OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

arge Audience at the Town Hall Listen to an Eloquent and Timely Address.

Memorial Day in Chelsea was loyally and generally observed. The business nouses and many residences displayed the national colors and some very pretty decorations. And among the people generally there was manifest a spirit of recognition of the sacredness of the day. Shops and factories were closed and the people from the farms began coming into town at an early hour. The splendid weather the blue sky and bright sunshine helped much toward the success of the day.

The exercises under the auspices of the G. A. R. were held in the afternoon is announced. The veterans met at their hall directly after dinner and soon thereafter formed in line and, headed by the and, escorted the W. R. C. to the town all where the program of the day was

At the hall a splendid audience had gathered, which gave continuous attention to the exercises throughout. Singing by the quartette, reading of the general orders, issued from Grand Army deadquaters, and prayer by Rev. C. S. Jones preceded the address which was delivered by Rev. W. P. Considine.

This address was, without question, au oration remarkably well suited to the occasion, and commendatory remarks conerning it were general at the close of he exercises. In its literary form it was concise, well arranged and polished, and the thought substance was of a high order. And it was delivered impressively, without the tricks of so-called oratory, and came from one speaking with the weight and earnestness of authority. From the lips of a son of a veteran it came as a gracious appreciation to the Graud Army men and to the audience generally it appealed strongly, voicing as it did the call to preserve that for which so much has been sacrificed.

The speaker effectually silenced the fear and the claim of some that there is a menace in the great number of our effective such an element had been in preserving the Union and increasing its strength. He appealed for authority, the weight and majesty of the law, and excoriated anarchists, the foes of authority, and socialists, the foes of indi-

Graciously referring to the clergymen on either hand he dispelled the last trace of the claim of some that there is any line of religious cleavage running through our people as a nation and contended that we are as much today dedicated to the political doctrin of freedom of conscience as ever in our history.

He spoke in favor of the President's plan for a strong defense against any foreign aggression and of extending the sheltering influence of the Monroe Doctrin. He also called attention to our internal weakness and enemies, pointing out the fact of the ever increasing number unfluenced by church connections and scored strongly the terrible influence of the saloon.

The speaker closed with a fine tribute to the soldiers living and dead.

.Following the exercises at the hall the parade reformed and to the music of the band, marched to the cemetery followed by many carriages in line. At the soldies's monument the ritual of the W. R. C and G. A. R. was said following which the graves were decorated thus closing the observance of the day.

SUCCESSFUL BANQUET.

Ladles of the Bay View Reading Club Entertained at the Cheisea House Monday

The ninth annual banquet of the ladies' Bay View Reading Club was held Monday evening at the Chelsea House and was a gratifying success to the ladies of the club and a pleasure to their many

The dinning room of the hotel had been completely given up to the occasion and at nine o'clock when Mrs. C. E. Stimson, president of the club, led the way three splendidly appearing tables resplendent with cut flowers and ferns greeted the banqueters. About sixty sat down to the enjoyment of the menu which had been prepared.

When the strawberries and sandwichs, biscuit and salad, sandwiches and cold meats had gone the way designed for all such good things and ice cream had melted away the toast mistress, or Magistra Epularum as the classically inclined would have it, arose and called for the toast program. Mrs. Stimson who acted in this capacity had a gracious little word for each of the speakers and first called upon Mrs. Emily J. Glazier to welcome the guests. Following her Mrs. G. W. Palmer responded to the toast,

C. McLaren closed the toast program with an eulogy of the "New Woman." The program throughout was intersperced with vocal and instrument-

HOW IT USED TO BE.

An Oldtimer Tells how He Used to Wate the Circus When a Boy.

Forepaughs and Sells Bros, big circus and several small shows exhibiting here and vicinity have occasioned much show talk and the other night an oldtimer was telling about the coming of the circus when he was a boy.

"I tell you there wasn't as many of us to actually see the inside of the big tent when I was a boy as there is now. I can remember how for a long time my only pleasure was seeing the great caravan pass our house in the early morning. The big shows didn't travel by rail in those days in fact there wasn't but a few railroads anywhere.

"Long before daylight the road for miles would be dotted with little knots of people here and there waiting the coming of the elephants. Any man who as a boy thus went out can remember how eagerly he scanned the dusty road in quest of elephant tracks. If they were not there he was sure he was on time. To my imagination, as a boy, those high wagous were as large as houses and the few sleepy people visible were as mysterious as those of another world. Many of the animals, such as camels and the elephants, were obliged to work their own passage and were plainly visible, but presenting an appearance nothing short of awesome in the half light of the early morning. The caravan was always watched until the last faint rumble ceased to be heard and as it fadforeign born citizens and showed how ed away faded also one of the scant list of pleasures known in those days."

Farmer's Club.

The Western Washtenaw Farmer Club met at the Chapman home May 28th. There were not as many members present as usual, owing to the farmers being behind with their work, nevertheless, a good time was enjoyed by those present and a good dinner served as usual. The meeting was called to order by Past President Lowry.

Mrs. Everett read an excellent paper on the "Culture of house plants" written by Mrs. E.S. Spaulding; the program was interspersed with music, select reading etc. A very interesting talk on the automobile question, showing what people, who have no way of navigation except the "old fashioned horse and carriage" think of the new method of flying along the public highway, regardless of the farmer with his loaded wagon who has to take a back seat (so to speak) when one of these machine appear in sight either be run over or upset. It was thought by all who participated in this talk that they ought to be Fun in the back fields or have a road built on purpose, or be cempelled to slacken their speed or stop entirely and give half the road. If there is no law which can be enforced to make them do this, they should not be allowed to traverse the public highway.

