motion, the bill was returned to the house that it be printed as amended. The house at once acceded to the request, but as the bill is a long one, it will probably be late before copies can be obtained. The most interesting appointment matter now before the governor is that of Oll Inspector Wm, Judson, whose term will expire July 1 next. Durfing the past week Judsen has spent some lime in Lansing, as have Gen. Green and some others of Judson's opponents. It is asserted, however, that Gov. A large delegation of farmers There is said to be no county, appeared before the committee Foreign companies engaged in question arose whether all electric roads in the state have heavy enough freight car. It will be a great trial to Cornelia." 'it may, or it may not-there is Rem is your own suggestion. however, we have all to sing the hum of Renunciation at some time; is well to sing it in youth."

CHAPTER VIII.

Two Proposals.

The ruling idea of any mind astimes the foreground of thought, and after Arenta's marriage the dominant desire of George Hyde was to have his betrothal to Cornelia recognized and assued. He was in haste to light his own nuptial torch, and afraid every day of that summons to England which deposited the summons to England which sould delay the event.

The proof of the trouble delay the event.

The p rening. I cannot possibly delay it bager. I have been a fool—a care-tes, happy fool—too long."

He opened his secretary and sitting olutely down, began a letter to Dr. foran. He poured out his heart and sires, and then he read what he had witten. It would not do at all. It a love letter and not a business etter. He wrote another, and then aother. When he had finished readthem over, he was in a passion ith himself.

"Write, then, to Cornella." on Hyde!" he cried. "Since you tank write a decent business letter, write then, to the adorable Cornella; he words will be at your finger ends or that letter, and will slip from your that if they were dancing: My Sweet Cornelia:

Tell me at what hour I ay call and see him in his house. , my peerless Cornelia, pearl and over of womanhood, I speak your ch, I think your thought; you are ours when I was the very best and and entirely yours? "George Hyde." t was not more than eight o'clock the morning when he wrote this and as soon as possible he dis-of a missive sent in such a hurry of anxious love, so early in the day, but she showed neither annoyance nor curiosity regarding it. "Joris, my dear one," she said, as they rose from the breakfast table, "Joris, I think there is a letter from your father. To the city you must go as soon as you can, for I have had a restless night, full of feeling it has been."

Joris smiled and kissing her, said, "I am going at once. If there is a letter I will send a quick rider with

"But come thyself." "That I cannot."

"But why, then?" "To-morrow I will tell you." "That is well. Into thy mother's heart drop all thy joys and sorrows.

Thine are mine."

It happened-but doubtless happened because so ordered-that the very hour in which Joris left Hyde Manor, Peter Van Ariens received a letter that made him very serious. He left his office and went to see his son. 'Rem." he said, "here has come a letter from Boston, and some one must go there, and that, too, in a great hurry. The house of Blume and Otis is likely to fail, and in it we have some great interests. A lawyer we must have to look after them; go thyself, and it shall be well for both of us.

"I cannot go with a happy mind today. I think now my case with Cornelia will bear putting to the question. As you know, it has been step with step between Joris Hyde and myself in that affair, and if I go away now without securing the ground I have gained, what can hinder Hyde from taking advantage over me?"

"That is fair. A man is not a man till he has won a wife. Cornelia Moran is much to my mind. Go and see her

"I will write to her. I will tell her what is in my heart and ask her for her love and her hand. If she is kind to my offer then I can go to Boston with a free heart and look after your money and your business."

But the letter to Cornelia which Hyde found to slip off his pen like dancing was a much more difficult matter to Rem. He wrote and dend tell her I must see her father this and had been disappointed. The thought delighted him. He was willing to bear disappointment himself, if by doing so some of Hyde's smiling confidence was changed to that unhar py uneasiness which he detected ... his rival's face and manner The young men bowed to each other, but did not speak.

> "What a mere sullen creature that Rem Van Ariens is!" thought Hyde, "and with all the good temper in the world I affirm it." Then, with a movement of impatience he added:

"Why should I let him into my mind?-for he is the least welcome of all intruders. Good gracious, how long the minutes are! How shall I endure another hour?-perhaps many hours. Where can she have gone? Not unlikely to Madame Jacobus. I will go to her at once."

He hastened his steps and soon arrived at the well-known residence of his friend. He was amazed as soon as the door was opened to find preparations of the most evident kind for some change. "What is the matter?" he asked in a voice of fear.

"I am going away for a time, Joris, my good friend," answered madame. coming out of a shrouded and darkened parlor as she spoke.

"But where are you going?" "To Charleston. My sister Sabrina is sick-dying, and there is no one so near to her as I am. But what brings you here so early?"

"My mother felt sure there was a letter from father, and I came at once to get it for her, but there was none." "It will come in good time. Now, I must go. Good-bye, dear Joris!"

