THREE PIONEERS GONE.

Death Carried Off Some of Our Oldest Residents the Past Week.

Death, the grim reaper, has been busy among the older residents of this part of the county during the past week and has carried off among others two well known members of St. Mary's church, Peter Hindelang and Mrs. Susan Row. Another former member of the parish Mrs. Patrick Tuomey, of Scio, also passed away last week.

PETER HINDELANG
who died Monday evening, May 11, at 6 o'clock, was one of the best known men in this section, having lived hereabout for 56 years. He was born in Riedsantz, province of Alsace, France, Jan. 4, 1819, and was 84 years, 4 months and 7 days old. As a young man he served for six years and three months in the French army, working at his trade as a tailor. Together with John and Elizabeth Stapish, to the latter of whom he was betrothed, he came to America in 1846, and joined the rest of the Stapish family who had preceded them here. Mr. Hindelang took up a farm in Lyndon and July 6, 1847, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Stapish in St. Mary's church, Detroit, by Rev. Fr. Haslinger. For 40 years they traveled like's journey together until July 14, 1887, when Mrs. Hindelang died. They lived on their farm in Lyndon until the early '60s, when they bought the farm in Dexter township on which he lived until he came to Chelsea 12 years ago. During these years he kept adding to his property until at one time he had over 400 acres of land. Four boys and three girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hindelang, of whom two sons, Lewis H., of Dexter, and Victor D., of Albion, and two daughters, Mrs. John P. Foster and Miss Frances Hindelang, of Chelsea, survive. A kindly, peaceable man, Mr. Hindelang was a good parent, friend and neighbor and was highly esteemed by those who knew him best. He early acquired the habits of thrift and saving and even when in the army saved his money while his comrades spent theirs recklessly, to this can be attributed his success in life. He was a devout member of the Roman Catholic faith, and his funeral held at St. Mary's church this morning at 9:30 was very largely attended. A solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. W. P. Considine, pastor of the church, assisted by Very Rev. James Savage, of Detroit, as deacon, and Rev. Joseph Marx, of Albion, sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Savage. The remains were laid to rest in Mt. Olivet cemetery beside those of his deceased wife.

MRS. SUSAN ROW,
wife of John Row, and an old pioneer of Sylvan, died Saturday night, May 9, aged 76 years. Mrs. Row's maiden name was Susan Savage. She was born in the parish of Drumraw, county Down, Ireland, and came to America when a young woman 17 or 18 years of age. In 1832 she was married to John Row in Detroit, and they started housekeeping on the farm where she died, and which has never had any other owner than Mr. Row, he having the original government deed of it. Mrs. Row had been a great sufferer for a year previous to her death. She had no children and her aged husband is left to mourn the loss of her who was his faithful partner in all of life's joys and sorrows. The funeral was held at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning, Rev. W. P. Considine officiating. The remains were interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Present at the funeral from abroad were her brother Patrick Savage, of Big Rapids, her brother-in-law Henry Hagan, and her nephews Edward Hagan, wife and daughter, Dr. James Hagan and wife, and Thomas Hagan, all of Detroit.

MRS. PATRICK TUOMEY.
Mrs. Patrick Tuomey, sister of John Clark and Mrs. Edward Gorman, of Lyndon, and Mrs. C. E. Whitaker, of Chelsea, died at her home in Scio, Wednesday night, May 6, after a long illness, aged 58 years. About a year ago she underwent an operation at the hospital in Ann Arbor which prolonged her life, but during the past few months her sufferings had been most intense, yet she bore it all bravely and never murmured. Besides her husband she leaves four grown up children, her brother, two sisters and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

NO CAUSE OF ACTION.

Judge Kinne Directed a Verdict in Favor of the Holmes Mercantile Co.

The case of the Village of Chelsea vs. the H. S. Holmes Mercantile Co. was tried in the circuit court Monday and Tuesday. It involved the sum of $300, which the village claimed in payment of its tax levy on the company's stock of goods for 1901, and which the company refused to pay on the ground that the assessment was out of all proportion to that of other people in the mercantile business. Only four witnesses were examined and they were all for the village side of the case. They were W. H. Healschwerdt, village clerk, Fred W. Roedel, assessor in 1901, Jacob Hummel, treasurer in 1901, and W. P. Schenk, member of the board of review. The defendants did not put in any witnesses. The judge took the case from the jury and directed that a verdict be entered for the defendants and against the village, on the ground of irregularities in the assessment roll and that the treasurer had not attempted to collect the tax in the manner pointed out by law.

A brief history of this case, which has been of more or less interest in one way or another to almost everybody in Chelsea and the vicinity will not at this time be out of place and may serve to clear up the idea that has been present with some that the Holmes Mercantile Co. wished to escape paying their just tax in this village for the year 1901.

In the spring of 1901 Fred Roedel as assessor of the village of Chelsea, assessed the stock of the H. S. Holmes Mercantile Co. at $15,000. Subsequently the board of review, consisting of Timothy McKune and Wm. P. Schenk met. At the time of this meeting there was also present F. P. Glazier, president of the village. Although not even an ex-officio member of the board of review Mr. Glazier insisted that the assessment on the Holmes Mercantile Co.'s stock be raised from $15,000 to $30,000, and under his direction this was done.

Mr. Holmes protested against this action and gave the board and Mr. Glazier notice that he would never pay the taxes on any such an assessment until he was compelled to do so by law, for the reason that compared with the assessments made on other properties of like nature it was out all proportion.

In 1902 with S. P. Foster as assessor, the stock was assessed at $20,000, and the board of review composed of the same two men confirmed the assessment at that amount. Mr. Holmes paid the taxes on that assessment without a murmur, considering the assessment of $20,000 a fair and just one. In fact he would never have refused to pay the tax in 1901 if the assessment had been put at $20,000, as he has repeatedly offered to settle the matter at $200. The last time Mr. Holmes offered to settle on this basis was a short time ago when this case was called for trial and M. J. Cavanaugh, one of the attorneys for the village, was instrumental in getting the offer from Mr. Holmes. When the offer was submitted to Mr. Glazier he would not allow it to be considered, and the suit was proceeded with.

This action of Mr. Glazier has cost the village several hundreds of dollars to get absolutely no returns, and as the case is to be appealed it will cost several hundred more probably.

Two Good Ball Games.

The Junior Stars scheduled two ball games with the Detroit Regulars for last Saturday at the K. of P. park, and although the Detroit boys put up a very fast article of ball, the Stars would not be denied, and took both games. The morning game was a fairly good contest, and the Stars won by a score of 17 to 7. Howard Holmes pitched a good game for the Stars and was supported behind the bat by Ray Cook. Abmauer and Moore were the battery for the Detroit team. The score by innings was:

| | | | | | | | |
|-------------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|-----|
| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 |
| Junior Stars, | 1 | 0 | 3 | 5 | 1 | 7 | —17 |
| Detroit Regulars, | 2 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 3 | 0 | —7 |

The afternoon contest was as pretty a game as was ever played in Chelsea. The pitching of Rogers for the Stars and Gurney for the Regulars was fine, and if Gurney had been given good support he would have won his game. The catchers were the same as caught in the morning. The score by innings:

| | | | | | | | | | |
|-------------------|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|-----|
| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 |
| Junior Stars, | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 5 | 3 | —11 |
| Detroit Regulars, | 1 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 0 | —9 |

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

The house held a short session Saturday forenoon, but as a large number of members went home Friday night and next morning, little business was done. During the sitting members slipped out one at a time to catch trains, until at 10:30 only 51 were left, and as the lightest opposition would kill any bill, with only that many present, an adjournment was taken. Conditions appear to be more favorable to an early date for final adjournment than at any time during the last month. There are fewer bills on the general order than at any time for several weeks, and it looks as if all business being seriously considered could be cleaned up inside of a week or less, as soon as the primary election bill is out of the way. The fight on this measure bids fair to be a warm one and may prolong the session. Whether a compromise can be made or not is the burning question. Some aver that no compromise can be made and that the effort will be wasted even if state and county conventions are retained. This week will develop the situation more clearly, but the result of the struggle ending favorably to any bill of worth being enacted is doubtful.

The law in regard to the liability of employers for accidents to their men from defective machinery is now so constructed that masters may set up in defense the knowledge of their men that the machinery was not safe. Representative Shea's bill providing that such knowledge on the part of an employer should not constitute a valid defense in damage cases came up on third reading in the house Saturday, and Representative Paddock, of Charlevoix, offered an amendment providing that if the employer did not know the machinery was defective he could not be held liable. The amendment was adopted, but Shea did not try to put the bill through, fearing that with the small number present it might fail of passage. He will try to pass it later.

Senator Scripps rose to a question of personal privilege Tuesday and stated his views on the conduct of legislative business. He told his colleagues a combination had been formed against him, with the result that state business was suffering. He concluded by telling the gentlemen who were opposing him that his appeal was taken before the tribunal of the state of Michigan. He then moved that his art museum bill be taken from the committee on cities and villages. There was no discussion of the motion, but the senators, by their votes, showed that Mr. Scripps's appeal had made no difference in the sentiment of the majority, the motion being defeated.