Next meeting with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Freer June 18th.

An Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Chelsea Standard: Congratulations are due you on the Decoration Day issue of your valuable paper. It is most interesting and certainly many copies will be treasured by the friends of those whose names appear in the Roll of Honor. The writer was only ten years of age in '61, but he well remembers when most of the "boys" whose names you have printed enlisted, and he also remembers that every death among them seemed a personal grief. Some of those who went to the front never to return were among the "big" boys at school, and were companions of the little boys at the "old swimming hole." One of those was Mack Killam, and we youngsters all loved him; he joined a regular regiment and was killed in his first battle. His name should be included in The Standard's Roll of Illustrious Dead.

WITH DETROIT

Iunior Stars on Memorial Day Played Ex cellent Ball Before Large Crowds. Saturday the Junior Stars again demonstrated that while not the champion among the junior teams of the state they neverthe less take high rank among the They had as their-playing guests the Detroit Juniors, a team averaging higher in age and constitued of players who have come much in contact with the professional league players and have been thoroughly instructed in all the niceties of the game, and too, having the confidence begotten of a continuous string of victories won from other junior teams in Detroit. They came to Chelsea expecting their greatest pleasure from a long ride on the trolley and stayed to find that their greatest happiness was to save one hard fought game from goingthe way of their first defeat.

The ball playing of both sides came considerably more than knee high on the real article. It was good-and no qualification have to be added because of the age or weight of the teams either. But while the ball playing was good the sideshow some how managed to be held in the main tent, consisting of one the most vociferous chewing matches probably ever held on any ground. At the forenoon game the rooting outfit, that came from Detroit, together with an umpire so intoxicated-yes, so drunk-he couldn't tell à foul hit from a slide to second was responsible for the debating society held after every close or questionable decission. And while the Detroit crowd was largely responsible for creating the feeling that prevailed through the rest of the day, yet the friends of the Stars who conseled the use of the sharp pracices and the disposition to hide rule books and tricks of that order cannot be wholly excused. The Junior Stars are a fine lot of young fellows without the least taint of rowdyism in their playing and they have gained and held the loyal support of the most self respecting people in our town, both as to ladies and gentlemen, and this respect ought to be maintained. There are nowadays few enough good, wholesome and diverting calls out park is opened and everything in tip top order it would be a pity if so good a play ground and so good a team should fall into disrepute as a place and means of

The first game was called after the Deroit boys had gone through their warming up practice in which they appeared to fine advantage. In fact they looked so much like winners that the Stars were a little bit under the influence of stage fright. Holmes and BeGole were in the points. Holmes was wild but on the whole effective. The first inning though looked discouraging but nothing so bad as expected happened and the local courage arose when the Stars came to bat and set the ball rolling on their own account. It was an indication that they were not completely outclassed.

The next inning the Stars felt a little more natural and fielded better. The Detroiters however kept piling up a few runs at a time and the locals, while they hit the ball, batted in hard luck. The ball went almost invariably directly toward a fielder either in the out or infield. The game at the outset was limited to seven innings and when the last half of the seventh came it found the Stars facing an adverse score of 8 to 2. It was then that the spectator got his money' worth and every true American came to his own and yelled as only a base ball fanatic can yell. The Stars by a remarkable batting rally coupled with errors on the part of the visitors enabled the scoring of eight runs and the game was won amid a pandimonium of sound that sent everyone away glad that base ball is the great national game.

The score by innings was as follows: Junior Stars 2000008-10 Detroit Juniors Batteries - Holmes and BeGole, Benoit and Craven.

It was a very pretty scene that presented itself at the afternoon game. The new bleachers were completely filled and rose in an enthusiastic bank of humanity overlooking the field. Behind the backstop carriages were ranged and down either base line, held back by ropes, was the overflow of ball enthusiasts not otherwise accommodated. Fully half of the attendance was ladies and their presence added much to the pictresqueness of the occasion.

Children Drown, He Being Unable to Render Any Assistance-Many Lives in Peril in Packing Houses.

Kansas City, Mo., June 1,-Twelve square miles of the two Kansas Citys are submerged. Armourdale is abandoned, Argentine and other suburban towns are under water, and millions of dollars' worth of property has been destroyed as a result of the flood. The waterworks plant has shut down. All electric cars are idle. Railroad trains cannot enter the city. The Union depot in this city has been abandoned. The freight depots are under water. The property loss in Kansas City and the cities across the river is estimated at $6,000,000. Many persons are known to have been drowned. The death list is estimated from fifteen to fifty. Twenty-seven Drown. It is reported that twenty-seven men were on the Union Pacific bridge at Kansas City, Kas., which spanned the Kansas river, when it went down, and that all of the men were drowned. It is said that many persons saw the helpless men swept away. The flooded district of the two Kansas Citys covers an area three miles long by four miles wide. The flood forms a semicircle reaching south and west from the Union depot, which is located under high bluffs that mark the dividing line between Kansas City (Mo.) proper and what is known as the West Bottoms.

Waters Merge. The principal damage was at Armourdale and Argentine, Kas., in the packing house district on the Kansas river, on the extreme southwest border of the circle mentioned. The rise divorces were granted last year. At in the Kansas river met the waters of the beginning of the year there were the Missouri on the northwest and merged finally at the highest point, at the Union depot.