"For how long, my friend?" "I know not. Sabrina is incurably ill. I shall stay with her till she departs." She said these words as they went down the steps together, and with eyes full of tears he placed her carefully in the coach and then turned sorrowfully to his own rooms. In the meantime Rem was writing his proposal. Finally, after many trials, he desisted with the following, though it was the least effective of any form he had written:

"To Miss Moran: "Honored and Beloved Friend-

"Twenty times this day I have tried to write a letter worthy to come into your hands and worthy to tell you noblest thing in my life, and to how beyond all words I love you. But mber you is to remember the what can I say more than that I love you? To-morrow I must leave New very happiest. Bid me come to York, and I may be away for some soon, very soon, for your love is time. Pray, then, give me some hope ife. Send your answer to my to-night to take with me. I am sick ly lodging. Oh, Cornella, am I not with longing for the promise of your love. Oh. dearest Cornella, I am, as you know well, your humble servant,

"Rembrandt Van Ariens." When he had finished this letter, he folded and sealed it, and walked to great Coronado expedition, was the the window with it in his hand. Then he saw Cornella returning home from Madame Hyde divined some shopping or social errand, and hastily calling a servant, ordered him Kansan City World to deliver the letter at once to Miss Moran. She bowed and smiled as she accepted it, but Rem, watching with his heart in his eyes, could see that it awakened no special interest. She kept it unopened as she wandered among the flowers, until Mrs. Moran came to the door to hurry her movements; then she followed her mother hastily into the house.

"Do you know how late it is, Cornelia? There is a letter on your dressing table that came by Lieut. Hyde's servant two or three hours ago."

An she entered her room an imposing looking letter met her eyes—a letter written upon the finest paper, squarely folded, and closed with a large seal of scarlet wax carrying the Hyde arms. Poor Rem's message lost instantly whatever interest it possessed; she let it fall from her hand, and lifting Hyde's, opened it with that marvelous womanly impetuosity which mult of a great affection not sure. For

Dr. Moran was not at home, nor was he expected until sundown, so mother and daughter enjoyed together the confidence which Hyde's letter induced. Mrs. Moran thought the young man was right, and promised, to a certain extent, to favor his proposal. 'However, Cornelia," she added, "unless your father is perfectly agreeable and satisfied, I would not advise you to make any engagement."

The answering of these letters was naturally Cornelia's first afternoon lightful thing, an unusual pleasure, and she sat down, smiling, to pen the lines which she thought would bring her much happiness, but which were doomed to bring her a great sorrow: "My Joris! My Dear Friend:

"'Tis scarce an hour since I received your letter, but I have read it over four times. And whatever you desire, that also is my desire; and I am deceived as much as you, if you think I do not love you as much as I am loved by you. Come, then, this very night as soon as you think convenient. If my father is in a suitable temper it will be well to speak plainly to him. and I am sure that my mother will say in our favor all that is wise.

"What more is to say I will keep for your ear, for you are enough in my heart to know all my thoughts, and to know better than I can tell you how dearly, how constantly, how entirely I love you. Yours forever,

A Bret Harte Letter. Clever authors are generally chary

of their humor, saving the choicest witticisms for copy. Bret Hrate, however, was an exception to this rule. and was a rare conversationist and correspondent. Here is a characteristically droll letter from him to Edgar Pemberton, which appears for the first time in the authorized biography published this week, and has been related with much relish by "Tay Pay" O'Connor:

"Dear Mr. Pemberton: Don't be alarmed if you should hear of my having nearly blown the top of my head off. Last Monday I had my face badly cut by the recoil of an overloaded gun. I do not know yet beneath these bandages whether I shall be permanently marked. At present I am invisible, and have tried to keep the accident a

The monument now proposed will commemorate the fact that Friar Juan de Padilla, a member of the first religious martyr in the United States, and the first white man murdered by Indians on Kansas soil-

On every hand, at our very She pondered it until she was called feet, lie opportunities as thick as to dinner. There was then no time to sturgeon's eggs on a caviar sandwich! Any one of these grand openings for a fine young man would make us Midas-like! Time and again we have hardened our heart and said, with Jesus on the mount, "Get thee behind me, Satan," or words to that effect! But all the while our friends are offering us oil stock, gold stock, lead stock, cement stock, any and every kind of old stock. When we hesitate they are prone to look at us with a grieved, forgiving, patronizing air, as much as to say our mental acumen is deplorably blunted!

It was only yesterday we were permitted to dream of an investment of $5,000 which would bring us an income sufficient to drive four-in-hand adown the avenues of life, the observed of all observers. A man can not long resist such lurid opportunities. He is bound, sooner or later, to accept the tide that bears him on to fortune! Yet we still resist!

the yoke of dependency and ride astride into the effulgent light of luxury, we suffer. With bated breath and tight-shut eyes we cry out with pained emotion:

"No! No!! A thousand times no! Leave us! Leave us poor and worried about our next week's meal ticket!! But leave us!!!"