For the first time in many years a railroad company comes to the legislature with a request for the passage of a bill which would practically raise passenger rates. These rates are now fixed according to earnings, in the lower peninsula, the rates being 2, 2 1/2 and 3 cents a mile. T. J. O'Brien, who is attorney for the Grand Rapids & Indiana, asks the house railroad committee to report a bill which would knock out the provision for fares at 2 1/2 cents, leaving them either at 2 or 3 cents. Under its present rate of earnings, the Grand Rapids & Indiana has to carry people at 2 1/2 cents, and the proposed change would give that road the 3-cent rate.

It is proposed, by the terms of a bill to be introduced by Representative Joseph Greusel, of Detroit, in a few days, to enable Detroit to bond itself for the sum of $5,000,000, and to institute condemnation proceedings for the acquisition of the tracks and overhead equipment of the Detroit United Railway. The purpose of the bill is to acquire the tracks, etc., and then lease them to the person or persons tendering the lowest rate of fare, not to exceed, however, three cents for each passenger.

On Tuesday twenty senators held a of a primary election reform bill. It was said after the meeting that they decided to refuse to support any other measure which included the selection of candidates for governor or state officers by any method other than that provided for in the convention system. They did not decide whether to support the measure offered by Baird of Saginaw or one of two slightly more liberal bills prepared by Kelly of Muskegon.

By a vote of 58 to 6, the Denby corporation bill was passed by the house Tuesday. This is the measure for the introduction of which Denby was accused of being the representative of the corporations. There was no word of opposition spoken on the floor, and the amendments moved by Denby himself were accepted without a word. One limits the capitalization to $25,000,000, and another cuts out the provision that one corporation may hold the stock of another.

In committee of the whole, the house Tuesday put through the bill knocking out Game Warden Brewster, the bill being amended so that it in no way changed the status of Game Warden Chapman.

The house passed what was once the Bangham bill as to corporations, but which is now principally made up of the ideas of Representative Denby. The bill was amended, the limit of capitalization being fixed at $25,000,000, and provision permitting one corporation to hold the stock or bonds of another being knocked out.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD

Russian Aggression.

The Russians, it is announced, have reoccupied New Chwang with a large force and have also put garrisons in the forts at the mouth of the Liao river. They are further reported to be making extensive warlike preparations. The news of Russian activity, which comes from a most trustworthy source at New Chwang, adds that on their return to New Chwang the Russian troops brought with them several large guns. A large force has been ordered to reoccupy Tien-Chwang-Tai. The Russians have 14,000 troops between the mouth of the Liao river and Port Arthur. The Russians are reported to be constructing forts on the hills near Liao Yung, commanding the road between there and the Yalu river, and they have arranged to have a large quantity of provisions delivered at New Chwang. A dispatch from an official at New Chwang says indications point strongly to these active preparations being intended to guard against operations against the Russians in Manchuria.

The state department has received official confirmation from its agents in China of the increase of the Russian garrison in New Chwang, Manchuria, and there is reason to believe, if President Roosevelt approves, that it is preparing to take vigorous steps in the matter.

A Fiendish Plot.

The discovery Saturday afternoon of an ingeniously constructed infernal machine, containing 100 pounds of dynamite, in half pound sticks, and an electrically operated mechanism, on the pier of the Cunard steamship line, frustrated what is believed to have been a plot to sink the steamship Umbria, which sailed at 2 o'clock, when she was twenty-four hours out at sea. A letter received at police headquarters less than two hours before the Umbria sailed revealed the presence of the infernal machine. Chief Murray, of the bureau of combustibles, declared that it was the most perfect infernal machine he had ever seen or heard about. Had it gone off, he said, it would have blown the Umbria out of the water. Nothing but its discovery on the pier, he declared, would have prevented the fiendish purpose of its constructors from having been carried out.

The Missouri Boodlers.

Former Lieut.-Gov. Lee's statement detailing his knowledge of boodling in the Missouri legislature, was presented to Circuit Attorney Folk Saturday. Several startling assertions are made in the paper, but throughout the greater part of it the former lieutenant-governor adopts a moralizing tone, pointing out the causes and results of the condition that exists. In a general way he charges several men with being corruptionists. The statement is prefaced with this expression: "I don't ask, nor do I expect sympathy for any mistakes I may have made," and then follows the details of the statement. He says he was given $10,000 to distribute among seven senators. Of this amount he retained $1,500.

Fremont, O., Riots.

A serious conflict, the outcome of labor troubles in Fremont, O., occurred late Saturday night. Otto Mishke, a young man, 20 years old, was shot and killed, and Albert Gummell fatally wounded, the shooting being done by a gang of colored non-union men, three of whom are now in jail. Great excitement was caused by the murder, and a mob soon formed and started for the jail, where they demanded that the three negroes be delivered to them. Much shooting has been done, but the police and deputy sheriffs held the mob in check.

Father Walser Set Free.

Father Walser, who was arrested in connection with the brutal murder of Agatha Reichlin in Elyria, Ohio, was set free on Tuesday. The prosecuting attorney at the arraignment said: "After having listened to the evidence presented at the inquest to-day I can see that there is not sufficient evidence to hold the defendant. The action taken on the part of the officers in arresting Fr. Walser has been in accordance with their duty. A terrible crime had been committed and if the suspicion of guilt had been placed against any other person I can assure you he would have been treated as the defendant has been."

Hold-up of Negro Carrier.

As a result of the hold-up of John C. Allgood, a colored rural free delivery carrier, near Gallatin, Tenn., by masked men, who objected to him because of his race, Postmaster-General Payne has suspended the service on the route. Allgood was warned that he and his colored sub carrier must quit the service under penalty of death. Mr. Payne says that if the reports are substantiated the department will either abolish the route and leave the people without that service or send soldiers to the scene to protect the carrier in the performance of his duty.

Fifteen Sailors Drowned.

The American fishing schooner Gloriana, Capt. Geo. Stoddard, of Gloucester, Mass., ran ashore during a thick fog on the cliffs at Whale Cove, near White Point Ledges, N. S., and 15 of the crew, including the captain, were drowned, out of a total of 18.

Ottawa's Great Fire.

A fire, suspected of being of incendiary origin, Sunday afternoon and evening destroyed hundreds of houses and millions of feet of lumber in Ottawa, Ont. John White, who had just been released from the penitentiary after serving a term of imprisonment for arson, was caught near where the fire was first discovered. He was taken to the police station, and will be charged with starting the conflagration. The fire originated within a stone's throw of where the great Hull fire of April 20, 1900, was checked. Fifteen million feet of lumber were destroyed. The loss on the lumber will be about $300,000. The buildings burned were principally dwelling houses and stores. They were all built since the last great fire and were either solid brick or brick veneered. Mayor Cook said that there were from 500 to 600 families homeless, or about 2,000 individuals. The loss on the buildings is estimated at $300,000, making a total loss of $600,000.

The Coal Combine.

Buurma & Vandenberg, independent coal dealers of Kalamazoo, who broke from the local fuel combine several months ago, threaten suit against a Buffalo firm for failure to deliver coal ordered as agreed. The Buffalo people accepted several orders from Buurma & Vandenberg, and then upon information from the Kalamazoo combine that the independent firm was selling below the trust quotations, wrote that the orders could not be filled unless proof was furnished that prices were being kept up. They have placed the matter in the hands of attorneys and will commence suit in the federal courts if coal is not delivered as per agreement at once.

Killed to Save Her Father.

Miss Nellie Sturtevant, aged 25, daughter of Treasurer James S. Sturtevant, of the Medford Co-operative bank, was shot and killed at her home by an unknown man who attempted to rob her father as he was returning from a bank meeting with a satchel filled with checks and money. The assassin then jumped upon his bicycle and escaped. An Italian, who answered the description of the murderer, was arrested two hours later on suspicion.

Sid Baker, brother-in-law of Jas. Howard, recently convicted of the murder of William Goebel, was shot to death in a duel on the highway in Clay county, Ky., with Wm. McCollum.

President Roosevelt spent a most restful Sunday in one of the most beautiful spots in California, at the Hotel del Monte, two miles from the nearest city, and unhampered by curious crowds.

Strikers at Jackson, Tenn., wrecked two Mobile & Ohio trains and have completely tied up traffic. Will Yarbrough was shot dead on the tender of an engine after making a trip as a brakeman.

Charles Jacobs, a New York shoe salesman, was chloroformed in his bed at the Hotel Francis, Ponce, P. R., and was robbed of $1,000, clothes and jewelry. The sum of $800 in checks was subsequently found in the street.

Two ferocious bulldogs whom Mrs. Thos. B. Leonard attempted to separate as they fought on her front porch at Syracuse, turned on the woman, threw her down and terribly lacerated her face and body. Her clothing was torn to shreds.

Miss Yondorf Cudahy, niece of John Cudahy, the Chicago packer, fought a burglar to a finish. Hearing him fling the door hinges she got a heavy cane and went for him. She beat him over the head until the stick broke, and the burglar fled.