From the depot, south and west to both rivers, there is a gradual decline. A few blocks west of the depot the water, which came with a mighty force, spread out in all directions, and it was not long before the wholesale Some idea of the extent of the fruit district of Kansas City, Mo., was unindustry at Paw Paw may be gained der water, ranging from three feet at when it is stated that on one road the Union depot to fifteen feet or more leading into Paw Paw every farm for at the stockyards and packing house

Buildings Are Submerged. The packing houses and the stockover 1,000 acres on the thirty-one yards, which are in the lower district, are surrounded by water fifteen feet high, and at the live stock exchange the basement, containing two dozen Thomas Johnston of Grand Haven railway offices, is completely submerged and the water reaches into the

At the stockyards all the pens were submerged to the roof, the implement, grocery, and other houses were floo id to the first floors, and costly macninery and stocks were in many cases buried under water.

Property Is Destroyed. The mail station A, the biggest substation in the city, and two fire houses were abandoned, as was, in fact, the entire flooded district, which now is reachable by boats alone. The water soon became too deep for the passage of wagons, and property of all kinds was left at the mercy of the floods. Notwithstanding the reports of great loss of life few of the stories could be substantiated, and it will be several days at least before there is any accurate information in this regard. William Heisler, 75 years of age, is known to have been drowned near his home in the east bottoms. In company with his wife, he started to leave his home and both of them were borne down.

Edward Blanchard, city plumbing inspector, is authority for the statement that three women are caught in the freight house of the Union Pacific railway. He declared that he saw them waving their hands and beckoning for help. It was impossible for anybody to reach them, however, and they are still imprisoned.

Hundreds Are Rescued. It is estimated that 250 people were rescued from buildings in the west bottoms during the day. Four dray wagons were used by the firemen and police in removing people from buildings which were partially under water. This was continued until the water rose to such a height that the horses could scarcely struggle through it Then a large number of boats were pressed into service and refugees were removed to the approaches of the "L' road station, from which point they could climb to places of safety. The stream which surged through every street of the vast bottoms was so high that people were driven to the upper floors of buildings, and it was necessary to adopt other methods to rescue them. In many cases along West Ninth street people were pulled up to the structure of the elevated roads by ropes which had been thrown to them. Thirty people were taken out of the Baltimore hotel at Ninth and Mulberry streets, most of them being carried away in boats.

Many in Peril.

E. E. Matchette, general manager of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger packing plant, telephoned that 100 men were imprisoned by the water in the packing house and asked the police to try to rescue them.

A fourth shot failed to strike him. He ran to a neighbor's for help and surgeons found him weak from loss of blood.

The police made an investigation and finally made up their minds that the assaliart, who was Darwin, the son of the votim, had shot him intentially. The lad admitted the shooting, but declared he thought his father was a burglar. The parents, according to the police, had been quarreling and the father had struck his wife.

leg out of the cover of tall grass, he saw Kosky ride his own horse down to drink. Martin could , just see the horse's rump as the animal stood, half on end, and the man's head and shoulders, as he sat braced in his saddle.

"There was the boy's opportunity, and he took it as quick as lightning. He crawled slyly out of the grass and go directly behind the rustler. Then, using the stock of his carbine as a battering-ram, he made a running jump, striking the man squarely between the shoulders.

"Kosky was hurled as if kicked by a mule. He struck the water with a splash and sank like a sack of sand. Martin landed behind his saddle, and the rustler's horse slid into the water. where he floundered over his breathless master.

"The ponies were startled into snorting a little, but they were too thirsty to run, and Martin kept his seat and rode out upon the bank. He tied his captured horse to some willows, and then waded in and dragged Kosky out into the dry bed of the creek. There he turned the man upon his face and slapped his back until he began to show signs of life; then he tied him, hands and feet, and left him there to come to and reflect upon the uncertainties of rustling.

"The ponies were now grazing quietly, and Martin moved them up-stream horse tied behind his cart. Then there was a lively time. Kosky got off his to where his horse was tied, and then cart with his axe and charged Martin, drove them rapidly home.

"That experience settled the accounts of Big Kosky in these parts. I reckon the whole business was rather mysterious to him. He never came on the reservation again, to our knowledge, and soon after abandoned his claim. Martin's handling of him gave the Indians here some heart to protect their property, and there was less stealing of their stock. They gave Martin a long name-they called him Strikes-the-Big-Medicine-White-Man." - Youth's

Every buttermaker should see that his separator runs smoothly and with regular speed, and that as near as possible to the speed intended for that particular machine, which is usually to the true cause and nature of the stamped on the bowl. It is not wise disease, and the more intelligent and to run any separator much faster, oweffective measures by which to coming to the danger of injuring the bearings or bursting the bowl. As soon as separation is complete the separator should be thoroughly washed, getting every particle out of the crevices, and then have it thoroughly blown out with live steam, so that all parts coming in contact with milk or cream will be perfectly sterile. The heat absorbed by the bowl will then cause all dampness to vaporize, thus leaving TEURIZATION: The movement for the pasteurization of all milk and cream from which but ter is made, has received a new impulse in the demand by the government for such butter for use in the navy. A Kansas creamery company controlling many creameries and skimming stations has been awarded a contract to manufacture several hundred thousand pounds, but it is specifled that this butter must be from pasteurized milk or cream. This should have considerable influence in reducing the amount of sickness in the navy. Disease germs live in butter as well as in milk, and it is impossible to estimate how many epidemics may have occurred with infected butter as a source. But there is another reason for requiring pasteurization, and that is that the percentage of spoiled butter may be reduced, and that the keeping quality of the good butter may be increased. This must be a large matter in a year's butter supply of the navy. Some of the large creamery companies that do not pasteurize, express their discontent at the requirement by the government and hint that it was a dodge to throw the contract in a certain direction. But few will look at it in this light. If they cannot keep up with the demand of the times for good butter, they have only themselves to blame.