All through life we have been engaged in this battle against riches that ever forced themselves upon us. We do not want to be rich; we desire only to be left alone-or almost alone -with moderate circumstances. We something to live for. They are just uncertain enough about the rent being paid to make life worth living for our landlord. Otherwise he would decay lord, and his dying might cause us to grunted: subsequently move! Every time we move somebody jumps us on the checkerboard of life and we deprecate moving!

If only our friends would leave us alone we could be happy. "Man wants but little here below," and we can get along swimmingly without being made rich every few days! No, we don't want any (il stock to-day! No gold mines, thank you! No sure things, if you please! No get-rich-quick bonanza. "Please go 'way and let me sleep," that's all!

Any married man who has moved once or twice, and has had the advice of the family and the neighbors about hanging the pictures in his happy home, will feel sorry for President Roosevelt.

Do you recall how you wanted to hang that copy of the Battle of Marathon at right angles to the light in the front parlor? Your wife insisted on it being suspended at an opposite angle to the shafts of Old Sol, and directly in the vortex of a reflection from a French, mirror, in whose liquid depths might be seen the soft colorings of a group of Simmond's graces disporting at the springs.

Can you chase your memory back to your daughter's blushing confusion over the prominent wall space you chose for the bevy of Venetian naiads? And are you not reminded with vividness of the shocked and pained face of Deacon Strawberry's better-half at finding you insistent on the suspending of an alleged Raphael madonna in full glare of the library window?

And do you not-but why continue? At last you got down off your stepladder in disgust and told the "blooming chumps" to hang their own pictures "where they darned pleased!"

Eh? Well, think of Roosevalt! There were about you during this ordeal only those who loved you, or who felt an interest in your happy home. About Roosevelt, as he stands on the ladder with his arms full of pictures, are thousands of critics, liberals, contractionists, old maids and crabbed bachelors, women who have declared repeatedly: "The lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine!" and who have never been deceived; men whose ideas of art are as warped as a basswood slab in August sunshine. crafty individuals, with political insurrections to kindle, conniving canines with trouble to breed, emotional characters with tears to shed, yellow newspaper reporters with jobs to hold-and others!

Think! Oh, think, of Roosevelt! Compare your task with his and be happy that you are just a plain American citizen and not president of this great United States with new White House and a big bunch of pictures to hang therein!

Quintillian says the perfection of miss whose mother, asked to admire a first effort, admitted the production was a rose or a cow, she would be blest if she knew which, had almost reached the art pinnacle, as it were. You have heard of the man who don't know any more about art than a pig does about skating. He exists in every village and is usually found in the front row at an art exhibit, talking glibly of Michael Angelo, Raphael and Dennis O'Toole's masterpieces, standing first on one leg and then on the other (the man, not the masterplece) and looking as wise as an educated billy goat full of paint brushes, paint cans and canvas. This individual is usually the town whitewasher or a sign-painter who paints over a tin alphabet with yellow ochre and plenty of oil to make it spread easily. He acquired art. His theory is that an artist should be born, not made; the same as a poet. He daubs and daubs and has more canvas covered with landscape than there were rods in the fence Tom Sawyer and his chums painted for Aunt Polly. The local paper tells him he has a future before him as big as a dray load of empty piano boxes, and he believes it. He continues to paint from Nature, and day he awakens to the fact that he is only an understudy to Whistler and a methods and a liberal foundation admits one to the real realm of art as a painter. Even then, in the words of

For this weapon he agreed to exhibit a cute ivory case inclosed in a covering of leather. In the center of the wonderful box glowed a living flame, and behind it a red strawberry grew. He was intensely passionate in speaking of his curiosities, and in less than five minutes a bargain was like moderate circumstances. Some struck. By permission our chum was how they appeal to us. A young woman who gave up neither candy nor theaters during Lent, had no real love for the young man who was earnestly striving to save enough money to buy a spring overcoat. It is easy to tell when a young woman is really spoons on a young man. When she first meets him she helps him spend his money at a mad gallop. She is no more considerate of his bank account than an iconoclast who sets out with a sledge hammer to batter down a few old marble monuments. She accepts his presents with intrepld valor. praises his livery horses and the steerer of his devil wagon with voluminous flattery, partakes of his after-theater refreshments with wild abandon, and meets every opportunity to spend more of his substance with glad and generous welcome.

But when she begins to feel stricken she goes slower. Finally, when she is really in a state to capitulate, she crawfishes like a lobster and asks him to cut it all out except a few flowers now and then, and the cheap sunshine of his presence. Then, my boy, you have her, and if you don't claim your own the investment you have been making is a dead loss and no prospect of even a two per cent recapitulation. From the time she is yours she will begin to save your money like a miser who is working hard at hoarding after a complete rest. She will keep it up long after you are married, and at times you will be compelled to go to her, confess a spendthrift habit and borrow fifteen cents for a shave; ten for the face and five for the neck. Trials of the Drug Clerk.