Tom Morris, one of the two men lynched at Vicksburg, Miss., for the murder of a planter, is not dead after all. When he was pushed from the bridge the rope seems to have broken, and Morris to have fallen into shallow water, from which he emerged after the lynchers had gone.

Hitching a cow to an electric light pole with a chain tether came near ending the career of Jas. Stein at Cedar Grove, N. J. He was thrown seven feet and so charged by the electricity that men who ran to his assistance could not handle him. The cow and a dog were badly shocked, too.

Three men, armed with revolvers, held up the saloon of William Manion, at Chicago, while half a dozen patrons were drinking at the bar. They secured $500 in negotiable checks, a watch and chain and $100 from the proprietor. Hidden behind the bar was a cigar box containing $1,000, which the thieves overlooked.

Get Their Deserts.

The trial of Wm. Allor, charged with burglary that was marked by shameful incidents at the home of Fireman Jungkins in Detroit while the head of the household was absent at his post of duty, had a dramatic ending. The case was given to the jury shortly after 10 a. m. Wednesday. In spite of the fact that three persons had sworn positively to an alibi, including Allor himself, the jury was out but five minutes. Judge Phelan immediately sentenced Allor to 20 years in the Detroit House of Correction. In view of his crime against motherhood while perpetrating the burglary, he, of course, had not the slightest claim on leniency. Arthur Kratz, Allor's accomplice in the burglary, though not in the more shocking crime, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve eight years at Jackson. Kratz's confession did much to facilitate the work of the officers on the case, and the judge intimated that but for their intercession the penalty would have been much more severe.

School Principal Arrested.

Prof. A. Tyner Woolpert, principal of the Rapid City schools, was arrested Monday on a warrant sworn out by Benjamin Pickard, charging him with taking liberties with Pickard's 13-year-old daughter, Dottie. It is said that the offense was committed about two months ago, but the girl did not tell about it until about a week ago. The accusation has created a sensation, as Woolpert has been well liked and has moved in the best society. There is a wide difference of opinion as to his guilt, but he expects to be able to completely exonerate himself. The affair has been talked of for about a week. He has given $500 bail to appear for examination.

The Mayville Wreck.

A coroner's inquest on the death of Gus Plager, the baggage man killed in the Pere Marquette wreck at Mayville last week, was held in Port Huron, Saturday, and a verdict returned that the victim came to his death through the negligence of the crew of the east-bound train, which had run by Mayville, the meeting point. The Mayville station agent and the conductor of the east-bound train were among the witnesses to testify.

A Train Victim.

The mangled body of a man was found beside the Grand Trunk track five miles west of Battle Creek Monday morning. On a memorandum book in one of the pockets were the name and address: "George R. Helz, Washington, Orange county, New York." Entries in the book showed that Helz had worked during March and part of April with the Jackson & Battle Creek Traction companies.

The "Water Cure" for refractory women patients in the Topeka, Kas. asylum was a common punishment, according to a former nurse. They would throw a sheet over the patient's head, draw her to the floor and pour water out of a pan into the patient's mouth and face until she agreed to obey orders.

THE NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

STATE NEWS IS BRIEF.

Boyer City is to have a new opera house.

Saginaw cedar dealers report a good demand, especially for railroad ties. The wooden bowl factory destroyed by fire recently will be rebuilt at Cope-minish.

A Monroe firm is willing, for a proper inducement, to build a flour mill in Manistiquette.

Owners of Ontonagon county property are beginning the payment of delinquent taxes.

When Cadillac's new park is dedicated, on May 15, the day will be made a general holiday.

The cooperage plant at Coldwater will be removed to some other city before next winter.

The project to convert the starch factory at Hart into a canning factory has fallen through.

The Pere Marquette will spend $30,000 this summer for freight depots and other improvements in Bay City.

Benton Harbor has secured the Automatic Piano Stool Co., of Lansing, and a "piano" factory employing 40 men.

Hobbes or local talent, broke into the depot at Hersey Monday night. They secured only 40 cents in stamps.

The Caille-Richards Co., manufacturers of coin vending machines, will remove from Union City to Battle Creek.

Peach growers around East Dayton are feeling jubilant because the recent hard freeze did not destroy the peach buds.

A new branch will be built running northwest from the Grand Rapids & Indiana at Boyne Falls for lumbering purposes.

The old line life insurance companies paid claims aggregating $73,250 in Michigan for the two weeks ending April 11, according to the Insurance Press.

The old board of the Tamarack Mining Co. has been re-elected. President Bigelow says dividends will be postponed "until we can see how we are coming out."

The contract for excavating and grading the new Michigan Central cut-off to eliminate the seven-mile grade between Kalamazoo and Oshtemo, has been let to a Pittsburg firm.

William Jones pleaded guilty in the Circuit Court of Flint to the charge that he had burned Irving Morris's barns in Thetford. Judge Wisner sent him to Ionia for two years.

Five cases of smallpox were reported in the home of George McKenzie, in Bay City, Wednesday. Every member of the family is coming down with the disease excepting Mrs. McKenzie.

Peter White will be the principal speaker at the Lake Superior Iron Co.'s semi-centennial celebration at Ishpeming June 24. The programme includes a barbecue, Cornish drilling match and a grand ball.

The grand jury in Berrien county has presented 12 new indictments for violations of the liquor law or the running of gambling houses. Seven concern Niles men and one a Benton Harbor saloonkeeper.

Justice Grant, of the Supreme Court, and several of his neighbors have complained to the chief of police that a parrot owned by a neighbor is a public nuisance, and the chief has been warned to abate it.

Surveyors for the Toledo & Michigan electric railroad have reached Quincy and are working westward. The promoters claim that the road will be completed and in operation as far as Coldwater by November 1.

Miss Frances Russell, a teacher in one of the Lansing schools, was taken ill with smallpox Friday. It is not believed, however, that the disease was developed sufficiently while she was in the school to cause infection.

A committee was appointed at a public meeting Thursday night in Port Huron to look into Gil R. Lovejoy's project for a steam railroad between Port Huron and Bay City, with a branch connecting with the Toledo & Ann Arbor.

Albert Bisbee, a section man on the Grand Trunk Western, who had a wife and family near Millington, was struck from behind by an engine at Davison Saturday morning and died without regaining consciousness. He was 60 years old.

For the first Sunday in several years, every saloon in St. Joseph was shut tight. No wine room or gambling houses were open. One saloon at Benton Harbor was found to have wooden screens up and the proprietor was waited upon for the immediate removal or suffer the consequences.

The first boat excursion of the season was run to St. Joseph, Sunday, the Soo City brought in from Chicago 400 passengers, 100 of whom were invited guests. The two-side-wheel steamers, City of Chicago and City of Milwaukee exchanged runs for the day on the Holland and St. Joseph divisions.

The village of Laidlawville is experiencing an epidemic that is pronounced chicken-pox. A peculiarity of the disease is that it attacks old and young alike, while those who have been vaccinated or have had smallpox are immune. The disease has not yet proven fatal in any case. There are those who claim it is smallpox in a very mild form.

The Average Tax Rate.

The state tax commission, sitting as the state board of assessors, met in Detroit, Saturday, to execute the mandamus issued by the Supreme Court on application of the Detroit board of education last week, and ordering the board to reconvene and fix the average rate of tax to be spread against the railroads by dividing the cash valuation of the general property as assessed by the local assessing officers by the total amount of county and state taxes levied. This increases the average rate from $13.98 on the $1,000 to $16.55, making a total increase in the revenue to be received by the state from the roads of $568,955.47, and raising the total revenue to be derived from the roads to $3,288,162.06. With the increase in the taxes of the express companies and car loaning companies the state will be better off by over $582,000 altogether, all of which goes to the school districts. Detroit's share being nearly $60,000.

Saginaw's Grand Jury Work.

Saturday night the grand jury, which has been in session almost continuously since March 23, reported to Judge Beach in the Circuit Court. It is estimated the jury put in about thirty-three full days in the consideration of the electric lighting, Genesee avenue bridge and municipal cases wherein allegations of wrong doing have been made. As near as can be determined about a dozen indictments were returned. The court gave explicit instructions that no one concerned give out any information whatever. Those indicted will be served with notice to appear in court. There are a good many nervous people in the city as it is not known who is to be called upon the carpet.

Uncollected Taxes.

Fully $500,000 in back taxes are due on Bay county property; that amount accumulating since 1890. City officials say that 25 per cent of the property in Bay City is not paying taxes and that people are living in their homes, enjoying the benefits of improvements without paying for them. There are a large number of cases of this kind where properties ranging in value from $500 to $2,000 have as much taxes against them as they are worth. A bill to permit the city to sell the property for the bare amount of the state and county taxes and so place the property back on the rolls was defeated in the legislature and the aldermen say the question is becoming a serious matter.

Two Killed, Six Injured.

Two men were killed, one probably fatally injured and six severely hurt in the head-on collision between passenger trains Nos. 22 and 23 of Port Huron branch of the Pere Marquette on a curve half a mile east of the Mayville station. The trains might have been telescoped, with much greater fatality, had not Engineer Kelly promptly set the brakes of the west-bound train. The trains were to pass at Mayville. A mistake in orders is supposed to have been the cause of the wreck. No. 23 was clearly entitled to the track, and it is thought that the conductor of No. 22 did not receive the correct orders. Both engines and the mail and express cars were piled in a bad wreck.