CIRCUMVENTING THE CATTLE TICK.

Prof. W. H. Dalrymple of the Louis iana station, in an address to Ne braska stockmen, said:

We in the South consider, so far as our cattle interests are concerned, and ern breeder who aims at creating a common cattle-tick, or, in other words, become immune. I do not know just down our way, there are still to be ber I have never attempted to estimate, who have a sort of ingrained aversion for anything to which the at the same time, seem absolutely oblivious to the fact, that scientific in vestigation, about which they appear to possess such crude notions, and at which they are inclined to sneer, as if there was some sleight-off-hand juggling connected with it, is nothing more nor less than persistent, painstaking searching after the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. In this very work of immunization, we have an excellent illustraed bane and bugbear of every South-

Some of the proving his degenerated herds, either of beef or dairy animals, has almost as many names as there are breeds 5. Vibrating, swaying, or unsteady of cattle, and just as many theories as to its cause and methods of treatment. And it is probable that such a chaotic state of affairs would still have existed had it not been for the indefatigable, dogged, and persistent efforts of the scientist in his search after truth, which has resulted in the accuracy of the knowledge now possessed relative this point that we have Southern natives, however, that are non-immunes. This may appear rather strange to some of you, as it did to many, including some of our leading stockjournals, when a South Carolina herd of cattle became infected with Texas fever after exhibition at the Charleston Exposition in 1901. The explanation of such an occurrence, however, is quite simple, when we realize that the tick is, so far as we know, the only intermediary host of the diseasegerm, and that there are many places in the southern states, as, for example, the alluvial lands of my own state, or lands subject to periodic inundation, on which ticks are rarely to be found. Consequently animals born and raised on "such tick-free places are non-immune, because they have not had the opportunity to become inoculated by the natural method, viz., through the intermediation of the tick. But, if animals so raised are afterwards placed upon ticky pastures, they will contract the fever just as surely as if they had been imported from North of the Federal Quarantine Line. In short, it is, with us, a question of ticks, or no ticks.

TREATMENT OF THE SOW.

Young sows should be liberally fed on flesh and bone-producing foods, such as ground oats and wheat bran. In summer they should have a run on clover, and in winter comfortable quarters, with access to the yard. It should nover be forgotton that exercise is essential for breeding sows. Sows should not be mated before they are nine months old. At all times they should be kindly treated. A good brood sow is worth caring for, as she is more profitable than a brood mare. America will be held at the Yates Her progeny mature more quickly, do not require such expensive stabling. are exposed to less risks, and a ready market is always obtainable for them. In winter a ration of grain roots and clover hay, with access to a yard for exercise, is an economical and suitable way of caring for brood sows. The farrowing pen should be roomy and warm, with just a sufficiency of litter. In very cold weather it is a good plan to heat a couple o bricks and put them in a basket, cover with chaff, and then put the young pigs on this until all are farrowed, when they may be placed near the teats. For the first twenty-four hours after farrowing give the sow nothing but perhaps a drink of warm water, as food or slops may kill her. The act of sow in eating her young is often the fault of the owner in feeding heat-proucing food prior to farrowing, and ving little, or no exercise.—Prof W.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

One of the features of the bill to exempt from taxation all credits, including mortgages, which passed the house, and which is now on the table of the senate, is that it will release from taxation money in banks. In speaking of this phase of the matter, one of the officers of the tax commission said: Taxing officers have never made an effort to enforce the law as to the small savings of working people in the banks, but there is now on the fax rolls of the state over $10,000,000 of money held by the mining companies of the upper peninsula in Boston banks, which the passage of this bill would release entirely. Besides this, many wealthy people, especially in Detroit, give amounts of money held by them in banks, and this, too, would escape.

The house passed the Van Zoeren bill providing that convicts in state prisons shall be employed in making supplies for state institutions, as far as possible. Jackson prison authorities say the bill is all right in principle, but that the prisons are not fitted with the machinery to carry it into effect, and that it is therefore impractical. On the other hand, there is much opposition in the legislature to the binder twine bill for Jackson, on account of the large amount of money needed, and the question as to what shall be done with the convicts is likely to prove hard to solve. The house passed the bill under which it is expected that a manual training school for the blind will be established at Saginaw. It appropriates $110,000, which is to do the building. The cost of maintenance will come after the edifices are prepared. When this bill was passed the governor signed the bill for a normal school in the western part of the state. The appropriations involved amounts to $150,000, with an annual expense hereofter for the maintenance of the new institution. All that is now needed to make the blind school bill law is Gov. Bliss's signature.

The lawyers of the house worked hard to get the 51 votes necessary to pass the bill increasing the number of supreme court judges from 5 to 8, and members look at the bill as simply one intended to provide three more attorneys with good jobs. The bill, which now goes to the senate, is really one of the most important measures acted upon in this session.