"Do you see that man?" asked the clerk in an up-town drug store.

"Yes," said the customer, lighting a cigar. "What about him?" "Well," said the drug clerk, "there's just this about him-he's the absolute limit, the stinglest white man in this

"Why" asked the customer, puffing at his cigar. "Why? Just imagine what he wanted just now! He came in and told me he had got a prescription for some liniment filled here two months ago and that it had been more than he needed. He said he only used about half of it, and he wanted to know if we wouldn't take back the rest and give him his money back, or give him something else in exchange for it. What do you think of that?"

aprons of striped and pale colored gauzes and silks were used and trimmed with silk cord, while later, in the 50s, the decline of taste was seen in the ponderously practical black silk aprons, braided, trimmed with velvet and embroidered. That was the beginning of the end.

THE Detroit Free Press Tuesday more ing announces the death of a man who has lived in the state since 1340. Strange he was never interviewed as to his im pressions of Columbus or the origin of the Indians.

THE Detroit Tribune has begun a propoganda for bringing the national republican convention to Detroit. Its principal argument is that next convention date will be an anniversary one for the party and that in Michigan was laid the foundation of the party.

Following this line of argument the convention should come to Jackson. Of course it is at once objected that Jackson could not entartain such a body. As against this let it be urged that the whole state of Michigan act as host. A collseum could be erected very near to where the famous oaks stood and the delegates entertained at one vast barbecue. Every delegate west of the Alleghanies could sleep in a blanket on the ground for a week and if President Roosevelt was allowed to pick his delegation from New York it is probable they would be willing to do likewise.

The thing could be done if the spirit of the occasion should once become con-

As indicated a few weeks ago The Standard intends from time to time to suggest some few pratical points that may turn the attention of our readers toward better roads. Therefore it is worth while to note the first step that has been taken in Michigan toward that end.

Word comes from Northville that through the personal efforts of Secretary of State Fred Warner, the township of Farmington, Mr. Warner's home town, that township is the first in the state to adopt a good road system. A few weeks ago a bill passed the legislature permitting Farmington to vote on the question of abolishing the old system of "working-out-your-road-tax," and substituting day. therefor the cash plan and placing the road work in the hands of four commissioners, appointed by the town board. Mr. Warner was enthusiastic over the idea, and in consequence the project carried by a vote of 3 to 1.

The taxpayers are now co-operating with the new commissioners just appointed, and Farmington will lead in the matter of good roads. Many other towns now wish they were in on the same act and only regret it is too late.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

In last issue of The Standard mention was made of the increased switchboard facilities at the Chelsea exchange. And now comes evidence of further activities throughout the county. The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. are rapidly increasing their rural service. A network of telephone wires will soon connect nearly every farm house in the county. A new exchange with thirty new subscribers has been placed at Iron Creek and has been opened this week for public service. An exchange is being put in Webster and there are already over twenty subscribers to that exchange. Exchanges in Superior, Pittsfield and other neighboring townships will soon be installed.

Bulletin No. 91 issued by the State of Michigan, dairy and food department, has the following to say of the Chelsea creamery: "Chelsea Creamer, Chelsea! Mich. A. H. Burner, manager. The father of all the gambling games was a game which still is the name of nyout. It is played with a board marked out with a series of circles. The players use four staves which they throw as dice are thrown. move counters around the board The counters are called men in Corea, as they are called in practically all the world. The name originated with the ancient Chinese, who were as inveterate gamblers then as they are now. Nyout is the prototype of all the modern games known as fox and geese, game of geese, steeplechase, snake game, and the scores of others that are based on the same principle. The old Hindoo game of pachesi also is based on the game of nyout. The University of Pennsylvania has collected the games of different countries all based directly on the game of goose and indirectly on the game of nyout. Killing Turtles with Arrows. Killing a turtle with an arrow seems very difficult feat, since a very hard shell covers practically all of the animal, yet the natives of the Andaman islands kill huge turtles with arrows as easily as American sportsmen kill rabbits with shot. Accustomed from their childhood to use bows and arrows, they soon become wonderfully skilled in the use of these primitive weapons, and, as they know the places where the turtles congregate, it is easy for them at any time to bring home a good bag of game. Sometimes her wistful fancy strews the floor (Rich carpeted and neat) with broken toys; Paints finger prints on window glass and door. Hears echoes of shrill laughter and rude noise; All that a tired mother might deplore Would seem to her starved heart as priceless joys!