Poisoned by Wild Parsnips.

Starvation was indirectly the cause of the death of Mrs. Fred Bachmann, of Bay City, who recently moved to a farm 10 miles north. She and her husband, who is a stone cutter of roving disposition, did not live together, and she struggled alone to maintain the existence of her little ones. On Friday night, she and her two young children were penniless and without a morsel of food. She went to the woods, gathered wild parsnips, and cooked them, and the three ate. Coroner Mitchell found the youngest child ill beside her dead mother, while the elder had crawled to a nearby farm house.

The Smiley Funeral.

The funeral of Joseph Bert Smiley, the poet, editor and lawyer who committed suicide at Kendallville, Ind., was held in Kalamazoo. The body was brought from Kendallville, and with it came the dead man's father, George Smiley, and Kendallville friends. It was taken directly to Mountain Home cemetery. Rev. Roger H. Peters, rector of St. Luke's church, officiated at the grave. The press and the bar of Kalamazoo were represented, the pallbearers being members of the legal fraternity. The Press club sent a floral "30," the lawyers also paid tribute in flowers.

Better Weather Service.

Better weather bureau service for southwestern Michigan may be expected. The government stations at Grand Haven and Lansing are to be combined into one, with offices in Grand Rapids, which will also be the headquarters of the climate and crop reporting service of the state. Charles P. Snyder, the Lansing observer, will have charge. Grand Haven will still be the marine storm signal display station.

Labor is very scarce at Niles, and the factories are unable to get as many men as they want.

"A little crowd had gathered around us. I looked at the fellow in rage and amazement. Suddenly two men, one pale and excited and the other big and burly, elbowed their way forward and seized the stranger, who struggled violently for a moment and then fainted."

"What does this mean?" I asked. "Why," said the pale man, "this poor fellow is my brother. I had everything ready to take him to an asylum this afternoon, but he gave me the slip. I thought I could find him in some poolroom, and I was not mistaken. He went insane playing the races."

"There was silence in the room as they carried him down stairs and to the carriage they had at the door. But a moment later the crowd forgot about him, for Brand's operator called out: 'They're off at New Orleans! Bequeath in front, Little Reggie second, Tyrann third.'"

"Douglas whispered to me: 'I'm sorry for you, old boy, but this may teach you a lesson.'"

"Bequeath at the quarter by three lengths; Sittella second Tyrann third."

"Never take tips from strangers," continued Douglas, "and especially—"

"At the half Bequeath by five lengths, Sittella second, Reggie third—a length away."

"He's got 'em tiptoed!" yelled a gray-bearded enthusiast. "Let's all fall in line, boys!"

"I noticed Brand twisting his mustaches viciously."

"In the stretch Bequeath! Sittella second—six lengths back, Reggie third—a head away."

"I said he was the goods," admonished Douglas. "Some day you'll wake up to the fact that—"

"Bill Jackman wins by a head! Little Reggie second—a nose in front of First Past!"

"And all that I said to Douglas was: 'I gave you the chance and you wouldn't take it.'"

"H'm," grunted the dyspeptic looking individual, as he rang for the waiter. "So the phony tip made good after all?"

"It surely did," responded the tall man. "Odd, wasn't it?"—New York Press.

Inside of Parisian Art.

Paris has lately been amused by a suit brought by Mme. Brach, who gave up the stage for sculpture. She has sued to prevent a publisher from selling copies of statuettes which she herself made and owned. In the trial it was asserted by the defense that Mme. Brach had bought the statuettes from a sculptor named Ricardo, but had not bought the right of copying them. She had paid $30 for one and $40 for the other, and the only privilege that went with the sale was the right to sign her name to them. It was also asserted in the suit that a popular statuette which the state had bought for the Louvre had been made by Mme. Brach in the same way; she had paid Ricardo to do it for her and let her win the glory. The models sat for Mme. Brach, who worked busily with her clay, but behind a curtain M. Ricardo was as busy at work and to much better purpose. Ricardo, in the slang of Paris, was a "ghost," of which genus there are many who help ladies to make pictures, statues and novels.

The Masters.

Incomparable white galaxy of suns! O stars of song whose luster blinds the day—Aeschylus, Homer, Shakespeare—deathless ones Holding on high your proud and lonely way!

Rulers of night's domain of domeless space, Transcendent thrones, victorious over Time! Slaying with splendor from your distant place A thousand flickering satellites of rhyme!

God! what are we, that underneath such skies We dare to light our tapers! From afar The constellations watch this mad enterprise! A puny candle challenging a star! Frederic Lawrence Knowles in March Atlantic.

Architectural Swallows.

A correspondent of the Paris Temps records the following story of a pair of swallows, probably meaning house-martins. These, taking advantage of a broken pane of glass over the doorway, entered and began to build a niche on the inside. This particular corner was crossed by a bell-wire, and each time the bell was rung the building nest was thrown down. The birds would not leave their chosen site, and eventually overcame the inconvenience in an ingenious manner. They constructed a tunnel round the wire, giving it free play, so that its movements ceased to affect the wall of their nest.

The Call That Takes Precedence.

Binks—I called at the office of the President of the Magnate Company this morning and had to wait in the anteroom for two hours before I could get a chance to speak to him. Winks—Why didn't you call him up by telephone?

A "Phony" Tip

"Things aren't much like they used to be," grumbled the dyspeptic-looking individual, as he made a vicious stab with a toothpick at the stuffed olive in his cocktail. "I had a beautiful tip this afternoon and couldn't find a poolroom open in all the downtown district. When I finally made up my mind to leave my bet with a hand-book man I was too late. The race had been in on the ticker ten minutes. What in the mischief is New York coming to, anyway?"

"And did your horse win?" asked the tall man.

"No-no," admitted the other; "can't say it did. But it's the principle of the thing, you know. I—"

"Blow the principle of the thing," said the tall man. "Many a day I'd have thanked my stars if I couldn't have got into a poolroom. But of course there were other days. Want to hear a little story?"

"Just about three years ago," he continued, "Billy Brand had his poolroom in Church street. Brand was a gambler of class, suave, polished and game. He did a land office business. So brisk, in fact, that he inaugurated a system of morning betting, both for the benefit of those of his customers who might desire to place their bets during the noon hour, and also in order to lighten the crush in the room while the races were being run."

"I got into the habit of dropping into Brand's about 12 o'clock to see if I couldn't catch him 'out of line.' One day as I was waiting for the cards to be hung up a stranger sauntered up to me and whispered: 'You're on hand early. I suppose you got that message of mine? This is the day for the killing.'"

"I was about to tell him that he had evidently mistaken me for some one else, but he gave me no time to say a word. 'I recognized you the moment you came into the room,' he went on, still in a whisper; 'you can plunge for the limit. He's ripe.'"

"Who's ripe?" I could not help asking.

"Why, Bill Jackman, of course," he said, reproachfully. "I'll see you in the afternoon."

"With that he departed, leaving me wondering who in the mischief he was and for whom he had taken me. Bill Jackman was among the entries in the second race at New Orleans. I glanced over the form chart hurriedly, but the figures did not give him a chance. Just then Brand put up the card. Bill Jackman was quoted at 6 to 1; anything but a decent price, in my opinion. At that moment a friend nudged me violently. 'Oh, look at the snap!' he said. 'Get aboard right away. The owner'

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure
Relieved and Cured.

"I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is all that one can wish it to be. I was troubled with heart disease for fifteen years. I have tried many different remedies but until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could find no relief. I was subject to headaches and had tried your Pain Pills and they were so effective I thought your Heart Cure might help me. I would have attacks at times so severe that I would be stone blind for the time being. During these spells I would be to all appearances dead. I took the medicine strictly as directed and I can truthfully say that I am completely cured. I advise all that are troubled with heart disease to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure at once. I write this and give my name to my fellow sufferers."—S. E. Purdy, Atkinson, Nebraska.

"I first felt the effects of a weak heart in the fall of 1896. I saw an advertisement in the Sioux City paper in which a man stated his symptoms which seemed to me to indicate a trouble similar to mine. I had a soreness in the chest at times, and in my shoulder, an oppressive choking sensation in my throat and suffered from weak and hungry spells. I was truly frightened at my condition and procured six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Since taking my first bottle I have never been bothered by any of the old disagreeable symptoms and now am well and consider my cure permanent."—Lewis Anderson, Kuba, S. D.

WASHTENAW POMONA GRANGE.

Has a Large and Successful Meeting With Eureka, No. 2, Lyndon.

The Washtenaw Pomona Grange met with Eureka Grange, No. 2, of Lyndon, at the Lyndon town hall, Tuesday. The day was everything that could be desired and the attendance was large and enthusiastic. Several delegates from Eureka Grange with carriages met the Pomona members, who were mostly from the vicinity of Ypsilanti, at Chelsea and conveyed them to and from the place of meeting. On assembling at the hall the first thing on the program was the announcement of dinner which was served by the ladies of Eureka Grange in the school house across the way, and with such an abundance of good things to eat everyone had the opportunity of their lives in front of them, and they availed themselves of the opportunity.