The bill to permit the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad to charge passengers 3 cents a mile instead of the 2 1-2 authorized by the prescut law was to have slipped through easily. Able lobbyists had smoothed the way for it. and they had received plenty of assistance from sympathetic legislators, but the committee of the whole voted to kill the bill, and the house afterwards

Gov. Bliss has signed the bill to pro vide indeterminate sentences for criminals. The original bill was introduced by Vaughan, but the house substituted the measure that finally passed both houses. The governor also signed the bill providing for the junket to Georgia to dedicate the monument at Andersonville. The bill providing for the sale of state property in Lansing failed to get enough votes to pass it. Those who voted against the bill took the position that the site of the old capitol which was proposed to be sold, would really be the best place for an adjunct to the capitol, which it is proposed to erect.

The senate state affairs committee recommended the passage of a resolution giving each member of the legislature a set of the compiled laws. The senate adopted the report of the committee. The house has already adopted the resolution.

The Kelly-Ward-Randall-Campbell bill, exempting credits from taxation. came to the senate for concurrence and on motion of Senator Kelly it was laid on the table by a vote of 16 to 13. It now looks as if there would be a warm fight on the bill.

A. W. Machen, general superintendent of free delivery system, was arrested at 1 o'clock today. He k charged with receiving bribes amounding in all to about $22,000 in connection with a contract held by Groff Bros., of Washington, D. C., for a patent fastener used on street letter boxes, knows as the Groff fastener. The postoffice department in the past 10 years has used, about $160,000 worth of these fasteners and it is shown by ample evidence that for the past three years, 40 least, Mr. Machen has been receiving 40 per cent of the amounts paid to the Groffs. The transaction of the busteness was conducted by Diller B. Groff, who controls the patent of his brother, Samuel M., a policeman.

The arrest of Machen was the concluding act of an examination of him cluding act of an examination of him conducted for three hours by Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow. Inspector Fosnes, who relieved Mschen as chief of the free delivery system, and Postoffice Inspector Myer. At the conclusion of the examination Deputy United States Marshal Springman was called into Gen, Bristow's office and made the arrest. The warrant on which Machen was arrested charges him with receiving a bribe. It is understood that other arrests are to follow. Machen was immediately dismissed by the postmaster-general. The amount of money paid during the past 10 years to Groff Bros., in Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow's statement, was subsequently changed to $140,000.

The arrest of A. W. Machen, under whom the annual appropriation for the rural free delivery grew in five years from $500,000 to $12,000,000, and who had sway over 40,000 men of the carrier service, and who, a few weeks ago defied the postal inspectors to find any trace of crookedness in his record, has created the greatest sensation of the year. That he accepted bribes is freely asserted by the inspectors who say the evidence they have is of the most comprehensive nature. It includes many drafts of an alleged incriminating character bearing the signature of Mr. Machen. The warrant charges that Machen asked and was paid Aug. 8, 1902, the sum of $3,020.74 as his 40 per cent of the amount paid by the government for the mail box fasteners, and other payments as follows: Sept. 20, 1900, $2,501; Dec. 17, 1900, $3,000; Aug. 31, 1901, $1,271; Sept. 9, 1901, $753.50; Jan. 11, 1902, $794.98; Jan. 20, 1902, $2,500; April 9, 1902, $2,360.56; Aug. 22, 1902, $2,850. The postoffice sleuths are now on the track of George W. Beavers, former superintendent of the bureau of supoffice investigation, and Harrison J. Barrett, the nephew of Judge Tyner, who was formerly an employe of the assistant attorney-general's office, and who was suspected of giving aid to the turf investment companies in eluding the laws. There is only a thin concealment of the fact that the same results are expected in the case of Beavers as have been secured against Machen.

Salesmen Disappointed Because Ti Standard Did Not Settle the Matter,

Some of the clerks in the various store appear to think they have received grievious treatment at the hands of The Standard in its last issue. The paragraph complained of is as follows:

The clerks in the various stores are again agitating for the continuance of present system of closing. That it is desirable for them is undoubtedly true, and everyone concerned for that matter, unless it results disastrously to Chelsea's trade in the long run. This depends almost wholly upon the farmers about Chelsea. If through the summer, when the work is heaviest, they can get into town to do their trading before 8:30 p. m. in all likelihood they will do so, but if they cannot then the clerks and storekeepers must face the fact. The Adrian Press only last week referred to the fact that business in that city has been injured because the farming community could not be accommodated because the stores closed too early. In the instance locally it would be well if the clerks and the farmers would talk the matter over as the latter come in to

The foregoing was not intended as an argument either pro or con, but merely a news statement of the situation.

A correction as to the impression created by the citation of what is done at Adrian can however be made. The stores there close at six or shortly after, while in Chelsea they are open until 8:30 and will continue open as late in any event, but what the local salesman wishes is to retain that hour of closing.

It is seemingly a most reasonable request and if as reasonable as it appears will doubtless be granted, but The Standard does not intend to argue the cause any more than it did a week ago. The merchants and clerks understand the facts better than anyone else and will doubtless guide themselves accordingly.

Knuckle Bones of Rome.

The famous knuckle bones of old Rome, made from the bones in the ankle joints of sheep, were not original with the Romans, nor was the use of bones for dice confined to them. The ancient Peruvians used the astragalus bone of the cow or ox, the North American Indians used the bone from the bison, and bones from sheep and other animals are used to-day throughout southern Europe, Spanish America and in most of the Mohammedan countries. The Return of Joy.

Now it is very noticeable that when unusual events begin to happen in any life, there is a succession of such events, and not unfrequently they ar-

"Your husband, Arenta?"

"Oh, my dear Arenta!"