Till, from the world without, some sudden note Of childish voices through her vision rings. And sobs of anguish rise to her white throat, Round which no dimpled arm in mischief clings; Gone are the sweet dream-fancies, as may float From earth to heaven the flash of angel wings.

And yet, no little empty crib is there To mock the mother arms, outstretched in vain, She heards no shining tress of silken hair. No tiny grave where buried hopes lie slain; Only the deeper loss she has to bear Upon whose heart no babe of hers has lain sent to be killed off or die in their beds and thereby give Bob a chance to write captain instead of lieutenant before his name on the official papers.

"Norah's going to Florida." he muttered to himself. "I haven't seen her for three weeks and wen't see her for six months to come. Uncle Frank is one of the kind who never dies and who never gets well, and Norah'll stay down there until the old man is willing to let her go. She's more of a stickler for duty than Old Muggs, the commanding officer, and that's saying a lot. He won't give me a leave; I've had too many. Great Winfield Scott, but I would like to see Norah before she goes." And Lient, Robert Emmett Kavanaugh sighed. Bob Kavanaugh couldn't keep anything to himself, and in five minutes he was telling his woes to Capt. Percy Lanyard of the artillery corps. "Brace up, Kavanaugh," said Lanyard; "Muggs is going to send a general prisoner through Chicago to Fort Sheridan to stand trial. It isn't a very pleasant duty, but if you'll volunteer, I think Muggs will send you, and you can stop off on our way back from Fort Sheridan-it is only a few miles from Chicago-and see your blue-eyed Norah before she gets on the Florida limited."

Twelve hours from that time Bob Kavanangh was sitting in a smoking car on a Chicago bound train, with a big Colt revolver strapped around him and an enlisted man, with a downcast look, sitting alongside, of Bob Kavanaugh had a soft him. heart. The soldier at his side had seen eight years of service and had never been in trouble before. He had assaulted the "top" sergeant, a serious offense in the army, as may go without saying.

Part of a freight train went into the ditch ahead of the Fort Grady passenger train. Kavanaugh and his prisoner were delayed five hours. Finally the way was cleared and the train ran on to Chicago. It was Thursday, and in four hours Norah's train would leave for Florida. It was utterly impossible for the officer to get his prisoner to Fort Sheridan and to return in time to say good-by to his flancee.

Kavanaugh and his charge stepped from the train into the Chicago depot. Bob's heart was sore. "I must

"I took a shot at him.

Kavanaugh shoved a revolver into Jack Bacon's hand, bolted through the door out of the hotel and on to a trolley car. In twenty minutes he was with Norah Desmond, who was in the midst of the last hour of preparation for her Florida trip.

In twenty minutes more the door bell of the flat rang violently. The maid opened it, and in rushed Jack Bacon, flushed and fairly beside himself. "Bob," he yelled, "your prisoner skipped. He kicked open a door into the next room and jumped onto a low roof and then into the alley. I took a pot shot at him, but missed, and when I got down he was clean gone.'

Bob Kavanaugh sank into a chair, his face pale. "Norah," he said, "this means court-martial and dismissal for me unless I can catch the fellow. It' a clean case of neglect of duty. It's all up, dear, if I don't get him, and if I'm kicked out of the army I don't know what I'll do. But this won't catch him. I'm off, but I'll be at the train to say good-bye,' and Kavanaugh was out of the door and down the stairs four steps at a time. .

Over on Halsted street in a room above a store a pretty, pale girl sat talking to a soldier in uniform. "It's all up. Polly," he was saying. "I hit the 'top' sergeant. H deserved it, but I was put in arrest and was to be tried, and it meant two years. I just cut away from a 'cit' whom the officer who had me in tow left me in

"Ol this is awful, Jim," said the girl, and you'll be a deserter, too." "I won't get any more for that than I'll get for the other." Then suddenly charging the subject the soldier asked: "How's your mother?"

"Better, Jim, but she'd have died if it hadn't been for Miss Norah Desmond. She's an angel. I had to stop work to nurse mother, and the money gave out and I got sick, and Miss Norah gave us a nurse and a doctor and did lots else. I think she saved my life, too."

"Norah Desmond, Polly? That's the name of the girl the fleutenant 1 cut from is to marry. He'll be disgraced and the girl will suffer. She saved you and your mother, did she, Polly. Get on your things, quick. She leaves for Florida. I know the train. The lieutenant 'll be there, I know that. Hurry, girl." Lieut. Robert Emmett Kavana igh was kissing Norah Desmond good-by. Just then from behind him came a voice loud and with something of a old man, glad to see you. You have ring of humor in it. "Sir, all are presan hour or two to spare, I know you ent and accounted for." Kavanaugh have; don't say no," and with this turned like a flash. There stood Prithe Reutenant grabbed his friend vate Spencer saluting with his right hand, while his left was holding that of a very pretty girl.