After dinner Henry Stumpfenhusen, master of the Pomona Grange, called the grange to order and the regular program was commenced. First came music by the organist of Eureka Grange, Miss Inez Leek, then B. W. Sweet, master of Eureka Grange, made the address of welcome and in the course of his remarks gave some reminiscences of the early grange work and its first organization in Michigan, which was very interesting. The response by Henry Stumpfenhusen was along the line of grange work and the many advantages offered to farmers both in a social and educational way in this grand organization.

In the response to roll call many quotations and recitations were brought out. Mrs. Geo. T. English, of Lafayette Grange gave a very fine recitation, well rendered. "Coming Improvements in the Rural Home," was opened by H. S. Barton, and in the course of his talk he voiced the opinion that a change from our present district school system to the township high school system would be an advantage and one of the coming improvements in our rural homes.

Mrs. Helen Kelly and Mr. McDougall, who followed in the discussion, took exception to this statement. Mr. McDougall, especially, waxing very eloquent in his denunciation of those so-called educators who try to belittle the work done and the environments of the district school, and to illustrate called attention to the school across the way and asked if a school house could be more picturesquely located or in closer touch with nature, and challenged those professors who are trying to give to the farmers a school system they do not ask for, to show anywhere near as good results from their city schools as can be shown by those despised district schools, and made the broad statement that nine-tenths of the successful men in the professions and in business made their start in the district school.

"A Winter in the West" was the subject of a very good paper by Mrs. Thomas Fletcher. Mrs. Fletcher with her husband spent the past winter in California and in her paper she gave a fine description of the climate and resources of that great state, and exhibited numerous specimens of ore and minerals gathered in her travels.

It may not be known that Eureka Grange has some fine musical talent, but such is the case. The young ladies' quartette, consisting of the Misses Inez Leek, Kate M. Collins, Myrta Boyce and Grace Collins sang most beautifully. The grange has also a full choir of male and female voices that is exceptionally good and they rendered some fine selections during the meeting. The program as carried out was under the direction of Miss Jennie Buell, lecturer of Pomona Grange.

After the meeting, which was closed about 5 p. m., all repaired to the school house for supper, for which meal there was plenty for everyone left over from dinner.

Visiting members were present from Lafayette, Cavanaugh Lake and North Lake Granges, also Mr. and Mrs. Procter, of White Oak Grange, Ingham county. Eureka Grange turned out in large numbers, and the meeting was voted by all to be a grand success.

Chelsea-North Lake Telephone Line

The telephone line between this place and North Lake and the country adjacent which is being worked up by Frank Leach and Peter Gorman, received an additional impetus at a meeting held at John Collins' Wednesday evening, May 14. At that time Jas. S. Gorman, Frank Leach and B. J. Conlan were appointed a committee to buy the poles and have them set. The committee have performed this work and 400 85 ft poles have been ordered. A contract has also been entered into with the Chelsea Telephone Co. to construct the line and put in the telephones. Sixteen people have already signed as subscribers and still they are coming. The line with its branches will be nine miles long.

Anniversary Grange Meeting.

Cavanaugh Lake Grange celebrated its first anniversary Tuesday evening, May 12, by holding an open meeting at the Lehman school house. The school house was filled to the door with the residents in the neighborhood and the members of the grange and their families. Philip Schweinfurth was chairman of the meeting. John Runciman, master of the grange, made the address of welcome; Mrs. H. Kruse gave a good recitation; Mrs. Thomas Fletcher read her descriptive paper "A Winter in the West;" Miss Cora Hoppe gave a humorous recitation; Geo. T. English made some good sound remarks on co-operation as a part of grange work; Miss Lena Kruse read a paper entitled "The Cavanaugh Lake Angler," which was very cleverly got up in newspaper style; S. L. Gage made a few remarks; Mrs. Geo. T. English gave a recitation, and then came the address of the evening by Miss Jennie Buell, lecturer of Pomona Grange. The program was interspersed with songs by a mixed choir. It was late when the exercises were over, but everybody enjoyed the occasion.

Made Young Again.

Evangelical Young People's Societies

The convention of the Evangelical church Young People's societies of Central Michigan held at the Bethlehem church, Ann Arbor, Saturday and Sunday was largely attended. The societies of Dexter, Rogers' Corners, Chelsea, Manchester, Adrian, Battle Creek, Jackson, Saginaw and Grand Rapids were all represented by delegates. The general business of the convention was transacted at the Saturday session, the officers were elected, and a constitution was adopted. The convention also accepted an invitation from the Young People's society of Grand Rapids for the meeting of next year.

The officers for the coming year are as follows: President, Rev. Wm. A. Schoen, of Jackson; vice president, Rev. A. Schoen, of Chelsea; treasurer, Miss Martha Kuhl, of Rogers' Corners; recording secretary, Victor Wurster, of Ann Arbor; corresponding secretary, Julius Wiesman, of Jackson.

On Sunday three services were held, each of interest and importance. The morning sermon was by Rev. Mr. Deters, of Saginaw. The address of welcome by Rev. Mr. Neumann and the response by Rev. Mr. Hohe, of Battle Creek, who acted as substitute for Rev. Wm. Alber, of Jackson, were enjoyed in the afternoon. In the evening Rev. Mr. Schoen, of Chelsea, delivered an address on the subject, "The Christian and his Bible." He strongly and vividly presented the wonderful influence of the Holy Scriptures not only on the great men of the past but on each and every individual of our own time. The music during the entire day was of the best.

Chelsea Has the Most Steam.

Under the heading "Among the Politicians," the Ann Arbor Union-Record has the following:

John Kalmbach, Chelsea—Mr. Waters, of Manchester, I believe. How is Manchester?

A. J. Waters—Well, we have a brewery and other evidences of civilization. You have no brewery at Chelsea, I believe.

Kalmbach—No, but we have a number of things brewing there, such as the Glazier-Bacon imbroglio and the Bacon-Glazier inferno, which can get up more steam than forty Manchester breweries. Come over some time and we'll take you around.

Grass Lake News: Seven carloads of steel rails arrived in the village Wednesday over the Michigan Central. It is believed they are to be used in completing the Boland line east of this village.

Fr. Ryan, of Dexter, has let the contract for a handsome new house to be erected on the fine property belonging to St. Joseph's church. The house will cost $6,000 and the first story will be of stone.

The U. of M. law school is the largest in numbers of any in the country. There are 666 students enrolled at the regular session. Nov. 1, 1902, Harvard which comes second in the list of 15 large universities had 636.

Ann Arbor is going to have a Maccabean day this year. The date fixed for it is Aug. 12. The Ann Arbor Maccabees are a little more modest in their estimate of the attendance at it than the Jackson Maccabees are of the attendance at their blowout. They only expect 25,000 people.

Jackson Patriot: One of the symptoms of resumption of constructive work on the eastern extension of the Jackson & Suburban Traction Company was the arrival at Grass Lake Thursday of nine carloads of rails, to be used for the third rail between that village and Dexter. [This makes 16 carloads of rails in all received at Grass Lake last week for this purpose.]

Mrs. Helen Walsh, who for five years past had made her home off and on with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Freer, in Lima, died Thursday night, May 7, from a stroke of paralysis, aged 74 years. Her husband was a shoemaker in this place for many years, but died here about 10 years ago of consumption. The funeral of the deceased lady was held at the M. E. church Saturday afternoon, Rev. E. E. Caster conducting the services. The remains were interred in Oak Grove cemetery.

Senator Doherty, of Clare, the leader of the leader of the corporation and any old kind-of-a-gang-to-defeat-the-will-of-the-people in the senate, and H. B. Peabody, a reporter for the Detroit Journal, had a fistcuff argument in the senate chamber at Lansing Monday. Doherty struck Peabody in the cheek and Peabody banged Doherty one in the eye and was about to follow it up with a second crack when he was seized by senators standing by and Senator Baird separated the angry men. The encounter was the result of the bad feeling brought about by the criticism of the actions of the senate by the Detroit papers.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at Glazier & Stinson's.

"And talking of going across seas," she continued, "reminds me of Cluny; neither of you seem to care about him, yet our Jane is fretting herself sick, and you might both of you see it."

"Tell Jane to be patient," said Dr. Verity. "If Cluny is not back by the New Year, I will go myself and bring him back. But remember all is to arrange and rearrange, order and reorder, men to get out of office, and men to put into office. The work before the Protector is stupendous."

"This opinion proved to be correct. Day after day passed, and no word concerning Cluny was possible."

One crisp, sunny morning in January Jane suddenly resolved to make some inquiries herself.

"Have you heard anything about Lord Neville, Sir Thomas?" she asked. "I am very, very unhappy at his long delay."

"So am I," answered Sir Thomas. "I sent a trusty man to The Hague, and it seems Lord Neville collected the money due there, six weeks ago. He refused a note on the Leather Merchants' Guild of this city, and insisted on being paid in gold, and was so paid. Now, Jane, a thousand sovereigns are not easily carried—and—"

"Well, sir? Please go on."