Then Hyde and Mary had a game of battledore, and she watched them toss- into account while the great sweet ing the gayly painted corks, until amid hope that had come to her, flooded their light laughter and merry talk she like a springtide every nook and corfell asleep. And when she awakened ner of her heart. In such a mood how it was sunset, and there was no one in her room but her maid. She had slept long, but in spite of its refreshment, she had a sense of something uneasy. Then she recalled the story Mary Damer had told her, and because she comprehended the truth, she was instantly at rest. The whole secret was clear as daylight to her. She was positive Rem Van Ariens was himself the thief of her cousin's love and happiness, and the bringer of grief-almost of death-to Cornella. She said to herself, "I shall not be long here, and before I go away I must put right love's wrong."

She would write to Cornella. Her word would be indisputable. Then she would dismiss the subject from her conversations with Mary, until Cornelia's answer arrived; nor until that time would she say a word of her suspicions to Hyde. In pursuance of these resolutions the following letter to Cornella left Hyde Manor for New York the next mail:

"To Miss Cornelia Moran: "Because you are very dear to one of my dear kindred, and because I feel that you are worthy of his great love, I also love you. Will you trust me now? There has been a sad mistake. I believe I can put it right. You must recollect the day on which George Hyde wrote asking you to fix an hour when he could call on Doctor Moran about your marriage. Did any other lover ask you on that day to marry him? Was that other lover Mr. Van Ariens? Did you write to both about the same time? If so, you misdirected your letters, and the one intended for Lord Hyde went to Mr. Van Ariens, and the one intended for Mr. Van Ariens went to Lord Hyde. Now you will under and many things. "Can you send to me, for Lord Hyde, him. When I receive it, you may content your heart. Delay not to answer this; why should you delay your happiness? I send you as love gifts my thoughts, desires, prayers, all that is best in me, all that I give to one high in my esteem, and whom I wish to place high in my affection. This to your hand and heart, with all sincer-Annie Hyde."

She calculated her letter would reach Cornelia about the end of September, and she thought how pleasantly the hope it brought would brighten her life. And without permitting Hyde to suspect any change in his love affair, she very often led the conversation to Cornella, and to the circumstances of her life. Hyde was always willing to talk on this subject, and thus she learned so much about Arenta, and Madame Jacobus, and Rem Van Ariens, that the people became her familiars.

Certainly the letter sent to Cornelia sped on its way all the more rapidly ta would again relate all her experiand joyfully for the good wishes and unselfish prayers accompanying it. "where h--- bubbles over." and this was his description of the spot when the editor of the Kansas City Journal first listened to Jim's stoical account of its wonders. The editor even prepared an article on that wonder section of the country, but suppressed it on account of its being unbelievable. Jim stuck to the story, however, and in 1879 the editor of the paper printed an editorial apology to Bridger for his lack of credence in the story. To-day old Jim Bridger's story would not be half strong enough to encompass the whole truth of the region now set aside as a national park for all the people. Within its domains the lion almost literally has lain down with the lamb. Bear and deer and elk and moose that fled from Bridger's buckskins in those early days would only stand and stare at him row in curiosity and interest. The mountain sheep, shyest of all the animals of the hills, would allow him to ride within a stone's throw of the crag upon which it rested. Even the mountain lion, which at times forces the military guards of the park to wage war upon his carnivorous destructiveness, is immune from the bullets of the park visitors. Only the speckled trout of the mountain streams and lakes may be taken to bag by the sportsman.

President Roosevelt, in leaving the park, paid it a lasting tribute within the limits of a paragraph.

"The Yellowstone park," he said, 'is something absolutely unique in this world, as far as I know. Nowhere else in any civilized country is there to be found such a tract of veritable wonderland, made accessible to all visitors, where at the same time not only the scenery of the wilderness but the wild creatures of the park are scrupulously preserved as they were, the only change being that these same wild creatures have been so carefully protected as to show literally astounding tameness."

Geologically and topographically nature left it unique, and in many respects the hand of man has improved upon it. In its rocks and bowlders are to be found the materials of which the foundations of the world are made. The great seas which once rolled over the continent have left their sedimentary rocks in layers inousands of feet thick. Then came the age of mountain building, when the foundations of the great deep were broken up, piling range after range, and sinking valley after valley. Then the volcanic period and after that the period of glaciers. And today, after age upon age of cooling of the earth's crust, there are 3,600 hot springs in the park and the scores of geysers and paint pots and mud spouting cones and pools.

Of the geysers there is little that is new to be said. The Giantess and Old Faithful and the Fountain and the Minute Man are familiar names to everybody. Old Faithful is the one geyser of them all that never disthe civilization represented by St. occur at intervals of sixty-five to

The painful and annoying symptoms experienced by most women at this period of life are easily overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is especially designed to meet the needs of woman's system at the trying time of change of life. It is no exaggeration to state that

Mrs. Pinkham has over 5000 letters like the following proving the great value of her medicine at such times. I wish to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her medicine has done for me. My trouble was change of life. Four years ago my health began to fail, my head began to grow dizzy, my eyes ained me, and at times it seemed as pained me, and at times it seemed as if my back would fail me, had terrible pains across the kidneys. Hot flashes were very frequent and trying. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken six bottles of it and am to-day free from those troubles. A Notable Company of Generals. The forty-second anniversary of the organization of the First Pennsylvania regiment, which was celebrated on Saturday, April 18, was marked by a street parade and a banquet in the Union League. The banquet was given by the members of the Veteran Corps of the regiment, of which Col. Theodore E. Wiedersheim is commander. Among the guests were Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Gen. A. R. Chaffee, Gen. John R. Brooke, Gov. Pennypacker, and Mayor John Weaver. Gen. James W. Latta and Col. R. Dale Benson. with Col. Weidersheim, who formerly commanded the regiment, attended the banquet. Before and After the War. Faking Used Stamps.