"Spencer, you're a brick," Kavanaugh, and nothing but army training kept him from slapping his inferior on the back. "I'll use every official friend I have to get you out of your scrape."

A year later in pleasant quarters at Fort Grady sat Capt. Kavanaugh and his wife. "Norah," he said, "First Sergeant James Spencer has applied for a furlough to go to Chicago to get married: Shall I approve the application?"

"Bob, if you don't," said Norah, with her eyes dancing, "I'll get divorce."

STRENUOUS LIFE IN NAVY.

Trophies and Athletic Equipment for

Some time ago Secretary Moody, as a result of a conversation with the President, promulgated an order au- along, evaporating the entire snow, commander should report to the de- fact, we did not believe this part until partment that his crew has a welldeveloped athletic organization, of certain sporting paraphernalia appro- to be just as we write it. There has priate to the character of certain not been a day this winter that I could games in which the men excel, and of not work out doors. Farmers here are which they may contend. This has been acted upon by the battleship Missouri, with the result that orders have been isshed for her equipment with two punching bags, twenty-four baseballs, four footballs, twelve bats, twelve broadswords, six sets of eight ounce boxing gloves, six sets of fencing foils, twenty-four ball-players' suits, and an adequate supply of masks, gloves, protectors, etc., for all probable requirements. The suits are to have the name of the ship across the breasts of the shirts.

This move has been made, not only in the belief that athletic exercises are good for the men who indulge in them, but that the interest exerted by competition between the ships' crews in manly sports will tend to take the place of less wholesome entertainments when the men are ashore. The pride of each ship in its own crack sportsmen will add to the esprit de corps and the hope is that the moral tone of the whole navy will be raised by the new plan in spite of trict and Raymond, in the Lethbridge occasional abuses which will doubt- district. less be inevitable.-New York Post.

HE SAW NO SCARCITY.

How Lord Milner Took Expensive Bath at Johannesburg.

Some of the unfortunate happenings in South Africa were caused by the failure of officials in high places to note warning conditions which were obvious to people occupying less exalted points of view,

Some time before war was declared there was a water famine in Johannesburg. The city fairly gasped with thirst.

The citizens had other grievances, and it was decided to invite Lord Milner to Johannesburg, and lay matters before him. The first morning after his arrival he amazed the hotel 'attendants by ordering a bath. Bathing was a luxury, which even the rich were denied at that time. Poor people had to go unwashed, while the wealthy dipped daintily into basins filled with imported English soda water at two shillings a bottle. But Lord Milner's orders could not be ignored "Fill the tub with soda water!" exclaimed the proprietor. So Lord Milner splashed, all unconscious of the drought and panic his ablutions had brought upon the rest of the establishment.

Later that day, among the grievances submitted to him was the woeful scarcity of water.

"Scarcity of water?" he repeated. I've observed no scarcity, gentlemen; I had my bath this morning."

A Street Car Rejection. It happened on a Lexington avenue car when the theater crowds were speeding homeward. The car was crowded. A pretty girl was discussing the performance with an elderly woman. Next to her was a finely dressed man, who had dined "not wisely but too well." For blocks and blocks he kept his eyes fastened on the back of the pretty girl's head, hardly ever winking. NEVER SAW SUCH LARGE YIELDS.

The Climate is Healthy-The Winters Are Pleasant in Western Canada.

Writing from Stirling, Alberta, to one of the agents representing the Canadian Government free homestead lands, Mr. M. Pickrell, formerly of Beechwood, Ky., says of Western Can-"In the first place we will say that the summer season is just lovely indeed. As to the winter, well, we never experienced finer weather than we are now enjoying. We have just returned from Northern Alberta, and will say that we found the weather to be very mild, the air dry, fresh and invigorating. Considering everything we can say that the winters here are most pleasant, healthy and enjoyable to what they are in the States. Here it gets cold and continues so till spring -there are no disagreeable winds. In South Alberta it is some warmer-two to four inches of snow may fall and in a few hours a Chinook wind comes thorizing the issue to any ship whose leaving terra firms perfectly dry; in we came and saw for ourselves and we now know what we herein write a series of prizes or trophies for calculating on starting the plow the first of March.