"But Lord Neville did not go to America. Oh, no, sir! That is an impossible thought."

"Why did he insist on the gold?"

"This is the thing that troubles me."

"Who says he insisted on gold?"

"The widow of the man who paid it."

"She may have been mistaken. She may never have been paid at all. I do not believe it has been paid. Did your trusty man see Lord Neville's quittance?"

"I have not thought of that, Jane. I will send again to The Hague."

"Yes, sir, and let your messenger ask to see Lord Neville's quittance."

ered this little plan to be a very wise one, and so it proved. Her fear left her as soon as the door closed, and she was alone with her old friend.

"Jane," he said kindly, "Jane, what is the trouble?"

"It is Lord Neville, sir. Nothing has been heard of him."

"When did you hear last from him?"

Jane offered Cromwell Cluny's last letter, and asked him to read it. He read it aloud, letting his voice become sweet and tender as he did so.

"My dearest and most honored mistress, I am just on the moment of leaving Paris; my horse is at the door, but by a messenger that will come more directly than myself I send you a last word from this place. My thoughts outreach all written words. I am with you, my own dear one, in all my best moments, and my unchangeable love salutes you. Graciously remember me in your love and prayers."

"Cluny Neville."

"A good letter, Jane. I do think the man that wrote it is beyond guile, beyond dishonor of any kind. I will not hear a doubt of him. He touched a bell, and when it was answered said, 'Mr. Tasburg to my presence—without delay.' Mr. Tasburg came without delay, and Cromwell turned to him in some passion."

"Mark Tasburg," he said scornfully, "I have not once heard from you in the matter of Lord Neville's delay. The commission for your search is more than a month old; it is, sir, and I like not such delays."

"My Lord Protector, I reported to Mr. Thurloe and Mr. Milton that my search had been of no avail."

"What date does Lord Neville's last letter bear?"

"It was written at Paris on the 11th day of November."

"The same date as your last letter, Mistress Swaffham. Four months ago. This is serious. The turning to Tasburg he said, 'Find Col. Ayrton and send him here, to me, without delay.'"

"During the interval between Tas-

"A good letter, Jane."

"I will send a man to The Hague to-day. Why do you not see the Protector? He was fond of the young man. He believed in him."

She only answered, "Yes, sir," and then adding, "Good-morning, sir," she turned to go. Her whole appearance was so wretched Sir Thomas could not rid himself of her unhappy atmosphere. His walk was spoiled; he went into his private room and smoked a pipe of Virginia, but all his thoughts set themselves to one text: "There are many sorrowful things in life, but the hardest of all is loving."

CHAPTER XII.

Hold Thou My Hands.

This day was followed by a week of wretched weather. Jane could do nothing but wait. She fully resolved when she visited Cromwell to show him the heart of a fearless woman—brave, because she doubted neither God nor man.

It was, however, the month of March before this visit could be made. One exquisite morning in March she heard Gen. Swaffham say that the Cromwell ladies were going to Hampton Court. The Protector would then be alone in Whitehall, and she might see him without having to share her confidences with the family. She prepared a note asking for an interview, and then called on Mr. Milton, and induced him to go with her to the palace and deliver it into Cromwell's hand. In her simplicity she considburg's departure and Ayrton's arrival, Cromwell was occupied in writing a letter, and when it was finished, Col. Ayrton entered.

"Colonel," he said, "I think you know Lord Cluny Neville. He has disappeared, I do fear, in some unfortunate way. On the 11th of last November he left Paris, after dispatching the business he was sent on with Cardinal Mazarin. No one has heard of him since. I have written to his Eminence, the Cardinal; here is the letter, and if his reply be not to the point, go next to the lodging of Lord Neville, and from there follow his steps as closely as it may be in your power. The treasurer will honor his order for your expenses. Farewell, and God go with you."

He waited until the door closed, and then he said: "I owe you this and more, Jane; and I like the youth—a dear, religious youth, of a manly spirit and a true heart."

"It is four months, sir. 'Tis beyond my hope, and I fear Cluny is now beyond human help."

"Well, then, Jane, we will trust to the miraculous. We do not do that enough, and so when our poor help is not sufficient, we tremble. Where is the hope and trust you sent to me when I lay between life and death in Scotland? Oh, what poor creatures we are, when we trust in ourselves! Nothing then but tears and fears and the grave to end all."

Comforted by his words, Jane forgot her grief, and as she went homeward she kept repeating to herself Cromwell's parting advice, "Don't doubt, Jane. God nor man nor nature can do anything for doubters. They cannot." She understood what was included in this advice, and she tried to realize it. The moment Mrs. Swaffham saw her daughter, she took notice of the change in her countenance and speech and manner, and she said to herself, "Jane has been with Oliver Cromwell. No one else could have so influenced her." And very soon Jane told her all that had been done and said, and both women tried to assure themselves that a few more weeks of patience would end the suspense.

At length April came, and the bare brown garden was glorious with the gold and purple of the crocus flowers and the moonlight beauty of the lilies. Birds were building in the hedges, and the sun shone brightly overhead. The spirit of spring was everywhere; men and boys went whistling along the streets, the watermen were singing in their barges, and a feeling of busy content and security pervaded London.

Suddenly this atmosphere of cheerful labor and abounding hope was filled with terror and with a cry of murder, of possible war. A gigantic plot for the assassination of the Protector was discovered—that is, it was discovered to the people; Cromwell himself had been aware of its first inception, and had watched it grow to its shameful maturity. But to the city of London the arrest of forty conspirators in their midst was a shock that suspended for a time all their business.

Israel Swaffham was the first person called into the Protector's presence. He found him in great sorrow, sorrow mingled with a just indignation. With his clenched hand he pointed out to Israel the personalities of the conspirators. At one name he paused, and with his finger upon it, looked into Israel's face.

"It is a burning shame," Israel said, angrily. "You have pardoned and warned and protected him for years."

"I must even now do what I can; I must, Israel, for his father's sake. A warrant will be issued to-night, and I cannot stay that, and personally I can not warn him of it. What am I to do?"

"My dear lord, do nothing. I can do all you wish. There needs no more words between us. In two hours Abel Dewey—you know Abel—will be on the road. Give him a good horse and he will so manage himself and the beast as to reach his journey's end in twenty-four hours."

Israel then went quickly home. He called Jane and explained to her in a few words what she was to do, and by the time her letter to Matilda was ready, Abel Dewey was at the door waiting for it. Its beginning and ending was in the ordinary strain of girls' letters, but in the center there were some ominous words, rendered remarkable by the large script used, and by the line beneath them—"I must tell you there has been a great plot against the Protector discovered. Charles Stuart and Prince Rupert are the head and front of the same, but there is a report that Stephen de Wick is not behindhand and my father did hear that a warrant was out for Stephen, and hoped he would reach French soil, ere it reached him." She hastened to sign her name and close the letter. Abel Dewey was ready for it, and as she watched him ride away her thoughts turned to de Wick, and she wondered in what mood Matilda might be, and how she would receive the information sent her. Would it be a surprise?

"Not it," answered Mrs. Swaffham. "Matilda knows all about the plot; that is most certain; but its discovery may be news to her, and if so, she will not thank you for it, Jane. Why will she burn herself with fire not on her hearthstone?"

"Prince Rupert is her lover. She will do anything he desires her to do."

"If he truly loves her he would not permit her to be put in danger."

Then Mrs. Swaffham went out of the room, and soon afterwards Dr. Verity came in, asking cheerily as he entered, "How is it with you to-day, Jane?"

"I live as best I can, doctor. I watch from the morning to the midnight for a footstep that does not come."

"There is a desire that fulfils itself by its own energy, but this desire is born of unfeeling Hope, and of that unfeeling Faith that can move mountains. Have you got it, Jane?"

"I am so weak, Doctor John. Pray for me."

"Pray for yourself. Why should any one pray for you? Pray for yourself, though it be only to say, with the old Acadians, 'Hold Thou my hands!' Go to God, Jane; you are only a little babe in His sight; a little babe crying in the vast void and darkness, and trying to catch hold of something to which you may cling. Say to the Father of your spirit, 'Hold my hands!'"

And she rose and kissed him for his sweet counsel, and that night, and many a night afterwards, she fell asleep whispering, "Hold Thou my hands!"

DAIRY

Commercial and Natural Starters.

Prof. G. L. McKay: I am asked to state which I like best, the commercial or natural starter. For the average maker, I believe the commercial starter will give the better results. But the intelligent maker who has taste and smell well cultivated, will be able to select milk and prepare a starter that will produce flavor equal or superior to any culture on the market. When the good Lord created the earth, He provided everything that was necessary to bring about the best results without any artificial means. We usually find that when thorough cleanliness is observed in everything pertaining to the milk, that the right species of bacteria are present to give the most perfect flavor to the butter and cheese. Milk becomes impure from an external source. If I were asked to give a definition of a natural starter, at the present, I would find it a difficult thing to describe. For instance, one man has a dirty, leaky vat which is loaded with foul bacteria ready to contaminate the purest cream. Another man will have improperly cleaned churns and pumps, filled with undesirable bacteria, and still another washes his butter with impure water.