Rogues in this country are generally about as artful as we desire them to be, but evidently they have something to learn yet from the heathen Chinee. In West Java Ah Sin manages to cheat the postoffice very ingeniously. On sticking a new stamp on an envelope he smears the stamp on the face with paste or a thin glue. This takes the impression of the defacing stamp at the postoffice, and can easily be washed off, so that the stamp is once more serviceable.

Coroner's Jury's Qualified Verdict. During the landlord and tenant disturbance in Ireland some years ago a certain property owner was discovered lying dead near a village o' which he was owner. The coroner; jury, knowing full well that the man had been shot down by "the boys," were nevertheless loath to further investigate; therefore they rendered the following verdict: "We find the deceased gentleman died by the visitation of God-under suspicious circumstances." - Philadelphia Public

Heaven Had Its Limits.

There was once a Boston woman, says Congressman Powers of Massachussetts, who had afternoon teas, belonged to a Browning club, fell ill, and finally died. When she had been in heaven some days her husband called her up through a spiritualist. "Well, my dear," inquired the husband, "how do you like heaven?" "Very well," she replied. "We have afternoon teas here, and also a Browning slub. But, after all, Henry, it's not Boston."-Now York Times.

that a perfectly healthy baby never cries. When the little one does cry there's something wrong, and generally it's the stomach. Paregoric, Soothing Syrups, Cordials, Teething Syrups and Pain Killers contain opium and morphine. Don't use them. They are harmful—costly too. Such drugs constipate and derange the digestive organs.

FOREIGN DOINGS

LOCAL INTEREST.

Over at Adrian there doesn't seem to be any means of telling what they are up to. The papers are all taken up with a controversy as to which said the nicest things to the W. C. T. U. ladles who have just held a convention there,

From Saline comes the assuring news that this is a fine growing time, potato bugs have arrived, the street sprinkler is in action and socials of one kind or another-probably ice cream-are still put forward as a trap for the elusive dime.

Over at Tecumseh the News prints this item. "Dreaming of bliss. Cards are out announcing the Miss Lena Arnold Human nature is the same there as it is and Chas. Vogele wedding for June 4, and the Miss Josephine Russell and Jas. served and the Stockbridge Brass Band Murphy fr. nuptials for June 9." When the dream is finished there will be something doing but until that time-hush!

Up at Grass Lake they have been holding a special election and the News has explained why the result was not as it expected. So has Editor Glidart of Stockbridge and his contention is that the people of Grass Lake lave darkness rather than light. This may be so, but not because their deeds are evil but because they dislike to pay for the light. Anyone up there would willingly "press the button" but someone else must "do the rest." Maybe they will have a gas plant but even that they will find will meter when the sun goes down.

Over at Clinton, on the rim of our borizon, the Local reports lots of visiting going on. The band boys have been holding ten-cent-dime socials and the rudiments of base ball are being diligently practiced. The Wnitney Family enna scheme is on a larger scale .show has been over there as well as Youth's Companion. here. As totaking thought wherewithal we shall be clothed that may be taken off the memorandum pad-the Clinton Woolen Manufacturing Co. have decided to fucrease their capacity. It is also noted that J. S. Townsend announces a lot of new arrivals this week. The Local doesn't hint whether kittens, trip- and give the city only an intermittent lets or buil pups.

And Manchester isn't such a bad place either. The Enterprise reports Office in Hatch block. Residence on nothing any worse than a foment among the yeast germs at the brewery because they failed to get a raise same as those employed on the bread job. But even Crown and bridge work a specialty.

Local anesthetic used for extraction.

Prosported out of town. More people though have stayed at home and have been diligently watching the 23 acre location of the proposed cement plant. As soon as that is in operation the clergy and just ices of the peace will turn their practice in comenting the marriage tie over to the new corporation.

Milan is swelling up and getting chesty. It has a right to, too. Miss Irene Place who used to live in Chelsea has been over there visiting and cut out this place. The Leader whoops up the merit of their electric light plant, speaks of used, accompanied by the much needed factory locations as familiarly as an experience that crown and bridge work agricultural paper discusses potate bugs. The good chizens have been down into their wallets and have put up $55,000 as subscriptions for stock. It has apparently left them pretty near strapped for the preacher, at the Presbyterian church recently spoke from the subject, "The Day of Small Things" and in the evening, "To Whom Shall We Go'? evi-

Over at Howell the Livingston Herald reports the formation of an organization for the encouragement of fiction known as The New Howell Gun Club. Next to an organization of amateur fishermen they ought to be able to put on the market the best brand of polite fiction. Reports from the firing line will soon be heard. The sporting blood of the town is thoroughly aroused and the manager of the opera house is said to be in a little game with a devise for drawing a "full house." The Herald also contains a bit of Pinckney news as follows:"Pinck. Dr. A. D. Cain, a practitioner of ney has a remarkable family, several of Jackson, Mich., also a graduate of the whose members, parents as well as College of Osteopathy of Kirksville, children, fish seven days in the week; while the presence of spears and fishing lamp at times, leads some to conclude that they fish twenty-four hours a day."