"As to farm wages, we would not advise a man to come here with the expectation of living by his day's work, but all who do want a home I advise to have nerve enough to get up and come, for there never has been, and may never be again, such a grand opportunity for a man to get a home almost free. "As to the crops, I have been in the fields before harvest, saw the grass put up and the grain harvested, and I never saw such large yields. I saw oats near Edmonton over six feet tall that yielded 80 bushels per acre, and I talked to a farmer near St. Albert who had a field year before last that averaged 110 bushels per acre and weighed 43 pounds to the bushel. All other crops would run in proportion-as to potatoes and vegetables, the turnout was enormous. I have such reports as the above from all sections that I have visited, and that has been every community between the Edmonton dis-

"As to stock raising, I would advise a man to locate in this place, or any place, in South Alberta, but for mixed farming I would say go up farther north, say near Lacombe, Wetaskiwin or Edmonton, where it is not quite so dry and where there is some timber to be had. I will say that nowhere have I ever seen a better opportunity for a man, whether he has money or not, to obtain a home. Nowhere can be found a more productive soil, better water and a better governed country than Western Canada affords Inducements to the homeseeker are unexcelled. I met two men who borrowed the money to pay for their homestead, and in four years those two men sold their farms-one for $2,500, the other for $3,000. I met a man near Wetaskiwin who landed here with 25 cents six years ago. He is now worth $8,000. The advantages for ranching are excellent. In fact, I do not believe this section can be beat. Markets are good; as to living, a family can live as cheap here as they can in the States. The average yield of oats in this neighborhood last year was 70 bushels per acre; wheat averaged 35, barley 40, and the beet crop was good. In consequence of the successful cultivation of the beet Times. a large beet sugar factory is being erected at Raymond, seven miles from

"In conclusion I will say that N. W. T. from Manitoba to a long distance north of Edmonton produces most wonderful crops. Lakes and rivers abound with fish, and game is plentiful. And that this is unquestionably the country for a man to come to if he desires to better his condition in life. I would advise the prospective settler to look over the Lethbridge, Lacombe, Wetaskiwin and Edmonton districts before locating.

"I will locate in the Edmonton district next fall and several families from the States will locate with me. In the meantime I will receive my mail here and will be pleased to give the interested all the information desired."

The Uses of Advertisements. A Jasper county (Mo.) farmer paid a high tribute to the literary talents of a Carthage real estate agent the other day. THE LARGEST SAILING VESSEL.

Recently Built in the Yards of a Busy German Firm.

The extraordinary activity displayed by the builders and managers of German steamship lines during the past three decades has been equaled by the energy shown in constructing sailing vessels of the latest type, according to the New York Times Within the past few weeks one firm of German shipbuilders has completed what will be probably the largest sailing craft in the world, according to a report received by the state department from Henry W. Diederich, United States consul at Bremen. The following is the record of the year's work of but one of several firms to whose activity Mr. Diederich calls attention:

"At the end of its business year May 6, 1902), the Tecklenborg company, at Bremerhaven, capitalized at 2,000,000 marks ($476,900) paid a dividend of 20 per cent. This concern was occupied to its utmost capacity during the entire year and the repair and dry docks were continually in use. Six double-screw freight and passenger steamers and two very large sailing vessels were building, of which three steamers and one sailing vessel were delivered to the owners. The firm is famous all the world over for building sailing craft and the vessel completed a few weeks ago is probably the largest in the world. Her name is Preussen. She is a five-masted, full-rigged steel vessel, steelsparred throughout. Her length is 440 feet, beam 50 feet. She has a carrying capacity of 8,000 tons, while her registered tonnage is 4,000. Recently she started on her first voyage to the west coast of South America old Not Mean Disapproval. In an lows law court an attorney was arguing with great earnestness and eloquence. In the midst of his argument he paused a moment, according to the Green Bag, and said: "I see your honor shakes his head at that statement. I desire to reaffirm it, although your honor dissents." "I have not intimated," replied the judge, "how I should construe the evidence of what my decision will be in the case, and your remark is uncalled for." "You shook your head." "That may be true," the court replied. "There was a fly on my ear, and I reserved the right to remove it in any manner I saw fit. Proceed with your argument."

The agonizing, itching, and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair, and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the ewful suffering of in ants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum, - all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Complete External and Internal Treatment

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning, and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all other remedies and the best physicians fail. As evidence of the wonderful curative properties of Cuticura Remedies and of their worldwide sale, we quote from Sands of trees now growing all over Arizona. He says these birds have a habit of burying small seeds in the ground with their beaks, and that they frequently pinion trees and bury large numbers of the small pine nuts in the ground, many of which sprout and grow. He was walking through sands of trees now growing all over the pines with an eastern gentleman a short time ago, when one of these birds flew from a tree to the ground, stuck his bill into the earth and quickly flew away. When told what had happened the eastern man was skeptical, but the two went to the spot and with a knife blade dug out a sound pine nut from a depth of about an inch and a half. Thus it will be seen that nature has her own plan for forest perpetuation.

Jade Found in Oregon.

"Jade, the sacred and rare stone used by the Chinese in making bracelets, rings, vases, etc., has been found recently in large quantities in the state of Oregon," said S. T. Taliaferro of Portland to a Star man at the Arlington this morning. "The discovery is considered quite an important one from a mineral as well as a commercial standpoint. This find is said by geologists to be the first of the kind in the United States. The Oregon jade is tough and compact and varies in color from a pure white to a dark green. The bulk of the supply heretofore used has come from Turkestan, but some little as been found in New Zealand and in the islands of the Pacific."-Washington Star.