There is the over-ripe hand separator cream which some makers have to contend with. These are all starters of their kind. One man uses butter-milk and calls it a natural starter. Another uses skim milk caught from the average milk as it comes from the separators, and he calls it a skim milk or natural starter. Another will go out and get the milk of a fresh cow and allow it to sour, which is also a natural starter. Some will use whole milk and some will use cream, and they will come under the head of natural starters. Most makers would get about the same results if they did not use any starter as to use the kind I have just mentioned.

Milking at Sunny Peak Farm.

D. W. Howie thus tells how the milking is done on Sunny Peak farm, near Milwaukee:

The first thing we do is to wrap a heavy blanket around the cans which are to receive the milk. By so doing the milk is enabled to retain its heat for a very long time. This prevents the necessity of warming it again for the separator and calves. The next procedure is milking. Each milker has his own cows. The poorest milker, as a general thing, is given the easiest cows to milk and the best milker gets the hardest ones. This may not seem fair, but it saves time and also prevents the chance of spoiling the hard milking cows that, though they may be hard milkers, are nevertheless excellent cows in every respect. I have noticed that good milkers are "born and not made." If a man has any considerable number of cows to milk for six months and at the end of that time is not a good milker you may rest assured that he never will be one. Each man feeds his own cows their grain ration as he milks them. The milk being weighed by the milker, he, of course, is in the best position to know which of his cows should have the most feed. Some are fed just before they are milked; this takes their attention away from the milker and they give down freely, standing quietly at the same time. Others, if fed while being milked, become so engrossed with their eating that they forget everything and step forward and back, now stretching their whole bodies to get a good mouthful, now drawing back to chew it, thus greatly annoying the milker. Such cows are generally fed after being milked. We arrange it so that when the milking is being done the cows all have their grain either in front of them or in their stomachs.

Development of Young Pigs.

Much of our success in hog raising, both as to economy of production and quality of product, depends on how we care for the young pigs after weaning, says Prof. W. J. Fraser. The old saying that "feed is half the breed" is true, if we include the methods of feeding. Feeding largely on food that tends to produce fat, without sufficient exercise being given, will often change a little Yorkshire into a thick, fat type, or may cause such a derangement of the digestive organs as to founder the young pigs. This is a most serious condition, and will render them profitless. Indigestion may show itself by the pigs falling in flesh, loss of appetite, roughness of hair, scaliness of skin, teeth becoming black, etc. The last condition is often thought to be the cause, rather than the effect. It is, together with the others, but an evidence of injudicious feeding. In case some young pigs become so fat that they die from what is known as "thumps," in all cases proper food and exercise will prevent, and, in a measure, remedy them. "Prevention is better than cure."

Orthodoxy on one side of the fence is heresy on the other.

LOVES THE PRAIRIES.

Miss Anna Gray is Delighted With Her Western Canada Home.

Anna C. Gray is a young lady formerly of Michigan. She is now a resident of Western Canada, and the following, published in the Brown County (Mich.) Banner are extracts from a friendship letter written about May 15 to one of her lady friends in the vicinity. In this letter is given an idea of the climate, social, educational and religious conditions of Alberta, the beautiful land of sunshine and happy homes. Over one hundred thousand Americans have made Western Canada their home within the past five years, and in this year upwards of 50,000 will take up home there.

Miss Gray took her leave for Didsbury, Alberta, the home of her sister and other relatives and friends on July 10 last, and after a two month's journey in her western prairie home she writes of it as follows: "I know I shall grow to love the prairie. I have a beautiful view of the mountains and it seems wonderful to me to see home after home for miles, and is becoming thickly settled all around us. With the exception of the few days which have been cold and stormy, we have had beautiful spring weather ever since I came. The days are beautiful. I call this the 'land of the sun,' as it seems to be always shining; the nights are cold and frosty. On arriving here, I was greatly surprised in every way. Didsbury is quite a business little town. All the people I meet are so pleasant and hospitable. They have four churches in Didsbury—the Baptist, Presbyterian, Evangelical and Methodist. The Evangelicals have just completed a handsome church, very large and finely furnished, costing $2,500. They have a nice literary society here, meets every two weeks. They have fine musical talent here. Your friend, Anna C. Gray."

Prevents Sound and Smoke.

A device for suppressing sound and smoke has been provided for the ordinary rifle by a French soldier. It consists essentially of a steel tube about thirty inches long, with several partitions having orifices slightly larger than the bore of a gun, and this tube is attached in the front of the muzzle of a bayonet clamp whenever its use is desired. On firing the gun the gases are retarded by each partition in turn, finally escaping without sound or smoke. With a knife at the end the auxiliary tube can be made to serve as a bayonet.

Chinese Fish Hatcheries.

Those ever-ingenuous people, the Chinese, are great at fish farming, and one of their little dodges for hatching young fish is most ingenious. Taking a fresh egg they suck the contents through a tiny hole and refill the egg with the tiny eggs of the fish they want to hatch. The hole is then sealed up and the egg placed under a sitting hen. In a very few days the fish ova are so far advanced that one has only to break the shell into moderately warm water and the little fish spring to life at once.

A Tight Squeeze.

Brazils, Ark., May 11th.—To be snatched from the very brink of the grave is a somewhat thrilling experience and one which Mrs. M. O. Garrett of this place has just passed through.

Mrs. Garrett suffered with a Cerebro-Spinal affection, and had been treated by the best physicians, but without the slightest improvement.

For the last twelve months, two doctors were in constant attendance, but she could only grow worse and worse, till she could not walk, and did not have any power to move at all.

She was so low that for the greater part of the time she was perfectly unconscious of what was going on about her, and her heart-broken husband and friends were hourly expecting her death.

The doctors had given up all hope, and no one thought she could possibly live.

In this extremity Mr. Garrett sent for a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. It was a last hope, but happily it did not fail.

Mrs. Garrett used in all six boxes of the remedy, and is completely cured. She says:

"I am doing my own work now and feel as well as ever I did. Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved me from death."

The Dread Hour of Death.

Different Working of Animal Instincts in the Presence of the Great Destroyer—Dumb Brutes Steal Away, Their Whole Idea Seclusion and Solitude.

To every man death cometh soon or late. In every life's day there is a dumb hour. It may be in the moments of dawn or when the vitalizing energy is at noon, though sometimes it comes not till the chill and dark of midnight has fallen. There is no more pathetic and yet irresistibly attractive subject for the serious student of medicine than the investigation of the mysteries of that process of physical dissolution which men speak of as dying.

And yet there is so personal an interest in the quest that only the bravest minds can grapple undismayed in a research into the problems of death.

We may learn much by a reference to animal instincts in this as in so many other matters. Mr. William J. Long in his recently issued and most charming volume, "School of the Woods: Some Life Studies of Animal Instincts and Animal Training," attempts to reveal something of the mystery and pathos of the dumb hour as seen in the dumb beast. In his study on "How the Animal Dies" he shows that life's curtain is usually rung down quietly, the footlights are turned out gradually, the auditorium is emptied silently, the darkness deepens peacefully. The animal feels the oncoming of the shadow and creeps into the deepest coverts. The unnumbered multitudes "choose their own place and close their eyes for the last time as peacefully as ever they lay down to sleep." The vast majority of animals go away quietly when that time comes; and their death is not recorded because man has eyes only for exceptions. Something calls the creature from his daily round; age or natural disease touches him gently in a way that he has not felt before. He steals away, obeying the old warning instinct of his kind, and picks out a spot where they shall not find him till he is well again, and there he dies.

Man thinks himself a little lower than the angels, and it may be so, but of this we may be sure, there is that in the dumb hour which marks the kinship of man with the uncomplaining animal submissive to the decree of nature, and noble in its obedience to the call of the voice that silences all other voices.—The Hospital.

Real Ice on the Cake.

Miniature Snowdrift Gathered in the Back Yard Used by New Cook to Ornament the Piece de Resistance of the Feast—Tale as Told in a Mothers' Meeting.

It was at the Mothers' meeting, and as they were discussing that question of never-falling interest, the servant girl problem, tale of woe followed tale of woe in sorrowful procession.

"You ladies of Brooklyn do certainly seem to have a great deal of trouble," said the visitor from North Dakota, "but, as my young son aptly, though slangily, puts it, 'there are others.'"

"In my section of the country the help comes mostly from the Swedes, of whom there are large settlements scattered all over the state. They make good servants, too, after they are trained, but in the training—ah, 'there's the rub!' A short time ago I had occasion to engage a cook. Not for love or money could I find what I wanted, so finally I was forced to go to one of the Swedish villages. I found a girl who was 'just over,' her sister told me, but who, she also assured me, would be quick to learn. So back to town I went with my greenhorn, groaning inwardly at what was before me. But her sister had said truly—Minna was quick to learn."

Her great difficulty was the language—the idioms of it, I should say—and many and funny were the mistakes she made on that account. But these I expected.

"One day when I was expecting company to dinner, she specially distinguished herself. In giving directions I told her to make a loaf of sponge cake, and to ice it in her best manner."

"Oh, yes, she could do that, and let me add, she did. 'I need not worry about anything,' she told me, smiling away like the Cheshire cat."