Down at Dexter Editor John O Thompson, aside from booming Decoration day, has been scaring his readers stiff with a two-story scare head article concerning the details of the recent sulcide. The big storm of last week also seems to have made an impression and a direful paragraph about hurricane wind, rain in torrents, thunder and a hall of a time generally finds a place. He also expresses considerable interest as to us Chelsea folks and quotes from The Standard quite liberally. We presume Editor Thompson has some uppaid subscriptions on his books for he prints the following-a good thing which we trust will be read generally: "Father, what do printers live ou?" "Why do you ask ch a question as that, Billy?" "Bemee you said the other day that you ad taken our home paper for four years id never paid a cent on it." "Jane nk thatchild."

Our impression, from the two Stock bridge papers, the Sun and the Brief, is that civilization has reached about the same stage there as it has in Cheisea and weather conditions are also about the same. It is said that strawberries and cream will soon be ripe and there is sufficient prosperity so that there is about the usual number visiting away and old timers coming back. There have been a number of funerals but the population has not decreased notwithstanding. Editor Gildart feels considerably elated over his son's success in winning the Silliman prize in oratory at Albion college and hands put the advice that if other parents would raise their children to maturity that the children must keep off loaded drays and not get run over. The villagers have also had called to their attention the circus at Jackson and Lansing. The ed tors didn't care a rap whether any body else joined in the festive occasion but wanted the free tickets themselves. here. Decoration day was fittingly obplayed several tunes on that occasion. G. H Gav has had his house painted.

Scientific Phonography.

An attempt is being made by the Academy of Sciences of Vienna to turn the phonograph to account as an important registering instrument for science. One intended application is dialects which are now in the course of development or of extinction. Three scientific expeditions recently sent out by the academy have been equipped with especially designed phonographs intended for the investigation of languages, and other phenomena depending upon sound-waves. In order to secure permanent records the academy has devised a method of metal-plating the wax records so that they will serve as phonotypes from which fresh wax plates may be cast at any time. Similar efforts to utilize the phonograph for scientific purposes have been made elsewhere, but the Vi-

Baptismal Fonts Were Dry. Some curious results of the devastating Australian drought have been witnessed on the Ballarat gold field. The quantity of water in the local reservoirs sank so low that the authorities had to conserve it to the utmost supply. In the principal Baptist church a ceremony had to be abandoned, a sufficient supply of water for baptismal immersion not being available. Next to this Baptist church is the Catholic cathedral, and there the days, the motive power of its bellows local water commissioners is credited a supply of water to organs even at

A Reason for It.

"Jones looks out of love with himself to-day."

"No wonder. He took Mrs. Gusher and she said:

"'Oh, Mr. Jones, you remind me so much of my Uncle Henry. You are as alike as two peas.'

Well, that oughtn't to make him feel disgusted."

"It wouldn't, but after dinner, when the men were alone they got to talking about faces, and Mr. Gusher said: "'Speaking of looks, my wife's Uncle Henry is the homeliest man you'd meet in a day's march."-Brooklyn Eagle.

Dogs Ate His Lunch.

Rev. E. G. Pesk, an English misionary who has spent much time among the Eskimos, tells an amusing story of how he built a church and how he lost it. When his flock reached sufficient size he had a church built. It was 18 feet long by 12 wide and was made of sealskins stretched over light framework, the whole banked with snow. It had been in existence but a short time when the dogs discovered that it was edible They scratched the snow away and be tween two Sundays ate the churchat least its covering-up. - Chicago Chroniele.

When the Earth Was Pear-Shaped Prof. G. H. Darwin gives his sanc-Jeans, of Trinity college, Cambridge, on the changes of figure through which our earth has passed in gradually reaching its present shape. At one interesting stage in its development from a nebulous mass the globe was probably pear-shaped, and the transition to its present form took place through a series of ruptures. In spite of the consequences of these ruptures, it is suggested that the earth still retains traces of a pearshaped configuration. There are indications that the axial point at the large end of the pear was situated in the neighborhood of England, and that the stalk end was in Australia. Along what would have been the equator of the pear now runs a circle of volcanoes and earthquake centers surrounding the globe, and this is accounted for by the consideration that the equatorial zone of the pearshaped figure must have been the region of the greatest displacements and changes of curvature during the transition to a spheroidal shape.-Youth's Companion. Hotel Porter's Wireless Telegraphy.

I have just made a discovery, knowledge of which may be of considerable value to travelers and tourists. It is that there exists among hotel porters on the continent a system of wireless telegraphy by which the characteristics of a visitor in the in the study of various languages and matter of tips are communicated from one hotel to another. The medium of communication is the hotel label pasted on the visitor's luggage, and the code is formed by varying the angle at which the label is placed. In one position the label means that the guest is worth cultivating and may be relied on for liberal acknowledgment of services rendered; in another that special attention bestowed upon him will be entirely wasted. How far the system prevails eannot say, but I am satisfied that it exists. Travelers, therefore, who find themselves treated in the hotels they visit should lose no time in cleaning the labels off their trunks .-London Truth.

> A Dog's Fidelity. The proverbial fidelity of the dog is illustrated in a story which comes from England. Among the daily crowd of early morning bathers in Queensmere pond, Putney Heath, was a boy escorted by a faithful little Irish terrier. It was the custom of the dog, while his master took his dip, to sit on the edge of the lake and keep watch over his clothing. The little terrier was noticed long after the bathers had gone. patiently keeping guard. For more than five hours he lay there. A new England man found himself, on his arrival at a southern city, so besieged and set upon by negro porters from the hotels, that he was fain to plead for gentler treatment.