"Sized Up" His Man.

"Brother" Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," has a sense of humor. He tells this story on himself of a young couple who applied to him to be married. He performed the ceremony with due solemnity and congratulated the bride. Then he observed the bridegroom searching through his pockets and looking a bit humiliated and ashamed. "I am afraid, parson," he said, "that I ain't got any money to pay you with." Then, after a moment of deep thought, looking up cheerfully, he added: "But I can tell you how to fix your gas meter so it won't register."

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. had shooting pains and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did." - Miss GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Corresponding Sec'y Mich. POWER OF THE HYPNOTIST.

Scientific Wonder Disconcerted Subsequent Happening.

It was last Friday afternoon, while was going up Columbus avenue in an electric car, that a man entered, Arizona. He says these birds have at Sixty-fifth street, and took a scat directly opposite me. At the next corner another man entered, and, for want of a seat, held to a strap.

"Fares!" cried the conductor as he held his open hand in front of the newcomer, who shook his head. "Give me a seat, and I will pay,"

said the passenger. "Pay or I will put you off," answered the conductor. "Try it and I will throw you through the window," replied the passenger. The usual talk indulged in under such circumstances began, and the other passengrs took apparent interest in it. The man who had entered at Sixty-fifth street got into quite a discussion with the passenger next to him, and after a minute it ended by each of them displaying a five dollar note.

"Hold on, conductor!" said the Sixty-fifth street man. I can put that brute off without any trouble. Here, hold these bills, and if I get him to go they are mire, and if I don't give them to this man."

The conductor, glad to be relieved, took the money, and the Sixty-fifth street man began to make gentle passes with wiggling fingers in front of the non-fare-paying passenger's face. Then he gently beckoned him as he moved backward, and, much to our astonishment, the man who wouldn't pay followed him to the street. Leaving him standing there in an apparently dazed condition, the hypnotist boarded the car, got his ten dollars, and away he went.

At the next corner I got off, and so did the hypnotist. He walked down the street, met the man he had put off the car and the two entered a corner saloon.-New York Tribune.

Skating on Water.

It would seem that skating on water may be successfully accomplished. A German inventor has made a 100-mile journey with water shoes on the surface of the River Danube. The shoes are clyindrical in shape, and are made of aluminum to give them extreme lightness. They are several feet long, and are propelled by a treading movement, which causes four oar-shaped wings to revolve. The inventor claims that he can travel on water three times as fast as he can walk on land and that loconiction is as safe on rough water as on smooth. He himself, Mr. Gladstone added, had had them fired for the Indian victories in 1846. There was a neat turning of the tables in the reply. Mr. Gladstone had told the house of commons that there was no legal status of war with any recognized state or power and his secretary for war wrote back that the only excuse the war office had was that, relying on premier's statoment, "we have hitherto believed that we have - not qualities of the highest order are necessary to enable the best of the products of modern commerce to attain permanently to universal acceptance. However loudly heralded, they may not hope for world-wide preaminence unless they meet with the general approval, not of individuals only, but of the many who have the happy faculty of selecting, enjoying and learn-ing the real worth of the choicest products. Their commendation, consequently, becomes important to others, since to meet the requirements of the well informed of all countries the method of manufacture must be of the most perfect order and the combination the most excellent of its kind. The above is true not of food products only, but is especially applicable to medicinal agents and after nearly a quarter of a century of growth and general use the excellent remedy, Syrup of Figs, is everywhere accepted, throughout the world, as the best of family laxatives. Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants known to act most beneficially on the system and presented in the form of a pleasant and refreshing liquid, but also to the method of manufacture of the California Fig Syrup Co., which ensures that uniformity and purity essential in a remedy in-tended for family use. Ask any physician who is well informed and he will answer at once that it is an excellent laxative. If at all eminent in his profession and has made a special study of laxatives and their effects upon the system he will tell you that it is the best of family laxatives, because it is simple and wholesome and cleanses and sweetens the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after-effects. Every well-informed druggist of reputable standing knows that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative and is glad to sell it, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, because it gives general satisfac-tion, but one should remember that in order to get the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs it is necessary to buy the genuine, which is sold in original pack-ages only; the name of the remedy— Syrup of Figs and also the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.

Eagle Catching.

Methods of eagle catching are much the same the world over. In Norway a man crouches in a hole, in the ground, with his eye to an aperture commanding the bait, a piece of meat placed within convenient reach. When the eagle settles on the bait the hunter clutches it, drags it underground, puts his knees on its beak and breaks its neck. The North American Indian uses a similar method, and the Greenlanders catch the sea eagle by luring it to a hole in the snow, in which the hunter is covered up .- Albany Argus.