"The dinner was a perfect success, so much so that I was bragging to my envious neighbors of the treasure I had found in my greenhorn cook."

"When Minna brought in the dessert, the cake did look simply splendid, and Minna triumphant; but as she set it before me I turned cold with horror, for that girl had taken me most literally and had iced the cake with the most immaculate miniature snowdrift she had been able to scrape together in the back yard."—New York Press.

She Was Free From Superstition.

Chain of Circumstances Proved the Claim Made by the Girl That She Was Above Believing in Such Nonsense—Of Course There Were a Few Little Exceptions.

"Superstitious!" she exclaimed scornfully; "not a bit of it. I have too much sense for that. Of course there are some little things portending good or bad luck that occasionally claim my attention, but superstition is only the failing of the weak. I—"

"Wait a minute. There's a pin on the sidewalk."

"There! Now I have it. Do you know every time I have seen a pin and failed to pick it up Reginald and I have quarreled? Strange isn't it? I wouldn't dare to pass one now."

"But we were speaking of superstitions. I've heard it said that everybody is superstitious to a greater or less extent, but I don't believe it. Do you? Of course I knew you didn't. But you do find superstition in the strangest places. I once knew a girl who actually believed in ghosts. Real sensible girl in other respects, too. Funny, wasn't it?—I used to tell her that she would have to get over her superstitions or she'd be the laughing stock of everybody, but it didn't seem to make any difference. I think she must have been weak mentally. Don't you?"

"By the way, I saw the new moon over my left shoulder last night. What do you suppose will happen? I just know that Reginald will bring me a box of candy when he comes to call to-night. The last time I saw the new moon over my left shoulder was the very night he proposed."

"Still, of course I shouldn't forget that I spilled some salt to-day. Maybe that will make a difference. Anyway, I'll know what's the reason if I don't get the candy, and there's some satisfaction in that. Do you know when anything unusual happens I can almost always figure right back to what caused it?"

"But I'm mighty glad I'm not superstitious, like so many girls I know."—New York Times.

Encouraged by the Innocent.

Stories of good Bishop Williams of Connecticut continue to crop out wherever clergymen meet. One just told at the General Theological Seminary relates to his first sermon in the parish to which he was called just after he was ordained. He was rather nervous when he began to preach, but as he progressed he noticed an old man in a front pew, who seemed intensely interested in the sermon. Whenever the preacher made a point the old gentleman nodded vigorously in approval. This was very encouraging to the not overconfident parson and after the services he inquired who the man was.

"The old man in the front pew?" answered a vestryman. "Oh, he is one of the harmless inmates of the insane asylum around the corner."—New York Times.

DOCTOR ENSOR

SUPT. SOUTH CAROLINA STATE INSTITUTION

Endorses the Catarrhal Tonic Peruna—A Congressman's Letter.

Dr. J. F. Ensor, Postmaster of Columbia, S. C., late Superintendent and Physician in charge of State Insane Asylum at Columbia, S. C., writes:

"After using your Peruna myself for a short period, and my family having used and are now using the same with good results, and upon the information of others who have been benefited by it as a cure for catarrh and an invigorating tonic, I can cheerfully recommend it to all persons requiring so effective a remedy."—Dr. J. F. Ensor

Hon. C. W. Butts, ex-Member of Congress from North Dakota, in a letter from Washington, D. C., says:

"That Peruna is not only a vigorous, as well as an effective tonic, but also a cure of catarrh is beyond controversy. It is already established by its use by the thousands who have been benefited by it. I cannot too highly express my appreciation of its excellence."—C. W. Butts.

Dr. R. Robbins, Muskogee, I. T., writes:

"Peruna is the best medicine I know of for coughs and to strengthen a weak stomach and to give appetite. Beside prescribing it for catarrh, I have ordered it for weak and debilitated people, and have not had a patient but said it helped him. It is an excellent medicine and it fits so many cases."

"I have a large practice and have a chance to prescribe your Peruna. I hope you may live long to do good to the sick and suffering."

Only the weak need a tonic. People are never weak except from some good cause. One of the obscure causes of weakness and the one oftenest overlooked is catarrh.

Catarrh inflames the mucous membrane and causes the blood plasma to escape through the mucous membrane in the form of mucus. This discharge of mucus is the same as the loss of blood. It produces weakness.

Peruna stops the catarrh and prevents the discharge of mucus. This is why Peruna is called a tonic. Peruna does not give strength by stimulating the nervous system a little.

It gives strength by purifying the mucous membranes against leakage.

It gives strength by conserving the blood fluids and preventing their draining away in mucous discharges.

Constant spitting, and blowing the nose will finally produce extreme weakness from the loss of mucus.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Tupman, a prominent lady of Richmond, Va., a great sufferer with woman's troubles, tells how she was cured.

"For some years I suffered with backache, severe bearing-down pains, hemorrhages, and falling of the womb. I tried many remedies, but nothing gave any positive relief. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in June, 1901. When I had taken the first half bottle, I felt a vast improvement, and have now taken ten bottles with the result that I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking the Vegetable Compound I felt all worn out and was fast approaching complete nervous collapse. I weighed only 98 pounds. Now I weigh 109½ pounds and am improving every day. I gladly testify to the benefits received."—Mrs. R. C. TUPMAN, 433 West 20th St., Richmond, Va.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When a medicine has been successful in more than a million cases, is it justice to yourself to say, without trying it, "I do not believe it would help me?"

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women. Perhaps she has just the knowledge that will help your case—try her to-day—it costs nothing.

"Wine of Cardui is indeed a blessing to tired women. Having suffered for seven years with weakness and bearing-down pains, and having tried several doctors and different remedies with no success, your Wine of Cardui was the only thing which helped me, and eventually cured me. It seemed to build up the weak parts, strengthen the system and correct irregularities."

By "tired women" Mrs. Adams means nervous women who have disordered menses, falling of the womb, ovarian troubles or any of these ailments that women have. You can cure yourself at home with this great women's remedy, Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui has cured thousands of cases which doctors have failed to benefit. Why not begin to get well today? COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.
OFFICIAL.
Chelsea, Mich., May 13, 1903.
Pursuant to the call of the President.

Meeting met in special session. Meeting called to order by the President. Roll called by the Clerk. Present—F. P. Glazier, President, and Trustees W. J. Knapp, Burkhardt, Schenk, McKune, Lehman.

State of Michigan, County of Washtenaw, Village of Chelsea, ss.
To W. P. Schenk, Wm. R. Lehman, J. Edward McKune, Wm. J. Knapp and O. C. Burkhardt, trustees of said village.

Please take notice: That I hereby appoint a special meeting of the common council of said village, to be held in the council room this day at the hour of eight (8) o'clock p. m. for the purpose of taking under consideration the decision of the Circuit Court in the case of the Village of Chelsea against the H. S. Holmes Mercantile Co., and for the transaction of such other legal business as may come before the council.

Chelsea, Mich., May 13, 1903.
F. P. Glazier, President.

State of Michigan, County of Washtenaw, Village of Chelsea, ss.
Jay M. Wood, marshal of said village, being duly sworn deposes and says, that on the 13th day of May 1903 before the hour of 2 o'clock of said day he served a true copy of the within appointment of a special meeting of the council of said village upon all the persons therein named by delivering personally a true copy of the same upon the following named persons, viz: W. P. Schenk, J. Edward McKune, Wm. J. Knapp and O. C. Burkhardt. And by leaving at the dwelling house of the following named persons, viz: Wm. R. Lehman a true copy of the same with Mrs. Wm. R. Lehman, wife of said Wm. R. Lehman at the same time informing the said persons with whom copies were left the nature of the notice, at least six hours before said 8 o'clock p. m. Jay M. Wood, Marshal of the village of Chelsea.

Sworn and subscribed to before me this thirteenth day of May A. D. 1903.
Frederick A. Wedemeyer.
Notary Public in and for Washtenaw Co. Mich.

Moved by Knapp, seconded by Lehman and resolved by the Board of Trustees of the village of Chelsea that the Village Attorney and Cavanaugh and Wedemeyer be and are hereby instructed to take all necessary steps to appeal the case of the Village of Chelsea vs. the Holmes Mercantile Co. to the Supreme Court. Yeas—Knapp, Burkhardt, Schenk, McKune, Lehman. Nays—None. Carried.

On motion, board adjourned.
W. H. HESLSCHWERTZ, Clerk.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre, of Shepherds town, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.

AUTOMATIC NURSE FOR BABY.
Swiss Inventor Has One He Thinks Will Do the Work.

[Special Cable Despatch to the N. Y. Sun.]
Geneva, Jan. 30, 1903.—A Swiss mechanic claims to have invented an automatic baby's nurse. The apparatus is attached to a cradle. If the baby cries air waves cause specially arranged wires to operate a graphophone, which sings a lullaby, while, simultaneously, clockwork is released and rocks the cradle. When the crying stops the wires cease to vibrate and the cradle stops rocking.

The Columbia Phonograph Company, 37 Grand River avenue, Detroit, headquarters for graphophones and talking machine supplies of every kind, will send you catalogues on application.
